MORE HUNTERS SEND REPORTS

Conservation Department Receives Many Records

Hunters appear to be showing more alacrity this year than last in the matter of reporting on their luck as required by state law.
By the close of the deer season, at least 1,000 report cards had been received by the department of conservation, and since then each mail has brought new batches. The first reports began coming in earlier this year than last, a number of deer hunters fulfilling their obligations even before the close of the season.

System Desirable
Among interesting comparisons which will be made possible by this year's reports will be between that of the number of hunters successful in both 1937 and 1938. Last year's reports gave 25.80 per cent of 157,349 as getting their bucks. The 1937 reports also showed that the hunting pressure amounted to 4.56 hunters per square mile and the deer kill as 1.18 per square mile. The total legal kill last year was 40,637 bucks.

Christmas Cards Are Simple Even When Gayly Informal

BY MARIAN YOUNG NEA Service Staff Correspondent The majority of the smartest of this season's Christmas cards are essentially simple, with sentiments that reflect to a large extent the deeper significance of the day.

There are novel types, to be sure, but fantastic modernistic designs, ornate motifs, the bizarre color schemes of surrealist suggestion and wise-cracking comical are, generally speaking, among the missing.

Some 1938 Christmas cards are of religious inspiration. The Holy Family, the Three Wise Men, etchings and engravings of cathedral paintings are widely used.

The Upper Peninsula branch of the Michigan Children's Aid society is this week sending its annual Christmas letter to over a thousand friends who are interested in its child welfare program.

The sixty-six children now actively supervised in boarding homes in Marquette have come from all counties in the Upper Peninsula.

Margaret, the six year old described in the Christmas letter, is motherless. Her father deserted Margaret and her three sisters. Relatives took the three youngest girls, but would not accept Margaret because of her poor physical condition and her difficult behavior tendencies.

Margaret is now in a boarding home. She is physically fit and is showing none of her former unruly behavior. All she needed was the security provided by a normal home life with understanding parents who know how to direct her activity into wholesome channels.

Mrs. A. H. Ryall has left for Berkeley, Calif., where she will remain for the winter months. Mrs. Ryall will be the guest of Mrs. Susan Somer, formerly of this city, for a short time, and later will establish her temporary residence in Berkeley.

Mrs. A. H. McDonald, 322 South Eighth street, left yesterday for Chicago to visit with her sister, Mrs. Fred James, who is recuperating from a major operation.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bohn have returned to Newberry following a week-end visit here as guests of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Walsh.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

When Christmas gets in the air, women the country over become acutely conscious of the poor and say, "This year I'm going to do something."

And so they fix up a colorful basket filled with good substantial food and a few trimmings and leave it on the doorstep of a shabby-looking home that houses some of the town's "po' whites."

Or they take a gift to some old person who otherwise might have been overlooked. The women who do these things with hearts full of Christmas have a good time spreading their giving out a little beyond their own family.

But after all, have they done so much? Not really. They have given a family a meal or two. Or impressed an old person with their kindness.

Along with the traditional baskets, it would be a fine thing if, in the coming year, not-too-busy women (and cities and towns are filled with them) would decide to give a little of their surplus time and energy to help improve the conditions that make basket giving necessary.

Lots of women play bridge three and four afternoons a week. Wouldn't it be a good idea for a bridge club, whose members are already a little weary of each other's small talk and bidding idiosyncrasies, to put their facial money into renting a big house for children whose mothers have to work, and where a servantless mother might leave a child while she had an occasional afternoon of recreation? Each bridge club member would only have to give one day a week, or one every two weeks, to actual work.

Or a not-too-busy woman might get into politics and work for some badly needed reforms. Or enlist her services with some big charitable organization. The constructive things a fairly intelligent woman with time on her hands can do are limitless.

Italian Opera Study Topic of Opening Meeting

The Music Study Group of the Escanaba Woman's club held the first meeting of the Opera Study series on Monday, at the home of Mrs. A. J. Carlton.

Mrs. I. W. Smith, who has prepared the outline of study for the course, gave a brief review of the sources from which opera was derived and the history of its early development, bringing the subject to the program for the day, Italian opera.

Mrs. Mrs. Robert Deo gave most interesting sketches from the lives of important composers—Mascagni, Rossini, Verdi and Puccini. She stressed their styles of composition, the influences under which they worked, the personal characteristics of each, also political changes which affected their lives and work—a very thorough preparation.

Mrs. William H. Williams read with distinctive charm the stories of the librettos of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," with its peasant life simplicity and sorrow and Verdi's masterpiece, "Aida," in all its dramatic splendor and tragic finale.

Mrs. Fred Carlson and Mrs. Henry Wylie played in duet, "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," and also Rossini's famous "Stabat Mater," to illustrate the different styles of composition. The examples were well chosen and excellently performed.

Mrs. John J. Batrel sang very effectively, "Celeste Aida" from "Aida," and "La donna e mobile" from Verdi's "Rigoletto," contrasting Verdi's serious and lighter music. Mrs. Batrel's voice is well adapted to both numbers and gave a well rounded completion to the program.

The next meeting for the study of French opera will be on January 16.

Today's Recipe

Has someone a recipe for old fashioned pork pie, which used to be a treat of the holiday seasons of some years past? If you have will you kindly send it in to this department for a reader who asked for it yesterday.

And such a spreading out of the good will that hits the average woman once a year would pay big dividends in her own life. Busy, helpful women who are doing important work have a glow about them that no beauty parlor has for sale.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

Dorothy Thompson

In a new little book called "Our Battle," Henrik Van Loon says that autocracy is the result of bad democracy.

That is certainly true, and France is an example of it. Back in February, this column attempted an analysis of the French economic situation, which has been continually interesting and significant for this country, because France suffered, under the Popular Front government, from all the fallacies of New Dealism, with its perille ideas of achieving prosperity by drastically raising labor costs and disarranging the public finances, while diminishing all incentive to capital and without regard to increasing production.

A careful watch on France has been most wholesome as a basis of criticism of our own current procedures. But the French situation has been much worse than ours, first because its New Dealism went much further; there was a much more serious increase of the public debt there than here; and added to all her other troubles, France has suffered from a disastrous flight of capital, which amounted to a real hemorrhage. And the French economic situation has been further complicated by the European political tensions.

M. Paul Reynaud's plan of financial and economic reform, brought forth early last month, had the prestige of coming from the one financial expert in France who knows what he wants and is usually right, and the "Journal Officiel," which carried his decrees, was prefaced by a most laud and brilliant general report which turned a pitiless light on the economic situation and made it perfectly clear that if France were to recover her economic health, which, in turn, is a prerequisite for revived military and diplomatic prestige, the workers of France would have to make sacrifices.

However, such conservative publications as the "British Review," "The Spectator" and "The Economist" assert that too much of the burden falls upon the workers. "The Spectator" predicted on November 18: "The opposition of the Socialists and the trade unions, even if restrained, will continue. . . M. Daladier becomes increasingly less concerned to spare the susceptibilities of the workers, and may thus prevent any possibility of creating the period of political calm which is essential to the success of M. Reynaud's plan—which is the last chance of saving France from totalitarianism."

Mr. Thomas Balogh, who as a banker's economist will hardly be suspected of radicalism, stated in the October 15 "Economist" a thesis advanced in this country by Alexander Sachs, that "the abolition of the social laws alone will not restore confidence. . . A wholly one-sided sacrifice imposed on the workers will not lead to social peace. It demands the end of the scramble of wealthy individuals to protect their personal fortunes. . . But M. Bonnet is more interested in protecting the liberty of French capitalists than the liberty of Europe."

M. Reynaud's plan puts no restrictions on the export of capital. He believes that it can be "persuaded" to rehabilitate itself if the workers can be forced to make concessions. But you cannot logically take a high hand with labor and give laissez faire to capital.

France, according to these economists, must adopt at least something like the licensing system

LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY ALCOTT—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.
DWIGHT CAMPBELL—ambitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.
JACK HANLEY—flying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love.
MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday, Dwight asks Judy to forgive him, to pick up the broken pieces, but she tells him she is engaged to marry Jack!

He said, "I'm sorry, Judy. Sorry I said those things. Of course I couldn't expect a girl like you to sit around and wait while I—"

which this country had in 1934—and abandoned because it ceased to be useful or necessary, since American capital could find no better place to go—and allow capital to leave the country only for legitimate business purposes.

There is today in France such a disruption of confidence that the mere hope of a small or reasonable profit will neither attract capital back to France nor halt the flight of the fluid rentier capital still remaining there.

What the French workers were striking about is also tendential to the foreign policy which, with its blind dependence upon Britain, has led France into national disaster.

If the result of Bonnet-Daladier authoritarianism has been unprecedented national humiliation, one cannot expect much enthusiasm for this government from the French worker, who hates to bend the knee to Hitler quite as much as he desires a forty-hour week.

While he is being asked to relinquish his economic gains, he has also had to accept censorship, the restriction of all his civil liberties, the suspicion of serious mandacity from at least one of his government officials, and the suppression of the most essential facts about Munich.

The French worker might have been persuaded into making sacrifices for France if the capitalists would do likewise, before Daladier-Donnet deprived France of her whole scheme of central European defenses and had the face to call this victory and peace.

Now the worker wants to know why, if Munich was such a great triumph for peace, must he sacrifice his privileges in order to increase French armaments.

And he quite reasonably wants to know for what purpose these armaments are to be used, and in whose behalf? To assist Hitler and Mussolini destroy Democracy?

A courageous and workable policy, capable of again mobilizing the innate unity and solidarity of the French people, must be truly national, in that it makes just and equal demands upon all parts of the French public, including the capitalists.

It and must be accompanied by a truly French foreign policy, and not one dictated in London and Berlin.

If all that is done is to abrogate the social laws, and depend upon that volatile and flickering thing called "confidence" to repatriate capital and stop the drainage of it, then this regime will have to give in constantly to the dictatorialships for fear of a financial crisis every time Hitler or Mussolini roar a speech.

while I came to my senses." His mouth twisted. "We all find out there is no Santa Claus. We all discover we can't undo the mistakes we made. But I wish God, how I wish—I had seen things clearly. I wish I had married you!" The violence of his words shook him. And then he was reaching for her, pulling her into his arms. "I love you," he said over and over. "Now that I can't have you, it's too cruel to bear. I want you. I need you."

She should have pushed him away. But she had hungered for his arms so long. To be close against his heart, to feel the rise and fall of his breathing, to have his pleading in her ears like this, was so sharply sweet, that for a moment she remained quiescent still. But then she put her hands against his chest and stirred. "Don't, Dwight. It's no use."

Why must she deny the fire in her own blood? Why must she torture herself and him? Was it pride, exacting its toll? Pride that wouldn't let her yield to him, that wouldn't admit those sobs and those tears he had caused her?

Without her own volition, words were tumbling forth. "You were always ambitious, Dwight. You wanted to marry a rich girl, you thought it would help you get ahead. You know that my father's influence could help you, but you weighed everything carefully and in the end it seemed to you that Marvel's money could help more. Bigger and better parties, influence in Washington. She spoke of it! Her uncle's a banker, he has friends on the Naval Affairs Committee. You thought that would be an easier, quicker way than the road of merit. Oh, you were cold about it. You considered it from every angle!"

"That's not true!" he shouted. "Everybody knows it is true. Everybody knows that every single move you ever made, since you came into the navy, has been with the single thought of getting ahead."

"A man's a fool not to want to succeed!" "Yes, but there are ways. And ways." "I never did anything underhanded. I never used pull."

"You wouldn't have hesitated if you had had it." "Pull is an asset. Why should n't a man use it if he has it?" "You're a climber, Dwight. You were always. Mother tried to tell me. Jack tried to tell me—but I was blind."

That hurt. He cried. "Oh, Hanley told you, didn't he? Just because he's a hardworking fool who's crazy about some dimwit idea that won't even amount to a hill of beans. Six and a half million dollars for a dirigible that goes down in any little blow."

"Battleships cost sixty millions," she said. "And dirigibles don't do down in." "What do you know about it?" he cried, stung. "Only what he's told you."

She said despairingly, "We've come a long way from what we started with. I didn't mean to say what I did. Whether it's true or not, whether you realize it or not, doesn't matter. I'm engaged to Jack Hanley, and—"

"You're too proud to take me because I married her first," he said slowly. "That's all it is. You know so little of life, Judy! People all make mistakes. That's how we find out, in the end, what we really want. If you loved Hanley, you'd have married him long before I knew you. He's been hanging around you ever since he got out of the Academy."

"Let's not talk about it any more," she thought that Dwight had had none of the sensibility that Jack had. Jack was always so careful in what he said, so considerate of her feelings. But Dwight barged blindly on, saying the things he wanted to say, not caring how they hurt.

She turned the key in the ignition. "Shall I drop you anywhere?" "I wasn't going any place. I suppose I'll go back to the ship." She couldn't resist asking, "Where is Marvel?"

"On Tennant's yacht. I guess I don't care."
"But that wasn't true. He did care. She said gently, "You turned to me because it was a safe for your pride, Dwight. I think you're still crazy about her."
"A moment ago you accused me of marrying her for her money."
"But she knew that though this was true, it did not prevent him from really loving Marvel; from being affected by her beauty and her lure."
"I guess I'll get out here," he said, reaching for the door handle.
"Don't. I'll drive you to the pier."
She should have realized that it was better to let him go here. But she had never been one to forego the sharp eyes, the delighted gasps of other people. Gossip always caught her unawares.
So when they stopped at the pier, and Dwight got out, she did not notice anyone she knew. Yet the moment she reached home he mother said to her, "Judy, I've just had a phone call from Mrs. Lane. She says someone on the station saw Dwight getting out of your car a few minutes ago. She says—"

Christmas Seal Sale Begins. Emphasizing the fact that tuberculosis breaks up more homes than any other single disease, W. C. Cameron, chairman of the sale of 1938 tuberculosis Christmas seals in Rapid River appealed to all to buy and use as many of the tiny health stamps as possible.

"Rapid River is competing with several towns of similar size for the honor of being first in its particular group," W. C. Cameron said. "There are still many seals to be bought and used to help fight tuberculosis."

The chairman pointed out that the penny tuberculosis seal is the mainstay of the fight against tuberculosis. Christmas seal funds he explained, are used solely for the purpose of preventing the spread of tuberculosis.

"If Christmas seals did nothing in an entire year but prevent one case of the White Plague in our county, they would be well worth while," Mr. Cameron declared. "Tuberculosis comes from tuberculous. One case can spread from one individual to another, from one family to another family. Christmas seal funds provide modern weapons of discovery—the tuberculin test and chest X-ray—as well as modern health education, to protect local people from the menace of the White Plague."

The design of the 1938 tuberculosis Christmas seal emphasizes the theme, "Protect Your Home," the chairman pointed out.

Through Christmas seal funds, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, sponsor of the local sale of seals, is enabled to give every Michigan home modern protection against the menace of the disease which still kills more than 2,000 residents each year, he said.

"Here in our county the organized campaign against tuberculosis has brought about a considerable reduction in the death rate. I am sure that local people will continue their generous cooperation in the seal sale so that the 1939 campaign against tuberculosis can be carried on with undiminished vigor."

Son Sues Mother For $7,000 Savings

Flint, Mich., Dec. 5 (AP)—Robert Van Bessler, 33, brought suit against his mother today on the charge she had withheld from him money he had saved for the day when he would take a bride.

Van Bessler, a Belgium factory worker, asserted in a circuit court complaint that his mother, Mrs. Augusta Van Bessler, had failed to turn over to him $7,000 in savings over a ten-year period.

He said he and his mother had made an agreement whereby he turned over to her all his salary save $3 a week and that she would give back to him all the money remaining after reduction for living expenses.

ICE RINK PLAN IS CONSIDERED

School Board Will Cooperate But Can't Pay Construction Cost

The Manistique board of education is willing to cooperate with the Manistique city council for the construction of a municipal ice rink at the high school stadium, it was learned yesterday from A. F. Hall, superintendent of public schools, but cannot contribute half the cost of construction and maintaining the rink.

Although there has been no meeting of the school board since the proposal of the city council made by Mayor William Sellman, was advanced to the board, all members of the board have been contacted and have authorized Supt. Hall to notify city officials of their willingness to cooperate.

Supt. Hall declared yesterday the board of education will pay half the cost of putting the gridiron in shape next spring, if the council will pay the other half of this cost.

This offer by the board does not include the cost of construction or maintaining the rink. It was further stated, the school board believing that this is a responsibility of the city alone.

The board of education does not have ample funds to warrant an expenditure for ice rink construction. In view of the fact that some borrowing will probably be necessary to meet the teachers' payroll for the last month of the school year, Supt. Hall declared.

Mayor William Sellman has appointed a committee, consisting of City Manager Beauvais, Councilman Tom Grimsley and Victor Schuster, to meet with a similar committee appointed by the board of education.

It was learned yesterday that the two groups have not yet discussed the proposition at length, although Supt. Hall, representing the board of education, has informed the city manager that the board is willing to cooperate in the matter.

The board of education has authorized the use of the athletic stadium for the construction of an ice rink.

Eskymos Win 20-18 At Kingsford; St. Joe Loses

LOCALS AVENGE FIRST DEFEAT

Score Remains Close As Nordmen Play Second Tight Battle

Playing a game that was neck and neck throughout all four quarters, Coach Carl Nordberg's Eskymo cagers defeated Kingsford high school last night by a score of 20 to 18. The locals avenged their defeat in last Friday's season opener, a similarly close game in which they came out on the short end of a 22 to 20 score.

Bennett, center, led the local scoring with four field goals for eight points, followed by Barron's three field goals for six points. Hansen and Pepin each scored once from the floor, and Olson and Pepin made a free throw apiece.

High point man of the game was Hearn, Kingsford center, who dropped in three field goals and three free throws for nine points. McCarnay cashed in twice each way for six points. Four personal fouls were made by Bennett of the Eskymos and Kingsford of Kingsford.

Kingsford led at the end of the first quarter, 4 to 2, but the Eskymos forged ahead to lead 11 to 9 at the half. The two teams raced neck and neck throughout the last half, the locals leading 14 to 15 at the end of the third quarter, and 20 to 18 at the close of the game.

A preliminary, originally scheduled between reserve squads of the two schools, was cancelled, and short games were played by junior and sophomore teams of the two schools before the main event.

The Eskymos stand against Kingsford indicates that Nordberg has a powerful team in the making, both on offense and defense. In its opening encounter Friday night, Kingsford displayed a world of power by trouncing Coach Bernard McCann's Menominee quintet by a score of 35 to 15 on Menominee's floor.

Ferris Defeated By Central State

Big Rapids, Dec. 6 (P)—Central State Teachers college defeated the Ferris Institute quintet, 39 to 15, here tonight. Carlson and Norris led Central State's attack, scoring eight points apiece, while Fitzpatrick of Ferris scored six.

Coaches and Schedules

(This is one of a series of biographies of high school coaches compiled by the U. P. Sportswriters' Association.)

One of the finest coaching records in the peninsula competition in basketball and football has been compiled by Allan Ronberg since he took over the reins at Norway high school in 1932.

Topped off by this year's Upper Peninsula championship football team, which went through a seven-game schedule undefeated, the Vikes under Ronberg's tutelage have captured one Upper Peninsula basketball crown, three district titles and two range titles in the cage sport and two range titles in football.

Ronberg's football teams have won 24 games, lost 13 and tied 12 while his basketball teams have won 64 and lost 33 against the stiffest competition in the peninsula.

Ronberg learned his high school athletics under Coach A. W. Shadford of Negaunee, whence he was graduated in 1925. At Northern State Teachers' college, Ronberg starred under Coach C. B. Hedgcock as center on the football team and guard on the basketball squad.

The Viking mentor, known by intimates as "Ronnie", is 31 years of age and is married.

Ronberg's football teams have won 24 games, lost 13 and tied 12 while his basketball teams have won 64 and lost 33 against the stiffest competition in the peninsula.

Steel Ingot Record Highest Since 1937

New York, Dec. 6 (P)—Production of open hearth and Bessemer steel ingots, increasing for the fifth consecutive month, reached the highest level since September, 1937, during November, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported today.

November's output was 3,572,220 gross tons, an increase of 14.6 percent above October's 3,117,934 tons and about 65 percent over the 2,154,385 tons of November, 1937.

The industry operated at an average of 62.05 percent of capacity in its November production. In October, operations were at 52.45 percent capacity and in November, 1937, only 38.23 percent.

BOXING SHOW HERE THURSDAY

Amateur Crew Will Mix at Recreational Center Ring

Boxing enthusiasts are assured of a good show at the first boxing exhibition to be presented by the Escanaba Amateur Boxing club on Thursday night at the city recreational center, beginning at eight o'clock.

The exhibition was originally to be five matches, this number being increased by one announced and one surprise match. The young men who are to box have been training for this exhibition the same as they would train for a Golden Glove bout and are anxious to gain a following in Thursday night's performance. The proceeds of the show will go toward the rental and maintenance of permanent quarters which will be used by the club and by anyone interested in getting a workout or watching the instructions. A ring is to be installed, a heavy and light bag will be available, and there will be plenty of room for rope and conditioning work.

The matches as announced by Ray Goodnough, WPA recreational leader, who is boxing instructor, are as follows: Glen Earlings vs. Lloyd Johnson, 155; John Pennings vs. Ken Erickson, 135; Bert Shea vs. George Gannon, 127; Bert Beaudry vs. Jim Beaudry, 120; Jim Anderson vs. Bert Anderson, 115; and Ted Deroutin vs. Bert Courter, 115.

Some of the boys have already engaged in exhibitions this year in Manistique. Bill Shea gained a draw with his opponent who had won 24 straight victories prior to meeting Shea. Of special interest will be the Pennings-Erickson match. These boys are seemingly well matched in ability, although Pennings should have the benefit of his experience at Manistique, where he knocked out his opponent. In addition to the parity in abilities, this match also sees a left-hander against a right-hander.

Some speculation has been voiced as to whether brotherly love will function when the two Beaudryes get into the ring.

According to state law, no decisions may be handed down in an exhibition of this sort. As the boys will be going their best to gain a decision in the minds of their friends, they will display a very high class of boxing. Evidences point toward a big house. Good seats will be made available and all spectators are guaranteed a position where they may see.

Tickets may be secured from any member of the club or be purchased at the door Thursday night. The support of the general public will be greatly appreciated.

Some speculation has been voiced as to whether brotherly love will function when the two Beaudryes get into the ring.

CUBS TRADE 3 FAMILIAR FACES

Demaree, Jurges, O'Dea Traded to Giants for Mancuso, 2 Others

Chicago, Dec. 6 (P)—Manager Gabby Hartnett of Chicago's Cubs went to work tonight on the "house-cleaning" job he promised after his club lost four straight games to the New York Yankees in the winter series.

The rudy-faced boss of the Cubs last October said he was ready to trade anyone on the club except a favored four—Pitchers Dizzy Dean, Bill Lee and Clay Bryant and Third Baseman Stanley Hack, to build a more powerful club.

No Cash Involved

Today at New Orleans he acquired Outfielder Hank Leiber, Shortstop Dick Bartell and Catcher Gus Mancuso from the New York Giants. In return he gave Outfielder Frank Demaree, Shortstop Billy Jurges and Ken O'Dea, a young catcher.

No cash was involved in the deal which was consummated by Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, and Charles H. Stoneham, president of the Giants, over the telephone from the minor league meeting at New Orleans. Hartnett and Clarence Rowland, one of the Cub scouts, concluded the negotiations with President Stoneham and Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, in the southern metropolis.

The deal was the biggest and most important thus far of the winter trade season.

In trading Jurges, a marvelous fielding shortstop, Hartnett broke up one of the greatest keystone combinations in baseball—Jurges and Herman, Cub second baseman and captain of the team. Jurges, 27 years old, joined the Cubs in 1931 and reached his peak in 1937 when he led the National league shortstops by 15 points.

Lazzari Released

Tony Lazzari received a birthday present from the Cubs today—a requested one which ended his puzzling one-year connection with the National league club.

The tactician veteran, 34 years old today, who spent the 1938 season as a Cub utility infielder and pinch hitter after more than a decade of stardom with the New York Yankees, sent owner P. K. Wrigley the following wire: "Am making formal request for release, appreciate same." To which Wrigley immediately replied: "Granted."

From his home near San Francisco, Lazzari said he had "four or five offers" to play with major league teams and expects to accept one within a week.

Regarding the trade, Owner Wrigley said, "we regard it as a good deal for both clubs. It should strengthen each. In acquiring Leiber we will have a long hard-hitting outfielder that we so badly needed."

Help for Hartnett

Bartell, 30 years old, participated in 147 games with the Giants last season, batting .262. Leiber hit .269 for 98 games, Mancuso, sharing the catching duties with Harry Danning, got into 52 games and clouted the ball at the rate of .348, according to unofficial averages.

The Cubs have been angling for a reliable catcher to relieve Hartnett of some of his arduous backstopping duties. Next season he will start his 18th year with the Cubs. O'Dea proved unsatisfactory last season when injuries twice forced Hartnett to the sidelines. Mancuso is 32 years old and is rated as a heavy catcher in handling pitchers. O'Dea is 25 years old and was acquired by the Cubs from Columbus of the American association in 1935.

Demaree slightly outbit Leiber last season, according to unofficial averages, clouting .273, but participated in 31 more games than the Giant outfielder. Leiber is 26 years old, Demaree 23.

O'Dea, getting into 86 games last season, batted .263. Jurges hit .243 in 137 games.

SPILLING the DOPE

We were sorry to hear the announcement that Paul Mickelson, clever Associated Press sports-writer, has left the ranks for straight news... although we don't blame him... in spite of the fact that it seems rosy to many fellows to be able to see all the football and basketball games, etc., free of charge... that's okay for a few games but, by the time you've written accounts of 25 or 30 games, the season becomes a distinct headache... then, of course, there's the thankless, unending task of trying to convince every peanut promoter that his basketball, diamondball, hockey, bowling, volleyball or ping pong team isn't the only one in the city... and that, if we were to give his team a streamer, we'd have to do it for every Tom, Dick-and-Harry in the country... and, of course, too, there are the perennial publicity hounds—

those guys with a personal axe to grind... no, we can't blame Mickelson for leaving the racket.

Mickelson's pen in seasons started us to thinking about some of the personalities we have encountered in our short tenure as a sport scribe... many can be classified: Dynamic personality... Fritz Crisler by a wide margin... Crisler is the outstanding man in any room of people... it is easy to see how he could inspire college football players to heights.

Spit second accuracy... Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin tenter, who missed by only two tenths of one second the pace of 4:14 for the mile he had set for himself in his exhibition at the Regal carnival.

Yarn spinner... Con Jennings, Marquette University's congenial athletic director, lights up his trusty pipe, sits back on an easy chair and in his calm, matter-of-fact way, tells a whole lot of interesting tales of his long career in one evening.

Exact opposites... Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, and Mike Gary, former Gopher star now coaching at Western State at Kalamazoo... Bierman doesn't seem as though he would speak above a natural voice in talking to his boys while you could picture Gary as "giving the boys the works" although, of course, the exact opposite may be true.

Best wit... Jimmy Crowley is one of those guys who knows how to answer your questions without telling you anything... but if you wait a few minutes, he'll come up with an original bright crack good for the basis of a story.

Perseverant promoter... Abe Saperstein, general manager of the Harlem Globe Trotters, always keeps in personal touch with sportswriters throughout the country... none is "small fry" as far as he is concerned... and it generally gets results.

Real press agent... Ted Carpenter, Marquette University's publicity director, writes a newspaperman's story... and leaves the superfluous superlatives to the fresh-out-of-college boys... his short human interest items crack metropolitan sport sheets with regularity... and he'll dig up an exclusive yarn for you any time.

Versatility... Tom Harmon, Michigan soph flash, is interesting to watch on the gridiron... he has what they call "blinding speed," is the best passer in the Big Ten, a terrific defensive player and loves to clear the path for the other boys... and he is supposed to be tops as a cager and track man.

"L.I. Abner"... LeRoy Edwards, lanky boy from Kentucky, who leads the clever Oskosh All Stars in scoring... Edwards still has the old high school spirit... and likes to do a bit of clowning on the side.

Modesty... Ralph Heikknen, Michigan guard, doesn't seem to be aware that he is an All American... or that anybody would be interested in the fact.

A bore... Johnny Inkslinger, Daily Press sport scribe, who thinks he can ramble on indefinitely and have people like it... they don't... but he doesn't seem to care.

those guys with a personal axe to grind... no, we can't blame Mickelson for leaving the racket.

HOULE PACES HARRIS CREW

14 Parochials Get Chance As Brunelle Trys New Material

Paced by R. Houle, veteran senior center, a smooth-working Harris cage team defeated St. Joseph high school 27 to 10 at the Escanaba Junior high school gymnasium last night. Coach Arne Nelmark's crew took the lead in the first quarter, led 14 to 4 at the half, and was not threatened during the game.

In a fast-moving preliminary between two leading Escanaba independent teams, the Eagles defeated the H & J Oils by a score of 35 to 22. The Eagles led 20 to 12 at the half, and R. Johnson scored 15 points before he went out on fouls in the last quarter.

Fourteen men were used by Coach Leo Brunelle, in an effort to work out a clicking combination and to see his whole squad work under fire. Brunelle is returning this year as coach of the parochials, after several years as mentor of Jordan college.

No players went out on fouls during the game, although Referee George Ruwitek was kept busy by occasional pile-ups. The Harris crew was lost at first in the large gymnasium, nearly twice the size of their home floor, but found themselves quickly and made good use of the space in outdistancing the locals on breaks down the floor.

The rangy, bespectacled Harris center scored almost entirely from the end of the floor on short, one-handed shots. At one time, shortly before the half, he took the ball from a startled parochial guard in mid-floor and dribbled alone down the floor to sink an easy shot from under the basket. G. Beauchamp scored 9 points for Harris, and the veteran senior VanEnkevort sank two field goals for four points.

Aslund and Gray divided honors for the parochials, with four points apiece. Aslund scored two field goals, and Gray counted a field goal and two free throws.

Bill Cissell Sold

New York, Dec. 6 (P)—In addition to their three-for-three player deal with the Chicago Cubs, the New York Giants today announced that Chalmers (Bill) Cissell, veteran second baseman, had been sold to the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League on a straight cash deal. Cissell was secured from Baltimore last season as "insurance" after Burgess Whitehead failed to attain playing condition.

News of the two deals was telephoned from New Orleans by President Horace C. Stoneham, who was highly enthusiastic over the Giants' acquisitions. "I have some great news," were Stoneham's first words to Secretary Edde Brannick.

Keil Dissatisfied With Work of Charges In Opening Game

Gladstone, Mich.—Plainly dissatisfied with the work of his charges in their opener against Rapid River last week, Coach Eldon Keil started grooming the team for their second game of the season Friday evening when Manistique will furnish the opposition on the local court.

The reserve quintets of both schools will play in a preliminary. While no radical changes in lineup are contemplated, the local mentor let it be known that he couldn't put the stamp of approval on the work of several players and that unless there is a definite change this week some new faces will be in the starting lineup.

Ball handling and team play was ragged in the first tilt and sessions this week are being devoted to ironing out some of the faults disclosed.

At the present time it appears that the starting lineup against the Schoolcrafters will be Capt. Zervic, center; Dahl and Knutson, forwards; Petrovich and Kee, guards.

Grace Period Ends For Sixto Escobar

New York, Dec. 6 (P)—The New York State Athletic Commission, pointing out that champion Sixto Escobar's six-month grace period for defending his bantamweight crown had expired, today ruled that George Pace, lightly-touted Cleveland boxer, and Lou Salica of Brooklyn should meet in a 15-round elimination bout, the winner to get the title shot at Escobar.

The commission refused to interfere in a dispute between Tommy Farr, former British Empire heavyweight champion who meets Lou Nova at Madison Square Garden Dec. 16, and the British board of boxing control. The latter body called a protest against the Farr-Nova fight on the grounds Farr had been sued for breach of contract by General A. C. Critchley and Sidney Hulls, British promoters, for failing to meet Max Schmeling in 1937.

Two-Ton Tony Lets Up On Beer, Trains For Thomas Fight

St. Louis, Dec. 6 (P)—Mourningly, Two-Ton Tony Galento of Orange, N. J., let up tonight on the beer and cigar side of his training and laboriously worked for 10 rounds in preparation for his 12-round fight with Otis Thomas tomorrow.

Promoters estimated the fight would draw 13,000 cash customers.

Galento was expected to scale about 235 to the St. Louis negro's 200 at the weigh-in.

The fight will be the No. 1 heavyweight challenger's second since he was stricken with pneumonia last summer. The bell for the Galento-Thomas gas was set for shortly after 10 p. m. (CST) after 20 rounds of preliminaries.

NOVEMBER ORE TRAFFIC HEAVY

Escanaba and Marquette Fail to Share In Late Upturn

Iron ore shipments from upper lake ports for the month of November increased 56.626 tons or 3.57 per cent over last year, according to a recent bulletin of the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association.

Traffic for the month was increased over last year at Ashland, Duluth and Two Harbors, and dropped at Escanaba, Marquette and Superior.

November shipments for Escanaba this year totaled 113,572 tons, or 7.69 per cent of the total upper lakes shipments.

Although the volume of ore shipped through the local docks is almost two-thirds less than last year's total shipments, the percentage of ore handled here rose slightly.

Much enthusiasm was displayed last Wednesday night at the city recreational center, when shuffleboarders discovered that all courts were waxed and that an additional court and equipment had been added for their entertainment.

Also causing a great deal of hilarity, was the fact that in lettering the newest addition, the painter had inadvertently labeled the "bogie" square as "ten oof" instead of "ten of."

Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne had two full teams at work at once on either end of the court, indicating that success may have crowned his dream of having two almost equal teams to put in play at will.

Although he has given little indication of who will start tomorrow night against Kalamazoo, observers picked a first team consisting of Frank Shidler and George Kalkowski at forwards, Ben Dargush at center, and Leo Callahan and Max Dalrymple at guards.

If this combination receives the coach's blessing at game time, the second squad probably will consist of Marty Hutt, last year's high scorer, at one forward; Bob Phillips, at the other; Max Hindman at center, Chester Abuchan at guard, and either Charles Henry or Bill Carpenter, letter man, at the other guard.

The Father and Son social sponsored by the Holy Name society of St. Joseph's church will be held in the club rooms this evening.

Members of other Holy Name societies in the city are cordially invited.

WEEK-END PROGRAMS

Iron Mountain—Programs of supervised winter sports for every week-end through January and February, to be climaxed by a professional tournament February 19 at the Pine mountain ski slide—highest artificial slide in the world—are provided in the tentative schedule set up by the sports committee of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Winter Sports Association.

Although the program is tentative, Hardgrove said, it will include events at the Kingsford boggan run, Devil's hill ski slide, cross country ski runs, skating and various other winter sports and special events in which prizes will be offered.

COMMUNICATION

WORLD'S OLDEST SIN

To the Editor—Well, I see by the Press that Escanaba's oldest industry has paid its annual license fee, in the form of a fine, imposed in a justice court.

Escanaba can lay claim to being famous for many things and in many ways. We have had the "Fest" and we have the annual Small Festival. We have a "mile of retail stores," and a workmen's council under a city manager who knows the value of publicity.

Many are the excuses for permitting this industry. We are told that did we not have this "segregated district" our girls and women of respectable families would not be safe on the streets.

But now that it has come out into broad daylight that the madams and girls operating in this town have contributed to the delinquency of boys fifteen and sixteen years old, and have led them into the way of thieves, it might be a good policy for the city council to begin an investigation of this industry's value to the city at large.

We have no fault to find with the police department at least not in this affair. Did it have the support of the city council and management, and did it have the support of right thinking men and women, it could soon remedy the evil that exists among us.

County Applicants For Citizenship To Appear Next Week

Delta county applicants for United States citizenship will meet with M. H. Powers, citizenship examiner, for interviews on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

Some of the petitioners are now making out their first papers, and others are ready for their second ones. Those who will require witnesses are asked to bring them when they appear before the examiner.

Radio Around The Clock

BY C. E. BITTERFIELD Associated Press Radio Editor (Time is Central Standard)

New York, Dec. 6.—The WABC-CBS network, which leaves most of the fight broadcasting to NBC, will seek to change that situation Wednesday night by placing its microphone at a ringside in St. Louis when Tony Galento and Otis Thomas meet as heavyweights.

Other news items are these features: WJZ-NBC 3, biennial meeting of the Federal Council of churches in Buffalo, speakers Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, Dr. John W. Langdale and President Lenox R. Loeb of NBC; WJZ-NBC 8 and 10, Pan-American congress broadcasts from Lima, Peru.

Although announced for last week—the change being made at the last minute—Eddie Guest is delaying his shift in the time of his program on WABC-CBS to 9 o'clock until tomorrow night. It formerly was at 9:30.

The Chicago Opera is to be tuned in on WJZ-NBC at 9 to an hour of the performance of "The Barber of Seville."

Musically also is the matinee concert by the Indianapolis symphony on WABC-CBS at 2, another in the current series by this organization.

POLL GIVES TOP HONORS TO TCU

Associated Press Rating Puts Tennessee 2nd and Duke Third

New York, Dec. 6. (AP)—Texas Christian, which placed two of its stars on the Associated Press all-America team, today gained further fame as it won first place in the final Associated Press national ranking poll of the season.

The Texans, winners of the Southwest conference title, undefeated and untied in ten games and held to less than 20 points in only one of those victories, have a post-season date Jan. 2 in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans with Carnegie Tech, which finished sixth in the season's-end standings.

T. C. U., polling 55 of the 87 first-place votes, piled up a total of 808 points, 102 more than all-conquering Tennessee. Duke, unbeaten, untied, unscored-on and bound for the Rose Bowl to play Southern California, placed third with 679; Oklahoma, also unbeaten and untied and slated to meet Tennessee in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., Jan. 2, was fourth with 524, and Notre Dame, beaten by Southern California in its closing game last Saturday, dropped from first to fifth place.

There was a definite shift of power away from the east this year. In 1937 the east placed Pittsburgh at the head of the list, Fordham third, Villanova sixth and Dartmouth seventh. With Carnegie in the 1938 first ten are only Pittsburgh and Holy Cross at No. 8 and No. 9, behind Southern California and ahead of Minnesota.

In addition to Southern California's topping of Notre Dame, which incidentally moved the Trojans up from eighth place to seventh, two of last Saturday's other contests also shifted the standings. Tennessee's thorough 47-0 pasting of Mississippi boosted Major Bob Neyland's fine team from fourth to the runner-up position, and Oklahoma's 28-0 defeat of Washington State brought the Sooners from fifth to fourth.

The final rankings (first-place votes in parentheses, points scored on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis): TEAM POINTS Texas Christian (55) 808 Tennessee (16) 708 Duke (11) 679 Oklahoma (4) 679 Notre Dame (4) 524 Carnegie Tech 490 Southern California (1) 406 Pittsburgh 390 Holy Cross 349 Minnesota 111

Cunningham May Quit Running For Lecturing

By WHITNEY MARTIN New York, Dec. 6. (AP)—It's rather disconcerting sitting with your feet planted in shoes which don't even move when you do a right face. The Brogans left by the departure of ye old professor, Paul Mickelson, are big enough for an outdoor swimming pool, which undoubtedly accounts for that sinking feeling.

The same midwest breeze which soon will stroke the cheeks of ye old professor carry eastward the rumor that New York, Boston and intermediate points may miss a familiar figure when the indoor track season rolls around.

The report is to the effect that Glenn Cunningham, who provides the shadow for the other mile and 1500-meter runners, may pass up the eastern meets this winter.

Illinois Professor Puts Notre Dame First, Duke Second

Chicago, Dec. 6. (AP)—Elmer Layden's once-beaten Notre Dame eleven was given top national ranking today for the 1938 football season by Dr. Frank G. Dickinson, University of Illinois professor and originator of the rating system bearing his name.

Undefeated Duke rated second 27.10 points and Tennessee, also unbeaten, was third at 26.68. Dr. Dickinson, describing Southern California as the leading "up and down" team of the year, gave the Trojans fourth place despite their 13-0 victory over Notre Dame Saturday.

Notre Dame will receive the Knute Rockne trophy, annually presented by Notre Dame's famed "four horsemen," the great 1924 Irish backfield in which Elmer Layden teamed with Jimmy Crowley, Fordham's head coach, Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, and Don Miller.

CHRISTMAS A YEAR LATE

By Edith Kirkwood

"Tomorrow's Christmas day, tomorrow's Christmas day," little Dorothy was singing as she was prancing about the dingy apartment. She'd stop to roll up the sleeves that were continually slipping down over her hands. No wonder they didn't stay up, for the dress was one that Helen, two years older, had outgrown. Mother had meant to make it over, but she was too tired when she got home from cleaning house for other people all day.

"Hush up, Dorothy. Mother will be coming in pretty soon, and she'll cry if we say anything about Christmas," Helen reminded her. "I don't see why Christmas is a time to laugh, and not to cry," Dorothy responded philosophical.

"Don't you remember last Christmas, and how daddy didn't come home with our packages?" Helen couldn't believe that even so little a sister as Dorothy should forget that. For daddy had never been heard from since that Christmas eve.

As Dorothy started to reply, Helen warned her: "Sh—, there comes mother," and the youngsters were silent when she entered. Mrs. Bond, tired and absorbed in her own anxious thoughts, did not heed their unchildlike quiet. Her apathy had developed that trait in them, and she was unaware of what her sorrow was doing to her children. She buried herself with the simple meal, and Dorothy's faint, "Mother, is Santa coming tonight?" was the cause of her only break: "My poor baby, I'm afraid Santa doesn't even know you exist," she sobbed. She was getting them into bed, and they were soon asleep, their pillows wet with their tears that Santa was not coming. Too tired to sew, and in deepest depression, Mrs. Bond was roused from her inert brooding by a rap at the door.

A caller was unheard of. No one came to see her, for she had repelled all kindly offers of assistance when her husband disappeared. She ignored the knock. When it came again it was a significant signal, two short raps, repeated three times. Her husband's knock!

Quivering with excitement, she moved toward the door. Her fingers were trembling so that she could hardly turn the key. The door opened, and she gasped, "Tom!" as the sturdy, well-dressed man exclaimed, "Barbara!" and took her in his arms. Then, after a long embrace, he led her to the big chair she had just quilted, and drew her on his lap while they talked.

"I left you Christmas eve to do the last-minute shopping. But an icicle struck my head, and knocked me unconscious. I couldn't remember who I was or where I lived. I went to a hotel and after a few days got work as a salesman.

'Silent Night, Holy Night'

NEW YORK.—Youthful members of the choir of St. Vincent of Ferrer's church, New York, lift their boyish voices in the unforgettable hymns of Christmas. Throughout the United States, church choirs are preparing special music for Yuletide recitals, for song plays an all-important part in the observance of Christmas. No church music is better known than Yuletide hymns.

I told my boss my predicament, and he has been very kind. Today Christmas shopping somehow brought back to me who and what I was. And I couldn't wait to find you!"

Barbara asked, "I thought I left no clues. I thought you had deserted me, when we found you weren't an accident case." "Deserted you? You? My poor child," and he drew her close again. "I did have a heck of a

COLORADO TOWN REVIVES RITUAL OF LOG BURNING

Palmer Lake, Colo.—Residents of this high-perched town on the great Divide celebrate their modern Christmas in an old-fashioned way, by burning the traditional yule log.

Each year the log is secretly cut, notched and tied with hempen cord, hidden among the trees and rocks awaiting the finder to whom goes the honor of dragging it into town.

Last year for the first time Palmer Lake burned its yule log in the town hall, where local firemen built a huge stone fireplace wide enough to accommodate a four-foot log. Previously the celebration was held in a private home where fewer guests could be accommodated.

The hunt for the yule log time, but old Jack, the baggage man, finally told me where you had moved to. But now we must get ready for last year's Christmas. And next week we'll get out of this hotel." Tom's affluence was apparent.

"My dear, my dear, I don't mind the hotel, now that you are safely home," Barbara whispered. "All right. Haha, old girl. But stop crying down my neck if you are really glad to have me back," but his tender kiss belied his joking words.

starts at 1 p. m., when all participants are summoned by a bugle to meet in front of the hall.

The yule-log has a colorful history. In Scandinavia, where Thor, the god of thunder, was worshipped, great log fires were built along the rocky shores both at mid-summer and mid-winter in order to propitiate him for his rumbling wrath.

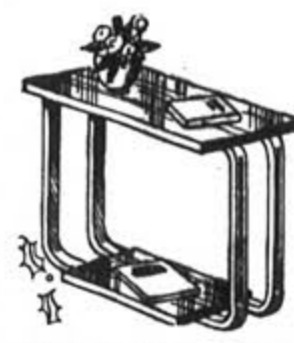

When the early fathers substituted the feast of the Nativity for that of Mithra, the Persian sun god who was worshipped on December 25 in early Rome, a different note crept in. Yule-tide became a time for feuds to cease.

In England, before the Reformation, bringing in the yule log was an important part of the Christmas festivities. The community usually gathered in the hall of the lord of the manor, where the log was kindled with due ceremony and all partook in the wassail cup, a sweet elder flavored with fruits and spices.

Community Christmas Trees

In many American communities "city" Christmas trees are erected each December in the main square or street and the town's Yule activities center there. Many communities also string colored lights along the streets during the season to accentuate the holiday spirit. Usually the lighting of the community tree or the special street lights is accompanied by a ceremony inaugurating the Christmas shopping season. Lights are removed immediately after New Year's Day.

ANCIENT HOLLY STILL SPREADS HOLIDAY CHEER

In homes throughout America this Christmas the holly plant will carry on its age-old duty of spreading Yuletide spirit, a custom that dates back to the pagan tribes of continental Europe.

Originally the holly grew wild in the United States over a range from Massachusetts to Missouri and south to Florida and Texas. But too much harvesting in northeastern United States has destroyed much of the natural growth. Today most holly is grown from Norfolk, Va., to Florida within 50 or 60 miles of the Atlantic coast, and westward in the Gulf region to Louisiana.

Current popularity of the holly is a continuation of the custom of the Druid feasts which honored the mistletoe and holly in pagan rites. In Europe the tribes under Roman rule sent holly branches to each other as evidence of good will. Homes and churches were decorated with holly laden with crimson berries when the pagans celebrated the feast of Saturnalia, the "turning on the sun."

Yuletide, the feast made to the Celtic sun god, Yaloul, finally became the celebration of Christmas and the holly tree, known as the holy tree, became the sacred tree for decorations at your Christmas festivals.

Holly does not bear berries until it is five years old. Before that time the male and female trees cannot be told apart. There are more than 300 species of the plant, all of them native to the temperate and tropical regions of both hemispheres.

Only the American and English holly trees have rich green leaves. These are outlined with sharp spines or teeth, and the fruiting branches have round crimson berries.

ICHESTER BADGER FEAST

Ichester, England.—One of the strangest surviving Christmas customs is the Ichester badger feast, started by poachers in Norman times. Soon before the feast the village lads catch a badger kill and dress it. On Christmas eve it is strung on a spit over a huge fire in the inn. When roady the party attacks it with fingers—no cutlery is allowed. Singing and toasting accompany the feast, which attracts practically all the villagers and nearby farmers.

The lampknacker fish has a row of suction cups on its under side, and thus anchors itself to rocks.

A Bag of Fun for All the Family

PARLOR LAWN GAME—Indoor croquet, a game for young and old, will entertain the entire family. The boxes of games in the background range from building affairs for the smallest children to involved word-building and card games for the adults in the home. You may be sure that any family you know wants Santa Claus to bring at least one gift that is for fun and nothing else.

BY MARIAN YOUNG

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

New York—Even though you get a bit hot under the collar every time you hear somebody say again that "men are just little boys," you'll have to admit that they are at Christmas time. And so are the great majority of women "just little girls" when it comes to the kind of Christmas presents that amuse or have something to do with their hobbies or will make entertaining more fun.

She'll be pleased with linens and lamps and other gadgets for her home, and clothes and accessories for herself, of course, but mother might like some new golf clubs, a couple of books written by an expert on her particular hobby, or a dozen packs of monogrammed playing cards or an album of records for the victrola more than you suspect.

Among other gifts and gadgets that the Lady of the House might find entertaining are: a gayly printed gardening apron with small but practical shears and similar implements in handy pockets; a market basket full of deluxe tulip bulbs; an Early American bird cage for her canary with honey-maple frame and pewter bars, or an assortment of queer looking tropical plants in a huge glass jug.

Golf Widows Can Keep Husbands Home

What to give a man is one of woman's principle Christmas worries. Well, if he's an indoor sportsman, how about these?

An indoor putting device with rotating turn-tables to furnish interesting problems for golfers; an indoor archery set with suction-cap tipped arrows, a folding pocket table with chip pockets for eight players, a cloth fitting any bridge table with a new game combining the best points of rummy, poker, pinchle and Michigan, a home badminton game resembling a ping-pong layout.

For Gamblers, Young and Old

This year the shops boast a marvelous array of parlor fun outfits for both young and old game addicts.

A croquet set, to be played on the living room rug, has longer mallets than those of yesteryear. Crossword anagrams is a new combination of word building that uses alphabet tiles instead of cards. Peg Chow and Teika (both played on the same peg board) are new developments of Chinese checkers.

1938 Toys Go Very Practical

Of course, Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without toys. And the toymakers have done themselves proud this year.

For Junior and his little sister, there's a kit of radio sound effects with which the youngsters can produce the sound of thunder, galloping hoofs, crackling flames and raindrops with authentic radio technique.

Also new for children are: a playroom organ with four octaves and perfect pitch; a rotating printing press with rubber type and a flat bed model with regulation metal type, both of which will print posters, cards and tabloid newspapers.

Consider, too—a toy cash register with recording tape; a miniature vacuum cleaner; an electric pencil for etching on wood, leather or cork; a performing circus that can be set up in 20 different acts; a miniature electric train system for the apartment dweller's child; an elevator type coal chute operated by remote control that loads and unloads coal realistically.

There's a tractor in pedal car size for the first time. And a mysterious street car that starts when you press a spot on its roof.

Among the most exciting dolls

Railway Station Carols Make Travelers Relax

In metropolitan railroad stations throughout the country this holiday season, hurried travelers will halt to the strains of Christmas carols echoing from lofty ceilings and long corridors. Originally adopted several years ago in New York, the idea has spread each December to more cities until railroad station music has become a tradition.

The concerts were started because railroad officials decided "everyone was in too much of a hurry" around Christmas time, and that if people could relax before starting their homeward journey they would have a better time.

Millions Of Christmas Gift Items Offered In Pre-Holiday Sales

FATEFUL MEETING

By Katherine Edelman

In the gray dusk of a December afternoon the slowly moving figure seemed almost a part of the landscape. Half a dozen cars whizzed by but not one stopped to offer him a lift or ask where he was going. If the Spirit of Christmas, of kindness, was abroad, it was surely passing him up.

Ten minutes more of plodding through the chill, darkening air, and another car came roaring down the road, passing him by as the others had done. The grim lines around his mouth grew deeper, then he heard a loud grinding of brakes.

"Almost passed you up," a gay voice cried.

"Pretty fine of you to stop for an old man." He shuffled into the vacant seat as he spoke.

"Oh, that's nothing," the gay voice was a bit embarrassed. "But I did almost pass you up. With this Christmas business, and the rush and hurry, one could pass up their own mother."

"I like to hear you say that. It's what I've always believed. The fact is, I was making a bit of a test today—had a bet with a friend about it. What's your name?"

"The name is Tod Jenkins. I'm headed for St. Louis—going home to spend Christmas with mother. I graduated in engineering last June."

"An interesting story," Tod turned to look at the old man as he spoke. He almost swung the car off the slab. "Why—why you look years and years younger than I thought!"

A hearty laugh sounded against the sharply rising wind. The man was speaking again. "I'm not so old, Tod," he said slowly. "I'm a long way from the old fellow you were kind enough to pick up. Yesterday we had an argument at the club. I made a bet with a fellow that I wouldn't have to walk an hour before I would find the Spirit of Christmas. It was rather a crazy thing to do, but I happen to be rather an eccentric scientist. My name is Perry Birch."

"Perry Birch?" Tod's eyes widened in astonishment, and his foot went off the accelerator, bringing the car almost to a standstill before he went on. "Why—why," he stammered, "I've read everything you've written—studied your methods and work for years. In fact," his voice grew more embarrassed, "I've been hoping that some day I might follow in your footsteps. The biggest wish of my life is to become a scientist like you!"

In Pittsburgh, Pa., before smoke reform policies were put into force, it was estimated that the annual smoke damage amounted to $10,000,000.

A SANTA CLAUS FOR KEEPS

By Helen Waterman

Babs was such a little girl to be disappointed at Christmas, but there seemed no other way.

Her mother called her to the bedside. "Babs, darling," she began softly. "Christmas will soon be here."

The little girl's eyes shone. "It won't be the same this year, darling. There won't be any presents, or well—anything."

"No Santa Claus?"

"No Santa Claus."

"But why?"

"You're going on five, Babs. Try to understand. What we call Santa Claus is really just the love people have for each other at Christmas." Her voice trailed off in a fit of coughing. "That pillow—there—now I can breathe. It isn't I don't love you, darling. I just can't do things this Christmas. That lovely tree last year—you remember it, don't you, Babs?"

"Oh, yes, Mummy."

"We'll try to have one like it next year, if— She choked a moment. "If I get well."

"Why, Mummy, you're crying!"

"No, no I'm not. See? Why don't you run out and play a bit? Get your coat and rubbers."

Babs went out into the snow very thoughtful. A group of children were playing down the block, but she didn't want company.

Of course there was a Santa Claus. Hadn't he come last year? And all her playmates—he came to see them, too. How could Mummy be so mistaken?

She hadn't intended to come so far. But it was fun walking on the crisp, crunchy snow. And there, ahead, were men stringing lovely colored lights and loops of greenery on lamp posts.

"What's she want, Bill?"

"I can't just get it. Something about Santa Claus."

"Why, sure, kid. Just down the block. He's ringing a little bell."

The men laughed, and Babs laughed, too. Santa Claus! She would find Santa Claus. The street was alarmingly crowded, but she could hear the thin tinkle of a bell.

Then she saw him, all dressed in red and with a long white beard. He was sitting on a big red box, and every now and then someone would drop money into it. Babs stood for a long while watching, fascinated, afraid to speak.

The tinkling stopped, and the Santa Claus came over. "What's the matter?" he asked gently. She let him lead her back to the big red box. He took her up on his lap, and gave her the little bell to ring. Slowly she told her story. Mummy, who was so sick, had said there wasn't any Santa Claus this year. Babs took care of Mummy. She didn't know how to get home.

"I think I had better see if we can't find your Mummy," Santa Claus declared. "She's probably worried about you. You aren't afraid to come with me, are you?"

"Oh, no," Babs answered trustingly, and carried the bell while he put away the big red box.

They found the right neighborhood with no great difficulty. Babs insisted that Santa Claus come in, "to show Mummy there really is a Santa Claus," and he agreed. Then things began happening. There was a doctor, and a nurse, and Babs must be quiet, and mustn't see Mummy—not for days. Through it all Santa Claus kept coming back, only without the beard or red suit.

Until Christmas, that is, and then he came dressed as she had seen him first, even to the little bell, and with a big red box full of toys for her. And as an even grander present, he said that Mummy was well enough to sit up.

He was very tender to Mummy, and carried her gently to the big chair that was ready for her. Babs was sure that Mummy looked prettier than she had ever seen her. Oh, it was such a Merry Christmas! If it could only last!

"My," said Babs. "I wish you could stay here forever."

And the Santa Claus man answered very gravely. "Thank you, Babs. There's nothing I should like better."

But he wasn't looking at Babs. It was more as though he were talking to Mummy.

Horses frequently get flat feet.

"I like to hear you say that. It's what I've always believed. The fact is, I was making a bit of a test today—had a bet with a friend about it. What's your name?"

"The name is Tod Jenkins. I'm headed for St. Louis—going home to spend Christmas with mother. I graduated in engineering last June."

"An interesting story," Tod turned to look at the old man as he spoke. He almost swung the car off the slab. "Why—why you look years and years younger than I thought!"

A hearty laugh sounded against

How To Save Time

Saving time is one of the best things done in the United States. A desire to save time sends us hurrying along the highways in great danger. Saving time brought about many improvements in modern equipment ranging from the huge assembly lines of industry to the orange squeezers in the kitchen.

It is of little importance here that no good use can be found for the time so saved. But the ambition to save time must generally be commended. Conservation of energy is another equally laudable ambition and both may be admirably served in the next few weeks by a few moments of thoughtfulness here and now.

Sit down at once, with pencil and paper. Make your Christmas lists and then: Do your Christmas shopping early.

HIS LAST DIME

By Katherine Edelman

Dan Driscoll was broke. Well, almost broke. He had one thin dime, hiding in the dark depths of a purse that had once held bills of three figures. He had held it for 20 years, ever since he had found it while ploughing on his father's farm. His lucky dime—that's what he had called it. Dan laughed grimly at the thought. Lucky! Had any one ever been so unlucky as him? Here was the whole town preparing for Christmas, shopping, spending oodles of money, and he was penniless, weary wanderer. A lucky dime!

A little place around the corner caught his eye. Dan entered, his nostrils quivering under the tantalizing odors. He looked around with greedy eyes, his mouth watering with longing. Soup, roast fowl, potatoes, luscious mince pie! But he mustn't think about such things. He had just one dime—the price of a cup of coffee and a doughnut, or a hamburger. Which would it be? The queer little man inside the counter waited while Dan weighed the important question. The hamburger won. While it was being cooked to order, Dan dug into his pocket and took the dime from the battered purse. Hungry as he was, he handed it over before attacking the food. His voice was a bit apologetic. "It's an old timer," he said, "been in my pocket for years and years."

The old man didn't seem to be listening. He was peering through his spectacles at the coin. "You're sure you're telling the truth about this dime?" he queried.

"The absolute truth," Dan answered. "But, if you won't believe me, you can have your coffee and hamburger."

A shrill laugh ran through the place. "It's a good thing you ran across someone who knew, and better, somebody who was honest," the little man was saying excitedly. "Do you know that you have one of the rarest dimes at large? It's—it's worth thousands."

"You mean, this thing I've held on for years is worth money?"

"It's worth big money," the cafe owner was waving his hands in the air, the dime clasped between his thumb and first finger. "I've been looking for one of them all my life!"

"Hand me that menu!" Dan

Driscoll cried commandingly. "I'm going to have a Christmas dinner right now. I'm going clear down the line, from soup to mince pie."

Amazed Santa Claus Finds 33 Stockings In Maryland Home!

Leonardtown, MD. — No less than 33 stockings are hung by the chimney with care each Christmas eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Sterling here. The couple has 17 children, who with the grandchildren and in-laws add up to the grand total of 33.

Santa Claus can hardly see the fireplace for the stockings when he slides down the chimney. But he never fails to fill them all. In the years since he started visiting the Sterling home, Santa has found that another called, the stork, also has the Sterling address in his book.

Each year there has been a "new addition" to the Sterling household, or in the homes of their children. As Santa's burden has become greater he has cheerfully risen to the needs and found plenty of toys and other "goodies" to go around.

But he has to replenish his supply after each visit to the Sterling home.

California has flown the flag of 12 nations since 1542.

Christ Died In Japan, Nipponese Villagers' Belief

Just as the Christian world is preparing to celebrate the birth of Christ, there comes from Japan this strange story of a group of Buddhists and Shintolists who believe that Jesus is buried near their village.

BY BELMAN MORIN
Tokyo. (AP)—Did Jesus Christ die in Japan?

Peasants in a remote northern village believe He did, and that His remains still lie in Japanese soil. To them, the Biblical version of his betrayal and death in Jerusalem is mere legend. The truth is, they say, that He escaped, returned to these islands, and died here at the age of 105.

Six-Pointed Star

They point to an ancient burial mound, on the outskirts of the village of Heral, and vow it marks the spot where His body was placed. Surmounting the mound is a pillar, bearing three Japanese characters, and—strangely enough—a six-pointed star composed of interlocking triangles, like the Hebrew emblem. The characters are pronounced "Soral-taro Tenku." The last word means "heavenly" and the first two form the Japanese name for Jesus.

Those peasants are not Christians, but Buddhists or Shintolists. Hence, they do not worship the memory of Jesus in a religious way, nor is the mound especially sacred to them. They describe Jesus as a "Sel-jin," a saint or wise man.

The village is in Aomori, near the extreme northern tip of Honshu, largest of Japan's three main islands. To the east is the sacred lake, Towada, and at no great distance southward is Mount Yada-jin. This name, in pronunciation, is almost the same as the modern word for "Jew."

No one knows the origin of the name, nor the history of that strange burial mound. The six-pointed star is completely foreign to these people. It does not appear in any of the Japanese religious symbolisms. No one knows who put it there.

Some of the peasants are acquainted with the Biblical version of the death of Christ. They do not dispute it, but they do not believe it, either. This is the Aomorian story, which they claim has been carried from father to son through nearly twenty centuries: During the reign of the Emperor Suinin, the eleventh Emperor, a young foreigner, a white man, came to live in the district. He was then 22. After 12 years, he disappeared. His name was Soral-taro.

Fifteen years later, he returned. He said he had been in the land of his birth, teaching religion and philosophy, and that, because of his beliefs, he had been sentenced to death by crucifixion.

At this point, the Aomorian story makes a sharp right-angle from all other stories about Jesus. It says that Soral-taro Tenku told them he had a younger brother, Iskir, who sacrificed his own life on the cross. The substitution is described in the Aomorian legend as a divine miracle.

Adam And Eve, Too

Soral-taro Tenku traveled for four years, thereafter, his route leading him across Europe and through Siberia. At Kalkura (now Hachinohe-machi) he reached Aomori again. He died at the age of 105, in the eleventh year of the reign of Keiko Tenno, twelfth Emperor of Japan.

The spot where his house is supposed to have stood is called "Soral Zuka," Jesus' tomb.

On the slopes of Mount Heral, overlooking the village, there are still to be seen the ruins of a stone edifice which the villagers call "Tukino-Tatte," the House of the Moon. Many foreign articles are reported to have been unearthed from the ruins. People say it is the place where Jesus worshipped.

From generation to generation, the peasants say, too, a story has come down to them of "Aya and Apa," Adam and Eve. They believe their ancestors learned it from the man they say was Jesus Christ.

American Turkey Has Foreign Name

You'll eat your turkey and like it this Christmas, but do you know where this festive bird got its name?

The turkey is the only species of poultry native to this country its name is attributed by some to its call notes, "turk-turk-turk"; others believe that its head ornaments, resembling the fez worn by natives of Turkey, gave rise to its name.

Another explanation is seen in the fact that the first turkeys from America were sold in Spain, largely by Hebrew merchants. Since the bird was frequently confused with the peacock, it is said that the Hebrew traders called it "tukki," their name for the peacock. With the widespread use of this name in English, it easily became the present "turkey."

"Osprey plumes" come from egrets, not ospreys.

First Christmas Card Appeared In England In 1846

To Moderns, sending cards is an old Christmas custom. But in the long history of Christmas days, cards are comparatively new.

The first Christmas card that historians have note of is one created in England in 1846. It was made by an artist of the Royal Academy, one J. C. Horsley. He drew it for Sir Henry Cole, who wanted a suitable greeting to send to his friends. A thousand copies were printed.

Wine An Issue
Temperance workers put that card on the map. The story is told in a book, "The Romance of Greeting Cards," by Ernest Dudley Chase. It wasn't so much because the three panels of the card were defined by a grape arbor. But the central—and biggest—panel showed a merry company of men and women. And everybody in the picture held a brimming cup of wine. The smaller panels illustrated worthy Christmas ideals, to be sure: "Feeding the hungry" and the "Clothing of the naked." But it was some time before the teetotalers' criticisms died down.

However, the idea had been launched. Royalty took it up and that established it.

The first holiday cards didn't have any of the symbols we associate with Christmas: holly wreaths, Christmas trees, Santa Claus.

HONEY'S DELIGHT—New cocktail and highball glasses in gleaming crystal and pottery demitasse cups with a base deep enough to grip firmly are ideal Christmas gifts for the woman who likes to entertain.

Almost Too Popular
Putting color in Christmas cards used to be difficult; the job had to be done by hand.

Finally, color printing came into use and Louis Prang, a German who had emigrated to America, developed a color process that, experts say, has not been equalled.

After a while, Christmas cards were almost too popular. Then artists turned to playing up individual's likes and dislikes for people who could afford to buy their designs.

Business has flourished from that day to this. Mass production cards have continued to reflect the changing times. Individualized cards have continued in vogue for those with more money to spend.

In the first group, hobby cards are among the big sellers. Skiers and skaters are prominent in many designs. Current favorites—even megaphone crooners and swing bands—appear.

Comparatively low-priced, too, are reproductions of paintings by famous contemporary artists, printed in suitable sizes for greeting cards.

Half a billion Christmas greetings—eight for every man, woman and infant in the country—will be sold in the 1938 season, manufacturers estimate.

FOR THE PUP—1938's Santa Claus will bring the family pooch a hooded raincoat this year. It's of flexible, lightweight rubber and so constructed as to stay on through thick and thin—even through a vigorous chase after the neighbor's cat.

CHRISTMAS FIRE HAZARDS

Lighted Christmas candles in the window look nice but they may ignite the curtains. Fire experts warn that extreme care must be observed in using candles and other Yuletide illumination.

Christmas Celebration Dates Back to 354 A. D., Roman Records Show

The earliest celebration of the birth of Christ, December 25 of each year, took place in the fourth century, and the custom spread from the western to the eastern church. Before that date the commemoration of Christ's nativity and baptism took place January 6.

First mention of Christmas is found in a Roman document known as the "Philocalan calendar." In the year 354, and the first English celebration of the festival was in 598, when St. Augustine baptized 10,000 converts.

In 567, the Council of Tours, France, declared a 12-day festival from Christmas to Epiphany, and later, from 991 to 1016, the laws of Ethelred ordained that all strife should cease at Christmas. In Germany, Christmas was established in 813 by the Synod of Mainz, and in Norway by King Hakon the Good, in 950.

Second-Hand Toy Business Booms Again

Discarded Playthings Provide Yule Cheer for Unfortunate

Throughout America thousands of public spirited citizens are participating in a toy industry from which they make no money, but will bring them a greater payment in satisfaction on Christmas morning.

That industry is the second-hand toy business, an enterprise that flourishes in towns and cities throughout the country each November and December. In high school manual training rooms, fire stations and service club headquarters, discarded playthings are being repaired and repainted.

In some of these workshops new toys are being fashioned by ingenious amateurs. But all of them, busy merchants and professional men are devoting their spare time to helping Santa Claus make sure he has gifts for every youngster on Christmas eve.

Dolls Get New Dresses

Dolls which faced dusty abandonment through their later years are being rejuvenated. Cleaning and new paint have brought back the first flush of youth to their shining cheeks and the early sparkle to their obediently open closed eyes. New dresses have much to their attractiveness.

There is now fire in the big glass eyes of many a rocking horse, too, the long legs of whose original owner would now dangle on the floor. With new paint throwing his proud mane into brighter relief, he's as rollicking as a steed prancing along the road to romance as ever he was.

The procedure of these community volunteer organizations varies from city to city. In larger towns, policemen and firemen are rejuvenating toys collected by Boy and Girl Scouts. Smaller communities depend on volunteer co-operation. Women make new dresses for dolls and men repair the toys.

Christmas baskets for unfortunate children will have many presents other than toys. Each year thousands of communities find means of placing candy, nuts, fruit—and often all the makings for a Christmas dinner—in each basket. Shoes, stockings, mittens and other apparel also finds a ready market.

Among unusual foods eaten in various parts of the world are: crickets in East Africa; grasshoppers among the Shoshone Indians of the state of Nevada; worms and grubs by California Indians; and ants in South America.

Cosmetic Gifts Useful, Attractive

FOR A BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS—New beauty items include a wooden comb, brush and mirror set with stylized flower basket motif; the newest manicure sets; sachet pillows; dusting powder and a cluster of five tiny spheres of perfume attached to a colorful oak leaf. Inserted at top are two lovely compacts, one with turquoise-studded artful design, the other with a huge amethyst in black enamel. Between them is a bottle of oil to keep baby's skin soft.

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer
New York. — Holly-trimmed cosmetic counters are laden with Christmas gifts that every member of the family will love. From spicy sachet pillows for grandmother to miniature nail brushes and manicure sets for small boys and girls, there's the right beauty gift for every person on your list—not skipping father, brother, Uncle John and your best beau. Your best girl, whether wife, sweetheart or mother, may have a favorite brand of perfume. These and many new varieties, too, come in unbelievably stunning bottles. Three tiny flacons with graceful plume-like stoppers are packaged in an attractive box trimmed with similar plumes. A softly lighted Christmas tree, with a sparkling white base, is loaded with eleven flacons of fine perfume. It comes complete with electric cord and plug for illumination and would be a gift de luxe indeed. Incidentally, the perfume tree would make a nice centerpiece for a Christmas party table—with a flacon for each guest.

Two tiny bottles of fine perfume, their tops swathed in white leather, are done up in a regal looking box of simulated white leather with gold trimming. Five tiny perfume spheres hang from the stem of a bright colored oak leaf. A crown of perfume comes in a Christmas bell. And a set of two sparkling white bells contains two perfumes from a famous manufacturer.

Cosmetics and Bath Items

Among other new items that are sure to bring Christmas delight to any woman you know are: a set of rouge, powder and lipstick to wear with her black dresses; giant size bath soap (1 pound) in assorted scents and flower shapes; a milkman's miniature basket rack of red wire with eight chubby bottles of pasteurized milk powder for the bath; a charming silk envelope for the purse with compartments for compact, lipstick, comb; six colorful swansdown puffs in a transparent box; spicy toilet water, bath salts, talcum and soap in a miniature trunk of early American design.

Also, a wooden bowl of potpourri to keep on the closet shelf; a good hairbrush with satinwood back and genuine, first quality boar bristles; a hand-decorated, three-piece wood dresser set with a stylized flower basket motif; a dusting powder travel box with a separate compartment for the puff; a condiment set including two tall white shakers—one filled with perfumed oil for the bath, the other with spicy after-bath talcum powder.

If you know her well enough to know her preferences and coloring, send a huge jar of her favorite cleansing cream or night cream or both; face powder, a couple of lipsticks; glamorous eye makeup; hand lotion in a festive package; two or three bottles of fine nail polish or even a jar of mask cream. And, as always, a ticket for a facial or a new permanent wave or a course of exercise treatments cannot be beaten.

Men's Shaving Equipment

For the leading man in your life there's a locker kit in a pig-skin case containing shaving cream, comb, brush, lotion and several other necessary items. This has several extra compartments for extra gadgets he'll want to pack himself.

Also worth consideration are: shaving soap and after shave lotion in wood containers with the simplest kind of lettering; a pair of handsome satinwood military brushes in a red, white and gold box; three bath-size cakes pine-scented soap in waterproof box; a streamlined shaving brush in a cylindrical case which holds the brush—bristles downward—when it isn't in use; greaseless hair tonic in a mannish looking pottery jug.

Manicure Sets For Girls

To encourage your small daughter to keep herself well-groomed, there are lots of good ideas on the Christmas counters. How about a miniature manicure set, so that her nails will be clean and neat? A small fish-shaped nail brush will be useful in this project, too. Then there are comb, brush and mirror sets in small sizes. And a variety of tiny sachet pillows, a set of which might inspire a child to keep the drawers of her dresser neater.

Christmas Wreath 'King' Started As Shoemaker

Winslow Mills, Maine—Thrown out of work when a shoe factory closed last year, Mervin Flanders came back to his home town and set him self up as the leader of Maine's Christmas decoration business. Flanders' success story started with a ball of string, some barrel hoops, some spruce boughs and a little ambition. Now he's perfected a gadget that speeds up the wreath-making process by ten times. Shoemaking, he says, can't compare to the wreath business.

STRANGER IN TOWN

By Sarah Jane Clark

Jim saw Joan first as she stopped in at Du Vall's grocery. "Mother wants a T-bone steak, the kind she always gets, and a pound of bacon." Her voice was that delightfully husky kind. Jim, having finished his purchase, got out his money slowly, counted up the amount of his purchases and looked over his change carefully before he pocketed it. She looked like a grand girl. He wished he knew her. But he was a stranger in the big city, and he'd have to wait. Couldn't rush things with a girl like that. And perhaps she had a boy friend already. Unconsciously he slowed down at the corner of his apartment building. Stupid, to have to eat all alone, the night before Christmas.

Jim turned to look back at the store he had just left, and found that the girl had overtaken him. "Hello, there, you going my way?" he asked. "I'm a stranger here, and it's mighty lonesome at Christmas—"

But the girl, with a cool, "Excuse me, please," hurried on. Jim's cheeks burned. He hadn't meant to be fresh, really.

He turned the corner and entered the doorway of his apartment. Then he saw the girl the third time. She was just opening the door and going up the stairs. She lived in the same building with him!

He ate his solitary supper in his one-room kitchenette apartment. Then, what was there to do? His first Christmas away from home. His job here was so new that he hadn't dared to ask for time off to go home. Well, he supposed he could go to a show. But when Jim got onto Delaware Place he almost changed his mind. A snow had begun to fall, a heavy leisurely snow with big flakes that made a thick carpet on the streets and sidewalks, already icy from the drizzle of the afternoon. He hesitated a minute about starting out on such a night, then thinking of the lonely room he had just quitted, he shrugged his shoulders and started up the street.

With his head down he trudged through the snow, plowing his way with difficulty against the strong wind. Too late he saw a dark figure directly in front of him. There was a bump, and a crash as an armful of packages landed on the sidewalk. Startled, Jim looked into the face of the girl he was thinking about. His face red with embarrassment, Jim picked up her bundles.

Strange to say, the girl laughed amusedly. "Why go around barging into people this way? It's just my luck, Christmas eve, to have my bundles all scattered, and," a little ruefully, "some of them broken."

NEW AND SMART—The transparent container, filled with colorful cotton powder puffs, is what some hostesses would like for her guest room at Christmas. At right is a section of a luxurious bath towel, showing new ripple weave.

"Say, that's a shame. You must let me replace anything that's broken," Jim insisted. "Really I'm awfully sorry about this. I was facing the snow and had my head down. I'll never forgive myself if you don't let me do this last minute shopping with you. I am Jim Sheridan, from Dubuque, working for the Times."

"Well, I'm Joan Stegfred. I've been feeling sorry for the way I squelched you a while ago. So I'm glad of a chance to say so." Her eyes were bright and sparkling and her cheeks glowing from the cold.

Walking down the busy streets with a pretty girl, replacing Christmas decorations that had been smashed in the fall, and being allowed to help put them on the tree later, was a lot better than going to a picture show alone. And when Joan's cheerful, friendly mother asked the homesick lad to have dinner with them next day, Jim felt that he was no longer a friendless stranger in a big city and that Christmas was a time of peace and good will, after all.

Santa Won't Miss 'Farthest North' U. S. Community

Penasse, Minn.—Youngsters living in this isolated community are quite confident Santa Claus won't pass them by this Christmas. Penasse, you see, is St. Nicholas' first stop in the United States, and the farthest north point in the nation.

The bewhiskered gentleman abandons his reindeer before he reaches Penasse each year, because the deep snow usually hampers even those sturdy steeds. He travels by ski-equipped airplane, down to the isolated village twice each week from Warroad.

Penasse's only other visitor in the winter is Indiana Pete, a trapper living on a nearby island in the Lake of the Woods. The postmistress is Miss Helen Arnold, twenty-two, who admits business isn't very rushing—even at Christmas time.

Typists for U. S. G-Men Buy Gifts for 'Children'

Washington—Girls working in the typing section of the G-men's fingerprint division at the United States Department of Justice, will stake their three "adopted" families to a Christmas dinner on December 25. Last Christmas the girls adopted three needy Washington families, agreeing to help them throughout the year. Annually the federal bureau of investigation employees distribute food, clothing and toys for orphans, hospital patients and other needy people of Washington.

Roosevelt's Greetings Broadcast to U. S. Navy

Washington—Christmas greetings from President Roosevelt and high ranking officials of the Navy department will be flashed Christmas eve from the radio towers at Arlington, Va., to the fleet and naval ships and stations throughout the world. The message is an annual custom, awaited by American "gobs" and officers alike in their iron-clad battleships thousands of miles from home.

During the last decade, motor accidents have increased 50 per cent in England.

DAVID, THE SHEPHERD

By Molly Chittick

"You can't go out to tend the sheep tonight, Judah," David heard the choke in his mother's voice. "The lion's claws have wounded you sore. I will find someone to send out with them."

"He is hot, so hot," she whispered to David after his father had fallen into a troubled sleep. "It will make him sick unto death if he goes out on the plain."

"Fear not, mother. I will go. Now that I'm fourteen, I can prove myself a man. I will go, like my great forefather, David the king."

Rebecca bade him goodbye tenderly. "Had I a son older, I should send him. But you are all I have. Take care. The lion may return."

So David drove his father's flock out onto the plain where the shepherds watched their flocks by night. The cool breeze from off the mountains made him draw his cloak close.

Suddenly over the hill before him he saw a group of men approaching. That was a surprising thing, to see men wandering about at night. But there was nothing alarming in their action.

Just in time to ease the burden of post-Christmas feast nut nibblers is this new nut cracker. Its special claim to fame is that it breaks the shells, but leaves the kernels whole. It fits a standard wall bracket, cleans easily and won't tarnish.

They seemed filled with excitement and joy.

Now one of them called: "Who is this guarding his sheep here? Oh! It is you, David, son of Judah? Come with us. We have seen you star, of the morning."

It is moving, and we are following it."

David was on his feet, listening with boyish excitement to their tale of the words they had heard from the heavens, as an angelic host praised Jehovah. His heart burned within him, and he was eager to accompany the band of shepherds.

Then he heard one of the young lambs: "Ma-aa-aa." The answering bleat came from a distance. The mother had wandered off in search of tender morsels. David heard again his mother's warning.

"I have come to guard my father's flock. I cannot go with you."

"We left our sheep, David. This is the king we are about to see. We must go. You are a fool to stay here with these few sheep, when the king is to be seen."

"I came here to tend this flock. It is not mine, but it is my task," was his only reply.

When they saw that he would not accompany them, they made haste to be on their way.

At first his excitement over the tale the shepherds had told him kept him awake. But gradually his eyes grew heavy. He was almost asleep when he heard the "Ma-aa-aa" of a young lamb again. He jumped to his feet, conscious that he had forgotten to hunt up that wandering mother. With staff in hand, and his sling ready to use, he listened intently for a moment. Then he saw the sheep, standing some distance from the others. Its head raised listening to something he could not hear. But David knew what there was to be found there. With the starlight shining full upon it, crouched a lion ready to spring.

Swift as the David of old, the lad swung his sling, and the stone went straight into the head of the crouching animal. With a low yielding of its body the lion fell in death.

"I am glad, my son, that you were so faithful," his mother praised him in the morning.

"Your father was beside himself, wild with his illness, and had I not been able to tell him you were gone out, sick as he was, and now you have slain a lion. Your fame will go before you."

"But mother, I did not see the king," and David's voice trembled.

"Do you not think the king would have scorned a lad who would desert his post of duty from idle curiosity? Nay, my son, you have done your task faithfully and well, and proved yourself a man. Later you may see the king."

Beauty Counters Will Solve Many Gift Problems

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer
What do women like for Christmas?

In any department store you'll soon notice they are pressing several deep, around every beauty counter.

So you're always safe in putting beauty gifts on your Christmas list. For instance: Perfume and eau de cologne—You may buy one or the other or give both—in matching scents. Or you might consider a large bottle of perfume with a matching purse-size container. When the small flask is emptied it can be replenished from the large one.

Cosmetic bags—The woman who travels—even if it's only an overnight trip—will relish one of these. There's a new type that's stainless and waterproof. If cosmetics or perfumes are spilled in it you simply wipe it clean with a damp cloth.

Manicure sets—They are available for men and women.

Either should include a pair of good scissors and a sturdy file. Masculine sets contain a neutral paste polish instead of the liquid type and usually have a strong nail brush. Feminine ones go in for more accessories—polish remover, cuticle oils and one or more shades of liquid polish.

Beauty mirror—Either to hang in the boudoir or to go with the comb and brush set. There's a new double-duty crystal-handled mirror with one side that magnifies, another that doesn't.

England has 23,000 schools.

A GRAND SURPRISE FOR THE FAMILY!

THE LITTLE FIR TREE
By Henry Harding

There was very little sunlight in the forest. The trees were so big, all the grown up trees. The little fir tree stretched himself and tried to imagine himself as full grown. Looking up at the sky and the stars and the moon, he listened to the big trees talk. "Isn't the moon bright tonight," one would say; and there would be a gentle rustling of their leaves as the trees would shake their heads in agreement. "I'm afraid you're going to be stunted, because there is so much shade here," a little squirrel said to the fir one day as he jumped into its branches and brushed the top limbs with his bushy tail. "It takes sunlight to make anything grow strong and tall."

So the little fir tree stretched himself up, and kept his head pointed up toward the spot of sunlight he saw clear up through the maze of heavy tree growth. He could be straight and upstanding, even if he hadn't grown tall. Today the ground was all covered with the snow which stayed white in the forest. All but a few birds had gone south. Every once in a while there was the sound of steel striking against wood, and infrequently a crashing sound of falling trees. The tall trees began to tremble. "The woodcutters are out. But this is a funny time of year," one murmured to the others. Then one of the little snow birds spoke. "Have you forgotten that every year they come to cut Christmas trees?"

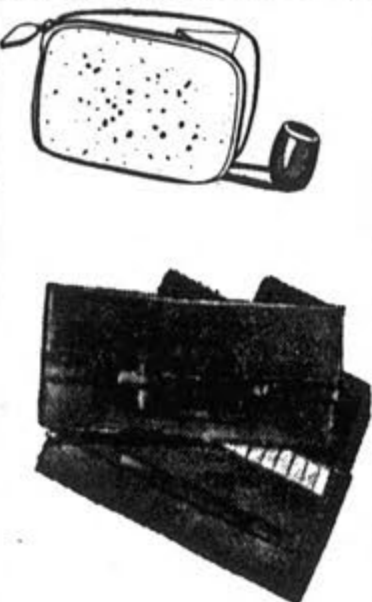

"What are Christmas trees?" the little fir asked. "Oh, they cut down the trees and take them in the house, and put candles on them so they look like stars and spangles that look like snow shining in the moonlight. And the people sing songs and give each other gifts, and it is a time of being glad," the little snow bird twittered.

"Oh, I wish they would take me," the little tree cried in excitement. "I'd love to see it all. I'd love to make people happy. But I'm too little," and he sighed unhappily.

"Sh! Let's all be quiet," one of the tall trees exclaimed. "The woodsmen are coming near us. We must be quiet so they won't notice us. Then we won't be cut down and left to die."

But in spite of their silence, the men drew near. They looked at the trees, and one of them said: "Oh, these are all too tall. No house or church could hold them. Let's get on."

Just then a little lad who was riding in the sled, called to his father: "Dad, can we find a little tree for sister? Couldn't we find a cute little tree to put in her very own room?" "Ho! Ho!" laughed a big rough man. "In her own room? No little girl will stay in her room on Christmas day!" The lad's father answered, sadly: "Yes, my little girl will. She had infantile paralysis last summer, and hasn't been able to walk since. Surely, son, we'll find a little tree for her."

"Here I am, here I am! come and get me," the little boy turned and saw the branches trembling, and the little snow bird flying away. "Why, dad, there is a cute little tree over there. Such beautiful straight tree. Wouldn't that do?" he called. The man got out from the sled. He walked to the tree and fondled it gently. "I never saw a more beautiful tree. It seems to glow. Molly will love it," he said with a smile. The little tree was so happy that he didn't feel the blows from the ax that cut him to the ground. And when they put him into the sled, he was still happy. The little boy called to his father: "It sounds as if the little tree was singing when the wind blows through its branches." And the little tree laughed delightedly.

IN THE GLAMOUR OF CHRISTMAS

By Katherine Edelman

Betty Price dabbed a spot of rouge on each cheek, touched the places lightly for a natural effect, then dipped in the perfume bottle and rubbed the back of her small ears.

Tilting back the blurred mirror she surveyed herself critically. The effect seemed entirely satisfactory. Betty sighed ecstatically. "I look like a million dollars," she breathed. "I—I can almost convince myself that I am a great lady tonight."

Carefully her silver-slipped feet descended the narrow stairs. She must get away as quickly as possible. What would the unromantic Mr. and Mrs. James Barstow say if they saw the Cinderella of their kitchen arrayed in garments like those? Betty chuckled at the thought. They would think she had gone crazy if they found out that she had spent a whole month's salary to rent the things she was wearing, and to buy a ticket for the opera.

"But they never will find out," she told herself, as she carefully closed the back door behind her. At the corner, she waited for a cab. On the way down, she heard the voice of Christmas anywhere. She saw its symbols in shop windows; in arches of green and red strung across the streets. She told herself it must be the Christmas feeling in the air that made her do this daring thing. It was utterly ridiculous to dress up like a great lady, but one had to be different at Christmas. And life had been pretty dull for Betty since she had to accept the work she was doing. The story of the opera took her back to a medieval world. In a few moments she was completely lost in its atmosphere, so much so that she failed to notice that the man seated at her right was sending admiring glances in her direction. When the curtain went up, he leaned over and spoke. "I love this," he said simply.

ELEGANT BED JACKET—Real lace and shining peach satin are combined to make a perfectly lovely, exquisitely feminine bed jacket that is a Yuletide gift de luxe for a life-abled lady of leisure or an invalid.

"I do, too," Betty answered, with a little catch in her voice. It seemed incredible that he was speaking to her. He was really acting as if she belonged. By the time the curtain went up again they were calling each other Prince and Princess: taking the names of the two leading characters on the stage.

As the great drama moved to its close Betty tried to hurry away. She didn't want her Prince to find out what an impostor she was. But he had taken hold of her arm. "Couldn't we go and have some coffee?" he suggested.

"I know I'm a stranger to you, but—but, it's Christmas—and—" "I should say 'no,'" Betty told herself. "I should even tell him the truth about myself." Instead, she accompanied him to the coffee shop across the street. She couldn't deny herself this one hour of happiness. After it was over, well—Betty would not let her thoughts go further.

She almost forgot that she was playing a part as they sat together. They seemed to have so much in common. He had read widely—the type of books she liked; he took an interest in so many things she liked; seemed to be as romantic and visionary as herself. But he spoke no word to indicate that he wanted to see her again.

Gloom enveloped the world for Betty next morning. As if to add to her humiliation and misery, a clogged-up drain was sending oozy brown water back into the sink. Her feet dragged across the floor as she answered the plumber's knock.

Then the world spun dizzily around her for a moment. A rush of joy, of wonder, lifted her heart. Her Prince was standing in the doorway, his evening clothes replaced by clean blue overalls, his good-looking face wrinkled in bewilderment.

"—I thought you were—" he stammered. "And I—I thought you were—" Betty gasped in answer. When explanations were over, a make-believe Prince and Princess were wondering if

WHEN YULE CAROL STILLED WAR GUNS ON BATTLE FRONT

Norfolk, Va.—Rev. J. Sutherland-Watt of Norfolk tells how the strains of "Silent Night, Holy Night," sweeping gently across a battlefield in two languages, quieted guns in front-line trenches of the greatest war on earth for a Christmas celebration.

It was Christmas eve, 1914, between Armentiers and Arras, while Gordon Highlanders huddled in trenches, when somebody remembered the day.

"Jim, let's sing," one said to Private Sutherland-Watt. Jim pleaded off, but someone else started "Silent Night, Holy Night," and soon Jim and the whole Scot regiment had joined in.

When the last refrain subsided, from the opposite trenches arose Christmas wasn't the very nicest time for a wedding ceremony.

other voices—attuned in "Stille Nacht." Then all night long Christmas carols rang from trenches to trenches in strange tongues while canon and flares from other sectors lit the sky.

At the customary "zero" hour, the British soldiers saw gray-clad figures making their way out of the opposite trenches. A few shots were fired. Then it was seen that the Germans carried no arms. Scots leaped from their trenches, likewise unarmed, only to be ordered back.

In England, pine are manufactured in hundreds of varieties ranging from 3 1/2 inches long to entomologists' pines so small that 4500 are required to weigh one ounce.

Late Yuletide Observed By Orthodox Christians

Conforming to the Julian calendar, thousands of Americans will not celebrate Christmas until January 7, 14 days behind the Gregorian calendar. These people are Russians, Serbians, Armenians, Bulgarians, Syrians and Macedonians—followers of the Christian Orthodox church. Greeks and Rumanians, also of the Orthodox church, mark Christmas on the Gregorian calendar but adhere to the Julian calendar in observance of Easter Sunday.
