

Budge and Austin In Tennis Finals; Women Play Today

BY SCOTTY RESTON Wimbledon, England, June 29 (AP)—Don Budge and that mechanical rabbit, Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, scammed into the finals of the All-England tennis championships today and Wimbledon, a little bored by their superiority, turned their attention to tomorrow's semifinals in the women's section of the tournament.

Austin, reaching the zenith of his form, eliminated Germany's Henner Henkel in just 55 minutes, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0. Budge followed the English stylist on the center court and thrashed Ferenc Puncce of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

Budge's overwhelming superiority was actually little short of pathetic. Trying to stop him was like holding up your hand to halt an avalanche. He hasn't dropped a set in this tournament and hasn't lost in major competition since Fred Perry beat him in the 1936 United States' final.

Puncce, a good capable baseline plodder, ran his willing legs off but there was no stopping the champion. The California red-head hit them back and forth from corner to corner until Puncce was out of breath.

Poor Puncce just scratched his head. In the third set, Budge let him pull up and even get ahead. Then when he decided it was time to quit playing, Don rushed to the net and hauled the Slav in like a miserable trout.

Austin probably never played with such perfect length. Even in the early rounds he never was in such supreme command as he was today against the German, who was expected to make a battle of it. Bunny was charged with only 14 errors as he drove the ball beautifully off his forehead and volleyed superbly. With no power behind his usually hard service and upset by the wind, Henkel never offered opposition.

The victories of Budge and Austin cleared the way for the real climax of the tournament—Helen Jacobs against Alcee Marble and Helen Wills Moody against Hilda Krawinkel, the only non-American remaining in the women's singles.

Miss Marble and Mrs. Moody got a brief look at each other today on the center court when Alcee paired with Budge to beat Queen Helen and Jean Borotra of France in the quarter-finals of the mixed doubles. The scores were 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Jacobs and Frau Sperling had the day off. Denmark's star, who represented Germany before her marriage, came out to Wimbledon to watch Helka lose to Austin. But Miss Jacobs deserted the tournament and went over to the deserted Queens Club and, with Bill Tilden, sharpened her new forehead for tomorrow's struggle.

INVENTORIES AT VERY LOW EBB

Rise of Steel Demand Not Likely To Be Hit By Stock

Recent slight increase in the steel production rate is based on the fact that inventories at consuming plants have shrunk to low proportions, thus causing an increased demand for steel, particularly in small lots for quick shipment, a survey of the industry shows, according to "Steel."

Inventories, after holding down purchases over many months finally have ceased to be a brake on new business.

Stocks of steel in auto plants in the Detroit area are at a level considerably below normal, even taking into consideration the 60 per cent drop in production during the past few months. One automobile manufacturer reports an inventory the lowest in five years. Summarizing the automobile inventory conditions, it seems an extra-healthy condition exists, leading up to buying for 1939 models, which is expected on a fairly large scale after the first of August.

Stocks at New York have been reduced to where an appreciable upturn in demand for manufactured steel soon would be reflected in increased buying from mills. This is particularly true of plates and shapes, which usually are ordered to close specifications for work on hand, and hence, even under more favorable general business conditions, are not stocked in large volumes.

While no exact operating average of steel consuming industries in the Philadelphia area is available, it is estimated the range is 30 to 50 per cent with the general average around 35 per cent. This means consumers' inventories are at an absolute minimum and even a minor lift in business would result in replacement buying.

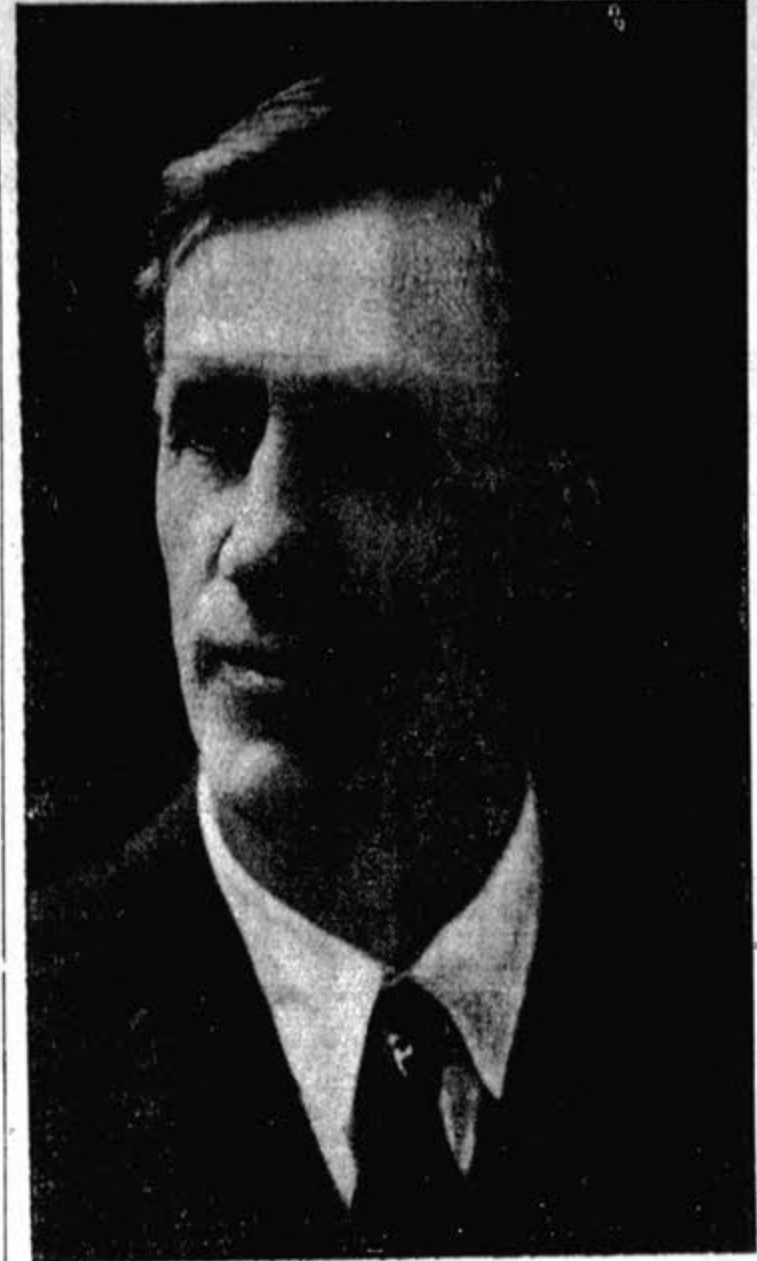

While the Chicago area reports very much the same conditions prevailing, lowest inventories are believed to be held by foundries, whose pig iron stocks in some instances have been estimated as sufficient for as little as 30 days.

REPUBLIC STEEL REDUCES PRICES

Detroit and Cleveland Mills Benefit; Minor Price War Looms

Cleveland, June 29 (AP)—Republic Steel Corp. announced today a reduction in the price of hot and cold rolled sheets, carbon bars and plates effective at once for shipment by September 30.

With a new set-up in prices due to U. S. Steel corporation's listing of various basing points for prices, Republic's announcement was the first by any steel company in the Great Lakes district which furnishes much of the steel for the Detroit automobile plants.

Republic Steel recently completed a vast continuous strip mill here and under the new price basing, trade circles said Republic's plant here and National Steel's Great Lakes plant at Detroit expected to receive a large share of the automotive trade.

Republic's announcement said all quotations were based at Cleveland, naming another basing point for automotive steel prices. Last week U. S. Steel announced prices based at Pittsburgh, Birmingham and Chicago.

Republic indicated it might benefit due to cheap water transportation to the Detroit automotive markets. In all steel prices under the new system freight rates bulk large in the ultimate price of steel to the consumer.

Republic's new prices, based Cleveland: Hot rolled sheets $2.15 a hundredweight; cold rolled $3.20; plates $2.10; carbon bars $2.25.

Munising News

REPAIRS START AT PAPER MILL

Munising Plant Will Be Shut Down for Week Or Ten Days

Munising, June 29—The Munising Paper company announced yesterday that its plant here would shut down on Sunday morning, July 3, for a regular semi-annual over-hauling of the boiler plant. The closing will be for at least a week or ten days, and will begin with the 6 a. m. shift Sunday morning.

The temporary shut down is made necessary by the replacing of a row of boiler tubes in the mill's power plant. The new installations will be of a new type of design which will prevent the recurrence of numerous leaks which have caused temporary shut downs in the past. Regular maintenance crews and all employees of the power plant, as well as men from other departments of the mill as needed, will remain at work to carry out the repairs.

Because the mill's own power plant will be closed, it will not be possible to operate the entire mill during the repair period. Sufficient electric power cannot be delivered by the Cliffs Power and Light company, whose transformers are not large enough to carry the increased load. Enough steam can be supplied by the old mill power plant, but its generators cannot supply the proper kind of current.

Some idea of the electric power requirements of the paper mill can be gained from the fact that the mill requires 3,000 kilowatts to operate, whereas the entire city of Munising requires only 450.

Lumberjack Freed Of Killing Ranger

Crandon, Wis., June 29 (AP)—Vernon Cox, 19-year-old lumberjack was acquitted today by a circuit court jury of manslaughter charges in the fatal shooting last November of Royal Nettleton, U. S. Forester, in the Nicolet national forest.

The jury, charged to return verdicts of first, or fourth degree manslaughter, or acquittal, found Cox innocent at 11:30 a. m. after nearly 10 hours of deliberation. The case went to the jury at 3:45 p. m. yesterday. The jurors ended their deliberations at 10 last night resuming at 8 o'clock today.

Warren Louis Osbesky, of Three Lakes, Wis., announced after the verdict he would seek the arrest of Cox on a game law violation charge. Osbesky asserted Cox had no hunting license, and was hunting deer five days before the season opened.

Cox was charged with the fatal shooting of Nettleton as the forester was making a treetop observation. He died at Iron River, Mich., of the effects of a hip wound.

The youth testified he fired at an object in a tree while hunting and when the object fell realized he had fired at a man.

TAXI SLUGGER HELD FOR BAIL

Perry Fails to Produce $10,000 Bond Set In Justice Court

LaVerne H. Perry, 29, held for the slugging of Gerald "Tait" Heislip in a taxi between Escanaba and Gladstone Tuesday morning, was unable to produce bail set at $10,000 in Justice Henry Ranguette's court yesterday morning. He was returned to the Delta county jail, pending his appearance in circuit court July 5.

He is held on three charges of felonious assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder. Several other charges are likely to be brought against him, however, before court convenes here.

The automobile he was driving last Sunday, which crashed into a car owned by John Dazelle of 219 South 10th street near the Escanaba river viaduct on highway US-241, was found to be a car stolen from Earl LaCure, Battle Creek, in Green Bay where LaCure was installing a new press at the Green Bay Press-Gazette last week. He is wanted at Green Bay for that theft, and at Gladstone for passing a worthless check at the Busy Bee restaurant. Dazelle, whose car was damaged in the Escanaba river crash, threatens to bring suit for damages.

"Celebrating Divorce" According to his statement yesterday, Perry was on a trip in celebration of a recently-acquired divorce when his troubles with the law began. With him was a companion, as yet un-named, who disappeared shortly after the pair was brought to Gladstone to answer charges of leaving the scene of the accident in which Dazelle's car was damaged.

He had paid a fine of $10 and costs in Justice O. C. Estenson's court at Gladstone on the hit-and-run charge, after being intercepted at Manistique by state police when he failed to stop at Gladstone and report the accident.

According to Heislip's report of the attack, Perry had engaged him for an hour's trip to Escanaba Tuesday morning. They drove south on highway US-241 to the "Y" where the highway leaves the bay shore, where Perry stated that his parents lived on the old road and asked Heislip to drive in there and stop. The attack occurred at the side of the old road, where Heislip suffered several blows from a tire iron on the head and neck before Gerou, Harbeau and Theodore Ohlen came to his aid.

In directing Heislip to what he stated was the home of his parents, LaVern Perry narrowly missed arriving by coincidence at the home of another Perry, Ed Perry, Soo Line section boss, lives just two doors down the road from the spot at which the attack occurred, and the railroad man has been besieged by inquiries as to how his young relative is making out.

"There is absolutely no connection," Ed Perry said yesterday. "I have never heard of LaVerne Perry before."

In spite of the discouragement of the past few years, the outlook for universal recognition of the principles of international law is not as dark as it appears.

NEW HIGHS HIT IN RECREATION

Much Interest Displayed Throughout Nation In Program

With 1280 communities in the United States and Canada spending local funds for recreation under leadership, more than ever before, public recreation hit a new high in 1937, according to the 1938 Year Book of the National Recreation Association. The 1937 figure surpasses by 115 communities the previous high mark of 1165 in 1934. It exceeds the 1936 figure by 158.

Among recreation activities, outdoor swimming continues to lead in number of participants with an increase of 20,000,000. Participation in softball passed participation in baseball for the first time. Characteristics of this trend is the fact that 176 new baseball diamonds were opened for the first time in 93 communities in 1937 while 754 new softball diamonds were being opened in 167 communities. Tennis courts out-number all other recreation facilities with horsehoe courts second and softball diamonds a close third.

Two new activities were added to the special activities list in 1937, paddle tennis and bicycle clubs, and returns indicate their general acceptance as part of the recreation program. Pronounced increases over 1936 are noted in the number of different individuals taking part in adult handicrafts, handball, horsehoes, and choral groups. The number of cities reporting archery, baltimore, handcraft and softball is considerably larger than in 1936.

Recreation leaders, 22,160 in number, were almost 2,000 more than in 1936, and of these 3,067 were permanent leaders employed full-time year-round. In addition there were 10,878 persons who gave volunteer service to local community agencies.

The report indicates that at least 20 more cities have, since 1936, advanced to the level of year-round operation of a public recreation program with a full-time executive in charge. One hundred fifty-one cities report municipal recreation commissions, boards, departments or committees with full-time year-round personnel, an increase of 22% over the number reported in 1936. Other types of managing authorities, school boards, departments, and other school authorities, park commissions, boards, departments, committees, departments of public welfare, etc., show little or no change when compared with 1936.

Had Been Needing KruGon for Years

KruGon Surprises Him With Such Fine Results: Tired, Peppless Feeling Gone; His Life Worth Living Again

"Before KruGon gave me amazing relief my health had been greatly impaired for the past fourteen years," said Mr. L. E. Noble, Route No. 6, Marshfield, Wisconsin. "I had been badly constipated all this time which had clogged my entire system with impurities which made me feel miserable all the time. I constantly was bothered with bloating of the stomach after eating. I could not sleep at night, became nervous, had that tired, peppless feeling and I often had to force myself to do my daily work. But once I began the use of this new laxative-ionic formula my health problems were soon solved."

"My entire system underwent a complete change with the use of this new KruGon," continued Mr. Noble. "My kidneys and bowels were regulated and those accumulations of poisons were removed from my body. I was soon able to eat and enjoy my meals without any suffering afterwards. I now sleep soundly throughout the nights, get up of a morning refreshed and feeling like my former self again. My work is a REAL PLEASURE feeling as I do now and I would not take anything for what KruGon has accomplished for me."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ladington St., this city.

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

BY EDWIN RUTT Copyright 1938, NEA Service Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he was smacked into
KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she was smacked into
ED, THE WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was headed somewhere, too, but affairs somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday, Joe smacks into a chicken peddler and at the moment when they are backing away, the state troopers come zooming down the highway.

CHAPTER VI
 State troopers McFee, Callahan and Danzig were returning to headquarters from having quelled a riot in a roadhouse. But perceiving two apparently disabled trucks, a flock of chickens littering up the highway and what looked like a heated argument, they paused in their homeward flight. Halting their motorcycles in the middle of the road but still straddling them, they gazed upon the recent debaters with interest. State Trooper McFee, undeniably the strongest personality of the trio, spoke first.

"Now then," inquired State Trooper McFee, "What's goin' on here?"
 To Mr. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino the advent of the constabulary had been as the coming of Blincher to the Duke of Wellington. Just a moment ago he had watched helplessly as the Ford backed off the telegraph pole preparatory to resuming speed. Now it appeared that all operations would be halted.

"Deesa, guy . . ." began Mr. Tarantino, jointing at Joe.
 He got no further.
 "Shut up," commanded State Trooper McFee. "I'll do the talkin' here."
 Before beginning he studied the assemblage. He was a little non-plussed by it. Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino looked what he was, an excitable Italian. Kelly and Joe looked collegiate. Ed the Weasel looked like nothing on earth. State Trooper McFee scratched his head in perplexity, trying to reconcile the association of the three in the Ford.

"You," he said at last, indicating Joe. "What happened here?"
 Briefly Joe told him.
 "And," he finished, "this fellow expects us to pay for his chickens when the accident was his fault."
 "Hell," said State Trooper Callahan, who hated being left out of a discussion, "what's the sense of payin' for 'em? They're here, ain't they?"
 "That's more or less what we told him," said Joe.
 State Trooper McFee made up his mind to brook no interference with his cross-examination. He indicated State Troopers Callahan and Danzig.

 "Examine that truck over there," he ordered frigidly.
 Coerced by Mr. McFee's forcefulness, State Troopers Callahan and Danzig did as bidden. They returned presently to report the truck in fair condition, save for a slightly-dented radiator.
 "It'll run, won't it?" asked State Trooper McFee.
 "Sure. Ain't nothin' wrong with the engine."
 "Then take it away," said Mr. McFee to Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino. "We can't have no such thing blockin' up the road."

Antonio Giuseppe Tarantino wrung his hands. Things were not going to his liking. It looked as if he were going to have to pay for the wandering chickens out of his own pocket.
 "But da chicks?" he remonstrated.
 "Cluck, cluck," said a kibitzing hen, as if to help remind Mr. McFee that feathered folk were present.

State Trooper McFee gazed disapprovingly down at the hen. Then, with a sudden movement, he bent and scooped her up, much as Mr. Frank Crosetti is wont to scoop up a grounder.
 "There you are," he said triumphantly, presenting the hen to Mr. Tarantino. "That's the way to catch a chicken. Why, gee," he added disgustedly, "I could catch these here chickens myself in five minutes. Without makin' all this rumpus."

At this juncture State Trooper Callahan took umbrage. For a long time State Trooper Callahan had been fed up with the overbearing department of State Trooper McFee. After all, he and State Trooper McFee were of equal rank in the force. And he was getting a bit sick of Mr. McFee's domination and general bragadoocio. It was all right, he thought, as long as State Trooper McFee confined his dictatorship to police matters. But catching chickens was something else. And State Trooper Callahan had caught chickens on a farm, man and boy, for 22 years.

Wherefore State Trooper Callahan insinuated himself into the picture.
 "I'll bet you a dollar," said State Trooper Callahan, eyeing Mr. McFee evenly, "that I can catch more of these chickens than you can."
 State Trooper McFee looked at him pityingly, then with mounting anger. His status as a chicken-catcher had been impugned.

And by one over whom he had long been accustomed to lord it. "Why, you poor sap," he said, and thought to have settled the matter.
 But he hadn't.
 "I've still got a dollar," persisted State Trooper Callahan, "that says I can."
 State Trooper McFee glared at him. Then, with ominous calm, he dismounted from his motorcycle, wheeled it across the road and parked it against the stone wall.
 "Okay," he said gratingly. "You asked for it. I'll just take that dollar."
 "The hell you will," said State Trooper Callahan, rubbing his hands expectantly. He too parked his motorcycle.
 For a second the contestants stood at the roadside, with the chickens ebbing and flowing around their feet.
 "One, two, three—go!" barked State Trooper McFee, and they dived simultaneously into the poultry.

Followed a great to-do upon the Albany Post Road. Consternation reigned amid the ranks of the Rhode Island Reds. They flitted hither and yon about the district, in a symphony of alarmed cluckings, crowlings and wing-flappings. And State Troopers McFee and Callahan, guided by their flashlights, plunged after them, clutching and grabbing, just two boys trying to make good.

Mr. Callahan beat Mr. McFee to the first punch by capturing three hens as against one and a rooster for his opponent. These were handed to Mr. Tarantino who pushed them into one of the damaged crates as best he could.

A moment later Mr. McFee evened the count when State Trooper Callahan, pursuing a likely-looking broiler over the low stone wall, tripped and fell into a ditch. But Mr. Callahan, aroused by this bad break, forsook the ditch hurriedly and got back into the fight. Then, for 10 minutes, a bitter, drawn struggle ensued. It was anybody's ball game.

From the front seat of the Ford Kelly Archer looked on, exasperated.
 "Well, isn't this something?" she said, in a low voice. "Here we are being forced to Canada at the point of a gun and the law spends the golden hours chasing chickens. No wonder things are upset in this country."
 Something hard struck the small of her back.
 "Shut up," bled the Weasel hoarsely. "Less you want a bullet."
 His tones were the tones of a desperate man. Kelly subsided. Cornered, such as the Weasel would doubtless stop at nothing.
