ICKES SPEECH IS SORE SPOT FOR GERMANY

RELATIONS REMAIN STRAINED WITH NAZI REGIME

Berlin, Dec. 30 (AP)—Germany, through her official press agency, bluntly informed the United States tonight there was no hope for improving German-American relations as long as the state department defended Secretary of Interior Ickes.

The warning, issued in a communication by DNB, at the same time gave the German public its first knowledge of the rejection by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles of a German protest against Ickes' criticism of Germany December 18 in Cleveland.

Rebuke Hurts The communique let the United States government know that Germany did not take Welles' diplomatic rebuke lying down.

There apparently were no talks in Berlin with American embassy officials before it was issued, but responsible Germans seemed to have advance knowledge of the move since DNB, immediately after the communique published copious excerpts of an inspired article from Voelkischer Beobachter, central official organ of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and the Nazi party.

The article asked "Does the United States want at all costs to provoke a conflict with the German people?"

It charged President Roosevelt with forgetting that he assured Hitler before the Munich accord that hundreds of millions in the world would recognize it as a great historical service if he were to settle the Sudeten issue without resort to arms.

Jewish Sympathy Seen DNB's communique said that Ickes attacked Germany's leadership "in an unwarrantable manner" in his Cleveland speech and that "the sharpest protest" had been made in Washington by Dr. Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affaires, to Acting Secretary of State Welles.

It then said: "The American foreign office, however, did not—as is a matter of self-evident procedure otherwise in matters of this kind in international relations—disassociate itself from the utterances of the American minister of the interior, but tried to defend them."

"It must be stated that as long as such a procedure, which obviously serves Jewish interests in the conduct of relations of the United States of North America with Germany, the hope expressed by the American foreign office to the German charge d'affaires for an improvement of mutual relations lacks every foundation."

Hitler Wants Apology (State department officials received the statement in silence but it was noted that the department had given no indication it had expressed hope to Germany for improved mutual relations.

(Ickes, speaking before the Cleveland Zionist society, charged that Germany's treatment of Jews carried her back "to a period of history when man was unlettered,

Senator's Daughter Gets Capital Debut Without Alcoholics

BY BETH CAMPBELL Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Senator Morris Sheppard's 18-year-old daughter Lucile, made her debut tonight—without benefit of alcoholic refreshments.

Most capital debuts this year have meant champagne or cocktails or spiked punch for thirsty guests. But the company of newly-bred Lucile dined and danced to-night without them.

"It's our custom," explained Mrs. Sheppard.

Senator Sheppard, Texas Democrat, helped write national prohibition into the constitution and has been plugging for a return of prohibition ever since repeal.

Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, niece and namesake of the first lady, attended the party. Miss Roosevelt made her debut at the White House Tuesday.

Senator and Mrs. Sheppard received with Lucile, who is a junior at Wellesley, studying very serious subjects like economics and philosophy. She wore a quaint gown of white brocade, made with a hoop skirt, tight-fitting bodice and long sleeves puffed at the shoulder. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

"Lucile has very serious ambitions—wants to do something in politics, or foreign service," Mrs. Sheppard remarked. "But she's very happy having this little whirl."

The party was held in a hotel ballroom, decorated by southern smilax and silver holly. The large horseshoe dinner table was bright with pink poinsettias and white fern.

SYRIAN DEMAND WORRIES PARIS Immediate Independence From French Rule Is Objective

Paris, Dec. 30 (AP)—Reports of a Syrian demand for immediate independence from France confronted the government today as it sought to put up a strong colonialist front to deal with Italy's empire aspirations.

The independent nationalist party of Syria was said to have sent a demand to the nationalist premier, Djemil Mardani, calling for immediate release of the eastern Mediterranean state from France's League of Nations mandate.

Other reports told of widespread discontent threatening to break into open trouble.

The dispute was sharply drawn by refusal of the French foreign relations committee to ratify the 1936 French-Syrian treaty promising Syria independence. This refusal was regarded as a direct result of French-Italian friction.

The Syrian premier who had just returned to his people from consultations in Paris was quoted by one dispatch as saying in a public speech, "We shall have independence by legal or extra-legal means."

Democrats Attend Caucus In Lansing Lansing, Dec. 30 (AP)—Twenty-six representatives, the Democratic party's remnant in the house, will caucus here Tuesday night to select a floor leader and to iron details of party policy for the forthcoming legislative session.

Rep. Joseph C. Murphy of Detroit appeared to be without opposition for another term as Democratic floor leader.

ALLEGED WIFE KILLER IN JAIL

Jeddo Farmer Says He Was Threatened With A Butcher Knife

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP)—Elmer Smith, 55-year-old Jeddo farmer, was held at the St. Clair county jail tonight awaiting trial on a charge of slaying his wife, Helen, 49, whose body was found by state police in an 80-foot well on their farm yesterday.

Arraigned before Circuit Judge William Robertson today, Smith stood mute and the court entered an innocent plea in his behalf. He was ordered held without bond.

Mrs. Smith, 49, was reported missing by a daughter on December 9 but her whereabouts remained in doubt until officers found the body while searching the farm 11 miles north of Port Huron.

Sheriff William L. Van Antwerp said yesterday that Smith confessed killing his wife after being threatened with a butcher knife. The day before, the officer said, the couple had signed a separation agreement after having been married 18 months.

go's lowest reading was 5 degrees, the highest 9. A bright sun brought rising temperatures in Indiana.

Rising temperatures were predicted for the Michigan week-end. Snow fell throughout the lower peninsula, with highways dangerously slick. Iron River, Mich., reported 25 degrees below zero and Iron Mountain 18 below.

Rocky Mountain states had milder temperatures. The climate was unreasonably mild and fair in Utah and southern Idaho. In Washington, 16 inches of new snow deepened the snow pack in the Cascades to 108 inches. Most of Texas remained near freezing.

Germany Challenges Britain On U-Boats

Berlin, Dec. 30 (AP)—Germany informed Great Britain today that she intended to build up to parity with the British fleet in submarines, the dreaded German World War weapon which was completely banned by the treaty of Versailles.

When Germany signed a naval treaty with Britain in 1935 she agreed to limit her shiny new U-boat fleet—which has sprung from nowhere in the last three years—to 45 percent of Britain's submarine tonnage.

The pact with Britain, however, recognized Germany's right to parity, and there was an escape clause which permitted the Reich to build beyond the 45 percent "in the event of a situation arising which in its (the German government's) opinion makes it necessary."

Today's announcement means Germany intends more than to double her present submarine tonnage of about 31,000 tons, in construction or complete, since Britain's is about 70,000.

(London political observers felt Germany's demand was a hard jolt to Prime Minister Chamberlain's appeasement policy. British officials explained Germany was taking advantage of a loophole in the 1935 treaty. They said Germany's reasons were "very general.")

British naval circles feared that Germany was building a vast fleet of ingenious "midget" submarines in preparation for a possible war of destruction against merchant shipping.

Germany announced her intention to a mission of British naval experts from London, just arrived. They will fly back to London tomorrow to report to their superiors.

Whereas the German fleet consisted of only twelve 800-ton torpedo boats, five 6,000-ton cruisers, and the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Deutschland when Hitler came to power in 1933, they recently steamed past the fuehrer 117 impressive vessels.

The new navy included battleships, cruisers, submarines, torpedo boats and smaller craft, most of them, of course, new. Naval experts point out that when Germany has built to the 55 percent of the British fleet, she will have a modern navy not hampered by outmoded tonnage.

Fegan will go to Marquette State Tax Commission's Chairman Denies He Will Resign

Lansing, Dec. 30 (AP)—Associates of John N. Fegan, youthful chairman of the state tax commission, declared today he intends to practice law in Marquette after the first of the year, but Fegan himself would only assert he does not intend to resign in favor of Melville B. McPherson, former chairman.

McPherson, a power in the incoming Republican administration, has made it clear he expects to return to the chairman's seat and that Fegan, who ousted him a year ago, may resign or be re-elected.

Fegan asserted "I haven't talked with Governor Fitzgerald yet; it is still too early to talk about a resignation." His appointment by Governor Murphy never was confirmed by the senate.

Fegan was appointed to the tax commission last winter and was made chairman without waiting for McPherson to resign. The latter remained, however, as the sole Republican on the bi-partisan commission.

Political circles here predicted freely that John W. Libcke of Detroit, the other Democratic member, would be retained as the lone Democrat on the commission after the first of January. Libcke sided with McPherson a few weeks ago when the veteran Republican member virtually took charge of the department and forced the curtailment of a controversial survey of Upper Peninsula iron mining properties which Fegan had instituted.

PRIEST BORROWED NAZI TALK, SAYS N. Y. POST

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—The New York Post says today that the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit published, on Dec. 5, a "defense of Nazism in his weekly 'Social Justice'" which had excerpts "closely parallel" to a speech delivered some three years ago by Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda.

The following excerpts from the Coughlin article, the paper adds, "and the Goebbels speech are so closely parallel that the only conclusion to be drawn is that Father Coughlin borrowed heavily from Goebbels' speech:

"Goebbels—On April 30, 1919, in the courtyard of the Luitpold gymnasium in Munich, ten hostages among them one woman, were shot through the backs, their bodies rendered unrecognizable and taken away. This act was done at the order of the Communist terrorist, Egelhofer, and under the responsibility of the Jewish Soviet commissars, Levien, Levine-Nissen and Axelrod."

This act was perpetrated by the direct order of the Communist terrorist Egelhofer, and under the responsibility of the Jewish Soviet commissars, Levien, Levine-Nissen and Axelrod."

Two Compared The paper continued with these and other statements, which it described as excerpts from Goebbels' speech—delivered on Sept. 13, 1935, as published in Munich in the "official report of party day"—and from the Coughlin article:

"Goebbels—The Jewish Techekist, Bela Kun, made an experiment which rivaled the Paris commune in bloodshed, when he ordered the execution of 60,000 to 70,000 people in the Crimea. For the most part, these executions were carried out with machine guns. At the municipal hospital in Alupka 272 sick and wounded were brought out on stretchers in front of the gate of the institution and there shot."

Capital Key-Man

Now King Pin For Congress

BRAKES ARE URGED ON GOVERNMENT SPENDING

BY RICHARD L. TURNER Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Vice President John Nance Garner, stepping out today as a leading if not dominant figure of the coming congress, started what looked like a high-powered drive to swing the new deal to the right.

Four days before the opening of the session, his spacious suite in the senate office building was the center of all congressional activity, the scene of continuing conferences dealing with the moment's lively subjects of legislation.

Barkley's Office Deserted And the word went round that "Cactus Jack" was urging, among other things, that the brakes be applied to government expenditures and that local communities be given more control over spending of relief funds.

Just around the corner from Garner's suite, the office of Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the Democratic leader, was barren of callers. Barkley wearily worked away at a revision of the senate's Democratic committee assignment, trying to evolve a list that would suit the conflicting ambitions of all the senators of his party.

A Democratic caucus was called for tomorrow to give approval—there is expected to be no row about it—to Barkley's selections and to name him again as Democratic floor leader. His only possible opponent, Senator Harrison (D-Miss), withdrew today in his favor and in the interest of party harmony.

"Big Shots" Call But it was Garner's office that newsmen watched, and they saw the unusual spectacle of two members of the cabinet, the mayor of New York and the leader of the majority in the house calling on a man whose office, by all the traditions of American politics, is one of futility gavel rapping. It is an office filled, the musical comedy has it, by a man named Throttebottom who lives in the last house of "Z" street.

Garner received the following callers: Secretary Wallace, whose crop control bill of last year has had rough sledding, due to the year's unusual yields of wheat and corn and the refusal of tobacco and rice farmers to accept marketing quotas proposed by his department.

Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, who took a critical bombardment as head of the Works Progress Administration. (Work relief is a foremost congressional topic, and in addition Hopkins' nomination must be passed on by the senate.)

No Tax Revision? Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, here to see that his city gets substantial recognition when relief funds are apportioned. And Representative Rayburn (D-Tex), the Democratic leader in the house.

"It looks," said one veteran observer of congressional affairs, "as though Jack's the man to see this year."

Meanwhile, there were discussions of legislative possibilities elsewhere, principally taxes.

"I don't think there will be a general tax revision bill this year," Barkley told reporters. "I hope there won't," said Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee.

Last spring, in allowing the 1938 tax bill to become law without his signature, President

ELECTION FRAUD CONVICTS FREED

O'Hara and Wilkowski Remain in Prison At Jackson

Lansing, Dec. 30 (AP)—In the waning hours of his administration, Governor Murphy today ordered three of the five persons sentenced for the 1934 election recount frauds released from state prison. Those granted a commutation to permit parole were Franklin M. Morgan, Herbert Sullivan and Bruno Nowicki.

The governor took no action in the case of Elmer B. O'Hara, former chairman of the Democratic state central committee and Wayne county clerk, and Senator Anthony J. Wilkowski, the two recouters remaining in prison.

The parole board will meet today or tomorrow at Jackson to set a date for the release of the trio.

The governor granted each of the three a commutation to two-and-a-half to five years, permitting their immediate parole.

Morgan, 53, was sentenced to 3 1/2 to 5 years; Sullivan, 42, to the same term; and Nowicki, 31, to three to five years. In the routine course of events, Morgan would have been due for parole next June 28, Sullivan on July 1, and Nowicki next February 24.

Murphy said the parole board some time ago had informed him all five recouters remaining in prison were good parole risks. However, the board reported, he said, that O'Hara "has developed some paranoid reactions as a result of his imprisonment."

Peace Discussions Proposed For China On Japanese Terms

Hongkong, Dec. 30 (AP)—Wang Ching-wei, former premier of China, came forward today in favor of peace negotiations with Japan on the basis of terms set forth Dec. 22 by Japanese Premier Prince Fumimaro Koyano in a declaration of policy concerning China.

Wang, now a member of the central political council of the Kuomintang, Chinese government party, and a leader of the party's "peace faction," sent a telegram to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declaring Koyano's terms offered a "fair basis" for peace discussions.

Informed Hongkong circles looked upon Wang's action as a bold gesture. He was said recently to have split with Chiang because of the generalissimo's admission of communist influence in the Chinese central government.

RED INFLUENCE FACES UNIONS

Problem Must Be Solved If Labor Goes Ahead, Dr. Taft Says

Detroit, Dec. 30 (AP)—Dr. Philip Taft of the Brown University Economics department, speaking before the American Association for labor legislation here tonight described "Communist influence" as one of the problems facing "new unionism" in the United States.

Describing the difficulty of the Congress of Industrial Organization in securing trained organizers, Dr. Taft said "the need for newly recruited organizers forced many of the unions to employ individuals who were not primarily union-minded, but to whom the union appeared as a favorable recruiting ground and agitation center for a political program."

Making direct reference to the United Automobile Workers and the National Maritime Workers Union, Dr. Taft said "the factional activity of communists has threatened the very existence of the unions."

Officered by Reds

"In some instances," Dr. Taft said, "international unions affiliated with the C.I.O. are officered by members in sympathy with communist trade union policy. It would be extremely difficult to eliminate them from authority as their unions are autonomous, and they themselves control the administrative and disciplinary machinery. There are also a considerable number of local officials who follow Communist party trade union line."

"Without overemphasizing the extent of Communist infiltration into the new unions we must note that a number of the leading officers of the automobile union were charged with taking their orders from the trade union section of the Communist party, and that those who were opposed to the Communist influence in the union were bitterly assailed in the Communist party press; also that the struggle to fasten a policy upon the union from the outside kept it in a constant state of turmoil and interfered with its normal activity."

Cause of Outburst

However, Dr. Taft pointed out, "there is no widespread communist sentiment among the automobile workers. The internal difficulties are due mainly to the youth of the organization and the inexperience of the membership."

Regarding the National Maritime Workers Union, Dr. Taft said

Babson Predicts 1939 Will Be As Good As Any Year Since '29

Business Expert Sees Possibility Of Being Best In Last Decade

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., Dec. 30.—Total business by the end of 1939 will be as good as—perhaps even better than—at any year-end since 1929. There may be periods when business will mark time, but the average volume for the year will be around 20 per cent above the 1938 level. Jobs, wages, retail sales, stocks, and even farm prices should all chalk up good-sized gains. It is even possible that the sharp peaks of early 1937 will be topped—but this is a pretty long shot. Considering all factors, I forecast that 1939 will be a year of moderate prosperity.

There are no "hedges" tacked on to my forecast as there were in several years past. In 1937, I feared that the sit-downers would upset the apple-cart. A year ago, Washington's inertia worried me. But today, I can see no reason why the tides of recovery should not carry us vigorously forward—perhaps even to new highs since 1929! This will merely be a continuation of the uptrend which began in 1932. Frankly, I do not consider the 1937-1938 recession as anything more than a temporary, but sharp, interruption of the upward swing.

"Lost Horizon"

I emphasize this bit of "back history" because I believe it has an important bearing on confidence at the moment. Millions of people—as we get further and further away from 1929—look upon that year as setting a record which can never again be touched. As a result of the sharp ups-and-downs of the past decade, they have come to believe that hard times are now normal times in America. I disagree. I think that these people have lost their horizon! I do not believe that 1929 necessarily represents the pinnacle of American business.

It is true that some factors are less favorable than in 1929. Among them are taxes, bureaucracy, and lack of faith. We have, however, the following favorable items today:

1. Our population has grown 7,000,000 since 1929.
2. Thousands of new products have been invented.
3. Production efficiency has soared 50 per cent in ten years.
4. A huge deferred demand for goods has piled up.
5. Credit reserves are the greatest in history.
6. Production costs are lower than last year.
7. Wholesale and retail inventories are relatively low.
8. Confidence is returning as "business bailing" lessens.
9. Billions will be spent on armaments and pump priming.
10. Building is on the threshold of a real boom.

Gradual Gains in Early Months
For these and other reasons, I believe that the forces of recovery are still predominant. Right now business stands at 99 on my Babsonchart compared with 84 a year ago. 1939 will open, therefore, with activity 15 per cent above the early days of 1938. Indications are that, as we work along through the first half of the year, business will register a slow but healthy gain over the January levels. The entire first half of the New Year should show a 25 per cent increase over the gloomiest months of early 1938.

The second half of 1939 should see a continuation of the gains. My forecast, however, is contrary to the expectations of many people. They look for business to taper off and even to slide backward when government pump priming ceases next May or June. Nevertheless, I am willing to predict that the second half of the year will be better than the early months and will run 15 per cent above the last half of 1938. The entire year's gain should average around 20 per cent. This would put the Babsonchart at 106 to 108 by next Christmas.

No Disturbing Legislation
The absence of disturbing new legislation may well spark this advance. Since 1933, the cues for my annual forecasts have been found on Pennsylvania Avenue. This year, we face a new set-up. The marked increase in the Republican delegation in Capitol Hill, plus the unbarged Democrats, can lick any further New Deal reforms. On the other hand, the President still retains enough "100 percents" to block any serious revision of existing laws.

The Wagner Act, for instance, may be amended, but only if the President agrees to the amendments. Many tax law changes will be proposed, but few will go through. The biggest fiscal reform may be the elimination of tax exemption on new government bonds. Moreover, it is possible that public employees will be put under the same income tax laws to which other individuals are subject. A lot of talk about "incentive" taxes to foster profit-sharing plans will be heard. Some change in farm legislation is in the wind.

Spending to Go On
As a result of my recent poll of reader opinion on the Fatman Chain Store Bill, I predict its defeat. The defense program will go ahead full blast after a strong debate in Congress, but I doubt if any special taxes will be levied to support it. There will be a drive to abolish the big Social Security reserve fund and put the program on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. The only change I see in this program, however, is the stepping-up of the benefit maximums and the applying of the Act to more people.

Because of the heavy defense program, the spending faucets at Washington will be wide open. Although the average citizen wants economy, his wishes are not heeded by Congress or state legislatures. I think that public extravagance is one of our three biggest long-term problems. History proves that, once spending starts, it is almost impossible to stop. Our experience so far bears this out. A balanced budget is not in sight. By the end of the next fiscal year—on June 30, 1940—our national debt may reach $42,000,000,000, compared with $16,000,000,000 in 1930!

More Jobs and Strikes
Better business next year naturally means more jobs. There are about 9,000,000 jobless today against 7,500,000 last Christmas. This total ought to drop at least 2,000,000 during 1939. New building, railroad equipment, factory machinery, and the tool industries, plus the service businesses, should provide a good portion of these jobs. As business increases, labor troubles may likewise increase. However, I now foresee no widespread strikes such as 1937 witnessed.

Wages may edge higher in 1939, but I do not expect any general increases, such as we had two years ago. Hourly rates will be marked up only in special instances later in the year. More jobs and slowly rising wage rates should add up to the biggest payrolls and best urban buying power since the boom. These payrolls would even exceed 1929 were it not for the new "Wage and Hour" Act which is a ball and chain on most workers.

Farm Outlook Better
Farm income should also be better. Farm products' prices can score moderate advances led by wheat, corn, fresh vegetables, and potatoes. Butter, eggs, and milk should not sell for much more than they did in 1938. Cattle will feature the livestock picture, while bigger supplies of lambs and hogs will hold down their prices. With wool demand high, and world supplies not burdensome, higher prices are logical.

Indications now are that production of farm products, while less than last year, will again be above average. So barring drought or other abnormal weather conditions, farm income may jump 10 per cent above 1938. Farmers' profits will be somewhat better than this year even though the goods which farmers must buy will cost more. Because the outlook is only moderately better, I see no reason for farm land values to change greatly.

Food to Boost Living Costs
Food eats up practically 40 per cent of the average family's budget. Hence, the strengthening of farm products prices is the biggest factor in the living cost outlook. In addition to bigger food bills, clothing will also cost more in 1939—perhaps 5 per cent. An advance in fuel oil prices from current low figures by Spring is a distinct possibility. Soft coal prices may rise slightly. The demand for coal may increase as people find that a fully automatic stoker gives certain sections cheaper heat than does oil. Rents should not move much in either direction except in the case of specially desirable urban properties. Texas, of course, will be no lower. Electric light and gas rates will continue their long-term downward trend. Home furnishings, in general, will cost more. Adding up all these various items, my estimate is that by next Christmas we may find total living costs 5 to 8 per cent above present figures.

Higher Wholesale Prices

Before leaving living costs, industrial commodity prices should be mentioned. They have been trailing recovery to date. In fact, they are actually lower on the average than they were when business started to skyrocket last June. So an advance is in the cards for prices of such raw materials as hides, leather, rubber, gray goods, zinc, lead, lumber, and the like. These gains mean that retail prices during 1939 will reverse their long-trend. That is, I predict that home furnishings and clothing will cost more next year.

A jump in retail price-tags and in household bills ordinarily means cutting into consumer purchases—but the 1939 increase in payrolls and farm income should offset them. Consequently, I expect merchants, wholesalers, and jobbers to have a better year than in 1938. Dollar retail sales ought to average 8 to 10 per cent above the last twelve months with the best comparisons coming in June and October. Unit sales will not rise quite so much because of the higher prices.

Store profits should increase even more than dollar volume of trade because there need be no stock write-downs in 1939 as there have been during the past twelve months. A heavy demand for luxury and semi-luxury merchandise is logical. Charge account business will expand and, while I do not like to forecast it, I think that installment sales will probably increase faster than cash business. With the outlook for higher retail prices, wise shoppers will stock up during early '39 "clearance" sales.

Stocks to Rise

With industrial activity rising, it is only logical to expect higher stock prices. Increased business, better earnings, pressure of idle cash, healthier trends at Washington should all help to strengthen the market. How far the advance will go, I am not prepared to say. There is an outside chance, however, that the March, 1937 recovery highs can be broken during the coming year. Naturally, transactions on the various exchanges should be much more active than in 1938.

Readers ask that I name those stock market groups which I feel have the best outlook. I do not like to do so, but will mention the chemicals, oils, electrical equipments, rail equipments, building, machinery, and steels as having good prospects. For ten years, I have never recommended a rail, road common stock and I do not intend to get messed up in this sick industry now. However, I believe that the rails may have the best chance of all groups in 1939 for percentage gains. This especially applies to certain defaulted bonds.

Sharp Profit and Dividend Gains
During early 1939, I would prefer to buy securities of companies without funded debt if possible. But no security can be put away in a safe-deposit box and forgotten. Sharper control over operating costs, brought about by the recession, should produce the best profits since 1929, excepting only late 1936 and early 1937. Only higher taxes and labor costs will prevent earnings from being the best since the boom. With a big step-up in profits, investors can expect many pleasant dividend surprises as the year progresses.

The same factors which will help stock prices will also rule bonds. Second-grade issues may be the sensation of the market. Force of capital seeking investment can keep high-grade bonds steady—but by year-end the pressure will be on the downside. I forecast no material change in 1939 in our abnormally low money rates. We are one year nearer the time, however, when those investors who have over-concentrated in low-coupon, high-grade, long-term corporate and government bonds will be very sorry!

Peace Prospects Gloomy
I urge investors to leave foreign bonds alone because international relations will continue in a turmoil. The Munich Pact merely postponed war—for how long, no one knows. I am more optimistic than most observers, but I am not willing to predict—as I did a year ago—that there will be no war in Europe during the New Year. I feel, however, that Great Britain, France, and the United States will get twelve months more of peace.

Despite unsettled foreign relations, our overseas trade will be better than in 1938, but not as good as in 1937. The biggest gains will be with Great Britain and the Dominions. The improvement in South American commerce will also be considerable. Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade agreements and the recent Latin-American talks at Lima, Peru, should further these trade gains. Germany and Italy will remain poor markets and our trade with Japan will suffer.

Long-Term Outlook Uncertain
The above is a good outline of what I figure the New Year has in store for us. While 1939—and perhaps 1940—should be better, readers must not think that I believe we are out of the woods. Our standards of living must sooner or later be readjusted to actual conditions. Subsidies and other forms of government relief must some day cease. Many communities are now living in a fool's paradise. Ultimately, we

FRENN HEADS SKATING CLUB

Plans Made for Annual Meet In Escanaba On Jan. 14-15

At a meeting Thursday night, James Frenn was elected president of the Bay de Noc Skating club for the coming year. Other officers elected were: first vice president, Sid Shank; second vice president, Gust Peterson; third vice president, Hazen Hengesh; secretary, Bevier Butts; treasurer, W. J. Schmit. Board of directors are: William Smith, Dr. Ed Hirn, Dr. Harold Groos, Edward Edick, Al Gearts, Harold Gessner, W. H. Dickson and Jack Erickson.

Several matters of business concerning the second annual Bay de Noc open which has been scheduled for January 14 and 15 were discussed. The club expects participants from several cities and towns in Wisconsin, the Upper Peninsula and Lower Michigan. Club members will house all visitors the same as last year. The Bay de Noc club will provide prizes and some transportation for the meet.

The first open meet last year was very successful and boosters of the club feel that in another year or two this meet should be of national importance.

In keeping with the constitution of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan Skating association which has the power to sanction the Bay de Noc open, the president appointed Al Gearts and Harold Gessner on the committee for the promotion of fancy skating as part of the club activities.

A meeting of officers and board of directors was held called for next Wednesday night, January 4, at the city hall council chambers beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Old Captain Streeter Receives Recognition

BY JOHN L. BACH

Chicago (AP)—Capt. George Welling Streeter, the hard-fisted, famous old squatter who protected his claims to 186 acres of lake-front property by plain and fancy rifle work, has been dead for 17 years, but today his name rises above the towers of Chicago's swanky Gold Coast.

The doughty captain, once a familiar figure in plug hat, wing collar, dusty frock coat and white beard mellowed with amber tobacco juice, claimed ownership of the wide expanse of made land extending into Lake Michigan on Chicago's near north side. He christened the little empire Streeterville.

Skyscrapers There Now
Today the same district, center of a real estate controversy in the courts for nearly half a century, consists mostly of towering skyscrapers and imposing structures, such as Northwestern university's downtown campus buildings, Passavant Memorial hospital, the furniture mart and palatial hotels.

And now, after all the years of legal bickering over the property, business men up and down the ostentatious north side towertown have given Streeterville an official stamp of recognition. Attractive blue and white stickers, bearing the name Streeterville, are being placed on envelopes, packages and almost everything.

Streeterville literally rose out of the lake in 1886, when the captain's pleasure boat, the Reutan, went aground in shallow water 450 feet from shore. Streeter, his wife, Marie, and crew were returning from Milwaukee when the steamer struck a sandbar during a storm.

Fight Recalled
"I decided that this location was to be my home," the captain disconsolately told friends.

The rapidly shifting sands filled in the space between boat and shore and added many acres. To speed expansion, the hard-cussing, swashbuckling captain invited contractors and excavators to dump their refuse and gravel on the stretch of beach that circled his sunken vessel. Streeter gloated over his "Deestrick of Lake Michigan," and later gave it the name of Streeterville. It was not to be a part of Illinois.

"No, sir!" he said, Streeterville was a separate commonwealth under the direct jurisdiction of the federal government. His claims were based on squatter's rights, and in court he produced land warrants purportedly signed by President Grover Cleveland.

Then, in 1889, Streeter and Marie were living in a "home on wheels," when five constables, equipped with eviction orders, paid them a visit. But the old captain was hardened to the profession of arms when he followed Sherman to the sea with a Michigan regiment and was quick on the draw. Both he and his wife grabbed rifles from behind a door and the constables fled.

Ten years later Streeter found

Meeting With Editors

THE state conservation department is adopting a novel method in public relations by arranging for a conference with outdoors writers and newspaper editors of the Upper Peninsula at Crystal Falls on Jan. 17.

The primary purpose of the meeting will be to give first-hand information of the state conservation department's views on the Michigan deer situation so that the newspapers may pass it on to the reading public.

The game division of the state conservation department contends that in certain areas of Michigan there are too many deer in comparison with the winter food supply. Many sportsmen, who failed to fill their deer license last season, are prone to disagree with this official view.

For years, the conservation department has been selling the public on the efficacy of the one-buck law in conserving the herd of whitetails in the state. The result has been that mostly all sportsmen are firm believers in the buck law and oppose any suggestions for its revision. But now the conservation department proposes that the law be changed to permit the killing of any deer—buck, doe or fawn—in those particular areas, where there are signs that the animals have overabundant and there is a dangerous shortage of food.

H. D. Ruhl, head of the game division of the conservation department, will discuss the entire situation at the Crystal Falls meeting, aided by movies showing conditions in winter deer yards. Undoubtedly, there are misunderstandings in the public mind over the deer problem that can be corrected through a conference of this kind. The department appears to have hit upon a good idea.

No Excuse

IT is a long time since anyone has accepted "I didn't know it was loaded" as a satisfactory excuse for a shooting. And it may be that one reason why our automobile traffic death toll is at last going down is the fact that a similar healthy skepticism is being developed toward the excuses offered by motorists.

A case in point occurred the other day in Fresno, Calif., where a young man was sent to jail for 30 days because he fell asleep while driving his car.

The man's family was moving, and he was transporting household goods back and forth. It got to be late at night, and he was—naturally enough—very tired and drowsy. He dozed off while driving along the road. His car swerved and hit a truck. He's nice, riding in the car with him, was killed, and the young man was held on a charge of manslaughter.

Now the point is that this driver, in a sense, was as blameless as a man could be. He hadn't been intoxicated, nor had he been speeding or breaking any traffic laws. He was a good lad, and the district attorney asked that leniency be shown. But the judge remarked:

"The fact remains that he was negligent in driving while sleepy. It is the duty of drivers to stop their automobiles before they go to sleep. A sleepy or a drowsy driver is a menace to the public."

So the young man has to spend a month in jail, where he can meditate on the need for eternal vigilance at the steering wheel. Simple enough, all of this—and hardly worth comment, except that it does highlight a little truth that we can too easily overlook.

The man who is driving an automobile has a ton and a half of steel rolling along the highway. He may have the best intentions in the world, but if for any reason at all it gets out of his control, somebody is going to get hurt. He may be guilty of nothing more heinous than dozing for five seconds—but the effect can be as bad as if he were a homicidal maniac possessed of a meat-ax. And the only possible rule that can be laid down is that he has no business getting behind the wheel if anything is going to interfere with his ability to drive his car safely.

It has taken us a long time to learn this lesson, but it is soaking in slowly. And when we get it digested, we may be able to go on from there and realize that the same sort of truth applies to all our activities in the modern world.

For this whole age of machinery, with its mass production lines, its speedy communications, its intricate web of financial and political relationships, is careening along the highway of history like a speeding automobile. It requires our constant attention and our best skill. We may have the best intentions in the world, but if we let the thing get out of control the results will be disastrous.

The world is moving at automobile speed, not at a horse-and-buggy pace. If we fail to take charge of it, it will take charge of us. Like that man in the auto, we can't afford to doze even for a moment.

The New Idolatry

THE placing of the state above God has created new perils for democracy, Anthony Eden said recently, but how can this new idolatry be combatted effectively?

This is the question that has been posed by David Lawrence, writing recently in the United States News. The well known political writer suggests as a possible plan the mobilization of the moral forces of the whole world.

"We are often told that we should not look abroad, that we have a job to do at home," Mr. Lawrence writes. "Yes, a job in converting the smug and the selfish, the citizens who possessed of an abundance of food and creature comforts have forgotten that Christ ever lived the exemplary life which gave birth to an eternal religion."

"If the brotherhood of man means nothing to such persons, then the influence of Christianity is, indeed, at the lowest point of all times. If we care not about our brethren because they are yellow or black, because they are marked for persecution in this way or that, if in our hearts there is no responsive note of human sympathy, if we merely shrug our shoulders and turn away to our movies and night clubs, our turkey dinners and our sports, without a thought of how to transform our scant sympathy into practical action, our consciences are numb and Christianity has failed."

"But a nation which shuts its eyes to the facts of this modern world and turns a cold shoulder to the exhortations of suffering mankind is not a nation which can long endure. Sooner or later the ambitious overlords begin to feel that they may reach out into the very environs of such a self-indulgent, weak-spirited people and chisel away their assets. The subtle ways of totalitarianism are denied today only by those who are too blind to see them operating incipiently amongst us."

"Moral Force is, therefore, our best approach. But before it can be applied effectively a start must be made at home to regenerate the selfish and the proud, the self-centered and the intolerant—for there are in our midst persons who inwardly believe in the 'new idolatry' and who would exchange their very souls for the fancied security of materialistic gain. These individuals little realize that in the whole course of human history, security is an illusion when it is founded on the wreckage of human liberty. Nothing is more ephemeral than the supposed stability of a nation which has lost its soul though it has gained a plethora of profits."

"Christianity is a religion of sacrifice, of mutuality of interest. The peoples of Europe and the Americans are predominantly Christian. The Church has for two decades wondered why it had so often been subordinated, why its usefulness has seemed at times to be questioned if not nullified in a world of sin. The Church has been groping, too, even as you and I."

"But does not the crisis of today afford the very opportunity which the Church has been waiting for—something that makes it possible to turn the rank and file and the leaders once more to the simple principles which have come to us through two thousand years of human experience? Who then are the captains and the generals in the new army of Moral Force which must be mobilized here and abroad? They are the militant spokesmen of the Church who have given their days and nights to the task of elevating the human spirit."

"May they sound the bugles that will call human hearts to action."

"May they teach us anew the language of prayer which we have forgotten in our era of creature comforts."

"May they tell us in the homely terms of a simple faith how to ask Divine Providence to help us sacrifice and even suffer so that mankind may by its own regeneration destroy these new forms of idolatry and substitute therefore an unrelenting worship of the merciful God before Whom must stand, when the final Day of Reckoning comes all the mortal dictators of human destiny, the leaders and the led, the rich and the poor, the oppressors and the oppressed."

COMMUNISM IN THE U. P.

(Iron Mountain News)

According to declarations at the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the Soo communism is "harassing" five upper peninsula cities. Harassing seems to be a pretty strong word. There have from time to time been manifestations of Communism in the district, but they have reached a troublesome stage only at Newberry. The number of enrolled Communists in the peninsula is not known, but it is by no means as large as the noise the occasional vocal Communists make might lead one to believe. Tested by the election returns it is negligible.

There is disposition to label any man, or woman, who talks loudly and wildly in the course of a labor dispute as a Communist. Many, perhaps most, of those who have some of the outward aspects of Communists have, as a matter of fact, no connection with the party, and no knowledge of what Communism really is. They could be more accurately described as radicals. Even their radicalism tends to disappear when they make connections with dependable jobs.

There is nothing in the citizenship of the peninsula that differentiates it greatly from the citizenship of other areas of similar industrial and social character. If many of its people have been restless of late years, they have been much less restless than those of many other areas, and have by and large been much more reasonable and restrained. In the instances in which there have been disorder and overt acts, the responsibility has rested mainly with outsiders.

If many workers have been disposed of late to pay more attention to radical counsel than in the past the explanation lies largely in the extent of unemployment. But this condition is not particular. It is general. When the WPA rolls can be thinned out because the men on them have found steady work at good wages, the peninsula will take on much of its old time aspect.

Meanwhile, however, it is well to realize that Communists will over look no opportunity to make the most they can of

World Affairs Reviewed

Munich (AP)—Handsome, blue-eyed General Franz Ritter von Epp, president of the Reich's Colonial Bund and governor of Bavaria, looks anything but 70.

His bearing is erect, his complexion tanned, his mind alert and his health robust. Yet he was born October 16, 1868.

"I propose we start our school by looking after fresh air," he said unceremoniously when called on to deliver the address opening the Reich's Colonial School at Ladeburg near Berlin in October.

He would not speak until the windows had been opened.

That's von Epp all over—uncomplicated, somewhat brusque, but a coolly officer well fitted to guide the million enthusiasts in the Colonial Bund.

—BRIEF BUT BRILLIANT— His words are short and to the point. Encountering the writer in Munich on September 29 while waiting for Hitler to arrive with his guest Mussolini for the four-power parley, the old general observed:

"Here in Munich the axis of the world is being greased today."

Von Epp, a bachelor, has been a fighter all his life. From high school he went directly to the cadets' corps. He emerged with a promotion to sergeant in the Ninth Bavarian Infantry Regiment at Wuerzburg and by the next year, 1889, he was a lieutenant.

—FOUGHT IN CHINA—

In the summer of 1900 von Epp joined the Fourth East Asia Infantry Regiment for volunteer service against the Boxers in China. After two years he returned to military duty in Zweibruecken, which connects the Palatinate with the Saar Valley, but that life was far too tame for him.

So von Epp volunteered for the colonial service and in February, 1904, sailed for German Southwest Africa. In countless bloody skirmishes with the native tribes he helped put down the Herero uprising on the glowing hot steppes of Southwest Africa.

—PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN—

Returning to his native Bavaria in December, 1906, he was promoted to captain and company chief of the Bavarian Infantry Life Guards, an unusual distinction, since all other Guards officers were noblemen.

He entered the World war as major and headed the second battalion of Bavarian Infantry Guards at the French front. He was wounded in September, 1914, at Cartigny, but later took a prominent part in storming Kemmel Hill in Flanders, thereby earning the highest German military order, the "pour le merite."

His gallant conduct before Verdun earned him the highest Bavarian military distinction, the Max Joseph's order, which promoted him into the nobility. Hereafter he was Franz Ritter (knight) von Epp.

—KEPT ON FIGHTING—

The peace of Versailles didn't mean finish for as pushing a fighter as von Epp, by this time a general. Communism was rampant in Bavaria after the 1918 revolution so he organized a free corps and threw the communists out.

From there he took his corps into the Ruhr Valley to clean up reds. Differences developed with the republican government, and he quit the army in 1923.

Von Epp became acquainted with Hitler as early as 1920, and supplied the funds with which Hitler could purchase a little sheet, the "Voelkischer Beobachter," now the Nazis' powerful official organ.

When Hitler began to departmentalize, von Epp, who officially joined the party May 1, 1928, was put in charge of the National Defense and Colonial Departments.

—SWUNG BAVARIA INTO LINE—

Hitler came to power in January, 1933, but the Bavarian government hesitated about yielding its place to the Hitlerites. Der Fuehrer went to Hindenburg, persuaded him to appoint von Epp governor of Bavaria.

Von Epp flew to Munich March 9, and so surprised the old government that it yielded without a struggle. Since then von Epp has been Bavaria's highest executive. Once Bavaria was firmly in the hands of the Nazis, von Epp went back to his first love, the problem of regaining Germany's lost colonies.

The Reich's Colonial Bund of which he is president centralizes all German colonial endeavor. Members are thoroughly trained in colonial history, in the economic advantage of colonies, and in the reasons behind Germany's demands for her former colonial possessions.

Young people are garnered in after careful selection and sent to regular colonial schools, of which there are two for men and one for women.

Here they learn in a practical way all that can be taught them in Germany against the day when, as they hope, they can go to Africa to help build up the regained colonial possessions.

Q. Whose act of bravery was characterized by Marshal Foch as "the greatest thing accomplished by any private soldier of all the armies of Europe"? S. G. D.

A. Marshal Foch thus described the heroism of Sergeant Alvin C. York in the Argonne on October 8, 1918. Armed with a Springfield rifle and an automatic revolver, he killed twenty Germans, captured Hill No. 223 and compelled the surrender of 132 of the enemy (including a major and three lieutenants), and 35 machine guns. He was awarded the Medal of Honor by the United States Government, and the Croix de Guerre by General Foch personally.

Q. What weekly magazines have the largest circulation? E. M. R.

A. The net paid circulation of the four largest weekly magazines in the United States is as follows: Saturday Evening Post, 3,055,123; Collier's, 2,633,878; Liberty, 2,485,395; Life, 2,029,761.

Q. What causes a grasshopper to sing or buzz? F. W.

A. Grasshoppers sing, fiddle, buzz and call by rubbing their wing covers together.

Q. How does the proportion of city students attending college compare with that of country students? E. S. W.

A. Out of every 1000 rural families, 53 young men and women are sent to college, while 49 college students are sent from every 1000 urban homes.

Q. Is fur farming profitable? K. H. G.

A. The annual income to fur farmers from the sale of pelts is approximately $12,000,000. This represents 20 per cent of the total value of furs taken annually in the United States.

Q. What is the history of the beautiful palms on the streets of Fort Myers, Florida? E. J. H.

A. The late Thomas A. Edison is responsible for the wholesale planting of royal palms in that city. Records show that the town council in 1907 approved a plan presented by Mr. Edison to care for a large number of palms which he imported from Cuba and planted at his own expense. In 1928 the city authorities contracted for the planting of 23,000 worth of additional palms.

Q. Please give the name of the publisher of the official guidebook for the New York World's Fair. C. H. M.

A. Exposition Publications, Inc., 33 West 42nd Street, New York, N. Y., will publish the official guidebook, souvenir book, and daily program for the New York World's Fair.

Q. How many jockeys are there in this country? E. S. H.

A. There are approximately 700 licensed jockeys in the United States.

New York—New York's New Year eve celebration is to be the gayest, the most extravagant and all-together the wildest celebration that ever ushered in a New Year. This probably will be the last wet New Year's eve for many years at least and war profits will flow like water.

London—The British government announced today that it would render every possible aid of the United States in conveying American troops home.

Milwaukee—Because of the increased cost of everything that enters into the making of a newspaper, the announcement says, the price of afternoon papers here, beginning Jan. 1 will be advanced from one cent to two cents.

Copenhagen—A new German government has been formed. Ebert remains at the head, but now calls himself premier. Philip Scheidemann, the majority Socialist leader, is foreign minister. Herr Eocke holds an office corresponding to that of a war minister of the old regime.

London—With the greatest possible success, co-operation and understanding regarding the league of nations, the freedom of the seas and all other momentous problems resulting from the negotiations here, President Wilson tonight wound up his visit to England at a brilliant private dinner in Buckingham palace.

Kansas City—A dozen small disturbances marked the rush evening operations of the street cars tonight. One hundred and sixteen automobile loads of home guards patrolled the lines over which the company claimed to have 400 cars operating.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—First Nighters: Unprogrammed excitement highlighted the opening of Billy Rose's new Diamond Horseshoe when Eleanor Holm nearly sustained cuts and lacerations while christening the cafe with a quart bottle of champagne. In a room of regal crimson, the ubiquitous Rose has brought back (alive) the plush days of Rector's, Steve Brodie's, the earlier and more glorious Follies and Delmonico's.

On a unique stage over a horseshoe bar are reincarnated the New York immortals: Diamond Jim Brady, Lillian Russell and Anna Held (who is shown in her milk bath). In fineries that reflect the colorful mauve decade, a dozen American beauties parade the premises. A sentimentalist, Rose has fetched some old-timers, also, like Harry Armstrong who composed "Sweet Adeline." Joe Howard who composed "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" (he's 76) and Fritz Scheff, the unforgettable heroine of "Mile Modiste."

On the parlor of the Horseshoe is a Viennese orchestra that plays only waltzes and takes turns with Noble Sissle who is the best-beloved songsmith from Harlem. So, no wonder that the elder folk who came to that particular premier were not ashamed to be demonstrative.

Here "the good old days" were brought back and no wonder that we are, and who sat to the right of us, splintered two noses which he banged away from applause. We think the Diamond Horseshoe is one of Broadway's brightest spots; to be seen by New Yorkers and all visiting firemen.

Critics' Second Guess The footlights' first nights have occurred with usual holiday bountifulness. But the two shows that evoked lasting attention are Philip Barry's play, "Here Come the Clowns" and a revival of the late Sutton Vane's great play, "Outward Bound."

Now the Barry play has been the vortex of controversial chatter. It seems that the critics were puzzled by it the first night and therefore greeted it lukewarmly.

Then they returned to see it a second time and found in the show greatness they had missed in the original vision. The result of their changing opinions has been overwhelming publicity in the theater columns.

"Outward Bound" was first shown in New York a decade and a half ago and it is remarkable that in the current revival, which is being performed by Laurette Taylor and Florence Reed, among other famous players, there is no trace of antiquity. For the drama of "Outward Bound" and the message it conveys, seem as alive today as they did in the 1920's. It has joined the Broadway hits. When a drama can repeat its success long after its original triumph, it must possess permanent qualities.

If that is done the power trust will rue the day it asked investigation of TVA.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Congressman Joe Martin, Jr., next Republican floor leader of the House, is a bridge between the party's conservative elder statesmen and the up-and-coming group of progressive Republican youngsters. His is one of the key spots in the Republican Party.

A New Englander, Joe Martin has his feet firmly grounded in the basic caution of his party. But his eyes are not riveted wholly on the past. He does not believe in making a fetish of tradition merely for tradition's sake.

Martin recognizes the necessity of making concessions to changing conditions.

His approach to public problems is not that of the crusading reformer. He is not a militant, either in temperament or through experience. But at the same time, he is no conservative. He is a quiet, friendly, small business man who believes in honesty and decency in public, as well as in private life. He abhors greed, crookedness and public suffering.

That was why he voted for a number of New Deal economic and social reforms and why he favors the right of labor to organize, together with unemployment insurance and relief, plus generous pension plans for the aged.

To certain Republican die-hards, Martin's sturdy social-mindedness is lese-majeste, and they tried hard to block his promotion to floor leader. But his common-sense viewpoint suited the rank and file, so he will be elected at the party's caucus on Monday by an overwhelming majority.

Martin will make a popular and able leader because he knows and likes people, because he is level-headed and a square shooter.

Professional baseball lost a promising player when Martin turned his talents to politics. Star short-stop on his home town team in North Attleboro, Mass., he was offered an athletic scholarship by Dartmouth University but declined in order to manage a friend's campaign for the State Legislature.

The new Republican leader was then 21 and a reporter on The North Attleboro Chronicle. Two years later, with the aid of business friends who had confidence in him, he borrowed $15,000 and bought the paper. He still owns and manages it.

Martin made his first try for public office in 1912 at the age of 28, running for the Massachusetts Assembly. His parents tried to dissuade him.

"You'll be a lot better off, Joe," counseled his father, "if you stick to newspapering. Politics is dirty business."

"That's why I'm getting into it, dad," Martin replied, "it needs to be cleaned up and you can't do that by holding your nose and standing on the sidelines."

Joe won easily, and two years later was elected to the State Senate where he met Calvin Coolidge, the chairman of the rules committee. The two men became life-long friends. Later, Coolidge made Joe secretary of his committee so they could work closely together.

It was in 1924, the year Coolidge ran for President, that Martin made his debut in the national arena as a candidate for Congress. Both scored easy victories in the Republican landslide and Martin has been returned to his seat ever since.

Coolidge had great confidence in Martin, and although Joe was only a fledgling Congressman, the President consulted him frequently. On one occasion Coolidge asked his intimate adviser, Frank W. Stearns, to speed up a bill that was held in committee. Stearns reported that he had turned the job over to Martin.

"Good," replied Coolidge, "Joe never fails."

Martin also is a close friend of Alfred M. Landon, having been one of his floor managers at the 1936 convention and director of the Eastern division during the subsequent campaign.

"It's the only political battle I ever lost," says Martin.

This battle, even though lost, impressed his House colleagues to such extent that he was unanimously chosen chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, where he took a leading part in directing the successful GOP comeback in Congress.

Despite his friendship for Landon, Martin has kept aloof from the behind-the-scenes struggle in the Republican Party between the Hooverites and the moderates. On issues he is aligned with the latter, and as floor leader his influence will be on their side. But he is taking no part in the factional jockeying that wracks the party.

Joe Martin at 54 is a confirmed bachelor. He has only two loves, politics and his newspaper.

In North Attleboro he is genuinely popular, receiving as many Democratic votes as his Democratic opponents. In the last election he polled 3,600 of the town's 4,500 votes, and of the 1,700 Democratic ballots he got 900.

One of his staunch supporters is a 94-year-old veteran of the Civil and Spanish-American wars. Just before the election the oldest approached one of Joe's friends and asked if Martin was in trouble. This is the man who will challenge the Democratic forces in the House of Representatives during the coming session of Congress.

Lyrics of Life

FEET

Feet are things to take you places. Some folks travel on their faces, I am told—but, in most cases, Feet will take you anywhere. And more likely yet you there.

Feet will travel stone or stubble. Do their duty, and do double. Even get you into trouble— But remember, up wrong streets, This was Head's idea, not Feet's.

Upper Peninsula Industries Expect Better Business In 1939

LUMBER FIRMS MORE HOPEFUL

Mining Operations Are Being Expanded This Winter

Lumbering and mining and their satellite industries in the Upper Peninsula are looking forward with some optimism to an appreciable recovery during 1939, statements by executives of various concerns indicate.

A pick-up of late in orders for the region's industrial products, coupled with other signs that the demand for these goods will continue well into next year, is the fundamental reason for the feeling of confidence in many quarters. In some instances, industrial executives said that the expectation that Congress, as a result of the results of the last election, would show more of a disposition to cooperate with business is partially accountable for the brightened outlook.

More Home Building
The lumbering, veneer and paper industries, which employ many persons in the region, were found to be anticipating better business in 1939, with those plants who have been curtailing operations during the past year expecting to expand their payrolls.

"We face the future with confidence and optimism, and believe that 1939 will exceed 1938 so far as our industry is concerned," Geo. N. Harder, general manager of the I. Stephenson company, stated. "We do not expect any increase in employment, but expect a continuous operation with our present employees. Our reason for being optimistic is the great need for increased building construction, particularly homes, and we anticipate an increase in business from this source along, as well as increased demands for lumber for industrial uses."

The Bay de Noquet company at Nahma plans to reopen its sawmill early in January. The Oconto company, an affiliate of the Nahma concern, recently resumed operations at Oconto, Wis., after being shut down since last June. The Brown Dimension company at Manistiquic, another subsidiary, which has been operated on a reduced schedule in 1938, expects to increase operations in 1939. During the spring of 1937, the Brown Dimension company employed about 185 men during the early part of this year but its crew down to 60. During the latter half of the year, the force was increased to about 120 and it is expected the plant will be employing from 160 to 180 men next spring.

Paper Mills Steady
Throughout the depression, the paper companies at Groes, Manistiquic and Munising have operated quite steadily, and their payrolls have been greatly appreciated in their respective communities. Indications are for a better demand for paper products, although the companies do not regard prices as being high enough to be in line with the prevailing level of wages and other manufacturing costs. The Munising Paper company, for instance, reports that paper prices today are about thirty per cent less than in 1929, while wages paid to workers are the highest in history.

The Escanaba Paper company is reported as being fairly optimistic over the prospects for 1939. "The situation in the paper industry as it affects the Escanaba Paper company's business is entirely different from what it was a year ago," E. G. Bennett, treasurer and manager of the company, explains. "A year ago our customers were carrying very heavy inventories of manufactured paper, which, together with the decided slump in business, made it impossible for them to take their regular steady supply. In addition to our customers' heavy inventories, we also were carrying heavy inventories of manufactured paper made in anticipation of heavy seasonal business during the months of April, May and June. This extra business, of course, did not materialize, and it was necessary for our customers to work down their inventories before they could place additional orders with us."

"This year the situation is entirely different. Our customers' inventories are low, our inventories are also low, and business in general has improved. We therefore expect the year 1939 to be considerably better than the early part of 1938."

Closely associated with the forest products industry is the wood chemical and charcoal iron industry. The Delta Chemical and Iron company anticipates a gradual improvement in business in 1939. As conditions improve, plant operations will be increased, with corresponding additions to the crews of men employed at the plant at Wells and in the number getting out wood in the forest areas. The Newberry Lumber and Chemical company reports a heavy inventory of charcoal iron, sufficient to take care of customers for the first quarter of 1939, but will operate its lumber department and a portion of the chemical department. The Newberry concern is just completing the construction of a direct acetate

Veneer Demand Improves
The veneer mills at Escanaba and Gladstone are getting more orders now as the furniture factories, large users of their products, are expanding their operations. Other market demands are expected to increase during the coming year.

The Birds-Eye Veneer company will put on a night shift next Tuesday, giving employment to about thirty former employees. This will increase the crew to 115 persons. Joel Lee, general manager of the company, reports that furniture factories are using mostly lighter woods in the manufacture of new furniture and buying a considerable amount of plain maple veneer. Piano factories are doing good business again and also have become heavy buyers of veneer products.

Another Gladstone industry, the Marble Arms and Manufacturing company, assumes a cheerful view of the situation. "Our manufacturing and selling plans for 1939 are based on the assumption that business will show considerable improvement by the middle of the year," James T. Jones, general manager of the Marble Arms and Manufacturing company, states. "While failing to see any indication of a boom we feel that 1939 may be comparable with 1937, which year was tempered somewhat by the recession. Having replaced or improved certain equipment necessary in manufacturing, we are now ready for improved conditions without the necessity of further building, having felt that eventually business conditions would brighten themselves and encourage them to take their regular steady supply. In addition to our customers' heavy inventories, we also were carrying heavy inventories of manufactured paper made in anticipation of heavy seasonal business during the months of April, May and June. This extra business, of course, did not materialize, and it was necessary for our customers to work down their inventories before they could place additional orders with us."

Mines More Active
While iron ore shipping from Upper Peninsula mines ranged from 30 to 70 per cent less during the 1938 season than in 1937, conditions are looking up in the mining communities this winter. A number of properties closed for some years have been reopened, while other mines, which have been in continuous operation on reduced schedules, have increased employment and production during the past few weeks.

The situation has brightened considerably on the Menominee range, whose mines ship all their ore over the Chicago and North Western railway to the Escanaba docks.

G. M. Cannon, Iron River, assistant general manager of the M. A. Hanna company, explains that by the consumption of pig iron by the steel plants continues on the present basis, then the stocks of iron ore at the furnaces and lower lake docks will be substantially reduced by May 1, 1939, bringing these stocks to a more nearly normal basis. Continued consumption on the present basis should result in increased ore shipments during the season of 1939, Mr. Cannon adds.

Kingsford Celebrates Fifteenth Anniversary

Way back in 1920, before the advent of the Ford Motor company, no one dreamed that this community was to become the beneficiary of an industrial development that for rapidity of growth has been unparalleled in the history of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

But this week the village of Kingsford, home of a Ford automobile parts plant, is celebrating its fifteenth birthday anniversary, and behind that lies a story of more than usual interest because so many now resident here lived through the multiple experiences of a boom era out of which grew a municipality that is regarded as one of the most progressive in the peninsula.

Named After E. G. Kingsford
The village, of course, owes its existence to the Sage of Dearborn, Mr. Henry Ford, whose far flung motor empire has brought economic well-being to hundreds of thousands of persons. But, according to the most authentic accounts available, Mr. Ford was induced to locate his branch plant in this locality through the efforts of the individual after whom the village is named Mr. E. G. Kingsford, resident of Iron Mountain.

It was not Mr. Kingsford's idea that his memory should be perpetuated by having a village named after him. In fact, at the time that it was decided to build a Ford plant here, if any, persons had any expectation that it would result in the incorporation of a new municipality, and it was at the insistence of many friends that when the move finally came about he should be honored by having the community named for him.

The history of the Ford plant here is to a great degree the history of the Ford Motor company in the upper peninsula. Related to Mrs. Kingsford, Mr. Ford had in his earlier years visited in Iron Mountain and became acquainted with the wonderland that is the upper peninsula.

So it was natural that when he began expansion of his operations to include the manufacture of more of the parts that went into his car he should turn to the upper peninsula because of its resources in timber.

Purchased Million Acres
Thus it was that in 1920 the Ford company, through Mr. Kingsford as its agent, purchased all of the holdings of the Michigan Iron & Land company, acquiring thereby about one million acres of land, some timbered, some not and some containing iron ore. Since then these holdings have been progressively added to and the company is the largest individual owner of timber land in the upper peninsula.

CHIEF URGES SAFE DRIVING

New Years Celebrants Should Not Drive, Ettenhofer Says

A plea for safe driving over the New Year's double holiday was issued yesterday by Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhofer to persons planning on taking trips and to persons expecting to do a little celebrating.

"It seems unnecessary," said the chief yesterday, "to be forced to warn people for their own safety. Nevertheless, it cannot be impressed too strongly on people's minds that any double holiday is dangerous for motoring—and even more so when the streets and highways are as slippery and treacherous as they are at the present time."

"People making the rounds on New Year's Eve absolutely should not drive their cars. They should see to it that they are perfectly sober before they get behind the wheel. It must be remembered, too, that sober persons riding with a drunken driver can be held as responsible as the driver."

The chief issued a series of safety suggestions for persons planning trips over the holidays. They are as follows:
Test brakes for simultaneous slipping.
Check condition of windshield wiper, defroster and tire chains.
Travel at less than moderate speeds on snow or ice covered highways or city streets and watch for children on sleds.

Shift into second gear for more gradual braking on snow or ice, particularly if not safeguarded by tire chains.
Take curves slowly and don't try to pass cars ahead of you on hills or curves. Descend steep hills in second gear if icy.

Apply brakes with clutch engaged and before you ordinarily would in dry weather—and don't depend on your horn because other car windows may be closed and some drivers (especially in country) wear ear muffs.
Exercise greater caution generally and open car windows occasionally to prevent windows fogging up and, in old cars, possible danger from carbon monoxide gas.

Have You An Almanac In Your Home?
Every home should have an almanac. If you do not have one, send at once for a copy of Uncle Sam's Almanac, compiled by Frederic J. Haskin, Director of our Washington Information Bureau. It is different from any other almanac, because it does not carry advertising or propaganda of any kind, but a mass of authoritative, accurate information on subjects of general interest in every home in America. There are 33 pages, with covers printed in colors. Don't fail to get a copy of this handy reference book. It is generally regarded as the best publication of its kind for a dime ever offered. Write today.

Buy and Sell the Classified Way into existence. Attracted by the high wages paid by the Ford company thousands flocked here. Speculation set in and real estate prices skyrocketed. There was open and frank gambling in property, but that was to be expected in a district catapulted from comparative and unimportant obscurity into the limelight of a boom. For almost as far as the eye could reach land was platted and great selling bees were conducted. In some instances they took on the gaiety of a festive occasion, with balloon ascensions, tree food and band music.

Other residents of Iron Mountain had also entered farming during the depression of 1893, but they settled in the Homestead and Aurora district in Wisconsin or had gone north of the city to Pine creek, where there was a better quality of land.

Needed Employment Opportunity
With the decline of iron ore mining in Iron Mountain there was great need for a new employment outlet and this was provided by the Ford company. Principally through the influence of Mr. Kingsford a factory site was bought in what is now the village. The land was ideal, stretching on a level plane from Carpenter avenue west to the Menominee river. Also of importance was an available water power on the river.

From there on for the next several years the story of the company and the community reads like fiction. What started out to be just a sawmill became also three body plants, dry kilns, chemical plant and the hydroelectric plant. Millions were poured into the program and great plumes of smoke waved from the power house stacks.

CHIEF URGES SAFE DRIVING

New Years Celebrants Should Not Drive, Ettenhofer Says

A plea for safe driving over the New Year's double holiday was issued yesterday by Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhofer to persons planning on taking trips and to persons expecting to do a little celebrating.

"It seems unnecessary," said the chief yesterday, "to be forced to warn people for their own safety. Nevertheless, it cannot be impressed too strongly on people's minds that any double holiday is dangerous for motoring—and even more so when the streets and highways are as slippery and treacherous as they are at the present time."

"People making the rounds on New Year's Eve absolutely should not drive their cars. They should see to it that they are perfectly sober before they get behind the wheel. It must be remembered, too, that sober persons riding with a drunken driver can be held as responsible as the driver."

The chief issued a series of safety suggestions for persons planning trips over the holidays. They are as follows:
Test brakes for simultaneous slipping.
Check condition of windshield wiper, defroster and tire chains.
Travel at less than moderate speeds on snow or ice covered highways or city streets and watch for children on sleds.

Shift into second gear for more gradual braking on snow or ice, particularly if not safeguarded by tire chains.
Take curves slowly and don't try to pass cars ahead of you on hills or curves. Descend steep hills in second gear if icy.

Apply brakes with clutch engaged and before you ordinarily would in dry weather—and don't depend on your horn because other car windows may be closed and some drivers (especially in country) wear ear muffs.
Exercise greater caution generally and open car windows occasionally to prevent windows fogging up and, in old cars, possible danger from carbon monoxide gas.

Have You An Almanac In Your Home?
Every home should have an almanac. If you do not have one, send at once for a copy of Uncle Sam's Almanac, compiled by Frederic J. Haskin, Director of our Washington Information Bureau. It is different from any other almanac, because it does not carry advertising or propaganda of any kind, but a mass of authoritative, accurate information on subjects of general interest in every home in America. There are 33 pages, with covers printed in colors. Don't fail to get a copy of this handy reference book. It is generally regarded as the best publication of its kind for a dime ever offered. Write today.

into existence. Attracted by the high wages paid by the Ford company thousands flocked here. Speculation set in and real estate prices skyrocketed. There was open and frank gambling in property, but that was to be expected in a district catapulted from comparative and unimportant obscurity into the limelight of a boom. For almost as far as the eye could reach land was platted and great selling bees were conducted. In some instances they took on the gaiety of a festive occasion, with balloon ascensions, tree food and band music.

Other residents of Iron Mountain had also entered farming during the depression of 1893, but they settled in the Homestead and Aurora district in Wisconsin or had gone north of the city to Pine creek, where there was a better quality of land.

Needed Employment Opportunity
With the decline of iron ore mining in Iron Mountain there was great need for a new employment outlet and this was provided by the Ford company. BEHIND THE SCENES

By John T. Flynn

There is a violent argument in progress, of which Mr. Marriner Eccles is the center, on the effect which the government's spending program has had upon the course of business.

Mr. Eccles says such recovery as we have had was the result of government spending and that without it the country would have been ruined.

His critics say had it not been for the government's spending policy private investment would have gotten into action and that real recovery has been prevented by government spending.

Both sides ignore some important factors. There is no doubt that Mr. Eccles is right when he says the recovery we have had has been due to government spending.

Whether the government spending has produced any "real" recovery is another matter. Whether the spending has been wise is also another story.

And even more important is the question whether the policies accompanying government spending have been calculated to aid recovery.

On these points the verdict must be against the government. Private investment is essential to the functioning of the capitalist system.

The government spending program was designed to take the place of private investment. Now private investment had completely collapsed by 1931.

This was not the fault of the government, but of the folly of private business preceding that collapse. Two great problems faced the nation as a result.

SERIAL STORY SKI'S THE LIMIT

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CAST OF CHARACTERS SALLY BLAIR—heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except DAN REYNOLDS—hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis...

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So... But go on with the story. Yesterday, Corey returns without Dan, explaining he went home since it was late.

CHAPTER XVIII Sally thought it was rather odd, the day after that near-accident, that Dan did not telephone. Of course he had sent his excuses for not rejoining the party through Corey.

She thought once or twice of calling him, but she did not like to call his office. If there was no message from Dan when she got home she decided she would put pride aside and call him at his cousin's.

"Were there any calls for me, Alison?" she asked, even before she had pulled off her white hat and shed her gloves and purse.

The maid replied that there had been two calls for Miss Blair. "Yes!" Sally said, her heart lifting eagerly.

"Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morin and sons Duane and Harland spent Christmas Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lancelot at Traunvik."

Mr. and Mrs. John Morin and children, Bobby and Paula Jean, were guests Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morin.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Lund and daughter of Detroit spent the holidays at the homes of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lund and Mr. and Mrs. John Jaskie.

Mrs. Victorine Paine of Perkins is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emilie Casimir, suffering from a severe cold.

other call?" Sally persisted. That lift had let her heart down now completely.

"Yes, I'm sure, Miss Sally. I took all the calls, myself, just as you asked." Alison's look was faintly reproving.

"That's all right, thank you Alison," Sally made up for that moment's doubt by a sweet smile of apology.

But no, she would not could not wait or hope any longer. She would put in a call at Dan's cousin's house.

"Do you expect him this evening?" Sally inquired. Her heart hammered so loudly that she wondered if it, too, could be heard over the wire.

"Yes," the other girl's voice held a note that might have been sympathy. "Do you know where he went?" Sally asked.

"No, I'm sorry. He didn't say where he was going, he didn't leave any forwarding address."

"Oh, I... I see," Sally's voice did not attempt to hide its hurt and disappointment.

He knew, though, Sally thought, hours later, dressed in the lovely coral frock, looking her prettiest for Dan who would not see her, he knew that she was friends.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

If you want to like your job better in 1939 than you did last year—you can.

With the new wages and hours bill in effect, there's not much danger of your being over-worked. So stop talking about how pushed you are.

Going around feeling underpaid isn't going to get you a raise, so you may as well stop being sorry for yourself on that score.

If you think you know more than your boss, you're probably wrong. There are exceptions, but in general the boss is more capable of handling his job than anyone under him—that's why he's boss.

If you start looking for faults in the people who work with you, you'll be bound to find them. But so could they occasionally find reasons for getting irritated with you. The best way to keep from getting ruffled and sour is to do your job and not start measuring to see if you are doing more than those around you.

You can't get any more work done just by looking grim than by looking pleasant, and the way you look has a lot to do with the way you feel.

Wearing "any old thing" to the office gives you a poor start. You know that half the fun of going out socially is taking pains to look like a million—and a little of that could be carried over into the nine-to-five stretch.

Looking for the drawbacks in your work is profitable, if what you really want is to find drawbacks. But you aren't as likely to dread the five working days if you do most of your talking about why you like your job.

If you do your job well—better than the next person could do it—you're bound to think pretty well of it.

But if in spite of your new attitude in 1939 you find yourself feeling "put upon"—take a look at the unemployment statistics. They are guaranteed to make anyone like his job.

FOUND GUILTY OF DEER KILLING

Stanley Mosier of Rapid River Sentenced; Appeals Case

Stanley Mosier of Rapid River was yesterday found guilty of a charge of illegal killing, possession and transportation of a deer and sentenced by Justice of Peace Alger W. Strom to pay a fine of $50 and costs of $13.25 or spend 40 days in the county jail.

Mosier immediately filed notice of appeal to circuit court and posted bond of $100.

Mosier was arrested by Conservation Officers Allan Tweedy River about 8 p. m. on Nov. 3 northwest of Maplewood. At the trial it was testified that Mosier when stopped backed his auto rapidly away from the officers' machine a distance of 185 paces and Oscar Sundquist of Rapid and as he did so two other men jumped from the car and escaped down the Rapid River.

I confess I cannot do anything about it.

—Malcolm MacDonald, dominions secretary, urging increase in British birth rate.

Miss Edwards First In Queen Balloting

Newberry, Dec. 30.—Miss Grace Edwards, who held third place in the Winter Queen contest, this week moved up to first place. The three top candidates are very closely grouped and any one can quickly move ahead before the end of the contest. The standings, as reported by the committee in charge of the counting, is as follows:

Grace Edwards	6393
Tekla Koski	5947
Mary Peterson	5422
Helen Mae Sherman	3670
Helen Pardee	1363
Ardith Frasier	1248
Elizabeth McMahon	1036
Natalie Harris	852
Carmen Peterson	820
Carmen Stewart	263
Lorraine Burt	65

This is the second week of the contest and there were better than 17,000 ballots to be counted. The committee is asking that those casting ballots please not fold them as it adds much to the work of counting and tabulation. Also they are asking that the ballots not be held but voted at once as this will make the last week of the work that much easier.

Several young ladies who received less than 50 votes were taken from the list published this week, but their records will be saved to be added to the number cast for them should they move up into an important place. Completed plans for the Winter Carnival await finishing the skating rink at the new Washington Park. It is believed that it will be another ten days or more before the place is enclosed and the flooding and other work must be done after that youngsters who received skates for Christmas are getting anxious.

MRS. PATIENCE BOWLER
Mrs. Patience Bowler, aged 73, died at her home in Lakeland township on December 29. Her death was due to the infirmities of old age. Mr. Bowler died 15 years ago. This couple were among Luce county's pioneers, first settling here in 1886. She is survived by three sons, Hercules, Frank and William James. Also one brother, Nathan Case, and 17 grandchildren. The funeral will be held from the Lakeland church on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will take place in Lakeland cemetery.

Munising News

Lions Give Annual Ball This Evening

Munising, Dec. 30—The second annual New Year's Eve ball of the Munising Lions club will be held here on Saturday evening in the Legion County club. Bud Meads' five piece orchestra of Green Bay will furnish the music for the dancing.

Lions have planned this dancing party to be one of the most enjoyable New Year's celebrations in the area, they said today, and noisemakers, hats, balloons and other favors will be given to the dancers.

Proceeds of the dance will go to the incubator fund. The incubator has all ready been delivered to the Munising hospital and has been used on several occasions.

Heart Attack Fatal To VanMeer Farmer

Munising, Dec. 30—Fred Lucher, 65, died at his farm home near Van Meer on Thursday evening from a heart attack.

Mr. Lucher was born in Montreal, Canada, on January 2, 1873. He came here from Stephenson, Michigan, 38 years ago.

Surviving are his son, Clarence of Marquette, a daughter, Mrs. Harriet Courter, Munising; three brothers, Phil and Oliver of Munising and George of California; a half-brother, Noe St. Martin, Munising; and three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Gerow of Munising, Mrs. Emily Hollenback of Frankfort and Mrs. Lella LaFountain, residing in Washington.

Charles Prato Dies At Home In Munising

Munising, Dec. 30—Charles Prato, for 45 years a resident of Alger county, died at his home on Varnum street on Thursday evening at 10 o'clock. Mr. Prato had been in ill health for the past year.

Mr. Prato was born in 1877 in Melbourne, Mich., and came here from there.

Surviving are two daughters, Ruby and Mrs. Ernest Gosselin and one son, Kenneth, all residing in Munising; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Cannon and Mrs. Fred Hawkins of Munising; three brothers, Louis of Munising, John of Saskatchewan, Canada, and Will of Denton, Texas. Mr. Prato was a member of the First Presbyterian church and of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

The body was removed to the C. F. Beaulieu funeral home and services will be held from there on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Frederick T. Steen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. The body will be placed in the vault at Maple Grove cemetery.

WEDDINGS Pinter-Jurinen

The marriage of Miss Clara Pinter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Pinter, Tannery, and Walter Jurinen, son of Antti Jurinen, Chocolay street, was solemnized in the parsonage of the Sacred Heart church at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon by the Rev. Fr. Edward Lulewicz, assistant pastor of the church. Miss Jella Prunkic was bridesmaid and Eino Peltonen was the groom's attendant.

The bride was attired in a white chiffon ankle length dress with a shoulder length crown veil. She carried a bouquet of Easter lilies. Miss Prunkic, the bride's attendant, was dressed in a yellow tulle tulle formal dress. She wore a crown of gardenias and carried a shower bouquet of baby breath and roses.

Mrs. Jurinen attended the Sacred Heart school and the Mather high school here and until her marriage was employed at the Piqua-Munising Wood Products company plant. Mr. Jurinen was graduated with the Mather high school class of 1935. He is employed at the Munising Co-op store. Mr. and Mrs. Jurinen will reside here.

Following the wedding ceremony a wedding supper was served to members of the bridal party, relatives and close friends of the couple at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Pinter.

Samuelson-LaFountain

Miss Helen Samuelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Samuelson, Walnut street, became the bride of Joseph LaFountain of Munising in a wedding ceremony performed at the home of the bride's parents here on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. W. G. Prout, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Samuelson, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, attended the couple.

Following the wedding ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Samuelson home at 6 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuelson will reside in Gladstone where he is employed.

Sinervo-Knuttila

At a wedding ceremony performed here at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, Miss Dorothy Sinervo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antti Sinervo, West Superior street, became the bride of Walno Emil Knuttila, son of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Knuttila of AuTrain. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herbert Bjorkquist, pastor of the Eden Lutheran church, in the church parsonage. Miss Mary Salo and Leslie Knuttila, brother of the groom, were the attendants.

COLD WAVE IS VISITOR HERE

Temperatures Hit Lowest Readings of the Season

A cold wave which rolled in from the northwest arrived at Manistique Thursday evening and sub zero thermometer readings were prevalent throughout the county. The falling mercury passed the zero mark about ten o'clock Thursday evening and by morning readings of 20 below zero were reported. Most thermometers in the city were from 10 below zero to 18 below, depending upon location.

The cold snap was the most severe of the winter to date, but rising temperatures are expected for today. A light snowfall also is indicated for this region on the last day of the year.

The cold wave which arrived Thursday night followed the path of the first cold spell earlier this week, sweeping eastward after crossing the Canadian border in the region of the Rocky Mountains. The cold spell covered the entire northern tier of states, and was more severe than the first cold wave because the atmosphere had already been cooled.

CURTIS NEWS

Curtis, Mich.—Nancy Paquette was called to Newberry Thursday morning by the death of her father in the Ferguson hospital. The funeral services and burial took place Monday morning at Hessel, Mich.

Robert Nancarrow, Miss Prebe and Miss Clancy, teachers in the Curtis school are spending the holidays with their relatives in Marquette.

The school Christmas program was held last Tuesday night at the town hall and was very well attended.

A community pot-luck supper will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Painter at 6:30 January 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cruose of Detroit and Miss Margaret Gowan who is teaching at Van Dyke, Michigan came to spend Christmas with Mrs. John Gowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Zenker spent a part of Christmas day with Mr. Zenker's parents near Newberry. Dolph Painter has gone to Detroit to begin work in a plant there.

Anthony Livingston of Newberry who suffered a broken leg and a head wound in an auto accident, is staying at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dewey Wright in Curtis.

The first bad storm of the season blocked the roads west of Curtis so the short stuff cutters could not get through to work Tuesday morning.

ICE FISHING ON LAKE IS LEGAL

Conservation Department Clarifies Local Situation

An announcement was made Thursday evening by the Michigan department of conservation that Indian Lake will remain open for ice fishing, but will remain closed for spearing. This report definitely clarifies the situation concerning Indian Lake.

A paragraph in the 1939 conservation booklet declared that Indian Lake is closed for ice fishing until January, 1942 and caused considerable confusion, particularly since the lake was opened for ice fishing two years ago and has remained open since that time.

An announcement was made last week from informed conservation sources that despite the notice booklet, this provision prohibiting ice fishing on Indian Lake would not be enforced until definite orders were received from Lansing headquarters.

Spearing through the ice was outlawed several years ago, but hook and line fishing is permitted.

Numerous fish shanties have already been set up on the lake and before long the usual colony of fishermen is expected to be present.

Fishing with hook and line through holes cut in the ice is considerable fun, because the light proof shanties permit the fishermen to see the actions of the fish on their bait.

The shanties are invariably equipped with a small heater, which provides comfort for the fishermen. Most shanties will accommodate from two to four fishermen. Live minnows provide the best bait, but these are not always available in the winter, and many fishermen use pork rind or similar bait instead of live minnows.

Neighborhood Club The Neighborhood club met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Chenoweth, 219 Schoolcraft, five hundred was played with Mrs. Arthur Halvorson winning, high, Mrs. Charles Hansen, second, and Mrs. Frank Morey, low.

A delicious lunch was served after the games. The out-of-town guests were, Mrs. Wilfred Jolly, of Flint, Mrs. Leonard Kneitzer, of Chicago and Mrs. Dr. Retke, of Newberry.

Surprise Party Mrs. Chester Tyrrell was pleasantly surprised recently on her birthday by her friends and her neighbors. Five hundred and bunco were played with prizes in five hundred going to Mrs. George Scheer and Mrs. Sanford Stone and in bunco Mrs. H. Swarstrom and Mrs. John Larson.

After the games a delicious lunch was served and Mrs. Tyrrell was presented with a gift.

Lawrence Gorsche, of Sault Ste. Marie, is spending a few days here visiting relatives and friends.

STOCK MARKET KEEPS BALANCE

Table with columns for Stock Market Averages: 30, 15, 10, 5, 100. Includes sub-sections for Net change, Friday, and Movement in Recent Years.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Selective buying of rails, utilities, amusements and specialties helped keep the stock market on balance today despite shakiness of other groups due to profit taking and last-minute "cash" tax selling.

There was little diminution in Wall Street's business optimism, but many traders, looking to the forthcoming lengthy holiday—the market will recess after tomorrow until Tuesday—apparently decided to lighten commitments or stand aside to await the birth of a new year. Others, however, collected favorites sufficiently to offset liquidation.

Among stocks emerging with plus signs there were a number of new highs for the year. Losses, on the whole, were confined to fractions.

Several aircraft continued to exhibit strength, but most retreated. Steels and motors were in arrears after a fairly firm start. Dealings in the first hour were the fastest, dwindling thereafter. Transfers totalled 1,400,010 shares against 1,882,960 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up 2 of a point at 52.9.

In the "new high" class were Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, Paramount, Continental Motors, Du Pont, Glenn Martin, Curtis-Wright and Aviation Corp. Allied Chemical was up 3/4, and Union Pacific and Eastman Kodak were ahead about 2 each. Norfolk & Western, on small turnover, advanced 5. Lesser gainers included American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Woolworth, Warner Bros., Loew's and Standard Oil of N. J.

On the outside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Sperry, Bendix, Anaconda, Kennecott, Illinois Central, General Electric, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward.

Armament hopes again buoyed some aircrafts and steels held declines to minor amounts as a rebound in mill operations next week was looked for. Retail stores did rather well as post-Christmas sales picked up briskly. Fractions to more than a point up in the curb were Northern States Power "A," International Petroleum, Brower Aircraft and United Gas. Tennessee Electric Power 7 percent preferred bounced 9/4 on an odd lot sale. National Steel Car tumbled 6/4 under light pressure. Turnover of 327,000 shares compared with 138,000 Thursday.

FOREIGN DOLLAR BONDS ADVANCE

BOND MARKET AVERAGES Table with columns for 30, 15, 10, 5, 100. Includes sub-sections for Net change, Friday, and Movement in Recent Years.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—The bond market forged ahead today in a year-end rally, with leaders up fractions to 3 or more at the final gong.

Rail and utility issues vied for leadership in the corporate sector while foreign dollar bonds put on a show of their own as the time honored "pence talks" in Rome. The advance in domestic issues came in the face of substantial profit-taking. Wall Street reported sentiment indicated there might be general reinvestment demand for bonds after the new year opened. Some utilities and industrials reached new highs for the current movement.

The Associated Press average of 10 low yield bonds climbed 1 of a point to a new 1938 peak. The average of 20 rail bonds advanced 1/2 of a point, the utility bond average 5/8, the industrial bond average 1, and the foreign bond average 4.

United States governments were steady, with closing prices 4-3/2 of a point higher to 2-32 lower. Western Union issues moved sharply ahead, the 5s of '60 ending at 60 1/2, up 3/4, and the 5s of '51 at 61, up 1/4.

Between 1 and 2 higher were Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 61 7/8, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of '62 at 36 1/2, American & Foreign Power 5s at 44, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s (May) at 92 1/2, and Utilities Power & Light 5s at 66.

On 1-1-8 against the trend were North American 6s at 105 1/2, also Studebaker 6s at 83, down 1/2. Gainers in the foreign dollar list included Belgium 6s at 104 7/8, up 3/4; Japanese 6 1/2s at 81, up 3; Italian 7s of '51 at 75 7/8, up 2 3/8; Milan 6 1/2s at 55 5/8, up 2 3/8; and Rome 6s of '60 at 68, up 2.

Transactions totalled $9,468,725, face value, against $9,437,250 Thursday.

COLLEGE GRID GAME RAPPED

Sage of Emporia Pens Harsh Criticism of Football

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kas., Gazette, who has viewed the American scene for many years and rarely with an unkind eye has written his views upon college football and on bowl games in particular.

WHITE

"Just now," writes Mr. White, "the American people, and particularly those west of the Mississippi, are enjoying an exhibition that is a disgrace to the college life in this part of the world. The exhibition is the preliminary stage of the football contest between Duke University in North Carolina and the University of Southern California, to be pulled off in the Rose Bowl, the football classic, Jan. 2. Here are two institutions which have nothing but money back of them. Academically they are fourth or fifth rates in this country. They are notorious for the beefy morons who play on their football teams.

"Every academic ideal is prostituted by an institution that stresses football. The ideal is to keep these brawny numskulls in some kind of class standing. Money stinks all over the campus of such institutions. People raise their eyebrows when anyone claims a degree, earned or unearned, from one of them. Their football classics are nothing but sporting events. Its academic flavor is imitation and a poor grade of imitation at that.

"To this low level has college football sunk in this country. The Gazette is glad of it. It should sink lower. Just how much lower it will have to sink before intelligent college presidents, college faculties and college trustees wake up to the fact that football has no place on the college campus, we shudder to think. Of course the whole trouble with college football is not the campus but the alumnus. That trouble goes back to the kind of material the college accepts and holds in esteem and finally graduates. A 20 per cent of the people who go to college go there for social reasons and they bring out what they take in—a silly social veneer, an assurance in their ignorance, and a brass that is a disgrace to their academic training.

"The spectacle of the University of Southern California and Duke university putting on a 22-man prizefight in the so-called Rose Bowl is a gorgeous example of what our academic ideals in this country have brought colleges to. Duke and Southern California are not unique. They are just caricatures of realities, bitter realities, in our college life."

The editorial was reprinted in the Los Angeles Times with the comment:

"It probably would be useless to send Mr. White a couple of passes to the Rose Bowl game."

Writers Pick Foxx As Player Of Year

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox, who staged a brilliant comeback last season to win the American league batting championship, received a belated Christmas present today in the announcement by the New York chapter, Baseball Writers Association of America, that he was their selection for 1938's "player of the year."

He had hit the first home run in the hard-hitting first baseman's career to help the Sox win the 1936 pennant. He was named to the writers' sixteenth annual dinner Feb. 5. Previous winners of the award were: 1937, Joe DiMaggio; 1936, Tony Lazzeri; 1935, Hank Greenberg; 1934, Dixie Dean; 1933, Carl Hubbell; 1932, Herb Pennock; 1931, Lou Gehrig; 1930, Bill Terry.

Canzoneri, Fat and 30, Wins Over Eddie Zivic

New York, Dec. 31 (AP)—Tough Tony Canzoneri, looking like a pocket-sized Tony Lauro instead of the sleek champion he once was, battered out a ten round decision over Eddie Zivic of Pittsburgh tonight in the Hippodrome. Canzoneri weighed 141 1/2, a quarter of a pound more than Zivic.

Bowl Games Throwback To Old Greek Events

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The football season is over, except for the games to be played on New Year's Day. Of these foremost will be (1) Duke University versus Southern California in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, (2) Oklahoma versus Tennessee in the Orange Bowl at Miami, and (3) Texas Christian versus Carnegie Tech in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. Other picturesque games named "bowls," in which games will be played on January 2, are the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Sun Bowl at El Paso and the Dixie Bowl at Atlanta.

"Modern 'bowls' are the equivalent of ancient 'stadia' which were gathering places of thousands for centuries," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "The word 'stadium' comes from a Greek word describing the race course in a meadow outside the ancient city of Olympia, a field exactly a 'stade' in length. The name was eventually applied to any place in which race might be run before spectators.

"Sports Linked With Religion" "The Greek stadia came to be magnificent affairs, presided over by coaches and equipped with hot and cold baths, rest rooms and practice fields. The stadium at Olympia was decorated with lofty Doric columns and statues by leading sculptors of the day.

"At Athens, however, were to be found the most famous stadia of ancient Greece. One of these, rising on the banks of the Ilissus River, was built under the direction of the orator and statesman Lycurgus about 330 B. C. Another built about 143 A. D., was the gift of a wealthy Roman resident of Athens. It was constructed of solid marble and accommodated 44,000 spectators.

"Statutes of protective gods and innumerable shrines in the stadia indicated the religious and patriotic character of the games. Ancient Greece was almost always at war, yet, while the games were in progress, all hostilities stopped. Athletes were local and national idols and attained in time almost the status of minor deities. Before participating in an event, they were required to take part in religious ceremonies presided over by the priests.

"As Rome gained ascendancy over Greece, a gradual change occurred in the spirit of the ancient games, and prizes of money were sought instead of wreaths of wild olive. Athletes were allowed to enter the lists and the old standards of training were slowly lost. Athletic events degenerated into bloodthirsty spectacles on a large scale.

"The names of numerous Roman stadiums have come down to the present day. Ruins of the

PINK PROVIDES SCORING SPARK

Basketball Victory Is Sixth Straight for Wolverine Crew

Indianapolis, Dec. 30 (AP)—Charley Pink supplied the spark that touched off the University of Michigan's basketball team to a great last half rally tonight and gave the Wolverines a 40 to 31 victory over Butler.

It was the sixth straight victory for Michigan. Butler held a 15 to 14 lead at the half after the score had been tied four times. At the start of the final period Lyle Neat of Fort Wayne suddenly found the range and the Bulldogs raced out to a 24 to 16 lead within two minutes.

That was the signal for Pink to get under way and his one-handed push shots put Michigan right back in the ball game. Michigan took the lead with eight minutes to play and held it until the finish.

A crowd of 4,500 saw the game.

'Bowl' Teams Ready For Battles Jan. 2

New Orleans, Dec. 30 (AP)—The combined power of a stalwart line and a superior passing attack had installed Texas Christian University's Horned Frogs a slight choice tonight for their January 2 Sugar Bowl football scrap with Carnegie Tech. The odds favored T. C. U. at 7 to 5.

"Give us a break in the weather and the Frogs will do some scoring," said Coach Dutch Meyer. "I don't believe Carnegie can stop our offense. They might outscore us, but we'll get some points."

COACH DISGUSTED

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 30 (AP)—Displeased, disgusted and disillusioned, Coach Pete Cawthon gave his Texas Tech Red Raiders "the works" today just when they expected things to come a little easier for their Cotton Bowl date on Monday with St. Mary's Gaelic.

"For three hours this morning the Raiders toiled on offensive and defensive maneuvers and then Cawthon brought them back in mid-afternoon for defensive campers that lasted until midnight.

BOTH TOSS BOUQUETS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP)—Coach Bob Neyland of Tennessee, who has been tossing bouquets to the Oklahoma football team all week, and Coach Tom Stidham of Oklahoma, who has been doing likewise by the Vols, forgot sitting quietly long enough today to admit their own squads were about ready to do battle in the Orange Bowl next Monday.

"They looked fairly good," Neyland confessed after the Volunteers snapped through a 90-minute workout.

GRID EXPERTS MOVE ON LIMB

Rose Bowl Predictions All Wrapped Up In Reservations

BY ROBERT MYERS
Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—As the Duke and Southern California football teams slowed down today in preparing for their encounter Monday in the Rose Bowl, the gridiron experts, fully equipped with parachutes, began the long crawl that leads to the end of a limb.

Confidence issued from the rival camps after today's workout, but predictions on the outcome of this twenty-fourth annual struggle were phrased with caution and carefully wrapped with reservations.

Many theories have been concocted to base comparisons on the strength of the immovable Dukes and the mighty Trojans. The odds seemed to be the one that dealt U. S. C. an edge because the Trojan warhorse kicked over California, 13 to 7, California defeated Tech, 13 to 0, and the best the Dukes could get over the Tech eleven was a 6-0 decision.

Just how that should make U. S. C. the favorite over Duke seems remote in view of among other important trifles, the fact that Duke played Tech last Nov. 15, the U. S. C.-California game was Nov. 5, and the Cal-Georgia Tech affair was staged Dec. 26, a month after both had finished their normal seasons.

One Point Certain
Just as logical, because it doesn't make any more sense, would be to say Duke has an edge because it defeated Georgia Tech, Tech tied Alabama and Alabama walloped U. S. C.

Someone figured out an S. C. victory because the Trojans went up against ten opponents who won 51 games out of 91 played, while the Duke foes won 36 out of 73 games, which, they claimed, gave tougher aspects to the S. C. schedule than that waded through by the Dukes. The slide rule didn't divulge whether these indirect connections in turn played push-overs, or whether the fact that the Blue Devils went undefeated and unscored upon while the Trojans dropped two games was computed into the final deduction. It's all very bewildering.

Here's another comparison, using two great teams, Pitt and Notre Dame, as a foundation. Pitt ran up nine first downs to Duke's one, outrushed the Dukes 135 yards to 53—and lost the game, 7 to 0.

Notre Dame, generally rated about on a par with Pitt, was outplayed by Southern California's line and backfield, and was blanked for the first time of the year, 13 to 0. The Irish had no all-time record.

Everyone agrees on one point. It will be a hard fought battle. But right now there's a limb with the initials "USC" carved on it that is loaded down with expert opinion.

GAMBLING ODDS HURT FOOTBALL

Coaches Apathetic Over Study of Security On Their Jobs

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Chicago, Dec. 30 (AP)—Gambling is intercollegiate football's "No. 1 parasite," the nation's gridiron coaches were told today at the closing session of their eighteenth annual meeting.

The public relations committee of the coaches association, in a report presented by L. P. Jordan of Amherst college, said the widespread distribution of odds cards is harmful to the collegiate sport, but added: "There is little we can do other than refuse to predict winners of games."

The committee also reported a "callous indifference" in some localities to the problem of taking care of football injuries and urged coaches to consult with athletic directors on the possibility of taking out liability insurance. The recommendation also was made that five association coaches collaborate in writing a series of articles on the sport next fall, with earnings to go to the association's treasury.

Glenn F. Thistlethwaite of the University of Richmond, chairman of the association's stabilizing committee, reported coaches generally apathetic toward a study of ways whereby their positions could be made more secure. Only 12 coaches of 50 polled sent replies to the question.

The report commented on the "Zupke case," pointing out that the recent refusal of the board of trustees at Illinois to accept the resignation of Bob Zupke, veteran Illinois coach, indicates that schools generally are taking long and loyal service into consideration when attempts are made to oust football mentors.

Workouts Eased Up In East-West Game

San Francisco, Dec. 30 (AP)—Light workouts replaced heavy training today as the eastern and western football stars began tapering off in practice for the annual charity game here Monday.

Bill Osmauski, line cracking fullback from Holy Cross, was still out of uniform during the Easterners' signal drill.

Osmauski's shoulder, badly bruised in scrimmage a few days ago, continued to respond to treatment but it was considered doubtful he would be of much value to the team.

The duties of place kicking for points after touchdown will be shared by Louis "Bill" Daddio, Pittsburgh end, and George Faust, Minnesota quarterback. They also will be called upon for any field goals attempted.

Although line-ups were not announced, it was pretty well established Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh All-American, would open the game at his favorite position, left half. In the same spot on the Western team will be Vic Bottari of California.

Officials predicted the game would attract close to the 59,000 capacity of Kezar stadium.

plunging them in again from all angles. Three of four teammates who performed last year and return again, bettered the 200 mark.

In addition, Bee frankly admits he has the best sophomore prospects in the school's history. Unduly optimistic, Bee figured Southern California was his biggest obstacle. Once past the Trojans the Blackbirds will be on the wing.

The Long Island Bee hive is swarming with talent. The Peoria Braves are scalping everything in sight.

And a lot of big-timers will be sorry someone didn't warn them sooner about the small-fry giant-killers.

STATE POLICE EXPAND WORK

New Post Established; Increase Traffic Safety Drive

Solution of two murders, arrest of a gun-toting automobile thief-robber, marked reduction in traffic fatalities and in cooperation with the Michigan department of conservation, the introduction of "Field and Street" juvenile safety magazine issued monthly, were outstanding in the work of the Michigan state police in the upper peninsula in 1938.

The slayings were those of Charles Hoy Newberry, Chinese laundry operator, and Leslie Kempainen, of Peikie. Two Newberry youths are serving life sentences for the Hoy killing, while Arne Kempainen, cousin of Leslie, is awaiting arraignment in the Baraga county court in January. Elmer Hill was the parole violator caught with a stolen car. He was wounded by a trooper when he attempted to escape a police trap.

One new post was established at Manistique, bringing to seven the number scattered over northern Michigan. The headquarters post is in Marquette, with branch posts at St. Ignace, Newberry, L'Anse, Iron Mountain and Wakefield.

Troopers took part in the first annual pistol shoot at the U. P. state fair in Escanaba and won the team prize and also the individual trophy. The shoot was promoted by the state police and conservation department, and entered by police teams in the peninsula.

State police also assisted conservation officers in patrolling the highways, looking for game law violators during the deer hunting season.

Call for Blood One of the requests that came to the state police during 1938 was a call for someone who would be willing to donate blood for a doctor. One trooper was found to have blood corresponding to the type needed by the doctor.

Although figures have not been compiled for the peninsula, the reduction in traffic deaths in the Marquette district is believed to be indicative of the trend in the peninsula. In 1937, 21 persons were fatally injured, while in 1938, to date, only eight have lost their lives.

'Strip Tease' Act Averts Fire Panic In New York Show

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Broadway's "strip tease" act, though toned down by the city fathers, still proved entertaining enough today to help avert a possible panic when fire broke out in the basement of the Republic theater off Times Square.

The revealing artistry of Ruth Donald, burlesque dancer, and the puns of three comedians diverted the attention of 600 patrons from the smoke that drifted through the auditorium.

Finally, Comedian Thomas Bundy suggested that the patrons leave in an orderly manner, picking up "ruffles" at the box office. The theatre was emptied in 10 minutes.

A crowd of several thousand watched the burlesque troupe, 42 girls and men, rush to the street through the stage-door alley, clutching their street apparel. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze.

Dodson Noses Out McSpaden With 69

Houston, Tex., Dec. 30 (AP)—Leonard Dodson slammed out a wicked 69 in the first round of the 54-hole Houston open today to put in the shade such stars as Sammy Sneed and Jimmy Bertram, who with four others wound up in a seven-way tie for 20th place.

Dodson, who won the Hollywood open in a play-off with Horton Smith last year, barely nosed out Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Boston winner of the Miami open, who sank a 10-foot putt on the last green for a 70 one blow under par.

Dick Metz of Chicago, who burned the course yesterday with a 64, found the back nine rough today and bumped in with a 75 after going to the turn with a 74 one under par.

Two others, Ben Hogan, Fort Worth, and Jimmy Moxley, San Antonio, completed the first round with 72.

Jimmy Hines, New York, Metropolitan open champ, Sam Brand of Philadelphia, former baseball player, E. J. Harrison of Chicago, a newcomer to golf, professional, and Art Clark of Summit Pa., another young pro, shot 73 to take places high among the leaders.

U. S. Puckmen Will Go To Switzerland

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—In a quick decision after a trans-Atlantic telephone conference today, the amateur athletic union arranged to send an ice hockey team to Switzerland for the world championships from February 3 to 12.

The team will be recruited Monday at tryouts on a Brooklyn arena and will sail Wednesday on the Manhattan. Jack Hutchinson of Boston will manage the team. Exhibitions are to be played in various European cities before the championships and perhaps others afterward.

Renella Trotter, Helen Urton and Elaine Bruyere are the members of the trio above, skating at the rink near St. Francis hospital. Other city rinks are located at Ludington park and the fairgrounds.

True to the cue given by a government spokesman December 24 that the incident was closed from a diplomatic point of view, Hitler did not choose a new protest as the vehicle for communicating his chagrin over the American rejection.

Hitler, however, apparently regards the American action as so serious he declines to cooperate for the improvement of relations until the state department changes its tone and attitude.

Hot Spartan Five Plays Indiana U.

East Lansing, Dec. 30 (AP)—Michigan State and Indiana university basketball players, two teams which like the "fast break" will meet here tomorrow night. Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne acted woe-begone at the prospect of meeting one of the powerful Big Ten outfits, a team from the nation's basketball hotbed. However, the Spartans' 35 to 21 victory over Penn State Wednesday night took some of the force from his remarks.

Van Alstyne can boast one of his highest scoring teams in years at this stage, the squad having better than a 40-point average in four games to its opponents' 28 points.

The Spartans probably will start the game with the same slippery five who started against the Nittany Lions: Chester Aubuchon and Leo Callahan at guards, Max Hindman at center, and Marty Hutt and Bob Phillips at forwards.

SPENDING BOOM IS DUE TONIGHT

Spirit of Confidence Is Evident On Eve of Year 1939

(By The Associated Press)

In a newly-born aura of optimism and cheer, America celebrated last (Friday) night to celebrate the New Year.

The stock market continued its upward climb. Forecasts of the greatest spending since the boom days. Holiday week activities were New York broke records of many years. Entertainment reservations throughout the nation predicted bright days ahead.

But above all was the spirit of confidence. People felt better.

In New York, the world's largest city, celebration facilities were "booked solid" to their $15-per-person top, and estimates circulated that the festivities would bring out 10 to 15 million hidden dollars—the greatest spree since the boom days.

The coming big night brought the annual advancements in the science of caring for the inebriated. St. Paul police planned to dispatch them home in taxis, while a few miles away in the twin city of Minneapolis, a progressive hotel manager hired a squadron of college students to be escorts for the ebullient.

In Milwaukee, the city that beer made famous, the edge of the spotlight limned the humble leavened soda—to be featured at a dry night club with a one dollar cover charge.

Detroit Boy Killed Evading Policemen

Detroit, Dec. 30 (AP)—A young man was shot and wounded mortally tonight when he disregarded a command by two patrolmen to halt as he ran from a stolen automobile.

The youth, apparently in the 20's, was dead upon admittance to a Hamtramck hospital. Enroute there he had told the officers his name was "Jesse James."

The patrolmen had found a stolen car parked on a street and waited nearby. They said the young man got in it and tried to run when they ordered him to wait. Both officers shot at him and he fell.

Al Smith Observes His 65th Birthday

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith, the "Happy Warrior" of a day that has gone, celebrated his 65th birthday today and announced to the world that he would make no New Year resolutions.

"I don't need to," he explained. "If I go through 1939 as well as I did in 1938 and in all the years before, then I'm satisfied."

British Seek Spy Who Shot Rockets In Gibraltar Area

Gibraltar, Dec. 30 (AP)—An investigation was started to ascertain who fired rockets from neutral Gibraltar early this morning, betraying the Spanish government destroyer Joe Luis Diaz and touching off attack by insurgent warships.

British authorities removed the destroyer from Catalan Bay beach where it ran aground in the darkness as it was shelled by insurgents. Five of the destroyer's crew were killed and 11 wounded. Insurgent casualties were believed to be considerable.

It was believed that, before grounding, the destroyer, a virtual prisoner here since August, with insurgent warcraft waiting for it to nose out of the harbor, sank the 1,500-ton insurgent sloop Jupiter.

Captain Juan Castro of the destroyer and the survivors of his crew were held in a Gibraltar barracks. It was understood the ship would be interned.

Blackhood Turned Over To Michigan For Bomb Hearing

Lima, O., Dec. 30 (AP)—Common Pleas Judge E. E. Everett tonight ordered Virgil H. Effinger, accused head of the hooded Black Legion, turned over to Michigan authorities tomorrow morning for extradition to Detroit to face charges of criminal syndicalism and bomb possession.

Judge Everett issued the order after refusing to grant a stay of execution requested by Effinger's counsel in a last-minute attempt to prevent the extradition.

Arthur Popiel, special agent of Michigan's Gov. Frank Murphy, and Russell Gregory, Wayne county deputy sheriff, arrived here tonight and said they would return Effinger as soon as he was placed in their custody.

The portly electrical contractor surrendered to Sheriff William V. Daley earlier and was held in the Allen county jail tonight. He had been at liberty under $5,000 bond.

CATHOLIC PAPER QUITS

Berlin, Dec. 30 (AP)—Germania, reduced under the Nazi regime from its position as a leading Catholic daily newspaper to a weekly, will cease publication tomorrow. It was started in 1871. RELIEF FROM COLD IS SEEN

Thermometer Hits -13; City Ice Rinks In Condition

Relief from the second cold wave of the week is seen in the prediction by the United States weather bureau yesterday, the forecast a lulling for unsettled weather with rising temperature. It is expected to be warmer Sunday unless some sudden change in conditions arises.

Official temperature readings at the local bureau revealed the thermometer reached 13 degrees below zero sometime early yesterday morning. It rose slowly during the morning and by late afternoon was slightly above zero. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the mercury stood at 1.7 degrees above zero and the high for the day was 2 degrees above zero.

The mark of 13 below yesterday not only was the lowest of the present winter but also surpassed last year's mark for the month of December which was three below on the 27th of the month. Last winter's low for the whole season was 23 degrees below on February 1.

Advent of the cold weather has proven a boon to city crews who are employed on ice rinks. It was announced yesterday by the city department of parks and recreation that all three rinks in the city are ready for use. They are situated in Ludington park, at Fifteenth street and opposite the state fair grounds in northtown. The park rink was used yesterday for the first time this winter while the other two had been used somewhat Thursday night.

Wife Of Justice Admits Smuggling And Faces Prison

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—The wife of State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer pleaded guilty to smuggling drugs and faced a maximum penalty of eight years in prison and $25,000 fine.

Leaning on the arm of a nurse, Mrs. Elma M. Lauer whispered to Federal Judge John C. Knox that she wished to change her plea from innocent to guilty. Her case had been set for trial next Tuesday.

By her surprise plea the elderly, dignified woman, considered one of the best dressed in New York, admitted conspiring with Albert N. Chaperau, ex-convict, to smuggle Parisian finery valued at $1,833 into this country.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Joseph Delaney said Mrs. Lauer bought the articles in Paris and gave them to Chaperau to bring in duty free.

The attorney said Chaperau falsely represented himself as an official of the Nicaraguan government, thereby gaining diplomatic immunity from the usual baggage inspection.

Mrs. Lauer was freed in $1,000 bail and will not be sentenced until after the Chaperau trial.

Nazis Seek Peace In Mediterranean

Rome, Dec. 30 (AP)—An anxious desire on the part of Germany that France and Italy settle their Mediterranean dispute before it grows into another European war crisis was reported in Fascist quarters today.

The newspaper Il Lavoro Fascista reported from Berlin that Germany, like Britain, was trying to guard against the Mediterranean's becoming another Czechoslovakia, and that the Nazis want the dispute settled along the lines of "the new balance of interested forces."

RIFLE WOUND FATAL

Coldwater (AP)—Frank Swain, former sheriff of Branch county, was fatally wounded Friday when a rifle he was cleaning in his suburban Sherwood home accidentally discharged.

'CACTUS JACK' NOW KING PIN FOR CONGRESS

Roosevelt expressed a "hope" for a bill more to his liking. Harrison and the president have been on the outs about tax matters.

Another development recalled last summer's political maneuverings. Senator Gillette (D-Ia.), whose renomination was opposed by some new deal officials including Hopkins, said he would not oppose the latter's nomination as secretary of commerce. At the same time, Gillette spoke out on one of the big questions of the day and expressed opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt.

"I do not believe any man in this country is so big that there is not some one who can take his place," he said.

Wallace spent more than an hour with the vice-president. Garner, according to some of his intimates, is advocating that the expense of the farm program, as well as other expenses, be scaled down.

Garner, veteran of years in the house and more as vice president, has been famous in the last few years for going to the White House expressing his views "with the bark off," as he puts it. A particular instance of this was when he advised the president to give up the fight for his court reorganization bill.

After his conferences today, Garner received newspapermen and capably parried all questions. "I'm not a-sayin' anything," he said.

MORE MONEY WANTED

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—A report by Secretary Ickes that the public works program has broken "all records" for volume of construction touched off a triple demand by White House callers today for further government spending.

One visitor, George H. Earle, retiring Democratic governor of Pennsylvania, predicted "starvation and hunger riots" if spending is stopped. He said he was convinced the president would combat efforts of any "conservative block of Republicans and Democrats" to cut down on PWA and WPA appropriations.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York City, who had lunch with the chief executive, said he was sure congress would appropriate "to meet the needs of the country."

A third caller, Rexford G. Tugwell, former resettlement administrator and now chairman of the New York City planning commission, agreed with the others that additional spending was necessary.

Favors Permanent PWA

He referred to his call and the others as "just a bunch of progressives getting together again with their natural boss."

Ickes' report was couched in such terms as to lead observers to believe he would like to see a permanent PWA setup.

"The PWA has demonstrated," he said, "that given a competent and experienced organization and a back-log of applications that have been examined and are ready to go, in time of emergency a program of public works can be put into full swing without loss of time or effort."

"Six months have elapsed since the congress passed and you signed the legislation placing the 1938 PWA program on a * * * timetable."

"Within that brief period PWA has put a $1,574,769,686 program completely under contract. It has achieved the purposes intended by congress. It has aided in building up employment in private industry. Its progress has been accompanied by a constantly accelerated recovery in business and industry."

CATHOLIC BISHOP DIES

Kansas City, Dec. 30 (AP)—Bishop Thomas F. Illits, 77, head of the Kansas City Catholic diocese since 1913, died yesterday. Three years ago he celebrated his fiftieth anniversary in the priesthood and Pope Pius XI appointed him an assistant at the pontifical throne.

EXPRESS OFFICE LOOT $35,000

Highways Blocked Near Youngstown, O., for Three Robbers

Youngstown, O., Dec. 30 (AP)—Officers blocked highways tonight in a search for three men who struck with strategy and suddenness today to rob the Railway Express agency of $35,000 in $1 bills.

The fleeing trio smashed their automobile into a bridge guard rail. Then they stopped the first passing motorist, Joe Caruso, and disappeared. In his automobile which people said contained only a gallon of gasoline.

Eight witnesses identified one of the trio as Steve Yagoditch, 34, Police Chief Carl L. Olson said, adding that license plates on the robbers' car were traced to a relative of the suspect.

Police records showed Yagoditch, who has a woman's head tattooed on his arm above his nickname, served 15 months of a 1931 sentence in London, O., prison farm for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Night guards had just removed their pistols and day men had not yet strapped on their weapons when the trio appeared at a strategic moment to rob the 20 express employes, said G. W. Stover, company officer.

Governor Releases Five At Marquette

Lansing, Dec. 30 (AP)—A parole for James Gallagher, 42 years old, who is serving a life sentence in the branch prison at Marquette for complicity in the slaying of a Detroit policeman, and pardons for four other prisoners were ordered today by Governor Murphy.

The parole board said Gallagher was the "least guilty" of four men who were convicted of the fatal shooting of Lieut. John Heffron during a saloon holdup in Detroit. He was sentenced November 19, 1933.

Pardons to avoid deportation were given: John J. McCarthy, 43, Detroit, sentenced in 1920 for receiving stolen property; Walter W. Prowally, 24, Hamtramck, sentenced to a fine and probation for stealing coal and for being drunk and disorderly; Erwin Sider, Detroit, sentenced for disorderly conduct; and Reuben Merriam, 32, Marysville, sentenced to two years probation in 1933 for the arson of the lake steamers Keystone and Dover at Escore.

Bay County Clerk Can't Take Office

Bay City, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP)—The Bay county board of canvassers was notified today by Assistant Attorney General John V. Brennan that neither Adolph Blanchard, Republican, nor John F. Meagher, Democrat incumbent, should be permitted to take office as county clerk until a recount of votes cast at the general election of last November is completed.

Today the board delayed certification of Blanchard, members declaring they wanted to attempt to check a "mysterious" telephone call that Prosecutor William L. Hellerman said he received Wednesday. The caller, Hellerman said, ordered certification of Blanchard, claiming he was a representative of the attorney general's department. Meagher, who asked the recount, said today the attorney general's office had denied making a call to Hellerman.

Under Brennan's ruling, the present deputy county clerk will remain in charge until the recount is ended.

CONNECTION DENIED

Detroit, Dec. 30 (AP)—Perrin Schwartz, editor of "Social Justice," denied tonight any connection between statements in weekly publication and assertions by Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propagandist minister.

The New York Post had said today that the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, who states his views in "Social Justice," had published on Dec. 5 a "Defense of Nazism," excerpts from which were "closely parallel" to a speech about three years ago by Goebbels.

"We got our information," Schwartz said, "from 'documentation' Catholicque, a periodical published in Paris. Presumably he (Goebbels) could have got his information from the same source."

Japanese Cabinet Faces Third Split

Tokyo, Dec. 30 (AP)—A third major reorganization of the 18-month-old cabinet of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye loomed tonight as a split developed over the internal application of wartime policies. The premier himself and home minister Admiral Nobunama Suetsugu, an outspoken advocate of fascism, were reported to be the leaders of contending factions in the ministry.
