

The World This Week

By Associated Press

Wars

Both at the front and far in the rear, both in Spain and China this week, flying warriors continued their merciless slaughtering.

On The Spanish Front: Lerida is on the north side and Teruel on the south edge of the wedge Spain's insurgents have driven between Barcelona and Valencia.

Loyalists attacked fiercely on the Lerida front last weekend. They did not get far, but did gain stronger positions.

Insurgents attacked similarly on the Teruel side this week, took Mora de Rubielos, center of a network of valuable roads, and drove on toward Valencia under the personal command of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

And In The Rear: Insurgent airmen poured more bombs on the loyalists' Mediterranean coast. At one town, Granollers, near Barcelona, they killed about 500 persons, mostly women.

At Valencia they sank another British ship (the third within a week) just as London was getting ready to protest.

And at Madrid, insurgent shells hurled down along side a maternity hospital.

Russia's press screamed, meanwhile, that the latest plan hatched by the non-interventionists to get foreign fighters out of Spain would help insurgents and handicap loyalists.

But Britain's prime minister was reported to be optimistic about the non-intervention plan and there was talk in London of arranging a peace parley between the two warring Spanish governments.

On The Chinese Front: Lt. Gen. Kenji Doihara, 54, a stocky, wild-mannered soldier-politician, is called the "Lawrence of Manchuria." He has been fighting and conniving for years in Asia for Japan.

His most recent plan apparently was to advance along the Lunghai railroad and swing south to attack Hankow, China's temporary capital. But this week he was said to have walked into a trap set by Chinese troops and to be destined to "lose face"—a very serious matter—if his troops could not squirm out of the ring of Chinese around them.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, at the front in person, predicted a "second Tientsin" as a repetition of the big battle-China won last April 6.

And In The Rear: Japanese a. den dumped bombs wholesale, day after day, on Canton, southern metropolis and gateway for war supplies from abroad, killing about 800 persons.

Hankow coolies watched more than 100 planes battle above them. (Chinese said their fliers won, but Japanese said their men did.)

And western Japan was "black-out" for three hours when planes believed to have flown from China appeared and disappeared mysteriously over Kyushu.

The military adventure in China was costing Japan about $5,000,000 a day and the mikado's subjects were hard pressed to meet the bill.

The U. S. demanded that "immediate steps" be taken to give Americans' properties in China back to them and Tokyo promised to investigate the matter.

China, meanwhile, asked the League of Nations to stop Japan's "barbarous" bombers.

CIVIL SERVICE BLAST BY FRY IS BOMBSHELL

DEMOCRATS WONDER IF PARTY UNITY WILL SUFFER

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—Michigan Democrats wondered today whether Edward J. Fry's Pontiac address would prove a firecracker that would fizzle and die, or a bomb that would shatter the solidarity of the Democratic ranks.

Fry, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, had lashed out against the administration of the civil service bill and his views were diametrically opposed to Governor Murphy's political philosophy.

No Revolt, He Says: Fry's principal point in the attack was his charge that the civil service act, and the intent of the legislature were being violated by forcing applicants to meet qualifications before they could take examinations. He offered the financial support of the state central committee to any persons who wanted to make a court test of the policy.

Governor Murphy refused to comment. He indicated, however, he would insist on a continuance of his civil service policies.

Fry himself appeared concerned over the attention his attack had received. He issued a statement in which he insisted that no misconception be placed upon his remarks.

"I want it clearly understood," Fry asserted, "that I am not leading any revolt against the Democratic party or against Governor Murphy."

Brownrigg Defended: "The former recently called on leaders in the state to prepare for a defense of civil service and its administration. It is my belief that this can best be accomplished by discussion and correction of glaring flaws. I have received many assurances from Democrats, since I made my speech Friday night, that I am right. They are Democrats who are loyal and who will be loyal in November."

"As I said in Pontiac, I am in favor of the principles of civil service. I am simply trying to save it from the fawning indulgence of its parents."

William Brownrigg, civil service director, was in Chicago, but his administration officer, Warren M. Huff, said the procedure used in qualifying applicants was a square in line with the civil service act. He said that without the imposition of minimum requirements, persons unable to read or write could demand the right to take examinations for positions requiring highly skilled or professionally trained persons.

"They would fail, of course," Huff said, "but the added expense is considered a wasteful and unnecessary one."

Huff said his department had no fear of a court test.

To political observers, the argument seemed to be whether Governor Murphy could adhere to his idea of what the civil service act should be in face of opposition to force certain relaxations in enforcement of the law. The governor has repeatedly said he would not "compromise" the civil service for political advantage.

BY T. H. PECK Lansing, June 4 (AP)—The bitter bread of rebuke for Democratic critics of the state civil service commission which Governor Murphy cast upon the political waters has come back to him—well buttered on both sides.

The governor had no public comment today on an intra-party flap that reached bonfire proportions last night at Pontiac, where Chairman Edward J. Fry of the Democratic state central committee launched a direct and open attack upon policies of the civil service administration.

Delta Allocated $4,000 For Health

Lansing, June 4 (AP)—Announcement of allocations totaling $260,399 to city and county health departments for promotion of state and local health organizations in Michigan during the next fiscal year was made today by Dr. Don W. Gundakust, state health commissioner. The money was received from the United States public health service.

A decrease of approximately $70,000 in available funds necessitated a decrease in grants, the commissioner stated.

Among the grants were: Chippewa county, $3,500; Ontonagon-Baraga, $4,500; Ottawa, $4,500; Alger-Schoolcraft, $4,500; Luce-Mackinac, $4,500; Delta, $4,000; Dickinson, $4,500; Houghton-Keweenaw, $4,500; Iron, $4,000; Menominee, $4,000.

INLAND DENIED COURT REVIEW

Petition Attacks NLRB Order to Sign Up CIO Contract

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—The Inland Steel company lost today its attempt to win an appellate court review of a national labor relations board order directing it to sign a contract covering any collective bargaining agreement reached with labor.

The United States circuit court of appeals dismissed the Inland petition on the ground the NLRB had withdrawn the order at issue.

Last April 8 the NLRB, in a decision hailed by labor, directed Inland to sign an agreement with the Steel Workers Organizing committee, a CIO unit, providing terms could be agreed upon.

On May 9, however, the board announced its intention of vacating the order, and resuming its study of the case. I. S. Loriman, NLRB attorney, said the move was made to comply with procedural technicalities.

Today's decision followed action taken recently by the United States supreme court in the Republic Steel case. The court held the NLRB could withdraw or modify an order before the full transcript of hearings was filed with the circuit court of appeals.

Frederic Burnham, Inland attorney, said the company would object to any further proceedings on the NLRB, arguing that section 10-B of the National Labor Relations act did not provide for such action after withdrawal of an order.

Expulsion Of Priest Heightens Religious Tension In Tabasco

Mexico City, June 4 (AP)—Strained relations between Catholics and the anti-religious regime of Tabasco were heightened today by the expulsion of a priest and a church leader from the capital of the southern Mexican state.

An interior department source said Father Pilar Hidalgo and Attorney Juan Abascal were escorted from Villa Hermosa in an effort to quiet tension.

State authorities charged them with responsibility for last Monday's demonstration which led to a clash with police in which six persons were slain.

A "committee of Tabascans" sent a telegram to President Lázaro Cardenas charging the expulsions were in defiance of statements by the chief executive and the interior department assuring there would be no persecution of Catholics.

Jury Can't Agree In Negaunee Suit

Marquette, Mich., June 4 (AP)—A circuit court jury, unable to agree, was discharged at midnight last night after deliberating over a $20,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Anna Kempy for her daughter, Leona, against G. Sherman Collins, Negaunee banker.

Mrs. Kempy charged her daughter was injured in an automobile accident in which Collins' car was involved.

Marine Delegation Landed In Chicago

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—Former marines from seven states landed in a loop hotel today for the annual midwest reunion of Marine Post, American Legion.

Rotten Eggs Shower Chief Of Socialists

Newark, N. J., June 4 (AP)—Socialist leader Norman Thomas was showered with rotten eggs and howled down tonight by 100 men, most of them wearing veterans' overseas caps, when he attempted to speak at Military Park.

There were flurries of spectators' fists and police nightsticks as friends helped Thomas, his face smeared with egg yolks, to a park bench.

A temporary stand erected for his speech was splintered. Others in the crowd of 500 thomas sympathizers were hit with eggs.

As Thomas was introduced by Clara Handelman, Essex county secretary of the Socialist party, and stepped forward to speak, shouting and flag-waving veterans, accompanied by a 25-piece band, marched through the Thomas crowd and a melee broke out.

Mounted policemen, patrolmen and detectives helped Thomas supporters form a protective circle around him.

The veterans marched a short distance away and then returned to the ruins of the stand to listen to more band music.

"We want Americanism—we don't want Reds," the veterans shouted. Standing on the bench, Thomas raised his hand continually and pleaded in vain to be allowed to speak.

"I still have my permit and I would like to say a few words," he cried into the din.

More eggs and cucumbers were thrown at him.

After a half hour, Deputy Police Chief Phillip Sobel, one of those in the circle guarding the former Socialist candidate for president, jumped up beside him and announced: "On my advice this meeting is disbanded."

Six mounted policemen surrounded Thomas as he walked with friends to Socialist headquarters 400 yards away.

A delegation of representatives of a number of veterans organizations sought in vain today to have a city permit for the Thomas meeting rescheduled on the ground it would "incite riot and create bloodshed and disorder."

In introducing Thomas, Miss Handelman pleaded for "the maintenance of order" and said: "I urge you to demonstrate, not only to Mayor Frank Hague (of nearby Jersey City) but to the forces of reaction throughout the United States, that the citizens of Newark do not believe Americanism means hoodlumism."

When Thomas tried to address a street crowd in Jersey City recently, he was seized by police who took him in an auto and placed him aboard a New York-bound ferryboat.

He swore out federal kidnapping warrants against several Jersey City police officials, and is fighting in the courts to lift a street speech ban placed on him by Mayor Hague, vice-chairman of the national Democratic committee.

Free Soil Village Official Fined For Fishing Illegally

Ludington, Mich., June 4 (AP)—Abandoning previously announced plans for an appeal to circuit court, John E. Bennett, 54, president of Free Soil village, and his partner, Jack, 30, appeared before Justice Lester Blodgett today and paid fines of $100 and $50, respectively, for illegal fishing.

The justice suspended a 50-day sentence against the elder Bennett upon payment of the fine.

Jack Bennett and seven other men are scheduled to appear in circuit court next week on charges of resisting and assaulting officers growing out of a battle that occurred when three department of conservation officers arrested the elder Bennett.

Freud Flees Vienna; Analyzes Bible at 82

London, June 4 (AP)—Sigmund Freud, world-famed founder of psycho-analysis, is coming to London from Nazi-ified Vienna, determined at the age of 82 to complete his psychoanalysis of the Bible.

Friends said he was virtually penniless and "had a great shock" with Germany's absorption of Austria. Ever since the Anschluss of March 13, they said, he has remained in the seclusion of his Vienna home, "dreading insults if he emerged—because he is a Jew."

In a rented house in London's district of Chelsea Freud intends to live with his daughter Anna and work on his partly completed Biblical analysis. This, it was said, explains "the sub-conscious wishes and fears of the people" of Biblical times. Chapters on Moses already are in proof form.

'Playboy' Leads

Senator Robert R. Reynolds stepped out in front of Rep. Frank W. Hancock, Jr., in returns tabulated last night from the North Carolina Democratic primary for U. S. senate, a contest between two avowed supporters of the Roosevelt administration.

Spice was added to this contest by Hancock's vigorous attacks against Reynolds, charging the senator with being a "playboy" who pays little attention to the business of legislation.

CASH KIDNAPING HOPES DWINDLE

Princeton, Fla., Parents Do Not Expect To See Boy Alive

Princeton, Fla., June 4 (AP)—It was a full week ago tonight that kidnapers snatched slumbering James Bailey Cash, Jr., from his bed and today his father, commenting publicly for the first time, said he and his wife had abandoned hope they ever would see their only child alive again.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, with Director J. Edgar Hoover personally on the ground, doggedly pushed their examination of clues.

M. F. Braxton, 50-year-old Princeton carpenter who was taken dramatically by G-men from a crowd near the Cash home Wednesday, had not returned to his bungalow here and his son-in-law, Ray, Ryburn, was absent from the homestead so it was presumed the still-missing boy was held.

The Cash boy, a blond, blue-eyed lad who would have been six years old Aug. 2, was stolen from his bedroom by abductors who let themselves in the back door after silencing a screen. The father received three notes in which $10,000 ransom was demanded and paid the money on a solitary drive Tuesday morning over a route mapped in a note.

Salesman Is Taken To Michigan Prison As 'Social Menace'

Flint, Mich., June 4 (AP)—Casper D. Scarlett, 40-year-old salesman of Mason, Mich., was taken to the state prison of southern Michigan today to begin serving a sentence of 10 to 25 years imposed by Circuit Judge Phillip C. Elliott. Scarlett pleaded guilty to assault with intent to murder in connection with the brutal beating of a four-year-old boy in a Flint hotel room.

In passing sentence, Judge Elliott said he had taken into consideration a report of a psychiatrist who termed Scarlett a "social menace." The judge specified that the state parole board should examine Scarlett at the expiration of his minimum sentence and keep him in prison "if it is found that he still is a pathological case while under the influence of liquor."

Scarlett came here from Chicago for treatment of a nervous disorder. He admitted that he lured Norman Tuck, four-year-old son of a woman he met at a dance, to his hotel room.

Second Air Crash Is Fatal To Baron

Rumson, N. J., June 4 (AP)—Baron Maximilian Hugo Converse von Romberg, 27, of Santa Barbara, Calif., was killed today when his small sport model airplane crashed into the Shrewsbury river, a few miles from the County club where he was to have been a week-end guest.

He had flown here from New York City to play with the Monmouth County Country club's polo team tomorrow.

The accident was Baron Romberg's second since he began flying four years ago. He escaped unhurt in a landing crackup at Santa Barbara a year ago.

He came to this country from Wiesbaden, Germany, and was married in 1928 to the former Emily P. Hall, Portland, Ore.

Warplanes Unload Bombs On Canton; Hundreds Are Dead

Canton, June 4 (AP)—Japanese air raiders continued their heavy bombings of this industrial city today with two devastating attacks.

Officials feared casualties would exceed those of a week ago when they estimated 750 persons were killed and 1,350 wounded.

Today's raids marked the sixth day of attacks on Canton in the last eight days. Only on Wednesday and Thursday were there respites.

(In Tokyo, Domei, Japanese news agency, said a "well-informed source"—the usual designation for official opinion—indicated British and American denunciations of air attacks on civilians would not alter Japanese tactics.)

About 40 warplanes took part in the first raid, appearing over the city shortly after 10 a. m. and unloading their explosive cargoes for 35 minutes before heavy clouds and rain ended the attack.

Many persons were crushed beneath falling masonry when buildings were wrecked by three missiles in Wingham road, Canton's main street. Saichuen, where electric power and waterworks are situated, also was bombed.

Hospitals were filled to overflowing and doctors scarcely had time to attend to one lot of wounded before another arrived. Sirens for the second raid sounded while rescue work was in progress for victims of the first.

Thirty-five planes swept over the city in the second attack but finally were driven off by Chinese anti-aircraft fire.

The intensity of the firing indicated Canton's defenses had been augmented greatly since the start of the series of raids last Saturday.

Wu Teh-chun, governor of Kwangtung, fled to a dugout. Several bombs exploded within 100 yards of his refuge.

EUROPEAN WAR FEARS SUBSIDE

British Statesmen Are Optimistic Over Peace Prospect

London, June 4 (AP)—The subsiding of war fears and apparent cooling of tempers in Europe inspired bolder hopes among British statesmen today for success in the drive for continental appeasement.

Cabinet ministers slipped away for the three-day Whitsun holiday week-end with increased optimism for the settling of some of the more urgent problems threatening peace.

In the forefront of the issues before Europe were the dispute between Czechoslovakia and her autonomy—demanding Sudeten German minority—which threatened to flare into an armed conflict two weeks ago—and the Spanish civil war.

Great Britain has offered to take the role of mediator in both. United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull's assertion yesterday that the United States was ready to cooperate in broad moves toward better international understanding cheered British leaders.

British diplomacy now is directed chiefly at assisting in solution of the Sudeten German minority question in Czechoslovakia and smothering the Spanish war first by reducing foreign intervention and then by trying to bring a truce.

Sweetheart Slayer Acquitted By Jury Returns To Family

New York, June 4 (AP)—Donald Carroll, Jr., 16, who was acquitted "by reason of insanity" of slaying the girl he loved, was reunited with his parents today after examining physicians at Bellevue hospital reported to Queens county Judge Thomas Downs that the youth was "not suffering from a psychosis."

Judge Downs signed an order for Carroll's release shortly after he received the physicians' findings.

His mother said she was "going to take Donald to the country for a short time."

Carroll shot and killed Charlotte Mathieson, 18, last March because, he said, she preferred death to unmarried motherhood.

MONEY BEING USED BEFORE BILL IS READY

SENATE WAGE HOUR DEADLOCK NOT SETTLED YET

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The administration has started its lending-spending attack on the depression although congress still has a week's work to do on the $3,723,000,000 bill that will supply most of the ammunition.

Officials disclosed today that the WPA was using funds already on hand to create additional work relief jobs at the rate of approximately 30,000 a week.

If congress finally approves the $1,425,000,000 which the lending-spending bill now carries for WPA they said, the amount expected to be given work relief employment in the next seven months. This could compare with an enrollment of 2,679,656 on May 28 and an officially-expected winter peak of 3,000,000 or more.

Situation Acute: Most of the additional jobs provided since May 28, it was said, were in large industrial communities where the unemployment situation was most acute.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace also has taken steps to put the administration's relief program into effect without waiting for congress to finish action on the big lending-spending bill.

He directed the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation yesterday to canvass needs for food and clothing among persons on relief. This type of relief will be temporary, it was declared, and will be concentrated in distressed communities typified recently by Chicago and Cleveland.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation already is receiving applications for long-term loans for business and industry, and officials of the Public Works administration are getting ready to start new WPA projects swiftly as soon as the pending appropriation bill becomes law.

PWA engineers said they intended to recommend allotment of funds for more than 200 projects, estimated to cost in excess of $550,000,000 at the outset of the new program. Only $300,000,000 in federal grants and $60,000,000 in federal loans would be required for these projects, the remainder of the cost being met by local contributions.

BLOCKED BY SOUTHERNERS: Washington, June 4 (AP)—The joint congressional committee trying to reconcile differences between the house and senate wage-hour bills recessed tonight for the week-end, apparently deadlocked as tightly as when it began deliberations Thursday.

Still in dispute was the major question of whether uniform minimum wage standards should be applied to the whole country or different standards provided for different sections.

Two compromise proposals, both based on the house theory of making wage-hour regulations uniformly applicable in all sections.

Traffic Toll

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—Rennie Duval, 12, was killed Saturday when he rode his bicycle into the side of a D. S. R. bus and was crushed beneath the wheels.

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—Two victims of a head-on automobile collision on Michigan avenue late Friday night were identified Saturday as John Conac, 40, River Rouge, and Richard Wagner, 51, Dearborn.

Huntington, Ind., June 4 (AP)—Gerald Paddock of Anderson, Ind., died late today, the second victim of an automobile accident near here last night.

William Prophet, 22, was killed Friday night, and Clarence Rafter was critically injured. The automobile in which the three youths were returning to Anderson from Flint, Mich., where they had attended the General Motors institute, crashed into a bridge abutment.

Saginaw, Mich., June 4 (AP)—Lee Welch, 31, of Freeland, died at Saginaw General hospital today of injuries suffered 10 hours earlier when his automobile crashed into the side of a Pere Marquette freight train at a crossing eight miles northeast of here. The train had stopped for repairs.

FINLAND AGAIN PAYS WAR DEBT

Little Republic Sends U. S. Word to Expect Her $161,935

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Finland sent word to the state department today that it would pay $161,935.50 on its war debt to this country June 15.

The little Scandinavian Republic is the only one of 13 war debtors which has kept its account in good standing.

State department officials disclosed this government had sent its usual reminder to all the debtors that installments would be due June 15. It was expected generally that Finland would be the only one to respond with a payment.

A total of $1,891,661,670.39 will be due on the war debts June 15. This includes both installments falling due on that date, and sums previously due and unpaid. The total by countries:

- Belgium, $70,642,538.80.
- Czechoslovakia, $17,998,213.63.
- Estonia, $4,463,137.90.
- Finland, $161,935.50.
- France, $545,951,725.31.
- Great Britain, $1,080,157,132.05.
- Hungary, $495,256.41.
- Italy, $100,861,350.54.
- Latvia, $1,742,811.44.
- Lithuania, $1,522,849.62.
- Poland, $55,805,187.10.
- Rumania, $9,487,500.80.
- Yugoslavia, $2,352,031.26.

CIVIL SERVICE BLAST BY FRY IS BOMBSHELL

Neither, apparently, had any other member of the Democratic high command. Attorney General Raymond W. Starr, scheduled to address the Pontiac meeting, sent last-minute regrets for his failure to appear and no other member of Governor Murphy's official family was present either.

Wielding the Paddle The Capitol consensus, however, was that Fry was administering a resounding thwack in a spanking that right-wing Democratic leaders had planned for their standard-bearer—a good-natured spanking intended for the recipient's own good and not the forerunner of a pre-primary split in the party.

So far the brothers Fry, Chairman Edward J. and State Treasurer Theodore I., have been wielding the paddle. The state treasurer touched them off in a Memorial Day address in his hometown of Fremont.

"It seems to me," he said then, "that we are beginning to travel in a straggling circle which in one instance is undermining the morals of those upon whom the nation must depend and in the other instance is placing a millstone around the remaining productive portion of our population by ever-increasing taxation."

"I am not criticizing this course which we have taken in the past five years. I have already said that it was and still is the duty of any government worth respecting to provide food and shelter for those who have given their consent to be governed under it. But I do think that we have been too long in this emergency."

"Sore Spots" Reported So much, from the brothers Fry regarding administration relief policies—one of two policies Chairman Ed said he had heard most criticized during a recent swing around the state to take stock of his party's prospects in the approaching campaign.

The state chairman himself took up the paddle next day during a Democratic central committee session. Reporting on his inventory of party prospects, he recounted the discovery of "sore spots" within the rank and file over the governor's allotment of appointments to administrative posts in the state government.

Within the week, he swung from the general to the specific, declaring in Pontiac that "those of us who have to go to the precincts this fall to try to convince the voters that we deserve another term of office are not satisfied" with the administration of the civil service act. In his visits throughout the state, he said, "principal criticism" focused upon civil service.

Fry, in assailing civil service director William Brownrigg, was still spanking Murphy. The governor announced the appointment of Brownrigg, a former Michigan man who had headed California's state personnel service, as "non-political." Murphy has consistently stood by his selection and not a fortnight ago called upon friends of civil service to "stand up and be counted" before spoliemen of both parties should launch a campaign of "sabotage" against the infant reform.

Capitol consensus, then, based upon the governor's rebuke for "spoliemen of both parties" and the fact that Chairman Fry has repeatedly urged the return of the entire state ticket to office without rivalry from within the Democratic party, presented its theory that the Pontiac uprising was only a spanking—although State Treasurer Fry has frequently been mentioned as gubernatorial timber.

14th Cavalry on the March

Leading their mounts, a squadron of the 14th cavalry from Fort Sheridan, Ill., here marches along a highway west of Chicago, as the unit started its annual training trip to Camp Custer, Mich., just east of Kalamazoo. The cavalrymen walk for a part of the time, and ride for the other portion. They march about 25 miles each day. They left Fort Sheridan, north of Chicago, June 2, and will reach Camp Custer June 11.

Influence Of Italy And Germany Stir Spanish Bitterness

Gibraltar, June 4 (AP)—Report of bitterness against Italian and German influence in insurgent Spain were brought to Gibraltar tonight by visitors from insurgent territory.

The unrest was said to have developed over fears of insurgent officers that Italians and Germans intended to maintain a military hold on the country when the civil war ends.

Insurgent officers arriving here to buy medical stores for Seville hospitals themselves confirmed the reports.

The dictatorial manner of the Italian and German officers is unbearable, one officer said.

Scores of laborers coming across the border freely discussed manifestations against insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco at La Linea, just within insurgent Spain, north of Gibraltar.

Thousands of anti-Franco pamphlets were scattered in the streets of La Linea and many buildings bore charcoal scrawled denunciations of the insurgent leader.

Habeas Corpus Writ Denied Kidnap in Marquette's Prison

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—Charles Minchella, convicted in 1931 of a charge of abduction in the kidnaping of two-year-old nine-year-old Jackie Thompson, was denied a writ of habeas corpus by Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien today.

Sentenced to 30 to 60 years in the Marquette branch prison, Minchella has made several unsuccessful bids for freedom.

Minchella has contended that the kidnaping statute under which he was convicted was not on the books when the alleged crime occurred.

Judge O'Brien held today that Minchella had misunderstood the statute involved. Federal Judges Arthur F. Lederle and Edward J. Moten made similar rulings in denying writs last year.

Minchella's conviction was upheld in 1931 by the state supreme court, and later the United States supreme court, before which Minchella served as his own attorney, denied his appeal.

Iron River NLRB Hearing Adjourns

Iron River, Mich., June 4 (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board hearing of charges of Wagner act violation against the M. A. Hanna Mining company, largest mine operator in Iron county, was adjourned this afternoon until Monday.

The adjournment was taken after six witnesses for the labor board, all CIO union members, testified they had been reproached by their foreman for their union membership.

Blast At Detroit Takes Three Lives

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—The number of victims from an explosion at the Block & Brick, Inc., plant here Thursday was increased to three Saturday when injuries suffered in the blast proved fatal to Henri Belpaese, 49, of Detroit, Gustave F. Haase, plant superintendent, was killed instantly and George Schwark, 24, died later in a Detroit hospital. Three other men who were hurt in the explosion were reported recovering.

Henry Ford Discusses Back-to-Land Project

By DAVID J. WILKIE Detroit, June 4 (AP)—On a site of some 300 acres of land in nearby Dearborn, not far from the farm on which he was born, nearly three-quarters of a century ago, Henry Ford has under way a "back-to-the-land" project which he hopes may become nationwide in scope and furnish the impetus for an "out-of-depression" movement.

"This is no experiment," Ford said today, shading his eyes with his hand to look far across the many acres of small plants pushing up through soil cultivated by nearly three score neody youths. It is, Ford said, the result of many experimental efforts carried on under his direction over a long period. There are wax beans and potatoes; radishes and melons—"every crop that will grow in this region."

"We will establish very definitely, with the cooperation of veterans' organizations," Ford added, "that an individual can live from a relatively small piece of land if he properly works it."

A group of American Legionnaires have taken an interest in the present undertaking at Dearborn and the youthful farmers have named their community "Camp Legion."

Ranging in age from 17 to 20 years the youths work the farm for eight hours daily. For this they receive $2 a day in addition to their food and shelter, but, more important to them and to Ford, is the partnership they have established. Under this arrangement, the young farmers will divide the profits to be derived from the sale of their product.

As far as the eye could see from the mess-hall of the boys' camp or the tents in which they sleep, tiny green plants of wax beans, green beans, soy beans and other varieties of farm products were visible in criss-crossing rows, all apparently in excellent shape to produce maximum crops.

On one edge of the farm, across a road graded by the youngsters, is the line of tents. Each of the dozen tents is equipped to house half a dozen boys. Each tent has a raised wooden floor.

The acreage devoted to the "Camp Legion" group is only a small part of the thousands of Ford acres in Dearborn. Most of it is as level as the proverbial pancake. It has all the advantages of scientific fertilizing. Nearby is a smaller farming project operated by children of the Henry Ford high school. On another site in the same general location are hundreds of "Ford thrift gardens."

Seemingly not one of the many thousands of Ford acres is idle. Ford's idea is that every foot of land should be devoted to some productive purpose. Apparently he proposes to realize that objective with his own land and hopes that the results obtained will spread the idea to other areas idle, he explains, "because the farmer hasn't had the incentive for greater production."

Much of the food consumed by the young agriculturalists was produced on the Ford Farms, in the Dearborn area. Currently, milk, butter and eggs come from the dairy farms; bread is baked on the spot and includes about 28 percent of soy bean meal—one of Ford's favorite "all purpose" crops.

"If people only knew," said Ford today, "how simple it is to make a living from the soil, there would be no hunger anywhere."

Chinese Retreating At Lunghai Railway; Japs In Chengchow

Shanghai, June 5 (Sunday) (AP)—Reports through foreign sources at Hankow said today Chinese resistance along the Lunghai railway in central China had collapsed.

A general withdrawal of Chinese troops was said to be under way. Japanese were reported in occupation of Kalfeng, ancient capital of central China.

It was predicted that Japanese troops would enter Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and the Peiping-Hankow railway, within 48 hours.

Kalfeng, 40 miles east of Chengchow, had been the objective of Japanese troops stalled temporarily at Lanfeng. About 30 miles west of Lanfeng, Kalfeng was considered the key to Chinese Lunghai defenses.

The Japanese plan has been to occupy Chengchow, then drive south along the Peiping-Hankow, approximately 300 miles to Hankow, one of China's provisional capitals.

During the protracted engagement about Lanfeng a division commanded by Lieut. Gen. Kenji Dolhara had been encircled by Chinese troops. A Japanese communiqué said today, however, that the division had broken through the Chinese ring.

The Japanese campaign in central China had been held up in Shantung province until the fall of Suchow, eastern Lunghai nerve center, May 19.

From there Japanese began their push to the west along the vital Lunghai line.

TRIBUTES PAID MERVIN TOMLIN

Polar Bear Veteran Was State Representative at Port Huron

Port Huron, Mich., June 4 (AP)—Friends throughout Michigan paid tribute tonight to Mervin W. Tomlin, state representative and president of the Polar Bears association, who died Saturday morning in University hospital, Ann Arbor.

Members of the veterans organization recalled that last week when Tomlin was elected president of the Polar Bears he had admitted that doctors had given him only a short time to live if he did not take a rest, but added that "I wanted this position of president of our association so that I might do something for my comrades before I die."

From Gov. Frank Murphy came the statement that "Merv" was a beloved figure around here. He was a kindly, genial fellow and helped in passing humanitarian legislation.

Military funeral services will be held in the First Congregational church here Monday at 2 p. m. Winning a special election to fill a vacancy in the house of representatives in 1935, Tomlin was the first Democrat to represent his home district in more than 50 years.

During the World war he served with the 337th field hospital company with the American troops in north Russia, and participated in the battles on the Yaga and Dvina rivers and in the Shenkurst retreat, the Americans' most important battle on the northern front.

He leaves his widow, Bernice, and a son, Mervin Eugene, 14.

Walleyes Biting at Head of Bay Now

Good news for fishermen who favor the wall-eyed pike fishing at the head of Bay de Noquet comes from Frank Pearson of Masonville who writes that the pike have started to bite.

The early summer pike fishing off Masonville and Garth has been a magnet that has drawn fishermen for the last thirty years. The increased use of lighter tackle has brought a greater appreciation of the fighting qualities of the pike in recent years and as a result during the past few years all available boats are often in use and the catches have been so good that fishermen return again and again.

Penguins, the curious Arctic sea birds, are exceptionally heavy eaters. An 18-inch specimen can tuck away five full-sized herrings at one meal.

Admits Killing 5

MONEY BEING USED BEFORE BILL IS READY

This negro youth, under police scrutiny since he was 6, has confessed in Chicago the slayings of at least four women and a girl during the past two years. Admitting that he bludgeoned his victims to death with a brick, 18-year-old Robert Nixon corroborated his statements by sketching with an expert hand the floor plans of his victims' homes.

Members of the veterans organization recalled that last week when Tomlin was elected president of the Polar Bears he had admitted that doctors had given him only a short time to live if he did not take a rest, but added that "I wanted this position of president of our association so that I might do something for my comrades before I die."

Maloney Traces U. P. Firemen's Ass'n History

T. J. Maloney, Ishpeming, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association, has prepared the following brief history of the unique Souvenir Program for the unique Souvenir Program to be presented to the firemen this summer at the Lake Linden tournament. This program will include department pictures of the 33 volunteer departments, members of the association located throughout the Upper Peninsula.

The brief history of the association is as follows: This association was organized at a meeting of fire chiefs held in Marquette, Mich., on July 10, 1894. At this meeting a committee of three, consisting of Chief Alex McDonald, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Chief James G. Gibson, Republic; and Chief H. A. Routhier, Ishpeming, were appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and also to recommend names of officers for a permanent organization.

At this original meeting the officers elected to head the organization were: president, H. A. Routhier, Ishpeming; first vice president, A. J. Scott, Hancock; second vice president, J. E. Bowser, Crystal Falls; secretary, T. J. Flynn, Negaunee; treasurer, L. P. Crary, Marquette.

The objects of the organization were protection and promotion of the best interests of the firemen of the Upper Peninsula, the compilation of fire statistics, the collection of information of practical working of different systems of organization, the merits of various kinds of apparatus and the cultivation of fraternal fellowship between the different fire departments in the state.

The first tournament was held in Ishpeming in 1895, and has been held annually in some Upper Peninsula town ever since, with the single exception of the year 1917 which was the year in which America entered the World War. That year a business convention only was held at Houghton, Mich.

The present 1938 tournament at Lake Linden is the 44th annual meeting and we hope and expect for many years to come to carry on the fraternal spirit and feeling of mutual progress which the founders of this organization so successfully inaugurated.

REV. EVANS TO GIVE SERMON

Baccalaureate Services Will Be Held Here This Evening

Opening a busy week for seniors of Escanaba high school, Baccalaureate services will be held this evening at 8:15 o'clock at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium. Admission is by ticket only.

The sermon, entitled "The Value of Personal Atmosphere," will be delivered by Rev. D. E. Evans, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city.

Invocation and benediction will be delivered by Rev. J. E. Guertin, pastor of St. Anne's church. The senior high school a capella choir, under the direction of R. P. Bowers, will sing "Fairrest Lord Jesus."

Other graduation activities this week will include Honor Day exercises Tuesday afternoon, National Honor Society banquet Tuesday evening at the Sherman Hotel, and Commencement exercises on Thursday.

Evidence that man lived in America before the ice age has been recently uncovered.

Richard Carlton Back From School

Richard Carlton, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlton, has arrived in Escanaba from Champaign, Ill., last week recently completed his education in the school of music of the University of Illinois.

Carlton left Champaign before graduation ceremonies, which will be June 13, in order to present a vocal concert at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium next Friday evening.

He expects to leave the last of June for Boston to continue his voice studies under Samuel Endicott.

THE OTTER

Why is the otter the worst fish predator we have in Michigan protected?

He is no asset to the state of Michigan. He consumes thousands of dollars worth of game fish in his life. Last year in the state of Wisconsin where they have open trapping season, the otter pelt sold for $12.

This animal is a great roamer. He goes up and down trout streams for many miles and cleans out all of the trout, which is his choice fish.

I am in favor of an open trapping season on the otter together with a bounty the same as the wolf or coyote, he does just as much damage.

Yours very truly,

Scientists Invade New Guinea Wilds; Flying Over Pacific

Honolulu, June 3 (AP)—A young research scientist, Richard Archbold, in a 14-ton, $250,000 flying laboratory, alighted on the waters of Pearl Harbor here today with five associates on an 18-hour flight from San Diego, Calif.

It was the first stop on their 8,000-mile journey to the wild country of New Guinea, a scientific quest sponsored by the American Museum of Natural History.

The flying boat, named "Guba," meaning "Sudden Storm," cruised the 2,624 miles in 18 hours 9 minutes.

Archbold said the flight to Wake Island, 2,000 miles westward, probably would start Monday afternoon. After Wake another 2,000-mile flight lies southward to New Guinea, an island inhabited by savage tribes.

Mrs. Keeton's Bear Photo Appears In Denver, Colo. Paper

Munising, June 4—"Trouble Bruin", a photo taken by Mrs. Mildred M. Keeton, appeared in the Denver, Colorado, Post on Sunday, May 15. The photo was taken by Mrs. Keeton of Julius Thomson, Munising conservation officer, and a small bear cub which he had captured. The bear, although it is on a leash, has started to climb a tree. The caption reads, "Trouble Bruin", the runaway bear cub, encounters the long arm of the law. The photo, one of three which the Denver Post has used of Munising scenes in the last month, brought home much closer to Lyle Lyons, who is spending a year working in Colorado, and who clipped the photo and mailed it here. A photo of Mr. Thomson and the bear cub also appeared in the Escanaba Daily Press some time ago.

Conductor Collins Makes Final Run On North Western

Iron River.—"Miss railroading? You bet I'm going to miss my work and the boys who made it enjoyable."

And so saying, veteran North Western conductor, Joseph Collins, swung up into the slowly-moving evening passenger train in Iron River Tuesday on the last run of his 38 years of railroading. At 10:30 o'clock, the train pulled into Escanaba, end of its trip, and Collins swung down onto the platform. Without a backward look at the train, he greeted his wife and went directly home to bed.

No Early Rising

No longer will he be called at 2 o'clock each morning to begin the early trip to Iron River.

All that is a thing of the past and Collins, French-speaking man with an Irish name, will not miss the early-rising but he will find it hard not to talk and play cribbage daily with his brakeman and friend, Einer J. Lindstrom, and others on the run.

But Mrs. Collins and her husband will be staying at home enjoying the leisure this summer and when fall comes, it's westward they'll be heading on one of the fine North Western trains with their life-passes.

Mrs. Collins hasn't been feeling so well lately, the veteran conductor confided Wednesday in Iron River and he will be glad to take her to San Diego to spend the winter with their daughter in the California climate which is less rigorous than the northern Michigan winters.

For 38 years, Joseph Collins has been riding the rails as a North Western man. He began firing an engine as a young man of 29 years, back in 1900. Then he became a brakeman and later a conductor. All of his service has been on the Peninsula division of the North Western railroad.

Almost a million miles he has travelled in the employ of the North Western; most of them were along the less-speedy routes of freight trains but for the last eight years, Collins has been on the passenger run from Escanaba to Iron River. Time when his train went through to Watersmeet in the morning and back in the evening. That was when there was more business before the depression.

Times have changed, even in railroading, Collins observed. He recalls when the S-2's were the biggest engines on the division. Now the big ore engines tugging long trains of ore cars are giants compared to the S-2's.

Collins didn't say so, but there was an unspoken tear in his eyes as he stepped vigorously as ever into the coach at the Iron River station on his concluding run.

But he'll be back to visit Ed Brady, the agent, and Lindstrom, and all the other North Western friends he has here. Until then, he figures on enjoying a little rest, well-deserved after these long years.

All during the 38 years, through snow and rain, and heat and cold, he has gone through with his train, and St. Christopher has been with him, Collins says—not one accident has he experienced.

That's a pretty good record for the railroad, and a good one for a conductor to, his friends say.

It is said that 54 per cent of the road troubles of motorists is caused by tire and ignition trouble.

Stewart Holbrook Gives Radio Talk On Birling Contest

Stewart H. Holbrook, author of "Holy Old Mackinaw" and other lumberjack stories, described the plans for the world's championship log rolling tournament to be held in Escanaba in a radio broadcast from station WIND, Gary, yesterday afternoon. He was interviewed by the station announcer immediately after the Cubs baseball game broadcast.

Arrangements for the broadcast were made by Malcolm G. Lund, member of the Borell & Jacobs advertising agency, which is handling the advertising for the proposed "golf tours" to be promoted by Happiness Tours, Inc., Chicago travel bureau. Mr. Lund also arranged a series of radio broadcasts for the Escanaba Smeit Jamboree good-will party last spring.

Mr. Holbrook is spending several days in Chicago, gathering material for his new book on lumbering in America. In his new book, he will describe the disastrous Peshtigo fire of the early seventies.

Ferry Traffic Increases

FOR the first four months of the year, vehicle traffic across the Straits of Mackinac on the state-owned ferries increased five-tenths of one per cent compared to the same period in 1937, the state highway department reports.

Only normal traffic goes over the straits during this period, and the figures cannot be taken as any indication of what the movement will be during the tourist business. Although business and employment are in the decline, there are expectations on the part of those who have studied the travel business that there will be increased vacation travel this year.

Traffic has increased steadily each year at the straits, and to take care of the expected increase the state highway department has wisely purchased another boat, which has been named the "City of Munising".

The christening exercises are a celebration in which citizens of Escanaba and the rest of the Upper Peninsula should participate enthusiastically.

Another boat to the state ferry fleet will mean a reduction of the congestion that has existed during the rush tourist season. Because of delays in the service, many northbound tourists have turned back from Mackinaw City and have spent their vacations elsewhere.

This is poor business for the Upper Peninsula, but fortunately there will be lesser losses for this reason this season as a result of the increase in transportation facilities.

A Trailer Problem

THE American Municipal association has listed trailers as among six acute problems confronting American cities in 1938, says the Milwaukee Journal.

If trailers have become a problem, it is one that confronts not only cities but the country districts as well. If something has to be done about trailers, it has to be done in the country and suburban communities as well as in cities.

no amazing trailer fact again stressed by the municipal association is that more trailers were built last year than all other dwelling units combined.

So it looks like a considerable group of Americans is getting itself housed in trailers rather than in fixed dwelling places. And it will be that this tendency will grow. The "average age" in the United States is rising. That means there are more older folks.

Also, in recent years, more pension systems have come into operation, more people receive public or private old age gratuities, annuities or whatnot. So more of them are likely to pack a few possessions into a trailer and travel about the land.

The problem thus raised in cities is where to put the trailers and under what conditions. Shall they be treated as "homes" and come under the building laws or be treated as vehicles under the traffic laws?

Obviously they must be properly parked, made to meet sanitary requirements, and perhaps be policed. Of course, a city, village, township or county can dispose of the matter by simply prohibiting trailers within the municipal limits. But that is likely to become a two way prohibition. It may keep out trailers but it also will keep out business.

A single trailer family may not mean much to a town, but a hundred or a thousand such families, passing through, parking, stopping, and buying gas, oil, groceries, cosmetics, shoes, clothing, and other things, may mean a great deal. If a considerable population is going to dwell in trailers, then a considerable sum total of business is going to come out of trailers.

Northern states will see more trailers on its highways and byways this summer than it ever has in the past. Gradually communities will need to develop sound trailer control technique. If the big cities represented in the American Municipal league see an "acute" trailer problem confronting them, townships, counties and villages have something of that problem coming, too.

Apathy is Helpful

ONCE every year the world of adults bends a thoughtful eye on the boys and girls in the colleges, hands them a great deal of advice (which the boys and girls wisely ignore) and tries to figure out where the youngsters are heading and why.

That time is upon us once more; and before it is over you are quite certain to find some educated bigwig or other loudly deploring the fact that our collegiate generation is too frivolous and self-centered, too much absorbed in the trivia of campus life and too ignorant of the great problems of the outer world.

You are certain to hear that, because someone has been saying it every commencement season since John Harvard's day, or thereabouts, and there is no reason to suppose that this commencement season is going to be any different. Now there is a great deal of truth in it, and the people who deplore our youth's failure to get all wound up about momentous issues know what they are talking about. The ordinary collegian knows plenty about the world of sport, swing bands, moving picture stars, clothing styles, slang and campus politics; he has a profound apathy regarding things like Fascism, Communism, the war in Spain, the labor movement, mass production and applied economics.

But it is perfectly possible that this is something to be thankful for, not to deplore. European college students are all the other way. They are passionately aware of the great burning issues; they parade, hold mass meetings and make speeches, issue manifestos and go through all the other motions common to people who are on fire about something.

The trouble is that they are quite as likely to be heading in the wrong direction on these issues as in the right one. Records fall to show that the awakened and passionate German students, for instance, did anything in particular to save their country from the menace of Hitlerism. The records do show, however, that in such a country as Poland it has been the students themselves who have been in the front ranks of the growing anti-Semitic movement. They have marched in the book-burning processions in all the dictator-led countries, and they have lined up with the oppressors whenever the right slogan has been chanted into their youthful ears.

In America we at least don't run that risk. Our lads may be a bit flighly and ignorant—but no enemy of our liberties is going to find their organized enthusiasm a handy instrument for his use. Their very apathy is in itself a defense against catastrophe.

Should Be Relocated

THE Escanaba city council has engaged an Ann Arbor firm of consulting engineers to make the preliminary survey for the proposed new water plant.

The present plant is more than a half century old, and it will not be long before the obsolete buildings and equipment will have to be junked. It has been suggested that plant be relocated. In its present location in Ludington park directly in front of the yacht basin it is somewhat of an eyesore, and the space could be used more advantageously for park purposes.

On Lower Ludington street, there are a number of remshackle, old buildings, which could be torn down to make room for an attractively-designed pumping plant. The relocation would serve the purpose of beautifying Ludington park and also Ludington street. It is a suggestion to which the city council should give serious consideration when the proper time comes.

SIX BILLIONS A YEAR

(Cincinnati Enquirer) According to authenticated figures, the government has spent or lent more than $32,000,000,000 in five years, over and above what can be called the ordinary budget. Thus in an effort which so far has not been notably successful, it has laid out six billions of dollars a year to bring about economic recovery. Every dollar of this stupendous total will have to be recovered from the people in taxes. If it is not, the credit of the government will be impaired and the foundations of strong government shattered.

This means inevitably a steadily higher burden of taxation, not on any one class, but on everyone. Already the tax burden is so great as to be a serious obstacle to industrial recovery. Already taxes are cutting deeply into the standard of life of the typical American. Yet this is no more than a beginning of the crushing load which will have to be borne by the people, to make good the tremendous debts incurred since 1933.

There is more evidence each year to show that reckless expenditure does not bring commensurate results. After the results. After the first little boom from public spending is past, business finds itself in much the same position as before, but with a heavier tax burden. The net result is apt to be a reduction in business activity, soon after the public spending stops—as it always must.

REPUBLICANS MARKING TIME

(Ironwood Globe) The political situation down state seems to be a case of Republicans marking time until there is a more definite alignment for the Republican candidate for governor. After that they will make one of the most concrete bids in history for control of state politics. And their prospects are bright.

Frank D. Fitzgerald, former governor, and Harry Toy, former justice of the supreme court, are the two candidates that count. Roscoe Fitch will make his biennial bid for a comparatively small percentage of the vote, but it won't amount to much. Little attention is paid to the possibility of Melville B. McPherson, member of the state tax commission, as a probable candidate. Either in the year when his fight with Chairman Fegan of the tax commission was publicized daily it appeared that he would be a candidate. The hope now, however, seems to be that he will swing his support to Fitzgerald, in which case the former governor should win.

If down state observers have appraised the situation any where near correctly, the outlook for the Republicans is bright. Governor Murphy is losing his hold in Wayne county, an earlier indication of which was the victory of Republican Reading for mayor of Detroit. The industrial situation down state, the condition of the state treasury, the spending orgy the London—Because the Irish naturally do not do the ordinary and cut-and-dried things, citizens of Eire are not at all surprised that the leaders of the two great parties—Eamon de Valera and W. T. Cosgrave—and their associates agreed upon Dr. Douglas Hyde as the first real President of the country.

Here are the high spots of this decision: Eire is predominantly a Roman Catholic country, but Dr. Hyde is a Protestant—son of a Protestant country parson.

Politicians usually want a practical man as head of the state, but Dr. Hyde is a poet. The dominant cry in Europe is for young men as leaders, but the Irish chose Dr. Hyde, who is 78.

Dr. Hyde is universally popular both with his Catholic and his Protestant fellow countrymen. He has kept aloof from political quarrels and he has done more for the Irish language and literature than even Eire's most famous poets and novelists. After all, the latter mainly wrote in English. But Dr. Hyde has made Gaelic his particular care.

He was born in 1850 at Frenchport, County Roscommon, where his father was a preacher. He went to Trinity College, Dublin, and had a brilliant career. Later he lived in Connaught and became interested in the Gaelic speech of his neighbors. During a spell of illness, he took up the study of Gaelic and eventually became one of its greatest modern masters and exponents.

When the Gaelic League was formed in 1893, he became its first President. He began writing in Gaelic, adopting the pen name of "An Craoibhin Aobhain," which means "Beautiful little branch." His "Literary History of Ireland" was the first serious attempt to write a real comprehensive story of Gaelic literature. He followed this up with translations from the Gaelic—"Love Songs of Connaught." Later he became professor of Irish literature in the National University of Dublin.

In 1906 he made a tour of the United States, the primary purpose of which was to raise a fund of $50,000 for the Gaelic League. He addressed audiences of students at the leading American universities. He delivered lectures in large cities.

In those days he was an impressive figure—one of the black Irishmen, huge of figure, with raven black hair and raven black moustache. The latter was described by his fellow-Irishman, George Moore, as "flowing like a stream of black porter." Great men vie in receiving him. He was a guest at the White House and was amazed at Teddy Roosevelt's knowledge of Gaelic literature.

Long before Eamon de Valera took up his own famous crusade for the use of the Irish language, Dr. Hyde was doing so. In fact, during this American tour—when "Dev" was only 24—Dr. Hyde was speaking of an Ireland "that shall support its own industries, write its own books and speak its own language. English may be a commercial necessity, but Irish is a national necessity."

In his own country, knowing his quickness of wit and his gentleness of soul, people used to interrupt him just to hear what he would reply. At one of his meetings, a heckler said: "To hell with England!"

"No, my friend," retorted Dr. Hyde, "to Heaven with Ireland!" It is this serene, scholarly old man who now moves into the former viceregal lodge at Phoenix Park, Dublin, to draw down a salary of $75,000 as President. He will be the great pacificator, because he is enemy of no man and friend of all.

Democratic administration has indulged in—all these are going to hurt Governor Murphy.

The biggest obstacle for the Republicans to overcome is the endorsement of the governor by Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, if the endorsement isn't more than a face-saving move. Van Wagoner has what is considered the most powerful political machine in the state. If he orders his forces to go to bat for Murphy, it will mean a great deal. But it is doubtful if Van Wagoner will do that, in view of the fact that he has not been on the friendliest of terms with the governor for some time.

The endorsement of Murphy by Van Wagoner is easy to account for. Van Wagoner demanded that the state provide funds for building highways so that he could match federal funds. After weeks of fiddling around, the governor finally let it be known that Van Wagoner would get the funds and would be able to proceed with his highway construction program. Having been assured of the money he demanded Van Wagoner could scarcely do otherwise than endorse Murphy, though the sincerity of Van Wagoner will be doubted in some quarters.

At any rate, a ripreporting campaign is in store for Michiganders next fall, and it would not be surprising if Governor Murphy played the role of a non-term governor. There has been little to endorse him for a second term beyond the fact that he has a vote-getting personality.

Q. What was Ty Cobb's highest salary as a baseball player? H. T.

A. The highest salary Ty Cobb ever received was $60,000 in 1927.

A. One logical explanation is that many years ago on the counter of a general store, there were brass tacks to measure the material.

Q. Who was the father of Ellen Terry's children? J. M.

A. Edward Godwin, architect, archeologist, and artist, was the father of Ellen Terry's children, Edith and Gordon Craig.

Q. Did Somerset Maugham ever have tuberculosis? J. W. H.

A. The author spent two years in a sanatorium while suffering from tuberculosis. His mother died of the disease.

Q. Where is the Hall of Fame? C. F. S.

A. The Hall of Fame, built with funds contributed by Mrs. Finley J. Shepard (Helen Gould) is at New York University on University Heights in the Bronx. It is built in the form of a terrace with superimposed colonnade connecting the University Hall of Philosophy with the Hall of Languages.

Q. What was the former name of Welfare Island? E. F. C.

A. It was formerly known as Blackwell's Island.

Q. What river is called China's Sorrow? W. S. F.

A. The Hwang Ho or Yellow River has well merited the name because of its turbulent history. In 1877 the river inundated a vast area in Honan province. In 1931 there occurred the most disastrous flood in the history of China when both the Yangtze and Hwang Ho Rivers, rising to unprecedented heights, swept away thousands of villages and towns, and affected 30,000,000 people in 16 provinces.

Q. What is the source of the quotation, When I use a word it means what I choose it to mean? J. R. G.

A. "When I use a word," Humpty Dumpty said, "it means just what I choose it to mean—neither more nor less," is from Chapter 6 of Through the Looking Glass by Lewis Carroll.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—The reformation of Coney Island will have to wait until 1940. That is the year when Parks Commissioner Bob Moses hopes to make a veritable Palm Beach out of the garish playground.

We journeyed out there hoping that, meanwhile, Moses already had turned his spray-guns, architects and landscape artists loose upon the premises. And, indeed, he has in a few places. The boardwalk has been refurbished with a dusty grey to a sanitary white and so have the benches. That huge wasteland they called Dreamland has been converted into a verdant park, and other spots along the Masses' Seashore have been cleaned up.

But for the most part, Coney Island is exactly as she has been all these years, a gaudy harridan rigged up in the worst possible taste. The portrait is the same; the hot dog stands, the soft drink and hamburger counters, the popcorn and peanut pavilions, a malodorous lot along that boulevard of cheapness, Surf Ave., with its sideshows and barkers, the scenic thrill-rides, the squalid alleyways, the squealing sounds emerging from the callopes of the revolving carousels, the dingy eating places, the sad pleasure-seeking throngs trying desperately to get a little fun out of their Coney Island frolic.

But within two years, the world goes, Coney Island is to be beautified. Surf Avenue promises to become a promenade of some dignity, the beaches anticipate an era of unaccustomed cleanliness, and rows of newly-planted trees may take the place of decaying billboards with screeching posters. Until then, we can take Coney Island for an evening or leave it alone.

A. M. Swing is N. G.

There was something psychopathic, of course, in the sight of some twenty-three thousand jitterbugs getting noisily enthused over the sounds made by a half dozen swing bands early in the morning out on Randall's Island the other Sabbath.

It wasn't a civilized spectacle, to this department's notion. Not that we're a swing-baiter now, but we have a strong feeling that swing should not assail the ears until well after supper time, when its listeners are constitutionally becalmed and can better withstand the sturm and drang of a hot trumpet or clarinet or killer-diller drumstick.

We could object to this Sabbath jitterbug concert on other grounds, too, but we fear that the swing enthusiasts would not be ruffled. They loved it.

Meanwhile their tin gods are invading the world of the higher art. Benny Goodman, the king of swing, has just enlisted his hot clarinet for a recording of a Mozart Concerto, playing with the Budapest String Trio, though only a few highbrows will truly appreciate it.

And at the moment, Benny is on tap for a recital of Bach, soon to be rendered at Town Hall. We'd attend that, if need be, at the crack of dawn. But a swing jamboree in the broiling morning sun—No!

No nation in the world offers more advantages to its citizens and yet receives so little gratitude for them.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, June 5. — There was a strange spectacle in the senate last week. A tall, gaunt, untidy man, with a high aquiline nose and shap blue eyes, stood waving his arms, alternately hissing and roaring threats at absent enemies. And clustered round him, like hens around a barnyard cock when a hawk appears in the sky, sat most of the Democratic senators who have fought the New Deal.

The man was Burton Kendall Wheeler of Montana. The absent enemies whom he so loudly threatened were the members of the White House general staff, the group of left-wing advisers who are assisting the President in his purge of the democracy. And the anti-New Deal Democrats were gathered around Wheeler because Harry L. Hopkins' indorsement of Representative Wearin, in his Iowa campaign against Senator Gillette, had suddenly aroused them to their peril.

If any proof were needed, the scene proved that Burt Wheeler is the leader of the senate opposition to the White House. No better leader could be found.

All the tricks of the legislative game, from the subtlest to the most brutal, are known to Wheeler. His oratory is peculiar, being compounded largely of repetitions and sibilant warnings, but he has a way of shaking his bony finger that recalls the recording angel in an irritable mood. He is effective on the floor. And, best of all, his liberal record is so sense clear his followers of the imputation of reaction. No wonder the Bryds and Baileys, the Gerrys, Burkes and Georges run to him in every emergency.

OLD FRIENDS FOR NEW

The scene in the senate represented such a surprising reversal of roles. Only a year or so ago, the man who now follows him would have named the montana senator as one of the most dangerous members of their party, while Thomas G. Corcoran and Benjamin N. Cohen, the chief targets of his attack, were his closest friends in the government.

With Corcoran and Cohen, he put over the utilities holding company act, when the President and his official leaders were weakening. To him, Corcoran and Cohen went when they were first disturbed by the Supreme court's reaction. And, while he may denounce them now, he still likes and admires both members of the celebrated team. The point of transition from the first attitude to the second is difficult to find.

Until the court fight, his friends were all of one sort. A Massachusetts boy, he moved West young, and made his name in Montana by fighting the Anaconda Copper Company. The grateful farmers and miners sent him to the senate, where he made his name by advocating public ownership of power, by exposing the larger squallors of the Harding ERA, by fighting relentlessly against the whole Financial and Industrial interests in the country.

In 1924, he ran for the vice-presidency on old Bob La Follette's Progressive ticket. And, in 1932, he gave the Roosevelt candidacy its liberal coloring, by rounding up the insurgent northwest for the personable governor of New York.

TO THE ATTACK

Probably the break came because the dominating characteristics of Wheeler's nature are suspicion, pride and a passion for honest government. From the very start, the President offended his pride by failing to ask his advice. Worse still, the President permitted Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to lavish Justice Department patronage on the Montana political machine of his friend and Wheeler's mortal enemy, the lawyer-lobbyist, J. Bruce Kremer.

When the court bill was disclosed, Wheeler was angry, and he disliked the personal governmental methods of the President. The court bill aroused all his suspicion. He charged to the attack. The members of the court bill opposition promptly named him their official leader; the naming was done with ceremony at a dinner at the house of Senator Tydings of Maryland, attended by all the men who gathered round Wheeler on the floor the other day.

WHICH HERD?

At the Tydings dinner, Wheeler made a little speech which deserves to be recalled again. He looked around the well-appointed table, into the faces of the men whom he had always fought before. He said that he was glad to lead them in the court fight, but he warned them that when the fight was over, their ways would part again. Thus far, Wheeler's warning has not come true, and therein lies the enigma of his future.

One cannot help asking, what next? In considering Wheeler's past and present, here is a man of great abilities, a tough, practical politician, an ambitious man. He is hated by the chieftain of his party as no other man is. He has changed his friends; yet, in fundamental opinion, he still has far more in common with his old associates than with his new. There is a trace of the rogue elephant in Wheeler. And there are capacities to make him leader of the herd, if he can choose which herd.

JUST JUNE

Not Spring, not Summer, just—just June, Not morning, and not afternoon, Not hot by day, or cold by night, Just June, and June about just right. A lot of songs are sung to Spring, We even call the Winter king, But June has always seemed to me Just—well, what Summer ought to be.

Of course, the Summer's not quite here, Just June's too early in the year. No fruits to gather, grain to get, Just June is just too early yet. But I can do without the grain If June will just awhile remain. Wealth's good to have, but not too soon, Life's at its best at—well, just June.

"City of Munising" Will Be Christened Here Sunday, June 26

FERRY TO COME FROM SHIPYARD

Munising to Send Huge Delegation To Ceremonies

Christening of the "City of Munising", new state ferry boat of the traits of Mackinac fleet, will be held in Escanaba on Sunday, June 26, as a feature attraction of the annual Fishermen's Party and Fishing Rodeo.

Details of the christening program were outlined at a meeting of representatives of Escanaba and Munising at the Delta hotel yesterday afternoon by R. C. Seeley, Lansing, member of the state highway department staff. Others attending the conference included Mayor John Hannah, Munising; Leonard Hicks, Munising; Independent; Gerald J. Cleary, Harold P. Lindsey, John A. Lommer, Mayor Peter Logan, Ben Sparks, S. M. Johnson, C. R. Henderson, Gust Asp, John P. Hart, Michael Ettenhofer, Harry Watkins, and Fletcher Davis, St. Ignace, Chief clerk of the state ferries.

To Leave Shipyards

The "City of Munising" will leave the Manitowoc shipyards 8 a. m. Saturday, June 25, and tie up at Menominee for the night. The ferry boat will resume its trip 8:30 a. m. Sunday morning, and is scheduled to arrive in the Escanaba harbor at 12:45 p. m. Yachts of Escanaba and Gladston will escort the boat to the Merchants dock. Christening ceremonies will be held at 1 p. m. and public inspection will be from 2 to 3 p. m. The "City of Munising" will then depart for Manistique and St. Ignace.

Mayor Hannah said that a Munising band will board the "City of Munising" at Menominee and ride to Escanaba. G. Donald Kennedy, business manager, and V. C. Steinbaugh, chief engineer, state highway department, will come from Lansing also to board the boat at Menominee. A caravan of about three hundred and fifty Munising residents will come to Escanaba to attend the christening ceremonies.

Details of the christening exercises will be announced later. Gust Asp, general chairman of the Lions Fishermen's Party and Rodeo, announced yesterday that sportsmen's program will be revised to conform with the christening exercises. The schedule of events for the day will be as follows:

- 10:15 a. m.—Baseball game, Crystal Falls vs. Escanaba.
- 12:00 noon—Resort Owners Luncheon, Delta Hotel.
- 12:45 p. m.—Yachtmen escort "City of Munising" in harbor
- 1:00 p. m.—Street Parade and Christening at Merchants Dock.
- 2:00 p. m.—Public Inspection of "City of Munising".
- 2:30 p. m.—Fishermen's Party at Fairgrounds.
- 5:00 p. m.—Fishing Rodeo at Masonville.
- 8:30 p. m.—Finals of Fishing Rodeo.

SALES TAX IN SMALL UPTURN

Still Far Behind Mark Of Last Year, However

Sales tax collections during May continued the upward climb started in April, it was revealed today in statistics compiled by Draper Allen, Managing Director of the State Board of Tax Administration. The May receipts were $3,590,169.21, a gain of $181,779.69 over the previous month.

After slumping badly in February and March, the sales tax revenue showed a decided improvement in April and continued to pick up during the month just closed. The collections, however, were still lagging behind the same month a year ago when the yield was $4,856,588.42.

Despite the decrease from May 1937, Allen was satisfied with the showing made last month. He declared that Federal Reserve statistics showed that retail business in the Detroit area was off 20.7 per cent from 1937 while the drop in Sales Tax receipts was slightly less than 20 per cent. He held that this fact was indicative that the department is producing better than a year ago.

Collections for the current fiscal year are now $43,727,733.65 as compared with $44,954,138.84 on the same date in 1937. The drop since the first of the year has nullified the high mark established during the last half of 1937 and there is now only a remote possibility that this year's return will equal that of the last fiscal year.

While the Sales Tax was showing an increase over April, use tax receipts for May dropped nearly $2,000 from the previous month. The May yield from this source was $38,768.30, making the total collected thus far $192,690.90. May was the first month that the use tax failed to show an increase over the preceding month.

Newhall, Perkins and Nahma School Rebuilding Projects Near Completion

NEWHALL SCHOOL pupils will go back to their classes next fall in the new building above, which now lacks only interior finishing work to make it complete. Built to remedy the over-crowding of last year when two teachers worked in a single-room school, the new building provides two classrooms on the upper floor and an auditorium and handicraft room in the basement.

PERKINS SCHOOL addition, shown above, is being built at a cost of $50,000 and will house pupils from kindergarten through the senior year of high school. The new east wing of the school will house three home rooms and provide facilities for a science laboratory, home economics work, shop work and offices. The new north wing consists of a combination gymnasium and auditorium, wainscoted and glazed tile brick, which is equipped with a motion picture booth and stage control. Showers are on the gymnasium level.

NAHMA HIGH SCHOOL students will start school in the new building shown above, which adds six rooms to the town's school facilities. Grade students will also benefit, as overcrowding in the old school building will be relieved by the new facilities. Members of the Nahma school board, shown on an inspection tour of the new building, are (left to right) William Acker, B. D. Brophy and Dave Phelan

Building Programs Of County Schools To Be Finished by September

Pupils of three Delta county schools will find new facilities awaiting them when they return to school next September, according to a statement made yesterday by C. P. Titus, Delta county school commissioner. Building programs at Newhall, Perkins and Nahma are now nearing completion and additional space will be provided to alleviate overcrowded conditions by the time classes start this fall.

A $50,000 addition to the Perkins central school is now in progress and will provide a modern plant adapted to the educational needs of the whole community and housing all classes from the kindergarten through four years of high school.

The project was initiated by James C. McNamara, Perkins school superintendent, in February, 1935, and in July, 1936, President Roosevelt signed approval of a Works Progress Administration project covering $23,966 of the cost of labor and a part of the materials for the construction of the addition.

Plans and specifications were drawn up by David E. Anderson, Marquette, and actual construction work began last September under the supervision of William MacDonald of Escanaba.

Two Wings Built

The new structure comprises two wings, which are attached to the original Central school. The east wing, a two-story building, contains classrooms and special rooms and is 101 feet by 50 feet. The north wing contains the combined auditorium and gymnasium and is 85 feet by 52 feet. The building conforms to the new state fire code, all floors being of steel joist and concrete slab construction. Interior partitions are of concrete masonry units and exterior walls are of brick backed with 8-inch masonry units.

Steam heat will be installed, and all classrooms are provided with unit ventilation and heating systems.

The gymnasium-auditorium unit is an attractive room wainscoted with glazed tile brick with a paneled ceiling of acoustical material. A balcony at the rear provides seating space and contains a motion picture projection booth with stage control. The stage opposite the balcony is 40 feet wide and 16 feet deep, and provision has been made for lighting and access to dressing rooms. Boys and girls showers are on the gymnasium level.

Three Home Rooms

The east wing contains three home rooms, the school office and lavatories on the second floor. The first floor contains a science laboratory, a home economics unit of two rooms and a boys' shop and club room. The science room will be equipped for biology work, general science and agriculture. The home economics unit was planned by Miss Gladys Lowe of the vocational division of the state Department of Public Instruction. Electricity will be used for cooking. The shop, 50 by 25 feet, will be laid out as a general shop with equipment for work in sheet metal, electricity, woodwork and plumbing. The custodian's office is also on the ground floor.

In line with the new building program, the Perkins school board is revising the school curriculum to adapt it more fully to community living. The system will qualify under the Rural Agricultural School Act to obtain additional state aid to carry on the work in domestic science, agriculture and general shop.

Of Frame Construction

The construction of the Nahma school building is frame—which is typical of the lumbering town in which it is located. The addition was built through a WPA project whereby the federal government contributed labor and materials valued at $16,900.

Six new rooms are made available by the addition, which is 104 feet in length and 52 feet wide. There is a study hall and assembly room 60 by 22 feet, a library 11 by 22 feet, a seventh and eighth grade room 31 by 22 feet, a science room 29 by 22 feet and two classrooms 22 by 19 feet. Toilets and storage space are also provided.

The science room will be equipped with desks and running water suitable for carrying on work in agricultural experimentation, chemistry and physics. The domestic science room located in the old building will be equipped with gas stoves, built-in cupboards, sinks and utensils, and space will be provided for setting up model home conditions for kitchen and dining rooms as well as a sewing room, cutting table and sewing machines.

The general shop will be separated into four divisions; mechanical drawing, sheet metal, home mechanics and woodworking. The shop will be left in its present location in the old building, but will be enlarged to take in the space formerly occupied by the typing and cooking room. Typewriters will be moved to the old seventh and eighth grade room, vacated by the classes which will take up quarters in the new structure, and the department will be enlarged to include book keeping and shorthand.

New Heating System

A modern hot water heating system is being installed in the Nahma school, and a running water-plumbing system with flush toilets is being installed to conform with regulations set up by the state health department. Henry Newkirk, Delta county sanitarian, compiled the figures on the sewage disposal plant, which includes dimensions of the septic tanks, settling tanks, dosing chambers and tile fields which will be required by the system. This set-up will give the same sanitary facilities found in all city systems.

A wide corridor runs the full length of the new building, east and west, and is joined by an extension of the main corridor running north and south in the old building.

After construction was started it was necessary to change the plans to conform with specifications set up by the new law relative to school plans. They were revised by David Anderson, Marquette architect.

The Rural Agriculture Act gives a district conforming to its provisions an additional $800 over and above their state aid and $300 per bus for transportation costs. A new all-steel bus will be added this coming year. The Nahma school was approved as a rural agricultural school on May 1 by George H. Fern and Dorr Stack of the state Department of Public Instruction.

Cost Is $10,625

The cost of the Newhall two-room school, which was built under a WPA project, was $10,625 with $3,125 as the sponsor's share. In addition to the two classrooms, it provides an auditorium with stage under half of the building and a handicraft room and kitchen under the other half.

Conditions at the old one-room Newhall school were especially crowded last year, as there were two teachers working in one room. The new building will provide better classroom facilities as well as the additional benefits of the auditorium and handicraft room which will be of use to the community as well as the school pupils.

A hot air heating system is being installed, with forced ventilation, and will be thermostatically controlled. The building is of concrete block construction.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty Maybe it just seems so, without actually check-up, that Michigan Republicans are on their feet in both the House and Senate fighting the administration more than any others. Washington newspapers bear out this assumption.

—Wednesday morning's papers, for example, quoted three—Senator Vandenberg, Congressman Mapes and Hoffman.

One of the soundest reasons advanced for this is that several of the men in the House are veterans, serving long on major committees and are fortified to speak with inside information on the more important legislation.

Of course, in the Senate, whether his Republican colleagues fully like it or not, Vandenberg's opinion on any big administration issue is freely interpreted as "what the Minority thinks about this".

No little pleased these days with the new turn the administration is taking on favoring federal direct relief is Senator Vandenberg. He can always point to this amendment for 150 million dollars for direct relief which was shouted down the day before Majority Leader Barkley himself sponsored the direct aid amendment, increasing funds already in the bill for this purpose by 75 million dollars.

Detroit is frequently cited as one of the big cities where the relief program has become too large to be handled by work relief alone.

And over in WPA headquarters, Administrator Hopkins is plenty annoyed with Vandenberg's interpretation of a telegram from William B. Taylor, director of Welfare, United Auto Workers of America, regarding the relief situation in Michigan. Taylor charged Vandenberg had distorted the meaning "An attack against their entire WPA program"—just as an enlarged WPA program is "particularly necessary now when the automobile workers are displaying a complete inability to employ Michigan workers".

Part Of Judgment 16 Years Ago Paid To Harbor Springs

Harbor Springs, Mich. (P)—Circuit Judge Victor D. Sprague on Friday ordered the city of Harbor Springs to return to contributing taxpayers $23,170.19, representing a portion of a judgment paid to the family of Ernest H. Haynes, who was electrocuted by a village power line 16 years ago. The federal government assumed joint responsibility, and the sum ordered returned represents one-half this original judgment, plus five per cent interest and costs of court action.

Rain Inspires Olafson To Run For Something

BY ANDY P. OLAFSON

Cooks Mich June 3d. Well here it is raining again yet & it sure gives us Farmers time to catch up on our Reading and fine-out where is the latest War Scare & who is being put on the pan now in Wash. D. C. If that is still where the Capitole is and I see by Paper where in Mich. they going to move the Capitole out in the Lake to Mack. Is land where the Gov. he will be in deep water all the Time

And one thing this rainy weather seem to be doing is bringing out Candidate for one thing and another & it seems when we have a rainy season a good many who have nothing elst to do get the idea they should ought to run for Some thing and from the looks of our back 40 which he have not been able to plow yet it seems I should run for Drain commissary and I think if this turns out to be a wet year we will have lots of Candidates next fall to election

And when I sit here thinking in the rain and reading up on the cataloges & magazines and etc. it comes to my mind that very few people now have got a good old Fashion Bumbershoot Umbrella which is made for rain and if it keeps on raining I think that would be good business to get in to here and you could have a campaign to put a bumbershoot on every back porch and if the leak in the top of our car gets any worse we will have to carry a bumbershoot in our back seat along with the tire patchen out fit

Well they say the Dorys are not biting very good this yr. and some fishermen tell me they are very fat & I think they are all fed up on Smelts and are not hungry for worms

Hopeing you are the same

AT THE DELFT

The unique situation of a New York Superior Court judge awarding a husband $400 a month alimony from his wife who earns more money than he, provides the highlights of "The First Hundred Years."

Presenting for the first time the combination of Robert Montgomery and Virginia Bruce, "The First Hundred Years," a modern domestic comedy, opens a two day showing at the Delft Theatre today.

Montgomery is seen as a young boat designer whose wife, Virginia Bruce, is a highly successful New York theatrical agent. The couple separates when the wife refuses to give up her career. The unusual terms of their separation and their later adventures constitute the balance of the story.

AT THE MICHIGAN

Co-starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy for the fourth time, "The Girl of the Golden West," a musical panorama of early California, opens today at the Michigan Theatre.

It is the story of Mary, who runs the Polka Saloon in Cloudy Mountain. She is loved by all the boys, but Jack Rance is the favored one. On a trip to Monterey her stage coach is held up by Ramerez, notorious bandit, who falls immediately in love with her.

He follows her to Monterey and masquerades as Lieutenant Dick Johnson. Mary does not recognize him as Ramerez. In his persistent pursuit for Mary's love he is captured by Rance in her cabin. Mary and Rance play cards for Ramerez' life and she wins.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Martin Schindler, wore a gown of ivory satin, the bodice finished with tiny buttons down the back, the sleeves, close-fitting and extending in points over her wrists, and a long square train extending from a Queen Anne collar. Her veil, fashioned to a pearl coronet, was double, a blushing bride veil, elbow length, and a long tulle veil, edged in lace, extended the length of the train. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies with white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Martin Schindler, sister of the bride, and matron of honor, wore pale pink taffeta with white accessories, and carried roses and sweet peas, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Ed Gunkel, also a sister of the bride, wore Nile green with white, and carried a bouquet of like flowers.

The flower girls, Marguerite Schindler, niece of the bride, and Pauline Pertot, were dressed in white taffeta and carried baskets of roses, snapdragons and sweet peas. The ring bearer, Dolores Schindler, also a niece of the bride, wore white taffeta, and carried the ring on a silk laced heart-shaped pillow. The bride's mother wore a black and white ensemble with a corsage of snapdragons and roses.

Mr. Urbanc was attended by his brother, Alex Urbanc of Bark River. A wedding breakfast was served to thirty guests at the Schindler home, with a reception and dinner later for seventy-five guests at the Urbanc home. A large wedding cake, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, centered the table which was decorated in pink and white.

ATTIC CONVERTED INTO GUEST SUITE

In modernizing an old house, the new owner turned attic space into a guest room and bath. Funds for the work were obtained from a bank that operated under the Property Improvement Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

The new room had dormer windows, and a dressing table was placed beneath one of them. The walls at either side were paneled in glass, reflecting natural light into the room and serving as a decorative asset as well.

New England Cottage

Architect R. C. Hunter of New York City, who designed this efficient New England cottage, has managed to crowd into a very limited space sizeable and well-proportioned rooms. Note the proportions of the kitchen. It is long and narrow, which makes for ease of working conditions. Also there is an entrance to the living room from the kitchen through a small entry, making it possible to use one end of the living room for dining if desired and releasing the dining room for other uses. The location of the garage is important and it is really just a step from the garage doors to the entry that leads to the kitchen basement and the living room.

RE-VARNISHING FLOORS

A floor should be washed thoroughly with soap and water, rinsed and dried well before re-varnishing.

PANELING

Highly decorative wood paneling is made from the Florida cypress. This wood is treated to give a warm, mellow tone.

Painting Linoleum

Old Floors May Be Refinished

In painting and enameling linoleum, all wax and oil polishes must be thoroughly removed from the surface of the linoleum. This is best done with either turpentine, benzene, alcohol or some of the floor cleaners or a scouring material.

Often the use of fine steel wool will remove the dirt that has been ground into the linoleum.

After the washing has been done and the linoleum cleaned, paint the linoleum a priming coat of a good wall paint to which should be added a little floor varnish. When this is hard, finish with a high gloss floor or deck paint, spar or floor varnish, to which the needed coloring matter is added.

Use only the strongest colors obtainable or coach colors ground in Japan.

If a stippled effect is required, a light colored paint may be stippled on over a darker mass or vice versa, by using a sponge dipped in the paint and applying over the solid coat in a stippled fashion.

PARTICULAR TYPE ROOFING FOR EVERY DESIGN OF HOME

The exterior of a house might be referred to as the dress and the roof as the hat. Every woman knows that no matter how smart, how effective, and becoming a dress may be, the ensemble will fall dismally flat, fall utterly to achieve the result attempted if the hat is wrong.

In order to be sure that the "hat" of your house is not wrong, and also that it is the type best suited to design and purse, it is advisable in the case of an existing home as well as one still in the contemplated stage to consult with an architect before deciding on the material to be used.

Copper roofing, although adaptable to all kinds of architecture, is usually associated with the more formal designs such as Regency, Greek Revival, and Georgian. Wood shingles are typically American and go best with houses that are likewise essentially American. They are especially well suited to replacement projects, as they may be applied easily over old roofing.

Asbestos shingles are popular due to their high degree of fire resistance. Slate roofing, which in some sections is almost as inexpensive as shingle roofing, wears well and is also fire resisting.

Asphalt shingles and shingle strips are economical, durable, and fire resisting. They come in a variety of colors and, like wood shingles, are best suited to informally designed houses.

Tile roofing is versatile, being made in either shingles or in Spanish barrel form. Shingle tile is appropriate for Colonial, Georgian, English, French, or modern architecture. In the barrel form it is generally used with Spanish or Mediterranean architecture.

NO LOCKS

In houses where there are little children, the thumb bolts on bathroom doors should be of the type that can be opened from the outside with a key.

Attractive Prizes Will Be Given Anglers on June 26

Attractive prizes will be awarded to winners in the Fishing Rodeo to be held on Little Bay de Noc at Masonville on Sunday afternoon, June 26, under the auspices of the Lions clubs of Escanaba and Gladstone.

Gust Asp, general chairman of the Fishing Rodeo, said that the derby event would start at 5 p. m. and would continue until about 8:30 p. m. It is expected that more than two hundred rowboats will compete.

All fishermen may enter the rodeo. There will be no entry fee or other charge, but all fishermen who care to enter must be on hand at 5 p. m., the starting time of the rodeo.

Only rowboats may be used. Outboard motors are prohibited. There must be no more than two persons in any boat. Other limitations are one pair of oars and two fishing lines in each boat.

The firing of a huge bombshell will be the signal for the start of the derby. At this signal, the boats will dash out from William Nelson's dock for the fishing waters. About an hour and a half later, another bomb will be set off, and the boats will begin the dash in. There will be two laps to the derby.

Points will be awarded to the boats leading the group into shore. Points also will be given for the various species of fish that are caught.

The points for legal size fish caught will be as follows: Large and small mouth bass, 50 points; rock bass, 15; northern pike, 25; walleyed pike, 30; perch, 15; sunfish, 40; silver bass, 100; bullhead, 20; steelhead or rainbow trout, 100; bluegill, 30; mullet, 10; and smelt, 25.

Points will be awarded on the race to shore on each lap as follows: First, 50; second, 40; third 30; and fourth, 10.

Crystal Falls Will Hold Bass Festival

Crystal Falls, Mich.—The third annual bass festival of the Crystal Falls Chamber of Commerce and associated groups will be held on the Paint River and in the city of Crystal Falls Sunday, July 3.

Fourteen-mile boat trips on the famous Paint River will be featured, and there will be liberal prizes for the best black bass catches. Guides, boats and bait will be available to all who attend. There will also be an athletic program, barbecue and dance in Crystal Falls on the same day.

Particulars can be had by communicating with the Crystal Falls city manager or the Chamber of Commerce, which is issuing some handsome new folders on the attractions of Crystal Falls and vicinity.

CCC Crews Build Station For Forest Fire Equipment

Shingleton—Another auxiliary field station for the housing of forest fire equipment, similar to the half dozen constructed in other parts of the fire zone, is nearing completion here.

The sub-stations are strategically located so as to place fire fighting equipment within shorter traveling distances of potential fire centers than it would be if housed at one of the department's district headquarters, thus helping to reduce the time required to transport needed apparatus to the scene of a blaze.

Construction of the stations has been done by CCC crews.

Clafin Gives Boost To Fish Rodeo Party

A good boost for the Fishermen's Party and Fishing Rodeo to be held in Delta county Sunday, June 26, under the auspices of the Lions clubs of Escanaba and Gladstone is contained in an article, written by Bert Clafin, outdoors editor of the Chicago Herald & Examiner, and appearing in a recent issue of that newspaper. Clafin will be one of the speakers at the Fishermen's Party.

The Clafin article reads as follows: More and more each year people from all over the central states are waking up to the fishing and recreation possibilities of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

I have roamed about through the wilds of Upper Michigan since the days when "shank's mare" was practically the only means of travel and I know they have what it takes to give visiting anglers the time of their lives. Here is the latest move to acquaint people with the excellent fishing they have up there.

The annual fishing rodeo, which marks the time when all of upper Michigan's game fishing seasons are open, will be held on Little Bay de Noc on Sunday, June 26. It will call hundreds of anglers from all parts of the middle west to fish for bass, trout, walleyes, northern pike and perch in that fast becoming famous angling event of this popular Great Lakes region.

The festivities will start with the staging of the annual fishermen's party at the upper peninsula state fairgrounds in Escanaba Sunday afternoon, June 26. There will be exhibitions of skill with fly and bait casting rods; demonstration of oldtime lumberjack skill in log rolling, and many other features of entertainment will be on hand for the fun.

Hold Fishing Rodeo After the Fishermen's Party the fishing rodeo will be held at the head of Little Bay de Noc, just north of Gladstone, a short distance above Escanaba. Valuable prizes will also be awarded to the fishermen who catch the most bass, pike and perch during the derby event. It is expected that more than three hundred rowboats will engage in the rodeo program, which will last about about three hours and close just before dusk. Over 4,000 people can be accommodated at the fairgrounds where the big Fishermen's Party will be staged previous to the rodeo.

Many who attend these events will go to the Upper Peninsula with the intention of spending their fishing vacations there. Here are some suggestions which may be of value to them: Big Bay de Noquet, from Garden to Fayette, affords really wonderful black bass fishing. Perch and bullheads are also taken in unlimited numbers. And here's something which you possibly did not know about: You can catch all the smelts you want with a fly rod and artificial flies in the bay.

Trout Abound Here Here are some of the prolific waters for trout: The Whitefish branches and the Haymeadow—all good; the Escanaba River and its tributaries have plenty of the speckled beauties. Millions of real fingerlings from four to seven inches in length are planted each year. That means a continuation of good trout fishing. The Au Train River in Alger County also has very good trout fishing.

Throughout the area along highway 2 between Escanaba and Manistique fishing is unusually good. Indian Lake has bass, walleye, northern pike, blue gills and perch. This area contains a myriad of small lakes all containing fish. Hard packed sand roads lead in all directions.

Write me if you desire further particulars concerning this still unspoiled fish region. Railroads will set you down anywhere up there overnight from Chicago. It's only about a six-hour ride. Buses, too, serve the region. And auto roads are all concrete or hard-surfaced.

Wall-Eyed Pike Is An Avid Biter And Gives A Real Fight

BY HAROLD HOLLIS

The wall-eyed pike, or pike perch, is one of our most plentiful and widely distributed game fishes and is also one of the easiest to catch. He can be taken at almost any time of the day, if we know where to fish for him. He is one of our finest table fishes. Not even the delicate pink meat of the brook trout or the sweet, crisp flesh of the bluegill surpasses a wall-eyed pike steak. When I fish for sport I go after bass, trout or muskies; but when I fish for the pan I look for wall-eyes.

Actually the wall-eyed is a better fighter than he is generally rated. Too often he is taken on tackle so heavy that he gets no chance to show what he can do. A really courageous fighter, he puts up a stubborn and often lengthy, though not spectacular battle. He will allow himself to be reeled almost to the boat and then will swim away, forcing the fisherman to yield several yards of line. A wall-eye weighing four pounds or more played with light tackle is not landed in a hurry.

Near Deep Water The most popular methods of taking wall-eyes are by still fishing or trolling with live lures. Frogs, worms or minnows work about equally well. Trolling fishermen often use a pork strip and spinner with good results. One afternoon I saw a veteran fisherman pick up a splendid string of wall-eyes by simply trolling back and forth over a bar that lay between two prominent points of land. He used the pork strip-spinner combination.

The wall-eye usually lies in rather deep water, either at the edge of bars or where there is an abrupt drop from the shore to deep water. They are generally congregated in schools and several can be taken from a small area.

One of the most successful walleye fishermen I know uses a method that is a combination of bait casting and still fishing. His lure is a live frog or minnow with a Jue-bug spinner. He makes a long cast into a likely spot usually at the edge of a bar—and allows the bait to sink to the bottom. He retrieves very slowly with frequent pauses and it may take two or three minutes to bring the lure back to the boat. I recommend this method to anyone who wants wall-eyes.

In Rivers Too In the evening wall-eyes start feeding actively and come into the shallows where near surface plugs and spoons are effective. After dark they can be taken on surface lures. I like to fish for small-mouth bass at night with bass bugs or other floating fly-rod lures, but often on such trips I get more wall-eyes than bass. The fish are found near the shore, usually at the edge of an abrupt drop-off.

Last summer in Sabaskong Bay, Lake of the Woods, I caught a wall-eye or a fly-rod at noon, but this does not happen very often. In lakes as a rule, one must fish deep for wall-eyes in the day time.

The wall-eye is also found in rivers. In rocky streams he seeks the deep, fast water. The swift pool at the foot of a riffle is one of the best places. In sandy streams the best wall-eye fishing is in the deep pools that are formed in the bends. The river wall-eye is a better fighter than the lake fish.

We will always have wall-eyes. He can be propagated in hatcheries more easily than any other fish; indeed the bulk of the fish planted each year in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan is wall-eyed pike. The native wall-eye can be told from the planted fish by the dark markings on his back and the golden bands. The planted fish is rather grayish in color.

Spring Forest Fire Record Is Best in State Since 1936

Lansing—Fewer forest fires have occurred in the state this spring, up to the middle of this month, than during any spring except one for the last six years.

Aided by frequent rains which lessened early season hazards, the fire organization reports only about 3,000 acres burned over thus far. The exact report through the week ending May 17 showed a total of 281 fires and 2,042 acres burned.

Excepting 1936, the total is considerably smaller than that for any spring at the same date, for six years. In 1937, during which the smallest acreage loss in the history of the state was established, the area burned over up to the middle of May amounted to about 10,000 acres. In 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1935, the records at about this time of the year showed more than 700 fires, each with acreage loss ranging from 5,008 in 1935 to 13,730 in 1932.

In 1936 only 47 fires had occurred and the area damaged totalled only 1,156 acres, up to the middle of May.

PARKS BECKON TO HUNDREDS NOW

Last Sunday a long line of automobiles occupied the space in the parking lot at the J. W. Wells State Park at Cedar River while the passengers enjoyed picnic lunches and a bit of relaxation at that fine parksite. If the weather is at all favorable this week-end, with its extra holiday for many, will see a huge increase in the number of people who will flock to the state parks, county parks and other recreation areas. The mosquitoes are out in full force now so the lakeside and bayside parks will be favored because the breezes that usually blow at such locations sweep the pesky insects away from the beaches and any sizeable open spaces.

Cat Mothers Three Orphaned Squirrels

Mason, June 4.—Thanks to the ministrations of a white cat, three orphaned squirrels are growing quite healthy at the farm of J. S. Preston near here.

Mr. Preston found the squirrels several weeks ago in a nest in a tree which he felled on his woodland. It was his second discovery of the kind. Because the first group of young squirrels froze to death when he left them thrashing their parents would return and care for them, Mr. Preston took the second batch home. A cat on the farm was nursing several kittens. Mr. Preston disposed of these and substituted the squirrels. The mother cat accepted the newcomers without protest and the squirrels, very young when first introduced to their foster mother, are now several inches long.

AMERICA OUT-OF-DOORS

SAFETY FIRST ON WATER

By Dillon Wallace Fear of the water has spoiled so much enjoyment for so many people that its just too plain bad that the public schools don't institute a course in how to get over that fear. All of us know somebody who has sustained loss or injury because of the water.

When we realize that this kind of trouble doesn't have to happen at all it generally makes us mad enough to go out and insist that the water is the safe highway if the public will only let it be safe.

There are plenty of ways a person can get into trouble on the water, but 99 percent of that trouble is of a man's own making. For one thing, I don't know of any boat that up and tipped itself over. Somebody has to tip it. And then, when that somebody has actually tipped the boat over, he makes the second mistake of trying to swim to shore. Most any boat will stay afloat even if it's filled full of water, and it's a far better plan to hang on to the upset craft until someone comes along in a rescue boat. You might overestimate your swimming ability if you strike out for shore.

Don't Show-off One other way of getting into trouble is to get into a boat with your arms full of bundles. There's a fine chance there to stumble over a seat, or fall in the water, or bash up your face. You should have your hands free for grabbing. Going to the other extremity, jumping into a boat often results in shoving the boat away from the pier—you land in the water, or maybe you go right through the bottom planking. Either way, the results are no fun. The way to get into any small boat is to step into the center, hold onto the sides and sit down. Be sure to step all the way in, too, because a straddle between boat and dock isn't comfortable and it looks silly, even if it doesn't hurt you.

There's a leather medal available for all those bright folks who stand up to push the boat off the shallows with an oar. The medal, etched from life, shows a man, frantically twining his arms and legs around the oar that got itself stuck in the mud while the boat drifted away. And the fellow who rocks the boat is in exactly the same category as the lad with a mask who steps out from a dark alley to confront you with a gun. Both of them are threatening your life, and both of them ought to have the same treatment. Call a cop or swing a club.

A good stunt for helping an upset mariner to shore is to have him hang onto the stern of the rescue boat. There's trouble ahead if you try to help the fellow in over the side. If you do think it necessary to bring him into the boat help him in over the stern. If anybody else is with you in the rescue craft, have them go to the bow and help balance the boat.

Changing seats in deep water, overloading the boat, going boating in a badly leaking craft and a few other fool ideas all come in the same category. Anybody who does things like that is plain loony.

The people who don't get into trouble on the water are the folks who don't try the show-off stuff. Water is safe enough if a man is sensible about handling himself in a boat.

HEAD NET IS A BIG PROTECTION

This Is Time of Year When Insects Feast On the Fisherman

BY OZARK RIPLEY

Rest assured that on most waters during the month of May and early June you are going to be offered as a delicious tidbit to black flies and mosquitoes. Most anglers know this but fishing enthusiasm excites them so much that they make no preparations against the attacks of insects. Some use head nets, while others can not be made to wear them, declaring that they are stuffy and catch on every limb or projecting twig. The first charge against head nets is not altogether true; but the second cannot be well avoided. Nevertheless, remember that you have a head net on all the time and you will begin instinctively to dodge many harassments.

Never put on head nets carelessly. See that they come well over the head and the entire outfit is pulled down around the neck. A little opening can leave a route of entry for a few black flies that are bound to make your fishing moments ones of torture.

Dope Some Good Too many wait to put on their head nets until they are attacked by a swarm of black flies or mosquitoes. When putting on the head net under such stressings they do it hurriedly and usually cover a few black flies which become a constant annoyance. They never notice the flies, as they cling so tenaciously to their hair or the top of their coats.

Nearly all the fly and mosquito dopes sold in sporting goods stores have value. They are repellent just so long as they cover all the skin upon which they are applied. They repel for only just so long. After they have been applied thoroughly on hands, face and neck, avoid rubbing as much as possible. The itching of old bites often causes this. But everywhere you rub or scratch leaves an opening for the tiny winged enemy.

Tip for Ladies One can make up a good dope that will last all summer by adding to a quart of cotton seed or olive oil two ounces of oil of tar, two ounces of penny royal and one tablespoonful of coal oil.

If you find yourself in the woods without any dope, a thick lather of shaving soap or even common laundry soap will keep off insects for a while.

So many lady anglers who do not wade but fish from the bank are bound to wear thin stockings. Insect pests will often penetrate those of wool. Up on the north shore of Lake Superior I met a lady with her husband who was suffering the tortures of the damned from black flies going after her legs. They easily penetrated her stockings. The attacks were somewhat lessened when I showed her how to wrap paper around her legs, then pull her stockings over them. This concealed their shapeliness, but certainly brought comfort!

Modern Diet Makes Wild Geese Lazy

Swan Quarter, N. C. (P)—Thousands of wild geese here have failed to fly north this spring.

The unseasonal dallying has worked havoc with the crops, especially corn. One farmer has had to plant his fields the third time—the geese having eaten up the first two. Other farmers tell similar stories.

They believe there were too many geese last winter for the supply of natural food and that the birds began to forage on farms, getting so used to the diet they decided to stay indefinitely.

The Levine Kidnaping:
Feb. 24, 1938—Peter Levine, 12, of New Rochelle, N. Y., started home from school, but never got there. He was found of detective stories and authorities suspected his disappearance was a mere prank.

Feb. 28—Ransom was demanded from Peter's father, a lawyer, and he began trying to arrange to pay it.

March 19—The first of several arrests for attempts to "chisel in" and extort money from Peter's father was made.

March 31—Peter's father offered $25,000 for return of his son alive, $5,000 if dead.

May 29—Peter's headless body was washed ashore from Long Island sound not far from the Levine home.

June 2—G-men continued to scour the waterfront for clues.

The Cash Kidnaping:
May 28, 1938—James Bailey Cash, Jr., 5, nicknamed "Skeegie," had been put to bed and his parents were closing their store nearby, at Princeton, Fla., for the night.

When they returned a screen had been slit and the back-door latch lifted—and "Skeegie" was gone.

May 30—Notes and instructions having been left, the boy's father drove along a route indicated on a map and tried in vain to get in touch with his son's captor.

May 31—Cash tried again, and dropped $10,000 in small bills when given a signal.

June 1—"Skeegie" still had not been found. "The case is exactly where it was yesterday only it is one day worse," the boy's uncle told reporters.

Then the greatest manhunt ever seen in Florida began. Nearly every able-bodied farmer in the vicinity took part. So did American Legionnaires, WPA crews and Boy Scouts. While they combed palmetto thickets and citrus groves, G-men questioned a man nabbed near the Cash home. And the posse found several possible clues.

June 2—"We must face the strong possibility that this little boy will be found dead," E. J. Connelly, federal agent, told the searchers. "If you see signs of freshly disturbed dirt, dig! Look well in every canal and every clump of bushes!"

Betty Jane Goes Home

Betty Jane Hobbs, 4, found in Coolville, Ohio, was taken back to her home in North Tonawanda, N. Y., this week after 10 days' absence.

Her father said Mrs. Anna LeGare, a former tea room hostess, had met Betty Jane a few weeks previous and apparently had become attached to her. Mrs. LeGare said Betty Jane's mother had let her take the child to Ohio. But Betty's mother denied she had consented. And Mrs. LeGare was held for a grand jury at North Tonawanda.

Iowa Votes Next

Iowa—that's where the tall corn grows—will vote Monday. In the Democratic primary, Sen. Guy M. Gillette, 59, seeking renomination, is opposed by 35-year-old Rep. Otha Wearin, J. J. Meyers, W. G. Byerhoff and Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson.

WPA Administrator Hopkins recently put in a kind word for Wearin, and Gillette cracked back: "If the people of Iowa want a rubber stamp and nothing else, they can buy one for 50 cents."

In the Republican primary, ex-Sen. L. J. Dickinson and Rep. Lloyd Thurston are seeking the senatorial nomination. Both have been attacking the New Deal rather than each other.

Flash Bulb Enables Photographer To Shoot Indoors, Day or Night

AN OPEN FLASH SHOT like the one above can be made by any snaphooter with any type of camera that can be set for "time" or "bulb." No illumination other than the flash bulb is necessary, although regular room lights may be left on while the picture is being taken. All the preparation necessary is to place the loaded camera on a firm support with the subjects framed in the view-finder, and with the shutter set for "time" or "bulb." Procedure in making the exposure is to open the shutter, fire the bulb, and close the shutter. A No. 2 flash bulb was used for this picture, at an aperture of F8.

A SYNCHRONIZED FLASH SHOT like the one at the right requires a device to fire the flash bulb at the instant the camera shutter opens. Moving subjects may be "stopped" with a synchronized flash, while the open flash (above) requires stationary subjects. Instead of being set at "time" or "bulb," the shutter is set at 1/100 second and the synchronizer fires the bulb just as the shutter begins to open.

Surgeons operated to cure Alden of microcephaly, a condition in which the skull ceases to grow with the brain. They wedged the skull apart to relieve pressure.

Albert Spalding, American violinist, made his debut in 1905 in Paris.

More and more amateur photographers, tiring of the limitations of the need of daylight has placed upon their cameras, have been turning to flash bulbs as a convenient light source which enables them to practice their hobby indoors or out, day or night, independent of the sun's illumination. Only a few years ago the amateur had to wait for a sunshiny day to make his pictures, but since the advent of the flash bulb he has been enabled to shoot indoors with only a single bulb as his light source.

The flash bulb may be used with any type of camera that has a shutter setting for "time" or "bulb." The procedure is no more complicated than making an ordinary time exposure.

Firm Support Needed
To make an open flash, which is the easiest and simplest way of taking a picture indoors at night, the camera must be placed upon a firm support. A tripod is best, as it may be easily moved or adjusted, but a table or chair and a few books will do. The loaded camera is set up so that the subjects may be seen in the viewfinder as they are to appear in the picture, and is focused upon them if it is of a focusing type. The shutter is set on "time" or "bulb," and the procedure is as follows:

1. Open the shutter.
2. Fire the bulb.
3. Close the shutter.

When the shutter is set at "time" the lever must be moved twice—once to open and once to close. When it is set at "bulb" the lever is pressed to open the shutter and held down while the bulb is fired. Releasing the lever closes the shutter.

Little Current Required
Because the flash bulb generates its light by the burning of aluminum foil or hydroaluminum wire rather than by the use of electricity to heat a filament, little current is required to set it off. A 1 1/2 volt dry cell will fire the bulb, or it may be ignited by the 110-volt current from an ordinary lighting receptacle.

There are several types of reflectors available for use with flash bulbs, all selling for less than one dollar. Those designed for use with flashlight batteries have a handle like an ordinary flashlight, containing three cells. An extension cord plugged into a house lighting circuit may be employed, the switch on the socket being used to flash the bulb after the camera shutter has been opened.

A three-column picture accompanying this article, showing the interocular and end-men of the 1938 E-men's minstrel, illustrates the type of picture that can be made by using the open flash system. Bones and Jones, in the foreground, appear to be engaged in battle but they were actually carefully posed to suggest action and remained perfectly still while the exposure was being made. The diaphragm of the camera was set at F 8 while the exposure was made with one No. 2 flash bulb.

Action Is Limited
The type of action shot that can be made with the open flash is definitely limited. It takes about one-fiftieth second for the material in the bulb to burn completely, and any motion during that period will be recorded as a blur on the negative. Subjects may be posed to suggest action, as in the case of the end-men, but they cannot move during the exposure or excessive blur is certain to result.

To make possible the photographing of fast action indoors and under poor general lighting conditions, the flash synchronizer has been invented. This device enables the photographer to use shutter speeds of 1/100 second to 1/1000 second while employing a single flash bulb as his source of light.

The synchronizer enables the photographer to make pictures such as the basketball tip-off shown elsewhere on this page, which was made at an exposure of 1/200 second with the camera diaphragm set at F 4.5. Action need not be posed or faked when the synchronizer is used, as it permits shooting at shutter speeds fast enough to stop or "freeze" the motion of almost any subject and insures the firing of the bulb at the instant the camera shutter opens.

For press work the synchronized flash is the most popular source of illumination, as it guarantees sufficient light for any ordinary photographic task and enables the photographer to employ a shutter speed fast enough to stop the action of his subjects. A tripod is unnecessary with synchronized flash photography, as exposures are made fast enough to eliminate any blur that might result from motion of the camera while held in the hands.

Replaced Powder
The flash bulb was invented in Germany during the World War, and replaced the more dangerous powder then in use. The foil type of flash bulb was the first invented, using aluminum foil of tissue-like thickness which burns with intense brightness in a globe filled with pure oxygen. The globe is the size of a standard 60-watt electric light bulb, but is treated to give extra strength. The foil bulb was first manufactured in the United States in 1929.

A more recent type of bulb is the spun wire type, which contains a length of fine hydroaluminum wire instead of the aluminum foil. The makers of the more recent type bulb claim that it generates more light over a longer period of time, and hence is more easily synchronized with a camera shutter. Both types can be used for either open or synchronized flash shots.

An interesting story of the days before flash bulbs, when magnesium flash powder was the photographer's only portable light source, is told by Jack Price, veteran news photographer and author. The story follows:

"Some years ago a U. S. Navy destroyer and an ocean liner collided in a rough winter sea off Massachusetts, N. J. I arrived on the scene a few hours later after having covered the distance from shore to the stricken boats in a fisherman's dory. All set for a world picture scoop, I did what I could towards sheltering my camera, flashlight gun and magnesium flash powder. No flash bulbs in those days.

"There was plenty of time to shoot all the pictures I wanted, but if I had done so it might have been nothing less than mass murder and suicide. In order to calm the angry waters, heavy oil had been dumped from the ships' tanks. A film of oil covered the surface of the water everywhere. The settling off of my magnesium flash might have accidentally ignited the oil and turned the heaving seas into a roaring inferno.

"It was one of those once-in-a-lifetime opportunities for front page illustrations, but I was forced to sit helplessly by and watch a

Truth About Recovery

Public Wants Economic Machine Patched But Not Overhauled, Says Flynn

Up what road lies recovery? And, after all, are we looking for a makeshift temporary prosperity? Also, what are the stumbling blocks of depression which must be circumnavigated on the way to recovery? . . . None can answer these questions more lucidly, pointedly and impartially than John T. Flynn, famed author-economist, who has done just that in three important articles written for The Daily Press. The first article follows.

BY JOHN T. FLYNN
(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

New York—Everybody wants recovery. Thousands offer plans. Millions cry out for some workable program. But how is any man to attempt a program of recovery unless he knows what is meant by recovery?

A great factory breaks down. An engineer is called in. The owner tells him he wants the engineer to make the plant go again. Being an engineer, he sees there are great organic defects in the machines. He asks the owner:

"What do you mean by 'making this plant go again'? This is a steam plant. Do you want this machinery ripped out and modern electrical machines installed? Or do you want to make this steam plant work? Do you wish me to take out all these defective parts and put in new and better ones and re-arrange the machinery a little so that it can resume work at full effectiveness and continue to go? Or do you wish me to leave it as it is, but merely patch it up here and there to get it started, even though it may break down again before the season is over? I can do this job any way you want. But I must know what you want."

Now then, what about this great national economic machine of ours? Clearly the people do not wish to scrap it and put in a new plant—communist, fascist or socialist. We want to use the existing machinery.

But how long do we want that machinery to continue to go? Do we want to rearrange it a little, take out old defective parts and put in new ones, make a real repair job so that when the machinery starts it will continue to run at highest effectiveness for an indefinite time? Or do we merely want to patch it, make a few adjustments and get it started even though it may break down in a year or two or three—break down worse than ever?

In 1933 the administration started its spending program. Any economist could have told it—and did tell it—that if this was kept up it would bring what would be called recovery. But any economist could and did warn it that it could last more than three or four years. It lasted only three.

It is now possible to produce that recovery again. The last one cost sixteen or seventeen billion dollars. Another such recovery can be produced for about the same sum. But it will not last quite as long as the last one. This is what the administration is now preparing to give us. But I fear they are under-estimating the cost. And that it will not be recovery any more than the last sensational news event slip into history without a single picture being taken. Today the assignment would have been fraught with no such obstacles and tortures. Since the advent of the flash bulb, the photographer can cover anything, anywhere, without the handicaps imposed by the old methods of exploding inflammable powder in the open pan."

Mayor Of Hancock Is Candidate For Auditor General

Hancock—Carl W. Hanke, Jr., mayor of Hancock and one of the state's most active Young Republicans, tossed his hat into the Michigan political ring today with the announcement that he will seek the Republican nomination for auditor general.

Mayor Hanke's action, long proposed by his followers, brought favorable comment on all sides. The auditor general's office is now held by George T. Gundry of Grand Blanc, a Democrat.

A "native son" of the Upper Peninsula, young, progressive and honest, Mayor Hanke will seek the nomination, he said in an interview, under the same concrete policies that have marketed his career in politics to date. Mayor Hanke will be the first Copper Country man to seek a place on the Republican state ticket.

Local supporters of Mayor Hanke, who emphasized that the auditor general's office usually has been conceded an Upper Peninsula candidate, pointed out that "the office passed out of the Upper Peninsula in 1936—and the U. P. should be assured a strong candidate to bring it back."

The Killing of Civilians by Air Bombs

In August, 1936, Charles A. Lindbergh, speaking in Berlin, emphasized the responsibility of aviation. He pointed out the incalculable harm to humanity and civilization that might come from unlimited use of air weapons. His point was that developed aviation was also responsible for seeing that it was used to help rather than to harm humanity.

The time to assume that responsibility has come. In China and in Spain today aviation is killing thousands of women and children without accomplishing a worthwhile military purpose. In both cases the aggressor is using few planes compared with the number which would be used by any first-class power in any first-class war.

We have heard of 200 planes being engaged in a single operation. In the next war it will be 2,000. Yet, on Monday of this week five insurgent bombers required less than 500 civilians to kill 200 and wound 500 civilians in the little Catalan town of Granollers. This means that five planes sufficed to kill and maim five percent of the population in a sixty-second raid. Suppose 500 planes raid a city of 500,000? They could be less effective than those operating in Spain and still make helpless one-fourth to one-half of the entire population.

Any one who, like the writer, has experienced air raids in war time, realizes that it is impossible to confine them to military objectives. The pilot drops his bombs as close to some military objective as he can. But under the conditions which prevail in war this may be anywhere from one to ten miles away from the objective. When an open town is subjected to air bombardment no individual and no institution is immune. Nor is there a single city that does not have within its border a "military objective" if we permit the attacking power to define the term.

The Activity in Canton

During the past week Japanese bombing planes have been dropping projections on the city of Canton, one of the largest in China. It is remote from the war, does not contain munition plants, and so far as any one knows is not an important factor in China's war preparations. Its vulnerability to Japanese attack was recognized when the war began. Whatever manufacturing had war importance was removed to the interior.

Japan's general staff may not know that or may not believe it. A Japanese naval officer said on Monday: "There has been no change in the Japanese policy of bombing only military objectives. At Canton we are bombing military depots and government centers. It is regrettable if civilians are killed and injured, but they were warned as far back as last August to evacuate the vicinity of military objectives. That warning is now repeated."

In Canton some 5,000 civilians lie dead or maimed because they failed to heed this warning. Japan disclaims responsibility, but the world is shocked. In Spain the bombardment of Barcelona killed so many non-combatants that both the Pope and the British Government protested to General Franco. His answer has been to concentrate his most effective bombardment on the smaller refugee towns north and south of Barcelona.

The actual effect of such bombardments both in Spain and China has been to stiffen the morale of the population subjected to air attack. There may have been some military result. But this has been of small importance in relation to the cost of attack and the adverse effect on world opinion.

Since this is true, would it not be possible to organize world opinion against such fruitless air raids as are now going on? What remains in the world of sanity and humanitarianism must soon collaborate in an effort to curb the more outrageous aspects of war. A beginning could and should be made in Spain and China. Unless this is done the next great war will result in mass slaughter of civilians everywhere.

Air-Fighting of the Future

This week a 40-ton plane was launched in Seattle. The United States Army has flying fortresses that can travel 1,000 miles, drop a load of bombs, and return to their starting point without landing en route. Before long every important fighting force in the world will have from 5,000 to 10,000 similar bombers. With civilians subject to indiscriminate attack, it is appalling to think what this would mean in war.

Yet war may come tomorrow. Once it begins, there is no hope of limiting the means by which it is carried on. Today something could be done. The Spanish Government made an offer to stop bombing open cities if the rebels would do the same. The offer was not accepted. It was considered an evidence of the weakness of government aviation in comparison with that which Germany and Italy provide for General Franco. Only neutrals have it in their

This Man, Joe Murray

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—liked new places, new jobs, new girls.
HELEN—fell in love—hard—once.
TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday Joe returns home and then he meets strange little Terry Mallow who comes from a mean, useless family where she seems to be holding the bag.

CHAPTER V
Terry did not talk much about her home outside. These three expressed and acted upon the conviction that she was doomed to come to no good end, and she probably had believed it from infancy herself, never hearing any other possibility. That's why she was so apologetic, and at the same time so quaintly bold, feeling it was hopeless and she might as well be taken for a sheep as a goat and enjoy a little company while she was about it.

She did not talk, this Terry Mallow, but the neighborhood could make its own observations. People in the same house had indignantly reported the sounds of anger and then of pain and fear coming through the walls when Terry's father took it in mind to punish her. They had seen the ugly welts of blows on her small white shoulders. What the child's bad behavior could consist of was a mystery entirely, for she had been locked in, aside from church and school, all her life. Now that she had taken a job—which she secured the first moment possible, as her only escape—it was said that sort of thing was no longer so frequent; she earned, with the pay envelope she turned over unopened each week, the first little freedom she ever had, which it seems she was devoting to visits on the Murrays. But boys were the cardinal sin, forbidden and condemned.

Now I know such a family sounds hard to believe, but I am giving the main facts bluntly, because to explain them fully would be a whole story in itself. The two old ones had never forgiven Terry's mother for marrying their precious son; between all of them they had killed her in time, and I guess she died finding no release, even in death because of the baby girl she must leave behind. The baby girl grew up with all that hatred and unforgettingness turned upon her. That was the whole thing. Do you think it is unnatural and incredible?

As Joe took this all in, even though the kid Terry meant nothing at all to him, his blood began to boil a little.

"Why the hell don't she blow?" he asked Irene. "She's making a living. She's healthy."

Irene smiled; she understood how his thoughts ran. "She's a girl, remember, Joe. And she's not of age. They'd go after her and put her in the wayward home."

"What for? If they're so down on her wouldn't they be glad to be rid of her?"

"It would be the satisfaction of their lives to put her in the wayward home. It would prove everything they ever said about her."

Joe thought that over, and shrugged slowly; it was beyond him. Your own flesh and blood? That didn't make sense! He slid it from his lean shoulders and went out. But he raised no more questions about the visiting firewoman in the kitchen; instead he gave her a short smile and a curt, "Lo, kid!" whenever she crossed his path.

Terry gave him back a big, kind of timid smile with a quick lighting of her brown eyes as if she sensed, as a dog would; a new and unexpected welcome and was grateful, but presumed nothing more.

So Terry continued to make herself at home, and Joe continued on his detached way, and nothing in particular happened, and you would never think, if you happened to meet them, that there was anything interesting at all in either of their lives or even likely to be. But life never stands still for a moment; something is always happening, down out of sight in the hidden dark where most of life is really lived.

Terry's visits suddenly were less frequent, were irregular and shorter. When she came, there was something about her air that told anyone who looked twice that she was secretly excited over something, that life was suddenly eventful enough to send the blood racing in her veins and made her laughter a little exultant and defiant. Then one evening, about nine o'clock, Terry's dad called at the Murrays to ask for her.

He came in, a big flashy-looking man with bright green eyes and a laugh wavering between condescension and apology. His manner intimidated plainly how sorry he was to bother them over his family affairs, but they could judge for themselves how dutiful a father he was.

"No, Terry's not been in tonight," Mrs. Murray told him guardedly, trying to keep down the hostility that came instinctively at sight of him, at sight of any man like him. She had daughters of her own, and she had a shrewd eye for men.

"She has told us she came here occasionally," he said. "I hate to power to exercise influence on such a situation. If they fail to act, their own people may soon be victimized by the terror from the air that now hovers over Spain and China.

be bothering you. But I try to keep an eye on her."

"If she comes, I'll tell her," said Mrs. Murray.

"That's kind of you. Send her right home, please. I hope she doesn't impose on you. She is a bit of a worry."

"She's no trouble here," Mrs. Murray said dryly. "She's a dear sweet child. I suppose she is a worry to you."

Something in the calm, cutting edge of that pierced even his skin. The laugh came again, a little uncomfortable, and he made his way out.

And Mrs. Murray frowned after him and shook her head and wondered.

The next afternoon Terry accompanied Irene home from the mill. Terry was quieter than ever they had seen her, but Irene was brusque and grim. Joe when he came in, found the kitchen door shut on him. The two girls and Mrs. Murray were in there. He could hear his mother and sister talking, and somebody was sobbing. The old man growled at him to keep away, and puzzled, he kept away.

Terry stayed for supper. He looked at her closely as she came to the table, and she was gay in an extraordinary way. It was an artificial kind of gaiety, but very cheering just the same. It was a pleasant meal.

Afterward, when he had read through the paper and the women had about all cleaned up, Joe strolled into the kitchen where the three of them were again, talking women's matters. He looked at them silently a minute, and then said sharply, "What's up?"

What's wrong? Let me in on it, Irene and her mother exchanged a quick glance. Terry looked sort of blank, like the shell of a creature that has retreated out of sight. Irene battled temptation, and then abruptly jerked the edge of Terry's dress away from her shoulder.

There was a broad blotched welt going down under the dress, down her back, the mark of a heavy leather strap.

Joe swore softly. His face was quiet and hard.

The surprising thing was how Terry took that unexpected exposure of her shoulder. She spat like a cat, fiercely, and she struck Irene's hand away and snatched the dress into place again and sort of retreated away from them, and she stood there angry and very defiant, looking at Joe with her big eyes. No one knew what to say. Joe grunted and said nothing. He turned and walked out of the room.

He did not see Terry again that night. But Irene told him later, "She was sore as she could be that I showed you her shoulder. Her old man gave her that. She was out last night and she lied to them she was here. He came over and checked up."

"Where was she?"

"Down at Papke's drug store."

"All the time? Who was she with?"

"The crowd there. Tommy Withers and the gang that hangs out in Papke's."

He grunted and said no more. Terry was gone. She had returned home simply to go to bed, and the Murrays had sent the kid brother along with her to alibi her for the absence.

A couple of nights later, as he lighted his after-supper cigaret at the table, Joe asked generally, "Terry been around?"

It seemed she had not been in since that other night.

"Irene," Joe said, "you tell her to keep away from Tommy Withers."

"Why?" said Irene.

"Because I'm telling you," Irene looked at him. "Have you talked to Withers?"

"I have," said Joe. He met his sister's gaze, and his blue eyes were flintlike. "I clipped him one too. He thinks he can get fresh. So I clipped him one. I don't want to do it again, see?"

Guided by past experience, Irene's glance dropped quickly to Joe's hands. The knuckles of the right hand were crowned with small, bright red spots where the skin was crushed.

"You mean," she said, "he thinks he can get fresh with Terry?"

Joe shoved back his chair and his tone commanded them all. "I mean she keeps clear of Tommy Withers in the future—and I'll clip her one where she won't like it either if she don't! Get that! See that she understands it!"

He went dour and hard looking out of the room.

BUYS NEW SLOOP

Menominee—Dr. C. H. Boren of Marinette has purchased the "Gloria," 35-foot B class Marconi sloop and expects to sail it to Marinette Sunday. The sloop, which formerly sailed with the Milwaukee Yacht club fleet, was purchased at Spring Lake, near Grand Haven, Mich., and sailed to Manitowish last weekend by Dr. Boren, his sons, Clark and James, Edward Schwartz and his son, John of Marinette. Because of wind conditions the party was forced to abandon the trip at Manitowish from which port they expect to sail to Marinette Sunday.

The craft has an 8-foot beam and carries 650 feet of canvas. Dr. Boren expects to enter her in the second annual 100-mile Green Bay sailing race next month.

Clean Up Rural Mail Box Week is Planned by Dept.

Rural mail patrons are being instructed that the postal department is conducting a "Clean Up Rural Box Week" starting the week of August 1, according to a bulletin issued by the postal department.

Unserviceable and unsightly boxes both retard the delivery of mail and detract from the natural scenic beauty of the highway, it is pointed out. Particularly to be deplored are the non-regulation, old-type, top-opening boxes as well as the makeshift receptacles which expose the mail to the elements.

Exercises at All Saints Church Here This Afternoon

Eighth grade graduation exercises for All Saints' school are to be held this afternoon at All Saints' church. Diplomas will be awarded to 32 pupils by the Rev. Joseph Schaul, pastor, following a program and farewell party given by the 7th graders in church hall which will start at one o'clock.

There will also be Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament after the exercises. Those completing the eighth grade studies include Lucille Beauchamp, Marcella Belange, Leona DeCook, Mary Belle Dunsmore, Gloria Girard, Joan LeRoux, Arlene McCormick, Betty Jean Richel, Ethel Rose, Fannie Shrock, Ethel Schram, Grace Thivierge, Betty Jane Walker, Beverly Walker, Kathryn Willis, Raymond Godmer, Kay Bonno, Thomas Frazer, Jack Hogan, Jack Krout, Ell LaLande, Jack LaPine, Edward Lynch, Ralph Norton, Edward Rivers, Raymond Rivers, Charles Rivers, Victor Stock, Eugene VerHamme, Raymond Peplin and Robert Corbett.

Flint Woman Hurt in Auto Accident

Mrs. Byrel Burgess was taken to the St. Francis Hospital yesterday suffering from a severely lacerated right arm sustained when an auto in which she was riding lost a wheel and overturned near Masonville.

Accompanied by her husband and mother she was returning to Flint at the time of the accident. Neither the husband or mother were injured.

STOCKS FINISH WITH NET GAIN

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
New York, June 4 (AP)—Buying of industrials touched off a quiet but substantial rally in today's stock market and enabled the list to end the 5-day jaunt well up on the week.

Advances ran to more than 2 points at the best, although a little profit selling just before the close chopped down best marks.
While dealings were relatively smooth throughout, the turnover of 306,930 shares was the largest for any short session since May 7.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .7 of a point at 38.4. On the week this composite showed a net gain of a full point, the first after three consecutive weekly set-backs.

Several factors entered into the 2-hour come-back, brokers said. Among these was a mild revival of industrial psychology engendered by senate passage of the administration's pump-priming bill giving the president free spending powers, expected to result in a quick flow of funds to districts where relief needs are pressing.

In addition, gossip continued to be heard in Wall Street of a possible further devaluation of the dollar, although this talk was scouted by most banking quarters which pointed to the narrow movements of foreign currencies as tending to null these rumors.

Short covering was believed to have had much to do with the upturn, trading forces apparently being impressed by the failure of the recent decline to dislodge large blocks of stocks, the implication here being that shares are in strong hands and held for higher prices.

Saturday share favorites included U. S. Steel at 41 1/2, Bethlehem 43 7/8, Chrysler 41 1/2, General Motors 28 1/2, Anaconda 23 1/2, American Smelting 33 1/2, U. S. Rubber 26 1/2, Sears Roebuck 52 7/8, International Harvester 51 1/2, Douglas Aircraft 44 1/2, Westinghouse 73 7/8, General Electric 33 1/2, Du Pont 95 1/2, Allied Chemical 146 and Eastman Kodak 149.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN
Minneapolis, June 4 (AP)—Wheat, cash. No. 1 heavy dark northern, 92-1-8 to 1.01-1-8; No. 1 red durum, 69-7-8.

A longer life as a big league baseball pitcher than that of any other moundman was enjoyed by Cy Young, who spent 22 years at the hurling game.

An Oregon man spent 20 years of his spare time drilling a 90-foot tunnel into the side of a mountain. Recently he found gold in "them thar hills."

When Columbus Set Foot in America
NO happier crew ever sighted land than the weary little band of 88 men which first glimpsed the shores of the New World in the dim morning hours of Oct. 12, 1492.

At dawn Columbus landed, richly clad, bearing the royal banner of Spain. He was accompanied by the brothers Pinzon and a great part of the crew.

Here was a dramatically historic picture. When they had all "given thanks to God, kneeling upon the shore, and kissed the ground with tears of joy, for the great mercy received," Columbus officially named the island San Salvador and took solemn possession of it.

Those who had shown themselves doubtful and mutinous during the long voyage sought the leader's pardon, and, weeping, prostrated themselves at his feet.

The landing of Columbus is shown below on a stamp of the U. S. series of 1869, after a painting by Vanderlyn in the Capitol at Washington. The stamp, 15-cent, Prussian blue and light brown, is reproduced slightly more than one and one-half times actual size.

CARRIER LIENS JOIN IN RALLY

New York, June 4 (AP)—Rail bonds fell in step with a week-end rally in other markets today and numerous issues pushed up fractions to more than a point.

Inspiration for the buying seemed to come mainly from the senate's approval of the administration's huge spending-lending bill and assumption among traders that prices were entitled to a further recovery after the steady decline in the final half of May.

U. S. government loans, lagging behind the corporate sector, held in a narrow groove while the market waited for treasury announcements of the terms of the mid-June refunding operations, expected to be made public Monday.

The rally was conspicuous in such issues as Santa Fe general 4s, Burlington 4s, Great Northern 4s, Nickel Plate 4 1/2s, Southern Pacific 4 1/2s and International Telephone 5s. Most of these had suffered sizeable losses in the recent reaction.

Foreign bonds were mostly uneven in quiet trading. Transactions were a little more active on the upside and for the brief session totaled $2,333,900, face value, compared with only $333,900 a week ago.

The Associated Press composite price of 20 rail bonds was up .1 at 51.5. The utility and industrial composite figures were a shade off as the buying tended to skip higher-grade issues to concentrate on recently depressed secondary issues, mainly in the rail division.

After the successful flotation of more than $200,000,000 in new issues this week, bond men looked forward to a relatively quiet new capital market for the coming week but had high hopes for continuation of new financing later in the year.

Utility And Gold Shares Set Pace For Curb Advance

New York, June 4 (AP)—Gold shares and utilities set the buying pace in a generally higher curb market today.

A tinge of inflationary sentiment was held accountable for minor rises in the mining list. Wright Hargrove, one of the heaviest traders, noted that the session was boosted 1-8 to 7-8. Others fractionally higher were Hollinger, up 1/4 to 1 1/4, and Hecla, 1-8 higher at 6 5/8. Newmont held out for a loss of 1 at 49.

Most utility issues resumed the early June rally, with American Gas & Electric 1 1/2 higher at 2-8. Electric Bond & Share was 3-8 ahead at 7 1/4. Cities Service and Standard Power & Light, however, shed their minus sign.

Eberlin Williams advanced more than a point. Technicolor and Pan American Airways were a trifle higher.

Volume jumped to 84,000 shares from 37,000 a week ago.

Two Defendants Will Be Taken to Munising Monday

Walter Gacek and Henry Juris, who have confessed to unlawfully driving away an automobile owned by Victor Beaudry will be taken to Munising Monday by Prosecuting Attorney W. J. Sheehan and other law enforcement officials, where Gacek and Juris will appear before Circuit Judge Herbert Runnels. The circuit court will not convene at Manistique until late in June, and as Gacek and Juris have expressed a desire to plead guilty and receive sentence as early as possible, it was decided to take the men to Munising, where Judge Runnels will hold court Monday. The men admitted unlawfully driving away Beaudry's car in the city of Manistique on May 21. They have been detained at the county jail since that time. The charge specifically accuses the men of unlawfully driving away an automobile without the owner's consent, but not with intent to steal the machine.

LOCAL CHAMBER ADOPTS RULES

Constitution Puts C-C on Permanent Basis in Manistique The organization of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce was effected upon a permanent basis at a meeting of local businessmen held Friday evening at the First National Bank. Officers and directors were elected and a constitution of the chamber adopted. A campaign for memberships is now under way. Officers are John I. Bellaire, president; Otmer Schuster, vice president; Fred Habne, secretary-treasurer. Members of the board of directors, elected on a temporary basis, include Tom Boltho, W. L. Norton, Gust Larson, Leonard Harbick, Ernest Ecklund, Peter Olson, and Adam Heinz, in addition to the officers. The chamber is organized for the purpose of promoting the civic, economic and social welfare of the city of Manistique and vicinity. Directors will be elected for two year terms, except in the first year, five directors will be elected for one year terms. Subsequently, five directors will be elected each year, and directors may not succeed themselves until a period of one year has elapsed. The annual nominating primary election for directors will be held on the Monday preceding the first Friday in August and the final election will be held on the first Friday in August.

RAILROAD TO QUIT Menominee — Officials of the Wisconsin & Michigan Railroad company announced today that it will "discontinue handling traffic over any part of its line" effective July 1, 1938, as provided by authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The W-M's line of railroad extends from Bagley Junction, Wis., to Iron Mountain, approximately 62 miles, a branch line from Aragon Junction to Norway, approximately 5.5 miles, a terminal in Menominee, and trackage rights over the Milwaukee road between Bagley Junction and Menominee, eight and a half miles. If you are patient and still, you can hear the rumblings of the world falling in on us. —Rev. Dr. Charles W. Welch, of Louisville, Ky.

JINX CONTINUES FOR N. Y. GIANTS

Even Hubbell Unable To Avert 11-2 Verdict for Cincy Reds

Cincinnati, June 4 (AP)—Even King Carl Hubbell, the old meat ticket, couldn't stop the Giants' losing jinx today, and the New Yorkers had their National league lead cut to a slim half-game by dropping an 11 to 2 decision to the Reds.
The Reds landed on King Carl early, piling up seven runs in the first four innings, belted him to the showers and then coasted in behind big Jim Weaver's classy five-hit flinging to stretch the Giants' losing streak to five straight.
With the help of Ival Gooden's 13th homer of the season and Ernie Lombardi's fifth, Weaver had enough edge to loosen up in the late frames and give the Giants both their runs. One of these was Mel Ott's ninth circuit clout of the season.

SLUGGER FOXX HITS 2 HOMERS

Eastern Invasion Proves Bad Medicine for Tigers

Boston, June 4 (AP)—The combination of Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, the old Maryland squirrel hunter, and slugger James Emory Foxx proved too much for the Detroit Tigers today and the Boston Red Sox took a 5 to 3 decision in the opening contest of a three-game series.
It was Detroit's fourth consecutive defeat and left the club with a record of one win and four losses on its second eastern tour. It was the third time this season that Grove had beaten Detroit.
Seven straddled the case since he lost his fireball and started relying on cunning. Grove was fairly liberal with hits but not with runs. He granted 10 blows, one more than his mates obtained off the deliveries of Tommy Bridges and George Coffman.
The Tigers left seven runners stranded while Boston left only three and therein lies the story of today's Detroit defeat.
The main reason Boston did not leave men on was Foxx, who belted two homers and a single and drove in four of the five Boston runs. The two circuit smashes by Jimmy enabled him to tie Hank Greenberg of Detroit with 13 four-ply clouts so far this season.
Boston got away fast by making two hits good for three runs in the first. "Doc" Cramer opened with a single and Nonnenkamp followed with a single and Nonnenkamp's single produced the last Boston tally.
George Tebbetts, who batted for Bridges, started Detroit to a run in the eighth with a single. He moved to second on Rogell's single, took third on Fred Walker's force roller and scored on a scratch single by Charley Gehring.
Rudy York, who returned to the Detroit lineup as a catcher today, launched the ninth inning Tiger attack with a single. After Pete Fox lined out, Chester Laabs singled. When Vosmik let the ball go through, York moved to third and Laabs to second. Both runners scored on Tony Piet's second hit of the day, a single to left.
Kennedy Works Today
In addition to Piet, Rogell and Laabs also had two hits each for Detroit.
In Sunday's game Vernon Kennedy will try for his ninth straight win since becoming a Tiger. He will be opposed by Jack Wilson, speedy right hander.

REVOLTA TIES HARRY COOPER

Birdies on Home Stretch Give Him Snappy 68 at Kansas City

Kansas City, June 4 (AP)—The birdies sang for Black Thatched Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee down the home stretch late today and he scored a sparkling 68, five under par, for the first 18 holes of Kansas City's 54-hole $5,000 open golf tournament to tie "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper.
Needling birdies on the last two holes to deadlock Cooper, whose putter twice sank eagles, Revolta came through like a champion. He sank an eight-footer on the final green to come in with a stizzling 32, four under par, after going out in 36.
Earlier Cooper, deadly on recovery shots and putts, had combined two 34s.
Hillcrest's par took a thorough beating despite the upsetting events of yesterday when lightning killed two spectators and caused cancellation of the first 18 holes. The final 36 will be played tomorrow.
Twenty-one of the approximately 120 entrants scored par or better. Jimmy Demart, Houston, Tex., was alone in the 69 bracket, four were tied at 70, three at 71 and a half dozen at 72.
Horton Smith, Tony Penna, Floyd Mangrum and Willie Goggin shot 70. Leo Mallory, Darien, Conn., Gene Sarazen and Warren Reipen, St. Joseph, Mo., professional (correct), were bunched at 71.
Harold (jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., was forced to sink a chip shot on the 18th to get his par 73 after taking a fat seven on No. 10.

Cleveland Wallops Washington, 11 to 4 With 8 Runs In 4th

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The league leading Cleveland Indians walloped the Washington Senators, 11 to 4, today. Let down without a hit during the first 3 innings, the Indians hopped on Elton Hoggsett in the fourth and scored 8 runs.
Bob Feller, who started for the Tribe, became wild as the game progressed and was lifted in the fourth with nobody out. Dennis Galehouse finished, hurling good ball.
Ken Keltner, Cleveland's sensational third baseman, hit a home run into the centerfield bleachers in the fifth. It was his 10th round tripper in his first season in the American league.

British Golfers Snare Walker Cup, First Time

Scotch foursome play yesterday by two to one, having halved the other match.

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 4 (AP)—An ancient St. Andrews caddie, his blue eyes swimming with tears, carried America's Walker Cup into the historic front room of the Royal and Ancient Golf club tonight and set it up triumphantly under the portrait of old Tom Morris, almost legendary figure in the annals of British golf.
For sixteen years Great Britain had tried to win the trophy, and today finally triumphed, seven matches to four, and the old man carrying it through a cheering crowd of 10,000 was proud and he was happy.
The facts of this victory—and it was a decisive victory—can be dismissed summarily.

ALL STARS WIN 12-11

The All Stars came through from behind to beat the Northwest Fruit diamondballers 12 to 11 in a game yesterday afternoon. They were behind 11 to 2 in the eighth, but connected for a series of hits while their pitcher, Gerow, held the Northwest scoreless. Batteries for the Stars were Jerry and Carlson; Northwest Fruits, Derouin and Garvey.

PIRATES WIN

The Pirates defeated the Redskins, 25 to 14, in a diamond ball game yesterday at the fairgrounds, No. 1 field. The game was featured by a home run hit by Kobosky. The batteries were: Pirates: Kobosky, Groleau, Kositzky, and Pratt; Redskins, Paul Larson and David Larson.

AT GLADSTONE TODAY

The Liquor Store team will travel to Gladstone today to take on Wally Brunette's all-star batters. Art Loeffler, the liquor store speedball artist, will oppose Call of Gladstone, who tamed the Escanaba bartenders last Sunday. The game today will be played at the Buckeye field.

GOING TO NAHMA

The Coca Cola will go to Nahma today for a game, leaving the shop at 12:30 p. m.

CHIPPENAS WIN

Styler a "scrub" game, the Chippewas defeated the Midgets last night, 14 to 13. The batteries were: Beauchamp and Anderson; Wood and Bob Donovan.

SOUTHERN CAL CLAIMS TITLE

Records and Rain Fall for Track Event In New York

New York, June 4 (AP)—Rain and records, a rare track and field combination, fell in large quantities today as Southern California's invincible Trojans spread-eagled the field in the 62nd intercollegiate A. A. A. championship meet at Randall's Island stadium.
Three meet marks were shattered, among them the classic one mile record that has stood for 25 years, and two others were equalled in a dazzling battle for individual titles.
Dean Cromwell's Trojans, picking up where they left off in 1935, tallied in 10 of the 15 events, nearly doubled the point score of their nearest rivals, Michigan State, and won the championship for the eighth time since 1929. All told Pacific coast colleges have won 15 of the 16 I. C. A. A. A. meets in which they have participated since 1921.
Spartans Second
Southern California tallied 47 1/2 points, Michigan State 24 and the University of California 22 1/2. Pittsburgh, 1937 victor, led the eastern brigade by finishing fourth with 20 1/2 points. Manhattan was fifth with 15 points, Harvard sixth with 12 points, with the other scattered.
Double triumphs for Long John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's great negro runner, and Michigan State's crack hurdler, Harvey Woodstra, shared the individual spotlight with the record-breaking mile victory of Edgar Howard Borck, slender Manhattan college star. A series of amazingly fine performances was unfurled in the rain before scarcely 2,000 spectators huddled in the stands.
Borck came from behind with a beautifully-timed last-lap finish to beat Earl Northrop, Harvard's favorite, by 20 yards, and wipe out the classic record of 4:14.4 set by John Paul Jones of Cornell at Cambridge in 1913. Borck was clocked in 4:13.9.
Jones' performance was a world record 25 years ago, when the Cornellian was king of the college mile, but Borck's time this afternoon on a rain-soaked track was barely within hailing distance of the present world outdoor standard of 4:06.4, held by England's Sydney Wooderson, or the indoor record of 4:04.4, set last winter by America's Glenn Cunningham.
Borck had enough stuff left later to run a 1:53 half-mile and give Woodruff the only serious challenge as the long-striding negro completed his second straight "double." Long John proved equal to the occasion, however, by pulling away to a two-yard victory over Borck in the 850-yard final, timed in 1:55.5, after equaling the meet record of 1:40.4-year race.
Ted Meredith of Pennsylvania, who turned the trick in 1915-16, was the only other athlete to win both the 440 and 880 in successive years. Woodruff's time for the 440 equalled the meet record set in 1932 by "Little Bill" Carr of Pennsylvania and duplicated by Long John himself last year.
Woodstra's timber-topping double was marked by a record-equaling performance. The rangy Michigan State senior upset Southern California's favorite, Jim Humphrey, to capture the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.4 seconds. This equalled the meet record set by Earl Thomson of Dartmouth in 1920, at which time it was a world record. Woodstra came from behind to take the 230-yard low hurdles final in 23.8 seconds, beating George Anderson of California by a stride as well as two other westerners.
The remaining two record-smashers were Delos Thurber, Southern California's Olympic high-jumper, and Joe Moclair, Manhattan, victor in the two-mile.
Thurber cleared 6 feet, 5 1/2 inches to wipe out the former meet mark of 6 feet, 5 1/8 inches, set by George Spitz of New York university, in 1933.
Moclair came from behind with an unbeatable rush to lead two Michigan State rivals, Kenneth Waite and Richard Frey, to the finish of the distance race. His time of 9:21.2 erased the former record of 9:22, established in 1929 by James Reid of Harvard.

Fitz Hurts Hand And Pirates Win

Pittsburgh, June 4 (AP)—A tough break for Freddy Fitzsimmons proved a lucky one for the Pirates today, and the Bucs nose out the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 3, in 11 innings.
After holding the Pirates to six hits and two unearned runs for eight innings, Fritz Hurt hit his hand in fielding a ball in the eighth, and had to retire, with the Dodgers leading 3-2.
His relief, Vito Tamulla and Tot Pressnell proved of no use. Both contributed to giving up the tying run in the ninth and then Pressnell was tagged for the leading tally in the second extra frame when Lee Handley contributed a "clutch" single with two out and two on base. Pop Young had four hits for the day.

Casey's Bees Halt Card Winning Spurt

St. Louis, June 4 (AP)—The Cardinals' winning spree was broken at four games today by Casey Stengel's Boston Bees, who collected fourteen hits for an 8 to 5 victory in the first of a four-game series.
For six innings Jim Turner, one of the prize finds of last season, held the Cards scoreless, doling out only three scattered hits.
Home runs accounted for four of the Cards runs. Don Padgett getting his second in two days and Ducky Medwick hitting for the circuit in the eighth with two on.

Norge Nine Meets Negaunee Legion

Munising, June 4—The Munising Norge nine will meet the Negaunee Legion squad at Negaunee and the local Legion team will invade the ballpark of the Lahapening Merchants on Sunday afternoon in games played in the Inter-county junior league.
The Norges have lost one and won one, losing to the Munising Legion in their opener and winning from the Lahapening Merchants by a small margin at Lahapening last Sunday.
The Munising Legion nine expect to put a strong team on the field in their tilt with the Merchants, after their encounter at Chatham last Sunday.

League Leading Niagara Team Plays Here Today

LOCALS SEEKING ANOTHER UPSET

Have Good Opportunity to Thro wLeague Into Wide Open Front

Painfully remembering the shut-out administered to them in the opening game of the season, the Escanaba baseball team will go into the game this afternoon with a vengeance and a determination to upset the league leading Niagara Badgers. The game will be played at the 23rd Street diamond.

Since that game, in which the locals garnered two hits off the pitching of Richardson, the team has shown a remarkable improvement in batting power, jumping 98 points last week end in two games. Couillard, especially, showed a big jump in going from a .223 to .438, where he is tied for third place with Al Kircher of the Twins. Perle and Brazeau are hitting .333 and Kircher is pegged at .286 to lead the locals. With this improved batting punch, the boys are determined to "knock the stuffings" out of Richardson, if he should oppose them on the mound.

However, it is admitted that Niagara has the best pitching staff in the league. Bush has won both his games, allowing but 13 hits while Richardson has won one and lost one in four starts, allowing 25 hits in more than 35 innings.

Phil Brazeau, who is in a tie for fourth place with two victories and two defeats, has allowed 39 hits in four games and struck out 15 batters. Flath, who has yet to win a game, has allowed 19 hits in two games and struck out 12 batters.

Munising Merchants Playing Double-Header

Munising, June 4—The Munising City Merchants and the Negaunee Legion squad, Upper Peninsula softball champions, will meet at a double-header on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the playgrounds diamond. The Legion, victors over the Merchants in double-headers last Sunday, 8-4 and 3-2, have a strong squad and are excellent players. "Moose" LaCombe manages the team.

Members of the Merchants squad are Cecil Florida, captain; F. Tiernan, Lloyd Cook, B. Norberg, R. Fulcher, Harry Nelson, Jim Goodreau, Arvid Steinhoff, Babe Anderson and Chester Foubert.

Cook and Tiernan will be the batteries for Munising in the opener and Anderson and Tiernan in the twilight affair.

BONDS AT GWINN

Munising, June 4—The Munising Bonds and the Gwinn team will meet at Gwinn on Sunday afternoon in an inter-county league battle. The Bonds have lost two games but hope to place themselves in the victory column in the Sunday encounter.

BARMEN PLAY TODAY

Munising, June 4—Munising and Escanaba barmen will tangle in what promises to be a good battle on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the playgrounds diamond here.

The Escanaba bartenders are an experienced group and if the local boys can carry their proficiency to the ball field the game will be a tough one for the Delta county crew. Charles Belonga is

Highland Club At Northshore Today

Approximately 35 members of the Highland golf club will travel to Menominee today to match strokes with members of the North Shore club in the seventh annual meeting of the two clubs.

Nine holes will be played in the morning starting at 10 a. m. (Central Standard Time) and nine in the afternoon with lunch being served at noon.

GLAZIER ENTERS BIRLING MEET

Oldest Log Roller Will Come from Washburn to Roleo Here

The "old man" of the birling game, 61-year-old George Glazier of Washburn, Wis., who participated in the lumberjack contests on the log drives on the Chipewau River in Wisconsin 30 years ago, is the first to formally enter the world's championship log rolling tournament to be held in Escanaba August 12 to 14. Glazier competed in the Escanaba roleo last year, advancing to the semi-finals where he lost to Walter Swanson, champion Pacific coast birler, after a hard-fought match.

Glazier is now employed as a hunting and fishing guide in the Wisconsin northwoods. He has participated in more birling tournaments than any other log cutter still active in the sport. He was runner-up for the World's championship in four tournaments at Eau Claire, Wis., and Bodin's Brownstone Bowl at Washburn. He also won the Canadian championship at Fort William several years ago.

One of the youngest birlers, Roy Hagen, 17, Washburn farmer and woodsman, was the second to enter the Escanaba Roleo lists. He is a protege of Glazier. Both are already practicing up for the 1938 tournament.

The largest assemblage of birlers in the history of the lumberjack sport is expected to come from Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Maine and Canada to roll at Escanaba. Last year, there were 26 contestants. Joe Connor, 26-year-old University of Minnesota forestry student, won the world's championship.

COULLARD TIED IN THIRD POST

Escanaba Team Fattens Batting; Still Leads Fielding Averages

Four hits in seven trips to the plate last week-end enabled Bill Wytulonis, port-side slugging outfielder of Crystal Falls, to boost his batting average and pace Northern Wisconsin Michigan league batters for the second consecutive week. Wytulonis is pounding the pellet at a .556 clip with a collection of 10 safeties in 18 attempts.

Though taking a considerable drop, Soderberg, of the Ford Twins, is still hugging the second rung with a .430 average. Couillard, of Escanaba, made a remarkable leap from a .222 average last week to .438, tying Kircher, of the Twins, for third position. Davidson, of Crystal Falls, and Kenville, of Niagara, also fattened their averages to fall in behind Davidson with .429 and .391.

Individual batting on a whole took a decided drop. Last week there were 12 regular players hitting over .400, while only five remain in that bracket this week.

The leaders in the team batting with lost considerable ground and team fielding made a slight change for the better.

The Ford Twins team batting took a nose dive but several other teams slumped, too, so the Fords managed to cling to first place. The Twins dropped from .320 to .278. South Range boosted its batting to .267 for a second place tie with Crystal Falls which dropped 30 points. The Escanaba and Negaunee crews finally got onto the slants of opposing hurlers for considerable increases in base-hits. Escanaba bettered its average by 98 points, while Negaunee jumped from .167 to .227.

Escanaba continues to lead in team fielding, with the Twins hanging onto the next post. Niagara climbed up two notches and Crystal Falls and South Range slipped back.

Louis Bush, of Niagara, and Eino Junkenen, of the Rangers, are the loop's only hurlers with clean slates. Richardson, of Niagara, is next with two wins and one loss, and with 32 strikeouts in 30 innings he is pressing Orphan, of Crystal Falls, who leads the column with 37 in 34 innings.

Thibert, of the Badgers, leads in runs batted in with six; Stepanovich, of South Range, with 4 has hit the most doubles; Miller, of the Badgers, claims the most stolen bases with five, and Kircher, of Escanaba leads the triples list with two.

Official league statistics released today are as follows:

Hoping to revolutionize speedboat racing, Edward Spurr, in collaboration with the late Col T. E. Lawrence (Lawrence of Arabia), designed the craft of radical form in great secrecy at Slough England. The steering wheel must be removed to permit the driver to enter, as Spurr demonstrates, top above. INDIANS SHOW GREAT SPIRIT

Go On Warpath to Take Individual Honors In Many Spots

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—The "hustle" program inaugurated by Professor Oscar Vitt when he took over the Cleveland Indians this year not only has the Tribe setting the American League pace as a team but this week showed an increase among his pupils seeking individual honors.

Hal Trosky, the big first baseman, has been up on his daily work in the batting department from the start and semiofficial averages which include games of Friday showed him still heading the league's sluggers with a mark of .388.

Outfielder Earl Averill, advancing rapidly in the last few weeks, ranked second with .370. He led in runs scored with 37 and was tied with the third of Vitt's select class, Rookie Ken Keltner, in hitting triples. Each had five. Keltner also returned to the "high ten" this week with a .335 average.

Between the three of them they had batted in 107 of Cleveland's 228 runs and had scored 96 themselves, 22 on home runs.

Gehring, at .335

Hitting leaders also included Frank Hayes, Philadelphia, .363; Cecil Travis, Washington, .352; Hank Steinbacher, Chicago, .352; Joe Cronin, Boston, .347; Jimmy Fox, .336; Keltner, .335; Charley Gehring, Detroit, .335; Red Rolfe, and Joe DiMaggio, New York, and Buddy Meyer, Washington, all .333.

Hank Greenberg of Detroit continued to top all in home runs with 13, while Fox's 51 runs batted in and Cronin's 16 doubles led in those divisions. Travis replaced his Washington teammate Buddy Lewis as the leader in hits with 58, but Lewis remained the base stealing ace at nine.

Vern Kennedy, former White Sox hurler traded to Detroit last year, ran his winning streak to eight without a setback to top Bob Grove of Boston, whose record was eight victories and one defeat.

CARD ROOKIE MOVES UPWARD

Lavagetto's Position Is Endangered by Enos Slaughter

New York, June 4 (AP)—Cookie Lavagetto and Buck McCormick are still in the one-two spots in the National league batting race, but they'd better keep their eyes peeled for Enos Slaughter, the Cardinals' red-hot rookie.

Regaining batting form, Slaughter during the past week picked up 31 points to climb to a .354 average, and skyrocketed into third place in the standings.

Meanwhile Lavagetto, the Pittsburgh castoff who landed with Brooklyn, and McCormick, Cincinnati rookie, were feeling the pressure of rival pitching skill. Lavagetto dropped 32 points to .361, although still leading the league. McCormick lost 25 points, sinking to .358.

Chuck on Warpath

While the young fellows were taking over the spotlight at the head of the pack, one "old timer," Chuck Klein, the Phillies' flailing veteran, also made a bid to get back among the select set. Chuck banged out ten hits in 20 trips to the plate, boosted his average 30 points to .347, and wound up in a tie with Tony Lazzari of the Cubs for sixth place.

Ernie Lombardi, Reds' catcher, was fourth with .353, and Stan Hack, the Cubs' third-sacker, fifth with .349. Others in the first ten were Ducky Medwick of the Cardinals, eighth with .339; Jolo Moore, Giants, with .335; and young Herschel Martin of the Phillies, with .333.

Carl Hubbell, ace pitching veteran of the Giants, climbed into first place among the hurlers, with six victories and one defeat, and Deacon Danny MacFayden of the Bees boosted himself into the second spot with five wins and one setback.

Goodman Hits Hard

Ival Goodman added a share of the three-base-hits lead to his home-run pace to rank as the league's leading slugger. The Reds' clouter collected one triple for the week and he and Johnny Mize of the Cards pulled up to a tie with Pittsburgh's Johnny Rizzo, each with five. Goodman not only retained the top spot in hitting homers, but increased his margin, with 12 to eight for second place Mel Ott of the Giants.

Ott continued to lead in run-scoring, with 39, compared to the 33 each for Hack and Billy Herman of the Cubs and Goodman. Ott also retained second place in driving in runs, with a total of one less than the 39 for the League-leading Augie Galan of the Cubs.

McCormick, still the leader in base hits and doubles, had a record of 62 hits, four more than his nearest rivals, Slaughter of the Cards and Hack of the Cubs, and had 15 doubles, one more than Herschel Martin of the Phillies.

Augie Galan took over sole possession of the pace in base stealing, with half a dozen, while his teammate, Hack, was his closest opposition with five.

DAUBER BEATEN BY PASTEURIZED

Belmont Stakes Victory Turns Dope Bucket Topsy Turvy

New York, June 4. (AP)—The three-year-old championship picture was turned topsy turvy today when Dauber, winner of the Preakness and second in the Kentucky Derby, bowed to the flying hooves of Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Pasteurized in the 70th running of the classic Belmont Stakes.

Dauber, flying the silks of William Dupont, Jr.'s Foxcatcher Farms, was considered such a "sure thing" that he was held to 1 to 3 to whip five others of his age. However, the end of the mile and a half found him a half-length back, trailed by another length in third place as Pasteurized reeled off the distance in 2:29 2-5 in a light rain.

"Just an Infant," Tourist and Vacation Industry Brings The State $300,000,000 Annually

BY G. MILTON KELLY

Lansing, Mich., June 4 (AP)—Michigan citizens reap a $300,000,000 harvest annually by catering to holiday and vacation travelers, but to state conservation department authorities the lousy tourist and resort industry is "just an infant."

P. J. Hoffmaster, conservation director, reviewed the industry's mushroom growth and said today he felt not even the industry itself has the vision to foresee how far it may go in developing Michigan's playground facilities.

Hoffmaster has watched the state park system, an important factor in the industry, grow from a single 32-acre tract in Leelanau county in 1919 to 72 parks and park sites that in 1938 spread over more than 40,000 acres of beach and woodland.

The director recalled the early days when few persons paid much attention to vacation travel as the foundation for a lucrative industry. The first state park came into existence by gift of David H. Day in 1919 after he was appointed chairman of the newly created parks commission. It was named in his honor, and still is one of Michigan's famous beauty spots.

Compared with the parks of today, it offered few advantages. It was just a tract of land at that time that sprawled inland from a 700-foot frontage on Lake Michigan to include the famous Sleeping Bear Sand Dunes, still a popular attraction.

Fort Wilkins Restored

One of the famous parks is that known as "The Wilderness," ten square miles that fronts for 107,760 feet on the Straits of Mackinac, near Mackinac City. The department has sought to retain the wilderness aspects that gave it its name, and some portions are almost impenetrable. Foot trails have been constructed, but the authorities have resisted attempts to lead a public highway through the park.

In the upper peninsula, Fort Wilkins, an old time military outpost in Keweenaw county, has been restored and its site provided with park facilities. One of Michigan's last stands of virgin white pine was acquired as a gift in 1927 and added to the state park system as

Over 100 Cub Scouts Join In Cub-O-Ree At Local Park Saturday

Over 100 Cub Scouts, members of Escanaba packs, participated in the Cub-O-Ree held at Ludington park yesterday. Loaded down with food, clothing, tents, blankets and camping equipment, the young campers appeared at the park long before the 10 o'clock signal which started a land rush to stake claims for the day's campsites.

Tents ranging from improvised oiled paper shelters to large canvas wall tents sprouted up one after another as the packs began to settle down in their temporary quarters, and before noon a street of tents had been formed along the base of the park hill south of the Ludington park tennis courts.

The Cub-O-Ree was directed by B. W. Phillips, local scout executive, with the aid of Howard DuFour, cubmaster of the Jefferson school pack. Six den chiefs, members of the regular Scout organization who aid in the Cub work, helped to keep things moving throughout the day.

Parents Participate

The Cub-O-Ree also turned out to take part in the festivities and watch the fun. When tents had been set up the Cubs began the task of preparing the noon meal, which was cooked over open fires built out on the new land between the park and the shore. Each group had its fire, and the Cubs vied at roasting wieners and frying bacon for lunch.

Scout leaders arranged the Cub program with a view to teaching the boys good camping habits as well as giving them a day's outing. Inspections were held twice during the day, and den chiefs aided in showing the

Father Stehlin To Give Address At K. C. Meeting

Young Republicans Give Dance June 11

Rev. Fr. Stehlin of Gwinn will address the members of Escanaba Council, No. 640, Knights of Columbus, at their regular meeting to be held at the K. of C. clubrooms, Ninth street and First avenue south, on Tuesday evening, June 7.

Father Stehlin is an able speaker and recently spoke before the National Catholic Action Congress in Milwaukee. His talk on that occasion was broadcast over Station WTMJ and received much favorable comment.

Inasmuch as Father Stehlin's address will be of vital interest to all Catholic men of the city, the council has decided upon an open meeting for that evening. John J. Bartella, grand knight, cordially invites all to attend.

Young Republicans Give Dance June 11

Next Saturday evening the Escanaba Young Republican Club will sponsor a dance at the Dells. The following committee has been appointed:

Tickets may be obtained from any one of the above members and at Elmer Swanson's gas station.

8 Cylinder Quality

ALL THE WAY THROUGH!

The De Luxe Fordor Sedan

ONE important measure of a modern motor car is the number of its cylinders. Two cylinders were enough in the early days. Later on, most people were satisfied with four cylinders. But today, America's best cars have 8 cylinders or more.

8 or more cylinders mean a smoother flow of power, and more alert performance. They usually mean more money too. Only Ford has been able to build a fine 8-cylinder car at a low price—with low operating costs.

The extra value of its 8-cylinder engine is reflected all through the Ford V-8. In riding comfort and driving ease. In handy instruments and handsome interiors. In gentle, positive brakes that win warm praise from owners. In clean, honest design from radiator to rear deck. In dozens of other details that you discover as you live with the car.

You'll like the Ford V-8—whether you choose the De Luxe for its added bigness and beauty—or the Standard "60" for its greater gasoline mileage. Both are priced low. And both are built on the same chassis—with 8-cylinder quality all the way through!

North Western To Present Training Film Here June 8

The Chicago and North Western Railway company will show two sales training films in the city next Wednesday, June 8; it was announced yesterday at the general offices here. C. M. Mattson, supervisor of passenger sales training for the road, will present the films and lecture on the duties of the railway's representatives.

"Bill Burham" is the title of one of the films, a talking picture which depicts the work of Bill and shows how the agent in a town of about 10,000 population can work to sell the road's services. The other film, "Backstage," depicts the progress of transportation from the days of the covered wagon and is climaxed with pictures of the "400" and "Challenger," crack North Western streamliners used on runs over the Union Pacific to the west coast.

The films will be shown in a coach at the yards, and "Backstage" will be offered for the use of service clubs of the city at a later date.
