C-C PROPOSED AT MARINETTE

City Council Authorizes Mayor to Appoint Committee

Marinette, Wis.—Mayor Richard P. Murray of Marinette, was authorized by the Marinette city council at a regular meeting last night to appoint a committee of ten persons to make plans for a Marinette board of trade, chamber of commerce or industrial committee.

Action on the proposal was sponsored by Alderman Arthur J. Rettke and supported by Alderman Harold W. Laabs. It was adopted by unanimous vote. Mayor Murray said he would announce his committee appointments within a few days.

The motion empowering the mayor to appoint ten citizens representative of civic, fraternal, industrial, labor and city organizations to form this committee, followed an hour's discussion on past attempts at organizations of this kind.

Need Clearing House

"We have tried these before," Mayor Murray said, "and because of petty animosity and jealousy, the city has been divided into several factions that always left one of them trying to stifle the work of others. I hope that we can resume this campaign with a new deal and get everyone behind it. What we need in Marinette is more horn blowing for Marinette and less hammer tossing."

"The city of Marinette has long needed a clearing house for all kinds of promotions," Mayor Murray continued, "and I think that now is a good time to start the ball rolling. This organization deserves the support of the entire city and therefore I think the city itself should take the first step. I have waited for some time for action on this proposition, but as there is none coming forward, I am willing to start it moving."

To Serve All Interests

The mayor pointed out that the average business man in Marinette pays out more than $200 annually for donations for "this and that" and it could easily be taken care of by a central clearing house such as a chamber of commerce. He pointed out the benefit of a paid secretary for such an organization who would act as a "business go-getter" to promote new industries for the city, sponsor smelt carnivals and similar projects, and be a general aid to all business men.

"This organization should be for everyone," he said "with dues small enough so they can be afforded by even the smallest merchants."

Pollock to Speak On Civil Service

"The Truth About Civil Service" from a Lansing standpoint, will be discussed in a radio broadcast from Detroit, Station WWJ (Detroit News), Monday evening, March 13, at 10:45. Dr. James K. Pollock, University of Michigan, will be the speaker, representing the Michigan Merit System association.

Dr. Pollock was appointed by Governor Fitzgerald in 1935 to be chairman of the original civil service study commission, which drafted the bill that was passed, with amendments, by the legislature of 1937. He has been asked by his associates to clarify misunderstandings that center in Lansing during the session of the legislature, with fair answers to various questions which have disturbed citizens who believe in a genuine, honest civil service system for Michigan state employees.

In its announcement, the merit system association, with headquarters at Lansing, suggests that citizens arrange small group meetings to hear this broadcast, which, it is stated, will be non-partisan and non-political, and will seek to cultivate support at Lansing for those members of the legislature and other officials who have labored to eliminate political spoils ac-

COURT RULING IS IMPORTANT

Local Case Is Watched Closely Throughout United States

Of far reaching importance is the opinion handed down by the Michigan supreme court Thursday in upholding a verdict of the Delta county circuit court declaring the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis is exempt from the tax on a mortgage on the property of the Escanaba Paper company.

The action of the supreme court, in effect, rules that federal agencies are exempt from the usual mortgage tax when negotiating loans from federal agencies created for the express purpose of aiding business by making such loans. In other words, the primary function of these federally created agencies of aiding private business would have been materially handicapped had the supreme court ruled that the mortgage tax would have been collectible in this case. The effect of the court ruling undoubtedly will be that private industry now will proceed with tentative negotiations for loans from federal agencies, negotiations which had been held in abeyance pending the outcome of the local case.

Specifically, the case hinged on whether or not the Delta county register of deeds could impose a tax of $4,000 on a Federal Reserve bank mortgage of $800,000 on property of the Escanaba Paper company. In order to make the loan effective, a check of $4,000 was deposited with the county under the stipulation that it was not to be cashed until such time as the litigation was completed.

The county now must make restitution in the amount of $4,000.

During the litigation, the attorney general handed down two opinions to the effect that the tax had to be paid. Rushton, appeared before the supreme court and Thursday's important decision resulted.

Garden and Nahma Treasurers Report 1939 Tax Receipts

Garden and Nahma township tax receipts were received at the office of Ralph R. Olsen, county treasurer, yesterday. Hazel Hazen of Garden turned in receipts of $1,511. Garden has an assessment of $2,670.20, and the township taxpayers are now $1,159.20 delinquent.

Nell Fleming, Nahma township treasurer, turned in receipts of $3,712.86. Nahma township's assessment is $4,169.60, and the delinquency there is $456.74.

Tax payments were received by township treasurers up to March 1, 1939, and are now payable only at the Delta county treasurer's office at the county courthouse in Escanaba.

CLIPPING NEWS GOOD BUSINESS

Unemployed Newspaperman Started Burrelle Service

BY ALBERT W. WILSON

New York, March 10 (AP)—The King and Queen of England are finding out what America has to say about the visit they will make here next June.

A newspaper clipping service is collecting comments and articles for their Majesties by order of the Canadian legation in Washington.

Apparently those who would appraise the royal couple of reaction in this country are not concerned with the thousands of small town and country newspapers. The order is for clippings from the 25 largest cities only.

Sixty Years Old

The clipping business—just 60 years old—is perhaps a critique on the art of propaganda. In 1879, the Count Chambure of France, a music lover who decided all the artists he idolized could not possibly see all the mentions made of them in public prints, started the first clipping service. It began with 15 papers and now checks through 20,000 for mentions of clients.

Frank Burrelle was an unemployed newspaperman in New York 50 years ago when he overheard a distinguished citizen remark that he hadn't seen an article about himself in the newspapers of the previous day. To begin the industry in the United States, Burrelle got a job clipping papers for that individual.

Sixty girls of high school training—mostly in their teens—now carry on where the late Burrelle left off. They scan through 4,000 newspapers and magazines each day, looking for pictures and mentions of clients in ads and news columns. The company gets a nickel for each clipping.

Memorize 10,000 Names

Each girl is expected to memorize the names of 10,000 subjects.

"It sounds like a terrific memory job," said Harold E. Wynne, now head of the company. "But as a daily routine they soon know them all."

President Roosevelt and a few big industrial concerns have their own clipping services. Many manufacturers subscribe for clippings, Wynne said, in order to watch for thefts of their trade marks or contractual violations, such as cutting of prices for their products in distant towns.

Brenda Frazier, New York glamor girl, is a subscriber although her mother insists they want to avoid publicity. Mrs. An-

STATE TO BUY LOCAL PAPER

Possibility that residents of Escanaba may be directly benefitted by an announcement of Governor Frank Fitzgerald to the effect that the state of Michigan henceforth will use only paper manufactured within the confines of the state was indicated here this week upon receipt of an order from the state at the Escanaba Paper company.

A large amount of paper is used in the state printing establishment and the governor's announcement was received with much satisfaction by paper manufacturers throughout the state. It was indicated here that, should such a policy be adhered to, the local firm would receive a large amount of business from the state in view of the fact that it is one of the largest manufacturers of paper in the state. Placing of state orders with the local firm would result directly in steadying of employment.

The paper company, which employs between 350 and 400 men, has been a stabilizing influence on local employment during the bottom of the depression. Although running on a reduced schedule at times, the plant has operated without any appreciable lay-offs.

Communication

SKI CLUB CAMPAIGN

I see in the Daily Press of Feb. 10, that the Escanaba Ski club is asking for donations to sponsor their new ski hill.

For the past few years the skiers in this vicinity have been using a certain hill owned by a private individual, and who has been so kind as not to complain as to the removal of fences, gates, brush and other hazards that make skiing a pleasure, or to keeping cattle in the barns on days the skiers are there, or the damage caused by skiers to fences when they insist on climbing over them or run through them.

About a month ago he put a container by the gate with a sign asking for small donations for the use of the hill and to defer expenses of replacing and repairing fences in the spring. Up to date donations have amounted a little over a dollar.

Every Sunday and moonlight nights there has been between 25 to 40 cars making on an average of 100 people on the hill, showing that very few people appreciate or care for skiing enough to do any donating.

I also notice that the county road commission has agreed to build a road to the new ski hill. There is a certain business man in Escanaba that has paid taxes on a large farm in the vicinity of the ski hill who has been unable to live or rent his farm because the county had no funds to build a road for him. Now they are using this man's farm as an excuse to build a road to the vicinity of the hills.

It seems foolish for the city of Escanaba to undertake such a project when the skiers themselves are such poor donors.

Swan M. Johnson Will Donate Winter Sports Park Site To City

Danforth Hills Area Given for Public Use

Swan M. Johnson, well known Escanaba business man, announced last evening that he had decided to donate to the city of Escanaba the two forties of land in the Danforth hills district for use as a public winter sports park.

His announcement cut short the campaign launched yesterday morning by the Escanaba Ski club to solicit funds for the purchase of the site, but the club has decided to continue with a drive for memberships. Proceeds from the membership campaign will be used to secure affiliation with the Central Ski association, to purchase trophies for local ski events and for other activities of the organization next season.

The two forties of land are located along the Schleisinger railway tracks, a few miles west of the city. The tract contains a series of some of the highest hills in the county, and has been termed by enthusiasts as being ideal for skiing.

Mr. Johnson purchased the land 25 years ago. When approached by officers of the Escanaba Ski club regarding the purchase of the area, he assumed that the property would be used by a private club and reduced the price to $300, a figure considerably less than what he paid for it, in order to give encouragement to winter sports activities in the community.

But after reading in the Escanaba Daily Press yesterday that the property later would be turned over by the Escanaba Ski club to the city for public use, Mr. Johnson conferred with club officers and expressed his desire to make a gift of the site of the community.

A deed to the property will be offered to the Escanaba city council at the next regular meeting. Members of the council, when interviewed by Escanaba Ski club officers, indicated that the donation would be accepted and application would be made for WPA funds for clearing the land, and the building of ski trails and slides.

Marinette Council Appropriates $300 For Smelt Festival

Marinette, Wis.—The Marinette city council last night paved the way for a Twin City smelt carnival this year by appropriating $300 to help the Marinette Retail Merchants association sponsor the annual jamboree on the Interstate bridge.

John Nemmetz, manager of the Marinette F. W. Woolworth store, appeared before the city council last night and said the retail merchants had taken over the sponsorship of the carnival and would assume responsibility for unpaid claims of last year's carnival.

He told the council a drive for $200 popular subscription would be made among the Marinette merchants, and said a "Menominee booster had assured the committee of help from the Menominee side of the river."

Twin City Promotion
John Boyle, Marinette County Outdoor Recreation association secretary, told members of the council of the advertising values of the smelt carnival and urged the council to appropriate the money.

At the same time the deficit of last year's carnival was thrashed out "once and for all." Several members of the council and spectators pointed out that girls working in the carnival promotion office had failed to receive pay for their services. Nemmetz said his committee would assume the responsibility for all debts.

Deficit Is Retired
Boyle told the council his report of the carnival showed a deficit of $105 from the carnival. Council members questioned earlier statements that there was a deficit of $800, and Mr. Boyle presented the council with a full report. It showed that after a V. F. W. July Fourth program at the river park to make up for the $105 loss there was a balance in the bank of $8.41.

Two years ago he went to L'Anse where he obtained employment at the Dan Elmsblad's camp, a jobber for the Ford Motor Co., where he was working when hurt. While falling a tree he was hit by a broken stub from another tree. He was taken to the Ford hospital at L'Anse for first aid and later removed to St. Joseph's hospital at Hancock for x-rays which showed a fractured skull and broken back.

Funeral services were held at L'Anse Thursday. Stanley Pyke was notified of his serious condition and drove to Hancock arriving shortly after he died. Mr. Magnusson was born in Sweden and came to this country thirty-five years ago. He had no living relatives.

FREIGHT RATE PERILS MINING

Pardee Charges Michigan Being Placed At Disadvantage

Iron Mountain—Michigan and Wisconsin mining payrolls face a serious loss unless the interstate commerce commission is prevailed upon to rescind or revise a discriminatory freight rate increase on iron ore. It was asserted here yesterday afternoon by Frank G. Pardee, state mine appraiser for the conservation department.

Pardee, in company with his assistant, G. E. Eddy, yesterday made the annual appraisal of Dickinson county ore properties and left last evening for Ironwood. They expect to complete their work in the upper peninsula within a week and will then return to Lansing to prepare the tentative valuations for the state tax commission.

A year ago, Pardee said, the interstate commerce commission authorized a freight rate increase of six cents a ton on iron ore shipped from Michigan and Wisconsin, but did not apply the increase to Minnesota.

Have Been at Disadvantage
Michigan and Wisconsin mines, he stated, have always been at a disadvantage because the operations are practically all underground and are therefore much more expensive than the vast open pit mines of Minnesota. Now the additional handicap of the freight rate increase has been placed in effect.

Mining costs in Michigan, Pardee explained, average between $1.50 and $2 a ton and freight rates are an additional 75 per cent, or $1.60 or more a ton.

The per ton cost of labor in mining in Michigan is about $1. Pardee said, and while he had no definite figures, he observed that if the freight rate resulted in a decrease in output of 200,000 to 300,000 tons per year it meant an equal number of wage dollars lost by labor.

The natural tendency, he continued, would be for operators to concentrate their activities so far as possible in Minnesota, both because of the wage differential as represented by open pit mining and the freight rate charge.

Another Discrimination
Another discriminatory assessment authorized by the commerce commission, Pardee said, is a minimum charge in Michigan and Wisconsin for the use of a crew and locomotive in stockpile loading, spotting cars, switching, etc. Whereas the mines formerly paid nothing for this service, they are now charged a minimum of $7.50 an hour, plus all expenses for tracks, ties, spikes, bolts and other materials, even when used for steam shovel loading, in the latter instances the mines furnishing their own shovels.

"The people of Michigan should be aroused to the fact that these unfair charges as compared with the Minnesota charges are costing them heavily in employment," Pardee said. "Not only am I interested in correcting this situation, but the state appraiser of Wisconsin has informed me that he likewise is urging that pressure be brought to bear to obtain a revision of these rulings."

Pardee suggested that the public utilities commission and the state attorney general's department might be the proper agencies to interest in placing the situation before the commerce commission.

Going After It

THE Escanaba Ski club is already making preparations for the 1939-1940 winter sports season.

There is usually a tendency to do nothing about winter sports development projects in the spring, summer and fall because of the lack of public enthusiasm, but the Escanaba Ski club has launched its campaign for a sports park while the current winter season is still with us.

By closing this land acquisition deal before the snow leaves the ground, there will be plenty of time for getting WPA projects for land clearing under way and completed before the next winter sports season. That is really the way to get things done.

The Danforth Hill project should provide a worthwhile addition to winter sports facilities in this county. It is a development that certainly will be much appreciated by the public next year.

Governor Can Help

WHEN Governor Fitzgerald announced early in January that enforcement of the gambling laws was considered by him to be a local problem, the gambling interests took his statement as a signal to resume their operations in the state.

Speaking at the Republican state convention in Flint, Governor Fitzgerald, apparently directing his remarks to placate the patronage-seeking politicians, deviated from his previous stand on the civil service issue by launching a bitter attack upon the merit system.

The present law was passed by the 1937 legislature, and embodies the principal features of the measure recommended by the Pollock study commission, which was appointed by Governor Fitzgerald during his previous term.

However, we have the assurance from Prof. James K. Pollock, chairman of the study commission, that the present law does not need to be repealed.

Governor Fitzgerald could do himself and the state a good service by clarifying his position on the merit system in the same manner as he did with the gambling issue.

More Deer Killed

THE state conservation department reports from hunters indicate that 46,140 deer were killed by 162,000 hunters during the 1938 season.

Each year, the deer hunting army increases, but still the game specialists of the conservation department are able to demonstrate by statistics and pictures that in certain areas there is not sufficient winter browse.

There have been all kinds of wild rumors and misunderstandings concerning the conservation department's plans for meeting the problem. The department, to state the proposition in a few words, proposes that the legislature enact a law, providing for the opening of certain overpopulated or over-browsed areas for a few days after the regular hunting season to permit the shooting of deer.

This is admittedly a new experiment in game management in Michigan, although it has been tried with success in other states.

would not be a good idea to give the proposal a trial in Michigan.

Coon Transferred

CONFLICTING with rumors that Mr. Oswald of Crystal Falls would be appointed to succeed Warden Marvin L. Coon at the Marquette prison comes the news announcement that Warden Coon has been temporarily assigned to the Jackson prison while his deputy, William Newcomb, becomes acting warden at the Upper Peninsula penal institution.

Refusal of Former Warden Walter F. Gries to accept appointment to the Jackson wardenship has left Governor Fitzgerald in somewhat of a quandary as to where to find the right man for the important Jackson post.

The difficulties experienced by Governor Fitzgerald in securing the services of capable men for such important responsibilities as are imposed in prison administration suggest the need for taking the wardenships out of politics.

Freedom of the Wheeze

NOT long ago there was a good deal of comment in the United States about a movement in Germany to bar from the stage certain comedians who made cracks about the regime.

But it seems that the joke is on us. Now comes the American Federation of Actors with a little "co-ordination" of its own.

In fact, if the wheeze appears bitter enough, the members may even be suspended by his brother actors. If that suspension is followed by being barred from work, as it would if the federation maintains a closed shop, then it is easy to see that here, as in Germany, actors must toe the line of superior authority or get off the stage.

True, it is a different authority, but the principle is the same. Audiences, not dictators or union majorities, should decide whether an actor's jokes are good or not.

Other Editors' Comments

REPUBLICANS ARE MAKING AN ISSUE FOR DEMOCRATS

The minority report of the Legislative committee named to investigate the State Civil Service is a document that every Republican officeholder will do well to read with care.

A year hence, if the Republican Legislature pursues its plan to adopt a new and weaker Civil Service act, this report will be serving as the principal Democratic campaign textbook.

The report itself, though prepared by a Democratic member, James D. Dotsch, of Garden, is not in the least partisan. It makes no defense of the political activity by Civil Service employees or of the forced political assessments which the investigation disclosed to have taken place under the Murphy regime.

What it does defend is the Civil Service system. And it does this so effectively as to leave no doubt in any mind that the partisanship was on the part of the investigators, whose purpose to "smear" and discredit the system it relentlessly exposes.

For all their generalized criticisms, Dotsch showed, the investigators in the end dared not "include in a long report one single line which imputed dishonesty, unfairness or partisanship" to the Director or anyone charged with administration of the act.

On the contrary, the minority report makes amply clear, it was the very unthoughtful evidence of strict and impartial administration that furnished the motive for some of the proposals now pending to weaken the authority of Director and Commission.

Beyond that, the report states what, in the main, everyone knows: That the existing law is in most respects the model law drafted by experts four years ago for Gov. Fitzgerald's Study Commission; that its defects, the result of changes made by the Legislature, are of a nature easily corrected with a few simple amendments.

This minority report will add no little to the difficulties of those who would undermine the present law in the guise of "improving" on it. It will add even more to their difficulties if, persisting in that purpose, they present the Democrats with a Civil Service issue for 1940.

PROGRESS POSTPONED

The largest single step the administration could take to restore business confidence and employment would be to revise the labor relations act. Yet within a few days after a burst of speeches cordial to business, administration leaders in congress have postponed "indefinitely" the hearings scheduled for March 10 on amendments to that act.

TOTALITARIAN TALES

One of the most ghastly stories to cross the ocean in months is the tale of several scores of small children in a remote Soviet town who were arrested, jailed with common thieves, browbeaten, third-degree and forced to "confess" falsely that they were "counter-revolutionaries, Fascists

World Affairs Reviewed

Four arresting articles constituting an introduction to "The New Pope" — Pius XII—his personality, his past life and his future problems, have been cabled from Rome to The Daily Press by Milton Bronner, European Manager of NEA Service. This is the first article.

BY MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1939, NEA Service, Inc.) Rome—The deep-blue eyes that seem to burn behind the gold-rimmed glasses of Pope Pius XII are beacon fires—a warning signal to foes of the church who may mistake his quiet manner for a yielding nature.

His predecessor, Pius XI, was a northerner—rugged, iron-willed, strong and dominating, whereas the new Pope is a Roman—brilliant, supple, resilient.

But (one churchman told me) any totalitarian leaders who may deduce from this contrast that the new pontiff's attitude will be more pliant than that of his predecessor, will awaken soon to find that Pius XII is a man of boundless determination and strength.

Pius XII may say "no" softly, almost diffidently. But he knows how to say it, and once it is said it does not change into "yes."

While the late pope always spoke in a bold, forthright manner in protest against totalitarian encroachments, Pius XII who has spent half his life as a diplomat charged with the foreign affairs of the church, will speak in more delicate terms but no less firmly.

Far from lacking moral or physical courage, churchmen here say the new pope possesses the burning zeal with which martyrs are made.

Pius XII is six feet tall and gaunt. His face is that of an ascetic.

He never has smoked, and rarely sips at a glass of wine. He eats frugally—mainly eggs, fish and fruit—and is uninterested in new foods.

He will feel keenly his confinement to the Vatican grounds. Before he was elected Pope he was accustomed to take long, vigorous walks in the Borghese Gardens where he was a familiar figure to thousands of Romans doing the same thing.

Some time ago, when Pacelli — then Cardinal—was returning from the Castel Gandolfo to the Vatican in an automobile, the chauffeur averted to avoid hitting a child on the road. The auto struck an embankment. Pacelli was unhurt save for a badly bumped head.

Asked by a friend whether the experience was not frightening, Pacelli replied, "I didn't know it was happening. I was engaged in a book. I always read when I ride or walk in the Borghese Gardens. There is so much to do and so little time to do it that I have to make opportunities to read."

Perhaps it may seem superfluous to say of any Pope that he is a devoutly religious man. Yet it is recorded of Pius XII that after he had become a famous figure in the church, had handled for the Holy See diplomatic matters of the highest importance and had been given great honors, his deepest personal desire was to retire entirely from these lofty activities and fulfill purely and simply the functions of priestly ministry. He even wished to renounce the honors of his cardinalate, it is said, in order to attain this end.

Throughout his career, it is recalled, despite his pressing obligations, he always found a way to devote some time to priestly duties. After he had become secretary of the Sacred Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs in Rome—the first section of the papal secretariat of state—he preached and heard confessions in various colleges and churches about Rome. He also gave regular courses of religious instruction.

The present Pope always has displayed the marked abilities that were to carry him in his present position. He was not strong as a child—he had to withdraw from college in Rome because of delicate health, and was obliged to complete his education as a day-pupil, with study at home—but it was not long after he had entered the priesthood, in 1899, that his qualifications attracted the attention of his superiors.

Almost immediately, he was named a substitute professor of law at the Roman Seminary. Simultaneously, he was made an appendista, or apprentice, in the Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs. It was not long before he had become a full professor of canon law, and had been advanced in the Congregation to the grade of minutante, or official of the first class.

It is doubtful if any Pope has been as widely travelled as Pius XII. In addition to his long sojourn in Germany, he visited South America in 1934 as papal legate to the International Eucharistic Congress at Buenos Aires, visiting Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo. His visit to the United States two years later has already been mentioned.

He is a gifted linguist, and has a good command of English, French, German, Spanish and Portuguese — in addition, of course, to Latin and Italian.

and terrorists."

Another shocking tale is that from Austria, where the Nazi apparatus is rapidly absorbing $100,000,000 of property belonging to the Catholic church, turning peaceful monasteries into military barracks, closing religious schools, "taking over" the church's art treasures.

We link these two stories because we think there is a natural connection between them. It is this: Once it becomes socially acceptable to take freedom and its attendant rights and privileges away from any one group, it becomes easy to take them away from any other group.

Q. Why do the flags on the United States Capitol fly day and night? A. C.

A. The Office of the Architect of the Capitol says that the custom of flying a United States flag night and day at all times from the United States Capitol originated during the World War. It was felt for patriotic reasons that there should be one building over which the flag never ceased to fly. The Capitol was selected as being typical of the United States, and as being outside of military regulations, which of course, demand the furling of the flag at sunset.

The total Government and private debt in 1929 was $159,823,000,000. The corresponding figure for 1938 was $155,115,000,000. Interest rates are lower than in 1929.

New York—Lin Yutang, the genteel Oriental philosopher, who now resides in Manhattan, who reflects upon the American way of life in books and poetry and who gave us his accumulated wisdom in the book, "The Importance of Living," is the most ardent visitor at the Central Park Zoo.

He claims to be unhampered thought, free from distraction, while he is in the company of the assorted inmates. His intimate confidant there is a squirrel who enjoys the freedom of the grounds but who hovers about the zoo cages on his rounds.

Lin Yutang says that he has learned many a fact about life from his furry friend and inspirations aplenty for his meditative essays. Nor does the squirrel go without his share of the royalties, for the Chinese philosopher never fails to bring a pocketful of nuts along.

Which reminds me of that publishing phenomenon of the decade—Ferdinand—that brief fable of the peace-loving bull which has horned in on the American heart.

The saga of "Ferdinand's" creation is not new. Munro Leaf wrote it in less than forty-five minutes one day for his own amusement. He wrote it in less than 100 words and was about to toss the effort into the waste basket when it was retrieved by a friend of his who happened to be standing around.

Ferdinand's career from then on has been spectacular. More than a half million copies of the slim volume were sold in the United States. Walt Disney screened Ferdinand with huge success and the various toy, doll, cartoon and other sundry royalties for the botanical bull have catapulted him into the realm of Big Business.

I couldn't get even approximate figures on Munro Leaf's proceeds from his happy bull, but one reliable computer said he wouldn't be surprised were his personal profits to exceed a half million dollars. Not a puny sum for forty-five minutes of relaxing scribbling.

Dice Roll Back

Having toyed with all other table-sports in the town's pubs, the folk-with-time-on-their-hands have reverted to the great National Pastime. But they are playing it for fun, rolling the polka-dotted cubes around the table-cloth with stakes no higher than a round of drinks or a handful of matchsticks or, occasionally, loose change.

It would be against the rules to contest the cubes for real money stakes. It is about time, too, for the games that the zanies were thinking up around the clubs for the killing-of-time, were beginning to pass reason. Games featuring the brain, and not the brawn, have multiplied by the hundreds and along with a tall drink, the water usually brought a tray resembling the ouija board and a set of 1020 questions. But the customers balked. They were getting away from the most popular of all American indoor sports. And out came the dice to replace the brain-twisters.

Schizophrenia, a mental disease, fills one-fifth of all the hospital beds in the United States and costs $1,000,000 daily to treat.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—The cold and lifeless form of Oscar lay stretched upon the floor. Beside him lay a gun, and above him bent the puzzled faces of four detectives. Was it suicide or was it murder? And if murder, who was the criminal?

The detectives strained for the answer, knowing that success would mean an "A", and failure an "E", when their report cards were sent home. There was no time to waste, for their next class was at 10:30, and other detectives had to take a turn in the "crime scene room".

Oscar, a wax dummy, has died a thousand times, and each time he has provided a new problem in detection for the students in the National Police Academy of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Today he is dressed in fashionable clothes, and the "crime scene room" is set with the modish furniture of a modern apartment. Tomorrow, Oscar will be in rags, and the room will have all the trappings of a gangster's den.

J. Edgar Hoover is nothing if not thorough. When he presents his "students" with a "crime situation", no detail of the stage setting is overlooked. As a theatrical realist, Hoover out-Belascos Belasco.

—COPS FIND CLUES—

The four detectives, who in real life are members of the police department in Albany or Seattle or Houston, find on the table a half-eaten chocolate bar. It's a clue. They have had instruction not only in finger-prints but in tooth-prints, and they carefully wrap the chocolate bar for later comparison with the teeth of a suspect.

There is a memo pad by the telephone. But no writing on it. Not daunted, the detectives examine the pad with a magnifying glass. The top sheet bears indentations from the writing on another sheet that has been torn away. Again a clue!

With no less zeal than if Oscar had had real blood in his veins, the detectives construct their case, track down the criminal, and turn him over to the law. They find, beyond a doubt, that the tooth-marks and finger-prints of a certain member of the FBI staff betray him as the foul murderer of Oscar.

The campus of the National Police Academy is Pennsylvania Avenue, and its lecture halls are in the Justice Department Building. Though there is no tuition charge, this is one of the most exclusive academies in the country. To be admitted, you must be a "cop" in the first place, and you must be the one and only "law enforcement official" selected from a given city to study under the G-Boss, J. Edgar Hoover.

—POLICE UNIVERSITY—

This is not a course for G-Men, however. That's something else again. Hoover has a veritable university. There is the National Police Academy, whose graduates go back home and carry on—no connection with the Federal Government except through good will. And there is the FBI Training School for Newly Appointed Special Agents, plus three other advanced schools to keep agents and clerks from forgetting what they have learned.

Who Killed Oscar is only one problem out of many to be faced by the cops from Harrisburg and points west. There are academic problems, sheer classroom work. They sit down before a blackboard and listen to a lecture on the analysis of finger-prints.

Teacher says: "In making the formula, we place the even numbered fingers in the numerator, and the odd in the denominator. Now, a finger has a numerical value only when it contains a whorl. Take a specific case. Suppose a man has two whorls in the left little finger and the left ring finger. What would be the count, Mr. Knox? . . . And the key, Mr. Davis? Remember that the key is the ridge count of the first loop."

—MACHINE GUNS—

There is a feeling of relief when the class is over and they go down to the rifle range. This is something they know about. They take up a pistol and fire at a paper target of a man, 100 feet away. Good score. Next try the machine gun.

"I don't know so much about these things," a student says. "We've got one on the rack back home, but nobody knows how to handle it, and it doesn't get used much."

FBI finds that municipal police have almost no experience in handling that famous weapon which is the favorite of gangsters, the Thompson sub-machine gun. Even after preliminary "dry instruction" (handling the gun, without firing), the average score will be only 55 per cent, meaning that only 55 of 100 shots strike the body of the target. At the end of the twelve weeks course, however, the average score will be 85 per cent.

The poorer speaker you are, says Dale Carnegie, the more room for improvement. Yes, and the more room in the hall.

Ruba-dud-dub, What a hub-bub, The kids gettin' ready for school! A lot of grub-grub, A little rub-rub With the speed of an infantry mule!

But the last five minutes are hectic, Supercharged, surcharged, electric! The radio thunders its blather While the seekers of knowledge foregather.

They're yellin' for stockin' and sweaters, For pencils and notebooks and letters; They're grabbin' for lunches and candy, And the first fellow's cap that comes handy;

They're rushin' from parlor to cellar In search of apple and speller; They're fussin' like cats with each other, And cross with their distracted mother; On the fly they kiss her pale cheek— This happens five mornings each week!

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

Washington—The Census Bureau is already preparing for its big job next year. Congress has not yet legislated or appropriated for the 1940 census, and the field men won't start going out with their pencils and notebooks until the second of next January. But the preliminary work is now under way.

William L. Austin, director of the census, believes that next year's will be the most important and significant census ever taken in America, with the possible exception of the first one—that of 1790.

The census, as he sees it, is Uncle Sam's periodical stock-taking, in which the old gentleman studies his assets in the way of human beings and natural resources. And a great many things have happened to those assets since the last stock-taking.

QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

First and foremost, says Mr. Austin, there is the question of unemployment. What has the depression done to us? Exactly how many people are out of work now? As for the people who have jobs, what kind of jobs have they? Are they making enough to support their families decently?

How about the young people who have reached working age during the depression years? How many of them have jobs, and how many of them have displaced older people?

There have been profound population shifts in the last 10 years. The 1925 agricultural census showed that the long farm-to-city migration had been checked, and that the number of small farms in the United States had increased by 500,000 since 1920. Has that shift been halted? Is the tide moving the other way again—and, if so, how fast is it moving?

The census will answer all of these vitally important questions, and many more besides. It will cover manufactures, from the biggest factories in the country to the smallest. It will provide a complete picture of retail and wholesale trade, an up-to-date tabulation of mines and mining activities, a survey of the entire farming set-up, and a full listing of lands under irrigation and the crops they grow.

MAY COVER HOUSING

It may do other things, too. Its scope is set by Congress, and this year there is a good deal of pressure to broaden the census's field and have it include a study of housing. The pressure comes from such business groups as real estate boards and construction firms and such government agencies as the Federal Housing Administration and the U. S. Housing Authority.

"This country has gone a long way since 1920," remarks Mr. Austin. "There will have to be a number of new inquiries in the 1940 questionnaires."

"We'll have to give consideration to birthrate, which has been falling for the last few years. If the decline continues, we'll soon have a stabilized population, with birth and death rates about equal."

The Census Bureau is a going concern all the while, since it conducts many inquiries at far less than 10-year intervals. Right now it has about 750 permanent employees, plus perhaps an equal number of temporary ones. The director, incidentally, is the only employe in the bureau who isn't under civil service.

The big army of field workers next year won't be civil service people of course, as most of them will work only a few weeks. At the peak, there will probably be more than 125,000 of them.

CHECKING BIRTH RECORDS

One thing that keeps the bureau busy year in and year out is verifying birth dates for people who want to prove to the Social Security Board that they're old enough to receive old age benefits.

Birth statistics have been kept so sketchily in most parts of the country, until recently, that only the census records will give a person the proof he needs. Last year more than 100,000 requests for age verification were received by the bureau, and some 8000 people came down in person to make the checkup.

Conferences to discuss the scope of next year's census are still going on. The population census was discussed just recently, a conference on manufactures and mines will be held shortly, and there will soon be a big one on wholesale and retail trade.

"There are some things about census-taking I've never been able to understand," says Mr. Austin. "Up to the Civil War, for instance, we were purely an agricultural country; yet the first census of agriculture wasn't taken until 1840. After the Civil War we developed rapidly as a business country—but the first business census was taken as late as 1920."

TWO PAY FINES

Marguette—Harry E. Becker, 211 East Chocolate street, Munising, and William Akerley, of Turin, each paid a $50 fine for state liquor law violations here yesterday following a hearing at the state police post conducted by Verold F. Gormely, state liquor control commissioner.

The attention of sentences were 30-day suspension of licenses. Becker was found guilty of furnishing a retail license with fixtures and having an interest in the business. He is a wholesale dealer. The retail license, having been transferred to Sam Althouse, of Munising, from a former owner, was cancelled.

SERIAL STORY 'MRS. DOC'

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
ALAN WARREN—Ambitious young country doctor.
EMILY WARREN—Alan's wife.
ERIC KANE—Construction engineer.
DR. FARRELL—Alan's elderly associate.

Yesterday, Emily tells Dr. Farrell that she hates Sumner, wants Alan to return to St. Louis. Then the telephone rings. It may be Alan—

CHAPTER III

"Oh, hello, Dr. Peterson. So good to hear you. Sorry Alan couldn't be at the station to meet you, but he's on a rail. Do hurry—you have the address—1114 West Esplanade. And Mrs. Peterson? I can hardly wait to see you, please hurry!"

Emily turned from the phone, smiling. Lights danced in her eyes.

"Oh, Dr. Farrell, do you think he really could want Alan?"

"Perhaps, child. Whatever he is here for, whatever the future may hold, I hope only for your happiness."

"And that'll be— But I haven't time to be day-dreaming. Doctor, you stir up the fire, and bring in the cocktails. I'll see that Herminia has everything ready."

He filled his pipe from Alan's humidor, stared into the flames. "Emily certainly has her heart set on going back to St. Louis. For her sake, I hope it might be so—but there are so many other women here in Sumner who'll need Alan. Well, we'll see."

"I must say, Emily, if Alan misses many meals like this one, country practice has dulled his wits. Even Antoine's finest can't compare with your cooking. How do you do it, Emily?"

Emily laughed gaily with the big, white-haired man who had long been her father's friend, and Alan's friend, too. How well she remembered how his unstinted praise for the young medical student who had won her heart, had helped win her father's permission for their marriage. "Brightest student we've ever turned out," Dr. Peterson had said then. And now, Alan was wasting his time here in Sumner, bringing babies, being away from her whenever she needed him.

"It's my secret, Dr. Peterson," she said. "And would you believe it, Alan has never tasted this dessert."

"The man doesn't know what he's missed, dear," Mrs. Peterson said. "But why? Do you keep him on a diet?"

"No... we have it often, usually for some special occasion, however," Emily replied. "I call it my 'Alan's night out dessert.' Whenever I plan to have it, Alan gets a call, just as he did tonight. Remember our first party in Sumner, Dr. Farrell?"

"Indeed, I do Emily. And so does every member of the Ward family. They still have a mother they might not have had, if Alan had stayed for your party."

"Yes, I know, I know, Doctor, but you would think that Alan would have stayed at home on the first night I entertained in Sumner. Why Mr. Maddox, the banker, and the Ingalls, and the Hazels—just everyone who means anything in Sumner were here... All but Alan."

"Now, now, Emily," Dr. Peterson patted her hand reassuringly. "You bargained for that when you married a doctor. We had a little of that sort of thing, too, didn't we?" he asked his wife.

"I'll never forget your birthday dinner—that was heartbreaking," Mrs. Peterson laughed. "I can sympathize, Emily. Being a doctor's wife is no easy job."

"But it is just that—a job," Dr. Farrell said earnestly. "It's a tough assignment, but husbandless dinners and parties are just a small part of it. They go with it—just like the smell of ether... But Emily can take it, and come through smiling. Remember Christmas?"

"Don't tell me Alan doesn't even come home on Christmas," Dr. Peterson asked.

"Just exactly that, I never thought anyone could be so miserable as I was Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. All night long I sat in front of the fire, waiting. And it was after noon when Alan finally did get home, so tired that all he could do was wish me a hurried 'Merry Christmas' and fall into bed. It was terrible. But fun, too. I've always wanted to trim my tree without any help or suggestions from anyone. I certainly got my wish."

"You're only telling half the story, Emily. As Alan's professor of surgery, Dr. Peterson, you would have been proud of him that night." Dr. Farrell went on. "Eight youngsters cut and smashed in a head-on automobile collision. And how Alan worked, without a second's rest."

"It was a whole course of surgery in a single night, Dr. Peterson. Fractures, cuts, crushed chests—one lad took the emergency brake through the abdomen—Alan did the operating while I helped, what little I could do. Ask anyone of those parents who the real Santa Claus is. They all think Alan is a superman and an inspired surgeon."

"But that's enough of my troubles, Dr. Farrell," Emily interrupted. "Tell me more about things at home, Dr. Peterson. Did Louis have her New Year's party as usual? Did you all go out to the Hunt Club for breakfast, like we used to do?"

"The party was just the same ancient Babylonians more than Emily, but we missed you, Every 5000 years ago, one was asking your father when you'd be back. The orchestra even played your favorite 'Stardust' and dedicated it to you."

"And all the gang were there, too? Wait and Rosalind, Hank and Virginia, John and Katherine? And did Myron come alone again?"

"I'd almost think you were there, my dear," Mrs. Peterson answered. "You've named the crowd so well. The bartender at the Old Rock House asked about you, too. You helped him mix drinks the year before, I believe."

"Oh, I did. And made Alan angry. Maybe I could be a barmaid if I came back again. Those were the days," Emily sighed softly.

"Now New Year's in Sumner was a gala event. Dinner at the hotel, and Alan is called to the hospital before midnight. I came on home and went to bed."

"Emily isn't particularly fond of this life of a doctor's wife, is she, Dr. Farrell?" The men were alone in the living room after the dinner had ended. Emily had taken Mrs. Peterson upstairs to show her the house.

"It's hard for her to get into the swing of things, but she'll make it. Emily has lots of courage and that's what it takes."

"But she deserves something better, Dr. Farrell. Emily has had society all around her of her life. It's part of her. This loneliness, this friendlessness, I'm afraid it may break her spirit."

"Orchids grow best in the jungle."

"Granted, but that is their native habitat. We, who love beautiful orchids, merely try to reproduce those tropical conditions. You can't grow orchids—or much else either—in blizzards."

"But don't get the impression, Dr. Farrell, that Emily will quit. She'll stick, but it may make her bitter, and old. And she's much too charming to grow old prematurely."

"Sumner never can be St. Louis, Dr. Peterson. Emily has to realize that. Her job is here, beside Alan, helping him in his work. As long as she tries to make Sumner over into a big city, she'll be hurt, again and again. As long as she tries to be the society wife rather than the doctor's wife, she's certain to find disappointment."

"And Alan... what about him?"

"The finest graduate your school ever granted a diploma. Every day he grows bigger, finer. In obstetrics, he's surpassed every man we've ever had in Sumner, including his father. Although he doesn't go in for a great deal of surgery, he is quick and sure, confident and dependable."

"Is he really specializing in obstetrics, then, Dr. Farrell?"

"It's being forced upon him. He's so gentle, so considerate, so human, that every woman in the county insists upon engaging him. I've turned all of my OH over to him. He started out as my assistant and now, after five years, it seems more like I'm assisting him."

"I've no such ideas, Doctor. But tell me, do you think Alan would consider an offer to become professor of obstetrics at the school?"

"I've been expecting that, Dr. Peterson. I doubt it."

"Even if the salary were exceptionally high, the hours as easy as possible? There's Emily to consider, too."

"Yes, there's Emily. Frankly, Dr. Peterson, do you intend making Alan that offer?"

"I do, and if I can, Dr. Farrell, I'm going to take him away from you."

"Perhaps—but I'll do my best to beat you. I don't think it's the life for Alan. He's needed here."

ENTER POLICE SCHOOL
Marquette—Fifteen registrations for the upper peninsula police training school, to be held in Marquette, April 3-8, inclusive, have been received at the office of Donald McCormick, Marquette chief of police, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The school is sponsored by the Upper Peninsula Association of Law Enforcement Officers, of which McCormick is president, with the cooperation of the Michigan state police and federal bureau of investigation. It is the first in-service police training school of its kind in the upper peninsula and was instigated by McCormick.

TWIN CITIES JOIN

Menominee—Twin City business men started the ball rolling last night for the Fourth Annual Twin City Smelt Carnival by Co-Chairmen Dr. J. D. Frandland of Marquette, and Chief of Police Frank Parsek of Menominee.

The carnival will be held from April 5 to 20, concentrating on a five-day program when the smelt spawning run actually starts. The committee planned a carnival of five days and four nights from Wednesday through Sunday with the main events Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The dates will probably be April 12 to 16, depending on the smelt run, but are not definite.

SILVERNALE IMPROVES

Menominee—Supt. John L. Silvernale and Mrs. Silvernale plan to return to Menominee from Cleveland about the first of next week, according to a letter from Mrs. Silvernale received at the Menominee high school office today.

Mr. Silvernale has been ill with influenza at the home of his son, Leslie, in Cleveland. His condition is not serious, Mrs. Silvernale wrote.

Mr. and Mrs. Silvernale left last week for Cleveland where Mr. Silvernale attended a national school officials' meeting. He was stricken while in Cleveland.

WILL LICENSE BIKES

Sault Ste. Marie—Bicycles in Sault Ste. Marie will be licensed at 25 cents each, and riders of wheels must obey traffic laws similar to those governing automobiles, according to an emergency ordinance adopted Thursday night by the city commission.

The ordinance drawn up chiefly by City Attorney Claude W. Coates, and John T. Willis, an official of the V. F. W. Bicycle Safety Club, combines some of the best features of a number of ordinances examined, Mr. Coates told the commission.

CREATE SAFETY COUNCIL

Sault Ste. Marie—An ordinance creating a ten-man Sault Ste. Marie Safety Council which is to cooperate and confer with the city commission and other groups on needed safety measures was adopted Thursday night by the city commission after the plan was presented by Otis I. Rightmyer and John Murphy of the Sault Lions club, sponsors of the movement.

The council consisting of members from the various industries in the Sault, service clubs and other organizations is to act in an advisory capacity with the commission. Problems of safety, such as dangerous street intersections, faulty traffic regulations, or anything which may endanger the lives of Sault citizens will be investigated by the council and after careful consideration will be brought to the attention of the city commission for laws which would regulate these hazards, Mr. Murphy told the commission.

WOULD RESTRICT TAVERNS

Sault Ste. Marie—An ordinance for Sunday prohibition of beer sales until 1 p. m., dancing on Sunday night in certain places, and the exclusion of minors from places where liquor and beer are sold after 8 p. m. on all nights was asked by the city commission Tuesday night by the Associated Beverage Merchants of the Sault.

The proposed ordinance, regarded favorably by the commission, was referred to City Attorney Claude W. Coates and commissioners expressed the opinion that action will be taken possibly at the next meeting of the commission in an effort to cooperate with the Associated Beverage Merchants.

Unlicensed places which sell beer and whisky under city restaurant licenses, drew an attack from the Associated Beverage Merchants, which asked the city to investigate. The communication from the beverage merchants, signed by its president, Clarence "Taffy" Abel, suggested that the police department could investigate illegal beverage sales.

HOTEL MAN DIES

Sault Ste. Marie—Arthur E. Marriott, former manager of the Park and Murray Hill hotels, died at his home, 430 Cedar street, at 10 o'clock this morning after an illness of about a month.

Mr. Marriott, who retired from the hotel business in 1929 after having been in the business since he was a young man, died at the age of 78. Death was caused by a heart disease and complications.

Born at Forrestville, Sanilac county, Michigan, January 2, 1861, the Sault man entered the hotel business at an early age. During his hotel career he was manager of hotels in Detroit, Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines and the Sault.

BOARD TO HAVE 2 NEW FACES

New Supervisors Likely From Manistique and Seney Townships

The Schoolcraft county board of supervisors will have two new faces when it convenes in April, returns from the township primary elections indicate.

In Seney township, Enos Short, incumbent supervisor, was not a candidate for reelection and Herman Roemer defeated George Tull, 61, to 48, for the nomination for supervisor. Herbert Burns defeated Ross Klagstad, 97 to 78, for the nomination for supervisor of Manistique township. Klagstad is the incumbent.

Two other supervisors who had competition in the primary election survived, the reports reveal. They are Henry Orschel, Inwood township, who defeated Herbert Olsen, 88 to 54, and Angus McDougall, Germfak township, who won a three cornered fight from Frank Conlon and David Morrison. McDougall polled 110 votes to 82 for Conlon and 75 for Morrison.

All other supervisors were re-nominated without opposition in the primary election. They are Alfred Erickson, Thompson; Charles Howard, Hiawatha; William Davidson, Doyle; William F. Mueller. The remaining members of the county board are from the City of Manistique. They are City Assessor P. H. Beauvais, and Councilmen William Seliman, Victor Schuster, Thomas Grimesley and Harry Abramson. The city's supervisors are appointed to the board for two year terms.

The township officers will be elected Monday, April 3, and the county board is expected to meet for its annual organization meeting Monday, April 17. The meeting of the county board is now set for April 10, but circuit court will be in session at that time, and it is expected the supervisors will postpone their meeting until the following week.

Drink Milk for Better Health, Doctor Advises

BY DR. E. J. BRENNER
Director, Health Unit

Milk is a food that no one should do without, because it contains so many elements of a healthful diet. We should use it every day. A quart for each child and a pint for each adult is a good daily allowance. It is important that growing children have plenty of milk. It is especially needed for good teeth and bones, as milk supplies in almost ideal amounts minerals that go into their composition.

Milk is always a good investment, even when very little money can be spent for food. We do not usually think of it as an energy food, and yet a quart of average richness supplies from two-thirds to three-fifths of the total energy required per day by a year old child; about one-half the energy needed by a child of five; and about one-fourth of that needed by a man moderately active.

More milk would be used by adults, promoting their better health, were it not for the widely accepted fallacy that it is fattening. It is true that milk contains a certain sugar and fat content but far more important is its protein component, so necessary for tissue growth and replacement.

There are many ways to use milk, aside from drinking it plain. Milk-shakes and malted-milks are nourishing drinks that both chil-

These "Flexes" Fascinated the Fuehrer

After witnessing her performance in "The Merry Widow" three times in Munich, Adolph Hitler wanted another look at the sprightly dancing of Marion Daniels, San Francisco danseuse. So he sent a special German plane to fetch her back from Cannes, France, for a command performance at a private club in Munich. She reported that the interpreter told her Hitler thought her body and leg movements "marvelous." "I guess he meant my flexes," she said. Above, Miss Daniels does a pair of typical "flexes."

District Cage Finals Scheduled For This Evening

LITTLE GIANTS LOSE THRILLER

Nipped In Overtime Tilt; Marquette and Sault Reach Finals

Ishpeming, Mich., March 10—Michigan and National Mine, victors in two thrilling one point victories in the semi-finals here today, will meet for the district Class D championship tomorrow evening.

Michigan, which yesterday threw a bombshell into the proceedings by eliminating the undefeated Trenary team, continued its giant killing roll by nosing out the strong Rock eagles, 16-15, in a thrilling overtime game. By virtue of their first two victories, the Michigan boys are rated favorites for the title.

Throwing up an effective zone defense, which held Trenary's high scoring forwards well in check, Michigan completely throttled Rock's scoring wits, Carlson and Peltonen, neither of whom scoring a single field goal. Largely through the work of Suteia, junior center who scored 10 of Rock's 15 points, the Little Giants were able to tie the score at the end of the regulation game at 14-14. In the sudden death overtime, Rock took the lead on a free throw by I. Pilon but the game ended with Dismaw's field goal, giving Michigan its second overtime victory of the tournament.

Soo Trips Ishpeming
In another scorching, National Mine went to the finals by nosing out a favored Champion team by a score of 28-27. Champion had entered the second round by nosing out St. Paul of Negaunee by 24-23 in the opening round, while National Mine had defeated Palmer by 30-21. An indication of the strength of the teams involved is gleaned from the fact that four of the six games were settled by not more than two points difference and two of them went into overtime.

Sault Ste. Marie pulled the second big explosion of the tournament here tonight by eliminating Ishpeming, 24-21. It was the first time since C. C. Watson began coaching here that Ishpeming failed to play in the finals of the district meet. During the regular season, Ishpeming had defeated the Soo team twice and were odds on favorites to repeat the victory.

Coach Al Kircher's Graverasters of Marquette came through as expected with a 25-20 victory over Negaunee in an interesting game. Saturday night's game between Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette promises to have plenty of punch. During the regular season, each team won one game and tomorrow night's encounter will be in the nature of a saw-off.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

Never say die... at least, not until the tournaments are over, with... as evidence, look at the defeat of Trenary by Michigan in the first tournament game... during the regular season, Trenary defeated Michigan twice by lopsided scores, 37-19 and 41-17... Trenary entered the tournament with a perfect record of 15 victories and no defeats and no one even dared question that the Aigers would open the district tourney... but along comes an undaunted Michigan team and noses them out... during the middle of the season, we predicted that Trenary would lose in the regular season undefeated... we based our conclusions at that time on the fact that the scores of 67 and 70 which they ran up at that time indicated they had reached their peak too early and couldn't keep it... we hate to say "I told you so" but there it is.

Tournaments are decidedly unpredictable... every so often, the cry is heard that they should be abolished because favored teams are defeated... that is the more reason why they should not be eliminated... there is a great deal of satisfaction for a

George Laurila, Newberry Youth, Signs With Mansfield In Ohio Diamond League

Newberry, March 10—George Laurila, former youthful ace of the Newberry Indians mound staff, has won a pitching berth with the Mansfield club of an Ohio pro minor league, he advises in a letter to friends in Newberry. While a lower class circuit, it is a fairly fast one.

At a meeting of promising young sandlot players at the Naval Armory in Detroit recently, Laurila was one of the first signed by Mansfield scouts. He is a tall, lanky youth and has starred in athletics, including basketball, football and baseball. He has a strong, loose arm and has a free, easy delivery, a good fast ball and a fair curve. His main asset is his superb control, having a record of less than two passes per game.

The young moundsman's story is something of a Horatio Alger yarn. When his schoolmates were entering high school, George was faced with the task of supporting a widowed mother and younger brother. But he always loved sports and last season the manager of the Newberry Indians watched him throw the ball around at the regular practices of the team. George was asked to go out on the mound and give "em the works."

Praised By Scout
Give it to 'em he did and in his first season of pitching, he won practically single-handedly the Northern Michigan championship for Newberry, shutting out such powerful teams as St. Ignace, for several seasons a top bracket team in the Northern Michigan League. Laurila characterized his performances on the mound with the impressiveness of his easy fielding of bad hopping grounders and looping pop-ups. He has an ability to sense a play and has such success in handling bunts that he quickly discouraged such hitting on the part of opposing players. He hit the horseshoe at a better than 300 clip. Kenneth Miller Tracy, a minor league player for 17 years, said of Laurila: "The kid is one of the finest young pitchers I've seen in a long time. When faced with the toughest possible situation on the diamond, he remains as cool and unruffled as if he had two out, the bases empty, and a two strikes and nothing count on the third batter. I think he'll go far."

Laurila is not yet 21 and will be entering his second year of league baseball. While Eagan of the Tigers scouted him and gave him a tryout at Briggs stadium last fall, though he said Laurila had a wonderful arm, did not consider him ready for class A minors.

Chicago Makes Bid For Joe Louis Bout

Chicago, March 10 (AP)—Joe Foley, Chicago promoter, today asked Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Sporting club of New York to delay any action on the site of the Joe Louis-Tony Galento heavyweight championship fight until he hears the proposition to be presented by a group of Chicago business men.

Volcanic dust remains in suspension in the upper atmosphere for years.

MONTANEZ WINS OVER KID BERG

Puerto Rican Advances Nearer to Shot At Armstrong

New York, March 9 (AP)—Pedro Montanez, took a long stride toward a coveted welterweight championship shot at Henry Armstrong tonight by stopping the game British veteran, Jackie Kid Berg, in five rounds of a ten round bout at the Hippodrome.

After being given a tough, close battle for four rounds, the 142 1/2 year old rival with a right hook early in the fifth, Berg, who scaled 146 1/2, dropped as though a tree had fallen on him. He got up at the count of nine but was in such a helpless condition that Referee Frank Fullam halted the bout.

A surprisingly large crowd of 4,300 fans, who contributed to a gross gate of $6,079.52, was on hand to see the husky-shouldered Montanez chalk up his 45th victory in 46 starts in this country. His only defeat came in a futile effort to lift the lightweight crown from the ten-champion Lou Ambers in 1937.

Although Berg battled his younger and heavier-hitting rival on even terms through the first four heats, it was apparent he had little but his gameness left. Montanez slowed him down with clouts to the body in the first and second rounds, but one of those mid-section blows not away from him in the third and Berg took that heat because of Pedro's low punch.

GOLDEN GLOVES VICTORS NAMED

Detroit, March 10 (AP)—The John Henry Lewis-Dave Clark light heavyweight title bout, scheduled here March 31, was in a state of uncertainty today after Boxing Commissioner John J. Hettche announced that Lewis had failed to take a required physical examination and that he was "forced to postpone" the bout.

However, Hettche explained later, the bout will be allowed if Lewis, the defending champion, agrees to undergo examination later.

Hettche said he had commissioned a physician at Hot Springs, Ark., where Lewis is training, to make the examination. Hettche said Lewis had ignored two scheduled appointments with the physician.

"Obviously Lewis is not physically fit at this time to engage in a title match," Hettche said. He said he did not want a recurrence of the Jimmy Adamek-Rosecoe Toles bout last September after which Adamek was confined to the hospital with serious injuries. It was charged that Adamek was not in good condition when he entered the ring.

Young Bob Pastor Outpoints McCoy

Boston, March 10 (AP)—Bob Pastor, young New Yorker, tonight had an easy task outpointing Al McCoy of Boston, New England heavyweight boxing champion, to win a unanimous 10-round decision in their return bout at the Boston Garden. Pastor weighed 155 1/2, McCoy 182 1/2.

BUDGE WHIPS PERRY

New York, March 10 (AP)—Don Budge, fresh from his conquests of Ellsworth, Nines, opened his second professional tennis tour tonight by slaughtering Frederick John Perry, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0, in just 49 minutes before a thunder-struck crowd of 7,000 at Madison Square Garden.

DETROIT TAKES TEAM HONORS IN CHICAGO PUNCH PARTY

Chicago, March 10 (AP)—Professional boxing stars of the future were paraded before 21,000 spectators in the Chicago stadium tonight in the finals of the Golden Glove competition with Tony Novak, strapping 20 year old Kansas City youth, impressively winning heavyweight honors.

The Detroit team, with two victories, won team honors. Eight champions, survivors of a field of 21,000 were crowned.

Novak, who aspires to represent the United States in the 1940 Olympics, knocked out Mike Sampini, Cleveland southpaw, in the third and final round of their bout. After a crushing right to the chin, the Cleveland boxer went down on one knee and failed to get up. Novak, weighing 215 pounds, waded into his foe from the start.

Victor Saccola, 19-year-old WPA worker from Detroit, walked off with the bantamweight honors by defeating Al Noto, Chicago, brother of a former Golden Glove champion. Saccola fought with patches over both eyes to protect cuts received in previous bouts.

The crowd got a big thrill watching Chester Ellis of Kansas City, an Indian youth, wallop Earl Reid, Benton Harbor, Mich., for the 118 pound title. Ellis, former Haskell football player, twice made Reid's knees buckle with rights to the chin in the third round.

Another Detroit boy, Tony Ancona, won the 126 pound class title by defeating Joe Dupont, Chicago. Ancona dropped Dupont for a count of three in the third with a right to the chin.

Johnny Pleasant, Chicago negro, was awarded the lightweight honors over Tommy Moyer, Three Rivers, Mich., with the crowd booing the decision.

Milton Jones, 17-year-old negro dish washer of St. Louis, pounded out a victory over Vernell Williams, another negro of Cairo, Ill., to capture the 147 pound title.

The light heavyweight championship went to Jimmy Reeves, Cleveland negro, who defeated Shelton Bell, Wilberforce university, Dayton, O.

Finals In Hockey Tourney Sunday At Local Rink

Sunday afternoon will wind up the final game in the first annual hockey tournament, when the Escanaba Hawks meet the Marquette Hornets on the fairgrounds indoor rink at 2:30 o'clock.

The teams are fairly well matched with each scoring fifteen points against their opponents and the Escanaba foes getting eight to Marquette's seven so far in the tournament. Each club has defeated the other. However, the Marquette team has added several new players since their Escanaba defeat and whether or not they will be too much for the locals can not be told. When they Prison City played the Hawks earlier in the season it proved to be one of the most thrilling games this year and when the two clash here Sunday to decide who will be the champion, a record crowd is expected to turn out and see the battle royal.

A second game between Niagara and Gladstone has had to be called off because of the heavy loss of the Niagara players due to sickness.

PITT STUDENTS CAUSE BEDLAM

Sutherland Resignation Stirs Up Criticism of Sports Policy

Pittsburgh, March 10 (AP)—Shouting, cheering students, demonstrating against what a self-styled "spokesman" said was the "administrative policy" of the University of Pittsburgh, stormed through the University today and created a bedlam that lasted several hours.

Classes were interrupted by leaders urging fellow students to join them in a one-day strike, but studies continued in a majority of rooms.

The demonstration had been brewing all week since the resignation of football coach John Bain (Jock) Sutherland was announced.

Signs carried by the strikers criticized the college administration and others praised the coach. The Pitt News, in an editorial earlier this week, challenged what it termed the "bungling" of the school's administration.

Dr. James C. Charlesworth, associate professor of political science, removed his glasses, put down his book when the strikers surged in. He ordered them out, but the door was yanked open and strikers streamed in. Conflicting versions of what happened were given, but a desk and several chairs were overturned.

While the demonstration was at its height, Prof. David B. Rogers, professor of sociology, dismissed his class. On the backboard was written:

"Today I want all students to closely observe mass psychology."

Hope Springs Eternal In Chicago Sox Camp

BY ROBERT MEYERS Pasadena, Calif., March 10 (AP)—It's a little too early to get excited over the possibilities of the Chicago White Sox, and it may be too late along about next September, but it is safe at this date to announce there is a fine display of hope around the Chicago training camp.

As for the chances of the White Sox climbing out of the second division, it appears that Manager Dykes has been provided with the following:

A pitching staff open to slight skepticism and robbed of its most valuable member, Hard Luck Monty Stratton; a regular catcher whose identity must remain a secret at this time because even Dykes can't name him; a fair outfield, and an infield plagued by miseries.

Dykes says his regular outfield will be Gerry Walker, Mike Kreebich and Hank Steinbacher, with Rip Radcliff, the second best hitter in the lot, ready for replacement service. He'll get it quickly because Walker hasn't reported to camp and probably will be a month behind in training because of influenza.

Marvin Owen will be back at third and Joe Kuhel at first, provided young Mervyn Connors, the lad who belted out three home runs and barely missed a fourth in successive trips to the plate late last year, doesn't beat the weak hitting Kuhel out of the regular job.

Luke Appling appears strong enough at short. His broken ankle has knit together satisfactorily. But if it isn't one thing it's another with the Sox, and Jack Hayes is the other. The veteran second baseman has knee trouble and probably won't be ready to start the season.

In this case, Eric (Boob) McNair, a natural shortstop, who was secured from Boston, will go in for Hayes. In the event of further mishap, Ollie Bejma, once of the Browns and late of St. Paul, will be ushered in to protect the position.

George Renss, Mike Treesh and Ken Silvestri seem to be headed for the catching assignments, while the moundsmen probably will include, in addition to the dean of the staff, Ted Lyons, John Whitehead, Cliff Brown, Thornton Lee, John Rigney, Bill Dietrich, Jack Knott, Art Herring and another hurler or so.

HILLTOP QUINT FAVORS VICTORS

Three Conquering Teams Named On All Opponent Aggregation

Milwaukee, Wis., March 9—Three of the five teams which succeeded in defeating the Marquette university basketball quintet this winter—Long Island, Michigan State and Kentucky—landed men on the all-opponent aggregation named this week by Coach Bill Chandler and his Hilltop cage-men.

Undeclared Long Island, in fact, placed two men with Art Hillhouse, as center, and Irv Torgoff, as forward. Ed Nelson, the big Santa Clara center, was moved up to forward in order to be given deserved first-team ranking.

Marquette's all-opponent guards are Chet Aubuchon, Michigan State sophomore whom the Hill-toppers rate as the best player they faced this season, and Layton Rouse, the Kentucky powerhouse.

Wisconsin and Temple, who also defeated the Blue and Gold, have men on the second team along with Notre Dame, Butler and Michigan State. The selections follow:

First team: Torgoff (Long Is.) and Nelson (Santa Cl.) forwards; Aubuchon (Mich. Sta.) and Rouse (Kentucky), guards.

Second team: Sadowaki (Notre Dame and Steiner (Butler), forwards; Hindman (Mich. St.), center; Black (Temple), and Davis (Wisconsin), guards.

ESKYMOS WIN BY 30-16 SCORE

Meet Iron Mountain for District Championship Tonight

Iron Mountain, Mich., March 10—The battle of the century is predicted for Saturday night at the local gym when Escanaba and Iron Mountain eagles, victors in their games here tonight, tangle for the district championship in a game scheduled to start at 9 o'clock. Escanaba trounced Kingsford, 30-16, and Iron Mountain walloped Menominee, 42-22, to enter the finals.

Alpha, which trimmed Amasa tonight, 17-6, will meet Bates tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the class D final.

Co-captains Wes Hansen and Iver Olson deserted their traditional defensive roles here tonight to lead the Eskymos to an impressive victory over Kingsford, a team which lost to them twice during the regular season by a mere margin of two points. Hansen dropped in three field goals and topped off his performance with six free throws to lead his mates with 12 points while Olson racked up seven markers, followed closely by Bennett with six. Merzliak led Kingsford with seven points.

Control Rebounds
The game was close during the first quarter but Escanaba, controlling the rebounds largely through the work of Olson and Hansen, went to work in earnest in the second period to run a 15-8 advantage at half time. Continuing their attack, they boosted their margin by six points in the third quarter and went on to win easily on the shoulders of the reserves.

The second game went off as scheduled with Iron Mountain showing a world of power in trouncing Menominee. The Mountaineers, presented a high powered attack led by Fornetti, who scored 13 points, and served warning that they will be a tough customer for Escanaba in the finals. The two teams met twice during the year with each winning on its home floor.

KILLER ADMITS DOZEN MURDERS

'Smoky Joe' Anderson Dies In Arkansas Electric Chair

Tucker Prison Farm, Ark., March 10 (AP)—Joseph B. "Smoky Joe" Anderson, 37, former Indiana convict, died in the electric chair today a few minutes after he told officers he had killed "probably 12 or 15 people."

Anderson was executed for the robbery-slaying of Eldon Cooley, 26, Hot Springs chain grocery executive, a crime he steadfastly maintained he did not commit.

While eating a hearty meal shortly before execution, Anderson told William Roberts, special investigator, and Theron McDermott, deputy of the Wayne county (Detroit) Mich., sheriff's office, that he killed Robert A. Mouch, Hobart Manufacturing company salesman, last summer. The slaying of Mouch, whose body was found on a highway 17 miles from Detroit, had not previously been solved. Mouch was shot twice through the head.

Roberts announced after the execution that Anderson had told him and two ministers: "I killed probably 12 or 15 people but I have cleared up all I intend to now."

Pleads for Wife

The Mouch slaying was the fourth in which Anderson had confessed since he was taken into custody in the Cooley case last September. He told officers at state police headquarters he killed George W. Hovey of Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23, 1938, to obtain his car, and on Aug. 31 he kidnaped and killed John Colla, Gary, Ind., taxi-driver. Subsequently he confessed the fatal shooting of Fred L. Pirth, Oakland county, Mich., farmer.

When he was strapped into the chair, Anderson addressed the witnesses, asserting he had joined the church and that he believed in "many mistakes" had been "forgiven by the Almighty."

He pleaded for leniency for his 33-year-old wife, Lucille, who is awaiting a second trial at Hot Springs for alleged complicity in the Cooley slaying. He said she had no knowledge of the killing.

Anderson, his wife, Alfred "Pete" Dickson, 35, and Clarence Johnson, 23, were arrested in Hot Springs soon after Cooley's nude, bullet-riddled body was found last Sept. 9 in a remote mountainous area near the resort city. Cooley had disappeared the previous night while making collections at his chain stores.

The Andersons, Dickson and Johnson were tried and each sentenced to death. The supreme court affirmed Anderson's sentence but ordered a new trial for his wife. Appeals by Dickson and Johnson are pending.

Bradley Explains Vote On Measure

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Washington, Congressmen Fred Bradley, of Rogers City, Ia. for reorganization, but not the Democratic version, passed by the House on Thursday. In fact, only one Michigan Republican voted for the bill—Congressman Carl E. Mepes, of Grand Rapids, who more than other members has long studied the problem of revamping government agencies.

His "no" vote is based on his belief that "it is a weak and puny attempt on the part of the Democrats to put us on the spot for 1940, by saying we refused to approve of a bill to provide economy in government." Also he complains that it is merely to "satisfy the whim of the gentleman in the White House who is determined that his will must continue to prevail over Congress."

The newest Michigan Republican in the House, who says he is not afraid of being on the spot, asks a few questions:

"If the previous Congresses delegated their powers through 'blank check' appropriations to the President and he in turn created these bureaus and agencies, why does he not now discontinue or dissolve or coordinate these agencies himself without further demand from the Congress?"

"Why does Congress continue to appropriate hundreds of millions of dollars for the perpetuation of these so-called emergency establishments?"

"If there be need for this reorganization bill and if this administration is so sold on economy and efficiency, why does it continue to create new bureaus and new agencies?"

"Yes," says Bradley, "I favor reorganization for economy and efficiency but I do not favor giving to this President the right to play a game of solitaire chess with government bureaus as the pawns."

Seven Sentenced In Irish Bombings

Manchester, England, March 10 (AP)—Struggling and screaming "God save Ireland," six Irishmen and a young woman were convicted today and sentenced to prison terms totaling 121 years for complicity in recent bomb explosions blamed in the outlawed Irish Republican army.

The judge, who described the explosions which killed one man as a "diabolical conspiracy," imposed sentences of 20 years each on five of the men; the other was given a 14-year sentence and the woman a seven-year term.

STATE LABOR BILL ATTACKS PROVE FUTILE

LAND BILL ADVANCES

Lansing, March 10 (AP)—Conservation forces failed in a house fight today to send back to committee a bill to take from the conservation commission jurisdiction of northern Michigan tax delinquent lands.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Victor A. Knox, Republican, Sault Ste. Marie, would put such property in the hands of the state land board, created by law two years ago to administer 1,250,000 descriptions of land in lower Michigan and to sell such property.

North of the Muskegon-Bay City line the conservation department was given authority to determine whether such land should be sold or retained for recreation and wild life purposes.

The bill was made a special order on general orders for Wednesday, while the fight to stop it gained weight in the senate.

A bill permitting citizens to kill licensed dogs to protect wild game and private property, passed by the senate, was approved by the house and sent back to the senate for concurrence in amendments.

Representative Knox submitted a bill to provide free ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac.

Rep. Elton R. Eaton, Republican, Plymouth, introduced a bill to strengthen "anti-political activity" sections of the civil service law and to declare division heads as classified employees.

The house passed a bill making it the duty of the superintendent of public instruction to promote temperance education, a task opposed by the present superintendent, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, and performed by the former liquor control commissions.

LIFE INSURANCE EXEMPT

Lansing, March 10 (AP)—The senate approved a bill exempting life insurance policies, other than annuities, from the personal property tax today. The measure, which now goes to the house, also provides that annuities paid to widows and other beneficiaries upon the death of the insured also should be exempt from the levy.

CALLAHAN UNDER FIRE

Lansing, March 10 (AP)—The state civil service commissions today ordered an investigation of charges that Dr. Phillip A. Callahan, director of the Bureau of Old Age Assistance, had dismissed 10 of 12 Jewish employees in the Detroit-branch office because of "racial prejudice."

Harry Millstone, regional representative of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America (CIO), produced photostatic copies of Detroit newspapers of almost a decade ago to support his statement that Dr. Callahan had been "grand exalted cyclops of the SYMWA club, an affiliate of the Ku Klux Klan." Millstone said "SYMWA" meant "spend your money with Americans."

The photostatic copies quoted Dr. Callahan as saying he held that position when the SYMWA joined the Klan, resigning later, and quoted a Klan organizer as saying he had organized SYMWA clubs.

Millstone said the dismissed employees attempted to get their service ratings from Dr. Callahan and were told that "unfortunately some of the personnel records in our Detroit office were destroyed in a fire." He asked the commission to make sure the original ratings were not changed.

Warren M. Huff, acting state personnel director, said the old age assistance bureau would be rehiring more persons soon in an expanded program and that Dr. Callahan expected to re-employ some of those dismissed.

Sugar Beet Crews Will Be Examined

Lansing, March 10 (AP)—Mexican workers imported into Michigan from Texas to work in beet sugar fields will be given physical examinations before they leave the south, Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, state health commissioner, said today.

He said four large beet sugar associations representing 20,000 Michigan farmers had agreed to pay half of the estimated cost of $5,000 and $5,000 while the federal public health service would grant the state funds for the remainder.

The workers will be tested for tuberculosis and syphilis, Dr. Gudakunst said. The associations agreed not to hire any workers who did not pass the examination.

Nazi Bund Leader Acquitted Of Libel

New York, March 10 (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the German-American Bund, was acquitted today of a charge of criminal libel brought by former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein, Jewish lay leader. Goldstein based his complaint on an article in the Deutscher Weckruf and Deobachter, Bund weekly newspaper. William Fitzgibbons, a post office clerk, produced records listing Kuhn as editor of the paper.

MILK PRICE CUT

Grand Rapids (AP)—Retail milk prices here will be reduced two cents a quart Monday, the Milk Dealers Association announced, following an action by milk producers in cutting the paying price to farmers. Standard milk will retail at 9 cents, special milk at ten cents.

KIPKE'S AIM NOT REVENGE

Candidate for Regency Blames Democrats for Rumors

Adrian, Mich., March 10 (AP)—Harry G. Kipke, former University of Michigan football coach who now is a Republican candidate for regent of the institution, told a Republican meeting here tonight that he was not "out for revenge."

Kipke, speaking at the annual banquet of the McKinley club, attributed the "revenge" rumor to Democratic campaign activities.

"My candidacy is based on a desire to help the university," Kipke said, adding that he felt indebted to the institution where he was first a football star and later coach.

Governor Fitzgerald gave an extemporaneous talk at the meeting. Other speakers were Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction who is a candidate to succeed himself, and Judge Paul V. Gadola of Flint.

Fitzgerald assailed the administration of former Governor Frank Murphy, said that his own administration was starting "slowly but surely," and commented that since his labor relations bill had been criticized by "both industry and labor" he felt that "it must be a pretty good bill."

Murphy also was criticized by Judge Gadola, a witness before the Dies committee last fall. Referring to the General Motors strike of two years ago, Judge Gadola said "Flint saw clappers on the street for the first time" and charged that Murphy had "stuffed his nose in."

Elliott said Republican administrations had "kept education foremost" and had been "non-partisan" in dealing with school affairs. He said the Republicans were "doing all they can to restore Murphy's 37 1/2 percent cut in the equalization fund," and explained five bills dealing with education now pending before the legislature.

DEADLOCK IN SENATE

Washington, March 10 (AP)—Labor's demand for specific collective bargaining guarantees for workmen turning out armaments delayed congressional agreement today on the $358,000,000 army air corps expansion bill.

After a two-hour meeting of a senate-house committee appointed to adjust differences in the measures passed by the two branches of congress, Senator Logan D. (Ky.) disclosed there was a deadlock on a fair labor practices amendment.

As it was inserted in the bill by the senate, the amendment specifies that no person found to be interfering with collective bargaining or other rights of his employees shall obtain a contract.

Secretary of War Woodring wrote the conferees today urging that the amendment be eliminated, asserting that it might block needed airplane purchases and jeopardize the defense program.

War Referendum Revived

Logan said the National Manufacturers association also had protested, contending that the amendment would tie the hands of some prospective bidders and give the war department too much arbitrary power to decide labor disputes.

While this committee struggled with the air expansion bill, the senate naval affairs committee engaged in a general debate on foreign policy during which Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) expressed the opinion that there was a growing sentiment in the country for adoption of a war referendum amendment.

"Unfortunately," he said, there was a feeling among the people that congress could not be relied upon to resist the hysteria that might be created in a crisis.

A proposal for a constitutional amendment requiring a popular vote before this country would go to war except in defense of this hemisphere is pending in the senate. A similar proposal was narrowly defeated in the house last year after President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull vigorously opposed it, and only last Tuesday Mr. Roosevelt declared that his view was unchanged.

Alleged Shotgun Bandits Detained

Detroit (AP)—Donald Baker of Toledo, O., and Clifford Meisner of Detroit, accused by police of being members of a "shotgun gang" blamed for numerous robberies in the Detroit area, were held for trial in recorder's court on robbery charges following examination Friday. Judge John P. Scullen continued their bonds of $40,000 each. Police said employees of a tobacco company identified the two as gunmen who obtained $957 in a robbery Feb. 28.

Small FSA Homes Built For $1,100

Washington, March 10 (AP)—The farm security administration reported today that by adapting the "bolt-line" technique used in assembling automobiles it has been able to build small five-room frame houses for as little as $1,100 each.

One hundred such houses have been built at the southeast Missouri farms project near New Madrid, Mo.

FSA set up a prefabrication plant at a railway siding. The equipment was inexpensive, consisting principally of small power saws.

"The most important feature of the plant was its carefully planned layout," the FSA said. "Each step in the prefabrication process was arranged so that materials and semi-finished products flowed smoothly from one group of workmen to the next, with a minimum of delay and lost motion."

The out-door plant produced concrete foundation blocks, wall panels with built-in door and window frames, cable ends, trusses, partition panels, and other structural members. These pieces were then loaded on a truck and hauled to the house site, where they could be assembled within a few hours.

Alleged Ambulance Chasing Ring Of 24 Held In New York

New York, March 10 (AP)—A ten-round fight between Ex-lightweight champion Tony Canzoneri and Norman Quarles, of Norfolk, Va., scheduled for next Tuesday was called off tonight because of a cut eye Quarles suffered in training.

Officials regard the fall or surrender of Madrid and the loyalist sector of Spain as inevitable. The collapse of this sector and its unification with nationalist Spain will hasten United States' recognition of General Franco, which is likewise deemed certain.

Simultaneously, it is believed, President Roosevelt will lift the embargo on the shipment of arms to Spain. It was imposed because of the outbreak of the civil war and the end of the civil war will leave no reason for its continuance.

On Capitol Hill today, Representatives McCormack (D-Mass.) and Shanley (D-Conn.) asked immediate recognition of France, saying the loyalist government no longer existed and that recognition of its victorious foes would help cement United States relations with South America.

Vote Of Confidence Given To Gandhi By His Party, 210 - 131

Bombay, March 10 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of India's millions, won a 210-to-131 vote of confidence today from the agenda committee of the All India Congress party, which opened its 62nd annual session at Tripuri, a small village in the central provinces.

Gandhi is recovering slowly after a four-day fast undertaken to win democratic reforms in Rajkot state.

He declined to attend the party meeting pending settlement of the Rajkot reform question, one of the matters he is to discuss in New Delhi March 15 during talks with the British viceroy, the Marquess of Linlithgow.

Despite his absence, a majority of the congress working committee indicted they would back him in opposition to Subhas Chandra Bose, party president. Gandhi supported another candidate in the party election January 29.

Thug Slugs Woman For $10 In Church

Detroit, March 10 (AP)—A robber slugged Miss Edith Carnegie, 31, on the head with a hammer as she knelt in prayer at the altar rail of St. Gregory's Catholic church today.

Miss Carnegie told police the robber crept up behind her and that she caught a glimpse of him before he struck her and took her purse containing $10.

The church was empty at the time and Miss Carnegie finally made her way to the rectory from where the Rev. Frank A. Pokrifka, pastor, called police and a doctor. Miss Carnegie was taken to her home after receiving treatment.

Extra First From Texas Paper

First newspaper printed on Texas plane newspaper came off the press of the Lufkin, Tex., News, and was handed to E. L. Kurth, president of the Southland Paper Mills, whose $6,000,000 plant is under construction at Lufkin, by Elizabeth Hurley, city editor of the paper.

New Oxygen Mask Successful In Air Flight At 20,000 Feet

Boston, March 10 (AP)—A "flying laboratory" today raced non-stop from Minneapolis to Boston at an average altitude of 20,000 feet in what Mayo clinic scientists described as a "completely successful" test of a new-type oxygen mask designed to make practicable sub-sonic flight and aid flying at normal altitude.

Mal Freuberg, pilot of the commercial passenger plane which carried ten other persons, including his wife, said the flight was made at an average speed of 250 miles an hour for 1,140 miles. He described it as a "record" for fully-loaded passenger planes flying at that altitude without "dual-stage supercharged motors."

The plane left Minneapolis at 10:39 (CST) and arrived at Boston airport at 4:29 (EST), an elapsed time of four hours and 50 minutes.

The passengers, wearing masks which look like football players' nose-guards with bulb attached, said they were "completely comfortable" as they ate a chicken dinner, drank and talked while the plane hurtled through the stratosphere, sometimes at a height of 23,000 feet.

The four-ounce rubber masks, small enough to be tucked into a handbag, were attached to oxygen feedlines. The wearer breathed the oxygen through his nose. Carbon dioxide was exhaled through the nose into a bladder-like rubber bulb fastened below the mask. When the wearer next inhaled, a quantity of carbon dioxide was returned to the lungs "thus stimulating deep breathing," explained Dr. William R. Lovelace, one of the three Rochester, Minn., scientists who designed the mask.

Lovelace declared the test fortified his contention that the masks will be practicable for use "at an altitude of 35,000 feet."

Mrs. Freuberg, the only woman passenger, declared she was "even able to powder my face" while wearing the mask, but she added with a smile:

"They'd better make it better looking before it will be popular with the well-dressed woman flier."

Cleveland Boy, 19, Climbs Up 70 Feet In Buildup For Job

Cleveland, March 10 (AP)—On a girder 70 feet above the floor of Cleveland's downtown "high level" bridge, Ray Stana, 19, played hide and seek with police for six hours today.

"That by showing such initiative, I could get my name before employers and get an offer of employment," he said.

He got—No job, but a chill and a visit to police.

"I'm still shivering," he said an hour after firemen brought him down. Police booked him for investigation.

Stana, graduated from high school in January, climbed bridge posts and inched along girders while traffic sped across the bridge below him. Down 170 feet was the Cuyahoga river.

He carried a book, "New Frontiers of the Mind," but no food. He wore an overcoat and earmuffs against 27-30 degree temperatures, but no gloves or hat.

Police, notified of the "sit-upper," patrolled the bridge several times but reported no one there.

After six hours, Stana poked his head above a plate that screened him from view, and shouted: "I'll stay here until I get a job."

Traffic police sent for firemen, who hoisted a ladder.

Tonight Stana wasn't sure his "initiative" would be productive. He was ready to sit back and wait for results—and thaw out.

BIG HANK'S BAT STARTS STRONG

Greenberg Tees Off for Homer In Contest With Rookies

Lakeland, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Big Hank Greenberg's heavy bat has lost none of its potency because of the long winter layoff.

In camp only three days, Greenberg came to bat for the "regulars" in the opening inning of the first intra-squad game against the "Yanigans" today and drove the ball over the left field wall, sending two mates scampering over the plate ahead of him.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, rookie from Beaumont, was on the slab when Greenberg teed off and the three runs from the blow provided the regulars with a sufficient margin to beat the youngsters, 6 to 1, although out, 8 to 7.

Greenberg drew a pass on his second trip to the plate in the third inning and then retired to work on getting his legs in condition.

Hank was not the only home-run hitter, however. George (Buddie) Tebbetts, catcher for the recruits, slamming a pitch off Joe Rogalski over the left field wall in the fifth to give his team its only tally.

Harry Eisenstat and Rogalski hurled for the regulars, the former allowing three hits and the latter five. Trout and Young Jimmy Lynn worked for the recruits, the former giving four hits in the first three innings and the latter three hits in the last three.

Frank Croucher was at short-stop for the regulars, getting one hit. Frank Higgins started his career as a Tiger at his accustomed third base berth.

Charley Gehring and Billy Rogell passed up the training game in favor of other activities.

Fred (Dixie) Walker, veteran outfielder, was the only player not yet in camp and he was expected momentarily.

Another intra club game will be played tomorrow.

Bowers, who was recalled for consultation, is to see President Roosevelt tomorrow.

Meantime it became unclear whether the United States had any diplomatic relations with the new government set up by General Miaja in Madrid. Welles refused to tell newspapermen whether relations existed or not, saying the situation was too intricate for comment.

MADRID PUTS DOWN REVOLT OF RED ARMY

left within the city, including the labor headquarters.

The Communists were led by Lieut. Col. Jose Barcelo, former commander of the First Army Corps, and Lieut. Col. Francisco Bueno, who formerly commanded the Second Army Corps.

People Unconcerned

They were said by the government to have promised their support last Sunday after the overthrow of the regime of Premier Juan Negrin and then to have led the revolt two days later.

The Communists began surrendering in great numbers yesterday after the capitulation of their headquarters, a farmhouse two and one-half miles northeast of Madrid.

The cabinet issued a statement admitting the uprising placed the republican army "in a temporary state of weakness at a time when Franco is preparing to attack Madrid."

Soldiers of the central army to whom the statement was addressed were told, however, "not to mind treason on the part of a certain section of the army."

The army was urged to make positions at the front impregnable, "showing if necessary the utmost heroism in holding them."

"Chiefs, soldiers, officers and men," it concluded, "keep keyed-up in order to defend Madrid."

More people were about on the streets today and many basked in the bright sunshine which bathed the capital.

Long-acustomed to hardships in besieged Madrid, they gave little evidence of concern over the fighting going on among their own troops within the city.

GIANTS ARE OUT TO CLINCH FLAG

Misfortunes Are Past; Whole Outfit Full of Confidence

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

Baton Rouge, La., March 10 (AP)—There may be a question in some minds of whether the New York Giants will be folding the National league pennant come next September, or just folding, but to those most interested there is no doubt. The Giants are out to win that flag.

From Skipper Bill Terry down to the bat boy an air of quiet confidence prevails.

Theoretically, Terry would seem in a position to do a little experimenting with his lineup. Since the Giants won the pennant in 1923 he always had a contender until last year, so he couldn't break up a potentially winning combination.

On the surface, the same team which finished third last year could not be expected to finish first this year, but there are factors giving another angle to the case. For one thing, the Giants at the close of the 1938 season were held together by baling wire and adhesive tape. From Carl Hubbell on down the team was afflicted by injury and illness.

Apparently these misfortunes are past, although Hubbell and Hal Schumacher have yet to throw anything faster than a good, active snail in testing out their spilled arms.

Myatt Doing Fine

"No I'm not doing any experimenting," Terry said. "We're to make a battle of it. And doesn't that Tom Hafey look sweet out there?"

That Hafey always is bobbing up in Terry's conversations. Hafey is a husky third baseman who has been knocking the ball black and blue, but his case provides an example of Terry's refusal to experiment. Hafey can play any position, and although second base is a major problem right now, Terry is going to keep Hafey at third, where George Myatt is doing quite well, thanks.

In fact, despite Hafey's slugging, there is a general idea among the railbirds that Myatt will be at the hot corner when the Giants start the season.

A rough, tough, slashing lad is this Myatt, who is just as nice a guy off the field as you could hope to meet. He stole 10 bases in 43 games with the Giants last year and is reputedly the fastest man in the majors. He has the courage of a cornered bear, more crust than a chicken pie, and on the field asks no quarter and gives none. When he slides into a base it's every man for himself. In fact, he's something of a throwback to Ty Cobb.

Competition for positions such as that between Myatt and Hafey is another thing which adds to the Giants chances of finishing before the other clubs instead of just before Christmas.

John McCarthy, a loose-jointed windmill around first base, is pushing Zeke Bonura, although Bonura's hitting probably will be the deciding factor. Second base is wide open pending the performance of Burgess Whitehead.
