CIVIL SERVICE ATTACKED AT LANSING AGAIN

LEGG OF ESCANABA IS OBJECTOR TO 'MONKEY SHOW'

Lansing, Jan. 27. (AP)—A Republican attack on civil service marked debate in the house of representatives today in which forces of the G. O. P. smothered Democratic resistance to proposed abolition of the public utilities commission. The measure would create a public service commission to do the same work.

Governor Fitzgerald, who had the bill introduced with the avowed intention to oust Democratic commissioners who refused to resign, agreed with the Democrats that it also would abolish the jobs of staff members whose jobs are protected by civil service, with no provision for their transfer to the proposed new agency.

Benson Pushes Bill He denied the Democratic charge, however, that the bill would exempt the new department from civil service jurisdiction. He predicted a number of the old employees would be returned to work.

On the floor of the house, Rep. Ate Dykstra, Republican, Grand Rapids, told Democratic critics of the bill, "We have no civil service, it's a Democratic employment service."

Rep. Stanton Welsh, Republican, St. Clair Shores, demanded that the Republican majority return after the week-end recess and "consider abolition of civil service." Rep. Victor Benson, Republican, Iron River, served notice he would fight for enactment of his bill to repeal the civil service act, which had been reintroduced earlier.

Final Vote Tuesday The Republicans smothered opposition led by Rep. John F. Hamilton, Democrat, Detroit, and advanced the commission bill for a final vote Tuesday. They rejected amendments which would have required a bi-partisan commission, limited the new commissioners' pay to $2,500 a year instead of the proposed $5,000, and transferred to the new department employees of the old one whose jobs are protected by civil service.

Rep. Peter R. Legg, Democrat, Escanaba, rejected vigorously that if "we're going to kill civil service, let's kill it, but don't make a monkey show of it."

Rep. William G. Buckley, Democrat, Detroit, asked whether Republicans would accept an amendment requiring that minor employees of the new commission be exempt from the civil service registers.

"A chorus of 'No' greeted the suggestion. Veteran Bookkeeper Flunks Rep. Benson reintroduced his civil service repeal bill and said it was in "to stay." He had offered it earlier in the week, with the comment that he thought it had Governor Fitzgerald's blessing. He withdrew it a few minutes later when the governor said Benson was "mistaken" in his interpretation of the executive's views. The bill was reported to the house

President Favors France As Buyer Of U. S. Warplanes

Washington, Jan. 27. (AP)—With the approval of the Roosevelt administration, much of America's skill in building warplanes has been placed at the disposal of France.

This disclosure, made by President Roosevelt today at a time when a new war crisis appeared to be in preparation in Europe, created a stir of interest in Capitol Hill.

From within the mandatory neutrality bloc came rumblings of dissent. Senator Clark (D-Mo.), a moving spirit in that bloc, announced he would try to get congress to prevent sales abroad of newest type American military planes.

The administration's course, he complained, seemed to "line us up with France." If there is to be such an "alliance," he declared, "the American people should know about it."

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed the sales of planes had been given formal consideration at a cabinet meeting. Inasmuch as a number of private American factories are now idle, he said, it was considered an excellent idea for them to take the foreign orders, and thus begin operating and be ready to get started promptly on the large orders expected to be given them later by the United States government in behalf of its own air services.

Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.), chairman of the senate military committee, announced his group would study the subject to determine whether legislation would be needed to restrict sales of planes abroad. General Mallin Craig, army chief of staff, will be called before the committee tomorrow.

TRUCE CALLED IN BEER STRIKE

Dispute Is Arbitrated; Breweries to Resume Deliveries Today

Detroit, Jan. 27. (AP)—Mayor Richard W. Reading announced tonight a labor dispute affecting Detroit breweries had been submitted to arbitration. He predicted beer deliveries, which had been curtailed since Jan. 18, would be resumed in full tomorrow.

The teamsters union and the Brewery Workers union, both members of the American Federation of Labor, were involved in the dispute, each claiming the right to supply operators of beer trucks for seven large Detroit breweries. Mayor Reading said both unions had agreed to accept an arbitrator Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne county Federation of Labor, whose decision is to be final.

Six of the larger brewing companies took out a $6,000,000 insurance policy yesterday to cover any damage suffered by beer vendors as a result of the dispute.

Today, Orrin de Mass, chairman of the state liquor control commission, disclosed he had asked the attorney general for an opinion whether the policy violated a section of the state liquor control law which prohibits manufacturers of beer or liquor from extending financial aid of any kind to vendors.

Martin Foes Backed By UAW In 3 States

Milwaukee, Jan. 27. (AP)—William Cody, united automobile workers union leader here, said today a special committee from the Wisconsin-Minnesota-Illinois district council would recommend that the council support the convention call of the UAW international executive board rather than that of Homer Martin, international president. The committee had been sent to Detroit to investigate strife in the international union.

GRANGER STAYS AS RELIEF HEAD

Commission Orders Cut In ERA Grants for Coming Month

Lansing, Jan. 27. (AP)—The new state emergency relief commission met today but failed to repeat its dismissal of George F. Granger, acting state administrator.

A week ago two members of the commission, Carlton H. Runciman of Lowell, chairman, and O. P. Gibbs of Rochester, united to dismiss Granger and appoint Milton S. Van Geison, Genesee superintendent of the poor in his place. Upon protests by the third commissioner, Louis C. Miriani of Detroit, Governor Fitzgerald ordered the change delayed one week.

Runciman demanded that Miriani return personnel files to the office which contained results of a civil service examination Van Geison had taken when he sought appointment as the Genesee county relief administrator. Miriani agreed to return them.

The commission authorized county relief grants for February on an unchanged basis, but Runciman ordered Granger to submit reduced proposals for next month. February grants will total $1,500,000, approximately $500,000 more than in January.

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 27. (AP)—Coroner Martin Fromm said James Moreno, 63, committed suicide with a straight-edged razor late today after striking his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lottie Moreno, 40, with a heavy plank.

Mrs. Moreno, in a hospital with head wounds and broken arms, said she and her father-in-law were alone in the house, listening to the radio, when "out of the blue sky" he began to club her. Police found Moreno in the kitchen, dying.

Famine, Disease In Wake Of Chilean Earthquakes

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 27. (AP)—The Chilean government fought hunger and disease today in the wake of Tuesday night's disastrous earthquake.

United States Ambassador Norman Armour, who called at the foreign office to ask how the United States could help relieve suffering, was told that medical supplies and condensed milk were urgent needs.

Especially great was the danger of disease at Chillan, where estimates of the number of dead ranged from 4,000 to 10,000, and at Concepcion, where about 2,000 died. In these cities, where most of the deaths occurred, burial of the dead was a problem taxing facilities.

Bodies were placed in mass burial pits, some dug, some simply the fissures opened in the earth by the tremors. Military authorities, in control, warned against profiteering prices on coffins, which were scarce.

Some children needing urgent medical attention were brought to Santiago as evacuation of the stricken southern regions was begun. The interior ministry placed all motor vehicles and public buildings under military control for this work.

Five hundred refugees were taken aboard the British cruiser Exeter at Elicahuano after the vessel dropped food and medical supplies. Special trains carried doctors, nurses and medical equipment into the quake areas.

At Balboa, Canal Zone, two U. S. army planes were ordered to proceed to Chile with serum. At Lima, Peru, the council of ministers approved a plan to send the Peruvian steamer Maranon to Talcahuano with food and clothing.

The steamer Teno arrived at Talcahuano last night with 100 doctors and nurses and a large quantity of food and medical supplies. A shortage of water at Concepcion, causing great suffering, especially in the hospitals, was expected to end soon.

Ice Bridge Forms On Lake Champlain

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 27. (AP)—A 10-mile ice "bridge" across Lake Champlain today connected Burlington with New York State as the third day of a cold wave brought unofficial temperatures as low as 49 degrees below zero to New England.

Records 123 years old showed the lake had frozen the entire way across at least a week earlier than the average time. The "bridge" did not form last year until March 4.

Poland Decides She Won't Hitch On To Nazi Star

Berlin, Jan. 27. (AP)—Poland has declined to hitch her wagon to the rising Nazi star, informed quarters said today, preferring to sit in the traditional pivotal seat between Germany and Soviet Russia.

This was said to be the main result of German feelers put out during the talks of Col. Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, Jan. 5 with Chancellor Hitler at Berchtesgaden, and by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in his Warsaw visit which ended today.

FRANCO MOPS UP CATALONIA; HUNGRY FEAST

BRITAIN AND FRANCE STIFFEN AS WAR TENSION GROWS

BY LARRY ALLEN Barcelona, Jan. 27. (AP)—Thousands of Barcelona's war-weary and hungry population feasted tonight on bread and milk as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's trucks brought food to replenish the city's empty cupboards and his armies rolled on toward the French border.

As fast as his forces of reconstruction moved into the conquered government capital, his victorious legions pressed on in an effort to wipe out the last government resistance in northeast Spain.

There scarcely had been a halt since Barcelona fell without a struggle yesterday.

Without a pause, the insurgent armies pushed on northward to within less than 70 miles of the French border leaving a half dozen captured towns and villages in their wake.

They took Badalona, once a source of government war supplies eight miles north of Barcelona, and advanced beyond the town to capture Masnou and Premià de Mar, four and six miles, respectively, farther up the coast.

Other columns converged on Granollers, important communications center in the shrinking, isolated corner of Catalonia that the government still holds.

Food, Guns Seized A large pocket enclosing the entire industrial region around Barcelona and some 50 villages was formed with clean-up activities progressing rapidly.

A government column, fleeing along the coast, was reported to have been so surprised by the rapid insurgent advance that many were taken prisoner along with 10 field guns and large quantities of other war material.

At Moncada, five miles north of Barcelona, the insurgents said they seized 600 truckloads of government supplies. Another 800 trucks were taken just outside of Barcelona.

Additional quantities of stores were found still unpacked on wharves in Barcelona's port.

Will Fight to End Government forces hold another "island" of territory in south and central Spain, including the cities of Madrid and Valencia.

Should the Catalan front collapse, the government still would have slightly more than one fourth of Spain—an area about equal to the state of Arkansas—for which it has declared it will fight to the bitter end.

A huge task faced the insurgent conquerors of desolate Barcelona. They must feed an estimated 1,500,000 persons who have been living on meager rations.

A snow crowd surged against the iron doors of supply centers this noon while workers rationed out bread, condensed milk and

S. T. CRAPO DIES AT TYRON, N. C.

Industrialist Formerly Head of Coal Docks At Escanaba Detroit, Jan. 27. (AP)—Stanford Tappan Crapo, 73, for many years a business, industrial and financial leader in Michigan and grandson of a governor, died yesterday in Tyron, N. C. Funeral services will be held Sunday at his native New Bedford, Mass.

Crapo came to Michigan in 1887 and began work in the Saginaw freight house of the Flint and Pere Marquette railroad. From that post he rose until he was general manager of the Pere Marquette railroad from 1900 to 1903.

Chinese Military Expert Will Head Jap Puppet State

LIVINGSTON SET FREE, SANE MAN

Shanghai, Jan. 27. (AP)—Marshal Wu Pei-Fu, who 15 years ago was China's most powerful military leader, was reported by the Japanese today to have accepted the presidency of a new regime under which the Japanese-sponsored governments in conquered China would be united.

Japanese reports from Nanking said Marshal Wu had accepted the post after a conference at Peiping of Chinese chieftains of the Peiping and Nanking Japanese-sponsored governments. The new regime, merging these two puppet governments, would be called the "central China pacification commission."

Japanese reports from Peiping said Marshal Wu had expressed a readiness to end a 12-year retirement from politics "to serve China."

Harrison, Mich., Jan. 27. (AP)—Jack Livingston, middle-aged playboy of the Michigan oil fields, who was acquitted of the killing of Isiah Leebow "by reason of insanity," was free today, two psychiatrists having found him sane.

Livingston, jubilant at the outcome of the long train of events that started the night of last May 14 when Leebow, a former New York criminal attorney and more recently a wealthy oil operator, was shot to death in a Clark Mich. hotel laproom, planned to return to Oklahoma.

"I'm going to start all over again," he said, adding that he would join his father and brother in Tulsa, Okla.

Livingston was freed by Circuit Judge Ray Hart following receipt of a report from Dr. E. J. Kennell and Dr. Phillip Sheets of the Traverse City state hospital.

The defense had maintained that Livingston, who was described as an acute alcoholic, was temporarily deranged and irresponsible when Leebow was shot. There was no denial that the accused man had done the shooting.

The doctors' report indicated Livingston had suffered from alcoholism and amnesia, but that these had no bearing on his condition at present.

Livingston had been held in jail since his acquittal by jury verdict last Dec. 13.

High Waters Again Threaten Au Train; Level Up Four Feet

Munising, Mich., Jan. 27. (AP)—The village of Au Train was threatened again today by the rising waters of the ice-clogged Au Train river.

The village was flooded under similar circumstances just a year ago. Ice formations prevented the river from entering Lake Superior.

The water level was four feet above normal today. Basements of homes and other structures were flooded, and the water was reported nearing the floors of several bridges in the area.

The jam was relieved last year by a series of dynamite blasts that carried away the barrier. Residents of the village were considering similar steps today.

Traffic Violator Fined By Telegram

Fairmont, Minn., Jan. 27. (AP)—Forgotten cats have been fed and sweethearts soothed with flowers via telegram but now its a traffic law violator—300 miles away—fined by wire.

Charged with exceeding speed limits here, George A. Syverson, Robbinsdale, Minn., traveling salesman, telegraphed Justice H. M. Serle from Belleville, Kans., he would be unable to appear before the justice Saturday, and asked what the fine would be.

WORK RELIEF CUT APPROVED BY LONE VOTE

SPENDING POLICIES OF ROOSEVELT GET SETBACK

BY RICHARD L. TURNER Washington, Jan. 27. (AP)—By the dramatic margin of a single vote, the senate rebelled today at President Roosevelt's spending policies and joined the house in ordering a $150,000,000 cut in work-relief appropriations.

It voted 47 to 46 to provide $725,000,000 to finance WPA from February 7 to June 30, instead of the $875,000,000 requested by the chief executive—to the dismayed surprise of administration leaders, who had waged a hard, week-long fight to sustain the president.

Economy Bloc Jubilant The senate's "economy bloc," consisting of almost the entire Republican membership and twenty some Democrats, was jubilant at winning the first battle of the session, and the first test of strength on this issue since the November elections.

The result was a guarantee that the $725,000,000 appropriation will be in the bill when it is sent to the White House. Since the house, too, approved that figure, it can not, under congressional rules, be changed in the house-senate conference which presumably will be called to deal with changes made by the senate.

Because of other senate changes in the bill, it will go back to the house when finally passed. An effort will be made to get the final vote tomorrow.

Unless the house accepts in entirety the senate changes, the measure goes to a conference committee for composing of differences.

Both Sides Surprised The vote came after a week of such parliamentary jockeying and careful nose-counting as the senate has not seen since the supreme court reorganization bill. It was a week which saw vastly more work done in cloak-rooms, corridors and senatorial offices than on the senate floor.

When the time for voting neared, the senate and the galleries were packed. The administration leadership claimed victory, was assured by "a few votes." Leaders of the economy bloc were glumly of the opinion that the jig was up. So a surprise was in store for both sides.

In an intense hush, the clerk droned the roll-call, Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the Democratic floor leader, and Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), a leader in the battle for the $875,000,000 appropriations, carefully kept tally sheets on the vote.

Barkley Sweats A quarter of the way through the roll-call, the economy bloc led by five votes; a third of the way through it was eight votes ahead, and a little later, the count was tied at 31 to 31. There was another tie 36 to 36, and Barkley produced a handkerchief and anxiously wiped his forehead.

Soon, the administration forces led 41 to 39, but six successive votes for the economy group put it into a lead which it never again lost. When the roll-call had been completed, the count stood 47 to 44. But Senators Borah (R-Idaho) and Connally (D-Tex) who entered the chamber late voted for the administration.

Barkley looked around to see if

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press) The senate, by a one-vote margin, agreed with the house that $150,000,000 should be cut from the relief appropriation requested by President Roosevelt.

The president said that aircraft manufacturers of this country, with the approval of the administration, had agreed to supply France with warplanes.

The senate interstate commerce committee decided to hold a public hearing on President Roosevelt's nomination of Thomas R. Amle, former Wisconsin Progressive representative, as a member of the interstate commerce commission.

The H. C. Hopsen utilities interests agreed to produce witnesses and records demanded by the federal power commission in an examination of the Associated Gas and Electric system.

The labor board accused the Ford Motor company of "unreasonable" in its relations with organized labor.

FRANCO MOPS UP CATALONIA; HUNGRY FEAST

Lines of men, women and children waited with pans, plates and sacks to be handed what, for many, was the first substantial meal in weeks.

Some of the lines were seven blocks long. They were policed by members of a special insurgent corps of 18,000 men which swung into action to restore discipline. Yet they were so thick that some troops attempting to march toward the north were held up for hours.

Lack Winter Clothing
The blue-uniformed corps of women workers, Franco's auxiliary social, were distributing the food twice daily, first between noon and 1 p. m. and again between 6 and 7 p. m.

Most of the men, women and children were bareheaded despite northern Spain's hard winter. Many had no coats and some even were without shoes.

From thousands of balconies and dwellings the red-and-gold banners of the insurgents and the red-and-black of the Falange Espanola fluttered above a tumultuous reception which left the city with the appearance of Broadway after a ticker-tape welcome.

The paper and debris—shreds of government paper money now worthless in insurgent Spain and scraps of the "no pasaran" (they shall not pass) posters that the government had plastered all over—were a foot deep in some places.

Crowds Salute Franco
Franco's clean-up squads cleared the litter away.

The crowds, free from the fear of air raids, swarmed over the streets and boulevards, chanting "Franco! Franco!" and raising right arms in the stiff insurgent salute.

Bands played insurgent anthems over and over while harsh-voiced orators shouted through loudspeakers Franco's promise: "Work and bread."

The insurgents occupied the headquarters of the autonomous government of Catalonia and the magnificent building along the Avenida Garcia where Government Premier Juan Negrin had headquarters until his flight.

Franco left municipal rule to his military governor, General Eladio Alvarez Arenas. One of the first insurgent orders was for the surrender of all firearms held by citizens.

Hidden Supplies Found
Suspended electric light and telephone services were restored. Subway trains began running again. Thousands of prisoners were liberated.

According to the insurgents, the food problem was simplified by crowds which broke open stores of supplies hidden by the retreating government. Enough was found, they said, to feed several hundred thousand persons.

Regular police forces rapidly were replacing the original forces of occupation and with General Alvarez Arenas in personal command the city's wheels slowly started turning.

Bakers were told to apply at city hall for flour if they lacked supplies and to be prepared to start baking tonight.

Cooperative stores which formerly sold only to certain groups were ordered to serve the whole public under the supervision of a controller of supplies.

REFUGEES IN PANIC
Perpignan, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 27 (AP)—Insurgent warplanes believed to be hunting the new headquarters of the Spanish government today carried out three shattering raids on Figueras, where hundreds were reported killed or injured.

The government cabinet, in flight from fallen Barcelona, was "somewhere in Gerona province," and the insurgent air raiders evidently thought that meant Figueras, refugee-crowded town 15 miles from the French border.

The raids spread renewed fear among the refugees and started a panicky flight toward the French frontier. Even as the bombs crashed into the outskirts of Figueras, hundreds raced for trucks and started north.

Tens of thousands of other refugees were moving toward the frontier before the steadily advancing insurgent armies. French border guards stood at barricades to prevent a mass influx.

Back to Madrid?
The government's ministers were reported to be scattered throughout Gerona province, between Barcelona province and France. Some reports said that even the ministers themselves did not know where their colleagues had set up offices.

According to the best information available, Premier Juan Negrin and Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo were at Figueras, and the war ministry at Gerona, 20 miles south of Figueras.

There seemed little possibility that the government ministers would try to move back to central Spain and set up headquarters again either at Madrid or Valencia.

(At Madrid Colonel Casado, commanding the central front, declared the war would go on regardless of the outcome in Catalonia.)

Spanish government officials warned the French tonight that if some arrangement is not made to care for refugees at once in a safety zone, fear-tortured hordes might get out of control and storm French frontier barricades.

Small Towns Crowded
More than 100,000 of the refugees from Barcelona and southern Catalonia have invaded small towns of northeast Spain still held by the government. Even before the invasion, these little villages

County Tries Out New Snowplow

Members of the Delta county road commission inspected the recently purchased four wheel drive snowplow yesterday. The new plow was used on the most difficult stretches of road on the county system.

Huge Drifts Bucked By New Truck and Plow In County Highway Tests

Several backwoods county roads, usually left closed after the first heavy snows of winter, have been plowed clean during the past few days as the Delta county highway department tested its new truck and plow snow removal unit. The new equipment is being tested pending final acceptance from the manufacturers by the highway department.

Power to push through the drifts is developed by a 150 horsepower Cummins diesel engine, later to be replaced by a 200 horsepower power plant which is now being developed by the engineering company. The truck is a 10 to 12 ton model made by the Four-Wheel Drive Truck company of Clintonville, Wis. Traction to push the wide plow is created through the four-wheel drive mechanism which transmits power to all four wheels.

The plow as a Ross "V" type plow, with spreader wing on the right side. Hydraulic controls within the cab enable the operator to raise or lower the front plow, raise or lower the spreader wing, or push the spreader out or in without leaving his seat and without stopping the truck.

Speed is 40 M. P. H.

The snow removal unit can be operated on the highway at a speed of 20 to 25 miles per hour on plowing work, and has a speed of 40 miles per hour in ordinary operation. It is equipped with Westinghouse air brakes.

J. T. Sharpsteen, county highway department engineer, said yesterday that the truck will have a number of other uses as well as speeding up snow removal in the county. It will be employed to tow heavy trailers with county steamshovels, haul gravel, and pull the county's retreat paver on blacktop resurfacing work next summer. The black top surfacing program calls for 65 miles of retreat paving.

Cost of operating the new unit, Sharpsteen stated, will be 15 to 20 cents per hour for fuel. It is equipped with a 70 gallon tank, carrying fuel for about 35 hours. The new truck is the fifth diesel unit owned by the county highway department. Others include one truck, a 17-ton tractor, a crushing plant engine, and a motor patrol grader.

Standing in front of military preparations was a direct radio appeal to Chancellor Hitler and the German people to banish "the spectre of war and enmity between nations." The appeal was made by 18 of the most prominent British leaders outside political life and was broadcast in German over facilities of the government-controlled British Broadcasting corporation.

In Paris informed circles said the French cabinet would take up tomorrow proposals to add three months to the two-year term of obligatory military services. Also to be considered, it was stated, was the calling to duty of some special army reservists. These suggestions were said to have resulted from Italy's calling up of 60,000 reservists Wednesday.

An official British government publication disclosed that Major General H. O. B. Wemyss, assistant adjutant-general in the war office from 1935 to 1937, was appointed director of mobilization to whip Britain's fighting forces into battle trim.

In addresses and publications British ministers emphasized the nation's resurgent military might.

A long fast ride is assured the skiers who start from the top and come down the slopes which are one half a mile high and have cleared paths several blocks in width.

In order to get in the most possible skiing, a ski tow is available for patrons. This has a special arrangement which allows the skier to ride to any point on the hill without removing his skis.

The Ski Bus will be decorated in gala fashion, proclaiming to everyone on the way and in Wausau, that the skiers are from Escanaba, Michigan.

AHLKOG GOES TO CHIPPEWA

Is Being Transferred to Forest Service Post in Minnesota

Ralph Ahlskog, who has been in charge of fire prevention work in Upper Peninsula national forests since June, 1937, is being transferred to the Chippewa national forest with headquarters at Cass Lake, Minnesota. It was learned yesterday from P. A. Woheln, supervisor of the Upper Peninsula national forests.

Ahlskog came to the Upper Peninsula from Montana, being ranger at the Rapid River district from 1935 until his transfer to the local headquarters in 1937, being succeeded as ranger by Elmer Mattson. It is expected that he will be assigned to fire control work in the field administration unit of the Chippewa forest.

Ahlskog, who is married and resides at 815 South Tenth street, is a graduate of the University of Idaho. After his graduation, he worked at the experiment station of the forest service at Missoula, Montana, before being transferred to work in Missouri. He later was transferred back to Montana before coming to the Upper Peninsula.

Supervisor Woheln indicated yesterday that other transfers are expected within the next several days, confirmation being awaited.

Additional Funds Are Required For Salvation Army

Additional funds are needed to finance the welfare activities of the Salvation Army, Major Fritz W. Nelson announced yesterday.

Major Nelson explains that the recent fund raise campaign fell short of securing the amount of money needed to carry on the organization's work. Consequently, an appeal has been made for special contributions from those who wish to see the work of the local corps sustained.

All religious services are maintained by members and friends of the Salvation Army, Major Nelson explains. The following budget is for the welfare work of the organization:

Property maintenance and renewals (including insurance) $25 per month	$ 300.00
City utilities, light, gas, water, etc. $10 per month	120.00
Fuel, coal and wood	45.00
Communications, telephone, etc.	30.00
Office supplies, printing, stationery, postage, etc.	25.00
Transportation, $3.50 per week	182.50
Salaries, officers in charge and aids, $17 weekly	$84.00
Supervision (including national sick and pension fund) $2.50 per week	130.00
Relief, repair materials, foods, miscellaneous	600.00
Total amount required $2316.50

Major Nelson explains that the above figure is approximately one-half of the actual organization budget for the current year.

Business Cooperates With Farm Industry

BY FREDERIO J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—An alignment of interest among business men and farmers is taking definite form throughout the country. For more than a hundred years merchants, manufacturers, and farmers knew each other only as traders, each having his individual interest and concerned only with his own profession. Experience has shown that their interests are mutual, and practical steps are making this relationship fruitful.

In an endeavor to be of assistance to farmers, commercial organizations now sponsor and aid wherever possible in the improvement of agriculture in their trade area. Many and varied are the reasons for this cooperative effort on the part of organizations and individual business men. For example where there is a decline in the business of the community, investigation by business men is started to determine the underlying cause. In many cases it is traceable in a large degree to a depressed condition of local agriculture, and through co-operation the situation in many instances is remedied.

The early attempts of business men to help the farmers were not altogether successful. In some cases commercial organizations formulated plans for a more profitable type of farming and made suggestions to the farmers. This method of approach to the rural people met with only a small degree of success, due to the feeling of farmers that their opinions were ignored and that they were being dictated to by the city business men who, they thought, knew little if anything about farming. But business men have profited by this experience and have changed their method of offering assistance. The change opening the way for what is now taking place, and as a result commercial enterprises and farming interests are both deriving a benefit.

Much progress is being made by organized business groups of the country in the standardization of methods for doing effective teamwork with farmers, large and small. A noticeable increase of interest on the part of farmers toward the aid they can expect from the city business men also is apparent. An increasing number of commercial organizations are making agriculture one of their major activities, for business men realize much of the economy of their communities depends upon successful farming.

In the development of closer contacts with farmers, commercial organizations find it desirable to appoint an agricultural committee to handle all contacts with rural people. It is now the practice of these organizations to invite individual farmers to become members of their agricultural committees. Consequently a more practical setup for insuring the fullest cooperation and effective teamwork between the two groups has come into use.

Surveys Aid Agriculture

This cooperation between business men and farmers is achieving results. For instance a Georgia chamber of commerce made a complete survey of agricultural production and consumption in its territory. Total production of various farm products in each county as well as total home consumption, surplus for sale, marketing channels, prices received and distribution facilities used or available, were included in the study. On the basis of this survey adjustments were made that were first beneficial to the farmers and second to the business men.

An Illinois business organization sponsored a producer-consumer survey in its trade area. Basic information pertaining to the production and marketing of agricultural commodities was obtained in order that a production and marketing program could be formulated in which farmers and other business men might unite. Several commercial organizations have made special surveys in their sections on dairy, poultry, and fruit production in order to obtain definite information as to their production and outlets. For example instead of assuming that more dairying or an increase in the raising of poultry was advisable, or that the particular section was adaptable to the raising of fruits or crops of various kinds, information is obtained as to the extent of the development of enterprises before setting out to encourage an increase in their production.

Relief Comish, And Supervisors Back From Trip

Local relief officials and two members of the Delta county board of supervisors returned late Thursday night from Lansing where they conferred with legislators concerning proposed relief legislation to be introduced in the present session.

Those making the trip were: Ole Thorsen of Wells and G. E. Weingartner of Rock, members of the Delta county emergency relief commission; A. M. Gilbert, county relief administrator; and Carl B. Johnson of this city, chairman of the board of supervisors, and Carl Person of Rapid River, chairman of the finance committee of the board of supervisors.

While at Lansing, the local group was successful in fighting heavy pressure from thickly populated downstate counties desiring revision of the proposed relief measures on the basis of population alone. This would give Wayne and Genesee counties a large majority of funds regardless of actual relief needs and would greatly affect all of the less populated counties where need often is greater than that in the cities. The local group succeeded in having written into the bill to be presented provisions for distribution on a basis of 40 per cent population, 40 per cent case load and 20 per cent equalization such as schools now have. Legislators, of course, may change these provisions before the bill becomes a law.

Buy and Sell the Classified Way.

exhibits of high quality products grown in the community is an indication of what can be accomplished, and an incentive to other farmers to do equally well.

Conditions prevailing in a community determine the details that must be given consideration, but in every case the more businesslike the methods used in gaining the cooperation of the farmer in the projects undertaken, the greater the certainty of good results. When a systematically planned procedure is followed, farmers are deeply appreciative of the aid given them, and their willingness to cooperate is beyond question.

THREE ATTEND SCHOOL MEET

Finances Discussed At Conference Held In Iron Mountain

F. J. Peltier, president of the Escanaba board of education, John A. Lemmer, superintendent of schools, and J. A. Shipman, member of the legislative committee of the Michigan Education Association, attended a meeting of board members and superintendents of Iron, Delta, Menominee and Dickinson counties held last night at Iron Mountain.

School finances was the principal topic. As pointed out recently, of the total budget of $180,000 approved at the start of the school year, only $150,000 is in sight, as he result of reductions in state aid.

Poorer Districts Affected
State aid for schools in Michigan has been cut from $28,000,000 to $19,000,000, affecting, particularly, the poorer districts. A movement is on foot to encourage action by the current legislature toward an emergency appropriation to at least forestall shortening of school terms. Unless more aid is received, it may be necessary to close some schools one month earlier this year.

Last night's conference was sponsored by the M. E. A. groups in the four counties. Dickinson county comprises three M. E. A. units—Iron Mountain city, Breitung township and the county group including schools in the outlying areas.

Specifically, four topics were under discussion. They were: Adequate school aid; guaranteed school aid; financing construction of needed school buildings, and extending the power of school boards to borrow money.

Communication

LEGG EXPLAINS

Editor, Escanaba Daily Press, Escanaba, Michigan.

Dear Sir: I noticed an item in your paper a few days ago stating that Mr. Legg resigned from the Committee on Labor and was placed on the Committee on Conservation. It so happens now that some of the workers, I understand, are criticizing me for this move, so if you will print the following, I think it will explain my move.

"I might state the make up of the Labor Committee and perhaps you will see that no particular member would necessarily have much influence on that Committee. The Committee is made up of at least three farmers, one or two attorneys, one ex-groceryman, one newspaper man, one insurance man and the new appointee is a Detroit attorney.

"You can see that it would be almost impossible single handed to accomplish much on that Committee, so after talking it over with Representative Joseph C. Murphy of Wayne County I came to the conclusion that Mr. Murphy could accomplish more on that Committee than Mr. Legg for the simple reason that he is in touch with sixteen farmers from his District and the strong labor unions in Detroit wanted him on that Committee. I agreed to accept the position on the Conservation Committee feeling that he could accomplish more than I could on the other Committee.

"It also meant that I would be at liberty on the floor of the House, to talk on labor measures and perhaps in that way accomplish more.

"I want it distinctly understood that it was not because I was not willing to work for labor, because I am willing to do that at all times and I think my record in the past will show that. Whenever I can be of service to the laborers in trying to pass suitable legislation, I shall be right on the dot."

Trusting this explanation will satisfy those who are criticizing, I beg to remain

Yours very truly,

It Can Be Done

IN all the congressional discussion at Washington over a reduction in WPA funds, the point seems to have been lost—that if politics is removed from the administration of relief, all relief funds appropriated by congress can be most drastically reduced and still provide more funds for those that actually need aid.

Any pick and shoveler, who is honest, working in the ranks of any WPA crew in Delta county can tell you the names and addresses of the multiplicity of needless foremen, timekeepers, supervisors, etc. placed over them, who are receiving monthly pay checks, from $60 upward, out of funds appropriated by congress. And it doesn't require a very smart $44 a month WPA pick and shoveler to figure that if the needless, politically inspired jobs in his ranks can be eliminated, lot less money will be required to provide more adequate monthly pay checks for those that actually need it. Cut off the political leeches from relief pay rolls and there will be a lot more money to do the job for which it was supposed to be appropriated.

It was this fact, emphasized in Michigan and the campaigns of many other states before the November elections, that resulted in an unmistakable warning to the national government that the people of the United States are fed up with the spectacle of human misery being exploited for political benefit. But in the face of this warning the president, in his budget laid before the congress, boldly demanded a continuation of the same politically inspired relief program that has persisted for the past six years. And it is against this program that evidences of both a house and senate revolt have been developed.

But members of congress must bear this fact in mind—that if politics is not to be sternly eliminated from the administration of relief, the $875,000,000 asked by the president, will be required to support the army of political vampires now feeding at the relief trough and still provide a pittance of $44 a month for unemployed who need aid.

During the discussion of the relief appropriation in the house of representatives, Rep. Frank Hook, of the Twelfth Michigan district, stood before that body and read an advertisement that appeared in the Escanaba Daily Press on Nov. 8 and attempted to create the impression that the advertisement, which criticized former Congressman John Luecke for permitting a minimum WPA wage schedule of $44 a month in this district, while WPA pick and shovelers in other sections were paid $60 a month, was authorized by Congressman Fred Bradley and constituted a promise by him to raise the minimum WPA scale in this section to $60 a month.

This advertisement, authorized and paid for, personally, by a WPA worker of Delta county, reads as follows:

"Attention WPA workers! The $44 a month minimum wage paid workers in this district of Michigan, is the lowest paid anywhere in the north central states. In the lower peninsula and in the state of Ohio, our neighbor on the south, the minimum WPA wage is $60 a month. The workers there are the same as workers here. The cost of living there is the same as here. Yet those people are getting $60 and you are getting $44. Where was Congressman Luecke when the minimum wage was being set at $60 in lower Michigan and $44 up here.

"Our Congressmen's neglect has cost you exactly $16 a month for the last three years. Vote for Fred Bradley, for congress, on the Republican ticket. He will see that the WPA men get the same treatment in this district as they are getting in other places. And Bradley will not force you to pay for his political campaign either. Take the politics out of relief. Vote Republican. This advertisement paid for and sponsored by a committee of WPA workers."

And this WPA worker was right at the time when the advertisement was published and paid for as it is just as right today as it was at that time.

Take politics out of relief and those who need aid can get enough to support themselves and their families in a semblance of comfort, instead of the pittance now left for them, after the political appointees have taken their drag.

More Land Acquired

AUTHORIZATION has been given by the National Forest Reservation commission for the purchase of 290,293 acres of additional land in 49 national forests, including the Hiawatha, Marquette and Ottawa units in the Upper Peninsula.

These additional land acquisitions are mostly to block out federal holdings within existing boundaries, and consist mainly of cut-over lands of low value. The hope has been expressed by conservationists that the Forest Service could acquire some timber lands so that a selective cutting program could be carried out to perpetuate the remaining forests. Funds appropriated by Congress, however, do not permit the purchase of any appreciable amount of this expensive acreage.

The cut-over lands that have been acquired have been mostly acreage that has been abandoned by the private owners rather than continue to pay taxes. Federal acquisition of timbered areas, however, would remove real estate from the tax rolls, although the local governments would receive their 25 per cent share from the sale of merchantable timber cut off by a selective process under Forest Service supervision.

At the present time, local government officials are decrying the reduction of tax assessment rolls because of public acquisition of forest and park lands, and are demanding that the federal government reimburse the local units for the losses in tax revenues. President Roosevelt has issued an executive order creating a federal real estate board to study this particular tax problem and related matters.

The forest land tax situation and the timber conservation program create problems that deserve the serious attention of both the local and federal governments. Financial support for local government is needed, of course, but so is timber conservation and reforestation extremely important in the Upper Peninsula and other sections of the Great Lakes region.

A comprehensive survey should be made to determine just how seriously local governments are affected by transfer of real estate from private to public ownership. Such a survey also should take into consideration the fact that if the forest resources are not conserved there will be less need for local government functions, because the communities to which the forests furnished a livelihood will become only "ghost towns", of which we have had too many in the past.

Twelve Hats Necessary

REPRESENTATIVES of the hat industry meeting in New York recently, are deeply concerned over the tendency of the average American male to try getting along somehow without 12 hats, the number required as being "exactly right" for the wardrobe of the well-dressed man.

The hat boys want to do something about this, and the dictum may go for New York, or even Detroit and Chicago, but they are thinking about the man out in the sticks who is plainly not doing his duty by the hat industry. They point with pride to some of the "best-hatted" men in the country, well dressers like Marshall Field, Jack Dempsey, Bing Crosby, Tyrone Power and Fred Astaire.

The hat style council insists that all men should have 12 hats in order to be suitably decked out for what is called "every occasion." These are the high silk topper, the folding opera, the black or midnight blue soft hat, the derby, the homburg, the snap brim, the off-the-face, the lightweight felt, the sports, the straw sailor, the panama and the semi-sport type.

Meanwhile the writer of this style note is wearing his lone Kelly with a hole in the brim, and envying some of the boys down in the composing room who are said to have as many as three hats apiece and are thinking of buying another one. The hat manufacturers had better forget about newspaper writers when planning to increase their lid sales—there simply isn't a chance. But it must be great to be a plute and stroll down Broadway sporting a nobby tile, with eleven other pieces of millinery concealed on the person somewhere, and ready for any occasion.

ECCLES THEORY (Washington Post)

The Eccles theory recognizes only one part of the cycle set in motion by an outpouring of public money. It emphasizes the purchasing power created by deficit financing and assumes that this increased spending will automatically lead to greater industrial activity and more extensive employment. The inevitable reactions—higher taxes and justified uncertainty as to financial stability—are conveniently forgotten.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE (Sault Ste. Marie News)

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of this city are the pride of its 360 members and the envy of other associations of similar nature throughout the state.

Tonight's meeting should be no exception—and it is anticipated that 300 local Sault boosters and their guests will be present at the dinner program to select officers for the coming year and to lend their support to the program of promotion which already has been set in motion for the coming year.

In few other cities is the enthusiasm for the Chamber of Commerce more marked than in Sault Ste. Marie. A study of the activities of the Chamber for the past decade and analysis of the results which have come in spite of unprecedented national depression, reveals the basis for the warm regard in which the Chamber of Commerce is held.

The Chamber is Sault Ste. Marie's go-get-'em agency. With a paid secretary, actively at work almost without ceasing, to bring more tourist wealth here, to constantly work for better highways, profitable agriculture, a beautiful and efficient city with adequate parks and streets and protection; to let the world know of Sault Ste. Marie's advantages of climate, scenery, health, education and history; these are some of the things to which the Chamber is dedicated. It has succeeded in remarkable measure in these objectives even when business conditions throughout the nation have been at the most discouraging point in a generation.

To start a new year with approximately $1,000 in the bank is a true financial feat for a Chamber of Commerce in a city of this size. Not only is that true this year, but the membership of the Chamber is the largest of a considerable number of years. The Chamber is flourishing. It is needed

In years of tough sledding even more than when prosperity is at its height. And it is being given the hearty support it deserves.

Many a fine battle on behalf of Sault welfare in all its ramifications has been waged by the Chamber. It is ready for many more. Under leadership of such men as George Baldwin and his board of directors and Secretary Merrifield, the community knows that its guards are constantly up and no opportunity will be missed.

Washington, D. C. — The most un-European, least visited, least known country in Europe that cannot be reached by a railway. One of the several small nations of Europe, Albania is only twenty-seven years old. Its independence, however, asserts itself in a manner of a much older nation.

Since breaking away from Turkey in 1912, Albania has been ruled as a principality, a ward of an international commission of control, a republic for three years, and since 1928 as a monarchy under King Zog. The Constitution of the United States—considered young—is a little more than a century and a half old; the total of Albania's national existence adds up to one-sixth of that period.

Albania does not change quickly. Life in the walled compounds goes on today as it did in the Old Testament. Sometimes the King essays to change old habits; sometimes he thwarts impatient patriots trying to institute reforms. Every once in a while there is a flare of local revolt, swiftly suppressed. On the whole Zog has preserved order, an unusual feat for the first native king in a young Balkan kingdom, and has somehow held the balance among a fiercely independent people who dislike foreign interference.

This young Balkan nation, with new Yugoslavia to the north and age-old Greece to the south, is still schooling itself in the ways of the West, discarding Turkey's oriental influence gradually as the Albanian women have been discarding their Turkish veils. The veil, still concealing the faces of older women, although younger ones had already cast it off, was recently forbidden by law. Feminine fashion notes give further evidence of Turkish influence, for some women still wear harem-style trousers. The Albanian women are, as a rule, slim and often very beautiful, particularly when clad in their picturesque gala costumes. This gala dress is an expensive affair, and it is the most beautiful and becoming costume to be found in Europe.

Ethnologists say the Albanians represent the most ancient race in southeastern Europe. Neither legend nor history affords any record of their arrival in the Balkan Peninsula, but they are believed to be descendants of the first Aryan immigrants, who, leaving the birthplace of the white race beside the Caspian shore, entered Europe through the Caucasus. They have to a great extent remained unaffected by foreign influences, retaining their original language and preserving the customs and institutions handed down from remote antiquity. They live a pastoral life for the most part, primitive, hospitable, dignified, and free from modern entanglements.

The Little Albanian fragment of the old Ottoman Empire is somewhat larger than the State of Vermont, with 10,629 square miles. But with 10 per cent more area than the Green Mountain State, it has almost 200 per cent more population. The population of a million is made up mainly of Ghegs in the north and Tosks in the south, the Mason and Dixon Line of Albania's division being the Shkumbini River. The Tosks are distinguished by their dress. In the back country, men wear gold-embroidered jackets and wide saashes over plaid knee-length white skirts almost as full as a ballet dancer's.

INDUSTRIAL AND EDUCATION PROGRESS

This European stronghold of Mohammed is near Italy, being only fifty miles away across the Adriatic. As part of ancient Illyria, Albania was once a province of the Roman Empire, crossed by Roman vias and legions, and visited by sumnering Roman senators. A still earlier relationship with the glory that was ancient Greece is acknowledged both by Albanians and by their Greek neighbors next door on the south, for Albanians believe that they represent the oldest race of southeastern Europe. Strongest foreign influence is that of Turkey, which dominated Albania from 1479 until 1912.

A modern rival from abroad is the influence of the United States to which Albanian immigration was heavy until a yearly quota of 100 was imposed. Americanized Albanians are numerous in their mother country. Money earned in the United States has built modern homes in Albania, equipped with electricity, steam heat, modern plumbing, and telephones.

Slowly the country is being coaxed from its placid slow-tempo agricultural existence toward the machine age. Progress is hampered by mountain barriers, for Albania is barricaded with mountain chains, some more than a mile high. Only two rivers are even partially navigable, and these dwindle away to bone-dry stream beds in summer. Horseback travel, still important enough to support big horse fairs, was the only means of penetrating the country's barbaric highland fastnesses until the World War made roads for troop movements a matter of life or death. Albania has over a thousand miles of motor roads, although mountain torrents require over two thousand bridges.

Under Turkish rule, Albania was kept backward. About its only industry was rug-weaving. Since teaching in the Albanian language was forbidden, education remained stagnant. Today Albania has more than 600 state-supported primary schools, over a dozen secondary schools, and more than 350 of its citizens studying in foreign universities.

In years of tough sledding even more than when prosperity is at its height. And it is being given the hearty support it deserves.

Q. Did Eugene Field write "Little Boy Blue" in memory of the child he lost? W. K.

A. The poet experienced the deepest grief in the death of his son, Melvin. The boy, however, did not die until a year and a half after the poem "Little Boy Blue" was written. It is generally assumed that this loss occasioned the writing of the poem. Actually, Field wrote it because he had promised Slason Thompson of $150,000,000 for the settling of approximately ten per cent of her returning soldiers on the land.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—The ocean is big and a ship upon it is no more than a cockleshell, but Joe Boyle found the Esso Baytown out on the Atlantic and because Joe found her, NEA Service scooped the country on pictures of the rescue ship carrying the survivors of the Cavalier disaster.

January 23d broke cold and wild over New York City, for a wind of gale proportions had risen. At 7 a. m., while all New York was huddled indoors, Joe Boyle was riding out to sea in a land plane with only a single motor. Joe was looking for the Esso Baytown which, his office said, was coming north and was somewhere in the Atlantic.

Twenty miles. Fifty miles. Eighty miles. One hundred miles out over the broad and boiling Atlantic. At sea, that gale was really something. And Joe was riding with a window open so he could poke his lens on the boat as soon as he sighted her. But—no soap. No boat. No luck.

Back they turned, Joe and his pilot. At the airport they hopped out and then Joe looked at the pilot and the pilot looked at Joe and both swallowed lumps because the propeller on the plane was coated with ice a quarter of an inch thick. Joe was quite pulled the Cavalier down, some said.

But the office said Joe had to look again. So Joe climbed back in the plane and off it went.

Lady Luck likes a gambler and Joe is a great hand for a poker game. Joe is the kind who draws to an inside straight.

Seventy miles out on that lashing sea Joe let out a yell "There she is!" and then with hands that were like claws from the bitter cold, he shot the pictures that scooped the land.

All in a Day's Work
Joe Boyle takes it all in his stride. "Part of an eight-hour day," is the way he puts it. But this is only one of Joe's picture hunting stunts.

Around the office they talk of how Joe flew 1400 miles in a land plane up to Musgrave Harbor, Newfoundland, to put on film the crash of Dick Merrill's and Harry Richman's trans-Atlantic flight, some years ago. Five hundred miles of that flight covered territory where you had your choice of sitting down on a mountain or on a wave, should trouble develop. But Joe Boyle got there, took his pix, let the pilot fly them to New York, then sat around five days while the Merrill-Richman plane was dug out of a bog. The only meat Joe had to eat then was canned rabbit and he averts it tasted "like black rubber." But—it was all part of the day's work.

And then there's the night Joe got home from a late date and had just about tumbled into bed when a cop from a radio car hulked into his room to tell him to call the office. That was the only way NEA could get hold of Joe, but the news was hot—the S. S. Morro Castle was burning. The flying photographer covered himself with glory for his pictures of that sea-going cauldron. "You could see the heat rising in waves from off the forward plates of the Morro Castle," Joe recalls. "It was horrible. That heat."

When the Navy dirigible Akron sank 85 miles out to sea, Joe Boyle was on the spot in a plane. Seven hours he spent that day shooting pictures. And it was a mean day. There was a ceiling of only 300 feet. Joe thinks that was his toughest assignment.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Chief Justice Hughes does not know it, but Securities and Exchange Commission investigators have been digging into one accomplishment of his past life in minute detail.

In 1905-6, Hughes, then a budding young lawyer, won national renown with a sensational investigation of seventeen leading insurance companies. The probe won Hughes the governorship of New York. The report of his findings, published in 1906, filled ten volumes, but apparently they had little net effect.

Early next month the SEC will open a new insurance investigation. But it will not disclose any essentially new conditions, even though it is the first ever to be made by the Federal Government. For it will show that the evils exposed by Hughes more than three decades ago are as rampant as ever.

The SEC examiners have been using Hughes' report as the text-book and bible of their own work, and it has turned up hoards of pay dirt. Of all the sensations the SEC hearings will bring to light, most sensational will be the fact that the principal abuses Hughes uncovered in 1905-6 still exist today, and in exaggerated degree.

GIGANTISM

In his report, Hughes severely condemned the vast size of the leading insurance companies:

"The business (of the Mutual, the Equitable, New York Life and Metropolitan Life companies) has grown beyond reasonable limits. Notwithstanding the fact that they have long since passed the point where further enlargement can benefit their policyholders, they have resorted to every effort to obtain new business, regardless of the expense which is reflected in diminishing dividends. . . . Extravagant commissions have been paid and these have been supplemented by liberal bonuses and prizes. . . .

"Their membership is so large and their resources so vast as to make the question of responsible control and conservative management one of extreme difficulty, and their magnitude if permitted to grow unrestricted will soon become a menace to the community."

The SEC will submit the following chart to show that despite Hughes' grave warning issued 33 years ago, the companies have been allowed to increase in size many times over:

Metropolitan	$176,429,015	$4,720,000,000
Mutual	495,864,650	1,349,000,000
Equitable	428,048,337	2,106,000,000
New York	474,567,673	2,520,000,000

As a limitation on unsound growth, Hughes proposed that a maximum of $150,000,000 a year be fixed for the writing of new insurance. The SEC will report wholesale disregard of this recommendation with these spectacular figures:

In 1929 alone, the four companies wrote a total of over 7 billion dollars in new policies. Since 1907, Metropolitan has written in excess of $65,000,000,000; Equitable more than 19 billion; New York Life over 15 billion; and the Mutual in excess of 9 billion.

SELF-PERPETUATING OFFICERS

Another major Hughes condemnation was the control of insurance companies by a small group of insiders.

While each of the above four companies are mutual companies and theoretically controlled by their millions of policyholders, actually, he declared, the latter have nothing to say about management. This is what Hughes charged:

"Notwithstanding their theoretical rights, policyholders have had little or no voice in the management. Entrenched behind proxies, easily collected by subversive agents and running for long periods, the officers of these companies have occupied unassailable positions and have been able to exercise despotic power. . . .

"The most fertile source of evils in administration has been irresponsibility of official power. . . . However much this may be expected in the case of absolute stock control, in that of a mutual company it proceeds from a flagrant disregard of the law of its being. . . . The present directors of mutual life insurance companies in this State have been elected without the actual participation in their election of any considerable number of policyholders."

The SEC will disclose that this is as true today as it was in Hughes' time with these facts:

The last biennial elections for directors in New York were in 1937. At that time only 318 policyholders voted for officers of New York Life; only 532 for officers of Equitable; only 177 in the case of Mutual; and the directors of the great Metropolitan were chosen by the votes of only 480,000 out of 26,000,000 policyholders.

A Nazi decree orders the German national anthem played more slowly—something like a dirge at the funeral of freedom.

Whooping and braying,
What are these horns, so mild, so dis-
treating.
What, for their masters, are these horns
toots expressing?
A little generosity!
A lot of verbosity!
Much pomposity!
And dire animosity!
That's what they're saying.

Expressing and braying!
To boost the world along, use your horn!
Prod your fellows onward with your horn!
Shake them down for their neglect,
Make them show you some respect,

Somewhat it seems to us that the campaign was started wrong end to. Why not educate the men to the idea that beauty lies in bouncing health?

Then it wouldn't be necessary to hand down any beauty decrees to the German women. They'd get the idea fast enough.

Supposing the German women can be made to believe that beauty is strength—and vice versa. We don't think they're that naive—but just suppose.

What about the German men? Are they going to be ready to accept physical well-being for beauty? Will muscle hold the same fascination for them that curves once held? Will the light of health in the "modern" girl's eye be as seductive as the drooping lids of the so-called smart society "glamor girl" that the Nazis are

The Nazi prescription for feminine beauty is physical training. It takes no stock in the beauty tonics we American women go for—permanent waves, finger nail polish, make-up, facial, creasey hats, high heels, and what we consider alluring clothes. No—the answer lies in two words, physical training.

IF YOU FEEL SUNK Read this and cheer up Are you so blue that life is no longer worth living? Do you cry easily? Do you feel low, moody, depressed—just absolutely SUNK?

Then here's a good news for you in case you need a good general system tonic—just take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and tone up your system, so that it can more easily throw off the "blues" and give more energy to enjoy life.

MILLIONS of women have depended upon this Compound and have named the word along to friends and neighbors, and to their children.

Why not take Pinkham's Compound and go "smiling thru"?

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

WASHINGTON—This is supposed to be the big winter of appeasement, when the New Deal lion and the business lamb lie down together in sweet friendship.

But you need look no farther than the President's recent appointments to see that the New Deal is as aggressive as ever—and possibly even less compromising.

In his last half-dozen nominations to key government positions, President Roosevelt has named staunch liberals—in most cases, stalwart New Dealers. Far from retreating he is still attacking.

Here is the current list. Read it, and see how it contradicts a widespread impression that the New Deal is pulling in its horns:

Attorney general—ex-Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan. Secretary of commerce—Harry Hopkins, former WPA administrator.

Supreme Court justice—Felix Frankfurter. Labor Relations Board—Donald Wakeland Smith.

Tennessee Valley Authority—ex-Senator James E. Pope of Idaho. Interstate Commerce Commission—ex-Congressman Thomas H. Amle of Wisconsin.

AND THEN THERE'S AMLE Three of these appointments—those of Murphy, Hopkins and Frankfurter—have been confirmed by the Senate.

Amle was one of the most pronounced left-wingers in Congress. He was a member of the Wisconsin Progressive Party, but was commonly looked upon as being considerably to the left of the La-Follettes.

He once sponsored a constitutional amendment which would have given Congress authority to set up federal agencies authorized to condemn, buy and operate banks and industries.

On another occasion he introduced a "10 year plan" for American business. If the business world thought Mr. Hopkins a bit of a wild man for the commerce job, and looked upon Mr. Murphy as somewhat radical for the attorney generalship, its feelings on seeing Mr. Amle put on the body that handles the country's railroad problem may be imagined.

FDR DRAWS DIMES You've heard about the "mile of dimes" stunt, by which 10-cent contributions for the war on infantile paralysis are collected? They set up a table on the sidewalk; on the table are a series of grooves. You're invited to put a dime in one of the grooves. When all the grooves have been filled four times, a mile of dimes (measuring edge to edge) has been collected.

Anyhow, it seems lots of people still insist on sending their dimes direct to the President. During the last few days, the cash room of the Treasury Department has been getting about $700 worth of dimes from the White House daily. The White House sends the dimes to the Treasury instead of simply depositing them in the anti-infantile paralysis fund account so that the coins may be examined for counterfeit. So far, no bum money has turned up. After being checked over by the Treasury people, of course, the dimes go to the bank.

SERIAL STORY NO TIME TO MARRY

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

CAST OF CHARACTERS JANET DWIGHT, heroine. She was engaged to handsome young architect LANCE BARSTOW, hero. Lance had great dreams for the future.

CYNTHIA CANTRELL, orphaned granddaughter of great-aunt Mary Cantrell. Still another dreamer was BARNEY MCKNIGHT, newspaperman. But Barney was more than a dreamer.

Yesterday, Janet finds that Tim Benton's generosity has saved her pride. After long absence Barney returns; he and Janet are caught in a fog, forced to sleep in his car.

CHAPTER XVIII Once Barney roused long enough to pat her arm and murmur a drowsy apology; then he promptly dropped off again.

Janet did not wake him until a brisk wind scattered the fog and made driving possible. It was almost daylight when they rode into town.

"If anyone sees us," Janet told him as they stopped before the Breckenridge, "you may have to make an honest woman of me."

"You can't scare me, Aunt Mary doesn't own a shotgun," Barney grinned. Then his grin twisted, and his eyes held hers almost defiantly.

"Of course this wouldn't make any difference to you," he blurted out, "but I can think of a lot of things I'd hate worse. Well, I guess you know your way in. I've got to run."

Before Janet could find words he had driven away. Of course it was just some more of Barney's nonsense. Nevertheless, she could not forget the way his eyes had searched hers.

Aunt Mary's door was closed when Janet stepped into the hall outside. Apparently she had gone to sleep and slept the night through.

Janet never knew why she opened the door and peeped inside. She did not understand at once, either, what it was about the appearance of Aunt Mary's room that struck chill to her heart, even before she had opened the door wide enough to see more than the small area of rug at the head of the bed.

Of course the bed lamp was burning; but Aunt Mary often slept with a light. Later, Janet remembered that it was the book on the floor. It was sprawled open, face downwards, with the leaves bent and crumpled.

Aunt Mary, who cherished her next of kin, could never have left a book lying like that. Yet she had.

A cold blast of air greeted Janet as she went in. The bed was empty. There was only a neat dent in the pillow.

ATTENDS COLLEGE MEET Marinette—Mrs. James F. Goodman, 1833 Riverside avenue, is in Yellow Springs, Ohio, to attend a meeting of the trustees of Antioch college which is being held today.

Antioch college at Yellow Springs, Ohio, is noted for its cooperative plan of education. Mrs. Goodman pointed out. A student alternates practical training for his career with class room study so that in graduating after six years he is fully established in his chosen field.

For most students these short work periods offer an acquaintance with a field of work so that they know what is really their choice. The great majority change their life aims after two years of trial.

The work emphasized at Antioch has always been the development of character and native ability. Most of the students' jobs only meet the expenses of their training period. The purpose is not to make money but to fit them for life. The ratio of employment of graduates is the highest in the country, Mrs. Goodman said.

He cracked several nuts, scanning her face covertly as he did so.

"Miss Dwight," he said finally, "I find myself in the unpleasant predicament of most people who talk too much. . . You see, I do read the society gossip. Used to read it aloud to my wife before she went on; and got the habit. . . I remember seeing something about your breaking your engagement. . . I hope—of course if I'd known who you were, I'd have kept my fool mouth shut that day."

"Oh, please," Janet cried quickly; "that was something I had a right to know. . . Things like that happen to be really important to me. When I broke my engagement, that was one of the reasons—but only one. . . Anyhow, all that doesn't seem to matter now," she finished.

"That's fine!" he said. As if glad to change the subject, he went on, tapping the newspaper on his knee. "There's a good deal in the news besides the doings of society these days. This now. Here's a young man who's done something no one else in this town's ever had the nerve to try."

As Janet glanced down, phrases leaped out at her from the page: "Beginning Monday. . . Series of articles. . . dramatic exposure. . . graft ring. . . exclusive story, by—"

"Why?" she cried. "But I know him well!"

So Barney was in town. He must be if his story had broken. And he hadn't even taken the trouble to call her up.

Member of Pioneer City Family Saw Rise of Munising

Munising, Jan. 27.—Aaron Adkins Powell, 74, Grand Island township resident, passed away at the Munising hospital early this morning following an illness of but a few days from pneumonia.

Mr. Powell was born February 11, 1864, at Powell's Point, west of this city, and had spent all of his life in this locality except for a few years during which he lived in Texas. He was a commercial fisherman and in his early youth attained considerable prowess as a hunter.

A grandson of Abraham Williams, trader who came to what is now Munising in 1840, he saw the rise and decline of Bay Furnace and the rise of Munising. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon from the Bowerman Funeral Home. Rev. Frederick T. Steen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. The body will be placed in the Maple Grove vault and later buried on Grand Island.

Orchestra Repeats For Birthday Ball

Munising, Jan. 27.—Chet Morton and his eight-piece orchestra of Escanaba will furnish the music for the annual President's Ball here on Saturday evening. Morton and his orchestra, who played at the birthday ball for the president last year, is well known here, also having played at other dances in the county. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock (EST).

A final check-up for the ball was made at a meeting of the ball committee held in the city hall here tonight. Tickets sales, it was reported, have been progressing satisfactorily and it is expected that a large crowd will attend the party.

Under the plans which the ball is conducted this year, fifty per cent of the proceeds will go to the national organization for the fight against infantile paralysis and the remaining fifty per cent will go to the local organization to be administered by a newly formed board for the treatment of local cases of infantile paralysis. The Legion club auditorium will be appropriately decorated for the occasion and present reports hold that all who attend will have an enjoyable evening.

FOREST FIRES ARE REDUCED

Railways Are Cooperating In Movement to Prevent Blazes

Lansing—When railroad executives reached the conclusion that "we can't make money hauling ashes" they helped establish a policy which has now set a new record low in forest fire cause. Once one of the most dangerous fire hazards in northern Michigan, the railroad locomotive has become one of the least dangerous. Completed figures summarizing causes of forest fires in 1938 show that only 42 fires originated from railroads last year, the lowest number of railroad fires in the history of the state. Reduction of railroad fires has been steady since 1927 when a conference was held at which the lack of profit in hauling ashes and the need for cooperation with the department of conservation was stressed. Before that one out of every three forest fires occurring in Michigan was caused by the railroads. The forest fire prevention conference resulted in a better understanding among railroad executives of the fire problem, and in willing cooperation with the department.

The benefits were noticed almost immediately. In 1928 railroad fires numbered only 258 as compared to 386 in 1927. A slight increase occurred in 1929 with 318 fires originating from railroads but since then the decline has been virtually unbroken, decreasing from 176 in 1931 to 104 in 1932, 126 in 1933, 81 in 1934, 47 in 1935, 101 in 1936 and 76 in 1937.

All locomotives operating in Michigan are inspected regularly by conservation department railway fire prevention inspectors, D. F. Weir in charge.

MANISTIQUE

FINE PROGRAM FOR TEACHERS

Outstanding Speakers To Be Here Tuesday for Institute

The Schoolcraft county teachers' institute will be held all day Tuesday, January 31, at the Manistique high school auditorium. The opening session will begin at 9:30 o'clock and the principal speaker will be Dr. Paul J. Misner, superintendent of schools at Glencoe, Ill. The chairman of the institute will be Ada Watson, county school commissioner. Dr. Misner will deliver two addresses at the institute. The first will be "The Teachers' Need for a Philosophy of Life" and the second will be "Re-Thinking the Fundamentals."

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, will also be one of the important speakers at the institute. He will discuss trends in modern education. The assistant superintendent of public instruction, G. R. Koopman, will discuss curriculum problems. George Gilbert, of Marquette, upper peninsula regional director for the state department, will discuss facts concerning the school income, and Dr. E. J. Brenner, director of the Alger-Schoolcraft health unit, will relate the problems of health from the school standpoint. The speaking program will be interspersed with musical entertainment, including selections by the Manistique high school music organizations and the Manistique Women's club ladies' octette.

The public is invited to attend any of the sessions and to hear any of the addresses on the program.

Pneumonia Often Caused By Lack Of Proper Treatment

BY DR. E. J. BRENNER A recent nation-wide health survey has revealed that, in eight large cities, acute respiratory diseases account for 40 percent of the disabling illness of children under 15 years old. Among those of pre-school age, pneumonia is responsible for 16 percent of respiratory disorders and for at least 18 percent of the deaths. Pneumonia represents an incidence and mortality from two to three times greater than in any other age group.

There can be little doubt that the ignorance or carelessness of parents or others charged with the child's care is frequently responsible for unnecessarily severe illness or death. Physicians report that the simple recommendations for their small patients' care are often disregarded. Instead of compelling the child to rest in bed, the parent will permit it to play about the house or even to join other children in their games. The presence of fever is regarded of little significance. Instead of a light diet, the child is persuaded to partake of the family's regular meals with the mistaken idea of quickly "getting its strength back." Instead of inducing the patient to take a larger volume of fluids daily, to prevent dehydration and flush the kidneys, the average intake is deemed sufficient.

If parents but realized how quickly the initial symptoms of respiratory disease became aggravated and how readily the so-called complications follow, the common cold would be more generally respected. Lobar and broncho-pneumonia follow swiftly in the wake of a neglected cold and in some sections of the country bring death to one in four of the children hospitalized.

Chief of the complications are disease of the middle ear, mastoiditis, lung abscess, dehydration and acidosis. The last results from insufficient food and, in one hospital series at least, was shown to have caused 72 percent of the deaths in this classification. Earache, fever, diarrhea, vomiting, breathing difficulty and cough must be regarded as grave symptoms. It is within the power of the physician to check the progress of these symptoms—but he must be summoned at their earliest appearance and his orders must be obeyed to the letter. To yield to the whims or pleadings of a restless, feverish child that it be allowed to resume its usual routine is, often to consign it to a severe illness and a long convalescence—or worse.

WAUSECA MINE SOLD

Iron River—Purchase of the Margaret B. May interest in the Wauseca, or Konwinski, mine by the Mineral Mining company is on record in the office of Mrs. Della Ehoquist, registrar of deeds. Mrs. May, widow of the late Joshua May, pioneer resident of Iron River, owned a tenth interest in the mineral fee, according to the deed given to the mining company, lease of the property, which has been idle for several years. Mrs. May moved to Sioux City, Ia., last summer. The documentary stamp in the register of deeds office indicates that the consideration was $5,000. Mrs. May owned an interest only in the mineral rights, which do not include the physical property on surface.

BOOSTS RAIL BUSINESS Houghton—A resolution designed to stimulate freight business for railroads whose payrolls are an economic factor in the community was adopted by the Hancock Chamber of Commerce at its noonday meeting in the Venice Cafe yesterday.

The resolution calls attention to the fact that one of these railroads, for which support in maintaining freight movements is asked, distributes an annual payroll of approximately $190,420 in this district. Of this amount, $48,000 is disbursed to employees of the line living in Hancock.

CCC TOURNEY BEING PLANNED

Boxing Championships at Manistique Considered for Early March

A CCC boxing tournament, to determine champions in each of the various weight divisions for the entire upper peninsula, will be held in Manistique late in February or early March. It was disclosed at a meeting here this week, in which a representative of the CCC district outlined the plans to local fight enthusiasts.

In the various CCC camps, tournaments are now being held to select camp champions in various weight divisions. These championships will meet in the upper peninsula championship tournament, at which only CCC boys will be eligible to compete. It is expected that there would be at least 40 bouts, and at least two days would be necessary for the competition.

A local committee has already been named to determine the possibilities of staging the tournament at Manistique. Lieut. Kirchner, of Camp Germfask, representative of the athletic director of the Fort Brady district which includes the entire peninsula, reported here Thursday afternoon that Manistique could have the tournament if the local committee desired it. If not, the tournament would be held elsewhere. Manistique was selected as first choice for the meet because of its central location for a majority of the CCC camps.

Net proceeds would necessarily be used for charitable purposes. Although the dates for the tournament have not been definitely fixed, the matches would have to be held on a week-end, Friday and Saturday. Tentative dates set for the tournament are March 3 and 4.

LYLE KANE, 23, SHOTS SELF

Body Found By Father; Brother Suicide 3 Years Ago

Lyle Kane, 23, committed suicide at the home of his father, Harry, here yesterday noon, his bullet riddled body being discovered by the latter when he returned from the neighbors. According to Sheriff John Hewitt and coroner Sven Johnson, who investigated, Kane had been living with his mother, who was estranged from her husband and yesterday morning went to the home of his father. The youth officials said, apparently shot himself with a 26.35 rifle but the bullet only pierced his chin and, after walking around the house, shot himself again. A trail of blood around the house indicated his actions. Three empty shells were found by the body.

The gun Kane used was the same one with which his brother, Harry, committed suicide three years ago, officials said. The youth is survived by his parents and nine brothers and sisters. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

STOCKS RALLY 1 TO 3 POINTS

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Buying forces took over today's stock market and drove leaders into a rally of 1 to 3 points generally with a few climbing as much as 5.

Wall Street was still a bit apprehensive over the possibility of an international eruption following the fall of Barcelona, but the feeling in some quarters seemed to be growing that a real war would be averted at this time.

In addition, some of the credit for reinstatement of commitments was given to the technical position of the market itself. After taking the worst beating this week since last September, most observers leaned to the theory the list was entitled to regain part of its lost ground, even if only temporarily.

Helpful also was the drying up in foreign selling of American securities which had been blamed for much of the late slump. In fact, commission houses with overseas connections reported a smattering of purchases from that sector today.

Transfers totalled 1,054,830 shares against 1,535,890 the day before when the trend was definitely downward.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks retrieved one full point of its 1.4 points drop of yesterday, finishing at 43.3. It was the best advance for this composite since December 29.

Prominent share gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Great Northern and Standard Oil of N. J.

Among the bright news spots were: Bethlehem's slightly better than forecast earnings statement; predictions of President Knudsen of General Motors that automobile production this year should top that of 1938 by at least one-third; buying of 18,000 tons of steel scrap by U. S. Steel subsidiaries at Pittsburgh, their first open market order for this commodity in more than a year; the president's plea to congress for an immediate appropriation of $50,000,000, mainly for new planes in the defense program, and estimates class 1 railroad revenues in December were almost double those for the same 1937 month.

Lockheed Aircraft ran up 2 3-8 in the curb on substantial turnover. Smaller gains were turned in by Electric Bond & Share, Niagara Hudson Power, American Gas & Electric and Creole Petroleum. Volume of 158,000 shares compared with 223,000 Thursday.

Joe Louis' Fists Rate Tops As Coin Makers

By WHITNEY MARTIN
New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—When John Henry Lewis took three drops before retiring as prescribed by Doctor Joe Louis, it made Doctor Joe perhaps the fastest money maker in prize fight history, figuring the return from time actually spent in battle.

In his title defenses against Max Schmeling and Lewis, the Bomber was in action a total of only four minutes and 33 seconds, and his wages for the two bouts totaled $386,035.

A little arithmetic shows Louis received $36,400 a minute, or $1,440 a second, indicating the ring may be just a square arena to the other fighters, but to Joe it is a diamond ring.

Gene Tunney received a record purse of nearly one million dollars for his battle with Jack Dempsey in Chicago, but the fight went the full 10 rounds, or 30 minutes, and Gene's payoff was at the rate of approximately $33,333 a minute.

Naturally the money received by Louis is not all velvet. Managers, trainers and general upkeep of a championship establishment take a nice chunk of the total, and the government gets its share without donning a glove, but there still is plenty left to go in the bank under the name of the front man.

Such amazing figures probably will send scores of adolescent youths into barns and musty gymnasiums, their eyes gleaming with dreams of fame and wealth quickly attained.

They turn their backs to another act of the ring drama which shows thousands of ambitious youths, starting with the same glowing ambition, slowly disillusioned as fleeting local fame fades, the big purses elude them, and once-handsome features begin to take on that twisted, scarred fold look which remains a trademark through life.

On the same sports page which carried a box listing Louis' earnings, as well as column upon column extolling the champion as the greatest of the great, was buried a small item.

It carried the information that one Emilio Solomon, 37, had suffered a stroke and had been removed to a hospital. It further identified Emilio Solomon as King Solomon, a heavyweight fighter.

King Solomon, whom we saw take an unmerciful beating at the hands of Bearcat Wright, and whom we later read had been dropped out of Jack Sharkey's training camp because he couldn't stand a sparring partner role, is just one of the thousands to whom the prize ring is just a brutal, precarious living.

For every king there are thousands of subjects who briefly bask in a gaudy glory, then fade from the scene.

BADGER LEAGUE IS NEW-COMER

Minors Going Strong, Says Promotional Director Carr

By FRITZ HOWELL
Columbus, O., Jan. 27 (AP)—Three new minor league loops were in the making today, boosting to 40 the number of bush leagues awaiting the start of the diamond sport's 100th season.

Joe F. Carr, promotional director of the minors, said the 37 circuits which operated in 1938 were ready to go again, along with the newcomers, and that two of the old leagues, the Arizona-Texas and the Ohio State, would expand from four to six-club loops.

The Pioneer League, composed of Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah; Pocatello, Lewiston, Twin Falls, and Boise, Idaho, is a newcomer for 1939, Carr said.

Other loops almost ready for the "play ball" call are the Wisconsin State and one made up of western New York and neighboring towns.

The Wisconsin State loop will include six or eight teams from Madison, LaCrosse, Wisconsin Rapids, Manitowish, Racine, Sheboygan, Green Bay, Appleton, Fond du Lac, Kaukauna and Oshkosh.

The other will be composed of teams representing Hornell, Wellsville, Olean, Jamestown, Niagara Falls, Lockport or Batavia, N. Y.; Bradford, Pa., and Hamilton, Ont.

On Sound Footing

Carr said minor league baseball was one of the fastest growing businesses in the country, and that it was on a sound footing now than ever before. In 1933, when Carr was named promotional director in an attempt to bolster the minor league field, only twelve circuits were in operation outside the majors. Each of the 37 leagues which started the 1937 campaign, 25 of them organized by Carr, completed the season.

"Minor leagues don't fold up like they once did," Carr said, "because we make certain that each has firm financial backing and civic support before we permit it to start. The last few years have been highly successful ones for the minors, much of the success being due to the fine administration of President W. G. Bramham of the Minor League Association."

At the start of the last period, officials called a foul on Sammy Schram, reserve Eskymo forward, and the poorly behaved crowd booed so much that a technical was called and Alford made both free throws to put the Soo into a 23-16 lead.

At this juncture, Alford committed his fourth foul and was forced to leave the game, Swanson scoring a free throw on the play. Seconds later, Cremer, Soo forward, was sent to the showers and Bennett scored a free throw on his foul, the first of seven consecutive points by Bennett.

With no more substitutes available, the Soo boys called time out to map their strategy, deciding on a box zone defense around the free throw line. With the crowd screaming and spectators rising and lunging, the Eskymos took numerous shots but always were hurried by some blue shirted opponent. Bennett broke away for a short shot, making the score 23-20 in favor of the Soo. For two minutes longer, the rapidly tiring Soo boys held off the Eskymos but Bennett again slipped in for a short shot bringing it to 23-22.

Scores Two Free Throws

A half minute later, McPherson, substitute, fouled Bennett in the act of shooting and the Eskymo center, who had been shifted back to guard, took his time and scored the tying and winning free throws. Soo took the ball down the court for an attempted shot but a pass was intercepted and the Eskymos controlled the ball the last minute and 20 seconds to win the ball game.

Although the Eskymos kept in the ball game all the way, Soo clearly had the upper hand, being behind only once during the game—that the final minute. The Blue Devils displayed a fine exhibition of one handed shooting, only one of their field goals being made with two hands.

In a preliminary, the Eskymo reserves beat the junior high school crew by 22-1.

RESERVES BEAT JUNIOR HI FIVE

Visitors Play Last Six Minutes With Four Men On Floor

Escanaba high school cagers eked out a 24-23 victory over the classy Soo Blue Devils in a thriller at the Junior high school gym but it was a hollow victory—the visitors played the last six minutes with only four players on the floor.

It was during the last six minutes that the Eskymos, or rather Ray Bennett, scored the seven points to win.

Coach Ray Altenhof's boys—one of the nicest high school teams seen on the local floor in several years—played their hearts out against heavy odds but the loss of Jimmy Alford, star center who scored nine points, with six minutes left to play and a lead of six points was too much.

In the first place, they came to Escanaba without their star defensive guard, Eugene Murphy, whose father was seriously ill and who was unable to make the trip. As he entered the gym last night just before the game, Coach Altenhof was handed a telegram from Foss Elwyn, Soo principal, saying that McKilligan, last year's regular center, was ineligible and was not to be used. That left Altenhof only two subs. Then, three minutes before the end of the third period, they lost Munting, regular guard on four fouls. They were leading by one point, 17-16, at the time. They immediately stepped out on two nifty field goals by Levin to bring the count to 21-16 as the period ended.

LITTLE GIANTS DEFEAT COOKS

Rock Scores Sixth Win of Year; Final Score Is 28 and 20

Rock, Mich., Jan. 27—Presenting a tough defense which kept their opponents with very few good shots, Rock high school cagers chalked up their sixth victory of the season here tonight, defeating the husky Cooks crew by 28-20.

In an interesting prelim, the Cooks girls defeated the locals by 19-16 but the local reserves defeated the visiting seconds, 27-11.

A tight man to man defense kept Cooks bottled up in the first quarter, Rock holding an 8-0 lead. Both teams scored four points in the second period, the half ending 12-4. With Cliff Carlson and Sutekla leading the way, Coach Cliff Buckmaster's boys ran up a 23-7 advantage by the end of the third period. With a liberal sprinkling of subs in the lineup, the locals permitted the visitors to score 13 points in the final period, while only making five of their own accord.

Carlson and Sutekla led in scoring for the locals with 13 and 10 points respectively while Carley led Cooks with 10 points.

HEMATITES NIP UPBAYS BY 18-15

Gladstone Puts Up Good Battle But Closing Rush Falls Short

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 27.—A totally unheralded Gladstone quintet gave Ishpeming cagers plenty to think about here tonight before falling before the Hematites by a score of 18-15 in an interesting game.

The Keilmens put on a closing seven point rush which threw the crowd in a frenzy but which was stemmed by the Watson crew in time to win the ball game—but before it was over, the locals knew they had been in a ball game.

Both teams played cautiously in the first period, the locals taking a 4-3 lead and stretching it to 10-7 at half time. An airtight defense in the third quarter kept Gladstone well away from the basket, the visitors scoring only a free throw in this frame while the locals were scoring four points to ring up a 14-3 advantage.

Fighting gamely, the Gladstone boys put on the pressure in the final period but just fell short of the desired goal.

Scoring on both teams was well divided. The game was clean, Ishpeming drawing eight fouls and Gladstone seven.

H'VILLE TRIPS DAGGETT, 25-7

Losers Without Point In First Half In Easy Game

Hermansville, Mich., Jan. 27—Holding their opponents without a score during the first half and scoring 12 points for themselves, Hermansville cagers had little difficulty in disposing of Daggett by a score of 25-7 here tonight to maintain their tie with Powers in the Menominee county league.

In a preliminary, the local seconds also won, 24-7.

The first quarter was close with the locals scoring only a field goal. They jumped into a 14-0 lead at half time, however, and then coasted into victory behind a stubborn defense which allowed only three field goals in the whole game.

Hermansville's scoring was well divided between several players with nine points scored by St. Juliana being tops for the evening. The game was exceptionally clean, only four fouls being called on the IXL team and seven on Daggett.

Hermansville will entertain Powers in the feature game of the league next Friday night.

Niagara Hockey Team To Play Here Tonight

The new indoor hockey rink at the exhibition building of the state fairgrounds will get its first official baptism under fire tonight at 8 o'clock when the Escanaba Hawks entertain the Niagara club, which was Wisconsin state champion last year.

Niagara has lost but one game since organized in 1935. They were nosed out last week 4 to 3 by Stambaugh. The Badgers have played baseball and basketball in Escanaba but this will be the first time their hockey team has appeared here and a capacity crowd is expected to see the game. Remembering their defeat last Saturday the visitors will be fighting to resume their usual winning streak. The Hawks on the other hand, have won their first two games and will give the visitors plenty of opposition. The locals eased up a bit on their practice last night after a hard week preparing for their week end double header.

Comparison of the two clubs shows that Niagara has averaged 5 points on their opponents to the locals four. The Escanaban invaders, on the other hand, have scored one point to the visitor's one and five tenths. The Hawks will use two teams—one composed of Hanson, center; Ottensman and Gorencham, wings; and Erickson and Johnson, defense. The other six include Nottle, center; Anderson and Belanger, wings; L. Johnson, Lequa and J. Gorencham, defense with Mileski, goalie.

Three hundred ring side seats have been set up, each giving the spectator a splendid view of the ice. Tickets for to-night's game will be available at the door. Students will be admitted at a special rate.

Sunday the Hawks will journey to Marquette where they will play the Shamrocks at 1:30. Gordon Rags, Gladstone, will handle the officiating.

MATHERS BEAT PIERCE, 40-25

Four Players Leave Via Foul Route In Rough Encounter

Munising, Mich., Jan. 27—With four players, two from each team, going to the showers via the foul route, Coach Bob Villemure's Munising quintet had little difficulty in disposing of John D. Pierce high school of Marquette here tonight, winning 40-25.

The first half was closely fought, Munising scoring eight points in each of the first two periods to lead 16-13 at half time but the Mathers stepped out to a 26-19 lead at the three-quarters post and went on to victory rather handsily.

Rousseau, Mather guard, led his mates on offense with 14 points while Lahti, Pierce guard, kept his mates in the running with his long heaves, scoring 10 points.

Seglund and Montcalm of the locals and Koski and Olson of the visitors were called out on fouls.

Defeats Stephenson By 25-15 to Continue Loop Leadership

Stephenson, Mich., Jan. 27—Coach Dubats' Powers five won their eighth consecutive victory of the season here tonight, defeating Stephenson by 25-15 to retain their tie with Hermansville for lead in the Menominee high school league.

There was little disputing that the visitors were the victors after the first few minutes of play. Fleetwood and Larson leading them to a 9-2 lead at quarter time. A tight defense held Stephenson without a field goal for the first half, Powers leading by 15-4 at the half way mark. They went on to win handsily.

In a preliminary, the Stephenson seconds won by a score of 17-10 over the visitors' reserves.

FORCES OF UAW GIRD FOR FIGHT

Faction Backed By CIO Prepares to Carry On Business

Detroit, Jan. 27 (AP)—The CIO-supported faction of the United Automobile Workers realigned its forces tonight to carry on union business during its battle for UAW control with a rival group led by Homer Martin.

R. J. Thomas, recognized by the CIO as "acting president," announced assignment of vice-presidents and board members and predicted there would be "no difficulty" for his group in carrying out contract negotiations with employers.

The Thomas faction is composed of board members "suspended" by Martin, the elected president, who subsequently was "impeached" by the same board members.

Claims of the contesting factions for control of UAW funds and records are due for a court airing tomorrow, when Circuit Judge Arthur Webster is scheduled to hear arguments on an injunction suit, but indications tonight were that the hearing would be postponed to permit attorneys to familiarize themselves with the case.

Also set for tomorrow is another meeting of members of the Detroit Plymouth local, who engaged in a riotous gathering last Sunday when contending factions clashed on an auditorium stage and police intervened.

state affairs committee. The senate transacted no business other than a resolution of sympathy for Senator D. Hale Bracke, Republican, Stanton, whose son died in a Grand Rapids hospital this morning.

Criticism of civil service came also from another quarter in the capitol. State Treasurer Miller Dunckel said he had created a new bookkeeping division, headed by Miss May Corbishley, to save the veteran head bookkeeper from dismissal for having flunked her civil service test.

He said she would be retained as a non-civil service employee, charging that "when old, trusted, capable and experienced servants of Michigan are thrown out of state employment because of civil service, it does not show a lack of efficiency on the part of the employe but shows something definitely wrong with the civil service commission."

COMMISSION ACTS

Lansing, Jan. 27 (AP)—The state civil service commission moved today to counteract dismissals of state employes by the Republican administration and held up its approval of various departmental changes which would increase the number of positions open to patronage.

The commission adopted a new rule which will automatically restore to the re-employment registers all employes dismissed without "assignment of specific reasons."

The rule was adopted after six employes of the state board of tax administration and approximately 60 employes of the auditor general's department were ordered restored to civil service status.

The six employes of the tax administration were restored when it was shown they had been dismissed before the civil service department was notified of the severances, as required by law. The auditor general's department employes were placed on the re-employment register because the commission said Auditor General Vernon J. Brown had first dismissed them for economy reasons, a procedure not allowed by law.

Employees may only be laid off for economy reasons. Brown had asked the commission to reinstate one of the 60 employes, saying he had made an "error." Personnel Director William Brownrigg reported the one employe could not be reinstated fairly unless all were.

Up to Attorney General George J. Burke, Ann Arbor, chairman of the commission, said he did not approve of dismissals unless specific reasons were cited. He and Brownrigg asserted the reason "for the good of the service," was not enough.

Assistant Attorney General Gaylord N. Bebout advised the commission that its action was legal. In connection with the creation of numerous positions in the unclassified service—to which political appointments may be made—Bebout explained an opinion of Attorney General Thomas Read saying such procedures were legal.

"We passed on the legality of the requests and left the commission to determine the facts," he said. "We said it was legal if, and when it is determined the change is not a subterfuge to get around the law."

The commission voted to study the legal opinions before approving the changes. Brownrigg explaining that he could not approve departmental payrolls affected until the commission had given its approval. The new Republican member, William A. Irving of Sandusky, objected, saying "I can't see holding up the payrolls as long as we will eventually follow the attorney general's opinion anyway. If anything goes wrong, it will fall back on the attorney general."

Dewey Wins Point In Second Hearing Of Tammany Boss

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—The defense in the second policy racket trial of James J. (Jimmy) Hines sought today to show that policy gambling had continued in New York City long after the indictment of the veteran Tammany district boss.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's main accusation against Hines is that for payments of $400 to $1,000 a week he afforded vital political "protection" for the numerous syndicate once dominated by the late gangster, Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, Flegenheimer.

Cross-examining Camille Monsanto, a policy game collector, Lloyd Paul Stryker, defense counsel, obtained from the witness an admission that he had paid—for another person—a fine in a policy case since the termination of Hines' first trial in a mistrial last September.

Dewey first attempted to prevent the introduction of the Monsanto testimony, but he sat back in apparent contentment when Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., observed from the bench: "I don't see what it has to do with the case in question."

During the day Dewey won two brushes with Stryker. In one instance, he was allowed to put directly into the record the testimony of Wilfred Brunder, a former Harlem policy "banker," descriptive of the mechanics of the game. In the first trial, the then presiding justice, Ferdinand Pecora, held Brunder's narrative had no legal place in the proceedings until after evidence had linked Hines himself with the alleged policy conspiracy.

In the second instance, Stryker unsuccessfully challenged the line Dewey took in offering evidence relating to the state's accusation that Hines "intimidated or influenced" certain judicial officers to dismiss cases against accused policy operators.

LOUIS-GALENTO BOUT IS BOOKED

New York Paper Says Heavyweights Will Tangle June 29

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Daily Mirror says Promoter Mike Jacobs today arranged to match heavyweight champion Joe Louis against Tony Galento for a title fight in one of the New York baseball parks June 29.

The Mirror says it learned from an authentic source that the fight was agreed upon today and that Jacobs plans to tie up Galento in a five-year contract in event he should win the title.

Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, already holds a five-year contract for Tony's services and in order to complete the arrangements it will be necessary to obtain a release from this Taylor some boxes for his Philadelphia shows as well as make cash payments for the release.

As a result of these negotiations, plans for a Louis fight in March have been abandoned. Galento, however, will carry out his tour, which includes matches in Detroit and Miami.

Joe Jacobs, Galento's manager, said that the deal had been "on the fire" for some time but that the definite date named by the Mirror was "all news" to him.

Negotiations for the match were being delayed, Joe explained, because Mike Jacobs didn't want to "take care" of Taylor in regard to his contract with Galento.

"But eventually he'll have to do it," Manager Jacobs added, "because that's the only fight that'll make any money."

TAYLOR HAS CONTRACT
Philadelphia, Jan. 27 (AP)—Associates of Promoter Herman Taylor said tonight a Joe Louis-Tony Galento fight for the heavyweight championship would have to be held in Philadelphia.

Taylor, who holds a five year contract for Galento's services, was not available for comment. Those close to him said the contract was "not for sale" but Taylor was willing to act as joint promoter of a Louis-Galento fight in the Municipal stadium here where the first Dempsey-Tunney fight was held.

Jacobs and Taylor were joint promoters of the Louis-Al Ettore fight here in September, 1936.

Detroit U. Whips Butler, 33 to 24

WORK RELIEF CUT APPROVED BY LONE VOTE

there was not at least one more late-comer, but there was not, and Senator Pittman, president pro tem of the senate (Vice President Garner stayed away) announced the result as 47 to 46.

Three Votes "Miscounted"
An uproar broke loose. There was a round of hand-clapping from the galleries and an excited outburst of conversation on the floor. Economyites slapped one another on the back, or reached over desks to shake hands.

Barkley and McKellar sat glumly still. Then, they pulled out their tally sheets and began fingering down them to see what had happened.

Those in close touch with the situation said their answer lay in the votes of Senators Davis (R-Pa.), Lucas (D-Ill.) and Reynolds (D-NC). All three had been counted on the administration side of the argument, although none had publicly disclosed his stand on the issue.

Davis, a close friend said, had considered supporting the larger appropriation because it had the backing of the American Federation of Labor. It was pointed out to Davis shortly before the vote, this informant said, that the entire Pennsylvania Republican side of the argument, although none had publicly disclosed his stand on the issue.

Strings Tied to Bill
Intimates of Reynolds said he made up his mind to vote against the administration several days ago, but had refrained from announcing his decision.

In addition to cutting the appropriation to $725,000,000, the senate appropriations committee added an amendment providing that should the sum prove insufficient, President Roosevelt might make a supplemental request for more money. As an inducement to senators who hesitated to enforce economy at the expense of the unemployed, it provided that not more than five per cent on the work relief rolls should be dropped during the cold weather months of February and March.

David Lasser, president of the Workers Alliance, a union of WPA workers, said his organization would demand that the house approve these amendments and would, later, request an additional appropriation.

He called the senate vote "a victory for the forces of entrenched reaction which will prove to be a boomerang."

The senate debate centered principally upon the number of WPA workers who would have to be dropped before the end of the fiscal year, on June 30, under the $725,000,000 appropriation and whether or not the estimates submitted by WPA and the president were correct.

Administration senators asserted that the $725,000,000 appropriation, unless supplemented later, would necessitate the discharge of two million WPA workers. Advocates of the $725,000,000 insisted that no more than a million workers need be dropped and estimated they would be absorbed by improving business, the arms program and public works program.

HOW THEY VOTED
Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—The vote by which the senate rejected today an administration effort to add $150,000,000 to the $725,000,000 relief bill:

FORDS ACCUSED AS LABOR FOES

Order by NLRB Scores 'Ruthlessness' of Motor Makers

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—The national labor relations board accused the Ford Motor company today of "unconcealed hostility" to self-organization of its employes and "utter ruthlessness" in its relations with organized labor.

This charge was made in a proposed order for the company to reinstate with back pay workers discharged at its big Dearborn, Mich. plant and to cease recognizing the Ford Brotherhood of America, Inc., as a representative of its employes.

Before the order is made final and enforceable by the courts, the company will have 30 days in which to file exceptions to the board's findings and present oral arguments.

The board's inquiry into the company's labor policies at the Dearborn plant was undertaken in 1937 upon complaint of CIO's United Automobile Workers union that the company was engaged in unfair labor practices.

In reporting that the company ceases recognizing the Ford Brotherhood, the board held that it was a "dummy" labor organization dominated and financed by the company.

Barber Slays Seft After Slashing Son For 'Mercy Killing'

Union City, N. J., Jan. 27 (AP)—Joseph Saluto, 50-year-old union city barber, killed himself with a razor today, Detective Sergeant John Little said, after critically wounding his 20-year-old paralytic son in what Little described as an attempted "mercy killing."

The son, Leo, crippled by infantile paralysis in childhood, was removed to North Hudson hospital in Weehawken after his sister, Angelina, 11, returned home from school to find her father dead, and Leo stumbling about the house screaming incoherently.

Hospital attaches said Leo was in grave danger of death from loss of blood. His throat had been cut with a razor.

Detective Little said the elder Saluto left a note addressed to his wife, Mary, in which he said: "I done this terrible thing because Leo's so sick."

Cartoonist Arno In Extortion Plot On Naughty Photo

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Debonair Peter Arno, the society caricaturist, who has been a central figure in many a cafe society incident, today found himself the center of an alleged extortion plot in which three men were arrested.

Arno caused their arrest after one of them, he said, approached him yesterday with an obscene photograph and indicated a reward was in order for its return.

The three men, held in $10,000 bail each, on charges of attempted extortion, gave their names as Paul Wickolm, 32, superintendent of an east side apartment house where Arno formerly lived; George Pussey 30, and John Wingate, 30.

Wingate, according to the formal charge, showed "an obscene photograph to the complainant, informing him it was a picture of him; and for a sum of money would turn the picture over to him to avoid any scandal."

Police said Wickolm told them after Arno vacated his east side apartment about a year and a half ago, the artist returned to burn some pictures and that Wickolm found one which escaped the flames.
