

CARDINAL PAGELLI IS POPE PIUS XII

NEW PONTIFF IS PICKED ON THIRD BALLOT

CHURCH RULER, 63, POPULAR CHOICE AT CONCLAVE

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Vatican City, March 2 (AP)—Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli was elected pope today and took the name of Pius XII on his 63rd birthday in one of history's shortest conclaves.

POPE PIUS XII

He became the 262nd pontiff, spiritual ruler of 331,500,000 Catholics and temporal sovereign of Vatican City just 20 days after the death of Pius XI, whom he served as papal secretary of state for eight years.

As papal secretary of state he went to the United States in 1936 and was received by President Roosevelt.

People fainted in the crush of 150,000 faithful who jammed St. Peter's Square to receive the benediction of the tall, thin and ascetic diplomat who was raised by his brother princes of the church to the vicarage of Christ.

It was a popular election accomplished in three ballottings within 24 hours after the 62 cardinals, the full membership of the sacred college, had been locked in secret conclaves.

Starts With Majority
How many votes he received on the first ballottings and how many on the last may never become known. But he is rumored to have received a majority at the outset which was carried to the required two-thirds in the subsequent tallies.

There in the Sistine chapel, still in secret, the ritual provided for the picturesque ceremony surrounding the acceptance by the pope of his election, the obedience of the cardinals and his appearance before the crowd massed in St. Peter's Square.

Ceremonial officers were admitted. They lowered the canopies over the chairs of all but Pacelli. The pope-elect was asked in Latin if he would accept and with his formal assent recorded he became pope in fact.

The pope was arrayed in the robes which had been provided in three sizes. Each of the 61 cardinals knelt before him, kissed his hand in sign of homage and was lifted to his feet and embraced and kissed by the pope.

Greets Multitude
Then the Fisherman's ring, symbol of St. Peter's heritage, was placed on his finger and withdrawn to be engraved with his name.

His Holiness was escorted to the balcony, where he appeared before the multitude of faithful and subsequently a second obedience by the cardinals was made in the Sistine chapel.

It was not until after the second obedience that the doors of the secret conclave, locked last night, were opened.

The three United States cardinals left the Vatican soon after the conclave was ended and withdrew.

In the Headlines From Washington
(Sy By The Associated Press) Senator Johnson (R-Calif) warned during senate debate on the administration's defense program that "insidious propaganda" was at work to lead this nation into war.

Before the senate banking committee, Senator Glass (D-Va) disputed Secretary Morgenthau's contention that there was need to continue President Roosevelt's broad monetary powers.

A house committee approved giving President Roosevelt authority to reorganize government departments.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee said "economic confusion and chaos" would result if the government continued piling up deficits. He proposed radical cuts in expenditures.

A committee representing the National Manufacturers association discussed taxes with Secretary Morgenthau and the general business situation with Secretary Hopkins. The views exchanged were not disclosed.

The administration was reported looking into the possibility of getting war materials not available in this country from war debtors as payments on the debts.

Thomas A. Rickert, head of the United Garment Workers Union, was appointed an American Federation of Labor representative on the committee to seek peace between the AFL and CIO.

MISS PERKINS MADE TARGET OF 'COALITION'

LABOR SECRETARY'S ACTIVITIES ARE REBUKED

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Washington, March 2 (AP)—Another "coalition" movement by anti-new deal Democrats and Republicans in congress is indicated, and this time the first woman member of a presidential cabinet, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, appears to be the target.

Whether the movement will attain serious proportions as the session proceeds or result in a further cabinet change is beyond prediction, President Roosevelt has shown a determination to stand firmly behind his chief new deal aides against every attack by party dissenters.

Yet he promoted former Relief Administrator Hopkins to cabinet rank at a time when Hopkins was the focal point of intra-party criticism over "politics-in-relief" charges.

That took Hopkins out of the direct line of political fire. It raises in the minds of political analysts a question whether some shift in duties for Miss Perkins might not result ultimately if Mr. Roosevelt became convinced that there was a widespread desire among congressional Democrats for a labor department change.

Constructed As "Slap"
The circumstances of the vote in the house concurring in senate action stripping the labor secretary of any "budgetary control" over funds voted for enforcement of the wage-hour act appear to be more significant than the Republican-sponsored impeachment move against her.

Any thought of taking a "slap" at Miss Perkins was repudiated by the author of the former motion, Representative Cochran, Missouri Democrat. He said the action entirely on the Administrator Andrews.

Yet Majority Leader Rayburn and Representative Woodrum, Virginia Democrat, warned their party colleagues that the vote would be construed as aimed at Miss Perkins.

Representative Cox, Georgia Democrat and critic of the administration, demanded to know whether Woodrum meant it would be a "vote of lack of confidence in the labor secretary." Woodrum replied it would be so construed.

Bridges Case Rankles
"Has the gentleman any doubt but that that would reflect the true attitude of the membership of the house?" Cox asked.

"I would not wish to say that," Woodrum answered. But the house voted, first by a standing vote, 122 to 105, then by tellers, 137 to 93, to confirm senate action and give Andrews exclusive control of wage-hour funds.

An undetermined number of Democrats joined the almost solid Republican strength in passing between the tellers although more than a hundred members, presumably mostly Democrats, did not appear for the vote.

Barnard, Republican Chief, Endorses Bill Aimed At Him

Lansing, March 2 (AP)—Edward N. Barnard, powerful figure in Republican politics, today endorsed the Eaton bill intended to strip him of much of his power.

Barnard canvassed the senate first, however, and said he learned the bill would be enacted. It would provide separate county conventions in each Wayne county congressional district, on the theory that it would be difficult for one man to control six simultaneous meetings in which more than 1,000 persons took part.

He speculated on the possibility that the plan might come in handy for politicians who wanted to use the congressional district machines to impose an influence on non-partisan elections in the city of Detroit.

He described the bill as "something I wanted to do for a long time," adding that he had refrained from sponsoring it himself because he believed his connection with it might arouse suspicion concerning its merits.

Barnard sought to convey an impression that he felt the bill would fall short of its purpose if it was attempted to clip his political wings.

Score Missing In Hotel Fire
Century-Old Building At Halifax Razed; Loss Set At $800,000

Halifax, Nova Scotia, March 2 (AP)—Four bodies were recovered and 35 other persons were unreported tonight following a fire which swept the century-old Queen Hotel causing damage estimated at $800,000.

The four charred bodies were removed from the still-smoldering ruins late today and firemen said two other bodies could be seen in the wreckage.

The authorities said they were unable to make an estimate of the dead until the ruins cool sufficiently to permit a search, possibly early tomorrow.

They pointed out that some among those listed as unaccounted for might have made their way to safety without reporting themselves. There were 117 persons in the building when the fire was discovered at 6 a. m.

The hotel register was destroyed.

Railway Retirement Board Distributing $7,800,000 Monthly

He declared that "all bridges in Michigan should be publicly owned as a part of our great highway, road and street system."

Bite Into Cheese May Trap Burglar

Police, armed with casts of the tooth marks, arrested a negro whose teeth they claimed fitted the marks.

Undertaker Held In Theft Ring; Stolen Safes Hauled In Hearse

Detroit, March 2 (AP)—An undertaker whose hearse, police allege, was used to transport stolen safes was arraigned today as an accused member of a ring of safe burglars which is charged with stealing $50,000 within less than a year.

The undertaker, Herbert Harbin, 35, stood mute on a charge of breaking and entering. Recorder's Judge George Murphy set his bond at $10,000 pending an examination March 9. He denied any knowledge of the ring's activities.

MARTIN FIRES ANOTHER PAIR IN UAW BOARD

FLANK MOVE OF CIO IS ANSWERED BY SUSPENSIONS

Detroit, March 2 (AP)—Suspension of two more members of the United Automobile Workers' executive board was Homer Martin's answer today to a move by his CIO-supported opponents to undermine the convention he has called to meet here Saturday.

Martin acted against Loren Houser of Detroit and Charles E. Madden of Pontiac, Mich., bringing to 17 the number of members of the original 24-man board whom he has suspended. The suspended majority in turn has moved to impeach him as president, setting his trial for Cleveland March 11.

Pickets Close Plant
Today's move came as a labor dispute unconnected with the UAW factional strife closed the Chrysler Corporation's Dodge forge and truck plant, throwing about 1,400 men out of work. Dismissal of two workmen who occasionally change dies on their machines and who demanded tool-makers' pay rates led Wednesday to a strike of 100 fellow unionists and today pickets kept the plant from opening.

Suspension of additional executive board members by Martin had been expected since the CIO faction announced that five suspended members planned to meet Friday and "call off" Saturday's Martin convention.

The CIO-recognized faction headed by R. J. Thomas as acting president will hold a convention March 27 at Cleveland.

"Believed of Duties
Telegrams to Houser, former secretary-treasurer of the Martin faction, and to Madden failed to give any reason for their suspension. These were notified namely that they are "immediately" relieved of all duties.

The action assured Martin of a majority among the seven members of the board who have not been suspended by Martin.

Martin headquarters announced today that two-thirds of the UAW members in General Motors Corp. plants will be represented Saturday by delegates "elected in regular meetings."

CIO faction leaders said that of 22 persons named on chief committees for the Martin convention, 12 were from locals which had voted to attend the CIO meeting, had taken no action or had been suspended by the executive board.

CLAIMS RECORDS TAKEN
Lansing, March 2 (AP)—Floyd Ryan, president of the Fisher Body local of the United Automobile Workers Union here, charged today that elements in the union favoring Homer Martin, elected national president, had taken possession of the records of three locals favoring the anti-Martin forces in the U. A. W. A. internal controversy.

Walter Gries Offered Wardenship At Jackson

WALTER F. GRIES

Jackson, Mich., March 2 (AP)—Joel R. Moore resigned today as warden of the state prison of southern Michigan, effective March 31, and Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald announced that he had asked Walter F. Gries, of Ishpeming, who was warden of the Marquette branch prison under the previous Fitzgerald administration, to succeed Moore.

Gries is to reply Monday and upon receiving a favorable reply the governor said he would recommend to Hilmer Gellein, director of the department of corrections, that the appointment of Gries be brought before the corrections department.

Moore, who resigned as superintendent of the federal probation system to accept the wardenship under Governor Frank Murphy, said he was quitting in deference to the wishes of Governor Fitzgerald, with whom he conferred yesterday in Lansing.

He said his future plans were undetermined. Recently, however, informed persons at Washington predicted that Moore would return to the federal probation service or the federal prison system under appointment from Murphy, now United States attorney general.

Moore made public his letter of resignation, addressed to Hilmer Gellein, director of the department of corrections. It said: "This resignation is given of my own free will. As you know, I have stated publicly and informally in writing to you that although I have civil service status, I do not wish to make a contest to retain the position. I choose rather to yield agreeably to the wishes of the governor. The method of submitting my resignation and the effective date of same were arrived at in conference with Governor Fitzgerald yesterday."

Moore, born on a farm near Moscow, Mich., was assistant chief of the probation department in Detroit when he joined the federal probation system in 1928. Murphy, as a recorder's judge in Detroit, became familiar with his work in rehabilitating law violators, and he appointed Moore prison warden March 24, 1937. Moore was appointed assistant director of the corrections department July 27, 1937. He also resigned from that position today.

DR. SNOW MADE FAIR MANAGER

Increase In Livestock and Agricultural Premiums Voted

Lansing, March 2 (AP)—The board of managers of the Michigan State Fair voted here today to increase premiums given all agricultural and livestock exhibits "at least 25 per cent."

John B. Strance, state commissioner of agriculture and chairman of the board, said fair premiums had been reduced approximately 50 per cent during the depression years.

The board accepted the resignation of Frank N. Isbey, as manager of the fair and appointed Dr. Linwood W. Snow of Northville, who previously had been nominated for that position by Governor Fitzgerald. Strance said Dr. Snow would receive $5,000 a year, plus expenses, although Isbey drew no salary. Dr. Snow was given authority to hire "all necessary employees," which was taken to mean he would accept the governor's "appointment" of Robert Buckley of Bad Axe as executive secretary, a newly created position.

In a brief address, the governor told the board members he wanted agricultural exhibits at the fair re-emphasized, and desired that the fair grounds be used the year around.

Steamer Alabama To Cruise Lakes, Make Isle Royale

Buffalo, N. Y., March 2 (AP)—Officials of the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit company announced today that the chartered passenger steamer Alabama would make seven-day, round-trip cruises between Buffalo and Duluth this summer.

The first trip will leave Buffalo July 1. Schedule stops will be Cleveland, Detroit, Mackinac Island, Sault Ste. Marie and Isle Royale.

King And Queen May Visit The Quintuplets

Toronto, March 2 (Canadian Press)—Speculation on the possibility that King George and Queen Elizabeth might see the Dionne quintuplets during the royal visit to Canada next May was revived today after a conference among Mitchell Hepburn, Ontario premier; Gordon Conant, Ontario attorney-general; Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo and Percy Wilson, guardians of the quintuplets, yesterday.

It was understood the guardians discussed the royal visit.

Senate Votes Usual Budget For Publicity

Lansing, March 2 (AP)—The senate passed the first appropriation bill of the legislative session today, voting 23 to 8 to continue a $150,000-a-year allotment for advertising Michigan, after a bitter floor fight in which economy pledges were the issue. The measure now goes to the house of representatives.

FITZGERALD URGES SPEED FOR HIS LABOR BILL

Senator Otto W. Bishop, Republican, Alpena, proposed an annual appropriation of $200,000 in the bill as it was introduced weeks ago. The additional $50,000 was intended to subsidize advertising of Michigan agricultural products. In addition to the state's regular program of publicizing tourist and resort attractions.

Back to 1937 Level
Senator Earl W. Munshaw, Republican, Grand Rapids, led a fight to reduce the appropriation and yesterday the senate, in committee of the whole, agreed to his amendment fixing the figure at $250,000 for two years. Today, Bishop, with the united support of the senate's nine Democrats, forced through an amendment restoring the appropriation to the level approved by the 1937 legislature.

As the measure was passed, it provided $25,000 a year for each of the state's four tourist and resort associations, $25,000 for the advertising of Michigan farm products and $25,000 for a campaign of tourist and resort advertising under the direction of the administrative board.

"Moron Law" Proposed
The senate rejected a proposal of Senator Joseph A. Baldwin, Republican, Albion, to reduce the appropriation to $160,000 for the biennium. Baldwin called upon Republican members to rally to the support of Governor Fitzgerald's campaign pledge of a balanced budget. Bishop replied that the advertising fund represented an "investment" rather than an expense, since increased resort revenues would mean more tax revenues.

A bill to consolidate state accounting under the auditor general also received senate approval and was sent to the house. The vote was 30 to 0.

Bills introduced today would provide a new "moran law" for the segregation of sex deviates to replace a 1937 act which the supreme court held unconstitutional, and regulate installment sales.

DELAY IRKS GOVERNOR
Lansing, March 2 (AP)—Governor Fitzgerald squelched attempts by a group of Republican legislators to hold the administration's industrial relations bill in a house committee until after the April 3 election.

"This is a bill we ought to go out and get elected on," the governor declared as he dispatched messages to the chairmen of the house and senate labor committees asking them to release the measure as soon as they have completed its revision. Legislative (Continued on Page Two)

France Names Franco's Envoy

Paris, March 2 (AP)—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who taught Generalissimo Francisco Franco many years ago at France's war college, was named ambassador to nationalist Spain today in the hope he would win his former pupil away from Italian and German influence.

The appointment of the 82-year-old World War hero, leader of the defense of Verdun, coincided with a new French effort to bring the 31-month-old civil war to an end with unconditional surrender of the Spanish republicans.

Cooperation with the nationalists to close French ports to shipments of all supplies to republican territory was one of the first evidences of pressure on the Madrid regime.

The French action served to illustrate a declaration to the chamber of deputies' foreign affairs committee by Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet that France and Great Britain were working to give nationalist Spain a quick victory while Italy seemed to desire continuation of hostilities.

An explanation of this paradoxical situation was advanced by official assertions that the Fascists wished to keep their troops in Spain as a threat to France while the two western democracies were assured by the nationalists that the Italians would leave immediately the conflict ended.

'SECURITY TAX' RACKET BARED

Two Men Collect From Disorderly Houses Around Detroit

Detroit, March 2 (AP)—Two men charged with impersonating federal officers were depicted at their trial today as having collected "social security taxes" from operators of more than 200 disorderly houses in Wayne and Macomb counties.

The defendants are James H. Reynolds and Jack Campbell, both of Detroit.

William B. Lory, federal bureau of investigation agent, read to a federal court jury statements made by the two in the Detroit FBI office when they were arrested last September.

Campbell and Reynolds were quoted as saying they had sold social security record books and accepted fees for assistance in making out returns. Campbell's statement said, "We never told them we were government men, but I can see how they might have gotten that impression."

They were quoted as saying that a Mt. Clemens woman they called on directed them to her attorney, Ivan A. Johnston, now Macomb county prosecutor. On cross examination, Lory testified that Johnston had said he sent checks to Campbell and Reynolds for tax payments in belief they were federal agents "on the muscle" and that he considered it advisable to settle with them "because his clients were engaged in an illegal business."

No. 182, had taken equipment owned jointly by the four Lansing locals and had moved them, with the records, a newly-rented headquarters.

Ryan said locals in the Reo Motor Car Company, Olds Motor Works and Fisher Body plant here had voted to oppose Martin, and that local 182 was the only pro-Martin local in the city.

Dewey Mariett, secretary of Local 182, confirmed the statement that the office had been moved, but would not comment further. Lester Washburn, regional director of the UAW for western Michigan and leader in the pro-Martin forces here, was in Detroit and no other member of the Martin faction would comment.

Ryan said the move was made "about 2:30 o'clock this morning" and that Local 182 had "taken lock, stock and barrel with them." He said the anti-Martin locals had not decided what action to take.

BIG DEATH TOLL IN JAP TRAGEDY

Arsenal Explosion Razes Homes of 10,000; Real Cause Not Known

Tokyo, March 3 (Friday) (AP)—While crews of firemen toiled through still smoking ruins at Hirakata today, seeking to establish more definitely the death toll of Wednesday's explosion of the Army Arsenal, a corps of Army experts opened an investigation of the blast.

Only 22 bodies had been found but 163 persons still were missing. The known deaths were expected to increase, for 62 of the 550 injured were in serious condition.

While an unofficial preliminary report said a careless worker started the series of blasts by dropping a bomb on a pile of gun-powder, War Minister Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki told Parliament yesterday that "the cause is not yet clearly known."

Temporary shelters at Osaka and other cities near Hirakata were set up for 10,000 of the stricken town's 27,000 population. A large part of Hirakata was devastated by the blasts and ensuing fires.

Dodd Is Fined $250 In Hit-and-Run Case

Hanover Courthouse, Va., March 2 (AP)—Former Ambassador William E. Dodd was fined $250 and costs in Hanover Circuit Court today after he changed a plea of innocent to a plea of guilty on a hit-and-run driving charge.

The 69-year-old defendant, who served four years as Ambassador to Germany, was accused of leaving the scene of the accident Dec. 5 when Gloris Grimes, 4-year-old negro, was struck and critically injured by an automobile near here. A $25,000 damage suit filed against Dr. Dodd on behalf of the child will probably be set for hearing at the next regular term of court beginning March 20, court officials said today.

Judge Frederick W. Coleman, in passing sentence, said he was taking into consideration the condition of the defendant's health in not imposing a jail term.

BUREAU PLAN SUCCESS Marquette—Success of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau's associate membership plan, started several weeks ago, is assured, George F. Bishop, secretary-manager, said yesterday.

"More than 150 persons in various parts of the peninsula already have accepted the Development Bureau's invitation to become associate members and we expect several hundred more," Bishop said.

"The response has been most gratifying," he added, "and more than confirms the board's action in adopting this plan to strengthen the bureau's active membership and to give the organization additional financial support to carry on a broader and stronger program."

The Development Bureau decided to offer associate memberships for a $5 annual fee in the belief that hundreds of small business men in the upper peninsula, who benefit from the bureau's effort to attract tourists and recreation seekers to this area, would like to cooperate with and assist the organization.

WILL ATTEND PARLEY Marquette—Louis Sauthette, superintendent of the Cherry Creek state fish hatchery, who has supervised the planting of millions of trout and other game fish in the upper peninsula, will go to Lansing next week to attend a special conference of hatchery executives.

NEW PONTIFF IS PICKED ON THIRD BALLOT

to their Rome residences. Cardinal O'Connell and Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia were staying at separate hotels while George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago was at the College of St. Mary of the Lake after the elevation of Cardinal Pacelli.

Precedent Broken His quick election broke several precedents of recent conclaves. It came in one day; it was in the afternoon; it placed a native Roman at the head of the Roman Catholic church; and it was broadcast.

Not since 1721, when Innocent XV was elected, has the College of Cardinals made a Roman the pontiff of the Catholic world.

Vatican prelates and Italians alike expected Pius XII, a member of a noble Roman family long prominent in church affairs, to carry on in many respects the policies of Pius XI.

But many also expected the new pope to show an even wider acquaintance with world affairs in his actions and pronouncements.

Not only has he visited the United States, but he went to South America in 1934—as papal legate to the 32nd international Eucharistic Congress in Buenos Aires—and he was expected to seek diplomatic relations with the former and give fatherly attention to the spiritual needs of the latter.

His policy toward Nazi Germany, however, will be watched with the greatest of interest. It is with that country perhaps that Vatican relations are least satisfactory.

Familiar With Germany He is all the more familiar with Germany for having been papal nuncio in Germany during the latter part of the World war and afterward and for negotiating the concordat of 1929.

In dealing with Reichsfuhrer Hitler on the treatment of Catholics in Germany, Pius XII was expected by foreign observers to exert the vigor of his comparative youth—though 63 he is well under the average age of the cardinals.

But he is known as an astute diplomat and there are many who say he has talents qualifying him to restore better relations not only with Germany but with Fascist Italy, which was accused by his predecessor of wounding the Lateran accord of 1929 by its racial policy.

The 27 foreign cardinals, among whom are three from the United States, generally were believed to have brought about his election, showing such a united front for him that Italians quietly fell in line to give him the necessary majority.

And the foreign cardinals were considered by many lay observers to favor democratic tendencies, rather than those of dictatorship.

This was held especially true of the Americans, among whom George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago has been an outspoken critic of Adolf Hitler, and the French, whose people are faced with demands on their territory by Fascists.

Although the new pope has not yet chosen his coronation date, he is expected to select Sunday, March 12, which happens to be St. Gregory's day in the Catholic calendar.

There were some, however, who thought that arrangements might be speeded up so the papal throne with its three gold crowns could be placed on his head next Sunday.

CHURCH LEADERS PLEASED Detroit, March 2 (AP)—The Most Rev. Edward Mooney, archbishop of the archdiocese of Detroit, said in a statement today that Pope Pius XII was a Catholic leader who would continue "in the spirit" of Pius XI.

"The Catholic world will hail with joy the election of the new pope," Archbishop Mooney said. "There will be confidence, too, that he will carry on in the spirit of Pius XI, with whose providential work he has been so closely associated."

HAS MODERN VIEWS Vatican City, March 2 (AP)—A diplomat, inquisit, humanitarian and canon lawyer, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, elevated today to the papacy, was expected by churchmen to follow the policies of his predecessor in fundamental matters but to bring a certain freshness and more modern views to the church.

Having spent time in both North and South America, he probably has the best knowledge of those continents of any Pope.

Since he used airplanes frequently as Cardinal, many believed the possibility was not excluded that he might, do as Pope, thus becoming the first flying pontiff.

tion in February, 1901, he was given a minor office in the Papal secretariate of state by Pope Leo XIII. In 1912 he was named under-secretary of state. This post he held until 1917.

In April, 1917, in the midst of the World War, he was sent to fill the place of the Papal nuncio at Munich, Bavaria, who had just died.

Monsignor Pacelli reached Munich in May, 1917, and the next month had an important conversation with Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg on Germany's aims in the war. The Kaiser later received him at his general headquarters at the front. Pacelli delivered to the Emperor a letter from Pope Benedict XV in which the pontiff begged the Kaiser to use his every effort for peace even if it meant that Germany had to make some sacrifices. The pontiff also asked the Kaiser to use his influence to end the deportations of Belgians to work in Germany.

Negotiated Concordat The nuncio made long and careful reports on his interviews, and these may have formed some of the background for Benedict XV's famous effort of August 1, 1917, to mediate between the central powers and the allies.

After the war he remained in Germany and went through the trying days of the post-war reconstruction. In 1919 he showed great courage when a group of spartacists, with revolvers aimed, rushed into the Nunciature. Pacelli, wearing the purple of a bishop, met the revolutionists with quiet courage, unflinchingly told them they were in an embassy privileged by international agreement and warned them against harming a foreign diplomat. The spartacists, abashed, left him in peace.

In these years Pacelli won the esteem and gratitude of the Germans for the work he did on behalf of the people in the Ruhr.

At that time, too, he negotiated a concordat between the holy see and Bavaria.

In 1920 Pope Benedict XV named him Nuncio to the new German Republic, but he did not leave Munich until 1924 to take up his residence in Berlin.

At Berlin Pacelli became the Dean of the diplomatic corps because of the fact that he was the first envoy plenipotentiary accredited to the new German Republic. He won a name for himself because of his tact and knowledge of languages.

Experience Big Asset It was in Germany at this time that he first began to make such frequent use of the airplane. Whenever there was a Catholic convention in any part of Germany he was always sure to be there, and to get there by plane.

Officially Germany remembers him well for the annual speeches he used to make on the occasion of the presentation of New Year's greetings by the diplomatic corps to President Von Hindenburg.

He spoke in excellent German, always with world peace as the kernel of his address.

The climax of his work in Germany was the negotiation and signing of a concordat between the Holy See and Prussia, July 14, 1929.

Pope Pius XI called him back to Rome after 12 years in Germany and awarded him the Red Hat December, 1929. February 7, 1930, the Pope named him papal secretary of state.

As papal secretary of state Pacelli had a busy career. He negotiated accords with many nations, including a new one with Germany and another with Austria. His problems were tremendous, and all called for the rarest of diplomacy.

He had to deal with the rise of Hitler's Nazis and their coldness toward the Catholic Church in Germany and the desire of some of them to develop a national church based on the old German worship of Thor. Although relations between the Vatican and Germany were many times at the breaking point, Cardinal Pacelli always managed to ease things over.

He had to face repeated revolution in Spain and finally the Civil War.

He had innumerable troubles in Mexico and with Soviet Russia.

Since a Pope must keep in close contact with all the principal nations of the world and know international politics, Pacelli's long experience in papal diplomacy should prove an invaluable asset.

TWO POSTS VACANT Vatican City, March 2 (AP)—The naming of two new cardinals for the United States is considered as possibly one of the early actions of Pope Pius XII.

The new pontiff will call his first consistory soon to fill some, at least, of the vacancies in the college of cardinals. One of these vacancies resulted from the death of Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York last September 4, and another from his own election as pope today.

Appointment of a new archbishop of New York, a seat vacated by the death of Cardinal Hayes, was expected to receive the early attention of the pope.

Vatican circles consider Monsignor Stephen Donahue, auxiliary bishop of New York, an outstanding candidate for the post. He has been in charge of the New York diocese since Cardinal Hayes' death.

Others mentioned are Monsignor Edward Mooney, archbishop of Detroit; Monsignor Francis J. Spellman, auxiliary archbishop of Boston, and Monsignor John T. McNeolas, archbishop of Cincinnati, Ohio.

21,500,000 U. S. Catholics The three American Cardinals, O'Connell, Dougherty and Mundelein, attending the conclave for the first time as a full group, would have an excellent opportunity to inform the new pontiff of the feeling of many Catholics in America that he should give them wider representation in the college.

The last American, George Cardinal Mundelein, was elevated to the Purple on March 24, 1924. Since then United States Catholics have increased by some 3,000,000 to 21,500,000.

The United States within recent years has continued to be the largest supporter of the church in money, and has become known as a bulwark of religious freedom under democracy. There the church has none of the difficulties it has experienced in Germany and even in Italy.

Some prelates thought the new pope might call his first consistory for June.

Since the election of the new pope creates a further vacancy in the college of cardinals, making it number only 61, the pontiff could appoint nine new cardinals. The maximum is seventy. He is not required to fill the college to capacity.

When new cardinals are created, a majority are expected to be Italians. Two names have been proposed in the Italian press—Monsignor Francesco Borgognini-Duca, apostolic nuncio to the court of King Vittorio Emanuele, and Monsignor Ernesto Ruffini, secretary of the Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities.

Of the living cardinals at the time of Pius XI died, 35 were Italians and 27 were of fifteen other nationalities.

Leaders said the bill would be released to the floor of the house next week.

"I am somewhat disturbed on hearing reports that an attempt is being made to delay action on this measure because of fear of possible political consequences," the governor's message read. "I am sure the majority of the legislators agree that the people of Michigan look to them to act upon this vital issue without unwaranted delay."

"We worked earnestly and long to evolve a plan which we sincerely believe guarantees fairness and protection to workers, employers and to the public at large. No problem involving so many conflicting elements can be solved to the entire satisfaction of everyone concerned. Nor can it be said that any program offered would be a perfect one. But through open hearings, frank discussion and the mutual exchange of ideas we can, I believe, work our way to an agreement based upon the fundamentals of this bill."

"The right of workers to work, of industry to produce, and of the people at large to enjoy the benefits of industrial peace and prosperity transcend any political considerations, as we all know, and for that reason permit me to urge you to act on this bill as soon as possible."

The governor declared in an interview that "we mustn't be lulled into a belief that labor troubles are over just because they are quiet now."

He said the fact both employers and employes have voiced objections to the measure was an indication of its fairness. He said it was "not aimed at sit-down strikes—they won't occur again."

SUGAR BOARDS PUT ON 'SPOT'

Beet Committees Likely to Have Trouble in Allotting Acreage

BY D. L. RUNNELLS
Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has put 13 district sugar beet committees on 13 tough spots in Michigan agriculture. The committees are certain to have a hot time if farmers' requests for sugar beet acreage exceed the secretary's allocations for the districts.

Everything is expected to be as sweet as honey so long as the requests for acreage stay within the allotments. Little adjusting or apportioning of acreage then will become necessary. The committees' duties will be largely routine.

"Old" Growers Become "New"
Reports from the sugar belt, however, indicate the requests to grow beets already are so large that the acreage must be apportioned according to the formula prescribed by the secretary in his recent determination. The committees are directed to calculate a farm's proportionate share of the acreage upon the basis of the average acreage of sugar beets planted on the farm during a period of not less than three years nor more than ten consecutive years.

Most committees are expected to determine their district allotments on the basis of 1936, 1937 and 1938 plantings. Many farmers, who want to raise beets this year, although they have produced sugar at one time or another in the last 10 or 20 years, they are classed as "new" growers under the allotment formula and their proportionate share of the 1939 crop will depend upon how many acres are available to allot after all the "old" growers, who grew beets in 1936, 1937 and 1938, have received their allotments.

Fear "New" Grower Criticism
The committees are fearful some prominent farmers, who have no recent sugar beet history to support their request for acreage, may criticize the committees, denounce the sugar program, charge political discrimination and make presidential campaign material if they don't get what they want.

All this has been foreseen by the sugar division of the United States department of agriculture, but under the provisions of the 1937 sugar act as enacted by congress, allotments become necessary whenever domestic production exceeds continental quotas. The 1938 quota was exceeded by approximately 200,000 tons in 1938 when the crop was the largest since 1935.

No Limit, No Bonus
"If the growers want protection against unlimited shipments of sugar into continental United States and want government sugar payments, they should be willing to limit their acreage within the reasonable limits specified by congress in the sugar act," advises C. R. Orvitt, north central field agent of the sugar division, in a statement to the district committees.

With the average government payment for 1938 beets estimated at $2 a ton and beans only worth $1.65 to $1.75, a hundredweight, the sugar crop has sweetened up many old growers who want to be new producers and get their hands in the nation's sugar barrel next fall. The district committees fear they may have difficulty finding a way to permit them to get near enough to the sugar barrel to dip into it.

Found Tut's Tomb

ASSOCIATED PRESS HOWARD CARTER

London, March 2 (P)—Howard Carter, 66, Egyptologist and discoverer of the treasures of King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, died tonight at his London home.

It was said of Howard Carter that he spent half his life in the bowels of the earth.

His career was a long series of Egyptian excavations and discoveries which threw new light on obscure pages of ancient history and made Carter widely known as one of the outstanding archeologists of the twentieth century.

What was regarded as the climax of his professional life was his discovery in 1922 of the tomb of King Tut-Ankh Amen. It was during the reign of that youthful Pharaoh of Egypt, some writers have recorded, that Moses led the Israelites through the Red Sea, and the finding of his tomb aroused a popular interest throughout the world.

Mr. Carter made his great find after nine years of patient searching in the valley of the Tombs of the Kings. His excavations finally brought to light the mummy of the boy king, lying in a nest of three coffins, the innermost of which was of pure gold.

There also were discovered hundreds of objects entombed with the mummy, the splendor of the whole thing being such as to almost baffle description. Besides priceless jewels and ornaments, the objects included inscriptions and drawings which have proved of incalculable value in Egyptology.

Many Interested In Smelt Fishing

Mrs. Jeanne Mickelson returned yesterday from Chicago, where she represented the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree at the Boat and Sports Show at the Navy Pier. She and Mrs. Harold P. Lindsay, who also attended the exposition, will return today.

Mrs. Mickelson reported that there were many inquiries about the smelt runs in this section, and that a large number of jamboree folders were distributed. She appeared in a radio program from Station WAAF, where she was interviewed by Harry Creighton.

WILL INSPECT WATER PLANT

Citizens Advisory Body Solicits Inquiries About Project

Members of the citizens' military advisory committee will go to the municipal water plant at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon to make a general inspection as the first step in the procedure of considering the advisability of the city administration's proposal for the construction of a new plant.

The committee members report that a considerable number of questions have been asked by citizens concerning various aspects of the water plant project. Fred J. Earle, chairman of the committee, states that the group is always glad to receive these inquiries, and that an effort will be made to give the entire community the benefit of the answers to these questions through the medium of publicity.

Any persons desiring to appear before the committee and express their views either for or against the proposition are asked to register with John Nicholas, the secretary of the committee.

Among the questions being asked are:

Would it be worthwhile to merely repair the present water plant?

Would the additional cost involved in changing the location of the plant to the north shore be offset by such benefits, as protection of the harbor for fishermen's boats, a dock for larger yachts and passenger excursion boats, and improvement of facilities for the central heating system, as would be offered at the proposed site?

Would a water plant on the north shore detract or enhance the appearance of this waterfront area?

In the water plant, in its present condition, a menace to public health.

May Reduce Fund

An amendment to the administration's state advertising bill has been introduced in the senate by Senator Earl W. Munshaw of Grand Rapids, proposing that the biennial appropriation of $400,000 be reduced to $250,000. This would be $50,000 less than the 1937 legislature's appropriation for the two-year period.

The 1937 legislature provided for $150,000 to be spent annually for tourist advertising. The sum of $100,000 was allocated to the four tourist associations to assist them in advertising their respective regions, while the $50,000 additional was used for an all-state campaign in the national magazines. It also provided for the maintenance of a state tourist bureau at Lansing, with Norman H. Hill, then secretary to Governor Murphy, as the director in charge.

The administration bill proposed an annual appropriation of $200,000. As before, $100,000 would be given to the four tourist associations, $50,000 would be used for an all-state advertising program, and $50,000 additional would be made available for promoting the sale of Michigan's agricultural products.

The Munshaw amendment would cut the farm advertising fund into half, and apparently eliminate the $50,000 for the all-state tourist program, which has been carried on during the past two years under the direction of Mr. Hill.

Those who are interested in the tourist business appreciated the value of the all-state advertising, which was placed in the well known magazines of national circulation. Other states are increasing their advertising funds, and are finding that it pays good dividends on the investment. It is hoped that the legislature will see its way clear to enable Michigan to maintain its position among the states bidding for the recreational business.

Labor Harmony Desired

The resolution adopted by the Escanaba Trades Labor Council, commending President William Green of the American Federation of Labor for his acceptance of the invitation extended by President Roosevelt to meet in a conference with C. I. O. representatives to bring about harmony in organized labor's ranks, is typical of the attitude of workmen everywhere.

It has been often pointed out that the rank and file of American labor is not so greatly exercised over the clash between the federation and the C. I. O. They have long earnestly desired that the two dissident factions get together and iron out their differences, realizing that organized labor must work together if it is to make any real progress. After all, if organized labor cannot get along with itself how can it inspire the confidence of the employers and the general public?

So to find the reason for the trouble between the opposing factions we must look to their leaders, who quite obviously for personal reasons have been blocking efforts to bring about harmony and cordial relations between the various unions.

While a settlement of the internecine dispute would be better for the cause of labor and the nation in general, it might be pointed out that it is also earnestly desired by President Roosevelt for political reasons. If labor peace is not achieved by 1940, the New Dealers will be considerably handicapped in the presidential campaign. Regardless of political fortunes, however, the cessation of warfare between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., it must be admitted, would be a good thing for the country.

Will They Collect?

With the military phases of the Spanish war largely over a new struggle begins.

First, the Franco regime must restore internal order, and must make some kind of concessions that will get for it at least the passive, if not the active, support of a majority of the Spanish people. Otherwise it can not govern.

The Spanish are a fiercely-proud and independent people, and it is highly unlikely that Franco can impose on it any such iron-shod discipline as that to which Germans and Italians submit. Probably in order to get any sort of co-operation at all from what has been Republican Spain, compromise measures will have to be taken.

Second, the struggle for influence with the new Franco government now begins in earnest.

The headlong rush of the British and French to recognize the Franco government, whether one agrees with this policy or not, has a clear intent. It is this: if those countries refused to recognize Franco and had no traffic with his government, he would turn exclusively to Germany and Italy for the reconstruction and future help which Spain now desperately needs under any regime.

Wisely or not, the British and French have decided that with Franco victorious in a military way, their best bet to salvage something from the wreckage is to recognize him, and by extending help, try to offset German and Italian influence in Spain.

World Affairs Reviewed

The indignant howls that have gone up in both Germany and Italy at this show that the move is not without possibilities.

Germany and Italy put up the men and the equipment with which Franco won his war. They naturally figure that any Spanish navy that is dished up ought to go to them.

Will it? That remains to be seen. Our own United States would quite probably have lost its war for independence had it not been for French men and ships who fought in the United States. The American army swarmed with volunteers who, through the American war, were striking at European enemies.

And yet 17 years after the Revolution, the United States was virtually at war with France, which had befriended her. National friendships forged in war are fragile, and Italian and German troops in Spain were not popular even with the Franco soldiers.

Germany and Italy have made their gamble, and won. But they have yet to collect the prize of political and economic advantages. Between the cup and the lip there may yet be a slip.

First Congress—and 76th

ABOUT this time, 150 years ago, the First Congress of the United States was in session. (The present one is the 76th.)

The session was held in the old Treasury Building at what is now the corner of Wall and Nassau streets in New York City.

So slight was the confidence of people generally in the new government, that one of that First Congress's hardest jobs was to persuade its members that it was worth while to attend at all. Only 13 members of the House and eight members of the Senate took the trouble to attend the opening session.

Today, when everybody is worrying about business conditions, it is interesting to note that one of the first things to be brought before the new Congress was a petition from the New York Mechanics and Manufacturers.

It set forth the "deplorable state" of trade and manufacturing, and demanded that Congress do something about it.

AROUND THE PENINSULA
(Ironwood Globe)

Franklin G. Pardee, state geologist, reported to the state tax commission that a field survey of Upper Peninsula mines conducted under the chairmanship of John N. Fegan, appointee of Frank Murphy, was "largely critical and without practical constructive suggestions that would assist in future appraisals." Coming from Pardee, that's quite a statement. He rarely talks for illustration and is the very antithesis of such illustrious individuals as "Honest Harold" Ickes of the President's cabinet. You can bet that Pardee knows that he is talking about when he takes this shot at Fegan's survey.

The recent "mistaken for a deer" fatality near Covington will doubtless put the quitus on illegal deer hunting in the Peninsula for awhile. It will spur on conservation officers to make a closer check on violators who venture into thick swamps and take pot shots at helpless deer. It is easier for officers to check in the winter months because they usually know where the deer yard and where violators are likely to put into appearance.

It is doubtful if any city in the Peninsula got as much publicity in one week as Iron Mountain did before and after the official opening of its new ski slide. And it received most of the publicity where it did the most good—in Wisconsin cities, both close to Iron Mountain and remote from it. When special ski trains are operated from Menominee-Marquette and Green Bay, it is obvious that there is great interest in a tournament. It was too bad that Iron Mountain got a bad break from the weather man, but the city should have received enough incentive from the Sunday attendance to attempt a bigger and better week end of winter sports next year.

Miss Pearl Windsor, the only woman serving as superintendent of city schools in the Peninsula, is apparently doing a good job. The Iron River board of education recently renewed her contract by unanimous vote, set her salary at $3,500 and stipulated that she will be given an increase if the school district's finances warrant increases to teachers. The decision to rehire Miss Windsor came only about six months after she was given her trial appointment.

With total losses estimated as high as $100,000, commercial fishermen in the Menominee area have appealed to the disaster loan section of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for funds with which to rehabilitate themselves. The losses came when the ice in Green Bay moved out twice under the force of a strong wind and were perhaps the most disastrous in the history of commercial fishing on Green Bay. Fishermen lost smelt, herring and gill nets, expensive pound nets, shanties, landing poles and a great variety of other equipment. They are hopeful of getting help from the government if the bill in congress to authorize continuance of the disaster loan section is approved. The senate has already acted favorably.

E. G. Amos, a former Peninsula man, is one of the United States forest service men who is advancing rapidly despite that he isn't a so-called career man in the service. He once served as county agricultural agent in Schoolcraft county. After getting a few bad breaks he approached the chief of the regional office at Milwaukee and said, in effect, "I'm the man you want." He was given employment, rose to head the forestry work of the CCC in this region, and now goes to the New England states to take a leading part in the salvage in the area that was stricken by a hurricane.

London—Every night, Sundays included, Premier Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, complete with umbrella and buck teeth, Adolf Hitler, dolled up with Chaplin moustache, and Benito Mussolini with his scowl, cavort in London to the intense delight of working class audiences, plus the intelligentsia, who love satire.

For the three "statesmen" are rib-tickling imitations of the real thing, done by working-class actors who earn their living at their trades by day and act by night for the fun of the thing. They are members of the unique little Unity Theatre Club located in north London in a building which was once a chapel and later a tramps' lodging.

The actors get no pay for their services. They are distinctly left wing, with reverence for none of the tycoons who rule Britain. They went to America for two of their hits—"Waiting for Lefty" by Clifford Odets and "Plant in the Sun," by Bengel, for which the great Paul Robeson donated his services.

England is a free country—except on the stage. Theaters which sell tickets must get licenses from the Lord Chamberlain, who exercises a strict censorship. Neither the royal family, living statesmen, etc., nor daring lines alluding to them, are permitted to be represented.

The Unity Theatre easily gets around that. It is a private club. Only members can procure tickets to its shows. Membership costs a quarter and there are annual dues of another quarter.

Because the club can twiddle its thumbs at censorship, it is now presenting its biggest hit—"Babes in the Wood"—not only a satire on British pantomimes but on historic figures, too.

In the Unity pantomime the British Premier is called the Wicked Uncle. The script called him Chambermusc and Chamberstrain. The two robbers are Hit and Muss. The man who plays the part of the Wicked Uncle has a devastatingly funny makeup, imitating Chamberlain. The two robbers also strikingly resemble Hitler and Mussolini. There is a King and Queen. They are not made up to resemble the royal family of Britain, but lines placed in their mouths raise the roof.

Thus the King says:
 "Peace on earth was my intention.
 "Peace with aggressors my contention.
 "Not to mention non-intervention."
 The Queen blithely prattles:
 "I am the Queen. My dignity's bland."
 "I am a Lady, the first in the land."
 "I phoistered so stately, it's just lately,
 "I've taken to dressing so grand."
 Chamberlain, swinging his famous umbrella, sings a song which begins:
 "I like German sausage and hate Russian tea
 "And my sister-in-law runs errands for me."

Here is another passage which pleases the crowds:
 The King: "I am only a figurehead wearing a crown."
 The Queen: "Between you and me, it is getting him down."
 The King: "I talk to the people with my wireless set."
 The Wicked Uncle: "When I have dictated the message, you bet."
 Hit and Muss: "Provided it's passed by the Cliveden set."

The program does not give the names of the people who take the various roles. There is also a duplicate cast. The reason is that men and women, who work by day, are often too tired to act at night. Hence the alternate casts.

The men who act the part of Chamberlain are respectively a registrar of births and an insurance clerk. Hitler is enacted by a manager of a holiday camp and an insurance clerk. Mussolini is played by a tailor and a carpenter.

There's one particular answer to the success of Amos—he has a personality that is bound to take him places.

Oliver W. Putz, county clerk at Crystal Falls, who became branch manager for the secretary of state because "no one else wanted it," has resigned from the job. He quit because he was criticized by supervisors for handling automobile license plates in the county clerk's office. It is odd that "no one else wanted it" in Iron county, in about every other county of the Peninsula, there has been a clamor for the position even if the remuneration is not much as state salaries go.

EVERYTHING FROM MICHIGAN
(Detroit News)

Certain Michigan statesmen, chief among them Rep. Fred Bradley, of Rogers City, can have an adaptation of the old age, the way to a man's primarily men, and the best way to win their approval is to feed them. The remote purpose of their subtlety is to bring to attention of the nation the fact that Michigan is a big producer of the country's food supply.

All this leads to the announcement that sometime in April in Washington, D. C., will be held an "All-Michigan Products" banquet. The promoters have prepared a comprehensive guest list of Senators and Congressmen and if it should happen that dependable newspaper men and some photographers and news reel cameramen should drift in, they will be welcomed and fed.

The bill of fare from soup to nuts will be Michigan-grown stuff and nothing desirable will be lacking. Even Michigan Congressmen may be surprised to learn how bountifully their State can provide. This should prove effective way to advertise Michigan.

New York—Who said New York's World's Fair would struggle along without sex? Well, someone said it, or the rumor wouldn't have been adrift all year.

But there must have been a recent shift of policy on the Fair Grounds at Flushing Meadows. Not a drastic turnabout, perhaps, for there's still no word of Sally Rand or Peggy of Paris or the Sketch-from-Life-Class.

The Fair is having a beauty contest of all the prize femininity in New York City. The queen doll of this contest is going to become known as The World's Fairest, is to get a job in the Aquacade out there at $100 a week, is to wear a dress of genuine gold cloth and is to become publicized between here and Singapore.

Swan Lays an Egg

Playmaking, like a well-oiled see-saw, has its ups and downs and Broadway has just seen dual examples of that.

One is "Miss Swan Expects," a comedy put out by Sam and Bella Spewack. Now a couple of seasons ago, the Spewacks, one of the few pairs of husband-and-wife collaborators who ever achieved success, produced the hilarious "Boy Meets Girl" and had the town holding its sides and aching ribs.

So, along with Miss Swan, much was expected of their new effort. The see-saw, however, was on the downgrade this time. It didn't click. In fact, it hardly made a sound.

The Spewacks are consoled by "Leave It to Me," the gala musical show which also is theirs. This is the one in which William Gaxton and Victor Moore frolic about the U. S. S. R. and Mary Martin sings "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" in time with a slow strip. It is one of the hits of New York.

And, no doubt, the Spewacks will have another show in the works. They work fast. Being an ex-newspaperman, Sam Spewack devises his stuff at deadline pace and Bella, who used to be on a women's page, does not lag behind. They toil at their shows several hours a day. The rest of the time Bella gives to domestic affairs. They quarrel, of course, as any other twain.

Buffalo is Way Off

That other footlight fall was taken recently by a farce called "Off to Buffalo." Allen Boretz wrote most of it and he happens to be one of the boys who put out "Room Service," which was one of the funniest shows to strike Broadway in a long time.

But you can't pull down the house every time and "Off to Buffalo" must have been conceived on an off-day. Not even Joe Cook, droll and lovable as he is up there on the stage, could save it from falling flat on its face.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—No diplomatic overtures have been made officially, but an extremely significant deal to carve up Africa will be sprung by Hitler and Mussolini soon.

Keep your eyes open for a "Conference on Raw Materials" or some other high-sounding name. This will be suggested in the near future by the Rome-Berlin axis, and to the conference will be invited not merely Europe's four main powers, but Poland and Spain.

This is Hitler's latest secret sop to Warsaw. Colonies for Poland have been discussed recently by von Ribbentrop, Nazi Foreign Minister, and the Polish Foreign Minister, Colonel Beck. Mussolini will also demand new colonies for his minion, General Franco.

The conference will avoid the appearance of being another Munich and will have behind it the perfectly plausible motive of providing more raw materials and economic resources for the nations now without them. However, the means of providing these raw materials may be tough for the French and British palate.

For what Germany has in mind to satisfy its raw material craving is a slice of Africa extending from French Senegal on the west coast of Africa to around Lake Chad, in the very center of the continent, and then south to the Belgian Congo. This would include Liberia, an American Negro free colony, Nigeria and large chunks of French territory.

—MUSSOLINI'S APPETITE—

Italy, in turn, proposes to get Djibouti and part of French Somaliland, part of Tunis and a strip connecting her present colony of Libya with Ethiopia. This would be carved out of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Mussolini and Hitler would also demand some extra African territory for their new Fascist ally, Spain. This is to be a slice of Morocco extending to the base of the Atlas Mountains. What will be asked for Poland is not yet known, but probably the old German colony of Tanganyika.

Thus it will be seen that Germany will not be asking for the return of her old African colonies, but considerably more than her pre-war holdings, and for herself and her allies.

Note—The London stock exchange has reflected recent optimism regarding continued peace, and there has, been some Anglo-French sentiment for making African concessions to the Rome-Berlin axis. Whether French and British public opinion will meet the above demands, however, is doubtful.

MUNICH STATESMEN

At one of these, his host introduced him to Colonel Harrington, new chief of the WPA. It was just after Harrington's request for additional WPA funds had been turned down by the Senate, and Lord Kemsley remarked:

"I say, jolly bad luck you had in the Senate this afternoon. I was up there when they voted against you on that appropriation. Pure politics, it seemed to me. What you need are statesmen, not politicians, don't you think so?"

"If you mean statesmen of the Munich type, we don't want 'em," shot back Harrington, and walked away.

PLYLE CALLS ON CHASE OSBORN

Globe-Trotting Writer Finds Sault Man In Georgia

By Esther Van Wagener Tufty (Washington Correspondent)

Washington—A reporter on a spy assignment, to write about anything or anybody of interest, recently discovered our own former Governor Chase S. Osborn down in his Georgian retreat, Ernie Pyle, the columnist, liked Mr. Osborn. In all his travels he had never met anyone like him. It took two columns instead of one to give his readers all over the United States an idea of the Osborn charm and philosophy.

The articles in a Washington paper were devoured by Michigan folk in the capital. They were pleased to have such a keen observer as Mr. Pyle find in the genial, aging, but still dynamic Michigan man what they have themselves known and enjoyed for years.

It was no news to many of us that in the summer he lives a simple life on an island in the Great Lakes, but we didn't know he slept on a cot of balsam boughs under a tent. He is always writing a book—but we didn't know he had written a thousand, as Mr. Pyle says. College has honored him, but it is pleasant to remember that he would accept no honorary degrees until he had earned his degree two score years after his first two at Purdue.

His daily routine at his hideaway in Georgia is in character. Mr. Pyle writes that the former governor is up at 3 o'clock. He builds his own fire, the fire for his daughter Stelanova, and one for the cook. He hires men to do this, but does it all himself.

I quote Mr. Pyle: "After he shaves, he bathes. As soon as he's dressed he straightens up his room and washes out his towels. He has a housekeeper and laundress on the payroll, but he does these things himself."

Now I quote Mr. Osborn: "There are two things I really pride myself on. That is that I am a good janitor and a good woodsman. I believe I'm probably the best natural woodsman in the world." In all his explorations and prospecting in the jungles and wild mountain country he has never taken a local guide.

He calls his daughter at five. They eat at six. After breakfast he takes an hour cleaning his false teeth. He calls them "dunkies" because he says they make you look like a donkey when you grin. False teeth are one of his hobbies. He has given away 40 sets to the "crackers" around the camp. At seven he is at work. His mail is voluminous. As for visitors, anyone from Henry Ford to a Negro boy wanting to borrow a nickel may drop in.

Everyone of the thousands of friends of Chase Osborn may thank Pyle for this phrase: "Osborn achieves a sort of Utopian inner self that suits him and does the world good." Also for defense of his garrulity: "He rambles, but he's always saying something definite."

COUNTY TO ADVERTISE

Iron River—After three hours of discussion, representatives of the tourist committee of the Crystal Falls Chamber of Commerce, the Ottawa Tourist Association and the board of supervisors reached, at a meeting in Mertins' cafe last night, an agreement relative to advertising in the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau Lure Book.

The county will have a double-page spread in the colorful book, in which the Ottawa Tourist Association is to have additional space in the lower right-hand corner. The Crystal Falls Chamber of Commerce is to be given $200 in cash of the $1,000 appropriated by the county board. The chamber needs money to conduct its information bureau.

The board of supervisors voted at its last meeting to give Crystal Falls $250 out of the $1,000, but the agreement arrived at last night will, it is said, meet with the approval of the members.

New Light on Viking Culture Is Uncovered

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—The corruption of truth by the passions of war has been fully demonstrated by discoveries of certain relics of roving bands of Northmen who scoured European seas in the eighth and tenth centuries. History records no other parallel of truth suppression.

For almost a thousand years the Vikings shared a place of contempt in literature. To a large degree they still share that contempt. The British, Irish, and Frankish monks who recorded the story of the Northmen and Danes, pictured them as ferocious beasts, the incarnation of heartless cruelty, even the devil himself. These columns, unfortunately, as those of other instances where truth is distorted, became historical truth among the credulous people for whom they were manufactured. In the modern age it is called propaganda, but the technique has changed very little.

But while distorted history left the Vikings portrayed only as robbers, there were fragments of evidence that led historians to discover some amazing facts—facts that have proved these sea-faring and sea-daring adventurers to be far more than history records to their credit. However, no evidence of Viking culture may be found in the chronicles of the periods in which they lived.

The Northmen were expert shipbuilders and excellent seamen, and were able to navigate in the open sea by the aid of the sun, moon, and stars. Some of these Scandinavian adventurers fought their way to thrones and established kingdoms, principalities, and dukedoms in all parts of Europe, from Russia to Britain. These attainments brought hatred upon their heads from many sources, and it is not unreasonable that unfavorable record was made against them.

The superior culture of the Northmen is apparent in their arts of peace as well as in their arts of war. For centuries the Northmen ruled the greater part of Ireland, Scotland, and England, likewise Normandy. Their superlative genius for organization and government, their excellent legal systems, and the exalted social status of their women all speak in laudable terms of a people whose history has undoubtedly placed in an improper light. Their humanity toward prisoners of war excelled the treatment of many warring nations in the centuries since. Even present-day examples seem barbarous in comparison.

Up to the tenth century the vessels of the Vikings were transports rather than warships. They were more suitable for sheltered waters than the open sea, being shallow galleys. Later vessels were fitted with a single sail, a style adopted from those used at that time in the Mediterranean.

As a craftsman, in addition to ship construction, the Viking was rarely surpassed. In decorative designed, in poetry, and fertile invention, he was a master—and not always the adventurous murderer, uncouth, untaught, and unappreciative of the finer things of life. He was a master artisan and scholar as well as a fighter.

Old Ships Reveal Artistry

For example a number of churches dating back to the Viking age show a considerable number of pieces of furniture that match the fine craftsmanship of other eras. Many secular buildings, too, are resplendent in style of that time, and even some few pieces of tapestry, hundreds of years old and composed in the patterns of a thousand years ago, still exist in Norway. Thousands of runestones, weapons, pieces of armor, vehicles, jewelry and money found in grave mounds all disclose the portrait painted by historians who recorded the life of these sea rovers. These things abundantly and conclusively testify to the high state of culture of these history-accursed men of another age.

In the unrivaled Viking collection at Oslo, Norway, are these ships that mark the most interesting of all grave-finds, for no other nation possessed sea-going vessels of that period. As late as 1876 a small Viking ship was unearthed, and in 1881 a new and extremely valuable light on the culture of the ancient Northmen was shed by the discovery of a large vessel at Gokstad. This vessel is of the merchant marine type in use about the year 900, or perhaps a century earlier. It was in good condition after its thousand or more years underground, and was sailed—not towed—from Norway to Chicago in 1893 where millions saw it at the exposition that year. To many the vessel proved the truth of the records of past passages across the Atlantic and elsewhere which frequently are mentioned in literature about the year 1000. Experts who have examined the ship believe it to be the same type used by Leif Ericson five hundred years before Columbus discovered America.

This ship also revealed many remarkable decorative arts which the Norwegians of those days, and up to some seventy-five years ago, lavished on their homes, tools, harness, clothing, and other possessions.

A renewed interest in the life of the Vikings started in 1903 when a Norwegian farmer began digging into a great mound on his land, and soon encountered a ship. The University of Oslo the next year was able to unearth the entire vessel and piece together all the parts. The vessel proved to be a pleasure yacht seventy-five feet in length and sixteen feet wide. That was also the real beginning of the great Viking collection at the university.

But astonishing as the ship itself proved in graceful lines and splendid decoration, what delighted the antiquarians and caused an entire reevaluation of the civilization of the Vikings was the undreamed of things so plentifully found buried with its owner, and perhaps even more so the gorgeous artistry lavished on many of them. In addition to numerous household effects, the mound yielded four sleighs, three beds, a four-wheeled wagon and other large articles, most of them handsomely carved in the most intricate interlaced strap-and-serpent patterns. All these showed such design and workmanship as would make most modern woodcarvers blush for the lack of capacity.

Museum Houses Treasures

Even greater testimony of Viking culture may be found in the archeological museum located in Norway's ancient capital. Here are cloak and belt buckles in silver and gold, or in gilded silver, of a design that is marvelous. There are rings, brooches, and other ornaments that rival the smith's art of the twentieth century. The engraved, inlaid, enamelled masterpieces eloquently speak of a culture that was high at the time of charlemagne, and perhaps long before. Here, too, are found splendid specimens of Greek and Roman work which clearly show the close intercourse the Northmen had with classic lands, while the many very considerable number of coins from all parts of Europe speak of the peaceful commerce carried on in every corner of the continent, and far beyond.

That the Northmen were not the ruthless, roving plunderers which history depicts them is further evidenced by the fact that many of the places they seized and ruled were anarchic. Many such places were put under control and held for centuries with great benefits to the inhabitants. Still the Vikings were not angels. They were super men who dared and in their adventuring laid foundations by which their successors have profited. Unfortunately for their true fame, the Northmen were greater warriors than historians.

ELMER MATSON IS TRANSFERRED

Ranger at Rapid River Going to Ottawa Forest Staff

Announcement has been made that Elmer E. Matson, who for the past two years has been ranger on the Rapid River District of the Hiawatha National Forest, will be transferred to Ironwood, on March 1 where he will be assigned to the staff of Forest Supervisor Clare Hendee, in charge of timber management activities.

A graduate of the University of Washington, Ranger Matson left his native state in 1934 to accept employment with the U. S. Forest Service in the Upper Peninsula. His work with the Service has covered a wide variety of projects aside from the regular administrative duties of a ranger.

Receives Recognition

In 1937 he was placed in charge of the largest hardwood timber sale made by the Forest Service in Region 9, which includes ten states in the Great Lakes area. Successful handling of this project brought him widespread recognition in timber management work and when, in the fall of 1938, the U. S. Forest Service agreed to furnish outstanding foresters, trained in timber salvage work, to aid in the saving of the four billion board feet of White Pine blown down by the hurricane in the New England States, Ranger Matson was one of those chosen to take part in the supervision of the vast government project. Assigned at first to the organizing of two thousand laborers, including CCC and WPA crews, in the reducing of the fire hazard near Worcester, Mass. he was later transferred to Milford, New Hampshire where he was placed in charge of the buying and storing of salvaged logs in ponds and lakes.

Brown Is Successor

Of his work in the east, Mr. Matson says: "The present salvage operation is, without question, the most tremendous undertaking in logging, the industry has ever witnessed. No firm or group of firms would have been in a position to go into the business of assisting entire states as the Federal Government has done."

Under the present setup the Government is buying the logs from local timber owners delivered at storage ponds to be released on the market at a latter date when the danger of flooding the

Chauffeurs Asked By Kelly to Give Change Of Address

Few persons can change their places of residence, as a matter of routine, without notifying the postman and certain commercial firms with which dealings or accounts are maintained. Relatively few licensed drivers of motor vehicles in the state have ever realized that the same law that requires that they be licensed, also stipulates that any licensed operator or chauffeur who shall change his residence previous to the expiration of his or her license shall "immediately" return such license to the local examining board, or the department of state, whose duty it shall be to write on said license, the new address and the date of change. The law also states that failure to have such change of address recorded may be cause for the revocation or suspension of the license.

The department of state has been called on several occasions to furnish the correct home address of licensed operators in this state, when the appeal for aid in locating people, was for the purpose of notifying friends or relatives who knew that the person sought was a licensed automobile driver in Michigan. In unsuccessful cases, failure to locate the missing person was attributable only to negligence on the part of the operator to file his change of address with the department.

There are many instances in which badly injured persons can be identified only by the names on their drivers' licenses, but when the address is wrong, delays in more complete identification are experienced, and in some cases, it is impossible ever to trace the residence.

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, advises that all licensed chauffeurs and operators check their home addresses on their licenses. It requires only a few moments to properly record the correct address and any subsequent change that may be made.

Underwear in Confectionery Colors
New dark sheers, with their swaying circular skirts, require something quite special in the way of slips. Many frocks have their own swishy, rustling petticoats, but for the sake of variety, one might add a couple extra of this type to the spring wardrobe. One new slip of taffeta-like lustrous material is tastefully fashioned with bias front and back panels and slim, straight sides to give that very slender, tiny-waisted silhouette the popular little-girl frocks demand. And one shouldn't mind too much if the ruffle shows a bit, discreetly, of course, now and then, because it is striped in such delicious candy colors.

Colonial gentlemen did not call tea by that name, but called it "the fashionable warm water."

New Buttons Imitate Garden Produce
Last year's suit will look fresh as a spring garden if treated to a set of clever new fruit or vegetable buttons. Judge Hatfield's Publication of Unusual Interest

Of general interest to everyone concerned with juvenile delinquency, and of particular interest to members of the Parent-Teacher association in Escanaba, is the recently published book of Judge Malcolm Hatfield, "Children in Court." Judge Hatfield, it will be recalled, was one of the principal speakers at last year's successful district gathering of the Parent-Teacher association.

"Children in Court," a compact little volume, is, in a few words, a study of juvenile delinquency, written by a man who has been judge of the juvenile court of Berrien county, Michigan for the past several years, and whose administration has earned commendation from many sources.

It offers an interesting concrete presentation of juvenile delinquency and its intimate relations with the home, the school, the church, the community, politics, government and economics. In illustrating his points Judge Hatfield cites specific cases, drawn chiefly from his own experiences, and he deals dispassionately with the modern problems of the pampered child, the neurotic parent, obscene literature, harmful movies, poverty, sexual taboos, liquor, reformatories and many other elements of the problem.

National Recognition
The author of this valuable book, has, at the age of 38, won a national reputation for the manner in which he has handled juvenile delinquency cases. As a Probate Judge he has helped to clarify the law by having numerous appeals from his rulings to the Supreme Court and in each and every case the highest tribunal has upheld his decisions, and throughout his "Children in Court," is his humanitarian plea for judicial, legislative and administrative officials to discard many of the present-day ineffective and obsolete methods of curing crime, in his own words, "placing greater emphasis on the high chair and less on the electric chair."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 100:3): "Know ye that the Lord he is God; it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 336): "God and man are not the same, but in the order of divine Science, God and man co-exist and are eternal. God is the parent Mind, and man is God's spiritual offspring."

DEDICATION PAGEANT
Houghton—A proposal for staging a historical pageant in connection with the dedication of Isle Royale National Park, which probably will take place during the coming summer, was given further consideration by the Houghton Association of Commerce at its bi-monthly luncheon-meeting at the Douglas House yesterday noon. The subject was introduced by Dr. Russell Peterson at the last meeting of the association and was regarded with favor by the members present.

As a result of yesterday's discussion, President E. A. Hamar was empowered to appoint a committee of seven, five association members and two women, which will give careful study to the proposal and submit recommendations at the next meeting to be held on Tuesday, March 14. Supt. I. S. Edwards of the Portage township schools, and Dr. James Fisher of the Michigan Tech faculty both spoke in favor of a pageant at yesterday's meeting, and both agreed that the theme should be developed around the early history of the Copper Country and Isle Royale.

WHY TAKE CHANCES WITH HEAD COLDS?

If you feel a head cold coming on—take no chances—call a doctor at once. He will probably suggest a light liquid diet and put you to bed. Only Nature can cure a cold and you can help Nature best by getting plenty of rest.

To rest comfortably, you should be able to breathe freely thru your nose. Here's a simple thing that will help ease your breathing and help promote restful sleep. If your nose is running and stopped up with mucus, due to a cold, get a jar of Vicks VapoRub at any drug store. Put some in each nostril and sniff it up as far as you can. Mentholatum is a mild, cooling ointment containing eucalypt, camphor and soothing oils. It stays put in your nose and gives off soothing vapors for hours. This action helps to open up your breathing passages and soothe the mucus inside your nose. If your cold is "fatter" than yours, rub a liberal quantity on neck, throat and chest.

Remember, don't take chances with head colds—call a doctor at once. Then get some Mentholatum to help relieve head cold misery. Used by millions for over 40 years. In jars and tubes, at all drug stores—only 50¢.

AFTER ALL "THE TASTE TELLS"

Swiss Steak With Onions

You can look right into the secret of this Savory Swiss Steak. Those white onions and hunks of tender round steak are having a grand time with mustard, herbs and ginger.

A Savory Swiss steak is just what a sizzling appetite yodels for. And the family budget gives it a blessing.

Savory Swiss Steak
(Serves 6)
Two pounds round steak, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon mixed herbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 cup boiling water, 8 to 10 small onions.
Cut steak in serving pieces. Mix flour, ginger, herbs and salt. Roll meat in mixture. Brown the pieces of meat very quickly, a few at a time, and place them in a 1-2 quart heat resistant glass saucpan.
Add the Worcestershire sauce, mustard and hot water. Arrange onions over the top, cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Serve in the same dish.

Speed Meat Balls
(Serves 6, About 16 Balls)
When the night is cold, spiced meat balls keep both the heart and budget warm.
One pound ground beef steak, 1-2 pound ground pork sausage, 1-2 cup mashed potatoes, 1 egg beaten, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cup fine bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon allspice, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup tomato puree.
Mix meat, potato, egg and milk together. Combine bread crumbs, salt, pepper and spices, then blend with the meat mixture. Form into about 16 small balls and roll them in flour. Brown on all sides in a small amount of hot fat in a 1-2 quart saucpan. Pour tomato puree over the meat balls. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) for about 45 minutes.

Dusting Don'ts
If you would keep your furniture clean and shining, don't neglect to dust carefully each day. Avoid dusting cloths of harsh materials or fabrics which ravel or scatter lint. If you find a damp or oiled duster more effective, don't pour water or oil on it promiscuously; see that the cloth is evenly saturated. Don't use a soiled duster; wash often, since obviously a grimy cloth would not leave a clean surface. Soft chamols is fine for use on wood that has a high polish.

THE SUPREME COURT DECISION: A LIBERAL DOCUMENT

In its Monday decision the Supreme Court outlawed the unique collaboration of the National Labor Relations Board with the trade unions to prevent employees guilty of breaking the law from suffering the penalty of discharge.

Dorothy Thompson

It did not outlaw the sit-down strike, because the illegality of the sit-down strike did not come into question and was not challenged by the National Labor Relations Board. The employees who seized the corporation's plant were evicted by the sheriff, tried in the courts and most of them fined or sentenced to jail. Nobody, including the National Labor Relations Board, contested the justice of the fine or the sentences. But the board held that notwithstanding the fact that the employees had committed a criminal act against the company, the company was obliged to re-employ them with back pay.

The Supreme Court decision supports the company's refusal to do so. Actually, in fact, the company did re-employ most of the strikers. But it reserved its right not to take back others, and that right is upheld.

The decision is of great importance, because the National Labor Relations Board has, by its attitude, protected employees from suffering the full and logical consequences of unlawful acts. And this attitude of the board has been one of the reasons for industry's distrust of it.

The Supreme Court made its decision in spite of the fact that it sustained the board's ruling that the company, by its campaign to organize the plant into an independent union, by its isolation of the C. I. O. union's president from his fellow employees, by the employment of a labor spy, and by refusing to bargain collectively in February—when the C. I. O. union had a majority of the employees—had been guilty of unfair labor practices.

The court's decision indicates, however, that unfair labor practices on the part of an employer are not in any sense whatever a justification for illegal practices on the part of the workers. The employer must desist from illegally and change his ways. The employees must desist from illegality and bear the consequences of discharge if they do not.

There are numerous illuminating statements in the decision that have an important bearing on the conduct of labor under the protection of the act.

The court points out that the workers themselves failed throughout the controversy with the employers to appeal to the N. L. R. B. Thus, in the summer and fall of 1936, prior to the sit-down, the union could have immediately complained to the board that union activities were being interfered with, and that they were spied upon, and they could again have complained in February, when the corporation refused collective bargaining with the union that had a majority. But they preferred to force the issue by a sit-down strike.

This observation of the court as to the union's failure to take advantage of the protection of the act brings out one of the weaknesses of the act as a means for promoting industrial peace.

For if we are really to have peaceful settlements of disputes and the adjustment of labor-employer controversies through a government agency, we ought to provide for arbitration of disputes in advance of a strike or lockout, while reservations to workers the right to strike if the arbitration is not satisfactory.

The appeal to arbitration ought to be open both to employers and employees. Arrangements for arbitration in advance of a strike are part of the statutes of both Sweden and Great Britain. The Swedish law creates an obligation on the part of both employers and employees to attend conferences for the purpose of collective bargaining if either party demands it, and in Great Britain, although there is no legal compulsion in the matter, agreements between unions and employers invariably provide for arbitration of disputes in advance of a strike or lockout.

Most interesting was the Supreme Court's third finding.

The board based part of its contention on the general authority conferred upon it by the act to require such employer to take such affirmative action as will "effectuate" the policies of the act, and argued that such action may embrace requirement of re-employment.

The court holds that while the board's authority is broad, it is not unlimited, and referred to its decision in the Consolidated Edison case, where it ruled that the board could not inflict on the employer any penalty it chose for unfair labor practices.

The court holds that the power of the board to compel affirmative action is remedial and not punitive, and it reminds the board that "there is not a line in the statute to warrant the conclusion that it

SERIAL STORY WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES

© COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
SUSIE LAMBERT—She served waffles and dreamed of being beautiful.

DICK TREMAINE—He liked Susie's waffles but he couldn't see Susie.

JEFF BOWMAN—His chief concern was to make Susie as beautiful as she wanted to be.

Yesterday, Susie accepts a splendid radio offer. She is still confused in her emotions, however, regarding Jeff and Dick. She is dating Dick.

CHAPTER XXIII
Life was so full of joy and interest, so crowded with new experiences and sensations. The most important ones continually escaped Susie, lost in the intoxicating jumble. She wanted to glory in Mr. Jasper's offer, she wanted to thrill to the dance hour with Dick, deep in her heart she was ecstatic over the prospect of Christmas with Jeff and Edna. New clothes, attention, the very consciousness of beauty—actually she was so busy being joyous that it was difficult to sort out and tabulate the various causes, impossible to drink deeply of any one happiness.

Susie's life was comparable to her diet. Small tastes of this, a tiny portion of that, never entire satisfaction. Not that she found fault. Susie was in a delicious state, snatching at life's gifts, hugging them to her heart, letting them go when her arms became too full.

After three hours in the shoe department, where hundreds of women milled about for a sight of Susanne, for a word with her, Susie hurried back to the hotel, and made a supreme toilet for Dick. Her hands shook with excitement, her breath came unevenly. When a florist's box arrived, when she tremblingly lifted an orchid from the shimmering mass of transparent paper, her rapture was tinged with tears. Had she realized the significance of the offering, that once earthly violets had seemed the perfect tribute for Susie, she would have been even more ecstatic.

She wore the fur-trimmed ensemble in which she had been presented to Mr. Harker. Inner joy lending an appealing loveliness to her face. The orchid nestled in the fur of her collar, touching her cheek with a caressing finger.

Effort was rewarded by Dick's first glance as he met her in the lobby.

"I thought I must have dreamed you," he said, taking her arm and guiding her to his car.

Susie paid slight attention. Sitting beside Dick, slim and extravagantly garbed, faintly perfumed with a delicate, exotic odor, Susie knew that she had arrived.

"You're Hollywood, transplanted in ugly old Chicago," Dick said. "Chicago isn't ugly," she objected. "To her it was fairyland, the glistening background for miracles. 'I love it.'"

"But you should see Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, Westwood—clean and shining, full of atmosphere."

"Another adopted son of California," she mused, not quite liking this turning of the back on home.

"You bet. And the girls out there—they certainly treat a fella right."

Is any part of the policies of the act to encourage employees to resort to force and violence in defiance of the law of the land. This recall to the limitation of scope in power is a healthy rebuke to more government agencies than the N. L. R. B.

Another very important part of the court's finding is that it does not uphold the board's conclusion that the employer, following an illegal strike and the lawful dismissal of the people engaged in it, must continue to bargain with the union which called it.

The employer has not the right to punish the union as such, by refusing to recognize it, but the court points out that when the illegal strikers had been discharged and new men hired, there ceased to be a basis for the conclusion that the union was still the choice of the majority of employees.

The court therefore called attention to what critics of the act, among them this column, have several times pointed out as a weakness; namely, that once a union had gotten a majority it is assumed that this majority is permanent, and no procedure exists whereby dissidents can challenge the majority. This is contrary to basic democratic principles, which are that the minority may at any time become the majority. It is in this way that in the realm of politics we provide for change and reform.

The concept of the majority which becomes permanent and is the sole agency through which the collective will may function, is the concept of the totalitarian states in the field of politics. Given the closed shop and the check-off, the union has a permanent mandate, and if this is democracy then Hitler is a democrat. Moreover, there is no compulsion of democracy inside the ruling trade union.

"Dear me—am I hearing complaints?"

Taking his eyes from the traffic he looked down at her with the well-remembered flash of white teeth. "Not you, Susanne, nary a complaint. How about letting me show you off at the Hermit Club party on New Year's Eve?" "It's a date," she said. Susie's joy blazed higher. The Hermit Club on New Year's Eve—only a favored few received that gift from the gods. Ah, the gods were kind—kind.

Followed two mad, whirling weeks. Dates and double dates with Dick and his friends. The friends gradually drifted away. Susie's preference for Dick obvious even to the smitten young men. Christmas Eve started at 5 o'clock with a cocktail party at the luxurious home of one of Dick's friends. Susie, with her simple background, felt a bit out of place at this party. She met Dick's sister and was snubbed, not much, but enough to make her wonder.

Had she heard Hester Tremaine's comment to her mother she would have known, might have been more pleased than troubled.

"Dick's mad about the common little thing," Hester told her mother. "Can't keep his eyes off her. Some fine day we'll wake up and find Susanne, product of Harker's bargain basement, hanging from our family tree." This was a misrepresentation and unkind, but Hester was not especially kind.

"Dick's just having a good time," he mother said easily. "He isn't taking on a wife to support, not since your father has shut down on him."

"He seems to think Susanne has money, and maybe she has," Hester shrugged. "Whether or not, I'll bet my next month's allowance she'll snag him."

And Susie, who had a more ladylike name for it, was definitely out to win Dick. She was so violently in love with him that she lived in a daze, one moment deliciously sure, the next frantically dubious. And Dick was overly attentive. Telephone calls before breakfast, conversations italicized by subtle flattery, in nuances with double meaning that toppled Susie's listening heart's little intimate reminders, hints of a commonly shared future, low, caressing laughs.

Flowers came daily. On Christmas he gave her a compact, of all things—a smooth, shining thing, sweet to the touch, entrancing. Susie offered her lips in an impulsive gesture of gratitude and it was strange that she thought of Jeff when Dick kissed her.

She saw little of Jeff these days. Except for the Christmas party, with Jeff making a palpable effort at holiday cheer, with Edna and John Harker deeply oblivious to everyone save themselves, she had scarcely seen Jeff.

She knew that Edna and Mr. Harker were married on the last day of the year; in fact Jeff diffidently asked her to attend the simple service, but that was the day of the Hermit Club ball and Susie gave the Bowmans never a thought.

Dick had asked her to wear the Snow White gown and she gave thanks it being the only evening frock provided by Harker's. Ready for the party she was like a perfume-kitten, drowsy with delight, tiny thrills singing through her blood. Dick's apparent adoration gave her confidence and confidence gave her poise. Utter happiness lent beauty where none existed.

Her scarlet mouth was a flower, waiting to be crushed, her impertinent little nose added personality, her shadowed eyes were deep with the mystery of love.

Only one small incident jarred on the perfection of the evening. Dick poked fun at the party. Susie should see how they did things in Hollywood. He ruined one entire dance by minutely describing a soiree at the home of a prominent actress. Susie wanted to be impressed and was, slightly, until Dick inadvertently let out the fact that the party was a benefit of some kind.

"They do things out there," Dick said boastfully. "They lead and these mugs follow."

Susie, who had thought the Hermit Club party the last word in sophistication and luxury, felt a bit deflated.

"Why do you stay here if you don't like it, Dick?" she asked.

"If you want to know the truth," he replied, his cheek touching one of her curls, "it's because a certain girl has a strange hold on me." This was only half the truth. Dick's father had not yet seen the advisability of tendering a loan to his son.

Up went Susie's spirits. Dick often said things like that. Never had he said he loved her, never had he verged beyond the indefinite, but small straws in the wind kept her blood at fever pitch.

"Maybe your girl would like California," she suggested daringly.

He side-stepped. "My girl is tied up with a radio contract," he said. Dick was much impressed when she naively mentioned her salary. If she made good—that was another reason why he lingered on, to see if she made good. Meanwhile the telephone calls, flowers, tea dances, dinners, first nights at the theaters went on and at last came the night of Susie's first broadcast.

COUNCIL BUYS SUCKER PUMP

Urges State Legislature to Protect Civil Service

WHAT COUNCIL DID
Authorized city manager to purchase a new pump for the municipal sanducker.

Adopted resolution urging state legislature to adopt without detrimental amendments the original model civil service bill recommended by the Pollock study commission.

Instructed city clerk to draft a resolution, urging more efficient administration of welfare and relief administrations to weed out the chiselers and, if possible, give more aid to the deserving unemployed and unfortunates.

Voted for extension of water and sewer services to area west of Twenty-third street and north of First avenue north.

Although the meeting was short, the Escanaba city council took action last night on several important matters. All members of the council were present.

City Manager George E. Bean was instructed by the council to purchase a new Morris pump for the municipal sanducker, which is being used on the south shore yacht basin and bathing beach development project. The pump, which will cost about $1,450, is of new design, which permits replacement of inside plates, that have a tendency to wear out because of the friction caused in the movement of sand. The city also plans to purchase about a thousand dollars worth of pipe for the dredging equipment.

Backs Civil Service
Good state government is the concern of the city government and its people, the council held in making its decision to adopt a resolution protesting any effort by political spoilsmen to wreck the civil service system and urging the adoption of the model bill recommended by the civil service study commission, which was headed by Prof. James K. Pollock of the University of Michigan. Copies of the resolution will be sent to State Senator James Dotsch, Representative Peter R. Legg and Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald.

Relief Chiselers Hit
A communication from the Workers Alliance, urging the council to support the organization's demand for restoration of the $150,000,000 item pruned from the federal relief appropriation, was the spark that started a spirited discussion of the welfare problem.

Councilman Carl E. Johnson contended that there is too much money that is being wasted on undeserving persons, and he expressed the opinion that there would be sufficient funds if chiseling could be curbed.

He cited instances where farmers, who once operated successful farms, had disposed of their dairy cattle and curtailed other agricultural operations to reduce their earnings so they would be eligible for WPA jobs or direct relief.

Mayor Peter Logan offered the comment that the $44 monthly wage paid on WPA projects in the Upper Peninsula is insufficient for a reasonable standard of living for the average family, and suggested that if "chiseling" could be prevented, the wage scale probably could be upped to help those really in need.

Councilman Charles Gallagher then introduced a motion, asking the city clerk to draft a resolution, appraising the various welfare and relief agencies of the attitude of the council. The resolution will be submitted at the next meeting for final consideration.

Paving Petition Deadline
March 11 was set as the final date for the receiving of applications for petitions for alley and street paving projects to be carried on under the WPA program.

The council granted the request from Mrs. Elvera Carney, 502 North Twentieth street, for the extension of sewer and water service to a lot, situated north of Twenty-third street and north of First avenue north, where a tourist cabin lay-out is contemplated.

The city council also adopted a resolution, urging the completion of the Paving of US-2 and US-41 as rapidly as possible, to be followed by the hard-surfacing of M-35, between Menominee and Rock. Copies of the resolutions will be sent to the state highway department and Gov. Fitzgerald.

SCOUTS' DRIVE OPENS TUESDAY

Escanaba and Gladstone Will Cooperate in Campaign

One hundred men are expected to take part in the Escanaba, Gladstone Scout finance campaign on Tuesday, March 7. Both cities have united this year in a drive to secure funds for the 1939 program. S. R. Venne is general chairman of the Gladstone area and J. P. Hart, John A. Lemmer, O. V. Thatcher and C. J. Sawyer are in charge of the Escanaba campaign.

The Escanaba men will start the campaign with an "early bird" breakfast at the Sherman hotel at 7:30 a. m. Manistique and Munising will hold their campaigns within the next month. All of the money raised goes into a central treasury and expenses for Delta, Alger and Schoolcraft counties, which make up the Red Buck Council, are paid from this central fund.

The Scout and Cub program in this Council has grown from a membership of 54 in April, 1937, to over 800 at the present time.

The Gladstone campaign is being conducted through the American Legion, City club, Lions club, Rotary club, schools, Northwestern Veneer corporation employees, Marble Arms employees, Marble Card employees, city and federal employees and railroad employees.

The Escanaba campaign committee is made up from members of the service clubs, schools, city departments, business men, fraternal organizations and various other groups.

MORE SKATING CHAMPS FOUND

Percy Owens Annexes Title of Oldest Man On Blades

Until proven otherwise, 64 year old Percy Owens holds the title of oldest active skater in Escanaba, defeating Peter Dube, last year's winner, in the second annual Old Timers' Night contest held at Ludington park rink last night. Although not adding up to a very impressive total, Mr. and Mrs. John Manning were crowned the oldest married couple. No choice was made of the oldest lady as all were either too young or looked too young to be eligible.

Mr. Owens had not skated for 43 years prior to this season. Now he skates almost every day, sometimes for two hours and more. In consecutive years, however, he is passed by Mr. Dube who is adding to a record which probably will never be broken by an Escanaba skater, having skated 54 years without a miss.

Other old times who learned their skating long before skates and shoes came together were Jack Bawden, Briton Hall and Emmett Meehan. The first two, along with Mr. Dube participated in last year's contest.

Veteran Menominee Sawmill Man Dies Thursday Morning

Menominee, March 2.—Stephen V. Tart, 82, veteran Menominee sawmill man, died at 1:05 a. m. today in his home, 806 Lakeview avenue. Complications resulting from an attack of influenza caused his death.

Mr. Tart was born in Kankakee, Ill., September 11, 1856, a son of Peter Tart and Louisa Hamilton, who was a direct descendant of Alexander Hamilton.

Fifty-five years ago in Kankakee Mr. Tart married Anna Hughes. Two years later the couple came to Menominee where they remained for ten years. During that time Mr. Tart was employed as a millwright at the island mill in North Menominee, Wells Co. Superintendent.

The Tarts then moved to Dunbar, Wis., where Mr. Tart took a position as mill superintendent for the Girard Lumber company. From there the family went to Blind River, Ont., where Mr. Tart was engaged as a mill superintendent for five years.

Returning to Menominee Mr. Tart assumed the post of mill superintendent for the J. W. Wells Lumber company. He remained in the employ of the Wells company until his retirement 13 years ago.

Survivors are his wife, one son, Ralph M. Tart of Duluth; three daughters, Mrs. Edna T. Fortune of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Arthur O. Tiden (Frances Tart) of Prohettown, Ill.; and Mrs. J. E. Harrington (Florence Tart) of Menominee; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral on Saturday
A private service for family members is to be held in the home at 10 a. m. Saturday. At 11 a. m. the body will be taken to the Masonic Temple to lie in state until 2 p. m. when full Masonic rites will be held. Rev. Fred Matthews will conduct the church service.

Burial will be made in Riverside cemetery.

The body of Mr. Tart was prepared for burial at the Roy Cadieu mortuary and will be taken to the family home Friday at 2 p. m.

DEBATE FINALS ON MARCH 10

Marenisco and Menominee Will Be Opponents At Marquette

Marenisco and Menominee will meet for the upper peninsula high school debate championship in the Northern State Teachers college auditorium in Marquette at 3 p. m. Friday, March 10. Forest A. Roberts, NSTC professor of speech, announced yesterday.

All members of the 23 school debate teams composing the Upper Peninsula High School Debate League and the general public are invited to attend. Roberts, league manager, said. The Marenisco and Menominee debaters won their way to the championship finals in an elimination meet in which all 23 teams participated.

The subject will be "A British-American Alliance," and the Menominee debaters will discuss the affirmative side of the question against the Marenisco negative team. Last Friday, Marenisco defeated Escanaba in a semi-final.

Winner Enters State Meet
Menominee won its place in the finals by beating Manistique. In explaining the manner in which the tournament was conducted, Roberts said that during the school year, each of the 23 teams had four preliminary debates, and those winning three or more were eligible for the so-called elimination tournament. The quarter-finals and semi-finals have been held, and the Marenisco and Menominee debate here constitutes the finals.

Following the debate a banquet will be served at the college for all debaters. Approximately 75 attended last year and about the same number is expected for this year's event.

In addition to debating for the upper peninsula championship, the Marenisco and Menominee debaters will be competing for the right to enter the quarter-finals in the state high school debate tournament to be held approximately two weeks after the U. P. finals.

Library Receives Original Volume By Schoolcraft

Clarence B. Randall, of Chicago, president of the Inland Lime and Stone company has presented the Manistique public library an original volume of Henry Schoolcraft's "Thirty Years Among the Indians". It was announced here yesterday.

Mr. Randall's presentation was made to the library through A. J. Cayla, superintendent of the Inland Lime and Stone company's operations here.

His letter explaining the volume and his purpose in presenting it to the Manistique library follows:

A. J. Cayla, general superintendent, Inland Lime and Stone Company Manistique, Mich.

Because of the many interests which our company has in the Upper Peninsula, which are supplemented by very happy recollections, I have become absorbed in trying to inform myself more accurately concerning the early history of that district.

Among all of the early figures, none is more outstanding than that of Henry Schoolcraft, who seems to have been too long neglected by those of us in the present generation.

I have been fortunate in securing three original books by Schoolcraft, and it is my pleasure to send you, under separate cover, for presentation to the public library of Manistique, a book of his published at Philadelphia in 1851, which constitutes a running account of his interesting life between 1812 and 1842.

There are parts of this rather large volume which can be readily skimmed, but there is scarcely a chapter but that will repay careful study by anyone who knows and loves the Upper Peninsula.

Schoolcraft was born in Albany in 1793, of a prosperous father, and was fortunate in securing the foundation of a good education. Thereafter, throughout his life he continued his self-instruction, and it is fortunate that one who was so active on the frontier was at the same time a good scholar, and gifted writer.

He became the first Indian agent at the Soo, making his residence there for many years, and later on the Island of Mackinac. He made five trips by canoe from the Soo to Duluth, and two to the Mississippi, where he discovered the source in Itasca Lake. The Journal of his first trip to the Mississippi in 1812 is so rare that I have not yet been able to secure it, but I have the original Journal of his second trip in 1832, together with a summary narrative of both trips which he rewrote in 1854.

In the book which I am sending you are many interesting things. On page 102 he describes Grand Island, which then had a population of forty-six Indians, and comments on its fine harbor.

The word Algoma, which is so familiar to us, is one which he created to mean the sea of the Algonquians.

On page 123 he describes vividly the method of catching whitefish in the Soo rapids.

He refers to Manistique on pages 228, 444, 484, and 610. He uses the name Manistique, but it is perfectly clear that he is talking about the Manistique River, since he says that its headwaters are near those of the Tahquamenon. He also makes it clear that the location is on the north shore of Lake Michigan.

Then on page 228, I was very much interested to find that he landed on the point just west of Port Inland, which he called "Choiswa," meaning in Chippewa smooth-rock. It is easy to see how this might become corrupted into Soul Choix of the French meaning "only choice."

Conversely, it is conceivable that the French name came first, and that Schoolcraft erroneously gave it an Indian derivation, but I should be inclined to believe him, as he was a very thorough individual. Incidentally, he reports that hundreds of names were found scratched upon the rock.

On page 354 he forecasts the building of a great harbor near Presque Isle at Marquette, which of course, has most abundantly come true.

In 1836 he participated in the treaty by which the whole eastern end of the peninsula was purchased from the Indians, an event the centennial of which should have been celebrated in 1936. In other words, every one who owns property in Manistique is indebted to Schoolcraft for that treaty.

I hope that the presence of this volume in the Manistique library may stimulate young people to inform themselves concerning the fascinating early history of the

ILLNESS TAKES LOUIS SCHRAM

Retired Soo Line Caller Dies In Gladstone At Age of 79

Louis Schram, 79, retired Soo Line employee, died at his home in Gladstone Thursday. He had been in failing health for several months and critically ill since last Friday.

Mr. Schram, who was with the Soo Line for 34 years prior to his retirement at the age of 71, was born in Knoeke, Belgium, Aug. 25, 1859, and came to the United States at the age of 18. He came to the upper peninsula and Republic in the year of 1888 where he worked in the mines for four years. He removed from there coming to this city in 1892 and after working for the Pittsburgh coal company for one year, returned to Belgium. There on January 19, 1894, he was married to Nettie Beausaert. In April of that year he returned to Gladstone.

He re-entered the employ of the coal company and worked until 1896 when he started on the flour dock for the Soo Line. In 1907 he was transferred to the depot as baggage man which position he held until he assumed a job as caller.

While employed by the railroad, Mr. Schram was a member of the Order of Railway Clerks. He was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters and of All Saints parish.

Surviving are 12 children: Frank Schram, of Sacramento, Calif., who is now enroute to Gladstone for the last rites; Fred and Sylvester of Gladstone; Mrs. Irving Brown, Escanaba; Mrs. Phil Goudreau, Gladstone; Mrs. Louis Reese, Iron Mountain; Gregory, Sault Ste. Marie; Paul, Blanche and Genevieve, at home; James, of Lansing. There is also a brother, Frank, of Gladstone, a sister in Los Angeles, and two sisters in Belgium, in addition to 18 grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Swenson funeral parlors, and the last rites will probably be held Monday.

Michigan In Washington

(By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty) Hiroshi Salto, former ambassador from Japan, is dead. He was a fine gentleman, who loved America too well. His pro-American feeling made the last months at his post difficult, and was undoubtedly a factor in his physical collapse.

War with China broke out while the ambassador was traveling with a small group of us to Michigan to attend the 1937 Cherry Festival in Traverse City. He did not avoid the subject, as most diplomats would. From an Oriental, his candid remarks endeared him to all of us.

That trip "to the interior" was his last one. After the Panay incident he and Madame Salto and their two charming daughters practically withdrew from social life, although the ambassador made frequent trips to the state department. He was sad. Then he became seriously ill. Finally a new envoy replaced him, and it was expected he would return to Japan to be honored by the foreign office. The Saltos moved out of their beautiful embassy residence where they had entertained so graciously, into a hotel. He would not be sorry to die in America, "where you say what you think."

Hiroshi Salto was a cosmopolitan, and proved it in his enjoyment and appreciation of his Michigan experience. He told his attaché: "This is America," and for dessert ordered cherry pie.

Maybe the silvery smelt will accomplish what the Michigan state society could not—get the two Michigan Franks to break bread together in the capital. Both Governor Frank Fitzgerald and Attorney General Frank Murphy have been invited to the smelt dinner, where many a Michigan product will be served along with the fish, by Fred Bradley, Rogers City congressman. The dinner will be held in the House restaurant on April 6. As a forerunner of the annual smelt jamboree in Escanaba on April 13 to 15, this party promises to herald the event nationally.

What a Michigan feast it will be! Potatoes from Old Orchard farm of John P. Norton, publisher of the Escanaba Press; beans and beans offered by the Michigan Beet Sugar Association and the Michigan Bean Association. Governor Fitzgerald offered these vegetables also, right from his own farm. The Michigan Cannery Association is sending to Joe Sturgeon some cherries for pies. Mr. Sturgeon of Gladstone, secretary to Congressman Bradley, is generalissimo of the dinner. This means that the Apple Institute must be content with an apple at each plate. Dairy products are coming from Sault Ste. Marie. About everything a congressman or newspaper guest might expect at a Michigan dinner seems to be already provided—except some Kalamazoo celery or a Michigan-made automobile for transportation to the dinner.

New York, March 2 (AP)—Bond prices edged their way upward today in a session which saw industrial issues generally reach their highest average since last August.

Among leaders in the upward movement were Studebaker 6s of '45 which advanced 1/8-1/4 at 84-1/2.

Among falls, Santa Fe 4s of '95 gained 5/8 at 109 3/4; Nickel plate 4-1/2 of '78 gained one point at 65 1/4-1/2.

South American issues again lead the foreign field with steady advances. Montevideo 7s of '52 jumped 4/8 to 84 1/2.

Transactions totaled $7,332,400 face value compared with $7,652,000 yesterday.

particularly in Great Britain and Sweden.

We ought to be able to take advantage of the enormous body of existing experience in this field. It is to be hoped that the committee will hear not only labor and industry but disinterested and impartial students and experts.

For if we could bring some real order into labor-employer relations we would bring about one of the first essentials to real economic recovery in this country.

The labor relations act has fulfilled a function in establishing without question the right of workers to organize in independent trade unions and it has been responsible for a very healthy airing of the stupid and reactionary policies of some of our industries. But it is inadequate as a means of fulfilling its avowed purpose, which is to bring about industrial peace.

Radically to diminish industrial strife certainly requires independent labor organizations, but it requires more. It requires good will on the part of employers, and that good will is only forthcoming—since employers are also human beings and no better than the rest of us—if they feel that the state, when it intervenes in the relations between themselves in a just spirit. It requires that there be a mechanism for the arbitration and conciliation of disputes to which the validity of these disputes may be judged. It requires that there shall be some certainty that contracts entered into shall be kept.

The Swedish law, for instance, makes illegal all strikes, lockouts, blockades, boycotts or other hostile actions of like nature for the purpose of changing the terms of a contract during the term for which it is signed. And another statute establishes a special labor court to adjudicate questions arising under the law of collective contracts. Its seven members are appointed with a view to achieving a really judicial spirit, two representing employers, two from a trade-union panel and three neutral. The chairman and vice-chairman must have had experience as court judges.

The matter of labor employer relations must, in a democracy, be judged primarily from the viewpoint of promoting the peace, prosperity and security of all of the people and the whole of the economy.

The Supreme Court's majority opinion, with the concurring opinion of Justice Stone, is a call to a return to true liberalism—the liberalism that means limitation of scope in the granting of powers, orderly procedure and methods, and recognition of the mutuality of rights and obligations.

In that spirit the United States can meet its major problems without class cleavage and civil strife and remain a people "indivisible and liberty and justice for all."

BY FREDERIC GARDNER

New York, March 2 (AP)—Traders again pulled buying punches in today's stock market and closing prices were well jumbled.

Airplane and specialties did fairly well throughout. Motors edged forward at the last, but steel, copper, oils and utilities showed a predominance of minor declines.

While numerous issues were unable to make headway, a number of favorites managed to post new tops for the past year or so.

Dealings were sluggish throughout, with transfers for the five hours totaling 599,215 shares against 634,604 the day before.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 51.7, duplicating the stalemate of Wednesday.

The domestic news picture was more encouraging than otherwise, and no particular apprehension was shown over foreign affairs.

But brokers found their clients indifferent to what little stimulus appeared.

Some thought the business picture and the European scene were still far from clear, although Wall Street, as a whole, leaned to the optimistic side.

There was an inclination to keep stocks reasonably clear pending President Roosevelt's scheduled address to Congress Saturday when the inaugural session of that body is commemorated.

It was suggested the chief executive might have something to say one way or the other regarding the administration's latest business "appeasement" gesture.

General Motors Up Improvement was registered for General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse and Consolidated Aircraft.

Sears Roebuck, aided by a cheering 4-weeks' sales statement, pushed up a point. Declaration of 2 1/2 dividends by U. S. Rubber on its preferred stock helped that issue to close higher.

Rails were bolstered by the disclosure last week's freight loadings were off less than seasonally. Aircrafts drew support on further armaments profits hopes and an airplane expansion in air passenger traffic.

Motor cars came back when the Buick division of General Motors announced a boost in March production schedules and extension of factory operations from four to five days a week.

Foreign markets slipped in the morning when it was reported Italy was calling several hundred thousand men to the colors. London rallied briskly after it was learned the troop orders merely were for replacement of conscripts whose service terms had been completed.

Both Sterling and the French franc virtually were at a standstill in terms of the dollar. U. S. Government securities tilted upward but corporate bonds were uneven. Commodities held to a narrow range. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off 1/4 of a cent.

American Maracaibo was the liveliest in the curb market with a 1 1/2-point advance and other small gains included Columbia Oil & Gas, Lockheed and Scovill Mfg. Narrowly lower were Electric Bond & Share and Lake Shore. Turnover of 139,000 shares compared with 162,000 Wednesday.

Gladstone Plays Escanaba In Basketball Finale

KEILMEN ARE HOSTS TONIGHT

Battle of Old Rivals Promised; Reserves Also Clash

Gladstone, Mich.—Determined to fight to the finish for victory and successful culmination of their court season, Gladstone high school cagers will entertain Escanaba here tonight.

It will be the second meeting of the teams this year and the major game on the local's schedule. Reserve quintets of the two schools will clash in a preliminary. Defense will be stressed by the Keilmens in their fight for victory. Few teams have been able to do any extensive scoring on them this season and in many instances had they been able to connect with the hoop, this coupled with their staunch defense, would have resulted in a win instead of a loss.

On comparative records, the Eskymos stand out as favorites to win again. However, in the first year, the teams were fairly well matched, the Eskymos winning, 21-16, after a hard battle. Against Ishpeming on the Hematites' home floor, Escanaba lost 19-16, while Gladstone dropped a thriller, 18 and 15.

Kee Back in Line
This, then, is evidence that the game should be a battle from start to finish. Added to this is the keen rivalry between the schools which is a great equalizer between favorites and underdogs. Gene Kee, regular guard, who has been out of competition for the past two weeks, will be ready for action tonight. Other potential starters are Capt. Zervic at center, Dahl and Knutson at forward and Petrovich at the other guard. There is a possibility that Marble will be used at forward in place of Dahl and Price at guard instead of Kee.

Starters on the Escanaba team are likely to be Swanson and Barron, forwards; Olsen, center; and Hansen and Bennett, guards.

AFTER NO 11
With 10 season victories tucked safely under their belt, the Eskymos tonight will journey to Gladstone with the hope of winning their eleventh and final game of the season. The two reserve teams will play in a preliminary which will start at 7:15. In their previous encounter, the Eskymos won a convincing victory over the Keilmens cagers, 21-16. Both teams have vastly improved and by all indications, it should be a good game. Despite the fact that Gladstone has not been too constant in winning, they are always dangerous on their home court.

Coach Nordberg will use his same starting lineup that has been so effective in previous games. This includes Swanson and Barron, forwards; Bennett and Hansen, guards; and Olson at the pivot position. Others who will likely see action are Henry, Meunier, Holmes, Schram, Anderson and Pepin.

Drawing for Iron Mt. Meet To Be Held Next Monday

Iron Mountain—Drawings for the district class B and D basketball tournament at Iron Mountain high school Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week will be held at the school at 4 p. m. next Monday. It was announced today by Principal Bruce Guild, tournament manager. Representatives of all participating schools have been invited to be present.

Positions one and six will be seeded in the class B bracket and positions one and four in class D. All schools have been advised they must submit their records for the season prior to the drawings in order to be considered for seeded berths.

On the basis of their records thus far Escanaba and Iron Mountain are expected to get the seeded positions in class B, over Kingsford, Menominee, Gladstone and Manistique. Bates and Alpha will probably be seeded over Quinnesec and Amasa in class D. The tournament will be conducted in three sessions. First round games March 9 are slated for 7, 8 and 9 o'clock. Three semifinals Friday are set for the same hours and the finals on Saturday will begin at 8 and 9 o'clock.

U.P. Basketball Teams Close Season Tonight

Upper peninsula high school basketball quintets play their final scheduled contests tomorrow and Saturday nights and next week more than 50 teams will contest on eight courts for 15 district titles. Winners in each will appear in Northern State Teachers college gymnasium during the U. P. tournament March 16, 17 and 18.

Several squads already have finished their seasons, among them the outstanding Crystal Falls, Graverat (Marquette), Iron Mountain, Norway and Trout creek teams. Eddie Chambers' powerful five, boasting one of the two perfect records in the peninsula, turned in a decisive 31 to 14 victory over Iron Mountain last week, its fourteenth consecutive win. Defeated only twice in the last two years, since they lost to Newberry in the U. P. Class C final in Ironwood in 1937, the Iron county cagers easily command the spotlight in district and regional meets and, unless something unexpected happens, are favored to retain the championship.

Redmen Had Good Season
With its 20 to 14 defeat of Menominee Saturday, Graverat completed its most successful campaign in years. In coping their eleventh triumph against three defeats, the Marquette Redmen kept their unique defensive record of not permitting any opponent more than 20 points, at the same time serving notice they won't be pushovers in the district tourney—even on Ishpeming's floor.

Iron Mountain, which ran up eight wins and six losses, lost home and home games only to Crystal Falls. Since they will not bump against the Falls crew in tournament competition, the Mountaineers can be expected to give a good account of themselves, especially on their own floor. Norway, a Class C school which plays mostly Class B foes, equaled Iron Mountain's record and likewise lost only to Crystal Falls in home and home engagements.

Chief opposition to Norway in the Stephenson district meet, where eight Class C teams are entered, probably will come from Hermansville, which has lost only one game.

Trout Creek, one of the top ranking Class D schools in the peninsula with a record of 16 wins and one defeat, is preparing for the district meet in Ironwood. Only Bergland, last year's U. P. champion, appears strong enough to provide a stumbling block for Eddie Morcombe's Red Raiders' march to the regional tourney.

Trenary's Record At Stake
Two outstanding teams in the Marquette district put finishing touches on successful seasons tomorrow night. Trenary, its perfect 14-game string at stake, plays Rock at home. Rock lost only to St. Paul, of Negaunee, and Manistique in 12 games and should provide Trenary with plenty of opposition.

Baraga Parochial (Marquette), its 15 wins far outweighing an upset loss to Sacred Heart (Laurium), meets Ontonagon. Scheduled to meet Ontonagon on the latter's floor late in December, that game was postponed and tomorrow night's engagement here gives Marquette fans their first opportunity to see Coach Maurice Richards' team in action. Richards, who played for Baraga and Northern State Teachers college before beginning coaching, just missed adding the Little Five conference title to Ontonagon's collection this season. His team has won eight games and lost four.

Here's the menu for remaining games:

SAULT IS LAST MATHERITE FOE

Munising Crew Hoping for Victory Tonight On Home Floor

Munising, March 2.—The Mather high school cagers will ring down the curtain on local high school basketball this season when they meet the strong Sault Ste. Marie five here on the Mather gym floor on Friday evening. Putting all of their first string cagers into the game, Coach Bob Villemure expects that his Mather crew will show plenty of opposition to the Lock City five.

Last week the Mather quintet defeated the Negaunee high school squad, 19-17, in an overtime tilt at Negaunee. In the last few minutes of action the Mather crew showed plenty of fight and spirit and fans are hoping that the quintet is in its way back. Suffering a slump after a good start, the Mather have lost to Newberry, Marquette, Baraga Parochials of Marquette, and Negaunee, a defeat they revenged last week. The Soo five defeated the Mather in the eastern city early in the season and the defeat would do much to give the Mather a better ranking in the estimation of the main games will start at 8:15 and the preliminary at 7:15. Eben high school and the Munising reserves will meet in the preliminary.

Fischer Birling In Philadelphia

Word has been received here that Harold Fischer, roll roller of Stillwater, Minn., is giving exhibitions of birling this week at the Motor Boat and Sports Show in Philadelphia.

Fischer competed in the Escanaba role in 1937 and 1938. He was interviewed over the radio at the side of the birling pool, he writes.

New York Probably Won't Get That Louis-Galento Punchfest

Atlanta, Ga., March 2 (AP)—It's a brand new match, so it might be expected to light anywhere, but there are reasons to believe the Joe Louis-Tony Galento heavyweight title bout won't light in New York.

Not that promoter Mike Jacobs has picked up a hot stove and can't find a place to put it down. On the contrary, he says that several cities are bidding for the affair, and although he has limited the field somewhat, including only the United States, there should be little fear that it will not come off as scheduled, or perhaps the fear should be that it will come off as Commissioner Bill Brown of New York never has been a great admirer of Galento's fighting ability, and he has the quaint notion that Pitcher Tony should prove he can fan out more than second rounds before he is permitted a major league trial.

Perkins Trounces Bark River Five

Perkins, Mich.—Perkins high school defeated five scrappy boys from Bark River here Wednesday evening in a fast tilt marred by 35 fouls.

Four boys were sent to the showers before the game ended. Stanley Gerou recaptured an early Bark River lead and contributed 12 points for the victors. Olson led his Bark River mates with 13 points.

Topping Timber-topping Mark

High spot of the National A. A. U. championships in New York's Madison Square Garden came when Detroit's Allan Tolmich smashed the world indoor record for the 65-meter high hurdles. Above, Tolmich, right, wins in 8.4 seconds, with Roy Staley, of the University of Southern California second.

EMERALDS FACE MAROON QUINT

Menominee Is Foe for Manistique In Last Home Game

Manistique — The Manistique high school basketball team will wind up its pre-tournament season tonight, opposing Menominee at the new gymnasium. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock, and will be preceded by a preliminary game between the Manistique Reserves and Rapid River High school team at 7:15 o'clock.

The Manistique starting lineup will include Olson, at center; Hoholik and G. Hellsten, guards; Noe and McMillan, forwards. It will be the last high school game at home for Hoholik, Hellsten and Olson, who are seniors.

Manistique defeated Menominee, 15 to 14, in the first meeting between the teams at Menominee earlier this season, and from that game, it is expected the teams will provide plenty of competition tonight. The Emeralds are anxious to make it two victories in succession over the State-liners.

Last Friday Manistique nosed out Gladstone, 14 to 13, in a closely fought battle here, and another victory this week would give the Emeralds a good sendoff for the district tournament at Iron Mountain.

Lars Cameron of Rapid River will officiate.

MAROONS TRAVEL

Menominee, March 2.—Menominee's Maroons will ring down the curtain on the worst basketball season in the school's history Friday night when they travel to Manistique to face Coach T. H. Reque's Emeralds.

Menominee came closer to defeating Manistique than any other team they have met in their first 13 games, and they have a strong hunch they still may win a game on the schedule, even if it is in Manistique's own ballcourt.

When the two teams met here in January neither had won a game. Manistique nosed out a 16 to 15 win when a late Maroon drive fell short.

Since that time, however, Menominee has had a new team. Although Jack Refling may not see much action tomorrow night, he will be in enough of the game that he might make it hot for Manistique.

Refling is recuperating from a sprained ankle. He worked out with the squad this week and is expected to see some action Friday. The squad will lose Lionel Bushey, however, who is still out with an injured back received in the Marinette game.

Coach Bernard H. McCann said the team would leave at 12:30 Friday afternoon by bus from the school.

Munising Invites Independent Cage Teams To Tourney

Munising, March 2.—Munising will be host to all star basketball squads from all over the upper peninsula on March 24 and 25 when the independent basketball tournament will be held here.

Already entries received here have pointed to a good tournament. The Marquette Bottlers, Grand Marais Independents, Herb's of Rock and the Tip Top Cafe five of Marquette are among the squads who have signified their intention of appearing for the tourney. The Munising Lew's five and the local CYO squad will also be entered.

Teams which plan to enter the tournament are urged to get their entries in as soon as possible by the tournament manager, Frank Fleming. Time limitations on the gym will keep down the number of teams which can be entered.

Independent crews seeking further information are invited to write Frank Fleming, Munising.

TOURIST TRADE IS INCREASING

AAA Reports Large Sums Are Appropriated for Advertising

"With the tourist industry growing yearly more competitive in nature, many additional states are launching intensive tourist-promotion campaigns, and budgets ranging up to $500,000 are being appropriated," says a bulletin of the American Automobile Association, Washington, D. C. "These campaigns are proving their value not only in attracting national attention to established or newly developed playgrounds, but also to maintain the standing of vacation areas that have enjoyed popularity over a long period of years."

"The cash value alone of tourist trade is of tremendous importance," continues the bulletin. "New Mexico, for instance, finds that its tourist crop produces more revenue annually than do its agriculture, mining or livestock industries. Perhaps of even greater significance is the prestige that a state gains when thousands of people come from across its borders to enjoy its scenery and climate, to learn its history and to become familiar with its customs, its ways of thought, and its objectives for a future place among the great family of American commonwealths."

"The future course of touring depends, quite naturally, on the extent to which the tourist is given those things he demands and to which he is left free of unduly severe restrictions. Excessive taxation, poor roads, restrictions at state borders, harsh laws, congestion, lack of parking facilities and lack of adequate route markings are some of the principal deterrents to the growth of motor travel. It will continue to grow as long as everything possible is done to assure the movement of the motor car with the maximum of safety and the maximum of economy."

"The short-range outlook for touring points to a continuation of the travel boom of the past few years," the bulletin concludes. "For the years ahead, it appears that the strong travel urge will bring a steady growth, not only in the number of motor vacations but in the golden stream of touring expenditures."

charges against her in connection with delay in deportation proceedings in the case of Harry Bridges, CIO labor leader, and with the move led by Senator Byrnes, South Carolina Democrat, to remove federal employment activities from labor department control, the house incident has possible special significance.

It followed the supreme court's blistering denunciation this week of the "sit-down strike" technique. Miss Perkins, and President Roosevelt as well, were under heavy fire during the 1937 sit-down crises. Administration silence at that time as to the legality or illegality of the technique has obviously been one of the principal points of discord within the Democratic party. Intimates of Vice-President Garner say that this silence, and the administration's spending policies, have been largely responsible for the role he has assumed as reputed leader of a congressional bloc in disagreement with the president on some policies.

This forms part of the background of the house vote on the question whether Miss Perkins should have a share in directing wage-hour fund matters. Another part is the map of the 1938 congressional elections. Democratic losses of house seats were heavy, generally speaking, in those states like Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan which were the major centers of the 1937 sit-down strike crises. The fact that Miss Perkins at that time indicated her uncertainty as to whether sit-downs were an illegal form of Menominee Firemen Sign With A. F. L.

Menominee, Mar. 7.—Delegates representing Menominee firemen, recently organized as members of the International Fire Fighters Union, an A. F. L. affiliate, have been seated in the M. & M. Trades and Labor Council, James Despins, Trades Council president, said today. The 16 men in the Menominee fire department were organized in the Fire Fighters Union in January, and the union delegates were installed in the Trades Council on February 14.

Marinette's 14 firemen were organized in the International Fire Fighters Union in 1918. At a meeting of the Trades Council Tuesday night, in Labor hall in Marinette, a resolution was adopted commending the selection of an American Federation of Labor committee to meet with the CIO in a peace negotiations movement. The Council also urged amicable settlement of difficulties between the two labor organizations.
