THE NEW HEROISM

In reading the accounts of the triumphal entry of the German Army into Prague, I noticed that one correspondent recorded that when the German tanks were met by snowballs from Czech citizens...

But this New Heroism? What is this new sort of warrior who attacks only when he has first undermined his opponent by treachery...

What manner of man is the New Hero who enters with a great apparatus of banners, armed and helmeted, accompanied by bombing planes, tanks, machine guns...

Who is this new superhero who burns asylums over the heads of orphaned babies, lays brands to churches and synagogues...

The Czechs, the reporters said, covered their faces with their hands as the German troops passed by. Was it to hide the sight of their "conquerors"?

None escapes the New Heroism! Lord Rudinman to scold the Czechoslovak war mongers? The British Empire demonstrated that it could use all its vast power...

Mother, you didn't raise your boy to be a soldier? That was your great mistake. You want to preserve his life? You want him to be safe?

Do not encourage him to remain a civilian! Above all, do not encourage him to be in any sense a non-conformist.

Train him, if he is a believer in democracy to retreat in close formation crowned with laurel leaves and under umbrellas.

SERIAL STORY 'MRS. DOC' BY TOM HORNER

THE CHARACTERS AND SITUATIONS IN THIS STORY ARE WHOLLY FICTIONAL.

CAST OF CHARACTERS ALAN WARREN - Ambitious young country doctor. EMILY WARREN - Alan's wife. ERIC KANE - Construction engineer. DR. FARRELL - Alan's elderly associate.

Yesterday, Alan decides at the last moment not to go to St. Louis because his patients need him. Emily is furious.

CHAPTER XIII If Emily had expected her blunt statement to surprise Eric, she was not disappointed.

"You're doing what?" he shouted over the wire. "I'm leaving Alan," she repeated. "I'll explain when you get here."

"But I can't leave the dam now, Emily. Things are in bad shape here. The water is rising."

"Please, Eric. The appeal in her voice could not be denied. "You are the only person I could turn to. I need you."

"Well, all right. I'll be there within an hour."

But it was almost two hours before she let him in the door, wet and dripping. His clothes, his boots were mud-spattered.

"What happened, Emily? Why this sudden decision? Don't rush into anything you'll regret later."

"I know what I'm doing—and I won't regret it. Eric Alan turned down the chance to go to St. Louis tonight. Wiped Dr. Sumner that he was staying in Sumner."

A sudden meeting, a girl he could not forget, and a blizzard had drawn him, as if by fate, into the tangled pattern of their lives.

heroes of the great white gentile race. Bustily, bustily, our own new conquerors are being trained.

The menace is not unemployment, skulduggery, political buffoonery, racketeering in high places and low, windy platitudes...

The menace is not the agents of the new barbarism, craftily using the instruments of the legal state and the privileges of the legal state...

It was for this, mother, that you told your little boy stories of the Father of His Country who could not tell a lie.

he free? Emily's voice was lost in the flood of questions that assailed him. Suddenly he realized that she had stopped speaking.

"What do you plan to do, Emily?" he asked. "Reno, first; after that, I suppose I'll go back home and try to pick up where I left off a year ago. Work and play can make one forget."

A question trembled on Eric's lips. He did not want to ask it, but he could not help himself. Loving Emily, he had to know.

"Is there any place in your plans for me?" he asked slowly. "Frankly, Eric, I don't know."

Eric knew she was telling the truth. "Please don't forget me; please don't leave me to face it alone. Together, perhaps, we can find the old gang and all the old fun at home again. You will help me, won't you?"

"I want to marry you, Emily," he said simply. "You're sweet, and kind, Eric," Emily said.

"But there's something I must do," Eric said. "I have to tell Alan. He must know that I love you. I can't have him thinking that I came into his home and deliberately tried to steal his wife."

"He knows... I told him that you had kissed me, the night of the dance. And he doesn't blame you, Eric," Emily continued. "It was your kiss, I am sure, that brought him to his senses."

Loyal to Alan, Eric grasped at anything in an effort to save Alan's happiness. Alan had saved his life. He felt he must pay that debt, if he could, even if it cost him Emily.

"You don't know Alan," Emily said. "He's made up his mind and nothing will ever change him. After I told him I was leaving, there was still time to catch the midnight train—still time to reach Dr. Peterson. But he went to the hospital. No. Eric, if our marriage is to go on, I'll have to be the one to give in; Alan never will."

Kane knew she was right. That stubborn devotion to purpose was evident in everything Alan did. Although Alan was slow to jump at conclusions, slow to make decisions, when he did make them they were final and irrevocable.

Yes, Emily was right. If there was to be any surrender, she must make it Alan was staying in Sumner, with or without Emily.

And if Emily did not surrender, if she did get her divorce, could he even hope—? Eric put the selfish thought from his mind. His dreams, his future had no place here. First he must make every effort to save Alan's home.

That Galahad spirit must be contagious, he thought, smiling. But it was not being Galahad alone that made him want to do all in his power to hold Emily and Alan together. If the break did come, Emily must be thoroughly convinced that it was all over—that there would be no returning.

He hardly noticed when Emily left the room to answer the doorbell, so engrossed was he in his thoughts. Then he heard Dr. Farrell's voice, echoing throughout the house.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

Table showing stock market averages including Dow Jones Industrial Average, S&P 500, and various sector averages.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, March 22 (AP)—Numerous losses of 2 to 4 points in the most active issues were recorded on Wall Street quotation boards today in a resumption of the stock market's steep decline...

Increased selling from Europe, brokers said, helped plunge the market into a sharp forenoon break following yesterday's brief interruption of the retreat.

Support lines stiffened as many shares approached their January lows. But rallying power was feeble and most stocks finished at or near the day's bottom prices.

Market sentiment seemed to have been influenced by a combination of fear of the European situation would get worse and disillusionment over the outcome so far of Washington's business recovery campaign.

Hopes for important tax relief at this session of congress along the lines desired in business circles were revised downward by some Wall Street commentators in light of President Roosevelt's comment on taxes yesterday.

Transactions increased to 1,440,440 shares compared with $89,610 in the previous session. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks fell 1.5 points to 48.2, equalling in extent last Friday's fall.

Corporate bonds resumed the March decline with stocks. Ralls had a bad spill. Most commodities sagged in narrow markets.

Aided by official control funds, the French and British currencies held their own in terms of the dollar in face of the nervousness reflected in action of other markets here and abroad.

Lockheed slumped 2 1/2 in the curb and American Airlines nearly as much. Smaller recessions were posted by Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil, Niagara Hudson Power and American Gas & Electric.

Oh, happy and heroic breed of men! The twentieth century refuses you. For this the world has been struggling up out of the mire for thousands and thousands of years!

Sometimes, of course, in curious avatars, a rapidly disappearing physiological phenomenon, a vestige of a previous plodding race, manifests itself. The soldier blazes. But do not be alarmed. Today's bluish will pass in tomorrow's posthum. Up and at them, heroes! Women and children first!

BOND MARKET AVERAGES

Table showing bond market averages for various bond categories like 20 Year U.S. Bonds and 10 Year U.S. Bonds.

New York, March 22 (AP)—The bond market turned abruptly downward today in step with falling share values, and losses of fractions to 2 or more were widespread among leaders.

The loan declines, which as a whole just about matched the previous day's gains, were attributed to the unsettled European situation. Accumulated overnight selling orders from abroad jolted quotations in early dealings, and though liquidation slowed down and prices steadied for a time, fresh sales near the close put final prices around the day's lows.

Among foreign dollar issues Belgium 6 1/2 ended at 103 1/8, off 1 3/8; Germany 7 1/8 of '49 at 21 1/4, up 1 1/4; Italian 7 1/8 at 59 7/8, off 2 1/8; Japanese 6 1/8 at 75, off 1 1/8, and Czech 8 1/8 at 38, off 2, the latter on the sale of two bonds.

PICNIC AT THE MARSH

The Famous Picnic at the Marsh under the auspices (hopeful) of the Catholic Church, which occurred on July 4, 1874 and it proved a grand success in every way. Invitations were extended to all Religions, occupations, ages and previous conditions of servitude. There was a motley array, Railway officials, Merchants, Laborers, Salon-keepers, Blacksmiths, Lumberjacks, Furnace men from Fayette, Farmers and others too numerous to mention. People began gathering early in the forenoon in the grove at the south end of the Marsh. A word about the Marsh: it was not a marsh, but a lake bed, that became dry, leaving a hard sandy plain, where all outdoor sports were held in summer.

On this particular day were held several contests, pitching horseshoes, foot races for old and young male and female; no short skirts those days, no painting of face, lips, finger nails, toe nails, no powder, no mascara, no plucked eyebrows, no cigarettes, no dispute as to whether the hair should be high or low, no low shoes. It was high shoes or barefoot.

Will Hart climbed the greasy pole, minus grease, then came the greased pig, also minus grease; that was an exciting event. So many participated in this that men and boys crowded together so much that the pig would temporarily escape. Once a man got on top of the pig and he much resembled mazaapa on the polish wild horse. The pig ran into several women which upset them physically and also their dignity.

"Mine Host" Mr. Gaynor, with his six feet of dignity, Prince Albert coat and pug hat, who was the manager of the Ludington Hotel, was standing near and thought he could preserve his dignity, but Mr. Swine did not recognize Authority and upset Mine Host, and as a result his ensemble became disarrayed and dusty and his fine silk top hat rolled about ten feet away and was sadly dented. Finally, after many minor accidents, the pig escaped into the woods and no one was a prize winner, unless on account of the fun we all had, everyone was a prize winner.

One affair I nearly forgot to mention; Tim O'Brian with eight co-horts mounted on horses and dressed like wild men dashed onto the grounds, making the welken, forest and everything else ring with their wild shouts and screams of the multitude.

Then came the great event of the day, which was a horse race between Father Langner's little black horse with Jimmie Powers up, and the beautiful bay owned by Dick Roberts with the owner up. They paraded around for a short time in front of the crowd, while many bets were made, ranging from one cent to the more reckless bets of fifty cents.

Finally the signal was given and the race was on. The excitement occasioned by the Ben Hur Charlott race pales into insignificance compared with that race on that famed day and year (hardly a man is now alive ETC) between the priest black and the beautiful Bay. The Bay gained the lead by a shoulder, then the Black surged ahead by a neck, as they disappeared behind some trees at the far end of the marsh. As they came into view again the Bay was a whole length ahead of the Black, and the crowd yelled, "Come Dick! Come on Jimmie!" Jimmie lying flat on the neck of the Black urged him on, and he came even with the Bay nose to nose. Then the onlookers kicked off the muffer and pandemonium really broke loose, dignity was gone with the wind. Even think modesty was also abandoned. Come on Dick! Come on Jimmie, you so and so. They did come on and the excitement rose to a dangerous pitch, but I heard of no cases of apoplexy, and finally, while women fainted and men swore, Jimmie got the Blacks nose ahead and won.

Thus ended a perfect day.

Michigan In Washington

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

The sudden death of Governor Frank Fitzgerald shocked the Michigan delegation in Washington. They can talk of nothing else. National politics are forgotten in contemplating how his death will affect the political fate of the Republican party in Michigan.

That Governor Fitzgerald was a very likeable, human person is obvious from the great number of incidents various of his friends here are recalling. Congressman Roy O. Woodruff, of Bay City, said when Fitzgerald was Secretary of State he asked him for a license number under a hundred.

"How would Number 5 suit you?" asked Fitzgerald. But when the time came to issue the new license plates Woodruff received a long apologetic letter from Fitzgerald filled with detailed explanation why he could not do as promised. Then in the last sentence was the question—"May I substitute license number 3?"

Congressman Fred Bradley, of Rogers City, recalled giving the governor his first ride in an airplane during the last campaign. "He was excited as a boy," said Bradley, adding that when they got up in the air his pilot turned over the controls to the delighted Fitzgerald.

Congressman George A. Dondero, of Royal Oak, told of arrival in Grand Ledge rather early one morning before the Governor had his breakfast. Fitzgerald invited Dondero out in the kitchen. Fitzgerald made a pot of coffee and served it on the kitchen table.

plant presented their reports at a meeting at the city hall last night but no action was taken because of the fact that several members of the group were not present. The reports of the three committees were placed on file and copies will be sent to all members of the committee for further individual study preparatory to a full committee meeting early next week.
