

SENATORS PRY INTO RELIEF POLITICS

HIGH TRIBUNAL IS MADE OVER BY ROOSEVELT

LIBERALISM WILL ENDURE FOR LONG TIME

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON Washington, Dec. 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt turns the half-way mark of his second term on January 20 next with one major objective of that term largely realized.

It is a much altered supreme court membership that will deal with the legislative grist of the 76th congress. A third of the judges will be of Roosevelt selection. And there is wide speculation as to whether, before the end of his present term, President Roosevelt may not have named a full majority of the nine-man court.

Reaches Far Ahead

Even as it is, there is little doubt that the president's selection of a successor for the late Justice Cardozo is being decided with rejuvenation of the court in mind. Through elevation to the bench of such relatively youthful men as Justices Black and Reed, Mr. Roosevelt has reached already beyond the span of his two terms, or even of a possible third-term incumbency, potentially to affect the attitude of the supreme court for many years to come.

Tense Feeling Dies

Political feelings of the battle that bill produced are written into the election returns of 1938, and are visible in the open disaffection within Democratic ranks.

Donald Coster-Musica under a federal act, passed in the flurry of legislation following the Lindbergh kidnaping, which provides maximum penalties of 20 years imprisonment.

Specifically, they are accused of holding over the head of Coster-Musica—the indicted president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., who committed suicide Dec. 16 after leaving a note blaming "Wall Street plunder" and blackmailers for an $18,000,000 overstatement of assets in his company—the threat of exposing his criminal past as Philip Musica.

State's Lawmakers Going Streamlined At Coming Session

Lansing, Dec. 28. (AP)—A stream-lined house of representatives and the same austere senate will make a left and right approach on Michigan laws during the coming session of the state legislature.

Thomas Thatcher, clerk of the house, will work in a new rostrum, equipped with a two-way microphone system allowing him to converse with employees in the ante-rooms, in his office or in the document room.

However, Fred I. Chase, the secretary of the senate, refused to extend that equipment to the senate rostrum. His microphone service operates from his office.

Minimum readings included zero at Mt. Mitchell, N. C., 16 above at Asheville, N. C., 20 at Atlanta, 22 at Birmingham and Memphis, and 32 at New Orleans. The only damage was to exposed water pipes and tender vegetation.

Upstate New Yorkers shivered in temperatures ranging from 10 below in the Adirondacks to 18 above at Albany. In New York City the mercury dropped to 19 above. It fell to 2.5 above in Chicago and six below in suburban Des Plaines—then rose to the 20's.

Marks in the 'teens and twenties were registered in New England. The cold was expected to continue there.

High Winds Abate
At Warroad, Minn., the red line in the thermometer ascended from 37 to 23 below. More than 100 persons were driven into 20 below cold when fire destroyed three frame buildings housing two hotels and four taverns in International Falls, Minn.

Readings of 15 below at Cutbank and 16 below in Great Falls were the minima in Montana. The Nadir was reached at the airport in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. It was 51 below there.

Hundreds of automobiles lined ditches in western Michigan as snow plow crews labored to restore transportation on the main highways. Dickinson county temperatures scaled down to 15 below.

Six foot drifts dotted northwestern Pennsylvania but high winds abated.

A snow storm sweeping the Cascade mountains blocked McKenzie Pass, principal highway route between western and central Oregon. Patrols were dispatched to learn whether travelers had been stranded.

State Political Gossip

All Republican Trails Lead to Grand Ledge and Fitzgerald

BY GUY H. JENKINS (Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing—As the year draws to a close, Republicans who want to get into public service for the first time, and many have worked for the state government, are making preparations to attach themselves to the state payroll.

Accordingly, automobile traffic in and out of Grand Ledge, the home of Frank D. Fitzgerald, home-elect, has shown a tremendous increase.

When not interviewing applicants for the top bracket jobs, and there are few who do not consider themselves well qualified for places at the top of the political ladder, Fitzgerald is keeping himself pretty busy preparing his message to the legislature.

His inaugural address is completed but it may require some last-minute revision and polishing. A governor never is quite satisfied with his first official utterances until after the speech has been delivered.

The legislative message will follow soon after the legislature organizes. The legislature convenes Wednesday, Jan. 4, and if the Republican members of the senate and house can carry out their plans they may listen to the message Thursday afternoon.

The election of speaker of the house has not been decided. With that job out of the way the next step will be committee assignments, which is no easy job. It may require a week or 10 days. In the meantime bills can be introduced and the intervening time will give the new members a chance to impress folks back home by their mean business. They will have resolutions and bills on end.

The senate is headed for a quick organization. It appears certain Senator Felix H. H. Flynn, Cadillac Republican, will be elected president pro tem. Luren D. Dickinson, lieutenant governor-elect, expects to announce his committee appointments the day the senate convenes. Patronage seems settled.

RESULTS SHOWED MURPHY'S "MACHINE" HAD FAULTS

Well, well! James F. Thomson, Republican state chairman, is writing letters again. Yes, sir, he is all for the principle of civil service, but—

In this instance, the "but" is closely related to Thomson's future status in the Republican high command. Like an accident going some place to happen, Thomson found himself elected state chairman two years ago when a Republican convention in Detroit decided to oppose R. Glenn Dunn, who carried the label of Frank D. McKay, Edward N. Barnard et al.

The delegates had no other choice. By a small majority they defeated R. Glenn because they wanted to show McKay he could not put rings in their noses and lead them around.

The majority by which Dunn was defeated was not very impressive, but in the years to come few will remember the real background.

Those who have been watching Thomson operate, particularly since Nov. 8, when the anti-New Deal sentiment swept Gov. Murphy right off office, have come to the conclusion Thomson is worrying about his future status in the councils of the Republican high command.

Viewed from the fringe of Republican politics, Thomson's attack on the merit system is being used to advance his cause with the partisan politician who measures his success by the number of jobs he can grab.

An attack on civil service, warranted or otherwise, just wows a partisan politician. Thomson charges Murphy with using civil service to build a political machine.

Based on the election returns, Murphy's machine was not so good. Had it been, the story might have been different. The fellow who wins in politics likes nothing better than to choose his opposition. Thomson, to follow his own line of reasoning, should continue Murphy's machine in power.

G. DONALD KENNEDY MAY BE SUCCESSOR TO FRY

In casting around for a successor to Edward J. Fry of Fremont, the Democratic high command may select G. Donald Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department, as the next chairman of the state central committee.

Fry told the committee he would not be a candidate to succeed himself as chairman when his term expires in February. His successor will be elected at the convention in Flint Feb. 18. There will be other candidates.

For many months the name of Murray D. VanWagoner, highway commissioner, has been linked with that of James A. Farley, national committee chairman, for control of the Michigan delegation to the national convention in 1940.

Blackhood Denied Rehearing In Ohio

Columbus, O., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Ohio supreme court today denied Virgil H. Effinger of Lima a rehearing on his appeal from extradition to Michigan to face charges of criminal syndicalism and bomb possession in connection with activities of the Black Legion.

The court refused the appeal on Effinger on Dec. 14. The Lima electrical contractor filed his petition for rehearing late today.

Effinger, accused of being "major general" of the hooded organization, walked away from an extradition hearing in Columbus Aug. 25, 1936. A year ago he surrendered voluntarily in Lima. His extradition was ordered by common pleas court there and affirmed by the district court of appeals. He is free under bond.

DIES BY HANGING

Saginaw, Mich. (AP)—The body of Miss Elizabeth Koenig, 46, was found Wednesday hanging in an upstairs bedroom of her home here. She had been in poor health, relatives told police.

NIMS HAS MADE EXCELLENT RECORD IN STATE SERVICE

Generally speaking, a man's friends cheer when he receives a promotion, but that was not the case when it was learned that Louis M. Nims, state WPA administrator, is to become assistant to Howard O. Hunter, regional director for Harry L. Hopkins, the big boss.

Nims' acceptance of the place was received with mixed feelings. Since his advent in state Democratic politics early in 1933, when Gov. William A. Comstock named him to the first ERA commission, he has climbed the ladder rather rapidly.

Considered one of the top flight state administrators in Hopkins' WPA family, Nims has directed a huge organization at which the finger of suspicion never has been pointed.

He has refused to be dominated by political consideration in recommending federal aid for worthwhile projects. Because of his sympathetic understanding of the needs of many communities, Michigan state police, Michigan State college, state hospitals, state laboratories, etc., are much better off. Nims in his work with CWA and WPA has supervised the expenditure of $300,000,000 of federal funds in the last five years.

His friends, happy because of the promotion, have been regretful that his administration of state WPA is being terminated.

tentions that the WPA was used for political purposes during the fall election campaign.

Congress Tightens Up
The suggested county boards would serve without pay and would be composed of local citizens. Workers who lost relief jobs, or who could not get such jobs, could lay any claims of discrimination before the boards.

The latter would study complaints and then take any action they deemed appropriate.

A Republican senator, Capper of Kansas, said today that there undoubtedly would be an aggressive effort in the next session to "tighten up regulations so as to keep politics out of relief."

"Work relief should be administered on a more non-partisan basis," he said, "and more representation should be given to states and counties."

Miners Feared Dead After Explosion At Kirkland Lake, Ont.

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press)—Hope faded tonight for two miners trapped more than 16 hours in the Lake Shore gold mine, biggest gold producer in Canada.

Rescue crews which had been working steadily 2,400 feet underground toward John Holubec, 33, and Vito Vlaisavovich, 40, encountered difficulty with loose rock in the drift that collapsed last night as the result of an explosion.

It was feared the two miners would be dead when the 100 rescue workers finally reached them through 40 feet of rock. No sound had been heard from the trapped men.

Temperatures of 20 degrees below zero hampered relief workers. The blast which trapped Holubec, a native of Poland, and Vlaisavovich, who has a wife and four children in Yugoslavia, shook the entire community and several miners were treated for shock.

Assistants Named By New WPA Head, Col. F. C. Harrington

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, designated today Major B. M. Harloe of the army engineering corps as assistant administrator and chief engineer.

Harrington held the latter post when he was appointed to succeed Secretary of Commerce Hopkins as WPA administrator last week. Harloe had been executive assistant to the chief engineer, a post which Harrington filled today by naming Captain G. E. Textor, also of the engineering corps.

Legislature Asked For General Relief Funds, $30,000,000

Lansing, Dec. 28 (AP)—The emergency relief commission predicted today improving industrial conditions would not materially reduce the state's welfare burden, and asked the legislature for a two-year appropriation totalling $30,000,000 for general relief.

The commission estimated the case load would average $6,000 through the fiscal years 1939-40 and 1940-41, and asked for $15,000,000 a year. The state spent $16,993,000 to meet the welfare burden in 1937-38, and the commission said today expenditures in the eight months' period from July, 1938, through February would total $12,600,000.

The legislature was recalled in extraordinary session last summer to appropriate $10,000,000 after available funds had been exhausted and the counties had incurred deficits to feed and shelter the poor.

The deficits, totalling $2,400,000 last September, have been cut in half since then, the commission reported today, under a 50 per cent state subsidy.

The commission asked the legislature to appropriate, in addition to the general relief funds, $4,555,200 a year as the state's contribution to the fund for aid to dependent children, and $158,000 a year for aid to the blind.

It opened the way for hospitals supported by regularly appropriated tax monies, and those which extend free care to half of their patients, to obtain contributions of foodstuffs from the federal surplus commodities corporation.

The resolution was approved at the request of a group of hospitalists, the commission said.

Young Dodge Estate Set At $1,498,152; Widow Opposes Will

Pontiac, Mich., Dec. 28. (AP)—An inventory filed in probate court today set the personal estate of the late Daniel G. Dodge at $1,498,152.76.

Young Dodge, a son of the late John F. Dodge, the automobile manufacturer, drowned last summer while honeymooning at his Manitowish Island lodge in Canada with his bride, the daughter of a Canadian tugboat captain.

The appraisal does not include Young Dodge's holdings of Canadian real estate, which must be determined by Canadian courts, but contains a claim on the John F. Dodge estate for an undivided one-fourth interest to be determined later by the courts.

Dodge's widow, who has been contesting her late husband's will, contended that the estate amounted to at least $9,500,000. The 21-year-old widow who was born Annie Laurine McDonald and was a telephone operator when she met young Dodge, has been granted a $5,000-a-month allowance pending settlement of the estate.

Explosion Kills 2 Miners In Virginia; Five Others Burned

Christiansburg, Va., Dec. 28. (AP)—An explosion—presumably of natural gas—killed two miners and severely burned five others in the Merrimac anthracite coal mine in Price Mountain near here late today.

Two of those injured were not expected to live.

The seven were working at the foot of the 1,600-foot shaft which goes into Price Mountain at a 30-degree angle. Nine other miners, working as far away as 2,000 feet in the diggings, were knocked down by the concussion. They scrambled out through suffocating clouds of dust.

Killed in the blast was Robert Huff, 32, of Merrimac. His working companion, Vernon M. Peele, 21, the mine foreman's son, died of burns in the hospital four hours after the explosion.

Guests In 2 Hotels Routed By Blaze At International Falls

International Falls, Minn., Dec. 28 (AP)—Fire that destroyed three frame buildings, housing two hotels and four taverns, routed about 125 persons early today in 20 degree below zero weather.

The blaze started in the Valhalla tavern about 2:30 a. m. from a defective overheated furnace, authorities believed. It spread quickly through the Victoria and Svea hotel buildings, adjoining the tavern and located in the older section of the city.

Guests in the hotels were routed from their beds and fled, many in their night clothes and others with what clothing they could snatch as they leaped for the exits. The street in front of the buildings quickly assumed the appearance of a refugee camp, with hotel patrons, garbed in nondescript costumes, standing guard over their few possessions and huddling against the stinging cold. Nearby buildings were opened to give them shelter. No one was injured.

Tiny Liechtenstein Ousting All Aliens

Vaduz, Liechtenstein, Dec. 28 (AP)—The tiny independent principality of Liechtenstein is preparing to oust Jews and others regarded as undesirable aliens.

An order to this effect was published today. The move is directed not only against Jews, but also against those who have sought refuge in Liechtenstein in recent years from prosecution for delinquencies committed abroad such as tax evasion.

Jews resident in Liechtenstein since before the world war are not affected. It is estimated that only about 20 or 30 Jews will be affected immediately, chiefly those who have fled here from Germany since 1933.

(Liechtenstein, a 65-square-mile sovereign state situated between Germany and Switzerland, has a population of about 10,000. Of Germanic origin, the people are about 90 per cent catholic.)

France Doubles Somaliland Forces; Italy Gives Up Hope

BY HENRY CASSIDY

Paris, Dec. 28 (AP)—France prepared virtually to double her military and naval forces in Somaliland today with orders for new reinforcements to face any threat from Italy's East African empire.

A second warship was assigned to the East African port of Djibouti, named in Italian agitation for French territory, while the 1,969-ton dispatch boat D'Herbville, mounting three 5.5-inch guns, proceeded from Beirut, Syria, back to Djibouti, her base during the Italian-Ethiopian war.

The second vessel was the 2,441-ton destroyer Epevevier of the eastern Mediterranean fleet.

She is capable of 37 knots and was expected to reach the Somaliland port before the slower D'Herbville.

During the afternoon Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi conferred with Erik Lazonne, French resident general in Tunisia, who has been in Paris conferring on the colonial situation and arranging details of Premier Edouard Daladier's projected trip to Tunis January 3.

tion in the senate. The candidate known to be favored by the retiring attorney general, Homer Cummings, meets that stipulation. He is Associate Justice Harold M. Stephens of the federal appeals court of the District of Columbia. His friends believe Justice Stephens is virtually in, although no clear hint of the president's intention has come from any White House source.

The justice was born in Nebraska, but reared in Utah, from where he was recruited in earliest new deal days to the anti-trust wing of the justice department. He would tend to meet the demand for the selection of a nominee from the west. His background of justice department experience in the anti-trust division is called an added qualification in view of the fact that the new congress is headed toward a far-flung revision of monopoly control laws. He even has a record of legal association with hospital and medical problems in Utah, an association in view of expected White House recommendations for group health studies and action by congress.

Yet there is no urgent administration reason for immediate placing of a new justice on the supreme court to fill the Cardozo vacancy. The two most important new deal cases docketed for this term, involving TVA constitutionality and a labor board ruling on a sit-down strike, have already been argued.

Fire Department Has Tough Time; Gets Little Rest

Subject to call at all time of the day or night, members of the Escanaba fire department have had a tough time of it the past couple of days.

The crew spent most of the night Tuesday in fighting the blaze in the Cashway building at 1019 Ludington street, being loathe to leave for fear that the fire might break out quickly and spread to adjoining buildings, which are of wooden construction. Firemen spent all yesterday morning, drying out hose and getting equipment back into first class condition after a night of usage under extremely difficult conditions.

A call was answered shortly after noon to a home on Fifth avenue south between 22nd and 23rd streets. The fire had had a good start in the wooden structure before the department was called and firemen experienced some difficulty in getting it under control.

Returning to the station, equipment was packed up again just in time to answer a call to Belle's Coffee Shop where gas, used in cleaning, ignited. Damage was very slight.

Late yesterday afternoon, most of the members of the crew had no sleep since Tuesday morning.

Chief Arvid Johnson, who was overcome in the blaze Tuesday evening, was reported as resting quite comfortably at his home late yesterday afternoon although he still was confined to his bed.

14 CRIMINAL CASES LISTED

Circuit Court Will Open In Escanaba On January 9

Fourteen criminal cases are scheduled to be heard before Judge Frank A. Bell at the January session of Delta county circuit court which will begin January 9. The major case of the session will be that of Alfred Riguel of Soo Hill, charged with arson, who has confessed setting 10 fires in Delta county and blazes which destroyed the million dollar J. W. Wells lumber mill and yard at Menominee and St. Mary's church at Iron Mountain.

The confessed pyromaniac has not engaged an attorney, and counsel will be appointed by the judge if he has not arranged to provide his own defense when the session opens. No sanity hearing will be held before the January term. Prosecutor William J. Miller has announced, although Riguel may use insanity as his plea when his case comes up for trial.

Three cases continued from the last court session will come up on the calendar of the January term, and there are 11 new criminal cases on the docket.

Orin Stearns of Gladstone will appear charged with cruelty to animals. He was arrested on a complaint signed by Laurence Burr, also of Gladstone, charging him with shooting Burr's dog on last August 12. He was found guilty in Justice O. C. Estenson's court at Gladstone on September 27, and fined $33.35 with an alternate of 15 days in the county jail.

Robert Kostitzky of Escanaba will appear on a charge of driving away an automobile without consent of the owner. Rene Meyette of Hendricks Tank, Cornell township, is charged with forgery in raising a pay order issued by a local lumber company.

Lloyd Magnuson of Escanaba has been bound over to circuit court on a charge of receiving stolen property. Harold Minor, Clifford LaFond and Rudolph Norman, all of Escanaba, will appear on charges of larceny in connection with the theft of a battery, tools and a marine compass from a Ford River fish boat.

Lloyd Bedore of Oshkosh is charged with driving away an automobile unlawfully, and Miles Brophy of Nahma is charged with breaking into the Caisse camp on Uno lake.

The three criminal cases continued from last term are those of Henry Auger of Schaffer, charged with larceny by conversion, Charles Blosser, charged with fishing with a netline using baited hooks, and James Faucett of McFarland, charged with bastardy.

Several other cases may be added to the calendar before court convenes on January 9.

NEW DEALERS IN ARGUMENT

Dispute Centers Around Appointment of Gov. Murphy

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

Washington.—There have been plenty of brawls among the New Dealers, but nothing like the one over who should succeed Attorney General Cummings. For bare-knuckle mauling and gouging it takes the cake.

The furious undercover scrap centered around three men—Solicitor General Robert Jackson and Governor Frank Murphy, the president's first and second choices, and Assistant Attorney General Brien McMahon, candidate of Jim Farley and the retiring Cummings.

A week ago Roosevelt had decided to name Jackson, after being convinced by congressional leaders that Murphy would have had a hard sledding to be confirmed by the senate. When Farley got wind of this decision he unlimbered his guns and moved in against Jackson.

At the start he was opposed to Jackson and Murphy both, the first because he saw in the rising young New Yorker a menace to his own 1940 political ambitions; and the second because of Murphy's strong pro-labor record, which he considered a political disadvantage.

Jim did not, of course, openly oppose Jackson on personal political grounds. He raised the point of geography. With four New Yorkers in the cabinet—himself, Morgenthau, Miss Perkins, and now Harry Hopkins—he told Roosevelt that the addition of still another would be resented by the rest of the country.

Jim urged McMahon for the vacancy, but when he saw that was getting nowhere, he counseled Murphy.

Farley was so confident he had won his point that he tipped off intimates that Murphy would be appointed. When Jackson's friends heard this they, in turn, stormed the White House and the battle got hotter than ever.

The only ones who took no part in it were the three candidates themselves. All personal friends and mutual admirers, they kept well out of the fight.

Hoosier Poet Pogue To Succeed Malloch

Barton Rees Pogue, Upland, Ind., well known Hoosier poet, has been signed up by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate as a successor to the late Douglas Malloch to do a daily poem feature, "Lines for Living," to be syndicated to newspapers throughout the country.

The Escanaba Daily Press, which published the complete series of Malloch's "Lyrics of Life" during a period of several years, will continue its daily poem feature with "Lines for Living," beginning Wednesday, Jan. 4.

Mr. Pogue is well known in Escanaba as he visited here several summers to do some fishing with John L. Judson and Rev. Ross W. Stokas. He also spoke before the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in this city.

A former instructor in dramatics and speech at the University of Indiana, Mr. Pogue now devotes most of his time to the writing of his poems and filling lecture and radio engagements. He makes regular appearances each Friday and Saturday evening on programs at station WLW, Cincinnati. He was born in Greenfield, Ind., where the original Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley, spent his boyhood days.

GIVES REPORT ON FARM LOANS

Gottfrid Johnson Issues Annual Summary of Activities

Continued sound, steady growth of institutions under the supervision of the Farm Credit Administration of St. Paul, and extension of their services to more farmers and farmers' cooperative associations, mark the year 1938, according to Gottfrid S. Johnson of Manistique, member of the farm credit board of the seventh district. The district includes Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota.

As examples of this growth Johnson cited the St. Paul Bank for Cooperatives and the production credit associations.

"There hasn't been anything spectacular—just steady, wholesome growth, increasing understanding of the place in agriculture and the business world that farm credit institutions hold, and increased service to farmers," he said.

In Michigan there are 46 farmers' cooperatives that are stockholders in the St. Paul Bank for Cooperatives and are borrowing from it, he said. This compares with 29 a year earlier. The loans outstanding this year total $1,650,000 compared with $1,953,000 last year, indicating that repayments came in such volume as to cut down the outstanding amount by about $300,000 though there are seven more borrowing associations this year. These farmer co-ops include fruit and vegetable canneries, creameries, oil and gasoline stations, cooperative manufacturing plants, grain elevators and livestock cooperatives.

Johnson said cooperative oil stations financing themselves through the bank increased from 92 to 121 during the year for the whole district, while cooperatives handling general farm supplies increased from 31 to 48. Gains were noted in several other classifications of the bank's business, he said.

For the four states the associations financed increased in number from 302 to 347, a gain of 45, and the amount supplied them rose from $4,555,000 to $4,914,000.

Short term credit advanced by production credit associations in Michigan which supply farmers funds for all manner of farm operations, showed a gain of $53,000 to a total of $3,733,000 loaned since the first of the year compared with 1937, Johnson pointed out. Total loans closed for eleven months this year in four states were $20,738,000, and loans outstanding at that time amounted to $15,896,000, indicating repayments of approximately $5,000,000. In the four states there are 36,500 farmer members who are using these associations to purchase livestock for fattening, work stock and machinery, farm supplies, and for refinancing their farm debts.

There has been an increased movement in farm real estate, said Johnson, and the federal land bank is winding up the best year it has ever experienced in selling farms that have come into its possession, and getting them back into the hands of individual farm owners. This applies throughout the whole district as well as in Michigan where 388 farms were bought by buyers, most of whom are living on and operating the farms purchased. This is a gain of 47 farms sold compared with the corresponding eleven months of last year.

MRS. CARLSON PASSES AWAY

Stonington Woman Dies at Home of Niece In Bark River

Mrs. Hannah Carlson, 79, who with her husband, the late Louis J. Carlson, settled on a homestead in Stonington in 1882, died at 3:20 o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. Andrew Hensen at Bark River. She had been in failing health since suffering a stroke last March, but was seriously ill only four days.

Mrs. Carlson was born in Petoskey, Sweden, June 9, 1859 and came to Escanaba in December 1891. Her marriage to Mr. Carlson took place here on May 13, 1882, and in June of that year, they settled on a homestead in Stonington. They sold their land in the fall of 1911, and moved to Escanaba, where Mrs. Carlson lived until she went to Bark River to make her home with her niece, six months ago.

She was a member of Bethany Lutheran church of this city. Survivors are five nieces and two nephews, Mrs. Hansen, Esther and Hulda Olson of Chicago; Mrs. G. F. McCalland, Escanaba; Herbert V. Instruction Offered In Fish Fly Tying Beginning this afternoon, instruction in fly tying will be offered at the City Recreation Center by Mel Roberts who has recently joined the staff of WPA recreational leaders working in the city. Sessions will be conducted from 3:30 to 5:30 and from 7 to 10 on Mondays to Fridays, inclusive. If there is a demand for it, a day class will be inaugurated for those who are not working and wish an activity to occupy their time. Anyone interested is invited to attend. For demonstration and practice, materials will be furnished.

Anyone who is not familiar with fly fishing will be bewildered by the terms and by the large varieties of flies used. However, with a little practice, one may become expert at naming the flies at a glance, telling what kind of fish should bite on them, whether they are wet or dry flies, and whether they should be used at night or by day. Fishermen who have used other methods of fishing, and who have been converted to the fly, disdain other methods. Every fly fisherman has his favorite fly, sometimes made according to his own specifications, but all will admit that it sometimes falls when another will "kill." But, according to them, that is what makes fly fishing. One expert, in discussing the proposed sessions, said yesterday, "When fly fishing becomes an exact science, then I want to hang up my rod."

Along with instruction and practice in tying, Mr. Roberts expects to impart a great deal of the knowledge he has gained through many years of experience. In the spring, those who do not already know will receive instruction and practice in the art of fly fishing.

Escanaba Roleo Story Appears In Magazine

A short and powerfully built man got up off the log and walked to the edge of the big tank. "When I was more young," he said, and he snapped a pair of calluses that were two inches across the straps, "when I was more young, dey could 'row hunk yaller soap into de water and I was ride de bubble to shore."

The closely packed crowd around three sides of the tank of water went wild, clapping and yelling, mostly yelling. It was the kind of noise five hundred lumberjacks make at a log-birling whoopee.

From three thousand other folks, high in the grandstand, came a ripple of applause but no cheering. They didn't know who the man in the bright red shirt was. The mob around the tank did, for they were the boys, and a few girls, who savvy log birling, the true jitters of the one authentic American sport.

Above are the lead paragraphs of "Cats on the Logs," an article about the 1938 Escanaba Roleo, appearing in Collier's magazine, on the newstands this week. The story was written by Stewart H. Holbrook, author of "Holy Old Mackinac" and other lumberjack stories, who personally covered the log birling tournament at the Upper Peninsula State Fair last August as a special correspondent for the Associated Press.

Two pictures taken at the roleo by Robert McIntyre, Daily Press photographer, are used to illustrate the magazine article. One shows Harley Foster of Aberdeen, Wash., setting Joe Connor, Cloquet, Minn., 1937 champion, and the other depicts Jimmie Running of Eau Claire in the act of dunking Billy Beauregard, Indian birler from the Odanah reservation.

"They came from all over the country to roll at Escanaba, an old-time lumber town that is capitalizing on a sport that had nearly died," the magazine article states in part.

"Escanaba, Michigan, was once a hell-whooping sawmill town, with plank sidewalks, rows of saloons, and sawmills that whined all day and all night. Every spring Escanaba leaped to sudden life when the drive came down and the city filled with howling, fighting men who had spent all winter in remote camps and all spring risked their lives to bring the logs to the mills.

"So the lumber tradition never quite died in Escanaba, even when its lumberjacks moved on west, over the hump, to new timber. Bill Duchaine, managing editor of the local daily paper, who used to play on log ponds as a kid, and George T. Springer of near-by Gladstone, another old lumber town, got an idea of reviving the dying sport.

"Springer and Duchaine, aided and abetted by up-and-coming businessmen of Escanaba, staged in 1937 what came the nearest to being a national tournament of birlers held in the past forty years. Substantial prizes were offered, and Duchaine worked overtime for the love of it, putting on a mighty ballyhoo, writing publicity stories for the press and sending personal letters to lumberjacks all over the country, many of whom were surprised and alarmed to get a letter in the mail."

The article goes on to describe the highlights of the 1937 and 1938 Roleos, concluding with a gripping review of the final match between Jimmie Herron of Kelso, Wash., and Harley Foster of Aberdeen. The last paragraph of the article follows:

"That night in a beer joint on Escanaba's main drag, Jimmie Herron set 'em up for everybody who came in. Between beers Barefoot Charlie announced he had walked 48,000 miles on his naked hide. Elmer Swanson said it was a long way to Hood Canal in Washington and that he guessed he'd be getting along. It was quite a gala evening. Billy Girard stood up and sang all forty-two verses of the lumberjacks' one classic ballad, "The Jam on Garry's Rock," and all hands wept into their beer."

BLUE MONDAY GOES WHEN YOUR BILE JUICE FLOWS

When we have a blue Monday the chances are that our two pints of bile are not flowing from our liver into our bowels.

If these two pints are not flowing every day our food decays in our bowels. Also gas, indigestion and harmful germs start working in our bowels. These bowels upset can make us have a lousy blue Monday.

Do you have blue Mondays? Do you feel drabby, mean and awful on other days? Well, just take a good dose of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They lock up the flow of your vital two pints of bile juice and then the sun may shine again in that good old body of yours.

But if you want this glorious bile juice relief, ask your druggist for Carter's Little Liver Pills and don't buy "something just as good"—264.

Scouts Are Asked To Keep Hydrants Free From Snow

A. V. Aronson, chairman of civic service in the Boy Scout program, has requested that all Scouts do their civic "Good Turn" by cleaning the snow away from fire hydrants.

It is suggested that Scouts select fire hydrants in the vicinity of their homes, and keep them clear of snow throughout the balance of the winter. Reports of such activities should be given to the scoutmasters so that individual scouts may receive credit for civic service in the American Legion contest.

Ordinarily this is a function of the city department but during the bad weather when there is so much other work to be done, the city department would appreciate the aid and cooperation of the Boy Scouts.

THE question as to whether a power company has the right to build dams and divert water in such a manner as to harm the scenic and wildlife resources of property owned by others along the river is to be tested in a hearing of the now-famous Ontonagon case to be held in Washington Jan. 6.

The conflict has been given widespread publicity, first by Ben East, outdoors editor of the Booth chain of newspapers, and later taken up by other newspapers and magazines.

Outdoor America, official publication of the Isaac Walton League of America, carried an article in its September issue, written by Lee J. Smits, publicity director of the National Wildlife Federation. It reads in part as follows:

"Which come first, the claims of recreation or the claims of industry?" This question has been so uniformly and monotonously answered in favor of industry that our national habit is to say "industry, of course." But in Michigan the very spokesmen of industry have kept saying in late years that the outdoor appeal of the state brings in more cash than is derived from any other source, except the automotive industry.

The new question that has been put up to the courts of Michigan is a dramatic one—"Who owns natural beauty?" Has the public a firm, legal right to the joy of looking at white water leaping down from a rocky height, and are power and employment and dividends and cash returns all along the line of more importance than the preservation of an intangible?

You've looked from a train window into a polluted stream, turning away with an acute discomfort in your entrails from the glimpse of filth and desolation, and wondered by what right that discomfort was inflicted.

By the right of industry? How so, when by simple bookkeeping pollution is proved to be more costly than its control. It took a single generation to strip the Lake States of their forests, leaving behind such desolation as is represented today by whole counties on relief. Yet if, half a century ago, some zealot had proposed legal interference with the murder of the pine and hardwoods he would have been howled out of court by the economic argument.

Perhaps the outskirts of the town might be more attractive. Why not try? I cleared the village once, then again and a third time. Nine churches I counted. Six in dilapidated condition—abandoned. The shutters hung desperately to their last hinges. The front steps parted company with the sills. Broken windows. The rotting eaves housed the sparrows with their untidy nests sprawling all over the cornice.

I asked about the community. The population, I was told, had not varied a great deal in the last forty years. My imagination was spurred. Had this been the place of my birth, as it well might have been, no doubt some of the church now so dilapidated would have been places of worship for my ancestry.

There was nothing to do but go back to Main Street. I thoroughly read and digested every part of the morning paper. It told of a stock crash, of impending conflict in Europe, of internal dissension and strife, of panic-stricken people who were looking towards the approaching winter with misgiving. Instinctively I thought of the six abandoned churches and of the world's unrest. Something went wrong with people. Something we seemed unable to correct.

This nation was carved out of a wilderness by those who have gone before us. They built our country. Our generation has been living and spending from their storehouse.

Was there any connection between their exercise of the virtues of thrift and industry and the nine churches? Did they find something fundamental in religion that convinced them idleness was sin and industry God's labor of love? Did not pioneering ministers preach the virtue of independence and the vice of dependence? Did not the early settlers practice self-denial to build the virtue of modesty and kindle a spirit of happiness? Did they not, in their Sabbath journey to church, feel a sense of comfort in the discharge of a duty their innate soul somehow told them was necessary if they were to be healthy and wholesome.

In times of catastrophe was there not something in their Sabbath training, as they listened to their spiritual leaders, that caused them to go forth anxious and eager to aid those in distress? Wasn't the destruction of the neighbor's barn by lightning or fire an opportunity for them to evidence respect and love for neighbor by joining together in a barn-raising? When the fields of grain were ripe in the neighbor's field, and he lay ill, did they not in some way get the spirit from these six abandoned buildings that caused them to make their neighbor's harvest without thought of sharing for their labor?

Just why did that community have nine

World Affairs Reviewed

BY MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Staff Correspondent London — German-nurtured agitation against Jews in Sweden, Denmark and Norway, the uncovering of a Nazi spy plot in Denmark and the German-enforced resignation of a cabinet minister in Finland, have combined to alarm the constituted governments of Scandinavia.

Sweden, Denmark and Norway, though indubitably "Nordic" states, have shown no inclination to become Nazi. Abortive attempts have been made to establish Nazi parties, but they have remained insignificant. All three countries have had Socialist Premiers and democracy has more than held its own against assaults both from the Left and the Right.

Anti-Semitism, which nowadays seems to be the twin of totalitarianism, has also hitherto been absent from these states. The Jewish population of Sweden, about 6500, is only one twentieth of one per cent of the population. Six thousand Danish Jews form only one-sixth of one per cent of that land's people and 1450 Norwegian Jews form only one-twentieth of one per cent of Norway's people.

Their slight numbers formed no "menace," nor did they hold a predominant position in business, finance, law or medicine. Scandinavia has suddenly been disturbed the past few weeks by a flood of anti-Semitic pamphlets, posters and hand-bills. They bear no printer's name or address and the suspicion is strong that they have been sent from Germany. Readers are invited to "stop the Jewish invasion."

In Stockholm the posters are adorned with hideous caricatures of well-known Swedish Jews. Denmark is further angered by the police discovery of a big nest of German spies in Copenhagen, Esbjerg, Aarhus, Elsinore and Nyborg. A dozen arrests have been made, some of the accused being alleged newspaper men.

The spy agency was set up to deal with the movements of British ships around Denmark. In the meantime the spies had been signalling the westward sailing of Russian and Spanish ships taking food to republican Spain. This news was transmitted to Germany and thence to Franco, whose armed trawlers attacked the marked vessels in the North Sea.

In Finland the heavy hand of Hitler was felt when Dr. Rudolf Holsti resigned his post as Foreign Minister. Holsti is a strong friend of the United States, France and England and has no sympathy with dictators. He was charged by the Germans with having made derogatory remarks about Hitler at Geneva. German pressure was brought to bear to get him out of the cabinet. It succeeded.

But a very few days later the government took its courage in its hands and disbanded the Finnish Nazi party which claimed 50,000 members with 18 newspapers, 373 branches and 14 out of the 200 members of the House of Representatives.

churches, all seemingly well-supported, and just why does the present generation find it difficult to support only three? Are these six churches to be abandoned as having been a part of the old order of things? Suppose they were reopened. Suppose all abandoned churches reopened and the pews were filled each Sabbath day. Would the world be nearer solving its problems? How difficult it is to answer this in the negative! How easy it is to assume that things would be better!

We speak of a balanced prosperity but even as we utter the words we ought to realize that true prosperity calls for a balance of both soul and body. What is good business? There are many ideas on this. What are good politics? Ideas are even more confused. Suffice to say, nothing is good in either business or politics that doesn't have a sound foundation. Can there be a sound foundation in anything without faith?—By Henry H. Heriman.

DUE FOR A CHECK-UP (Detroit News) Michigan's Civil Service Act, which has been out for a year's trial run, is to go back to the Legislature for a check-over and necessary repairs. As expected it has shown some defects, but on the whole is conceded to be a good law.

Preliminary work for the Legislature will be in the hands of friends of the Civil Service Act. Arno R. Schorer, president of the Michigan Merit System Association, said recently that the legislative committee will include Dr. James K. Pollock, University of Michigan political scientist and chairman of the original study commission; Mrs. Stiegel W. Judd, of Grand Rapids, and Edward H. Litchfield, of Detroit. Mrs. Judd was a member of the study commission, which made the studies preparatory to the present law, and Mr. Litchfield formerly was executive secretary of the Merit System Association.

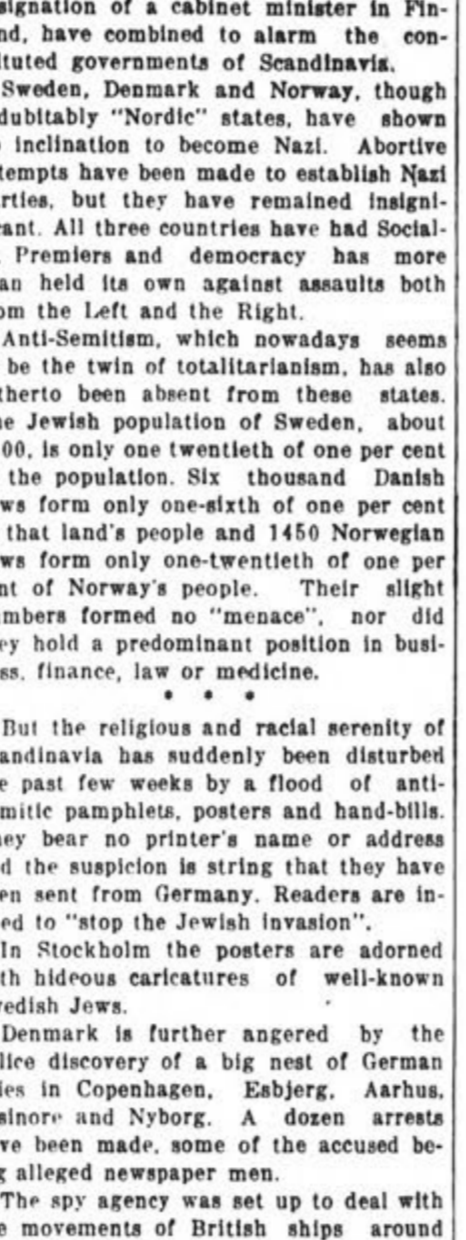

Sentiment in favor of improving the merit system is strong enough in Michigan to demand recognition, and this is reflected in the membership of the incoming Legislature. The president of the Merit System Association says an investigation of the records and opinions of the legislators shows a "significant majority of them are unquestioned friends of the merit system."

Michigan and Detroit have got far enough in experimenting with civil service laws to prove that their success depends largely on the good will of administrators. No civil service system can completely prohibit laying off employees. The device of hiring and firing must be retained as public needs vary.

The whole test lies in the sincerity of the appointing power. An alert electorate, wanting good civil service administration, can reward officials who conform with the spirit of the best laws and can reject the polls those who hold to the old spoils methods.

This Is a Rather Interesting Case, Doctor

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS New York—We subway riders would be aces at snowy St. Moritz.

If we are to believe Reidar Anderson, the ski king of Norway, New York strap-hangers are potential champs on skis.

The perfect balance that subway sardines acquire, says Anderson, is what a perfect skier needs and he's surprised there aren't more of us on skis.

No town in the world, adds this winter sports hero, affords such opportunity to attain equilibrium. For in crowded subways, trolleys, buses and "L" lines, a man or woman needs ability and training to stand up under all those bumps, swaying, sudden starts and stops.

So there's a new one for Gotham dwellers. They've been getting ski practice all these years and didn't know it!

Tonsorial Tenors Under the aegis of Bill Hardy (yes, he operates a club), a sincere effort is being made in these precincts to form a New York Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

There is such a national fraternity with its capital in Tulsa, Oklahoma, where the boys take their tonsorial tonsil-massages seriously.

It has a distinguished clientele, too, for we're advised that the roster of the Soc. for the Pres. and Enc. of Barber Shop Quart. Sing. in America includes former Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Thomas Benton, Stanley Walker, Charles MacArthur, Ben Hecht, Ward Greene, Bugs Baer, Nino Martini and Laurits Melchior.

All these worthies got engraved certificates of membership in the mail and are accredited warblers while waiting to get a close shave and trim. It is Bill Hardy's ambition to corral as many famous barbershop tenors here.

Claquer Twilight News from the diamond-horseshod Metropolitan Opera House is that at least one occupation gradually is growing extinct there. Namely, the claquer.

As long as opera has endured, the claquer has always been an inseparable of the opera house. The claquer, if the term doesn't strike a familiar chord, is that worthy who gets a weekly salary for applauding—and applauding hard—after every aria is sung or after the curtain has rung down.

Employed in the past by almost every principal singer in the Metropolitan, it was an energetic livelihood for its practitioners. And it paid pretty well.

Of course, unsavory tales used to get around about claquers. It was whispered that some tenors and sopranos in the Opera House had been subjected to a genteel shakedown.

In other words, the singer was informed that if the claquer didn't get the job, a series of booms might replace a series of bravos from the topmost gallery which is where most of the response originates, anyway. These threats were not to be ignored.

But the menace has been reduced during recent seasons by the adamant resistance Edward Johnson, the Met's managing director, has made against the palm-beaters.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN Washington—Most important policy being shaped in Washington today is that pertaining to foreign affairs. This has been discussed in a series of confidential conferences between the President, Sumner Welles Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy. It is safe to say that these talks have been more important than Cabinet changes. Democratic squabbling or preparations for the coming session of Congress.

The reports brought to Roosevelt by his ambassadors can be summarized briefly: 1. The Chamberlain appeasement policy is getting Britain nowhere. If the French and British are pushed further by Hitler they will have to fight.

2. They will be pushed further probably in the spring. Hitler always has timed his moves carefully. Also he has made the German people forget their economic woes by a series of political victories at the expense of Germany's neighbors. So another move will come soon.

3. Conclusion is that war seems almost certain in the spring or summer — depending upon one big IF.

That one big IF is the United States and her future foreign policy. This is what Roosevelt and his advisers have been studying so carefully in recent weeks.

—KEY TO GERMANY— Roosevelt-foreign policy has taken as its key to the German military mind the famous meeting of the Kaiser with his Cabinet in 1916, when he decided to intensify submarine warfare against American merchant shipping.

At this meeting, Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg reported to the Kaiser that if submarine warfare were intensified, the United States was sure to enter the war on the side of the Allies. He made this a positive prediction.

Whereupon the German military and naval commanders both informed the Kaiser that it made no difference if the United States did enter the war. The American army, they said, was a mere handful of men, her navy not enough to interfere with German submarines, German military and naval forces, they guaranteed, could handle both without difficulty. They promised that with all supplies cut off from the Allies, Germany could win a quick victory before the United States could train an army.

This advice was accepted by the Kaiser. At that meeting he decided to intensify the submarine war, risk the entry of the "impotent" United States.

—AIRPLANES TALK— Roosevelt's advisers draw an important deduction from that conversation. What influences Germany most today, they say, is the military strength of her enemies — particularly in airplanes.

This deduction is reinforced by Hitler's tactics at the Munich conference and after. What counts with Hitler are the weapons for a quick victory by air. At Munich he figured that Germany's air force could clean up Paris and London in a few days and all would be over.

In this he may have been right. In modern warfare airplanes talk, and Germany has about double the French and British air force put together. Last spring she was making airplanes at the rate of 400 a month. Now she has increased the rate to 1,200 a month. And she is still building new airplane factories.

Piecing together the different parts of this picture, Roosevelt's foreign affairs experts report war in Europe inevitable within six months or a year—unless. It is also their opinion, as well as the opinion of almost every other candid observer in this country, that the United States cannot stay out of any world war. Eventually, human nature being what it is, the passions of war will drag us in.

Therefore, the problem from the American viewpoint becomes the practical one of preventing war in the first place.

That is where the Kaiser's conference with the German war council in 1916 comes in. Roosevelt advisers figure that mere knowledge that the United States will fight, will not deter Hitler. Only the knowledge that the United States is armed to the teeth with airplanes will soothe his militarism.

They figure that if this country has as many airplanes as Germany and is ready to place them at the disposal of Britain and France, thus circumventing any quick victory by Hitler, then der Fuehrer is not going to be so eager for another crisis.

Thus recent developments in Roosevelt policy become much clearer.

(1) is the new airplane program. Instead of merely preparing for speedy airplane production in time of war, we are now going to build up a huge air force, much more than we actually need.

(2) is the policy of rebuffing Germany—the Ickes speech, the withdrawal of Ambassador Wilson, etc. This was calculated to let Germany know in crudely definite terms exactly where the United States stood, plus what she was likely to do with her airplanes should war break in Europe.

U. S. Treasury reports there was $51.96 in circulation for every man, woman and child in November. We'll settle for the $51.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

There's no one type of girl that all men fall in love with. But there are certain qualities a girl should have if she wants to make sure a satisfying percentage of the men she meets will want to start right in showing her what swell guys they are.

She must look feminine. Soft curls, soft-looking clothes, and a soft-looking face are decided assets.

So is knowing how to flirt. A straight-forward look and man-to-man attitude never gets a woman anything she wants.

A nice smile is more important than brains. And a good walk more important than expensive clothes.

Shyness is a big handicap, for men expect a girl to fit right into any background—no matter how nervous they are themselves.

Having a nice voice, knowing how to pronounce the words she uses, and making her nouns and verbs agree, add more to her attractiveness than anything she can do to her face.

She'll be more successful with men if she learns how to stand out from the crowd just enough, and not too much. It's a delicate balance—that really means sophistication.

And as a final point, the girl that most men like is the one who, not too obviously, seems to like them.

Come on, girls, let's resolve to give our husbands a Happy New Year. For instance, let's improve his disposition by:

Getting up and cooking his breakfast every morning.

Looking our best around the house.

Cutting money discussions to a minimum.

Keeping household problems to ourselves.

Staying away from his possessions.

Let's see that he shines socially.

Sisters' Sextette Sings On Programs In Upper Peninsula

The Bergman sextette, composed of the six daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bergman of Menominee, has been winning wide recognition in programs in various cities of the upper peninsula and Wisconsin.

The sisters, ranging from seven to eighteen years of age, are Shirley, the oldest, Margaret, Beverly, Jacqueline, Ellen and Nancy, the baby of the six. Their mother, the former Nana Macauley, and their father, a member of the Bergman family of Bark River, are well known here.

The girls were awarded second place in the Upper Peninsula State Fair competition by Noble Cain, and last Sunday they appeared over St. Norbert's college radio station at Green Bay.

Social-Club

League Holiday Party The Epworth League of the Methodist church of Bark River will give a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Dahlberg this evening.

A grab bag for which every member is asked to provide a small gift, will be a feature of the program, and a lunch will be served.

Let's see that he stops worrying day and night by:

Realizing that our children can be healthy and happy without having everything the neighbors' children have.

Taking enough of the financial responsibility to realize that we aren't putting something over when we end up with a more expensive coat than we should have bought.

Being good "managers."

Not talking all the time about the things we need or wish we had, or the beautiful new car Bob Brown gave his wife for Christmas.

Let's make a good companion of him by:

Being gay ourselves.

Not ignoring him on the way to and from a party, as though we couldn't be bothered trying to entertain just him.

Not trying to get our own way all the time.

Having an answer to his inevitable "What do you want to do?"

It won't be easy. But we can improve him—if we work hard enough on ourselves.

SERIAL STORY

SKI'S THE LIMIT

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
SALLY BLAIR—heroine. She had everything that popularity could wish for, except DAN REYNOLDS—hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skills
COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So... But go on with the story.

Yesterday: Sally warns Corey not to tell Dan who is his benefactor. She plans to tell Dan herself—tonight.

CHAPTER XVI
Sally's resolution to tell Dan the whole truth that same evening again met with postponement. The opportunity, for which she had hoped, did not present itself. After their swim the crowd of young people, that included Sally and Dan, decided to motor to a roadhouse that was known for its big-name orchestra and famous shore dinners.

"Suppose you and Sally come with me," Corey suggested to Dan before any other arrangements could be agreed upon. "There's no use taking more cars than are needed. No need for Sally to drive here all that way. Pudge can sardine the rest of the gang into his big old sedan."

"I don't mind driving," Sally said. She had looked forward to the drive with Dan. But that would mean that Corey, who had no "date" for the evening, would have to go alone.

Dan pointed this out. "It's nice of him to ask us," Dan said of Corey. Dan felt a bit sorry for his old fraternity brother. He knew that Corey had thought Sally was his girl. If Dan had cut him out, so to speak, during this summer it had been all aboveboard. For instance Corey had invited Sally for this evening, but it just happened that Dan had been lucky enough to ask her first.

At least, in his honest implicitly, that was the way Dan had figured matters out. Had anyone asked Sally she could have given an entirely different explanation. As a matter of fact Dan had not asked her first. But she had known that he would ask her and so she had told Corey that she was sorry but she could not go with him. Sally did not mean to do anything not "aboveboard," either, but she felt that all was fair in love, as in war. She did not want to go with Corey. She had wanted to go with Dan.

But now it seemed that she was with both of them! Oh, well, she told herself, squeezed in between the two young men, her dark curls, still damp from the water, flying around her face, the wind blowing them in riotous confusion as Corey's open, low-slung roadster took the wide highway with incredible speed, she would manage an opportunity to be with Dan, so that she could have her talk with him, later.

"Isn't this fun?" she called above the roar of the powerful motor. They would get to their destination long before Pudge's old car made it. It could not be too soon for Sally. She could do justice whetted from her swim. "It's fun all right," Dan's grave eyes smiled down into hers. "but it's not very safe. Aren't you afraid of getting a ticket?" He raised his voice so that Corey could hear this last.

Corey shook his blond head. He laughed shortly. "If I did, I'd fix it—or at least my old man would," he said. Corey still believed that there was nothing that money could not fix. Or his own subtle wits. He was intent, even as he drove, the speedometer soaring perilously close to 80, on planning a course of action. The fact that it looked as though he almost had lost Sally only made Corey more determined than ever that he was going to win her.

"You're not afraid, are you?" Sally teased, her bright glance meeting Dan's grave one again. She loved the wind in her hair, fanning her cheeks. She loved the sense of excitement. She had not quite got all that out of her blood, even though she thought she had changed so much—for Dan.

Dan said, "No, I'm not afraid." There was a difference between fear and common sense. But if Sally and Corey enjoyed this wild speed Dan was willing to share it. He had got to the place, at last, where he could share the things that Sally and her friends did. The place where he felt that he fitted in their bright play-world.

Oh, yes, Dan had changed. He had adapted himself as best he could. He had made himself over, to some extent. Though inwardly he always would remain the same person, with the same ideals that he had always had.

Sally had told him once that he could belong to her world. She had said she would make it "right" for him to belong. But Dan had done that by himself. At least he felt that he had come a long enough way that now, maybe tonight, if the opportunity presented itself—he could tell Sally something that he had not dared tell her before.

He told himself that he would be content to share her world with her, if Sally would let him. The world that once he had thought he despised and would not want to belong in. He would give up his old ambitions and dreams. Perhaps he would never again set out to conquer mountains. Perhaps making the King of Skis once more did not really compare to belonging with Sally.

He had told Sally once that he would not always be content to be friends. That when he had licked certain things, he would have something more than friendship to ask of her. He believed Sally could give what he wanted most out of life to him. For he believed in Sally Blair now.

This Dan was thinking, as they approached a curve in the road. Corey took his foot off the accelerator, rounded the curve with a whining singing of tires, the wind humming in their ears.

Then Dan leaned across Sally, pressing her against the leather seat, putting his own hands on the steering wheel to give it a strong wrench that sent the low roadster heading straight for a narrow ditch.

"What the devil..." Corey protested, righting the wheel again just in time to keep them from going off the road. But even as he voiced his angry protest his face brightened white. A huge dark shadow had passed them, grazing the rear end of the roadster with a sickening screech. If Dan had not grabbed the wheel then there would have been a smashing head-on with tragic consequences.

Corey slowed down, as soon as he was able, pulled up to a stop. The big truck, apparently unaware that it had hit them, continued on its way.

None of them spoke for a long moment. A moment during which Corey frankly took out his pocket kerchief to mop his perspiring forehead.

Then Sally said quietly, though a bit shakily "You were right again—as usual, Dan. We would have been killed if it had not been for you." Once again Dan had saved her life. Once again, as Corey recognized grimly, Dan had played the hero. Had outsmarted him.

Perhaps that was what made Corey decide to carry out the plans he had been busy formulating. Perhaps he was not so much to blame for what he was to do. After all it was pretty hard, not only to have another man steal your girl, but to make you look like a fool before her. That was a bit more than Corey Porter could take.

"Sally's right," Corey said. "We certainly owe you a lot, Dan. I'll make it up to you, some way." He opened the door to get out to see what damage had been done.

The rear bumper was bent, the gasoline tank dripping. "I'm afraid we'd better turn around and go back," Corey said. "I think the gas will hold out to that last town. We'll pass Pudge and the gang en route. You can go on with them, Sally, while Dan gives me a lift with this bus—that is, of course, if those arrangements check with you two?"

That was not exactly the way Sally would have liked it, but if Dan agreed she would abide by his decision. After all there was no telling how badly Corey's car was damaged. They could not leave him without assistance.

"Of course that's okay with us," Dan said. He preferred, after such an experience, to have Sally go the rest of the way with a safer and safer driver. "We can join the others later. That is, if that's all right with you Sally?"

It certainly is all right with me, Corey thought grimly; his blue eyes lighting with smug satisfaction. This would give him plenty of time to say what he had to say to Dan Reynolds.

Merchants' Buying Is Good Omen For 1939

In pre-analyzing the 1939 business trend, noted author-reconomist John T. Flynn feels that the whole picture will be controlled by the direction of inevitable major and minor swings. In this, the second of three articles dealing with the coming business year, he treats of the effect of consumer goods industries.

BY JOHN T. FLYNN (Copyright, 1938, NEA Serv. Inc.)

The great question, as we stand on the threshold of the new year, is—what lies ahead for business?

In trying to answer that, we have to keep in mind that there are in business and in the stock market three separate movements—major, minor and seasonal.

Business activity goes up and down with the seasons and does this inevitably in good and bad times. These swings are not to be considered in any serious attempt to estimate the future of the business cycle.

The important things are the major and minor swings. And it may be said here that the minor swings may not be so very minor, but may, occasionally, attain to impressive proportions.

The minor swings are due to movements and forces to be found within the structure of the consumers' goods industries.

The major swings are controlled by the behavior of the capital goods industries.

Now to bring this to a point, the swing up since February has been thus far, insofar as it is affected by any force within business, a minor movement. That is, it has been wholly controlled by activities within the consumers' goods industries.

The consumers' goods industries are those which produce goods which have sold to ultimate consumers. They are goods which are found in stores and which people buy at retail for their own use. They are food, clothes, luxuries, household furniture, jewelry, beauty preparations (an enormous business), amusements and the like.

The outlets for these industries are the stores. And in these industries various forces create movements. For instance, merchants are compelled to stock up their stores with goods. They are influenced by their opinion about the future and the buying habits of their customers.

will find themselves with large supplies on their shelves which are not moving. Their inventories become too large, it is said.

Hence, they cut out their buying as the wholesaler's or the manufacturer's. He in turn reduces his production, thus reducing employment, which in turn acts upon the stores, whose sales grow still less. Business will thin out until the shelves are pretty well emptied before merchants begin to buy again, giving the business curve another little upward twist.

When the recession began in 1937 many called it an inventory depression. This, of course, was not true. The inventories were fairly large. But if it had been merely an inventory depression it would never have gone so low. It was produced by other causes.

Whatever caused the depression, however, inventories were thoroughly washed out. And so now we see buying going on fairly briskly, but not too rashly by merchants. Not too rashly—that is important.

It is because buying is fairly prudent that at the end of the year we find no serious piling up of inventories. This tends to justify the belief that this minor upswing will continue, provided it is not impaired by other forces which we will examine later.

Producers who keep close to these minor consumers' goods swings, seem to be fairly optimistic about the future. The automobile people believe they can keep up their activity in the first half of 1939. The textile industry feels the same way and so does the shoe industry. The apparel, household equipment and similar industries have enjoyed rising production schedules.

It is usual for production to calm down around Christmas, for various reasons. Also after Christmas comes an immense drop in retail business which always carries the curve of business down for perhaps two months. But this is not important. It is a purely seasonal swing.

The sentiment among business men themselves is more or less conservative. And this is all to the good, for this will prevent excesses and above all, will tend to check price rises.

If this minor swing should continue upward in the first half of the year, as is likely, we may then look for a rise in prices. This will be the danger signal. For the rising tide, at this state, cannot stand that had influence. The hopeful sign is that business leaders seem to realize this.

This minor swing, of course, may go up fairly well. But its power for recovery is limited. Whether we will have a real major upward swing will depend on other factors, to be examined next.

SUB-ZERO COLD SPELL ARRIVES

Sudden Drop Follows Bad Snow Blizzard of Tuesday

Following on the heels of the worst snow blizzard of the season Tuesday, Manistique residents yesterday drew coat collars closely to their throats as the temperatures dropped below zero for the first time this winter.

Despite the sharpness of the cold weather, local residents greeted the change in conditions smilingly for it meant an end to a high wind which made walking and driving difficult and precarious.

Normal power service was restored late Tuesday evening, following a period of intermittent power lapses.

The sleet storm of Monday evening covered high line cables between Sault Ste. Marie and Manistique with a thick coating of ice, causing the transmission line leading into the city to sag severely. In the ensuing blizzard of Tuesday, the heavily weighted cables were whipped by the wind, causing them to strike together and short-circuiting the service intermittently.

Service crews of the Edison-Sault company spent the day in the storm to locate and repair the trouble.

All communication services were paralyzed, jeopardizing the utilization of local stand-by equipment. Power manufactured at the local plant was finally thrown on the line at five o'clock Tuesday evening, and remained on until after midnight, when the load was again transferred to the Edison-Sault transmission line.

Operations at the Manistique Pulp and Paper company were necessarily suspended Tuesday in order to service the city but were resumed Wednesday morning.

Telephone and telegraph communication systems were paralyzed in Tuesday's blizzard but train service both east and west was maintained.

Radio reports from Chicago and Cleveland that Manistique and other portions of the upper peninsula were completely cut off from other areas were somewhat exaggerated, as highways were kept open during the storm and train service was maintained.

Reports via radio that Manistique began to shovel its way out of six foot drifts, too, were colored, as the snowfall in this community actually was only a few inches, although drifts did pile up a foot or two in some places.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sutherland of Indianapolis, Ind., are spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cooper.

Linnea Michelson Becomes Bride Of John C. Ott Here

Miss Linnea Michelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Michelson, 732 Manistique avenue, and John Cornelius Ott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Ott, 317 Lake street, were married Monday evening at five o'clock at the Zion Lutheran church. The marriage ceremony was read by Rev. George Wahlin, pastor of the church.

Attendants were Lois Ott, sister of the groom, and Oliver Michelson, brother of the bride. The bride wore a teal blue tulle street length dress, and a corsage of roses and bridal wreath, and the bridesmaid wore a street length dress of Alice blue crepe and a corsage of roses and bridal wreath.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents, with 40 guests attending. The home was beautifully decorated in Christmas colors for the occasion, and the wedding cake served as the table centerpiece.

The young couple will make their home in Detroit, where the groom is employed by the Belle Isle Lime and Stone company. Both are graduates of the Manistique high school.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Roger Carlson, of Munising.

BRISK UPSWING STRIKES STOCKS

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

Table with columns: Index, Rail, U.S. Stocks, Net change, etc. Includes data for various market indices and their daily/weekly changes.

By FREDERICK GARDNER New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Speculative buying in armament shares helped prod the stock market out of its year-end drift today into a brisk upturn.

The aircraft shares, recently hit by a surge of profit-taking got a strong lift. President Roosevelt's proposal for training 20,000 youths yearly for the air services was taken widely in Wall Street as a hint the administration was determined to bring before the new congress a big defense program.

Three of the arms favorites in the stock exchange list—Bethlehem Steel, Bendix Aviation and Electric Boat—touched the highest prices recorded this year on advances of around 2 to 3 points.

Most of the market climbed out of an early decline to join the "war babies" on the year-end ride.

While U. S. Arms spending prospects clearly guided much of the buying, most observers credited the rebound primarily to a let-up in liquidation to establish gains and losses for income tax returns. It was the last session for making year-end tax transactions through the usual deferred delivery method.

Assuming the market was about to be relieved of the bulk of the selling generally blamed as a factor in holding it back in recent weeks, many traders shifted to the buying side.

Transactions increased to 2,164,050 shares, the largest since Nov. 10, from 1,236,280 yesterday as buying overpowered the selling. It was the broadest market since Oct. 21, 1937 with 1,061 separate issues involved in the day's transactions.

Demand was concentrated, aside from the individual arms favorites, on Steel, Copper, Rubber and Rail shares. The Associated Press composite price of 60 shares finished only 1/2 of a point higher at 51.6 for many of the usual favorites underwent little net change.

Rails set the recovery pace in the Bond market. Most commodities extended a leisurely year-end rise. Cotton gained 60 to 75 cents a bale. Wheat at Chicago closed 3-9 to 3-4 of a cent a bushel higher and Corn was up 1-4 to 1-2.

Fractionally higher in the Curb were United Gas, Electric Bond & Share, Lake Shore and American Super power. Sherwin Williams and Pittsburgh plate glass each lost more than 2. Turnover of 586,000 shares was the largest since October 21 last year and compared with 350,000 Tuesday.

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—The bond market overcame early hesitation today to score substantial gains on the largest trading volume of the year.

Total dealings came to $15,499,000 face value, a record since Oct. 19, 1937. Yesterday's total was $10,883,550.

Year-end tax selling was a factor in the largely increased turnover, it being the last day for such transactions on a "regular" delivery basis.

Inclined to irregularity during much of the session, the market stiffened near the end in sympathy with the buoyant action of the stock list.

Aside from a few inactive corporates which were handicapped by thin markets, the backward sections of the list were U. S. Governments and Foreign Issues.

Treasuries showed a predominant downward trend and finished 10-32ds lower to 4-32ds higher. Some Italian, Japanese and Polish obligations were down a point or more.

Rules Are O.K., College Football Coaches Decide

NO OVERHAULING DUE THIS YEAR

Mentors Consider Minor Proposals at Confab in Chicago

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Chicago, Dec. 28. (AP)—Inter-collegiate football, the nation's gridiron coaches decided today, is humming along smoothly and doesn't need any general overhauling.

A meeting of the National Football Coaches' association's rules committee failed to produce a single recommendation for a major change in the sport's regulations.

Lou Little, Columbia mentor and rules committee chairman, summed it up when he said: "We feel the game generally is satisfactory. Defense and offense are fairly well equalized and what we are after now is a period of stabilization—one in which little technical changes may be made to advantage but which will not confuse either spectators, players or coaches."

May Revise Pass Code
Several minor proposals will be made to the National Collegiate Athletic association rules committee which meets next Monday at Colorado Springs, Colo. This rules body, with power to legislate gridiron regulations, will be asked to rule that a forward pass touched by an ineligible receiver on or behind the line of scrimmage carry a penalty of 15 yards from the previous down, together with loss of the down.

Under the present rule, if the forward pass hits an ineligible player, the ball goes to the opponent at the spot of the previous down. This change was recommended to permit more shovel passes without the severe penalty of loss of the ball.

The mentors also recommended that in the case of a forward pass, all ineligible men must remain on the line of scrimmage until the pass is touched or is incomplete, with the penalty for violation to be 15 yards from the spot of the preceding down and the play to be counted as a down.

Equipment Changes Studied
The coaches recommended that equipment be studied to reduce injuries, several mentors reporting injuries suffered from shoe cleats made of material too brittle.

It also was decided to tighten up on the rule against intentional grounding of passes, the mentors recommending that "the fact that a defensive player is near the point where a pass is grounded should not be taken as prima facie evidence that the pass was not intentionally grounded."

Some coaches felt that on a kick from scrimmage, when a foul is committed while the ball is in the air, that the present rule giving possession to the offending team at the spot of the foul was too severe. The N. C. A. rules body was asked to study this question.

It also was recommended that a punt ball touched or downed by the kicking team no longer be considered a foul. Under the present rules, fouls by both teams on the same type of play offset each other. Under the recommendation, if the receiving team commits a foul on the play, the kicking team could decline the penalty and elect to continue play and take the advantage of what may have been a long punt.

Little said there was only brief discussion of the rule prohibiting passing from within five yards behind the scrimmage line and the possibility of giving more protection to passers.

Discharged Deputy Claims Hamtramck Vice Runs Rampant

Detroit, Dec. 28. (AP)—Jacob Spolansky, discharged deputy sheriff and one-time Dies committee witness who was acquitted last week of a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, tendered a written resignation today to Wayne county Sheriff Thomas Wilcox in which he charged that vice was permitted to operate in suburban Hamtramck and other parts of Wayne county through "collusion" between the sheriff's department and underworld characters he did not name.

Spolansky, who was refused reinstatement as a deputy yesterday, charged also that Joseph A. Spinnell, a deputy sheriff who acts as chauffeur for Sheriff Wilcox, spent most of his time tending the sheriff's summer home in Wisconsin and his farm in Texas.

Spolansky was charged with obtaining $20 from a Taylor township beer garden proprietor to obtain a liquor license for him. A justice found insufficient evidence upon which to base a conviction and Spolansky was freed.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY ENKLANGER

The holidays were saddened for Carl Hubbell by the loss of his father, but a Happy New Year came to the Giants with word that his left arm is okeh again.

Henry Greenberg can think of a lot nicer ways to spend an evening in Cleveland than batting against Bob Feller under lights.

Hank Greenberg recalls hitting against Van Lingle Mungo under the arcs while he was in the minors.

"It was careful not to say anything that might get Mungo peeved," explains the home run king.

"There ought to be a law against Feller staying up after dark. He's not old enough to vote."

Bulldog Halfback Signs With Lions

Detroit, Dec. 28. (AP)—Gordon Gore, 218-pound halfback for the Los Angeles Bulldogs, signed a contract today to play with the Detroit Lions next season, the Lions office announced.

Gore, one of the outstanding backs on the Bulldog squad, was coached by Elmer C. (Gus) Henderson, who succeeded Earl (Dutch) Clark as coach of the Lions Tuesday.

The Lions office indicated that Gore was the first of other Bulldog players who would follow their old coach to Detroit.

All Bids Identical On State's $480,000 Supply Of Chloride

Lansing, Dec. 28. (AP)—Identical bids from four companies to supply the state highway department with 25,000 tons of calcium chloride, which were previously rejected, were accepted today by the state administrative board.

The 25,000 tons, a year's supply, will cost $480,000 and are used to remove ice and lay dust on roads.

Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer and chairman of the board, said that the board decided to accept the bids because the four companies have a monopoly on the product. The contract was divided evenly between the Dow Chemical company of Midland, the Michigan Alkali company, of Wyandotte, the Solvay Sales corporation of Syracuse, N. Y., and the Columbia Alkali company of Barberton, Ohio.

DEFEAT HANDED TO PENN STATE

Michigan Staters Get Into Stride, Score 35-21 Victory

East Lansing, Dec. 28. (AP)—The Michigan State college basketball team struck its stride for the first time this season tonight and handed Penn State a 35 to 21 defeat before a crowd of 1,500 persons.

Michigan State commanded throughout the game, taking a one point lead on a free throw by Chet Aubuchon in the first 30 seconds of play, and never being displaced throughout.

At one point in the second period, the Spartans led by 17 points, but the Penn players began to find the mark and then cut the margin.

Young Bob Phillips, Spartan forward shared high scoring honors with the veteran Marty Hutt, both making eight points, but Phillips was the more spectacular.

He opened the second period scoring, dropped in three baskets in one minute and 17 seconds of play and hooked in another later to warm up his comrades. Charles Prosser, Penn forward, led his mates with seven points.

The Penn offense and defense was solved by the Spartans, though the latter were all dwarfed by Penn State's "six foot team" of starters. Aubuchon and the veteran Leo Callahan brilliantly stemmed the Penn attack at guard.

Thirty two fouls were called in the course of the game, a great deal of which was played with athletes scrambling on the floor.

Swim Team Picked To Represent U. S.

New York, Dec. 28. (AP)—The amateur athletic union named a swimming team today to represent the United States in six meets in Argentina during January.

The team includes Katherine Rawls Thompson of Miami, Jeanne Laupheimer of Brooklyn, Peter Fick of New York, Andrew Clark and Elbert Root of Detroit, Steve Wozniak of Buffalo, N. Y., and William Leonard, manager.

The group will sail this Saturday on the Brazil and arrive in Buenos Aires January 18. The start home is set for February 4.

No More Sightseeing For Rose Bowl Teams

BY ROBERT MYERS
Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 28. (AP)—Duke's gridiron followers turned to the lighter side of their Rose Bowl engagement today, leaving the Blue Devil team to finish unattended its training for the coming encounter with the Trojans of the University of Southern California.

Ninety thousand spectators may not suspect it, but they might sit on one of those grueling, terrific—and slightly tiresome—scoreless ties next week.

Wallace Wade, the quiet man of Duke, escorted his outfit through a Hollywood movie studio this morning and announced it was the last sightseeing expedition until after the game Monday.

He barred the gates to the practice field to everyone, permitting his journalistic advisors, among others, to plunge into the usual round of Rose Bowl social activities, and said he and his staff would worry along with the business of preparing the team for the game.

Howard Jones of U. S. C. similarly accommodated his camp followers, and so the two rival factions were left free of the actual training problems and can haggle, hope and pray without interruption.

Little official anxiety was expressed over the "crick" in the back developed yesterday by "Tiger" Dan Hill, co-captain and center of the Devils or the strange ailment contracted by speedy Mickey Anderson, Trojan reserve quarterback, who was thrown for a loss by too much Christmas turkey. Both players, said their coaches, will be ready for the battle.

Coch Wade continued to put his squad through heavy contact work, covering punts and passing. Eric Tipton's tremendous kicks have fulfilled all that was said of his ability, but the Duke passing hasn't been very impressive.

The Trojans, with Grenville Lansdell, Anderson and Oliver Day whipping the ball around, have shown a lot of aerial tactics all week. The Trojan warhorse doesn't intend to crack its skull against the powerful Duke line any more than necessary.

Speaking of Duke's unmatched defensive record, the fast charging Trojan line need not blush in comparison. Of the nine touchdowns scored against Troy all season, only two were made on running plays. Ohio State blocked a punt on the one yard line and it took the Buckeyes three downs to punch it across, and Dick Johnston of Washington broke loose for 51 yards from scrimmage to defeat the Trojans and account for the other tally.

In the big games with California and Notre Dame, it was Troy's line that wrecked the unbeaten records of both elevens, stopping all running plays cold.

TIGES TO BANK ON HUTCHINSON

Seattle Boy, 19, Signs With Detroit; Won 25 Last Season

Seattle, Dec. 28. (AP)—Fred Hutchinson, sensational 19-year-old right hander who won 25 games in his first year of professional baseball with Seattle, today signed his contract with the Detroit Tigers of the American League.

Nether Hutchinson nor Del Baker, Tiger manager who personally attended to the contract business, would disclose the salary figure, but the player said "the terms were highly satisfactory."

Hutchinson was purchased earlier this month by the Tigers for an estimated $50,000 cash and four players.

Baker said the young pitcher would report with 16 other Tiger hurlers and the catching staff at Lakeland, Fla., in late February.

"I have the advice of smart baseball men who have told me Hutch is the best prospect to come out of the west since Joe DiMaggio," Baker said. "And I was in this (Coast) league long enough to know that a pitcher must have plenty to win 25 games. When he hits over .300 and drives in almost a run a game in addition to his hurling, then he has to have plenty."

"We're banking heavily on Hutchinson in our pitching plans for 1939, and what I have seen of the boy impresses me that he is determined to go places in the fastest baseball there is."

The impact of the ball on the boards causes it to lose much of the spin so valuable to hook-ball rollers.

This is the reason why the ball frequently fails to come up to the strike pocket.

Naturally, throwing the ball causes the knicker to lose control.

Contracts Sent Out To 30 Giant Players
New York, Dec. 28. (AP)—The New York Giants mailed out 1939 contracts to 30 players, including 12 pitchers and three catchers. There were no hold-over contracts from last year, so each Giant will receive a paper to sign.

Even though it is doubtful that Carl Hubbell's famous arm will recover completely from the operation that removed a chip from the elbow, the great screwballer is being offered a renewal of his 1938 contract, as also Hal Schumacher, who underwent a similar operation.

Winter Blow Hits Hard At Newberry

Newberry, Dec. 28.—Newberry has been completely isolated from the rest of the world, as far as telephone or telegraph lines were concerned. Michigan Bell is still out-of-order and has been since 10:45 on Tuesday. On Wednesday morning, St. Ignace could be reached but there was no line open from there. Navy Sets Hudson Record For Stricken Coach; Many New Champions Crowned In Past Year

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
New York—Far western domination at Poughkeepsie had been taken as a matter of course for seven years.

It was June, but a cold rain beat down on the Hudson. Wind whipped the water. It was rough. But California and Washington and the weather made no difference to an inspired Navy.

The midshipmen's coach, Buck Walsh, watched the race while strapped to a hospital cot.

The sailors promised him they would win, and they did . . . pulling in ahead of California and Washington . . . to a new record, despite the unfavorable conditions . . . 18:19, 14.6 seconds faster than the mark established by Washington the previous year.

The Chicago Blackhawks barely squeezed into the six-team playoffs of the National Hockey League.

Then, after the Toronto Maple Leafs had worn themselves out gaining the final bracket, the despised Blackhawks of a few weeks before beat them for the cherished Stanley Cup.

The most dramatic incident occurred in the most important game . . . the final for the National Open Championship involving Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitling, Old Westbury and John Hay Whitney's Greenhouses on the International Field of the Meadow Brook Club at Westbury, L. I., and played before 38,000.

Jock and Sonny Whitney rode furiously after the ball early in the first chucker. Jock took a terrific cut, missed, and as his mallet completed its arc it struck Cousin Sonny on the forehead.

The game was delayed 30 minutes while Sonny was zipped up. He gamely returned to help his Old Westbury to the title.

PAPER COMPANY HAS GOOD YEAR

Munising Mill Operates 333 Days During This Year

Munising, Mich.—When the Munising Paper company shuts down Saturday morning for the New Year's holiday, it will have completed a very remarkable record of continuous operation. The full-time operations, employment and wage programs of the company have been important factors in making the words "depression" and "recession" unknown here.

The paper manufacturing industry is divided into many groups, depending upon the type of papers manufactured, such as newspaper, book, kraft, book papers, rag papers and sulphite papers. The Munising Paper company is a part of the sulphite paper group.

The average activity of the sulphite group of mills (percentage of days operated per year) was 60 percent in 1934; 68 percent in 1935; 83 percent in 1936; 78 percent in 1937 and 73 percent in 1938. The Munising plant operated 306 days in 1934, 344 days in 1935, 349 days in 1936, 304 days in 1937 and 333 days during 1938.

Before the N. R. A. went into effect in August, 1933, the Munising Paper company had approximately 290 in the mill. With the advent of the N. R. A., which required shorter working days, it was necessary to change from three shifts of eight hours to four shifts of six hours, and some additional day workers were required to keep the individual hours down to the maximum allowed. This meant an increase of approximately 25 percent in the number of people employed, so that at present there are about 365 persons, on the average, employed in the mill.

All pay reductions which were made during the depression have been restored for nearly two years, and in addition to that, all of the employees are on some form of an incentive work program. The result is that the mill employees are today receiving a better hourly wage and total weekly wage than they have ever been paid in the history of the company.

PLANT IS OUT AT MENOMINEE

Council Makes Contract With Light Company; Rates Reduced

Menominee, Dec. 28—The City of Menominee through its city council last night entered a five-year agreement with the M. & M. Light & Traction company by which the company agrees to reduce electric rates, improve the city's street lighting system, and reimburse the city for "reasonable" expense incurred by it in successful promotion of a municipal light plant.

The agreement will become effective when the city council rescinds earlier actions in its effort to acquire or construct a municipal light and power plant and notifies the federal government of its action. The city had accepted a PWA loan and grant for construction of the municipal plant.

When the council through action abandons all plans for a municipal light plant, the agreement between the light company and the city would become effective and would provide:

1—Reduction in the residential electric rates for Menominee residents in an amount totaling not less than 10 per cent.

2—Reduction in the commercial electric rates for Menominee residents, including all stores, offices, theaters, churches, schools and business establishments in the city, in an amount totaling not less than 10 per cent.

3—Improvement of the city's street lighting system to include the installation of 116 new overhead street lamps, increasing total street lamps from 325 at present to 441.

4—Reimbursement to the city of "reasonable" expenses incurred by the city in promotion of the rejected municipal light plant project.

5—That electric rates for the five-year contract period would not be increased in the aggregate by the light company in the residential and commercial brackets.

6—Electric rates for the period of the five-year contract for street lighting service will be as "low as the rates charged for comparable classes of service in other cities now served by the company."

SEWAGE BONDS SOLD

Menominee city council last night sold $135,000 in sewage disposal plant revenue bonds to C. W. McNear & Co., Chicago bond house, as a step toward construction of a $220,000 city sewage disposal plant as a Public Works Administration project.

The bid of McNear & Co. was one of eight submitted. A purchase proposal by Charles K. Morris & Co., Chicago, offered a lower interest rate, but the money that would have been made available to the city would be less than the required $135,000 for sponsorship of the project.

Necessary work in printing the bonds and other details may require several weeks. In the meantime the city must have its contractor (John Salen & Son, Menominee) on part of the disposal plant project start work at the plant site before December 31 to comply with PWA regulations.
