

ADMINISTRATION REBUFFED IN IOWA

SOUTH SCORES IN WAGE-HOUR BILL DEMANDS

ADJOURNMENT TIME DELAYED AGAIN FOR CONGRESS

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Administration forces in charge of the wage-hour bill tentatively capitulated today to a southern bloc fighting for lower wage minima in Dixie than in the north.

Living Costs Lower Under the proposal, both north and south would be treated alike the first two years. The minimum wage would be 25 cents an hour the country over the first year, and 30 cents the second.

This tended to comply with demands of southerners for differentials for certain industries in their sector. They argued that living costs in the south are lower, and freight rates are discriminatory against their section.

Under a previous proposal, to which several southerners objected, a rigid country-wide minimum of 40 cents would prevail after seven years.

Today's action by the senate conferees was tentative in the sense that it was taken on a 4 to 3 vote and that the senate labor bloc was working for its reconsideration.

However, Senator Borah (R-Ia.), one of the conferees, dissented vigorously from the compromise. He objected to the failure to specify a definite time at which the 40-cent scale would take effect.

"It works to me," he said, "that if a workman were looking forward to getting $16 a week with which to take care of a family, and the employer who was to give it to him was unable to promise definitely to do it until he had decided it was economically feasible, the workman might justly conclude he didn't intend to do it at all."

Senators LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) and Walsh (D-Mass.), other conferees, also announced they would not sign the compromise.

Informed legislators said that as soon as the wage-hour fight was settled congress could quit and go home. At best, however, it was apparent that this could not be done by the end of the week—the original goal of the leadership.

The senate spent today passing minor bills and discussing in the cloakroom the renomination of Senator Gillette in yesterday's Iowa Democratic primaries, over the opposition of several influential administration aides.

Continued Japanese Air Bombings Bring Disaster To Canton

Canton, June 8 (Wednesday) (AP)—Chinese thronged Canton's railway stations and waterfront by the thousands today in attempted flight from expected new and more terrible Japanese air raids on this bomb-stricken city.

Japanese planes struck at the city three times yesterday, adding to the toll of dead and wounded which already had reached 6,000 in eleven days of bombardment.

Local government authorities ordered women and children to leave the city. Transportation facilities, however, were entirely inadequate.

The first Japanese raid yesterday came shortly after daybreak. For ten minutes Japanese planes bombed the crowded Tungshan and Saichuan districts.

In the second foray, in midafternoon, the raiders attacked government offices and utility plants. Nine bombs dropped into the compound of a power station near Shamen; the foreign settlement and put the plant out of commission.

Canton was without lights when the third attack, a moonlight raid, was made. Incendiary bombs were dropped in the northern section of the city.

CIRCUIT JUDGE DRISCOLL DIES

Pneumonia Proves Fatal to Ironwood Man, on Bench Since 1917

Ironwood, Mich., June 7 (AP)—Circuit Judge George O. Driscoll died of pneumonia last night in a hospital at Ashland, Wis. He was 68 years old and had occupied the bench of the Thirty-Second Michigan judicial district, composed of Gogebic and Ontonagon counties, since 1917.

Born at Watersmeet, Michigan, he studied law at a young man while working at the barber trade. At night and between shaves and haircuts in shops in several Wisconsin and Michigan towns, he pored over law books.

He had money enough for only one term in law school. By the time he had completed that term, in 1901, he had passed the Michigan bar examination and was authorized to practice law.

His first law office was in Laurium, Mich. Then he came to Ironwood. In 1915 and 1916, he was mayor of Ironwood.

He was married in 1905 to Miss Mamie Gaitley, of Ironwood. They have five children.

Liquor Salesmen's Free Drinks Barred

Lansing, June 7 (AP)—Liquor salesmen who donate "free drinks for the house" were the object of a new state liquor commission drive today.

John D. O'Shea, head of the brewery and alcohol division, said a stronger enforcement campaign by his department, would be aimed at salesmen who buy beer for patrons in drinking spots. Such offenders, O'Shea said, would be deprived of their registration cards which, in turn, would automatically cost them their jobs.

VOLCANO MAKES VILLAGERS FLEE

Great Mountain Belches Fire and Lava on Luzon Island

Manila, June 7 (AP)—Mayon volcano, in a turbulent mood after a 10-year nap, belched angrily tonight but scientists noted a definite diminution in violence.

Homes of more than 16,000 villagers stood vacant near the base of the great mountain, their inhabitants having sought safety in the country and towns distant from Mayon. Libog, a town of 7,000, was deserted.

Earthquakes which accompanied eruptions the first five days, ceased today and the period between bursts of flames, lava and smoke from the crater lengthened to nearly five hours. Earlier the eruptions came at 30-minute intervals. Their intensity decreased.

At nightfall, the 7,900-foot peak 200 miles southeast of Manila wore a plume of smoke a mile and a half high. Flashes of flame split the dark pillar at frequent intervals. Lava rolled slowly down the mountain.

Over the three provinces forming the southeastern tip of Luzon Island, the largest in the archipelago, ashes floated in the air.

The populace accepted assurances of scientists there was no immediate danger, and moved out of the threatened areas quietly.

Goat Guzzles Gas, Goes Up In Blast

Carlville, Ill., June 7 (AP)—Nanny drank a pan of gasoline and then exploded.

That's the story of Arnold Garlo and Melvin Miller, tenant farmers, as they explained the fate of their pet nanny goat.

Garlo and Miller were cleaning some farm implements today with gasoline. The goat got nosy and drank the contents of a dishpan. Presently one of the men lighted his pipe and tossed the match to the ground. Nanny sniffed. Her whiskers ignited. Bloote. Nanny doesn't live there anymore.

Future Roosevelt Bride Poses For Cameramen Horde

Nahant, Mass., June 7 (AP)—Pretty Anne Lindsay Clark today received a foretaste of what it will mean to be a member of the nation's first family.

She and her grinning, lanky bridegroom-to-be, John Roosevelt, posed for four hours under a blazing sun for a battery of 65 press photographers and neavearl cameramen, at the estate of Mrs. F. Haven Clark.

Anne, stockinged and John, without tie, good-naturedly obeyed the cameramen's commands.

Later, attired in bathing suits, the couple swam in the pool, but John balked at diving, saying, "not until I make the Olympic team."

"I never knew there were so many cameramen," exclaimed Anne, squinting into the sun. She may revise her estimate again after the press hordes invade the city when the presidential party arrives for the wedding a week from Saturday.

Cash Kidnap Ransom Bill Found; $50,000 Federal Reward Asked

Princeton, Fla., June 7 (AP)—A request by President Roosevelt to congress for $50,000 to aid in solving the Jimmy Cash kidnap case gave new impetus tonight to the ten-day search for the child's abductors.

The unprecedented presidential action followed the reported recovery today of one of the $5 bills paid a week ago by the boy's father as part of $10,000 ransom demanded by the kidnapers.

They failed to return the five-year-old lad and no trace of him has been found since he was stolen from his bed the night of May 28.

The president suggested in a letter to chairman Glass (D-Va) of the senate appropriations committee that the $50,000 find be

VALUE RAISED ON PENINSULA IRON HOLDINGS

MARQUETTE COUNTY BEARS BRUNT OF INCREASE

Lansing, June 7 (AP)—The state tax commission recommended an increase of $4,257,000 today in the assessed valuation of Upper Peninsula iron mines.

The valuations were increased in all of the five counties affected, save Baraga, which has only small exploratory mining properties that were left unchanged at $20,000.

The figures are subject to alteration by boards of review following formal hearing of complaints. The valuations are used for local tax assessment purposes.

Going Easy, Says Fegan Marquette county mines bore the brunt of the increase, with a $2,690,000 boost that raised their total assessed valuation to $28,511,000. Gogebic county mine valuations were jacked up $1,207,000 to $23,926,000; Iron county up $175,000 to $12,558,000, and Dickinson up $185,000 to $1,681,000.

John N. Fegan, chairman of the tax commission, said the increases would have been more severe had the commission abided strictly to what he described as "the usual formula." He said the valuations were tempered to meet "the present depressed condition of the steel and iron industry."

Mass Mine Up $835,000 The commission added $825,000 to the assessed valuation of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's Mass mine in Negaunee, the largest individual increase; and $290,000 to the valuation of the company's Athens mine, also at Negaunee, and $600,000 to the valuation of the North Range Mining company's Blueberry mine.

Individual changes in Marquette county, as announced by Fegan, follow:

City of Negaunee Cleveland Cliffs—Athens mine, increased $290,000 to $2,500,000; D.S.S.A., reduced $30,000 to $140,000; Mass, increased $825,000 to $3,110,000; Negaunee, reduced $245,000 to $3,000,000; Race course with Maas, reduced $50,000 to $850,000.

City of Ishpeming Cleveland Cliffs—Cliff shaft, increased $145,000 to $3,250,000; Oliver Iron Mining company, Section 16 Holmes, reduced $125,000 to $700,000.

Ely Township North Range Mining company—Blueberry mine, increased $600,000 to $1,900,000.

Inland Steel company—Morris, increased $510,000 to $2,250,000. Forsyth Township Cleveland Cliffs—Princeton, reduced $5,000 to $230,000; Stephenson—Stock, reduced $35,000 to $90,000; Francis—Stock, reduced $100,000 to $200,000.

BIG ORE BOATS BEING LAID UP

Only 87 In Operation Compared With 308 A Year Ago

Cleveland, O., June 7 (AP)—American vessels on the Great Lakes carrying iron ore from the northern Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin ranges to steel mills numbered only 87 June 6 compared with 308 a year ago when the ore carrying fleet was operating 100 per cent.

Two companies, the Ford Motor and the Shenago Steamship company, have no vessels in operation, statistics compiled by C. G. Lindeman of the M. A. Hanna company showed. The one carrying companies have 132 vessels in operation but many of them are carrying only coal and grain.

Vessels daily are being laid up due to lack of cargoes.

Pioneer Automobile Industrialist Dies

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—Frederick H. McKinney, 54, one of the pioneers of the automobile industry, died at his home in Birmingham, Mich. today. He was director of advertising and sales promotion of the Packard Motor Co. at the time of his death. His career started 30 years ago when he joined the old Ranier Motor Co. in Saginaw. He joined the Packard Co. in 1912.

McKinney was born in Hastings county, Ontario, and moved to Saginaw with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinney, when a child. He studied law at University of Michigan and University of Wisconsin.

Planes From Spain Ordered Shot Down By French Premier

Perpignan, France, June 7 (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier completed an inspection of French defenses on the Spanish frontier today and ordered artillery and air forces to shoot down any planes which again threatened French territory.

The strength of France's land and air forces at southern centers like Tarbes and Montpellier within a few hours of the border is estimated at about 60,000 men.

Of these troops only a few thousand anti-aircraft and aviation units are actually within sight of the frontier where reinforcements were rushed after bombers of "unknown nationality" from Spain thrice attacked French communities.

To prevent repetitions the premier declared squadrons of French pursuit planes will guard the Spanish border region day and night.

Tight-lipped Daladier who is also minister of defense, was immediately concerned during his inspection tour with guaranteeing the frontier population against a repetition of the aerial forays, which he considers "deliberate and a grave menace of war."

He spent Sunday and Monday examining the main anti-aircraft batteries near the frontier and conferring with the generals commanding the troops in each area.

Besides regular army contingents in the vicinity, about 1,500 mobile guardsmen patrol the eastern half of the border alone.

The exact number of fighting planes and pilots assigned to border patrols, however, remained a national defense secret.

Officers in the frontier region indicated that if the "unknown" bombers repeated their raids against France they would have to fight their way out again.

FIGHTING FLIERS GIVEN WARNINGS

Roosevelt Tells Pilots to Shun All Foreign Revolutions

Washington, June 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt, apparently making a gesture of friendliness to Latin American governments, cautioned American aviators today that they would lose their licenses if they helped foreign revolutionaries.

The president told his press conference he had had inquiries from half-dozen sources concerning American pilots undertaking to participate in revolutions against existing governments in different parts of the world.

The aviators could not be arrested, he said, but a great many of them are licensed or commissioned by the United States. He declared that if their assistance to revolutionary movements should become more active in the future the government would do everything it could to take the licenses or commissions away.

Asked whether his warning applied to aviators taking service with regular governments, he said he was not talking about that subject.

The president's words were interpreted by officials as applying more to Mexico than to other countries. Rumors have been frequent in recent weeks that American aviators were seeking to aid General Saturnino Cedillo in his revolt against the government of Lázaro Cardenas.

Conservatives Win Of possibly greater significance, however, is the hint the Iowa results give as to farm state sentiment on the liberal versus conservative issue that is shaping up for the 1940 presidential campaign. It was that aspect which prompted some presidential lieutenants to dip into the Iowa senatorial row, picking Wearin as more liberal, more of a new deal loyalist, than Gillette.

If Iowa Democratic voters recognized that as the issue, they picked the candidate challenged by the new dealers as the less liberal of the two. If Republican voters were moved to a similar decision, they made the same answer. They nominated former Senator Dickinson against Representative Thurston, rated as the Escaping Convicts Stab Prison Guard At Florence, Ariz.

Florence, Ariz., June 7 (AP)—Four convicts of a party of 17 taken to work at the State prison farm near here escaped today after stabbing one guard critically and slightly wounding another.

They fled in a prison truck, pursued by a posse of guards and peace officers.

Warden John G. Eager said the four men who escaped were serving terms of two to twenty years for burglary and robbery, and said possibly a fifth was with them.

Dr. T. B. Steward, prison physician, said Joe Lazear, captain of outside guards, was in serious condition, with several stab wounds near the heart and lungs. The other guard, George Ruiz, was cut slightly on the face.

LESS LIBERAL LEANING SEEN IN FARM VOTE

REPUBLICAN TOTAL FAR AHEAD OF DEMOCRATS

Des Moines, June 7 (AP)—Iowa Democratic leaders tonight looked to Senator Guy Gillette to heal party scars as representative Otha D. Wearin brought a bitter senatorial primary to a close by conceding Gillette's victory.

Wearin sent a telegram of congratulation to the senator as unofficial tabulation of the primary vote neared completion. With only 103 of the state's 2,447 precincts still unreported, Gillette had polled 77,718 votes, nearly 5,000 more than combined total of his four opponents.

Wearin trailed in second with 41,225, while three other candidates shared the rest of the estimated 150,000 total vote volume.

Backed By Son Jim Wearin, who was supported by Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, and had the inferential backing of James Roosevelt, the president's son, would not comment today when asked whether he would assist in the senator's campaign for re-election in the fall.

"I may have a statement in a few days," he told inquirers.

Former Senator L. J. Dickinson, who lost out in a re-election campaign 2 years ago, was handily over Representative Lloyd Thurston in the Republican senatorial primary. Dickinson polled 136,855 votes with 117 precincts, mostly in rural areas, still unreported; Thurston's total was 104,550.

Gillette said repercussions from the primary campaign formed "no occasion for resentment against any person."

"But I join in the resentment of the people of this state," he added. He said the primary results will give "that left wing group, which started out to control the presidential party nomination in 1940, a very great incentive to stop and think things over."

Will Head Ticket Gillette will head the Democratic ticket in the fall. Party leaders therefore are doubly anxious to smooth rough spots which might endanger the success, not only of the senator, but of every elective state official as well.

Iowa voters have departed from the custom of electing state officials by states rather than by individuals only twice in recent decades. In 1912 the Republicans elected a state ticket while Democratic President Wilson was capturing Iowa's electoral votes. In 1924 Democratic Senator Dan Steek won out over former Senator S. W. Brookhart after a contest.

The Republicans also won the state ticket that year.

BY KIRKE SIMPSON Washington, June 7 (AP)—For some students of political trends, the Iowa primaries had a deeper meaning than the rebuff given administration leadership by Democratic voters who renominated Senator Gillette in preference to Representative Wearin.

That rebuff was unmistakable. Its echoes are designed to ring in administration ears down to the November elections. They bid fair to lessen the chances of enacting the remaining parts of the 1938 legislative program in the form the president desires.

Conservatives Win Of possibly greater significance, however, is the hint the Iowa results give as to farm state sentiment on the liberal versus conservative issue that is shaping up for the 1940 presidential campaign. It was that aspect which prompted some presidential lieutenants to dip into the Iowa senatorial row, picking Wearin as more liberal, more of a new deal loyalist, than Gillette.

If Iowa Democratic voters recognized that as the issue, they picked the candidate challenged by the new dealers as the less liberal of the two. HARBOR RULES ARE PRESENTED

New Dock Regulations Went Into Effect on June 1

A new set of rules and regulations for the use of the yacht harbor was announced recently by city officials, the rules going into effect on June 1.

Under the rules, no local boats shall moor at the dock except to take on and discharge passengers and to make necessary repairs.

All boats, with the exception of small, flat-bottomed sailboats, must moor east of a line from the dock to the west end of Sand Island.

For the time being, small sail boats may moor west of the old bathhouses.

All owners of any kind of craft must register with the harbor master, Clarence Falk, who is in charge of inspection of moorings. He will require repairs or replacements as needed.

All motor boats must hold down to a speed of not more than four miles per hour until clear of the harbor entrance.

Policeman Doused In Detroit Battle At Cemetery Fence

Detroit, June 7. (AP)—A battle over a cemetery fence, in which a group of women doused workmen and police with water, ended in a compromise today.

The women were pulling up fence posts, overturning wheelbarrows, using a garden hose and otherwise harassing three workmen setting the fence when a dozen policemen responded to an alarm. One woman turned the hose on Inspector Henry R. Taube, and brandished a wash tub at a patrolman sent by the inspector to subdue her.

Then the Rev. Fr. Simon Kilar, pastor of an adjoining Catholic parish, intervened as peacemaker and arranged the compromise.

The women were objecting to the setting of a fence on the western boundary of the cemetery belonging to the Sweetest Heart of Mary Catholic church, on McNichols road. They said it blocked entrance to their garage and contended that they were given to understand a 20-foot alley ran at the rear of their properties. Church officials however, pointed to their warranty deeds as proof that the alley did not exist.

Under the compromise, the fence-building will be postponed pending a hearing before the city council Thursday.

Brady Gangster's Execution Delayed

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 7. (AP)—U. S. District Attorney James R. Fleming said today the execution of James Dalhovey, Brady gangster scheduled to die Friday for the slaying of State Policeman Paul V. Minneman, had been stayed automatically by an order from the U. S. circuit court of appeals recalling its recent mandate affirming Dalhovey's conviction.

The action was taken to give Dalhovey's attorneys time in which to prepare an appeal to the United States supreme court.

Dalhovey was captured in Bangor, Me., while two other members of the Brady gang of bank robbers and slayers — Al Brady and Clarence Lee Shafer — were held by federal agents and police.

Chicken Prices Due To Drop; Eggs Go Up

Lansing, June 7. (AP)—The state co-operative crop reporting service had good news for both the poultryman and the consumer of poultry products today.

Verne H. Church, senior statistician, predicted the current upturn in egg prices would continue through 1938, and that the price average for the last half of the year would be higher than that of a year ago.

He said a near record hatch of chicks indicated, however, that chicken prices would continue to slump, and might die to a point below the 1937 mid-year price average. He said this year's hatch was second only to that of 1930.

Church reported the hatch in the first four months this year was 5.7 per cent greater than that in the corresponding period of 1937, and 22 per cent above the average for those months in the period 1933-37.

At impressive commencement exercises, last evening, the first to be held in Bonifas Memorial auditorium, members of the class of 1938 of St. Joseph's high school received their diplomas.

Added dignity was given the occasion by the presence of the Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, bishop of Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, who, in Escanaba, to confirm classes in the three Catholic parishes and for the silver jubilee of Rev. Fr. Peter Blecker, remained to take part in the commencement program.

The exercises opened with the procession, in which the entire high school student body took part in perfectly executed marching drill, closing with a colorful assembled group, and the chorus presentation of "Ave Maria," Molitor, and "A Song of Joy," Bornschein.

The salutatory, "At the Portals," by Louise VandeWiele, and the valedictory, "Build Thyself Stately Mansions," by Russell Faber, both well prepared and delivered orations, were followed by "Reverie," Wainwright, by the high school orchestra.

Father Burke Speaker
The Very Rev. Dennis Burke, O. Praem, prior of St. Norbert's college, DePue, who gave the commencement address, delivered a plea for Christian education and for the continuance of studies in institutions of higher learning, discussing in detail the aims and principles involved.

"Education is not so much to teach man to make a living, but rather to teach him how to live," he declared, adding, "What you have learned was not learned for today or tomorrow, but for life."

He paid high tribute in his address to the late William Bonifas, and the memorial building, his gift to his church and home parish.

Diplomas were presented by Bishop Plagens to the twenty-six members of the graduating class: Jeanne Adamson, class secretary, Rosalind Ammel, Willard Blau, Rosalie Collins, Bernice Dufour, Theodore Derwin, Marion Dufour, Russell Faber, class president, Joyce Gibbs, Fred Knauf, Corinne Larson, Alfred LeBlanc, Kenneth Lewis, Marianne McCarthy.

Twin Plane Crash At Randolph Field Kills Four Airmen

San Antonio, Texas, June 7. (AP)—Four Randolph field flyers, two of them instructors, one of them a flying cadet and the other a student officer, were killed today in two airplane crashes within a few minutes of each other near the main field.

The dead:
Second Lieut. Nathan H. Coddington, 28, Los Angeles, Calif., an instructor.
Second Lieut. Arthur M. Kessler, 29, Houston, an instructor.
Cadet William H. Coney, 25, Washington, D. C., air student.
Second Lieut. Frederick M. Thompson, Los Angeles, a West Point graduate, died several hours later in Randolph field hospital.

The planes involved in the two crashes were both B-9 basic trainers, low-winged monoplanes.

Causes of the crashes still was a mystery to a military court of inquiry. Witnesses who saw the crashes were unable to supply information as to the cause. The ships were engaged in routine maneuvers and were not taking off or landing.

Creameries Settle Strike At Detroit

Detroit, June 7. (AP)—A strike of 750 employees of the Detroit Creamery Co. and the Ebling Creamery Co., both units of the National Dairies Co., was settled at 9 a. m. today with customers receiving their milk from five to eight hours late.

The United Dairy Workers union (CIO) called the strike at 1 a. m. at seven branches of the creameries. The concerns supply 25 per cent of Detroit's milk.

The union was granted two weeks vacations, the main point it sought, in the settlement, Kenneth L. Vardon, union president, said. He asserted that both sides had agreed to meet later to negotiate other minor points. Previously, the men had received one week vacations.

LESS LIBERAL LEANING SEEN IN FARM VOTE

more liberal of the two. Looking Toward 1940

But that issue was not sharply drawn in the Democratic senatorial primary. It rested only on the assumption that Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, James Roosevelt, and any other Washington new dealers, who backed Wear against Gillette were not merely attempting to discipline Gillette for his anti-court bill stand last year, but endeavoring to make over the party placement on a liberal new deal model for 1940.

The Gillette sweep unquestionably stimulated hopes of other Democratic senators who were against the court bill and who face primary opposition fostered by administration men. It remains to be disclosed whether the Iowa results will prompt the president to restrain those of his aides who seem bent on weeding out actual or suspected anti-new deal senators. Before the voting yesterday there were harmony efforts in Iowa with an appearance of White House sanction. This might indicate that the uproar among senate Democrats after Hopkins issued his statement favoring Wearin had induced counsels of caution.

Hopkins Blundered
In the light of the results, the Hopkins statement cannot be set down as less than a tactical blunder, whoever suggested or approved it. There was a disposition among some administration aides, even before the voting in Iowa, to class it as that off the record.

By and large, however, the feature of the Iowa primaries that stands out most sharply in the appearance of a popular drift toward the conservative side and the certain fact that candidates backed by a state party organization often have a distinct advantage even against interference from Washington. That was first demonstrated in the Pennsylvania primaries. The state organization tickets, Republicans and Democrats whooped through. Iowa Democrats also stuck to the organization slate.

Young Men In Yawl Drift Seven Hours In Monday's Storm

Port Huron, Mich., June 7. (AP)—Three young men rested in Port Huron today after drifting helplessly for seven hours in Monday night's storm on Lake Huron in a 31-foot yawl.

The three, Merrill S. Mills, 26, Detroit, and Cyril McMillan, 17, and Woodrow Ransler, 20, both of Midland, had started from Essexville, Mich., Saturday night, bound for Detroit, where they were to turn the boat over to its owner, Robert E. Lee.

"Monday morning we struck rocks off the Port Austin reef," Mills said, but we managed to get away safely. The wind had begun to pick up considerably and the sea began to get rough. We drifted about seven hours and did everything we could to attract the attention of 12 freighters. We kept drifting out and were about 11 miles off shore east of Hope when the freighter Fred Hartwell picked us up."

The boat was towed to Port Huron, its main mast carried away and its cabin gone. The three said their outboard motor had been useless.

Bullet Kills Woman Through Partition

Bay City, Mich., June 7. (AP)—Accidental discharge of a gun last night caused the death here of Mrs. James Adams, 24, mother of two children. Edwin Wendt, who was holding the weapon when it fired, was absolved of blame by Dr. John A. Keho, coroner.

The bullet went through a partition of a cottage at which Mrs. Adams was staying, striking her above the left eye. Dr. Keho said there would be no inquest.

BOTH MISS MARK

Battle Creek, Mich., June 7. (AP)—After two men held up his drug store today Jesse J. Eagles, the druggist, was so angry he picked up a scoop from his scales and hurled it at the retreating pair. One of the men turned, Eagles told police, drew his revolver and fired a shot at the druggist. Both the scoop and the bullet missed their marks. The robbers took $15 from the cash register.

TEMPLARS HAVE BIG GATHERING

Five Thousand Michigan Knights March At Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 7. (AP)—Five thousand Michigan Knights Templar, in white-plumed chapeaux and somber black uniforms, paraded through downtown Grand Rapids this afternoon.

Headed by 16 crack platoons of Detroit Commandery No. 1, more than 35 expertly drilled units, representing virtually every major city in the state, participated in the impressive procession which marked the climax of the Michigan Grand Commandery's eighty-second annual convale.

Brilliant sunshine glinted off 5,000 swords as the Templars marched down flag-bedecked Monroe avenue, then halted, massed and reformed in the traditional procession cross of their order to retrace their route.

Colors and bands were massed for the slow return march, to the strains of the Templars' anthem, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

More than twenty bands and drum corps, many from Michigan high schools, were in the line of march.

Most Eminent Grand Master Mark Norris, of Grand Rapids, head of all Templars in the United States, and Right Eminent Grand Commander Fred H. Locke, of Grand Rapids, head of the Michigan Grand Commandery, were among the dignitaries in the reviewing stand in Campau Square.

Grand Captain General James H. Garlick, of Detroit, was grand marshal of the parade and supervised the complicated maneuvers necessary to form the vast, living cross.

The parade was followed tonight by dinners for individual commanderies, after which most of the units assembled at Houseman Field for three hours of competitive drill.

Business sessions, which opened today, will continue through Thursday. Officers will be elected and the 1939 convale city chosen on the final day.

Toll Of Drownings Is Increased To 13

Bay City, Mich., June 7. (AP)—The number of persons drowned in Michigan this week was increased to 13 today when Julia Shea, 14, perished in Sagaw Bay while swimming with other youngsters from Holy Trinity church who were holding a picnic.

The body was recovered about an hour after the drowning by Capt. Robert McLean of the Bay City fire department. Artificial respiration was attempted on the girl for three hours without success. The child made her home with the L. J. Kantzier family here.

Campaign Is Aimed At Phony Indians

Harbor Springs, Mich., June 7. (AP)—The phony Indian is due to be chased back on his own reservation.

Irked by professional entertainers who falsely represent themselves as red men, Fred J. Ettawageshik, of Harbor Springs, chief of the Michigan Indian Defense association, today announced that the aid of the American Legion had been sought in exposing these phonies.

Chief Ettawageshik asked Francis S. Wakefield, of Grand Rapids, chairman of the Indian affairs committee of the Michigan department of the Legion, to publicize all professional entertainers who falsely claim to be Indians.

including funds to begin the big navy program, dropped into the lap of the house today, hearing the appropriation committee's OK.

Last of the session's major supply bills, the measure carried a total of $41,775,187 for the navy, of which $35,802,000 was earmarked for starting construction of 19 vessels and a broad program of navy yard improvements.

The new ships include two 35,000-ton battleships to cost $151,700,000; two light cruisers; eight experimental vessels to form the nucleus of a "mystery" fleet and seven auxiliary ships.

Before approving the bill, the appropriations committee turned down requests for funds for a new aircraft carrier and a $3,000,000 experimental dirigible. The committee said the former could not be started until after May 1, 1939, and the latter would have no military value.

Apart from the naval funds, the major items in the bill were $94,285,404 to restore the capital of the commodity credit corporation to $100,000,000; $40,561,886 to refund social security taxes to states which did not have unemployment compensation laws in effect prior to December 31, 1936, and $50,000,000 for processing tax refunds.

Shortly after the bill reached the house floor, Representative Taber (R-N. Y.), ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, declared its enactment would bring the total appropriations for this session to almost $13,500,000,000 and create a deficit of $8,000,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or over-fatigued, your stomach fails to digest properly. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel poor, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say there's a laxative for stomach pain. It's dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-on for indigestion to make the stomach stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Bell-on is so much to be trusted and one the package proves it. Ask for Bell-on for indigestion.

Bergman Family Makes Fine Scholastic Record

Mae Bergman, president of the senior class of Escanaba high school, yesterday was given the Rotary award, a beautiful wrist watch, having been selected as the senior girl outstanding in leadership, scholarship and service.

Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bergman, 1016 Tenth avenue south, is the second successive member of the family to receive the Rotary award. Her sister, Regina, won the award last year.

Awards to the Bergman family are not new, however. Vincent, who was graduated in 1933 after an outstanding high school career, was graduated with honors from Augustana college two years ago. He now is employed in the office of Charles Glavin in this city. He represented the upper peninsula at an International Youth Conference in Canada while in high school.

Esther, who was senior class treasurer in 1934, is graduating this week from Augustana. Regina, who was vice president of her senior class, is a freshman this year at the same school and Mae expects to enter next year.

All four members of the family have been members of the National Honor Society, admission to which is based on excellence in scholarship, character, leadership and service. All four are talented musicians. Vincent, Esther and Regina received scholarships to Augustana. No scholarship was available this year.

Farmers Meeting At Cornell June 9

Cornell, Mich., June 7.—Another "agricultural marketing" meeting being held in the Delta Made territory and sponsored by the Delta Milk Producers Ass'n and the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union is scheduled here on Thursday evening, June 9, Harold Woodard, local director of Delta Made, announced today.

Discussion at the meeting will center around the agricultural situation with special emphasis on the program of action to be followed by farmers in bettering their conditions in the present "recession." From reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture it appears that the markets for agricultural products do not promise very good returns in 1938.

The discussion will be opened by C. M. Rovainen, educational director of the Marquette District Co-operative Federation. Scheduled to give short talks are Louis Jorgenson, Delta Made manager; Arvid Mustonen, manager of the Upper Peninsula Farmers' Mutual Insurance company, and representatives of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union. Mr. Woodard will preside.

Southern Michigan Lakes Have Fish

Ann Arbor—Southern Michigan lakes are not over-fished, if the waters of the Waterloo Project of the National Park Service in Washtenaw and Jackson counties are a fair sample. The lakes of the Waterloo area could be much more heavily fished without depleting the fish population, it is revealed by a recent survey.

Less than eight per cent of the legal sized fish in these lakes were removed in 1936, according to the report of the Institute of Fisheries Research, a joint enterprise of the Michigan Department of Conservation and the University of Michigan. A creel census taken by the Waterloo Project in conjunction with the Institute during that year revealed that fishermen caught only 37.7 fish per acre in the lakes of the Waterloo area, whereas conservative estimates place the population of these waters at 500 legal sized fish per acre.

The survey also revealed that winter fishing on these lakes did no harm to summer and fall fishing, contrary to common belief. It may be, the Institute reports, that winter fishing improves summer fishing by removing species which prey on the fish most popular with warm weather fishermen.

The Bank of England commenced active operation on Jan. 1, 1935.

Farmers raise 70 per cent of their own food.

Radio Around The Clock

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD Associated Press Radio Editor Time Is Central Standard

New York, June 7—A new commentator makes her appearance in broadcasting on Wednesday evening. It's Ruth Bryan Owen Rohoe, former minister to Denmark and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

She will have a 15-minute period a week on WEAF-NBC at 5:30 in which she will discuss both national and international affairs under the embracing title of "It's News to Me."

Two tastes of midweek sports are in prospect. One is the previously announced Wilmington handicap at Wilmington, Del., with Clem McCarthy telling WEAF-NBC at 3 just how the horses are running. The other is a Ted Husing preview on WABC-CBS at 5:45 from Denver of the National Open golf championships which start their 1938 drive and put on Thursday.

With Werner Janssen conducting, a special concert will be brought in from Hollywood for WEAF-NBC at 9:30. Madeleine Carroll and Henry Fonda will be guests in the program. . . . Another in the concert list is the regular program of the Boston Pops orchestra, to fill the hour on WJZ-NBC at 7:30. There is still another musical feature, the Keyboards concert on WABC-CBS at 3. This time the piano guest is Jacques Jolas.

An expert on fish flies and lures, particularly from the standpoint of their designing, is the latest to get the mid-program attention in Fred Allen's interviews of "the person you didn't expect to meet." He is Ray Smith of Phoenixia, N. Y. Andre Baruch, filling in as announcer for Vacationing Harry von Zell, will do his last of four, all because Harry is due back on the air next week. The Russian Question Mark

U.S.S.R. stands for the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, once known as the Russian Empire, and it has more live soldiers and dead generals than any other nation on earth, says a contemporary.

Some day the story of Russia's spy hunts will out, but meanwhile the country is steadily progressing physically in military power. Its peace-time active army is 1,500,000—more than twice Germany's and more than three times Italy's.

Its trained reserve is 18,000,000 against Italy's 5,600,000 and Germany's 1,400,000. Its army possesses more mechanized equipment than any other, and it has about 6,000 tanks alone.

What is the meaning of all this? Probably that Germany and Japan are not going to catch the Russians napping. Japan is Russia's dearest enemy, but the Red Army in the Far East is now so strong that no Japanese Government in its right mind is likely to attack it.

McPherson Out

WITHDRAWAL of Melville B. McPherson, member of the state tax commission, from the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination is expected to redound to the benefit of Former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald.

McPherson has been long active with the Michigan Association of County Supervisors and farm organizations, and was expected to poll a heavy vote from the rural areas, where Fitzgerald always has had a strong following.

Horrible Example

IN the beginning of the 20th century Mackenzie and Mann were busy building up in western Canada a network of rail lines known as the Canadian Northern. They paralleled the Canadian Pacific transcontinental line, and feeling that this wasn't enough, they installed a third line through the wilderness from Winnipeg to Quebec, and from Toronto to Port Arthur.

The records of the Canadian Parliament carry Premier Laurier's testimony that he had collected mountains of information on the plan beforehand, and that the total cost of the proposed lines would be approximately $12,000,000.

Long stretches of the optimistically-built lines are now in prospect of abandonment, one of the longest being the roadbed from Beaverton, near Toronto, to Longlac, near Port Arthur, running through Sudbury, Capreol, Oba and Hornepayne, a distance of about 600 miles.

Canada is a great little country, but she is being drained of billions by her top-heavy government railroads. Her present ent dilemma is a faithful picture of what happens when government goes into business, and especially into the railroad business.

Project Going Through

NEWS from Chicago to the effect that representatives of three railroads and the Happiness Tours, Inc., have reached an agreement for the joint promotion of "golf trains" to the Upper Peninsula during July and August is just the kind of news that has been anxiously awaited in the communities affected.

The "golf trains" will be in the nature of a discovery tour of the Upper Peninsula for the Chicago golfers, many of whom will be coming to this region for the first time. "Snow trains," "bicycle trains" and the other special tours have done much in recent years to encourage interest in vacation traveling. It is reasonable to expect that if the golf tours are successful this summer there will be little difficulty encountered in endeavoring to have a continuation of this project during the Upper Peninsula winter sports season.

Playing golf on the Upper Peninsula's scenic golf courses in cool weather should make a hit with heat-stricken Chicagoan golfers. What will be equally important in selling this vacation region to these visitors will be the kind of hospitality and courtesy shown by Upper Peninsula people. After all, a community wins more friends by its friendliness than by its scenery and other physical advantages.

Catch 'Em Young

IT'S breath-taking, the number of remarkable ideas people get that provoke the reaction: "Now why didn't somebody think of that one before?"

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, got a good one the other day. He suggested that the training of automobile drivers begin in childhood. Which is certainly worth giving a whirl, at least.

But first, as long as education seems to be turning its attention more and more to practical matters, why not childhood training in:

• Appearing at ease with a raincoat and overshoes on a sunny afternoon? • Guessing a woman's age without seeming to evade the issue? • Reading the news of the world without groaning audibly? • Laughing at the opposition's political jokes without laughing too hard? • Wearing a new haircut as if you'd always had it?

TOY IN THE PENINSULA

Judge Toy has been meeting with an excellent reception on his upper peninsula tour. He has been greeting substantial groups assembled to discuss organization work, to whom he is outlining his views. He is not begging the labor issue. He is an organized labor man, but he is also a law and order man. In his attack on Governor Murphy for what he characterizes as a surrender to subversive elements he pulls no punches.

By some this course is regarded as inexpedient, and is cited as a reason why Judge Toy would not make the strongest candidate for governor. Those who hold this view seem to have the idea that the best politics for the Republicans is to soft pedal, or straddle, the issue. The attitude of Fitzgerald, who is disposed to let it lie, is more to their liking.

It is doubtful that they are right. There is probably much more to be gained than to be lost by frankly dealing with it after the manner of Judge Toy. No amount of soft pedaling is likely to win votes from the labor groups, particularly those in C.I.O. who support Governor Murphy has been wooing. In their recent state conference the C.I.O. unions gave him unqualified endorsement and they will stick with him, practically to a man, to the finish.

If there are no votes to be won by straddling the issue there are, however, votes to be lost. They are votes that can be cast by men and women who believe that it is time to meet it, and whose response to a failure to meet it would likely be decision to stay at home on election day. They, like Judge Toy, are not opposed to organization of labor, or organized labor. Whatever their past views may have been, they see it as an inevitable development. But they desire that the activities of the unions, as well as those of the employers, be kept within both the letter and the spirit of the law. They see a threat of social disintegration in condonation of labor activities that go far beyond the limits of the law. They are therefore, sympathetic with Judge Toy's condemnation of Mr. Murphy's course. To them his downrightness has great appeal. They would like to have an election based on real issues, not on shadow boxing.

The canvass of the candidates for the Republican nomination bids fair to be the most intensive ever conducted in the state. Mr. Fitzgerald is a tireless worker and will leave nothing undone to gain success. But Judge Toy will match him in personal and organization activity. Already his preliminary canvass has carried him into most of the lower state counties, and before it is finished he will have visited all the counties in the state. It will be a prelude to a comprehensive speaking campaign.

The lines the canvass will take are still uncertain. Judge Toy, though for the moment the issue is not the governorship but the fight to Murphy and not to Fitzgerald. Whether he will continue this form of campaign is one of the uncertainties. He is, in any event, well satisfied with the situation in its present phase. Whatever this situation may be it is manifestly subject in the weeks to come to marked fluctuations. The contest is just beginning to take form. Many active

BY MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent London — The failure of Germany's Nazi-controlled newspapers to throw journalistic fits of anger at the spectacle of a Socialist becoming the new Premier of neighboring Belgium is easily explained.

Broad-shouldered, broad-faced, broad-minded Paul Henri Spaak, new skipper of the Belgian ship of state, has had pleasant diplomatic relations with the German government in the recent past. As Foreign Minister in the Van Zeeland cabinet of 1936, Spaak induced his government to give up its military alliance with France and to resume full neutrality. It was further under his guidance that a pact was made with Germany whereby the Nazis agreed to recognize and respect Belgian neutrality.

Nevertheless, the rise of Spaak to the role of Prime Minister is significant in that—with Germany rampaging against "Reds" and persecuting its own Marxists—little Belgium did display a measure of independence by handing over her governmental reins to a Socialist.

Spaak, whose name indicates his Flemish origin, was born in 1899 and so is one of the youngest Premiers Belgium ever had. He comes from a family which for long played a role in Belgian politics. Early after he attained his majority, Spaak joined the Socialist party and was soon elected to the Chamber of Deputies from Brussels. In Parliament he became known as one of the leaders of the extreme Left wing of his party.

But power and responsibility often sober men and Spaak was duly sobered when Premier Van Zeeland, in his coalition cabinet, made Spaak Minister of Transport. In 1936 he was made Minister of Foreign Affairs and held that important post in all the cabinets that were subsequently formed.

In his ministerial declaration as Premier he recently, as a good Socialist would be expected to do, said the government would exert all its power to solve the unemployment problem and to secure unemployment insurance laws of a sweeping nature. To help him in the task, the government would also introduce a broad program of new roads, new school buildings and improved hospitals. The state-owned railways would be improved and modernized and everything possible done to help the all-important fishing industry. He satisfied business by saying the cabinet was determined to balance its budget.

He also boldly tackled the double language problem. Roughly Belgium is divided into two sections. Western Belgium is mainly inhabited by folk who speak Flemish. Eastern Belgium is mainly inhabited by the Walloons, the French-speaking Belgians.

Before the World War, the language question often came up the Flemish holding that French played too large a part and had too favored a position in the army, the schools and universities, the courts and government offices. When the Germans occupied Belgium during the war, they fostered the Flemish sense of wrong, doing so because Flemish was a Germanic tongue and because if they permanently held Belgium, they might gradually lead the Flemish to become loyal German subjects.

Once Belgium was freed of its German invaders, the language question continued to be agitated. Spaak has now promised that Flemish and French will be placed on the same footing, just as German, Italian and French are in the Swiss republic.

New York Column

New York—Even though the Duke and Duchess of Windsor choose to remain on their continental home grounds, New York had more than its share of blue-blooded visitors during the past season.

Current tops in royalty is represented by the grandson of Emperor Wilhelm of Germany, Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, and his bride, the former Grand Duchess Kira of Russia. They constitute one of the most pleasant young twosomes of royal lineage who have tripped down the gangplank of a trans-Atlantic liner in many years.

Both are young. Both are good looking, spirited and unfettered with phony pretensions. They have been making the rounds of the theaters and gay spots unheralded by any fanfare, and often unknown and unrecognized. When spotted the other evening in a mid-town cabaret they were grinning from ear to ear at their own ludicrous efforts to master the shag. A photographer timidly asking permission to snap a picture, received a gay wave of the hand and an eager nod of assent.

They have yet to sport impressive sartorial raiment; matter of fact, no one has seen them in evening dress. The Princess wears no jewelry, her husband treks about town hatless. By watching them you can tell they don't give a hoot about being lionized socially.

Balked at Balkans

The three sisters of King Zog of Albania, over-published before their arrival due to a report that they were searching for potential partners in matrimony, failed to capture the public's fancy. An uninspired retinue of followers, that included no young people of the opposite sex, escorted them around to the night clubs where the Princesses over-dressed and smeared with cosmetics, sat in moody silence, casting long glances at the jibbant antics of their table neighbors.

One of the most interesting of this season's crop of titled tourists was Lord Decies, 60-year-old British blue-blood, who arrived on a Monday morning, and sailed again the following day. He spent the night, or a part of it at any rate, in one of the swankier East Side spots guffawing heartily and trading jests with the journalistic tribe.

Lord Beaverbrook was another member of the Mayfair colony who hung his chapeau in a Manhattan hostelry this season. He stopped at the Ritz, went up to the Empire State Building to shake hands with Al Smith, took a quick look at a couple of the noisier Manhattan cabarets—and admitted to quite a thrill when given the opportunity of scooping up and down the city's streets in a screaming police car.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, June 7.—The most ancient of American political axioms is that, in bad times, the power of the administration diminishes as the business index drops. The people lose confidence in their rulers; the feelings of the voters are reflected in congress, and, before long, the administration is rendered impotent. It has always worked that way.

Under the New Deal, however, all things are different. Vast depression-born increases in the power of the President and his subordinates are already in prospect in three important fields—railroads, agriculture and relief. In the first, congress has shamefully abdicated its responsibility. In the second, a previous grant of power will soon become applicable. And, in the third, the opposition to the White House in the senate played scuttle and run on the spending bill.

RAILROAD RUINS

It is not too much to say that, if things go on as they are going, government ownership of the nation's railroad system will soon be inevitable. It was disclosed in this space yesterday that authoritative government economists now estimate that only eight railroads in America will meet their 1938 fixed charges. The implications of that are perfectly obvious. Either of two things can happen. Some way can be found to permit the RFC to advance funds to the shaky roads. Then the government will hold a first mortgage on the estimated 94 per cent of the national railroad mileage which cannot earn its keep. Or the railroads can be allowed to go to the wall, with accompanying fearful shocks to the economic system. And the immediate result will be a violent agitation for government ownership.

One of the most fantastic things in the whole fantastic railroad situation is the benumbed expectancy of government ownership. In the ranks of railroad management and railroad labor, in the offices of the insurance companies and savings banks where railroad bonds are held, in congress and in the executive departments, you will hardly find an informed and realistic man ready to deny that government ownership is on the way.

Under the circumstances, it seems too bad that neither the President, nor Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC, nor the Chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, Senator Wheeler, nor any of the business men involved has troubled to tell the country of the true state of affairs. The people may want government ownership, but they should at least have the privilege of choice.

THE FARM FUTURE

In the farm problem, there is no choice. Greater powers for the administration have been granted, and must be used. Farm prices have already dropped precipitately, and are likely to drop still further under the pressure of huge crops. Under the new farm bill, the administration is directed to use the funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation to peg the prices of the major crops like wheat, cotton and corn.

For example, it's expected that the wheat price will be pegged by loans at 60 cents a bushel, with the pot sweetened for cooperating farmers by parity payments of 8 to 10 cents. Under the circumstances, it's entirely possible that the crop carryover will end in the hands of the Commodity Credit Corporation. Therefore, to avoid the dreadful troubles of the Hoover farm board, it will be necessary for the Agriculture Department to enforce the strictest production control next year.

Thus, the depression is not only likely to make the government the owner of great granaries and warehouses full of farm produce. It is also likely to set up the Agriculture Department as a benevolent despot of the fields.

TEMPTED PRESIDENT

As for the relief problem, the senate quietly killed the Woodrum amendment to the spending bill in the hectic hours before passage. Unless the House insists on the re-insertion of the amendment, the President may now spend the $1,425,000,000 relief appropriation as fast as he chooses. The temptation will be all but irresistible to shower all the money out before election. There is no need to make the money last twelve months. The congress can always be asked for more.

This is perhaps the greatest of the three prospective increases in the President's powers. Certainly it is the most important from a political standpoint. The advent of government ownership of railroads will not be politically useful; the farm crisis will leave resentments behind. But since the senate has in effect doubled the relief funds at the President's disposal, he may manage to make a majority of the people forget about the depression altogether.

By Douglas Malloch

THERE'S THIS ABOUT TROUBLE There's this about trouble, there's this about care, We know that it happens, it happens somewhere

To folks in the paper, to somebody thus— But, my, we're surprised when it happens to us.

We hear about trouble, we even have been Some place with a house with the roof fallen in. Now gaunt is the garden, now missing the flowers— But, my, we're surprised when it happens to ours.

We think about trouble as something afar, Without ever knowing how near it we are. Yes, people have trouble, you know that they do. But, my, you're surprised when it happens to you.

COURT UPHOLDS BELL DECISION

Ruling Paves Road for Marshall B. Lloyd Medical Clinic

Lansing—(P)—Trustees of the will of the late Marshall B. Lloyd, Menominee millionaire, won in the state supreme court today their fight for authority to revise plans for administering the charitable trust created at his death.

Sixteen heirs-at-law had sued in Menominee county circuit court challenging the appointment of Cecil J. Scanlan and Albert G. Chorney as trustees. Unsuccessful, they appealed to the high court.

In its opinion the supreme court said Lloyd's estate had shrunk to such a point that the trust fund now contains not more than $210,000. It was to have provided funds for laboratories and research in medicine, especially for a medical center in Menominee.

The court unanimously affirmed the lower court decision which it said "in effect dismissed the bill of complaint," pointing out that the plaintiffs admitted shrinkage of the estate made it impossible to carry out the trust plan on the ambitious scale Lloyd had anticipated.

Clear Legal Track

The supreme court's action leaves clear the legal path of creation of the Marshall B. Lloyd Clinic here.

When Marshall B. Lloyd died in 1927 he willed his estate to the City of Menominee, giving a number of specific life interests to the estate to his heirs, the principal to revert to the Marshall B. Lloyd Fund at the death of the heirs.

The provisions of the will were revised in litigation after his death. The estate was divided and a block of stock of the Heywood-Wakefield company was set aside as the Marshall B. Lloyd Fund.

When the trustees of the fund proposed expenditure of the fund on creation of Marshall B. Lloyd Clinic adjoining the hospital here, some of the heirs and relatives of

Mr. Lloyd joined in a suit opposing the trustee's plan. They alleged that the plan failed to conform to Mr. Lloyd's intent in creating the fund. They alleged that the clinic, as proposed, would not provide free medical service to the needy, as desired by Mr. Lloyd. This the trustees denied, declaring that medical service would be free to those unable to pay.

Bell Is Upheld

Circuit Court Judge Frank A. Bell of Negaunee denied the objections of the plaintiffs and the state supreme court today upheld Judge Bell.

No other legal obstacles to creation of the clinic building are pending. The way is clear for the Marshall B. Lloyd Clinic Corp., created by the Lloyd Fund trustees, to proceed with construction of the clinic building, for which plans are being drafted by Derrick Hubert, local architect. Financing proposals have not been formalized, but it has been proposed to put up the 19,500 shares of B-H-W stock as collateral for a loan to finance the construction.

Fjetland May Land Commission Post

Washington (P)—Senator Brown (D-Mich.) disclosed today he had recommended presidential appointment of O. K. Fjetland, chairman of the Great Lakes Tidewater association's executive committee, to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway commission.

The commission would consider a treaty between United States and Canada for construction of the proposed waterway.

Fjetland was secretary to former Governor William A. Comstock of Michigan and is a former Gladstone newspaperman.

FIRE DAMAGES SHOP BUILDING

Marinette Store Badly Burned By Fire of Unknown Origin

Menominee, June 7.—Fire of undetermined origin in Marinette yesterday damaged three one-story frame shop buildings on Pierce avenue to an estimated $2,000. A residence roof fire caused damage estimated at $100. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

The fire on Pierce avenue apparently started in a store room at the rear of the Ray Danner meat market and grocery store, formerly a chicken hatchery, according to Marinette Fire Chief Otto Hackbarth.

From the Danner shop the fire spread east next door to the Nels C. Jensen shoe repair shop at 817 Pierce avenue; and west next door to the Earl Dettman tire shop and gas and oil station.

The fire alarm was turned in at the fire station at noon, after the blaze had reached considerable headway. The blaze was brought under control in less than half an hour. Damage was to the roofs, portions of the sidewalls, and to supplies and furnishings in the three one-story frame shop buildings.

The Nelson and Danner locations are owned by H. Mullin, 1435 Grant street, Marinette. Mr. Mullin said his loss was partly covered by insurance.

While the firemen were working at the shop fires, an alarm was reported from the Victor W. Duquaine residence, 807 Wells street, about two blocks distant, where fire had started in a single roof. Fire Chief Hackbarth believes the roof blaze did not start from the fire on Pierce avenue. He said he believes the fire was started by chimney sparks. Damage is estimated at $100.

Motor Boat Race To Be Held With Squadron Visit

The M. and M. Yacht club is sponsoring a motor boat race from Menominee to Escanaba on July 8 in conjunction with the Lake Michigan Yachting Association power squadron. It was learned here yesterday.

Rules will be the same as those used in the annual Chicago-Milwaukee motor boat race for the Ole Evinrude trophy, which requires that each skipper estimate his time for the run and, being deprived of time pieces, will be judged according to his own reckoning.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Rodney Dutcher

Washington — Germany, while planning what to do about Czechoslovakia and other European problems, also is compelled to give a little attention to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC is waiting for an anticipated new offer of German bonds as payment of interest on German securities held in this country. The Nazi government won't allow German debtors to pay money on these bonds; it takes the money itself and then feeds out still more paper which it promises will mature years hence.

SEC officials have decided American investors are entitled to fullest possible knowledge of the financial condition of the Reich before they decide whether to accept such bonds as interest payment. In the registration statement which accompanies any future issue of the sort it will demand a full statement of the so-called German "secret debt," the full national debt as it exists following the gobbling of Austria and other details Germany previously has been unwilling to give.

SEC GETTING MORE HARDBOILED

The present offer of "conversion" bonds expires July 1. It was an issue of $69,000,000 of 3 per cent bonds maturing in 1945, to apply as interest due on about 120 German security registrations. The German government's registration statement showed more than 14 billion reichsmarks of national debt. SEC asked how about at least five billions more of obligations known to have existed in 1935. German agents replied in effect that those were "obligations, not debt." SEC in March, 1937, decided to let the statement ride, feeling that the bonds were all investors were likely to get, in any event.

Now, perhaps because of a feeling that Hitler deserves no special favors, SEC is more hard-boiled. It refused to let the old statement stand for May and June and will demand an entirely different one for any future German issues.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

It costs more to live in Washington than in any other American city, according to government surveys. A study covering 59 cities, selected with geographical evenness, showed that it cost $1414.54 to support a four-person manual worker's family at a maintenance level in 1935.

The lowest-cost city was Mobile, Ala., where the figure was found to be $1012.98. Anyone planning to move to a big city may be interested in figures for some of them: San Francisco $1389.87, New York $1375.13, Chicago $1356.11, Boston $1352.77, Cleveland $1348.33, St. Louis $1339.55, Detroit $1317.53, Los Angeles $1598.11.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

President Roosevelt has solemnly promised newspaper photographers that he will give them lessons in natural history the next time he is at his Hyde Park estate.

The occasion was when, as an effort was made to pose some of the livestock at Arthurdale, W. Va., with the President, one of the photographers kept shouting to "push that bull over this way." The animal happened to be a cow.

A CHAMPION FOR BLACK

Local prestige of Justice Hugo Black, recently attacked in a magazine article as judicially competent, has been boosted considerably by Dr. Walton Hale Hamilton's recent analysis of Black's opinions and dissenting opinions, appearing in the New Republic magazine. Unlike most foes and partisans of Black, Hamilton read all the opinions.

He says Black's judicial philosophy is "mature, well thought out and mindful alike of the law of the land and the necessities of the people," that Black "strips away verbiage and lays the issues bare," that "he is closer to his times than any of his brethren" and that "if there were a grand prize for the jurist's art, the award for 1938 should go to Hugo Lafayette Black for his opinion in the Indianapolis Water case."

Hamilton, a Yale professor of law since 1928, is nationally known in the academic field and highly esteemed in Washington. He has been a professor of economics and of political science, a member of the National Industrial Recovery Board which replaced General Johnson, American delegate to the International Labor Office and director of the Social Security Board's bureau of research and statistics. Hundreds of his former pupils in law and economics are known as "Hamiltonians."

Lawyers are the trustees for the liberty of the people, but despite the 160,000 lawyers in the United States they have never done their full duty to the country.

This Man, Joe Murray BY WILLIAM CORCORAN

Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS JOE MURRAY—lived new places, new jobs, new girls. HELEN—fell in love—hard—once. TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday: Joe clips Tommy Withers for talking to Terry; threatens to jar up her folks. She accepts the challenge, tells him he is the only man who could do that!

CHAPTER VII "Who?" started. "Me?" Joe was nonplussed. Another new thought: "No," he said finally. "That ain't up my alley. You need somebody that's giving you a play. A boy friend."

"But I'll never have any," she said. "Please do it!" He looked at her. He chuckled. He was amused. "All right, I'll take it on. When?"

"Tonight." "Right now? O. K." They crossed the street and turned the corner, walking a little faster in the excitement of their purpose.

Joe was amused at the way she sort of sneaked him hopefully into her home, like a little boy bringing home a stray dog he knows is most likely to be ejected forthwith. The difference was that this stray dog had a bark and certain strong opinions, and the ejection would be difficult, and there was no way of knowing if the whole thing would result in his acceptance or in extraordinary punishment for her emery in thinking of such a thing.

They entered the Mallow flat through the front door that led off the stair landing into the parlor. It was a stuffy, sugar and candy and acid kind of living room with no warmth or good feeling like the Murray parlor, as might be expected. Terry lit a lamp and then went back into the other rooms to explain herself. Joe sat there, and he could hear the voices, guerulous and a little rasping with suspicion, in the back, and Terry's bland, always bland and gayly hopeless, explanation.

The grandfater came from the rear to investigate. He was a solid, heavy-jawed man with white hair and mustache and small eyes, and he had the contradictory look of being well fed and dyspeptic together. He stood with his hands in his pockets and grunted, looking at Joe.

Joe smiled pleasantly, got up and crossed the room. He put out his hand to the old man, and waited, without saying a word, just smiling and looking at him and waiting.

The old man looked at the hand, his face took on a more so expression than over, and he moved his solid shoulders a little, uneasily. He grunted again. He did not know what to say, because he did not want to say something pleasant, and Joe gave him no other opening.

There is a strength in men that is like a flowing force, and if two men meet and the forces run side by side together, they are friends; and if the forces meet head-on or at an oblique, the stronger pushes the other back or sideways out of the way and goes on, dominating. And that was what happened as Joe stood there waiting, bucking the old man and backing him down, till the old man pulled his hand from his pocket and gave it to Joe.

Joe gripped it hard, but pleasantly. He explained that Terry and he had run into each other and he walked home with her. He said Terry had come to be a most welcome visitor at the Murray home, that he would take occasion to do the same often again. And that old man stood there and listened, looking hateful and unwilling, and did not know what to say to Joe. When he got his hand back again, when Joe was ready to give it to him, he thrust it deep in his pocket. He merely grunted once again in reply to Joe. He looked at Terry, and with that he found his opening.

"Don't you go out again," he said sourly. "When your new beau goes, you come right back. You've got better things to do than entertaining company."

"Yes, grand-dad," she said, and added grimly, "You leave this door open when you're here. We'll be sitting inside." And he went off, rearward.

The back of Joe's neck stung, as if it were scalded, and he was hot with sudden, baffled fury. A man would need to be awfully dense to miss the unspeakable point to that. Terry, for the moment, was acting as if nothing had happened; she was an enigmatic creature, well trained at hiding her feelings. Joe swore, and looked at the door, and put a hand on it as if to slam it shut forthwith.

But Terry sprang to him, to hold his hand, first hard, then as she felt him waver, soft and gentle. "Please, don't!" she whispered.

Joe studied her, her face and her big eyes, and he put a hand on her hair, stroking it roughly and gently and puzzledly, and then he took her in one arm and pulled her to him and held her. She came quickly and put her head against his shoulder and left it there, eyes closed. They were not in immediate view from the rear. They stood so a minute, and Joe looked down at her so quiet and silent and peaceful, and he was puzzled. . . . puzzled.

He stayed in the Mallow parlor an hour. They sat at either end of the sofa, looking at one another. Joe asked questions, numberless questions, all about her, and her life and her ways of thinking. In a hushed way she became gay and vivacious and talked at a great rate, her big eyes luminous and beautiful in the lamplight. You'd never think she had a worry in the world. In effect, she hadn't right then; she had put every other thing aside for the enjoyment of this hour. It is not everybody can do that. It is not everybody has had to learn how. "You're a funny kid!" he told her when he thought it was better to go. "You stick it out. You'll come right side up. But stay away from Papke's and Tommy Withers."

"You really want me to?" she asked. "Certainly."

"Will you help me? Will you come and see me again? Then I won't have to."

He grinned. She was so child-like, so transparent, like an open book. "Sure, I'll come again some time. You've got a pretty tough outfit of a family, but I'm a little tough myself."

"No boy ever stepped up and faced my grandfater like you did before!" she told him admiringly. "He didn't know what to say. 'That's all there is to it. It's a push-over. Get the jump. Get 'em speechless. The rest is simple.'"

"It is for you," she said. "But I have to stay here afterward." Little flecks of anger lighted momentarily in his eyes. He squeezed her hand. "You do as I tell you, and you'll come out on top. Stick it out. Don't let them stampee you. It can't go on forever, and there's a limit to what they can do. How old are you?"

"Seventeen."

"You'll soon come of age. Then you can tell them to go climb a pole."

She smiled and shook her head. "You don't know!"

"All right," he said. "But will you promise to do what I tell you, and we'll see how it comes out?"

"I promise," she said with simple willingness.

And that was how it strod from there on: she had promised, and he had to tell her what to do.

Joe had no idea what a bargain this would be. He was more than willing to help the kid, by advice and suggestion and encouragement and the occasional bulwark of his presence—even by clipping any likely jaw that stood in need of such salutary treatment. But he was figuring on Terry's family, on Terry's boy acquaintances, on the external things of Terry's life. He failed to include in his calculations Terry herself.

You see, Terry Mallow had a strength. It was not such a strength as you find in the usual person; in Terry the usual things, her weaknesses and her strength, had grown in different directions entirely. In Terry's life, you did not get something you wanted terribly by being good and waiting for it. You studied it out, and took it if you could get it at all, and then hung on like grim death no matter what happened, and then maybe you'd end up in possession of it, deserved or not, out of sheer exhaustion.

Joe came to sense a little of that as he knew her better. She had cast about, got what she thought was something of a hold on Tommy Withers, and she would have hung on to him for dear life if anybody else but Joe had ordered her to let go. Joe's orders were different, for the simple reason that he was so patently superior to Tommy Withers, so much more awesome and admirable—and she let Tommy go, to catch hold of Joe Murray, and without him even knowing it, to start right in holding on for dear life.

Juveniles In U. P. Using Marihuana, Survey Discloses

Ann Arbor—Marihuana addiction in juvenile delinquency has been reported by juvenile court judges in nearly every industrial county in Michigan and as far west in the Upper Peninsula as Marquette.

Widespread increase in the use of the drug, which has more than 100,000 addicts in the United States, is having a serious effect on the delinquency problem, according to the Delinquency News Letter of the Child Guidance Institute at the University of Michigan. The great majority of marihuana addicts, the News Letter states, are of high school and college age.

The plant from which marihuana is made will grow anywhere, the report continues, although it is found chiefly in small plots within cities. Growers in this illegal business, it says, reap a harvest of about 1,000 pounds per acre. About 1,700 cigarette are made from each pound. They sell for 15 cents apiece or two for 25 cents. Profits are high, but the business has not as yet been organized by the underworld, the institute reports.

Boy Scout Cyclist Stops Off Here On Trip To Ironwood

Walter Anderson, 15-year-old Boy Scout on a bicycle trip from Flint to Ironwood, stopped off for a short stay in Manistique Monday night. Although his bicycle was not equipped with a trailer, he made camp at the new trailer camp on highway US-2.

The youthful pedaler left Flint last Friday, and has averaged about 50 miles per day with the aid of helping winds. He said yesterday morning that he was about three days ahead of schedule already.

He carries a pup tent and blanket roll strapped to his bicycle, and has long since abandoned any fixed schedule. "I'll just keep going until I find a good place to pitch camp," he said as he pedaled out of the trailer camp yesterday morning.

Iron Mountain is the next certain stop on his itinerary, and he plans to stop-over there for a week or 10 days with relatives. He will stay in Ironwood most of the summer, but plans on returning to Flint on his bicycle in time to start school next September. Asked whether all the pedaling was hard on him, he replied, "I'm pretty stiff when I wake up in the morning, but by the time I've made a few miles in the sun the muscles get loosened up again and I can make good time."

They were arrested Saturday night by Officers Bond and Wendland for disorderly conduct, and put up a fight before they were subdued.

They were arraigned before Judge Stephens Monday morning and pleaded not guilty to charges of disorderly conduct. Their bond was set at $100, which they were unable to provide, and they were locked up at the county jail pending the trial today.

Herman Blowers, who was arrested on June 2 on a charge of non-support, appeared in Judge Stephens justice court yesterday morning. The case against him was dismissed, the court finding no cause for action.

Two conservation department cases were brought into court yesterday. Jack King and Joe Richards, arrested in Seney township by Conservation Officer Bert C. Furst, pleaded guilty to a charge of fishing in a closed lake and without licenses. Each was given a fine of $10, with a 10-day jail sentence as the alternative. BILL LEE GETS SIXTH STRAIGHT

Brace of Homers Scored Off Cliff Melton in Seventh Inning

Chicago, June 7 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs stretched their lead over the New York Giants in the National League pennant race to a game and a half today by conquering the invaders, 4 to 2, in the first game of their important four-game series.

Behind the superb pitching of Bill Lee, who chalked up his sixth straight victory, the Cubs slammed Cliff Melton for a brace of homers in the seventh inning to score three runs, a safe margin of victory.

Lee held the Giants to seven hits, including homers by Mel Ott and Jimmy Ripple, while the Cubs clouted Melton for nine safeties and got two more off of Dick Coffman, who pitched the last inning.

Ott, first up in the fourth, drove a home run into the right field bleachers to end Lee's streak of 35 innings in which no runs had been scored off his delivery.

CIRCUS CATCH SPOILS HOMER

Chet Laabs Makes Stop With Winning Runs on Bases

Philadelphia, June 7 (AP)—Bob Johnson's bid for his 11th home run of the season fell a yard short today, so the Detroit Tigers made off with a 5-4 victory over the Athletics in the opener of a three-game series.

The tying and winning runs were on base and two were out in the ninth when Johnson hoisted one of Roxie Lawson's pitches toward the left field pavilion. Chet Laabs backed against the wall, reached high and brought it down for the last putout.

Aided by an error by Rookie Sam Chapman, the Tigers scored twice against George Caster in the third inning and twice in the fourth, one of the latter runs coming on Rudy York's 11th homer of the year.

The Athletics, held to one run by George Gill for the first six innings, drove him from the hill with a two run attack in the seventh.

Sicked by Fan
Laabs' circus catch to end the dangerous ninth was made under difficulties. Just after Chester, his back to the left field wall, safely stopped Johnson's whistling drive, he was hit over the head by a loyal Philadelphia fan. Some witnesses said the weapon was a pop bottle, others a rolled-up newspaper.

Dixie Walker was taken out of the game in the fifth after he had wrenched his right ankle sliding into second. Dick Seibert, Athletics' first baseman, also was a casualty, splitting the index finger of his throwing hand in the ninth.

Philadelphia took the lead in the first inning. Werber was walked, stole second, and came home on a single by Brucker.

Detroit's attack started in the third. Christian opened the frame with a single, and was forced by Gill. Rogell singled Gill to third and Gill held the bag while Walker forced itogell. Gehringner doubled to left, Gill scoring, and Walker coming home when Chapman fumbled.

Rudy York got his home run, his only hit of the day, in the opening of the fourth. It was his eleventh for the season. Fox followed him with a single, was forced by Laabs, stole second and scored when Christian laid a double up against the left field wall.

Bridges Slated Next

Chapman's second double of the day opened the seventh for the Athletics. Lodigian walked, and Chapman scored when Nelson, batting for Ambler, got a single.

Lodigian, trying to go from first to third on the hit, was caught on a long throw from Laabs to Christian. Roxy Lawson came in for Gill after Haas, batting for Caster, singled, sending Parker, running for Nelson, to third.

Parker scored when Christian fumbled Seibert's grounder.

In the ninth Fox hit a roller to the mound, and Brucker who fielded the ball, hit Pete in the back, Fox reaching second on the play. Fox scored when Laabs hit a single.

Chubby Dean's double opened the ninth for the home team. After Moses hit a grounder, Fox and White collided in an attempt to get Finney's long fly. The ball dropped to the ground for a double and Dean scored.

Tommy Bridges and Luther Thomas are slated to pitch tomorrow.

Victory Squeezed Out By Brooklyn, 7 to 6, Over Cards

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 7 (AP)—Joe Loafs, apparently feeling the suddenly-warm weather, was indifferent today as he resumed boxing after a brief lay-off in his preparations for the June 22 bout against Max Schmeling.

Schmeling will have another workout tomorrow and then lay off Thursday and Friday.

St. Louis, June 7 (AP)—Though Van Mungo failed to go three innings and Tot Pressnell, his successor, was slugged for home runs by Ducky Medwick and Don Padgett, the Brooklyn Dodgers squeezed through to a 7-6 victory over the Cardinals today in the opener of a three-game series.

Vito Tamulis pitched the last four innings for Brooklyn and held the Cards hitless, to gain credit for the victory.

St. Louis used five pitchers and Ray Harrell, the third in the line, was charged with the defeat, as the Dodgers blasted his offerings for four runs in the fifth.

New York, June 7 (AP)—Charley Ruffing's seven game winning streak was halted abruptly today as the Chicago White Sox belted the big Yankee right-hander out of the box to win the opener of a four-game series, 8 to 5.

Thornton Lee went the route for Chicago to gain his second victory. He gave up nine hits and helped his own cause with a home run and a single that drove in a run.

The Sox scored four runs on five hits in the second and added two more in the fifth and another in the sixth. Ruffing was yanked after Lee clouted his four-bagger in the seventh:

TUNNEY VOTES FOR SCHMELING

Former Champ Hedges on Picking Winner of Louis Scrap

Speculator, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—Gene Tunney put his royal stamp of approval on Max Schmeling today and scoffed politely at a suggestion that the German might go stale before his coming battle with Joe Louis.

"Not a chance in the world of that," he said with finality. "He's far too smart. He's in nearly perfect condition now and he's taking it easy, like he should. He's the most deliberate fighter I ever saw."

Gene sat at the ringside and murmured rapturously as Schmeling popped three sparring partners with his lusty right. Joe Mack, as usual, was knocked down twice.

"There's no doubt it's the finest right in the world today," he said. Gene, who trained in the same ring for his first scrap with Jack Dempsey, denied strenuously he had been over to Pompton Lakes coaching Louis. He hedged adroitly on picking the probable winner, using lots of words.

While here Tunney had a long talk with Joe Jacobs about a projected championship bout between Tony Galento and Gargantua the Great, the circus gorilla. Galento is positive he can lick any gorilla and Tunney says he'll back the thirsty Newark citizen $10,000 worth. Jacobs and Tunney agreed on everything except the gorilla's cut of the gate, Jacobs thinking a suggested 30 per cent was too much for Gargantua.

Schmeling will have another workout tomorrow and then lay off Thursday and Friday.

Chuck Fenske Heading List of Outstanding Athletes

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7.—Athletes from more than 30 schools in 14 states will gather at the Marquette university stadium here next Friday afternoon and night, June 10, for the thirtieth annual Central collegiate outdoor track and field championships.

Athletic Director Conrad M. Jennings of Marquette, in charge of the games, has predicted one of the most brilliant meets in the history of the Centrals' carnival, founded by himself, Knute Rocke of Notre Dame and Ralph Young of Michigan State when the Western conference barred all but member schools from its meet in 1926.

Many Are Entered Among the entries are Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Purdue, Minnesota and Chicago of the Western conference, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Michigan State, Marquette, Butler, Tennessee, Drake, Earlham, Grinnell, St. Louis university, Western State, De Kalb (Ill.), Teachers, Macomb (Ill.), Teachers, Illinois State Normal, Iowa Teachers, Augustana, Howard Payne of Brownwood, Tex., Milwaukee Teachers, Bellot, Bradley Tech, Yankton and Lawrence.

It also is likely that strong representations will be sent by Rice institute, University of Texas, Pittsburg (Kas.) Teachers and the University of Idaho. California has withdrawn its early entry and Indiana, which won the Centrals crowns in 1934, 1935 and 1937, will not defend its title because of a dual meet previously scheduled with Ohio State at Columbus, June 11.

Entries will still be received early the coming week, but the tentative list of athletes includes several of the year's most brilliant varsity performers. Among them are Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin's 4:09 miler; Walter Mehl, N. C. A. A. two-mile recordholder; John Davenport, Chicago, Wilbur Greer, Michigan State, and Bill Clifford, Notre Dame, sprinters; John Woodruff, Pittsburg, Dan Plek, Tennessee, John Francis, Notre Dame, the Teufel twins, Iowa, A. C. Bodeau, Purdue, and Fenske, middle distances; Fred Wolcott, Rice's world's record-breaker, Harvey Woodstra, Michigan State, Bob Lemen, Purdue, and Ed Smith, Wisconsin, hurdles, and great relay teams from Rice, Texas, Iowa, Michigan State and Notre Dame.

Canty Is Announcer On the field will be such stars as Bud Faymonville and Ed Belmont, Notre Dame, Don Johnson, Idaho, John Dye, Marquette, and Dean Frary, Illinois, broad jump; Ed Burke, Marquette, Ted Leonard, Notre Dame, and Bob DeFenthaler, Illinois, high jump; Hugh Lamb, Iowa, and William Graham, Texas, javelin, and Mitt Padway, Wisconsin, and Dan Gibbs, Notre Dame, pole vault.

Colorful pageantry again will mark the Central collegiates. There will be an opening procession of coaches and officials, while a court of honor of Marquette coeds, presided over by Queen Norma Stanish, will present medals and other awards to the winners.

John P. Nicholson, Notre Dame track coach, will be the referee; Rut Walter, assistant at Northwestern, Chicago, the announcer. Necessary preliminaries will get under way at 2:30 p. m. next Friday, but all finals will be held at night preceded by the parade at 8 p. m. Milwaukee is on central standard time.

California Weather Aids Track Athletes

A brilliant field of varsity athletes from leading and far flung schools will invade the Marquette university stadium, Milwaukee, Friday afternoon and night, June 10, for the thirtieth annual Central collegiate track and field championships. Many of the meet records will be in imminent danger under the assault of an exceptional list of competitors.

An outstanding favorite in the meet will be Charles (Chuck) Fenske, Wisconsin senior, who has turned the mile in 4 minutes, 8.9 seconds and the half-mile in 1 minute, 52.1 seconds. His mate Walter Mehl, recently set a new Big Ten two-mile mark of 9:10.4. They will be standouts in their events.

Other strong bidders in the 880 yard race will include Johnny Woodruff, Pittsburg's colored Olympic 800 meter champion and John Francis, brilliant Notre Dame star, who has been timed in 1:52.7 this season.

Wilbur Green, Michigan State, is one of the year's best sprinters while Fred Teufel, half of an effective twin combination at Iowa, placed in three events in the Big Ten meet and will be especially formidable in the quarter-mile run. Half-mile and mile relay races will spice Friday night's program, and Marquette's mile team, as seen left to right, includes Ed Butler, Bill McCahill, Charles Beaudry and Herman Carr.

Deane Frary, Illinois giant, will be one of the favorites in a fine field of shotputters and discus throwers.

that the west coast always has been, and always will be, the greatest producer of star caliber talent of any section in the United States.

It's easy to understand, however, and Cromwell and Brutus Hamilton, California coach, frankly state the biggest reason.

They claim to have no greater coaching talents than the outstanding coaches in the east and midwest. Nor is the raw material any better.

They point merely to item No. 1 on the California Chamber of Commerce praise bulletin—the climate.

Conditions Ideal Track is strictly a matter of conditioning and individual training. Coaches don't have to spend hours and days on team play and co-ordination. And in California, the sun-kissed lads can do their conditioning the year 'round, without going stale.

Southern California this year probably will roll up a string of triumphs that will be unequalled in track circles for some time to come.

Top-Place Indians Down Red Sox, 7-5

Boston, June 7. (AP)—The top-place Cleveland Indians gained their first victory of the season at Fenway Park today by blasting out a two-run rally in the ninth to down the Red Sox, 7-5.

Lyn Lary's third single of the day, "Bad News" Hale's double and Earl Averill's triple were the decisive blows.

Right-hander Johnny Allen opened for the Indians and he tossed away a 2-0 lead in the first when, with two out, he passed Ben Chapman and then fed Jimmy Fox with a pitch that the slugging first baseman converted into his 15th homer of the year.

When Allen retired the sockers by fanning Manager Joe Cronin, the latter complained to Umpire-in-Chief McGowan that the pitcher's tattered right sleeve gave him an unfair advantage over the batter. The official agreed and Allen was sent to his clubhouse to change his shirt.

After a five-minute delay, Manager Ossie Vitt went in to investigate Allen's tardiness. When the latter refused to obey McGowan's order, Vitt fined him $250 and replaced him with Bill Zuber, who gave the sockers three more runs before he was relieved by Johnny Humphries with one out in the third. Humphries held the home team hitless during the remaining six and two-thirds innings and Gene DeSautels, who drew a pass in the seventh, was the only one to reach first base against him.

STEEL INDUSTRY STILL IS SLOW

No Bright Spots Show on Horizon of Big Business

All indications in the steel industry point to continued dullness and no factors have appeared to furnish a basis for expectation of improvement, says Steel.

Consumers consistently refrain from making commitments beyond immediate needs and light buying now being done is apparently for completely broken assortments.

Practically complete absence of automotive and railroad buying, usually important supports, accompanied by much less than normal demand for structural steel, not only removes large tonnage demand but collateral industries depending on these for outlet are also held back.

Steelmakers are also suffering from delays in government approval of contracts for cargo ships and railroad cars purchased under loans. A considerable tonnage of plates and other steel is thus held back from mills.

Pig iron production in May declined 12 per cent in daily rate and 9.2 per cent in total tonnage. These figures represent the smallest month in total output and daily rate since December, 1934, and the smallest May since 1933.

Active stacks at the end of May numbered 73, compared with 79 at the end of April and with 170 for May, 1937. The daily rate of production in May was 40,675 gross tons, compared with 46,267 tons in April, a loss of 6592 tons.

Total production in May was 1,260,937 tons, compared with 1,338,008 tons in April, a difference of 127,071 tons. Total production in May, 1937, was 3,545,180 tons. Five months' production this year aggregates 6,870,351 tons, compared with 16,856,033 in the corresponding period of 1937.
