MUSSOLINI TRYING TO CUT HOLE IN BRITISH RING

(By The Associated Press)

Rome, April 6.—Diplomats foresaw arrangements tonight for a "defensive" Italian occupation of Albania while Italian warships patrolled Albanian shores and mysterious negotiations proceeded in Rome and Tirana.

Officials were silent, but in foreign circles there were reports that the conversations in the two capitals had reached a conclusion. Foreign observers reasoned that the ultimate aim in strengthening the defensive alliance between the two countries was three-fold:

- 1. To give Italy firmer control over Albania than she now enjoys, with greater facilities for developing Albanian resources.
2. To prevent encirclement of Italy and Germany by a ring of alliances by making Yugoslavia, fearful of any British or French overtures for an accord such as the Anglo-Polish mutual defense agreement.

Whether King Zog had accepted Italy's proposals was impossible to ascertain immediately. Tirana had reported that Italy made proposals which exceeded concessions the king was prepared at first to make. These were believed to be military, economic and financial.

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano received Yugoslav Minister Bohko Christich for a long talk. In light of Belgrade dispatches, Ciano was believed to have given assurances that Yugoslavia would be safe from mistreatment if she accepted a new situation in Albania.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Chancellor Hitler's right-hand man, who has been vacationing at San Remo, announced he would leave tomorrow for the south of Italy.

There, it was said, he would board a ship for Tripoli. Premier Mussolini flew to the military airport of Jesi, near Ancona on the Adriatic, a point which overlooks the sea toward Albania, and flew back to Rome after a swift tour of inspection.

No Troops Landed (In Yugoslavia, neighbor of both Italy and Albania, informed persons predicted Italy would occupy the Albanian coastline to seal up the Adriatic and warn both Yugoslavia and Greece to stay out of Great Britain's proposed anti-aggression ring.)

King Zog, ruler of primitive little Albania, conferred with the Italian minister to Tirana, Francesco Jacomoni, while diplomats heard that General Zel Serregia, Albanian minister to Rome, saw Italian Foreign Minister Count

Stay Out Of Wars By Cash and Carry Plan, Says Baruch

Washington, April 6. (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, noted financier and advisor of presidents, told the senate foreign relations committee today that the best way to keep America out of war was to make its vast resources available to all belligerents who can pay cash and carry goods away.

Clapping an embargo of sales to all belligerents would prove disastrous to American economy, he asserted, and embarguing one belligerent would be a form of economic warfare likely to lead this country into actual military war.

Therefore, to the vast delight of Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.), he gave eloquent support to the latter's proposal that the "cash and carry" provision of the present act be extended to all American products, including actual implements of war, which under present law would be embargoed.

Handicap To Some Testifying at a committee hearing into proposed changes in the neutrality act, Baruch frankly acknowledged that his plan would be advantageous to nations able to pay cash and haul the goods away in their own ships, and disadvantageous to others.

"But after all," he said, "that rule holds good in normal commerce. I do not see that we are required to adjust all inequalities of that sort."

Scornfully, he disputed the theory, held by many, that American participation in the next war was inevitable. We can keep out, he argued, and moreover we can do so without ignoring "faithlessness" on the part of other nations.

In answering questions put by Senator (D-Ill.) who advocates the embargo method, Baruch made it clear that in his opinion America would not be timid about standing up for its own rights.

"I think," he said, nodding his white head to the rhythm of his words, "that anyone who thinks America won't fight when the interests of this hemisphere and America are involved is badly mistaken. Germany made that mistake once."

INQUIRY IN WPA TO CALL G-MEN TO CALL G-MEN

Federal Agents Will Be Used If Needed By House Probers

Washington, April 6 (AP)—Members of a house subcommittee set up to investigate WPA said today that justice department agents would be used in the inquiry "if needed."

The subcommittee, which held its organization meeting today, has authority to use J. Edgar Hoover's men if the justice department is agreeable, it was said. Whether the chief of the "G-men" has been consulted as yet was not disclosed.

House investigators had their meeting while the senate was considering the bill to provide an additional $100,000,000—or $50,000,000 less than President Roosevelt had requested—for WPA operations until July 1. A vote on this question was not reached before adjournment.

Although senate Democratic leaders made no fight for the full $100,000,000 asked by Mr. Roosevelt, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) argued more than three hours for the larger sum.

"When he (the president) recommended a little $50,000,000 more for relief than recommended by our August appropriations committee, he was slapped in the face," Pepper said. He contended private enterprise would never be able to solve the unemployment problem without government spending to supplement purchasing power, and said that previous administration efforts to balance the budget had been followed by business depression.

To Hold Scepter

REP. FRED BRADLEY

Taking a dipnet as scepter from Queen Barbara Banks of the 1939 Escanaba smelt jamboree at the all-Michigan smelt and farm products dinner at Washington last night, Rep. Bradley of Rogers City, Mich., accepted the title of "kingfish" of the local festival. He will fly here from Washington next week to participate in the jamboree program on April 13 to 15.

MARINES MARCH FOR ROOSEVELT

Men In Full Dress Put On Army Day Show At Warm Springs

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER Warm Springs, Ga., April 6 (AP)—United States marines in full dress blues celebrated Army Day during the admiring eyes of President Roosevelt and a handful of wheel-chair patients of the Warm Springs Foundation here today.

The 71 officers and men comprising the special guard for the temporary White House atop Pine Mountain entertained the commander-in-chief of the nation's defense forces at their regular noon meal in their little tented city and four hours later put on a special drill for him.

The president drove his own small open car into the camp, pausing at the entrance while a drum and bugle corps played "Hail to the Chief."

He then parked in the center of the camp beside the flag standards and, wrapped in his old blue navy cape as a guard against the chilling winds, watched a platoon of marines in close order drill and extended order simulating a charge.

The drum and bugle corps also paraded up and down the field as Lt. Col. Charles T. Brooks, camp commander, stood beside the president's car explaining the maneuvers.

Miss Marguerite Lehand, personal secretary to the president, sat in the front seat with him while Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce, who is staying at the "Little White House," sat overcoated behind the chief executive. Earlier in the day the president went for his daily swim in the foundation pool.

'Man In The Moon' Acrobat Is Injured In Ringling Finale

New York, April 6 (AP)—Friedrich Kotsis, 35, billed as Rosello, Swiss aerial acrobat, was injured seriously tonight when he fell 20 feet during the finale of his "Man in the Moon" act at the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus in Madison Square Garden.

More than 8,000 spectators saw him lose his grip while descending a 60-foot rope and plunge to a wooden stage. A preliminary examination showed both wrists were broken and possible fractures of the skull and ribs.

His act is performed in a large spinning hoop resembling a moon. BAY RUM SEIZED Detroit, (AP)—Federal alcohol tax agents Thursday raided five Detroit stores and seized 350 bottles of bay rum in which the alcohol tax allegedly had not been paid. Agents said they had made purchases after making it clear they desired the bay rum as a beverage.

PRESENTATION MADE AT SMELT DINNER IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C.—Rep. Fred Bradley of Rogers City will rule with Queen Barbara Banks as "kingfish" of the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree, which will be held at Escanaba April 13 to 15.

A dipnet-shaped scepter was presented to him by Miss Banks at the all-Michigan smelt and farm products dinner held last night at

SOLOE EATS 41

Washington, April 6 (AP)—Representative Wolcott (R-Mich) downed 41 French-fried smelt tonight to become the capital's "smelt eating champion."

He performed the feat at a dinner where 250 persons disposed of 400 pounds of the tasty small fish supplied by the Escanaba, Mich., Chamber of Commerce.

Earlier a delegation from Beulah, Mich., crowned Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) king of the annual Beulah smelt festival, a rival of Escanaba's annual observance.

The congressional dining room in Washington. More than three hundred congressmen, federal officials and news reporters and cameramen attended the banquet, at which Rep. Bradley was host.

The Eleventh Michigan district congressman sent his plane to Chicago on Tuesday to fly Miss Banks and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. DuChaine, members of the smelt jamboree publicity party, to the Washington dinner. He will fly to Escanaba from Washington next week to attend the jamboree.

Congressman Bradley will speak at the Wolverine Conservation association's annual banquet, which opens the local celebration, the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce Forum dinner, the Ford River Frolic and the Tacosch Fiesta during the three-day smelt celebration.

RUNS UNDER WAY

The first smelt runs in Delta county got really under way Wednesday night at Ford River, and for a time the little silver fish were scooped up in lots of 20 pounds to the dip. Tom Curry of Ford River netted 20 pounds to the dip for 45 minutes, filling seven bushel baskets.

Commercial fishermen reported large hauls near the mouth of the river, where their nets are set, and started yesterday that the runs would probably continue for the next week or ten days. They predicted the largest runs of Ford River, because of the great numbers of fish caught in the bay off the river's mouth. Only a very small percentage of the fish netted had already spawned, indicating that they are yet to make their runs up the river.

Pneumonia Expert Taken By Disease

Buffalo, N. Y., April 6 (AP)—Dr. Carroll Julian Roberts, 59, a pioneer in the use of sulfa-pyridine in combating pneumonia, died tonight a victim of the disease he had been fighting.

Clinical director of Edward J. Meyer Memorial hospital, Dr. Roberts announced only a week ago that 32 of 35 pneumonia patients treated with the new drug had recovered completely.

He was stricken last Tuesday, and succumbed despite use of the treatment he had found so successful with others. POLICE POST REWARD Detroit, (AP)—The accident prevention bureau of the Detroit police department "chipped in" Thursday to post a reward of approximately $100 for apprehension of the hit-and-run driver that killed Mrs. Delphine Bartlett, 18-year-old expectant mother early this week. Officials said it was the first time police had posted a reward "on their own."

Italy Looks to Albania

Albania, tiny Balkan country shown in black in above map, is reported scheduled by Mussolini for military occupation by his Fascist troops. The country already is under strong Italian domination. Italian troops are reported concentrated at Bari and Brindisi, only 75 miles across Adriatic Sea from Albania.

Desperado Dickson Beaten To Draw, Killed By FBI Men

St. Louis, April 6 (AP)—Outlaw Benny Dickson was shot to death here tonight by special agents of the federal bureau of investigation as he grabbed for two heavy revolvers in his pockets.

A tip sent officers to the shabby hamburger stand where Dickson was eating. "Stick 'em up," shouted Gerald B. Norris, local chief of the FBI, as Dickson walked out of the cafe. "We're federal agents and you're under arrest," Norris added, his men closing in on the mid-western desperado.

Dickson's hands flashed toward his guns, but a hail of slugs cut him down. He died enroute to a hospital, without talking. As in the death of notorious John Dillinger, a woman was credited by witnesses with having trapped Dickson.

Bystanders said a "woman in brown" accompanied Dickson into the small hamburger stand. As the young outlaw walked out, another "customer" said to the woman in brown, "was that the right man?"

She nodded, and a few seconds later Dickson lay dead. Norris said Dickson, who usually had been accompanied by his wife, pretty Estelle Dickson, was alone. Although but 27, Dickson was wanted for a long list of crimes, headed by double kidnapping and a $17,000 bank robbery.

The youthful bandit had been seen in Joplin, Mo., in Kansas City, and was known to frequent certain parts of St. Louis occasionally. Always hoping to catch Dickson unawares, federal agents were ready when word came he had been seen entering the restaurant. The tip came about 7 o'clock.

Less than 30 minutes later the young gunman lay dead. Norris, who personally led his squad, said he didn't know how many slugs hit Dickson. "He may have been dead when he hit the sidewalk. We weren't taking any chances. Dickson was dangerous."

In the bandit's pockets were 45 and .38 caliber revolvers. Both were fully loaded. Local police said he also had a dagger at his belt. "He was ready for business," Norris commented drily as he examined them. "He almost made it, but we had the drop."

Woman Is Freed Of 'Stone Heart' At Rochester, Minn.

Rochester, Minn., April 6 (AP)—Her heart freed, through surgery from a hardened calcium case, Mrs. Matt Lyon of Rochester, Minn., first woman to undergo a rare "stone heart" operation here, late today was reported in a "very satisfactory" condition.

A half inch layer of calcium, as hard as stone, was cut from Mrs. Lyon's heart during a four hour operation at the Mayo Clinic for correction of the condition technically called calcification of the pericardium.

During the operation a Mayo Clinic surgeon worked at short intervals, to permit the heart to "rest." Throughout the surgery the heart was exposed and at times the surgeon held it in his hands moving forth and back with the pulsations of the organ. The 36-year old woman was the ninth here to undergo the rare operation. Of the other "stone heart" patients, one man, suffering an additional ailment, died. Physicians here say the exact cause of the calcium formations has not been determined.

Britain and Poland Welded; Nazi Spies Hunted In England

(By The Associated Press) London, April 6.—Prime Minister Chamberlain welded Poland into the French-British anti-aggression front today and took steps to purge Britain of German spies. Then he left for Scotland on an Easter fishing trip.

Before adjourning the house of commons for its Easter recess until April 18, the prime minister announced that Britain and Poland had agreed to go to each other's aid "in the event of any threat, direct or indirect, to the independence of either."

He added that conversations were proceeding with a view to adding other nations to the "halt Hitler" bloc.

Sir Samuel Hoare, the home secretary, disclosed that a German spy hunt had been going on in England, informing the house that three alleged Nazi spies had been expelled from the country within the past few weeks.

Ready For Emergency The length of the prime minister's vacation will depend on the international situation, momentarily tense in the Adriatic with three Italian warships in the Albanian port of Durazzo and Albanian reservists mobilized to try to repel what some quarters believed was impending Italian occupation.

It still was remembered here, on the 22nd anniversary of the United States' entry into the World War, that that conflict broke out during a British bank holiday.

Before leaving for Aberdeenshire, Chamberlain arranged for the immediate recall of parliament in the event of an emergency and assured the country that all necessary precautions were being taken.

ARMY DISPLAY MADE BY U.S.A. Men and Munitions Take Part In Martial Observances

Washington, April 6 (AP)—In the midst of its greatest peacetime expansion, the army paraded men and munitions before millions of spectators today—just 22 years after the United States entered the World War.

Veterans of that conflict tramped behind troops and tanks in Army Day parades in scores of cities. Their presence, Europe's recurrent crises, and administration efforts to bolster land and air defenses quickly with a $552,000,000 emergency outlay combined to give new and grim significance to the annual martial occasion.

In the national capital, 20,000 marchers, disregarding a drizzle, paraded before Secretary Woodring, military and naval officials, and foreign dignitaries.

Conspicuously missing from a group of naval attaches of several nations was Germany's Lieutenant General Friedrich Von Bötticher. He would have been diplomatically out of place, the embassy explained, inasmuch as the display marked the anniversary of a declaration of war against Germany.

In the van of the parade marched an infantry company from nearby Fort George G. Meade, Md., attired in a new slate blue uniform which the army is considering substituting for the familiar olive drab. Thousands of government employees, for the first time, were released from their desks to view the parade.

Hidden Holy Grail Returned To Church

Valencia, April 6 (AP)—An agate chalice, venerated by many as the holy grail which Christ used at the Last Supper, was returned to Valencia church authorities today by General Miguel Aranda in a military ceremony.

Nationalist and foreign consular officials attended. The chalice was in the Valencia cathedral chapel until July 21, 1937, when it was removed to a private home three hours before the cathedral burned. Last week the Suay family, which had hidden it, restored the chalice to a commission for recovery of national treasures.

FUNERAL FOR FIREMAN Marquette, Mich. (AP)—Funeral services for Leo A. Nadeau, 48, of Marquette, Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad fireman who lost his life in the train wreck near Michigan Lake a week ago Thursday night, will be held in St. Peter's cathedral here at 10 a. m. Saturday. Burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery. Nadeau's body was found in the Beaufort river Wednesday afternoon.

BETTING ODDS BARRED FROM DAILY PAPERS

GRAFT, HYPOCRISY CONDEMNED IN STATE

Lansing, April 6 (AP)—The house of representatives aimed a blow at commercial gambling today as Rep. John F. Hamilton, Democrat, Detroit, charged that graft and hypocrisy have permitted gaming houses to flourish in this state.

The house approved in committee of the whole the Hamilton bill making it a misdemeanor to transmit or publish any information concerning betting odds or on which betting odds might be based. The prohibition would apply to telephone and telegraph companies, radio stations, wire services, newspapers and any other medium that might disseminate such information. The bill was set for a final vote tomorrow.

Funds Choked Off Hamilton charged that funds for a legislative investigation of gambling were choked off last year because the investigating committee threatened sensational disclosures. He declared that for seven months following completion of the inquiry, gambling continued almost uninterrupted in Wayne county although the committee had submitted to law enforcement agencies the addresses of establishments it identified as housing handbooks for illegal betting on horse races.

"I told the governor and the attorney general who were serving at that time that they were grandstanding," Hamilton declared. "I will say right here that you can't have open gambling without the passing acquiescence of every state official from the governor on down." He did not mention the names of the persons to whom he referred.

Races Dramatized The legislator asserted that handbooks flourished because they were able to use loudspeaker systems that gave their patrons a running account of each race, with information at two-minute intervals concerning changes in the betting odds.

"They dramatize the races," he said. "Take out the drama and make it impossible for them to get authentic information concerning the odds, and they will not patronize those places."

His bill would forbid publication of betting odds either before or after a race. It would not interfere with the operation of pari-mutuel betting machines at Michigan race tracks, the use of which has been legalized.

Hamilton charged that "two extortion bootleggers" control the facilities dramatizing races, and that they are the third largest users of commercial telegraph facilities.

BARNARD FOES WIN Lansing, April 6 (AP)—The legislature overrode a senate committee that killed one anti-Barnard bill by waiving its deadline today on the introduction of legislation other than appropriations measures to permit one more bill to clip the wings of the red-haired Wayne county Republican boss to be tossed into the hopper.

Barnard's foes won their victory in a caucus of senate Republicans. The vote as reported by Senator Don Vanderwerf, of Fremont, the caucus spokesman, was 14 to 6.

Three additional votes on the floor of the senate gave the bloc the majority necessary to adopt a resolution sponsored by Senator D. Hale Brake, Stanton Republican.

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press) Bernard M. Baruch, financier, testified that the "cash and carry" system of providing munitions to belligerents—proposed by Senator Pittman (D-Nev.)—was the best method of keeping the United States out of war.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) demanded that the WPA fund be increased to the $150,000,000 originally asked by President Roosevelt instead of the $100,000,000 approved by the house.

Southern senators abandoned plans to seek special cotton legislation and united with other groups to support more money for all agriculture.

The senate civil liberties committee declared that anti-union activities carried on by the national Metal Trades association present a "challenge to the government itself."

A committee of the federal communications commission recommended that radio stations be granted licenses for at least one-year periods, instead of the present six-months license.

REP. WICKMAN OPPOSES BILL

Works Against Measure to Reduce Liquor Licenses

Lansing, April 6.—Outstate Michigan members of the house of representatives will oppose drastic changes in the proposals contained in senate bills to reduce the number of liquor-by-the-glass licenses from one to every 650 population to one for every 2,000 population if Representative Arthur H. Wickman (R), Menominee county, is successful in his efforts. Wickman took a definite stand against the plan introduced by Senator Carl F. DeLano (R), Kalamazoo, when he declared that any such set-up as that proposed "would bring bootlegging back so fast in the upper peninsula, that even the wettest of the wets would be shocked to death."

"I have studied the several bills now up for consideration in the senate and if any of them should pass that body in their present form and reach the house, we will enlist the support of representatives from sparsely settled counties, usually said to be dry, in defense of decency and common sense law enforcement," Wickman said.

Using Menominee county as an example, the upper peninsula Republican said the number of drinking establishments would be reduced to eleven. He said there are fourteen townships and one city in Menominee county and if the proposed plan became law, not more than four or five licenses could be granted in the city, leaving one license for every two townships in the county.

"We would see liquor thrown so deeply into politics that the old saloon days would be a joke by comparison. Supervisors, aldermen and state officials would be harassed to death and the chosen few would be licensed to do business and others invited to become bootleggers or blined pigs," he added.

"The trouble experienced in liquor control the past few years has not been the law nearly so much as it has been the fault of political administration. Politics were played with liquor licenses in many cases, the convenience and right of the public notwithstanding. I certainly hope the present administration does not make the same mistake this year," the Menominee representative explained.

Wickman also took exception to the proposal to cut down the discount now allowed special designated distributors from ten to five per cent when he said no business can handle and sell any commodity on a five per cent basis. The licenses must be bonded, they must have reliable people serving the public and they must invest money in a proper inventory.

He said a return to the exclusive state store system in Menominee, which would result if the SDD's are "starved out of business" would compel the people to go downtown, sometimes a distance of fifty miles to buy their liquor or go without it.

The upper peninsula has eleven votes in the house and Mr. Wickman predicts they will be unanimous, regardless of party affiliation against the most recent proposed liquor changes.

Mormon Creek CCC camp will send an 8-piece hillbilly band to the show, presenting a program of music and vaudeville. Andy P. Olafson of Cooks, famed for his hog calling at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, will demonstrate a new vocal feat which he has developed recently, the "smelt call."

Alfred Knutsen, old-time fiddler, will play for a square dance on the platform. A huge bonfire will wind up the performance, with boxes, crates, old tires and over 500 Christmas trees as fuel. When the blaze dies down and the time of the runs nears, Olafson will give vent to his powerful "smelt call" and the dippers will rush to the banks to start the sport.

HEARING ON MILK

Madison, Wis., April 6 (AP)—The state department of agriculture and markets today announced a statewide hearing on fluid milk prices to be held April 18 in Appleton. The hearing will cover every regulated market except Milwaukee. The 31 affected include Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls.

RESTRICTIONS LIFTED

Lansing, April 6 (AP)—The state highway department lifted truck load restrictions on all concrete highways as far north as US-16, the Muskegon-to-Detroit trunk line. Restrictions remained in effect, however, on gravel roads throughout the state, and on all concrete roads north of US-16.

ITALIAN SHIPS START PATROL NEAR ALBANIA

Galeazzo Ciano. Nothing was available in Rome's official circles, however, to indicate what problems are involved in the so-called proposed strengthening of the 1927 Italian alliance with the tiny Balkan kingdom.

Three Italian warships—a cruiser and two destroyers—arrived in the morning at Durazzo, Albania, but up to early evening the reported Italian intention to land troops in Zog's realm apparently had failed to materialize.

Rome in Tension (A Belgrade dispatch said Italian destroyers were reported darting about the harbors of San Giovanni Di Medua, in northern Albania, and Valona in the south.)

Diplomatic parleys, the army staff talks in Innsbruck, Germany, under Gen. Alberto Pariani, Italian undersecretary of war, and Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of the German armed forces, and Mussolini's flight from Rome in a state of tension and perplexity.

The general impression remained, however, that Italy meant to show not only Britain and France but Yugoslavia and Greece that she and Germany would break any attempted encirclement by "unfriendly" powers.

Tirana dispatches spoke of possible resistance to any occupation from outside but said Zog's government might find a formula under which such occupation could be accepted.

Military observers in Rome were inclined to believe that Albania could do little to prevent troops landing even if she wished.

(By The Associated Press) Fascist Italy kept pint-sized Albania on an uneasy seat at the south end of the Rome-Berlin axis Thursday night while on its northern extremity Nazi irritation mounted at Poland's entry into the British-French anti-aggression front.

Premier Mussolini put on an ominous demonstration of his naval might off the Adriatic shores of the little kingdom. Many believed it was the prelude to Albania's being engulfed in the Fascist course of empire.

Informed persons in Yugoslavia, neighbor of Italy and Albania, knowingly eyed mysterious negotiation going on between Rome and Tirana and predicted it would occupy the Albanian coastline for a dual purpose:

1. To seal up the Adriatic. 2. To serve as a pointed warning to Yugoslavia and Greece to steer clear of Britain's anti-aggression program.

Berlin directed a bitter tirade at Poland's new-found position in the British-French set-up. The Nazis called it a Polish "change of front into the English war policy" against Germany.

The German foreign mouthpiece voiced "the deepest astonishment and keenest distrust" over the Polish "change of front" into the English war policy against Germany.

Aimed At Nobody Polish officials countered that the new Polish-British mutual aid agreement was aimed at nobody and would have no influence on Warsaw's traditional neutrality toward her powerful neighbors, Germany and Soviet Russia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain said the pact bound England and Poland to go to each other's aid "in the event of any threat, direct or indirect, to the independence of either."

British conversations are proceeding with other powers considered prospective candidates for the halt-Hitler bloc.

Britain, meanwhile, was in the midst of a housecleaning directed against German spies. The spy hunt was disclosed by Sir Samuel Hoare who said three alleged Nazi agents had been expelled recently.

Chamberlain left London to rest from his arduous week's work by angling for fish in Scotland. The house of commons went into an Easter recess until April 15.

The Spanish government replied to French fears of fresh Italian troop movements in Spain by assuring Paris none of Il Duce's legionnaires had landed recently at Cadiz.

Michigan In Washington

Three state representatives may set a new WPA precedent if their trip to Washington is successful this week.

James Goulett, Dickinson county, Victor Knox, Chippewa, Isadore Weza, Ontonagon, all from the Upper Peninsula, seek a special ruling permitting northern Michigan folk on WPA to work more hours during the summer than now allowed (112 hours a month) to offset the no-work months during the heavy snow season. Work overtime in Summer to earn a reserve in pay in the Winter—is their request.

The delegation, together with Robert N. Sawyer, state representative from Monroe, is making arrangements through Senator Francis M. Brown and Congressman Frank E. Hook, Ironwood Democrat, to meet WPA officials.

An extra Michigan congressman was spotted in the House this week—Dr. Frank P. Bohn, of Newberry, who represented the 11th congressional district for six years until he was elected Democrat Prentiss M. Brown. As a former congressman he was free to sit with our congressmen on the floor of the House.

With Mrs. Bohn and his daughter, Marvel, Dr. Bohn has been following his usual custom of spending the winter in Lakeland, Florida. He could well be subsidized by the Upper Peninsula Development association, for he has been telling everyone on capitol hill all about the summertime glories of the great Northern tourist area.

The three money-minded Republicans in the Michigan delegation—Jesse P. Wolford, of Port Huron; Fred L. Crawford, of Saginaw, both on Banking and Currency committee and Clarence McLeod, of Detroit, on Appropriations—have been named by their colleagues to delve into the $45,956.67 tax money that Uncle Sam stole from the State of Michigan (according to Thomas Reed, Attorney general).

Maybe to say Uncle Sam stole the money collected as "floor and processing" taxes under the old AAA is putting it a little strong, but Tom Reed feels pretty strongly about it.

Back in 1933, prisoners at Jackson were employed in the processing of "lint cotton" luto cloth. The collector of Internal Revenue for Michigan said the state was liable for the floor tax and the processing tax. The auditor general denied the liability on the grounds that prisoners were engaged in an essential governmental function not subject to taxation. The tax was paid.

Finally suit started in the court of claims; then the AAA was declared unconstitutional; and later no claims could be established prior to June 22, 1936.

In a fulsome letter to Republican congressmen, Reed hints strongly that when the Democrats were in power in Michigan they delayed action so long that now the state has no redress in any court. Therefore, why not present a bill to Congress demanding that Michigan be repaid?

Idaho and Maine staged a hot potato contest in the House restaurant and the rivalry has been But that was nothing in comparison to the intra-state smelt skirmish now in full swing.

The "Beulah versus Escanaba" smelt debate has pitted Albert J. Engel against his friend Fred Bradley, who was the first to whet the appetites of congressmen for April 6th. He planned it as a forerunner to the Escanaba jamboree, April 13-15.

Now the Escanaba fish-try had a head start, but the Beulah boys egged on by Publisher Andrew Johnson, of the Beulah Herald send down a ton of smelt for a luncheon on capitol hill ahead of the long-planned dinner.

Congressmen from other states are chiding Engel and Bradley—by way of getting more free smelts. And Engel and Bradley are acting like angry rivals—by way, we suspect, of getting more publicity for Michigan as a grand place to fish.

Ninety per cent of our foot troubles and ailments are due to improperly fitting footwear.

can, who sought permission to introduce a substitute for the Eaton bill that has buried in the senate elections committee.

The house of representatives, which passed the Eaton measure by a 90 to 0 vote, approved Brake's resolution suspending the rules with scarcely a ripple of opposition and the way was paved for introduction of the new measure.

Brake said his bill differed "only in a few words" from the original anti-Barnard bill of Rep. Elton R. Eaton, Republican, Plymouth. "The objective is the same," Brake added.

Rep. Felix H. H. Flynn, president pro tem of the senate and Republican floor leader, said he would refer Brake's bill to the judiciary committee which Brake himself heads. Flynn was a member of the elections committee and his vote, with two others, killed the original Eaton measure.

BY T. H. PECK Lansing, April 6 (AP)—The senate approved a supplemental appropriation of $2,500,000 for public school aid today and sent the house bill providing the grant to Governor Dickinson for his signature. The senate vote was 26 to 2.

The only opposition came from Michigan's two largest cities, which would not benefit directly from the appropriation. Rural senators voted as one man for the measure, which is designed to help "poor" school districts.

Senator Earl W. Munshaw, Grand Rapids Republican, led the attack on the appropriation. He told the senate public school boards had ignored school aid limitations "because they knew full well this legislature would be generous and that the state of Michigan would again be a Santa Claus."

"Is This Economy?" "The Republican party pledged the people of Michigan economy in the campaign last fall," Munshaw declared. "Is this economy? Are you being consistent?"

He attributed the one-sided sentiment to "pressure" upon legislators from outstate educators, and warned that schools, like other agencies of government, must learn to live within their budgets. He ridiculed assertions that the public school program would be drastically curtailed unless further state aid for current needs was forthcoming, declaring the schools had received "more than ever before" from the state under the 1937 legislature's appropriation.

"The schools aren't going to close if they don't get these funds," he declared. "You know that and so do I."

Senator Alton G. Ludington, Detroit Republican, echoed Munshaw's views. He referred to the 1937 legislature's appropriation for school aid, reduced by former Governor Frank Murphy's executive order under extraordinary budget balancing powers conferred upon him by the lawmakers, as a "promise that could not be fulfilled."

"To appropriate more money at this time for current school needs is like giving one bad check to pay for another one," Ludington, who is a member of the senate finance committee, declared.

Schools May Close Supporters of the school aid measure argued that Murphy's economy order reducing the 1937 appropriation for school aid constituted a repudiation of a legislative pledge.

"Of approximately $42,000,000 appropriated for the schools," said Senator Don Vanderwerf, Fremont Republican who heads the senate finance committee, "some $9,000,000 was not delivered to them."

He said he had been informed that "some 600" schools would be forced to close unless they received additional aid, and added, "If they didn't, it would be because teachers would remain in their posts with no salaries."

Vanderwerf referred to the $2,500,000 as an "equalization fund" for smaller school districts, which he said had been harder hit by budget economies than urban districts.

Senator George P. McCallum, Ann Arbor Republican, said the duty of providing for the schools was plainly the legislature's "cowardly" legislators of 1937, he charged, had caused the difficulty when they "stuck nearly every old thing into the budget and then left it to the governor to balance."

Senator C. Jay Town, Republican, North Adams, said "frugality" of school districts in handling their funds had nothing to do with their relative financial plight at the present time. He declared that in voting $2,500,000 the legislature was "not even trying to meet its full obligation by a long, long way."

Senator M. Harold Saur, Kent City Republican whose district is adjacent to Munshaw's, said rural districts were in "desperate need" of funds for the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends June 30.

WOULD LICENSE DRINKERS Lansing, April 6 (AP)—A group of legislators launched a campaign today to compel the licensing of drinkers.

Rep. Nelson A. Miles, Republican, Holland, led the drive, proposing in the house of representatives a law that would be modeled after those in effect in Oregon, Utah, Iowa and Virginia. He declared it was the only workable means of shutting off the sale of liquor to minors.

The licenses would cost 50 cents. They could be revoked for drunkenness, desertion or conviction on felony charges involving any infraction of liquor regulations.

The group also proposed a system of "interdiction" that would permit any one to summon an habitual drinker into circuit court as an "excessive and imprudent" drinker. The court would have authority to forbid the sale of liquor to the habitual drinker.

Miles said he had not devised a plan that would permit the sale of liquor to tourists without inconvenience.

Rep. Elton R. Eaton, Republican, Plymouth, introduced a bill that would forbid political exploitation of WPA workers. It would call for misdemeanor penalties against anyone who solicited campaign contributions from persons employed on work relief projects, or who inquired into their political or religious beliefs.

MEASURE RECALLED Lansing, April 6 (AP)—Governor Dickinson's first veto of a bill during his administration today resulted in the measure being referred to the house of representatives for corrective action.

The governor had vetoed a measure to continue a 10 per cent redemption fee on tax delinquent property disposed of by forced sale. Its rejection by the governor had brought from Senator George P. McCallum, Republican, Ann Arbor, the charge that Assistant Attorney General T. Carl Holbrook, as "an agent for a bunch of tax title buyers," had lobbied against it.

LIQUOR PERMITS GIVEN APPROVAL

Application for beer, wine and liquor permits were given approval at a lengthy meeting of the city council last night, a meeting at which a variety of subjects was discussed.

The list of approved applicants, which follows, is dependent upon their paying their personal property taxes:

Beer, Wine and Liquor Class B Hotel—St. Clair Hotel, Frank Gauthier; Hiawatha Hotel, Joseph Garant; Skradski Hotel, Mirko Skradski; Welcome Hotel, E. P. Johnson; People's Hotel, Phil Leduc; Stephenson Hotel, Joseph Milecki; Michigan Hotel, C. E. Hartley; Colonial Hotel, Mrs. James P. Gannon; Sherman Hotel, Chas. F. Glavin; Delta Hotel, Clyde Joseph Burns.

Class C—Granada Gardens, Leonard J. Murray; The Tavern, Palmer Jergeson; Mike's, George Coplan; Cloverland Tavern, Dave LaCasse; The Brevort, John H. Peltier; Harry's, Harry Gerke; Sandberg's, Victor Larson; Palm Hotel, Herman Roberge; Old Timer's Inn, Louis Schuetze; Big Mike's, Mike Walsh.

Tavern Licenses, Beer and Wine Class A Hotel—Uptown Hotel, John Lammi; Northwestern Hotel, Fred Morton; Metropolitan Hotel, Michael J. Finn.

Tavern—Ed Ericson Tavern, Edwin Ericson; Sallor's Tavern, Nick Moran; Bay View Tavern, Mike Waterspank; Edvina Milkewicz Tavern, Edvina Milkewicz; John A. Johnson Tavern, John A. Johnson; Sandwich Shop, Otto Johnson; Central Cafe, Tad Krezman; The Denver, Margaret Brassard; Bonamer's, Charles Bonamer; Nick Thinnas Tavern, Nick Thinnas; Green Bay Hotel, Roseanna LaFleur; Coney Island Restaurant, Nicholas Carr; Bay de Noc Tavern, Joseph Auger; Kewanee Cafe, Beauchamp and Via; Victor Johnson, Estate.

Asks Committee Recall Stanley St. Louis, representing employees of the Ludington Hotel, appeared before the council, requesting that the employees be given an opportunity to present their side of the waterfront question before the citizens' study committee, which had already submitted its report after two public hearings. St. Louis said the hotel employees had been lax in not appearing before the committee and asked that the committee reconvene. He pointed out that it is the belief of the hotel management that should the proposed water plant be erected upon the site opposite the hotel, the latter would be forced to close out business within three months. He said the scenic view was the hotel's major asset and the proposed waterplant would eliminate that, leaving the hotel out on a limb and cause loss of employment to 23 regular employees.

Judd Yelland also appeared before the council, presenting petitions to the council requesting that the waterplant proposition be put up to a vote of the people. He said, in his opinion, the council could not legally construct such a plant without so doing. He also claimed the city zoning ordinance did not permit its construction at that spot.

Plan Baseball Park William Ahern, representing baseball interests in the city, asked the council to take action toward the construction of a new baseball park, pointing to the increased interest in baseball in the city and lack of adequate playing facilities. He said that the city sponsors two strong independent teams as well as 14 or 15 teams of younger fellows playing under the recreation program. The council approved a motion ordering that specifications and possible costs be drawn up and the project be submitted to WPA officials for consideration.

Specifications and costs were asked for paving of 16th street from 11th avenue north to the ore docks.

Authorization was given for the expenditure of $410 to carry the band through the four months between April and July not covered in the original appropriation.

Repeal Ordinance Read The Trades and Labor Council, in two letters, asked that city employees be given further salary hearings and that city printing be done only in union shops. Both requests were granted, Councilman Gasman voting against the latter, saying that he believed printing should be put out on bids to firms regardless of union affiliations.

Request for privilege of working personal property taxes out on city projects was disapproved. Approval was given for erection of a light in the alley between Ludington street and First avenue south in the 400 block.

First reading was given a proposed ordinance to license and regulate bicycles in the city. The ordinance would make registration of all bicycles mandatory with no license fee.

WOODLAWN RESIDENT DIES OF PNEUMONIA Pneumonia, with which he was ill only a short time, claimed the life Thursday morning of Ernest Inari Mattonen, 24, of Woodlawn. He died at St. Francis hospital, where he was taken five days ago, his death coming at 6 o'clock.

He was born in Woodlawn September 10, 1914, and attended school there. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mattonen, of Woodlawn, three brothers and three sisters, Wilho, Hugo and Lealie, Viola and Vieta, at home, and Mrs. Fred Straka, Escanaba.

The body, which was taken to the Anderson funeral home, is remaining there in state. Services will be held Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the funeral home. Rev. Karl J. Hammar and Rev. David Cathcart officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

OILMEN OPPOSE PROPOSED BILL

Delta county oil dealers yesterday struck out in vigorous fashion against house bill No. 517 now pending which would provide for an increase of from three to five cents per gallon on taxes on gasoline.

Legislators Are Urged to Fight Increase in Gas Tax

Telegrams were sent yesterday by the local association to Senator James Dotsch and Representative Peter R. Legg, requesting that they take an immediate stand against the proposed measure, which would increase motoring costs considerably.

The association yesterday also issued an appeal to all automobile owners to communicate with their legislators and protest against the bill.

The telegram to senator Dotsch follows: "House bill No. 517 provides for an increase of the gasoline tax from three to five cents per gallon. Our association is 100 per cent against this bill and we ask for your support in defeating it. Our gasoline business is already taxed too heavily and any more taxes will put us out of business. Can we count on your support?"

GREEN BAY ICE TO LEAVE SOON

Carferry Crews Report Easy Going Through Regular Channels

Marquette, Wis., April 6.—Ice in Green Bay is expected to take leave for the season at any time. Rain today weakened the ice and under a strong wind the fields will be carried away from local shores. Ann Arbor carferry crews report that the ice is soft thruout the bay and the boats are making regular time without staying in the winter channels. It is possible for the carferries to travel any place on the bay without difficulty, it was said.

The river has risen considerably and at Stephenson Island has overflowed its banks. The water today was within a foot of the top of the small craft pier at the Marquette yacht basin. Ice floes coming down the river have jammed at the mouth but the carferries are experiencing no trouble in docking at the company slip.

Last spring the ice in the bay left local shores during the night of March 29. Until today fishermen have been seen on the ice with trucks removing fishing equipment used during the winter fishing season.

Communication

170 MEN OUT OF WORK Gladstone, Mich. April 5, 1939

Editor, Daily Press: Dear Sir:

In answering the communication of April 2 will say Mr. Tu-math never mentioned the fact that ninety per cent of these fish were suckers. These suckers had been saved in live boxes for several weeks waiting for the Jewish holiday prices. The prices for these suckers ranged from 8 to 12 cents a pound. That shipment of fish brought this community close to $4000.00 and the express company realized about $25.00. It may interest the public to know the movement of fish at different times of the year and different kinds of fish. The fish don't mix together, for instance when the pike come in the bay to spawn in the spring the perch leave those waters until fall and cold weather when they come back for the winter. The perch spawn anywhere in the bay while pike and suckers go to moving water.

We want to correct Mr. Tu-math's mistake in where he says the bay is closed off by nets so fish cannot get up to the head of the bay. This opening at Gladstone is about a mile across and nets project out 300 feet from each shore which should leave plenty room for fish to travel through.

Before the Kipling furnace was built in 1892 the upper bay and the bay south of Gladstone was alive with fish, such as whitefish, walleye pike, pickerel, perch, sturgeon, suckers and black bass. In 1894 with three large pond nets I couldn't make a living. Water conditions had become that bad from chemicals and refuse from the furnace, and lots of this refuse is still on the bottom, where before the whitefish spawned there on the rocky bottom. It is a known fact that a local gas plant has dumped 60,000 gallons of tar refuse in Little Bay de Noc for the last 30 years. This is not helping the fishing conditions. There is no question but what the eggs hatch in the rivers but where will the little ones get food with such pollution in the water. They are not taken care of by the parent fish, so if we can raise the little ones we will have plenty large ones.

If you want to help improve fishing conditions, the U. S. government should build disposal plans at all factories where they dump refuse in the water.

In 1928 we fished 30 gill nets all winter and in those 30 nets we caught three smelt where now we can catch them by the thousands. These smelt were never planted in the Great Lakes by the Creator but by man. We sincerely believe the smelt will be the ruination of all other fish, as they increase in number so much faster than other fish and they are a fish eating fish.

The laws of the state are such that all fish caught and commercialized have spawned at least once or more and if we can raise these young fish we will have fish all the time. In regards to catching fish during the summer months our experience shows that the water here gets too warm and the fish migrate to colder water until along around the first of Sept.

In regards to closing the two bays for commercial fishing and put 170 men out of work, what will they do for a living. Conditions of the country are bad now without making them worse. Yours very truly, Fred Holmberg & Son

Bureau To Issue Tourist Directory

Marquette, Mich.—"Where To Stop", a compact pocket-sized directory of Michigan's Upper Peninsula hotels, resorts, cabins, cottages, tourist rooms and eating places issued by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau will go to press soon, and last-minute entries are now being booked. The directory contains much miscellaneous information in addition to lists of accommodations and will be issued in an edition of 25,000 copies, the same as last year. The publication is largely for Upper Peninsula circulation.

Louis Lahaie Is 87 Today

Louis M. Lahaie, pioneer Escanaba resident, will celebrate his 87th birthday anniversary today. Still hale and hearty, he has two older brothers still alive. They are J. Palma Lahaie of Buckingham, Canada, who is 91, and Fernando Lahaie, 89, of Portland, Ore. A younger brother is Dolor Lahaie, 79, of Seattle, Wash.

Descendants of Mr. Lahaie include the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Nora Carr, 321 South 14th street; H. L. Lahaie, 1108 South 14th street; Mrs. T. A. Stude, Enderlin, South Dakota and Edward F. Lahaie, Wausau, Wis. There are also 11 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Washington Island Opposed To Liquor

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., April 6.—Bud Lawrence defeated John Stewart, veteran alderman of the second ward of Sturgeon Bay, by 125 votes to 104, and Wendelle Rose won over H. J. Teske, veteran member of the county board for the town of Forestville, by 295 votes to 263 for the only upset in yesterday's election in Door county. Washington Island again voted against licensing the sale of liquor by 186 to 153, while the Liberty Grove votes on the separate referendum on beer and liquor sales had not been counted when County Clerk Ralph Her-lache closed his office at mid night.

So slight was the interest in the election in the city that a total of only 458 votes was cast, of which 330 were in the second ward. Contests for county board seats occurred in six precincts besides Forestville and Liberty Grove. Successful candidates were Clarence Mann of Baileys Harbor, Ed Gagon of Egg Harbor, Ed Roland of Ephraim, George Stockwell of Nasaaupee, Harvey Jeanguart of Union, and Charles O. Hansen of Washington Island.

JUNKED CARS CAUSE TROUBLE

Titles for Jalopies Must Be Sent to Lansing Before Wrecking

Motorists who junk their cars either by design or as the consequence of an accident, may unwittingly be aiding car thieves, Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, points out. The possibility of motorists being an involuntary party to auto theft rings, exists more often in the case of new or nearly new cars that have been wrecked. If car thieves can acquire a fairly new model car, wrecked and about to be junked, and acquire its title as well, their path is not difficult. It is necessary then only to obtain a car of like make and design, make alterations such as exchanging motors, to have a car and title, to which no one could challenge, Kelly advises.

Motorists can protect themselves against such a possibility if they will note that the only instance in which a title does not "follow the car" is when the car is to be junked.

The Motor Vehicle Law provides that a motorist disposing of his car to a junk dealer, must assign the title of the car to the junk dealer, but not deliver it to the junk dealer. Rather, the title must be sent to the Secretary of State, together with an application for a certificate to junk which can be secured from licensed car junkers. A junking permit is then sent to the dealer by the Secretary of State.

Reports from Police Departments and Department Investigators have definitely shown that car theft operations have been carried on. Wrecked cars may be "snatched" in any part of the State. In every instance, such operations would be impossible if junked car titles had been sent to Lansing in accordance with the law.

Newberry News

MRS. J. A. BAETZ Funeral services for Mrs. John A. Baetz, 65, who passed away at the family home on Saturday, April 1, were held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. from the Newberry Presbyterian church with the Rev. Ralph Garrison officiating. Interment was made in the Forest Home cemetery.

Mrs. Baetz died after a prolonged illness suffering from complications. She was born March 9, 1884, in Cass City, Michigan and was united in marriage to John A. Baetz in Menominee in 1905. Since then they have lived continuously in Newberry where Mr. Baetz has been employed as pharmacist and X-Ray technician at the State hospital.

Mrs. Baetz has been an active member of the Newberry Presbyterian church Study Club and of the Eastern Star.

Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter Mildred, of Detroit, her mother Mrs. Carr, a brother, Dr. H. S. Carr of Detroit, and a sister, Mrs. Nina Ellis of Pueblo, Colorado.

Always a favorite with all whom she met, her place will long remain vacant to her large circle of friends.

America's first horse breeding society was formed in Louisville, Ky., in 1891.

Essay Contest On Conservation Ends Saturday

Only two days remain before the closing of the essay contest being conducted by Field and Street for upper peninsula school children. The contest deadline is April 8, and all entries must be postmarked not later than that date.

More than 300 essays on "What Conservation Means to Me," in Recreational and Economic Values" have been received by the editors of Field and Street, a magazine published monthly by the Department of Conservation and the Michigan State Police and distributed to school children.

The contest, which was made possible through the generosity of the Shiras Institute, is open to every boy and girl in an Upper Peninsula school from the fourth to the ninth grades, inclusive. Prizes for the best essays will be awarded in each grade as follows: First prize, $4.00; second, $2.50; third, $1.50, making a total of $48.00 in cash prizes. All entries should be mailed to P. O. Box 206, Marquette.

No True Americans

THE State Legislature of Nevada wound up its proceedings March 25 after cutting state taxes a further 20 per cent. If that isn't absolutely unfair to organized taxpayers, then we don't know anything about American politics.

Sometimes we think that Nevada just has no rightful status in the American Union. What the legislators do there doesn't—doesn't—doesn't make sense. Nevada has no sales tax, no inheritance tax, no gift tax, no income tax, and no corporation tax.

South Carolina achieved secession by firing on Fort Sumter, at the outbreak of the Civil War. Nevada sets herself aside by knocking the works out of Fort Taxation. Nevada seems to have no need for the fancy taxes levied by other states.

It is almost unbelievable, but true. What a state! We'd like to see Nevada, and to see what its people look like. Can they be real Americans? We simply can't imagine that these queer folks really belong to the United States.

Doorbell Pushers

WHAT about the house-to-house salesman? Are his calls a nuisance that should be curbed by city ordinances, such as some cities now enforce? Or are they indispensable contributions to household efficiency and to merchandising in general?

S. S. Hoover, former mayor of Green River, Wyoming, the town where the ordinance banning the uninvited door-to-door salesman was enacted, speaks from his experience: "The ordinance was adopted at the request of numerous private residents who were exceedingly annoyed by repeated uninvited visits."

These salesmen, he states, are schooled to high-pressure tactics, disregard the amenities, and hold that "nerviness" pays. Through unwillingness to be rude, Mr. Hoover holds, many people are overcome by these tactics. After the salesman has gone, they find they are in for it; often they have to accept something they don't really want and perhaps can't afford.

"Now, there is certainly no urgent social need for salesmanship of this kind," insists Mr. Hoover. "In the old days of bad roads and far-scattered stores, it was often a real convenience to have a traveling trader come to the door once in a while. But today virtually every community is served by modern mercantile establishments. We feel it is only right that the business of the community should be handled through the institutions that make our communities possible: the people who employ local labor, pay taxes, and help maintain the schools and churches."

Let's Go, America!

WHEN the United States Chamber of Commerce holds its 27th annual meeting in Washington, May 1-4, questions of the most vital importance are to be discussed.

The time is past when this business organization could meet and discuss only detailed matters relating to business organization. Today it meets in full realization that it is a section of a great national picture, and that there can no longer be any prosperity that is not prosperity for all.

"At one time the American system of free enterprise produced a national income of $50,000,000,000. It has since dropped to $50,000,000,000. Why?" asks the chamber's announcement of the convention.

"In what respect did conditions then differ from conditions today?" And it then goes on to ask what part government policy has played, how private enterprise is equipped to correct its own faults and meet its responsibilities.

This readiness to admit that there may be faults both in government and in business is the first step on the part of both toward that resumption of activity which the chamber seeks in its slogan, "Let's Go, America!"

The Co-Operative Movement

NOW that the Co-operative League has decided to conduct its own lobby in Washington, the movement may be said to be mature in this country. For that is the history of almost all organizations: when they grow big enough and strong enough, they open a Washington lobby.

Though the name "lobby" has acquired an offensive odor in American politics, the thing itself is not necessarily offensive if conducted openly and on the level.

There are governments today based on the idea that a man should be represented in his government not as a citizen of his community, but as a member of his labor organization, a worker or employer in his trade or business.

The American institution of the lobby is our own means of getting men so represented. As citizens, they are represented by the congressmen from their geographical districts. But as members of their trade unions, their chambers of commerce, their industries, their organizations of every sort, they are represented by unofficial lobbies which defend their group interests before the legislators.

The growth of co-operative associations in the United States has been so great in the last few years that it represents a powerful group interest.

The Consumers Co-operative Association, a federation of 425 co-operatives in the middle-west, has more than 100,000 patron-members.

The Credit Union National Association reports 2,000,000 members of credit unions, most of which growth has taken place during the last 10 years.

One-sixth of all farm supplies in the country are bought by co-operatives, which also handle huge quantities of oil products. At least 3,330,000 consumers buy through 11,000 co-operatives.

This is a big factor in the national economy, and one which is no longer to be ignored in any calculations on the business scene.

Through its affiliation with the International Co-operative Alliance, representing 70,500,000 members of co-ops in 39 countries, the Consumers Co-operative Association is inviting to Kansas City the triennial international convention in 1940, previously scheduled for Prague.

Such a meeting under Nazi auspices would be practically impossible. If the American co-ops could land such a meeting, it would bring thousands of progressive-minded people to visit the United States, which is now beginning an active campaign to bring travelers from abroad.

The co-operative movement, which only a few years ago was regarded by many as a visionary activity of a small group, is itself getting into the realm of big business.

No Snake-Eating

IF you're thinking of eating snakes in public, don't go to Kansas to do it. It's against the law. Nothing is provided relating to the eating of live goldfish, but we can look for such a law any time now.

The pro-snake statute is just one of the freak laws encountered by Prof. Newman F. Baker of Northwestern University in a trip through the wonderland of the state statute books. He found laws against inciting hostile Indians to break a treaty, against hitching a stallion within 800 feet of a place of common worship, against stealing a neighbor's cook or butler.

It's easy to get a law passed, but hard to repeal it, no matter how ridiculous a change in times has made it. Any statute which purged its statutes of all this useless lumber would be doing a great service.

And by the way, what has happened to Congressman Bruce Barton and his crusade to repeal a law a day?

Faith Unshaken

FERNANDO DE LOS RIOS joins Eduard Benes in exile here, each to be a teacher. And so a little living spark of the ruins of both the Spanish and Czech republics glows on in the United States.

"Our cause is as eternal as is the value of the dignity of man, the essence of liberty," says De los Rios, formerly ambassador from the Spanish republic.

"No authoritarian regime can be permanent—the nature of it is temporary. We shall not die. We shall be again free. We have always risen as a free people. It will again, soon or late, and I believe it will be soon," says Benes, once president of Czechoslovakia.

Men who have been through what these men have been through can still hold their faith in popular government, and the eventual triumph of freedom. Shall the rest of us, who have been less severely tried, have less faith?

TAKING THE PROFITS OUT OF WAR

A bill "to take the profits out of war" appears in the senate sponsored by 50 senators. In the house, four or five measures are introduced. This revival of a subject with which congress has toyed for a long time is indicative of a growing feeling of apprehension.

Partly this thought may arise from the conviction that if a world war comes, America will be drawn in and we had better be prepared with the legislation we shall need. Stronger still, perhaps, is the feeling that President Roosevelt is heading this country toward a concert with European democracies. One way to discourage that idea would be to make people sensitive about what would happen to them and their incomes if we did go to war.

This bill by Senator Bone is a tax measure. It avoids the complicated provisions for the conscription of labor and industry and the imposition of social controls that were embodied in the May bill of the last session. The May bill would have created an outright dictatorship.

But in its tax provisions this new bill is more drastic than anything America has known. It would give a man and his wife $1,000 to live on, then the tax would begin. The man with $10,000 would pay $2,640; the man with an income of $100,000 would pay $89,210; the man with an income of $1,000,000 would pay $980,210. The corporation tax would take all income above 6 per cent.

We have no objection to the principle of putting all people on the same level in war-time, but the practical application of that principle as embodied in the Bone measure might have serious effects at a time when we could not afford serious effects. The man with a fair income usually

World Affairs Reviewed

The politico-economic tug-of-war in southeast Europe moved into a new phase with the reported trade agreement between Germany and Romania.

Germany is already Romania's best customer, points out a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. In 1938 she bought more than 26 per cent of all Romania's exports, and sold to the south European country around 37 per cent of her imports.

—TRADE SUFFERED FROM "JITTER"—

As a whole, Romanian foreign business registered considerable decline last year. Exports dropped about $7,000,000, imports about $12,000,000.

These declines reflected conditions both domestic and European. Romania suffered two separate depressions, and an almost continuous state of "jitters," common to nearly all of Europe. During the first two months of 1938, Romania's commercial life was reported at rock bottom levels as a result of the domestic political situation, leading to a change in the form of government. In the fall came the first Czech crisis, with its consequent effect on business.

Chief among the products which Romania sends through channels of world commerce are oil, wheat, corn, wood, hides, and furs. She takes considerable manufactured goods, machinery, steel, rubber, automobiles, and munitions.

Romania's customer No. 2 in 1938 was England, which is now planning, according to reports from London, to send a new trade mission to King Carol's domain. Third on the list was Czechoslovakia, with Greece, Italy, Hungary, and France following close behind. Business between Romania and the United States is relatively unimportant. Last year Uncle Sam ranked 16th on the score of purchaser of Romanian goods, 7th as a seller.

Answers To Questions

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. Who invented ice cubes? H. T. M. A. The editor of "Ice and Refrigeration" says: "According to information published in 'Ice and Refrigeration,' the first record we have of the invention of the ice-cubing machine for producing ice cubes from manufactured ice is that of Mr. Frank Reinhold, of Detroit, Michigan, who commenced to work on his idea of a cutting machine early in 1900, although the first machine manufactured was not put into use until July, 1902. The April, 1914, issue of 'Ice and Refrigeration' refers to the production of ice cubes in a household electric refrigerator invented by Fred W. Wolfe, Jr."

Q. How many women in the State of New York are worth as much as $100,000? L. M. H. A. According to a financial list of Boyd's City Dispatch, Inc., there are 4640 women in New York who are worth $100,000 and over.

Q. What is the population of Massachusetts? D. F. R. A. In 1938 the population of Massachusetts was estimated at 4,435,000.

Q. How much money is spent in newspaper, radio, magazine, outdoor, and farm paper advertising? T. S. J. A. The following amounts represent the approximate expenditures in the five media: Newspapers, $500,000,000; radio, $165,000,000; magazines, $135,000,000; outdoor, $50,000,000; farm papers, $15,000,000.

Q. Are there any vitamins in frozen foods or does the freezing process destroy them? C. H. S. A. According to scientific research, quick-frozen foods contain vitamins equal in amounts to those of the freshest foods on the markets.

Q. Please give some information about Tommy Hitchcock, the polo ace. E. R. N. A. Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., rode a horse at the age of 3 and played polo at 14. He played hockey at St. Paul's and football and tennis at Harvard. At 17 he was a member of the Lafayette Escadrille. He was shot down behind German lines, but escaped from a moving train and fled 80 miles to Switzerland. He is 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs around 185 pounds, is blond, married, and has two children. He is a member of the banking firm of Lehman Bros. in New York. It is interesting to note that in August, 1917, Thomas Hitchcock, Sr., received his wings at Hazelhurst Field, Long Island, and in the same month, in France, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., received his wings.

Q. When did the comic strip "Foxy Grandpa" first appear in the newspapers? O. N. A. The late Carl E. Schultze introduced the "Foxy Grandpa" series in the New York Herald on January 7, 1900.

Q. When was the big wind in Ireland? H. D. McL. A. The big wind occurred in Ireland on the night of January 6, 1839. In Limerick, Galway, and Athlone hundreds of houses were blown down and hundreds more were burned by the spreading of fires from those blown down.

Q. Who invented the Novachord and how does it work? E. M. H. A. The Novachord is an electrical musical instrument which was invented by Laurens Hammond. It was first presented to the public on the Rudy Vallee radio program on February 9 this year. It is outwardly like a piano, somewhat shorter than an upright, and squarer and less deep than a baby grand, and is played on a conventional 6-octave keyboard. It is without strings or pipes, and is operated through electrically produced sound. Above the keyboard are more than a dozen dial-type switches which control the character of the tone. Volume can be controlled by these switches also, but is more conveniently managed by pedals. When desired, the volume of the upper and lower registers may be separately controlled. The sound itself issues from two high-fidelity "speakers" built in, out of sight, below the keyboard.

Q. Do stones grow? F. E. A. A. Stones do not grow nor increase in weight. However, they occasionally expand with heat and do not contract to their original size.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN Washington—To his Senate colleagues there was something rather mysterious about Senator Frazier's speech criticizing the appointment of William O. Douglas to the Supreme Court.

The Senator from North Dakota held two or three manuscripts in his hand, and stumbled through them like a blind man in a bog. It was obvious that he had scarcely looked at them and was trying to read something that someone had just thrust into his hand.

Also, Frazier had never known Douglas had shown no sign of opposing his appointment until just before the Senate was about to confirm it. He seldom addressed the Senate, and then only on Indians or agriculture. This time, however, he suddenly rose and announced his intention to speak.

Burden of the fumbling talk which followed was that the new Supreme Court Justice was not a real liberal, was not sincere in his campaign to regulate Wall Street.

All of which considerably mystified Frazier's Senatorial colleagues and gave them the impression that he had merely repeated a written diatribe against Douglas which a friend had composed for him.

Apparent confirmation of this came a little later, when it was reported that instigators of Frazier's remarks were Max Lowenthal, counsel for the Senate railway finance investigating committee, and Orben Litchfield, a member of the brokerage firm of Hibbs and Company.

Far more interesting, however, was the remark of Litchfield when accused of inspiring the Frazier speech. It indicated that some of the boys are taking the Douglas presidential talk more than seriously. "We weren't interested in Douglas as Supreme Court Justice," said Litchfield. "All we wanted to do was to spike his guns for 1940."

Note—Max Lowenthal is an intimate friend of Senator Wheeler of Montana, one of the presidential possibilities on the Democratic quasi-liberal ticket. Some New Dealers see the hidden hand of Bert Wheeler in the Lowenthal-Litchfield-Frazier play in the Senate.

Hellman's son Geoffrey is an editor of The New Yorker. . . . For the first time in history, Gridiron Club invitations bear the notation "white tie." Reason is that at the last dinner, Orson Welles, who scared the entire Atlantic seaboard with his radio invasion from Mars, came in a black tie, and was so embarrassed he left the dinner and hid in a hotel room the remainder of the evening. . . . Colonel Lindbergh once came in a black tie, but did not hide. . . . Woodrow Wilson used to say: "Carter Glass is the only man in Washington who can whisper into his own ear."

—MONROE DOCTRINE IN AIR— German aviation penetration of Latin America was carefully studied at a secret meeting in the office of Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson the other day. Officials of the State, War, Navy and Commerce Departments attended.

One War Department official reported: "It is an alarming fact that Germany and Italy have recently been making rapid advances which, if not arrested, might well end in virtually shutting the United States out of the Latin American aviation market."

It was also reported that Germany is developing its Focke-Wulf plane to be operated in South America by the Syndicate Condor, a subsidiary of Luftthansa. The route will encircle South America from Natal, Brazil, to Buenos Aires, then across the Andes to Chile, and up the west coast.

The Germans have other subsidiary companies in Peru, and have just obtained a concession in Ecuador. Still more alarming was the presence of German crews operating the Scadta system in Colombia, where the lines reach to within a short distance of the Panama Canal.

The answer to this competition, it was proposed, should be an extension of U. S. airlines in the same areas, using a commercial version of the Army's "Flying Portresses".

"There are so many doors before he that I don't know which one to take in choosing my life's work," writes a young man. There is only one door ahead of you, young man, and it is labelled "Push."

"With Great Britain spending $1,000,000 per day on its air service, other nations will please take note," says a London paper. Yeah, we know something about war taxes, too.

BRIDGES CASE IS COMPLETED

Testimony Shows Youth Broke Into Shed, Knew Danger

Marquette, April 6—A motion that the court direct a verdict in favor of the defendant in the $50,000 damage suit of Clotis Dahl, of Milwaukee, against Clifford G. Bridges, of Escanaba, was denied in federal court yesterday afternoon by Judge Fred M. Raymond. Following his charge to the jury this morning, the case will be left in the hands of twelve male jurors.

Dahl claims Bridges' negligence was the cause of Dahl's loss of sight in both his eyes and other personal injuries in an accident in Bark River, April 2, 1931, when dynamite caps, which Dahl took from a storage room used by the C. G. Bridges Construction company, exploded.

The construction company had a headquarters camp one-fourth of a mile from the Dahl farm, where the youth resided in 1931 with his parents. The company was engaged in a road construction job on US-2 near Bark River. Dahl was 15 years old at the time of the accident.

Reasons For Motion

Plaintiff's testimony was presented Tuesday, and yesterday was taken up with presentation of the defense side of the case and with closing arguments by Ralph R. Eldredge, of Marquette, plaintiff's counsel, and Ray MacAllister, of Iron Mountain, attorney for the defendant. Prior to adjournment of court yesterday afternoon, Judge Raymond announced he would reserve his charge to the jury until this morning.

Citing reasons why he thought the court should direct a verdict in favor of the defendant, MacAllister, who made the motion after both sides had presented their case, said the plaintiff had failed to show the defendant was guilty of negligence, that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence, that the plaintiff was a trespasser, a "wilful and wanton trespasser" when he gained "instruments with which he injured himself," and he added that the negligence of the plaintiff and not that of the defendant was the principal cause of injury sustained by the plaintiff.

It was brought out in testimony that Dahl obtained the box of dynamite caps from a tool room in a garage used by the construction company about March 23, 1931, he received injuries when 59 of them exploded simultaneously.

It is the contention of plaintiff's counsel that Bridges was guilty of negligence in leaving the dynamite caps where youngsters might reach them and that "if there was any trespass at all," Attorney Emmet Kelly, counsel with Eldredge, said in answer to MacAllister's motion, it was a technical trespass. Plaintiff's counsel maintained the case should go to the jury.

"Contrast in Testimony

In his closing argument, Attorney Eldredge said: "I have never seen a case where there is as sharp a contrast in testimony, and it will be up to the jury to decide which group is correct." He pointed out testimony on both sides and urged the jurors to pay particular attention to the veracity of witnesses and their interest in the outcome of the case.

Attorney MacAllister, in his closing argument, urged the jury not to decide the case from sympathy. "It is a pathetic case," he said, but must be judged on evidence presented. Defense counsel argued that Louis Van Enkervoort, companion of Clotis Dahl when the two boys are alleged to have taken articles from the construction company garage tool room, had "admitted theft of carpenter's rings and a Model A Ford carburetor" from the garage about March 23.

He cited the fact that Louis testified Clotis said his father could use the caps to clear ground and that testimony, he said, showed the Dahl boy knew of the danger connected with their use.

First witness to take the stand yesterday morning was Dr. George I. Keskey, of Marquette, who testified that Clotis Dahl's eyesight was gone and that the young man had only slight perception of light in his left eye.

Many Defense Witnesses

In cross-examination of Joe Alsworth, mechanic for Bridges, whose family occupied the camp kitchen when the construction company was engaged in a lower Michigan road job, it was testified that Alsworth had nailed the garage door shut and a horn, which he said was to warn against intruders, was working. He testified that a warning sign was on the garage door, that the area was fenced off and that he had ordered the boys off the premises. The garage in question is located near the camp kitchen and was used by the Alsworth family.

Patrick Finland, Sr., who resided on the premises in the spring of 1931, took the stand in behalf of the defendant and testified that the door to the garage was nailed shut, that a warning sign was placed on the tool room door and that the latter was locked.

In cross-examination he testified that he didn't know the horn was in operation in March, 1931. Loretta Alsworth, wife of Joseph, testified that she heard the horn blow twice when Clotis allegedly took the dynamite caps and Louis the carburetor and piston rings. She told her story of Clotis making his regular delivery of four

Falls Result As Blanket Covers Last of Ice On Sidewalks

The fall of snow during the night, which covered the ice still remaining on walks and streets, caused three serious accidents, as a result of falls, early Thursday morning.

Mrs. A. W. Plant, 914 First avenue south, in a fall near the corner of Ninth street and First avenue south, as she was on her way to attend church services, fractured her right hip and right wrist. In a similar accident three years ago, Mrs. Plant suffered an identical injury, a fracture of the right hip.

Mrs. John Burns, of 1415 Eighth avenue south, received a fracture of the right wrist and a bad cut on the left temple, in a fall, as she was on her way to church services.

Mrs. Clarence Greis of 505 South 15th street, fell as she was on her way to work and fractured her right ankle.

All three are patients at St. Francis hospital.

SENTENCES IMPOSED

Marquette, Mich., April 6 (AP)—Sentences totalling three years and seven months were imposed in federal court here today by Judge Fred M. Raymond, of Grand Rapids, on three criminal offenders who pleaded guilty and one who was found guilty by jury.

Russell B. Renshaw, of Lapeer, convicted of forging a government check after a trial of only four hours today, was sentenced to serve one year at the U. S. detention farm at Milan, Mich., on count one of the indictment. A one-year sentence on the second count was suspended on condition he pay the amount of the check, $31.50, to Thomas Dolan, of Snodhomish, Wash., by June 1, 1940. Dolan came here from Washington to testify.

Pleading guilty to theft of government property when arraigned in court Tuesday, Raine Jack Paradise, of L'Anse, was sentenced to serve five months at Milan; Harry Clarence Perrault, of L'Anse, was given a sentence of one year and six months in the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kans., and Homer A. Wright, also of L'Anse, was ordered to serve eight months at Milan.

The three men were involved in the same offense, the theft of eight dynamite cases from the government powder house on the L'Anse Indian reservation on October 15, 1938.

In the cases against Edward H. Williams, William W. Sebastian and James W. Graham, all of whom pleaded guilty to violation of the internal revenue act, sentence was deferred to the first day of court.

The second criminal jury trial on the docket, that of Wayne Herman Mattonen, of Hancock, charged with making false statements in connection with war risk insurance, opened late today and will be continued tomorrow.

The case of Dr. G. C. Stewart, of Hancock, also charged with making false statement in connection with the Mattonen case, probably will be continued, Francis T. McDonald, U. S. district attorney, told the court at the outset of the Mattonen trial.

No verdict has been returned in the civil case of Clotis Dahl, of Milwaukee, against Clifford G. Bridges, of Escanaba, the jury to-

Blanks Available For Veterans Who Seek Travel Pay

World War veterans who have not collected 5 cents per mile travel pay after their discharge from the United States service have been advised by John Pelletier, commander of Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, that application blanks are now available at the office of Ralph R. Olsen, county treasurer, at the court house.

Soldiers, sailors and marines who were discharged between Nov. 11, 1918 and Feb. 28, 1919, are eligible to receive the 5 cents per mile allowance from point of discharge to point of acceptance for enlistment. Prior to Feb. 29, 1919, the mileage allowance was 3 1/2 cents, and many ex-service men who received honorable discharges between the above dates have not collected the additional 1 1/2 cent per mile, the Legion has found.

Several Escanaba war veterans have already received checks for the travel pay adjustment.

YOUTH HOSTEL PLAN IS SHOWN

Butts Elected Chairman of Local Committee On Movement

A lecture illustrated with moving pictures, describing the use of American Youth hostels, was presented before a group of interested local people at the Chamber of Commerce office yesterday afternoon by Justin Cline, regional director of American Louth Hostels, Inc.

Bevler Butts, city recreation director, was named by the group to head a committee to investigate the movement and the possibility of locating a hostel in Escanaba. Edward E. Edick and J. F. Hart were named to assist him.

The aim of American Youth hostels, as outlined by Cline, is "to help all, especially young people, to a greater knowledge, understanding and love of the world by providing them with youth hostels, bicycle trails and foot paths in America and assisting them in their travels, both here and abroad."

A hostel has recently been established at Marinette, Wis., with the sponsorship of groups in both the Twin Cities. A hostel in Escanaba would be a link in a proposed chain from Marinette to Manistique, which would enable hostlers to travel by boat from one of the cities from the lower peninsula, then continue their trip by bicycle through the upper peninsula.

The local committee will investigate the possibility of starting a hostel in Escanaba. It was pointed out at the meeting that, to be of real value, a hostel here would have to be flanked by one to the north, half-way to Manistique, and one to the south, half-way to Menominee.

STRONG UPTURN IN REAL ESTATE

Building Activity Has Bright Future This Season

Evidence of the strong upturn in building and real estate activity with reference to residential properties in Michigan is given by the month end report of the Detroit Insuring Office of the Federal Housing Administration. Raymond M. Foley, State Director, announced today that business of his office during March set an all-time record for insured mortgage operations in Michigan.

"Applications for insurance of mortgages on new and existing homes in this state totaled $11,535,400," Foley said, "during the month of March. This was nearly $2,000,000 higher than any previous month. The number of applications totaled 2,553, of which 1,541 represented applications for the building of new houses. New construction totaled a mortgage value of $7,845,600.

"Commitments were issued in a total of 1,868 cases for a mortgage dollar volume of $8,417,700, of which slightly more than $6,000,000 represented new construction. At the end of the month there were under consideration over 1,300 applications of which $35 represented proposed new houses."

The State Director said that there has been a steady trend upward in the volume of business presented since the first of this year, with the new construction cases averaging over the period two-thirds of the total presented.

"We find continually greater indication of improved building activity in upstate areas outside of the Greater Detroit district, where most of the new construction has been up to this time," Foley said. "Even in the Upper Peninsula our reports this week indicate that there will be a much larger volume of new construction this year than in the past several years."

The figures given out, the State Director added, do not include loans made by lending institutions for modernization of property, which are on a rising trend, nor applications for insurance of loans for rental housing projects.

Rapid River

SMELT NEWS
Rapid River, Mich.—The Farmhands of radio station WTZD Green Bay, have been engaged to provide part of the program for the Smelt Frolic to be held at the Tachosh river Saturday, April 15. The Farmhands will come to Rapid River well acquainted in this territory, having played at the Hunter's Shindig at Nahma last fall. Besides taking part in the program at the river, the Farmhands will also furnish the music for the dance to be held in the high school gym. This year a large stage will be constructed on the west side of the river. The program is not yet completed and several more numbers are being arranged.

A meeting of all committee members was held at the high school Tuesday night to report on progress made so far and to suggest plans for further activity. The supply of fireworks has already arrived. Tickets for the dance to be held at the gym following activities at the river may be obtained from Wallace Cameron at the high school or from any local business establishment.

One 3-pound frying chicken
½ cup fat
½ cup hot water
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Season bread crumbs and roll chicken in them; then brown in hot fat. Use a heavy frying pan with a cover. When chicken is brown cover closely and cook slowly over low heat until tender, 30 to 45 minutes. Remove chicken to hot platter.

Add water to hot fat and juice remaining in pan. Mix flour and milk to a paste, then stir into hot water mixture. Season and cook until thickened stirring constantly to prevent lumping. To serve pour over chicken or serve in a separate bowl.

Stuffed Gloucester Steaks
(Serves 4 to 6)
Two and one-half pounds cod,
1-3 cup butter, juice of 1-2 lemons.

For stuffing: 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 can boneless and skinless sardines, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne pepper, 1-2 teaspoon grated onion, 1-4 cup minced butter, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon finely chopped celery.

Have fish cut into 4 thick slices. Wash slices in cold salted water. Dry carefully. On two slices, pile stuffing evenly but thickly. Cover each of the two slices with another slice of fish. On top of the second slices, spread the remaining stuffing.

Place the two "sandwiches" on a buttered baking platter. Pour a little melted butter on the top. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Five minutes before serving, heat remaining butter with onion juice and pour around the fish.

To make stuffing, mash sardines with fork, stir in the freshly grated crumbs, parsley, celery and onion and seasoning. Keep it light.

EGGS IN BREAD NESTS

Cut crusts from slices of soft fresh bread, butter each slice liberally and press into shallow individual baking dishes. Break one or two eggs into each bread nest, pepper and salt and place in a slow oven. Bake until the egg is set and the edges of the bread nicely browned.

Tomato Juice
Scrambled Eggs
Hot Cross Buns
Bacon
Coffee

SCRAMBLED EGGS
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 eggs

Beat eggs slightly, combine with milk and seasonings. Melt butter and when hot add egg mixture. Cook until set stirring constantly.

HOT CROSS BUNS
2 cakes compressed yeast
1/2 cup boiled water
1 1/2 cups scalded milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1/2 cup seedless raisins
7 cups flour (approximately)
1 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Soften the compressed yeast in the water, heated until luke warm and add to the milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm. Add 2 tablespoons of the sugar and 2 tablespoons of the flour to the mixture and beat until the sponge is free from lumps. Allow to rise until light and full of bubbles. Cream the shortening with the remaining sugar, beat in the eggs, and add the salt. Stir this mixture into the sponge; add the raisins, cinnamon and enough flour to make a dough that can be handled. Knead until smooth and allow to rise until double in bulk. Shape into round buns and place about 2 inches apart in greased baking pans. Brush the tops with melted shortening and allow to rise until double in bulk. Make 2 cuts in the form of a cross on the top of each and bake in a hot oven for about 20 minutes. Brush over the tops of the buns with a sugar and water solution (2 tablespoons of sugar dissolved in 2 tablespoons of hot water) for a few minutes before taking them out of the oven. Fill the lines of the cross with the icing. This recipe makes 36 buns. To make the icing beat 2 egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually add enough confectioners sugar until the mixture is stiff enough to spread.

Green Beans and Mushrooms
1 1/2 pounds green beans
1/2 pound mushrooms
3 tablespoons butter
1 good-size onion
Salt and pepper

Wash, remove ends and sliver beans. Cook in boiling salted water 15 to 20 minutes until tender. Drain, wash and slice mushrooms; cook in butter with minced onions 8 to 10 minutes. Combine with beans. Season.

Eggplant and Cheese Casserole
(Serves 4 to 6)
One medium eggplant, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup grated bread crumbs, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 tablespoon bacon fat

Peel eggplant, cut in cubes and boil in salted water until tender. To eggplant add beaten egg, butter, salt and grated bread crumbs. Bake in buttered casserole in moderate oven 15 minutes. Sprinkle grated cheese over top, add bacon fat and bake 10 minutes more. Just long enough for cheese to melt.

Sardine-Filled Tomatoes Tasty

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
For Friday's luncheon party, take pride in these stuffed tomatoes. The recipe comes from the Department of Fisheries, Ot-tawa, Canada. Let's enjoy being neighborly.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Sardines
Cut core out of firm ripe toma-toes and replace with the follow-ing dressing: The contents of one tin of sardines for every four to-matoes, mashed with 2 table-spoons of warmed butter. Add grated crackers and mix with 1 teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce and cayenne pepper to taste. A little finely cut onion may be used if desired.

When this is mixed to a firm paste, pack into the tomatoes to give them body and bake in the oven, each with a small piece of butter on top.

Sauteed Mushrooms
(Serves 6—as garnish)
Steak and mushrooms is an- other darling of the masculine heart. Mushrooms are plentiful and moderately priced, too.
One pound mushrooms, 3 table-spoons butter, seasoning.
Wash and peel mushrooms and cut off hard end of stems. Slice mushrooms down from cap to stem end, into 1-8 inch slices. Saute in hot butter, uncovered, turning frequently. When tender (about 10 minutes or less) serve hot on steak.

French Fried Onions
(Serves 6)
Two Bermuda-type onions, 1 cup milk, flour, salt.
Peel onions. Slice crosswise 1-4 inch thick. Carefully separate into rings. Place milk in shallow dish and stand onions rings in milk a few minutes. Then drain and dip lightly in flour. Fry in hot deep fat until delicately brown. Drain on unglazed paper and serve pip-ing hot with broiled steak.

Escalloped Oysters
1/2 pint small oysters
1 cup rolled cracker crumbs
5 tablespoons butter, melted
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons cream
1/4 cup milk
Carefully look over the oysters and discard any shells. Mix crumbs with butter and season-ings. Sprinkle a thin layer of crumbs in the bottom of a shallow buttered baking dish. Cover with oysters and half the cream. Add another layer of crumbs and spread with rest of oysters. Add rest of cream and cover with re-maining crumbs. Pour milk over top of crumbs. Using a knife, make several cuts down to allow the milk to penetrate. Bake for 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serves two.

Roast Ham

Modern hams do not need par-boiling so place ham, fat side up, in a shallow baking pan. Bake uncovered in a slow oven 30 to 35 minutes per pound. For a glaze replace ham in a very hot oven for one-half hour before serving, covered with vinegar, brown sugar and prepared mustard. The ham may be decorated with cloves and halves of maraschino cherries to add a holiday touch if desired.

Creamed Finnan Haddie

Smoked finnan haddie is an old-fashioned favorite. It makes a first rate Sunday morning break-fast dish.

Cover a finnan haddie with wa-ter, let come to the boiling point and simmer for a few minutes un-till the fish is cooked, using the top of the stove, or the oven. Drain the fish, lay on a hot plat-ter and place small pieces of but-ter on top. Return to the oven to heat and just before serving add 1-2 cup of cream or whole milk heated. Do not let the fish remain too long or the cream may curdle from the smoked fish. Garnish with parsley.

"RIGHT RESERVED TO LIMIT"

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

Washington—What American foreign policy depends in the long run on public opinion. Neither Presidents nor secretaries of state really make foreign policy. Any time the American public refuses to go along with them it can cancel statesmen's profoundest plans—as Woodrow Wilson learned after the World War.

So no discussion of American foreign policy today means much unless the things that have been happening to public opinion at home in the last few months are taken into account.

Basically, of course, the American people's idea on foreign policy is beautifully simple: they want peace with justice and prosperity with security.

The administration today is committed to the thesis that this goal can be reached by positive action only. It has turned its back on isolationism and has undertaken to co-operate with democracies to restrain dictators.

It believes the country at large will support it in this regard.

LOOKING AT THE RECORD

Look at the sequence of events since the first of the year.

1. On January 4 President Roosevelt told Congress that "no nation can be safe in its will to peace so long as any other single powerful nation refuses to settle its grievances at the council table."
2. He urged that America use "methods short of war" to restrain such nations.
3. Three weeks later Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles made a speech before the New York Bar Association in which he sought further to mobilize public opinion. He said that since the World War we have been witnessing "a progressive and ever more rapid deterioration" in international relations: multiplication of trade barriers, massacre of women and children in air raids, terrific new arms race, decline in sanctity of treaties, constant threat of violence.
4. In sheer self-defense, he said, America must work actively for world conditions which would make such things impossible.
5. Less than a fortnight later a military plane crashed in California, and the public learned the government was enabling the French to buy brand new American fighting planes which had been designed for U. S. Army purchase.
6. Before that news was stale, the American fleet was conducting maneuvers in the Atlantic and the Caribbean—maneuvers admittedly designed to test America's ability to keep invaders out of Latin America, and tacitly understood to be a warning to Germany and Italy that they had best stay out of the new world.
7. On the heels of that a Gallup poll revealed 69 per cent of the American people favored helping France and England by every means short of war, in case France and England should be attacked by Germany and Italy.
8. Then, addressing the 150th celebration of Congress, President Roosevelt declared that "with many other democracies the United States will give no encouragement to the belief that our processes are outworn or that we will approvingly watch the return of forms of government which for 2000 years have proved their tyranny and their instability."
9. Shortly after that Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, introduced (with administration approval) a bill under which South American governments could buy warships built in U. S. navy yards.
10. Then came Hitler's occupation of Czechoslovakia.
11. Acting with the approval of President Roosevelt, Undersecretary Welles (Secretary Hull being absent) issued a statement condemning Germany as having acted with "wanton lawlessness" and implying that America looked on the extinguishing of Czechoslovakian independence as a temporary thing. Simultaneously the Treasury Department slapped a 25 per cent penalty on goods imported from Germany.
12. Three days later the American government sent a formal note of protest to Germany, and Senator Pittman moved to extend and modify the neutrality legislation in such a way as to enable England and France to buy arms and other supplies in America in case they were at war with Germany and Italy.
13. Add up all this and you get a clear picture of the direction in which the United States is moving in European affairs. There are indications—not yet conclusive—that in the main the public is prepared to follow the lead of the administration.

BUT PEOPLE ARE CAUTIOUS

By the same token, however, the American people are going to be cautious about foreign policy.

One evidence of that caution is our withdrawal from the Philippines. Now that the Philippines are gaining their independence America has no territory of any consequence to defend west of the Hawaiian Islands; the House vote on Guam was a pretty definite sign that the country is satisfied with that fact.

The next few weeks, probably, will tell the tale. There has been a shift in public opinion since Munich—a shift which apparently has been hastened along by recent events in Europe, including the latest Chamberlain speech. How far that shift has gone should become evident in what Congress does and in what the country says during the immediate future.

SERIAL STORY

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
BETTY MARY JORDAN—Pretty young Border Patrol service secretary.
SHERIDAN STARR—Handsome Border Patrol officer.
HOPE KILDARE—Starr's fellow officer, also a bachelor.
LUIS BARRO—Mexican smuggler.

CHAPTER I

The cold, forbidding aspect of the gray stone police headquarters in El Paso, Texas, suddenly was intensified by contrast as trim Betty Mary Jordan walked in.

Technically, Betty Mary was an efficiency expert from Washington, sent out with an official reprimand for Inspectors Starr and Kildare of the U. S. Border Patrol. She didn't look it. She was a dainty person whose left dimple flashed at the slightest provocation. Her hair was the color of brass. Her eyes china-blue. They, and her height, suggested that Betty Mary ought to be somewhere skipping rope or, at most, preparing for a junior prom.

Nevertheless, her lips were set in what she fully believed was a firm, purposeful line. She was still stinging a little from the challenge thrown at her by big Sheridan Lanford Starr, and echoed—at least by a nod—from his close friend and fellow officer, Hope Kildare. She was also trembling a little, inwardly, at her own temerity in accepting their challenge.

"If you think Luis Barro is so easy to catch," Sherry Starr had rumbled, indignantly, "then—then—why don't you help catch him yourself? You're an efficiency expert. At least Washington said they were sending you out!"

He had blurted it much as a college boy would blurt something at a co-ed with whom he was quarreling. And Miss Jordan had answered in kind.

"All right, maybe I will!" she had snapped. "Efficiency is simply getting a hard job done promptly. You two men have been trying for a year. And Luis Barro is still called the Smuggler King of the Mexican Border. Only a few nights ago he sent over a dozen alleys and a shipment of narcotics, while you hid peacefully in the fogs 10 miles down the river!"

"We had a false tip!" Hope put in, pleadingly, watching her blue eyes.

"It's your business to get accurate information before acting," she declared. "Isn't it, now?"

One word had led to another. Talk, talk, talk, details, details. When Officers Kildare and Starr had dutifully reported their failure again to capture Luis Barro, worst of all border smugglers, an extremely busy department chief in Washington had sent his efficient secretary out for a first-hand report. (She had carried out more than one assignment like this!) And the officers had dared her to demonstrate her efficiency!

They had dared her impulsively, as boys would, hence they were alarmed when she accepted. There had been a new prisoner in the city jail, named Salazar, in whose pockets had been some cocaine wrapped much like Luis Barro's man?

She had left Messrs. Starr and Kildare looking as dejected as normally happy young officers could possibly look. She would go see the prisoner Salazar herself. Any lead—any kind of lead whatsoever—might be the one to which would result in capture of Luis Barro! "You must use brains, gentlemen, as well as brawn, in combatting criminals! We are not afraid of Luis Barro! I—I will go see this Salazar myself, since you dare me to do something!"

She had talked much more than good judgment dictated, she realized now, but she had to go on. She restated just a moment outside the gray police station, then went boldly in.

"Sure, you can see him!" the police chief told her when she had presented her credentials. "Anything the federal boys want. You on the Border Patrol now, miss?"

"Just briefly, and unofficially," Betty Mary dimpled at him, and that was untrue enough. "I don't want him to see me."

Salazar sat for 10 minutes with two detectives in an inner office. They questioned him in Spanish but learned nothing, while Betty Mary peered at him unobserved. She noted every minute detail, mentally photographing him.

Next she asked the taller to show her the man's personal effects—knife, gun, coins, handkerchief, packaged narcotics, all the things found in his clothing.

"What would he be doing with a cartridge like this?" she asked, casually thumbing it. "This doesn't fit his gun. This cartridge is a .22 long rifle."

"Dunno," said the jailer. "Found one like it on another Mexican arrested last month. And some poor boys had one in their pockets. Rabbit hunters, I guess."

"Interesting," murmured Betty Mary, and stared at the thing a long time. It was dirty, and greasy but seemingly impressive.

She conferred then with the police chief again, in private. He told her a great many things. The chief was a man of 60 with daughters of his own. He even showed her photos of his grandchildren, discussing them proudly. When she left he had agreed to a detailed plan. In the alley back of her hotel at 3 a. m. "Exactly, ma'am; call on me for anything, miss." She thanked him and went away.

Meanwhile, Inspectors Starr and Kildare of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service—young teamsters in the service who had chosen this most fascinating (but dangerous) work for their careers—were anything but comfortable. After Betty Mary left them they talked earnestly in a waiter of mutual sympathy, then left the conference room to stride down the street, friends side by side as they had been since high school days. Gloom enveloped them because Luis Barro had indeed brought a peculiar genius into his smuggling operations, was heightened now because a woman—a girl!—had been sent out to discipline them. They had not taken seriously her promise to help catch Barro.

"She has gone on back to her hotel, I reckon," Sheridan Starr said. "Probably whistle us up again tonight."

"Ye-ye-ye!" Hope Kildare agreed. "What say we go back, drive down and pump this prisoner, Salazar?"

"Okay."

They lingered at their office for an hour, first, however, studying Salazar's fingerprint record, and mapping a new course of action which might trap Luis Barro. But they weren't satisfied with any plan they could evolve. Two older officers came in and conferred with them at length, so that it was late afternoon when they finally took a government car and drove to the city police headquarters.

"We want to see this Salazar you got on a dope charge," Starr requested.

The desk sergeant himself got keys from the jailer and led them back to a cell.

"That's him," the sergeant said, pointing. "But—uh, we was a little crowded, and had to put old granny in with him for a few hours. You wanta talk to him alone?"

"No, thanks, just want to be acquainted. Howdy, Salazar."

"Buenos dias, senoras."

"Howdy, granny, what you in for? You hittin' the dope, too?"

Starr was looking closely at the woman. She appeared quite old, a faded Mexican in a black skirt, and a black shawl that came over her head to be pinned under her chin, then draped down over narrow stooped shoulders, a common type. Her face looked pale in the gloom of the jail cell.

"No, senor, only a little," she whined, and sobbed a bit, bowing so that only her forehead was seen. Starr was ignoring her, intent on the man. But Hope Kildare's mouth dropped open.

"What's been ears had detected behind his eyes had missed? Behind the man Salazar, the poor old woman eyed Hope for an instant, then slowly shook her head.

PATTERN 9975

Presented with pride—this Marian Martin creation that "fits down" the figure into youthful—but-not-too-youthful lines! Pattern 9975 is casual enough to wear to a morning fashion-show, and formal enough to attend a gathering of bridge enthusiasts.

DEATH CLAIMS OLD RESIDENT

Mrs. Maria Swanson, 80, Resided Here for 50 Years

Mrs. Maria Christina Swanson, 80, resident of Manistique for over a half century, passed away Thursday morning at 12:15 o'clock at the family residence, 532 Michigan avenue, following an illness of 14 months duration. Death was caused by complications attendant her advanced age. She was born in Sunne, Sweden, October 11, 1858 and came to Manistique from Sweden in 1888, residing here continuously since. She was married to Charles Swanson in Manistique on October 25, 1891. Her husband passed away in 1915.

The body was prepared for burial at the Morton Funeral Home and will be returned to the family residence this afternoon. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the family residence and Rev. George Wahlin will officiate. Interment will be made in Fairview cemetery.

She is survived by three sons, George, Herman and John Swanson, operators of Swanson Brothers Trucking company here; two daughters, Mrs. Eva Barr, Cloquet, Minnesota; Mrs. Mabel Tillman, of Gladstone; five brothers, John Lindsley, Manistique; Emil Lindsley, Bellingham, Washington; August, Olaf and Alfred, of Sweden; and a sister, Elizabeth, also living in Sweden. A granddaughter and four grandsons also survive.

Glove Oddities
Unusual gloves add definite interest to street or evening ensembles. Seen in smart New York shops are daytime gloves with dainty designs embroidered on the cuff with matching bits of embroidery on each fingertip; gloves of large bright plaids; gloves with insets of one finger or thumb in a contrasting color; a short glove with minktail binding the cuff. For evening wear, fingerless gloves, scalloped and embroidered at top and bottom; long laced gloves, the lattice work extending from the elbow down to a point in the back of the solid hand.

The nasturtium is named from the Latin word nasus, meaning nose, and torquere, meaning to twist, due to the plant's pungent odor.

Battle Against T-B Goes Ahead; Clinic Planned

Coming soon to hold a clinic with the cooperation of local officials in Schoolcraft County is that fighter of tuberculosis, the Christmas Seal x-ray unit of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. Details will be announced as soon as complete. If interested in a tuberculosis test and x-ray, the Association suggests that residents of the county see their family physicians or local health authorities to make arrangements.

Tuberculosis is a communicable disease, states the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. That is, it is passed from one person to another. It runs in families because they live in close contact with each other not because it is inherited. In urging cooperation in the fight against the White Plague officials of the Tuberculosis Association repeat that when Robert Koch discovered the germ of tuberculosis, the mystery of why tuberculosis runs in families was solved.

They know that one doesn't get tuberculosis just because his father or grandfather had it. The germs in the body of the relative are passed to him by careless spitting, by coughing and sneezing with an uncovered mouth and nose, by the use of unsterilized things handled by the tuberculous person, by kissing or sleeping in the same room with the patient. The Michigan Tuberculosis Association has as its motto, "Early discovery; early recovery". Its aim is avowedly to find tuberculosis before the symptoms of general tiredness, loss of weight, afternoon flush, coughing and hemorrhage associated with the disease appear. It is known that by the time these characteristics appear much harm has been done to both patient and those in contact with him.

Jacob Edwards Claimed By Death Wednesday At Newberry

Jacob Edwards, of Flint, former Doyle township resident, passed away at the home of his son, George Edwards, at Newberry, Wednesday morning at 9:45 o'clock after an illness of five weeks.

Mr. Edwards was born in Peterboro, Canada February 9, 1857. At the age of nine, he came to Michigan with his father who settled in Lapeer county. He was married to Almira Fishell, North Branch, Michigan when he was 22 years of age. Eight children were born to this union.

In 1882 he moved with his wife and two small children to Doyle township, where they settled on a homestead. Mr. Edwards lived there for more than 40 years, farming and lumbering. His first wife passed away May 18, 1898. Mr. Edwards later married Mrs. Bertha Wood.

Lansing made a brief visit with friends here Thursday enroute to her home in Marquette. Miss Carpenter is a former teacher here.

Bruins Take Stanley Cup Hockey Opener, 2 to 1

BAUER SHOOT'S WINNING GOAL

Missile Throwers Are Calmed By Cordon of Policemen

BY BILL KING
 Boston, April 6 (AP)—Little Bobby Bauer squirmed through a 60-foot spread of Toronto Maple Leafs to give the Boston Bruins a 2-1 victory in the opening Stanley Cup hockey clash tonight before an unusually orderly crowd of 16,523 at the Boston Garden.

That mighty mite launched his spectacular single-handed performance just when his mates appeared doomed to another dose of nerve-racking sudden-death play. Less than two minutes previous to that third period feat, Red Horner had put the Leafs on even keel by polishing off a combination play with Gus Marker and Doc Romnes.

Penalties Tame Players
 Horner's counter, fired point-blank at goalie Frankie Brissek, had nullified the goal that Woody Dumart directed through the padded Hal Broda during the 17th minute of play. It also made up for Horner's first miscue, for he was in the penalty box when Dumart scored for the first time in the eight play-off games the Bruins have played since they wound up as National Hockey League champions.

Just as the deadlocked teams settled down to tight defensive play and commenced their prayers for the winning break, Bauer hooked a puck on his own blue line, stick-handled down the right boards and, after cutting over and slipping inside of Bucko McDonald, slapped it through Broda in insouciant fashion.

With Referee Mickey Ion in an exacting mood, the action tamed down as soon as he started imposing penalties, 12 of them.

Seven were against the Leafs, who twice handled the Bruins' full pressure with two men resting in the box. Whenever they caught the Bruins short-handed, the visitors used five forwards with no success.

In Toronto Tuesday
 With a small army of police scattered about the arena, the crowd was on its good behavior. Not once was the action delayed because the guardians of the law forced usually excitable topbalcony spectators to disgorge a wide assortment of throwables, including many bottles and a brick, before being admitted.

The second game of this best four-out-of-seven games series will be played here Sunday and on Tuesday the Bruins, who have surrendered to the Leafs in four previous play-offs, but never with the trophy directly at stake, will find themselves on Toronto ice.

Eagles Take Second Place At Rudyard

The Eagles basketball team which was the only Escanaba team entered in the tournament at Rudyard over the last weekend weathered the semi-finals, beating St. Ignace Shell Oils 27 to 19 but in the finals on Sunday night lost to the St. Ignace Vikings in two overtime periods, 31 to 33.

While forced to be content with second place in the tournament the locals as individuals were highly regarded. Roy Johnson was picked as the outstanding player of the tournament and was nominated from the eastern section of the peninsula for a place on the A. A. U. all-American amateur team, as well as being placed on the all-tournament first team. Dick Christensen, another Eagle, was placed on the tournament second team.

Money Is One Way To A Woman's Heart

Chicago (AP)—The easiest way to a woman's heart is through money, in the opinion of Judge Philip J. Finnegan who hit the headlines recently by ruling that a woman is not entitled to a divorce just because her husband slaps her.

The judge expounded his money theory in way of convincing a man that he should pay his wife $100 temporary support in which he was arrears.

The man said he loved his wife and wanted her back.

"If you want to win your wife back pay her what you owe her," said the judge. "The easiest way to a woman's heart is through money."

"Drunk" Sobers Up On Stick Of Candy

Fayetteville, N. C. (AP)—Police had arrested Charlie U'ley, a negro chauffeur, as a drunk. Imagine their amazement when Charlie sobbed up before their eyes by eating a stick of peppermint supplied by his employer, Dr. J. H. McLeod.

Dr. McLeod explained his chauffeur suffered from diabetes, a disease characterized by accumulation of sugar in the blood. An injection of insulin gives relief by counteracting the excess sugar—but occasionally it counteracts it so much it produces a condition resembling intoxication.

"That's what happened to U'ley," said the doctor. "Eating the peppermint candy remedied his condition."

Braddock Manager Of Popeye Woods

New York, April 6 (AP)—Walter (Popeye) Woods, New York middleweight contender, made his first start under the managerial banner of former Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock tonight by stopping Paul Mahoney, highly touted Buffalo fighter, in three rounds at the Hippodrome.

Only recently returned from a fighting tour of Australia, the 166-pound Woods belted his 161½-pound rival all over the ring and had him sagging at the knees when Referee Arthur Donovan halted the proceedings at two minutes, 41 seconds of the third round of a ten-round battle.

MORE SCHOOLS ARE ADMITTED

Menominee Range Ass'n Expands to Include Smaller Units

Stambaugh, April 6.—The Menominee Range High School Athletic association, by formal action at its spring meeting here last night, extended membership to all schools in Iron and Dickinson counties.

The association, of which Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Norway, Vulcan, Crystal Falls, Iron River and Stambaugh are charter members, was enlarged to eight schools two years ago by inclusion of Alpha. Last night Channing, Amasa and Bates were admitted and the door was opened to Quinnesec and Felch.

All schools, however, were not taken into the association's football and basketball conferences which the past year have comprised five and six schools, respectively. Admission to those groups within the association hinges on schedule qualifications which have restricted the football conference to Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Norway, Iron River and Stambaugh and the basketball conference to the same five schools plus Crystal Falls.

New League Proposed
 A move is under way to organize a second basketball conference to include several of the small association schools. Superintendent K. W. Schulte, of Alpha, is one of the prime movers in the project. Membership, it was said, would be drawn from Alpha, Amasa, Bates, Quinnesec, and Kingsford. However, the attitude of the latter three schools is uncertain. They are largest of the group and Vulcan, until the last few years, has competed in the major conference.

Coaches and athletic directors devoted considerable time to drafting football and basketball schedules for the next two years. Schedules will conform with the state athletic association's calendar to which the range group voted to adhere. This calendar provides that next season's basketball schedules will open one week later than heretofore. There will be no change in the football opening.

Martin Mahlberg, Stambaugh principal and chairman of the meeting, announced that all football games played in Stambaugh will start at 2 p. m., touching off a discussion of making 2 o'clock a uniform hour for daytime games throughout the range. However, in the end it was left, as in the past, for each school to set its own hour.

Schools Invited to Meet
 Earl Rich, Crystal Falls faculty manager, invited all schools to compete in the upper peninsula regional tennis tournament to be conducted by Crystal Falls this spring and it was indicated that at least five range schools will participate. They are Stambaugh, Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Alpha and Crystal Falls. Rich said the prospective entry list is so large that it may be necessary to play some of the matches on Alpha and Stambaugh courts. Crystal Falls has six courts, including those at Fortune lake.

Voice votes of appreciation were extended to Stambaugh high school for the manner in which last night's meeting was entertained and to sports writers of the range for cooperation given schools.

The next meeting was awarded to Vulcan and will be held following the 1939 football season.

Ten schools were represented last night—Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Crystal Falls, Stambaugh, Iron River, Norway, Vulcan, Amasa, Bates and Channing—by 25 superintendents, principals, coaches and others connected with their athletic departments.

Charming Champ

A winner in more ways than one is charming Mrs. Del Barkhoff of Seattle, who defends her women's single title in the national badminton championships at New York.

Ypsilanti Coach Will Be Honored

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 6 (AP)—A banquet in honor of Elton J. Rynearson, now in his 20th year at Michigan State Normal college as football coach, will be held here Saturday night. Among the speakers will be Charles E. (Gus) Dorals, grid coach of the University of Detroit; Joe Gemble, Wayne mentor; Charles Bachman, of Michigan State, and Harry Ockerman, of Bowling Green. Ferdinand A. (Tod) Rockwell, Detroit sports writer, will be the toastmaster.

Officials in charge of the program said that more than 200 former Huron athletes had indicated they would attend the affair.

AT FAIRVIEW GARDENS

Detroit, April 6 (AP)—Stanley Podero, Port Huron lightweight, will meet Mansfield Driskell of Detroit in the six round feature bout of a 34 round boxing card at Fairview Gardens here tomorrow night. Five other contests are on the card.

SAFETY FIRST

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Johnny Mize, St. Louis Cardinal first baseman, is wearing a glove with a strap around the wrist to prevent it from falling off no matter what happens.

HOOSIERS FLOODED

Bloomington, Ind. — Twenty truckloads of dirt were needed to resurface Indiana's baseball field, most of which was washed away in a recent flood.

ROWE HAS HOPES

Lakeland, Fla., April 6 (AP)—Lynwood Rowe's goal with the Detroit Tigers this season is 18 pitching victories.

As the Tigers prepared to break camp here today, the comeback bound Rowe scrawled the number 18 on the wall of the clubhouse and marked his name under it.

"Next year that will remind Ol' Rowe of what he hoped to do this year," said Lynwood whose apparent recovery from an arm ailment has been a source of satisfaction to Manager Del Baker.

Munising News

Results Of Primary Election Questioned

Munising, April 6.—A number of Munising township voters are seeking public investigation into the primary election conducted in the township this spring. Members of the group circulated a petition asking that ballots cast in the election be held until an investigation could be carried out. No action was taken on the petition, however, and this week the group sought to have R. E. O'Brien, Alger county prosecuting attorney, to have a hearing on the affair and review evidence which the group wishes to present.

In the primary election, Rupert Nelson defeated Harold Gamble and William Campbell for the supervisor's nomination and Reynold Miron defeated Don Minier for the clerk's nomination for the township office. Nelson and Miron defeated Minier and Gamble, slip candidates, in Monday's election.

Those seeking review of the primary said that R. E. O'Brien, county attorney, had promised that he would take up the matter.

BAND CONCERT APRIL 14

Munising, April 6.—The Mather high school band will present their fifth concert of the school year on Friday evening, April 14, in the Mather high school auditorium. The program will feature modern American music. "Star Dust" and "Deep Purple" will be among the numbers on the program. The band is under the direction of Albert B. Clute, Munising township schools music supervisor.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Munising, April 6.—Special Good Friday services will be conducted in the Munising churches here tomorrow. The Rev. Lewis Keast of Ishpeming will be the speaker at the Good Friday services at the Methodist Episcopal church on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be held at the Eden Lutheran church at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning with the Rev. Herbert Bjorkquist, pastor of the church, in charge. Communion service will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 7:30 Friday night.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
New York, April 6 (AP)—Stocks went down for the count in today's market as fresh uneasiness over Europe and lagging domestic business trends touched off selling in all departments.

Losses ranged from 1 to 4 points among leaders with a few isolated "blue chips" down as much as 8. Although final prices were above the day's worst in many cases, numerous issues hit low marks for the past 10 months or so.

While dealings were orderly the greater part of the session, a burst of liquidation at the turn of the first hour put the ticker tape several minutes behind for a while. Mild buying support occasionally appeared subsequently, with the pace slowing.

Transfers totaled 1,313,290 shares against 81,370 the day before when the list put on a half-hearted rally. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 5.5 points at 43.4, a new bottom for this composite since June 22, 1928.

Contributing to the renewed nervousness of market followers, brokers said, were the headlines telling of Italian warships appearing off Albania and fears that the threatened invasion of that country by Mussolini's forces might touch off the spark to a general overseas explosion.

In addition, thoughts of German repercussions were aroused by an announcement of the Anglo-Polish mutual defense agreement and the drive of the British government to aid Britain of Nazi agents.

Looking at the industrial front at home, Wall Street exhibited further pessimism over the spotty trade picture due, it was believed, principally to the successive foreign crisis which have tended to restrict forward buying in most lines.

Some informed banking quarters, while still of the opinion much of the furor abroad really was in the nature of a "political poker game," and that actual warfare would be avoided, realized the international economic chart could be badly wrenched in the play-off.

Some of the day's set-back was in line with the desire of traders to clear decks for tomorrow's Good Friday holiday when the stock exchange will be closed. European markets, which will recess through Friday to Monday, were exceptionally quiet and only slightly reactionary.

Rails, on the whole, did better than other groups. Although last week's freight loadings were off more than seasonally, as the result of a sharp fall in coal shipments, miscellaneous haulage was ahead of the preceding week.

Newsman's Salary Half In Cash And Half In Enjoyment

(Copyrighted by Newsweek)
By early July some 5,000 recent graduates of journalism schools will have joined the several thousand experienced newspaper men who now are slogging their weary way from interview to interview in search of a job. Many will despair at the tough prospect and turn to running a gas pump or peddling vacuum cleaners; many more will rage at the typical reply: "I can't use you until you've had experience." But some will persevere until they do find newspaper jobs (about one-third of all journalism graduates do find such jobs) and then run up against the same old question: what lies ahead in the way of salary?

Together, Science Research Associates of Chicago and Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism have tried to find out with a survey, and this week they came up with some of the answers. These are presented by Elmo Scott Watson, editor of Publishers' Auxiliary, in a long article which covers the state of the Fourth Estate in considerable detail.

According to Watson, the first hard journalistic fact of life for the cub reporter to cut his teeth on is a very low salary. This averages from $13.50 a week in towns under 25,000 population to $25.25 in cities over 750,000. After the cub is weaned—if ever—he averages from $27 to $52 a week (based on the same sized cities) as a reporter. Desk men on pay days peer out from under their green eyeshades at checks ranging from $38.25 to $72.25.

Stiffles Pessimism
An old irritation among newspaper men is the fact that mechanical forces (lino-type operators, pressmen, etc.) often make more than editorial workers. Watson's study supports this, showing that mechanical men average $5 to $8 weekly above full-fledged news gatherers. As a further disheartening factor, he quotes a previous survey by Dr. Harold F. Clark to the effect that the maximum salary ever reached by the average newspaper man is around $2,500 a year. And in the small daily field—which Watson recommends as one of the best places for a young man to get his start—he cites the case of one city editor who makes $15 a week.

For from glooming over this sad scene, Watson tries hard to make out a case for the profession, particularly rural journalism. But even so, he cannot stifle a certain note of pessimism: "Whatever enjoyment the typical newspaper man may get out of his work, it is unlikely that he will get much pleasure out of the size of his weekly pay check"—a variation of the old city room legend: "Newspaper men get paid only half their salaries in cash; the other half comes from enjoyment of the work they do."

Many Nights Sat In Chair To Get Relief
Had Been So Miserable With Pain Over Her Entire Body Could Not Rest Or Sleep; Krugon's Results Pleasied Her

"I cannot help but advise similar sufferers to give Krugon a fair trial after all it has done for me," said Mrs. Frances Ray Paris, 308 E. Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

Mrs. FRANCES RAY PARIS writes: "For sometime I had been miserable with aches and pains settled over my body until at times I felt I could not endure it one moment longer. My right leg was badly affected and pained me so severely at night I would be forced to get up and sit in a chair. Many nights I would sit in this position the entire night to enable myself to rest. This condition had been brought on by a stubborn case of constipation and the failure of clogged impurities to be properly eliminated. I was greatly discouraged when I began Krugon but it seemed made for my case alone."

"It did not falter in beginning its action for I noticed a change right from the beginning," continued Mrs. Paris. "Those awful nagging pains began leaving my body and now it is wonderful to feel so good again and enjoy life as others. The surprising elimination of clogged impurities by regular bowel action made it possible for me to get relief from those former dreadful pains. I have only one regret concerning Krugon and that is that I did not know of it sooner to have saved myself so much distress and suffering... its ability in my case was outstanding."

Krugon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

Smelt Queen Kept Busy At Washington; Beulah Presents Competition

Washington, D. C.—Ever since her arrival in Congressman Fred Bradley's Waco cabin plane at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Miss Barbara Banks, Queen of the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree, has been busy almost every minute, posing for newspaper photographers, calling on celebrities and seeing various places of interest.

Cameras of the Associated Press, Times-Herald and Post were waiting at the airport when the plane arrived, hearing Miss Banks, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Duchaine and Pilot Bob O'Dell. The queen was presented with a large bouquet of Holland tulips, and was greeted by Congressman and Mrs. Bradley. A half hour later, she posed with the congressman for more pictures in the Congressional dining room kitchen, both attired as chefs.

Last evening, she was introduced at a dinner meeting of the Young Republican Congressmen's club, and this morning sat in the press gallery in the house.

Competition Appears
Competition for Escanaba smelt appeared on the scene when a delegation from Beulah, Mich., including Mayor A. L. Finch, arrived with one thousand pounds of smelt, and designated Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma as King of Smelt.

Tipped off by the Associated Press photographer concerning the plot to place a pretender on the throne, Congressman Bradley, wearing a crown, and Queen Barbara again posed for pictures, which were to be wire-photos for the AP with captions referring to them as the real "King and Queen of Smeltania."

Miss Banks and Mr. Duchaine appeared in a radio broadcast program over Columbia's station WJBY this afternoon and then the queen went to the Shoreham hotel for a dip in the swimming pool. The next event on the program was the All-Michigan smelt and farm products dinner in the Capital dining room, at which about three hundred congressmen, federal officials and newspapermen were in attendance.

The smelt jamboree plane left Chicago Tuesday afternoon, and an overnight stop was made at Cleveland, where Miss Banks was photographed for the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Detroit Next Stop
W. F. Doyle of the Michigan chain store bureau and James Desmond, New York, representative of business associates, public relations counsels for the National Chain Store association, dropped in today for the dinner. They announced that food chains of the country would conduct a special smelt sales campaign in their stores during the dipping season. Special posters and other advertisements will be issued to advertise the Escanaba smelt.

Arriving today also from Lansing were: Vernon J. Brown, auditor general, and James Thompson, Republican committee chairman. Colonel Floyd Evans, State Treasurer Miller Dunckel and Bruce Anderson, Lansing hotelman, were scheduled to hop off by train from Lansing. Murray D. Van Wagoner, Donald Kennedy and V. C. Steinbaugh of the state highway department came here for the dinner.

The jamboree plane will hop off Friday morning for Detroit, where the publicity tour party will appear in WJR programs at 6:30 p. m. and 12 midnight, Eastern Standard Time.

Briefly Told
Banks Close at Noon—The three banks of the city will close at noon today in observance of Good Friday and will remain closed for the rest of the day.

Library Closes Three Hours—The Carnegie public library will be closed today from 12 o'clock noon, until 3 o'clock, Miss Adele Hessel, librarian, announced yesterday, in customary observance of Good Friday.

Drive Nets $372.77—To date, the Easter Seal campaign drive has netted $372.77, William Warmington, treasurer, said yesterday.

All Centers Closed—In observance of Good Friday, all recreation centers in Escanaba will be closed this evening.

Mrs. FRANCES RAY PARIS writes: "For sometime I had been miserable with aches and pains settled over my body until at times I felt I could not endure it one moment longer. My right leg was badly affected and pained me so severely at night I would be forced to get up and sit in a chair. Many nights I would sit in this position the entire night to enable myself to rest. This condition had been brought on by a stubborn case of constipation and the failure of clogged impurities to be properly eliminated. I was greatly discouraged when I began Krugon but it seemed made for my case alone."

"It did not falter in beginning its action for I noticed a change right from the beginning," continued Mrs. Paris. "Those awful nagging pains began leaving my body and now it is wonderful to feel so good again and enjoy life as others. The surprising elimination of clogged impurities by regular bowel action made it possible for me to get relief from those former dreadful pains. I have only one regret concerning Krugon and that is that I did not know of it sooner to have saved myself so much distress and suffering... its ability in my case was outstanding."

Krugon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.
