NAHMA YOUTH GIVEN HONORS

Gets Scholarship; Honor Roll for 4-H Club Work Announced

Joe Beveridge of Nahma, member of the 4-H club, has been awarded a four year scholarship at Michigan State College at East Lansing as the result of his work in handcraft, according to an announcement of honor winners for the 1938 year.

Eight Delta county 4-H club members were honored for their work during the past year, the list of honor winners discloses.

In clothing work, the following girls were named to the yearly honor roll: Betty Pilon of Wells in cotton work; Mildred Michaud of this city in girls room; and Dorothy Rudenberg of Gladstone in advanced projects.

In addition to Beveridge in handcraft, Robert Shallman of Bark River was named to the honor roll for work in the second year.

Margaret Pedersen was placed on the honor roll for farm gardening while Andrew Skrag of Stonington was on the conservation honor roll for farm mapping.

Joyce LeClaire of Gladstone was honored in second year canning work.

Members of the county 4-H clubs now are getting ready for summer work.

Baby Doesn't Mind Box-car Trip Here From West Coast

Sandra Eys, nine months old, blinked her big black eyes up at her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowan of 110 South 23rd street yesterday just as though she wanted to say that a trip halfway across the continent by box-car and hitch-hike isn't such a bad thing after all.

She was brought here by her mother, Mrs. Ruby Eys, and her sister, Susie, 16, from their home in Tacoma, Wash., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Cowan.

The trio left Tacoma the morning of April 10, in a box-car, and stuck to freight trains until they reached Miles City, Montana.

"We had a little trouble keeping hoboes out of the box-cars we rode in, but when they saw the baby they left us alone," Mrs. Eys said. Coming east from Miles City, the travelers alternated between freight trains and hitch-hikes to cover ground.

Trip Is Halted

The cross-country journey struck a snag at Minneapolis, Minn., when relief officials refused to permit the mother and two daughters to continue on their way. They were placed in a transient bureau, while relief officials attempted to locate their relatives.

The little party decided not to wait, however, and "skipped out" on the Minneapolis authorities early Wednesday morning. They arrived in Escanaba by bus Thursday night.

"The baby came through the trip better than either of us," Mrs. Eys said yesterday. "We both felt the cold along the way, and especially at Minneapolis, but Sandra didn't seem to mind it at all. She didn't even catch a cold along the way."

Mrs. Cowan is the eldest of the five children in her family, and Mrs. Eys is her youngest sister. Their mother, 80 years old, lives in Tacoma.

City streets, according to a recent survey, carry about 50 per cent of the nation's motor traffic, 33 per cent on state highways, and 17 per cent over country and township roads.

Chemurgy and Future

Milk Holds Possibilities From Buttons to Steering Wheels

This is the fourth of six stories on Chemurgy, science's contribution to the task of restoring the farmer to prosperity.

BY PAUL FRIGGENS
NEA Service Staff Writer

That 40,000,000,000 pounds of skim milk American farmers are pouring over the fence every year to their hogs might very well be clothing the nation.

It could be making "glass," telephone hand sets, steering wheels and scores of other plastic products as well.

Finally, if another war comes, this milk could be used to seal clothing against passage of poisonous gases.

That is how far chemurgy has gone to today in finding new uses for farm products. Out of the commonplace milk bottle have come enough discoveries to revolutionize the entire dairy industry.

There is, for example, synthetic milk "wool" which can now be made from milk casein. It is washable, will take ordinary dyes, is almost as durable as the natural product. It is not as warm, however, because it is solid, whereas real wool is hollow.

But chemurgy doesn't care about that. It doesn't want the western sheepman to get alarmed either. This synthetic wool would be used in finishing woolen, rayon and cotton textiles. It would be valuable in extending the world's inadequate wool supply.

12 YARDS
FROM 7 POUNDS

This is how it is being used in Italy today on a large scale. One large Milan company can make 12 yards of beautiful fabric with wool-like quality and finish from seven pounds of casein.

Extensive experiments have been made in the United States in recent months to produce this milk wool commercially. Drs. Earle O. Whittier and Stephen Gould of the United States Bureau of Dairy Industry hold the first American "public service" patents for this development. But a number of patent applications have been made by other American scientists.

Consider the chemurgic possibilities in this single discovery. Approximately 40,000,000,000 pounds of skim milk are available for processing in the United States annually. The U. S. Department of Agriculture. Of this amount 35,000,000,000 lbs. are used as livestock feed, less than 7,000,000,000 for human food and 1,000,000,000 for casein.

What might be done with 40,000,000,000 pounds of skim milk? Chemurgy can make cloth out of casein. It can make such plastics as costume jewelry, telephone hand sets, steering wheels, buttons. It has produced a cellophane type of paper from skim milk solids. If solid as well as fibrous products can be obtained from milk who can predict the multitude of articles that may eventually come to create new farm incomes?

So speculate the chemurgists. And they have ample grounds.

The by-products of milk are a fantastic lot. There is the rubber-like substance polymethylacrylate, closely related to organic glass. This is made from the straw-colored liquid called whey, what is left of milk after the casein is obtained.

It is transparent, highly elastic, tough and does not discolor in sunlight. Chemurgy already visualizes a number of uses for it but one of the potential uses may come in war. Polymethylacrylate seals clothing against the passage of poisonous gases.

SUGAR SAVER

One large commercial dairy plant is now able to produce lactic acid by fermenting milk sugar of the whey left from casein manufacture. This plant has found a market for all its lactic acid, but more could be made if new uses were found, says Dr. Harry E. Barnard, research director of the National Farm Chemurgic Council.

Recently, the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry has found it possible to make a resin from lactic acid, which promises to be useful in making varnishes and lacquers that are resistant to alcohol and water and that adhere to metals.

Still another notable achievement of the chemurgist is the utilization of whey for recovering valuable milk sugars. Laboratory experiments have also demonstrated the possibility of using large quantities of sweet whey in soups, fruit whips, and candy. A process has been perfected by which the small cheese factories can concentrate and preserve whey for sale to food manufacturers and confectioners.

Whey has also been found a good source of Vitamin G or riboflavin. A new product has thus been developed which is a complex of protein, calcium and phosphorus. Calcium deficiency is the most widespread deficiency in the American dietary.

CASEIN FOR PAPER

Milk then may be expected to go far in advancing the chemurgic idea. Casein is used very largely today by the paper industry, most of the 35,000,000 pounds produced annually going for that purpose. But since it is possible to use it in finishing textiles, chemurgists visualize important new markets for a large tonnage of surplus milk.

The plastic field may be extended at the same time.

As a matter of fact, chemurgy has gone so far that it has already developed two synthetic wools. It can make this cloth out of soybeans as well as milk.

Thus chemurgy believes either bossy or beans may restore prosperity to the farmer yet.

NEXT: Gasoline from corn, alcohol from oats, automobiles from soybeans.

ISADORE CASEY HURT IN CRASH

Neck Broken as Car Hits Ditch Near Gladstone on Highway US-2-41

Isadore Casey of Wells suffered a broken neck at about 11:15 o'clock Thursday night when an automobile in which he was riding, driven by Wendel Erickson, also of Wells, went into the ditch on highway US-2-41 about one mile south of the Gladstone city limits. He was brought to St. Francis hospital at Escanaba.

Erickson told Deputy Paul Cretten of the Delta county sheriff's department yesterday that he had been driving at about 60 miles per hour just before the crash occurred. He said he left the road on a curve, on the left side of the pavement, and the car plunged into the ditch and rolled over. The shoulder of the highway was soft at the point where the accident occurred.

Erickson and Casey were driving north towards Gladstone when the car left the road, at a point one mile south of the Gladstone city limits sign. The car, which was badly damaged, is owned by Norstrom Motors of this city, and Erickson stated that he planned on buying it yesterday.

No Entry Fee

There is no entry fee for the derby. No car may cost more than five dollars, and in most cases the cars cost practically nothing. Cars are built from materials picked up around the home—old pieces of wood, boxes, sheet metal, as well as parts of baby buggies and coaster wagons. Each boy or girl must build his or her own car. It is permissible to ask advice of parents, teacher or friend, but actual construction must be by the individual boy or girl. The rules are simple and designed to promote an exciting and sportlike race with a maximum of safety.

The official Soap Box Derby held each year in Akron, O., draws as many as 150,000 people.

Larger Ramp Planned

This year a higher and longer starting ramp will be built. This will enable the cars propelled by their own weight to travel a much greater distance and at a greater speed. Any boy or girl in Escanaba or vicinity between the ages of 9 and 15, inclusive is eligible.

Kiwanis Kar Klassic To Be Staged Again

It's Soap Box Derby time again! Boys and girls of Escanaba and vicinity will soon begin making racing cars in their basements, garages and school shops — remembering the first Soap Box Derby held in this city last year.

Last year thirty cars entered the local classics and from all indications there will be about 50 or 75 entries this year.

The local version of the famous Soap Box Derby is called the Kiwanis Kid Kar Klassic and is sponsored by the Escanaba Kiwanis club in cooperation with the Recreation Department and Scout organization. This year, in addition to the down hill gravity speed races, other events will be included such as: pushing races, backward races, and other novelty races.

No Entry Fee

There is no entry fee for the derby. No car may cost more than five dollars, and in most cases the cars cost practically nothing. Cars are built from materials picked up around the home—old pieces of wood, boxes, sheet metal, as well as parts of baby buggies and coaster wagons. Each boy or girl must build his or her own car. Rapid River Club To Hear L. F. Cligh

The Rapid River Townsend club No. 1 will hold a special meeting Tuesday night, April 25, at the Rapid River gymnasium.

The speaker will be L. F. Cligh of Kalamazoo. Mr. Cligh is a well known speaker throughout the lower part of the state and is sent here from Townsend headquarters. Orchestra, music and other entertainment will be on the program. The public is invited.

The pictures of last year's derby winners, Jerry and Bob McKie, appeared in the National Kiwanis magazine. Since that time the local Kiwanis club has received requests for information from Connecticut, South Carolina, Maryland, Wisconsin and other near-by communities.

Traffic officials report that for driving long distances speeds between 35 and 50 miles an hour are the least fatiguing.

The most common cause of lost compression in a motor is loose or ill-fitting valves.

OLD AGE CASES TO BE PUSHED

Investigators Added to Clean Up Pending Applications

Starting Monday in accordance with instructions from Dr. Philip A. Callahan, state director of the old age assistance administration, a drive will be made to clean up pending applications filed prior to and including January 1, 1939 in Delta county.

At present, there are approximately 235 pending cases in Delta county which the bureau expects to have completed by June 1. In Schoolcraft county, pending cases filed up to and including January 1 have been completed with the exception of a few applicants, who are out of the county. There is at present only one case pending in Alger county.

In order to complete the cases in the required length of time, Dr. Callahan is sending in additional help to this county. These visitors will be transferred temporarily from other counties and are operating under civil service appointment. They will be under the direction of Miss Viola Olson, district supervisor in charge of Delta county, who recently succeeded Miss Mary Rentebach. The latter has been transferred to the Houghton district.

587 In This County

In passing the recent $500,000 appropriation, the legislature earmarked the money, stipulating that it must be used by July 1, 1939 and only applications filed prior to January 2, 1939 could participate. All applications filed after will be held in abeyance until further funds are available. Those eligible whose applications were filed prior to January 1, and in need may participate in the appropriations recently passed by the convened legislature for aid to the aged in the state.

As of March of this year, the case load of the old age assistance bureau in Delta county was 587 with a monthly payroll of $8,242; Alger county having 217 cases with a payroll of $3,099.50; and Schoolcraft 216 cases with a payroll of $3,119.

For the entire state, there were 73,277 cases involving a total payroll of $1,233,434.50. The average check throughout the state was $16.83, according to the last report of the state bureau.

She was a member of the Lady Maccabees, and of St. Patrick's parish. The body, which was taken to the Allo Funeral Home to be prepared for burial, will rest there in state beginning this evening. New Clinical Laboratory Speeds Medical Service

Dr. Helen Lanting, graduate of the University of Michigan Medical school, is director of the new Escanaba Clinical Laboratory, which gives Escanaba and surrounding communities quicker and more improved medical service. Dr. Lanting is shown here in the laboratory.

Opening of the new Escanaba Clinical Laboratory under the direction of Dr. Helen Lanting was announced this week by Dr. John J. Walsh, owner. The unit, equipped with modern medical equipment, is expected to be of much help to physicians in this area. The laboratory is equipped to make tests of gastric and spinal fluids, sputum, feces; complete urine analysis; blood chemistry, count and cultures; and basal metabolism, as well as numerous others including allergies of all kinds.

Extensively Equipped The local laboratory, which is one of the finest in the Upper Peninsula, is located on the second floor of the Hughtin building at the corner of Ludington and Eleventh streets. It is equipped with a shock proof X-ray machine with fluoroscope, which is used extensively in examining the stomach, heart, lungs, bladder, kidneys and other inner organs of the body.

Of vital importance in disclosing heart weaknesses is an electrocardiograph which reveals, through photographs of the heart action, which part, or parts, of the heart is functioning improperly. Headed by Dr. Lanting Dr. Helen Lanting, wife of Dr. Roelof Lanting, director of the Delta county health department, received her degree in medicine at the University of Michigan in 1929. She served her internship at Muskegon and since has taken several post graduate courses, specializing in laboratory work. She attended the New York Polytechnic clinic several months ago and last fall spent a month at Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. She just recently returned from Ann Arbor, where she took a course in electrocardiography.

Dr. Lanting was born in Jamestown, Connecticut and was married in her junior year at the University of Michigan. She is the mother of two children, Gaynor, aged 10, and Dork, aged eight, both of whom attend the Franklin school. The Lanting family has resided in Escanaba for the past year and one half, coming here when Dr. R. C. Farrier, former head of the Delta county health unit, left for Louisville, Kentucky.

Belanger Hearing Dismissed Here

Hearing of Fred Belanger of Bark River before a representative of the Michigan liquor commission here has been dismissed for lack of evidence.

Belanger was summoned before the commission representative to answer charges of selling liquor to Indians, the case growing out of a series of complaints received by Prosecutor Michael J. Anuta of Menominee county to the effect that whiskey was being sold to residents of the reservation at Harris, Menominee county authorities have been making a drive against morals on the reservation, several persons have been arrested on statutory charges.

The Bark River man, who has a special distributor's license, told the commission representative that he had never sold liquor to Indians but that it might have been passed on to them by white persons, who purchased it from him. He pointed out that he had no control over the whiskey after it had been sold and that he was obeying the law in his sale. He indicated he was willing to cooperate with authorities in every way in an attempt to prevent liquor from reaching residents of the reservation.

Tourist Guide Work To Resume Monday Another allotment of funds has been received, and the Michigan tourist guide demonstration program, sponsored by the WPA, will be resumed Monday, it was announced last night at the local WPA offices.

Notice of the resumption of the project was received from Dexter McSwain, state supervisor of the tourist guide training program. Classes at Escanaba and Gladstone were suspended recently when funds became exhausted.

SWAMP MONEY RECEIVED HERE

State Payment to County Drops As Government Acquires Land

A state check for $9,083.20, representing the 1938 payment of "swamp money" made to the county by the state, has been received by Ralph R. Olson, county treasurer, and will be allocated to townships of the county early next week. The money is distributed in proportion to the assessment of the previous year.

The state payments to the county have been reduced steadily for the past several years, as a result of more and more state land going over to the federal government. The payments are made at the rate of ten cents per acre for all state-owned land within the townships.

Delta county townships have been receiving less and less of the "swamp tax" money for several years, as their share dropped from $12,000 to $11,016 in 1937 and $9,083.20 for 1938.

This year's payment will be distributed as follows:

Maple Ridge	$1,360.80
Nahma	228.30
Wells	81.90
Bay de Noc	32.00
Masonville	2,823.60

Escanaba	486.50
Bark River	323.60
Fairbanks	384.00
Ford River	769.70

An additional payment is made to Ford River township of $70.80 for game reserve lands.

Resort Operator Visits Escanaba

Lew W. Cleminson, Chicago, owner of the Northwoods Resort at Steuben, left Escanaba yesterday after a brief visit here and at Steuben in connection with his resort property.

Mr. Cleminson has appointed Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hennessey of Garden as managers of the Northwoods Resort, which will open for the summer season the latter part of May. A new well will be drilled and a 10,000 gallon reservoir tank installed at the resort this spring, he said.

Mr. Cleminson is secretary-treasurer of the Southtown Hospital corporation, which operates a community hospital in southwest Chicago. He also has a manufacturing laboratory, which produces various chemical products, including a polish that is used extensively by the principal airline companies.

Coal Stealing Brings $5 Fine

Louis LaPalme, Lake Shore Drive, was ordered to pay a fine of $5 and costs of $8.25 or spend 10 days in jail when arraigned in justice court yesterday.

LaPalme was arrested by Chicago and Northwestern railroad's special agent Hipkins, of Green Bay.

Eliot Sees Big Fleets Moving to War Bases

BY GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT In recent days of growing strain and war-tension, we have seen four important naval moves. Each of the movements is highly significant and has a direct bearing on the international situation.

First: The concentration of the British Mediterranean fleet in the eastern Mediterranean. Here, we were told that the object was to "protect Greece" or, more specifically, Corfu. But it is clear that in any Mediterranean struggle between Britain and Italy, the principal British object would be to blockade Italy, since the latter power is most vulnerable to this form of attack.

A close blockade of the Italian coast, considering Italy's strong air and submarine forces, is hardly practicable. But the object can quite as well be achieved by blocking both ends of the Mediterranean Sea. The British Mediterranean fleet, based on Alexandria, Haifa and Cyprus, is sufficiently strong for the eastern end of this process, even supposing that Malta proves untenable under air attack.

Moreover, British naval preponderance in these waters would accomplish other objectives:

(1) The severance of communications with Italy by the Italian forces now concentrated in the Dodecanese Islands.

(2) The protection of the Suez Canal against a sudden eruption from this source, or from Italy direct.

(3) The impeding of Italian communications with Libya, thus making a direct contribution to the defense of Egypt.

(4) The cutting of the only direct sea route from Italy to her East African possessions.

(5) Reassurance to Turkey, thus securing the vital passage of the Dardanelles, by which route only Rumania and Russia can be directly reached.

(6) Reassurance also to Greece, which can be supported in case Italy tries, from Albania, to drive overland by the old Roman road toward Salonica and the Dardanelles.

Second: The concentration of the French fleet at Toulon and its departure thence for an unnamed objective.

This is the western end of the Mediterranean blockade of Italy. It is in error to speak of an Anglo-French "naval concentration" in the Eastern Mediterranean, as the French can never afford to abandon their vital line of communications with their North African colonies.

Their present dispositions not only protect this line, but also: (1) Cut off the Italian forces in Spain, and Franco as well, from further Italian support; (2) Render difficult if not impossible any Italian operations based on Spanish Morocco; (3) Cut off the larger part of Italy's sea-borne trade, that through the Straits of Gibraltar.

Third: The announced move of a part of the German fleet to the coast of Spain. Both in London and Berlin this has been remarked upon as "assuring a period of relaxation," since it is stated that Germany would surely never begin a war with her fleet absent from its home ports.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The coast of Spain is quite obviously the war-station of the German navy. Indeed, the German admiralty could not, if it anticipated war, possibly permit the German fleet to be caught at home and there blockaded by the British, where it would be of no value whatever to the German war-effort. The Germans have not forgotten the lessons of 1914-1918.

Germany can not hope to fight the British home fleet successfully—her navy is nowhere nearly strong enough for that. Its larger ships contribute little or nothing to the security of the German coast against direct attack.

But in the Atlantic, operating on the British trade routes which are vital to the life of British industry and to the feeding of the British people, the German fleet could be a serious menace. Its numerous submarines, perhaps reinforced by Italian submarines, would compel the British to start convoying their merchant ships, as they did in the last war, while the German armored ships—the three "pocket-battleships" and the two newer battleships of the "Scharnhorst" type—could then attack the convoys, destroy the escorts and fall upon the merchant shipping.

It is to be remembered that these ships are specifically designed for this very purpose. None of them is capable of fighting in the line of battle against contemporary British or French battleships, but any of them is heavily superior to any British light ship except the three battle-cruisers, "Hood," "Repulse" and "Renown." Indeed, the "Scharnhorst" can probably get away from the latter two.

Fourth: It is announced that the main part of the United States fleet will return immediately to the Pacific instead of coming to New York for the World's Fair.

This is not to any means a peaceful gesture toward the foreign powers. It must not be forgotten that the one really powerful non-European naval power besides ourselves is Japan, which has always shown a tendency to take advantage of European crises to accomplish objectives of its own. Nor must it be forgotten there are normally only two military factors which can be disquieting to Japan: one is the Red army in Eastern Siberia; the other is the American navy.

The Pacific Ocean is just as truly the proper "position in readiness" for our fleet in time of crises as is the coast of Spain the proper war-station for the German.

For our fleet to be absent from the Pacific at such a time would be an invitation to the Japanese to attempt some further "coup," the accomplishment of some advance in the Philippines, in French Indo-China, in the Dutch East Indies or even British Malaya.

Checker Players Should Report At 7:00 On Monday

All those who intend to participate in the annual checker tournament to be held at the city recreation center Monday night beginning at 7:00 are asked to appear promptly and if possible with board and checkers. There will be two divisions, over sixteen, and sixteen and over.

Entries have been received from last year's senior champion, Dave Beauchamp, who also claims the upper peninsula championship by virtue of defeating all other contenders, and also from his son, Charles, who was last year's junior champion. Although official entries closed Friday, anyone who appears ready to play at 7 o'clock Monday will be allowed to participate.

DRIVE STARTED ON SANITATION

Health Department Is Concerned With Complaints

Concerned over a series of complaints being received by the state health department, the Delta county health unit in conjunction with the state organization is beginning an extensive campaign of inspection of tourist facilities.

County Sanitarian Henry Newkirk said yesterday that emphasis will be placed on inspection of resort facilities and indicated the only remedy to the problem is cleaning up conditions. He said a bill has been introduced in the legislature to provide for sanitary outdoor building program and stricter enforcement of sanitation laws. He indicated that resort owners generally have lived up to regulations but unsanitary conditions around small communities have caused much trouble.

A campaign of education is being conducted with roadside signs being employed to indicate approved establishments.

Campaign Against Dysentery

Sanitary conditions in Michigan's rural and resort areas are the object of a concentrated campaign being conducted by the state health department to safeguard residents and tourists against exposure to dysentery.

The control of dysentery through improved sanitation is a major public health problem, according to Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, state health commissioner. The various forms of dysentery found in Michigan are becoming more serious each year, and two dangerous types known as "Shiga dysentery" and "Schmitz dysentery" have recently been discovered in the state.

A survey conducted by the department in 1938 established that the frequent cases of dysentery reported in rural areas are caused by bacterial infection usually traceable to improper disposal of human wastes. Proper disposal of these wastes is the key to solution of the problem, according to Dr. Gudakunst, the state health commissioner.

The department with the approval of the State Medical society is sponsoring legislation to outlaw insanitary privies and to make maintenance of such toilets which menace the public health a misdemeanor. Such legislation is considered necessary in improving rural and resort sanitation.

The department's budget for 1939 provides for the employment of engineers, inspectors and laboratory technicians to work with local health officials in cleaning up insanitary conditions. The condition is state-wide, said Dr. Gudakunst, but the greatest problem is the resort area where sanitary facilities must be adequate to accommodate millions of tourists.

Committees Named for Camp Bidaban Program for 1939

Committee in Charge of Arrangements for the 1939 Program at Camp Bidaban, Escanaba's health camp for underprivileged children, were named at a meeting of the Escanaba Youth Council Thursday night. Al Geertz will serve as general chairman of the project, and Mrs. L. L. Farrell has been named as treasurer.

The camp and grounds committee will be headed by Carl Sawyer, assisted by Dr. Roelof Lanting, H. D. Brackett, S. J. Shank, Art Aronson, Berler Butts and John Stephens.

Mrs. E. J. MacMartin was named chairman of the finance committee. Working with her will be Charles Geesner, J. J. Bartella and Gust Asp.

Sponsored by the Escanaba Youth Council, Camp Bidaban provides a healthful vacation period for children who need the good food, rest, recreation and training which its staff provides.

De Pere Asks WPA Project For Smelt

De Pere. — In view of the interest that was aroused in smelt fishing at this point in Fox river this spring through the efforts of the De Pere Chamber of Commerce, negotiations have been initiated with the United States Engineering department district office at Milwaukee by the chamber in an attempt to have a WPA project set up for the construction of a walk around the so-called stone pile near the locks, and to illuminate the area.

The thought back of the project is to make a walk accessible to spectators, who could witness the fishing operations and permit purchases of smelt at the river.

Fred M. Smith, secretary of the business organization, estimated that the smelt fishing meant nearly $10,000 in trading to the city this spring. He arrives at this total by estimating the revenue of smelters, the cash spent by thousands who participated in the fishing and the money that was kept in this community because De Pere and Green Bay people did not go elsewhere to watch fishing operations, as they had done in previous years.

The most common leak in the cooling system of an automobile usually occurs at the hose connections.

tion is state-wide, said Dr. Gudakunst, but the greatest problem is the resort area where sanitary facilities must be adequate to accommodate millions of tourists.

Here and There

HOW conservationists of Michigan will feel about the reported settlement of the long dispute between the state conservation department and the Copper District Power company over the diversion of water from Bond and Agate falls on the Ontonagon river remains to be seen.

The Escanaba city council has passed an ordinance to regulate the use of bicycles in the city. This is a safety measure which has come as an outgrowth of the Safe Bike Riders club project instituted last year by the Kiwanis club.

Frank Crow, who has been assistant supervisor of the Hiawatha and Marquette national forest units since headquarters were opened by the Forest Service in Escanaba, has left for Columbus, Ohio, where he will be supervisor of the Wayne National Forest.

Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly has fulfilled his pledge that trick automobile license plates will be eliminated in 1940. There will be no individual initial plates issued to favored citizens, and he announces a new "scientific" system for the letters and numerals on the licenses.

Considerable damage has been done during the week to the old Stephenson dock at the foot of Ludington street. The dock stands as a symbol of much importance to Escanaba yachtsmen for in a way it was the beginning of the south shore yacht basin improvement.

America's Pine Reserves

IT is not surprising that architects and builders are emphasizing the value and beauty of western pine. Their efforts are not looked upon altogether as commercial, for western pine is rated as one of the Nation's finest species of wood.

The extensive pine forests of the Far Western States represent the principal source of soft-pine lumber. In that area are located the fine stands of Idaho white pine, ponderosa pine and sugar pine. For some years several of the sawmill operators in the western-pine region have adopted a conservation policy which aids in keeping their forest land productive. True conservation is best expressed by wise use and renewal of forest resources—an objective which in no way conflicts with well-conducted lumbering operations.

In selective logging, usually only the larger and more mature trees are cut, with provision made for the protection of the smaller trees from injury. The leaving of a few large seed trees helps in the re-seeding of cut-over areas. With these practices in effect, and under favorable conditions, natural reproduction is sufficient to make planting unnecessary.

Another important phase of the western-pine industry's forest conservation program is protection from forest fires. Relatively few fires are caused by logging operations; but the industry must protect its forest lands from fires caused by lightning or by hunters, campers, and others.

Since the western-pine forests are not near the seacoast, it was natural that their general utilization should await the building of transcontinental railroads giving access to markets of the Middle West and the East.

We Build Ships

IN a short period of three months the United States has climbed from fourth place among shipbuilding nations to second.

Britain, the United States, Germany, Japan—that is the ranking today. Once before, during the World War, the United States put forth a tremendous shipbuilding effort. Then it proved a tremendous element in victory.

Today this fast-growing merchant marine is destined to be a tremendous element in something. We don't know yet just what.

All we know is that in peace of war we shall feel safer with a great merchant fleet glad to turn it to the uses of peace if that is permitted, resolute to turn it to the backing up of the fleet and the supplying of our people and armed forces if there is no alternative.

In either case they help place the United States in a position where it can make its own choice without relying on others. "Ships Will Win the War!" shouted the posters in every shipyard in 1918. "Ships Mean Independence!" might be the legend today.

Other Editor's Comments

EXECUTIVE OR HANDSHAKER? (Grand Rapids Press) The words of Governor Luren D. Dickinson in his services for the late Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald at Charlotte last Sunday should be written indelibly in the record so they will not soon be forgotten.

This states in graphic form the problem that faces almost every democratic executive. It is not enough that the burdens of government should be placed on the shoulders of a governor—or a President. He is expected also to be the state's official greeter, the glad-hander, the host, the presiding dignitary at all state functions, the crowner of festival queens, the speaker at the banquets of all state organizations which can find a place in his schedule.

This is not the only country in which these demands exist. But in some lands a better system is employed. The French president, for example, is supposed to do little else than to grace social and official functions as a figurehead. Even then it is a wearying task—one from which President Lebrun shrunk when asked to seek a second term. It was estimated that in his first seven-year term Lebrun signed 300,000 state papers, attended 1,300 official functions, presided over 350 inaugurations, granted 7,000 audiences, traveled 650,000 miles, was godfather to 2,300 children and kissed 72 bouquet-carrying little girls.

The French presidents are able to do this only because the heavy problems of state fall on the shoulders of the premiers. And in England the royal family carries on the routine functions of honor, while the prime minister and his cabinet conduct the government.

In the United States, however, the President is expected not only to be a functionary but also to carry the burdens

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN Washington, D. C.—In the world-wide spread of price control of farm products, two dictatorial countries—Germany and Italy—have the most stringent measures to attain such a goal. Drastic steps taken to control prices in these countries, however, are designed to meet a different situation from that found in other countries.

Price fixing in Germany starts with the establishment of basic prices to producers for the different grades of quality classifications of a given agricultural product by regions, from which there are many specified variations, depending on the locality, season of year, freight differentials and other factors.

Both the form and objectives of price fixing have necessitated fixing prices at all points between producer and consumer. With prices no longer free to react to supply and demand factors, the German Government has found it necessary to take complete control of supplies and to direct their movement through all stages of marketing.

All producers, distributors, and processors of agricultural products are united through compulsory membership into market associations on a regional basis, with a central organization for each group of regional associations, which in turn is an integral component of the Reich Food Estate.

Infractions of the price-control system imposed by the Reich Food Estate are punishable by fines up to $40,000 or imprisonment, depending on the seriousness of the offense. The mechanism operates with absolute authority, which has suspended all freedom of expression by citizens. This is one of the principal objections to price-control measures now pending before the Congress of the United States.

An appraisal of the economic result of price fixing necessitates an examination of how German agriculture has fared in general under government control by the Reich Food Estate since 1933 and how consumers generally have been affected.

It would be difficult to estimate the degree of recovery since 1933-34 due to national control as distinguished from that due to inherent recuperative forces and, particularly during the past two or three years, that occasioned by the abnormally stimulated industrial upswing paralleling the huge rearmament program. However, German agriculture has made substantial recovery over depressed conditions, particularly in a greatly improved and generally stabilized price level for practically all agricultural products.

But while producers have benefited, price fixing has placed a heavy burden on industrial workers and those of the middle class not engaged in farming, thus defeating one of the main purposes of controlling prices. In some instances prices have advanced from 200 to 300 per cent. For example the domestic price of sugar is four or more times that of the world market.

There are only slight variations between price control in Germany and in Italy. Government price fixing of some agricultural products was adopted in Italy almost immediately after the advent of Fascism in 1922. From that time until the autumn of 1934 there existed two types of fixed prices—those set by the central government at Rome, which were applicable to the country as a whole, and those fixed by the various municipalities and used locally.

In June 1934, the regional Intersyndical Committees, which had originally been set up to study production and marketing costs, were empowered to issue maximum price lists. These lists gave maximum prices above which retailers are not to sell twenty-one principal consumption articles, twenty of which are food products.

In Italy, as in Germany, the object is to avoid the highest market which the law of supply and demand would maintain. Central and uniform price fixing for Italy as a whole, as distinguished from local and haphazard price fixing by each municipality, is comparatively recent. Before reaching its present all-inclusive development, however, it went through three different phases.

The first period in central price fixing was mainly political in nature and lasted from October 1935 to October 1936. It was started as a war measure during the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, for the purpose of preventing hoarding and speculation during the period of economic sanctions.

of an actual executive as well. It is not surprising that the presidency often sees the incumbents beyond the normal pace. Governors of the states have been seen to escape from the trying details of acting as executive and greater as well.

Governor Dickinson erected barriers to annoyance, first by announcing that he would not seek reelection and second by naming office guardians to keep out all but those with bona fide business. He will officiate at few public gatherings and probably will crown no queens.

His suggestion that this practice be continued hereafter is one that should be heeded. The job of being governor is enough to keep any man busy in his office alone. And if the state or the nation demands high official dignitaries for its functional occasions it should create them as separate officers.

Washington—With seven members of Wilson's cabinet in this country and only four in attendance at the regular meeting today, rumors persist that the number will be further reduced by resignation.

No speed records were broken yesterday, the first volunteer day for the Victory Loan; in fact, the results were somewhat disappointing to Chairman M. N. Smith and the other members of the city and county committees.

James A. Ridings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ridings, 323 South Elm street, arrived in the city yesterday morning after a long period of service overseas. John McCarthy returned Monday to Marquette after spending the Easter vacation at his home in this city.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Spectral Mary casts her shuddery spell over the ghost-story fanciers of Broadway. Spectral Mary figures as the heroine of this eerie tale, told to me five times in as many nights.

A New Yorker, with time on his hands, decided upon a fling at a dime-a-dance palace one idle night, and choose from the lineup of hostesses, a damsel whose name was Mary.

As they danced, he remarked that her hands were cold. "My hands always are cold," replied the girl whose eyes were moist and deeply blue. Her eyes were fascinating enough to imbue her partner with courage. He offered to take her home and she readily accepted.

In the taxi, he learned her name, and that her address was far in the Bronx. The cab was almost at its destination when Mary asked the driver to halt at a gloomy and dimly illuminated spot. She asked to be excused and stepped out a minute.

Ten minutes elapsed and she did not return. He grew nervous and stepped out to investigate. Crossing the threshold of what he took to be a park, he chilled all over to learn it was a cemetery. Besides, he had placed his overcoat over the young lady's shoulders who she complained that she was cold.

So he hurried back to the taxi and urged to be driven to her home. It was a half-mile off. A sleepy, middle-aged lady answered her ring. Apologetically, he explained that he had been taking Mary home and grimly told of her eerie disappearance.

"I know, young man," the old, white-haired lady said, "Mary does that often. You see, she died three years ago and she grows lonely in that cemetery over there. And so she goes where life is each night and then returns to her place in the earth!"

The next day he went back to the cemetery. There he saw the tombstone engraved with Mary's name. Resting over a corner was his overcoat.

Fair Pitching Manhattan's pitchers are pitching in for the World Fair trade. All sidewalk vendors of no-trumps, brass polish, neckties (five for two bits, gents!), car shines, etc., are banding for their common interests. And they have called a July convention under the banner of Clyde Hager, an explication who now gives the spiel before cabaret audiences, with enthusiastic response.

Hager has made the pitcher a popular figure to the café crowd and has removed the odium that has attached to that catch-as-catch-can profession over the course of years. His repeated admonition to his loitering stooge, "Get away from me, boy, you're bothering me!" has become almost as common on New York's lips as the ancient exclamation, "23 skidoo!"

Dictators did not steal the world; it was given to them. They were not born; people forced them into existence. —Dr. Joseph Stiro, at New York's Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas.

We are amazed to see the Communist Party call for a seditious trial against anybody. —Civil Liberties Union rebuke to the C. P. when it requested such proceedings against Gen. Van Horn Moseley.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Most significant development in the military movements on Europe's checkerboard is the fact that Gibraltar, symbol of British Empire solidarity, is in grave peril.

Gibraltar is more than merely the guardian to the Western Mediterranean, important as that is. It is like the British lion, a reminder that Britannia rules the waves, maintains naval bases throughout the seven seas, and that the sun never sets on the Union Jack.

The fact that that great Empire now must call upon the French fleet for aid is a terrific jolt. And if Gibraltar should fall, the effect upon Britain's attempt to build up a series of "defensive alliances" would be catastrophic. Smaller nations of Europe, losing confidence in a disintegrating Empire, would grab for Hitler's coat-tails.

Inside fact is that Gibraltar now is almost a pushover for German-Italian-Spanish forces. Secret of its weakness is the big guns which the Germans have hidden in the hills behind Algeiras. Trained on Gibraltar, these have an all-important advantage. They can fire down. French and British naval guns in the harbor below must fire up.

—NON-NEUTRAL SPAIN—

Fundamental mistake made by the British was ever to let these guns be hidden in the hills. For years, British policy was to keep Spain weak, friendly and neutral. This was the real secret of Gibraltar's strength. Its massive rock and concrete battlements were not nearly as important as a neutral Spain.

Today, however, Spain is not neutral, and not only are German guns hidden in the hills behind Algeiras, but German-Italian and Franco forces are massed near the Rock in Spain, with more such troops across the straits in Spanish Morocco.

The story of how the British allowed themselves to be maneuvered into such a weak position is the story of British policy during the Spanish war.

—BRITISH STUPIDITY—

It goes back to the 1936 elections which put the recent Republican Government into power. These elections were received with misgivings by British investors, who owned the iron and mercury mines, the steel mills and much of the industry of Spain. What they had to do with plotting the revolution is not yet clearly known, but it is known that General Francisco Franco, who now aids Hitler in menacing Gibraltar, was flow from the Canary Islands to Spanish Morocco in a British airplane, operated by a British pilot, and paid for by interested Britishers.

After the revolution broke, the British in Gibraltar also played an important part in aiding Franco's insurgents. When the Republican fleet, fleeing from Tangier, put in at Gibraltar, the British refused it fuel. Simultaneously, Italian pilots and Spanish aviators, trained in Italy, landed at Gibraltar from Italian ships, and crossed to Spanish territory. The gate between Spain and the Rock, closed at night, was opened especially for them.

British sentiment in Gibraltar was overwhelmingly for Franco and his Italian allies. This was attributed partly to the fact that when war started, British hunters could no longer get into Spanish territory to exercise their fox hounds. So their hounds got fat. This was a near tragedy until the Fascist governor, hearing of the British plight, permitted the hounds to come on Spanish soil for daily runs. After that British sentiment in "Gib" was more pro-Fascist than ever.

—CHAMBERLAIN POLITICS—

This sentiment, however, merely reflected that of the Chamberlain Government in London. The Prime Minister himself gave his views to Harold Laski with the utmost frankness.

"If the Republican Government wins in Spain," he said, "it will strengthen the Popular Front Government in France. And the combined effect of this will probably give us a Labor Government in England."

Part of Chamberlain's policy was the Non-Intervention Committee, which proposed a policy of sending munitions to neither side. But honest diplomats long have recognized that the Committee was largely a blind to prevent arms shipments to the Republican Government. Franco, the Chamberlain Government knew, could get ample supplies from his partners in Berlin and Rome.

—U. S. BACKS BRITAIN—

Hitherto unwritten history of the British fiasco in Spain is that Chamberlain's policy was registered directly with the U. S. State Department. Chamberlain made it all too clear that he did not want the U. S. arms embargo lifted, and the State Department acquiesced.

This was made known exactly one year ago when Senator Borah powerful member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and New York Supreme Court Justice Pecora, a close friend of Roosevelt's, came to see him separately on the Spanish embargo. Both urged immediate action.

HOW conservationists of Michigan will feel about the reported settlement of the long dispute between the state conservation department and the Copper District Power company over the diversion of water from Bond and Agate falls on the Ontonagon river remains to be seen.

The Escanaba city council has passed an ordinance to regulate the use of bicycles in the city. This is a safety measure which has come as an outgrowth of the Safe Bike Riders club project instituted last year by the Kiwanis club.

Considerable damage has been done during the week to the old Stephenson dock at the foot of Ludington street. The dock stands as a symbol of much importance to Escanaba yachtsmen for in a way it was the beginning of the south shore yacht basin improvement.

America's Pine Reserves

IT is not surprising that architects and builders are emphasizing the value and beauty of western pine. Their efforts are not looked upon altogether as commercial, for western pine is rated as one of the Nation's finest species of wood.

The forty-niners, in their rush to the West in search of gold, were the first white men to penetrate the depths of the vast western-pine forests of the United States.

pine, ponderosa pine and sugar pine. For some years several of the sawmill operators in the western-pine region have adopted a conservation policy which aids in keeping their forest land productive.

In selective logging, usually only the larger and more mature trees are cut, with provision made for the protection of the smaller trees from injury. The leaving of a few large seed trees helps in the re-seeding of cut-over areas.

Another important phase of the western-pine industry's forest conservation program is protection from forest fires. Relatively few fires are caused by logging operations; but the industry must protect its forest lands from fires caused by lightning or by hunters, campers, and others.

Since the western-pine forests are not near the seacoast, it was natural that their general utilization should await the building of transcontinental railroads giving access to markets of the Middle West and the East.

Lumber production in the western-pine region increased steadily until 1925, when for the first time it exceeded five million board feet.

All producers, distributors, and processors of agricultural products are united through compulsory membership into market associations on a regional basis, with a central organization for each group of regional associations, which in turn is an integral component of the Reich Food Estate.

Both the form and objectives of price fixing have necessitated fixing prices at all points between producer and consumer. With prices no longer free to react to supply and demand factors, the German Government has found it necessary to take complete control of supplies and to direct their movement through all stages of marketing.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN Washington, D. C.—In the world-wide spread of price control of farm products, two dictatorial countries—Germany and Italy—have the most stringent measures to attain such a goal.

BY GEORGE ROSS New York—Spectral Mary casts her shuddery spell over the ghost-story fanciers of Broadway.

So he hurried back to the taxi and urged to be driven to her home. It was a half-mile off. A sleepy, middle-aged lady answered his ring. Apologetically, he explained that he had been taking Mary home and grimly told of her eerie disappearance.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Most significant development in the military movements on Europe's checkerboard is the fact that Gibraltar, symbol of British Empire solidarity, is in grave peril.

Gibraltar is more than merely the guardian to the Western Mediterranean, important as that is. It is like the British lion, a reminder that Britannia rules the waves, maintains naval bases throughout the seven seas, and that the sun never sets on the Union Jack.

The fact that that great Empire now must call upon the French fleet for aid is a terrific blot. And if Gibraltar should fall, the effect upon Britain's attempt to build up a series of defensive alliances would be catastrophic.

Inside fact is that Gibraltar now is almost a pushover for German-Italian-Spanish forces. Secret of its weakness is the big guns which the Germans have hidden in the hills behind Algeiras. Trained on Gibraltar, these have an all-important advantage. They can fire down. French and British naval guns in the harbor below must fire up.

Fundamental mistake made by the British was ever to let these guns be hidden in the hills. For years, British policy was to keep Spain weak, friendly and neutral. This was the real secret of Gibraltar's strength. Its massive rock and concrete battlements were not nearly as important as a neutral Spain.

Today, however, Spain is not neutral, and not only are German guns hidden in the hills behind Algeiras, but German-Italian and Franco forces are massed near the Rock in Spain, with more such troops across the straits in Spanish Morocco.

The story of how the British allowed themselves to be maneuvered into such a weak position is the story of British policy during the Spanish war.

It goes back to the 1936 elections which put the recent Republican Government into power. These elections were received with misgivings by British investors, who owned the iron and mercury mines, the steel mills and much of the industry of Spain.

After the revolution broke, the British in Gibraltar also played an important part in aiding Franco's Insurgents. When the Republican fleet, fleeing from Tangier, put in at Gibraltar, the British refused it fuel. Simultaneously, Italian pilots and Spanish aviators, trained in Italy, landed at Gibraltar from Italian ships, and crossed to Spanish territory. The gate between Spain and the Rock, closed at night, was opened especially for them.

British sentiment in Gibraltar was overwhelmingly for Franco and his Italian allies. This was attributed partly to the fact that when war started, British hunters could no longer get into Spanish territory to exercise their fox hounds. So their hounds got fat. This was a near tragedy until the Fascist governor, hearing of the British plight, permitted the hounds to come on Spanish soil for daily runs.

After that British sentiment in "Gib" was more pro-Fascist than ever.

This sentiment, however, merely reflected that of the Chamberlain Government in London. The Prime Minister himself gave his views to Harold Laski with the utmost frankness.

"If the Republican Government wins in Spain," he said, "it will strengthen the Popular Front Government in France. And the combined effect of this will probably give us a Labor Government in England."

Part of Chamberlain's policy was the Non-Intervention Committee, which proposed a policy of sending munitions to neither side. But honest diplomats long have recognized that the Committee was largely a blind to prevent arms shipments to the Republican Government. Franco, the Chamberlain Government knew, could get ample supplies from his partners in Berlin and Rome.

Hitherto unwritten history of the British fiasco in Spain is that Chamberlain's policy was registered directly with the U. S. State Department. Chamberlain made it all too clear that he did not want the U. S. arms embargo lifted, and the State Department acquiesced.

This was made known exactly one year ago when Senator Borah powerful member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and New York Supreme Court Justice Pecora, a close friend of Roosevelt's, came to see him separately on the Spanish embargo. Both urged immediate action.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

THE CRISIS
I think there is no question that the President's dramatic week-end move was precipitated by knowledge of a very acute crisis. Mr. Knickerbocker, of the Hearst press, who is an exceptionally well informed foreign correspondent, reported on April 17 that President Roosevelt had received a verbatim transcript of a conversation between Hitler and one of his most trusted aides, ostensibly disclosing the Fuehrer's real ambition.

The Fuehrer is reported to have said: "I intend to take the whole of Czechoslovakia and by autumn to have brought into a great National Socialist Federation—under the leadership of the Reich—Poland, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Greece and possibly Turkey. The countries which willingly consent will be welcome; those which resist will be crushed."

The Fuehrer counted on being able to neutralize Soviet Russia, and, protected at his rear, he would then be able to attack France and Britain. He counted on a short war which would end in the delivery of the British and French fleets to the Germans.

The last stage would be the establishment of a Pax Germanica in the West, with an overpowering sea force. With the aid of Japan, America would be next in line.

Utterly fantastic as this program sounds, it is the belief of this column that it very closely approximates what is, or has been, in the minds of the axis powers.

For weeks there have been leaks to disclose some such program. The extreme nervousness of the Netherlands, a nation which is not given to hysteria, has indicated that that nation has expected a possible "taken occupation" while Japan struck at the Dutch East Indies.

The Swiss, who are also certainly not hysterical by nature, have been completely prepared for months for war in the West.

And the whole program of Hitler, as envisaged, written down and supported for fifteen years, has been world power.

The alliance with Italy can only make sense, from Mussolini's point of view, in the contemplation of war in the West, for Mussolini has made enormous sacrifices to Hitler.

Gone is the influence in central and eastern Europe which he spent years in building up, and which was exemplified in the pact of Rome, under which Italy, until the conquest of Austria, enjoyed special political and trade privileges in Austria and Hungary, and for which, after the assassination of Dollfus, Mussolini was actually willing to go to war with Hitler.

The enormous German and Italian unrelenting intransigence over Spain; the fact that the Germans and Italians are, at this moment, in possession of the most strategic military points in Spain, and in control of a large part of the Spanish economy; and the report that Germany has sent two or three pocket battleships with cruisers and submarines to Spanish ports, indicating that Germany has learned a lesson from the last war and does not intend to be bottled up in the North Sea and the Baltic; the sudden seizure of Albania by Italy, strategically important as a point from which to squeeze both Jugoslavia and Greece, are all parts of the picture.

And the sudden sending of the American fleet back to the Pacific was certainly not done without the Navy's advice, and the Navy has, perhaps, the best intelligence department which we possess.

Major Elliot's article in this month's "Current History" calls attention to the importance of the new German Navy, and its collaboration with the German air force.

Analyzing the composition of the new German fleet, Major Elliot comes to the conclusion that it cannot possibly be intended as an instrument against the Soviets and that it is indeed "perfectly silly to contend, as German official explanations have attempted to contend, that it is for use against Russia." There is no conceivable use for any such force of submarines in the Russian-German naval situation.

"The submarine," says Major Elliot, "has its principal use in the field of commerce destroyers." The nation which possesses sea-borne commerce which is vital to her, and without which she cannot live, is Britain.

And Major Elliot recalls the Emden and the enormous damage which that single German cruiser did before she was finally brought to boot by forty destroyers.

He thinks that the German navy today, being precisely adapted to a specific purpose and a specific enemy, is far more dangerous than the German navy in 1914.

No one can contend that a world war fought on the major sea lanes of the world is of no concern to the United States of America, or that the possible victory of Italy, Germany and Japan, the two former powers united in a revolutionary philosophy hostile to everything that this country has ever stood for, could be a matter of indifference to the United States; or that, given such an outcome, this country would be safe.

If, then, the President uses every possible diplomatic instrument to avert a world war, by warning, by clarifying the issue,

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Betty sends a letter to the officers, telling them of her discovery that a woman and child are involved in smuggling. Then she signals that she is safe.

CHAPTER XIV
Betty Mary deduced accurately that El Casino Tecolote and The Place of the Sleeping Monk, two establishments with excellent music and excellent cuisine, really were Luis Barro's favorite hang-outs when he was in Juarez. But, he appeared to have business out of town a great deal of the time.

Betty liked The Place of the Sleeping Monk better. It was quieter than the first spot. It did not have a big gambling room adjoining. It seemed to enjoy a better class of customers from among the many tourists who came across from El Paso.

A detail too was the fact that Luis Barro had ordered there to "show Senorita Jordan every possible courtesy whenever she comes in." She discovered that his order meant she could never pay her check, nor indeed pay for anything, despite the meticulous service they gave her. In a way she didn't like this, but in her capacity of detective she knew it was a valuable lead.

By sketching there often, and eating there at least once a day, she struck up a nominal friendship with the manager who sat in the cashier's booth. The fifth day of her stay in Mexico, she picked a moment in mid-morning when the place was almost empty and when Luis Barro had not been around for more than a day, then opened her purse in the cashier-manager's presence.

"Oh, dear, I must have left my compact in the hotel," she lamented.

As a woman would, she dished out all manner of purse trinkets, Lipstick, Handkerchiefs, Pencils, Coin purse, Note pad, Tiny scissors, Nail file. A snapshot of her father, Mirror. And—a .22 caliber rifle cartridge. She called his attention to the cartridge silently with her eyes.

Instantly the man turned to his cash register and pressed a button.

"Cling-clang!" the machine sounded, and a "No Sale" sign popped up. From a drawer he calmly took a .22 cartridge of his own, fingered it a moment for her to see, dropped it back and closed the drawer. Betty Mary felt her pulse quicken. This was the third person today to whom she had exhibited her cartridge, and this time it had worked. The other two, a waiter and the traffic policeman outside El Casino, had shown no response.

"You—you are one of us," she murmured tentatively.

"No one is dear, but is best not to talk too much in a public place," he suggested. "Luis gets careless, I think. He is too sure of himself."

"He is quite capable," Betty Mary said.

"Oh of a certain, senorita! But caution is always good."

"Surely, senor. I am, uh, new in his—his organization, as you doubtless know?"

"Don Luis never speaks to me of his helpers," the cashier said. "I am interested in narcotics," she said quite frankly. "I know where perhaps a cargo worth a hundred thousand can be had. Cheap."

"A hundred thousand pesos? For how much?"

"No, dollars. American dollars. For a tenth of that. Can—can Don Luis send it safely across? Do you think I should tell him where he might contact this cargo? I do not wish to—uh, interfere too much in his plans and affairs. He might not even be interested in narcotics now. Heretofore I have helped only with aliens."

"Ha! Senorita is indeed new by suggesting conciliation in advance of it. It seems that he ought to be strongly supported, regardless of other political differences."

Well, it was not yet noon. She could cross to El Paso and contact Sheridan and Hope about it. She hadn't been there in three days, she could legitimately go and call at an art store, a restaurant, then a picture show, without losing her front of being a tourist on leisurely vacation. Tourists did cross back and forth every day.

During these last few days, Sheridan Starr and Hope Kildaro had asked for duty at the international bridge where they could be near if Betty Mary needed them, and also be on the lookout for the woman smuggling dope. The woman who Betty Mary's letter had hinted, worked with a child.

It was their task to inspect every vehicle that crossed during their shift on duty. They must investigate everything that looked suspicious, must inspect passengers, pry into packages, question foreigners, on every street car and automobile that came along their bridge. It was a task that required constant alertness.

They saw the Tafoya woman every day and studied her covertly each time. She had a little girl perhaps five years of age, named Angelina. Angelina invariably carried her dolly, sometimes a big baby doll, sometimes a big teddy bear.

"She's been arrested and searched twice," Hope kept muttering about her. "And yet they didn't find anything on either mother or girl. We must be on the wrong track somehow."

"That kid's cute," Sherry ventured, the fourth morning of their vigil. "Always cuddles a doll; has a new one every time she comes over and—SA-A-A-Y! My lord, Hopey!"

"Huh? What's hit you?"

"Sa-a-y! Didn't you tell me you held that little kid's doll one day while the matron was searching her and her mother? Didn't you?"

"Yeah. But what—?"

"Well listen, Hopey, that kid has had a new doll almost every day! But my little niece back home, they cling mostly to just one doll, had a favorite they liked to wag around! That Tafoya woman—and little Angelina's new dolls—"

"Who-e-w!" breathed Hope, in sudden understanding.

They confiscated more than a gallon of the little cocaine capsules used for doll stuffing, when they arrested Mrs. Tafoya and daughter next morning for the third time. The size capsule that retails sub rosa for about $2 each.

Actually, apart from its drama and suddenness, which gave it a sensational aspect, there is nothing in the President's message to the world which is not completely consistent with the policy of the United States ever since the World War.

The drama and sensationalism are necessitated by the way in which modern politics is played. No democratic nation was the inventor of this new international politics.

But the United States has, for twenty years, participated in every attempt to bring about disarmament.

The Secretary of State under Coolidge was a co-author of the pact of Paris, under which the nations of the world gave a solemn covenant not to resort to war as an instrument of national policy.

The United States did not sign the treaty of Versailles, and is not committed to the maintenance of the status quo anywhere, but unless all our words for twenty years have been merely pious platitudes—and if they are we should stop uttering them, for there is no place in the world at present for platitudes—then we are committed by word on word and deed on deed to opposing invasion and aggression as a means of rectifying injustices.

It is the belief of this column that the President's move was a brilliant stroke of diplomacy, and that if anything can stop a catastrophe which has been approaching visibly for years it will be an active policy and not a passive one.

with the grand one! He has sent in more contraband chemicals than men. He ships it in sacks of beans. He ties it on the underside of freight cars that cross on the railroad. He even has little boys transfer it to the American side when they go wading in the Rio Grande! He is the smart one, this Don Luis!

"Then when I am sure I can get the new cargo for him, I will tell him," Betty Mary was not looking at the man, lest her eyes reveal something of the excitement she felt. "A deal of this size should be profitable to us all."

"He would send it by submarine no doubt. It is the safest way."

"Oh. You mean—?"

"Si senorita. To the Peraltas. They have—hark, here are people coming! We talk too much!"

He turned to his cash register again, rang up a sum as if for a meal, and was giving Betty Mary some small change when four people filed in. Betty Mary took the money and departed.

By submarine?

The Peraltas?

She wished she had learned more! She couldn't quite put two and two together here, but she had enough to know that Luis Barro had several avenues for smuggling dope, and that his "submarine" was considered best. Would it mean employment of an actual submarine off the Pacific Coast, up to California? Hardly that, she knew; it would be far too expensive as well as impractical.

INDIAN WOMAN HURT IN CRASH

Charged With Drunk Driving After Car Hits Hole In Street

Mary Laiselle, Indian woman of Curtis, collected into and bruises about the head and body when the automobile which she was driving Thursday night crashed through the barricades and into the hole on Deer street, near the Manistique river flume, where city workmen are laying a new culvert.

Yesterday the woman was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and her arraignment was scheduled for Friday afternoon.

The mishap occurred at nine o'clock Thursday evening. The hole was barricaded and flares were burning. The front end of the automobile shot across the opening, but the rear wheels hung against the side of the hole. The automobile was badly damaged, and the woman badly shaken up.

She was removed to the Shaw hospital for treatment, and later was taken to the county jail pending a formal charge.

The mishap was investigated by members of the city police department and a complaint charging the driver with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor was signed by Chief of Police Roy Anderson yesterday.

LEGION IDEALS OUTLINED HERE

District Officers Speak At Smelt Dinner Thursday

Members of the American Legion, Legion Auxiliary and invited guests attended a smelt dinner at the Legion Cottage Thursday evening and heard district officers of the Legion outline the program of the war veterans organization.

Adjutant Addison Algure, of Gladstone, explained some of the objectives of the American Legion, and urged continued close cooperation between the local post and Manistique businessmen. He read the preamble to the constitution of the American Legion, showing the high ideals of the organization and its devotion to service.

District Committeeman Beaudoin, of Stephenson, told of the work being done in Michigan by the American Legion, including the sponsoring of the Wolverine Boys State at Lansing.

He complimented Manistique in the interest groups have taken in the program, pointing out that Manistique's seven representatives at Boys State last year gave this community the highest representation, on a population basis, of any community in Michigan.

Efforts made by the Manistique Post to have a national guard company of engineers located at Manistique were revealed at the meeting by Commander Harvey Quick. Quick and Major Biebesheimer pointed out that other cities are also seeking to have the national guard unit assigned to their communities, but Manistique has at least an even chance to get the unit located here.

The appreciation of businessmen in their invitation to attend the smelt feed was made upon their behalf by Edward Jackson. Mrs. Lottie Weber, Legion Auxiliary president, revealed that the Manistique Post now has its largest membership in history and the gains made during the past year give the local post a good opportunity for prizes at the state convention to be held at Escanaba.

Menominee Track Meet Will Be Held April 29

Many new faces should appear in the medal winners at the conclusion of the second annual Menominee county track meet which is to be held at Powers on April 29, as many of last year's men who placed in the first four places have graduated.

The principal point getter to be missing will be Richard Shanks who won three first places last year for the Hermansville Redskins besides running anchor man on the winning relay team. Shanks had a field day last year at Menominee when he won the 100, 220, high jump, and ran the last lap on the 880 yard relay team. Another point getter who will be missing on the Hermansville team is Carlson who won both the 880 and the pole vault. In fact, most of Hermansville's championship team has graduated and Harold Cass, track coach, will have to depend on freshmen and sophomores to carry on.

Coach Arne Nelmark of Harris has lost most of his second place team and he, too, will have to rebuild his team in order to cop the trophy. The team conceded the best chance to win is Stephenson where Coach Joel Muleki has all of his team back from last year with the exception of Raboin. This team placed second in the U. P. finals at Houghton finishing only a few points back of the championship Eben team. Daggett which placed last in the meet last year should be stronger with the added experience. Powers will depend on Donald Larson as their principal point getter. Larson was kept out of his best race last year, the mile, because he was too young, but has reached his sixteenth birthday and should have things pretty much his own way in that event this year.

General Good Records

This is only the second year that the meet has been held but already several records have been hung up which should stand for a while. YANKEES SHOW BAT DYNAMITE

Senators Set Down 6-3 As Notables Watch In Washington

Washington, April 21 (AP)—The New York Yankees exploded their batting dynamite in the midst of the Washington Senators inaugural party at Griffith Stadium today and easily claimed a 6 to 3 victory.

With Vice President Garner and an assortment of 32,000 other statesmen and fans jamming Griffith stadium to capacity, Joe Di Maggio and Rookie Joe Gallagher concentrated two home runs in the third inning with runners on base.

Vernon Gomez, giving nine hits, went the route for the Yanks.

INDIANS ANNEX SERIES OPENER

Ten Strikeouts Recorded for Cleveland In 5-1 Victory

Cleveland, April 21 (AP)—Youthful Bob Feller gave up only three hits and struck out ten batters today to give the Cleveland Indians a 5-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the Tribe's season opener before 20,000 customers.

Gloomy skies helped Feller in his duel with Harry Eisenstat, Detroit southpaw. Barney McCosky, Tiger outfielder, craved out a home run in the sixth for Detroit's only tally. His eight-inning single and Rudy York's single in the second were the only other blows off Feller, who also gave only two walks.

The Indians scored a run in the first and third innings and virtually sewed things up in the sixth with a four-hit, two run attack. Jim Shilling, their rookie second baseman, was hit on the head while reaching third base on a triple in the eighth inning, but walked off the field unaided.

Eisenstat, who defeated Feller in the final game of the 1938 season when Bob set an American league record with 18 strikeouts, was chased in the seventh after giving up 10 hits and all the runs the Tribe scored.

Rally Short-Lived

Bob Harris stopped the Indian rally, but he was replaced in the eighth by Floyd Giebel, blond right-hander. Shilling, first man up in the inning, reached him for a triple, but Giebel struck out two men and got out without allowing a score.

The Indians opened the scoring in the first when Jimmy Webb beat out a scratch hit, moved to third on a single by Chapman and scored on another scratch hit by Jeff Heath.

The third-inning Cleveland run was more or less a gift, Eisenstat walked Averill, and pitched a double to Trosky that sent Averill across.

McCosky's homer in the sixth put some life in the Tigers. Walker followed with a roller that was juggled by the Cleveland infield. When Walker scooted toward second on an attempted steal, Catcher Pytlak got off a perfect throw to the bag, but Second Baseman Shilling wasn't there and the ball went bounding into center field and Walker ran to third.

Feller decided it was about time to call a halt. He struck out Charley Gehring, walked Greenberg, and struck out Rudy York on three pitches. That ended the rally, for Eisenstat, first up, had been thrown out.

Cleveland scored two more in the sixth on a double by Keltner and singles by Shilling, Feller and Webb. They added a fifth and final run in the seventh inning when Eisenstat walked Averill and Trosky doubled.

The Tigers, weather permitting, will meet Cleveland here again Saturday and Sunday. They will return to Detroit Monday to face the St. Louis Browns.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY ENKELMANN

DID YOU NOTICE that three games in the majors Thursday ended with a 2-0 score? . . . the Yanks, Athletics and Boston got whitewashes over the Red Sox, Senators and Phils. . . Hank Greenberg picked an opportune time to crack out his first major league home run. . . major league baseball is having a tough time getting under way because of the weather. . . there'll be plenty of double headers before the season gets very old. . . a majority of Escanaba baseball fans still chafe at the bit because the Chicago Cubs haven't played a game as yet. . . you know "them" Cub fans. . . if they can't listen to a game involving their heroes, they are as sullen as a pooch with the manger.

RED SOX DRUB ATHLETICS, 9-2

Cramer Makes Amazing Catches to Rob 3 Hitters

Boston, April 21 (AP)—Glad to be home in Fenway Park, with its chummy left field wall, the Red Sox picked up today where they left off last season and drubbed the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 2.

Pitcher Jim Bagby Jr., outfielder Doc Cramer and Manager Joe Cronin were the Boston heroes. Bagby set the A's down with five hits, one of which was Catcher Frank Hayes' homer over the left field wall with Wally Moses aboard in the fourth.

Cramer, besides clearing the bases with a double with two out in the sixth, breaking a 2-2 tie, made three amazing catches in deep center field to rob Moses, Hayes and Miles.

Cronin contributed a single and a double.

Philadelphia, April 21 (AP)—Vito Tamulis held the Phils to five hits today, but they made three of these good for two runs to tie the Brooklyn Dodgers 2-2 in an eleven inning duel finally ended by darkness.

Claude Passeau of the Phils matched the Dodgers southpaw for six shutout innings, but gave up a run each in the seventh and eighth innings before being removed for a pinchhitter.

Tommy Spiegall, Uniontown, Pa., lightweight, whipped Johnny Rinaldi of New York in the eight-round semi-windup bout. The 132-pound Pennsylvanian not only spotted his rival nine pounds, but dropped him through the ropes for a brief count in the fifth with a series of right hooks to the head.

BILL LEE GOOD IN THE PINCHES

Marty and Stanley Hack Play Big Part In Chicago Win

St. Louis, April 21 (AP)—With their hurling ace, Bill Lee, effective in the pinches, the Chicago Cubs got off to a good start in defense of their National League championship today, triumphing over the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 2, before 10,373 spectators.

Slamming out home runs into the centerfield pavilion, Joe Marty and Stanley Hack ably contributed to the Cubs' victory.

Joe Medwick, slugging leftfielder, drove in both Cardinal runs. His single in the third sent Third Baseman Don Gutteridge home, and his sacrifice fly in the fifth drove in Jimmy Brown.

The game was the first for Chicago, whose opening home series with the Cincinnati Reds was rained out.

Melton Is Pounded Hard As Bees Win Over Giants, 10-3

New York, April 21 (AP)—The Boston Bees won their third straight victory in as many days by clubbing three New York Giants pitchers for 13 hits and a 10 to 3 victory in today's National League opener at the Polo Grounds.

It would have been a 10 to 0 shutout for Danny MacFayden if the Deacon hadn't weakened in the ninth and let in all three of the Giants' runs.

He gave up four bases on balls in this one frame and two of them forced in runs before John Lanning came to the rescue and retired the side.

The Bees pounded Cliff Melton for six runs in the four and a third innings he worked.

Big Ten Baseball Opener Lost By Michigan, 3 to 1

Columbus, O., April 21 (AP)—Ohio State turned seven hits into a trio of runs to win a 3-1 victory from invading Michigan today in the Big Ten baseball inaugural for both outfits.

Big Johnny Dagenhard, Buckeye right-hander, set the Wolverines down with three hits while his mates were getting to Jack Barry, Michigan moundsman, when men were on bases.

Lyle Bond relieved Barry in the eighth and probably will get the nod for tomorrow's game. Jimmy Sexton will toe the hill for Ohio State.

City Team Candidates Will Practice Sunday

The first practice session for candidates for the city baseball team will be held at the city baseball diamond on 23rd street Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it was announced by Orville Wieland, manager and coach.

An invitation was extended yesterday to all qualified candidates, and especially to those members of last year's team, to report for the first practice. Manager Wieland said yesterday that all positions will be considered open and players displaying the most ability will be given positions on the team, regardless of political, religious or fraternal affiliations of any kind.

Manager Wieland, who has sole charge of actual playing conditions and selection of the team, has had long experience with baseball, having been manager of several teams throughout the peninsula. He is well versed in the technical points of the game and is capable of imparting his knowledge to the players.

Escanaba again will be represented in the Northern Michigan-Wisconsin league. Business Manager Al Heidenreich, who is confining his work this year to the business end of the team, already is making arrangements for the opening game of the season against the strong South Range team. The game is to be played on the local diamond on May 7.

White Sox Pitcher Says No Strain; Mate Disagrees

By NEA Service
Chicago—Ted Lyons disagrees with his White Sox teammate, Thornton Lee, in regard to the effect the knuckle ball has on the arm.

Lee contends that the knuckler is fatal to a fast ball pitcher. Lyons holds that if the knuckler is handled properly it is easy on the arm.

"I throw only two knuckle balls all last season," says Goon Lee, "and I remember both distinctly I never threw a better one than the one that struck out Joe DiMaggio. It danced crazy-like and dropped right down through the middle. DiMaggio turned around and looked at Luke Sewell and the umpire.

"Whatinell was that?" he demanded.

Lyons threw his first knuckler when he developed a sore arm in 1930. His fast one was gone. He had to find something, so came up with the knuckler. It has prolonged by a number of years one of the finest pitching careers in history.

A fellow named Carl Hubbell went along quite well for a long time with the knuckler, too.

A year ago Billy Herman of the Cubs got behind Lyons. . . two strikes and no balls.

"I turned to Sewell," relates Herman. "Now, I said to him, 'I suppose this'll be that so-and-so butterfly'.

"You're right," replied Luke. "It was the butterfly, too, and I didn't touch it!"

Two Holes-in-one And Eagle; Loses Golf Tilt Anyhow

Portland, Ore., April 21 (AP)—Meet the fellow who shot two holes-in-one and an eagle, and still lost his golf match:

Marty Leptich held out his tee shot on the 117-yard fourth hole, rammed a wood home for a deuce on the 446-yard par four 12th holes, and on the 112-yard 15th he again sank his tee shot.

He had a gross 71 but Dave Pearson, with a 75, still beat him in match play, 3 and 2.

Turtle Trudge Won By Detroit Entry

Detroit, April 21 (AP)—The intercollegiate sporting world turned today from goldfish gobbling to turtle trudging, or so the publicity agent said.

Anyway, the second annual University of Detroit intercollegiate turtle trudge was held and a local product, Skippy, won over entries from 20 colleges and universities from 14 states and Canada.

Skippy, owned by Robert Ryan, University of Detroit sophomore, scuttled over the five-foot course in one minute and two seconds to break the record of one minute and ten seconds made last year by Mustang of Southern Methodist University.

Rain May Crimp Spartan Opener

East Lansing, April 21 (AP)—An all-day rainfall threatened today to wash out tomorrow's scheduled baseball game between Michigan State college and Michigan Normal, opening the Spartan's home schedule.

Governor Dickinson has accepted an invitation to pitch the first ball, and Dr. Robert S. Shaw, college president, said he would try to catch it.

A baseball "clinic" for high school players and coaches will be held in the morning.

FOOTBALL BAD FOR BASEBALL

Scout Says Grid Game Spoils Hopefuls of Diamond

Philadelphia, April 21 (AP)—Collegiate aspirants to big-league baseball teams should just watch football—not play it.

That's the advice of Patsy O'Rourke, veteran scout for the Philadelphia National League baseball team.

Most football acres are sops in professional baseball because football tightens muscles until they can't hit, O'Rourke said today.

"What better example would you want than Ray Stovick?" he asked.

Stovick joined the Phils after a brilliant football and baseball career at Villanova college but failed to make the grade on the professional diamond.

"Stovick was as good looking an outfielder you'd want to see in his junior year at Villanova," O'Rourke said.

"He could do everything, and above all hit. If he had quit college then nothing could have stopped him making good in the big show. That one additional season at halfback was disastrous. He could still field, and throw—but he couldn't hit."

Football players, O'Rourke explained, use their shoulders for charging and blocking.

"That incessant pounding toughens the shoulders and tightens the muscles," he added. "Once those muscles are tightened they can't hit any more."

"Give them a low ball or one waist high and the natural hitters will still sock it. But if they've played too much football you'll generally find the shoulder-high pitches too tough to reach."

Beattie Feathers, star Tennessee back who had a trial with Cincinnati, and Sammy Baugh, ace Texas Christian passer given a try-out with the St. Louis Cardinals, were cited by O'Rourke as other examples of those hot on the gridiron but cold on the diamond.

Savoldi Opponent Breaks His Neck In Wrestling Fall

Saginaw, Mich., April 21 (AP)—A wrestler billed as Walter (Wild Man) Zim of Nicaragua apparently suffered a fractured neck vertebra tonight in a match with Joe Savoldi of Three Oaks, Mich.

After 22 minutes of wrestling, during which neither had gained a fall, Zim's feet became entangled in the ropes and he fell on his head. Savoldi was awarded the fall and the match.

Dr. Richard S. and Michael D. Ryan, making a temporary diagnosis, said the fracture was not serious. They taped a temporary cast to Zim's neck, he was able to dress himself and was taken to a Detroit hospital.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, April 21 (AP)—While there was a further lessening of apprehension over Europe, and business news brightened a bit here and there, the stock market today failed to respond.

Fractional price changes either way ruled the slowest full session in about 10 months. The transfer total of 392,760 shares was the smallest since June 17, 1938. It compared with a turnover of 516,258 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 43.3.

Although informed Wall Street quarters still felt the foreign clamor would not result in an actual war outbreak, many traders inclined to give the market a wide berth pending Hitler's reply to the president's peace proposal, due April 28.

Securities improved at London in quiet dealings, but were only about steady at Paris and Amsterdam.

Motors were resistant throughout as this week's automotive production jumped to a new high for the year. Coppers hesitated when the domestic price of the metal was again cut 1/4 of a cent a pound to 10 cents, lowest figure since last July. Merchandising shares were supported on trade surveys disclosing an upturn in this week's retail spending.

Some were pessimistic regarding the soft coal labor negotiations fuel dock which is threatening to shut down for many lines.

Modest advances were retained by Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Goodyear, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil of N. J. and Pennsylvania.

Slightly in arrears were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, U. S. Rubber, N. Y. Central and Texas Corp.

A trifle higher in the curb were Creole Petroleum, Gulf Oil, Electric Bond & Share and Arkansas Natural Gas "A". Turnover of 96,000 shares compared with 86,100 Thursday.

FAMILY RELIEF ALLOWANCE CUT

Welfare Clients Can't Get Substance Allowments

Lansing, April 21 (AP)—The emergency relief commission declared today it lacked funds to guarantee a substance allowance to welfare clients.

Besieged with protests from counties against already-reduced welfare allowances, the commission imposed a further cut today and said it would have to cut even more deeply in June.

George F. Granger, acting emergency relief administrator, said counties have had to reduce individual family relief budgets 20 to 50 percent under the April allotment of $1,399,545. The commission today limited to $1,065,420 the state's distribution to the counties for the May program. The commission said it would have only $790,000 in its treasury for distribution in June.

Granger said that average benefit allowed in March was $22 per family for the month. He said the average was "well below" that figure this month, although it has not been determined definitely, and that it would continue to decline through the balance of the fiscal year, which ends June 30.

C. H. Runciman of Lowell, commission chairman, pointed out that the legislature had allowed $4,000,000 as a deficiency appropriation to finance welfare work through the month of June, although the commission had fixed its minimum requirements at $5,000,000.

Government Ready To Take Action In Soft Coal Dispute

Washington, April 21 (AP)—The administration, watching with growing concern the deadlock in the soft coal wage conference in New York, appeared ready tonight to take some definite intervention action before Sunday.

Government sources said these steps might be taken soon: 1—The appointment of a special mediator to offer the administration's services in helping the negotiators reach an agreement.

2—The appointment of a special mediation board of three members to try to negotiate an agreement. It was pointed out in government quarters that the administration had not yet officially tried to mediate the deadlock. The labor department, it was said, has had only observers on the scene making reports to Washington officials.

Expectant Mothers In Malaria Tests

Memphis, Tenn., April 21 (AP)—Thirty expectant mothers have been inoculated with a malaria parasite by doctors of the University of Tennessee Malaria Seminar in an attempt to determine whether the disease is transmitted from mother to child.

Three have had their babies, Dr. Percy B. Russell, Jr., reported, and no signs of malaria could be detected in the newborn. For the experiment the mothers chosen were all apyhtic since malarial fever is helpful in the treatment of apyhtis. Dr. Russell said.

"We have inoculated them with quartan malaria," the doctor added. "The reason for this is twofold. First, quartan malaria is never fatal, and second, there are very few instances of quartan malaria in this territory so if the baby develops malaria sometime after birth and tests show it to be quartan, we can be reasonably sure that it got the malaria congenitally."

If any signs of malarial infection develop after birth, Dr. Russell said, the organism is "easily" destroyed. The physician reported the babies born to date all have had apyhtis but that they were normal and healthy in other respects.

Mystery Submarine In Canada Believed Mere Fishing Boat

Ottawa, April 21 (Canadian Press)—Canada's submarine scare was laid tonight to the mistaken identification of a fishing boat for an undersea craft.

Defense Minister Ian MacKenzie said he based this conclusion on reports of naval officers who conducted a fruitless search for the phantom craft it was reported in Halifax harbor early last Wednesday by a pilot boat captain.

Witness In Feud Is Found Hanging

Baraboo, Wis., April 21 (AP)—The body of Herman Bergmann, 49, important figure in the current trial of Joseph Woelfel, 30, on a charge of slaying Maurice and Patrick Healy in a "coon dog" feud last October, was found hanging in his farm home tonight. District Attorney John A. Rouse said Bergmann evidently had ended his life because of brooding over the case.

It was to Bergmann's farm that Maurice Healy staggered, fatally wounded, after a charge of buckshot had killed his brother, Patrick, while they were out at night with their dogs. John Woelfel, 24, brother of Joseph, awaits trial on the same charge.

McKAY GIVEN CLEAR RECORD IN BOND DEAL

ferred with U. S. Attorney General Frank Murphy, former Democratic governor of Michigan, and J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI, the report continued, and "it was the consensus of opinion that the information available did not disclose a violation of any federal or state law."

Murphy said in Washington, however, that there would be "further and exhaustive" investigations by federal officers. He said representatives of Stranahan, Harris & Co. told him McKay was paid for "general political influence" over legislators and public officials.

The former governor declined to disclose the names of "one of two" of those he told spokesmen for the company told him came within McKay's sphere of influence.

"Are they holding public office?" he was asked. "I prefer not to say," was the reply. Murphy also declared that "a matter may be unethical and not be a violation of law."

Another section of the report reviewed the history of McKay's connection with the Toledo company, and concluded: "Frank D. McKay had nothing to do either with the buying or the selling of the bonds that financed a portion of the bridge."

Helped Revive Project Read appended a statement by McKay, who is wintering in Florida, which accused "political enemies" of indulging in a "Roman holiday" of criticism at the expense of his reputation.

"They have tried to cloak my work in connection with the Blue Water bridge with all forms of devilry," the former treasurer asserted. "I consider that the time has now arrived to make a statement of the facts."

McKay said he decided, when representatives of the Toledo company discussed the apparent stalemate of the bridge undertaking with him in 1931, "that it was a worthwhile project and that it could be revived."

The Republican "boss" told of his agreement to promote the bridge on a contingent fee basis, sharing equally with Stewart P. Blasler, the firm's Detroit representative, "if he would join me and execute my directions."

McKay said the two partners' own expenses, and if unsuccessful were to have received nothing for their efforts, which required five years. When the $92,000 settlement was made, he added, he turned over $43,800 to Blasler.

Profit Under $20,000 He estimated his own profit from the transaction, after income taxes were deducted, was "in all probability, less than $20,000" or "not much more than $4,000 a year, which, to me, does not seem exorbitant in view of the size and difficulty of the transaction."

"There was no person other than Stewart Blasler and myself interested in my contract with Stranahan, Harris & Co.," McKay said. "Other than Stewart Blasler, I did not pay one cent of the proceeds of this transaction to any other person."

McKay said he had done other work for the Toledo firm, almost all of a non-political nature. He denied any connection with the sale of the old ferry company operating between Port Huron and Sarnia to the state.

Alex Groesbeck, the former governor, handled that matter for the ferry company and he can probably enlighten the investigator as to the details surrounding that transaction," the former treasurer added.

"I am very much surprised at the attitude taken by the newspapers and the way in which they have played this thing up," McKay continued. "If it were anyone but Frank D. McKay, there probably would have been no mention made of the transaction, or else it would have appeared on an inside sheet of the papers instead of being blazoned across the front pages."

Solons Disagree "I appreciate that I have a certain news interest, but I am unwilling that that interest should extend to damning a man, and every friend he has ever known, through sinister and entirely baseless inferences of wrong-doing, and it is for this reason that I have reconsidered my original position and issued this statement with the permission that it may be made public."

In Detroit, Groesbeck said he advised the Port Huron and Sarnia Ferry company on sale of its property to the state bridge commission, but had no part in the actual sale. He explained that he had been retained by the company "in a consulting capacity" for a number of years prior to the transaction that paved the way for the new bridge.

Members of the legislature appeared to hold more than one view concerning the advisability of continuing the McKay investigation. The senate tabled a bill that would enable the governor to appoint special prosecutors to conduct "clean-up" investigations, a practice in some other states. Its author, Senator Allen G. Ludington, Detroit Republican, suggested the procedure.

Ludington explained that the measure was inspired by the recent success of similar legislation in New York. It had no bearing upon any existing Michigan situation, he told the senate.

A committee in the house of representatives, authorized to cooperate with the attorney general division, declared unanimously it felt the inquiry should proceed. Alliance With Democrats? Chairman Nelson A. Miles, Re-

Past Year Required Straight Thinking, Says AP Manager

New York, April 21 (AP)—In a summing-up of 1932 as "a year of passion, and of crisis," Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, said in his annual report to the directors that "not only the repute and the standing of the newspaper business, but possibly the fate of civilization itself depended on straight-forward thinking."

The report, made public today, sketched the AP's world-wide activities during the year, examined the results of its news work under the triple tests of "informative, truthfulness and stability," detailed some of its advances in the fields of news photography and features, and thus concluded: "If this report expresses too enthusiastically approval of the work done by Associated Press employees during 1932, a more restrained statement would be out of harmony with the very enthusiasm that the employees themselves have exhibited in pursuing their work."

"As an accurate though abbreviated record of what they accomplished during the year it ought to go into the permanent files of the organization in no more restrained form. The existence of such a record is in itself an inspiration for further achievement."

Discussing the critical nature of 1932, Cooper remarked that "the honest reporter found himself beset on the one hand by the tremendous pressure of propaganda and attempted suppression, and on the other by a widespread criticism of newspapers and their conduct."

"In no year," he added, "has a graver responsibility rested on the shoulders of a profession vested with something of the character of a public service."

Reporting the work of Byron Price as executive news editor, the general manager pointed out that "the prime purpose of a news dispatch is to impart information," but added that for AP dispatches there were the additional requisites that they "must be severely truthful," and "of a form and character making them easily usable in the newspapers of the day."

"To accomplish harmonious achievement of these three qualities was the goal set for the news report. "That measurable progress was made through Mr. Price's efforts could not be doubted by anyone who has followed our dispatches in detail during the last year, or has observed carefully the display given them in member newspapers."

Cooper went on to quote from a staff circular issued by Price at the beginning of 1932 in which he appealed to the personnel: "Let us never, on any account whatever, sacrifice our ancient heritage (the traditions of the service). Let us never, on any account whatever, put aside those old standards which belong peculiarly to us."

"Many times during the year," the general manager continued "the staff proved its allegiance to those standards, refusing to be swept along in the maelstrom of propaganda, inspired untruths, false reports and surmises. The greatest test of all, of course, was presented by the weeks of upheaval and uncertainty in Europe."

He quoted, then, from one of his own messages to the staff, made on September 30, after the Munich settlement. "It is gratifying to know that developments were covered with uniform promptness—in many instances with surprising and unparalleled speed. But far beyond that, it is more satisfying than words can express that nothing you have written need be erased, but can stand as an authentic day to day history of one of the great international episodes of our time."

The issue of "usability" was met, Cooper said, by more concise writing, "mercilessly" eliminating secondary news and by a multiplication of the number of short dispatches presented. "Not because the news they dealt with was important, but simply because it was interesting."

The news photo service, he reported, with its allies in Europe was now "the world's greatest," and with wirephoto was in a position where "it is not likely that any competitor can compete in any serious way."

The feature service, he said, "made unusually satisfactory strides," and gained new favor with the members.

Cutters Open Up Shipping Channels

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 21 (AP)—With the Straits of Mackinac opened to navigation the coast guard cutters Ossipee of Sault Ste. Marie and the Escanaba of Grand Haven today turned to smashing ice blockades in the St. Mary's river.

The Escanaba, which was employed in opening up the Straits, was bucking her way up the river towards Sault Ste. Marie. The Ossipee left her base here at 10 a. m. to break ice towards the Escanaba.

Teacher Allegiance Oath Is Repealed

Lansing, April 21 (AP)—The house of representatives voted today to repeal the law requiring school teachers to start each school year with an oath of allegiance to the United States, substituting for it a measure making the oath a requirement for obtaining a teachers' certificate. The new measure now goes to the governor.

The house sent to its state affairs committee a bill that would give the public service commission jurisdiction over interurban service provided by municipally-owned bus lines. Rep. Ate Dykstra, Republican, Grand Rapids, said the measure would cause a hardship on the city of Grand Rapids. It was understood the bill would be killed in the committee, which is headed by Rep. Maurice E. Post, Republican, Rockford.

A bill placing a three cents bounty on starlings passed the house and was sent to the senate.

SUPPLY SHORT ON SOFT COAL

Labor Conciliator Tries to Break Deadlock In Negotiations

New York, April 21 (AP)—Diminishing supplies pushed soft coal to higher price levels today to the benefit of foreign mines as James F. Dewey, federal labor department conciliator, tried to bring deadlocked operators of the eight-state Appalachian area and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO) to an agreement on a new contract.

Dewey discussed the matter first with operator negotiators after a telephone conversation with Washington. When he emerged late today he said no progress had been made, and added that "the administration is keenly interested in the seriousness of the situation."

Complaints on mounting coal shortages reached the conference from all parts of the country today, while from Cardiff, Wales, came word that numerous orders from the United States in the past two weeks had brought a boom to the depressed areas of the South Wales coal industry.

At Cleveland, coal mining companies which had loaded coal into Great Lakes vessels for shipment to Lake Michigan and Lake Superior ports were selling their cargoes at a bonus to commercial users and unloading it from ships.

At Hornell, N. Y., W. E. Harminson, assistant superintendent of motor power of the Erie railroad, said the Erie shops there would close indefinitely today because of a coal shortage. Between 500 and 600 men would be affected by the closing, he said.

Buffalo reported that soft coal, previously shipped to Canada, was being returned to this country by train and truck to prevent a possible shortage.

Illinois coal mines worked by UMW men stepped up production to capacity to amass big reserves before the May 5 work stoppage date fixed by the union in districts outside the Appalachian area.

Illicit Muskrat Fur Trading Ring Bared

Charlotte, Mich., April 21 (AP)—State conservation officers claimed tonight the arrest and sentencing of ten alleged conservation law violators, most of them residents of Bellevue and the vicinity, had broken up a ring of muskrat fur traders which operated during the closed season in southwestern Michigan.

Police said one Bellevue resident was arrested as he was about to deliver 118 fresh muskrat pelts to an out-state dealer. He implicated nine others in the ring, police said, and all were fined or are serving terms in the Eaton county jail.

During 1932 more than 4,000,000 persons in the United States bought automobiles making important payments of less than $50.

E-Men Present Minstrel Before Large Audience

In a setting quite naturally adapted to "tall stories", E-men of Escanaba high school presented their annual blackface show before a large crowd at the William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium in the Junior high school last night. The show also was presented at an afternoon matinee for Junior high school.

The theme of the minstrel was the character Paul Bunyan, around whom have been spun some of the most fantastic yarns of north-wester logging. So all of the yarns spun by the blackfaced end men, Elroy Andrews as "Cont-hook", Evans Bergquist as "Sourdough", Bob Barron as "Flap-jack", James L'Heureux as "Peewee" (Peavy), Thor Nilson as "Crosshaul", and Charles Thatcher as "Mushmouth", were excusable. And, spurred by their interlocutor, Frank Bender who was dressed to represent "old Paul himself", the boys did spin some tall yarns which, with their antics, kept the large crowd in good humor all night.

Colorful Setting The setting was replete with axes, canthocks, banks with straw bedding, lanterns, dinner horns and a host of other items familiar to lumberjacks. Dressed in black sweaters with bright orange E's, the chorus sat in a circle around the interlocutor. The circle was composed of Robert and Vernon Anderson, Gerald Anzalone, Alfred Breault, Leland Bryson, Don Campbell, Clyde Cox, Roy Cross, Lowell Farrell, Farnum Ferguson, Bill Fisher, Leonard Fedrow, Don Goula, Arthur Harvey, Wes Hanson, Bob Henry, Cliff Holmes, Verne Johnson, Bob Kaufman, Wilbur Leonard, Francis Lequin, Harlan Meunier, Francis Moran, William Nicholson, James Nyberg, Iver Olson, Charles Peltier, Raymond Pepin, Merle Potenhauer, Henry Sauters, Sam Schram, Jack Shank, Andrew Schaug, Abe Stein, and Elmer Swanson.

Background music was played by an orchestra directed by R. P. Bowers and consisting of Louis Lippold, Tom Thompson, John Cleary, Anna Marie Belanger, Annette Anderson, Jean Peterson, Tom Finn, Maurice Blixt and Walter Girard.

Principal Edward Edick was in charge of crossfire. Miss Beatrice Perron and E. J. Nicholas were in charge of stage and scenery, being assisted by R. Coplan, J. Davidson and R. Ingalls.
