KENNEDY DOES NOT WANT TO BE PRESIDENT

DISAVOWS ANY 1940 PRESIDENTIAL ASPIRATIONS

BY SCOTT HERSHEY New York, June 20 (AP)—The United States plain-spoken ambassador to the court of St. James, Joseph P. Kennedy today disavowed any 1940 presidential aspirations and said if he had his eye on another job it would be a "breach of faith" with President Roosevelt.

Report Not Cheerful

He admitted his report on economic conditions to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull would not be particularly cheerful, but said he would have to learn more about conditions here before he could say whether he was "bullish" or bearish.

Children Are Sensation

When the talk turned to lighter subjects, Kennedy smiled broadly and said "That's good" and added he wasn't the one to deny his children — he has nine — were something of a sensation in London.

He said his refusal to wear knee breeches was not because I am bow-legged as some people say, but just because I didn't want to.

Kennedy, who first intended to leave for Cambridge to see the graduation from Harvard of his son Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., changed his plans after receiving an invitation to visit President Roosevelt at Hyde Park tomorrow.

GOV'T GETTING GOOD RETURNS THIS SEASON

80 CENTS ON EVERY TAX DOLLAR IS COLLECTED

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The treasury approached the end of the fiscal year today with eighty cents collected for every dollar spent, the largest proportion of receipts to expenditures since the lean years began.

The result was a deficit obviously destined, when the final entries are made on June 30, to be the lowest since 1931, when the current series of unbalanced budgets began.

With a fortnight still to go, the deficit stood at $1,469,000,000. This compared with $2,707,000,000 last year; $4,361,000,000 in 1936; $3,002,000,000 in 1935; $3,630,000,000 in 1934; $3,053,000,000 in 1933; $3,148,000,000 in 1932, and $903,000,000 in 1931.

The coming year, however, is expected to see a reversal of the downward deficit trend of the last three fiscal periods. Congress appropriated some $12,000,000,000 for next year, nearly half of which was for the administration's pump-priming campaign against the new business recession.

Last Year Was 65 Cents As compared with this year's 80 cents of receipts for every dollar of expenditures, last year's proportion was 65 cents. The figure was 49 cents in 1935, 56 cents in 1935, 46 cents in 1934, 40 cents in 1933, 38 cents in 1932, and 79 cents in 1931.

The public debts, as of June 17, stood at $36,490,000,000. This compared with the record peak of $37,814,000,000 on March 12, last. The $36,490,000,000 figure represented an increase of $769,000,000 for the fiscal year thus far. Last year's increase was $2,715,000,000 and that of 1936 was $5,078,000,000.

Receipts from income tax collections so far this year (the June 15 collection have still to show on the treasury's books) were $2,450,000,000 as against $1,935,000,000 for the equivalent period a year ago; miscellaneous internal revenue totaled $2,210,000,000 as against $2,114,000,000 last year, and total receipts are $5,959,000,000, as compared with $4,966,000,000.

What the treasury lists as general expenditures (outlays for running the regular branches of the government) totaled $4,425,000,000 against $4,144,000,000; expenditures for "recovery and relief aggregated $2,073,000,000 as compared with $1,966,000,000.

German Spy Ring is Uncovered in U.S.A.; Federal Government Indicts 18 Persons

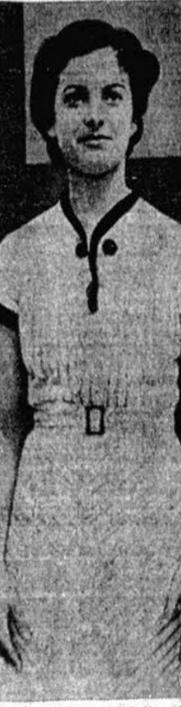

New York, June 20 (AP)—The government's first intensive spy investigation since the World War was climaxed today with the naming of 18 persons, including several German officials, in three indictments charging conspiracy and espionage.

Lamar Hardy, federal district attorney, in a statement describing the conduct of the five-weeks inquiry asserted that "the directing heads of the spy ring reside in Germany and are connected with the government of that country."

In the general indictment the 18 persons are charged with forming a conspiracy for the procurement and transmission to Germany of secret information on aircraft, vessels and coast defenses of the United States.

Others were: Ernst Mueller, believed to be a resident of Hamburg; Capt. Lieutenant Erich Pfeiffer, believed to be of Bremen; Mrs. Jesse Jordan, recently sentenced to a four year jail term in England; Johann Hoffmann, hairdresser on the North German

Kidnaper's Wife

Later, the convicted killer was removed to the state prison at Raiford to await execution.

JAPS RETREAT BEFORE FLOOD

Honan Province Invasion Blocked by Waters of Yellow River

Shanghai, June 21 (Tuesday) (AP)—Boats and rafts today carried Japanese forces in a great retreat from the flooded battlements of Honan province where a few weeks ago they had advanced in tanks and trucks against wavering Chinese resistance.

The Japanese withdrawal was regarded as evidence that the expensive campaign against Chengchow and the Peiping-Hankow railway as an avenue to Hankow had failed.

Reports from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, said the Japanese Honan forces, blocked by a disastrous flood of the Yellow river, were dividing, some proceeding southeastward to join the Yangtze river offensive against Hankow and others north into Shansi province for a new try at penetrating the Chinese Communist stronghold, adjacent Shensi province.

Only by an invasion of Shensi could the Japanese hope to cut off the Soviet Russian supply of munitions to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies.

A Japanese army spokesman said Chinese forces in Shansi had been reinforced lately to a strength of between 100,000 to 200,000, better equipped now than when the Japanese thrust through the province from north China.

FEELINGS OF GERMANY, U. S. ARE STRAINED

SERIES OF NOTES CAUSES RIFT IN RELATIONS

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Relations between the United States and Germany are as bad as at any time since the World war and are giving cause for concern on both sides of the water.

Public speeches of mutual recrimination, a series of sharp diplomatic notes and a pronounced lack of cooperation indicate the tenseness between the two nations.

The United States has addressed four diplomatic communications to Germany in less than two months. Germany's resentment is expressed by the fact that she has answered none.

Three of the communications dealt with Austria's debts. There was a note April 6, an "aide memoire" May 16 and a note June 9. But America's demand for a quick answer has, up to now, been ignored.

On May 11 the United States sent a note to Berlin protesting against the enforced registration of the property of American Jews in Germany. This registration decree was widely interpreted as a preliminary to expropriation.

The feeling of Secretary Hull toward Germany can be seen in the very fact that three communications were sent on the subject of Austrian debts. Austria's obligations to the United States government and American citizens amount to only $64,000,000, a comparatively small sum, and of this total, more than half has been bought back by Austrians.

Secretary Hull is seeking to drive home a principle. The American note emphasized that, under international law, a nation which absorbs another should take the burdens with the benefits.

U. S. Closely Watched Germany also was mentioned by implication in two recent state department pronouncements—Secretary Hull's admonition to Germany and Czechoslovakia that they were signatories of the Kellogg peace pact, and Undersecretary Welles' denunciation of aerial bombing in Spain.

The speech of German Finance Minister Walther Funk last week accusing the United States of being the hell of the economic world, and picturing Germany as the heaven, was recorded here with more indifference than indignation.

That Germany is paying close attention to America's attitude was clearly indicated by a statement Saturday of the government-created editorial agency, Diplomatische Korrespondenz. It said that Secretary Hull's peace policy was "a decidedly one-sided conception of international cooperation" because the aim was cooperation with the democracies rather than with the dictatorships.

Secretary Hull's thought, however, is to cooperate with "like-minded nations" working for peace.

CHURCH MODERATOR DEAD

Brockville, Ont., June 20 (Canadian Press) (AP)—Rev. Donald Macdonald, recently elected moderator of the Presbytery church in Canada, died suddenly at his home today of a heart attack. Minister of First Presbyterian church here since 1925, Rev. Macdonald was 75.

Constable Charged With Shooting WPA Employee At Flint

Flint, Mich., June 20 (AP)—A charge of first degree murder was placed against Eugene Wright, 41 year old Burton township constable, today in connection with the shooting of Dona Groleau, 24, a WPA worker, here Saturday. The warrant was obtained by Prosecutor Joseph R. Joseph.

Investigation disclosed, sheriff's officers said, that Groleau and a companion quarreled with Wright in a beer garden and followed him to his home. Wright's wife told the officers her husband directed the men to leave, that Groleau threatened her husband and that the pistol was fired during a struggle. The deputies detained Wilfred Grothman, Groleau's companion, as a material witness.

He told officers that Wright beat him with a pistol butt.

Mystery Witness

Unidentified during the several times she testified before the special federal grand jury investigating operations of foreign spies, the "mystery" witness turned out to be blonde Eleanor Boehme, above. A graduate of Hunter College, and former student at the University of Berlin, she is reported to have obtained information of a spy ring while traveling on a German vessel.

SAFE SWIMMING PLACES LISTED

Escanaba's Industrial Frontage Will Be Posted by State

Lansing, June 20 (AP)—Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, state health commissioner, today ordered bathing places at eight upper peninsula centers posted as "unsafe for swimming" because of water pollution.

The warning signs will be placed at beaches in the vicinity of Marquette, Houghton, Hancock, Escanaba, Ontonagon, L'Anse, Manistique, and Munising," he announced.

Dr. Gudakunst said a survey of sewage pollution showed that the waters to be posted "show bacterial pollution which may carry the menace of typhoid fever and dysentery."

The signs will warn against swimming at the following places: Houghton and Hancock—The entire water frontage along Portage Lake within the built-up sections of the municipalities, until sewage treatment plants can be provided.

Escanaba—Industrial frontage. L'Anse—Entire water front on Keweenaw bay within the village. Marquette—Entire frontage of the bay from the breaker at the coast guard station through the middle of the city and extending as far south as the mouth of Carp river, described by Dr. Gudakunst as "definitely and seriously contaminated."

Ontonagon—Lower part of Ontonagon river from its mouth to a point above the uppermost sewer in the village. Manistique—The Manistique river and Lake Michigan frontage in the vicinity of the breakerwater. Munising—The Ann river within the city and the frontage of Munising bay within a two-mile radius of the city.

Dr. Gudakunst said that while warning signs were being posted along Escanaba's industrial frontage, the cities of Gladstone and Escanaba "in general" have protected their water frontage by adequate sewage treatment.

NOTABLES COME TO CHRISTENING

Senator Brown Will Sail on 'City of Munising' for Escanaba Trip

Lansing, June 20 (AP)—Senator Prentiss M. Brown and former Gov. Chase S. Osborn have accepted invitations of the state highway department to participate in the christening Sunday at Escanaba of the "City of Munising," the state's largest and newest ferry.

Senator Brown will board the "City of Munising" Saturday at Manitowish, Wis., where the boat, one a Lake Michigan car ferry, was remodeled for service.

At Escanaba, Mayor John W. Hannah of Munising will present the ship's colors to Capt. E. H. Dener, superintendent of state ferries. G. Donald Kennedy, deputy state highway commissioner, will be the principal speaker.

The boat, which has a capacity of 115 to 120 automobiles, will arrive Monday at St. Ignace, where it will be placed in operation.

No Man's Land Is Marked By Japs; Warning Issued

Tokyo, June 20 (AP)—Japan marked out today a vast "no man's land" for foreigners in China where she warned war operations probably would be extended.

She requested foreigners to evacuate the zone reaching from the coast into the very heart of the war-and-flood-stricken nation.

The western limit of the "no man's land" she chartered is a line running 1,000 miles north from Peihai (Pakhoi), on the Gulf of Tongkhai close to French Indo-China, to Sian, capital of Shensi province.

The northern limit is the yellow river on a line extending almost 700 miles northeast to the coast from Sian.

Even this outlined area may not cover the Japanese operations, it was announced, and all foreigners were advised to communicate their whereabouts immediately to the Japanese.

Asked To Leave (In a similar action taken Feb. 3, the Japanese requested Americans and other foreigners to leave an area extending from the Yangtze river on the south to a line running from the coast of southern Shansi province to Talyuan, Shansi province capital, on the north.)

(The United States government in a straightforward note denied Japan's right to urge the foreigners to leave, upheld the latter's right to remain in the area if they desired and declared Japan would be held responsible for any damage to Americans and their property.)

Today's action was taken by General Kazuhige Ugaki, foreign minister, in a circular statement to all foreign embassies and legations in Tokyo.

Would Avoid Danger It said: "Japan sincerely desires to avoid possible damage to the lives and property of foreign nationals and advises taking adequate measures along the following lines:

"First, foreigners and foreign vessels should evacuate the area south of the Yellow river and east of a line linking Sian, Ichang, Hengyang and Peihai.

"Second, aerial and land marks should be placed on foreign property in the aforesaid area and immediate information should be given the Japanese authorities concerning such property.

"Third, if the Chinese utilize foreign property in the aforesaid area, Japanese forces will be obliged to attack and will not assume responsibility. Therefore it is desirable that foreigners should prevent Chinese from using the said property."

United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew visited the foreign office for further discussion of American demands that Americans be permitted to resume possession of properties in Japanese-occupied areas in China.

CRACK NORMALLY SMALL

A creelburst, causing a "flash flood," had converted Custer creek, normally almost dry, into a raging torrent that weakened the trestle minutes before the locomotive's wheels sped over it.

At least five of the bodies found were located in the sleeper car when searchers first were able to enter it, although conflicting reports about location of the bodies often came from the 175 workers.

The other bodies they reported were found "in or near" the other portions of the smashed train in the creek.

First reports said four bodies were found 15 miles downstream near Terry, Mont., but later officials said they were not that far away.

The Montana state highway patrol reported sighting a body late today in the water nine miles below the wreck, but it had not yet been recovered. This report led to the belief that some bodies swept away in the torrent may not be recovered for days.

Five of about 65 injured, taken to the Holy Rosary hospital in Miles City, were in a serious condition. Most of the others were released after being treated for minor injuries.

Survivor Tells Story Sleeper B was more deeply submerged than were the six other cars that plunged into the flooded creek, and the workers were not able to reach it until today, when the water subsided from its earlier 20-foot depth. Workers searched the other cars yesterday and last night, recovering fifteen bodies.

TOLL OVER 30 IN MILWAUKEE ROAD TRAGEDY

VICTIMS ARE SWEEPED MILES AWAY IN CREEK FLOOD

Miles City, Mont., June 20 (AP)—Twenty of 29 known victims in the mosty of tragic American railroad wreck in a decade were identified tonight while exhausted searchers probed a silt-filled tourist sleeper for more bodies.

A 24 year old South Dakota nurse died tonight in Miles City's Holy Rosary hospital after 12 additional bodies were taken today from the twisted debris in Custer creek where the Milwaukee Road's crack "Olympian" train plunged through a flood-weakened bridge early Sunday.

Trapped in Torrent The nurse, Miss Lucille Stumley of Keldron, S. D., was the first of the wreck's victims to die in a hospital.

All the others were killed outright or trapped in twisted cars submerged in a 20 foot deep cloudburst floodwater that swept at the bridge piers only minutes before the train reached it.

Twenty-eight of the 29 bodies were in Miles City mortuaries, the other was at Glendive, Mont., fifty miles from the wreck scene, where it was washed by the flood torrent.

J. R. Regan, division freight and passenger agent for the railroad, said he believed more bodies would be recovered from the mud-filled sleeper submerged for almost 36 hours. Crews continued searching the sleeper and the nearby wreckage tonight.

The car was so choked with mud and wreckage that recovery was a tedious task.

Tried to Save Mother One of the last bodies identified was that of Thomas Lallas of Bellingham, Wash., the father of 10 year old Anne Lallas who tried vainly to save her mother from being swept away in the flood water.

The body of Mrs. Lallas had not yet been found. The mother was carried away after the girl held her desperately by the hair for several minutes. Orphaned by the tragedy with Anne were her brothers, John, 8, and George, 9.

The family was returning to Bellingham from a vacation trip to Greece.

Another body identified tonight was that of William T. McIntosh, 20, of Montague, Mont., who was returning home to see his parents after two years of study at the Parks Air college, at St. Louis, Mo.

Searchers first entered the submerged sleeper this morning, gaining access through windows after the creek had subsided from its 20 foot crest.

Only two of the seven victims recovered from sleeper B today were identified immediately. Officials said identification of the others would be difficult because of the 36 hours in the water, and because of bruised features.

One of the bodies taken from the Yellowstone river today was that of Mrs. Fred Woolsey of Miles City. The other three were not immediately identified. Mrs. Bernard Maguire of Miles City. (Continued on Page Two) waukee, one of the few passengers in sleeper B to escape when the locomotive dragged it, a mail car, baggage car, two chair cars and two other sleepers, into the surging water, gave a vivid account of what occurred.

"I went into the women's lavatory to put on my hat, as the train was approaching Miles City, where I was going to get off," she said.

Hears Victims Tapping
"The first I realized there was anything seriously wrong was when water started pouring into the car after a sudden jolt.

"I tried to open the door and couldn't.

"There I was—trapped like a rat in a hole, being put deeper and deeper into the water.

"Soon it was up to my waist. "I tugged at the door, but it was no use. Then I tried the window.

"Finally it gave a little. I threw all my weight on it and then I squeezed through the small opening.

"For a moment I clung to the side of the sleeper, which was the middle one of three tourist sleepers on the train.

"Everything was pitch dark. A few minutes before there had been terrible flashes of lightning. Everything seemed wild and hideous.

"As my eyes got used to the dark I could see other people clinging in the water to the wreck.

"Through the roaring of the wind I could hear people trapped below me in the car, tapping on the window.

"It was tragic. I couldn't do anything to help them. I knew they were being slowly submerged in the water, like I was just a few minutes before.

Had No Warning
"I managed to get on top of a badly tilted car. Then a porter helped me by making ropes out of hammocks to guide me and others who crawled forward.

"Using the rope as a guide, we crawled over the tender, and finally reached solid ground.

"Never, as long as I live, will I forget that tapping on the window."

Members of the train crew said the pressure of the rushing water probably made it impossible for the trapped passengers to open doors in the submerged coaches. Mrs. Maguire was bruised badly, evidence of the force of the water, that tore at her.

C. H. Buford of Seattle, general manager of the railroad, was in charge of the road's investigation and two investigators for the interstate commerce commission were ordered to the scene.

Corner Stanley Guy of Prairie county said an inquest would be delayed pending the outcome of the search for the bodies.

Apparently the engineer, Frank Merrifield, who was killed, had no warning of the flood. Railroad officials said he was "one of the best men who ever handled a locomotive."

The flood roared down from gullies above the headwaters of Custer creek and within a few minutes filled the ordinary dry stream bed to a raging torrent.

William Shearer, veteran Milwaukee engineer who was with other trainmen in the first day coach when the crash occurred, said he had never seen "more than a bucket full of water" in Custer creek before.

The heavy engine crashed through the flood waters to the far side of the creek. A coach landed on the tender. Killed with Engineer Merrifield was his fireman, H. C. McCoy.

The train was bound from Chicago to Tacoma, Wash.

Asikainen Will Run Against Frank Hook

Lansing, June 20 (AP)—The department of state today approved the form of nominating petitions to qualify Andrew Asikainen, of Marquette, as a candidate for congress from the twelfth district. He had been mentioned as a Democratic rival for nomination to the office now held by Rep. Frank E. Hook.

Secretary of State Leon D. Case said "a friend" submitted Asikainen's petitions. Hook complained recently to the state civil service department asking whether Asikainen, an employee of the state unemployment compensation commission, should be permitted to hold a state job and run for office at the same time. The commission passed the question on to the attorney general department, which has not yet presented an opinion.

$3,975,000,000. The total of all expenditures was $7,438,000,000 this year and $7,847,000,000 last year.

Comparatively speaking, the year brought a slight decrease in spending and a big increase in receipts, thus producing a smaller deficit on a turnover basis that was scarcely changed.

The full effect of the new depression as it affects government finance will not be felt until next year. It began slowly last fall and its lowest depths were not reached until late in the calendar year, too late to have much effect upon income tax returns for the year.

The recession and its effect upon next year's tax returns, plus the lending-spending program about to be begun in an effort to promote recovery, are expected to produce a deficit of $3,000,000,000 or $3,500,000,000.

Cleveland Relief Clients Sleep On Park Picnic Table

Cleveland, June 20 (AP)—Relief agencies rescued two middle-aged Cleveland women and their four children tonight from their living quarters on a city park picnic table.

The six, belongings piled on tables, stayed last night at the park when relief officials told them the city had no more money to pay for rent.

"It was much colder than we thought it would be," said Mrs. Jessie Ferguson, 37, left with 11 and 9-year old children by a divorce a year ago.

"The wind was awfully strong and these worn-out cotton blankets were all we had for the children."

The four children were taken to a temporary haven at the juvenile detention home while Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Emma Krus, 38, were given city emergency rent guarantees and started a hunt for new quarters.

Star Witness III In Detroit Murder

Detroit, June 20 (AP)—The jury which has been chosen to hear murder charges against Thomas Ferreri was discharged by Recorder's Judge Christopher E. Stein today because of the illness of James Payne, police firearms expert. The court did not set a date for selection of a new jury.

The prosecution regarded Payne as its star witness against Ferreri, who is charged with the murder of Sam Macciochi, whose burned body was found December 30, 1937, near the Macomb-Oakland county line.

Payne was stricken with appendicitis early Monday.

STRICKEN ON TRAIN
Glenwood, Mich., June 20 (AP)—The death of Harry Van Ness, 46, of Jackson, occurred Sunday night as the Michigan Central railroad train on which he was working as a fireman reached Glenwood. A heart attack was blamed.

Hey, Kidnaper!

You May Be Hunted As Beast Tomorrow; Only Three of 117 Have Escaped; Money Not Worth Chance of Being Executed

BY JOHN LEAR
New York, June 20 (AP)—Wait a minute, kidnaper!

Who or where you are there is no way of telling, but police statistics and the law of chance say you are there and are planning the next abduction.

You are a man today. Tomorrow you may be a hunted beast. Why do you risk the chance?

For money, you say? What is what Franklin McCall said. The Franklin McCall who is about to die for stealing little Jimmy Cash at Princeton, Fla.

"I wanted the money for my wife," Franklin said. He got the money—$10,000, more than he ever had seen in his life before. Ten thousand dollars ransom, but how much was Franklin able to spend before they caught him?

Just five dollars.
$5 For Child's Life
Five dollars for twelve days of hurried existence. 12 days of pricking conscience and 12 nights when dead little Jimmy's face might appear in the darkness any time.

Five dollars for a little boy's life.
Is it worth it, kidnaper? You can get away with the money, even if someone else failed, you think?

That is what John Henry Seandund thought. The John Henry Seandund who is about to die for abducting Charles S. Ross in Chicago.

Seandund wanted the money for a good time. He got the money—$50,000. But how much fun did he have with it before they caught him?

He had the fun of watching federal agents dig up $47,027 from where he had hidden it. He had the fun of seeing $3,000 of it stolen from his automobile in a New York repair shop. He had the fun of adding these two amounts and knowing he lost $7 on the deal.

Cost Him $27
Twenty-seven dollars—of his own money—for fifteen days of trying to hide a helpless old man in the cruel north woods.

Twenty-seven dollars for widowing an old lady.
Twenty-seven dollars, out of his own pocket, for a quick trip to eternity.

Suppose you did get away with the ransom, kidnaper, what would you do with it before they caught up with you (they have caught up with all but 3 of 117 kidnappers) and put you to death?

Look what Verne Sankey did with it. Verne got $60,000 for kidnaping Charles Boettcher, of Denver, Colo. There was $10,000 to $12,000 left when he saw the end of the trail and hanged himself. He lost most if not all of the rest gambling in Chicago's grain pits. But you, kidnaper? You say you have a system?

Kelly Had System
"Machine Gun" Kelly's gang had a system. It was to sell ransom money to brokers—$100 worth for $10 or some such arrangement—and hide the rest. That didn't leave much to spend, and the little that was spent always turned into a clue for the federal agents.

Of the $200,000 the gang collected for kidnaping Charles F. Urschel, $124,000 was recovered. Even if you figure the difference as clear profit, it isn't very much to divide among such a bunch of cronies. And it wasn't all clear profit by any means, for there had to be "cuts" for lawyers ($10,000 went to a single attorney) and money changers; for guns and ammunition and hideouts; for automobiles and gasoline and the many other things a criminal must have for constant flight.

It looks big now, kidnaper, that ransom money does, but once you get it it is tough stuff to get rid of.

Money Is Burned

Submarine Cruise To North Pole Is Planned By Wilkins

New York, June 20. (AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, British explorer, said today he expected to leave in July, 1939, on a submarine expedition to the North Pole.

Sir Hubert, who arrived from England where the $125,000 ice breaking submarine is under construction, said his party would consist of seven besides himself. The expedition will start from Spitzbergen, Norway.

In 1931, Sir Hubert led a party to within 360 miles of the Pole.

Store Clerk Flier Killed At Pontiac

Pontiac, Mich., June 20. (AP)—Harry Shoman, 21, of near Pontiac, grocery store clerk and student flier, plunged 2,000 feet to death tonight when a bi-plane fell into a tall spin.

The crash took place 15 minutes after Shoman had taken off alone from the Pontiac municipal airport at 8 p. m. The plane fell in a field two miles southwest of the airport, and Shoman apparently was killed instantly.

The plane belonged to Harry Troxell and Paul Davidson, both of Pontiac. Coroner J. Lee Voorhes began an investigation.

Shoman was the son of N. X. Shoman, grocery store proprietor. He worked in his father's store.

Dickinson, Candidate 6 Times, Runs Again

Lansing, June 20 (AP)—Loren D. Dickinson announced his candidacy today for a seventh term as lieutenant governor.

The veteran Republican said he would conduct no campaign, and invited others to make it a free-for-all race, in view of the collapse of his "harmony" budget plan under which the candidates themselves would have chosen one of their number to make the run alone.

The names of a half-dozen other persons have been mentioned as possible candidates for the Republican nomination for the office now held by Democratic Leo J. Nowicki.

Since 1930 he had edited the Probate Manual, a publication for probate judges. A widow and two daughters survive.

BERRY HARVEST TO BE SMALLER

Strawberries Are Hit By Frost; Production Is Curtailed

Michigan's strawberry crop, ordinarily a leader in the middle west, this year suffered heavily at the hands of Jack Frost and consumers are being obliged to dig deep into pocketbooks for the main ingredient of strawberry shortcake, according to Consumers' Bureau.

"Most of Michigan's commercial strawberry crop," according to Consumers' Bureau, "is produced in southwestern Michigan. Berrien county is the eighth largest strawberry county in the United States and the largest producing county north of the Mason-Dixon line. Latest figures indicate that 3,810 acres are devoted to that crop in Berrien, although there are extensive plantings in Van Buren, Allegan, Kent and some sections of Cass counties."

"The size and importance of the strawberry industry can be realized when it is known that on one market alone, the Benton Harbor Fruit Market, there were 355,400 crates sold last year. The offering was sufficient to fill 688 railroad cars. Other smaller markets also handled proportionate volume.

"But this year's harvest will be far different. Only about a third of a normal crop is expected. This makes less work and more profit per acre for growers, but it also makes Mrs. Housewife lay more money on the grocery's counter.

"The most popular variety which ships well and has good flavor and size. Other varieties grown to some extent in Michigan are the Fairfax, the Dorset, the Gibson and the Dunlop. As a rule Michigan strawberries grown close to markets contain superior flavor to those produced at a distance and picked in an immature condition to withstand long shipment."

Fireworks Mishap Blinds Hudson Boy

The boy was riding in an automobile with his parents and threw a torpedo out of the car to the pavement, fragments striking him in the left eye. Doctors at the hospital said he would be permanently blind in one eye.

FOUR PATROLS ARE ENTERED

Eleven Groups Scheduled To Attend Camporee June 25 and 26

Four more Patrol entries were received from Troop No. 54, sponsored by the Lions Club, for the Scout camporee to be held at the Pioneer Trail Park on June 25 and 26.

This makes a total of eleven Patrols to date that have been entered for the Camporee. The Red Buck Patrol will be led by Leonard Courler, Robert Jensen is Patrol Leader of the Covered Wagon Patrol. The Buffalo Patrol will be under the leadership of Carl Eastman, and the Hiawatha Patrol will be led by Don Boucha.

The Camporee will begin Saturday morning at 8 and will end Sunday shortly after noon so that the Scouts may take part in the "City of Munsling" boat dedication.

FIRST TO ENTER
Troop No. 57 of the Junior High School of Escanaba, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, was the first to enter the local Camporee which will be held at the local Pioneer Trail Park, Saturday and Sunday, June 25 and 26.

In addition to being the first Troop to enter the Camporee, Troop 57 holds the distinction of being the first Troop to camp over night at the new Council campsite. Ten Scouts under the supervision of Clarence Zerbel had an over night camp recently at the Red Jack Lakes campsite.

While they were there they cleared out the campsite which they will use for summer camping, helped with the construction of the bathing beach, built trails through the woods, and did many other things to make the camp more enjoyable.

Each Troop may claim a campsite to be used for summer camping by getting in touch with the Scout Executive and he will arrange to meet the Troops at the campsite and help them in their selections.

Troop 55, sponsored by the Bethany Lutheran church, was the second Troop to enter the Camporee. H. Geo. Nelson is the Scoutmaster.

The Patrols that have entered are: Troop 57: Bobwhite Patrol with Jerry McKie as Patrol Leader; Mowak Patrol with Marvin Johnson as Patrol Leader; Pioneer Patrol with Kenneth Anderson as Patrol Leader. Troop 55: Cobra Patrol with Geo. Patasia as Patrol Leader; Flying Eagle Patrol with Wayne Grebe as Patrol Leader; Ottawa Patrol with Howard Peterson as Patrol Leader; Beaver Patrol with Stuart Peterson as Patrol Leader.

John Norgard, assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 55, and James Nyberg and James L'Heureux of Troop 55 are assistants at the Camporee.

Pet Show Will Be Held Here Today

All boys and girls who have a pet are reminded that today, 5:00 p. m., is the closing time for entry in the first annual pet show which is to be held at the Junior high playground tomorrow night. Approximately fifteen sets of ribbons will be awarded by the Lions' club.

Entries may be made on an official blank at any of the playgrounds. No matter what kind of pet it is, there will be a class for it. Pets will be displayed from 7:00 until 7:45 and then pets who know tricks will be given a chance to perform. Awards will be made to the owners whose pet does the "cleverest" tricks.

Pets are to reach the playground not earlier than 6:30 and owners should receive a space assignment from the clerk's desk. Pets must be in a cage or on a leash.

The show will be conducted by WPA playground directors under the supervision of the city department of parks and recreation.

Back In Peninsula

Reprint From The Milwaukee Journal

Milton Bergman, formerly of Rapid River has been transferred from the Lansing office of the state conservation department to the U. P. regional office at Marquette, to take charge of equipment, building projects, fire towers and communication in the peninsula. Durward Robeson, Lansing, assistant chief of the field administration division in charge of fire prevention, announced.

Robeson and Col. W. A. Bergin, assistant field division chief in charge of law enforcement, are completing a swing through the upper peninsula during which they have visited all district headquarters. They had a conference with L. N. Jones, regional supervisor, who has just returned from Lansing after a week at state headquarters of the department.

Discusses General Plans
Up for discussion were the department's building plans for the upper peninsula, fire prevention and control, personnel, and matters relating to law enforcement.

Bergman formerly was supervisor of District 3, in charge of Marquette county and the west half of Alger county, with headquarters in Marquette. Three years ago he was transferred to Lansing where, with two others, he was in charge of equipment, building and communications.

Under an organization change, Bergman will be in charge of the same work for the upper peninsula, while one man, located at Lansing, will have charge of the lower peninsula. Work in this field is greater than ever because of increases in heavy equipment for fire fighting purposes, construction of more fire towers and improvement of telephone and radio communication.

RAGWEED CAMPAIGN

Sault Ste. Marie—If any ragweed shows up within the limits of the city, the Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with the city government wants the information at once so that eradication can start before there is any spread of the hay-fever-producing weed.

Discussion of weeds in general, which started with the report of Russell Osborn, chairman of the Agricultural Committee, was concluded with decision to do all possible to prevent any inroads of ragweed into the city, and to wage war also on yellow rocket, a weed of the mustard variety which, according to Mr. Osborn, apparently came here in dust storm clouds and has seeded itself extensively.

Commodore Thatcher described the Escanaba yacht harbor improvement and plans for the yachting season in broadcasts from Stations WTMJ, WISN and WEMP at Milwaukee and WGN and WAAF at Chicago. Wm. J. About twenty power cruisers are coming out of Chicago with the fleet, and it is expected about ten more will be added at Milwaukee and nearby ports on the July power cruise, Mr. Thatcher reported.

The weekly golf tour will start out of Chicago July 9, and make the round of the Upper Peninsula golf courses, including the Escanaba Golf club and Highland Golf club in Escanaba.

GROUP PLANS FOR JUNE 26

Details of Christening Ceremony Worked Out at Meeting Here

Detailed plans for handling the thousands of people expected in the city on June 26 for the christening of the ferry boat "City of Munsling" and the fishing rodeo to be held at Masonville were discussed at a committee meeting at the office of the office of the chamber of commerce yesterday.

Under the direction of Chairman H. J. Norton, committees for various phases of the event were appointed. ### Youth Arrested, Fined For Using Of Firecrackers

That Delta county officials are determined to wipe out the menace of firecrackers was proven in justice court yesterday when Russell Lewis of Rock was fined $5 and costs of $8.25 when he pleaded guilty to shooting of firecrackers. He was arraigned in Justice H. E. Ranguette's court.

Lewis was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnston upon the complaint of Marvin Beauprie, 522 Stephenson avenue of this city, who said that Lewis tossed a lighted firecracker towards his car when the two were driving down the street. The firecracker got caught in Beauprie's sleeve where it exploded, tearing a hole in his arm.

Lewis was turned over to city police because the offense occurred in the city and he was prosecuted under the city ordinance.

Other youths were arrested over the week-end on a similar offense and their cases are now pending in justice court. Officials indicated yesterday that they are through with warnings and all children or grown ups caught with fireworks of any kind will be taken to court.

TRIP MIGHT BE VERY COSTLY

Wells Youths Appropriate Auto and Visit With Friends In Soo

Two Wells youths, Carl Sylvester and Willard Englehart, learned yesterday that it may be a costly thing to go to see the sights—with someone else's automobile.

Sylvester and Englehart, police said, after visiting several taverns in North Escanaba, appropriated an automobile belonging to Jim McCarthy of this city at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning and started off gaily for Sault Ste. Marie. They stopped at Munsling to put in gas and continued.

After visiting friends in the Soo and seeing the sights, they started back. Upon getting near Munsling, they abandoned the car and hitch hiked back to Wells, where they were apprehended.

When arraigned in Justice George Carr's court yesterday, they pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny of an automobile and were bound over the county jail to await the next term of circuit court. They were placed under bonds of $500 each, which they failed to furnish.

Deserving of Support

THE annual campaign to raise funds for the support of the Boy Scout movement in Escanaba started yesterday and judging from the response it is evident that this program is greatly appreciated by the people of this community.
 The Boy Scout organization is now firmly established in Escanaba. Many years ago, it got a bad start when an attempt was made to launch the program on an extensive scale. But under the trained leadership of B. W. Phillips, who had much experience in Scout work in Ohio, the movement was revived here about a year ago, and is now functioning smoothly. Many activities have been carried on during the year to keep the boys busily engaged, and the benefits of Scouting are reaching the boys of below Scout age through the Cub program. Service clubs and other civic organizations, realizing the good that can come from a well-organized Scout movement, have gladly given their cooperation, and this week are taking prominent parts in the fund raising campaign.
 Records reveal that the rate of juvenile delinquency in Escanaba has fallen sharply during the past year. Very likely, the Scouting program has been a factor in this social development. There are many other benefits that have accrued to the youth of Escanaba from the physical, mental and moral standpoint as a result of the Boy Scout work that is being carried on so efficiently and effectively here.
 The Boy Scout movement is deserving of the support of anyone who is interested in the present welfare of youth and their good citizenship in the future.

Frankness Needed

ONE of the main reasons why drunken driving has continued to cause the death and injury of hundreds of persons every year has been due to the fact that there has been a tendency to minimize the seriousness of this offense.
 When law enforcement officers arrest offending motorists and book them on charges of driving motor vehicles while in an intoxicated condition, various friends and also politicians, who pretend to be making good fellows of themselves, endeavor to have the charges reduced to mere reckless driving. Attempts are also made to persuade the newspapers to suppress the news of such occurrences.
 The only way to curb the slaughter of human beings on our highways and streets today is to face the situation squarely, and call a spade a spade. If a driver is drunk when he becomes involved in a traffic accident, the best move in the interests of safety and to promote respect for our laws is to vigorously prosecute him for this offense.
 The officers who pursue this policy are to be commended. It also does a lot of good when full publicity is given to these traffic law violation cases in the newspapers.

Spending The Wealth

THERE are many in this nation who believe the cries of the politicians that governments should step in and take over business or at least control it.
 We have seen more control over business in the past decade than in years past yet we are farther from Utopia than when business was unhampered by government.
 Our governments are spending huge sums of money. Where did this money come from? That is a pertinent question. It came from the profits of business, a portion of which was exacted in taxes. It also comes from trading upon the future and putting such a millstone of debt around the necks of future generations as will take years to throw off.
 Certainly the politicians want government to take over or control business for by that means the politicians will get their hands on the goose that lays the golden eggs. But when that happens, so will it be like the parable of the goose and the golden eggs. The goose will be killed in order that the amount of gold may be controlled and speedily increased and there will be no more gold.
 Politicians blame business for the depression. That on the face of it is nonsensical, yet there are many who believe these allibings of the politicians. Would any business man see big business go to pot and ruin to satisfy any desire he might have for revenge against an order that brings him so many difficulties? Anyone with common sense knows better than to believe that, despite the fact that politicians have made many believe such a fallacy. Would an investor lose his investments for the mere sake of trying to get even with the despisers of his wealth?
 The quickest way to kill the goose that lays the golden egg is to allow the politicians to get control of business.
 Our depression is not because of business. It is because of lack of business and lack of business is because the politicians are after the golden egg goose. If government will quit messing around with business, something like a large percentage of political appointees knows nothing about, then the goose will begin dropping larger and more frequent golden eggs and we will all share in the gains.

When you hear a politician blame business for the depression just ask him how he would run business if the government were in control and you will find, in most cases, that he has not the slightest conception of what should be done. That is why he is a politician.

Deer Season Unchanged

THE conservation commission has decided to allow the hunting of deer in all counties that were open last year. The deer season again will be from Nov. 15 to 30.
 For several years, there have been some who have been clamoring for closing the season or changing the one buck law, fearing that the Michigan herd was facing extinction. But despite a steady increase of the army of hunters each season, the supply of deer has held up very well, and in some areas there has been found concrete evidence of overbrowsing in the winter yards.
 The state conservation department has been making extensive studies of the deer situation, and the commission's decision to leave the situation unchanged, undoubtedly, was based on the findings of these surveys.

Good Record Marred

WHILE the air lines were being badly hit by a series of tragedies during the past year, the American railways were achieving an unusual record for traveling safety.
 This splendid record was marred, however, on Sunday when the crack Milwaukee Road train, the Olympian, crashed at Miles City, Mont., through the Custer creek bridge, which had been weakened by a cloudburst. Twenty-nine bodies were removed from the wreckage. About seventy more passengers were injured.
 Railroads are diligent in making daily inspections of tracks to discover defects, but the cloudburst apparently occurred after the tests had been made. Such accidents have occurred seldom in recent years. The railroads still provide the safest form of transportation.

U. P. CANDIDATES

(Wakefield News)
 It is not expected that Republican leaders either in the upper or lower peninsula will become enthusiastic about the candidacy of James Greenfield for auditor general. Whatever qualifications Greenfield may have for seeking the office, the most outstanding one appears to be his own statement that his family is one "of the oldest in the upper peninsula."
 Greenfield enters the field largely because it has become more or less traditional among Republicans to select an auditor general from the upper peninsula. The late, O. B. Fuller, of Delta county, went to Lansing in 1909 as auditor general and remained there through several Republican and Democratic administrations as the "watchdog of the treasury." In 1932 he was defeated by a fellow townsman, the late John K. Stack, who died in office in 1935. Governor Frank Fitzgerald carried on the tradition after Stack's demise by appointing John O'Hara, Menominee county, as auditor general. He was defeated in 1936, when the Democrats shattered all tradition by nominating and electing George T. Gundry of Flint.
 This year Vernon J. Brown, Ingham county newspaper publisher, has already made his announcement for the nomination and has aligned with nearly every newspaper of the state. Brown's record as a legislator over a period of ten years during which time he became a recognized authority on state tax matters, is one which no serious minded convention can overlook. He will go to the Republican state convention in September with not only a family record in the state that dates back to Civil war days but with a wealth of intimate knowledge of public finance would make him a tower of strength to any political party.
 The Greenfield candidacy, however, brings to the front the problem as to what consideration the low state politicians are ready to give the upper peninsula. If not the auditor general's office, then what is to be offered to this section above the straits?
 We believe that lower state Republicans will see the justice and the wisdom in giving some thought to an upper peninsula candidate for one of the state offices. Scouting around for available timber for such an office, we would suggest that serious thought be given to Pat Kelly of Watersmeet township, this county, for the office of state treasurer. Pat is a logical candidate in every way. He is well known in party circles, is at the present time a member of the state central committee and would enter the office with some background and experience in state affairs. He is the oldest member in point of service on the county board of supervisors and has served as its chairman for several terms. Pat's reputation for honest public service, his familiarity with the problems of state and county finances, would make him a valuable officer in any state administration.
 In coming weeks will be heard various proposals to fill out the state ticket with representatives from all sections of the state. We believe that Pat Kelly qualifies in every particular as a man capable to serve in the state official family and a man with a reputation and character who would merit support from all classes of voters.

Washington, D. C.—If you had been an Austrian on last March 11 and had possessed an Austrian schilling you would be richer today. Under the terms of the Anschluss, the absorption of Austria by Germany, there is to be one currency—the reichsmark. The conversion is made at the rate of 1 mark for 1 1/2 schillings. The mark is worth about 24 cents in American money, while the schilling is worth 14 cents. One and one-half schillings would equal 21 cents. The conversion, therefore, gives the Austrian 24 cents or an advantage of 3 cents. Multiply these figures by substantial sums and it appears that the Austrians are, on the surface at least, the gainers. This may have had something to do with the overwhelming vote by which the Austrians accepted the amalgamation with Germany. At least it tended to save the military threat.

It is too soon for political economists in this country to try the scales and determine whether Austria will gain or lose in the long run. On the monetary basis the gain is immediate, but how long it will last is open to doubt. The German currency is more inflated than the Austrian and it probably will very soon be discovered that the new German reichsmark has a lower purchasing power than the old Austrian schilling.
 So far as students can determine now there will be advantages on both sides. The Anschluss, it seems, does not connote an economic subjugation. To be sure Nazi Germany will dominate Austria politically and it is to be expected that persecutions of the Jews in Austria will continue. It would seem to follow that persecutions of the Catholics will continue too, but it is possible the Germans will go more softly there because unquestionably hundreds of thousands of Austrians remember acutely that only yesterday their Emperor bore the coveted distinction, conferred at the hands of the Pope, of His Most Apostolic Majesty.

AUSTRIA'S FINANCIAL POSITION

Austria has been a sort of step-child since the World War. The Treaty of Versailles tore the old Austro-Hungarian Empire apart and left Austria little more than a City State. Yet the amazing fact is that Austria's financial position, due to the astuteness of her own financiers and to a friendly attitude on the part of the League of Nations, was superior at the time of the union to Germany's.

The published figures on German gold holdings showed 76,200,000 reichsmarks for a nation of 67,000,000. At the same time the Austrian gold holdings amounted to 197,000,000 reichsmarks for a nation of only 6,800,000. There is no better index to what outsiders think of financial values than quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. Before Germany took over Austria, Austrian sinking fund 7 percent bonds were sold as high as 105 1/2. When the union took place and they became German obligations, they sank to a low of 28, a fearful drop. Since that low they have recovered but slightly. Meantime German Republic bonds were not higher than 34 1/2 when the Austrian issue was at 105 1/2. The reading is clear. Investors felt that when Austria had all that gold her bonds were sound, but when her gold holdings were merged with Germany's the value, for many reasons, was impaired. In addition, even before the union, Germany had borrowed gold from Austria.

Germany will bring some benefits to Austria. She will extend her superb highways into Austria and the German State Railways will be merged with the Austrian lines with, possibly, some benefits although it already is admitted that tourist traffic is likely to suffer because while foreigners have enjoyed visiting Austria in the past they have not been attracted to a Nazi controlled Germany. Prejudice against Germany, it is feared, will now be extended to Austria. For example, of recent years Austria has maintained 100 per cent the interest on foreign held obligations; Germany, in sharp contrast, has not.

Except for what may result to purchasing power, food in Austria should be cheaper under the union. Because so much of old Austria is mountainous her food production has been low. Germany has far more arable land. For example: for 1936-37 Germany produced 87 per cent of her wheat and had to import but 13 per cent, while Austria could produce but 56 per cent of her wheat requirements and must import 44 per cent. As to every major food crop, Austria has found it necessary to import far more than Germany with the exception of dairy products. There Austria has had the advantage, for her uplands have been available for grazing. Indeed she has had an export surplus which now Germany will absorb.

LOGICAL MR. HILLMAN

(New York Sun)

There is nothing out of harmony with New Deal economics in Sidney Hillman's scheme to have the United States buy the surplus stocks of clothing makers and give them to the poor. It would be entirely in line with the political philosophy of the New Deal if Mr. Hillman were to advocate purchase and destruction of the garments by the United States. The school of thought which teaches that prosperity comes from scarcity cannot balk at the clothing trade's call for relief.

As we understand the matter, marriages can be divided into two classes,—those in which the contracting parties are happy, and those in which the husband is not making as much money as the wife thought he was.

New York—Among the great medical men of this town whose names are in the land is located, in a youthful, olive-skinned little slip of a man named Dr. Ramon Castroviejo.

Up in New York's imposing Medical Center, Dr. Castroviejo performs his surgical miracles—cutting out impaired corneas from human eyes and grafting in their places the perfectly good but useless corneas from the eyes of cadavers.

Experiments on this kind of operation started back in the '80's. Russian scientists perfected the technique. Dr. Castroviejo and two or three others, less well known, practice it here.

The youthful surgeon is the target of appeals from hundreds of blind and semi-blind people who have heard or read of his miracles. Unfortunately, even his skill can do nothing for most of the applicants. He has, however, performed more than 150 operations. Few have brought him any fee, for the patients were generally too poor to pay.

In midtown Manhattan there lives a lady who will proudly show one the wonder wrought on her eyes by the hands of Dr. Castroviejo. In one eye she was given the usual round cornea. In her other eye, Dr. Castroviejo put a square one.

 Velez and Yolanda, the highest paid dance team in the world ($8500 a week), were a couple of kids who met at a collegiate dance about 10 years ago, formed a combination and have steadily mounted the scale of success ever since.

Last season, while playing at Saratoga, they attended the horse auction and bought two nags, Velez, a filly, and Veyo, a colt. They selected, as colors, blue with a burnt orange star—the colors of the gown worn by Yolanda the first night they danced together.

As an illustration of how far they have gone since that night, they have just turned down an offer of $7000 a week and expenses in London because they want to be near their horses. And they have arranged their dance itinerary so that each stop will be near a race track.

More Places to Go
 If we were visiting the metropolis for the first time, it seems to us that we also would want to go to the Metropolitan Museum and that astronomical playhouse, the Hayden Planetarium. We would want a hansom buggy ride through the park and a taxi ride to prove that New York's hack men are not homicidal by instinct. We would like to dine, at least once, at such restaurants as Luchow's, Moneta's in Little Italy, the "21" Club amidst notables and publicity hounds, Sardi's, mid-day rendezvous of the theatrical crowd, and (as an expensive splurge) the Colony, considered one of the costliest eating places in America.

The Capital Parade

BY ALBION AND KINTNER

Washington, June 20.—The President's determination to purge his party of heretics has often been questioned since the disastrous Iowa primary. A few days ago, it was reported in this space that the decision to carry the heresy hunt into difficult states, such as Colorado, was not absolute.

All doubts of the President's present zeal may now be forgotten, however, since it is learned that he has asked Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to find a candidate to run against Senator Augustine Lonergan in Connecticut. Lonergan is a plump, talkative, nervous, rather mournful fellow, whose chief crime is opposition to the court bill. In a normal state, he would not be difficult to knock off, for he is not the sort who works the voters up to a frenzy of admiring enthusiasm.

But Connecticut is not a normal state. It has no primaries. And in order to knock off Lonergan, the New Deal candidate must win a majority of a Democratic nominating convention bound and hogged by the state organization.

As the President's heresy hunt is essentially an effort to destroy the local political organizations with the federal political organization, the difficulties involved in the project to beat Lonergan can be imagined. Of course, the attorney general may not find a suitable opposition candidate. Of course, the president may change his mind tomorrow. But the mere fact that such a project has been undertaken at all is vastly significant.

FRUITLESS SHOPPING TRIP

In the last week or so, the canny old attorney general has been shopping round for an anti-Lonergan candidate on Capitol Hill. He has visited the Democratic representatives from Connecticut. He has tried to put the heat on Lonergan's much schweider colleague, Senator Francis T. Maloney. He has talked over the possibilities with several friendly experts.

He has met with disappointment to date. Although the heat put on Senator Maloney was very warm indeed, Maloney refused to melt. He likes Lonergan, who has always relied on him very heavily. More important still, he remembers that he too is guilty of Lonergan's crime. And he reasons that if opposition to the court bill is to become a sentence of political death, he will be the next victim.

THE NO-SAYERS

Being a very old hand at Connecticut politics, Attorney General Cummings must realize on what a hard task he has been set. Maloney is one of the most influential men in the state organization. His refusal to yield will mean much. To date, State Chairman J. Francis Smith also has refused to yield. So that the organization's biggest men are still united. And finally, Governor Wilbur Cross, who is not an organization man is the most powerful Democrat in Connecticut, never liked the court bill and may be expected to dislike the effort to destroy Lonergan for opposing it.

Thus it seems that the Attorney general's only resort will be to detach outlying segments of the state organization and then reinforce their revolt with help from the federal machine. It is understood that certain local potentates have already been approached. And word comes from Connecticut that in at least one county the WPA foremen are already marching against Lonergan.

And besides making a rebellion, the attorney general must find his candidate. Several men have been considered, including Archibald McNeill, the former Democratic National Committeeman, Edward G. Dolan, a close friend of Postmaster General James A. Farley, Assistant Attorney General Brian McMahon, and Representative Herman Koppelman. No one man has been settled on, and more than one has refused to have anything to do with the business. Altogether, the sledding has been pretty tough, and promises to be tougher.

The curious thing about the project to destroy Lonergan is the degree of resentment it is said to have aroused among the Democratic leaders. The Connecticut Democrats already have on their hands a major scandal, involving graft indictments of many high officials. The word that reaches here is that they are furious at an effort to make things harder by an exhausting party quarrel.

Strangest of all, the resentment is understood to go not only to the White House, but even to Postmaster General Farley. Big Jim has announced his neutrality. The boys in the Connecticut back rooms actually want him to fight to ward off their troubles.

A bunch of economists held a dinner a while ago that cost them 10 cents a plate. Scarcity begins at home.

BUILDING
 The fools build high,
 The wise build wide,
 Fools for the sky,
 Wise for the tide.
 Then comes the gale,
 And folly falls,
 The turrets fall,
 Still stand the walls.
 Fools build for men,
 The wise build strong,
 Fools build for then,
 The wise for long.
 Then comes the clash
 Of wind and rain;
 The turrets crash,
 The walls remain.
 The fools build life
 For life's delights,
 The wise for strife
 And stormy nights.
 That time to all
 In time arrives;
 The turrets fall,
 The wall survives.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Rodney Dutcher

Washington — Boss Frank Hague has received at least a mild slap on the wrist from President Roosevelt with the promotion of District Judge William Clark of New Jersey to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

Clark has been hearing the suit for an injunction which would forbid Hague to suppress civil rights in Jersey City. His nomination was sent to the Senate at a time when it was generally believed in Washington that he would grant an injunction against Hague. Clark is a Republican and Hague wasn't consulted as to his nomination at any stage. Subsequently it appeared the Hague machine wanted Senate confirmation held up until Clark had ruled in the injunction suit. Senator Ed Burke of Nebraska was the only one who seriously sought to aid that effort.

Ex-Governor Siler, who came down here to protest Clark's nomination, is a Hague Democrat who owed his nomination and election to Hague, although dissatisfaction at certain Clark moves when he defended Ellis Parker and Dutch Schultz, the racketeer, may have been enough to inspire Siler.

"NEW BLOOD" FOR CIRCUIT COURT

Clark is a 47-year-old liberal whose decisions have seldom been reversed by higher courts during his 15 years on the bench. The most notable exception was his decision in 1930 that the prohibition amendment was invalid because it had been ratified by legislatures rather than constitutional assemblies.

He is part of an infusion of new blood into the Third Circuit Appeals Court sitting at Philadelphia, whose elderly conservative justices—three of whom recently resigned—consistently turned out anti-New Deal decisions, and all 14 of whose rulings to reach the Supreme Court at its recent term were promptly reversed.

Both Senator William H. Smathers and Hague's personal senator, John Milton, are backing candidates to succeed Clark—the latter's man being his own son-in-law and one of Hague's lawyers. Chances now are about 50 to 1 that Smathers' choice will get that district judgeship.

HEALTH BILL PIGEON-HOLED

Congress voted for investigations of phosphates, monopoly, TVA, taxation, forest resources, automobile distribution, un-American activities and campaign expenditures. But Senator Robert F. Wagner's bill for an inquiry into the problem of bringing health services to people in cheaper form didn't even get out of the Senate Finance Committee.

NOT MUCH PRAYING

Whether the Senate might have done better with a little more prayer must forever remain an open question. Anyway, it didn't get much prayer. Chaplain Z-Barney T. Phillips, who gets $1680 a year for his Senate work, opened sessions only three times, Jan. 5, April 20, and June 7—at a compensation rate of $500 a prayer. That's because the chaplain prays only at the opening of each legislative day—and Senate legislative days, through a parliamentary device, often last for months.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOE MURRAY—lived in new places, new jobs, new girls.
HELEN—fell in love—hard—once.
TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

Yesterday! Downhearted, Joe moves on, seeking work and eventually he begs at a lunchstand for food and is given it. He goes on, aimlessly, alone.

CHAPTER XVIII

It was bitter, but it was better, to be traveling alone. . . . Now there was the way of the country, Joe found, the first way; and the way of the cities, the second way; and there was in addition still a third way, a dire and desperate way that you were loath to come to only because the iron was out of you any more, the primordial way of all life: violence and individual exploitation.

There came a time, in a small and better nameless town in a western state, when Joe Murray fell in with three who had blown into town in a wreck of an old car which had no virtue left but mobility. Even so there is a self-sufficiency about a car, for a car implies gasoline and oil, and they betoken funds. Where would a man get funds? They gave him some idea, sizing him up for a tough one if so minded to be, while the four of them rustled the mulligan in a jungle on the edge of the town. They were all young, younger than Joe even, but hard, with the adamant polish that comes only from the burnishing of adversity on viciousness inborn.

"We're on the country," said the redhead, who seemed to be the leader of the trio. "Only a sap goes broke. They're staking the charities, ain't they? Staking the government, staking the churches, staking everything to what it takes, and plenty of that. Well, I need what it takes, and they're staking me. Only I don't wait for them to bring it; I go out and get it, and if I deprive them of the rosy feeling of giving something to the poor, that's their tough luck. If they didn't have it, I'd leave them alone. They got it. I want it, and that's their hard luck."

"Well," said Joe, "how about some poor sucker needing what it takes himself—and you take it away from him?"

They all laughed. "Don't be a dope! Listen mug, you think people work for things and earn them and then own them, don't you? Well, how about all the saps that thought they owned all this country, and nobody but them could say a word about what they owned? Who owns most of it now? Not the saps; they've lost it! How? Read the papers. Who owns it? Banks, other—saps, money owns it. It's a system. If you take a guy, you don't rob a guy—you tap a system."

Joe frowned, studying the theory.

"Look here, boy," said the redhead, who was enjoying a philosophic excursion which, however valid, was in no way necessary to his own self-justification. "How many tills liable to be cracked in this country fail to carry insurance? When you come up against a sap and take his money, who loses? Not the sap. The system! The system declares a thousand times a day that it wants to take care of the poor and the needy, and I'm all for helping it along."

Joe said, "H'm!" and looked significantly at the battered car, at their dusty clothes, none too new, at the pot simmering thinly on the fire.

The redhead laughed. "We're all saps at our way. We were saps for the ages till the bookies cleaned us. So we're on the country, making another stake."

He was curious as to their there the same day for Detroit to visit relatives for a few days.

Mrs. Francis Bjorkman of Norway is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jqs. Poquette.

Mrs. Theo. Fazer, daughter Marvel, spent Friday in Stephenson with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gasman, daughter Betty spent Thursday evening here with relatives.

Melvin Fazer, Junior Bouty and George Brabant are spending a week camping at John Cory Jr.'s camp, north of Spalding.

Mrs. James Poquette is visiting with relatives in Menasha for the next few weeks.

Miss Alida Lebonie has returned from a few days' visit with relatives in Stephenson.

methods of making a stake. They smiled at his curiosity. No, they touched no banks or postoffices; they had no rackets; they raided no stores or warehouses; they broke into no homes. They pursued no ambitions too big for their size. They flitted from town to town, lighting like a mosquito, and flying as far afterward. They played safe and easy and comfortable.

"Tell you," said Red, speaking out of quick reflection and decision. "You throw in. We can stand the company. We'll set you on your feet."

"What do I do?" asked Joe.

"Come along and we'll show you. We've got a cinch cased for tonight. Stick along and you'll see."

Joe shrugged. They would tell him no more, grinning. He was indifferent. But he went along to see.

They went at midnight. They drifted through the town. They were furtive, on edge, but sure of themselves. Joe followed. He had one injunction to follow: stick with them, no matter what! He could do that, he had nothing better to stick to. . . . and perhaps grimly relish the encounter with anything disputing the point.

They drifted eventually up to a gasoline station which was the one point alight and awake in that part of town. Joe looked at the sign; it was one of a chain in the town. There were two cars halted in the space; there were three men inside the office of the station. The day was ended; they were absorbed together.

"Right!" said Red softly. "Sit around, you guys. I'll take the front."

Joe trailed one of the pair circling, converging on the station. It was pretty clear now. There were four of them. Only three inside. The streets were empty. The owner was making up his account, his day's take. Joe had a clear picture: lunch wagons, all-night restaurants, gas stations, drug stores, they're all peculiarly helpless while the towns sleep.

But on the gravel of the station, closing in, Joe stiffened. Red was walking boldly up to the office door—and there was a gun in Red's hand! Red opened the door, leveled the gun, and barked an order.

Joe watched, cold.

The three men inside turned quickly, astounded; then panic sprang into their eyes at sight of the gun bearing on them. All three sent their hands high. Joe could see through the glass a canvas bag on the desk and small piles of cash.

Red snapped to one of his partners. "Come and get it! And look for a gun."

The fellow darted inside, keeping out of line with the gun, edging to the desk and grabbing the money and stuffing it into his pockets.

Joe waited, tense. The third partner stood across the space, watchful as a cat. Joe waited, his heart pounded, his mind reeled, kaleidoscopic, resolving nothing. The night was very still. Somewhere a stout twig snapped. . . .

A long instant, and the fellow across the space yelled, "Lam, you guys! The bulls!"

Through a thick dark hedge adjoining the gas station a powerful figure came crashing.

None of them, drifting stealthily through the town, had seen a yet stealthier shadow following. None had an inkling that a uniformed patrolman watched them encircle the gas station, a policeman who had left his beat in the grim certainty of what was coming. The hedge afforded the one quick means of approach, and he was upon them at one bound, shouting, gun drawn.

Red spun on one heel, fired instantly, and ran. The cop came on. The fellow snatching the money inside the station made incontinently for the door. A hand grabbed him desperately and broke his stride; he shook it off and ran outside.

The policeman fired point-blank and the youngster recoiled and then wilted and dropped to the gravel outside the door.

Joe, off to the side, stood frozen. Red yelled to him from the shadows. The fourth member of the band had already vanished.

Joe turned and ran toward Red, who was waiting. Red was waiting with an ugly ferocity in his eyes as he watched, over Joe's shoulder, the youngster dead on the gravel and the cop aiming his pistol at Joe.

Red raised his own gun and fired. Joe stopped and looked back. The cop was falling, shot striking the gravel heavily a dozen feet from the other body; and then there were two bodies motionless on the dark gravel.

"C'mon!" snapped Red. "Out of here!"

Joe got out of there with him, fleeing, racing in the night. And there was a fear now, a retching, terrible fear that was worst of all after the danger was well behind them.

"Let's scatter," he gasped to Red. "We better not stick together."

"Meet us at the camp," Red agreed. "We'll hit for Royersville and ditch the car. Ten minutes!"

Joe stepped into a pitch dark alley and was sick . . . sick. The night was very still. After a time he went on through the alley.

Joe rode a blind out of town that night, speeding westward . . . alone.

SEN. DOTSCHE
ROTE SPEAKER

Talks on Taxes; Favors
Police Post for Gladstone

An interesting talk on taxes was presented before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon
by State Senator James Dotsch of Garden Bay.

Dotsch, who is a member of the senate finance committee and fully conversant with matters of state finance, said the tax load was heavier today than ever but was not the burden it had been because of the use of "hidden" taxes.

He urged, however, the adoption of some means to make the people "tax conscious" toward the end that they will study how the tax dollar is spent.

Touching on state institutions, Dotsch said the educational and hospital facilities of the state are fairly well taken care of but state prisons and hospitals for the insane and feeble-minded are invariably inadequate and greatly undermanned.

He said this was due to some extent to the fact that pressure is put on all legislators to place men with departments and the posts in the hospitals for insane and feeble-minded are the least choice and the poorest paid.

The physical examination before marriage law adopted by Michigan may be expected to cut the feeble-minded in institutions by 12 per cent, Dotsch said. This will provide money to improve the institutions. Federal monies will also be available if the state will take advantage of it.

In conclusion, Sen. Dotsch spoke favorably on the proposal to locate a state police post in Gladstone, saying, "I do not think there is any question but that it will be located here if the residents of Gladstone will go after it in the right way."

Fight Fans Converge On New York For Big Bout

LOUIS FAVORED OVER GERMAN

Betting Not of "Overboard" Type This Time, However

BY ALAN GOULD
New York, June 20 (AP)—Sizzling in the high temperature of their own arguments, as well as the current June heat wave, the fight faithful tonight gravitated toward the big town and the big fight.

The approach of the near-million dollar spectacle this Wednesday evening in the Yankee Stadium, featuring dusky Joe Louis and Teutonic Max Schmeling in a 15-round match for the world heavyweight boxing crown, seemed to be conducive to more fever than fact-finding.

Although the climax of training camp activity produced nothing more startling than re-assurance that both gladiators had worked themselves into the traditional peak of condition, it developed that week-end betting had made Champion Louis a more pronounced favorite to turn the tables on his challenger.

Joe To Get Stronger
There has been little tendency to "go overboard" either financially or for literary effect, but Broadway Jack Doyle reported his latest wagering quotations as follows: 1 to 2 against Louis to win, 10 to 10 against Schmeling, on a decision; 9 to 10 against a knockout by Louis, 5 to 2 against a repetition of his 1936 K.O. by Schmeling.

"Louis will become a stronger favorite, if the present trend continues, and may be the 2 to 5 choice by Wednesday," Doyle added. "It is interesting to note that, so far, more people are betting on Schmeling but more money is being wagered on Louis. This is one of the biggest betting fights we have had in many years."

Up to now Louis had generally been rated the 5 to 8 choice in most betting company. The lengthening of these odds is a tribute to the "wise money's" apparent belief in the champion's all-around improvement and comeback powers. Most Louis pickers, however, plan to keep their fingers crossed until late Wednesday night against the chance that Schmeling may again unlimber the old "convincer."

Closely Matched
Barring sudden developments, calculated to sway pre-fight opinion, there's little reason to doubt that Joe and Max will enter the ring as closely matched as any title pair since the Dempsey-Tunney days. The usual eleventh-hour rumors have begun to develop, along cauliflower row—most of them designed to hint that "Louis can't lose"—but this is a characteristic of the fight game, in its bigger business dealings. It can be discounted now, as heretofore.

Behind some "inside talk" is the idea that Schmeling, if he repeats his victory of 1936 and becomes the first ex-champion to regain the crown, will put the championship "on ice" back home in Germany.

This, of course, would be a severe blow to the industry now dominated by Promoter Mike Jacobs. It doesn't hold very much weight, however. Schmeling is already under contract to defend the title, not later than 1939, and probably could be persuaded to stake it against Max Baer this fall, for a substantial cash consideration.

It is no secret, however, that Jacobs will be much better pleased if Louis gets the revenge he is seeking the king of the heavyweights. The negro is under long-term contract with "Uncle Mike" and is certain to defend the title again this year, if he turns back the German.

HECTIC BATTLE CLOSES IN TIE

Rapid River Team Walks Off Field at Bark River; Score 9-9

Bark River, Mich., June 19—Bark River and Rapid River ended the first half of their Delta county league in a deadlock, a hectic battle here ending 9-9 as Rapid River walked off the field in the last half of the ninth inning.

Rapid River piled up a healthy lead in the early innings which grew to 9-1 in the first half of the seventh. Bark River opened up with a four run blast in the seventh, added two more in the eighth and three more in the ninth to tie the count at 9-9. It was the tying run, a close decision on a force play at third, which caused the rumpus and the visitors walked off the field.

As a result of the incident, the game automatically is awarded to Bark River, leaving that team in a tie for first place with Rock.

REDS RETAIN SLIM MARGIN

Cincinnati Scores Two In 13th To Defeat Boston, 3-1

Boston, June 20 (AP)—Scoring two runs off Johnny Lanning in the thirteenth inning, the Cincinnati Reds today nosed out the second-place margin over the Chicago Cubs.

With one out and Wally Berger on first in the Reds' half of the final frame, Ival Goodman belted a triple to right center to score Berger with the deciding run. He scored himself a moment later on Frank McCormick's long fly.

Ray Davis, who went the route for Cincinnati for his third victory, was nicked for two of the ten singles he allowed the Reds in their half of the thirteenth but, with two out and men on first and second, got English to force Mueller at second for the final out.

YANKEES TIE MAJOR RECORD

Blast Three Home Runs In One Inning to Beat Browns

St. Louis, June 20 (AP)—The New York Yankees tied a major league record they share with several other clubs today as they blasted out three home runs in one inning and went on to beat the Browns, 8 to 4. They thus moved back into second place, a game and a half behind the Indians and three points ahead of the Red Sox.

Mickelson Picks Louis; So Schmeling Will Win

BY PAUL MICKELSON

New York, June 20 (AP)—After a long line of successful selections, including such choice predictions as victories for Ethiopia over Italy, Napoleon over Wellington, Burgoyne over Gates and the Spanish Armada over Drake, the time is ripe for this sage to make another forecast.

Wednesday night, barring rain or a gold strike within the vicinity of the Bronx, Joe Louis will get a little taste of revenge over Maxie Schmeling by getting the decision after 15 rounds. It will be a disputed decision because nine out of ten are in big fights. The Louis folks will cheer; the Maxies will jeer.

TWO FIGHTERS ARE SUSPENDED

Adamick and Trammell Face Commission In Chicago Bout

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—Jimmy Adamick, hard-hitting young heavyweight from Midland, Mich., and Jack Trammell, negro boxer of Youngstown, O., were suspended indefinitely by the Illinois State Boxing commission today pending a final decision in an investigation of their bout of June 8 at Mills Stadium.

In that match Adamick was knocked down with a hard punch in the second round and later in the round was credited with a knockout as Trammell went down. Chairman Joseph Triner of the commission described as a "glancing blow." Purges of both men were immediately ordered held up.

Poor Support Annuls His Good Pitching While Twins Win, 2-1

Pitching one of his best games of the year, Phil Brazeau, Escanaba hurler, was the victim of some poor support in the field by the Kingsford Twins nosed out Escanaba, 2-1, in an interesting league game played at Kingsford Sunday afternoon.

Brazeau allowed but five hits, walked five men and struck out nine batters but in spite of the fact, the Twins slipped in a single run in the opening inning and another in the fourth to get their margin of victory.

The Cubs' attack included a home run by Ripper Collins and a single, double and triple by Phil Cavarretta. Luke Hamlin, who started on the mound for Brooklyn, gave up Collins' four-bagger and was driven to cover in the seventh, when the winners got three more runs on four hits.

ROTARY HEARS W. J. PATTERSON

Unemployment Benefits Are Explained By Comish Man

Workings of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission and benefits of the new act were explained at a regular meeting of Rotary yesterday by William J. Patterson, representative of the commission, of Marquette.

"Economic insecurity due to unemployment," Patterson said, "is a serious menace to the health, morals and welfare of the people of this state. Involuntary unemployment is a subject of general interest and concern which requires action by the legislature to prevent its spread and to lighten its burden which so often falls with crushing force upon the unemployed worker and his family, to the detriment of the welfare of the people of the state. Social security requires protection against this hazard of our economic life."

Patterson said that employers of eight or more persons are subject to the law and pay contributions, filing monthly contribution reports with contributions of three per cent of their payroll. All of this money is placed in the interest bearing Michigan trust fund in the U. S. treasury. Money may be withdrawn only to pay benefits to Michigan workers.

The Michigan Unemployment Compensation fund, it is estimated, will contain more than seventy million dollars when benefit claims may be filed after July 1 of this year.

To be able to receive benefits, a worker must have: (1) worked for an employer or employers subject to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Law by virtue of their having had eight or more employees during any part of 20 different weeks in the year. (2) earned at least $50 in each of those quarters since July 1, 1937. Benefits, which are based on the previous earnings, will approximate one half the worker's weekly wage, not to exceed $16. They may continue for not more than 16 weeks in the year.

was suffering. Constipation began my falling health by allowing my system to become clogged with poisons. Neuritis pains soon settled over my body keeping me in constant misery. I could not sleep or eat well either, and my food did not digest properly but were constantly causing me distress. I exhausted every effort to regain my health but everything failed until I finally began KruGon. "Never have I seen a medicine do its work so well before," continued Mr. Merrell. "This new laxative-ionic took right hold of my health troubles, toned my entire system and I am feeling like my former self again. I am now eating and enjoying my meals for the first time in years, sleep good and arise of a morning refreshed and ready for the day before me. Those neuritis pains have been driven from my body, bowels are regulated and I am really feeling like my former self again. Little did I realize a medicine with the merit of KruGon existed."

President Starts Work; Vetoes Veterans' Bills

BY JOSEPH H. SHORT

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt, invigorated by salt air and sun, waded today into work piled up since the last days of Congress.

The result by late afternoon was 36 bills signed and seven vetoed.

Among those signed was one increasing the 1939 wheat acreage allotments under this year's farm act from 42,000,000 to 55,000,000.

Another measure approved was a bill authorizing the construction of 52 rivers and harbors projects, estimated to cost $37,105,850, and the survey by army engineers of 66 more projects, the surveys to cost not more than $500,000.

Increase Denied Disabled

The president vetoed two bills affecting war veterans.

One of those, on which the first year's cost estimated was $5,182,000, would have increased from $30 to $40 the monthly allowance for permanently and totally disabled veterans whose ailments were not attributable to their military service. It also would have liberalized to some extent the definition for total and permanent but non-service connected disability.

The second veterans bill disapproved would have treated some 15,000 Spanish war veterans who remained in the Philippine Islands past April 11, 1899, as if they had been discharged at that time and sent home at government expense; The president said he had estimated that the total cost of paying the travel allowances of the group of veterans would have been between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000.

The measure had been urged by the veterans group as a bonus for the re-enlistment of the soldiers for further service in the islands after the Spanish-American war. A third bill vetoed would have placed the foreign commerce service of the commerce department on a par with the state department foreign service, as far as grades, salaries, positions and retirement are concerned.

In disapproving that measure, the president suggested that the next congress study the whole foreign service field and act upon it comprehensively. He added that one reason for his veto was "a retirement system definitely known to be defective in its financial provisions."

Rough Jobs First

Two measures which the president disapproved would have exempted from federal, state, municipal and local taxation two bridges and the bonds issued for them. The proposed bridges would span the Mississippi river between Friar Point, Miss., and Helena, Ark., and the Wash river near New Harmony, Ind.

Mr. Roosevelt said he withheld approval on account of the tax exemption.

Among other important bills still awaiting presidential action were those fixing minimum wages and maximum hours for interstate industry, providing for a lending and spending relief program and the deficiency appropriation measure which contains money to start the billion-dollar naval shipbuilding program.

The chief executive, in rollicking good humor, came ashore from the yacht Potomac, told an aide to send two stenographers to his home, held a brief conference with reporters, then motored away to his family estate—and work.

Seated comfortably at the little flat top desk in the study of his family's Hyde Park home, the president pitched in immediately on the score of bills which congress passed before adjournment last week.

The president told newsmen he would start on the rough work first—the bills that require the most time and study—then strike a less strenuous pace on what remained.

Some measures have not been put in the president's Hyde Park mail pouch yet because the White House still is awaiting reports on their worthiness from departments concerned with them.

(Unless the president signs or disapproves the bills within ten working days after last Thursday's adjournment, they will die of what is commonly called a pocket veto.)

FATHERS ARE LIONS GUESTS

Rev. Fr. Eugene Rousseau Speaker at Meeting Monday Evening

One of the greatest problems in working with and among Indians is to train them to modern ways of thinking, the Rev. Fr. Eugene Rousseau told Escanaba Lions and their guests last night, relating some of his interesting experiences and impressions gained as a missionary among the pueblo Indians at Jemes, New Mexico. The district in which Fr. Rousseau has been working includes 50 pueblos, or settlements, and is located 50 miles from Albuquerque, N. M.

Secret ceremonials, tribal dances, ceremonials, and eating take up the greater part of the Indians' time in the southwest, the speaker said. Indian families will travel hundreds of miles with their whole families to take part in feasts or ceremonies, and will be gone for a week or more at a time. Fr. Rousseau described the Indian as pleasant, sociable and hospitable, and admitted that his work at Jemes was hard at first but interesting. He found that Indian habits and customs have to be accepted, as well as the Indians' attitude of trying to get all he can from the government for nothing.

The Lions meeting last night was fathers' night, and members brought guests, including fathers, fathers-in-law, brothers and friends. Another guest of honor was the Rev. Fr. Raymond Soper of Escanaba, who recently celebrated his first Mass.

Dr. Tom Desllets was in charge of the program.

"MY FORD V-8 COMMERCIAL CAR CAN REALLY TAKE IT!"

Mr. Herbert Beebe and Mr. Lyman Bosarth loading Mr. Budd's Ford V-8 112-inch wheelbase Pick-Up

It's a brute for punishment! That's what Mr. Theodore H. Budd of Pemberton, N. J., means when he says, "My Ford V-8 Commercial Car can really 'take it'!" And Mr. Budd should know. He hauls heavy loads through cranberry marshes where sand and mud are a severe test for any unit. He continues: "There are several reasons why I always buy Fords. First, the low original cost price. Second, the low-cost-per-mile operation. Third, the low cost of maintenance and the ability to get parts promptly, wherever and whenever needed. And, above all, the high trade-in value when I am through with them." Owners and operators everywhere report that the Ford V-8 Commercial Car definitely does more work, in less time, at lower cost. The reason for this can be stated in two words—eight cylinders. Whether you choose 85 or 60 horsepower V-8 engine, it puts the Ford in a class by itself — gives you a new kind of commercial car with new performance and economy. Prove it for yourself with an "on-the-job" test. No cost — no obligation.
