BRITISH LABOR LAWS STUDIED BY AMERICANS

SWEDEN INCLUDED ON COMMISSION ITINERARY

BY SCOTT HERSHEY

New York, June 23 (AP)—The president's commission to study employer-employee relations abroad will get down to work immediately with the initial meeting set for July 1 in London where they will discover it takes a lot of law to supervise the British industrial family.

The ink was hardly dry on the members' appointments announced at Hyde Park yesterday by President Roosevelt before those now in this country either sailed for Europe or prepared to leave within the next few days.

Some There Already

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., was on his way today aboard the Queen Mary; Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, New York regional director of the social security board, planned to leave tomorrow on the Statendam, and Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of the University of Wisconsin law school was enroute from a Canadian port.

Already in Europe are Robert Watt, representative of the American Federation of Labor in the international labor office at Geneva; William H. Davis, New York attorney, and William Allison Chalmers, assistant United States labor commissioner at Geneva.

It was understood the other members, Charles Hook, president of the American Rolling Mill Co., Henry I. Harriman, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Miss Marion Dickerman, a close friend of Mrs. Roosevelt and principal of the Todhunter school of New York, would leave within a few days.

Two Acts Contrasted

The nine members representing business, industry, labor, law and the general public will study not only industrial-labor conditions in Great Britain as originally planned, but also employer-employee relations in Sweden.

Appointment of the commission focused attention on the differences between the "Magna Carta" of American labor—the labor relations act of 1935, commonly called the Wagner act, and that of Great Britain, the trade unions act of 1927.

Great Britain has dozens of other labor laws, but the 1927 act is of prime importance. Circumstances attendant on the birth of the Wagner act and the 1927 British act contrast sharply.

In Great Britain, it was a general strike involving 2,730,000 men which prompted the trade unions act when the British government found it necessary to curb labor union activities. In the United States, the Wagner act was the product of the new deal's promise to write into law further guarantees to working people.

Strikes Outlawed

The big pile of British labor laws suggests the British have accumulated a store of knowledge

Permanent Public Works Commission Is Urged By Ickes

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Secretary Ickes urged today that a permanent Public Works administration be established to pull in the slack and produce employment at the first sign of business recessions.

The idea was advanced while PWA, now rated as a temporary, emergency agency, swung into the second day of President Roosevelt's leading-spending program. It allotted $61,342,346 in loans and grants to finance state and municipal construction of schools, bridges and other projects. This brought the two-day total of such allotments to $139,156,974.

Ickes told reporters that because PWA had studied many projects, it had 3,000 of them ready to go "the moment congress and the president gave us the signal." If PWA were made permanent, he said, it could be ready for similar quick action in any future depressions.

"The way we have started this program convinces me that we should always have a backlog of projects," he said.

Must Apply Quickly

Discussing his method of selecting projects, he said he took "good ones" as they came along. Although he said he did not intend to concentrate too many projects in any one community, he expressed belief that the location of projects did not make much difference, so far as the effects on business are concerned.

PWA projects, he said, stimulate business generally, regardless of where they happen to be located.

As for his employment policy, he said: "The effect of this program, or any future program," he emphasized, "is to give employment x x x. But there is nothing in the legislation requiring us to take labor directly from relief rolls. Anyone who wants work may apply for employment on a PWA project."

Ickes emphasized that applicants must apply quickly to get requests for loans and grants approved within the 90 days remaining before application lists are closed.

LAYOFF LONGER IN CAR PLANTS

Bad Business Conditions Extend Usual Summer Shutdown Period

New York, June 23 (AP)—General Motors Corp., largest automobile producer in the United States, will, because of bad business conditions, shut down this summer three weeks longer, on the average, than last summer, William S. Knudsen, president, said today.

Last year's shutdown, on the average two to three weeks, was the shortest change-over period in the company's history. The severe drop in 1938 automobile sales, not experienced in the spring of 1937, was the chief cause blamed by Knudsen.

The shutdowns, for annual inventory and model change period, will be staggered, as usual, in the various plants. Employees in need will receive money advances from the company to tide families over the lay-off period in states where no unemployment insurance act is in force, Knudsen said.

Schedules call for the building of 215,000 new cars and trucks in the United States for the period July to October, inclusive, he said, including initial categories of 1939 models.

While no exact comparative figures were readily available here, a company spokesman said approximate comparisons could be made between that figure and totals of new cars sold to dealers during the same four months in previous years.

For 1937, that total was 359,420 cars; for 1936, 351,214; for 1935, lowest of recent years, 32,602.

Oil Well Explosion Kills Seven; Others Seriously Injured

Hobbs, N. M., June 23 (AP)—Seven oil well workers were killed and four seriously injured near here late today when a nitro-glycerin charge with which they were preparing to "shoot" a well exploded prematurely.

Details of the blast were not immediately available, as all witnesses at the scene were either killed or critically injured by the force of the terrific explosion.

The "good neighbor" policy of the United States is one of the principal causes for the trend.

The reason that the Latin American nations, fearing the "colossus of the north," joined the league in the hope it would be a counterweight to the tremendous power of the United States.

Now, it is explained, the United States has become less of a pro-occupation in Latin America because of the good neighbor policy. Their fears allayed, the republics to the south feel they have less reason for continuing in the Geneva institution.

It is acknowledged that there are other reasons for the withdrawals. Among them are the diminished prestige of the league, accentuated by the geographical distance of the republics from Geneva, and the financial burden of membership.

Even the Latin-American republics remaining in the league have shown themselves restive at league decisions. Most of them applied sanctions against Italy only partially or not at all.

Several of the republics, notably Colombia and the Dominican Republic, are actively working for an American League of Nations. A concrete proposal for such a league has been advanced for discussion at the Pan-American conference in Lima next December. If the project is approved, further defections from Geneva may be expected.

REBELS HALTED IN SPANISH WAR

Drive Against Valencia Broken; Heat Slows Up Southern Battle

Hendaye, France (AP)—The Spanish government dispatches said tonight the insurgent offensive against Valencia, former provisional capital, had been broken.

They reported that on both wings of the front in eastern Spain, below Castellon De La Plana and Teruel, government defenses withstood insurgent assaults.

The front became stabilized after the insurgent capture of Onda, 35 miles north of Valencia.

From the coast the line ran from below Castellon De La Plana inland 46 miles to Mora De Rubielos and thence eight miles south to Sarrión.

In the south, in Cordoba province, the insurgent campaign in the Penarroya sector slowed to a halt in a blistering heat wave.

Insurgents under Gen. Jose Varela took a strongly fortified position outside the town of Sarrión which they said dominated the surrounding battleground for some distance.

JAPAN LEARNS THAT VICTORY IS FAR AWAY

BELTS TIGHTENED TO MEET CHINA WAR NEEDS

Tokyo, June 23 (AP)—The Japanese government announced today further tightening of the nation's economic belt to meet the needs of the undeclared war with China.

The retrenchment program is expected to be put into operation July 15 by implementing economic clauses of the national mobilization law.

This law, passed by parliament March 26, places the life and property of the lowliest citizen as well as the greatest corporation in government hands during "time of war or national emergency."

The new program, called "mobilization of materials," was announced as "giving priority to the supply of arms, ammunition and export materials."

The government's announcement, declaring "the ultimate end of the current incident (the Chinese-Japanese war) still is very distant," said the inevitability of protracted warfare necessitated further economic control.

Exports Restricted Included in the program were: Consumption; Restricted use of metals, chemicals, oil, gasoline, rubber, cotton, wool, linen, leather and lumber and more extensive use of synthetic materials.

Foreign trade: Further curtailment of exports, except war supplies and material necessary for exports, and reconstruction of export trade, including relaxation of the import control law to allow importation of raw materials to be made into exportable articles.

Prices and money: Control of commodity prices to halt the current upward trend and promotion of thrift among the people by which an estimated $2,320,000,000 would be saved in 1938.

Other measures: Control of distribution and increased promotion of mining and home industries.

The plan was drawn up by five key ministers, headed by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, and approved by the cabinet.

Murphy Approves Independence For Philippine Islands

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan expressed "full approval" today of the state department's plan for a gradual approach to economic independence for the Philippine Islands.

Murphy, former American high commissioner to the islands, disclosed his attitude after a conference with Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state.

The plan would start elimination of trade preferences in 1941 between United States and the islands. Full elimination of preferences would be accomplished by 1960. The islands are to reach political independence in 1946.

Murphy said he was "heartily in favor" of not terminating preferences "abruptly."

ONTONAGON MAN RUNS Ontonagon, Mich., June 23 (AP)—Rep. Isadore A. Weza announced today that he would seek the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor at the September primary. He said he had the endorsements of the young Democratic clubs of Michigan. He is the only avowed candidate from the Upper Peninsula for the nomination.

Prettiest Murphy

I., was the prettiest girl among the 10,000 Murphys present.

Foreign observers gave considerable credence to the Chinese claims, holding movement of the mechanized Japanese machine over mud-covered Honan province virtually was impossible.

The Chinese reported they had recaptured large areas east and south of Chengchow, junction of the strategic east-west Lunghai railway and the Peiping-Hankow railway, running north and south, scene of intense Japanese activity for many weeks.

The defenders said they recaptured Chungmow, on the Lunghai 25 miles east of Chengchow, and Hushih, 30 miles south of Chungmow.

NEWHALL YOUTH WATER VICTIM

Lawrence Valois Drowns In Ford River Near Farm Home

Newhall, June 23 (AP)—Lawrence Valois, 18, of Newhall was drowned at about eight o'clock last evening while swimming in the Ford River about a half mile up river from the Newhall bridge. Sheriff's officers who were notified searched the river until after midnight without finding the body. The search will be resumed this morning.

Valois in company with Ted Bedard and Conrad Herro were swimming in the river just back of their depth. Bedard went to their aid and succeeded in bringing Herro, in an exhausted condition, to the bank. Valois had disappeared in the meantime. The water at the point in the river where the youths were swimming is from 9 to 12 feet deep.

Sheriff Mirón was notified and he led a rescue party which was handicapped by lack of a boat and, after a boat was secured, by the many snags and deadheads at the river bottom. Dragging operations may have to be abandoned and other means used when the sheriff's crew resumes the search this morning.

Site Of Old Ottawa Village Discovered By University Man

Detroit, June 23 (AP)—Discovery of the site where a tribe of Ottawa Indians lived in 1740 was announced today by Dr. Emerson F. Greenan of the University of Michigan.

Dr. Greenan said he had led a party to Helsterman Island in Saginaw Bay and had discovered the site through old records. He said no attempt would be made to disturb the finding until the fall.

The doctor said he believed the Indians had a second village located on the mainland opposite the island and that the party would return in July to search for it.

With Dr. Greenan was his assistant, Vernon Kintzler, and C. S. Henderson. Caseville village president and Weston Dillingham, local sportsman.

Chinese, Knee Deep In Mud, Recapture Area Japs Vacated

Shanghai, June 24 (Friday) (AP)—Chinese armies wading knee-deep through Yellow river flood waters were reported today to have recaptured two cities from which major Japanese forces had been compelled to retreat.

Three hundred miles to the south floods in the Yangtze river basin, heightened by unfavorable weather, combined with stubborn Chinese resistance to hinder the Japanese joint land and naval drive up the river for Hankow, Chinese provisional capital.

Thus floods, age-long despair of the Chinese people, became their chief ally in defense against Tokyo's two main thrusts.

The comparatively light Chinese units, operating effectively through mud and water, used the devastating Yellow river flood to great advantage, whereas the highly mechanized Japanese armies in inundated Honan province could not advance over fields and highways covered with a thick layer of mud.

The Chinese reported they had recaptured large areas east and south of Chengchow, junction of the strategic east-west Lunghai railway and the Peiping-Hankow railway, running north and south, scene of intense Japanese activity for many weeks.

The defenders said they recaptured Chungmow, on the Lunghai 25 miles east of Chengchow, and Hushih, 30 miles south of Chungmow.

BULLS HAVE BIG DAY IN MARKET

Wall Street's Trading Volume Is Highest Since December

New York, June 23 (AP)—Wall Street's "bull" field day swept into its fourth session today in one of the swiftest share market spectacles business-hungry brokers have enjoyed in months.

Here were some of the results as the big gong sounded the end of trading in the stock exchange: Equities of some of the country's leading concerns had added $1 to $5 or more to quoted values. Changing hands were 2,403,270 shares, the biggest day's business since last December.

The 60 stocks in the Associated Press compilation averaged $1.20 higher, at $44, best since last March 5.

Ending their fourth day of violently rising prices, the 60 stocks in the average had advanced nearly 15 per cent in value, one of the swiftest surges in so short a space of time in modern exchange history.

Working for economy in recent, chopped markets, partners and customers men in many cases were laboring with margin clerks and bookkeepers to straighten records and execute orders.

Dealings were so swift that at one time the ticker machinery lagged 6 minutes in reporting prices and was frequently several minutes behind.

RECOVERY HAS COME, PUBLIC WILL BE TOLD

FURIOUS NEW DEAL DRIVE OUTLINED BY PRESIDENT

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Washington, June 23 (AP)—To students of political events, President Roosevelt's radio speech tomorrow night appears to be the beginning of a fast and furious personal drive with a two-fold purpose.

The aim, according to informed opinion here, is to stimulate an economic upturn before the November elections, and also to offset anti-new deal political trends resulting from strife within the Democratic party.

Blamed for Depression Republican spokesmen and even some Democrats critical of

ON AIR AT 9:30 New York, June 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt's latest fireside chat, scheduled for Friday night at 9:30, Eastern Standard Time is to be transmitted on an all-network basis, including the stations of NBC, CBS and MBS.

It will be his twelfth chat since he took office.

Roosevelt policies have called the 1937-38 business slump the "Roosevelt depression." Backed by the multi-billion dollar relief and pump-priming measure, Mr. Roosevelt appears to be embarking on a transcontinental campaign to convince the country that another period of recovery is at hand.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech at 9 o'clock, eastern standard time, tomorrow night, is expected to be devoted especially to an exposition of the leading spending program. Between the time of that speech, and the President's embarkation on the west coast July 12 for a fishing cruise home, he will be front page locally from New York to San Francisco over a zig-zag course that will take him to a dozen states.

May Aid Candidates A new chapter of new deal history may be written by the President in that three weeks or so. All indications point toward the redefinition of Roosevelt policies, foreign or domestic, during this off-year political tour.

The attitude Mr. Roosevelt will take toward present business conditions was indicated at one of his recent press conferences. He pictured the situation as less serious in fact than his critics have described it.

Discussion of the President's western itinerary has turned mostly on the direct political aid he may give to new deal senators engaged in re-nomination fights in Kentucky, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, California or elsewhere along the way. The map of his journey conforms too closely to party trouble spots to avoid the conclusion that it was shaped with that in mind.

At the same time, however, announcement of what may amount to a 1938 new deal campaign platform, containing foreign as well as domestic planks, is apt to be the outstanding effect of Roosevelt speeches, if observers interpret the situation correctly.

Critics Can't Answer The fireside chat is apt to center on domestic affairs. The President's speeches in New York June 30 in connection with World's fair dedication ceremonies and his participation in Delaware's bicentennial celebration at Wilmington June 27 offer opportunities of significance.

The world's fair speech will give the President a chance, if so desired, to re-expose his "good neighbor" doctrine and to explain the relation the projected bigger navy has to his foreign policy in the light of wars now threatening world peace.

In any event, the whole speech making campaign could have important effects politically, both within Democratic ranks and at election time in November. Mr. Roosevelt is obviously matching his personal popularity, as shown

WAYNE COUNTY BANK IS ROBBED

Lone Bandit Points Gun at Clerk, Escapes With $200

Wayne, Mich., June 23 (AP)—The Wayne county Federal Savings & Loan Association was held up and robbed today by a lone bandit who fled with $200 after menacing a woman clerk.

The robbery was the second of a Michigan financial institution in two days. Three bandits robbed the First State and Savings Bank of Flushing, Mich., of $4,285 yesterday.

C. A. Whisler, president of the institution here, had left for lunch when the robber entered. He showed a note through the teller's window demanding all available cash.

He held a pistol pointed at Miss Esther Kudya, who was alone in the office, while she moved a bundle of currency within his reach. He seized it, ordered her to the rear of the bank and fled.

Miss Kudya said the robber was about 35 years old and was well dressed.

Meantime, state police and Genesee county officers abandoned their highway blockade when it became apparent that the three gunmen who slugged two persons and robbed the Flushing bank had eluded them.

A committee of strikers met with William F. Kinsey, district NYA director, this afternoon and were promised that a strike committee would meet Monday with Louis M. Nims, state WPA director. Immediately afterward the strike committee ordered the boys to leave the grounds.

Detroit Blackhood Case Is Appealed

Lima, O., June 23 (AP)—The court of appeals took under advisement today Virgil H. Effinger's appeal to escape extradition to Detroit on criminal syndicalism and bomb possession charges. He was accused as head of the hooded Black Legion order.

Effinger's counsel attacked validity of the extradition papers. Effinger is wanted in Detroit in connection with the Black Legion alleged terrorist activities there.

Andrew Demaggio, assistant Michigan attorney general, and John A. Ricca, assistant Wayne county (Detroit) prosecutor, maintained that the extradition order issued by the common pleas court last November should be upheld on the evidence presented there.

C. C. Miller and J. K. Rocky, attorneys for the Lima contractor, asserted that the evidence was based on belief, not actual fact. They said if the appellate court upheld the order they would appeal to the Ohio supreme court.

Washington, June 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed at Hyde Park today legislation revising the navy and marine corps promotion system. The signature meant immediate advancement for several hundred navy officers above the rank of junior grade lieutenant and a smaller number in the marines.

Aside from the promotion of officers who otherwise would have had to wait months for advancement, the immediate effect of the legislation will be to retain in service for a year longer 68 officers who were slated for retirement June 30 because they had not been selected for advancement.

Lansing, June 23 (AP)—Bass fishing—the sport that delights the Isaak Waltons—has its inning when the season opens officially Saturday.

While other forms of fishing get headlines earlier it's the bass that anglers like. Conservation officials say lakes are filled this year with the small and large-mouthed species.

The conservation department predicted a half-million fishermen would angle for bass before the season is over and that probably 120,000 women would join them.

Fishermen are permitted five bass in one day. Each must be 10 inches long. The season closes on December 31, and blue gills, which also may be taken Saturday, are legal until next April.

Five Jailed In Flint Blackhood Perjury; One Ex-Councilman

Flint, Mich., June 23 (AP)—Five men, one of them a former city councilman, were sentenced to jail for perjury today in connection with a one-man grand jury investigation of Black Legion activities a year ago.

The sentences were pronounced by Circuit Judge Edward D. Black, who scored "persons who would arouse our hatreds by preaching radical doctrines," and declared that "never has there been more need of loyalty to the flag than there is now."

Walter C. Bair, the former councilman, was sentenced to serve 100 days in jail. Robert Grogan, Edgar Cox, Walter Allen and James Brannon were sentenced to serve 60 days each. All were released on personal bond until Tuesday when they will begin their sentences.

The Black Legion investigation was conducted by Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola. Sentences in the perjury cases were deferred then pending a state supreme court decision on the perjury conviction of Earl St. John in connection with the same investigation. That conviction was upheld recently by the supreme court.

"Their majesties, deeply appreciating the motives underlying M. Lebrun's suggestion, have gladly accepted it."

worth anybody's time and study. For example, the British act definitely outlaws general strikes and 'sympathetic' strikes and forbids lockouts, while the Wagner act assumes the right to strike. Unbiased experts believe, however, public opinion bars a general strike in the United States. 'Sympathetic' strikes are common here.

The British act assumes labor's right of collective bargaining, a standard practice in British industry. The Wagner act specifically guarantees the right to bargain collectively only in interstate commerce industries, outlines bargaining procedure and defines labor practices that employers are forbidden to use.

Picketing, under the British act is illegal where it is carried out so as to intimidate workers or cause disturbance, while the Wagner act leaves regulation of picket to local authorities and courts.

The British meet the question of political activities by unions simply by forbidding unions to use dues for political purposes without consent of individual members. The Wagner act omits any reference to political activities and campaign funds of American unions. They frequently gather such funds from their members.

Got Earlier Start
It is a criminal offense, punishable by a fine of not more than $50 or three months in jail, for a British union to break a contract with the government, and civil servants are prohibited from joining any union except those composed solely of government employees.

The Wagner act, in contrast, makes no reference to labor's right to strike on government projects, or the rights of government employees to strike. Federal officials, however, have held that federal employees may not strike to stop public services. Neither does the Wagner act make any reference to the right of government employees to join unions. It leaves employees free to select any labor organization they desire.

The British have the jump on the United States on several basic labor problems such as the eight-hour law which parliament was considering in the 1860's. They were wrangling over collective bargaining in England in 1799.

It has been explained that they reached these problems before the United States did because they had an earlier start—some 800 years before the United States became a nation.

President Roosevelt's announcement of the commission gave no reason for the inclusion of Sweden in the study although it was made clear he has no intention of duplicating here the methods of Great Britain and Sweden, or a combination of their methods of dealing with the labor problem.

Nurse Is Acquitted In Fatal Shooting Of Mother-In-Law

South Bend, Ind., June 23 (AP)—Mrs. Roberta Watters, 29-year-old New York ship's nurse, was acquitted early tonight of the fatal shooting of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Martha Watters, 63, in a quarrel, April 26, over the custody of the younger woman's two children. The defense had pleaded temporary insanity.

The circuit court jury of eight men and four women deliberated only one hour 46 minutes before reporting a verdict on the second degree murder charge. The trial began six days ago.

Circuit Judge Dan Pyle ordered the defendant held in custody until the court decided whether recurrence of temporary insanity was probable.

Defense Counsel Paul Butler said a search would be started immediately to learn the whereabouts of the defendant's children, Eugene, 9, and Gall, 4, missing from their mother since she gave temporary custody to her mother-in-law in 1936.

The defense charged the children were in the custody of their father, Oliver W. Watters, believed to be living in New York state.

Being Good Neighbors

THE fourteen weeks since the expropriation of the foreign oil companies' properties in Mexico have given both parties a chance to see just where they stand.

Neither party is happy as things stand now. The American companies have lost their property. The Mexican government has lost 14 weeks' valuable tax revenues.

Production has been cut to 65 per cent of its former level. Many jobs have been lost. Business stagnates throughout the country.

If that is not a situation that calls for settlement, it is hard to imagine one. Waiting decision before the highest Mexican courts is the foreign companies' plea that their property be restored.

The American State Department policy has been sympathetic and tolerant beyond expectation. But it can scarcely go farther than this. With billions of American money invested throughout Central and South America, it can scarcely sanction the seizure of any and all such property at will without compensation.

What seems the sensible thing to do. First, to get an impartial estimate, through an international commission, of the value of what has been taken.

Then let some arrangement be worked out for Mexico to keep her subsoil resources, but pay the expropriated companies in oil until the debt has been worked out.

Like all compromises, that requires yielding on both sides. But it also implies advantages to both sides which neither side is now getting.

It would guarantee to the foreign companies some sort of realistic compensation for their very real services in having developed from scratch the Mexican oil industry.

It would secure eventually to Mexico the rights to its subsoil resources, and a national oil industry, which is its desire.

Naturally, this is an oversimplified view of a very complicated problem. But for the oil companies to wait grimly and uncompromisingly for the Mexican government to collapse under the oil strain would benefit no one in the long run.

And for the Mexican government to use its unquestioned sovereign power in a high-handed and unwisely manner endangers its reputation and future as well.

A workable compromise would, on the other hand, smooth the path to "good neighbor" policies which have become a vital part of the place of the United States in the world.

Another Fish Festival

TWO neighboring communities, Escanaba and Gladstone, are joining hands in staging a fishermen's party and rodeo on Sunday to publicize the recreational possibilities of the Little Bay de Noc region.

The agency bringing the two communities together in this cooperative venture is the Lions organization, which has a considerable membership in Escanaba and Gladstone.

Through the Lions, these two cities are forgetting their traditional rivalries and are working shoulder to shoulder for the betterment of this region.

The rodeo, which is an event that is also known as a fishing derby in other parts of the country, will be staged at the head of Little Bay de Noc near Masonville Sunday evening, beginning about 5 o'clock.

It is expected that more than two hundred rowboats will compete in the program, which will last about three hours. Prizes will be awarded the fishermen catching the largest and the most fish.

While providing entertainment for home folks and visitors alike, the fishing rodeo also will serve to widely publicize the head of the bay, which is one of the best fishing areas in this north country.

The publicity should also direct attention to the possibilities for summer cottages and resorts at Days River, Masonville, Rapid River, Garth, Maywood and other spots along the shores of this beautiful bay.

The Variety of Holidays

THIS is the season of the year when the thoughts of most people turn upon holidays. Some Americans feel slightly resentful because there are so few official holidays here compared with those in other countries, especially the Latin ones.

In South America, for instance, there are so many holidays that business men from the north declare it is almost impossible to get any business done. Indeed about half the year is given over to holidays, largely saints' days.

Actually there are a great many holidays in the United States but they are chiefly local. It is a notable fact that this country is the one important country of the world which has no national holiday.

There is a widespread belief that July 4 is a national holiday and it is observed as such, as might be said, only informally. There never has been any act of Congress declaring that or any other date a national holiday.

The nearest approach is the act of Congress of the 53rd

Congress making Labor Day a public holiday, but that act applies only to the District of Columbia.

Also a section of the old National Banking Act provided that national banks could close only on certain specified days such as Christmas, July 4, and a number of other recognized holidays, but the act does not declare these to be national holidays.

It might be said that Thanksgiving Day should be regarded as a national holiday. It is proclaimed by the President of the United States as a day on which the American people should give thanks for their blessings, but there is no act of Congress requiring the proclamation. The President could omit that formality at will, and should he do so, the customary last Thursday in November could not be regarded as a holiday, legal or otherwise.

It is probable that many people would take holiday on the occasion without the proclamation but banking business or other business could not do so.

If some holiday-minded person wanted to, he could march upon the United States and find a local legal holiday almost anywhere. He could fill in the equivalent of nearly two months celebrating holidays, but he would have to be in the right place for it.

Get Acquainted

IT has been said often about democracy that its greatest peril is the apathy of its citizens. Responsible for not a little of that apathy is sheer ignorance.

A man is incapable of responding to threats to a political form with which he has only a nodding acquaintance. He is incapable even of recognizing those threats.

There is probably more talk of the perils to the democratic structure today than there has been in generations. The times are particularly in need of a public acquainted with its government.

In the light of this need one of the happiest innovations in the field of civic enterprise in many years is the "Boy State" movement which a number of states are supporting.

For varying periods of time during the summer, sessions not unlike "summer camp" are held, but with the express purpose of acquainting young men in their teens with the structure of American government. Classes conducted by key government officials and judges are the preliminaries to a period during which the boys try governing democratic "states" of their own.

Rhode Island and Vermont are among the newcomers to the movement this year. Illinois was the pioneer in 1925. New York, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, and Utah are other states in the movement.

More power to them.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE?

(Grand Rapids Press)

Recognition of the trend toward socialized medicine by leaders of the American Medical Association in San Francisco this week is an indication that some plan of socialized care may soon be adopted in this country.

The physicians themselves are recognizing that the cost of free service is becoming almost too great a burden to carry. Dr. Irvin Abell, new president of the association, estimated that the medical men of the country are donating $1,000,000 worth of service daily.

It would undoubtedly be better for the physician if he received something for this service, if only a fraction of his regular rate. But without some arrangement to guarantee him a fee he is getting nothing, unless he makes up the difference in his charges to the more well-to-do.

The revelations of Dr. Gallup's poll also have shown that a strong sentiment exists for broader medical care. And it notes particularly the fact that between the indigent who gets his service free and those who can well afford the service is a large class which will not seek free aid but which is unable to pay the cost.

The medical profession would do well, perhaps, to recognize that socialized medicine is on the way. What the medical man is interested in primarily is the preservation of certain professional standards which he fears might be lost in a highly socialized organization. He wants to preserve the right of the patient to have doctors of his own choosing, the right of the physician to set his own fees according to his judgment. He would resist any plan that would remove the close personal relationship between the patient and the doctor.

But the profession will do well to decide what principles it wishes to preserve most and to work toward that end. It will be able to defend those principles better, undoubtedly, if it accepts what may be inevitable but turns its efforts toward shaping any socializing movement in a manner that will preserve his basic status. In other words, if the profession will seize the movement and guide it to its own ends it may forestall the tendency toward dictation by the state in these matters.

RE-DISTRIBUTING WEALTH

(Nation's Business)

All the devices of our political medicine men to re-distribute the wealth we have are nothing more or less than economic cannibalism. Cannibals eat each other, instead of going out and producing food. And that is what a civilized people do when they turn all their attention to devouring what they have, rather than trying to create more and thereby have more for everybody to consume.

LESSON IN JUNK

(Detroit Free Press)

In Helena, Mont., the other day they found in an old agency a half dozen Mitchell cars that had never been sold or used. In 1905 these cars had a selling price of $4,800 each. They are just as good now as the day they were made. But they were sold as junk for $20 apiece. Why?

Because they were obsolete. Competition in the motor business has made it impossible for any manufacturer to stay in the business and not improve his car. That is why the New Deal's dream of standardization will never work. Competition precludes it. And if there were no new models and no improvements, there would be very few new cars sold and, therefore, there would be only a small number of workers employed.

Washington, D. C.—Historians and diplomatists of many countries at this season are giving thought to the fact that the great Talleyrand has been dead just a century. In these times when political leaders in high positions see rapid changes in world events and in personnel of governments, the career of Talleyrand seems well high and interesting. Active in public life in times which were if anything more turbulent than the present, he managed to remain in office under successive regimes and to wield an unprecedented influence.

He is of special interest to Americans because he was a visitor here and also because he took part in important events affecting American history. His visit to the United States came early in his career. He had been appointed advisor to the French Ambassador at London, but when the French and the British came to swords' points over the politics of the Low Countries, he was handed his passports. He did not wish to return to France, so he set sail for the infant American Republic. That was in 1793. George Washington still was alive and in his second term as President of the United States.

Talleyrand, of course, had come here as a private citizen, and while he received cordially his reception was not official. He held no office. His purpose was to see what manner of nation had sprung up in the western world. He preferred to mingle with the people rather than with officialdom or formal society. Moreover, he took occasion to engage in land speculation, making extensive purchases. He was always, in public life and out, the shrewd business man. During his stay of thirty months in the United States he made numerous acquaintances, but he never had entertained the idea of remaining here. He wanted to return to France as soon as the political weather cleared over there.

During the War of 1812 he had reached a high place in French councils. He could act officially but it is known that he assisted American privateers to outfit vessels to act against the British even though, officially, the French Government was none too friendly to the United States at the time. As a matter of historical fact, the French were preying on American commerce as well as the British, and examination of state papers of the period reveals that there was a reasonable doubt as to whether the United States would declare war on Great Britain, as happened, or on France, or possibly, both. There were similar grievances against both nations.

Washington, D. C.—Official reports tonight indicate that Italy has delivered a crushing blow to the Austrian Army. #### New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Possibly there still are folk of the opinion that woman's place is in the home, but they're probably the same who are still pondering woman's right to vote.

Meanwhile, the ladies have been getting along sensationally well in all walks of life. As now we're concerned with several members of the fairer sex who have wandered off into ventures that might mildly be described as unique.

Like the Sisters Anna and Louisa Wilkes, who run the Wilkes Pipe Shop on upper Madison Avenue. Some 60 odd years ago, Grandfather Wilkes opened a modest smoke shop. After his death, it was handed down to his son who continued to carry on this flourishing little enterprise. Then Anna and Louisa took over, shop, pipe, stem and all, and with a veteran pipe carver to guide them, they have been satisfying the fastidious smokers in the neighborhood ever since.

Though they are versed by now in the finer shades of tobacco tastes, they admit modestly: "We don't smoke pipes ourselves, all a cigarette." And Louisa claims, authoritatively too, that women pipe-smokers are on the increase.

Plane Shopping Is Fancy
Also in the sorority of unusual occupations: Mildred Johnson, comely mother to the idea of Air Shopping, as she calls her singular business.

A Norwegian-American who hails from Philadelphia, Miss Johnson once trained stewardesses on the larger airlines; then went to work for the flying ships as a promotion expert, and at another time did fairly well as a free lance writer.

One bright day, three years ago, she hit upon Air Shopping as a means to riches; to fill orders for almost anything wanted in a hurry from great distances. She will take an afternoon order in New York City for some stone crab claws from Florida to be delivered the next morning; and a request for a dozen Spanish-speaking parrots from Texas on short order does not faze her.

1936 was her biggest year, for in that year, she used the airlines to fill over 7500 orders, brought by transport from all parts of the United States and Canada. Her largest income is derived from the battery of expensive restaurants in and around Manhattan that demand exotic rations for their equally exotic clients.

Has Plenty of Time

 Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

URGES SUNDAY BAN ON TRACKS

Michigan Legislature Will Be Asked To Pass Measure

Lansing—The 1938 legislature will be asked to bar for-hire trucks from Michigan's highways on week-ends and holidays. The proposed law is sponsored by the Michigan Railroad Employees & Citizens League which is confident the various railroad labor organizations and the several tourist bureaus will approve such a law.
 "Truckless week-ends and holidays have just been ordered into effect for the fifth successive year by the state of Wisconsin where this rule has proved a boon to tourists, a comfort to motorists and no hardship to truck operators," declared Floyd E. Drake, executive secretary of the rail employe league who will lead the campaign for the law. "If such a practice is all profit and no loss in Wisconsin, then Michigan, the equal of Wisconsin as a tourist state and its superior in general traffic, should have a similar law. Some large truck firms here claim to observe truckless week-ends, but law is needed to make it a statewide and permanent practice."
 "Our League has a double interest in such a law. It would put some order into the trucking industry whose lack of proper regulation has given it such unfair advantage over the railroads that 15,000 rail workers in Michigan are jobless in consequence. Also, we railroad men and the other 270,000 citizen members of this league feel that the highways ought to be free of excess commercial usage at the only times, week-ends and holidays, when we really can enjoy them."
 "Such a law works no hardships. Truckers can easily adjust their schedules to conform. It promotes safety. Most of the accidents involving trucks occur on week-ends and holidays when motor traffic is at its peak and when it should be surrounded with the most comfort and safety. Michigan particularly needs it. Our state's week-end traffic toll occasionally outranks the combined tolls of several other states."

Iron Mining Country Pictured In Article

(By Arthur W. Stace.)
 West of Escanaba is old iron mining country—the Menominee range—and old lumbering country. Now both industries in this region are nearing the bottom of a long decline. Lumbering will come back as young trees grow into merchantable timber; iron ore once taken from the ground can never be replaced, although new methods and new processes may give values to deposits still remaining that will make their recovery economically worthwhile.
 The traveler on US-2 passes through "ghost towns," through communities still living on mining or lumbering, through cities that have turned to new industries, through farming and dairying areas, through occasional virgin forests, and through vast domains of lakes and wilderness in which King Recreation holds full sway.
 Here and there scattered throughout the upper peninsula are remnants of the Indian tribes that once dwell in the land of Hiawatha. Six miles southwest of Harris—which is fourteen miles west of Escanaba—is the Hannahville Indian reservation, where live descendants of the Potawatamies. Several miles away, near Wilson, is another Potawatamie settlement.
 Once Produced Much Ore.
 Twenty years or so ago the Menominee iron range, which extends along the Menominee river and its source streams, the Brule, Paint and Iron, for a distance of approximately 60 miles, rivaled the Gogebic and Marquette ranges in production of iron ore. In recent years it has been far back in third place. US-2 enters the Menominee range area at Waucedah. At Loretto the tourist glimpses the shaft house of the inactive Loretto mine. At Vulcan, a typical mining settlement, with narrow streets and houses built on hillsides, are many inactive mines and one working shaft—the Central Vulcan mine.
 Norway has many inactive mines. Half a mile north of Quinnesec, a ghost mining town, is an old mine shaft that has been called the Devil's Icebox because the bottom always is covered with ice.
 Once a mining center, Iron Mountain has turned to manufacturing. Henry Ford built here a huge sawmill and woodworking plant. Caved in mines are reminders of busy mining days that are gone. Over-shadowing the city is the great, dark hill that gives the place its name. A curiosity is the old Chapin mine pump, 75 feet high, with two cylinders, one 100 inches in diameter and the other 50 inches. It could pump 3,000 gallons a minute.
 High Above Sea Level.
 Highway US-2 climbs slowly but steadily after leaving Green Bay, which is 580 feet above the sea. It follows the Menominee river from Loretto west. At Iron Mountain it reaches an altitude of 1,150 feet and at Crystal Falls and Iron River it is up to 1,820 feet. The Menominee drops so abruptly from the highlands in which it has its sources that numerous falls and rapids are produced. Power plants have been erected at these points; their dams turning the river into a succession of long, narrow, picturesque lakes. The Menominee is formed some 15 miles above Iron Mountain by the confluence of the Brule, the Paint and the Michigan rivers, all sharp dropping, swift running streams.
 US-2 cuts across a strip of Wisconsin, passing through Florence, between Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls. An all-Michigan pavement is offered by M-59, which is several miles longer. The Wisconsin way crosses the Menominee river and later on the Brule.
 Crystal Falls is a "mountain" mining town that runs up and down hill with the courthouse at the top. It had one of the first "modern" hotels that now dot the upper peninsula. Five miles from Crystal Falls, below the town, are Horse Race rapids, where Paint river gallops through a rocky gorge.
 US-2 comes to the western limits of the Menominee range at Iron River. Here and at Stam-

 A juniper tree, almost as old as the famous "big Trees," has been found near Hillsborough, Calif. A core-cutting bore shows its age to be about 3000 years.

The Golden Text (Isaiah 35:10) is: "The ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." Among the Bible citations in this passage, (Isa. 55:1): "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 12): "In science, where prayers are mental, all may avail themselves of God as a very present help in trouble." Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals. It is the open fount which cries, 'Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.'" Marie—One hundred members of the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce, on tour of northern Michigan ports on the Steamer North American, were told at a breakfast meeting today aboard the steamer with the directors of the State Chamber of Commerce, that literally hundreds of thousands of dollars in business is lost to lower Michigan firms by reason of the fact that there is no bridge at the Straits of Mackinac. When the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce puts its full weight behind the bridge, the loyalties of Upper Peninsula buyers will swing sharply from the Chicago and Wisconsin business houses and trading will follow the bridge to lower Michigan, speakers said.

CHAPTER I

Joseph Herendeen Sandham was on top of the world. He sat in a low wicker chair on the afterdeck of his trim white yacht and extended his hand languidly for the aperitif that Smithers, his yacht and body-servant, was about to give him. Over Smithers' shoulder he could see two stewards laying a gorgeous lunch on a table that stood beneath a dark-green canopy. The central motif of the lunch seemed to be pate de foie gras. On the deck near one leg of the luncheon table was a magnum of champagne in a silver ice-bucket. And a degree or so to the south-west of the ice-bucket reclined three tall streamlined bottles in shorts, and coats of sun-tan.

"Imagine," murmured Joseph Herendeen Sandham, "this happening to me."

All at once one of the blonds drew back her doubled right fist and socked her nearest neighbor squarely on the button. Joseph noted this gesture and was faintly amused by it. Of course, in the ordinary way, he did not permit rowdiness aboard his yacht. But this was different. This was oked because, Joseph knew, the girls were fighting over which one of them was to sit at the table and have lunch with him. Wherefore the sock was a kind of subtle flattery. He yawned and stretched out his hand further toward the aperitif that Smithers was holding.

"May the best woman win," he thought he heard himself mutter. So far as Joseph could see there was just one thing wrong with the setup. He had a slight headache. Nothing much, to be sure. Just an annoying little throbbing in back of his temples. He wished it would go away. It seemed to be affecting his eyes. The three beautiful blonds behind the ice-bucket looked a trifle vague and outlying now. Even Smithers, standing so close to him, was getting somewhat dim and the aperitif he held wobbled in shadowy fashion just out of reach of Joseph's clutching fingers.

For a moment he toyed with the idea of sending Smithers below to get him a couple of aspirins and a pinch of soda bicarb. And then, very suddenly, Joseph Herendeen Sandham woke up.

There wasn't any yacht. There wasn't any Smithers. There wasn't any streamlined blonds. There was, however, a shaft of sunlight that hit him directly in the face; a feeling as of the Ford factory working to capacity just in back of his forehead; and a red-headed girl with aquamarine eyes.

"Well, Rip Van Winkle," she said, "I'm afraid you'll find things a bit changed."

Joseph made a hasty survey of his surroundings. In a vague way he perceived that he was in a bed in a large well-furnished room. The red-headed girl sat on the foot of the bed. He did not recognize the bed, the room or the girl. Wherefore he poised a hackneyed, but necessary, question on his lips and let her go.

"Wh-where am I?" he said.

"In bed," said the red-headed girl.

"Who's bed?"

"My Uncle Tyler's bed."

Joseph felt carefully beneath the covers.

"Your Uncle Tyler in here too?" he inquired.

"Not this morning," said the girl.

"Oh! Where is your Uncle Tyler?"

"In Europe. As I was saying, Rip, you've got a lot of new things ahead of you. There's the Tri-Borough Bridge, for instance. There's..."

"Hey, just a minute. Who put me in this bed?"

"Simmons. I helped."

"Who's Simmons?"

"My uncle's caretaker."

"Ah, we're getting places. Who're you?"

"Kelly Archer."

"What's that?"

"I said I was Kelly Archer. Like it?"

"I ain't had. Funny, though. How come the Kelly?"

"Nickname, sort of. Short for Caroline."

"I see. Well, Kelly, just why did you and this guy Simmons put me in this bed?"

The girl spread her hands. "We had to do something with you, didn't we?"

"Why? Wasn't I behaving myself?"

"Oh, sure. But you were out like a light."

"You mean I passed out?"

"No, not exactly. As far as I know, you didn't have a drink. Listen, don't you honestly remember what happened?"

"I don't remember a darn thing. Look here, who am I?"

"Heaven only knows. Haven't you a sort of faint idea?"

Joe sighed. "I'll come back to me presently. Meanwhile, my head hurts."

"I'm glad you brought that up. I was just going to ask how you felt."

"Well, you know now. Terrible."

"It'll pass. The doctor said it was only a slight concussion."

Joe sat up abruptly. "Doctor? Concussion?"

"Yes, we had the doctor. He swore horribly about being called out so late at night."

Spain's Valiant People Are Entitled to Peace

Once again the futile Non-Intervention Committee on the Spanish War is meeting in London. From the first it has been the purpose of this committee, in so far as it has responded to British-German-Italian leadership, to facilitate continued German and Italian intervention on rebel side, while impeding French and Russian intervention on the side of the established government.

In this purpose it has succeeded. German and Italian intervention has now become strong enough to assure the steady advance of rebel forces. It is probable that the 40,000 Italian troops (this is the number whose presence in Spain is officially admitted by the Italian Government; some observers say there are twice as many, together with the 10,000 German technicians and a three-to-one superiority in every kind of war material will enable the rebels to win.

The Chamberlain Government in Britain wants them to win promptly. It fears the reaction on British public opinion of the continued destruction of British shipping in Spanish ports. It fears the emergence of a new Popular Front Government in France which will be less responsive to the British purpose in Spain than that of Premier Daladier. It fears the impatience of Premier Mussolini, who has intimated that if the British-Italian agreement does not soon go into effect he will consider its repudiation.

As a result of this threat the British Government is sounding out British public opinion on the Spanish situation. Will the British public allow Mr. Chamberlain to grant General Franco full belligerent rights without at the same time insisting on the withdrawal of foreign troops from Spain? Under the terms of the British-Italian accord all foreign troops were to be well on their way home before the rebel forces in Spain received full belligerent status.

Hope for Early End to War

The importance to General Franco and his allies of full belligerent rights must not be underestimated. Once he has official status his small navy, with the more or less open assistance of the German and Italian navies, can blockade the few remaining Loyalist ports. When such a blockade is completely established it is merely a matter of time before the forces now fighting under General Miaja in the Valencia and Madrid areas would be forced to surrender. They would soon run short of both food and munitions.

The same thing would happen in the north if the French frontier were completely closed. The Government of Premier Daladier is said to have promised Mr. Chamberlain to close the frontier as soon as the quarreling French Parliament adjourns. The quarreling French deputies, whose physical encounters on the floor of the Chamber testified to the sharp cleavage of French opinion on the Spanish war, have now been sent home. This leaves the way clear for effective action.

From the humane point of view an early end of the Spanish war is much to be desired. Protests by the Pope and by the leading democratic governments of the world against the inhuman bombardment of civilian populations have had no effect. General Franco's German and Italian bombers continue their death-dealing labors from bases that are now only a few minutes flight from the crowded population centers of Loyalist Spain.

But the Government forces are determined to fight to the end unless they are assured of some respect for the cause of human freedom which they represent. When France gave 5,000 militiamen who retreated across the frontier the chance to join the winning side less than 400 accepted. The others preferred to go back to the losing cause in which they believed.

Fairness to Both Sides Urged

If the Chamberlain Government had not completely sold out to the dictators, it would long ago have made a sincere effort to mediate between the two Spanish factions. It can still save some of its reputation before the world by an honest effort to end the war on terms that will be fair to all the Spanish people.

This will be far less difficult than may appear to those who have not studied the detailed program of both Rebels and Loyalists. In many respects they are alike. The Falangists would eliminate the Spanish church from politics and confine it to its proper place.

She nodded. "Sort of."

"What do you mean, sort of?"

"Well," said Kelly, "I was on my way to meet Gilbert."

"Gilbert, eh? Who's Gilbert, for Pete's sake?"

"Gilbert Mallow. My fiancé. You know the man I'm going to marry."

Township Library Open 1 to 5 p. m.

Munising, June 23—The Munising township library will be open from 1 to 5 o'clock each afternoon except Saturdays and Sundays during the summer months. Miss Brynild Oaa, librarian, has announced. Reviews of new books, recently added to the library, follow:

"I've Been to London," by Bailey. A fine poignantly moving novel makes this romance of Pamela and Ferguson one of Miss Bailey's best.
"The Crooked Furrow," by Far-nol. Early nineteenth-century England forms a colorful background for this stirring tale. Two cousins, given money by a rich uncle, are to seek their fortune and dare circumstance for one year and a day.
"Raiders of Spanish Peaks," by Grey. The Lindsay family buy Spanish Peaks Ranch so their father may recover his health in the West. Laramie Nelson, with his two partners, "Lonesome" and "Tracks," in their fights with rustlers furnish the action. The three beautiful Lindsay daughters add charming romance to the story.

"Importance of Living," by Lin. A wise and witty modern Chinese, well aware of both East and West, offers Americans a way of life distilled out of what he and the Chinese sages of thirty centuries have learned about the salt and flavor and tang of daily living.
"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." A picture book from the famous moving picture by Walt Disney.

Prices For Steel Scrap On Upgrade

Pittsburgh, June 23 (AP)—Steel scrap prices continued to climb to higher levels today with No. 1 heavy melting scrap quoted at $12.50 to $13, an advance of 50 cents to $1 from yesterday.

An informed source said the rise was due to the sources of supply holding their stocks for still higher prices, mills calling for delivery under old contracts to increase diminishing reserves, and the appearance of some new orders.

The Post-Gazette reported a Pittsburgh district steel company purchased 3,000 tons of No. 1 scrap at $12. In the last purchase here the mill price was $11.50 while the dealers were bidding $12 in the outside market.

The scrap increases began late last week when quotations were as low as $10.75. Two or three mills called for delivery under contracts made last fall at higher prices than that level.

The trade expected further increases with a leveling off around $13.50 to $14.00.

TRAFFIC RULES ARE EXPLAINED

Car on Left Must Yield Right-of-Way On Equal Streets

Explanation of two widely misunderstood traffic regulations was given to motorists yesterday in a letter by H. C. Rushton, city attorney.

"When two vehicles enter an open intersection approximately at the same time," Rushton said, "the driver of the vehicle on the left side shall yield the right-of-way to the vehicle on the right. The driver of any vehicle traveling at an unlawful rate of speed shall forfeit any right-of-way which he might otherwise have had."

Rushton pointed out that very often drivers having the right-of-way but yet several hundred feet from an intersection will, upon seeing a car or person starting to cross, speed up and immediately sound their horn in order to scare them. It is the duty of those on the main thoroughfare to use caution in regard to the person crossing and not to blow their horn a block away and increase their speed, Rushton said. They also should slow down when they see a person starting to cross the intersection.

"Courtesy," said Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhofer, "is the best rule of the road. Because a person gets behind the wheel of an automobile is no reason why he should forget all fundamental rules of courtesy. In fact, that is the best opportunity for extending courtesy. When we succeed in getting more courtesy and less of this head-him-to-the-draw attitude our traffic problems will be much lighter."

If you work as a cashier, she would advise you to look up and say a smiling "Good morning" or "Good afternoon" before taking a customer's money. She would tell you that a lot of unpleasantness can be prevented if the cashier—while a customer's bill is still in plain sight—says "Three out of five."

If you are a saleswoman, she would warn you against affecting an oily "what-can-I-show-Modom?" Instead, she would have you smile and say "Good morning. May I help you, please?" She would caution you against ever acting superior to a customer. The quickest way to do that is to say, "But blue isn't being worn this summer" when a customer asks for blue.

No matter what your job, she would tell you to do it cheerfully. She would point out that aside from the fact that no firm wants a grouchy around, your work will actually seem lighter if you do it without complaint.

And she would urge you to be as courteous to the people with whom you work as you are to customers or clients. There are two reasons for that. One is that things will be easier for you if you get along with your associates. The other is that "inside rudeness" makes a bad impression on outsiders.

Her last warning would undoubtedly be: "Don't think that courtesy is a veneer to gloss over the real you. Courtesy is a kind of acting that is founded on kindness, consideration and fundamental decency."

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

All over the country young people are starting out on their first jobs—for schools turned thousands of them loose around the first of June. And some were fortunate enough to land jobs without a long wait.

Holding these jobs is going to take more than being able to do the work. Joan Wing of New York, whose system of business courtesy is at work in a number of big businesses in both New York and Chicago (she commutes weekly by plane), thinks that any employe today, who expects to keep his job until he trades it for a better one, must be sincerely courteous in all of his relationships.

If your job is operating a private switchboard, Miss Wing, who is an ex-operator herself, would tell you to say, "Yes, sir," and "No, sir," "Yes, ma'am" and "No, ma'am," "please" and "thank you." She would warn you not to court favor with the "boss" by taking his calls out of turn, but to treat each person with impartiality. And she would urge you not to adopt an exaggerated enunciation for the telephone—but to keep the individuality of your own voice.

If you work as a cashier, she would advise you to look up and say a smiling "Good morning" or "Good afternoon" before taking a customer's money. She would tell you that a lot of unpleasantness can be prevented if the cashier—while a customer's bill is still in plain sight—says "Three out of five."

If you are a saleswoman, she would warn you against affecting an oily "what-can-I-show-Modom?" Instead, she would have you smile and say "Good morning. May I help you, please?" She would caution you against ever acting superior to a customer. The quickest way to do that is to say, "But blue isn't being worn this summer" when a customer asks for blue.

THUS THE NEWSPAPER PROVIDES THE MANUFACTURER AS WELL AS THE RETAILER WITH HIS LARGEST AUDIENCE AND GREATEST OPPORTUNITY TO BUILD GOOD WILL AND MAKE HIS LARGEST VOLUME OF SALES.

BYOND what he learns from personal experience, most of that which the average American knows is what he gets from his newspaper. And it is a liberal education, for the newspaper alone tells him the news comprehensively... as it happens.

News of what happened and why it happened... and what may reasonably follow!

Readers in every walk of life expect the newspaper to help them understand... to give them ideas of laws and politics, of labor and business, of all the things they need to know.

It is the dependence by the public on the newspaper... this continuing and highly personal relationship... which gives it such power as an advertising medium. As they read the news, readers turn consciously to the advertising columns. They are in the habit of basing most of their buying on what they see in the newspaper.

IN ESCANABA, the newspaper to which... every day of the week... except Monday the majority of the families turn to keep abreast of the news is the Daily Press. Its editorial policies, accurate news reports and many departments and features appeal to people in every walk of life.

Through the columns of the Press the advertiser can address a constant audience of over 8,233 families in Escanaba and suburbs.

Every dollar the advertiser spends for space in the Press can be devoted to building a sound appreciation of his product and the company back of it. He need waste no time or money on preambles. He can start selling at once without subterfuge. He risks no ill will precipitated by inept or irresponsible presentation of his advertising message.

The Press advertiser can picture his product realistically in black and white. He can describe in lengthy detail the special features which so often are the determining factor in making a sale.

On the basis of results, Escanaba retailers spend a large part of their advertising budget in the Press. With incomes drawn from commerce, industry and the farm, Press readers are the backbone of retail trade... and the steady volume market for branded merchandise.

THE SALES RECORDS of retailers and national advertisers alike demonstrate that the families who patronize the stores, as a result of Press advertising, buy practically everything.

Clothing or soap, lipsticks or work shoes... no matter what you sell... you can depend on the newspaper to produce... year in and year out... the greatest volume of sales. And in Escanaba you can take maximum advantage of sales opportunities by building your advertising program around the Press.

CONTINUE LOW INTEREST RATE

Gov't Action Keeps Rates on FLB Loans Down

The reduced interest rates on Federal land bank and Commissioner loans have been extended by Federal legislation for a period of two years, according to word received Wednesday from the Federal Land Bank by A. Theodore Sohlberg, Secretary-Treasurer of the Group 425 National Farm Loan Associations with headquarters at Gladstone, Mich.

On Federal land bank loans through active national farm loan associations the temporarily reduced rate 3 1/2 per cent annum will be continued for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940. On loans obtained directly from the land bank the rate will be 4 per cent.

The temporarily reduced rate of 4 per cent on Land Bank Commissioner loans is also continued until July 1, 1940, Mr. Sohlberg said.

"The temporary interest reduction does not change the contract interest rate, that is, the rate written in the mortgage at the time a loan was made," Mr. Sohlberg stated. "At present the contract rates on new land bank loans are 4 per cent for loans through unimpaired associations, and 4 1/2 per cent for direct loans. The contract rate on all Commissioner loans made through the land bank is 5 per cent. Under the law, as now amended, both land bank and Commissioner borrowers will resume interest payments at their respective contract rates on July 1, 1940.

"Farmers who now obtain new loans through an active association at the 4 per cent contract rate," Mr. Sohlberg continued, "will get the benefit of the 3 1/2 per cent rate for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940, and after that will not have to pay more than the 4 per cent contract rate for the balance of the term of the loan, which may be for as long as 20 to 30-odd years."

Mr. and Mrs. George Kurtilla and son Dickie, are leaving Saturday for their home at Detroit, following a vacation visit at the Copper Country and at the home of Mrs. Kurtilla's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. P. Cornell, Michigan Ave.

COOPERATION OF BOATERS ASKED

West Bank of Harbor to be Kept Free of Craft

Persons who have driven posts along the west bank of the boat harbor to which to secure boats are requested by Acting City Manager A. F. Raddant to anchor to buoys out in the harbor or to chain the boats to the piling along the east shore.

Efforts are being made to raise grass on three sides of the harbor in order to improve appearances of the park and continual use of the west bank by boaters makes this impossible.

For persons who anchor their boats to buoys the city is maintaining two rowboats in the harbor for ferry purposes. The combination to the lock may be secured from August Snyder, park superintendent.

Another improvement in the park now planned is a sidewalk from the rustic bridge near the harbor to the road near the breakwater.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, June 23 (AP)—For the fourth successive session stock market leaders surged upward today in the speediest dealings in months.

With the ticker tape as much as six minutes behind for a while in the forenoon, gains ranged from 1 to around 5 points generally, with only two isolated upwings of 18 or more.

Buying orders poured into the commission houses from all quarters, even Europe making large purchases in pivotal issues. The pace was so fast in the second hour that the new flash system of the stock exchange for reporting quotations was put into operation for the first time since its adoption last November.

Frightened shorts ran to cover early when the rails leaped into leadership of the rising list after a brief period of profit selling at the opening had failed to shake down favored industrials for more than fractions. The switch from bearish to bullish positions was said to have been exceptionally costly for speculative forces involved.

Brokerage analysts did little more than stutter in their attempts to advance concrete reasons for the move. Most, however, thought the market had been oversold; that the recent refusal of the list to give ground in the face of "bad" news indicated stocks were in strong hands; that some observers have reached the conclusion—business and industry, spurred by huge government spending, would reverse the general slide sooner than expected, and that the inflationary implications of the picture as a whole has revived the appetite for securities as a hedge against a possible general price boom next winter.

Net Gain Scored
While quotations slipped from top marks in the closing hour the Associated Press average of 60 issues ended with a net gain of 1.3 points at 44. This composite is now 3.9 points above the high for the year. The turnover of 2,403,270 shares compared with 1,713,050 yesterday and was the largest since December 29, last.

The automotive group was hardy defended by the announcement of President Knudsen of General Motors that the summer shutdown of this company would average three weeks more than in 1937 owing to a fall in sales. For the second day lead and zinc prices were lifted along with the export copper rate and metal company shares benefited accordingly.

The new cumulative preferred stock of General Foods, offered publicly on May 4 at 101, was admitted to trading today and, on its initial sale, brought 109. It closed at this figure.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. OLMSTEAD

Private Services Will Be Held Saturday at Family Home

Mrs. Olive Olmsted, 36, passed away yesterday morning at two o'clock at the family home on South Houghton avenue, after an illness of about two years duration. Death was caused by meningitis.

The body was prepared for burial at the Kofauser and Jackson under taking establishment. Because of the infectious ailment which caused her death, private funeral services will be held at the family home Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. George King will officiate. Burial will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

She was born in Cooks and resided there until her marriage in Manistique 20 years ago. Her husband passed away some time ago. Mrs. Olmsted was a member of the First Baptist church of Manistique.

She is survived by two daughters, Virginia and Catherine; and three sons, Albert, Percy and Francis. Her father, Jos. Mercure, and a brother, Louis Mercure, also survive.

A Cyclist Tourist

Walter Anderson, 15 year old Boy Scout of Flint, is shown above as he prepared to leave Manistique, where he stayed overnight at the tourist trailer park, Monday, June 6. Anderson pedaled his way from Flint to Ironwood, averaging about 50 miles daily.

Blowout Exhibition Gave Many Thrills

A large crowd that attended the demonstrations of LifeGuards at the local airport last Saturday afternoon, expecting a liberal quota of thrills when a tire of a speeding car was blown out, found all its thrills in the anticipation.

Several times the big car came roaring down the road to have its tires blown wide open by means of dynamite caps detonated from within the car. Shivers of dread changed to exclamations of relieved surprise as each time the driver brought the car to a smooth, safe stop, without veering, lurching, or leaving the road, even though speeds of approximately 70 miles an hour were attained at the moment of the blowout.

The test was conducted under the auspices of Ewald's Tire and Battery Service, local dealer, with the assistance of police authorities.

The reason why what looked like a suicidal performance proved merely interesting, as explained by Ewald Nelson, is that when casing and regular tube are punctured, the LifeGuard, a two-ply reserve tire placed within the regular tube, supports the car until it can be brought to a stop. No special driving skill or strength are required. The LifeGuard is joined to the tube at the rim base and they are inflated through the same valve. When the air is gone from the regular tube, a tiny vent allows it to escape slowly from the LifeGuard, making the worst blowout no more serious than a slow leak.

The LifeGuard, states Mr. Nelson, is the fourth milestone on the path to complete motor safety, the other three being four wheel brakes, all-steel bodies, and safety glass.

WILLIAM OAK DIES SUDDENLY

Prominent Gladstone Man Taken by Heart Attack at Chicago Thursday

William Oak, 72, of 604 Michigan avenue, died suddenly on Thursday at Chicago according to a message received here last evening.

Mr. Oak had accompanied his wife to Chicago where she was consulting a specialist at Augustana hospital. He was sitting in a sunroom at the hospital waiting for his wife when his son Lawrence went to speak to him. As Mr. Oak did not respond, the son summoned a physician and it was found that he had succumbed to a heart attack.

Mr. Oak was born on October 29, 1865 at Malmö, Skane, Sweden. He came to America in 1886, coming to Gladstone first. Later he lived at Isabella for a few years and then returned to Gladstone.

He was prominent in the life of the First Lutheran church here, serving as president of the board and as a deacon for many years.

A skilled leatherworker, he was employed at the Marble Arms and Manufacturing company for 31 years.

He is survived by the widow, the former Maria Christina Larson, two daughters and one son. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Louis Meets Baer Next; German May Be Through

Fight Future Debated; Schmeling In Hospital

BY ALAN GOULD
New York, June 23 (AP)—The scene shifted abruptly today from the prize ring to the hospital, from the roar of the crowd to the seclusion of a white-walled room where Germany's Max Schmeling, victim of the crushing fists of Joe Louis, lay with one small bone in his back fractured and his hopes of fistic conquest shattered.

Thus, melodramatically, did the shortest, most one-sided fight in heavy-weight championship history develop into the "battle of the cracked back," climaxing the spectacular one-round knockout of the challenger in pugilism's latest million-dollar show and overshadowing negotiations to match the dusky titleholder next with another ex-champion and victim, Max Baer, this September.

Vertebra Fractured
Schmeling's injury, though neither critical nor so serious as at first believed, was diagnosed as a fracture of the left transverse process of the third lumbar vertebra. The transverse process is a small, thumb-like knob of bone, sprouting from each side of the vertebrae and serving as a peg to which the back muscles are attached.

It was at first believed the transverse processes of two vertebrae were fractured but re-examination of X-ray plates disclosed the single break. The possibility of a hemorrhage in the kidney region, likewise caused early apprehension but no complication developed during the day. The third of three bulletins issued, at the Polyclinic hospital, indicated at 4:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) that Schmeling was resting comfortably and in no danger.

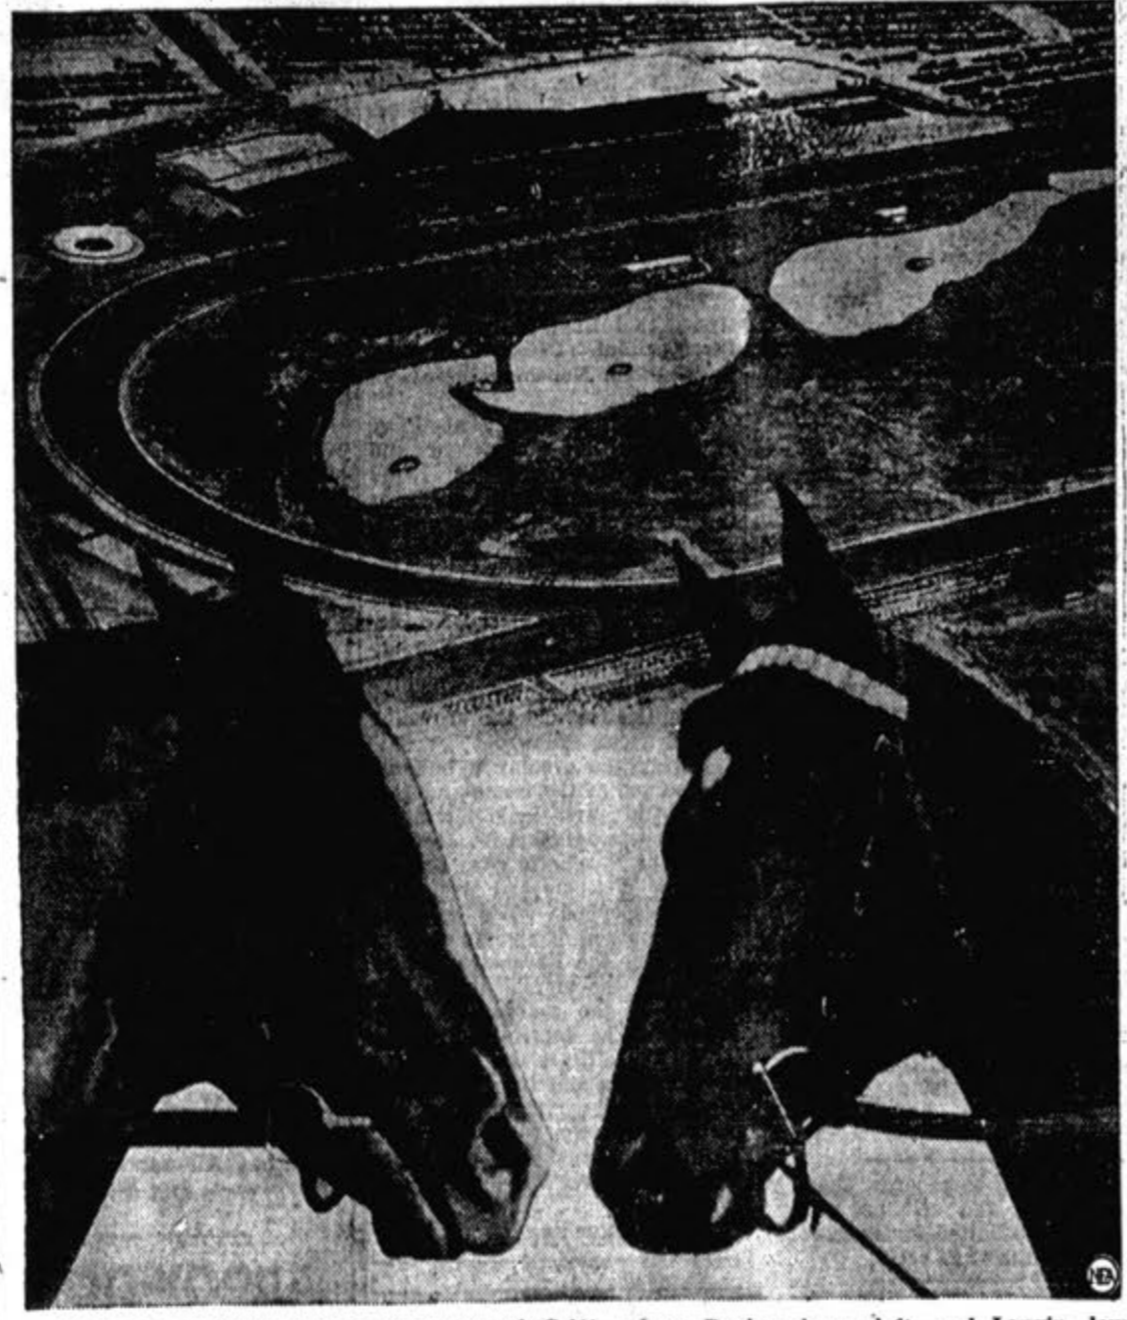

Not only were Schmeling's temperature and respiration both described as normal but he was sufficiently self-possessed to demand a shave while his associates, including Joe Jacobs as American spokesman, forecast a rapid recovery and talked optimistically of "demands" for a third match with Louis to settle all question of supremacy.

Out of the Picture?
The latest hospital statement, while saying Schmeling "must remain under observation for several days," gave no forecast as the ultimate period of recovery required. Medical authorities were as reluctant to make a guess as to whether Schmeling could attempt a pugilistic comeback as they were to suggest just how the injury developed.

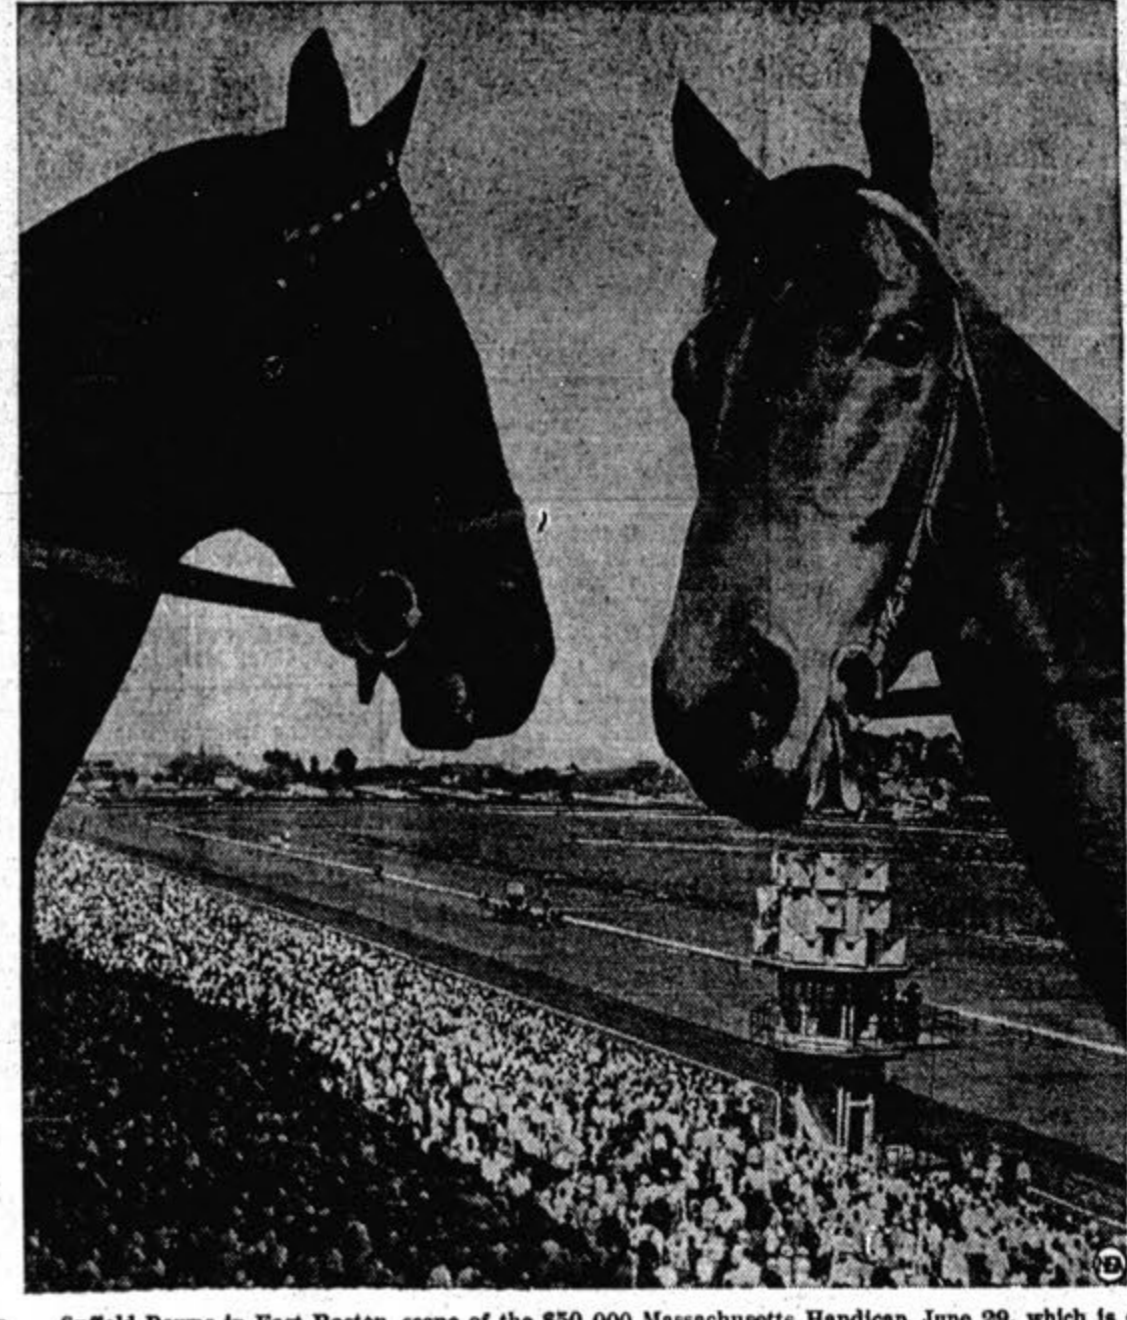

The German's friends and handlers did not share the somewhat general belief of fight fans and experts that last night's knockout definitely put Schmeling out of the heavy-weight picture, regardless of the eventual effects of his injury.

They—the German's supporters—attributed his defeat primarily to being caught off-guard by the fury of Louis' first punching blast and traced his sudden collapse directly to the effects of a right-hand smash that landed in the region of the left kidney.

This punch, aimed seemingly for the heart, landed solidly on Schmeling's side as he turned to "body block" the champion's attack.

that what happened to Schmeling, last night, coincided with what nearly 100 percent of the experts predicted would happen when they met the first time, in 1936. He was so completely outclassed that the injury with which he emerged only served to emphasize the negro's superiority, as well as his punching prowess.

Another In December
Promoter Mike Jacobs plans to match Louis for his fifth title defense here in September, with Max Baer as the party of the second part, but there was no apparent rush today to close negotiations. Louis knocked out Baer three years ago, in four rounds, in a match that, like last night's spectacle, drew a gross financial return slightly in excess of $1,000,000.

Since then Baer has married, become a father, and staged a comeback. The broad-shouldered Californian gave Tommy Farr, the British champion, a more decisive licking than did Louis. Many in the big crowd at the Yankee Stadium last night boomed the introduction of Baer, prior to the main bout, but he has always been a big drawing card. He thinks he has a chance to succeed, where Schmeling failed in a bid to become his first ex-champion to regain the title.

San Francisco Wants Bout
Promoter Jacobs has a date tomorrow morning to confer with a California delegation and discuss a $1,000,000 offer to hold a world heavy-weight title fight in June, 1939, in connection with the San Francisco World's Fair. The delegation, headed by George Payne, chairman of the California state boxing commission, and George Traugot, San Francisco police commissioner and ex-chairman of the commission, enlisted the aid of Gene Tunney for the meeting with Jacobs.

The San Franciscans indicated their preference for a Louis-Baer match next year, notwithstanding the promoter's idea of staging it as the climax of his 1938 outdoor campaign. Kesar Stadium, seating 60,000, or a new stadium on Treasure Island, would be the alternative sites for a San Francisco bout. It has been more than 30 years since the Golden Gate city furnished the setting for a heavy-weight title bout.

While general interest and the headlines focussed upon Schmeling's condition, Louis remained mostly in the background. With a party of friends and fight writers he visited the tavern operated near Broadway by Jim Braddock, from whom the negro won the heavy-weight title a year ago. Accompanied by his wife, Louis arranged to leave this evening by train for Chicago.

German Drew $160,622
The champion promised Promoter Jacobs he would be ready to fight in September, against Baer or any other opponent, but in some quarters it is believed he would prefer not to go into the ring again until next year. It was pointed out that a bigger slice of any further Louis earnings in 1938 would go to the tax collectors.

The Brown Bomber's fistic earnings jumped well above the million dollar mark, with the addition of his 40 percent "cut" of the net receipts from last night's bout. The Louis share amounted to $321,245.20. In less than five years, with his fists, the former Alabama cotton picker has earned more than $1,250,000.

Gross receipts, including $75,000 from the radio and motion picture rights, totalled $1,015,096.17. This figure was a shade over the gross for the Baer-Louis bout in 1935 and a new "top" for Mike Jacobs. The net receipts, after deduction of federal and state taxes, were $803,113, from the ticket sale. The paid attendance, considerably below ringside guesses, was 66,227.

Schmeling's 20 percent share amounted to $160,622.60.

But his crushing defeat by Schmeling stirred in him an intense desire for revenge. And he got it last night with one of the most vicious attacks the ring ever has known. Many old time experts say Louis' attack was even more savage than Dempsey's against Jess Willard in the Toledo massacre.

Louis wants to quit fighting. He's got enough money and would be delighted to swap his gloves for a life of ease and 15-hour naps. Also, it will surprise everybody in the know if Joe fights again this year because he must turn a substantial share of his earnings over to the government for taxes from now on until Jan. 1.

His next test, whenever it is against, will tell the true story of Joe Louis. Lacking his intense desire for revenge, he may again lapse into the dull, spiritless, cautious fighter he was against Bob Pastor and Tommy Farr who made him look bad even in victory. I wouldn't be surprised if Louis made one more defense of his title and retired undefeated.

Max Baer . . . it's hard to imagine Baer getting into the ring again with Louis. He was knocked out by Joe in four rounds when they met in 1935. After he had been counted out, Baer confessed to Referee Arthur Donovan he was able to get to his feet and continue but that he had had enough. Baer saw last night's debacle. Today, from the safety of his hotel room, he said:

"Yes, I'll come back and I'll lick Louis. I have been like a fine building with a bad roof. It was ordained I should lose my title because of my sinful ways. And I have received my punishment. (He referred to the loss of his father and the illness of his young son). But I'll be a different man when I meet Louis. You can depend upon that."

Everyone hopes so. The fight between a real Baer and Louis might draw another million dollar gate and provide an unforgettable ring drama. But somehow a good many experts cannot see Baer ever coming back like the great fighter and beautiful physical specimen he once was.

Inside . . . So far, this corner has been unable to find a single pro-Schmeling man who suspects any kind of foul play last night. The solid opinion is that Joe, in his somewhat blind fury, exploded his bombs all at once and that it was just too bad for Schmeling that one landed on the vital kidney. "He just didn't give Max a chance to get set," said German trainer Max Machon. "He knew Max is a slow starter and he knew he had to get him right away or face certain defeat."

In my opinion, the cagey Mike Jacobs might have his hand lifted in victory, too. It was Mike who engineered the two-year run-around of Max Schmeling, giving Louis time to forget the fear he might have had for his conqueror—and giving Father Time time to wet his scythe.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
His trick knees ache again. Seabiscuit is expected to keep his long-delayed appointment with War Admiral in the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs in East Boston, June 29.

"It's terrible that punches like that are permitted," said Miss Ondra of the blow that injured Max. "I didn't know that they were allowed."

"I don't think this is sport any longer, but rather a fight for life. Thank God his spine isn't injured and he will not be laid permanently."

Miss Ondra, who never has seen Max fight, went to bed last night without hearing the fight by radio. It began at 3:00 a. m. Berlin time. When informed of the outcome she burst into tears.

"I didn't know whether I was alive or dead when I received the news," she said later.

The press generally appeared to sympathize with the defeated German and to consider his age as the major handicap in the tilt with Joe Louis.

Youth Conquers
Among press comment, which took Schmeling's licking with good grace and praised him on the whole as a "model" for the sports world, was that by Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper.

"It is bitter," Der Angriff said, "but it is not a national disaster. There is just as little ground to make of a fight a race or political question, as the other side did."

"For two years," the paper continued, Schmeling was "cheated of the right of which he no longer could take advantage last night. It is the privilege and strength of youth that it over-runs age with the brunt of its strength. The younger man threw his strength into the scales before the wiser one was able to use the weight of his intellectual superiority."

The Lokal Anzeiger pointed out that "the fight should be fought only once and to quibble over the result of the meeting between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling . . . without being an eyewitness of the match in New York's Yankee stadium—would neither be wise nor sportsmanlike."

"Without doubt Schmeling was in outstanding physical condition when he faced his opponent. But that was not enough to stand off the onslaught of a Louis almost ten years younger."

"The negro overpowered Schmeling with an explosive rush. Here lies, for the most part, the explanation for the so completely unexpected outcome of the fight."

Paul Dean Opposes Rowe At Beaumont
Beaumont, Tex., June 23 (AP)—Schoolboy Rowe and Paul Dean, two former major league pitchers whose baseball careers almost ran parallel, are slated to oppose each other next Sunday in a game between Beaumont and Dallas.

Rowe, once ace twirler for the Detroit Tigers and Dean, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, are seeking restoration of their once mighty pitching arms beneath the hot Texas sun. They will face each other in the second game of a double header.

It will be the Schoolboy's first start for Beaumont on the mound. The game will be limited to seven innings, a factor in the comeback test. Rowe has not pitched a nine inning game in two years.

The two former stars opposed each other in the 1934 world series, Dean winning 4 to 3.

But if the first Tuesday there constituted a fair test, Hollywood Park is home free and pulling away, as it were, for—

Some 15,000 souls were on hand, and $11,072 was wagered on eight races that looked like a day at Agua Caliente or Beulah Park, as far as class was concerned. At the rate the customers bet 'em up that afternoon, the handle for the 35-day meeting should hit more than a $400,000 daily average, figuring that Saturdays and handicap days will do their share toward lifting the figure. There were 50,000 persons at Hollywood Park June 18. They wagered $114,581 on the feature race alone.

Charles S. Howard returned to the coast to discuss the possibility of Seabiscuit running in the $50,000 added Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap next month. There really is gold in them thar California hills, and they toss it at owners as though they had located a fresh vein.

Both the Biscuit and War Admiral are in training for the Massachusetts Handicap. The Biscuit, a fine shipper, would have plenty of time to make the transcontinental trip. The son of Hard Tack blazed a mile in 1:37, only a second off the Suffolk Downs record, the other afternoon.

THE ADMIRAL HEADS CRACK FIELD
But I like War Admiral, and it will be a truer test than a match race with others going postward at Suffolk Downs—Pompoon, Aneroid, War Main, and Knight Gaiant, among them. War Admiral and Seabiscuit, which copied the blue-ribbon heat a year ago, each are to carry 130 pounds. Pompoon is in at 125, Aneroid at 115.

In addition to Lawrin and Dauber, the Hollywood Park field probably will include Specfly, Lavengro, Grim Reaper, Fire Marshal, Rommy, Rocco, and Wing.

Lawrin demonstrated that the famous California climate and the fast Hollywood strip agree with him in winning the $15,000 Hol-

Brooklyn, June 23 (AP)—Babe Phelps drove in six runs with a homer, double and single, and rookie Tot Pressnell turned in a six-hit pitching performance today to give the Dodgers an 8 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Phelps' homer came with the bags empty in the eighth, and his double cleared the bases in the third. The win was Pressnell's sixth of the season, and snapped the Bucs' winning streak at three straight.

Feathers was obtained from the Chicago Bears in trade for four players—Vannie Albanese, formerly of Syracuse; Bert Johnson, giant Kentucky boy; Roy Monsky, Alabama backfield star and John Yezarski, St. Mary's guard. Albanese, a back, and Johnson played with the Dodgers last year while the Brooklyn club surrendered its contracts with the other two players, both of whom are due to report this fall.

BADGERS WOULD CINCH PENNANT

Niagara to Face South Range; Escanaba to Play Falls
Niagara's smooth-functioning Badger baseball club, with one foot already in the throne room and traveling at a scorching pace that has brought it six straight victories, will attempt to nail down the Northern Wisconsin Michigan league's first flag Sunday when it entertains South Range, runner-up two games back in a two-team race, in the feature attraction of the remainder of the schedule for the initial leg of the season.

South Range is the only team retaining a chance of overhauling the pace setters, and the Rangers' prospects of accomplishing this feat are none too bright. Either a Niagara triumph or a Ranger defeat in the remaining two weeks of first half competition would put the Badgers "in."

The pennant contenders will have the district stage all to themselves Sunday, since the Ford Twins are scheduled at Negaunee and Crystal Falls is booked to invade Escanaba. Because of the importance of the battle, the lack of conflicting games and the feverish enthusiasm of Badger fans, Niagara officials anticipate a banner attendance for what they hope will be their title clincher.

The first half campaign will close next week with South Range at Crystal Falls and Negaunee at Escanaba. The second half race will open the following day, July 4, with Escanaba at Niagara, the Ford Twins at Crystal Falls, and Negaunee at South Range!

Crystal Falls will travel to Escanaba buoyed up by last week-end's success in stopping South Range 10-7. Previously the Rangers had strung together a long list of victories and were regarded as favorites on their home lot. Crystal Falls will carry into the Escanaba battle the same enthusiasm that made the Ranger triumph possible. Hugh Orphan, of the Falls, and Phil Brazeau, of Escanaba, both fast ball hurlers, are slated for a mound duel.

Broken In Fall
It was the blow that the German said paralyzed him and made him an easy target for Joe's finishing blasts to the head. As a matter of fact, as slow motion pictures today showed, Louis landed not one but two terrific blows over the kidney. They were followed by other solid punches to the body and head, all before Max went down for the first of three trips to the canvas.

It was sheer speculation as to whether any single blow actually cracked the bone in Schmeling's back. More than likely, as medical men suggested, the break came on one of Schmeling's falls to the floor. The challenger was "out on his feet," grimly clinching to the ropes, before being knocked down. He was so far "gone" that he did not have the resourcefulness to take longer counts, on either of his first two knockdowns, and his handlers tossed in the towel to interrupt the count on the third knockdown before "ten" could be tolled over the stricken gladiator.

The charge, in Schmeling's behalf, that the kidney blow or blows landed by Louis were "foul" was quickly squelched. In behalf of the German, Joe Jacobs denied there was any claim of foul. Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the state athletic commission, also was emphatic in saying no protest had been made, but the general ordered a full medical report to be made to the fistic fathers.

Not Foul Blow
Commissioner Bill Brown explained: "A punch to the kidney is not a foul blow if delivered from out in the clear, as in this case. The only time a kidney punch is illegal is when it is delivered, as when the men are in a half clinch. Any punch delivered from out in the clear is a legal punch if it lands anywhere above the belt. When a fighter lets a punch go his opponent may twist or turn, and so receive the blow in the kidney, but that's not the puncher's fault."

So devastating was the triumph of Louis, so complete his revenge for the 12-round beating he took from the same man two years ago, that Schmeling appeared only a remote figure in the future heavy-weight prospects.

It is an odd but factual note

Tigers Whip Red Sox, 10-2; Cubs Are Idle Again

THREE HOMERS HELP BENGALS

York Doubles in Third With Bases Loaded; Marcum Ousted

Detroit, June 23 (AP)—Home runs by Hank Greenberg, Rudy York and Chester Laabs aided the Detroit Tigers today in a 10-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox, their third win in the four-game series.

Detroit's biggest inning was the third, when York doubled with the bases loaded. The Boston game came in the second. Johnny Marcum singled in John Peacock, and was scored by Joe Vosmik.

Marcum was driven from the mound in the seventh by two home runs and a double, and was replaced by Lee Rogers.

York's homer was his twentieth, tying him with Jimmy Fox of the Red Sox for the American league lead.

George Gill, who has not been defeated by Boston this year, started on the mound for the Tigers. Gill got off to a bad start, giving up six hits and two runs in two innings. He weathered the second inning, however, and settled down to shut out the Bostonians with five hits over the rest of the distance. It was his fifth victory of the season.

Clout Goes 375 Feet

With Gill pitching steady ball, the Tigers opened up with a 12-hit barrage that routed Boston's Johnny Marcum from the mound in the seventh inning. Lee Rogers, a southpaw who made a brief appearance in Wednesday's game, finished for the Sox.

Greenberg's homer, made in the second with no one on, was the best of the afternoon. It rocketed into the upper deck of the right field pavilion at the 375-foot mark. The homers by York and Laabs landed in the left-field pavilion's lower deck. Fox was on base when Laabs got his circuit clout.

Pinky Higgins, who set a major league record for consecutive hitting in Tuesday's double-header, went hitless.

The Tigers put the game on ice in the third inning when they scored four times.

Fumble Fills Sacks

Trailing 2 to 1 behind the Sox, Rogell opened the Detroit third with a single. Dixie Walker walked and Gehring hit into what looked like a double play, but Cronin fumbled Fox's throw and the bases were loaded. Rudy York doubled, scoring Rogell and Walker, after which Fox singled to left, sending in Gehring and Walker. Fox advanced on Greenberg's sacrifice, but was left when Laabs lined to Cramer and Ross fouled to Peacock.

Fox scored in the fifth on a single to left, an advance on a walk to Greenberg and a steal. He came home on a deep fly.

The Tigers scored three more in the seventh on a homer by York, a double by Fox and a homer by Laabs. Walks to Rogell and Walker, a stolen base by Rogell and errors by Cronin and Rogers accounted for Detroit's final run in the eighth.

Tying Run Passed, And Boston Loses

Boston, June 23 (AP)—Dick Erickson, Boston Bees' rookie right hander, shut out the St. Louis Cardinals for eight innings in his first major league state today, only to weaken in the ninth and pass in the tying run, the Redbirds going on to take the odd game of the series, 2 to 1.

Erickson had allowed only five hits going into the ninth, and victory was within his grasp after the Bees forged ahead in the eighth, 1 to 0.

In the ninth, however, with one out, Enos Slaughter doubled to center, the ball taking a bad bounce over Cooney's head. Medwick was hit by a pitched ball, and after Padgett fled out, Pepper Martin walked to fill the bases. Mize, batting for Gutteridge, drew a pass, forcing in the tying run, and Tom Reis relieved Erickson. Owen greeted the relief pitcher with a single to center that scored Medwick with what proved to be the winning run.

Tables Are Turned As Senators Spank White Sox, 12 and 0

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—The Washington Senators, soundly drubbed by the White Sox yesterday, turned the tables on the Chicagoans today and, with Emil Leonard scattering eight hits for a shut out, banged out 16 blows for a 12 to 0 runaway. The triumph gave the Senators the series, two games to one.

A homer by Buddy Myer, three doubles by Sam West, a triple and two singles by Buddy Lewis and a double and two singles by Cecil Travis led the Washington attack that sent John Whitehead to the showers in the fourth and continued against Frank Gabler.

Henry Steinbacher, White Sox outfielder who tied the modern big league mark with "six for six" in yesterday's 16 to 3 Chicago triumph, had his streak stopped by Leonard in his first two trips to the plate, but pounded out two singles later in the game.

Signing Of Babe Ruth As Jumbo Is Start Of Brooklyn Carnival Acts

BY HARRY GRAYSON

Sports Editor, NEA Service
New York—Now that Lawrence Barnum MacPhail has introduced night baseball in the metropolitan area and signed Babe Ruth as Jumbo for his Brooklyn circus, here are a few suggestions for bigger, better, and brighter entertainment at Ebbets Field.

Equip outfielders with motorcycles and autogyros.
Bank night on Monday, bingo on Thursday, and a set of dishes with each foul ball retrieved in the stands on Saturday.

A gigantic fireworks spectacle, "Last Days of Pompeii" — with pinwheels—in deep center field, as the finale of night games.
Singing peacocks, pop, hot dog, and scorecard vendors.
Living statue acts by old-time big-name players between innings.
Send up a rocket for every run that is scored—red ones for the enemy and blue for Brooklyn.
Keep up the carnival spirit by providing bleacherites with paper caps, confetti, whistles, and horns.
Spot a couple of swing bands in short right field to pep up any lagging game.
Make the grandstand aisles wider for cash customers who choose to get in a little truckin' on the side.

WHAT'S A CIRCUS WITHOUT ANIMALS?

Have War Admiral and Seabiscuit run off their delayed match race around the bases during the seventh inning stretch.
Bring in Greyhound for an exhibition.
Bring back Babe Herman, by all means.
The swing bands would have a big bulge over the life and drum corps and the old-fashioned county fair brass band which Larry Ringling MacPhail introduced in his first nocturnal production under the Brooklyn big top.

Quick, Henry, the Schmeling

Quick, Henry, the Schmeling... Kamrade, Kamrade and other expressions of distress... Along this line it is reported that Lawrence Barnes MacPhail has closed for the best features of Joe Engel's circus and wild elephant hunt, which made such a tremendous hit in Chattanooga that it is making request appearances throughout the Southern Association.

Larry Bailey MacPhail is a keen student of the Engel technique, and plans to adopt other Chattanooga stunts — such as hanging bird cages in the grandstand.

RUTH BIGGER CARD THAN ELEPHANT HUNT

From all accounts, Engel's circus and wild elephant hunt would wow 'em on the banks of the Wovonus.

This would be especially true if Bring 'Em Back Alive Engel could come with it, and through the loudspeaker personally advise the paying guests to keep their seats no matter what happens when his head hunters, wild elephants, ducks, ostriches, and assorted attendants put on their act... her ceremonial dance.

But not even Engel's circus and wild elephant hunt would outstrip Babe Ruth as a card. MacPhail was as wise in landing the Bambino as Barnum was to grab Tom Thumb and Billy Rose to throw a halter over Jumbo.

And it's nice to see Ruth back in baseball, even as a sideshow attraction.

He hit more home runs, ate more hot dogs, made more money, paid more fines, and acquired more admirers than any other figure in all the history of the game.

Rubber Game Goes To Athletics, 7-1

St. Louis, June 23 (AP)—Mel Massa scored the Browns' only run with a ninth-inning homer and spoiled Lynn Nelson's chance for a shutout but the Philadelphia Athletics today easily won the rubber game of a series of three, 7 to 1.

Nelson allowed only four hits

Jennings also made known the fact that William P. McChahill, Whitefish Bay, Wis., quarter-mile and member of the mile relay team, has been chosen as honorary captain of the 1938 Marquette team. ## GIANTS TOPPED BY CINCY, 8-5

National League Lead Sliced to Slim Game and Half

New York, June 23 (AP)—Young Johnny Vander Meer was clubbed from the mound for the first time in seven starts today, but his mates' early hitting and Joe Casarella's relief pitching was enough to save his eighth straight victory as the Cincinnati Reds topped the Giants 8 to 5.

The win gave the Reds the series, two games to one, and sliced the Giants' National League lead to a slim game and a half over the Rhinelanders, who returned to second place since the Chicago Cubs were idle.

After pitching a shutout through the first five innings, "double no-hit" Johnny began serving up his "boom boom" ball to the league leaders. Sambo Leslie tagged him for a homer in the sixth and Mel Ott cleated his 17th of the year with a mate aboard in the seventh, featuring the Giants' drive both Vander Meer and Gene Scott to the showers, but managed to score only one run as Casarella hurried in to put out the fire.

The Giants finished the game under protest after a dispute in the ninth, but it appeared the protest should have been directed toward their own shortstop, Rowdy Richard Bartell. The bases were loaded and one was out, and Craft sent a pop fly to short, and Bartell let the ball drop to the ground, obviously intending to try for a double play. The batter

Yanks Climb Back Into Second Place

Cleveland, June 23 (AP)—The New York Yankees trounced the Indians 8 to 6 today to salvage the final game of their four-game series and climb back into second place in the American League standings.

The combination of a 14-hit attack, featuring homers by Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey, and steady pitching by Bump Hadley, making his 1935 debut as a starting pitcher, proved too much for the Tribe.

The Yanks didn't come out without a scare, however, for the Indians, after being held to six hits and one run through the first eight frames, found the range in the ninth, clubbed Hadley to the showers and scored five runs before "Grandma" Johnny Murphy came in to stop the rally.

The defeat left the Indians with a three and a half game lead over both the Yanks and the Boston Red Sox, whose defeat by Detroit today dropped them out of second place by two percentage points.

Score by innings:
New York... 022 100 120—3 14 2
Cleveland... 000 100 005—6 10 0
Hadley, Murphy and Dickey; Galehouse, Milnar, Zuber and Pylak.

Now the government has decided it is necessary to protect the tourists from the bears. Too many are bitten attempting to feed them. Feeding bears tidbits has been forbidden.

Rheumatism Pain Yields Easily to KruGon's Action

Arms and Legs Ached and Pained With Rheumatism, Kidneys Disturbed, Stomach Constant Distress

"KruGon brought about wonderful recovery in my stubborn case of years," said Mr. Charles F. Willie, 926 Elm street, Beloit, Wisconsin. "My body had become clogged with poisons from bowel and kidney trouble which I could not rid myself of. Finally rheumatism developed, settling in my arms and legs which would ache until I could hardly stand. Sleep and rest was impossible because of continual night risings and I was tired and worn-out all of the time. I could not do my work, the least exertion would exhaust me and life itself was an awful effort. Even my stomach was affected and I was sure to suffer after every meal I ate. My condition was terribly discouraging until friends persuaded me to try KruGon."

"Never before have I seen such a complete system cleanser," continued Mr. Willie. "My thirty years of suffering with constipation has ended, my kidneys have been regulated, sleep soundly the entire night through, get up in the morning refreshed and ready for the full days work ahead of me. Even those rheumatic pains have been relieved, my stomach distress has gone, new vitality has been given me and my work is a pleasure I feel so well again. Little did I realize any medicine had the ability of KruGon."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.
