HITLER HALTS CRITICISMS OF CZECH NATION

HUNGARY'S DEMANDS ARE CUT DOWN BY GERMANY

Munich—Germany looks forward to quick adaptation of Czechoslovakia to her sphere and to settlement of Hungarian territorial claims on Sudetenland basis; press attacks Bernard B. Baruch for assertions Germany threatens United States in South America.

Shanghai—Japanese say Chinese resistance near end. Budapest—Hungary orders mobilization of agricultural workers in moves to secure peace. Prague—Czechoslovak cabinet called to hear report of foreign minister on his talks with Chancellor Hitler.

London—Britain indifferent to suggestions of an aviation limitation pact with Germany. Paris—French say Hungary's plan to force a four-power conference was abandoned after Hungary discovered Chancellor Hitler was opposed to idea.

Hendaya—Spanish government reports sudden insurgent attacks south of Madrid; says they failed. Jerusalem—Palestine's communication with outside world established after 19 hours of isolation; murder, arson, sabotage continue; British troop reinforcements arrive at Haifa.

BARUCH NEW TARGET Munich, Oct. 15 (AP)—Germany looked forward tonight to quick adaptation of Czechoslovakia to her hegemony and to settlement of Hungary's claims for Czechoslovak territory on the same basis as Germany acquired the Sudetenland.

At the same time the German press suddenly ceased all attacks on Czechoslovakia and opened up instead with a flood of criticism of Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the United States war industries board.

Even the semi-official Diplomatich Politische Korrespondenz joined the chorus against Baruch for his statements in the United States. (Baruch declared in Washington Friday that Germany had not gained all the raw materials or markets she needed and said "the threat to the United States from Germany is in South America and is real and immediate.")

Two Things To Happen "Baruch's charges," this publication asserted, "are along the same lines as the efforts of the Beltchese clique unfortunately existing in England.

"His charges further constitute a systematic campaign of casting suspicion on the German reich with the South American states and to disturb the beginnings of (Continued on Page Two)

Truce Is Arranged Between Dickinson And Running Mate

BY G. MILTON KELLY Lansing, Oct. 15 (AP)—Republican peace-makers arranged a 48-hour truce tonight between Frank D. Fitzgerald, the Republican standard bearer in the November election, and Loren D. Dickinson, his running mate.

Dickinson prepared a statement lashing Fitzgerald, but withheld it from publication pending conferences with other candidates on the state ticket. The delay followed a conference with James P. Thomson, Republican state chairman, who was represented as having advised against public airing of grievances.

Dickinson, who has held the office of lieutenant governor six times, left no doubt he resented remarks by Fitzgerald at a banquet in Bay City Thursday night. Candidates Fear Split Fitzgerald, appearing on the same platform with the Democratic rival, Governor Murphy, and the Democratic Lieutenant Governor Leo J. Nowicki, who is Dickinson's opponent, caused consternation when he said to Nowicki:

"I think he'll be re-elected, in case I die he will be your next governor." The statement swept like wildfire through political circles, but there seemed to be no unanimity of opinion as to whether Fitzgerald had intended his remarks as a jest or whether he had intended to slight Dickinson. Fitzgerald himself has not elaborated.

It was no secret that he disliked the idea of having Dickinson as a running mate when the veteran dry leader announced his candidacy before the primary election. When the Republican state central committee prepared speaking tours for the nominees following the primary, it was noted that Dickinson was paired with no other speaker, although the candidates are stumping in twosomes for the most part.

Neither was it a secret that Fitzgerald's statement had alarmed some of the other candidates, who feared an eleven hour split between the men who head the ticket might have serious results.

WESTERN COUP OFFENDS ICKES See Cabinet Officer for $2.20, Hollywood Poster Says

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—An interior department official said today Secretary Ickes had arrived in San Francisco five days ahead of schedule and might cancel some of his western speaking tour. The official, who would not permit use of his name, said Ickes was offended by reports that public posters had been placed on Hollywood streets advertising "a chance to see a cabinet officer at $2.20 a ticket."

Ickes was scheduled to speak there on October 19. The official emphasized that the speech, "The Crisis of Democracy," to be delivered under the auspices of the Hollywood Council for Democracy at the Hollywood Shrine, had not yet been officially cancelled.

Ickes might, he said, refuse to make this, one of his more important addresses, because of what he was said to consider an affront to his position and the nature of his visit. The interior department was deluged during the day with queries whether the secretary was ill but officials said they had no confirmation that he had been removed from his suite at a (Mark Hopkins) hotel in San Francisco. Officials wired him there whether he intended cancelling any speaking engagements but at a late hour said they had received no reply.

Special Tax Advocated For U.S. Defense Boost

BY R. H. HIPPELHUBER New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, in an interview today in which he amplified his views on building America's defensive forces, advocated a special tax to meet the cost of increased armaments.

The tall, white-haired financier—who, as chairman of the war industries board, was in charge of mobilizing the nation's industry in the World War—said the levy "should be heavy enough to meet the cost of preparedness, whatever the cost may be."

"We should not pile the burden of paying for these armaments on to the shoulders of coming generations," Baruch contended. "We should pay the bill ourselves. Congress, I believe, should enact whatever form of levy it thinks best to pay for the new expenditures."

"I am not prepared, nor is it my business, to say how all of this money shall be raised. All of it may not have to be raised by taxation. But certainly we must provide for interest and amortization of the cost.

"Some of the expenses possibly can be met by transferring expenditures from PWA and WPA to the defense program. This would give great numbers of people employment instead of relief."

"The cost of building up our national defenses will be high, undoubtedly several billions of dollars before it is through, but it is a price we must pay if we are going to make the voice of America a voice of authority in world affairs. The aggressive nations of the world pay heed to only one thing—force and might."

"We should build only for defense, but we should build to such an extent that the aggressive nations will know we are prepared to defend our political and economic ideals against all odds."

Referring to the statements in the German press that he was mixed up in a "Jewish plot" to influence President Roosevelt, Baruch said: "I am not going to engage in name-calling or personalities. I have only one interest—that of America. As for what the Nazis may say about me, I can only point to the record."

"At the Versailles peace conference, where I was economic advisor to the American delegation, and chairman of its economic section, I fought consistently for better terms for defeated Germany. England and France showed a complete lack of wisdom in tramping Germany underfoot then, and in falling, later, to ameliorate the uneconomic terms of the peace imposed at Versailles."

FARM VOTERS PROVE PUZZLE TO NEW DEAL

WALLACE IS TRYING HARD TO QUIET UNREST

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—The voting trends in the wheat and corn belts may do more to shape the outlines of the 1940 presidential campaign than what happens in any other political sector on November 8.

What those trends will be is a question that baffles political analysts. Administration recognition that retention of the farm vote is the most critical election problem it faces is evidenced by Secretary Wallace's protracted swings through the cotton, wheat and corn belts.

Works Night and Day While other Roosevelt cabinet members or administrative aides have as yet campaigned only with occasional speeches, Wallace has been on the go night and day for weeks. By all signs, he will keep going, right up to election day, striving to quiet farmer unrest over administration policies.

New deal political aides admit no uneasiness over the labor vote. They read the events of the Houston convention of the American Federation of Labor as insuring against any heavy anti-Roosevelt swing election day by either the A. F. of L. or the Committee for Industrial Organization. They admit, however, that the internal push in labor ranks may have an adverse effect on some Democratic candidates for federal or state offices.

In Hot Spot Secretary Wallace's strenuous farm belt campaigning spells less administration assurance of the election day outcome in the corn and wheat areas. The chief agricultural policy-maker has been on the hottest spot of any cabinet officer or administrator, ever since bumper price-depressing crops were forecast.

That fact has led to an impression that President Roosevelt's nation-wide broadcast from Hyde Park four days before the election is apt to include a discussion of the 1938 farm surplus problem and possibly a new outline of measures contemplated by the new deal. Some politicians feel the "home dumping" program being formulated by Wallace and his aides to pass agricultural surpluses along at bargain prices to low-income families might afford the president an opportunity to make a formidable bid for both farm and low-income group support.

There is little doubt among politicians that the farm vote trend is not only the most critical test for the administration, but that the political future of Secretary Wallace may hinge on the outcome.

Boom May Fizzle President Roosevelt, so far as is publicly known, never has disclosed even to his closest aides where his favor for the next Democratic presidential nomination might fall if he does not run for a third term himself. Wallace invariably is included in lists of the possible candidates for that heir-apparent role, however. In off-the-record discussion, many key men in the new deal inner political circle are said to have indicated the belief that Wallace stood a better chance than almost any other Roosevelt lieutenant. Some say it might be a toss-up between Wallace and Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader of the senate.

Whatever may be the president's own thought on that question (Continued on Page 15).

Claims Victory

Famed Gen. Chang Fa Kwei, above, China's "Ironside" commander, claims the greatest victory of the Sino-Japanese war, asserting he virtually wiped out the Japanese 101st Tokyo division in a devastating series of counter-attacks on the Nanchang front southeast of Hankow. General Chang placed the number of Japanese killed at 20,000.

BRITAIN PUSHES WAR DEFENSES Aircraft Equipment Will Be Doubled; German Pact Ignored

London, Oct. 15 (AP)—Britain pushed forward on the road to greater armaments and defenses today, coldly indifferent to suggestions of an aviation limitation pact with Germany.

War Minister Leslie Hore-Beelish announced a hope of doubling in the next year the nearly 50,000 men operating anti-aircraft guns and supplementary equipment, with the necessary guns now in mass production; was spurred by E. H. Liddell Hart's slashing criticism of London's anti-aircraft defenses.

Liddell Hart, a military expert and writer, declared to the emergency youth peace conference, that "barely 100 guns" were available for London's defense against air raids during the crisis over Czechoslovakia.

Comparing London's defenses with those of Paris, he said the latter was ringed with 700 guns and that, however, London's defenses were "improved with various weapons much more dangerous to civilian life and property than to attacking aircraft."

Under the circumstances, he said, the surrender of Czechoslovakia at Munich was justified.

Chicago Union Men Shot As Racketeers Seek Tunnel Control

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—Captain Patrick Collins said tonight police were investigating whether the shooting of two men was the start of an attempt to seize control of union activities in the construction of Chicago's $38,000,000 subway system.

Frank Lelandi, 21, and Gabriel Garo, 27, who have applied for membership in Local No. 2 of the Sewer and Tunnel Miners' Union, were shot and seriously wounded by a gunman who fired at them last night.

Jerry Sasso, 5, business agent of the local, escaped injury by diving to the sidewalk when the shooting began. Collins said an investigation was being made to determine whether racketeers have started a campaign to "take over" the union.

Ocean Liners Dock Under Difficulties; Tugboats On Strike

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The country's busiest port was badly crippled today by a tugboat strike which delayed the docking of several trans-Atlantic liners and forced others, which customarily use tugs, to pull away at sailing time under their own power.

Capt. William V. Bradley of the United Marine Division, Local 333, a section of the International Longshoremen's Ass'n., (AFL), said 2,000 men from 228 tugs in New York harbor and adjacent waters had struck since midnight after wage negotiations between the union and operators collapsed.

Late this afternoon union representatives and members of the New York Tugboat Exchange, Inc., the owners organization, were trying to reach an agreement. The only tugs moving in the harbor, Bradley said, were those serving coastwise ships, railroad tugs, self-propelling oil tankers and tugs from the Erie Canal which happened to be in the harbor when the strike started. The strike did not affect them.

Queen Mary Due The Holland-America line's docked at Hoboken without the assistance of tugs this afternoon after spending most of the day lying at anchor in the lower bay.

Two other liners docked earlier without tugs—the Hamburg-American line's New York and the American export liner Excambion, the latter at Jersey City, N. J. Both managed the difficult maneuvering in slack water—the interval between flood and ebb tides—under favorable weather conditions. Windy weather or strong tides would probably have made docking unlikely.

The Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary is due next Tuesday, with the Italian liner Conte Di Savoia due Wednesday. Both are bigger ships than those which docked today and some difficulty was expected to attend any attempts to berth them under their own power.

Nathan Frankel, labor advisor to Mayor LaGuardia, said he was pleased that both parties to the dispute were trying to settle their differences without the aid of mediators. Frankel conferred with the men last night without bringing them to any agreement.

CANADIAN FIRES UNDER CONTROL Nearly 100 Miles Left Blackened; 20 Dead In Border Zone

Fort Frances, Ont., Oct. 15. (Canadian Press)—After blackening nearly 100 miles of countryside along the international border and leaving 20 dead, forest fires today were reported as slowly being brought under control. Abating winds helped rangers. The situation had so improved in the southwestern corner of Manitoba that residents who fled from Middleboro on the flames' approach returned to their homes.

National guards from Minnesota sent trucks to Middleboro to carry the citizens a few miles to Sprague where they remained overnight. Hay stacks and farm lands were burned but guards were thrown up and the town saved while 100 women and children sped to safety.

The fire was still being fought bitterly by crews at International Falls, across the boundary from Fort Frances, and in the wooded country of Ontario, northwest of here where 17 persons died and thousands of dollars damage was done to timber and farms when the outbreak Monday. Three lost their lives in the Minnesota flames.

William Darby, chief forest ranger, at Fort Frances, expressed the hope this morning the fire danger had passed. He said conditions were more promising than at any time since Monday.

POWER HOUSE OF MINNESOTA IS SMOTHERED

CRISLER'S MEN TOP EVERYTHING BUT FINAL TOTAL

BY JAY VESSELS Minneapolis, Oct. 15 (AP)—Minnesota's mighty men of the gridiron, their powerhouse dynamited by a scrappy Michigan wrecking crew, unveiled a puzzling pass attack to come from behind with six minutes to play today and win 7 to 6.

Fifty-five thousand homecoming fans saw the Big Ten champions retain the historic Little Brown Jug in a game that found Coach Fritz Crisler's huskies gain the edge in everything but the final score.

History Repeated It was just a case of the Golden Gophers doing what the Michigan teams of old did in finishing second in the statistics but paying off on the point or two needed to grab victory.

In that last quarter, with Michigan holding a 5 to 0 edge after a great 90 yard march up the field, Coach Bierman's squad called on the injured Harold Van Erevy, triple threat halfback, to search for success through the air.

Van Erevy, out of action since the opener against Washington, shot a perfect strike from his own 48 yard line to Bill Johnson, sub right end, who caught the ball on the Michigan 18 and plunged to the 14 with three Michigan players taking a ride.

Placed in Good Two plunges took the ball to the ten. Then Van Erevy yelped back and pitched another strike to Halfback Wilbur Moore. He grabbed it on the Michigan three and with a trio of Wolverines hanging on hit the happy hunting grounds at the extreme corner of the field. Quarterback George Faust placed the extra point, something that Dan Smick, Michigan end, had failed to do in the first few minutes of the last quarter.

Moore, smothered in a clust of Males and Blue behind the Michigan goal line on the winning touchdown, was hurt and was carried from the field with a badly injured leg.

The last minute Minnesota victory broke the hearts of Michigan's eager outfit. They outplayed the Gophers from scrimmage almost two to one, completed seven out of sixteen passes, flashed a terrific ground gaining attack behind a hard-hitting line, and became the first to smother the Minnesota powerhouse into smotherhood.

Purucker Makes Gains Without those two tolling last period passes, the Big Ten champions' got mighty little success in an offensive that wrecked Washington, Nebraska and Purdue.

The only time the Minnesota powerhouse threw fear upon Michigan came after a poor Wolverine punt in the second quarter. Moore, Buhler and Frankel blasted to the lineback where the Wolverines held and Horace Bell missed a place kick.

Michigan got started then and seconds before the half ended Danny Smick, an end, vainly tried a place kick from the Minnesota 25.

The second half started quietly enough, punting getting the play with Michigan gradually losing ground. Taking a punt on their ten, the Wolverines began feeding the ball to Halfback Norman Purucker, Youngstown, Ohio, senior. Using a plain old fashioned de-

POLITICS HITS CIVIL SERVICE

Republican Chief Tells of Pressure on State Employee List Lansing, Oct. 15 (AP)—James P. Thomson, Republican state chairman, accused the Democratic state and county committees today of "collusion" to compel state employees to contribute to the Democratic fund.

Pointing out that the civil service law expressly forbids compulsory solicitations, Thomson addressed a letter to Attorney General Raymond W. Starr demanding an investigation.

He asserted the Ingham county Democratic committee had sent letters to low salaried employees in the capital telling them that "you may be assured that those vitally interested in Democratic success will know of the aid you have rendered."

He said the circular had told employees that those in the salary bracket of $1,000 to $1,500 were expected to contribute $10; those in the $1,500 to $2,000 bracket, $15; and those of $2,000 to $3,500, $20.

Roosevelt's Proposal Fails To Spur AFL and CIO Peace

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—The lary discouraging to advocates of labor peace, who said the rival leaders could hardly be expected to act on the spur of the moment regarding such an important question. They acknowledged, however, that the bitterness engendered by the long conflict would make a settlement extremely difficult.

In an interview granted just prior to Miss Perkins' address, on the occasion of the third anniversary of the C. I. O.'s conception, Lewis declared the Committee for Industrial Organization would continue as "labor's most progressive and active force."

The progress we have made from a comparatively small beginning has proved conclusively that we have filled the tremendous void that existed in unionization of industry until a few years ago," he said.

UPTURN SHOWN IN ADVERTISING

September Improvement Offsets July and August Losses

New York, Oct. 15. (AP)—The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers association, today reported a "sharp turn upward" in newspaper advertising.

New figures from Media Records, Inc., showed retail advertising had increased from $6.8 per cent in August to 9.3 in September, with general product advertising jumping from 7.8 to 9.1 and automotive from 4.8 to 5.4 over the same period. Only financial advertising remained about the same as August.

Media said total display income, retail and national, had increased from $1.6 per cent in August to $2.3 in September; classified from $7.3 to 9.1. All the ratios are relative to the volume of the same month in 1937.

The bureau said the September improvement had offset heavy losses in trend in July and August.

It said that from current contacts with national advertisers and agency executives, the bureau has recognized an increased interest in newspaper advertising.

"Much of this interest centers about material on the successful use of newspaper space by national advertisers which the bureau has released in connection with the recent expansion of its research program," the bureau said.

Grand Rapids Puts In Parking Meters

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 15 (AP)—Seven hundred fifty parking meters will start flipping their admittance arms up and down at Grand Rapids motorists next week.

Installed as a 90-day experiment by the city commission after more than a year's debate, the meters are expected by city officials to return approximately $100 a day to the city's coffers.

The meters are affixed along the curbs in a portion of the downtown district and are set to click off one hour and one half hour parking periods, depending on the location. The bulk of the zones are for one hour and the motorist must drop a nickel in the meter when he parks his car.

Once the car is parked and the nickel is placed in the meter, an arm drops, signifying the meter is operating, much on the principle of the taxicab meter. At the end of the stipulated period the arm flips erect.

exchange of goods profitable to both."

It said it took satisfaction, however, in the fact that President Roosevelt did not associate himself with Baruch's strictures.

With the departure from Munich of Czechoslovak foreign minister Frantisek Chvalkovsky and former Hungarian premier Kolo-man Daranyi after conferences with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Germans felt two things would happen in the immediate future:

1. Czechoslovakia would remould her political, social and military life to adapt herself to Germany's influence.

2. Hungary would receive all those sections of Czechoslovakia on the Hungarian border where the Hungarian race and language predominate.

LAND GRAB ABANDONED

Paris, Oct. 15 (AP)—Hungary's plan to force another four-power conference in the hope of gaining a larger piece of Czechoslovakia was abandoned, French sources said tonight, after Hungary discovered Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was opposed to the idea.

Britain and France also were opposed, but Hungary had hoped Chancellor Hitler would back her up, as he had indicated he would during and immediately after the Munich conference at which Germany's claims in Czechoslovakia were settled.

Since then, however, Czechoslovakia has promised that her foreign policy would lean on Berlin, and this has changed the stand of the Nazis, who never were anxious to give Hungary a common frontier with Poland, which was part of the Budapest program.

Officially, Hungary never sent her proposals for a four-power conference to the four capitals, London, Paris, Berlin and Rome.

Germany's and Italy's promises at the Munich conference to guarantee Czechoslovakia's frontiers after settlement of the Hungarian and Polish demands on Czechoslovakia led Budapest, however, to believe she had both of the totalitarian states behind her.

Hence, when Czechoslovakia at the Komaron conference refused to accede to the Hungarian territorial demands, Hungary promptly sounded out the four foreign offices through diplomatic channels. This was done yesterday.

But by that time, in the words of the Paris "Le Temps," the situation "had changed entirely as far as Germany's plans were concerned."

HUNGARY MOBILIZES

Budapest, Oct. 15 (AP)—Hungary speeded up defense measures today by ordering mobilization of agricultural workers to insure an adequate food supply in any emergency arising from her dispute with Czechoslovakia. The decree supplements the calling to the colors of five army classes of about 200,000 men, which boosted the number of Hungarians under arms to an estimated half million.

These steps were taken for peace, not war, officials said. Hungary has no aggressive intentions, it was added, and has taken measures to strengthen the army to secure peace along the frontier in territories Hungary expects to get from Czechoslovakia.

Another decree will hold employers of agricultural workers responsible for payment of adequate sums to safeguard the interests of families of those men called to arms.

Former Premier Kolomon Daranyi, who presented Hungary's case against Czechoslovakia before Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at Munich yesterday, returned today with Germany's views on settlement of the territorial dispute.

Daranyi and Premier Bela Imredi had a secret audience with Regent Admiral Horthy at noon, leading many quarters to believe that a government change was impending.

Mob Sees Wedding Of Prunella Stack, Glasgow Bare-knee

Glasgow, Oct. 15 (AP)—Police resorted to football match regulations today to control a crowd of 20,000 which milled about Glasgow's cathedral as Prunella Stack, blonde leader of the Women's League of Health and Beauty, and Lord Douglas-Hamilton were married.

Several persons fainted in the throng outside.

The bride, who is 23, stages mass demonstrations of setting up exercises throughout the country in the government's "national fitness" campaign, launched last year.

The groom is 26 years old and is the fourth son of the 13th Duke of Hamilton, premier peer of Scotland.

The bride, customarily seen in public in abbreviated shorts, wore a gown of parchment velvet with a five yard train.

Today it was the groom whose bare knees were exposed. He wore full highland dress of the royal Stuart Tartan.

Danes In Germany Appeal To Fuehrer

Berlin, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Danish minority in Schleswig-Holstein, making capital of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own words on the treatment of minorities, has addressed an open letter to the fuhrer in an effort to improve the status of Danes living in northern Germany.

The letter appears in Der Schleswiger, a monthly publication at Flensburg, which is the mouthpiece for about 5,500 Danes living in Germany.

CHINA BEATEN, JAPAN CLAIMS

Canton Drive Develops Rapidly; Invaders Near Hankow

Shanghai, Oct. 15 (AP)—Spokesmen for Japan's forces of invasion in China expressed belief tonight that the twilight hour of Chinese resistance was at hand.

Spokesmen for the army and navy, summing up more than 15 months of warfare, said the Japanese were fastening a stranglehold on China in operations which, with the invasion of South China, now have reached the greatest dimensions since the undeclared war started July 7, 1937.

The South China drive, started Wednesday, appeared to be developing fast, promising a Japanese overlordship for 70,000,000 Chinese in southern provinces while armies, warships and planes hammered closer to Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's capital in central China.

Moreover, the Japanese army in north China, birthplace of the war, was reported prepared to enlarge operations westward into the untouched provinces of Shensi and Kansu—southward to the Yangtze valley to assist the Hankow campaign, if necessary.

The northern command reported that its anti-guerrilla campaign, now weeks old, had reduced Communist hit-and-run fighters, organized around the famous Eight army, to impotence.

The Yangtze invaders were reported within 80 miles by river of Hankow.

From 1935 to 1938, Alabama farmers increased their income from hogs 147.2 percent, or $4,549,000.

Beale Street Picks Postman For Mayor

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 15 (AP)—Matthew Thornton, postoffice letter carrier, won a dark-horse victory today in the campaign for "mayor of Beale street."

The Memphis World, negro newspaper that sponsored the campaign, said Thornton polled approximately 12,000 of the 23,000-odd votes cast. Second in the all-negro race was Eddie Hayes, undertaker, who polled about 9,000.

Thornton will get no pay from his office. His principal duties will be to greet distinguished guests and serve as official spokesman for "the street where the blues began."

PASTOR LOSES VOTE RECOUNT

Former Grand Rapids Mayor Is Nominee By 15 Votes

Grand Rapids, Oct. 15 (AP)—With only one vote taken Saturday from his lead in the recount of five Ottawa county precincts, former Mayor Tunis Johnson of Grand Rapids remained the Democratic nominee for the fifth district congressional seat.

State Rep. James W. Hallwood, Johnson's opponent, was defeated by a 15-vote margin after the last ballot was examined and tallied.

The Ottawa county board of canvassers had refused to recount the five precincts, four in Holland and one in Zeeland, on the grounds that the ballot boxes had been improperly sealed. A state supreme court order forced continuation of the recount in the five disputed units.

Hallwood also had fought to have the supreme court reinstate votes voided in the third precinct of Paris township, Kent county, but the petition was refused. He lost 14 votes by the voiding of the Paris precinct where poll list numbers were improperly placed on the backs of the ballots.

Story Of Atlantic Storm Is Told To Red Cross Groups

Marquette, Oct. 15.—Roll Call chairmen and members of county committees of the National Red Cross met in this city on Friday for the annual regional meeting which was held on the second floor of the library, E. L. Pearce, Marquette county chairman, presided.

The main talk of the morning was given by Walter Wessellus, assistant national director of disaster relief. Mr. Wessellus has just come from his work in the New England states where he was assistant to Robert A. Bondy who was in charge of the Red Cross activities in the storm devastated region.

The national Red Cross was all ready for the storm, Mr. Wessellus reported. Through the cooperation of the various weather bureaus the organization relief heads knew that a storm was apt to strike somewhere along the Atlantic coast but first reports located it in Florida and relief organization was already under way there and Mr. Bondy was on his way to the region.

Mr. Wessellus stated that it is rather queer that most of the cash collected for these national and regional disaster relief does not come from the wealth or well-to-do, nor do they come in during times of prosperity.

Houses can be rebuilt, the speaker stated, but there is one loss to the New England states which will never be repaired. That is the loss of the 200 year old trees, mostly elms. The towns and cities had to literally chop themselves out of the hundreds and thousands of wonderful trees which were swept down by the 100 mile an hour wind.

Very few hazards were found in the inspection of the business district, the chief said.

Let A Woman Speak

WOMEN of the nation, as never before, are being forced to a cognizance of the desperate situation faced by their country by the imposition of conditions which today are battering down the doors to our homes.

The women of America are being called from the nursery and the kitchen to the ballot box and the legislative halls, to protest against the present day unlimited powers of government over the private purses of the people.

Business influences of America have spent their forces uselessly and today stand check-mated by a power greater than their own; and the reserve powers of the home must be appealed to for aid. Today from the weekly earnings of every family in America, 30 cents of every dollar earned, is taken by the revenue agent to pay the cost of government expenditures and this tax of 30 per cent is levied upon the paychecks of the poor and the rich, alike.

The housewife, who must make the tax burdened family income, meet the cost of food, of clothing, lights, water and other necessities, is the one who today is shouldering this unprecedented burden placed upon her family by her government. It is proper then, that an average American housewife should be heard and if she could be permitted to speak this about what she might say: "I speak in behalf of the Womanhood of the nation, without regard to class, creed or section. I speak for the home—the nursery of human thought and character, where human beings are fashioned and finished and turned out into a big world, to add to its wealth or its woe. It is here we care for the young and the old and set aside proceeds of our toil for a rainy day.

"The home is the place to study government. To live beyond our means results in bankruptcy; to borrow beyond our capacity to pay is ruinous; to loan beyond our surplus is dangerous; to sit in idleness is self destruction; to quarrel among our neighbors destroys the moral and intellectual fibre of the home; and to give a dishonest day's work for an honest dollar, is to cheat.

"When I was a young girl going to school I was taught that a home was a castle; that even a king could not enter there without an invitation; I longed for such a home. I wanted a castle for my very own with a fire-side, a family and a purse beyond the reach of the vandalism of man. The thought that the Army and Navy would guard, protect and maintain these inalienable rights at all hazards, gave me a thrill. I loved a government that could do these great things for me.

"However, I have been disillusioned. The home, the castle of my dreams, has been turned into a customs house. Out of the weekly earnings of my family the revenue agent takes 30 cents of every dollar and if the government was making payments on the public debt, an even greater slice would be taken from the family income. Instead of my home being a place the King cannot enter, I can scarcely enter for the King. My home has become his counting house and I am told that the family purse belongs to the government.

"When the American housewife rings the dinner bell, 4,000,000 government employees and 11,000,000 unemployed are the first to sit at the table. Those of us who provide the loaves and the fishes and serve them, must sit at the second table. When the housewife sets the tables for five, she must add three plates for invisible guests. Our children do well to live upon the crumbs that fall from the table.

"It is no comfort to me to listen to the bedtime stories on the radio, telling that taxes come out of the pockets of the rich. When was there ever a time when taxes did not rest upon those who toll rich or poor? Taxes can only be found in a drop of sweat.

"I am told that the Declaration of Independence is outmoded and today has enlarged mass liberty and freedom until any person can sit at my table without my consent.

"I would propose a remedy: Add the word 'limited' to the United States of America. Limit the taxing, spending, borrowing, lending and giving powers of government. Limit its powers over the home, property and people. Give us a United States of America Limited! Under no other process can the custom house be taken out of the home and the castle restored."

Good Music Offered

SINCE 1934, the music department of the Escanaba high school and interested citizens have assumed the responsibility of bringing exceptionally fine music, as played by some of the world's outstanding artists, to this community.

series will consist of three well known numbers—the Vienna Choir Boys, Percy Grainger, pianist, and the Saldenberg Symphonietta, with the possibility of Michael Wilkomirski, Russian violinist, as an added attraction, if a sufficient number of pledges are secured.

The ticket sale for the series of concerts will begin on Monday. Music lovers quickly appreciate the rare bargain that is being offered in this year's series of concerts.

Parents also appreciate the value of the concerts in promoting an interest in good music among the children. Friday evening's concert by the Escanaba public school music groups was a convincing demonstration of the progress that is being made in musical education here.

Good music is no longer considered as a fad or a luxury. In these times when young and even adult minds are subjected to the strain of complex living conditions, the playing of music and also the mere listening provide welcome diversification that acts as a beneficial tonic.

Those who buy tickets for the concert series lend their support to a good music movement that is far-reaching in its benefits to the community and its people.

Coming Too Early

DESIGNATION of the second week in August as the time for the holding of the Upper Peninsula State Fair will make the annual exposition come quite early next year.

The trend to earlier dates is due to the normal operation of the calendar. Two years ago, designation of the second week in the month resulted in the holding of the exposition from Tuesday, Aug. 10, to Sunday, Aug. 15, inclusive. The 1938 fair was held Aug. 9 to 14, and now the 1939 event will be Aug. 8 to 13.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to shift the state fair to a later date? Although, there was a fair showing of agricultural produce this year, there was considerable complaint from farmers that insufficient time was being given for crops to mature for showing at the state fair.

The desire of the management to hold the state fair when favorable weather conditions prevail is the principal reason for deciding upon the second week of August. However, there has been plenty of fine weather since the 1938 fair closed its gates.

The Press realizes there is the problem of securing the greatest possible attendance in order to make the financial picture of the fair more favorable. But it does seem that the original purpose of the fair, which was to furnish an incentive to Upper Peninsula agriculture, is being sort of lost sight of.

No Money, No Glory

ADVENTUROUS young Americans who succumbed to the sugar-coated arguments of Communist party recruiters are now returning from Spain, where they fought for several months as members of the international brigade for the Loyalists cause.

Thirty-three American volunteers arrived in Paris Friday while enroute to their homes in the United States. They were among the first 500 foreigners to leave Spain under the Spanish government's plan to evacuate all non-Spaniards from its civil war zones.

GRIM FOOTNOTE (Cincinnati Enquirer) Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Saarbruecken speech on Sunday adds another grim footnote to the Munich four-power peace agreement. "We must always be ready for peace," he said, "but in every hour prepared for defense. I have, therefore, decided to continue to build up our fortifications with increased intensity."

World Affairs Reviewed

To factory-rich, natural resources-poor Germany, the Sudeten rim being pared from western Czechoslovakia offers considerable mineral wealth, some good farms and forests, and many industries.

Sudetenland (a term now expanded to include not only the Sudeten Mountain area in the northwest, but the entire German crescent outlining the State of Bohemia and Moravia) is much more than a scalloped border that stretches around Czechoslovakia's vital west, points out a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Ranging from a few kilometers across to a depth of roughly 50 miles, the regions to be surrendered cut, in some spots, close to the heart of the smaller republic.

"MAKINGS" FOR MANY PRODUCTS—Sudeten resources, varied and abundant, provided the makings for many of Czechoslovakia's former globe-trotting specialties and familiar products, including Pilsen beer, Skoda's munitions, and Bohemian glass that has long ranked among Europe's industrial art treasures.

Basic wealth of the region is in minerals: coal, source of industrial energy; iron for armament, and farm and factory machinery; kaolin for porcelain; silica for glass, and radium of a quality unsurpassed in any deposits now worked in the world.

There are also the products of the good earth: fields of hops for the famous breweries, flax to be converted to linen in local textile mills, beets for sugar, and wheat for flour.

Lumber to supply furniture factories, as well as paper and cellulose plants, is found in three vast regional stands — north, in the Sudeten Mountain district; south, in the Bohemian Forest; and west, in the Ore Mountains, bordering the German States of Silesia, Bavaria, and Saxony.

Even water and air and scenery are valuable in this Sudeten area, when sold—in normal times—to visitors at summer resorts and curative mineral baths, and on western mountain tours.

"RADIUM REVIVED JACHYMOV"—Most unusual of all Sudeten products is radium from the Ore Mountains at Jachymov, (St. Joachimsthal) a city to which modern science has given a second lease on life.

Jachymov was in danger of turning "ghost town" when lead and silver deposits played out. Content with mining a uranium ore used for dyes and offering invalids the use of health-coaxing mineral springs (whose curative action was only later understood), Jachymov became aware of its local treasure when Professor and Madame Curie discovered radium in the late 1890's.

Convenient raw materials have led such Sudeten industries as glass, leather, and pottery making, under different rulers, for centuries. The extensive factory set-up which modern Czechoslovakia inherited from the old Austro-Hungarian Monarchy was largely centered in the Sudeten region.

While Czechoslovakia still retains much industrial life, especially in her three first cities, Praha (Prague), the capital, Brno (Brunn), and Moravaka Ostrava, the transferred areas hold a number of the country's important factory and otherwise valuable centers.

TRADE DISLOCATION

Germany's "forced barter" trade tactics have left on Balkan country with ten years' supply of aspirin on its hands, and another with huge quantities of mouth organs. A simple exchange of pain and sedative might restore the equilibrium.

Q. Please give the history of Tecumseh at the Naval Academy. A. H. A. This monument, particularly cherished by the midshipmen, is the bronze replica of the original figurehead of the frigate Delaware, which was scuttled at the Norfolk Navy Yard during the Civil War. The figurehead, on being salvaged from the wreck after the war, was sent to the Naval Academy. In 1930 when the old wooden Indian, having been exposed to wind and weather for a century, had become a mere shell of its former self, the bronze replica was made and presented to the Academy by the Class of 1891.

The midshipmen call the figurehead "Tecumseh," though the real name of the chief of the Delaware was Tamanend. The custom has grown up among the midshipmen of saluting Tecumseh en route to recitations and examinations, to insure a passing mark of 25, and he is now generally referred to by them as "The God of 25." Another custom is to offer to great football games, their prayers and pennies in order to secure victory.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Peggy Fears (it's still Peggy Fears Blumenthal, in fact) is down to her last string of pearls—she says so herself. And she is going back to work. She is going back to work in a night club called El Rio which pretends to be the first of the Brazilian type. Peggy is going to sing out. After all, a girl has to do something when down to her last string of pearls. "I've been pawing and selling my jewelry to eat," she moaned "not 'logg ago," "but a string of pearls 'is hard to get rid of at the right price."

Now therein lies an up-and-down story that vies with the many see-saw stories along Broadway. Less than a score of years ago, Peggy was a chorine in the Ziegfeld shows, and if she was down to her last string of pearls then, it was only because that was the extent of her wardrobe.

Then along came Alfred Cleveland Blumenthal, who is used to being called "Blumey." He was a titan from the west and he saw Peggy in her diademed glory and he married her shortly thereafter.

Ain't Love Grand? Theirs was a matrimonial bond of colossal joy, a long and continuous round of celebrations. There were lavish and spendthrift parties in the elaborate domicile that "Blumey" set up for his comely bride in an entire floor at the Hotel Ambassador. Mayor Jimmy Walker was a frequent guest at these colorful soirees. And Peggy ran a Ziegfeldian pearl "costume" right up to a jewelry collection that was estimated to be worth $250,000, not to speak of luxurious furs, frocks, gowns, millinery.

The Blumenthals also invaded the artistic world with a vengeance. They produced a musical show called "Music in the Air," and it was a good one, too. Peggy was the pioneer spirit in this theatrical firm. She really gave it her personal, undivided attention.

Love Ain't Grand! Then the marital ship of state floundered somewhere in mid-channel crossing. Peggy quit; maybe "Blumey" quit—that point is quite unsettled. Nevertheless, Peggy really spurned her artistic dreams and hopes during these days of separation. She made her debut as a dramatic actress. The play was terrific. The investment was terrific. Maybe that's how some strings of pearls went.

Peggy was signed up in the movies. A celluloid career didn't last long, but to keep up with the glamor girls, Peggy surely had to sacrifice some strings of pearls for proper appearances. She sang in several night clubs. They were temporary diversions, and besides, these flings cost her more than they did the cafe proprietors, for she had to keep up appearances. A girl has to, to get along.

Meanwhile, there had been further misunderstanding between Peggy and her estranged, but obdurate spouse. A little difference of opinion, for example, about expenses. "Blumey" had become convinced gradually that a certain amount of some $40,000 which Peggy claimed as overdue indemnity was forfeit because of Peggy's conduct since the twin agreed to part.

Conduct? Peggy hurled the charge in "Blumey's" figurative teeth. But all the time with proper dignity. She speaks of "Mr. Blumenthal" when she discusses it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Although nothing has been said publicly, Administration and business leaders both have decided that the existing old-age pension system will have to be broadened next Congress if the mounting tide of "funny money" schemes is to be stopped.

Privately, New Dealers and business interests are much disturbed by the spread of these movements. Business men fear them as an economic menace, politicians as a danger both economic and political. Drastic revision of the present law is secretly planned on the theory that a stitch in time will save nine.

First step will be taken this Friday when the Advisory Council on Social Security, made up of employers, labor and public leaders, meets to act on a group of far-reaching amendments prepared by sub-committees.

These proposals, which definitely show the effect of pension-movement pressure, are as follows:

1. To increase benefit payments so that both man and wife receive annuities. That is, if the husband is entitled to $50 a month his wife will receive an additional $25 a month as long as she lives. While both are alive they would have a joint income of $75 monthly.

2. If the wife is entitled to a pension of her own, she would have the choice between hers and half of the husband's annuity, whichever gave her the larger income.

3. The widow of a pensioner, upon reaching the age of 65, would receive 75 per cent of the monthly benefit her husband would have paid had he lived.

4. Life pensions to those suffering total disability at the same rate they would have received had they contributed up to the age of 65.

5. Monthly benefit payments for the dependent children of annuity holders who die before 65.

—ADMINISTRATION PLAN—

To better the lot of oldsters not in the contributory system, new proposals are being drafted at the order of President Roosevelt by the Social Security Board, in collaboration with chairman Robert Doughton and Representative John Dingell of the House Ways and Means Committee.

To expedite legislative action, a special Ways and Means subcommittee will begin hearings early in December so that a bill will be ready when Congress convenes in January. The Administration's chief revisions are:

1. Increase the present federal contribution for the aged from $15 to $20 a month. This would permit the States to add a similar sum and boosting pensions to a maximum of $40 monthly.

2. Lower the age limit from 65 to 60 years, thus making eligible hundreds of thousands of needy who are excluded by the present law.

3. Increase the federal contribution for indigent children from one-third to one-half. This would equalize state and federal grants.

To aid the battle against "funny money," Doughton, in whose committee all pension legislation must originate, will shortly make a nation-wide radio speech denouncing the Townsend plan and $30-every-Thursday movement.

—MEDICAL MONOPOLY—

Justice Department prosecutors have some real surprises up their sleeves in the trial of the American Medical Association and the District of Columbia Medical Society for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The two medical organizations — which are affiliated — are charged with operating a monopoly and discriminating unfairly against members of the Group Health plan.

One sensational piece of evidence in the hands of the Justice Department is the case of a Washington woman whose husband was afflicted with appendicitis. When she took him to a hospital she found that none would admit him, merely because she had a contract with the Group Health Association.

After making the frantic rounds of every hospital in the District of Columbia, and with her husband's appendix about to burst, she finally was forced to pay $160 in cash in advance, and only after this was her husband admitted to a hospital.

German troops have just entered and occupied two nerve resorts. More coals to Newcastle.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

ENOUGH I have a house, in which the world of sin imagines it at night has shut me in, And so the world makes carnival about, And never knows that I have shut it out.

I have a friend, that kindly I recall, And men imagine I would have them all, And never know, with all their howdy-do, One friend is plenty, if the friend is true.

I have a purse, but little wealth it bears, And some imagine that I envy theirs, And never know that he is blest indeed Who has the little for his little need.

I have a heart, and have a tiny fire, And men imagine more I must desire, And never know it warms a little place, All any man requires in any case.

I have a mind, uncluttered by much lore, And some imagine theirs a larger store, And never know, when weary day is spent, That they have knowledge, I the heart content.

I have a house, a fire, a purse, a friend, And men imagine mine a sorry end, And never know, who long for other stuff, That I am richer, for I have enough.

REBELLION CUTS OFF PALESTINE

Murder, Sabotage and Arson Reign in Holy Land

Jerusalem, Oct. 15 (AP)—Palestine, at grips with an Arab rebellion, regained communication with the outside world today after 19 hours of isolation.

Telephone and telegraph facilities were broken between 7 p. m. (noon E. S. T.) last night and 2 p. m. (7 a. m. E. S. T.) today after bands rebelling against the authorities brought down virtually every wire in the country.

Repair squads worked throughout the day to replace poles, slash wires and broken insulators.

The third battalion of the Coldstream guards and the first battalion of Northumberland fusiliers arrived in Haifa from Egypt and reinforcements were dispatched immediately to centers of disorder.

There were murder, arson and sabotage in various parts of the country.

Mustafa Darwish, an Arab police inspector, was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant outside the Jaffa central police station.

Jerusalem itself was being patrolled by troops, armed with machine-guns, and "green police."

Police combed the old city for suspects after a bomb was thrown at the Damascus gate. The bomb failed to explode. Many persons were arrested.

The walls of the giant cactus are plectated like an accordion, which allows them to expand and accommodate any amount of water that is available.

$30 PENSION FOES UNITE

Conservatives Rallying Around GOP Nominees in California

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
San Francisco.—The sharp line between the outspoken conservatism of Philip Bancroft and the "30 Every Thursday" panacea of Sheridan Downey, so far out-dealing the New Deal that President Roosevelt himself condemned it, guarantees a ding-dong battle in the California elections Nov. 8.

Add to the complete personal contrast in the two men and their platforms the fact that Downey's "30 Pensions" will be on the same ballot, and you have the ingredients of a political fracas comparable to that in which Upton Sinclair was nosed out for the governorship in 1934.

There was no timidity about Bancroft's campaign. On platforms and before microphones, with audiences certainly comprising large numbers of union workers and people on relief and oldsters eager for promises of Utopian security, he lashed out at the Wagner Labor Relations Act, union radicalism, relief administration, the "legalized embezzlement" of Social Security funds, and pension schemes. WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins have been special targets.

His homely phrases and manners and old clothes never have let anybody forget that Phil Bancroft is a practical farmer.

Said Carlton D. Babcock, the campaign manager: "I just can't get him out of that old hat and those $20 suits and scuffed shoes. Down at San Diego, in front of a lot of clubwomen and important people he sat up there and smoked his pipe, and when he got up to speak he took off his coat. Said he couldn't make much of a speech anyway, but couldn't talk at all with his coat on."

"We went through the primary on a shoestring," Babcock went on. "We spent only about $15,000. But there'll be plenty of money to carry on the campaign now. All kinds of business, retail merchants, the powerful Farm Bureau Federation and chambers of commerce have condemned the 'ham-and-egg' plan and will give us some substantial help in fighting Olson (Democratic candidate for governor) and Downey, Conservative Democrats will support us too. We're in a good spot."

PARTY LINES TO BE BENT

This is Bancroft's first venture into politics. He is San Francisco born son of H. H. Bancroft, the famous American historian. He was graduated from Harvard College and the Harvard Law School, and practiced law in San Francisco. He helped break the Abe Ruef San Francisco machine, and was a follower of Hiram Johnson in the days when Johnson was looked at as a "maverick" in Republican ranks. He is 57 years old.

In the early '20s, Bancroft abandoned his law practice to operate a pear and walnut ranch at Walnut Creek, a business now managed by his son.

Strict party lines are likely to take a bad shredding before the campaign is over. Downey well realizes that he may lose many of the votes which went to his Democratic opponents in the primary, and which would go Republican

M.I.T. Scientists Find Substitute For Paper

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 15.—A new material has been created at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It looks like paper. But no fire burns it, no acid corrodes it. It is good for writing, printing, wrapping, or can be made transparent as glass. It is odorless, tasteless, promising a hundred practical uses.

The new stuff is nothing but a thin film of pure clay. No binder holds the particles together. Its making comes from discovery of a new law of nature.

The clay particles are all below the limit visible in an ordinary microscope. They attach, end to end, to form long threads. They do this automatically, something it had been supposed only living or organic substances could do.

Much Bentonite Available
This natural miracle first came to light in a small, glass jar, about the size of a man's thumb. The event happened in the laboratory of Dr. Ernst A. Hauser, associate professor of chemical engineering. His collaborator was Dr. D. S. Le Beau, a slim, young blond, blue-eyed woman chemist, working as a guest of the institute.

For months they had been investigating the particles which form bentonite clay. Bentonite is a peculiar substance. It can be bought for a cent a pound, is the largest item in foundry moulding, and also an ingredient in tooth paste, face powders and beauty masks.

Bentonite also does something else, that looks like magic. Mixed with water it forms a viscous liquid. The liquid solidifies when standing. But give it one shake, and the mud turns liquid again. The oil fields use this mixture to make "drilling muds."

An important reason for studying bentonite was the fact that it is an abundant American raw material. Wyoming, South Dakota, California, Florida and Oklahoma are among the producing states.

To anyone looking through Dr. Hauser's ultra microscope, the fine clay particles would have appeared to be alive. Placed in drops of liquid, they darted about unceasingly. Their movement was identified as Brownian motion.

New Motion Seen
This motion is commonly seen in smoke and liquid suspensions of very fine particles. The cause is molecules spending their inherent energies by bumping against the suspended solid particles.

Dr. Hauser also discovered another motion in the clay particles, which is new. Now and then one would speed through the other con, the chemical elements forming mica.

Electrical tests indicate it may be an ideal wrapping for cables and wires. It is also a good wrapper for oil, butter and food, because it is tasteless. As a lining it is suggested for the interior of beer cans, and for any utensil containing corrosive chemicals.

The films promise to be useful for making permanent written or printed documents. They can be made of any thickness, a fact which permits them to be molded while moist.

Practical applications depend on facilities for extracting the finest particles from commercial bentonite. This is done readily with one of the new machines of science, the super-centrifuge, a rapidly revolving container. Commercial clay wet to a jelly, is whirled at thousands of revolutions a minute. This separates the particles of different weights.

The film has been patented and the rights assigned to the research corporation, of New York City, a non-profit scientific organization.

Niemi Appointed
Marquette.—G. A. Grenholm, Iron Mountain, district WPA recreation director, yesterday announced the appointment of Evin Niemi, of Ishpeming, as Marquette county recreation supervisor to succeed Eino Michelson, of Marquette, who left to take a teaching position in the Baraga schools.

Grenholm asserted that the Marquette county recreation program is being reorganized. In Neegaunee, Clarence Goldsworthy has been appointed to take charge of intramural athletics in the Neegaunee high school, this work being sponsored by the board of education.

Supervised recreation at the Neegaunee playground, Grenholm said, probably will be extended to include all phases of winter sports.

WINTER BUILDING NOT CONSIDERED UNSAFE PRACTICE

Proper Safeguards Permit Cold Weather Construction

A number of building "bogies" have been put to rest permanently by advances in construction methods and introduction of new materials developed in recent years. Among them is the idea that it is unwise to build in the late Autumn or Winter.

Records of the Federal Housing Administration's activities show that many new residences were started during the Fall and Winter.

Actually the reasons that Autumn building has been unpopular in the past were that dwellings built for sale or rent came on the market at a time when all renters were under lease and when prospective purchasers had to be shown properties under adverse weather conditions.

There is some advantage in starting construction in the Fall or in early Winter. Contractors are usually looking for work that will enable them to keep their organizations intact during the dull period; the trades are anxious to keep busy. Material dealers are eager for orders to keep their shops busy and to pay overhead on their establishments and organizations. These groups are usually willing to make some concessions in order to get business. Concessions are frequently more than enough to offset the extra precautions that must be taken while building during cold weather.

Freezing Weather

If concrete and masonry work can be completed before freezing weather sets in, so much the better, but even freezing weather does not mean concrete and masonry work must be suspended or that it cannot be done satisfactorily.

Reasonable care must be taken to keep sand and crushed stone warm before mixing and to protect finished work by adequate covering or, in extreme cases, by steamers or charcoal stoves. Ordinarily, it is best not to push such work on days when the temperature is below freezing.

When the masonry work is completed the balance of construction can be carried on readily. Plastering must be watched and lumber protected from snow and rain, but otherwise construction may progress without inconvenience.

Improved Bath Room

The bathroom shown in the "Before and After" views was subjected to complete modernization.

The upper picture is an example of an average bathroom of 10 years ago. No attempt was made to beautify the room and the fixtures while adequate were clumsy in appearance and occupied more space than necessary.

In the "After" picture the room is shown with black accessory fixtures, neat side lights, black and white contrasting tiling, decorative mirror, and an additional facility, a built-in shower. All old fixtures have been replaced by modern stream-lined plumbing.

Funds for carrying out modernization projects such as this may be obtained from private financial institutions qualified by the Federal Housing Administration under its Property Improvement Credit Plan.

SIMPLE PLANS FOR NEW BATH

Extra Unused Space Converted at Small Cost

When that extra guest comes, or the young son or daughter grows up, it seems almost imperative that the average family arrange for a second bath or at least an extra toilet and lavatory.

How to fit them into an already crowded house plans is a problem. So let's see what we can scheme out for converting some of our extra space into one of these much-needed conveniences.

Take plan A shown here. This is a simple method of installing a toilet and lavatory under the main staircase. This washroom will only require the length of four feet six inches. The width of the stairs will be ample.

It will be a most convenient arrangement and will be welcomed by all the family, especially the mother who need to be scrubbed several times a day. Countless steps and stairs will be saved, and the under-stairs washroom will prove its worth over and over again.

Plan B is really a tiny but complete bathroom. It can be squeezed into a space five feet by five feet six inches and many an old closet might be sacrificed and turned into this welcome little but comfy bath.

Plan C. Here is an idea. Let's divide the large storage closet, still keeping one-half of the space for duty as before, but convert the other half into an auxiliary wash room and toilet. Thus the main bathroom will be augmented by additional fixtures and the morning rush divided.

Plan D is still another scheme whereby we take away from an ample bedroom a space three feet wide, part of which is converted into an excellent wardrobe; the balance into a convenient wash-room.

But by all means consult your plumber before you start to tear down walls. He may have a better suggestion.

GLASS ADDS TO CHEER OF HOME

Plenty of glass inside the home as well as in the windows creates a charming and cheerful atmosphere that makes your home a more pleasant place in which to live.

Some of the locations where glass can be used to advantage is in a glass enclosed sun parlor, full length mirrors in closet and bedroom doors, book cases with glass doors, and new windows in the basement, which brighten the rooms by allowing the entrance of more sunshine.

The barred wire fence first was patented in 1874.

alterations and installations may be obtained by responsible persons from private financial institutions qualified to make such loans.

Wall Bookcase Adds Beauty In Home

People rarely think of the bookcase as a wall decoration; they regard bookcases only as furniture and a place in which to store books.

But a bookcase that is built into the wall and made a part of the decorative scheme of that wall provides one of the most beautiful of decorative treatments.

The bookcase, when filled with books, takes on the aspect of a tapestry, for the many colored backs of books, when massed close together and standing flush with the wall, bring color, warmth and vividness into the room.

Bookcases should always be made a subordinate part of the wall decoration and never the main motif. They may be built on either side of a fireplace, a window or a doorway.

In the older houses which are to be remodeled or modernized and where there are awkward spaces and corners, rows of shelves built in will add to the informal and altogether home-like atmosphere.

GLASS BRICKS NOW AVAILABLE

Builders Show New Interest In Novel Material

Those engaged in the building industry are greatly interested in the new glass brick and the possibilities for its use as a wall material.

The bricks are available either in a solid or hollow form. The hollow brick contains approximately 65 per cent vacuum that will have considerable insulating value.

A glass brick wall is translucent yet will not be clear enough to allow vision through the wall.

There will be found many places where the glass brick wall will be desirable, for instance where there is a court on to which rooms open and because of the limited light in the court little light penetrates through the windows.

With a glass brick wall more light will enter the room if one wall is built of the glass brick. Windows may be built into the wall as is ordinarily done.

TREES DESERVE BEST OF CARE

Cavities Should be Given Immediate Attention

Trees are without doubt one of the most valuable parts of a garden. In July and August is an excellent time to check up on the trees and see if they need attention. Look out for cavities and rotting places. If they exist, have a tree surgeon get on the job, dig out the rotted wood and then have the cavity properly filled. If you allow it to go much longer, the rot will eventually extend to the whole tree and a valuable accent in your garden or on your property will be lost.

Also look out for slow growth under-sized, sparse foliage and dead branches. If you find such, have it investigated; it may be starvation, thirst or smothering of the roots.

If financial necessity forces one to do some doctoring for himself, remember when cutting broken or dead branches to cut flush with the trunk or the larger limb so that the natural healing process of the tree will cover the wound gradually with new growth.

All new wounds made in a tree should be disinfected and painted. Otherwise growths will get in the wound and disease follow.

Combination Doors

On porches, where a storm enclosure is put up in the winter, it is desirable to have a door that may be used as a screen door in summer and be glazed in winter.

Doors come with this interchangeable feature, known as a combination door. There is quite a large expanse of glass and screen in such doors. They are easily changed from glass to screen and vice versa, and prove a real convenience.

Suggestions Offered By FHA for Painting

The Federal Housing Administration, in a bulletin that deals with suggestions for the planning of small houses, makes the following recommendations for painting:

Exterior trim should be back-painted before erection.

Exterior of house proper should be given three coats of oil paint or, when especially prepared, two-coat paint, following the manufacturer's instructions in either case. Painted masonry should receive two coats, preferably of a cement-base paint.

Interior woodwork should have at least three coats (either three coats of flat paint or two coats of flat and one of enamel).

A high-gloss enamel is suggested for kitchen, bath, and other service parts of a house, as it is easier to keep clean and wears well.

CORNERS GRACED BY CUPBOARDS

New Trend Reflects Styles of 100 Years Ago

Corner cupboards are found in many old New England homes. They were used in the dining rooms in those early days and are just as adaptable in today's homes as they were in those of 100 years ago.

The two cupboards shown here are of the New England colonial type. The mouldings were very simple and sometimes there was a cupboard below covered with a hinged door and often a drawer was built in just below the bottom shelf.

Note the difference in the outlines of the openings of the two cupboards. Many fanciful curves were used and the two examples shown are but two of many. The shelves in the old days were filled with lusters, glass ware, pewter, brasses and colored

BEAU BRUMMEL OF DUCK LAND

Wood Duck Distinguished by Coloring and His Head Motions

BY CAL JOHNSON Can you distinguish a wood duck from other species of the duck family? If not, it might be well to become better acquainted with this beautiful species of water-fowl before hunting season opens as the migratory bird laws do not permit shooting this rare species at any time.

There are four characteristics the wood duck possesses which no other duck boasts, and after a hunter once learns how to recognize a wood duck these different characteristics are so pronounced that they will never be forgotten. The four are the method of flight, coloring, their foolhardiness and the whistle they make when they get off the water.

Are Very Tame Wood ducks in flying have their heads continually in motion, weaving constantly from side to side, as if peering for something in the marsh below them. No other bird common to the hunters of the middlewest has this characteristic.

Wood ducks are very tame, almost to the point of foolhardiness. They will not rise off the water as quickly as other types of ducks, and in flying they are likely to fly much closer to a hunter than any other species of waterfowl.

The wood duck is brilliantly colored, with a white underpart of the body which can easily be distinguished while the duck is in flight. Their highly-colored crest, topknot, and cheeks are so easily recognized while wood ducks are in flight but can be seen better when the birds are resting on the water or on land.

Wood ducks make a very peculiar noise when they rise from the water, a sound which is unlike that made by any other duck. This sound, while not very loud, carried distinctly over water and marshland and can easily be noted by the wide-awake hunter.

These four differences set the wood duck aside from other birds upon which legislation declares a season. Wood ducks are protected by state as well as federal laws and by the migratory bird treaty act between the United States and Canada. This stringent protection was placed upon them because they had been nearly exterminated, and because of their great individual beauty. Many believe the wood duck to be the most beautiful of all American ducks, if not of all birds in this country. The male is particularly festive in his rich apparel with its flowing crest. The wood duck is truly the Beau Brummel of duckland. He is a native of this country alone.

133,184 Acres Are Added To Wildlife Refuges In Nation

The Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, consisting of the Secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce, and Interior, Senator Pittman and Representative McReynolds, has approved the acquisition by the U. S. Biological Survey of 133,184.66 acres of land in 24 migratory bird and upland game refuges.

These refuges are located in New York, Texas, Virginia, Delaware, Utah, North Dakota, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Wyoming, Florida, Missouri, Washington, Minnesota, Iowa, Mississippi, Georgia, and New Mexico.

Most of the lands were approved for acquisition to consolidate areas previously approved and bring about the complete ownership of lands useful for refuge purposes. More than 46,000 acres in one Texas project also were approved for acquisition. This land will be administered as a complete unit. It is a favorite concentration place for migratory waterfowl, and also will provide a valuable sanctuary for upland game.

Most State Parks Closed For Year

The season for most of the Michigan state parks came to an official close on Saturday, although several of the parks are open throughout the winter. Those which remain open to the extent that they are available to the public without all of the special accommodations and services maintained during the summer are those at which resident superintendents are located permanently. Last of the "summer" parks to close are those most popular with hayfever sufferers.

Although total attendance at the parks this summer was not quite as large as during 1937 when nine million persons visited them, a new record was established in the number of camping permits issued. The total was over 50,000 compared to a previous high mark, last year, of 49,743.

Page Paul Bunyan! Section 37 Found, But It Has Shrunk

Lansing—Maybe Paul Bunyan was telling the truth.

For years it has been known that there was no township "Section 37" because Paul forgot to bring it back after hitching it to the Blue Ox and hauling it to the river where he could log the timber off more conveniently. So, in years since, when reference was made to Paul Bunyan's "Section 37" it was placed in the same class as conversation about the Swiss navy there being none of either.

Under the system of surveys adopted by the general land office in Michigan no township was given more than 36 sections, each section being in theory one square mile. The fact is that no township has exactly 36 square miles, but neither was it known that any one had 37 sections.

Now discovery has been made of "Section 37" and it may be the only section 37 in the United States.

Michigan's Section 37 is located in Monroe county and embraces 13.77 acres in township 7 south, range 9 east. D. B. Reynolds of the lands division of the department of conservation who has corroborated the discovery in old survey records believes this section can be traced back to the existence of an area lying among old French private claims which was not surveyed at the time the township was subdivided. Probably when application was made for a patent from the United States, there was no way to legally describe the land so the survey general arbitrarily designated it as Section 37.

Among the old records on file at the department of conservation is the original survey of this area made in 1815. A later one—1849—also is on file, made by William Ives. This one outlines various private claims in the township, none of which includes the 13.77 acres mapped as Section 37, indicating that this particular tract was government owned.

Camping Sites Are Provided In Lake Superior Forest

Newberry—Explorers of Lake Superior state forest this fall will find an increased number of camping sites available for their use.

The sites are equipped with stoves, picnic tables, wells and sanitary facilities. Permanent water supply has been assured by the construction of a number of concrete well pits. All of the work has been done by CCC enrollees from Camp Lake Superior.

Locations where camping sites can now be found are Muskegon lake, Highbridge on the Two-Hearted river, Cuhlane lake, Pike lake, Reed-Green bridge on the Two-Hearted river and Bodi lake.

HUNTERS TAKE CARE!

By Buell Patterson Annual Toll Appalling

With all the pleasure that comes to the nearly 7,000,000 persons who obtain licenses to hunt with firearms each year, there also comes an astonishing amount of tragedy. Sets Deer Snares, Gets Long Sentence In County's Jail

Ironwood—An early morning vigil by two conservation officers along a deer runway where they had discovered two snares and a dead doe in one resulted in the arrest of Walno Matson, 28, of Crystal Falls.

The snares, about 500 feet apart, were discovered in the vicinity of Holmes Creek. At the time of discovery the officers found in one snare a two year old doe that had evidently been dead about two days.

Two officers stayed near the snares until after dark watching for the setters of the trap, but no one appeared. The officers returned at about daylight the next morning to form a reception committee. After a considerable wait a man was seen approaching cautiously through the woods. As the officers began to close in on them he turned and fled, but was overtaken after a chase.

Taken before Justice Trombly, Matson pleaded guilty. The records showed that this was his third violation of the game laws so he was given the maximum penalty—$100 fine, $7.50 in costs, or 90 days in the county jail. The prisoner chose the jail sentence.

Minnows Of Desert Have What It Takes

La Jolla, Calif. (AP)—Experiments at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography have established the unusual hardiness of "desert minnows," small fish that are found in various desert lakes.

These fish can survive the highly alkaline waters of California's Salton Sea, fresh water and ordinary salt water of the ocean. They also live through temperature changes ranging from near freezing to that of hot springs.

DON'T BE A GAME HOG

Don't insist on shooting a limit for the party. Some of the party may need the practice of shooting "at" game.

FLIES MILE A MINUTE

The top speed of a Canada goose is estimated to be about a mile a minute.

Percentage of the hunters are ignorant as to the proper handling of guns or they are criminally careless.

Government statistics indicate that over 3,000 persons are killed annually as the result of fatal wounds received from firearm accidents. Of this number about 1,000 are snuffed out by hunting accidents which happen in the field. The other two-thirds are killed during target practice, while guns are being cleaned, in the hands of children or in some other way where carelessness is the cause. It will be clear from these figures that hunters who are supposed to understand guns are responsible for accidental shooting deaths in one out of three cases, and hunters are supposed to understand how a gun should be used.

How Fatalities Occur

One of the large insurance companies has made an analysis of 133 deaths due to typical shooting accidents while hunting. The company found that the disasters fall into three major classes. In the first class were those deaths caused by wounds which were accidentally self-inflicted by the hunters themselves. The second class were those deaths which were the result of accidental shooting by a hunting companion. The third and final major class were the deaths caused by accidental shooting by hunters in some other hunting party.

To quote from the report: "Deaths resulting from self-inflicted wounds were the most frequent, accounting for a total of 60, or 45 percent of the fatalities. Sixteen of these deaths resulted when hunters slipped, stumbled, or fell, and their guns accidentally discharged on hitting the ground or other objects. Risky and unsteady footing while climbing banks, slipping on frozen ground, failure to keep the gun locked in the "safe" position, and carrying the gun in dangerous positions, were some of the contributing factors in these accidents. Climbing over or through a fence while carrying a loaded gun, or pulling a loaded gun, muzzle first, through a fence, caused 13 deaths. Ten were killed as they lifted loaded guns from automobiles, canoes, or other vehicles of transportation. Four deaths took place when guns carelessly carried became entangled in thick brush and discharged. Other deaths from self-inflicted wounds resulted when hunters dragged loaded guns up trees, dropped guns on the ground, or when guns with faulty mechanisms discharged."

Responsibility for Deaths. Of the 133 cases examined 39 were caused by the accidental discharge of a companion's gun and 48 were the result of accidental shooting by a companion hunter. Five hunters were killed when they stepped in the line of fire of other hunters. The last three causes together with all the other causes are avoidable if hunters exercise care and do not become excited or hurried. Laws can be passed and publicity given the tragedies, but until the hunting fraternity uses more care in handling guns we will continue to have the sad reports each hunting season. A tightening up all along the line is necessary and those states which have passed laws revoking licenses where hunters are careless and making manslaughter charges mandatory are going in the right direction.

JACKSNIPES ARE POPULAR GAME

Characteristic Zigzagging Flight Presents Fair Gunner's Problem

BY OZARK RIPLEY

Doubtedly the reason Jacksnipe hunting so intrigues the average sportsman from the famed marshes of Lake St. Peter and the Ottawa River region east of Pointe Fortune, in Quebec, down to the Delta of the Mississippi, and along the Gulf coast, is the eternal unexpected.

Jacksnipe usually come with the cold fall rains, but often when these conditions have prevailed for some time not a bird has appeared. Then just to make things all the more enjoyable, when the very day is here, when you are almost sure there is not a single bird to be found, and still you cannot keep away from the old black land, dank meadow... at your first stop along its edge you are greeted with the welcome "Skeep! Skeep! At that exact instant you see the long billed, fast flying bird zigzagging into flight, gradually rising higher and higher with each wing beat from the earth. You have flushed your first snipe of the season.

Found Near Water

When snipe arrive from a long distance, usually they are in poor flesh and nervous chaps, still they possess remarkable speed of flight after they once get started. A few days on the right marsh and they grow fat quickly. We associate the visits of snipe correctly with old, rich meadow lands of black soil, pastures and corn fields. Locality has a lot to do with where they frequent. In New Brunswick I was surprised to find an enormous number of jacksnipe at the edge of an old pond far back in timber away from settlements.

One time in the arid area of Oklahoma I was also surprised to come upon a great number of the birds in a little spring draw in a region where the residents told me they had never seen a single one of the longbills.

One of my favorite places for shooting jacksnipe in the Ottawa region in Quebec would not be chosen by the expert snipe hunter. I discovered it by accident. It is in a growth of flags between the river and exceedingly heavy timber. Where the snipe feeds is over five yards wide between the water and the trees. But here and there are numerous little patches of black soil not over a foot square. The birds seek their favorite food, earthworms, in these patches and never even bore nearby in the sandy soil. These places along the river are literally alive with jacksnipe especially on windy days. Usually they are on one side of the river. If the wind changes they will be found on the opposite side of the river.

Always Welcome Some places very similar to the foregoing occur in the pond region on the old plantations of south Georgia. Snipe there confine themselves to as narrow a bit of feeding ground between timber and ponds, or the background of high weeds, sedge and briars as they do when in certain parts of their northern sojourning grounds.

No matter where snipe are found locally they are welcomed by sportsmen. They sure add to enjoyment of his fall hunting days. When they are exceedingly plentiful a bird dog is not required, in fact they are just a nuisance, unless they are used only for hunting dead. Then they are very serviceable as a dead snipe is mighty hard to find with the naked eye. If the hunter knocks one down in weeds, flags or cattails, the service of a well trained cocker spaniel comes in mighty handy.

Many sportsmen never become experts at snipe shooting, though they are not hard to hit if one studies for a moment their flight. What puzzles us in notice is their zigzag darting from the ground and their gradual rise in flight. This darting does not last for any great distance. Very shortly they straighten out in their progress away from the hunter, but all the time getting higher from the ground. Hold a few inches above the birds and they are not difficult to kill. Side shots are very easy, however fast the birds are traveling. If conditions are favorable for hunting with the wind at your back obviously you will have many side shots, because snipe invariably get up against the wind.

4-H Club Carries On In Game Work

Lansing—One of the outstanding accomplishments of 4-H club work in conservation brought to the attention of the state conservation department has just been reported for the 4-H club of Calhoun county.

The club lost its leader recently but that did not stop activities. Instead, the members on their own initiative, aligned with the Williamson club hunting exchange plan and in a short time had engineered agreements with farmers owning approximately 4,000 acres of land.

Shark-Fishing Now Popular Off Coast

San Francisco (AP)—The despised shark has come into his own as a commercial fish as the result of discovery that shark liver oil is valuable for its vitamin A, particularly to poultry.

Thirty-five boats have been licensed to fish for sharks with lines in San Francisco bay, and some sardine fishermen on the coast have turned to the shark business.

DOG BUYS OWN FOOD

Amarillo, Tex. (AP)—If Jiggs, bulldog, gets indigestion his mistress, Mrs. W. B. Francis, says it will be his own fault. Jiggs does his own buying each morning at a grocery, where he goes and selects a can of dog food, charges it to Mrs. Francis, and carries it home for consumption. Recently he has been making a second trip to the grocery in the afternoon, for an extra meal.

HUNT FOSSILS IN EARNEST

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP)—Wyoming has started a $100,000 state-wide WPA fossil hunting job that will employ upwards of 150 men.

When men came to California Indians were using clamshells and dentalium shells for money.

Do You Want Buffalo or Elk? Government Giving Some Away

The National Park Service is offering surplus buffalo and elk to individuals, wildlife refuges, Indian reservations, zoos, and others able to give proper assurance of their ability to care for these animals and keep them under fence.

The National Park Service, United States Department of the Interior, must get rid of some of these animals in two of its national parks—but they must be taken alive.

In Wind Cave National Park, S. Dak., there are 300 bison and 150 elk grazing all year on what essentially is a summer range. The buffalo herd cannot roam at will to find winter grazing, and it must be reduced by 124 head. One hundred elk also will have to go, because there is not enough natural forage to go around.

Yellowstone National Park has 900 buffalo, and because of range conditions there it is hoped to remove up to 80 head this year.

The simple fact is that the National Park Service, in saving the buffalo from extinction, has found that sometimes the herds increase in size too fast for the facilities available for their maintenance. For the American bison, of which millions once roamed the open ranges of the West and which had been slaughtered almost to the point of extinction a few decades ago, is a hardy breed, notoriously prolific in its family life.

The same is true of the elk. And at Wind Cave there are no facilities for adequate care and feeding under fence.

Shipping Charge These buffalo and elk will be given away, but the recipient must pay the cost of live trapping, crating, and shipping. Those desiring to take advantage of the Government's offer, or desiring further information, should communicate with the superintendents of Wind Cave National Park, Hot Springs, S. Dak., and Yellowstone National Park, Yellowstone Park, Wyo.

Preference will be given by the National Park Service to requests from those desiring to restock existing herds and to public institutions such as zoos and Indian reservations. Ranchers able to guarantee a properly fenced range also will be accommodated.

Chicagoan Praises Game Warden For Life-Saving Effort

Lansing—C. E. Delene of Covington in the upper peninsula has had a somewhat unusual experience for a conservation officer. Officers, in the performance of their duties, are sometimes compelled to take action which does not always increase their popularity. In this instance, however, conservation officer Delene was in a position to perform a service which has brought warm words of appreciation from D. W. Peck of Chicago who has written the conservation department here stating:

"While fishing this summer near Covington, Michigan, I became lost in the woods. Through the efforts of your game warden, Mr. C. E. Delene, I was found, and perhaps my life saved. After the other searchers had given up, Mr. Delene continued searching in the rain until late at night.

"He went beyond his line of duty, and I want to commend you on having a man of his caliber on your staff."

Officers frequently are called upon to aid in search for lost hunters, fishermen and tourists, and to render help in accidents. During the deer season the Department maintains a special radio service for the use of hunters in times of emergency. Last season scores of messages were transmitted from hunters to their families back home, or vice versa.

Last season officers also aided in the rescue of several lost hunters.

Waterfowl Put On Show For Visitors To Bird Sanctuary

Battle Creek—Waterfowl are again putting on their biggest display of the year for visitors to the W. K. Kellogg bird sanctuary located on Wintergreen lake north-west of here.

The heaviest attendance of both human and bird visitors to the sanctuary is always recorded during the fall months. Recently, Dr. Miles D. Pirnie, director of the sanctuary, counted 85 automobiles at one time in the parking lot on the edge of the grounds, while out on the lake thousands of ducks and geese were soaring about.

Prairie Dogs Swipe Cattle Food, Are Poisoned In "War"

Greeley, Colo. (AP)—There were 3,000,000 killed in a Weld county war recently—3,000,000 prairie dogs.

Government workers scattered poison over 200,000 acres to exterminate the rodents. Officials said it was one of the largest poisoning projects ever conducted in the United States. The "dogs" were poisoned because they live on grass needed for livestock.

Better Cooperation Was Factor In Fine Season Fire Record

As the 1938 forest fire season draws to a close a review of the United States Forest Service activities on fire prevention and suppression is being made on the Rapid River District of the Hiawatha National Forest.

Favorable weather conditions throughout the past spring and summer months have contributed greatly to the successful prevention of fires on the district, but the excellent cooperation received from all forest users has played an important part, also. The rapid suppression of all fires occurring has been made possible by the increase in the efficiency of the United States Forest Service fire detection system and the rapid and efficient action of the CCC enrollee fire fighters under the supervision of Forest Service employees.

Cooperation on the part of local residents has contributed to this phase, as well. No Hunter Fires Carelessness on the part of forest users still remains the outstanding cause of fire in the woods and the smoker leads the list of thoughtless violators, having caused approximately 33 percent of the sixty fires which have burned on the district since it was established in 1935. The present season has been marred by the occurrence of only nine fires which have destroyed a total of three acres. The reduction in the number of fires and the number of acres wasted by fire is of special interest to all sportsmen and all recreation enthusiasts who realize that the preservation of our Forest land and its dependent wildlife is one of the most important objectives of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The degree of interest displayed by all forest residents as shown by their willingness to cooperate in the obtaining of burning permits and the cooperation received from the lumbering companies and railroad operators in fire prevention activities has been especially gratifying and helpful in the program to eliminate fire losses.

The cooperation of sportsmen has been made evident by the fact that although the bird hunting season had a number of hazardous days no fires were started by hunters on the Rapid River District.

Continued interest by all forest users in the prevention and suppression of forest fires will aid greatly in eliminating the loss on our forests due to careless burning of one of our greatest natural resources.

Sharp-tails Now Are Spreading Eastward Through Peninsula

A small flock of sharp-tail grouse was recently seen by F. M. Baumgartner of the game division of the department of conservation, near Doe Lake south of Munising in Alger county.

This, plus confirmation of reports from the Seney Marsh in Schoolcraft county, suggests the sharp-tails are spreading eastward in the upper peninsula.

The wild-trapped birds which were released near Trout Lake in Chippewa county and in the Pigeon river state forest below the straits last winter have not been reported since the early part of the summer. But game investigators of the conservation department hope they will show up again this fall and serve as a nucleus for the establishment of this game bird in all parts of the state where food and cover are suitable.

Hoffmaster Frowns On Plan For Dams In Trout Streams

Lansing (AP)—Conservation Director P. J. Hoffmaster has opposed a suggestion of Dr. William Hale, of Midland, member of the state planning commission, that the state encourage a far flung program of dam construction in trout streams.

Hoffmaster said his experience has been that dams were dangerous to fish life. Dr. Hale asserted long range weather forecasts indicated Michigan would have a drought in 1945 which, unless steps are taken to raise the water table, would cause more damage to fish life than the dams.

He asserted he could arrange for the construction of 1,000 dams with private financing, provided the conservation department would grant flowage rights.

FAST FOR SNAILS

Simla (AP)—Snails can fast for four months. This was discovered by the Zoological Survey of India, which has been studying the habits of the marine snail in a small area near Port Blair.

Pineapple is the heaviest selling canned fruit in the United States.

FIRE HAZARDS STILL FEARED

Hunters and Other Users of Forests Asked To Be Careful

The continued dry summer weather is causing forest fire hazards to assume dangerous proportions, and hunters and other forest users are again cautioned to be extremely careful with fire in the woods, according to Supervisor Paul A. Wohlen, of the Upper Michigan National Forest.

"Although we have had a very favorable year so far, and although public cooperation has kept the number of fires to a very low figure, we are now passing into a dangerous period, and it is necessary that the greatest care be exercised by all who use the forests if we are to maintain our good record," says Mr. Wohlen.

The grass plains areas and marshes, as well as some of the more heavily wooded areas are becoming extremely dry, and under the right conditions of low humidity and high winds, it is possible for fires to cover large areas in a very short time.

The closest cooperation of all those whose activities take them out-of-doors is solicited in order that the good fire record of this year may be continued and the losses which inevitably result from fires may be prevented.

Nearing Agreement

Iron River. — Progress was made yesterday between representatives of the Von Platen Fox company and the Timber Workers' union, CIO affiliate, regarding the opening of two company camps in the Golden lake district, but it is not known whether the company will resume operations on October 24 as previously planned.

After negotiating all day the union and company issued the following joint statement:

"Pending the resumption of woods operations the negotiations between the von Platen Fox company and Local No. 15 I. W. A. (International Woodworkers of America) are temporarily recessed."

Generator Voltage Regulator Is New Invention Of J. F. Card Of Gladstone

JOHN F. CARD

A generator voltage regulator, which, if it lives up to predictions, will revolutionize the field of this electrical appliance, has been invented and patented by John F. Card, widely known electrical designer and engineer of Gladstone. A working model of the regulator has been demonstrated to a large number of electrical men recently and many of the men are enthusiastic over the possibilities of the machine.

Ten principal claims for the regulator are:

- 1—Regulates generator voltage
- 2—Regulates engine speed
- 3—Indicates normal voltage
- 4—Indicates load on generator
- 5—Protects unit against overloads
- 6—Provides low voltage stop
- 7—Handles current from 1/2 to 20 amperes
- 8—Provides time delayed protection against short circuits
- 9—Protects unit against over-speeding
- 10—When unit is shutdown from any cause it cannot be restarted until resistance and carburetor opening are returned to normal position.

Without exception regulators on the market in the past have acted merely to regulate current and as voltmeters while the Card regulator has many additional advantages as may be noted above.

Another advantage of the new machine is that the voltage does not fluctuate over one per cent or one half of one per cent—either side of the normal setting. In most present day regulators the variance is from 2 to 5 per cent either side of normal.

Plans call for mounting the regulator, a compact unit, on the generator so that the engine control can be used. However, it is also possible to mount the regulator unit regardless of size or output on the engine driving the generator.

As the regulator works through the current in the field exciter and has nothing to do with the load it will handle as high as 20 amperes and the same regulator will handle any generator unit regardless of six or output.

The generator set to which Mr. Card's working model is attached, has an output of 6 amperes whereas many of the regulators on the market today do not handle above 3 amperes, it is pointed out.

The unit can be attached to motor generator sets without much additional cost, if any, over the previous methods because of the fact that through its functions it would eliminate the necessity of an instrument panel and about $75 in instruments.

The regulator, it is declared, can be used with any type engine-generator set. These units are used in manufacturing plants, resorts, power plants, in oil fields, as standby units in hospitals and airports and in many other fields. The patent procured required four sheets of drawings with 10 figures and 70 typed pages, 46 for description and 25 for claims.

Twenty-nine claims were allowed for the machine in procuring the patent. Ordinarily the general run of patents have but two or three claims.

Nearly Hundred At Delinquency Prevention Meet

Nearly one hundred persons attended the Northern Michigan Delinquency Prevention Conference held at the Gravelot high school in Marquette on Friday, B. W. Phillips, Boy Scout executive, went to the meeting as a delegate of the Escanaba Kiwanis club.

Among principal speakers at the conference were Dr. Paul H. Jordan, of Ann Arbor, psychiatrist of the Michigan Child Guidance Institute; Dr. Lowell Carr, secretary of the Delinquency Prevention Council and director of the Child Guidance Institute, and Herbert P. Orr, former state senator, whose plan in the 1937 legislature resulted in a bill that created the state Child Guidance Institute and made possible an increased program of juvenile delinquency work.

Educate Communities. The Prevention Council was organized, it was pointed out yesterday, to bring into a "common delinquency prevention front" state organizations, community leaders, local agencies in the state and in the various counties; to educate parents, officials and community leaders in the work and to take the lead as a center of initiative in the work of juvenile delinquency prevention.

POTATO GRADES BEING CHECKED

Shipments Must Come Up to Standard and Be Clearly Marked

Potatoes shipped to markets within the state or outside the state must come up to proper standards and containers must be marked with the correct grade of the potatoes they contain. Orville Nelson, Upper Peninsula inspector stationed at Escanaba, said yesterday. Inspection stations are being set up through the state, and federal-state inspectors are now at work checking the 1938 crop.

In most cases, inspections are made at the request of dealers who have shipments to make to markets in other sections of the state or over the state line. Penalties are imposed for shipment of potatoes not coming up to standard, which may be confiscated and fines imposed.

The only potatoes exempt from inspection are certified seed potatoes. Growers are permitted to grade their own potatoes without a license, but licensing is required of a grower who grades potatoes other than those raised by himself.

Containers must be branded or stenciled with the U. S. grade of the potatoes, their net weight, and the name and address of person or persons responsible for the grading or packing.

In U. S. No. 1 grade defects are not permitted to exceed 6 per cent, of which not more than 1 per cent may be affected with soft rot or wet breakdown. In addition, not more than 5 per cent may be damaged by hollow heart and not more than 5 per cent may be undersized.

Communities must be educated and organized to utilize modern, scientific methods of delinquency control," Dr. Carr told the group yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Orr's message stressed the importance of going beyond the traditionally ineffective methods of punishment to the newer methods of scientific determination of causes of delinquency, and in a short talk, Mrs. Inez Carpenter, of Ironwood, explained the part mothers should play in delinquency prevention.

"We must educate our communities to use scientific methods in solving the problems in modern life thrown at bewildered parents," Dr. Carr stated. "Many agencies are ready to use these scientific means of control as soon as they are sure public opinion will support them."

"But beyond that, we must organize to focus action on three groups of children, who, unless given attention, will supply our delinquents of tomorrow. They are the two to ten per cent of school children whom teachers classify as problem cases; the delinquents, especially those who have been through the correctional schools, and the children in danger, that is those in poverty and broken-up homes.

"These three groups can easily be identified and must be helped if we are to win this fight."

Old Orchard Farm

Sheep Fare Well at Press Station

Triplets at Press Experimental Farm

The management of Old Orchard farm, the Daily Press experimental farm at Flat Rock, believes there is no farm in Delta county so small that it should not include in its stock a small flock of sheep.

Experience has proven that no farm animal can be supported at less cost than sheep and at the same time return a fine profit on the investment. Sheep will live on pasture that will not be touched by other farm animals—they prefer weeds to clover and the leaves of underbrush to the finest pasture. They require only a hay or other roughage during the winter season and no grain excepting at lambing time, before pasture develops in the spring.

Old Orchard farm contains but 40 acres, but a flock of sheep has been profitably maintained there for the past year. The foundation flock of 12 grade ewes was purchased just about a year ago at a cost of $120, which was a high price for grade ewes and ordinary grades can usually be purchased from between $6 and $8 per head.

For the head of the flock a pedigreed Shropshire ram was purchased at a cost of $50, making the total cost of ewes and ram $170. One ewe was lost at lambing time, but 23 lambs were raised from the flock. The farm manager estimates that the cost of winter feed for the flock did not exceed $50 but no value was placed on the pasture consumed, for until early this fall the sheep were kept in a wood lot, where no pasture was offered for other farm animals and in addition the flock was turned into a low, underbrush covered and thistle infested corner, where the animals could well be credited with some amount, for doing a mighty fine land clearing job.

So including the cost of the flock and their winter feed, the farm has approximately $200 invested in sheep. The wool from the 11 ewes and the ram was sold at 26 cents per pound, bringing a total of $37.18 for the flock or $2.86 per head. Last week 14 ewe lambs from the flock were sold to a farmer in the Danforth settlement at $6 per head. There remains in the flock the original 11 ewes and the ram, together with five wether lambs, that will be marketed this fall, and four ewe lambs that will be added to the permanent flock.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 16.—Henry Meucken has lived to regret his prediction that the Republicans could beat Roosevelt with a Chinaman. Your correspondents don't want to climb out on any limbs. But, after inspecting the Pennsylvania scene, they are convinced that the local Republicans could easily beat the local Democrats with a zulu, so long as he was conspicuously honest, reasonably liberal and moderately kind to his dear old mother.

The fact is that the great New Deal movement has reached its absolute nadir in Pennsylvania. Tom Pendegast, in Kansas City, may not be an ornament to the party of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. But here in Pennsylvania, certified, 100 per cent New Dealers have captured the second largest state in the Union with a political machine which in hypocrisy far surpasses, and in greed, ruthlessness and stench quite equals the juggernauts of Boies Penrose and Bill Vane.

Juggernaut
The Pennsylvania Democrats have paid more than lip-service to the New Deal's purposes. Much progressive legislation has been enacted in their years of power. Yet it is the merest window-dressing. The real thing will be seen on October 20, when the party christians are holding a $100 dinner to swell war-chest. Job-holders, lobbyists, contractors and other beneficiaries of the Pennsylvania democracy have been invited to lay their cash on the line for an evening of pallid food and gassy oratory. It is understood that the wise will be rewarded, and the stingy punished. And there are so many who hope for reward and fear punishment that the dinner is expected to raise $150,000.

To achieve such a splendid proof of political prosperity, no agency has been neglected, no method overlooked. There is the WPA. The tragic needs of its 270,000 relievers have been turned so blatantly to account that last spring WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins decided to stand it no longer. He promised his friends that he would blow the roof off with a frank report. Somehow the report was suppressed, and the Pennsylvania WPA is still an annex of the personal organization of Senator Joseph P. Guffey. Before election, its obedient officials will add another 10,000 persons to the rolls—in counties where it will do the most good.

There are the thousands of federal jobs, and 27,000 state jobs, in passing them out, the state Democratic committee has used a card index system of the faithful, with marks for debts paid and debts still owing. Before election, another 10,000 are expected to be added to the state payroll, for a "road-widening" program which is the joke of every corner beer parlor. There are the pensions, the direct relief and social security benefits, the contracts—all useful after their different fashions. If Boies Penrose could revisit Pennsylvania this morning, he would call himself a pikar.

Stooge and Playboy
And if the sight of the machine is not enough, there are always its leaders to make the voters uneasy. Governor George N. Earle, for one, is running for the senate. At the moment, he is clutching the President's coat-tails with one hand, and using the other to beat off assassins who charge his administration with everything from selling legislation to "macing" political contributions from state employes.

In order to prevent a grand jury from airing these charges, he commanded a special session of the legislature to snatch the inquiry from the jurors and confide it to more friendly hands. Charges or no charges he is already a somewhat fly-blown playboy. He has been proved to have accepted a $26,500 loan from the contractor, Matt McCloskey, whose firm's share of the state building business is more than impressive. Once he was considered a 1940 possibility for his party. But now, if he rises to be puddler Jim Davis' successor, he will be doing well.

The gubernatorial candidate, Charles Alvin Jones, is an amiable, able Pittsburgh lawyer. But his character is unimportant, for he is a stooge for the cold and calculating Democratic State Chairman, David Lawrence, inventor of the card index system, and the man who taught Joe Guffey that a Lieutenant can steal his boss's machine. And finally there is the great Guffey himself, ex-utility lobbyist, captor of the vital Negro vote, whose political shenanigans are so frank as to be positively engaging.

No G. O. P. Zulu
You can see why the Republicans might win with an honest zulu. If the people of Pennsylvania had a reasonable choice, the gang in power would never be saved by their appeals to the White House, their war chest, or their army of job-holders. Unfortunately, the Republicans have not nominated a zulu. They haven't even exercised their right of nomination, preferring to let big business do it for them.

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNE LSTER—Myrna's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Luden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday, Myrna and Bob agree to discharge Rogers from management of the band in order to obtain the records.
CHAPTER XII
With Myrna's check and the note to Rogers, Tait immediately sought the manager of The Swingsters. As Myrna had intimated, it was going to be an unpleasant business—yet Tait found himself looking forward to it with a certain relish.

He announced himself through the lobby telephone in Rogers' apartment building and was told to come to the room. There Harris Rogers met him with a wide smile and ushered him inside.
"Well, Tait, I suppose you've come to tell me that you've been thinking over what I said."
"I have been thinking it over," Tait admitted.
"And you're going to take my advice, I hope?"
Tait shook his head. "I'm afraid not, Rogers." He reached into his pocket and brought out Myrna's note. Rogers colored when he saw the check, and he did not really need the note to tell him what had happened.

"We may as well get it over with, quickly," Tait said. "I can take the records with me."
Rogers' face grew livid. "You can't do this, Tait."
"I'm not doing it, Mrs. Dombey is doing it, and I'm simply carrying out her orders."
"But you were the one who suggested it to her," Rogers said.
Tait shrugged. "I won't deny that."

Harris Rogers took a step forward. He was beside himself with rage. "You're being a fool. If you know what's good for you Tait, you'll get out of here right now. Without me as a manager the band hasn't got a chance—and if Myrna insists on going through with this I'll blow things higher than a kite by telling what I know about Lud Dombey."
"It probably won't help any," Tait said evenly, "but on the day you do that I'm going to take you apart. Now let's have those records."

"I refuse," Rogers came closer, shoved his outstretched fingers against Tait's shoulder. "Get out, you cheap snapshot artist!"
The words and the shove were a bad combination, and Bob Tait lost control of his temper. He swung at Rogers and, in his sudden rage, missed wide. Then Rogers struck him hard against the side of the head. When Tait's vision cleared, he saw Rogers standing at the other side of the room, the fireplace tongs lifted high.
"If you try anything like that again," Rogers said, his voice shaking, "I'll break your skull. Now get out."

Tait leaned heavily on a writing desk chair, as if to gain his bearings. He half turned toward the door. Then he whirled back again suddenly. The chair lifted with the gesture, went crashing across the room and into Harris Rogers. Tait followed it, literally hurling himself after it. Rogers had no chance to use his weapon, for Tait clipped him hard on the jaw. So hard that Rogers' knees buckled slowly and he slid down on the hearth.

The newspaper photographer summoned a bell boy by phone and prepared him for the sight of the unconscious Rogers by means of a $10 bill. "Mr. Rogers and I had a little argument," Tait grinned, "about some files of his that I was supposed to take over. I want you to help me down to the car with these."

The boy looked dubiously at the stricken Rogers and then at the heavy file boxes. "I don't want to get into any trouble. How do I know—"
"Look here." From the floor Tait picked up Myrna's note.
The bell boy read aloud: "Dear Mr. Rogers: This is to notify you that I am relieving you of your duties as manager of the band. Herewith is two weeks' advance salary in lieu of notice. Please turn over your complete records to Mr. Robert Tait. Very truly yours—Myrna Dombey."

As he read the name, the boy's voice changed. "That's the dame who married the tom of the swing rate—the night he was bumped off! Boy, it was a shame, killing that guy. Nobody could give it out like him. When he was in the groove, he was strictly ding-dong, that guy."
"I gather," mentioned Tait, "that you're a swing fan."
The young man grinned proudly. "I'm a rug cutter and wax groover, if I do say it myself."
"Then to help out Mrs. Dombey you'll give me a lift here, won't you?"

The boy's voice sank to a whisper. "Sure, I never liked that guy Rogers, anyhow." He stopped, gazed open-mouthed at Rogers. "I hope he don't come to before I get out of here."
"If he does," Tait promised, "I'll pretend you just came up to see what the racket was."
"You sure you didn't hit him with anything? I don't want to get mixed up in any mess. This is a pretty good job."
Tait laughed. "I just hung some knuckles on him. He's not in very good condition. Come on, let's get busy."

The two of them were able to get the record files into the back compartment of the coupe in one trip. "Thanks a lot, fellah," said Tait. "I'd like to give you another 10-spot, but I haven't seen 'em in pairs lately."
"That's okay. I'd do anything that would help the girl who married Lud Dombey. If she was all right with him, she's all right with me."
As Tait drove away, he thought: "Maybe I ought to remember that. The kid might come in handy."

The records he took immediately to headquarters, and when Feeley saw him staggering in with them, the Irishman was open-mouthed. "What's all this?" he demanded.
"Well," said Tait, "I'm the new manager of Lud Dombey's band, and I've just taken over the records from Harris Rogers. It was a little task, but I think maybe there'll be something in these that Rogers didn't tell you. And say, Dannie, thanks for being easy on Myrna."
"Easy on her?" roared Feeley. "Who said I was easy on her? Don't ever get that idea. Shut that door, and let's get into some of this stuff. I doubt if it helps us a damned bit, but I'm getting jittery."
The two peeled off their coats and began going through the records of The Swingsters. It was a conglomerate story that told—the story of a small-town musician who grew to be the master of swing. The kid who didn't have the price of a meal but whose flower bill, when he got to be Luden Dombey, was—
"Look at this now, will you?" Dannie Feeley said. "Two hundred and ten dollars for flowers in the month of May, 1937. And they all went to the same woman. We better see her."

REV. MAGNUSON ASSUMES POST

Pastor To Be Formally Installed This Evening

Details of the service tonight at which the Rev. J. Otto Magnusson is to be formally installed as pastor of the First Lutheran church are announced.

Services will be held at the church at 7:30 o'clock with Dr. C. Albert Lund, pastor of Bethany Lutheran church, Escanaba, and president of the Superior Conference of Augustana Synod, presiding. Dr. Lund will also be the principal speaker. Assisting in the service will be Rev. Carl P. Johnson, Daggett, president of the Green Bay district; Rev. L. J. Sodergren of Menominee and Rev. Frank Peterson, Norway, formerly of Gladstone.

The telegram read: "President has approved WPA project carrying $72,307 to develop park, baseball field, small boat harbor and scenic roadway along bay, sponsored by City of Gladstone."

The project will provide 1-384 man months of labor and approximately 134 men will be given work on it, according to City Manager A. F. Raddant.

Along the street improvement project recently approved, the development will give Gladstone two excellent jobs to provide work for unemployed this winter. At the present time 323 are on WPA and with the close of the paving program which is rapidly winding up other projects are needed.

Included in plans for development of the park are construction of a baseball diamond 500 feet square just east of the boat harbor, building of a park roadway near the boat harbor, dredging of a harbor for small boats near the disposal plant and establishment of east end park, killing of cattails and elimination of mosquito breeding grounds and construction of retaining walls at the present boat harbor.

Sand fill for Skelton road which is one of the street improvement projects will come from the local dumping grounds on the bluff where about 2500 cubic yards of material are to be removed. This later will provide a better dump and one at which all dumping may be concentrated.

WELFARE CLUB MEETS MONDAY

Travelogue To Be Heard; Public Invited to Attend

Mrs. Dorothy Middlebrook Shipman, Manistiquette librarian, will deliver a travelogue on the topic "Mexico" at a meeting of the Child's Welfare club Monday evening.

The meeting is to be held in the assembly room of the senior high school, instead of the kindergarten building as was earlier planned. It will open at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Shipman, who has traveled extensively, will be attired in costume native to the people of the country upon which she is speaking.

During the evening two tenor solos will be presented by Noble Swenson, accompanied by Freeman Empson.

The public is invited. There will be a small admission charge.

In charge is a committee composed of the Mesdames James Mitchell, M. J. Magoon, D. N. Keo, L. C. Brownell, Charles Norton, C. W. LaFaver and Miss Cornelia Henderson.

Development of Park Provided in a Project Okehed by Roosevelt

Another large WPA project, this one providing for improvement and development of the shore property between the boat harbor and the disposal plant, has been approved by President Roosevelt according to a message received from Cong. John Luecke, Escanaba, by Mayor Jos. LaFramboise.

The telegram read: "President has approved WPA project carrying $72,307 to develop park, baseball field, small boat harbor and scenic roadway along bay, sponsored by City of Gladstone."

The project will provide 1-384 man months of labor and approximately 134 men will be given work on it, according to City Manager A. F. Raddant.

BUND MEMBER LIST SECURED

Prominent American Said To Be Paid for Hate Propaganda

New York, Oct. 15—Revelation that the Dies Committee investigating un-American activities has an up-to-date and complete list of Nazi Bundsmen and storm troopers in America although Fritz Kuhn said all such lists had been burned, was made last night in an address by Representative J. Parnell Thomas, New Jersey Republican member of the Dies committee.

Thomas also disclosed that "we have found out who the man is who is responsible for this poisoning of the minds of thousands of German-Americans—a notorious propagandist, who for a score of years has propagated un-American ideas for pay."

"Outwardly," he continued, "this man has always posed as a patriotic American. Public reference works list him with a long and distinguished career. And yet, behind a double and triple screen of secrecy, contrived and set up with the same cunning and almost the same procedure with which gangsters try to conceal themselves from the law, this man has from the cowardly safety of anonymity used his talents and connections to convert thousands of German-Americans to insane and insane hatred of their fellow Americans."

In discussing the extent to which Communism has crept into the structure of the New Deal, Representative Thomas said it is "much more prevalent than we dreamed of. He said that 'wittingly or unwittingly,' the New Deal now has itself so far out on the Communicative limb that they can't get back. He said that misuse of social security objectives,

GOOD PROGRESS ON STREET JOB

Crews Divided So Work May Continue Without Interruption

Exceptional progress is being made on the city's latest WPA project, installation of new underground structures on Deer street. The project was started Tuesday morning and trenches have been opened in several blocks, new copper water lines and larger sewer pipe being laid.

A crew of about 85 men have been assigned to the project, but the crew has been split in half to permit uninterrupted progress. Crews will be staggered so that the job may not need to be stopped after the WPA workers have put in the maximum 110 hours of work per month allowed.

Only half of the street is being opened at a time so that traffic may continue without detour. When installations have been completed on one side of the street, work will continue on the other side of the street. Installations will also be made on US-2 east of the bridge, on Elk street to the Maple street intersection.

Next spring the state highway department will let contracts for the construction of a new concrete road along this route, the city has been promised.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lang of Clintonville, Wis., are spending the weekend here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Debut, Range Street.

Gladstone And Manistique Pile Up, High Scores

INDIANS ARE ROUTED, 32-0

Keilmen, Paced by Zervic, Reveal Latent Power

Gladstone, Mich.—Paced by Big Eddie Zervic, who shown both on offense and defense, Gladstone high school revealed plenty of power in trouncing Newberry, 32-0, at Marble Athletic Field yesterday afternoon.

In addition to scoring three of the Upday's five touchdowns, the big bruising fullback did some nice punting, kicking out on the 10 and 1 1/2 yard lines on two occasions and also played a great game defensively.

New Find Uncovered
The game uncovered a find in Leo Legault, nimblefooted halfback, who displayed some nifty running in the second half. Legault scored once on a pass. On another occasion he dashed about 70 yards to cross the goal line only to be called back for having touched the boundary on his lengthy jaunt.

Normand of Newberry was the outstanding player on the Indian eleven.

Gladstone scored first early in the second quarter after getting the ball on their opponents 35 following an exchange of punts. Zervic went through tackle for 15 to the 20. Knutson dropped a pass in the end zone. Zervic hit tackle again for 18 to the 2 and then bucked the line for the first touchdown. Try for extra point failed. Score: Gladstone 6; Newberry 0.

Penalized for Holding
Shortly after receiving and making a first down on their 42 Newberry was penalized for their 27 for offensive holding and punted to Knutson who returned to the 32. On the succeeding play he rounded right end and sprinted across the goal for the second touchdown. Again the try for point failed. Score: Gladstone 12; Newberry 0.

A fine goal line stand halted Gladstone on the 2-yard line as the half ended.

A pass interception by Dahl on Newberry's 23 which he returned to the 20 set up the third touchdown. Zervic hit tackle for 18 to the 2 and then cracked the line twice, going over on the second try. Again the try for point was no good.

A nifty punt by Zervic which went out on the 1 1/2-yard line put Newberry in the hole in the fourth period. They kicked out to the 44 and then Zervic passed to Legault who went 44 yards to cross the goal. He was aided by excellent blocking on the part of Dahl. The kick for point was good. Score: Gladstone 25; Newberry 0.

Ahead On Downs
Gladstone kicked off and the ball was returned to the 15. Unable to gain, Newberry's punt was partially blocked and taken by the Keilmen on the 30. A pass was good for 4. Zervic fumbled but picked up the ball and went to the 13 before being downed. A five-yard plunge by Zervic, plus a penalty, gave the local first down on the 3 and on the next play Zervic crashed over for the fifth touchdown. Again the try for point was good. Score: Gladstone 32; Newberry 0.

Newberry's only scoring opportunity came in the first period when they went to the 22 only to lose the ball on downs.

The Keilmen made 10 first downs to the Indians' 4. Gladstone punted 6 times for a 35-yard average while Newberry punted 9 times for a 30-yard average. Gladstone completed 6 passes in 12 attempts for a total of 95 yards while Newberry completed four of 17 for 17 yards. Five of the Indian aeriels were intercepted.

Gladstone was penalized five times for a total of 45 yards while Newberry was set back 4 times for 40 yards.

Huskars Run Into Scoreless Deadlock

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 15 (AP)—Opportunity knocked repeatedly for Nebraska's Cornhuskers, but their interconference football game with Indiana here today ended in a scoreless deadlock.

The result left each team still gunning for its first victory of the season. Indiana broke the spell Nebraska had over the Huskars, the Huskars having won both of the two previous contests between the two schools.

Sophomore Halfback Herman Rohrig made four attempts to score for the Huskars by way of field goals, but each effort was wide or short. Nebraska's most serious bid for victory came late in the third quarter.

Captain Paul Graham, Indiana fullback, fumbled on his own 21 yard line and Center Charley Brock recovered for Nebraska. Halfback Harry Hopp punched the line on the fourth down with a yard to go, ending up with a first Jimmy Johnston, Washington halfback, was in a hurry all right, but Ned Mathews, center, and Kenny Washington of U. C. L. A. had decided the Husky ball-carrier had gone far enough. They are shown running him out of bounds.

BADGERS SCORE IN 10 SECONDS

Pitt Wipes Up Wisconsin 26 to 6 on Dry Field; Jinx Squelched

Madison, Wis., Oct. 15 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Panthers gobbled up Wisconsin's Badgers today, 26 to 6, with a swift and sure attack to extend their wins to four this season.

Playing on a dry, firm field, Pitt ran, passed and intercepted its way to touchdowns in the last three quarters.

Wisconsin's six points were scored in the last 10 seconds of the game by second string reserves against Pitt's third team. One of a barrage of passes, with Halfback John Tennant throwing to Gordon Gille, an end, put the Badgers in the scoring column.

Marshall Goldberg, fast stepping fullback, started the Pitt drive mid-way in the second quarter after Coach John Sutherland had held his veterans on the bench for rest and instructions. Halfback Richard Cassiano sparked the drive with a 22-yard run to the one-yard stripe, from where Goldberg easily stepped through a big hole in the line. William Daddio, end, kicked the extra point.

In the second half, Cassiano, Goldberg and Harold Stebbins made big gains on running plays. With Wisconsin virtually on its own goal line Stephen Petro, Pitt guard, intercepted a lateral pass in the end zone for the second touchdown.

In the fourth period, Cassiano intercepted a pass and set the stage for a 71-yard touchdown run by Chickeneo, who scampered along the side lines behind an impregnable group of blockers.

Pittsburgh's reserves came in for their share of glory on Halfback Emil Naric's pass to Robert Thurbon, who ran 70 yards for the final touchdown. Lawrence placekicked the extra point.

The victory ended a jinx that had pursued Pitt for five years. It was the first time since 1932 that Pittsburgh had scored a clear-cut victory in the fourth game of its season's schedule.

EARLY BREAKS HELP SPARTANS

Michigan State Trips West Virginia U., 26 and 0

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 15 (AP)—A smart Michigan State eleven scored on a break early in the first quarter and rolled up the count on intercepted passes today to down West Virginia university, 26-0.

Dave Diehl, the Spartan's great left end, recovered a blocked punt for the first marker, and Halfback John Pingel scored the second on a one-yard thrust in the third period after a pass carried the ball to scoring position. Diehl and Pearce, substitute back, added the other touchdowns on intercepted passes, the latter racing 66 yards to score.

Griffith, Michigan State guard, paved the way for the first score by rushing through to block Carlisle's kick and Diehl fell on it over the goal line for a touchdown.

Fumble Brings Score
Clark's fumble in the third period led to the second touchdown. Pingel recovered for Michigan State on West Virginia's 30 and after a couple line plays, Pingel flipped a pass to Nelson who was downed on the 1-yard line. Pingel went through center for the touchdown.

In the fourth quarter Diehl intercepted Audias' pass on the West Virginia 30 and ran for the third touchdown.

The fourth was another gift from the harassed Mountaineers. Pearce, one of the horde of substitutes that Michigan State sent on the field, pulled in White's pass and ran 66 yards to score. With only seconds left to play, Michigan State appeared to be headed for another touchdown but the Mountaineers finally stopped the attack just before the gun ended the game.

With a battle against undefeated Syracuse coming up at East Lansing next Saturday, the Spartans were dealt a costly blow when Gene Ciolek, a veteran halfback from Michigan City, Ind., suffered fractures of two bones in his back and was lost for the season. He was injured one play before the half ended while blocking for Al Diebold.

Punting Brilliant
The closest West Virginia ever got to the State goal line was the 21-yard stripe, reached in the final period when Joe Castario, West Virginia guard, recovered a fumble that developed when the State backfield got its signals mixed.

Pingel's punting today was brilliant, the veteran halfback averaging 44 yards and putting three kicks out of bounds inside the 20 yard line.

State, appearing to strike its stride for the first time in several weeks, was superior in every department. The forward pass defense was particularly alert, the Spartans intercepting eight of the Mountaineers' 22 aeriels.

The return game of the home-and-home agreement will not be played at East Lansing until 1940.

IRISH SURPRISE ILLINI, 14 AND 6

Sudden Thrust Through Air Brings Marker In First Period

BY EARL HILLIGAN

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 15 (AP)—Two spectacular maneuvers, one a sudden bid through the air and the other a breath-taking thrust on the ground, carried Notre Dame's football legions to a 14 to 6 victory over Illinois today.

Before the 45,000 spectators hardly had settled into their seats, Notre Dame scored a first period touchdown on a long pass from Harry Stevenson to Earl Brown. In the third period, fleet Ben Sheridan brilliantly returned a punt 68 yards to score.

Illinois got its touchdown shortly afterward by recovering a blocked Irish punt a yard from the Notre Dame goal line—but didn't have quite enough left for a serious threat to the Irish triumph.

Playing at Notre Dame for the first time, Illinois depended on a line which had whipped Indiana a week ago. Today the Illini forwards were outplayed from start to finish. Illinois, stopped on the ground, took to the air only to encounter an alert Irish secondary which permitted only three completions in 12 aerial attempts.

Pass Into End Zone
The game was barely five minutes old when Notre Dame scored. Taking the ball after an Illinois punt, Notre Dame failed to move from the Illini 35 yard line on three running plays. Then Stevenson faked back and shot a 47 yard pass into the end zone. Brown making a great finger-tip catch for the touchdown.

After a hard played second period, highlighted by strong play of the Irish forwards and Sheridan's handling of punt returns for consistent gains, the throng was treated to two scoring thrills. Rettinger, Illinois fullback, got away a long punt which Sheridan took on his own 32.

Twisting and dodging from the entire Illini team, the little speedster from Havana, Ill., streaked down the field for a touchdown. Illinois, after several nice runs by Bob Wehrli, a 10 yard pass and a 15 yard penalty on Notre Dame, drove 50 yards to the Notre Dame 10. The Irish line held for downs, Stevenson's punt was blocked by Phillips and several Illinois players recovered on the one yard marker. Ralph Ehnli, reserve quarterback, hit center for a touchdown but his try for point was blocked.

Early in the final period, Phil Pezoll intercepted a Notre Dame pass on his own 10 and returned 81 yards to the Notre Dame nine, but Longli intercepted a pass to ruin that Illinois chance and the battle was over.

Notre Dame, using numerous sets of backs and giving first string linemen repeated rest periods, gained 254 yards by rushing to 70 for Illinois. In first downs the Irish, winners of three starts this season, had a 15 to 9 margin. That Notre Dame did not score on sustained ground drives was due more to the inability of Irish

EMERALDS BEAT ST. JOE 19 TO 0

First Half Drive Pushes Parochials Off Their Feet

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Manistique, Oct. 15.—A revitalized Manistique high school football team defeated the St. Joseph high school eleven here this afternoon, 19 to 0, scoring all of its points in a first half drive which the Parochials were unable to stop. The victory left the Emeralds with a season's record to date of one victory, three ties and one defeat.

After the first half in which the Emeralds were complete masters of the situation, the game settled down to a hard fought battle, the Parochials staging a remarkable comeback to meet the heavier Manistique eleven on even terms in the last half.

An electrifying pass on the first play of the game brought the spectators to their feet and nearly resulted in a score in the opening minute of play. Patz tossed a long pass to Helsten, which the Manistique end had in his fingers with no St. Joseph player between him and the goal, but Helsten let the oval slip away from him.

After that mishap, however, Helsten played a major part in the Manistique attack, catching numerous passes from Patz, some of them with Parochial backs massed around him.

Early in the first quarter Jordan took a pass from Patz and was dropped on St. Joseph 30 yard line. The Emeralds made a first down on the 18 yard stripe and Patz followed with a nine yard sprint to the nine yard line. Lambert picked up five yards on the next play and then Patz drove over for the touchdown. A pass for the extra point was incomplete.

A series of passes brought the ball into scoring position for the second touchdown, scored in the second quarter. Passes received by Helsten, Jordan and Lambert brought the ball to the St. Joseph 15-yard line. Then Patz dropped back and shot another pass which Helsten received on the two yard stripe and was downed there. Patz went over for the touchdown on the first play and the kick for the extra point was blocked.

A fumble by Baker, St. Joseph safety man, provided the setup for the final touchdown. Getting possession of the ball on the 28-yard line, the Emeralds followed with a first down on the 17 yard marker on a pretty dash by Patz. Patz passed to Helsten on the six yard stripe. On fourth down Helsten took another pass from Patz, receiving this one in the end zone for a touchdown and Hamill kicked goal for the extra point.

The Emeralds made one more scoring threat before the half ended. Hoholik intercepted a St. Joseph pass on the Parochials' 13 yard line but the time expired after two ineffective plays.

The ball changed positions frequently in the second half, when the game developed into a punting duel with both teams waiting for a possible break. The Emeralds advanced to St. Joseph's 20 yard line twice in the third quarter, once on a recovered fumble and later on an intercepted pass. The visitors' defense had stiffened, however, and the Manistique boys were unable to score.

Manistique scored ten first downs in the first half to none for St. Joseph, but in the second half the Parochials, making their great comeback, chalked up five first downs to only three for Manistique.

Hoholik, Manistique center, played a spectacular defense game. He intercepted five St. Joseph passes during the battle and was responsible for smearing many Parochial plays.

ALPENA TO GET SPEED SKATERS

Upper Peninsula Will Be Organized In New Association

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Detroit, Oct. 15 (AP)—A. H. Ross, chairman of the Michigan Skating association meets and arrangements committee, today announced that Alpena has been awarded the Michigan state outdoor ice speed skating championships for the third straight year.

At the same time Ross disclosed that Petoskey would not bid for the national outdoor championships for the first time in three seasons. The 1938 meet was rained out.

The state championships at Alpena have been scheduled for February 4 and 5 and there is a possibility that part of the program will be held at night for the first time. Mich-e-ke-wis Park, scene of the meet, has been equipped with illumination.

Skating activities in the state will begin December 17 and 18 when an invitational meet will be held at Wyandotte. Ross said that Saginaw, Flint, Grayling, Benton Harbor, St. Joseph and Grand Ledge were also planning state skating events.

The committee Ross heads has decided to organize the Upper Peninsula into a separate organization rather than affiliate it with the Michigan Skating association.

SCORELESS TIE
In a preliminary to the Manistique-St. Joseph game at Manistique Saturday, the Manistique Reserves and the Rock Little Giants played a scoreless tie. Rock had one touchdown nullified for an offside penalty after a Rock halfback intercepted a pass and returned it 50 yards to cross the Manistique goal.

Football Umpire Dies After Game
New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Harris Moriarty, who umpired today's football game between North Carolina and New York university in the Yankee stadium, was stricken with a heart attack during the fourth period and died a few moments later in the dressing room under the grandstand.

CRANEMEN HELD THROUGH RALLY

Four First Downs Piled Up By Soo in Fourth Fail to Produce

Practically all of Carl Nordberg's 80-man football squad got a chance to leave the bench yesterday afternoon as the Eskymos romped through the Soo Blue Devils to a 34-0 win. The score, which was the same as that by which the locals defeated Menominee last Saturday, was piled up through two touchdowns apiece by Bender and Barron and one by Bennette. Bennette made good on three out of four tries on the kick for the extra point and Pfothauer passed to Nicholson for one extra tally.

The Cranemen were held in a fourth-quarter rally, the only time they came within scoring distance. Marching down the field with three consecutive first downs, the Blue Devils threatened the Eskymo goal shortly after the start of the quarter. Bennette kicked to Bailey of Soo after an Escanaba score, and the 140-pound Soo halfback ran the ball from his 10 yard line to his 36 yard line. A pass, Alfred to Cremer, was ruled complete on account of interference, giving the Blue Devils the ball on the Eskymo 46 line and a first down.

Escanaba's first scoring drive was started after a blocked kick gave them an advantage early in the first quarter. Alford attempted to kick from Soo's 34 yard line, the kick was blocked, and he recovered the ball on his own five yard line. Kicking on fourth down, he got the ball off to his own 33 yard line. Barron and Pfothauer brought the pigskin to the 13, through a series of line plays, and a pass from Barron to Bennette put it on the five yard strip. Bender went over, and Bennette made the kick. With fourth down and four to go, early in the second quarter, the Eskymos took a chance on a line plunge and Bender went through to make first down by inches. A pass from Pfothauer to Bennette was completed, and Alford of Soo brought him down on the 17 yard strip. Anderson ran around right end, skipping along the sidelines to the two yard line, and Bennette plunged over. Bennette missed the extra point, and the score was 13-0. Late in the second quarter, after time out, Pfothauer scampered around right end to run out of bounds on the three yard line. With first down and three to go, the Eskymos used up three of their downs before Bender cashed in on a plunge through the line. Pfothauer passed to Nicholson for the only extra point made on anything but a kick, and the score stood at 20-0 at the end of the half.

A pass early in the third quarter, from Barron on the 40 yard line to Pfothauer on the 23, gave the Eskymos the ball and a first down. Another pass, Barron to Hansen, was incomplete at about the one foot line, and officials ruled it complete on account of interference. With four downs in which to make a foot, Barron hit the line once and then slid through right tackle for the score. Bennette kicked the point.

Late in the third quarter, Joe Hill, Soo guard, dashed for a touchdown almost without opposition. He caught Alford's punt on the Eskymos' 35 yard line, and completed his run after the whistle had been blown. Officials ruled the score did not count. The Eskymos rang up another counter early in the fourth quarter. A pass from Pfothauer to Bennette, knocked down by Tremont, was ruled complete on account of interference and brought the ball to the 10 yard line. Farrell gained five yards, where it was fourth down and inches to go, and Barron put the ball over the goal line. Bennette kicked the extra point, making the score 34-0.

It was after the last Eskymo tally that the Soo rally started. The Blue Devils made four first downs during the last half of the fourth quarter, advancing to the 15 yard strip where two incomplete passes lost them possession of the ball. During the fourth quarter the Blue Devils scored four first downs,

Orange and Black Smashes Through Blue Devils Line to Goal

Through the line was the way to the goal for the Eskymos yesterday afternoon as they crashed through the Soo Blue Devils for a 34-0 win. Four out of five of the locals' touchdowns were made on line plunges like the one above, on which Bennette rang up the Eskymos' second score in the second quarter. Fedrow (on the ground) made a path for the runner, who is buried in the pile-up. Out in the open, good gains were made by "Floating Power" Pfothauer, shown (left) as he was tackled by a Soo back after completing an end run.

POWER HOUSE OF MINNESOTA IS SMOTHERED

(Continued from Page One) layed buck, with Harmon and Kromer feeding Purucker the ball, Michigan slashed straight up the field, ripping Minnesota's heretofore impregnable defense into bits. They went into the fourth quarter with the ball on the Minnesota 21 and fourth down. Harmon crossed up the Golden Gophers and shot a short pass to Smick on the Minnesota seven. Three plunges got six yards and then Kromer shot over his own right tackle to score. Smick missed the extra point and on the kickoff, Smick kicked off short to End Marucci on the Minnesota 22. He hustled the ball back to the Minnesota 39. There was an exchange of punts and Michigan started another parade but Harmon fumbled on the Minnesota 48. Van Every recovered and after Minnesota had been set back 15 yards on a holding penalty, Van Every began pitching, first for forty yards and then to the winning touchdown.

And there is was Michigan 13 first downs and Minnesota six and bad news for Coach Fritz Crisler, back on his old hunting grounds with a Minnesota coached team getting the yards but losing the ball game. It was the fifth straight victory of the Gophers over Michigan and by their win they became the first team in modern football to achieve this feat. After the Minnesota touchdown and the all-important point, Crisler rushed Dave Strong, one-time University of Illinois quarterback, into the fray to try a desperate passing game. Strong gave a remarkable exhibition of throwing that carried to the Minnesota 31. Minnesota punted after taking the ball on downs and Strong started another aerial fusillade that was finally broken on the Minnesota 40.

It was the worst defeat in Michigan Tech's football history. The winners scored three touchdowns and three conversions in the opening period to turn the game into a rout. Four touchdowns and two extra points in the second period added to the total. Substitutes played much of the final half for Detroit Tech. Ed Robitaille was the pacesetter, gaining 200 yards. The 65 points brought Tech's total to 176 as compared to none for the enemy in its last three starts.

How To See Football. BY JERRY BRONDFIELD. NEA Service Sports Writer. Football has developed into such an open game that coaches have been forced to design defenses to meet many styles of attack. Probably the oldest of all defensive set-ups is the 7-1-2-1, which still comes in for use today despite the tendency toward six-man lines. Seven men are placed on the line of scrimmage. The line backer, usually the fullback, takes a spot about two yards behind the line and slightly to the left of the center, because that would be the strong side of the opposition's attack. The linebacker roves along the line of scrimmage... diagnosing and meeting plays. The halfbacks take posts seven or eight yards behind their tackles. The safety man takes a position 25 yards or so behind the line of scrimmage.

FARM VOTERS PROVE PUZZLE TO NEW DEAL. (Continued from Page One) now, the swing of the farm vote on election day could go far, many political experts feel, to make or break a Wallace presidential boom. The argument runs that if a deep-seated reaction against the administration is reflected at the polls in the wheat and corn-hog states, it would react heavily against the new deal farm leader. Should it develop that the farm vote is substantially with the new deal despite developments that have put the Wallace ever-normal granary plan to a supreme test at the very outset of its application, Wallace's 1940 political stock would bound upward.

BY HENRY PAYNTER. New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The same business leaders who accurately forecast President Roosevelt's billion dollar rearmament plan a week in advance estimated today the program would stimulate industrial spending of at least $5,000,000,000 additional during the next 15 months. The broad plans now being worked out in conferences between business executive and government officials, they said, were designed to become the dominant factor in the recovery picture. The huge scope of the program, they added, was not yet fully realized by the country at large.

THE EXECUTIVES spoke candidly—as they did eight days ago in predicting the president's program—under a pledge that they would not be identified. The re- armament program viewed economically, they explained, marks a basic change in the government's recovery program, a switch of emphasis—which many business leaders have long sought—from consumer goods to heavy industry. A fundamental goal will be the removal from WPA payrolls to gainful private employment of a major portion of the unemployed by the end of the period—in 1940. The figure of $1,000,000,000 quoted in Washington dispatches relates only to the total contemplated addition to the budget, they said, whereas the program as a whole, including non-budgeted federal loans and private participation, involves "not less than $5,000,000,000" additional.

According to their calculations, the broad effects of the rearmament program should begin to be felt by mid-spring and should reach a peak between 15 months and two years from the present, or in the summer and fall of 1940. Remains of a prehistoric lake city may be seen in the waters near Geneva, Switzerland.

HAWKEYES STOP MAROONS, 27-14

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—Iowa's Hawkeyes broke their co-lease with Chicago on the Big Ten cellar today by outpacing the Maroons 27 to 14, before a crowd of 8,000 at Stagg field. The victory was the first Western conference triumph for the Hawkeyes since they walloped Illinois, 19 to 0, in 1935. The Maroons haven't won a Big Ten game since nipping Wisconsin, 7 to 6, in 1936.

A heroic little band, the heavily outweighed Maroons were helpless on the ground but they produced a sparkling aerial display. Coach Clark Shaughnessy's lads struck through the air in the second quarter after Iowa had built a 14 to 0 lead; Low Hamity faded back to his own 45 yard line and got off a tremendous toss to John Daventport, the Big Ten sprint champion, for a touchdown. Late in the fourth period, Sol Sherman warded off Iowa tacklers long enough to get away a forward to Bob Meyer, who caught the ball on the Iowa goal line. The Iowans, their starting line-up drastically revamped following defeat by Wisconsin last week, scored in the first five minutes. After grabbing a punt to place the ball on the Iowa goal line, the Hawkeyes, led by Jerry Niles, sophomore fullback, pounded to the four-yard line where Ed McLain skipped around end for the touchdown.

Shortly after the second quarter opened, Ray Murphy, a sophomore substitute back, broke away on a 13-yard touchdown jaunt. In the third period, Quarterback Russell Busk intercepted a long Chicago pass and twisted his way to the enemy 25 yard line. Iowa immediately turned on the power-Niles plunging for the touchdown from the two-yard line. Murphy again furnished the scoring play with a 11-yard cut-back in the final period.
