GIGANTIC DEAL GETS SUPPORT OF ROOSEVELT

COTTON AND WHEAT TO BUY FOREIGN RUBBER, TIN

Washington, April 10 (AP)—A gigantic international swap of raw materials, which would have the double effect of building up the democracies' strength for any war emergency and of getting rid of some of America's troublesome surpluses of farm products, was projected here tonight with the backing of Roosevelt administration officials and powerful groups in the senate.

Under the plan, announced by Senator Byrnes (D-SC) and endorsed by the state and agriculture departments, the United States would trade cotton and wheat to England, Holland, Belgium and possibly other countries in return for rubber and tin.

Plan Favored Abroad Byrnes said the state department would formally propose the huge deal to the foreign governments in a few days. Other sources hinted that much international spawdwork already had been done, and that the proposal seemed assured of acceptance, but there was no official confirmation of this.

Byrnes estimated that at least 2,000,000 of the 11,000,000 bales of cotton the government now holds as security for loans to farmers could be disposed of in the swap. It was added that the war and navy departments wanted a minimum reserve of at least 224,000 tons of rubber, valued at about $85,000,000 and believed that for really adequate protection about 1,250,000,000 pounds would be necessary. A reserve of $65,000,000 worth of tin has been recommended.

"Dumping" Prevented The materials would be stored, and the countries obtaining them in the swap would be pledged not to dispose of them within five years, unless the prices went above specified figures. This would be designed to prevent price-demoralization through "dumping."

Rubber might be excepted from this provision, Byrnes said. The exchange agreement might, he said, provide "for the use of stored rubber during the period of five years, provided the amount used was immediately replaced by fresh supplies."

He said he had no information as to how much wheat might be involved in the deal. Byrnes stressed the farm relief aspects of the plan, and did not emphasize the aid it would give European democracies in preparing for a crisis. He indicated that the United States might be willing to talk such exchanges with other countries, but it was believed here that Germany and Italy had few spare products which are non-competitive with United States goods.

War Predicted Soon Byrnes said the program he announced had been tentatively approved by a group of senators representing the west and south, including Senators Lusk (D-III), LaFollette (Prog-Wis), Clark (D-Mo), Bankhead (D-Ala), and Russell (D-Ga).

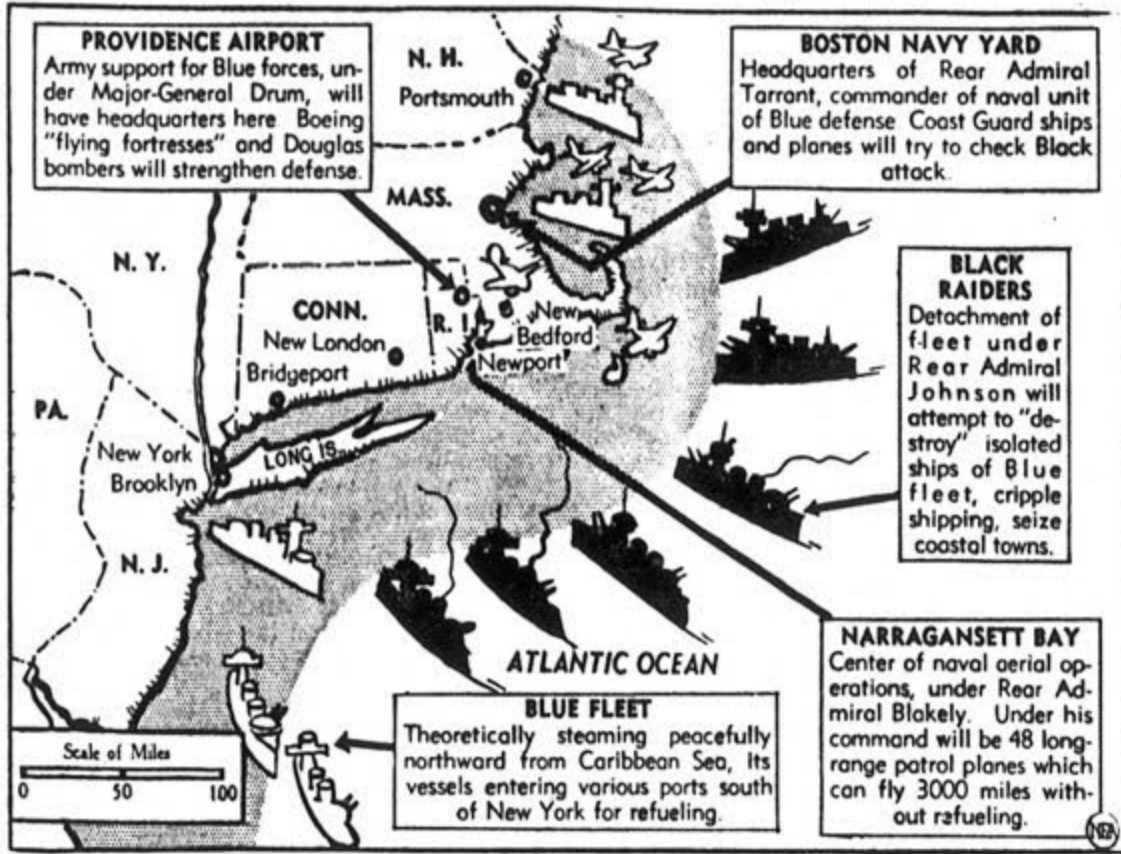

Asking whether the governments involved would be permitted to use the traded stocks if they be-

The purpose of the conference, the governor said, will be "to canvass the whole situation" with respect to liquor distribution methods and enforcement of liquor laws. Distillers, brewers, licensees who dispense liquor and beer by the glass and specially designated distributors and merchants who deal in packaged goods will be represented, on the one hand. On the other, there will be spokesmen for the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U.

John LaChapelle Dies Here At 69

JOHN LACHAPPELLE

A resident of Delta county for the past 52 years and of Escanaba since 1917, John LaChapelle, 1119 Third avenue north died here at 7:20 o'clock yesterday morning.

He was born on February 24, 1870, in the parish of St. Lin, Quebec, Canada, and came to the United States at 17. He settled at Bark River, where he worked as a farmer for 31 years.

LaChapelle came to Escanaba in 1917 and took over the St. Paul boarding house, which he operated until the time of his injury about seven years ago. At that time he retired.

He was married on August 20, 1887, at Bark River, to Helen Dorochoer, and he and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary here two years ago.

Active in church organizations, he was a member of St. Anne's church, the Holy Name society and the Way of the Cross.

The body was taken to the Allo Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and will lie in state there beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Anne's church, Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guertin officiating, and burial in St. Anne's cemetery.

Surviving are the widow, one brother, Napoleon LaChapelle of Escanaba, and the following children: Mrs. Rotie Hakes of Perkins, Joseph of Flint, Mrs. James Woodward of Boise, Idaho, Irene of Gary, Ind., and Mrs. Joseph Auger, Frank, Mrs. Arthur Derouin, Edward, Mrs. Catherine Calori, Mrs. Lawrence LaComb and Mrs. Vaughan Belanger of Escanaba.

Members of the Holy Name society will meet at the funeral home at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning to recite the Rosary.

Says Escanaba Should Cash In On Publicity

Where do we go from here? This is the pointed question that was put by Harold Gessner, chairman of the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree entertainment committee...

Mr. Gessner declared that the national publicity given to the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree has created a great demand for smelt, much interest in the forthcoming three-day celebration, and additional curiosity on the part of the vacationing public concerning the summer recreational attractions in this community.

He cited that the commercial fishermen this winter experienced a consistent demand for the silvery fish, and that the price has held up to a profitable level the past three months.

It means we must work and even fight for the things we feel are needed in this community.

Miss Barbara Banks, queen of the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree, also spoke at the Lions meeting and reviewed the highlights of her experiences during the week's trip to Chicago, Washington, Cleveland and Detroit.

Wm. J. Duchaine, publicity chairman of the Jamboree, described the various publicity-getting aspects of the good will tour, which was featured by the all-Michigan smelt and farm products dinner, sponsored by Rep. Fred Bradley of Rogers City.

Mr. Duchaine also talked at the Kiwanis club meeting at noon. Pictures of Washington, D. C., furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad, were shown at the Kiwanis meeting.

All persons planning on fishing smelt are reminded that it is necessary to have a general fishing license to take the silvery fish.

The reminder was issued yesterday by Clare Farwell, district supervisor of the state conservation department. Officers of the department will patrol all streams throughout the county and request to see permits, which sell for fifty cents.

The license may be secured from the following dealers in the county: A. A. Lundgaard, Cornell; Oscar Magnuson, Ensign; Gust Asp, Escanaba; Montgomery Ward & Co., Escanaba; Kibby Treiber (T & T Hardware) Escanaba; E. C. Voght, Escanaba; A. ## FREEDOM OF ACTION

This country wants peace, security and freedom to live the way it wishes to live. These three things may be compatible, but there are times in history when they are not. The second two are a definition of the first. The absence of war, accompanied by a condition of extreme insecurity and with the conditions of life dictated by somebody else or some other nation or some combination of nations, is not peace. It is either an armistice between wars or permanent slavery.

This country has a very good chance of maintaining peace, security and freedom to live the kind of society we ourselves wish to make. The condition of our maintaining these three, which together mean real peace, is freedom of action. Therefore, we ought to repeal the neutrality bill. We ought not to repeat it because we want to make the world safe for democracy. We ought not to repeat it because we want to stand behind the British and French. We ought not to repeat it because we want to be the Galahad of the world.

We ought to repeal it because through it, we restrict our own actions, in a world where we cannot possibly know what is going to happen from one day to the next.

We ought, in the second place, to maintain our freedom of action by making no definite commitments at this time. I think it would greatly help our freedom of action if the President would remove Mr. Kennon from his post in Great Britain.

We need an American Ambassador in Great Britain and not a British Ambassador. We had Walter Hines Page there before the last war. What we need there at present is another Charles Francis Adams.

The present British policy is still not at all clear. Both the British and the French are still being run by exactly the same people and exactly the same Cabinets, who are responsible for the present state of affairs that their countries are in. It is very difficult to have faith that France will pursue a straightforward policy as long as M. Bonnet is Foreign Minister, or that Britain may not in some fashion repeat the procedure of September, as long as Mr. Chamberlain is Prime Minister and Sir John Simon and Sir Samuel Hoare are in the Cabinet and Anthony Eden is not.

Chamberlain's attempt at this time to unite all the small countries and Russia in an anti-aggression front—that is to say, to restore the system of collective security which he, Sir John Simon and Sir Samuel Hoare did so much to destroy—may succeed. But Mr. Chamberlain's changing his mind does not automatically create a new situation. It puts the Poles in a very strong bargaining position, and exactly what the Polish policy is is not at all clear, from reading the Polish press.

Officially judging from the press, Poland is still playing both ends against the middle. We still do not know whether Chamberlain has purchased a few days or months of armistice or laid the foundations of a new system strong enough to maintain peace.

The editorial of "The London Times" which hints that some concessions might be made has been officially repudiated, but so was that other "Times" editorial suggesting that it might be a good thing to detach the Sudetenland—at the same time that Mr. Chamberlain was repeating his pledges to France and the French government was insisting on its intention of standing by Czechoslovakia.

There are two bills sponsored by Senator Pittman, and neither of them is wise. The provision that we should sell arms in time of war only to those nations that can pay cash and carry off the goods relegates the foreign policy of this country to a very low point of the grossest materialism. As a piece of legislation representing any permanent policy it is a fiasco.

His other bill, proposing that our government undertake in government plants to manufacture munitions for South America, tends, in the opinion of this column, to get us into a most terrible jam, for it puts our government itself into the business of supplying arms to South American countries who may possibly become embroiled with each other. And it may at some future date be the cause of subjecting our government to enormous pressures from outside.

Nor can this column wholeheartedly concur with the proposal that the President of the United States shall be given the power to decide who is and who is not an aggressor, and on that basis control the supply of arms.

In the world at present there is no longer any criterion as to what is and what is not aggression, because there is nothing remotely approaching international law.

And, again, our policy will be determined by our vital interests. If, for instance, we had unquestionable information that Germany intended to seize the Azores, I think our navy would believe it to be in our vital interests to get there first. But the German government would certainly regard this as an act of wanton, aggressive imperialism.

This column agrees with Mr. Stimson that the world is in the most serious crisis in at least four hundred years. It is not at all

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

CAST OF CHARACTERS
BETTY MARY JORDAN—President's young Border Patrol service secretary.
SHERIDAN STARR—Handsome Border Patrol officer.
HOPE KILDARE—Starr's fellow officer, also a bachelor.
LIT'S HARRO—Mexican smuggler.

Yesterd, Betty admits to herself that she is more than interested in the two Border Patrol officers. Meanwhile, they are looking for Barro and in distant Mexico aliens are being smuggled up to the border.

CHAPTER IV
"We'd better stake out the horses over here and make the rest of the way on foot," Sheridan Starr suggested. "If we top the next rise on horseback we could be seen."
"Right," agreed Hope Kildare. "And make a fine rifle target."

The two young officers made their mounts secure with ropes tied in a clump of scrubby desert trees. There would be a few mouthfuls to browse there as well as concealment in daytime, the men knew. Each man then hooked a quart canteen of water to his belt, and a rolled blanket containing a little food was strapped military fashion to each back. Cartridge belts were already filled, pistols strapped on. Each removed a rifle from a saddle holster and the two set out afoot, moving almost silently in the darkness. The night had only stars for guidance, and the threatening black bulk of the mountains.

"San Felipe Canyon properly begins six miles further up, where the new paved highway skirts the mouth of it," Hope remarked, barely above a whisper now.
"That's why aliens are beginning to use it," Hope can make it up the canyon at night, to the highway, be picked up in cars and be well on the way to Albuquerque or Denver or some other inland point by daybreak. See?"
"Sure. But it leads right on down to the fence too, doesn't it?"
"Yeap. And there's where we better wait. If we don't nab 'em soon as they cross the line they may take a notion to scatter."

"Okay. How many you guess'll certain that it is not the most serious crisis since the collapse of the Roman Empire. For we are dealing with a combination of military aggression plus revolution. And the revolution is one that cuts itself off from the totality of Western thought, from the law, from the ethical beliefs, and even from such conceptions of the state as have not been challenged since the fourth century—not even by Napoleon—and which works with political and propaganda methods which are unique to the modern world.

In a time like this, one is forced to live from day to day. Therefore, it is suicidal to the one's hands with legislation designed to deal with situations which cannot be foreseen. The neutrality act has already in its short existence been amended three times. It is safe to predict that if it is again amended it will be amended yet again and again whenever some new situation arises.

Meanwhile, by the very nature of things, leadership in foreign affairs is, actually in the hands of the President and the Secretary of State. Day by day we take diplomatic action, neutrality act or no neutrality act, which leads us in a certain direction and which will in the end be determining.

But while we live from day to day, the one rock on which our security stands is the maintenance of freedom of action. We ought to maintain that freedom on all three fronts: legislative, diplomatic and military. Maintaining it on the legislative front means that we do not weaken our bargaining power or our competence to act quickly by tying our own hands by laws.

Maintaining it on the diplomatic front means that we do not make commitments in advance of a very exact knowledge of what we are committing ourselves to.

Maintaining it on the military front means that we adopt a policy and stick to it. That policy is determined, in the first place, by geography. Our immense advantage is to be a continental power on two oceans, with a northern neighbor with whom we have had no quarrel for more than a hundred years, and with such resources that we can certainly defend this continent and even this hemisphere.

We ought never to allow air bases to be established by any potentially hostile government within bombing distance from our shores, and if it is perfectly clear that any attempt to do so will most certainly evoke immediate action it is extremely unlikely that the attempt will ever be made.

This does not mean that we will not or should not collaborate on occasion and in crises with those whose interests are synonymous at the moment with ours. It is too bad that so few people have ever read Washington's Farewell Address. He never recommended that we should always and on all occasions avoid temporary alliances. He recommended that we should make no alliances that we cannot make on our own will, and in accordance with our own interests. In other words, he recommended freedom of action.

TIGER-INDIAN DEAL BREWING

Averill and Campbell Possibilities for Detroit Roster

Augusta, Ga., April 10 (AP)—The management of the Detroit Tigers has not given up its efforts to obtain a seasoned major league outfielder from the Cleveland Indians. Informed sources disclosed here today that the Bengals took a day off from the exhibition game wars. The Tigers own a two game series against Atlanta, of the Southern association tomorrow.

Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings, plans to leave for Florida Tuesday for a conference with James Norris, Sr., owner of the club, on plans for next season.

Odds Are On Yanks To Grab Flag Again

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
New York, April 10. (AP)—A four-team scramble in the National league and a one-team ramble in the American are the words between the lines of the 1935 pennant race odds announced by Jack Doyle, an outstanding Broadway figure.

HOCKEY SERIES IS EVEN AGAIN

Capacity House Expected for Bruins vs. Leafs Game Tonight

Toronto, April 10 (AP)—Riding into town on a blizzard of mid-winter proportions, the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs tonight looked forward to playing before a capacity house of about 15,000 when they renew their struggle for the National Hockey League's Stanley cup at Maple Leaf Gardens tomorrow night.

The 2-5 odds on the Yankees, the shortest price in major league history, bear out the general idea that McCarthy's musketeers are already at the door of their fourth consecutive American league pennant, and will get in with a few home run knocks.

Michigan Sports In Short Squibs

(By The Associated Press)
Detroit, (AP)—Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings, plans to leave for Florida Tuesday for a conference with James Norris, Sr., owner of the club, on plans for next season.

York, at 12-5, is third. The Athletics and the Phillies are 100-1 shots in their respective leagues, and that price is more or less a benevolent gesture, like sending an invitation to someone you know can't come to the party.

Only about seven games separated the first four teams last year, and on the basis of their year's odds the 1935 race was a breeze.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have signed the vanishing Cletus (Boots) Poffenberger, who last year pitched for the Detroit Tigers when they could find him.

This is another tribute to the courage of skipper Leo Durocher, who already had Van Lingle Mungo on his mind. They will have Poffenberger to relieve Van Mungo now, but will need aspirin to relieve Durocher if Boots and Van team up for extra-curricular activities.

A few days ago Paul Wauer made the heroic statement that he would be in the Pirate lineup opening day "if the club needs me."

The Leafs backed up their pilot. Having squared the series with a 3-2 overtime triumph Sunday night, they predicted they would capture the two games here tomorrow and Thursday nights, then finish the best-of-seven game series at Boston next Sunday.

RALLY LIVENS STOCK TRADING

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES table with columns for Net change, Ind's, Halls, U's, Stocks, and various market indices.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, April 10 (AP)—The stock market drew rallying cards in today's contest and leading issues raked in gains of fractions to around 3 points.

The turn-around was attributed principally to the speculative belief that the list may have been oversold last week when prices fell to the lowest levels since last June.

Covering by some "shorts" who had piled up pleasing profits in the past month was a factor in the day's upswing. In addition, sizable buying orders for American stocks from abroad in the forenoon was a bolstering influence.

Markets at London, Paris and Amsterdam were still closed for the last of the Easter holidays. Shelving of impaired margin accounts brought a little irregularity in the morning, but offerings here were absorbed without much difficulty.

There was no appreciable change for the better in the European news, but some relief was evident in the financial sector over the fact nothing startling occurred during the week-end.

Dealing speeded up in the first half hour and the ticker tape lagged for a while. Thereafter the proceedings were orderly. Transfers totaled 1,646,570 shares against 1,640,570 in the two-hour Saturday session and 1,313,290 Thursday.

Bonds were selectively higher and commodities mixed. Wheat at Chicago was 1/4 to 1/2 of a cent a bushel lower and corn down 1-8 to 3/4. Cotton was up 5 cents a bale to 10 cents. Sterling and the French franc were narrow in terms of the dollar.

Market improvement came in the face of continued war tension abroad. Including reported decision of the British to offer independence guarantees to Greece and Turkey, the warning reported served on Italy that an attack on Corfu would be a cause for war.

BOND MARKET EDGES UPWARD

BOND MARKET AVERAGES table with columns for Net change, D's, U's, Foreign, and various bond indices.

New York, April 10 (AP)—Bonds generally edged their way upward today in an irregular market.

While many issues, lacking buying support, lost as much as 2 points or more, the loans which attracted the heaviest buying gained ground rapidly.

The most spectacular action of the day centered upon issues of Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Co. following announcement that the company and New York City had agreed upon terms for unification.

On transactions amounting to $294,000, face value, B-M-T 4 1/2's jumped 1 1/2 points to 79 1/2. The uneven character of the market was symbolized by Bethlehem Steel issues, the 3 1/2's of '52 advancing 3/4 at 97 while the 3 3/4's of '56 declined a like fraction at 100 3/4.

U. S. treasuries were irregular, with closing prices ranging from gains of as much as 9-32 points to declines of the same amount. Italian bonds showed strength at the close, while advances and declines in the issues of other nations were about even.

Transactions totaled $7,459,300 face value, compared with $7,258,300 last Thursday, the previous full day of trade. During ancient days, workmen in Great Britain were paid in salt.

Some of the selling of wheat was believed to be profit taking. Rainy weather over the domestic wheat belt and slow export demand also were bearish factors.

There was good commercial demand for wheat at around 8 3/4 for May and 6 1/2 for July, with much buying credited to hedge shipping and sales of elevators to millers. Minneapolis indicated four cent advance had improved. Winnipeg reported a demand for cash wheat there, with sales for the opening of lake navigation under way.

FIRE WARDENS NOW ON DUTY

Towermen Take Stations Sunday; Equipment Placed In Field

Five fire wardens of the Michigan department of conservation are now on duty in the Escanaba district, Clare Farwell, district supervisor, said yesterday.

Towermen and additional wardens will be placed on duty on Sunday, April 16. Preparations have been completed for the regular fire season and all equipment is in the hands of the wardens. Conservation department officials are hoping—though hardly expecting—that this year will be as good a year as last as far as lack of fires is concerned. All records were broken last year for the least amount of acreage burned as well as the least number of fires reported. Two factors in the record making event were involved, improved equipment and favorable fire season. Last summer rains were frequent and well spaced in order to keep fire hazards low. Help of the elements definitely is required if the record of last year is to be maintained.

Towermen to report on April 16 will be Henry Nelson of Rapid River, Miles Froberg of Flat Rock, Guy Ohman of Spalding, and Gerald Hendrickson of Stephenson. Other wardens to be added locally will be August Meyer and Bill Haglund, the latter who has been employed in the regional office of the department at Marquette during the winter months. Another Towerman will be added at Falthorn on May 1.

Communication

WPA MEETING
Editor, Daily Press:

In this morning's paper the article under the headline "Bradley Will Meet Workers" states "Congressman Fred Bradley—will meet Friday with the United Workers local." This is not entirely true. A group of workers laid off WPA met Friday evening in the City Hall and elected the committee, instructing them to arrange the meeting with A. M. Gilbert or his representative and to contact Fred Bradley. Those laid off WPA are about evenly divided members of the United Workers and members of other unions. The grievance committee of the United Workers has been invited to be present Monday evening. The impression that these meetings were meetings of the United Workers and that Bradley is to meet the United Workers is probably my fault for not being more specific in my conversation with Tom Bolger.

Driver Fined After Series Of Crashes And Loss Of Wheel

Frank Stokovich of Wells was ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $49.50 when arraigned in Justice George Carr's court here yesterday on charges of reckless driving, driving with out-dated license plates and driving without an operator's license. Alternative sentence was 40 days in the county jail.

Officers of the sheriff's department reported that Stokovich knocked down five mail boxes and a school sign and lost a wheel from the car he was driving on early Sunday morning. The wheel was lost on the Escanaba river bridge, where marks showed that the car jumped the curb on the wrong side of the road and lost a front wheel on the sidewalk. It proceeded off of the bridge on three wheels, coming to rest off the road at one side of the approach.

SEVERAL CAMP CHANGES MADE

New Enrollment Brings CCC Units Up to Par Figures

Several personnel changes have been made in civilian conservation corps camps throughout the Upper Peninsula forests. It was learned yesterday from P. A. Wohlen, supervisor of the Upper Peninsula forests.

The changes have been made to equalize the load of several men in charge of camp work.

Frank Crow, assistant supervisor, left Sunday night for Columbus, Ohio, for a preliminary inspection of the Wayne national forest, to which he has been named supervisor. He will return later in the week to make preparations to move to Columbus next week.

Edward Lee of Springfield, Mo., Yarmouth, England, exports to Europe more than 80 percent of the 1,000,000,000 herring landed there annually.

who is to succeed Crow here as assistant, is expected to arrive about April 13.

Staffs in several CCC camps in this district have been brought up to par with a recent enrollment of recruits. Local recruiting was done by Capt. Albert L. Cape of Camp Mormon Creek and the following boys were accepted into the corps:
