PROPOSED TAX INCREASE FOR SCHOOLS DIES

TWO AMENDMENTS GO ON BALLOTS THIS SPRING

Lansing, March 3 (AP)—An eleventh hour attempt to place on the April 3 election ballots a proposed constitutional amendment which would permit school districts operating under the 15 mill tax limitation amendment to impose an additional 20 mills of tax for school improvement purposes failed today.

Shortly after the house of representatives tabled a joint resolution intended to place the proposal on the ballots, the department of state announced it would accept no further proposals for the April election. The ballots were sent to the printers. The mill tax plan, should it be revived, would be left stranded until the 1940 general election.

Lacks Four Votes
The electorate will be asked to pass on two proposed amendments, one to provide for non-partisan selection of the judiciary, the other to clothe the circuit court commissioners with powers similar to those of justices of the peace.

Reps. Ray M. Barrett, Democrat, Muskegon, and Edson V. Root, Sr., Republican, Paw Paw, led the unsuccessful attempt to shove the mill tax resolution through the house this morning. The measure received only 63 votes, a 14 against it. Sixty-seven, a two-thirds majority, would have been required to adopt it.

Rep. Ate Dykstra, Republican, Grand Rapids, led the fight against the resolution, charging that "this is a poor time to weaken the 15-mill tax limitation amendment with the state already deep in the red." He contended it would invite "more spending."

Sponsors of the measure argued that it was needed to permit school districts to finance needed school improvements.

Budget Tackled
The house committee on revision and amendment of the constitution released to the floor for debate next week a joint resolution which would place on the November ballots a proposed amendment to make the office of superintendent of public instruction appointive by the state board of education. It now is elective.

The house ways and means committee meanwhile buckled down in earnest to the task of balancing the state's budget.

Rep. John P. Espie, Republican, Eagle, the chairman, said the committee would prepare a single omnibus appropriation bill which would allot funds for the next biennium to all state departments and institutions.

"With one big bill," Espie said, "we will know where we stand. If we do it piece by piece, with separate bills for groups of institutions, we won't know where we stand."

Demands for appropriations lower $49,000,000 higher than the anticipated revenues for the two years.

Hits at Lobbyists
Espie said the committee would match its own estimates of needs with the recommendations to be submitted late this month by Governor Fitzgerald, then seek to reconcile the two.

The house today deferred until Tuesday debate on the controversy.

Clean Up Gambling Or Face Recall, Is Threat Of Minister

Battle Creek, Mich., March 3 (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read conferred with the Rev. Amos B. Bogart, Battle Creek minister, for 45 minutes late today regarding Bogart's letter to Governor Fitzgerald demanding that he "clean up" the whole rotten gambling mess in the state or face a recall movement.

At the end of the conference Read told reporters: "I have learned nothing that was not contained in the letter. As far as I am concerned the whole matter is in the hands of the state police."

Capt. Laurence A. Lyon of the state police, who with Assistant Attorney General James A. Greene accompanied Read, would make no comment.

The Rev. Mr. Bogart said he had been invited to Lansing Saturday for a further conference on his charges. He said that during the conference today he had neither "retracted nor substantiated" his charges.

MERIT SYSTEM HEAD APPOINTED

Huff Must Economize As First Job; Asikainen Is Reinstated

Lansing, March 3 (AP)—Governor Fitzgerald's new civil service commissioner appointed an acting director today to succeed William Brownrigg, who resigned to accept a federal post in the justice department, and instructed him to launch an economy campaign as his first duty.

The acting director, Brownrigg's assistant, is Warren M. Huff, a native Texan who came to Michigan from a federal post in Omaha, Neb. He will receive his old salary of $5,000 a year, instead of the $7,500 that Brownrigg drew.

William A. Irving, recently appointed member of the commission, proposed an economy plan that would pare $10,000 from departmental costs for the current fiscal year, for which a deficiency appropriation of $70,000 has been requested. Huff agreed, but warned that a corresponding curtailment of services would be necessary.

The commission approved the reinstatement of Andrew Asikainen, Upper Peninsula auditor for the unemployment compensation commission. Asikainen was discharged last summer when he sought to become a candidate for congress. First a Democrat, Asikainen finally entered the Republican primary and was defeated.

The commission postponed action on a sheaf of requests for the exemption of posts from civil service regulations. Dr. Phillip A. Callahan, head of the old age pension bureau, asked permission to substitute 12 unclassified regional directors for the 23 district supervisors whose jobs under him are protected by civil service.

It was the first meeting since the appointment of the commission's new chairman, Edwin J. Donohue of Niles.

Justices Make No Campaign Speeches

Fitzgerald Finds Pay Cuts Harder Than He Realized

Lansing, March 3 (AP)—Governor Fitzgerald said today he found it impossible to fulfill a campaign pledge to cut state payrolls at the rate of $8,500,000 a year in the first 90 days of his administration.

He said he probably would be "only half way" to that mark by April 1, adding that the job was "bigger than I realized."

"I plan to keep everlastingly at it until the goal is reached," he said.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, 69, On Fifth Hunger Strike

Rajkot, India, March 3 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi began today his fifth hunger strike, determined to continue "unto death" unless the native ruler of Rajkot meets his demands for administrative reforms.

The frail, 69-year-old spiritual leader withdrew from the outside world at noon and spent the rest of the day lying on a rustic cot in his bare 14-by-16-foot room.

Only closest associates could see the bespectacled little holy man. Among them was his 75-year-old sister. She conversed earnestly with him for an hour.

Gandhi demanded that the native ruler of Rajkot, Thakore Sahab Shri Dharmendrasinhji, give the people of the tiny western India state "a voice in the government." Rajkot is about 300 miles northwest of Bombay.

A crowd of spectators watched as Gandhi—who disdains the title "Mahatma," or "saint"—prepared for his fast with a meal of whole wheat bread, tomatoes, cooked vegetables, oranges and a cup of hot goat's milk just before noon.

He had spent the morning following his usual routine of massages, ablutions and attending to his mail.

Ninety minutes after the fast began Gandhi received a letter from the Thakore. It refused to meet his demands.

Gandhi tossed it aside with the remark, "merely adding fuel to the flames."

Physicians said Gandhi's vitality was very low. But the nationalist leader declared he willingly would give his life to get the Rajkot ruler to carry out reforms.

"He who urged me to undertake this fast will give me strength to launch an economy campaign as his first duty," Gandhi said.

"If it is his will, I should still live for a while on this earth to carry on my self-chosen mission to humanity."

New disturbances in India caused two deaths. Troops were sent to Lucknow, 700 miles from Rajkot, after Hindus and Moslems had clashed there. Troops also were ordered to stand by at Amritsar, where one person was killed and 16 injured yesterday.

Gandhi has been left shriveled and emaciated from similar self-denials in the past, chiefly to aid the "untouchables"—India's lowest castes. They were for six days in September, 1932, for three weeks in May, 1933, and for a week each in August, 1933, and August, 1934.

CAPITOL FORUM AT NOON TODAY

Address By Roosevelt Arouses More Than Usual Interest

Washington, March 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt's address tomorrow to "the American people" in connection with the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the first session of congress will provide an opportunity and forum rare in the history of the presidency for national policy declarations.

He is to appear before a joint session of congress by "specific request of a concurrent resolution," and at a moment in the history of the world and of the nation when what he says may be echoed in the course of great events.

His audience will include not only the members of the congress and virtually every high government official, but the diplomatic representatives of 54 countries as well. In addition, it will be broadcast by NBC, CBS, MBS, 12 noon, EST.

Because of the extraordinary occasion—and because there has been no word of what Mr. Roosevelt intends to say—the address has aroused more advance interest than most formal presidential utterances.

High K. of C. Officer Selected To Attend Coronation Of Pope

Jersey City, N. J., March 3 (AP)—Hudson county Supervisor John F. O'Neill, supreme director of the Knights of Columbus, said today he had been designated by Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., to represent the national organization at the coronation March 12 of Pope Pius XII.

O'Neill, a Knight of St. Gregory, said he had been informed of his selection by telegram. He made plans to sail from New York tomorrow on the Italian liner, Rex.

The Hudson county layman met the new pontiff, then Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, at a national convocation of the K. of C. in Chicago in 1935.

CHANGE IN NLRB SOUGHT BY AFL

Secretary Perkins Asks Tobin to Help Effect Labor Truce

Washington, March 3 (AP)—A demand for sweeping reorganization of the national labor relations board came from the American Federation of Labor today while the administration was completing arrangements for AFL-CIO peace conferences.

In a statement issued simultaneously with introduction in the house of AFL-sponsored amendments to the labor act, William Green, AFL president, said changes were necessary to "safeguard the act from being entirely destroyed by the present national labor relations board."

One proposed amendment would increase the board membership from three to five.

Whether the act should be amended is a point of controversy between the AFL and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The CIO opposes any change at this congressional session.

Secretary Perkins announced she had arranged tentatively to bring the AFL and CIO peace committees together Tuesday for a White House conference with President Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt asked the rival labor organizations last week to name committees to try again to effect a settlement of their differences.

Miss Perkins said she was confident the peace conferences would end the three-year-old warfare in labor's ranks.

She said she had asked Daniel J. Tobin, head of the Teamsters Union, to reconsider his decision not to participate in the peace conferences as an AFL negotiator.

Negro Contralto Allowed To Sing In Capital School

Washington, March 3 (AP)—The board of education reversed itself today and voted to permit Marian Anderson, negro contralto, to sing in the Central high school (for white students) auditorium on Easter Sunday.

Before the board's first decision to bar the singer from use of the auditorium, the Daughters of the American Revolution denied her use of their Constitution Hall.

Later, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told a press conference that she had resigned from a national-wide organization in a disagreement over policy, but refused to confirm or deny that the organization was the DAR.

Doe Deer In Ice Near Ludington

Ludington, Mich., March 3 (AP)—Hope that a predicted drop in temperature would enable a doe to escape from slush ice on Lake Michigan near the mouth of the Sable river was expressed tonight by conservation officers who said they were helpless to rescue the marooned animal.

If a freeze materializes, it was believed the animal would be able to return to the mainland.

Unable to get a footing, the doe was engulfed at times by the heavy surf but was still on her feet at sundown Friday.

LAUGH BEATS BURGALAR

Philadelphia, March 3 (AP)—Pretty Dorothy Matthews laughed and laughed when a man poked a pistol at her in a bakery today. She thought it was a joke. The robber, bewildered, fled.

WORLD PEACE KEYNOTE FOR POPE PIUS XII

NEW PONTIFF SENDS SPECIAL BLESSING TO AMERICA

Vatican City, March 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII made peace the keynote of his pontificate today in an unprecedented message to the world at the outset of his reign.

His unexpected broadcast from the Sistine chapel to the far corners of the earth stressed a note of conciliation which many expected would characterize his policies.

The peace he invoked was "that peace, sublime gift of heaven, which is desired by all honest souls and which is the fruit of charity and justice."

MAY BE SECRETARY
Vatican City, March 3 (AP)—Vatican prelates predicted tonight that Luigi Cardinal Maglione, former nuncio to Paris, would be the next papal secretary of state.

Pius XII, as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, held the post for eight years and will make the appointment.

Prelates said selection of Cardinal Maglione to carry out the Holy Father's peace policy was almost certain because of his diplomatic experience, his comparative youth among the cardinals—he is 62 years old—and his intimate friendship with the pontiff since they were classmates at Capranica college in Rome.

Words—broadcast by the Vatican radio station—to all, and extended his blessing not only to all Catholics but to those outside the church. Earlier he had set his coronation for Sunday, March 12.

The entire college of cardinals—61 members now that Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli has been chosen pontiff—gathered to make their third obedience, the last act of ceremonial homage which follows a pope's election.

Then they met in the Sistine chapel, still furnished with its conclave equipment, to hear the signing of a Te Deum. At the end of this, a microphone was set before the papal throne for the broadcast of the pontiff's message.

No More Secrecy
The secrecy which customarily surrounds the conclave tended to disappear. Vatican prelates reported that Cardinal Pacelli received 35 votes on the first ballot, including the unanimous support of the 27 foreign cardinals. On the second ballot the total rose to 40.

Prelates said that on the third ballot he received 61 votes. The 62nd, his own, was understood to have been given to the dean of the college of cardinals, Genaro Cardinal Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte.

William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, forecast today a "remarkable pontificate" for the new pope.

"The holy father is truly a beautiful character," he said, "a man of great intelligence and wide experience. He is humble and he is clever. He possesses

Court Is Correct On Sit-downs, Says Attorney Murphy

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Attorney General Frank Murphy said today he was "one with the supreme court" in his attitude toward sit-down strikes.

He referred to a recent decision of the court that such strikes are illegal, and that sit-down strikers who seize their employers' factories lose the right to protection by the national labor relations board.

Queen Hotel Fire Toll Believed 25; More Bodies Found

Halifax, Nova Scotia, March 3 (Canadian Press)—Six unidentified bodies had been recovered tonight as the danger of falling walls halted search for additional victims of the Queen Hotel fire in which 25 persons were believed to have perished.

Firemen said the exact toll may never be known, since the hotel register was destroyed.

The six bodies recovered were burned so badly that positive identification appeared impossible.

WAR NOT OVER; SPAIN STIFFENS

Britain and France Are Embarrassed By New Turn of Events

London, March 3 (AP)—The Madrid government, now deprived of the recognition of Britain and France, is embarrassing these two countries by apparently stiffening its resistance to the nationalists and thwarting the two democracies' attempts to bring an early end to the Spanish civil war.

The Republicans were stubbornly holding onto their capital today, and also to the one-fourth of the country still in their hands, whereas British and French leaders expressed belief, as they extended formal recognition to the nationalists last Monday, that the war must end soon with Madrid's defeat.

Britain and France are anxious to have the war end and to penetrate into the new Spain's economic life, in which Italy and Germany, as older friends of the nationalists, already are entrenched.

But there was no sign of immediate capitulation. The situation was exemplified in shouts of defiance hurled by a famous woman leader on each side.

Dolores Ibarruri, woman Communist fighter known as "La Pasionaria," declared at Madrid that the government would win the war yet.

At Burgos, the nationalist capital, Pilar Primo de Rivera, daughter of the former strong man premier, declared "entry of our troops into Madrid is near."

Los Angeles, March 3 (AP)—William W. Church, who was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1861 and is believed to be its oldest living alumnus, celebrated his 99th birthday here today.

But he added he takes his learning "in easy doses," from his daily newspaper.

Ionla, (AP)—Circuit Judge William B. Brown Friday sentenced Donald Van Hof, 43, of Grand Rapids, to nine months, to 15 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan for perjury. Police said Van Hof's automobile driver's license had been revoked for drunken driving, but that he obtained another by swearing falsely that his license had never been taken from him.

Legalized Bingo And Keno Urged

Lansing, March 3 (AP)—The conduct of raffles and keno and bingo games by religious and fraternal organizations would be legalized under a bill introduced in the House of Representatives today by Reps. Edward J. Walsh and William G. Buckley, Democrats, Detroit.

The introduction of the bill followed disorders that marked a police raid on a bingo game sponsored by a fraternal organization in Detroit recently.

Nazis Ban Tobacco And Alcohol With '12 Commandments'

Berlin, March 3 (AP)—The Nazi leadership today called on German youth to assume a new "national duty"—abstinence from alcohol and tobacco in emulation of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Opening a campaign against intoxicants and smoking, youth leader Baldur von Schirach and other orators held up the fuhrer, who neither drinks nor smokes, as the example for all good Nazis.

Since beer was not mentioned, it was assumed that the campaign was directed only against hard liquor.

As the drive started, a ban on pushing the sale of cigars and cigarettes was imposed by the Nazi-organized restaurant and refreshment trades in their own establishments.

"National Duty"
Twelve commandments were listed by the Nazis to back a slogan urging that "wholesome life is a national duty." These objectives were set:

1. Abstinence of youth from alcohol and tobacco.
2. Abstinence of pregnant and nursing mothers; abstemiousness by those endangered by either alcohol or tobacco.
3. Alcoholic abstinence whenever carrying special responsibilities, such as driving an auto; severe punishment to be imposed for alcoholic offenses.
4. Control of alcohol and tobacco advertising by a German business council in close cooperation with Nazi leaders.
5. Prohibition of advertising that promotes alcohol or tobacco as beneficial to health or useful in preventing disease.
6. Use of at least a third of alcohol consumption taxes for establishing settlements for hereditarily sound families comprised of numerous children.
7. Establishment of public restaurants which do not serve alcoholic drinks.
8. Increase in manufacture of non-alcoholic drinks at low prices.
9. Promotion of scientific experiments on non-alcoholic drinks.
10. A publicity campaign on the nature of alcohol, the misuse of tobacco, and their dangers to the people and the race.
11. Education of youth in wholesome conduct as a national duty.
12. Physical exercise for the entire nation.

SINKING SEALER TOWED TO PORT

Gale-Lashed Seas Balk Removal of Crew On Stricken Ship

Halifax, Nova Scotia, March 3. (Canadian Press)—The leaking Newfoundland sealing ship Ranger dropped anchor in the outer harbor of Trepassay, Nfld., tonight, safe with her 132 crewmen after three days of buffeting by high seas.

The Ranger was towed to her haven by the Imogene, a larger vessel of the same sealing fleet which put a line aboard her this afternoon. The Ranger's crew had bailed ceaselessly with buckets and barrels to keep her afloat in the mountainous waves.

The British steamship Newfoundland, bound to Liverpool, England, from Boston escorted the two sealers into Trepassay Bay after having previously taken off 18 of the crew of the damaged 354-ton vessel.

Both the Imogene and the Newfoundland had been standing by the Ranger, a 67-year-old wooden ship, since yesterday. They sped to the assistance of the vessel after she flashed distress signals.

GUNS, PLANES TO BUILD UP U. S. DEFENSE

DON'T BE DRAGGED INTO WAR; NATION IS WARNED

Washington, March 3 (AP)—A record-breaking $499,857,936 appropriation bill for the army won house approval today amid warnings in the senate that congressional failure to keep close tabs on American foreign policy might drag the nation into war.

The huge supply measure, largest since 1922 and carrying the first funds for a proposed $300,000,000 expansion of the air corps, rolled through the house without a record vote or a single amendment. The legislation now goes to the senate.

Not One Amendment
Representative Snyder (D-Pa.), in charge of the bill on the floor, declared the fact that no amendments were offered was without parallel in the nation's constitutional history and constitute "a firm expression of America's attitude toward such dictatorships as might attempt to disturb the peace of the western hemisphere."

The measure carried actual funds for the operation of the army and is distinct from a measure which the house passed two weeks ago and which "authorizes" a $358,000,000 expansion of the army, including the air corps. The latter measure carried no funds.

In addition to the purchase of 784 military planes, mostly combat types, today's bill would provide for reinforcement of sea coast defenses, for semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, modernized field artillery and mobile anti-aircraft guns.

Asleep On the Job
Shortly before acting on the measure, the house heard Rep. Collins (D-Miss.), frequent critic of army policies, declare that if recent reports of Germany's tremendous air power were true, American military and naval attaches abroad were "asleep on the job" and should be "eliminated from the service."

The Mississippiean asserted that on the basis of confidential information furnished last year by the navy's intelligence service, the house appropriations committee had assured congress the United States was unexcelled in naval aviation and second only to Great Britain in army or navy aviation on the basis of planes on hand, ordered and appropriated for.

"In God's name, what have these attaches been doing," he shouted, "if in the space of less than 12 months, unbeknown to them, a complete reversal of the picture has taken place and one power which ranked below Russia and Italy in the confidential report to which I refer is now represented to have a force the equal of almost the combined forces of all of the other large powers of the world?"

May Embarrass Congress
At the other end of the capitol, Senator Nye (R-ND) told the senate during its consideration of the $358,000,000 army expansion bill that the president's control over foreign policy might conceivably place congress in a position where it would be forced to declare war almost against its will.

"A foreign policy being what it is," the North Dakotan said, "congress will do well to insist upon having closer knowledge of what that policy is, lest it find itself one day with a challenge for a declaration of war on its hands."

Nye outlined steps which he said might fit into a propaganda campaign leading to war.

"Perhaps a first work will be to have us build our military machine for the service of foreigners," he said. "The second work is to have us secretly trade and deal with a foreign empire."

Insults Come Next
A third step, Nye continued, is

A $499,857,936 appropriation bill for the army, largest since 1922, was passed by the house without amendment or a record vote.

The chairman of the two congressional committees handling tax legislation requested Secretary Morgenthau to submit plans that would "encourage private industry to increase employment."

Morgenthau declared that the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund had never been used to help foreign countries purchase armaments.

The American Federation of Labor demanded a sweeping reorganization of the national labor relations board.

EDNA HANNULA LOSES IN SUIT

'No Cause for Action'
Favors Escanaba
Defendants

A verdict of "no cause for action" was given last night by a jury in the $50,000 suit of Miss Edna Hannula, 21, of Ishpeming, against Mr. and Mrs. Axel Schoenberg, Escanaba, and six other defendants in circuit court at Marquette. The case grew out of an automobile accident which occurred on US-41 in December, 1937. Miss Hannula sought damages for serious injuries to her right leg, caused when she was struck, while standing on the highway, by a car driven by Edward Werholm of Negaunee, who was not a defendant in the suit.

Miss Hannula, the jury was told, was injured about 1 a. m., December 5, 1937. Gordon Roberts, of Negaunee, accompanied by Miss Bertha Luoma, of Negaunee, driving a car owned by Victor Luoma, turned west onto US-41 towards Negaunee from the Airport Inn.

Forced to Side
In attempting to pass a car parked at the edge of the highway, it is contended, Roberts was forced to drive partly on the left side of the road. Because of icy road conditions the car would not respond to his efforts to bring it back to the right side, and he was struck by an automobile driven by Axel Schoenberg, who was proceeding toward Marquette.

Roberts and Miss Luoma were injured in the crash and were taken to the Negaunee hospital. A few minutes later, a car driven by Donald Kulkas, of North Lake, approached from the east and crashed into the Schoenberg and Luoma cars which were across the highway.

A fourth car owned by Peter Glotto and driven by Joseph Glotto, of North Lake, which was following, struck the Kulkas car. A few minutes later, the jury was told, the car in which Miss Hannula was riding came to the scene, drove past the wrecked cars and parked at the edge of the highway some distance away.

Walked Back to Scene
Miss Hannula walked back to the scene of the accident and was standing near the Glotto car when she was struck by the automobile driven by Werholm. She suffered a compound fracture of her left leg and was taken to the Twin City hospital, Negaunee.

Attorney Herbert J. Rushton, who with Attorney Carroll C. Rushton of Marquette, represented the plaintiff, told the jury that he would attempt to prove that the defendants made no attempt to "flag down" approaching cars or to remove their automobiles from the highway, that they were negligently responsible for the accidents that resulted in Miss Hannula's injury and that Miss Hannula suffered pain, humiliation, disfigurement and loss of earnings that warranted a verdict in her behalf.

The defense attorneys, Eldredge and Eldredge of Marquette, representing Mr. and Mrs. Schoenberg of Escanaba; George C. Quinnell of Marquette, representing Donald Kulkas; Joseph Kueber of Marquette, representing Peter and Joseph Glotto, and Bernard H. Davidson of Negaunee, representing Gordon Roberts and Victor Luoma, in opening addresses to the jury, contended that the defendants were not guilty of negligence in any manner whatsoever and that Miss Hannula got safely past the scene of the accident and then returned to investigate. Each counsel told the jury that his clients could not be responsible for Miss Hannula's injuries and that the evidence would call for a verdict of "no cause for action."

Miss Hannula was the first witness to take the stand Thursday, and, after giving her version of the accident on questioning by Attorney Herbert Rushton, was cross-examined by Attorney Eldredge. She told the jury that as she walked past the Glotto car she saw a friend in the back seat, apparently injured. A few moments later, she said, she walked to the rear of the car where she was struck.

Students, numbering about 100, who come to school on the buses, and therefore have to carry their lunches, started on Wednesday to get a hot dish to make the meal more palatable and nourishing. Mrs. Mary McPhee is in charge of the cooking and serving. To make this project possible Mrs. Ossie Hazen, Mrs. Roland Boudreau and Mrs. Robert Lester have spent much time with Mrs. McPhee in preparing the room in the hall where the meal is served and also in obtaining and assembling the dishes and utensils used in the serving.

Farmer-parents are being asked to donate meat or vegetables or whatever they can readily spare and Mr. Tebo has obtained a large amount of supplies from the county relief association. Children who have to leave home early and return late are going to be much benefited by this progressive move, and there is no doubt that it will contribute to their greater accomplishments in school work.

LUMBER LOSES PLEA ON HOURS

Exemption Under Wage Act Denied; Ruled Not Seasonal

Washington, D. C.—The wage-hour administration ruled Thursday that the lumber industry was not seasonal in its operations and on that basis denied lumber manufacturers' applications for exemption in part from the 44 hour maximum work week required by the fair labor standards act.

The finding was made by Harold Stein, assistant chief of the exemption section. It is subject to review and revision by Administrator Elmer F. Andrews—on a request from the industry within 15 days for a rehearing.

The ruling affects logging and sawmill operations in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. These were the only states covered by the exemption applications.

Stein ruled that the logging industry "engages in the handling, extracting and processing of materials continuously throughout the year and does not at any time cease production."

The applications for a seasonal finding were made by the Northeastern Lumber Manufacturers' association, the Timber Producers association of Minnesota and several independent operators.

First trans-Atlantic flight was attempted in 1910 by Walter Wellman and a crew in a non-rigid airship.

Buy Mexican Quail For U. S. Hunters Eagle Pass, Tex. (P) — Mr. and Mrs. Bogle, who have a pair of canaries to their name, buy thousands of pounds of birdseed every year. They import bobwhites for this nation's shooting fields. Right now they have 20,000 bobwhites in a warehouse here, all housed in small cages. "These birds have eaten 14,000 pounds of prepared feed since they arrived a short time ago," says Bogle. "They gobble 300 pounds of fresh cabbage every day and it takes more than 100 pounds of paper each morning for mats in the bottoms of the cages." Bogle buys the birds from the natives of Coahuila, Mexico. Many are sold to the Texas State Game commission; others are shipped to distant states. Laws provide that the quail can be imported only for stocking game preserves and not for eating purposes.

Huge Bridge Projects Begun In Washington

Seattle, Wash. — Construction of two bridges, each one a history-making span, each a notable engineering accomplishment, one out of Seattle and the other from Tacoma, has begun. These are the two big projects here for 1939. The Mercer Island Bridge crosses Lake Washington, to the east of Seattle, by way of Mercer Island, thus providing a shorter route to eastern Washington by way of Snoqualmie Pass through the Cascades. Motorists out of Seattle have always been obliged to go around the southern or northern end of the 40-mile long Lake Washington on their way through the mountain pass. The new route by way of the Bridge saves 14 miles over the present route. The Narrows Bridge from Tacoma connects the mainland of Washington with the Olympic Peninsula across a portion of Puget Sound known as the Narrows. This bridge will bring the Olympic Peninsula only a few minutes away which has formerly been reached only by an hour's ferry ride, or by the long drive around by Olympia. It will make accessible to the mainland the beautiful Hood Canal region of the Peninsula and the new Olympic National Park.

Big-Scale Pontoon Bridge The Mercer Island Bridge is unique in bridge construction history in that it is a pontoon bridge on a large scale and has presented problems which have challenged the inventiveness of all engineers concerned. Due to the deeply silted bottom of Lake Washington it was not practicable to build the usual type of bridge with fixed supports on piers. The solution was a pontoon bridge built of reinforced concrete barges moored end to end and interconnected, the top deck of which will be shaped to form a four-lane roadway with sidewalks on either side. The pontoon structure, engineers assure the public, will not sway or give perceptibly even under high wind and wave conditions. An unusual feature of the bridge will be the method of allowing tall ships to pass through when a movable floating unit is designed to telescope into a space left for it between east and west traffic lanes. Steel spans on piers will support the bridge at either end and allow small boats to pass under it. The Narrows bridge at Tacoma, although of the conventional suspension type with fixed supports, has also presented a serious engineering problem. Water through the Narrows being too deep to allow divers to work in laying the foundations, it will be necessary to build the piers from barges in midstream. Concrete will be poured into forms from above, the weight of the concrete gradually lowering the forms into the water.

A Welcomed Project The proposed construction of a bridge across this narrowest part of Puget Sound has had the almost unanimous approval of the entire State. It virtually adds to the mainland an area as large as Connecticut and Rhode Island together. It means that eastern Washington residents, especially

More evidence that the state highway department is seriously interested in the proposal to construct a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac is shown in the statement by G. Donald Kennedy, deputy highway commissioner, that ice blockades offer no obstacle to the construction of the huge span.

Rep. Peter R. Legg of Escanaba, who taught in the public schools of Michigan for almost a half century, came to the defense of the bill, which would provide bus transportation for parochial school children, in a debate in the house on the measure, which had been revived after having been voted down.

The senate finally reached agreement on the Bishop bill to provide funds for advertising Michigan's recreational and agricultural resources. An annual appropriation of $200,000 proposed in the measure was whittled down to $150,000.

London—For years the Mediterranean got into the papers chiefly through the travel ads.

Now it is front page news. "Mare Nostrum" (Our Sea), as Mussolini refers to it, has become vitally important as the possible precipitant of war.

Here it is that "lifelines," radio waves, national pride, and diplomatic influence becomes snarled in the rivalry between the empire-hungry "Have-Nots"—Germany and Italy—and the landed "Haves"—England and France.

The chief rivals are England and Italy—because England is still the dominant power and Italy wants at least to share controls of the sea. No so-called friendship agreement can disguise this rivalry, though these days you hear considerably more about the rivalry between France and Italy.

—ITALY'S POSITION— The English don't dispute Mussolini when he says the Mediterranean is just a road to them while it's life and death to Italy.

They recognize the fact that Italy is the only major power whose whole existence centers in the Mediterranean yet who has no say about either of its exits.

But they also see this question: Can Italy's ambitions be reconciled with British security?

Most of them think not. Italy's ambitions did not become apparent until 1935, when it successfully flouted the mighty British navy and began the conquest of Ethiopia.

After that he intervened in Spain and courted the Arabs. Each move, the experts say, is merely a logical consequence of the drive to turn the Mediterranean into an Italian lake.

Italy's trouble, of course, is that she got started too late—in an era when virtually everything had been taken and empire-snatching had become a sin.

—MAY OVERSHADOW GIBRALTAR— She has not done so badly, however. For by helping Franco to victory in Spain, she may be able to overshadow Britain's up-to-now dominant position at Gibraltar—through bases in Spanish territory.

France has Ceuta, the African tip opposite Gibraltar—the fortified rock from which Britain has dominated the Mediterranean's Atlantic gate for two centuries. Parliament has heard charges that Ceuta is now heavily fortified. Gibraltar's back door is Nationalist Spain.

Many Englishmen, including Prime Minister Chamberlain, count on Mussolini to keep his promise not to take territorial advantage of a Franco victory.

But they can't overlook the strong position Italy already holds at the center of the Mediterranean. With planes and submarines operating from bases on her mainland and her islands as well as in Libya and Albania (over which she holds a veiled protectorate) she might bottle up the Adriatic and throw a barrier across the sea from Sicily.

—SOME ENGLISH OPTIMISM— The English have conjured up several comforting thoughts, however. They say that:

Italy probably is not strong enough to withstand a siege. Her more than 5,000-mile coastline is exceedingly vulnerable and a stretch of sea that could be made very dangerous in wartime separates her from her African empire.

Gibraltar may be neutralized or made untenable, but Britain still has bases in Malta and Palestine (admittedly of questionable value), Cyprus and Egypt, where she guards the Suez canal.

And she could do without the Mediterranean lifeline if she had to—by routing ships to the east around the Cape of Good Hope.

—NO 'GIVING IN' LIKELY— But Britain won't give up her domination of the Mediterranean without a struggle. Here are three reasons why:

1. It gives her political influence in Europe and the Near East.

2. The sea is important strategically.

3. The Mediterranean is a commercial asset—an important link to the great oil areas of the Near East and to Egypt, a big customer.

Mussolini has caused Britain much concern not only by helping Franco in Spain but also by trying to make pals of the Arabs. Some say the latter effort may come too late. The Moslem world from Morocco to Syria is getting restless, all right, and it was properly impressed when Mussolini took Ethiopia. But if a new order is to be established, the Arabs would like to do it themselves.

The same tactics have been a big worry to France. But the French-Italian rivalry makes more headlines out and talk about taking over French-controlled territory.

Such talk is not brand new. As long ago as 1919, before he came into power, Mussolini was proclaiming that "France . . . must lose her Mediterranean empire, beginning with Tunisia which is already Italian by population." (Tunisia now has about 94,000 Italians, 106,000 French.)

Tunisia is the African tip nearest Italy; it is just 90 miles from Italy's Sardinia. Possession of it would greatly increase Italy's strength at the middle of the three Mediterranean "gates."

overwrought world has been rendered more nervous, more overwrought.

In the present state of things we cannot help but wonder at the wisdom of this sort of technique in the creation of suspense. Everyone knows that Mr. Roosevelt is an adept at creating public interest in his utterances and in building up a fever of expectancy about his acts. But is the field of international relations the proper place in which to indulge this skill?

Q. Who were the Jukes? S. W. T.

A. Jukes was the fictitious name of a real family investigated in 1874 by the Prison Association of New York. The family was descended from backwoods settlers and was for the most part composed of imbeciles and criminals. Scientific research leads us to believe that heredity played a large part in the careers of members of this family. It was found that out of 709 members during 75 years, 140 were criminals and 240 were paupers or imbeciles. Margaret Jukes was called the mother of criminals. Further research shows that of 60 descendants whose histories have been traced only three attained prominence as honest citizens.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Manhattan's latest electric sign wonder is the massive display at Columbus Circle for a nationally-known soft drink.

Besides advertising the product, it gives hourly weather reports from official meteorological sources.

Mark Twain said that everybody talked about the weather, but nobody ever did anything about it. But at last, a shrewd advertiser has.

For not only does this sign flash the news of the weather, but also illustrates it. If rain is announced, a downpour is depicted by the miracle mazdas, and so is a snowfall. When the electric sign "Fair and Warmer," Old Sol emerges and smiles benignly from the incandescent lamps. And so forth.

Thousands of New Yorkers are plotting their next-day schedule by the new sign.

Tailors' Despair

Jim Tully always will be the rugged individualist in haberdashers' eyes. He still has not bent his iron will to sartorial Manhattan. He wears his polo shirt—grape at the throat—to all functions and sports hiker's moccasins. And with the bushy, whitened hair that stands, as if in fright, all askew on his head, he cuts a unique figure.

Nor is Tully entirely unself-conscious, for he returns stare for stare when he is in public.

The ex-litinerant has been around New York several months, bent upon a literary pursuit, and there are two spots where he usually can be found. One is the Algonquin with the literati; the other is Jack Dempsey's restaurant, with his best pal—the Manhattan Mauler.

That Picture Again

All that rumpus in New York about the picture, "Yes, My Darling Daughter," is amusing Alfred De Liagre, who produced the original play on Broadway.

The movie presentation of "Yes, My Darling Daughter" was briefly banned because of the possible moral harm it might do to the youths of marriageable age. But when "Yes, My Darling Daughter" first came up for consideration by Broadway showmen, it was rejected by many as being old-fashioned stuff and too pure and tame to be accepted.

De Liagre nursed that suspicion in his mind, too, but he took a chance and won. The play was a great success.

Now, what seemed straight-laced a couple of years ago, is a great shock to the censors.

Hack Writers

Something about the tonneau of a taxicab puts thoughts into a creative man's head. I don't know why.

Noel Coward boasts that he wrote his best songs for "Bitter Sweet" in cab rides around New York. And Lorenz Hart climbs into a cab for an idle spin when he needs ideas, too.

Max Gordon, they say, made the decision to co-produce the quarter-of-a-million dollar spectacle, "The American Way," during a crosstown taxi trip. Sinclair Lewis broached the idea for his current show, "Angela is 22," to a friend while riding in a 20 and 5 chariot, and Fred Allen says he conceives good gags for his etherized quips as he listens to the meter ticking away nickels and dimes.

The average used car price during 1937 was $379.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—The story of the last months of Woodrow Wilson is gradually being unfolded by the two people who loved him most. One is his second wife, Edith Bolling Wilson, the other his secretary, Joe Tumulty, who worshipped the very ground on which he walked.

The first story is written in Mrs. Wilson's autobiography; the second is being told only to a few intimate friends of Mr. Tumulty.

Probably the complete truth about President Wilson will not be told until the book by his personal physician, the late Admiral Cary Grayson is published. This book was written before Grayson died, and is being held by Mrs. Grayson until its publication is appropriate. It tells how Wilson first met Edith Bolling Galt, his second wife, and of her influence over him.

Mrs. Wilson's own memoir is an extremely important contribution to American history. Many of her friends wish that she either had not written it, or else had had a sagacious friend do her ghost-writing.

For the book frankly confirms what many of Wilson's associates felt during his latter days, that he was loved, monopolized, dominated by one person, and that had it not been for that person, the fate of the League of Nations, the Versailles Treaty, the entire world, might have been different.

The late Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, who led Wilson's fight for ratification of the peace treaty, used to tell how he came in to see Wilson during the League of Nations fight bringing the reservations proposed by Senator Lodge, which would not have altered materially the effectiveness of the League and yet would have permitted its speedy adoption by the Senate.

"You haven't come to talk compromise, have you?" asked Mrs. Wilson. And in the opinion of Senators who fought for Wilson at that time, her unyielding position was chiefly responsible for the defeat of the League of Nations.

—SECRETARY VS. WIFE—

The two people who loved Wilson most, his second wife and his secretary, have lived in Washington not far apart during the years since his death. And yet they have scarcely met. Naturally there was jealousy between them, and that jealousy is written between the lines in the pages of Mrs. Wilson's book.

Tumulty, whose only love was Wilson, wanted him to wait until after the presidential campaign of 1916 to marry Mrs. Galt. When Wilson finally decided otherwise, Tumulty said: "I'm sorry you're going to do that, Governor. I was very fond of Mrs. Edith."

"I told Edith you'd say that," replied the President.

"Well, that's a nice way to get me started with her," shot back Tumulty. And from that day, the second Mrs. Wilson was in open conflict with her husband's secretary.

—HARDING'S ANCESTORS—

Mrs. Wilson may not have known it, but Tumulty visited all the newspaper offices in advance of her marriage, distributing an announcement in which he adroitly mentioned the affection and approval of the Wilson girls for their step-mother, the new Mrs. Wilson. From the public viewpoint, this got the marriage off to an excellent start.

But master and servant gradually drifted apart after the wedding, and the bitterness Mrs. Wilson felt toward Tumulty is apparent all through her book.

In one chapter she even lays on Tumulty's shoulders a move to prove Negro blood in the veins of President Harding, charging that Joe was enthusiastically in favor of it. The real fact, as told by Tumulty, is that two blackmailers presented documents regarding Harding's genealogy, and that Tumulty, presenting their papers to Wilson, pointed out the unreliability of the two men and the unfairness of using their material.

Wilson, according to Tumulty, instructed him to show the documents to Harding's Republican campaign managers, which he immediately did. Mrs. Wilson, however, describes Tumulty as looking "like a little boy caught robbing a bird's nest" upon Wilson's negative decision.

—UNIQUE SECRETARY—

Actually, if Joe Tumulty had edited Mrs. Wilson's book it would have been far more favorable to her and to Tumulty's chief than the one now published. For Tumulty was slavish in his devotion, and never would have permitted his master to be portrayed as hen-pecked and dominated.

History would have been the loser and Mrs. Wilson the gainer by Joe's editing.

Newspapermen, who are harshest with any occupant of the White House and all around him, will always look back on Joe Tumulty as the secretary who handled everything—the press, presidential engagements, legislative battles—and did it with unequalled efficiency and goodwill.

A group of political science students want to borrow the Senate chamber for their annual conference. Probably want to see what the place looks like when all the seats are occupied.

WE' the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

If you want to seem nicer than you are, (and who doesn't?) here are a few rules guaranteed to do the trick:

Be as charitable in your remarks about people when they are sitting pretty as you are when they are in trouble. When you tell a story in which you figure, let someone else be the hero, or make the smart crack, as the case may be.

Make other people satisfied with what they are and what they have—no matter how you contrive it.

Admit that you might be wrong, when you know very well that you are.

Don't make smug remarks beginning "If I were you—" and "It really isn't any of my business, but—"

Say "I don't know" instead of hedging. Don't let pride keep you from making an apology when you know you should. Protect other people's vanities.

Don't pride yourself on being "friendly" when your attitude is merely condescending.

Let yourself be impressed as often as you try to impress other people.

Pass on the good about your acquaintances as eagerly as you do the latest dirt.

Stifle the impulse to brag—it can't be done subtly.

If you follow all these rules you may not be as "natural" as you are now. But you'll be a whole lot nicer to have around.

Hiawatha and Marquette Forests Now Embrace 1,325,175 Acres

HEADQUARTERS AT ESCANABA

637,774 Acres Are Owned By United States Government

The Hiawatha and Marquette national forests, which are rapidly becoming an important factor in the economic life of the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula, now embrace a total gross area of 1,325,175 acres, of which 637,774 acres are owned by the federal government and are administered by the U. S. Forest Service.

The forest supervisor in charge of the two units, also referred to as the Upper Michigan National Forests, is located in Escanaba, and forest rangers' headquarters are located at Rapid River, Munising, Manistique, Moran and Raco.

Project Started in 1909

The present Upper Michigan National Forests had their start back in 1909 when on Feb. 10 of that year, President Theodore Roosevelt signed a proclamation, establishing the old original Marquette national forest, comprising 25,486 acres of scattered public domain land. An addition to this was made on June 5, 1925, when President Calvin Coolidge, by executive order, included as part of the forest the Fort Brady Target Range Military Reservation, consisting of 2,152 acres. Through subsequent additions made Feb. 18, 1928, August 30, 1933 and Jan. 21, 1935, the Marquette purchase unit was established in Chippewa and Mackinac counties, authorizing purchase of land by the Forest Service within the boundaries as approved by the National Forest Reservation commission. On Nov. 25, 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a proclamation, enlarging the boundaries of the Marquette national forest by including the Marquette purchase unit. The gross area of the Marquette forest is now 593,174 acres.

History of the Hiawatha

The Hiawatha national forest did not get started until Feb. 18, 1928, when the National Forest Reservation commission approved the establishment of the Mackinac purchase unit, as it was originally called, in Alger, Delta and Schoolcraft counties, consisting of approximately 170,000 acres. On Jan. 16, 1931, President Herbert Hoover signed a proclamation which reserved and set apart as the Hiawatha national forest all lands of the United States within the Mackinac purchase unit and all lands within that area that may hereafter be acquired. Additions and purchase units were added Aug. 30, 1933, Jan. 21, 1935, and June 7, 1937, enlarging the forest to its present size. On Jan. 2, 1939, President Roosevelt, by a proclamation, enlarged the Hiawatha national forest by including these purchase units and giving the forest a total gross area of 522,001 acres.

During the early days of the forests there was little activity compared with the work program of later years under the CCC program.

As stated previously, 637,774 acres of land have been acquired. An additional 121,877 acres of land are under option and approved for purchase and exchange. A large nursery at Manistique has been established, which has an annual production capacity of 21,000,000 seedlings and transplants. A total of 52,690 acres of successful plantation have been established and an objective has been set up to plant 16,000 acres during 1939 and subsequent years until the planting program has been completed. Timber stand improvement work has been completed on 14,590 acres. Timber sales are increasing in number and during 1938 alone, they totaled 157 in number amounting to $2,547. In addition, 291 individuals secured fuelwood under the free use regulation involving 3100 cords valued at approximately $800.

21 Picnic Grounds
To date 21 picnic and camp grounds have been developed for public use. A forest camp is nearing completion on Clear Lake. The priority of use for this camp will be first, by the underprivileged and second by public organizations. The camp will be completely equipped, with the exception of bedding, for 64 campers and overhead.

Comparatively little planting of fish and other wild-life activities was done by the Forest Service before 1934. However, a total of 16,370,000 fish have been planted, 76 miles of stream improvement completed, 29 acres of scattered food and cover planting for upland game and 80 acres of waterfowl food planting in the various lakes.

Trout Rearing Pond
A trout rearing pond has been constructed on Sullivan Creek in Chippewa county. This rearing pond has a capacity of 350,000 fingerlings and is operated in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries. In the two years of its operation, 276,000 fingerlings from this rearing pond were planted in the streams throughout the forests, while 12,000 were held over for experimental feeding through the winter to determine the feasibility of retaining trout in the pond until they reach legal size.

Still Lot To Do

"From a review of the above, it can be seen that much has been accomplished, but there still remains a lot to do yet before the large area already acquired is rehabilitated to the point where it is producing merchantable crops and thus furnishing the United States and local governments with any appreciable revenue," states Paul A. Wohlen, Escanaba, supervisor of the Upper Peninsula national forests.

"Of the total area acquired and now government owned, 579,738 acres were classed as cut-over land of which 304,130 acres required planting and 275,608 acres support small, unmerchantable second growth largely of inferior stocking and condition. The balance of the total area of government-owned land, or 57,936 acres, included, when acquired by the United States, abandoned farmland, submarginal farmland, non-productive swamps, with some area of merchantable timber and small areas of recreational land which are developed for public use."

"The bulk of the land acquired by the Forest Service was tax delinquent and non-tax producing, cut-over land," Mr. Wohlen continued. "The acquisition of such land by the United States would then result in comparatively little loss in tax revenue. It is also evident, I believe, that after the Forest Service has planted denuded areas, improved stands of timber, protected the area from fire, and in general, brought the land around to where it is producing, that the local governments will realize more than they otherwise would if the land were not acquired and administered by the Forest Service."

"Though 25 per cent of all revenue taken in by the Forest Service through timber sales, special use permits, grazing permits, etc., is returned directly to the counties concerned, and an additional 10 per cent is spent for Forest Service roads, it is realized that such contributions to local governments is very small at the present time and will be of no substantial

Committee Inspects Water Plant

Six members of the citizens' advisory committee went to the water plant yesterday afternoon to make a general inspection so as to become acquainted with various phases of its operation. amount for many years. This condition is due to the fact that the rehabilitation of land to the point where it will produce merchantable crops is a slow process. It is believed, however, that such land would not contribute any more to the operation of local governments if it were to remain in other ownership than it ultimately will under the ownership and administration of the Forest Service."

Functions of Federal Land Banks Explained

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—Possibly no money lending institution has done so much for the American farmer as the Federal land banks. These financial units came into existence nearly a quarter century ago, and from the beginning have met a financial need among farmers that could not have been well met by private agencies.

In retrospect it seems fortunate that an enterprise so necessary to farm financing came into use when so many types of investments were becoming attractive to the public. Farm loans, while regarded as safe from the standpoint of security, have never been attractive to the majority of money lenders. For this reason farmers often find it difficult to procure financial assistance. This is particularly true in cases where they desire to buy land on terms that involve many years to pay the purchase price.

Federal land banks were created for the express purpose of making long term loans on a comparatively small interest basis. Instead of injuring commercial banks, as was thought by many would be the case at the time of their establishment, they have benefited by having more funds for short terms to merchants, manufacturers, and others whose enterprises are so necessary to the working population not engaged in agricultural pursuits.

The general plan on which the banks are operated was adapted from the pattern of cooperative farm mortgage credit which was first developed in Europe. There, in densely populated rural areas, small groups of borrowing farmers constitute cooperative units on which land banks are built.

There are twelve Federal land banks. The system under which they operate was authorized by Congress on July 17, 1916. The principal function of these banks is the handling of long-term farm mortgage credit. They have the power to issue and sell farm loan bonds from which loan funds are obtained; lend money on first mortgages on farms; deposit these mortgages as collateral for bonds issued; acquire and dispose of real estate obtained in satisfaction of unpaid loans and to perform other necessary acts in connection with farm mortgage lending.

Each land bank was originally capitalized at $750,000. Most of the original capital stock was subscribed by the United States Government. However, since the act provided that national farm loan associations must own stock in their respective banks equal to five percent of the loans made through them, stock subscriptions from this source accumulated rapidly, and the Government-owned stock was retired.

The law originally provided that the capital and surplus of each Federal land bank was not to be less than five per cent of the bonds outstanding. However, because of the greatly increased demand for mortgage loans through the system during the depression, it was necessary for each of the banks to increase its capital stock. To make this increase possible, the Federal Government subscribed for additional stock in the banks, making provisions for its retirement in the same manner as the original capital subscribed was retired. In addition, Congress provided that the United States Treasury subscribe to the paid-in surplus of the banks to reimburse them for granting extensions to worthy borrowers, and for advances to take care of delinquent loan installments, insurance, and taxes.

How Loans are Secured
Federal land banks are often regarded as institutions engaged primarily in lending funds of the Federal Government. This is not the case. These banks obtain most of their funds from the sale of farm loan bonds, usually to private investors. During the worst of the depression when bond-market conditions were unfavorable, farm loan bonds were not offered for sale to the public, but were sold to Federal Reserve banks, or used as collateral to obtain loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. These operations were necessitated by the heavy farm debt refinancing program, and were so planned that the banks might revert to private money centers for funds whenever the financial situation would permit.

Before a land bank is permitted to issue bonds, it is required to deposit with a farm loan registrar, who is always an officer of the Federal Government, an aggregate amount of approved first mortgages on farm property or Government bonds in an amount as large as, or larger than, the amount of the bonds to be issued.

The Federal land banks may make loans to purchase farm land for agricultural uses, equipment, fertilizer and livestock for the mortgaged farm; to provide buildings, to improve farm lands, liquidate indebtedness incurred prior to January 1, 1937, and to provide farmers with funds for general agricultural uses. The normal rate of interest is four per cent, but this was temporarily reduced last year to three and one-half per cent.

The maximum amount that a Federal land bank can loan to a borrower is $50,000. Loans may be made to persons who are farming, or the principal part of whose income is derived from farming operations. The property offered as security by the borrower must be a complete farming unit, which under normal conditions will produce an income sufficient to meet fixed charges and operation costs, maintain the applicant and his family, and pay the interest and principal installments on the loan. Loans may also be made under certain conditions to corporations engaged in raising livestock.

Each Federal land bank is managed by the Farm Credit Board of the district. There are seven district boards. The directors are ex-officio directors of the Federal land bank, Federal intermediate credit bank, district bank for cooperatives, and production credit corporation. Three members of the board are elected directors chosen in successive years, one by the national farm loan associations, one by the production credit associations, and one by the cooperative associations borrowing from the bank for cooperatives.

Supervised by Farm Credit Administration

Two district directors are appointed by the governor of the Farm Credit Administration, and a third district director is appointed by the governor from the three candidates receiving the highest number of votes in a nominating poll of national farm loan associations. A seventh member of the board, the director at large, is also appointed by the governor of the Farm Credit Administration. Officers of a land bank are appointed by the board of directors and consist of a president, vice president, a secretary, and a treasurer. For purpose of administrative control, land banks are divided into departments. The Farm Credit Administration is given power by law to issue rules and regulations covering Federal land bank operations,

A short recreation period followed the lesson, with Mrs. Edwin Bergman in charge, after which a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. John Anderson and Mrs. Algot Ericson.

and to make detailed examinations of their financial condition and methods of operation, and exercise certain other supervisory functions. Land banks examinations are complete and detailed and are for the purposes of auditing the books and accounts of the banks as well as to disclose the extent to which the banks are adhering to policies and regulations. The total assets of Federal land banks on September 30, 1938, were $2,360,513,566. With this bulwark of property, indications are that farmers have a financial backing of great importance.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Cotton

Washington—Back in the fabulous clipper ship era, American merchant vessels were the finest and fastest in the world and they carried 80 per cent of America's overseas trade.

Square-riggers and bucco mates are gone forever, and the merchant marine long since fell on evil days. So it is rather exciting to learn that there is actually a good chance that those old days may return again—in a streamlined, mechanized, twentieth-century version.

A merchant marine revival of startling proportions is under way. Fifty-two new merchant vessels were laid down in American yards last year. The U. S. Maritime Commission, which has this revival under its wing, aims to see at least 50 new ships built each year for ten years.

U. S. MAY RIDE CREST The commission feels that these ships will be the best that can be built anywhere. When the program is completed, the United States merchant fleet will rank about as near the top as a fleet can get, from the standpoint of speed and efficiency.

Foreign trade routes of interest to American exporters will be serviced better than they are at present, and service will be given to many points which now are not covered at all.

This Maritime Commission is another of those innumerable government agencies, and it is spoon-feeding the revival assiduously with federal funds. By the end of 1939, something like $250,000,000 will have been spent.

For the new merchant fleet is being subsidized. But the subsidies are open and direct, not disguised as mail contracts; and they are expected to lead to profitable steamship operation by private owners and away from government ownership and operation.

SUBSIDY ALTERNATIVES The commission can grant two kinds of subsidy. First, there is the construction differential. It is cheaper, unfortunately, to build a ship abroad than in this country. Suppose, as a shipper, you want to build a big cargo boat which will cost $1,000,000. A survey shows that your Japanese competitor can duplicate that boat at home for $700,000.

In that case, the Maritime Commission puts up $300,000 of the construction price. You don't get the money; it goes direct to the builder. You put up one-quarter of the $700,000 balance in cash, and you can then borrow the rest of the price from the government on a 20-year loan at 3 1/2 per cent interest.

The other kind of subsidy is the operating differential. Suppose, again that you are a ship owner, running a ship on some definite overseas route. Your principal competitor may be a Greek, with far lower operating costs—lower wages, lower bills for repairs and supplies, and so on.

The commission makes a careful study to see just how much more you have to pay to keep your line in operation than your Greek competitor has to pay—and the government pays you the difference.

WARTIME VALUES Under these two kinds of subsidies, then, the commission is undertaking to revive the merchant marine. It figures not only that this will be a fine thing for our export trade, but that it will be of great value to the navy.

For instance, last year 12 tankers were laid down for the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. They will be the world's finest tankers, able to steam at a 19-knot clip.

In case of war, they would be ideal auxiliaries for the fleet. Because of the special defense features that are being built into

SERIAL STORY WOMEN WANT BEAUTY! BY LOUISE HOLMES

CAST OF CHARACTERS SUSIE LAMBERT—She served waffles and dreamed of being beautiful. DICK TREMAINE—He liked Susie's waffles but he couldn't see Susie. JEFF BOWMAN—His chief concern was to make Susie as beautiful as she wanted to be.

Yesterday, Dick shows increasing interest in Susie, but she wonders if her financial success may have something to do with this. Meantime, Susie approaches her first broadcast.

CHAPTER XXIV Dick escorted Susie to the broadcasting studio. He was attentive, encouraging, vastly excited. Brown orchids trembled on Susie's breast as she faced the microphone. Panic shook her. She couldn't say a word—sing a note—she couldn't. Suddenly her frantic eyes were drawn to the back rows of chairs in the studio. Jeff—his chin went up as he smiled.

At once Susie's panic took wings. At once everything was right with the world. And, at once, she forgot Jeff. Her song of love was for Dick, her nicely worded patter on the subject of beauty was for him. She knew her act had been successful before they crowded around her in the studio, before Mr. Jasper called from New York, before Edna and John Harker wired from Miami.

In a way, as the January days passed, Susie was content, in another way she frantically fought against time. Dick loved her, his every glance, every gesture, told her so. What then was the reverse against which she was powerless? Beyond a certain point he did not go and, totally unversed in siren wiles, Susie knew not how to break through his silence. In his presence she was confident, felt him trembling on the verge of an avowal. Away from him he escaped her. With every parting she had the frenzied feeling that she might never see him again.

It was a hectic interval, not conducive to happiness, although Susie would have said she was the happiest girl in the world. Her stomach, which already seemed shrunken to walnut proportions, suddenly refused food. She lost five pounds, was forced to use more rouge, felt stringy and burned out. Late hours, days of soaring hopes and black depression began to take their toll.

It was toward the last of January that Susie took a cold, a miserable, feverish cold. She managed to broadcast on Friday night and knew that something drastic must be done in preparation for Monday. Under Dick's sympathy she felt irritation and this added to her wretchedness. In swift pique she broke all engagements for the week-end and went to bed.

Emma came with her gentle massage, which could be so murderous on occasion. She advised a strengthening diet, ordered Susie not to leave the bed until Monday and left her to fret and worry and cough.

Dick did not call on Saturday, nor on Sunday. By Sunday evening Susie was a most depressed lump in the big bed. In desperation she called his home to learn that he had gone away for the week-end. Slowly her distracted thoughts shifted to Jeff and she wondered about him. What was he doing since Edna and Mr. Harker had gone to Florida? Was he alone in the flat? She remembered how unhappy he had been over the separation from Edna.

Comforted by the thought of Jeff she arose, bathed, brushed her tumbled hair, dabbed on a little powder, and called him. He answered at once. "What are you doing, Jeff?"

"I'm in the flat, Harker's my boss. I'm too grown up to have a stepfather." Leaning forward, elbows on knees, Jeff stared between at his shoes. He must miss Edna a lot, Susie thought.

"Any change in the status quo of your department at the store?" she asked. "No. It sounds cheap and sour-grapish for me to say this, but Kane pulls some terrible boners. He gets four times the salary they pay me and I'm telling you the truth. I earn my pay keeping Harker's out of difficulty instead of doing constructive work. Hate myself, don't I?" he concluded with a shame-faced grin.

"You make sense to me," Susie countered loyally. They talked on, the city hummed far below. Susie forgot Dick. It was restful to forget him after the weeks of turmoil. (To Be Continued)

COMISH URGES ROAD PROJECT

Approves Relocation of Highway In North Part of City
A project proposing relocation of Highways US 2-41 in the northern portion of the city was given a vote of approval by the city commission this week.

The resolution approves the aim of the state highway department in the matter and urges the start and completion of the project at an early date as possible. Plans of the highway department call for relocation of the thoroughfare from the foot of Voorhis (North Ninth) avenue almost due north connecting with Chliff's avenue in the Furnace addition.

Survey for the project has been under way for some months and is expected to be completed and in the hands of department engineers by March 15.

It will be necessary for the city of Gladstone to acquire the needed right-of-way. Relocating the pavement as planned will eliminate a number of dangerous curves.

Next Tuesday's games include Empson's vs. Polecats and Grads vs. Luther leaguers.

BOND MARKET AVERAGES

Table of Bond Market Averages showing various bond indices and their values.

New York, March 3 (AP)—A broad buying movement swept rail, industrial and utilities loans to the crest of the current upswing in the bond market today.

At the same time gains ranging up to 20-32ds of a point carried U. S. Government obligations still further to record high territory.

The Associated Press index of 10 industrial corporates advanced 1 point to 100.4, equalling the 1932 high and the top since September, 1937.

Dominating the advance, bond analysts said, were increasing signs of a government-business rapprochement which in turn might lead to tapping for industrial needs the huge reservoir of idle bank funds...

Outside the move in U. S. Government advances in rails were most substantial. Among the leaders in this category were: nickel plate 4-2s of '78, up 1-5-8 at 56 7-8 and 1-2s of '74 up 1-2 at 61 3-4...

Among the few foreign governments to show strength were South Americans. Issues of Panama, Peru, Sao Paulo and Buenos Aires showed fractional gains.

Total transactions were $8,332,500 face value compared with $7,332,400 yesterday.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Escanaba Takes Gladstone, 26-14, In Windup Tilt

LAST HALF BAD FOR KEIL BOYS

Several Players Make Last Appearance As Prep Cagers

Gladstone, March 3—Several players wound up their high school basketball careers tonight in the final game of the local basketball season, which saw Escanaba defeat Gladstone 26 and 14.

Escanaba started the scoring in the first period and led 3-0, but Gladstone quickly turned the tables to take a 6-4 margin. The Eskymos scored again, however, and the period ended in a tie. At the half, Escanaba had gained a 15-11 lead, and in the third and fourth periods, which were slow, Gladstone slipped badly, missing easy dog shots. The Kellmen scored only three points in the last two stanzas, while Escanaba hung up 11.

In the preliminary, the Escanaba reserves took a 43-11 decision over the Gladstone reserves.

Players on the Escanaba and Gladstone high school squads who played their last scheduled game last night were: Kee and Dahl, Gladstone; Hansen, Olson, Swanson, Bennett, Henry and Meunier, all of Escanaba.

BIG TEN TITLE FINALS TONIGHT

Race Is Between Indiana and Ohio State; Both Have Lost Two

Chicago, March 3 (AP)—The Big Ten basketball championship will be crowned tomorrow night, climaxing two months of intensive warfare, with five teams in the race until a week ago.

Now only two teams remain in contention, Indiana and Ohio State. The title battle must end in one of three ways: a championship for Indiana or Ohio State, or a tie between the two. Indiana invades Ann Arbor to play Michigan, tied for the cellar, while Ohio State entertains Purdue at Columbus.

Both the Hoosiers and Buckeyes have lost two of 11 games. The Purdue-Ohio State game figures to be much closer than the Indiana-Michigan game.

A third conference game Saturday brings together Wisconsin and Chicago at the midway. Three games Monday night conclude the season.

Maroons Close Season With Win Over 'Stique

Manistique, March 3—Menominee's luckless Maroons rose up in wrath, after being a doormat for the peninsula's basketball teams in the first 13 games of the season, here tonight and administered a 32 to 26 beating to Manistique.

After 13 defeats in a row, the final victory brought cheer to the camp of the reds and likewise caused the Emerald season to end on a sour note. The evening was not all loss for the locals for the reserves beat Rapid River high by a score of 35 to 15 in the preliminary.

Determined to post at least one mark in their win column the state-liners weathered a hard-driving first quarter in which the locals, led by Helsten, found the loop for 12 good points to their four, the visitors came back to catch up and go ahead in the last half. Cadieu with 10 points took the scoring honors for the contest and provided the spark that brought his team its win.

Once the Menominee boys had felt out the strange floor and found the range there was no stopping them. Really going "hot," they had the ball swishing through the net from all angles and all over the floor.

MONEY IS BET ON STAGEHAND

Widener Challenge Cup At Hialeah Draws 9 Thoroughbreds

Miami, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Nine thoroughbreds, headed by Colonel Maxwell Howard's great Stagehand, were named today to go to the post in the fourth running of the $50,000 Widener Challenge Cup, mile and a quarter classic climaxing the Hialeah Park season tomorrow.

A crowd of 25,000 is expected to throng the beautiful plant, and a good part of them will have their money riding on Stagehand. Stagehand won both the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap and the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby last year.

It would have been different if War Admiral hadn't developed a temperature and been withdrawn. He and Stagehand would have reached the post about equal favorites. But with the stout son of Man O'War moping in his stall, Stagehand is figured to be a little too powerful in the stretch for Bull Lea, Pasture and Sir Darnley, the trio counted upon to give him the real opposition.

Marshal Field's Sir Darnley, with the sensational Don Meade in the saddle, and Mrs. W. Plucket Stewart's Pasture, ridden by the talented Eddie Arcaro, are running as an entry, and a danger favorite in the mutual betting, with Calumet Farm's Bull Lea and Logical third.

The other five runners, Teddy Weed, Mythical King, Francesco, Warlane and Xavier, scarcely are in Stagehand's class at such a long distance, and it is considered probable Xavier will be withdrawn unless it rains hard before post time at 4:30 p. m. (EST). But a continuation of today's fine weather was forecast.

SPEED SKATING MEET IN CITY

Entries Are Received From Menominee, Iron Mountain

Weather and ice conditions permitting, the Upper Peninsula Outdoor Speed Skating championship meet will be held at Ludington park tomorrow afternoon beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

So far, outside entries have been received from Iron Mountain and Menominee only, but a strong field of Escanaba skaters has entered in all classes. The Upper Peninsula championship meet is resumed after a lapse of one year. The last one was in 1937.

Of the former champions and record holders, six will be skating tomorrow. They are Gene Hebert, who holds every record in the senior men's division; John Hebert, who holds every record in the intermediate boys' division; Don Campbell, holding every record in the junior boys' division; Ed Hirn, holder of every record in the juvenile boys' division; Marion Hebert, holder of every record in the junior girls' division; and Lila Mae Ness, holder of the junior girls' 440. According to the records of the recreational office, other record holders are Walter Girard, juvenile boys, 220; Laura Johnson, senior women's 220 and 880; Grace Nelson, senior women's 440 and co-holder of one-mile record with Blanche Gallagher; Beatrice Gallagher, holder of every record in the intermediate girls' division, and Marcia Kirby, juvenile girls' 220.

This meet should not be confused with the Bay De Noc one which started as an annual affair last year. The records made in these meets are Bay De Noc open records, but in all cases are course records, but the U. P. Championship records are kept separately.

Skaters who have entered so far are as follows:
 Cradle class, boys: David Walsh, Bob Huckschpaler.
 Cradle class, girls: Marilyn Groos, Sally Stack, Shirley Lee, Midget boys: Jim Miley, Jimmie Tobin, John Kress, Lester Ness, John Jacobs, Patrick Kazda (Iron Mountain).

Give Football Back To Students, Advice Of Michigan Prexy

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 3 (AP)—President Alexander G. Ruthven of the University of Michigan urged today that college football should either "be given back to the students" or "abolished."

The statement was contained in the president's annual report, in which he also said that the university's operating income must be increased or enrollment limited and criticized fraternities for failure to provide housing facilities for members, requiring the university to build dormitories.

Football, Dr. Ruthven said, "has degenerated to a ridiculous extent." He described it as an "extraneous spectacle x x x from which no worthwhile advantage will ever accrue."

"If football cannot be given back to the students for educational purposes," he asserted, "it had better be abolished before it contaminates other sports which up to the present have not developed the evils now so apparent in football."

The game, he said, has developed into "an absurdly competitive sport about which tend to spring up all the evils characteristic of professional competition x x x."

Snead Beats Picard In 25-Hole Playoff At St. Petersburg

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, Va., won the St. Petersburg open golf championship here today, defeating Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., in a 25-hole playoff.

Snead and Picard shot 69s, three under par, for the first 18 holes after tying at 207, nine under par, for the 54 holes of the tournament. Snead won the playoff at the 25th hole by sinking a four-foot putt for a birdie two.

Snead's hard-won victory gave him top money of $700 and his first major tournament victory of many weeks, although he was the leading money winner of 1938. Although Picard missed out on this third straight tournament triumph, second place money of $450 boosted to $3,150 his winnings for the past two weeks. He captured top prize of $2,000 in

Paul Bietila Eulogized In College Newspaper

Tribute to the character and sportsmanship of Paul Bietila, young University of Wisconsin student, and member of the nationally known "Flying Bietila" family of Ishpeming, who died of pneumonia resulting from injuries received in a practice leap prior to the national amateur ski meet at St. Paul, February 5, and whose funeral was held Friday afternoon at Ishpeming, is paid in the Daily Cardinal, University of Wisconsin publication.

"Paul Bietila died still loving the sport which never failed to thrill him," the article in the Cardinal, Tuesday's edition of which was devoted almost entirely to the young champion, stated in part.

"He never refused a chance to participate in the sport he loved. Perhaps it was this quality in Paul which was most admired by his many friends—his whole heartedness.

"Perhaps it is not well to think of Paul as crushed by the mishap which occurred while he was participating in his beloved sport. It seems a mistake to think of him otherwise than as a poised gracefully on twin shafts of polished hickory, his sturdy young body keeningly alive and bending masterfully into the wind that whips against his glowing face—Paul Bietila died still loving the sport which never failed to thrill him.

"It is better to see him as he loved to be: springing joyfully into the crisp, clear air, his eyes full of the tingling thrill of conquering space and time, his lithe young form floating halfway between earth and sky—his strong young frame outlined against the clear blue of the heavens."

Wheeler Holmes, sports editor of the Daily Cardinal and a good friend of Paul's, had this to say: "On the slide and off, Paul was the same. Always willing to give a little help when he could, always giving the other fellow a better break when it came to discussing the various merits of jumpers and always belittling his own ability.

"Model To American Youth
 Paul was interested in other athletics as well as skiing. He won his freshman numerals in baseball and would have taken part in others as well if he had had the time. A student as well as an athlete, Paul never lost sight of the real reason why he was attending school and although this meant a lot of work it was worth it to Paul.

"His two brothers, Walt and Roy, have been picked as two of United States' representatives on the 1940 Olympic team, the goal which Paul had his heart set on and which he had been working toward. But for one spill there would have been three brothers on that same team next year. Paul is gone, but he won't be forgotten by those fortunate enough to know him. His brothers will carry on the fine record that he made in winter sports and that's the way Paul would like it."

Also included in the Tuesday edition of the Cardinal, was a one-column cut of the skier and an editorial that concluded: "His courage, unselfishness and determination shall always be a model for American youth."

LIFE PERKS UP IN TIGER CAMP

Pinky Higgins Arrives; Poffy Heard From; Weather Brisk

Lakeland, Fla., March 3 (AP)—With Mike Poffenberger heard from at last, with Pinky Higgins in town, and with cool, brisk weather to encourage a long, hard workout, the Detroit Tigers training camp today looked more like a workshop than a summer resort.

With Higgins in camp, only a few Tigers had yet to show up. Among these are Hank Greenberg, Charlie Gehringer, Bill Rogell, Archie McKain, Pete Fox and Dixie Walker—and of course, Poffenberger.

Today Manager Del Baker received a telegram from the belated Baron saying that he had been delayed by business in Williamsport, Md.

McKain is snowbound in Minnesota, while the remainder of the squad is not scheduled to report until March 7.

Higgins, the heavy hitting third baseman acquired from the Boston Red Sox in a trade last winter, took a light workout today, and Mark Christman, who guarded third base last year, took turns with him on the bag.

Frank Secory, outfielder from Grand Haven, Mich., formerly with Beaumont, put a couple of drives over the left field wall during the workout and became the star of the day.

Schoolboy Rowe had a sore shin from stopping a line drive Wednesday, Chet Laabs had sore feet and Roy Cullenbine had a mild Charley horse, but none of the injuries was serious and the squad as a whole was reported in good shape.

EAGLES MEET RUDYARD FIVE

Republicans to Play At Local Gymnasium This Evening

The Republicans of Rudyard, top team of the Eastern part of the peninsula, will be featured as opponents of the Escanaba Eagles in a basketball game this evening at the Eagles gym at 9 o'clock.

The two teams met last weekend at Rudyard at which time the Escanabans took at 37-26 victory. The Rudyard boys are determined to avenge that defeat and are looking forward to the return game here tonight.

Rudyard's lineup will include White, Manno, Pellow, Swart, Howsen, Nichol, Kalbach and Bliss.

The Eagles have such stars as Roy and Eddie Johnson, Christensen, Jensen, Kaufman and Smith. Brazeau will officiate.

TRENNARY NOSES ROCK, 25 TO 23

Overtime Thriller Won As Sub Kallio Loops Field Goal

Trenary, March 3—A field goal by sub forward Kallio in an overtime period ended the Rock-Trenary basketball thriller in Trenary's favor tonight, 25 and 23, running up a total of 12 points, and at one time in the third had an 18-12 lead over Trenary. With a minute to play in the last quarter, and Trenary trailing 23-21, Trenary came through with another basket, and it was 23-21 at the gun, paving the way for Kallio's life-saver. Marin, Trenary's high scoring ace, was out of the game with a broken rib, received in the Eben game, and probably will not be able to play in the district tournament.

Rock reserves won a preliminary, 17 and 10, and the Trenary girls defeated the Rock girls, 27 to 15.

Yachts of Future Are Streamlined, Ropeless

Menominee, March 3 — The yacht of the future—streamlined, ropeless and push-button control—was outlined to 86 members of the M & M Yacht club at the annual banquet and hobby show at Hotel Marquette last night by John Waring, yachting editor of the Chicago Daily Tribune.

"These things I give you are technically possible," Waring said, "although the financial status may be steep for a few years. Many of these coming changes are already here and are now in use by yachtsmen on salt and fresh waters."

Enumerating changes "that will come in the future," Waring pointed to instruments first. The present day instruments, compass, sextant, and other precision instruments will be recording instruments—leaving a picture of the entire trip on paper, he said.

All Streamlined

Future yachts will be streamlined completely with a bullet nose, he continued, and they will be a single unit. Outstanding among the future designs will be a forged or plastic hull which will be made from a mould into one unit. It will be stronger and will do away with the hand-planked boats of today.

These plastics and plywood will produce a ship 40 per cent thinner than today's vessel and it will be much lighter, the speaker said. It will also be much more easy to produce in mass production so that many more people will be able to take an active part in yachting because mass production will make for a reduced price.

Many New Features

Outstanding features of the ship of tomorrow will be air conditioning, insulation from heat or cold, non-skid plastic decks, sails of synthetic high tensile strength rayon or ramie, a weed that can be grown cheaply; power winches and 300-gallon a minute water pumps; stainless steel anchors set in stem piece of bow, or set in keel with automatic lever control from the bridge; rope chunks built into the decks while will lock automatically and do away with "tripping gear" on board; electric refrigeration; indirect lighting for cabins; no ropes on sailboats or cruisers—wire rigging will replace all but mooring lines.

Wire rigging control of sails will be made from the bridge by push buttons which will operate winches; cross bearing range finders; radio direction finders; radio telephone, which even now is being used by 500 yachts; radio facsimile sets for printing news and weather reports; automatic photo-electric steering and push button control for more safety and freedom; shatter proof glass; rotating windshields at 1,800 r.p.m. for clear vision; self-operated fire extinguishers; anti-rolling gear; and diesel power.

Drive It Yourself

Waring said the yacht of the future will be a "drive it yourself" ship which will be ready at the dock. "You will merely call the harbor master and tell him to get you a boat for your party and it will be ready when you arrive," he said. "It will be similar to present rental automobile plans."

George H. Cramer and Richard Lundgren won prizes in the hobby contest. In the model boat contest Cramer's "Flying Cloud" took first; Alfred L. Cornell's schooner was second, and John Bergeson's galleon was third.

The picture contest, which created much interest, was won by Richard Lundgren with "Late Afternoon." Second prize went to Don Larsen for "Ocean Villa," and "Season's End," by Fritz Du-Bruuc was third. Honorable mention was given to "Contract" by Clinton Bolin, "Three Sisters," by L. Hemming Larsen, and "Peace Harbor," by Alfred Henes.

Release Directory

Roy DeGayer was toastmaster of the banquet and called on Past Commodore L. Hemming Larsen and Alfred Henes for shore talks, and Commodore H. L. Jorgenson, who outlined the new M & M Yacht club directory which was given to each member.

Guests from Oconto, Escanaba and Green Bay were introduced including Oconto, Henry Kruger, Norbert Olson, Morgan, Maloney, Norman Waehal, Eldred Klauson and Donald DeWitt; Escanaba, Commodore Charles Stoll, immediate past Commodore Ollie Thatcher; past commodores John J. Mitchell and Joseph H. Shipman, and City Engineer Art Aronson; and Green Bay, Commodore William Hawley, Treasurer Edward Clough, Harry Williams and Ray Danischefsky.

Bandstrom pointed out that this would leave the Upper Peninsula with only two representatives, compared with seven from the Southern Michigan counties.

"We will fight for our share of representation," he said. "The Upper Peninsula is entitled to more than two ninth's representation."

The conservation committee reported to the floor of the house a bill already approved by the senate to create a Huron-Clinton authority, to foster recreational development in Wayne, Washtenaw, Oakland, Macomb and Livingston counties.

YANKEE CLIPPER ON MAIDEN TRIP

Mrs. Roosevelt Names Flying Boat, Queen of Atlantic

Washington, March 3. (AP)—The Yankee clipper, 41-ton flying-ship of a flying boat fleet which will carry the United States colors in an international race for trans-Atlantic air supremacy, made its maiden passenger-carrying flight today.

Christened by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the 74-passenger flying boat—largest in the world—skipped off the Anacostia river from the naval air station with 51 government and aviation officials aboard, circled the capital for 35 minutes and landed again.

Several thousand spectators watched the laughing First Lady crack a gold-trimmed bow over the blunt nose of the all metal, four motored plane.

Water from the seven seas, rather than the customary champagne, filled the bottle.

The ship's wingspan is 152 feet. It can do 190 miles per hour, but its cruising speed is 150. Its range is 4,725 miles, officials said, and its ceiling 21,000 feet.

WORLD PEACE KEYNOTE FOR POPE PIUS XII

great force and great restraint. He truly may be said to be a living saint. That is something of great importance in these troublesome times.

Mentions U. S. Visit

He told how he had asked a special blessing for the people of the United States when he advanced to the papal throne to pay his first act of homage to the new pontiff.

"With all my heart I bless them and will always pray for them," the holy father answered. "They all were so kind to me when I visited them."

In his broadcast discourse, Pius XII hoped and appealed as "that peace which our predecessor of Pious memory recommended to me with so much insistence and invoked with such ardent prayers."

"We invite everybody," he said, "to peace of conscience, tranquility in the friendship of God; to peace of families, united and harmonized by holy love of Christ, and, finally, to peace among nations through mutual, brotherly assistance, friendly collaboration and cordial understandings for the superior interests of the great human family under the watchfulness and protection of Divine Providence."

"In these troublesome and difficult hours while so many difficulties seem to impede attainment of that peace which is the most profound inspiration of hearts, we raise to the Lord a special prayer for all those who are entrusted with the high honor and the grave burden of guiding peoples on the road to prosperity and progress."

Duce Sends Greeting

Peace, which rises from the paternal heart which God has inspired in our hearts. Before us we have the spectacle of immense evils which scourge the world and for which Blessed God sends us as succor, unarméd but believing."

His phrase describing peace as "the fruit of charity and justice" found an immediate, cordial response in Fascist circles.

This reaction was all the more notable because of the difference some Fascists had shown toward Cardinal Pacelli, before the election as the possible successor to the late Pius XI.

This diffidence was based on the fear that he might continue or even intensify policies which brought his predecessor into conflict with the totalitarian regimes in Germany and Italy.

The atmosphere of cordiality, deepened by congratulatory telegrams which King Vittorio Emanuele and Premier Mussolini sent the pontiff last night.

The secretary of state's office acknowledged the Duce's greeting today with a telegram which concluded:

"Grateful to your excellency and to all members of the government, the holy father invokes Divine assistance on you and sends the entire nation one of his first apostolic benedictions."

Pius XII took his first automobile ride as pope in an afternoon outing in the Vatican grounds. He chose a papal automobile—an American model almost 10 years old—which was a favorite of his predecessor.

Six Men Are Linked To Shotgun Gang In Detroit Robberies

Detroit, March 3 (AP)—Bond of $40,000 each was set today by Recorder Judge George Murphy for six men accused by police of having belonged to a shotgun gang of robbers.

The defendants, all of whom were charged with robbery armed, pleaded innocent and examination was set for March 10. They are: Sale Saulman, 31, former Detroit patrolman; Lee B. Cook, his brother-in-law; Clifford Meisner, Frederick Van Assche and Hubert C. Riggs, all of Detroit; and Donald Baker of Toledo, charged by police with being the leader of the gang.

Judge Murphy said that he urged bond at a high figure at the request of the United States treasury, which is investigating possession of an unregistered shotgun by one of the gang.

Secrets Of Pro-Nazi Bund Are Brought Into New York Court

New York, March 3 (AP)—State and city agencies began prying today into many of the secrets of the pro-Nazi German-American Bund, which showed its strength to New York recently in a rally of 20,000 members and sympathizers.

Served yesterday with a subpoena ordering production of all records at Bund headquarters, Fritz

Kuhn, national leader, testified lengthily today at a city inquiry into Bund tax payments.

In a Brooklyn magistrate's courtroom guarded by 60 policemen, Kuhn was arraigned earlier in the day on a Jewish lawyer's charge of criminal libel and reluctantly made public his home address.

MARTIN TO BAN REDS IN UNION

Opposition Controlled By Communists, Charge of UAW Executive

Detroit, March 3 (AP)—Homer Martin announced tonight he would recommend to a convention of his supporters in the United Automobile Workers here tomorrow that Communists be banned from UAW membership.

He has charged repeatedly that an opposition faction in the Union which has received CIO support in the fight for control of the automobile workers' organization is Communist-controlled.

His convention is the first of two rival gatherings of dual organizations in the UAW. His opponents, who "suspended" him from the union presidency, after he "suspended" them from the executive board, have called a meeting for March 27 at Cleveland.

More than 700 delegates from nearly 200 local unions, representing a "clear and concise majority" of the auto workers, will attend tomorrow's session, Martin claimed.

R. J. Thomas, recognized by the Congress of Industrial Organizations as acting UAW president, succeeding Martin, described tomorrow's convention as a "packed mass meeting" and asserted that Martin's "top possible strength in the union was less than 22,000 of the claimed membership of 370,000."

The CIO has warned that local unions sending official delegates to the Martin meeting face loss of CIO charters.

Today Donald and his brother, Kenneth, 5, were practicing flying tackles in the kitchen of their home when Donald misjudged his distance and flew through an open window to the sidewalk two floors below.

King Loses Crown; Jimmy's Got It—In Club Burlesque

Washington, March 3. (AP)—Britain's king and queen made an unexpected appearance in Washington tonight and the king lost his crown—to Jimmy Roosevelt in a poker game.

It was part of the entertainment cooked up by the Women's National Press club for its annual dinner when the great and near-great are satirized and the passing scene burlesqued.

Usually, most of the barbs are directed at the first family, but this time the Roosevelts took a secondary place in a hilarious version of the coming Washington visit of the British royal couple. Representative Martin Dies (D-Tex.), in a dog-catcher's uniform, was shown chasing Secretary Francis Perkins toward a doghouse. A stork hovering over the White House was shooped away with the lines, "That package is to be delivered in Seattle," where the president's eldest daughter lives.

The king and queen arrived "with enough attendants to take back the thirteen colonies."

"See the escort coming up Pennsylvania avenue in reverse!" the interlocutor shouted. "See Secretary Hull waving trade agreements! See Secretary Morgenthau waving IOUs!"

"The king is bowing! The queen is bowing!"

MARINETTE TO DRESS STREETS

Summer Conventions Will Find State Line City In Gala Attire

Marinette, Wis., March 3—Marinette may be wearing convention holiday attire for nearly three weeks in the latter part of June and the first part of July if plans now being made for the entertainment of visitors will be carried out. Marinette will be host to two state conventions—the United Spanish War Veterans from June 18 to June 21, inclusive, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles from June 21 to June 24, inclusive—and will be joint host with Menominee in entertaining the convention of the Disabled American Veterans from June 30 to July 3.

Plans for Marinette to be "dressed up" between June 17 and June 25, during the period of the United Spanish War Veterans and Eagles conventions, were approved Monday when A. J. Murray, assistant general chairman of the Eagles convention group, signed a contract with the Semach Display Service, LaCrosse, for street decorations.

It is believed the D.A.V. convention group will want the decorations to remain up for their convention, and the city also would be interested in maintaining a holiday atmosphere over the fourth of July. Besides the three conventions, the annual picnic of the Marinette Aerle of Eagles will be held on June 25th, the day following the close of the Eagles state convention, and many of the delegates and visitors are expected to stay over the extra day, especially if Governor Julius Bell accepts the invitation to be the picnic speaker.

Smooth Thief Gets $9,000 In Jewelry From Milwaukeeans

Miami Beach, Fla., March 3. (AP)—A suave, well-dressed jewel thief who passed the time of day with the housemaid as if he had a right to be there walked out of Carl Forster's home with $9,000 worth of jewelry. Detective Chief Earl C. Carpenter disclosed today.

Mr. and Mrs. Forster, winter visitors from Milwaukee, discovered their loss after returning from a trip to Key West.

The loot included a diamond and ruby bracelet valued at $4,500, a star sapphire ring and a diamond brooch worth $1,500 each, a diamond bracelet worth $1,000 and a diamond pin valued at $500, and other articles from Mrs. Forster's jewel drawer.

Carpenter said the maid saw the man enter the house yesterday afternoon but at first believed him to be Mrs. Forster's father, William Tutck. Later she realized she might have been wrong and went to look for him, finding him at the front door.

The man apologized, she said, explained he was a cousin of a next door neighbor and left with a polite goodbye, driving away in an expensive sedan.

DIES IN AUTOMOBILE

Jackson, Mich., March 3 (AP)—Albert J. Fisher, 77, died today of heart failure in the automobile of A. C. Klima. Fisher, a farmer, had been hitch-hiking into Jackson when Klima picked him up.

Fake Passport Ring Masquerade Revealed

New York, March 3 (AP)—The bizarre story of persons masquerading under fictitious names across an international stage was climaxed today by a federal indictment naming nine persons in an alleged fake passport ring.

Among the defendants were the missing Adolph A. Rubens, or "Donald L. Robinson," self-styled New York writer, and his wife, Ruth Marie Rubens, who federal agents said entered Russia in 1937 on a fraudulent passport.

Although an American envoy reported later he talked to Mrs. Rubens in a Moscow prison, where she was held on suspicion of spying, federal investigators said they did not know whether the couple was still alive.

Others named were Aaron Scharfin, formerly an employe of the Egyptian consulate in New York; Ossip Garber, a Fifth avenue photographer; Edward Blatt, New York attorney and four identified only as John Blank, Ivan "Doe," Dimitri "Doe" and Alexis "Doe."

The indictment charged the group with conspiring to violate the federal passport act and alleged they carried on their activities in New York, Chicago, Merrill, Wis., and in Canada, Sweden, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Austria, Germany, Czechoslovakia, and Russia.

It charged the group obtained from the New York City health department birth certificates of deceased persons and used them in obtaining passport applications, and added others in getting false visas in foreign countries.

Garber was accused of having taken fake passport photographs of the Rubens while Scharfin was described as the man who carried the Rubens' passport application to the office of former County Clerk Albert Marinelli for certification.

Original investigation of the "Robinson" passport led first to the office of Marinelli, where it was issued.

Marinelli resigned in 1937 after District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey accused him of associating with criminals.

Today's indictment superseded two previous indictments against Scharfin and Garber, under which they were charged with conspiracy in the issuance of six other apparently unrelated fraudulent passports in the last three years.

Mann weighed 191½; Knox 190½.

Slow to warm up to his work, Mann had to come on to win before a disappointing crowd of 5,142. He was left-jabbed dizzy during the first five sessions, but finally began finding the range with his right hand shots.

Lakes Surveyed Near Munising

Munising—In cooperation with the fish division of the department of conservation, a CCC crew from Camp Cusino has completed a survey of four lakes near here and is at present occupied with the survey of the last one. Shoo lake, Noble lake, Beaver ponds, and Mud lake have been surveyed and sounded for depth and conditions of bottom, while Beaver lake, the last of the five lakes scheduled for work, is nearly completed. Enrollees, under the direction of Taisto M. Kataja, are snowshoeing two miles to work each day to survey Beaver lake. Data procured in the surveys is used in determining methods of bettering fishing conditions on the lakes.

Beaten And Branded Baby, Age 2, Is Dead

Lewistown, Pa., March 3 (AP)—Two-year-old Miriam Wolf, the "rosebud baby" who was beaten and branded, died today.

She had been unconscious five days. A 22-year-old former brickyard worker, Paul Barrick, is held on a charge of beating her. State police said he told them he "looked like that other man (her father)."

State Police Corporal Richard Gray said he would charge Barrick with murder.

The baby was called "rosebud" because she was so tiny at birth.

Sudeten Germans Settle In Canada

London, March 3 (AP)—Arrangements were reported tonight to have been completed for transporting 3,000 Sudeten Germans to Western Canada for settlement in the Peace River District and Northern Saskatchewan. The Czech-Slovak government was said to have agreed to provide $2,000,000 which the settlers would take with them to establish themselves in farming communities.
