

REPUBLICANS DENOUNCE CONGRESS

PUBLIC WORKS PROJECTS ARE BEING RUSHED

MACHINE TUNED UP FOR SPENDING BILLIONS

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Administration aides busy tuning up the gigantic federal spending machine today for the distribution of the billions appropriated by the departing congress.

At the public works administration, officials said they were ready to allot projects totalling $500,000,000 as quickly as President Roosevelt signs the $3,753,000,000 lending-spending bill.

The works progress administration was occupied with arrangements for increasing the relief rolls from their present level of something more than 2,600,000 to an estimated peak of 3,100,000 to be reached during the winter months.

Haste Necessary These and other agencies involved in the lending-spending drive to stimulate recovery had been making their arrangements for weeks, throughout the period that the bill was under consideration in congress.

When Mr. Roosevelt would sign the bill was unknown. Not only this measure, but a big folder of other completed legislation awaited his attention, including the wage-hour bill. He intends to return to Washington next Friday, but meanwhile can sign the measures at his home in Hyde Park, where he will spend most of next week.

The spending problem was not the only summer-time legacy left by congress to the executive branch.

Labor Setup Is Puzzle The administration of the wage hour bill must be provided for soon by the appointment of an administrator. In view of the work within the ranks of organized labor, the selection of that official was expected to prove no easy task.

The securities exchange commission was left the big job of regulating the far flung over-the-counter market in securities, the volume and ramifications of which far exceed those of the organized exchanges. It will be done, through voluntary associations of dealers, under the SEC's supervision.

The navy department was given the task of getting work started on a huge new rearmament plan, involving the eventual construction of 72 new war ships of various types. A billion dollars was voted toward this purpose.

Committees Get Jobs Nearly every agency of the government found it had been given some new task to perform, or had had the scope of an old one broadened. At the same time, congress provided some summer-time committee work for its own members.

One job of this category combined congress and the executive departments in a broad investigation.

Michigan Program Ready For PWA To Spend 17 Millions

Lansing, June 17 (AP)—Michigan, described by Governor Murphy as the keystone state for recovery, aimed a body blow at the depression today, with completion of a $17,000,000 work-creating program under the new PWA that Murphy said would provide at least 25,000 or 30,000 more jobs.

The governor, asserting federal officials had guaranteed the right-of-way to Michigan work relief projects, said the PWA program would be followed up by a $30,000,000 housing program to provide still more thousands of jobs for the unemployed.

The WPA now employs 187,000 persons in Michigan. Murphy said the PWA program was ready to move into operation as soon as it gets the go-ahead from Washington, as the first step in "pump priming" planned to end the depression. He said he had paved the way for its immediate approval as soon as President Roosevelt has signed the national recovery act.

An $11,000,000 hospital building program, double the size of that approved by the 1937 legislature, was the major item among the $17,000,000 worth of PWA projects. The legislature appropriated $6,000,000 to add 2,460 beds to the capacity of mental hospitals in the state. The money will be used, instead, as the state's contribution for an $11,000,000 PWA hospital program that will add 5,180 beds to the hospitals' capacity.

Murphy said fund matching arrangements have been completed for the $17,000,000 program, and that a committee will be placed in charge of speeding still other projects through the mill.

Murphy said the work-making program provides for construction of waterworks at Beulah, Waterford and Brighton; construction of a 450,000 dormitory at Michigan State college; new schools at Ann Arbor, Saginaw and Birch Run, and additions to schools at New Buffalo, Cheboygan, Parchment, Zilwaukee township, in Saginaw county, Dearborn, Easton Rapids and Webberville, and other projects.

UNIVERSITY HAS BIG 1938 CLASS Total of 2,069 Receive Degrees Today at Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 17 (AP)—Degrees for 2,069 graduates, the second largest graduating class in the school's history, were certified today by the University of Michigan board of regents.

The ninety-fourth annual commencement exercises will be held at Ferry Field Saturday afternoon. Included among the graduates are 471 post-graduate students, who will receive advanced degrees.

Only the class of 1932, which had 2,084 graduates, was greater than this year's group. The regents also reported gifts of $22,150 during the past month. The list included $7,500 from the Upjohn Chemical company, of Kalamazoo.

Holdup Story Faked By Holland Graduate Holland, Mich. (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Cornelius Pettings, honor graduate of Blenden township high school, has signed a confession that he made up a story about being slugged and robbed of $15 while enroute to commencement exercises last Tuesday night. Deputy Sheriff William Van Etta announced Friday. Pettings, who received prizes and scholarships amounting to $55 when he graduated, confessed that he scratched his face and bumped his head so as to hide his inability to return $15 due his senior class of Holland Christian high school, the officer declared.

Insurgent Bombers Kill 35, Wound 75

Madrid, June 17 (AP)—Insurgent warplanes killed 35 persons and wounded 75 today in raids on Valencia and Alicante. Six tri-motored bombers attacked Alicante before dawn. They were kept from the center of the city by anti-aircraft batteries and launched their cargoes on the outskirts. Fifteen persons died and 35 were injured. Eight Hainkel (German-type) bombers raided Valencia in the afternoon, killing 20 persons, forty wounded were sent to hospitals. Twenty-three houses were destroyed.

Altar-Bound Today

John Roosevelt, son of the president, and Anne Lindsay Clark, who will become his bride at high noon today, are shown here in a typically informal pose at Nahant, Mass., where the nation's No. 1 wedding of the year will take place.

Roosevelts Celebrate Wedding Eve for John

Nahant, Mass., June 17 (AP)—The nation's first family, in one of its rare en masse gatherings, tonight celebrated colorfully the wedding eve of its youngest member, tall John Roosevelt, and his bride-to-be, Anne Lindsay Clark.

With the flurry of pre-nuptial events leading, an electric air to this normally-quiet old town, President Roosevelt, stopped in himself to climax the swift round with a formal dinner to the bridal party aboard his yacht, the Potomac.

The final scene was splashed with color. The Potomac, ablaze with lights and guarded by a rakesh navy destroyer, rocked the bridal party in a gentle swell less than 500 yards off the rocky shore.

At high noon tomorrow, John and Anne, Harvard senior and Boston debutante, will join hands at the altar of the quaint, 107-year-old Union church here to provide the real climax of the number one wedding of the year.

The young couple will go through the standard Episcopal, single-ring ceremony. The Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Episcopal bishop of the South-eastern diocese, and the Rev. Edmund Peabody, Groton school headmaster, will officiate.

A half-serious, half-rollicking rehearsal of the main event provided one of the high lights of John's last day as a bachelor.

With Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt playing the part of the bride—a bed sheet serving as makeshift for the bridal train—and James Roosevelt substituting part of the time as bridesmaid, the ushers and bridesmaids trooped through two marches to the altar.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., himself married only a year, was master of ceremonies. John and Anne watched the make-believe serious.

"This is pretty complicated," said John. Franklin, meanwhile, managed even to instruct the maid of honor, Sally Clark, sister of the prospective bride, on just how the bridal train should be handled.

"You just pick up the train and go whoof," he told Sally, throwing the trailing end of the bed-sheet away from him.

KILLED BY TRAIN Jackson, Mich., June 17 (AP)—A Michigan Central passenger train killed Arthur Yoho, 45, a WPA worker, at a crossing here today. Engineer M. G. Patterson told Coroner Jason B. Meads that Yoho was sitting on the track and ignored the locomotive whistle.

DEATH TAKES G. M. MASHEK OF ESCANABA

PIONEER OF TIMBER INDUSTRY CAME HERE IN 1892

George M. Mashek, 67, prominent resident of Escanaba and pioneer in the timber industry in the peninsula, died at 1:55 o'clock Friday afternoon at his family residence, 516 Lake Shore Drive.

Mr. Mashek had been in failing health, suffering from a heart ailment, for the past two years, and had been confined to his bed since January. Word of his death Friday, while it was not unexpected, was received with expressions of genuine sorrow and regret, in a community which held him always an esteemed citizen.

Native Of Wisconsin Mr. Mashek was born in Kewaunee, Wis., February 18, 1871, and completed his early education there. He received his degree at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., and was a member of Cornell chapter of Chi Psi, noted national fraternity.

He came to Escanaba forty-six years ago. His marriage to Helen Linsley, daughter of William Linsley, one of the early superintendents of the Chicago & North Western Railway here, took place in Escanaba in 1905.

His career in the timber business in this part of the peninsula, during which he founded the communities of Cornell, Mashek and Watson, began with his association with the firm of Mashek and Arnold, which operated from Escanaba and points on the Soo Line. Following the dissolving of the partnership, Mr. Mashek operated along the Escanaba and Lake Superior and later became associated with the Mashek Chemical and Iron company, now the Delta Chemical company. In recent years he had devoted his time almost entirely to the land business in connection with large holdings in the peninsula.

Expert Trap-Shooter He was an ardent sportsman, an authority on hunting and fishing and an example in high principles of sportsmanship to those with whom he came in contact. He was considered for many years one of the leading exponents of trap-shooting in the state.

In addition to these activities, he was keenly interested in civic progress and in the promotion of activities for the betterment of his community. He was active in

Milan Bank Robber Will Hang July 8; Four More To Die

Washington, June 17 (AP)—The Department of Justice, which has not had an execution since George W. Barrett was hanged on March 24, 1936, for killing G-Man Nelson B. Klein, arranged today to put five federal prisoners to death.

Anthony Chebarotis is scheduled to be the first to die. He is under sentence to hang July 8 at the federal detention farm at Milan, Mich., for a slaying in connection with a Michigan bank robbery.

The other four awaiting execution for committing federal crimes are James R. Dalhove, diminutive "trigger-man" for the former Brady gang; John H. Seadlund, who kidnaped and killed Charles S. Ross, a Chicago greeting card manufacturer last October; Glen Applegate and Robert J. Suhay, convicted of killing Special Agent Wimbly W. Baker at Topeka, Kas., on April 17.

Brain-Trusters Try To Unsnarl Tangled Power Policy of PWA

Washington, June 17 (AP)—The noted team of Corcoran and Cohen was hard at work today trying to rescue the administration from a power policy snarl threatening to delay $56,780,026 worth of PWA projects.

The job entrusted to the two young Roosevelt advisers, Thomas G. Corcoran and Benjamin V. Cohen, is full of political dynamite. It arises, according to inner circle informants, from a recent fight on the floor of the senate.

Critics of PWA power policy tried to write into the PWA act of 1933 a restriction against use of federal funds to build municipal power systems which would compete with existing private plants. The attempt failed, but only after majority leader Barkley of Kentucky had made a promise.

Senator Copeland Dies; Frequent New Deal Foe

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Senator Royal S. Copeland, New York Democrat, died at 7:45 o'clock tonight of "a general circulatory collapse complicated by a kidney ailment." He was 69 years old.

Mrs. Copeland, two physicians and two nurses were with him when the end came in his suite in the Shoreham hotel.

Dr. Harry M. Kaufman, one of the attending physicians, said the illness may have been brought on by overwork toward the end of the congressional session, but added that "the senator hasn't really been well in a long time."

The senator was nationally known for his writings and broadcasts on health problems as well as for his activities in Washington.

For the past year Copeland had been especially active. He made an unsuccessful bid for the New York mayoralty last fall, and during the congressional session just ended spent much time on maritime labor questions.

Once, he almost got into a fist fight when Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) lunged at him during debate on an army bill.

Copeland was a member of the senate group of Democrats who frequently disagreed with Roosevelt policy.

Copeland was the second member of the 75th congress to die within a day after the historic session ended. Representative Alard H. Gasque (D-S.C.), succumbed this morning.

BORN IN MICHIGAN Ann Arbor, Mich., June 17 (AP)—Senator Royal S. Copeland, who died in Washington tonight, was a native of Michigan and obtained his education in the state.

Born on a farm near Dexter, Washenaw county, Nov. 7, 1868, he attended high school there, then Michigan Normal college and the University of Michigan, receiving a Doctor of Medicine degree in 1889.

After a year as resident physician at the University hospital Dr. Copeland practiced in Bay City five years. He returned to the university in 1895 as head man of the eye and ear department of the medical school until 1908.

Dr. Copeland was mayor of Ann Arbor from 1901 to 1903 and president of the board of education in 1907-08. During his residence in the state the late senator served as president of the Saginaw Valley Medical society, the Michigan Medical society and the American Eye and Ear society.

He left the state to go to New York City in 1908, but made numerous visits to Michigan. He married Miss Mary De Priest Ryan, of Adrian, Dec. 31, 1891, and they were divorced in 1907. The next year he married Miss Frances Spalding, of Ann Arbor, and they had one son, Royal, Jr.

FUNDS FOR UAW PAYROLL FREED Martin Says He'll File Charges Against Five Ousted Officers

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—The bank account of the United Automobile Workers (UAW), tied up for a time by an internal fight in the union, was released this afternoon by a Detroit bank in time to enable the UAW to meet the $5,000 weekly payroll of its 100 headquarters employees on schedule.

A union spokesman said that a bond had been posted with the bank protecting the institution from any loss that might develop if five suspended international officers resorted to the courts in an attempt to declare use of the money illegal. George F. Ades, secretary-treasurer of the UAW, was one of those suspended.

The checks issued today were signed by President Homer Martin and Delmond Garst, acting secretary-treasurer.

Martin denied today that he had delayed filing charges against the suspended men in order to leave the way open for a compromise.

PRISON CLOSES ON MRS. BARKER

Real Estate Operator Denies She Killed Her Partner

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—A prison door at the Detroit house of correction closed today behind Mrs. Julia M. Barker as the once-wealthy real estate operator began a term of 10 to 15 years for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Edith Mae Cummings.

Mrs. Barker, who ran a real estate venture into a million-dollar organization only to lose it all in a tangle of fraud charges and court litigation, stood calmly before Circuit Judge Ira W. Jayne as sentence was pronounced.

"I am absolutely innocent," she told the judge. "I never laid a hand on Edith Mae Cummings. I did everything I possibly could to do to help her during the 20 years I knew her."

A jury of eight women and four men found her guilty of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Cummings, whose body was found last January 15 on a snow-covered bluff near Belleville, Mich. The state had asked for a first-degree murder conviction, contending that Mrs. Barker shot Mrs. Cummings "with premeditation" during an argument over a land fraud case in Kentucky, where both women were under indictment.

Her children, Gladys, Phyllis, Florence and Donald, all in their teens, gathered about her and tried to comfort her before she was led from the courtroom to await removal to the house of correction.

Chicago Has Thrill For Shirley Temple

Chicago, June 17 (AP)—Little Shirley Temple visited Chicago today and said she liked Lake Michigan "and those elevator trains that run way up on stilts."

The nine-year-old Hollywood star chatted with reporters in a north side hotel upon arriving with her parents by automobile on a cross-country vacation trip that will include Washington and New York.

"Your lake looks just like the ocean," she said, "and I liked it when a street rose up right in the middle and there was a river and a boat going through."

Homesick Indians Sick Of Civilization Washington, June 17 (AP)—A group of "homesick" Oklahoma Indians asked the federal government today to help them run away from "civilization."

They explained they were tired of trying to get along in a white man's world and wanted to return to the simple ways of their ancestors.

They proposed to do this by moving to some secluded spot, abundant in game and fish and forests. Leaders of the delegation told John Collier, Indian commissioner, that about 4,000 Indians were prepared to join the migration.

Missing Sailboat Youths Found Safe Muskegon (AP)—Two youths who were objects of a coast guard search on Lake Michigan Thursday were found safe at their homes here Friday. Ted Tripp and Clifford Patterson, Tripp 20, were sought when their sloop failed to reach the eastern shore of Lake Michigan on schedule. They said they had reached Muskegon late Thursday afternoon.

LEADERS SEE TONIC NEEDED FOR BUSINESS

NEW DEAL POLICIES BLAMED FOR GAIN IN UNEMPLOYED

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Republican leaders denounced congress today for adjourning while the country was in the throes of "a severe economic crisis," and accused administration leaders of determined efforts to "change the American form of government."

Senate Republican Leader McNary, of Oregon, and Representative Snell, of New York, the house minority leader, issued a joint statement declaring the first duty of the national legislature should have been to remain in session "and adopt measures to alleviate the paralysis of business."

Warnings Huddled Asserting proposals of the house and senate Republicans and their warnings of the "dangers inherent in many new deal policies" had been either "ignored or ridiculed," the statement said.

"It is with the keenest regret and aversion that we now witness a bitter fulfillment of the warnings we have issued. The planned Roosevelt recovery has, as we warned, become the Roosevelt depression."

The minority leaders charged that the increase in unemployment to more than 13,000,000 persons and the "tailspin" of farm, commodity and security prices resulted "directly from the fallacious policies and inefficient administration of the new deal."

Ten Proposals Listed "These results could have been avoided," they said, "had the new deal accepted the remedial measures proposed, especially during the last 18 months, by the Republicans of the house and senate."

The Republican spokesmen listed ten proposals for which they had fought, sometimes successfully, during the session. These included repeal of the undistributed profits tax; modification of the federal gains tax through elimination of waste and through equitable taxation; return of relief administration to the states; revision of the Wagner Labor Relations act to "end the present wasteful and disruptive discord between employer and employee."

"In brief, the Republicans of house and senate have fought to bring about a sound, lasting revival of American industry and business," the statement said, "believing this is the only means whereby farmers can find markets at fair prices for their crops, workers jobs at living wages and consumers a better standard of living."

Asserting that was the Republican program, the minority leaders said they remained pledged to fight for its adoption and would "continue that fight unrelentingly when we return to Washington in greatly increased numbers."

Cholera Epidemic Sweeps Over India

Lucknow, India, June 17 (AP)—A wave of cholera, one of the most dangerous epidemic diseases, swept over increasingly large areas of India today while modern medicine and sanitation fought against ancient religious practices mixed with superstition.

Thousands died as the dread disease was spread by natives ceremoniously carrying out centuries-old religious rites.

An estimated 16,500 persons already have died in the united provinces during the seven-week scourge, which now is said to have reached Afghanistan, beyond the northwest frontier, as well as into India's central provinces.

Woman Will Direct Iron River Schools

Iron River (AP)—Miss Pearl Windsor, a schoolteacher here for the past 20 years, has been named superintendent of the Iron River township school system to succeed M. L. McCoy, who resigned to take a similar position at Big Rapids. Miss Windsor is believed to be the only woman superintendent in the Upper Peninsula.

Dog Causes Blaze; Housekeeper Dies

Petoskey, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Adie Bush, 46, was burned to death in a fire that destroyed the farm home of John Ketcham, three miles south of Petoskey, early on Friday. Mrs. Bush was housekeeper for Ketcham. Firemen expressed the opinion that the fire started when a dog overturned a lighted lamp.

RICE INSTITUTE STEALS HONORS

BY EARL HILLIGAN
 Minneapolis, June 17 (AP)—Flying over the high hurdles in record smashing time, blond Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute stole a big share of honors from the title-seeking Southern California Trojans in today's qualifying trials of the 17th national collegiate track and field championships.

The sophomore from the Houston, Tex., school, who is undefeated in collegiate competition, raced through the 120-yard high hurdles in 14 seconds, setting a new meet mark and tying the American record made by Bob Osgood of Michigan in 1937. The former meet mark was 14.1 originally set by George Saling of Iowa in 1932 and equaled by Forrest Towns of Georgia in 1936.

The manner in which Wolcott set the new meet mark, however, apparently was more remarkable than his actual accomplishment. He won his heat by five full yards from Ivy Bledsoe of Southern California and he was running easily at the finish, serving notice he has a great chance in tomorrow's finals to equal, if not smash, the world's record of 13.7 made by Towns in Oslo, Norway, in 1936.

Dean Cromwell's Trojans lost little time in opening their march to qualifying supremacy which topped 40 schools placing men in Saturday's championship events. They placed two men in the first event, the 440-yard dash, then followed with two each in the 100 yard dash and 120 yard high hurdles, javelin and discus. They also will be represented in the 220-yard low hurdles and shot put.

Two schools qualified five men each, California and Rice Institute, with Stanford, Texas university, and Michigan each placing four men in the finals.

Attendance Record Of Junior High Is Given By Principal

A list of students of the Escanaba junior high school who have been neither tardy nor absent during the school year was announced yesterday by Principal Clarence Zerbel.

The list is as follows:

Scabies Mite Is The Worst Enemy Of Fox Squirrels

Lansing—A minute, spider-like animal, a dozen of which could sit comfortably on the head of a pin, appears to be one of the most serious disease factors among Michigan fox squirrels.

This animal, the scabies mite, burrows through the skin and causes the hair to fall and scabs to form over the surface of the skin, resulting frequently in a partially naked squirrel which is poorly equipped to withstand winter cold. The effects of these parasites are being studied in Allegan county, where Durward L. Allen, game division biologist of the department of conservation, has been making an investigation of the fox squirrel population.

The object of the investigations is to determine population densities, the effects of the closed season in 1938 and what factors harm or favor the squirrel.

Curled up in the sun with his fishing pole dangling over the boat's edge, Joe Louis doesn't seem to worry about whether or not he'll get a bite at his Pompton Lakes training camp. Nor does he seem to be greatly worried over his impending battle with Max Schmeling, June 22, for that matter.

TOOLS STOLEN FROM SCHOOL

Iron Mountain Youths Release String of Railroad Cars

Iron Mountain, June 17.—Despite a careful investigation, no trace had been found today of a quantity of tools and other equipment, valued at about $400 and taken from the tool shed on the site of the new Iron Mountain junior high school building, now under construction, according to Gust Hassell, chief of police.

The theft, the chief said, occurred some time early Tuesday morning. The lock was removed from the shed and three tool boxes, containing planes, squares, wrecking bars, steel tapes and dozens of other costly items, were taken. The boxes were owned by William Simonson, 401 West Fishelme street; Henry Bloomquist, 224 Balsam street, in Breitung, and Howard Thomas, residing on Star Route 1, in the city.

Because it was apparent a key had been used, the chief believes that some one familiar with the tool shed is responsible for the theft.

Narrow Escape
 Eight Iron Mountain boys, ranging in age from 12 to 17, were being rounded up by city police today for questioning in connection with the release yesterday afternoon of a string of 13 ore cars, near the Bradley mine, in the northwest city limits. The cars, rolling downhill towards the old Hamilton shaft, narrowly missed a box car in which a group of youngsters were playing.

The empty ore train of 13 cars was spotted near the Bradley open pit property, with the brakes set. The boys released all the brakes and then jumped. The cars gained momentum as they approached the Hamilton and, at a point near the shaft, they jumped the track and rammed into three gondolas spotted on an adjoining siding. Had it not been for that, police said, the ore cars would have rammed head-on into the box-car in which the youngsters were playing.

Chief Hassell has obtained the names of all eight boys, and officials of the Milwaukee railroad are assisting in the investigation. Some damage resulted to the ore train and the gondolas which it struck near the bottom of the incline, police said.

State Men On Look-Out For Signs Of Set-Fires In Woods

Lansing, June 18.—A close check is being made of forest fire causes to uncover any evidence of incendiaryism, several instances of which were suspected during April and May in the upper peninsula.

State fire chiefs may seek a reduction in the hourly rate paid impressed labor for fighting forest fires if such instances recur. The rate this year for men ordered to assist in emergencies was fixed at 25 cents an hour, the same rate as was in effect last year, but records show that incendiaryism invariably increases during periods of unemployment. Reduction of the rate has been resorted to in the past as a means of discouraging the deliberate setting of fires.

RELIEF CLIENTS GOING FOODLESS

Demonstration Staged By Unpaid Workers at Cleveland

Cleveland, June 17 (P)—Renewed unrest among hungry clients and a demonstration by unpaid administrative workers accentuated Cleveland's relief crisis today.

Extra police were called to a district office, where a crowd estimated by police of about 200 relief clients excitedly shouted "we want food." The group was quieted.

A group of 68 union relief employees clumped through city hall during their lunch hour, protesting a month of "payless paydays."

Welfare Director Fred W. Ramsey said the city "faced no other choice" than closure of its seven district offices next week unless Ohio's legislators promptly approve a relief program.

He said city relief funds would be entirely exhausted tomorrow and no more money was in sight for even emergency food orders.

The legislature a month ago started sessions to solve Ohio's relief problem but G. A. Gessell, city finance director, said a stop-gap measure approved last week "wasn't worth the paper it is written on" and it would require weeks to obtain the $400,000 available under the act, if legal.

Meanwhile a newsman, talking with clients trying to get relief orders at district office, was told by a 69-year-old widow: "All I had yesterday was a cup of tea. All I had was tea today. I got only $1.11 for groceries all month. I had to sell my carpet sweeper for one dollar to buy food last Saturday."

tion of monopolistic practices, requested by President Roosevelt. Senators Borah (R-Ida), O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), and King (D-Utah) and Reps. Summers (D-Tex), Elcher (D-Ia) and Reece (R-Tenn) were named to the committee. It will be brought to a roster of twelve by the addition of representatives of the treasury, justice, labor and commerce departments and the federal trade and securities exchange commissions.

Navy Bill Pump Primer Other committee work laid out for the summer involved a continuation of the investigation of TVA, a survey of the nation's phosphate resources—to be begun tomorrow with Chairman Harcourt A. Morgan of TVA as the first witness—and investigation of the use of campaign funds in the coming elections.

The lending-spending bill provided $1,425,000,000 for relief, with a proviso that President Roosevelt might use $25,000,000 for direct relief. It also furnished $965,000,000 for public works; $300,000,000 for housing; $175,000,000 for the farm security administration, named lesser sums for the rural electrification administration, the national youth administration and the civilian conservation corps. This program was augmented by $1,500,000,000 to the RFC for loans to small businesses and other purposes.

As a matter of spending to help business, the naval expansion bill, although dictated as well by the necessities of foreign policy, was considered a pump-primer. It was estimated that it meant employment for many men both in the actual construction work and in the manufacture of materials.

BRAIN-TRUSTERS TRY TO UNSNARL POLICIES OF PWA

They display urgent applications from municipalities for new loans and grants. They have extensive legal and engineering staffs primed for action.

But, directly across their path, lies the Barkley statement of policy. PWA officials express dissatisfaction with it, but in view of it, they indicate they have delayed 49 public power projects entailing expenditures of more than $55,000,000.

At this point, Corcoran and Cohen step in. These twin entrepreneurs of many a new deal innovation, have the task of reconciling Barkley's declaration with PWA desires.

In the words of one official, they must find a formula for determining what constitutes a "fair and reasonable" offer for private power properties. They must determine procedure by which municipalities may make such an offer and how it may be tested for fairness and reasonability.

It is indicated that if they arrive at a satisfactory formula, it may be made one basis of a new presidential pronouncement on national power policy.

STATE HUNTING SEASONS FIXED

Grouse Shooting Will Be Oct. 1 Through Oct. 21 In Upper Peninsula

Detroit, June 17 (P)—Ignoring petitioners urging a closed deer hunting season this fall in northwestern Michigan counties, the state conservation commission has decided to allow deer and bear hunting in all counties that were open last year.

The commission voted to make the open season on rabbits, both cottontails and snowshoes, from October 1 to January 31 in the Upper Peninsula and from October 15 to December 31 in Lower Michigan.

A proposed season for hunting imported Hungarian partridges was rejected and a three-year closed order was issued on the species, effective October 15.

Raccoon hunting remains the same as last year, with a closed season in the Upper Peninsula and a November 1 to December 15 season in Lower Michigan.

No change was made in the pheasant hunting season in Lower Michigan. This will run from October 15 to 31, as will the season for hunting ruffed grouse in Lower Michigan. The Upper Peninsula season, however, will open October 1 and run through October 21 for the latter.

The commission ordered Munising wildfowl marsh, south of the Sault, closed for five years to all hunting and trapping. The order also applies to Isle Royale for the next two years.

The next meeting of the commission will be held at Traverse City July 8. The August meeting will be held at Iron Mountain on the 12th.

Beats Steel

With a neat bit of atom juggling, P. H. Brace, metallurgist at the Westinghouse laboratories in Pittsburgh, has come up with an almost pure copper alloy with the strength of steel—or better. In a battle of metals, Brace applied 20,000 pounds of pressure as shown in the top photo, on two bars, one made of hot-rolled structural steel and the other of the new Cupaloy. The result is shown in the lower photo. An enlarged insignia on the Cupaloy sample, right, has made a deep indentation into the steel.

SPANISH REBELS NEAR VALENCIA

Government Resistance Along Mijares River Is Smashed

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish Frontier), June 17 (P)—Insurgent dispatches said, tonight that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's eastern armies had smashed Spanish government resistance along the Mijares river and resumed a general advance toward Valencia, 35 miles to the south.

Insurgents were said to have occupied for the second time the river town of Villarreal, which had been recaptured by the government in a counteroffensive.

Besides the column advancing southward along the Mediterranean coast, another insurgent column was pushing in the same direction in hilly territory to the west.

Insurgent dispatches indicated the short-lived government counteroffensive along the Mijares had failed to halt Franco's military steamroller.

Previously government dispatches said their forces had struck back, driving insurgents to the north of the Mijares, and that government reinforcements were moving up in numbers.

In the south, insurgents reported steady progress in their Cordoba province drive.

Federation Leader Scores WPA Setup

Lansing, June 17 (P)—Frank X. Martell, president of the Detroit and Wayne county federation of labor, and other representatives of building trades organizations aired their protests against WPA policies today in a two-hour huddle with Governor Murphy and relief officials.

Murphy said the principal grievance of the building trades groups was their contention that the employment of "inexperienced and relatively unskilled" labor on WPA projects was "undemining building trades standards."

The Governor said Louis M. Nims, WPA administrator, had agreed "to work out something that will be satisfactory all around." The WPA has been handicapped in selecting qualified workers, Murphy said, by the restriction of work-relief jobs to needy persons.

Smallpox Delays Camp Custer Job Battle Creek, Mich., June 17 (P)—Col. James M. Churchill, commandant of Camp Custer, issued a general order today requiring all ERA and WPA workers at the army post to undergo vaccination against smallpox.

The order will cause an almost complete shutdown for five days on the camp WPA project, employing 3,000 workers. One of the workers became ill with the disease last week.

MAYOR SCORED IN JERSEY CITY

Council for CIO Asks That Hague Be Held for Contempt

BY M. L. STEPHENSON Newark, N. J., June 17 (P)—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City was charged with contempt of the United States district court today by Morris L. Ernst, counsel for the CIO and American Civil Liberties Union in their "free speech" injunction suit against him.

At the accuser's suggestion, Judge William Clark withheld his ruling pending the filing of supporting affidavits and a brief.

The contempt charge was made because Hague, at a hastily-called press conference during the noon recess, made an attack on Ernst that was forbidden to make on the witness stand.

The vice chairman of the National Democratic committee, banging his fist on an ante-room table, shouted Ernst was responsible for stopping a New York legislative committee from investigating radical influences in the public schools of that state.

As soon as court reconvened, Ernst—previously accused by Hague of instigating a CIO-Communist plot to seize control of the United States, and subjected to continual personal attacks by Hague's counsel—asked Judge Clark to hold Hague in contempt for talking out of court.

Offers to Apologize "That statement," Ernst told the judge, "accuses me, a member of the bar, of having wrecked a senatorial investigation committee of New York. That means that I, not a member of the legislature, was instrumental—and only by nefarious means would it have been possible—of calling off all or the majority of the members of a legislative committee."

Calling Hague's statement the defense's "final step in attempting to try the case out of court," Ernst said he was concerned mainly because the members of the legislative committee might be disturbed by it.

"If I have offended the court, I want to apologize," said Hague, bowing his head to the judge. "I done it with no intention of offending the court."

Earlier, a protest by Ernst against attacks on his character, integrity and professional standing by Hague's special counsel, John A. Matthews of Newark, led Judge Clark to strike all personalities from the record of the eleven-day-old trial.

The court warned counsel—particularly Matthews, a divorce court judge—to stop calling names.

Hague testified today that, in carrying on his self-styled "war on reds and radicals" he had conferred with police departments all over the country to obtain information on the CIO and labor discord and had combed newspapers and studied laws, court rulings, official reports, and all other available data on what he called "this CIO red uprising."

WHITE COLLAR JOBS PROVIDED

Work-Created Projects Allotted Upper Peninsula

Lansing, June 17 (P)—The Works Progress Administration made provision for needy white collar workers in a group of work-created projects that received federal subsidy today.

Louis M. Nims, state administrator, announced federal grants totaling $400,301 for Michigan projects of all types. The grants included:

Charlevoix county—Partial allotment of $4,800 for county road improvements.

Newago county—$2,825 partial allotment to provide jobs for white collar workers in sewing rooms.

Ironwood—$1,000 partial allotment to provide jobs for white collar workers in indexing city commission proceedings.

Dickinson county—$1,076 to provide community room at Woodward avenue school in Kingsford.

Ontonagon county—$1,606 to relocate school building in Stannard township near Bruce Crossing.

Money For Vacation Trip Stolen On Bus Kalamazoo, Mich. (P)—State police and Kalamazoo county officers launched a hunt for a bandit who held up Mona Current, of Saginaw, three miles east of here Friday. She was starting a vacation trip by bus to California and her purse, containing $300 in travelers' checks, was taken. The bus was parked awaiting repairs and Miss Current was alone in the vehicle. Miss Current told officers the robber was masked and attired in a CCC uniform.

the organization and successful establishment of the Escanaba Country club and he served for many years as a member of the County Road Commission.

He was a member of the Blue Lodge of the Masonic Order and of the Knights Templar.

Burial in Kewaunee Surviving are Mrs. Helen Linsley Mashek, and one daughter, Delight, of this city; one son, William Linsley Mashek, a student at the University of Minnesota; a brother, V. F. Mashek of Chicago; and one sister, Mrs. E. C. Tillotson, of Minneapolis.

The body was taken to the Boyce funeral home and will rest in state in the repose room of the chapel beginning at noon today. Funeral services will be conducted in the funeral home chapel at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Rev. James G. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, officiating, and immediately following, the funeral cars will leave for Kewaunee, where burial will be made in the Mashek family lot.

William L. Mashek and Mrs. Tillotson will go from Minneapolis to Kewaunee to attend the services.

Card Rookie Wants To Graduate First

St. Louis, June 17 (P)—Howard Black, student at Temple University, in Philadelphia, informed the St. Louis Cardinals late today that he does not intend to play professional baseball until after he graduates in June, 1939.

The Cardinals, believing the young infielder would report to the team in New York today, had optioned pitcher Mike Ryba to Columbus to make room for him.

The Ryba release will stand, and someone else will be brought up from the minors.

DAILY DOUBLE PAYOFF $4304

Royal Oak Man Claims Big Purse For His $2 Pastebord

Detroit, June 17 (P)—The second largest daily double payoff at an American race track this year occurred at the fairgrounds today when two fortunate holders of tickets on Sucre in the first race and Tramway in the second won $4,304 each for $2 tickets. It was the largest daily double return in the history of the Detroit track.

Sucre, grouped in the mutuel field in the betting, had won only one race in its last 14 starts. It was his second start of the year. The horse is owned by O. D. Randolph, Tramway, belonging to A. G. Tumin, had been in the money six times in twelve starts this year.

Jockey Joe Cowley rode both horses, winning by a length with Sucre and by a nose in a photo finish with Tramway. Sucre paid $44 to win, $14.50 to place and $5.50 to show for a $2 ticket. Tramway returned $10, $2.50 and $4 across the board.

R. J. Rice, real estate dealer in suburban Royal Oak, held one of the tickets. The holder of the other winning pastebord did not appear for his money.

Picked On Hunch Grinning broadly, Dice shoved his way through a crowd of several thousand that had gathered at the daily double payoff window to get a glimpse of the winners.

He picked the two horses entirely on a hunch, he said, when a reflection from a baseburner which struck a vase on a piano at his home caused the figure "91" to be cast on the ceiling. Sucre was horse No. 9 while Tramway was No. 1.

Dice is 47, single and is a veteran race follower, having won four doubles prior to his record one of today. He asked for a check for $4,175 and the balance in cash. He then gave $100 to Jockey Cowley and $25 to Charles Cobbin, a negro porter employed at the track, who had helped him "root the second horse home."

German Star Beats Helen Wills Moody

London, June 17 (P)—A strangely docile and indifferent Helen Wills Moody lost to Mme. Hilda Krahwinkel Spierling of Germany today in the semi-finals of the London lawn tennis championships and immediately gave up her position as Wimbledon favorite to Alice Marble. Mme. Krahwinkel won, 8-6, 6-2.

Until today Mrs. Moody had been a 5-2 favorite to win her eighth Wimbledon title in the tournament starting next Monday. But after her defeat, the second of her current comeback campaign, she dropped to 4 to 1, while Miss Marble took the lead at odds of 3 to 1.

Reserves Of Czech Armies Discharged

Praha, Czechoslovakia, June 17 (P)—Czechoslovak reserves called to the colors May 21, when Europe appeared on the brink of war over the sudeten German minority problem, were discharged today.

Despite the discharge of the reserves the government will keep the army at its present strength.

Will Study Pulpwood

The Wisconsin conservation commission and the pulpwood industry of the Badger state are considering a cooperative program for studying means of developing the future supply of pulpwood.
 The manufacture of pulpwood and paper products in Wisconsin, particularly in the Fox river valley, is an important industry. In many instances, many communities found that their paper mills furnished the most dependable payroll during the depression years. The maintenance of this industry, however, depends upon sustaining the supply of the chief raw material—pulpwood.
 Undoubtedly, the Wisconsin commission and the pulpwood industry are spurred in their desire to study this problem by the remarkable progress that is being made by the new paper industry in the South.
 Destructiveness also attended the use of the original timber of the South for lumber purposes much the same as occurred in the Middle West. Choice timbers were not only the target for the saw mill owners, but large portions of the trees felled were left to rot and to create fire hazards that cost millions in the later destruction of young trees. The new southern paper industry is seeking through proper methods, to avoid this waste and unwarranted destruction of a resource that is destined to make for the region a new and lasting enterprise.

The Color on the Cover

The democratic privileges of writing what you think and reading what has been written are equally among the first rights to go overboard at the outbreak of war, even in the most democratic of countries.
 Similarly when widespread and fundamental conflicts in the world of political, social, and economic thinking reach such a point of intensity that what amounts to a war psychology is created, the same rights come in for an out-size share of punching around.
 Reading tests recently given at Columbia College suggest a more democratic and effective course of procedure. The majority of the students tested simply didn't know how to read intelligently. The conductor of the tests observed that "they might know that the book was green" but they didn't actually understand what was in it. Training brought results that were remarkable.
 The average citizen who gets sucked in knows only the color of the outside of the idea, whether it's red, pink, or yellow. The way to lay the ground for easing half-shot ideas into the ash-can forever is to teach the art of ignoring whatever color may be on the surface and recognizing the nature of the content when you see it.
 Impossible? It may be. But if you do not believe that is possible, you do not believe in the workability of democracy.

We'll Welcome Jack Canuck

There has been a hint recently from Canada, that she has certain sons who feel sure they could walk off with the honors at the World Championship Log Rolling Tournament which will be held in Escanaba August 12 to 14 this year.
 Now this is really encouraging, and if there are any budding Paul Bunyons in any other land, say Sweden or Russia, who have the idea that they can roll other men off spinning logs while staying right side up themselves, we shall be glad to hear from them. The contests will be open to all comers, and may the best men win.
 Northern Ontario especially is getting interested, and an inquiry from Quebec has been registered. In a vast and well forested country like Canada, there must be many a good sport who can make a slippery log stand up and jump through a hoop. We should like to see some of these experts get into the game at Escanaba. Maybe they can show us some new tricks, but we give them fair warning that we have some woods babies, too, who know something about the noble art of birling.

He Has Something

When the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce brought Jimmy Gheen to the city some time ago, it was a foregone conclusion that the news would get around and that Jimmy would come back to meet with other groups. His recent engagements in Ironwood and Marquette are proof that he knows how to bat out vocal volleys of a high order.
 It isn't enough to say that Gheen is an exceptional speaker, for he is really an outstanding one. Some of his hearers suspect that he knows more than he gives to the public in that inspiring philosophy of his. There are said to be, at one place or another in the world, men who have delved to the inner core of things, who attain an understanding of life's secret springs which cannot be vouchsafed to the rank and file, because the latter is incapable of understanding these secrets at the present stage.
 Jimmy Gheen may be such a man—one who clothes his knowledge in the dress of humor, and puts his audience into convulsions while feeding it such scraps of wisdom as he feels it can assimilate. There are said to be drugs whose action is beneficial in small doses, but whose administration in larger portions would endanger life. Jimmy follows the allopathic style in humor and the homeopathic when imparting wisdom. He plays safe on the latter, but his hearers nearly die laughing when his ready tongue gets into action.

 In other words, he sugar-coats his philosophic pills, and that is why people like Jimmy Gheen, the former grocer's delivery boy who now collects $100 an evening without trouble and is always booked for months ahead. The few who are informed get a new vision from his wisdom, and the many who are not, get their money's worth in escape from themselves when Jimmy turns on the spigot of his wit. He has something worth while for everybody, and we hope that he will come again.

Half-Billion-Dollar Lesson

PROPOSALS to settle and finally "pay off" the British World War debt to America are gaining ground in London. They are getting an increasingly attentive ear in the United States.
 The Baldwin settlement of 1923 called for payment of $13,520,000,000 in 62 years, but the British war debt has been in default, both as to principal and interest, since 1921. At that time the British attitude was: "We can't pay. Let them whistle for their money. We fought their fight for three years, and spent the money in the States anyway. Uncle Sam is just Uncle Shylock to us." And the American attitude was expressed by the laconic Coolidge crack, "They hired the money, didn't they?"
 But today there is a movement in Britain to pay something, to settle the matter for good and all. Why this change of front, all of a sudden?
 It is all very clear. In 1931, Britain was not much worried about another war, or the financing of it. Today she is. And American law now forbids any loans to countries which have defaulted. Looking toward an uncertain future, it would be well to have that American matter cleared up so the way would be open to further loans, rather than closed by default on the last ones.
 Mexico's derisive jibe, that there were bigger and more powerful countries than she who had defaulted their external loans hit the British in a tender spot. There wasn't any answer, and that is the kind of jibe that hurts.
 So now it is proposed that a single lump sum be paid, say a half-billion dollars, and by mutual consent wash up the whole matter.
 There is certainly no longer any reason in the die-hard attitude that demands payment down to the last cent. It can't be done, and there is some doubt that it would be a good thing if it were done. But that does not mean that just any kind of a cash settlement is advantageous, either.
 What is it worth to the United States to have this continual reminder around her neck that the financing of wars means default and ruin? It might be worth more than a half-billion dollars when the next war comes along.
 And this is no discredit to the British, who would probably have paid the debt if anybody would. The point is that war debts of this kind are uncollectible from any nation and under any circumstances. It might be worth a half-billion dollars if we could be made to remember that: if we could learn that what is tossed down the rat-hole of war is gone forever.

PARKS OR CARNIVALS?
 (Milwaukee Journal)
 A visitor to the state's new picnic grounds at Mauthe lake asked attendants: "Where are the refreshment stands?" Another wanted to know where boats could be hired, a third where to buy a glass of beer.
 A picnic ground is a picnic ground. It should have tables, water, fireplaces, simple sanitary facilities. Outside of these it needn't have anything, since it is designed for folks who want to take their lunches, build fires, roast wieners or marshmallows, lol in the sun, roam around in the meadows or woodlands.
 And if people want to dance, buy candy bars, drink beer or otherwise engage in more complicated forms of recreation, they should go to the places on the high-ways that provide them.
 To be sure, a state picnic ground of park may have a few "concessions"—a fleet of rowboats, perhaps, if the park is on a lake; maybe one or more simple refreshment stands in time. And there should be shelter houses in case of rain or accidents.
 But the public shouldn't demand and the state shouldn't provide costly structures, more or less intricate business enterprises, a conglomeration of artificial amusements, dance halls, jazz bands or other like facilities in most of its parks.
 The state is going to develop a series of recreation grounds in the kettle moraine area, available to the people of the populous southeastern counties. It ought to be made clear right at the outset that the state isn't going to create a chain of Coney Islands, "Dreamlands," beer taverns, amusement devices or carnivals.
 If state authorities have that in mind—and they probably haven't—they should buy a few acres of land on the highway where roadhouses, dance halls, taverns, and the rest, best are reached, policed, serviced and operated. And people who want that kind of thing should go to such places, privately operated, as already are plentifully provided.
 If, on the other hand, the people want simple outings—a picnic lunch which they carry with them, a day in the fresh air, a baseball game for the "kids," a bit of horseshoe pitching for the old boys, a

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
 Washington, D. C.—It has been said that the greatest treasure of gold and silver ever found concentrated by man was that of the Incas in Peru at the time of the Conquest by the Spaniard Pizarro and his Conquistadores. Those who in their youth, or later, pored over the tale of Pizarro were thrilled by the tale of the gallant defense made by Atahualpa, the last Inca monarch, and of his final capture.
 It will be recalled that he offered as a ransom to deliver him from his captors a store of riches greater than had ever been dreamed of by Europeans. He offered an entire building filled from wall to wall and piled to the ceiling with solid gold and two other buildings filled with silver.
 While this was what Atahualpa offered, it was not all the treasure the Spaniards won at that time. The Inca king reckoned without the conquering spirit of the Spaniards. He was under the impression that when a ransom was offered and accepted, the bargain was concluded. He did not realize that the Spanish invaders considered that they were dealing with infidels who were not entitled to recognition as equals, even though there might be a king among them. The Spaniards disregarded the bargain and proceeded to take whatever else they could find.
 One of Pizarro's captains, one Miguel de Estete, discovered the holy Temple of Pachacamac. This he found to contain statues, a great number of ornaments, funerary vessels, and the like, all of gold and silver and encrusted with jewels. This vast wealth was seized also. There were other pickings and altogether the Spanish captured a record haul.
 That Spanish adventure which had a large part in founding the great Spanish empire in South America has long been regarded as probably the richest raid in history, so far as the taking of mined and manufactured precious metals and jewels is concerned. The throne of Spain was vastly enriched as a result and the case of many a Spanish grandee was decorated with the wealth which came out of this fabulous adventure. Churches shared in the wealth. Ships were built with it.
 Now it appears that these same avaricious Spanish adventurers completely missed another accumulation of treasure in the same country. It has just been discovered and is regarded as the richest find since the days of Pizarro.
 In the days of the Spanish Conquistadores what the adventurers were after was wealth—gold, silver, jewels. Unless here and there were found some educated priest with a sense of historical curiosity, no one cared a jot about the Inca culture which was illustrated by the fine gold work. Indeed it is probable that any priest who exhibited a cultural interest would have fallen into serious difficulties with his superiors, on the ground that he was recognizing the existence of strange gods. The result of this was that beautiful objects of gold and silver were beaten out of shape or melted into bars for easier transportation to the coast and the plate fleets. If there were jewels incrusting in images, they were pried out and placed in bags.
 People look for wealth in any form, but where antiquities are concerned men have learned that often a golden image has a higher value because of its antiquarian interest than because of its weight of metal. In those early Spanish days there were no curators who snatched in such things as Inca idols; only Christian relics, pieces of the true cross, bones of saints and the like were considered to have any value.
 Today when finds of an archeological nature are made, every scrap is studied by skilled men. The broken shards of an ancient piece of pottery have value and the tooth of a prehistoric cave man has for many people a far higher worth than the entire skeleton of a saint or martyr.
HISTORY OF THE DISCOVERY
 There have been many discoveries in South America, especially in Peru, since the days of Pizarro, but none so rich in metal value as that which has just been discovered at Illimo, near Lambayeque, nor of more archeological fascination. Needless to say every item has had the attention of experts and there has been no melting down, nor disfiguration. The objects, which cover a wide range from statues to masks, cups, vases, and jewelry, are being transferred to the National Museum at Lima.
 Fortunately it is known who accumulated this treasure. The Spanish historian Cabello Balboa, toward the close of the Sixteenth Century, wrote of a legend of the people concerning the Chimu. These were a people who came to Peru from overseas, from an unknown country. This was at a very remote period, centuries before the time of the Incas, ages before Pizarro. The Chimu arrived in a fleet of vessels of raft-like construction, this suggesting some of the South Sea craft. They were headed by a great chief called Naymlap. With him he brought his wife, the beautiful Princess Coternal and many concubines.
 blanket on the ground for a sun bath, and a return home at night refreshed by simple pleasures, then they should use state parks. And that is essentially what state parks and especially picnic grounds should offer, with only such simple additions as providing for large crowds may require.
 It seems like a dream now, but once upon a time President Grover Cleveland sent a message to Congress complaining that the nation's revenue would very likely reach $140,000,000 by the following June—and asking that something be done about it.
 The King of England has become famed as a quick-change artist. He can change his clothes in less time than it takes France to change cabinets.

Answers To Questions

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
 A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.
 Q. Of what author was it said that he dipped his pen into the tears of the human race? J. K. A.
 A. In a memorial address on Henry George, John Peter Altgeld said: In writing Progress and Poverty, he dipped his pen into the tears of the human race, and with celestial clearness wrote down what he conceived to be eternal truths.
 Q. Who owned the first yacht? J. L.
 A. In 1660 Charles II was presented by the Dutch with a yacht named The Mary. Until that time the word yacht was unknown in England, although pleasure ships used as such antedated this.
 Q. How are cormorants taught to catch fish? W. J. H.
 A. The young birds have a ring placed around the neck to prevent their swallowing the fish, and they soon learn to bring all captures to their masters. A well-trained male cormorant will continue to catch fish for about five years. Fishing with cormorants is an important industry in China and Japan.
 Q. How many golf courses are there in the United States? W. M. B.
 A. There are 6000.
 Q. Is dirigold a combination of metals? H. B. H.
 A. Dirigold is an alloy of about 90 per cent copper, 10 per cent aluminum, two-tenths per cent nickel, and one-tenth per cent silver.
 Q. Who founded the Y. M. C. A.? W. J. H.
 A. In 1841 George Williams began work for a London dry goods firm. Two years later he induced some of the employees to hold prayer meetings at regular intervals. In June, 1844, he, with eleven others, formed a society under the name of Young Men's Christian Association. After serving as treasurer of the society from 1853 to 1855, he became president. In 1854 he was knighted.
 Q. Is there a fresh water spring off the coast of Florida? F. L. S.
 A. The so called fresh water spring is located about two and one-half miles east of Crescent Beach, near St. Augustine. So much water comes from the spring that it makes a noticeable boil in the ocean and although it is called a fresh water spring, samples analyzed by the Geological Survey have been salty.
 Q. How many people in London own television sets? J. L. A.
 A. The latest estimate of owners was reported to be from 9000 to 9000.
 Q. What was Andrew Carnegie's theory of wealth? J. L. A.
 A. It was as follows: This, then, is held to be the duty of the man of wealth: to set an example of modest, unostentatious living, shunning display or extravagance; to provide moderately for the wants of those dependent upon him; and after doing so, to consider all surplus revenues which come to him simply as trust funds, which he is called upon to administer . . . the man of wealth

 Q. What chance have talented young persons of getting into the movies in Hollywood? W. M.
 A. Oliver Hunsford, Hollywood talent scout, in a recent interview on the subject said: They have to be on hand in 30,000 of becoming extras. If they make that grade, they have one chance in 15,000 of becoming an actor—that is, of even speaking a line. If they do get into speaking parts, they have one chance in 3000 of reaching the featured class.
 Q. How many letters received at the Dead Letter Office contain money? F. P. S.
 A. During the fiscal year 1937, letters containing money totaled 74,887, and the contents amounted to $101,154.94. Sufficient information was available so that about 60 per cent of this amount was restored to the senders. Nearly 100,000 letters are received each year containing drafts, checks, and money orders. Usually about 99 per cent of this class of mail is restored to proper ownership.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS
 New York—In their burlesque magic at the Waldorf-Astoria last winter, the mischievous performers, Paul and Grace Hartman, handcuffed and bound Postmaster General James Farley, then left him stranded that way on the floor.
 It was a hearty laugh for the Republicans in the audience, and the gag has stayed in the act ever since—but always with a different celebrity.
 Early this week at the Plaza, the lights were blinding, so Paul Hartman reached out for the nearest customer. When he started to manacle him, he discovered that his victim was Farley again.
 "Don't stop now," Farley whispered to the magician as he hesitated. Later the Postmaster explained, "I've been playing stooge for years and never yet gave a gag away before the punch-line." (Anti-New Deal papers—please copy.)
"The Women" Not Catty
 Put forty women together in a show and you would expect numerous outbursts of cat-fighting, feline temperament, back-stage gossip—one long, dreary battle of the sex.
 Well, though the forty ladies in "The Women," Clare Booth's long-running comedy, have indulged in their share of feminine feuding since they settled down together about a year and a half ago at the Ethel Barrymore Theater, they sometimes lay down the tomahawks, pull the knives out of each other's shoulder blades and sit down to break bread together. The forty women are organized in a Thursday Luncheon Club where they get together and comment on, instead of pull out, each other's hair, and chatter about anything that may pop into their heads.
 When the touring company of "The Women" went out, the forty ladies of the roadshow were included in the Luncheon Club, and they were welcome every time they were back in town. Maybe momentary peace is possible amongst the fairer sex, after all, although the plot of "The Women" would like to prove exactly the contrary.
Deserts Ma Nature
 We have succumbed to science. Faced with choosing between an air-conditioning unit and Mother Nature, we hasten to the bosom of the former.
 In previous heat-spells, it was our custom to attempt escape in the auto, fleeing to shaded woodland and the cool lake. The auto ride left us hot. The shaded woodland was a mirage most of the time because the reality development man had been there first. And the sun had cracked down upon the lake water so relentlessly and left it lukewarm.
 So we have returned. We now leave the car in the garage where she belongs when the mercury soars. We take the short ride by surface bus to any vast talkie palace in the Rialto sector and bask in the artificial refrigeration. Sometimes the manufactured cold is positively Alaskan. And whether we happen to like the entertainment is a secondary consideration. It really is easy to learn how to sleep comfortably through a double-feature, a newsreel, a couple of shorts and a stage show de luxe.
 No matter what conditions exist, there will always be room for a man willing to run a business of his own.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER
 Washington, June 18.—The case of Senator Alva B. Adams of Colorado, one of the Democratic heretics condemned to martyrdom in the primaries, unusually illuminates the political trend of the New Deal. As yet, it's not entirely certain that the tough and rather cynical Adams is to be included in the auto da fe.
 But the usual 100 per cent New Dealer, Judge Benjamin Hilliard, has announced his candidacy against Adams after the usual happy chat with the President. On his cross country trip this summer, the President will have the usual opportunity to give a broad hint of his preference. In fact, a stake for Adams has been put up, the fagots have been laid, and all that remains is to set the fire.
 As it happens, however, Senator Adams has contrived great protections against martyrdom, of which the first and funniest, is nothing less than a letter from Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. On various occasions, notable last winter, when Ebert K. Burlew's nomination to the undersecretaryship caused an investigation of wire tapping and the like in the Interior Department, Adams has done Ickes favors. And so, this spring, when a testimonial dinner was given the senator, the secretary reciprocated.
 "I have a high regard for his capacity and ability in dealing with many matters of extreme importance to the West and to his own state," wrote the secretary. "He put into his work unflinching energy, intelligence and statesmanship. His grasp of an interest in Western affairs such as reclamation, national parks, the Indians, grazing, mapping, land classification and other activities calls for the highest commendation."
UNEQUAL BATTLE
 The Ickes letter will be doubly embarrassing to the anti-Admites. Not only is it a written proof of the Adams ability to bring back the federal bacon for the folks at home. It also breaks the New Deal front, coming from a cabinet officer of the strictest sect, who would now be a member of the purge committee if he were not too busy honeymooning.
 And besides the Ickes letter, there are other obstacles to be surmounted before Senator Adams can enjoy a martyr's fate. He has the Colorado state organization squarely behind him, and Postmaster General James A. Farley has conciliated and will himself follow a hands-off policy. Except on the court bill, he has a moderately New Dealish record. Unlike Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, whose most remembered crime is his court fight attack on the President as a traitor, he has always professed loyalty to the White House. He comes from outside Denver, yet he has most of the Denver ward leaders sewed up already.
 In fact, at the present writing, the betting on Adams is better than two to one. Yet there can be no doubt that the White House is tempted to risk the unequal battle against him.
PUZZLE OF THE PURGE
 The case of Adams is illuminating, because it so squarely poses the question — If the risks are so great, why may the President and his general staff persist in their plan to purge their party?
 A tremendous hullabaloo has been raised over the purge of independent Democrats. The use of relief as a weapon has been rightly derided. It has also been strangely argued that the President has no right to give direction to his party by supporting one element in it against the other.
 But the interesting thing is not whether the purge is morally right, but whether it is wise. And if you grant the premises of the President and his general staff, it must be admitted that there is wisdom in their program, whether or not they are frightened out of it.
NEW DEAL EQUATION
 Their first premise is that the special type of liberal-intellectual government known as the New Deal must be continued after 1940. Their second is that the independent Democrats, once they return to the Senate for another six years, will be about as responsive to command as so many hogs on ice. And their third is that the Democratic party, as now constituted, will never pick a 1940 candidate who will continue the New Deal on the liberal-intellectual lines laid down by the President.
 Therefore, they think it obvious that the Democratic party must be changed. The coming elections are the only time when the party can be changed, and it is plain that going after senators with poor New Deal records is the cheapest way to change it. That is the equation. Pick your own flaws in it.
 Kite-flying in Washington is forbidden by law. There's too much wind there, anyway.
 A man in Arkansas says he has been robbed 15 times in the last 17 years. He must feel like the country of China.
 We wonder if Henry emerged from that Washington conference with an order for a new car.
Lyrics of Life
 By Douglas Maitloch
AT DUSK
 He came to me at dusk one day,
 Just as the evening slipped away.
 Just as the night was very near,
 And spoke with sorrow and with fear.
 But, even as he spoke, the moon,
 The moon unseen if seen too soon,
 Became apparent in the east.
 Where he had looked for light the least.
 He spoke, but he complained no more:
 The silent moon had silvered o'er
 The care around him. In his eyes
 I saw the moon of faith arise.
 And you will find the hour your grief
 Will bring the hour you most believe.
 You think you lose the fading day,
 But it is doubt that slips away.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

The "evils" of excessive drinking are no longer the most persuasive argument against it.

For years parents tried to stop their sons from drinking by telling them how most alcoholics end up.

Today psychiatrists have handed them a better argument—why alcoholics start out.

Alcoholism, say the psychiatrists, is an escape from reality, a refuge for the person who can't take it—who feels that his personality make-up is inadequate for meeting everyday social situations or even for living at peace with himself.

A son or daughter today is not likely to be impressed with a sermon on the evils of drink. It is asking too much of a young person to ask him to believe that he could possibly degenerate, in morality, in health, in social position, in economic ability—or in anything else.

But they will listen to an argument that touches on something they know to be true right now. Tell a person who likes to get drunk as quickly as possible that he drinks to escape from his own inadequacy and he knows you are right.

"It is merely another way of escaping from reality, more pleasant, perhaps, but by no means less deleterious either for the individual or for society."

It's too distinctive and cheery to keep in the house. So you'll be wise to make up Pattern 9711 for tennis and beach wear, and the summer cottage too! Marian Martin scoured the fabric departments before she designed it—that's why the style does full justice to the delicious new summer pastels and prints.

You know the fashion virtues of the square neckline and contrasting ric-rac braid trimming. But have you considered that a decorative new effect can be secured—very easily by setting a bias panel into the front? A Complete Marian Martin Sew Chart is included.

Pattern 9711 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 yards 36 inch fabric and 3/4 yards ric-rac.

How to Increase the Risk of War

Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons on the sinking of British ships in the Spanish war zone makes two things clear.

First — The British Government recognizes the full rights of General Franco, together with his German and Italian allies, as belligerents.

Second — The British Government wants General Franco to do all it can short of actual intervention to help him win.

Until now only the action or lack of action by the British Government has justified these conclusions. Today they are endorsed by the statement which the head of that Government addressed to the House of Commons on Tuesday. It was as honest an admission of pro-Franco bias as one could expect from the wily Conservative Prime Minister.

The heart of his statement was contained in the following sentence: "Effective protection cannot be guaranteed to ships trading with ports in the war zone while they are in territorial waters unless Britain is prepared to take an active part in the hostilities."

Those who have followed Neville Chamberlain's statements on foreign affairs know that they are usually involved. Also that he has a habit of casting an anchor to windward by taking away with the left hand what he offers with the right. So it was only natural that a few moments later the same Mr. Chamberlain who had just invited the Franco Government to continue its attacks on British ships should conclude his speech with the following sentence:

"At the same time it is impossible that attacks, frequently involving the loss of life and sometimes apparently deliberate on British ships, can be repeated without serious injury to the friendly relations which the Burgos authorities have declared that they desire to maintain with the British Government."

So the British press was able to headline Mr. Chamberlain's speech: "Chamberlain warns Franco to cease attacks," with the sub-caption, "No protection for British ships, says Prime Minister."

Even Some Conservatives Were Disappointed

Opposition members of the House of Commons were under no illusions as to which part of the headline was important. There was general disappointment, even among a section of the Conservatives, at Mr. Chamberlain's resignation in the face of continued aggression against British shipping. Since the middle of April, 22 British ships have been involved in air attacks. Half of them have been sunk or seriously damaged. Mr. Chamberlain himself says that in several instances these attacks on the British flag "appear to have been deliberate."

What all this proves is that when you sympathize with a group which is carrying on a revolution against an established government you are more concerned with the success of that group than you are with protecting the legal interests of those of your fellow countrymen whose business enterprises happen to be helping the established government which you would like to see overthrow.

It also shows that even in a democracy a government can carry out a foreign policy which is not in accord with the great mass of public opinion, provided it does so on the ground that it is keeping the country out of war. By making the British people believe that any effort to defend British rights under international law might provoke war, not with General Franco, since he could easily be handled, but with Germany and Italy, who are openly supporting him, the Franco members of the Chamberlain Government are having their way.

Not Prepared to Fight

The excuse generally given for Mr. Chamberlain's pusillanimous policy is that Britain is unprepared to fight. As phrased in a London cable, the majority of British Conservatives "believe that Britain will not be adequately prepared for a general European war until 1940, and that in the meantime there is no sense in matching strength with a totalitarian military machine."

No American has any right to quarrel with Britain's determination to keep out of war. Certainly the desire for peace dominates our own policy. The people of neither Britain nor the United States have anything to gain from war. At best they would win a hollow victory while imperiling their own democratic systems in the effort to overthrow the dictators.

But it is a fair question as to whether acquiescence in aggression is more likely to preserve peace or to bring war. Czechoslovakia would be engaged in a bloody struggle with Germany today if she had not made it clear to Adolf Hitler that she would fight before surrendering her independence. The only thing that can restrain Fascist aggression

This Man, Joe Murray

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—liked new places, new jobs, new girls.
HELEN—fell in love—hard—once.
TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday, facing the crisis of unemployment, Joe decided to leave for work in the shipyards, but only over Terry's tearful protests.

CHAPTER XVI
 Joe had made for the door but Terry flew there before him. "I'll be good," she said in a small choked voice, fighting for control. "I'll stop. Don't leave me alone the last chance I've got with you."

He looked at her. His face was grim, and he was suffering. He looked at her, and then he threw down his hat. He did not say anything; he just stayed there. She did not say anything; she set about preparing his dinner. She regained control, and she ate with him in no appetite but with a quiet, bleakly bland despair.

Late that night she said beside him, into his ear, "Don't be mad at me if I say something. I want to say . . . will you take me with you?"

It was out of the question, he told her. She knew all the reasons. "Then, I won't have you any more!" she said. "No more here close to me? All alone . . . here? Nobody to amuse Terry, tell Terry what to do, make love to Terry."

He did not speak. She crept on his shoulder and cried, very quietly, trying not to arouse him. The sobs died slowly and she was still. Her hands on his shoulder began to clutch him hard; the nails made a sharp and cruel.

And so Joe Murray took to the road again. Out of one town into another; out of one day into the next. Life had rolled backward, wiping out a wife and home, wiping out even what he had possessed before either: the certainty of work and the freedom of the nation. When he rode to Port Lansing—riding, by the way, on a diversity of conveyances that chance sent along the national highway between—he no longer blued, adrift and lightly, he traveled on a set, grim pilgrim. He tore up roots and traveled, carrying with him the pain of that.

It was a good job, as jobs go. The shipyard was an immense place. Hundreds worked there, a small regiment; but yet it looked lean and hungry, for not long since they had streamed in of mornings in an army, lock and then a wet dock, and acres of great gaunt ships. The dry dock was working, there were two ships in the wet dock, but the ship ways, 10 of them, loomed empty and silent.

There was no building, and Joe was lucky and knew it. How long lucky, he couldn't tell. Men of a hundred trades stood about the gates mornings when he came to work, haunting the closed employment office. He worked and drew good money and sent a large portion of it back to Terry every week. They must save what they could; the future was unknowable.

Now when you go to a new place, far from home, this is what happens: there is at first a lift of spirits, the glamor of adventure and novelty and the excitement of possibilities, whose limits are yet unknown. That last a while, and that wanes finally, for the possibilities are soon limited plainly, and then comes the rather stark realization that this place has no nourishment for you, for your roots are not into it, drawing sustenance. There is nothing there for you, and the old places are calling strong, and you are bitter lonesome. Then in time, if you stay, when the lonesomeness is most bitter, there comes a change; you do not recognize it when it comes, but it arrives. You are drawing nourishment from this place. You are rooted, belonging. And if you go away again, you will remember that place always, and it will call to you among the echoes of all the places and things and people forever calling to you out of the past.

The novelty of Port Lansing was small to Joe, and the possibilities held never any glamor. Women were shut off to him, not only by his simple code but by all his inclination. And a man needs women, especially a man like Joe, because that is the pattern of life, which has beauty and harmony and symmetry only when there is that balance: one and then another one, a man and a woman, complementing and offsetting each other in everything.

Joe was alone; he lived in a boarding house on a mean street, the cheapest could be found, where his fellows were a raffish, uncouth lot who would have made him one of them if they could, but they could not, for Joe in his turn could not meet them in their chosen ground, which was drinking and women and then more drinking, so long as there was money for it. He walked, and he went to motion pictures, and he read, and he sat thinking. And he was alone.

Terry wrote to him often, sometimes day after day. She had one refrain: she missed him, missed him. She worked steadily, and that was nice, but when she came home alone at night, that was terrible. Yet she was careful not to complain. She called on busy as she could. She went home with the girls from the mill, she even called a few times at her own old home. She had found a city school where adults could attend at night and she was enrolled. She was learning English literature and French. Not, she said, that she had any use for French or expected to become a bookworm or could hope to be wiser than her Joe, but you never could tell, so maybe when their babies were growing up she could help them . . . had she ever told him, they were going to go to college?

Joe read these things, and his heart was empty, and he wrote matter-of-fact replies about the shipyard and the town and commended her for her industry and suggested things for her to do and told her to stick it out, she'd come right side up. And he wrote down at the end always that he loved her and missed her and they'd make out somehow. Whereupon he put down his pen in a kind of empty bitterness.

Then came a letter from her, full of courage and appalled, in which she told him of the layoff at the mill. She had lost her job! Some of the oldest girls remained, but most of the mill was out. She did not throw herself on him in panic, but discussed immediately her adjustments and plans. She could find something if she looked hard; she didn't need much money, and girls were still hired around because they were cheap. In fact a girl could get a job most anywhere. She had listened to them, and she knew.

She could even, couldn't she, get a job in Port Lansing . . . and they could be together; she would, ordinarily, have incoherently come. But she was afraid of him, of that grimness, of that change.

Joe wrote an immediate reply in which he said no, impossible! Then he tore up that letter and did not write another for two days. But when he wrote he still said no, it couldn't be done, it was too risky, to far from home where there was no least hope to fall back on in extremity. His job was still far too chancy. He missed her, but he couldn't allow it.

She thought he was overconfident, lacking in confidence in her. She thought he was really wrong. She argued, daintily and beguilingly, replying.

But Joe was right. The powers were too strong against her. The week after the shut-down of the mill, the shipyard announced complete suspension. The entire small regiment was turned out, so that the day following, the closed employment office was for the first time in months not haunted by a solitary soul. Joe Murray was turned out with them, and he thanked his old buddy for the lift while it lasted, and went home and sat by his boarding house room window and watched the sun go down, down slowly into darkness in the west.

It looked like a sun that was going down forever.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

GARDEN NEWS

GUILD MEETING
 Garden, Mich. — Guild members and several friends met at the home of Mrs. Nora Lester Wednesday afternoon and are cordially invited to be present at the next meeting which will be held at the parsonage.

FIRE!
 Mrs. Hazel Faubert was awakened one night recently by the odor of smoke, about an hour after she had retired. Her first investigation was around the kitchen stove but finding no evidence here, she proceeded into the sitting-room and on opening the door an over-stuffed chair burst into flame. It was standing near curtains which undoubtedly would have fed the flames and spread the fire to the rest of the house.

PERSONALS
 Mrs. G. W. Meussel and daughter Mary of Duluth arrived here Wednesday afternoon from Manitowish where they had spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Winter. They accompanied Mrs. William Turpin here and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter during their stay. Mrs. Meussel is a niece of William Winter sr.

Starring Stripes

This flattering frock in soft knit wool uses the striped design of its navy and white fabric in clever self-decoration. The zig-zag lines of the bias skirt contrast nicely with the horizontal treatment of the bodice. Shoulder tucks, a crocheted wool flower and a narrow leather belt in navy with a white buckle, are interesting details.

Role Of Rogues Is Discovered In Tombstone

Denver (P)—An artist, poking in the ruins of a Tombstone, Ariz., theater, found a black notebook entitled "Index of Great Thieves and Language of the Rogues," sealed in an old Wells Fargo strongbox.

Dated Feb. 1, 1875, at Woodland, Calif., the book contained pictures and descriptions of about 50 western desperadoes and explanations of slang terms used by criminals.

On the frontpiece is the signature of Virgil Earp, brother of the famed western peace officer, Wyatt Earp. Virgil Earp was marshal at Tombstone during the summer and fall of 1881. He left the roaring mining camp after he had been wounded in a gun fight and his brothers, Wyatt and Morgan, and Doc Holiday fought with six gun-toting opponents in the O.K. Corral.

Some of the "Language of the Rogues" shows that a padlock was a "pete" and to break a lock was to "make Pete laugh." A pistol was a "pap" and handcuffs were "darbies." A safe was a "kopher" and an outlaw gang that put the finger on a person, designated him as "the Blake." Persons booked for drunkenness were charged with being "lush."

Rice Bowl Parties Urged By Governor

Lansing, June 16. (P)—Proclamations from the executive office called today for statewide observance of Humanity Day tomorrow and Father's Day Sunday.

Signing the proclamations, Governor Murphy urged support for "bowl of rice parties" to raise money to relieve distress among civilians affected by the war in China. The executive praised the thought motivating Father's Day, announcing it offered children an opportunity to acknowledge "immeasurable indebtedness."

Plains Burned AS EXPERIMENT

Project Started To See What Can Be Done for Blueberries

Newberry, June 17.—The first experimental burning over of several sections of the state's blueberry plains to determine what effect such controlled burning has on the berry crop is being undertaken by CCC crews at the Old Uhle camp location north of Newberry under the direction of Gilbert Stewart of the state experimental station at Roscommon.

Wet weather has, during the past week, brought the burning operations to a virtual standstill, with only about 30 acres of the blueberry area having been burned thus far. Other sections of the plains in the Two Hearted River area are to be burned over, however, as soon as the weather permits.

WILL PRESENT BENEFIT SHOW

Catholic Guild Sponsors "Cloistered" at Rialto

"Cloistered," one of the most successful religious pictures of the present day, is coming to the Rialto Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, June 22 and 23, under the auspices of All Saints' Guild.

Ticket sale is now being conducted by a group of Guild members under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Martin.

The film has won the wide acclaim of critics throughout the nation and its fame has also spread to foreign shores.

Strangely enough, "Cloistered" boasts none of the usual attributes that go to make a well-received picture. It has no love story, unless you can call the love of a woman for her God a love story; it has no hero and no villain; no male save a priest enters the film; and, it has no actresses for the complete action of the picture takes place in the Convent of the Good Shepherd, and it is a true picture of the daily life of the Good Shepherd nuns. And the Sisters do not act. They are unposed and go through their normal routine with simplicity and an inspiring naturalness.

Motorists Asked To Keep Off Grass In Aquatic Park

Cooperation of motorists in keeping up the appearance of the local park is requested by Acting City Manager A. F. Radandt.

Many motorists have a tendency to drive off the roadway leading through the park to the breakwater and onto the grass which leaves deep ruts and ruins the appearance of the park. It is requested that drivers stay on the road and when parking, park at the area arranged for this purpose at the breakwater.

A new driveway around the southwest end of the lagoon is to be constructed. This is necessitated by the location of the new bathhouse now under construction.

THEATRES

Robust, blazing adventure took its place on the Rialto Theatre screen yesterday when "Cattle Raiders" made its local bow. Easily one of the best in the Starrett line, the picture packs a terrific dramatic wallop.

Keen-eyed two-fisted Charles Starrett gives one of the best performances of his career.

"Her Husband Lies" is the second feature.

KIPLING NEWS

Kipling, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. John Fulsang of Chicago, Ill., returned to their home Wednesday after spending the past eleven days, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schaawe. Mr. Fulsang is a brother of Mrs. Schaawe.

Guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Morin were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morin and sons, Duane and Harland, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Johnson and sons Eldon and Norbert, and Mrs. L. Morin.

WILL CONFER WITH MURPHY

Mayor Joseph LaFramboise will confer Monday with Governor Frank Murphy at Lansing regarding relief projects for Gladstone. It was learned yesterday.

Both Mayor LaFramboise and Mayor Peter Logan of Escanaba will meet with the governor, the two leaving here Sunday for the state capital.

Confirmation of the appointment was received yesterday in response to a wire from LaFramboise. The telegram from the governor read:

"Hon. Jos. LaFramboise I will be pleased to see you and Mayor Logan of Escanaba Monday afternoon."

The local mayor is especially interested in adding impetus to the move for a veterans' hospital located in Gladstone. Gov. Murphy has announced that the project is on Michigan's preferred list of PWA works. It is on this matter that LaFramboise is chiefly desirous of contacting the governor.

Unemployment conditions in this area will also be discussed with Gov. Murphy by both Mayor LaFramboise and Mayor Logan who are seeking some manner of alleviating the present condition in the county.

St. Catherine's Study Club Mrs. C. Southworth was hostess to members of St. Catherine's Study Club Wednesday evening at her home on Oak street.

The Renaissance Period of English Literature was the topic of study, with Mrs. Georgia Anderson in charge. Short reports were given by members of the club. Mrs. Gordon Hughes read "The Merchant of Venice" by Shakespeare and Mrs. George Morton sang the Shakespearean version of "Sylvia."

Mrs. E. T. Lundstrom, Mrs. Roger White and Mrs. Edmund LaFave were guests of the group.

Soo Field Ready For New Airline Service In July

Sault Ste. Marie—Col. Floyd M. Evans, chief of the State Aeronautics Board, and officials of the Pennsylvania-Central Airlines are expected to be in the Sault next Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23, to make a survey of the Sault city airport and arrangements for the first flight of airmail to be carried to the city, it was learned here today.

Pennsylvania-Central Airlines has been awarded a contract from the Post Office Department to carry mail from Detroit to the Sault, with intermediate stops. Flights are said to be scheduled for about July 1, and with the Sault as a terminus, it is expected that hangar and other airport accommodations must be provided for during the summer months.

STAINLESS SURFACES
The housewife who is considering a streamlined kitchen with built-in working spaces, cabinets and tables, either brand new or her present one rejuvenated, may like to have these surfaced with stainless steel. Thin sheets of this durable, gleaming metal can now be purchased ready to be cemented or nailed on the surfaces desired covered, together with narrow mouldings to give a neat, finished effect.

The fibers of cotton resemble flattened hairs when seen under the microscope; they have a natural twist, which is the key to their quality of being spinnable.

In 1875 the first regularly organized agricultural experiment station in America was established at Middletown, Conn.

8 PETITIONS TO BE HEARD HERE

Residents of County to Ask Naturalization in Circuit Court

Petitions for naturalization of eight Schoolcraft county residents will be heard at a special session of circuit court to be held here June 24, with Judge Herbert Rannels presiding.

Morton H. Powers, inspector in charge of immigration and naturalization, of Sault Ste. Marie, will conduct its hearings.

Those petitioning for naturalization are Solomon Sangraw, Isaac Malaska, Mary Louise Martin, John Trekas, William Salter and Mrs. Della Fugere, all of Manistique; August Lagman, of Gulliver; and Belva Marie Faulkner, of Seneo.

Measles Is Not Merely A Minor Disease—Brenner

BY DR. E. J. BRENNER
Measles is no longer regarded by the medical practitioner or the intelligent layman as one of the minor diseases of childhood from which the victim always and completely recovers. There is good reason to believe that disease of the vital organs, particularly of the heart and kidneys, appearing later in life, can often be traced to the illness of infancy. Broncho-pneumonia and middle-ear disease may follow directly after a case of measles.

Till recently, however, it seemed virtually impossible to immunize against measles. Now, lacking a more highly purified and concentrated product than is now available, can absolute assurance be offered. Nevertheless, scientific investigation has progressed sufficiently far to promise about 50 percent immunity for as long as four weeks. In the presence of a measles epidemic, an attempt should be made to immunize every child under 10 years old.

An English physician reports that in a boys' school, convalescent adult serum was administered to 70 out of 85 who came down with an attack of measles. In some cases, the serum was given before the first symptoms of the disease appeared and in these the average period of fever was limited to 5.2 days. Others, receiving the serum shortly after the onset, averaged 6.5 days of fever. Untreated cases exhibited fever for an average of 8.2 days.

A Wisconsin worker has announced that the serum immunized 82 percent of a group which had been exposed to measles. Most promising is a new protein substance known as placental extract. The period of immunity conferred is still shorter than could be desired but there seems little doubt of the effectiveness of the preparation when administered prior to exposure. At least there is hope that measles may ultimately be placed in the category of smallpox and diphtheria — once deemed unavoidable, ineliminable and to be borne as philosophically as possible, but recognized now as due to parental neglect, ignorance or parsimony.

Parents are warned to be on the lookout for measles as several cases have been reported in and around Manistique. All cases should be reported to the Health Department at once.

Brother Of Local Man To Be Buried At Neenah Monday

Albert Dahms, a brother of Frank Dahms of Manistique, died Thursday night at Minneapolis according to word received here yesterday. The body will be brought to Neenah, Wis., for burial Monday. The deceased was 72 years of age at the time of his death.

Dahms will leave for Neenah to attend the funeral, together with a sister, Mrs. John Longhurst of Canada, who will stop at Manistique enroute to Neenah.

Bees were the decoration on the coronation mantle of Napoleon. They were golden models discovered among the relics of Childeric's tomb in Belgium in 655.

Forceps Found

Mrs. Esther Cornett of Brunley, Mo., never could understand why she didn't get any better after having her appendix removed three years ago. Now she knows, because an X-ray picture taken by Kansas City surgeons revealed that a seven-inch pair of forceps had been left in the abdominal cavity. Mrs. Cornett is shown in the top photo after an operation to remove the instrument, shown in the X-ray picture below.

TIRE BLOWOUT EXHIBIT TODAY

Spectacular Demonstration Will Be Held at Airport

An unusual treat is in store today for local residents who are interested in highway safety, when they will have an opportunity to witness just how a tire reacts when it blows out.

The demonstration will occur during a safety show which will take place at 1:15 p. m. at the airport. During the course of the show, to which city officials and others interested in reduction of highway accidents have been invited, a tire equipped with a regular tube will be blown out by use of dynamite. This demonstration will be made at slow speed, in order that spectators may see for themselves just what happens to a tire when it suddenly loses all of its air.

Manistique Plays Grand Marais In City On Sunday

Grand Marais will travel to Manistique on Sunday to play the hard-hitting city-team. Manistique gathered a total of 19 hits in their game with Rexton, 15 hits against Engadine and 10 hits against Curtis. Although Manistique dropped from first to second place by their defeat Sunday, will battle to get on the top rung again by defeating Grand Marais. Grand Marais has in Pug Andrea and Harry Bailey a couple of good ball players. Andrea being tried out with the Detroit Tigers last spring and Bailey a player of the old school and who will remember. A good fast game is assured everyone, and the Manistique ball club is looking forward to a good crowd and support. The game will be played at the Fairgrounds, scheduled to start at 2:30. The probable starting line-up for Manistique:

Oliver, cf; Rublek, lf; Stoor, 2b; Noe, 3b; Ekdahl, c; Dyer, 1b; Sitoki, rf; Popish, ss; Chartier or Zielbeck, p.

STOCK LEADERS SLIP DOWNWARD

Table with columns for Stock Market Averages, including Net change, D.5, D.3, D.1, D.3, and various stock indices.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, June 17 (AP)—Stock market leaders went into a drifting decline today after an early attempt to extend Thursday's mild advance proved unsuccessful.

While there were few weak spots in evidence at any time, steels, rails and specialties gave ground easily. A little buying support near the close cut extreme losses in a number of cases, but most leaders were down fractions to a point or so.

Volume picked up a trifle on the forenoon sell-off, but dwindled during the remainder of the proceedings. Transfers totaled 327,819 shares against 342,300 yesterday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 3.6 of a point at 38.6.

Both rail shares and bonds were depressed by possible receiverships confronting shaky roads. A slight increase in this week's automobile production aided the motors, but even these were under water at the finish.

Talk of further cuts in prices of steel products was hardly a buying inspiration for this group of stocks, although some observers thought mill operations should hang around current levels until August when an upward reversal would get under way.

A poor performance of corporate bonds generally was coincident with some irregularity of commodities. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off 7-8 of a cent a bushel. Corn was up 1/4 to 1 cent. Cotton gained 20 to 25 cents a bale.

Shares finishing lower included U. S. Steel at 41 1/2, Chrysler 41 1-8, U. S. Rubber 26 3-8, Sears Roebuck 66, Santa Fe 24 5-8, N. Y. Central 10 3/4, Southern Pacific 10 1-8, American Smelting 35 1/2, Westinghouse 74 1/2, Homestake 62, McIntyre Porcupine 44, Air Reduction 46 and Standard Oil of N. J. 46 1/4.

Fractionally higher were Woolworth at 42 5-8, Consolidated Edison 24, Cerro De Pasco 34 1/2, Eastman Kodak 150 1/2 and Union Carbide 65 5-8.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

New York, June 17 (AP)—Stocks: Easy; leaders lost rallying urge. Bonds: Mixed; secondary rails again under pressure. Curb: Uneven; industrials in demand. Foreign Exchange: Steady; slight losses against dollar. Cotton: Higher; trade and foreign buying. Sugar: Quiet; hedge selling. Coffee: Steady; trade buying. Chicago: Wheat: Easy; increased arrivals southwest. Corn: Higher; prolonged wet weather. Cattle: Steady.

Cunningham Chief Attraction Today At Palmer Stadium

Princeton, N. J., June 17 (AP)—The "ideal" track meet, at least from the customers' viewpoint—small fields, fast company and a fast track—will have its fourth renewal tomorrow afternoon at Palmer Stadium, with Glenn Cunningham again the chief attraction.

The barrel-chested former Kansan will line up for the start of the invitation mile against Archie San Romani, twice his conqueror this season; Joseph Mostert of Belgium, lone foreign entry and world record holder at three-quarters of a mile; Pete Bradley, Princeton's graduating star, and Blaine Rideout of North Texas Teachers.

Fifty-five minutes later Glenn and San Romani will face the starter, this time in a three-quarter mile race with Gene Venzeke, Schoolboy Leslie MacMitchell, Ralph Schwartzkopf of Michigan, Ray Mahannah, formerly of Drake, and Wayne Rideout, Blaine's twin brother.

Cunningham hasn't found the Princeton mile easy going. Since winning the inaugural in 1934 in the then world record time of 4:06.7, he has been third twice, behind Jack Lovelock and Bill Bonthron in 1935 and behind San Romani and Lash in 1937, and second once, to Venzeke in 1936.

RAILROAD LOANS IN WIDE SWING

Table titled 'BOND MARKET AVERAGES' showing various bond indices and their values.

New York, June 17 (AP)—Large scale institutional switching in railroad loans resulted in wide swings both up and down in that division of the bond market today.

The general list was mixed, with losers in numerical majority. Bond brokers and traders attributed most of the good turnover in the rail group to activities of portfolio managers of banks, insurance companies and investment trusts making further adjustments in the light of the reality congress had adjourned without providing easier government loans for needy carriers.

Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4 1/2's were in heavy demand from the start and ended 1-8 higher at 125-8 on a turnover of $152,000, par value. Union Central 3 1/2's of 1937 were in supply and finished 3 1/2 lower at 67, while the system's 4 1/2's of 2013 bounded up 2-8 to 40 5-8 and the 6's of 2013 ended up 2 1/2 at 44 1/2.

Net results of the day revealed a preponderance of losses, and a few particularly thin spots where declines ran to 6 points or so. The Associated Press average of 20 rail issues sank to a new low since June 1, 1932, at 46.6, a net decline of .5 of a point.

Industrial and utility issues acted more soberly. Fractional improvement was shown by Westinghouse 5's, Pacific Gas 3 1/2's, National Dairy 3's and International Telephone 5's. Loew's 3 1/2's U. S. governments were a bit more active but changes were narrow, ranging from 5-32 of a point higher to that much lower.

Foreign dollar bonds generally were neglected. Japanese 5 1/2's and Rome 6's each gained a point, while Italian government 7's yielded 7-8.

Transfers aggregated $5,005,200, face value, compared with $4,858,300 the day before. It was the best volume since June 1.

Four and a half bushels of wheat per capita, equivalent to 200-pounds of flour, are consumed annually in the United States.

STORIES IN STAMPS

What Benjamin Franklin Gave to Science

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN finds a place once more in the gallery of American philately with inclusion in the new regular series chiefly because he was the father of the nation's postal system. The country so honored him recently at Philadelphia a famous Franklin Institute, where a heroic statue of the colonial figure was unveiled, the work of James Earle Frazer.

But that statue, dedicated at the oldest institution in the United States devoted to the study of mechanical arts and science, recalls still another side of Franklin's rich life, his scientific contributions.

For Franklin left some interesting trails. His theory of electricity was not original, but was surprisingly clear and accurate. He made exhaustive studies of the Aurora Borealis, the origin of northeast storms in America, earthquakes and other subjects of natural history and mathematics. His medical theories, especially on colds, won wide recognition.

Cubs Drop Twin Bill; Tigers Split With Senators

BEES GET TWO FROM CHICAGO

Turner Gets 1-0 Shutout in Opener; Lanning Wins Nightcap, 3-2

Boston, June 17 (AP)—Arlight pitching and a stonewall defense enabled the Boston Bees to take both ends of the Bunker Hill day doubleheader with the Cubs, 1-0 and 3-2, before a 12,645 crowd.

Jim Turner held the Cubs to one hit while getting a shutout in the opener, which was decided in the seventh when Ray Mueller dashed a drive into the left field stands. Bill Lee gave the Bees five hits while dropping his third game of the season.

The Bees scored all of their second game runs before Starter Harry French could retire a batter in the first inning of the nightcap. Johnny Lanning held the Cubs scoreless until the eighth, when Jurgis singled, Hack tripled and scored on Herman's safety.

Miss Barrett Plays Helen Hofman Today

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 17 (P)—Beatrice Barret of Minneapolis defeated Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, 3 and 2, in a semi-final match in the women's western open golf tournament at Broadmoor today.

In the finals tomorrow, Miss Barrett will meet Helen Hofmann of Salt Lake City who defeated Babe Didrikson, professional, by Didrikson, professional, from Beaumont, Tex., by a 3 and 2 margin.

Says One Hero to Another—

The one and only Babe Ruth, right, who knows a great piece of baseball work when he sees it, donned a Cincinnati cap and climbed right into the Reds' dugout at Ebbets Field to tell 22-year-old Johnny Vander Meer what he thought of the latter's feat of pitching his second no-hit, no-run game in a row. More than 38,000 fans attended the first night game in Brooklyn to see the Cincinnati star subdue the Dodgers to break all major league pitching records.

SPILLING the DOPE

Roscoe D. Bennette, writing in the Grand Rapids Press, takes this philosophical slant on the Detroit feat of young Johnny Vander Meer in pitching two consecutive no-hit victories:

"The nation today is singing the praise of youthful Johnny Vander Meer, son of Holland, who has pitched two consecutive nine-inning baseball games without allowing a hit. Eighteen full innings and no batter from two major league clubs could place the ball where it could not be fielded in time. Columns upon columns are being written about him for he has done something no other baseball pitcher in 100 years of the game has ever accomplished. And thus the world marches on.

"In athletics, sports of all kinds, we do everything better today than our ancestors. Pitchers throw balls faster, batters hit them harder and longer and fielders play longer and more perfectly than ever before. Foot races now do things that were believed impossible in the past; swimmers propel themselves through the waters at unheard of speed; high jumpers jump higher, vaulters leap higher and man everywhere shows more and more ability to excel those who have gone before no matter how good they were or how loud their praises were sung at the time.

GUNDRY TELLS OF HIS TEAM

Four Escanaba Boys on Auditor General's Softball Outfit

George T. Gundry, state auditor-general, a visitor in the Upper Peninsula with his friends, H. G. Cuthbertson, of Lansing, had much to say about his championship softball team, the Auditor General's, who will play an exhibition game here sometime next month.

Having captured the state AAA title last year after losing out in the Capitol league, the team is considered one of the most colorful softball aggregations in the state. It is a member of the state AAA major softball league.

"So far this season the boys, all of whom are state employees and most of them employes in my department, have lost only one game while winning six," he said, "and believe me, the competition is tough in Lansing.

"Softball is going over like wildfire down there. Most state departments have teams, and the Capitol league is composed of some very fast teams. In Lansing there are two fields equipped for night play."

Gundry said that his boys, who are making this trip while on vacation from their work, are booking games in Ironwood, Escanaba, Houghton and Menominee in addition to Marquette. Incidentally, there are four former Escanaba athletes on the Auditor General's lineup. They are Gerald Priestor, George Labre and John Gaffner and William Schram, the latter two having played baseball in the Delta county city at one time.

Fifteen state employes will lease a bus to make this softball tour of the U. P. from July 9 to July 14.

Californians Signs To Join Athletics

Cleveland, June 17 (AP)—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics announced today the signing of Bill Priest, right-handed pitcher of the University of California.

GRIFFS ANNEX OPENER, 12-10

Ninth-Inning Rally Is Short and Detroit Takes Finale, 4-3

Detroit, June 17 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers and the Washington Senators divided a doubleheader today, the Griffs hammering out 15 hits to win the first game, 12 to 10, and falling short with a three-run ninth-inning rally to drop the nightcap, 4 to 3.

Wesley Ferrell was the winning hurler in the opener although he was relieved in the ninth by Pete Appleton when Detroit staged a five-run uprising. Roxie Lawson scattered 10 Washington hits in taking the second game.

Chester Laabs' homer with the sacks full featured the ninth-inning assault in the first tilt. He added another circuit drive, this time with one man on, in the second inning of the after-piece. Al Simmons, veteran outfielder formerly with Detroit and now with the Griffs, also had two homers, both in the first game, driving in three runs.

Auker Is Victim

The Nats pounced on Elden Auker in the first frame of the opener. Four singles and a walk were responsible for two runs and left the bases loaded when the Tiger's submarine hurler was relieved without having got a batter out. Jake Wade went to the mound and two more singles produced three additional runs before he retired the side.

The Tigers got one run in the second on an error, two passes and a putout. Simmons' first round trip came in the third, with the bases empty, and Washington made another tally in the fourth by combining a double and a single.

Detroit added two runs in the fifth through three singles and two errors. The Senators singled twice and added a sacrifice for a run in the sixth.

A walk put Buddy Myer on base in the seventh to score when Simmons blasted out his second homer. George Case, next up, rapped a four-bagger into the same spot in the upper deck of left field pavillion and Washington had three more runs. In their half the Bengals scored twice with a walk, a single, a double by Bill Rogell and an out.

Slicker Coffman went to the mound for Detroit at the start of the ninth and gave up two hits, doubles by Buck Travis and Case, for one run.

Gehring Starts It

Then came the Detroit uprising. Charley Gehring began it by singling and went to third when Rudy York singled. At this juncture Appleton took up Fox scored Gehring with a double and Hank Greenberg walked to fill the bases. Laabs cleared them off with his four-bagger into the upper left field stands. Appleton retired the next three batters and the game ended with Detroit trailing by two runs.

The Tigers jumped into a two-run lead in the second inning of the nightcap. Greenberg got a one base hit after two men were down and Laabs scored him with his second homer of the day, which dropped in the lower left center field pavillion.

The Nats loaded the bases in the fourth and again in the sixth but failed to put across a run.

Greenberg was the first Detroit batter in the seventh and turned in his fifteenth home run of the season for the only run of the frame.

The Cochrane men got their fourth and final run in the eighth. Gehring singled with one out and scored when York doubled. Fox filed out and then York moved to third on a passed ball, and was stranded when Greenberg fanned.

Dutch Leonard pitched for Washington until the Washington half of the ninth, when Johnny Stone pinch hit for him and drew a walk that started the three-run rally which left the Griffs one run behind. Jim Wadswell filed out, and Sam West, new Senator just acquired from St. Louis Browns, homered to score stone ahead of him. Buddy Lewis followed with a home run grounded out and Travis singled, but the side was retired when George Goshlin filed out.

Delta County League Half May End In Tie

With the first half of the Delta county league schedule ending Sunday, there appears to be a good chance of a tie in the standings. At present, Bark River and Rock are tied for first place with three victories and one defeat. If each team wins, it will be necessary to play an extra game, preferably on June 26, an open date.

Rock was undefeated until this week when League President Charles Johnston ruled a protested game, which Rock had won 7-6, in favor of the Escanaba Eagles. This ruling threw the league leadership into a tie with Bark River, which has been defeated only by the Spartans.

Bark River will entertain the strong Rapid River team, which has two victories and two defeats. Rapid River has two good pitchers, Wright and Bob Miller, both of whom are capable of some clever hurling if in good form. Bark River most likely will rely on the strong right arm of their ace, Ward. The latter had an off day last Sunday but seldom has two bad Sundays in a row.

Rock will attempt to keep its standing at the top by traveling to Ford River to meet the tall enders, who have yet to win a game. In spite of the fact that they have not scored a victory, the Ford River boys have shown flashes of power and may prove troublesome.

The third game of the day, one which should present plenty of fireworks will be held at Escanaba with Perkins meeting the Eagles. The Eagles, by virtue of their protested game and their victory over Ford River last Sunday, have a record of two wins and two losses, a record identical to that of Perkins. Needless to say, there will be blood and thunder here.

Principals In Schmeling Fight Will Not Have To Go On Relief

New York, June 17 (AP)—Regardless of the outcome of the scuffle between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling next Wednesday night it is now assured that none of the principals, including promoter "Uncle Mike" Jacobs, will be worried about social security after it's all over.

Calculus, as the saying goes in juggler circles, is already well "off the nut." The combined cost of production and overhead—"the nut"—amounts to at least $150,000. This is exclusive of the fighter's percentages. But with the advance sale today approximating $550,000 the road to a substantial promoter's profit is now clear.

Jacobs is anxious to top his own record, set in 1935 when the Louis-Baer fight drew 83,462 cash customers and grossed $948,352 in ticket sales. The enlarged Yankee Stadium is scaled to do so but it will take a big boom at the box-office.

Win or lose, Louis is sure to shoot his earnings beyond the million mark. The champion and his backers, at the last count, had collected $958,721 from the negro's fight work. They get 40 per cent of the net "gate" next week. This may run anywhere from $200,000 to $300,000.

Schmeling's 20 per cent cut figures to be between $100,000 and $150,000, on the same basis, but the German challenger, already well fixed financially, is more interested in the title than the money.

Finally, the tax collectors will do all right. If the receipts go as high as a million dollars the federal and state revenue men combined will gather in about $150,000. Taxes on a $30 ring-side ticket total nearly $4. In addition of a service charge and contribution to the "Sports Alliance Fund," on ring-side complimentary, runs the cost of an "Annie Oakley" to $7.

Heard in the huddle: Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's U. S. agent, won't be in Max's corner... because the flistic fathers refuse to lift the ban last imposed on "Yuself" for his handling of Tony Galento... Louis is still 5 to 8 favorite in most betting books... some "wise men" consider the champion a sure thing but the wagering doesn't reflect it... in addition to domestic (NBC) networks, short wave broadcasts will carry the ring-side fight description to Germany, England and Latin America.

KIRCHER LEAVES LOCAL OUTFIT

To Replace Brother Al at First Base for Iron Mountain

Iron Mt., June 17—Merwin Kircher, of Gladstone, brother of Al Kircher and former first baseman for Escanaba, will play with the Ford Twins in their game against Escanaba here Sunday. It was announced today by Manager Ed Kretzler.

Eddie Ashenbrenner, of the Pine Mountain Rangers, will patrol an outfield position. Kretzler announced the signing of the two players to plug vacancies created by departure this week of Al Kircher, first sacker, and George Mason and Eli Enger, outfielders.

Ashenbrenner and Tavonatti are slated to team with Tommy Lawrence in the outer garden, with Merwin Kircher replacing his brother at the initial bag. The remainder of the lineup is intact, with Petroske behind the plate, Jacobson and Veins as pitchers, Soderberg at second base, Schultz at short, and Anderson at third.

Ashenbrenner has played in the Northern Wisconsin Michigan league before. Merwin Kircher performed for Escanaba until a couple weeks ago when he left the team.

Arbitration Board Named For Softball

The department of Parks and Recreation announced last night that Rev. D. E. Evans, Doctor W. R. Buttiner, and Leo Brunello have consented to act in the capacity of a protest board to arbitrate all disputes arising in the leagues sponsored by the department. All of these men are well known for their wide knowledge of sports and for their interest in the promotion of them in the city.

League rules require that any team wishing to protest must file such a protest in writing with the recreation office not later than forty-eight hours after the game. These protests will be referred to the three man board whose decision will be final.

GIANTS WALLOP CARDINALS, 10-3

League Leaders Boost Margin to 3 Games Over Cubs

BY DREW MIDDLETON
New York, June 17 (AP)—Led by Hank Leiber and Jo Jo Moore the New York Giants let go with a 16 hit attack today to wallop the St. Louis Cardinals 10 to 3.

The victory, plus two defeats for the Chicago Cubs boosted the Giants National league lead to three games.

Leiber's homer with the bases full in the fifth was the big blow of the day. Hank's sixth of the year, the drive hit the top of the left field stands and just about ended Lonnie Warneke's stay in the box. He walked the next batter and Ray Harrell relieved him.

While the Giants were pounding Warneke and Harrell, Clyde Castelman breezed through to his second victory of the year. Leiber and Moore got four hits each, Moore collecting his sixth homer. Mel Ott rammed No. 14 into right field stands in the fourth to put the Giants ahead by a run and the next inning the New Yorkers sewed up the game. Moore finished the scoring with a circuit clout after Castelman singled in the sixth.

Speedball Artist Wins For Mackmen

Cleveland, June 17 (AP)—Johnny Allen had plenty of stuff today and took over Connie Mack's Athletics, 8 to 1, for his eighth victory of the season to give Cleveland its third straight triumph and a full game lead over the idle New York Yankees.

The temperamental speedball artist allowed seven bases on balls and hit another batter, but passed out only five hits to Philadelphia and struck out seven.

The Athletics threatened several times but never had much chance after the Indians collected three runs in the first inning off Lee (Buck) Ross.

The Athletics' lone tally in the series opener came in the fifth when Werber's triple scored Finney, who had walked.

Wild Pitches Cost Game For Phillies

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP)—Two wild pitches today cost Al Hollingsworth a victory over Pittsburgh in his first start as a pitcher for the Phillies. His second wild pitch came in the 10th inning with two out and permitted Handley to score from third with the run that gave the Pirates a 4-3 triumph.

Eagles Plan Double Bill For Sunday At City's Ball Diamond

The Escanaba Eagles will offer a double bill to ball fans at the 23rd street hardball diamond on Sunday afternoon, according to arrangements announced last night by Manager Williams. The Eagles will play Perkins and the added attraction will be a softball game between the Menominee Beers and the U. A. W.

The ticket office at the diamond will open at 12:30 with the Beers-U. A. W. game scheduled to start at one o'clock. The Perkins-Eagles baseball game will start at 2:30. The Eagles are now enjoying a 500 standing and are seeking to climb up among the league leaders.

PEOPLE WON'T BE KICKED OUT

Auditor General Gundry Talks at Meeting of Democrats

The old and feeble, the persons who would have no home if the state took it from them for delinquent taxes, will not be dispossessed for two years, even though the taxes on their homes are not paid in the required 18 months after the May tax sale, Auditor General George T. Gundry last night told about 400 Young Democrats from Menominee, Delta and Dickinson counties in meeting at Powers town hall.

"I said before the tax sale that I would use every means in my power to bring this about so they would not suffer, and I think the legislature in 1938 will assure them such protection," Gundry declared.

The auditor general was one of several speakers who addressed the Young Democrats at a meeting over which Charles Schlenvogt, chairman of the U. P. Young Democrat clubs, presided.

Describes Tax Sale

Representatives Frank Hook of Ironwood and John Luecke of Escanaba, who were invited to attend the meeting, sent their regrets at being unable to attend because of the pressure of other business. Rep. Luecke is in Washington, where congress is in final session.

Gundry described the work necessary in the auditor general's office in preparation for the state tax sale, and said that when he took over the office in 1937 there were a million and a half delinquent tax descriptions unrecorded.

"The man who preceded me is a neighbor of yours and a friend of mine (John J. O'Hara, Menominee, Republican) and any statement that I may have made in the past over conditions in the office is in no way a reflection upon my predecessor," Gundry said.

Few Parcels Sold

Before the tax sale in May Gundry said that the additional work in preparing the records for the sale was due to the million and a half descriptions unrecorded under O'Hara's administration. O'Hara answered the statement with the charge that Gundry was "playing politics" in discharging experienced employees of the department, that all records were complete in 1936 for a proposed tax sale cancelled by the supreme court, and that any delay in preparing records was the result of an inexperienced office force.

Gundry said last night that of all the tax delinquent land advertised for sale, only a comparatively few parcels were sold. The reason, Gundry said, was because most of the tax delinquent lands are in cut-over or abandoned farm lands, and about one-half of the total in the vicinity of Detroit, "over-developed in the land boom."

Lands Gov. Murphy

The auditor general praised the administration of Governor Frank Murphy and declared the governor "would go down in history as the greatest conciliator and friend of labor the state has ever had."

"Present criticism of Governor Murphy is from the industrialists, the men who are making a profit out of labor," Gundry declared. He said he did not include all business in that category. Many are cooperating in the recovery program, he said.

Automobile manufacturers in lower Michigan and mine operators in the upper peninsula were criticized by Gundry for their "over-production methods last year." He declared they oversupplied their market in a few months boom operations, and then closed for the rest of the year.

"They wanted to get as much out of the men as they could in the shortest time. They didn't care after that. The men could go on WPA or relief when they

Plane Wreckage Where Nine Died in Sierras

Completely demolished, with only the tail assembly left intact, the wreckage of a once-proud TWA transport plane is pictured above after searchers located it atop Buena Vista Crest in the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. Plunging through six-foot snow drifts, forest rangers reached the scene 24 hours after the wreck was located, and used pack horses to transport bodies of the nine victims down the mountainside to Fresno, Calif. The crash occurred on March 1, during a severe storm, but the wreckage was not found for more than three months. The photo shows the plane's tail assembly, resting at a 45 degree angle and entangled in a pine tree. Bodies of Pilot John D. Graves and Stewardess Martha Wilson were found 200 feet from the plane. The other seven bodies were in the demolished cabin.

POISONED BAIT IS DANGEROUS

Care Should Be Employed in Use of 'Hopper Mixtures

Lost wildlife or domestic animals fall victims to a fate intended for grasshoppers, a warning in the use of poison bait to check the pest has been issued by Professor Charles B. Dibble, Michigan State college entomologist.

Professor Dibble urges that the material be spread thinly over the infested area and that care be taken against letting it stand around on the premises in any quantity and against spreading it unevenly. The bait is a mixture of millilaced sawdust, sodium arsenite and water.

Difficult to Destroy

"This bait is difficult to get rid of except by spreading," Professor Dibble says. "Considerable difficulty will be experienced in trying to burn it and there is danger in burying it. I have known of cattle digging three feet into the ground to get at a quantity of the mixture which had been buried. It is attractive to animals because it is salty."

Cases of livestock being killed by the poison are on record and last year a deer was found dead from the same cause in Manistee national forest.

According to Professor Dibble the bait should be spread at a ratio of 10 to 20 pounds to the acre during weather of a temperature between 70 and 90 degrees. When the weather is either colder or warmer the grasshoppers do not eat as well.

Campaign Effective

The effectiveness of the grasshopper control campaign in Michigan is found in estimates that $600,000 loss was averted last year through use of the bait, compared to a damage figured at $350,000.

During the egg laying season last fall an unusually large number of eggs were noted. Professor Dibble estimates that four to five times more eggs were laid than for several years. The hoppers hatch in the spring.

Under the system set up for grasshopper control, the federal government supplies the mixed bait and the poison and each county supplies its own sawdust and water, and does the mixing. County grasshopper control committees oversee the work in each county and a state committee arranges with the federal government for supplying the counties.

Legionnaires Go To Crystal Falls Conference Today

Eight representatives of Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, are leaving today for Crystal Falls to attend a Legion zone meeting, where final plans will be made for the Upper Peninsula Legion convention next month at Calumet.

The Escanaba delegation will also launch their campaign to bring the 1939 state convention of the Legion to Escanaba. Members of the group making the Crystal Falls trip today are: E. R. Kauphusman, commander of the local Legion post; John Peltier, manager of the Legion drum and bugle corps; Ralph R. Olson, C. J. Corcoran, William Ehnerd, Tom Beaton, Emmett Meehan and Henry Boyle.

Young Democrats Sponsoring Dance

J. L. Jacobson, chairman of the Delta county Young Democrats Club, announced Friday that a dance will be held at Terrace Gardens June 25, sponsored by the club. Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are: C. P. Titus, general chairman; Tom Jonas, ticket chairman; J. H. Stephens, Clyde McGonagle, Vern Panzoon, John Fisher Jr., Harry Watkins and Charles Johnston.

This is the first of a series of entertainments to be given by the local Democrats. Harold Manning's band will play for the dance next Saturday.

The West African "sea-going camel" is a mud springer, or hippopotamus fish. It is capable of leaving the water and climbing trees, carrying a mouthful of water along to squirt on itself to keep from drying out.

ACCOUNTS ARE BEING FILED

Social Security Board Is Establishing More Records

Wages of millions of men and women for whom the Social Security Board has established old-age insurance accounts were being posted during the last of May at an average rate of approximately 650,000 entries a day, John J. Corson, Acting Director of the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance, announced yesterday. The largest number of entries made in any one day was 1,221,259.

The wages now being posted, Mr. Corson explained, are from employers' wage reports for 1937, which were filed at the end of each 6-month period. Approximately 75,000,000 wage items reported by employers for 1937 have been received by the Social Security Board from the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Under revised regulations effective January 1, 1938, employers now file a tax return every 3 months, when they pay their taxes and their employees' taxes. On the same form they list the amount of wages paid to each employee during the quarter. An approximately 2,100,000 wage items reported by employers for the first 3 months of 1938 have been received by the Social Security Board. Employers' wage reports are filed with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and after they have been checked against the employer's tax return, are turned over to the Social Security Board where each employee's wages are recorded in his old-age insurance account.

Although there is a few months lag between a worker's pay day and the day his wages are recorded in his old-age insurance account, this will not cause delay in settling a claim for benefits, Mr. Corson explained. Lump-sum payments are now being made to workers reaching age 65 and to heirs and estates of workers who have died. Supplemental information concerning employee's wages needed in settling such claims is obtained from the worker's employer. Mr. Corson stated that in no instance had an employer denied this cooperation.
