CONSCRIPTION MOVE FAILS TO IMPRESS NAZI GERMANY

London, April 26 (AP)—The British government, in a supreme effort to demonstrate its determination to resist any attempt at general domination...

As his government majority cheered and the labor opposition jeered, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons the government had decided to ask powers to summon all youths in their 21st year for six months' military training.

Opposition bitter Tomorrow he will present to parliament a motion expressing approval of the government's decision "to introduce as soon as possible a system of compulsory military training as announced April 26."

Labor members of parliament in a special session tonight framed a strongly worded amendment to the government motion saying the conscription proposal "is further evidence that the government's conduct of affairs throughout these critical times does not merit the confidence of the country or of this house."

300,000 Men Involved The amendment to be offered by Opposition Leader Clement Attlee, would call for the government's resignation if adopted, but Chamberlain was expected to push through his motion by a safe margin and follow up with the conscription bill next week.

Chamberlain estimated that about 310,000 men yearly would be involved, but this figure would be reduced "very considerably" by deductions. These deductions were said in unofficial sources to include exemption for physical disability and of persons now occupied in armaments or other defense industries.

One estimate was that the net first class to be called, upon passage of the conscription bill which seemed assured despite labor opposition, would number 200,000 men.

His reasons for making Britain the latest and last of the major powers in Europe to adopt conscription before a war, Chamberlain said, were for defense, to assure ability to effect pledges to protect independence of Poland, Rumania and Greece, and because:

"Despite the immense efforts this country already has made by way of rearmament, nothing would so impress the world with the determination of this country to offer firm resistance to any attempt at general domination."

TROUT FISHING OUTLOOK POOR

Streams Ideal In Lower Peninsula; Water Too High In North

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The state conservation department tonight predicted that conditions for the opening of the trout season Saturday would be pretty close to ideal in the lower peninsula and not so good in the upper peninsula.

In the lower peninsula, for example, a late spring brought no flood of freshet to upset lower peninsula trout streams. The snow melted slowly, ice was moderate on most streams and consequently did not destroy fish cover and food, and waters generally remained clear and definitely not oily.

In the upper peninsula, however, snow still banks many trout streams and high water is reported in some areas. The conservation department has a "fair to poor" prediction for fishing there, but added that the rainbows were running up some streams and might be in a cooperative mood.

No matter what conditions are, the department said, about 25,000 sportsmen will try their luck Saturday and more than 100,000 will have been out before the season closes Labor Day.

As in the past, it still is illegal to take trout under seven inches in length, to take more than 15 in one day, or to fish without a license.

Fishing is allowed only in streams and lakes designated by the conservation commission as trout areas, and in pike lakes after May 1 in the lower peninsula and May 15 in the upper peninsula. The game rainbows may not be taken in the Soo rapids until June 1. In all other streams and lakes trout fishing starts June 25 with the panfishing season.

RELIEF AGENCY MERGER SCORED

Roosevelt Plan Called Demoralizing and Destructive

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Denouncing President Roosevelt's government reorganization plan as "destructive and demoralizing," Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) asked the house today to reject it.

He introduced a concurrent resolution calling for disapproval. The reorganization act provides that presidential reorganization orders become effective in 60 days unless they are disapproved by both houses of congress.

Taber said that consolidating the government's relief agencies with permanent branches of the government, as proposed by Mr. Roosevelt was designed to make the relief agencies permanent.

"It is ridiculous and demoralizing in every way," he said, "and will bring the level of the permanent activities down to the level of the relief agencies which have been a disgrace."

Administration leaders were highly confident that Taber would be unable to assemble a majority in support of his resolution. Even, if he should, they said no outright opposition has been expressed in the senate.

The president's plan calls for the establishment of three new agencies into which would be consolidated the government welfare and social security activities, relief activities, and lending activities. In addition, Mr. Roosevelt proposed that the budget bureau be transferred to the White House.

Bucket Shop Case Involves Five Men

Detroit, April 26 (AP)—Recorder's Judge Arthur E. Gordon today issued warrants charging five persons with operating a bucket shop and defrauding customers in connection with operations of the Securities Investment Co.

Those named were Neil Wagenaar of Grand Rapids, secretary-treasurer; Wilton M. Smith, manager of the company's Detroit office; Thomas R. Forhan, cashier of the office here, and Cashier John Does.

The complaints were made by representatives of the federal securities and exchange commission and the Michigan corporation and securities commission, Assistant Prosecutor Harry B. Letzer and Detective Harold Walters of the Detroit police department.

They estimated that investors had lost $60,000. The company's license was cancelled more than a year ago. William J. Delaney of Grand Rapids is receiver for the firm.

Two Iron Mountain Men Deputies For Labor Commission Lansing, April 26 (AP)—Five new deputy commissioners of the department of labor and industry were appointed today.

They were Fred W. Kaess, Lansing; Vincent F. McAuliffe, Detroit; Silas McGregor and Paul Bahm, Iron Mountain; and George J. Huber, Monroe. The appointments are effective May 15.

ORDER PLACED TO BUILD 571 ARMY PLANES

PRESIDENT RATIFIES 549 MILLIONS FOR WAR DEP'T

Washington, April 26 (AP)—With a speed which surprised the capital, President Roosevelt today signed into law the $549,000,000 war department appropriation bill, and immediately thereafter the army high command placed a record-breaking order for 571 warplanes at a cost of more than $50,000,000.

Moreover, Secretary of War Woodrow, declaring that he wanted to assure the American people as to the "readiness and adequacy" of the army, disclosed steps to weed out the over-aged and physically unfit among the service's 12,500 officers.

Hint For Hitler? These developments occurred on the same day that Great Britain announced conscription, and two days before Chancellor Hitler's scheduled speech replying to President Roosevelt's recent request for peace guarantees.

There was no formal announcement that the events here were timed to impress Hitler, and perhaps induce him to give a favorable response.

However, it was noted that the president, in a speech today to a White House conference on Children's problems, emphasized his recent plea anew by quoting from it. He pointed out that he had told Hitler and Mussolini that "the leaders of the great nations have it in their power to liberate their people from disaster that impends."

Largest Since A. E. F. The war department appropriation, most of which is for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1939, is the largest since the A. E. F. was demobilized. Usually, it is several days from the time a measure is finally voted by congress until the president signs it. But in this case the bill, which was finally approved by congress only yesterday, was rushed to enactment.

The warplane purchase, announced by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, was the initial step in a program to treble the army's air strength by increasing it to 6,000 planes.

The order was split among five manufacturers, and there were additional orders for engines and equipment. In the late day rush, officials said details would be withheld until tomorrow.

Five types were ordered—four-engine bombers, single-engine pursuit planes, fast climbing "pursuit interceptors," attack bombers and a small number of photographic planes. Aviation sources understood some of the "fighter" craft, designed to bring down bombers, would be able at least to approach 400 miles an hour.

Many Too Old The huge single order was made possible by inclusion in the regular appropriation bill of some funds for immediate purchases. Johnson said that much money would be saved by placing orders now without awaiting the regular fiscal twelve-month opening July 1.

Secretary Woodring, announcing the steps to "vitalize" army personnel, said many present officers were "far in advance of the age in which they could be expected to carry on the physical requirements of field duty" in their grade.

He announced immediate physical examinations and proposed legislation to retire officers from captain to brigadier-general who have failed to advance.

The physical examinations will be given prior to June 30 to all (Continued on Page Two)

STATE BUILDING BONDS CHECKED

Projects At Houghton and East Lansing Scrutinized

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—Bond issues for the construction of buildings at state colleges and universities today fell under the scrutiny of a house of representatives investigating committee.

Informed sources said projects at the University of Michigan, Michigan State college, the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, the Teachers' colleges and Normal schools "were" being studied.

John A. Hannah, secretary of the state board of agriculture and Michigan State college, said he understood the committee wanted to learn from him why one financial institution had received all the bond business allied with the self-liquidating financing of construction projects at East Lansing.

"I won't be able to speak for the other institutions but Michigan State college gave all that business to one company because no others seemed to want it," Hannah said.

He said the company did not underwrite the bonds but developed a market for them, $2,700,000 worth, on a fee basis.

Shirley W. Smith, vice president and secretary of the University at Ann Arbor, said the institution was "ready to cooperate" with the investigators, and predicted the committee would find the bond transactions at Ann Arbor were "satisfactory". He said the university disposed of $3,000,000 worth of revenue bonds through the one company "at the lowest fee ever paid by the university for similar service."

Liquor Relicensing Brings In $150,000 To State Every Day

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The liquor control commission reported today it was receiving $150,000 a day in revenues for the relicensing of drinking houses.

C. A. Parrish, head of the licensing and enforcement division, said the department was issuing 1,000 to 1,500 licenses daily and that it would "count into the May 1 license deadline" with its work complete.

The commission has decided to limit the number of licensees to 17,000 or fewer, compared with 19,000 a year ago. Parrish said more than 14,500 renewals already have been approved.

Canada Will Train Pilots For British Royal Plane Force

Ottawa, April 26 (AP)—Defense Minister Ian MacKenzie, introducing in the house of commons the government's $63,000,000 defense program for the present year, announced today that pilots of Britain's Royal Air Force will receive training in Canada with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Under an agreement between the Canadian and British governments, MacKenzie said, British pilots will train at the Trenton and Camp Borden establishments in Ontario. The plan will operate for three years, with not more than 50 pilots coming over in any one year.

MacKenzie announced $6,000,000 would be spent on training of pilots this year in accordance with the policy of placing the air force first in Canada's defense program.

Flying clubs will be assigned a definite role in air force training, MacKenzie said, and will be compensated by the government.

No War With U. S. Discussing general defense policy, MacKenzie said Canada should be prepared to defend by force if necessary:

"1. Our religion, our freedom, our institutions; 2. Our coasts and coastal regions, our centers of population and industry, our main ports and the focal sea areas where trade routes converge in the vicinity of our main ports; 3. Our neutrality in a war in which Canada is not a belligerent; 4. Internal order."

MacKenzie asserted that while large-scale attacks by enemy forces on coast and trade were out of the question because of the distance from bases, minor raids were not only a possibility but a probability, and that Canada's responsibility was to protect Canadian ports and a short distance outside them.

He said Canada's defense effort was limited because it was based on two assumptions: "That there would be no war with the United States and that Canada would not, single-handedly, engage in a war with an overseas power."

BENSON, STATE LAWMAKER DIES

Body of Iron River Man Gets Official Escort From Lansing

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The legislature today mourned the death of Rep. Victor Benson, Republican, of Iron River, who died in Edward W. Sparrow hospital.

Benson, 66 years old, had been in a weakened condition for several weeks following an operation. Two blood transfusions were administered in an effort to save his life.

Benson was chairman of the house committee for the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and a member of committees for the Northern State Teachers college, roads and bridges, the Marquette branch prison and transportation. It was his first term in the house.

He was a native of Sweden and had been a farmer in the upper peninsula for many years. He served as a justice of the peace, township clerk and a member of the board of supervisors.

The legislature adopted a resolution expressing "deep sorrow" over Benson's death. The house of representatives designated Rep. Charles F. Sundstrom, Democrat, Michigamme, to attend the funeral Monday in Iron River as its representative.

It also selected a committee to accompany the body from the mortuary to the train tomorrow morning, when it is sent to the upper peninsula. The escort will be composed of Reps. Sundstrom, Raymond E. Garvey, Ironwood, and John Saul, Munising, Democrats, and Arthur H. Wickham, Carnoy, and Harry Hermann, Laurium, Republicans.

NEW SYSTEM IS SOUGHT ON JOB HANDOUTS

HOUSE AND SENATE DEADLOCKED OVER CIVIL SERVICE

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—While house and senate remained deadlocked over the question of how many thousands of state employees should be exempted from the protection of civil service, a caucus of Republican senators produced a demand today for an "orderly" system of dispensing patronage.

Disagreement between the two legislative branches over the form a civil service bill should take slimmer down, most observers believe, to a friendly argument—now going on in a conference committee—over the number of jobs to be removed from civil service lists.

Of the rival proposals, the senate bill is the more moderate. In its present form it would have the number of employees under civil service regulations. The house would provide "an even greater number of exemptions."

Agency Proposed So senate Republicans deputized a committee of three to call upon Governor Dickinson, when he returns from a Kansas City church conference he is attending.

"I suggest that an agency to handle patronage be set up. The committee includes Senator Felix H. H. Flynn of Cadillac, president of the senate finance committee, and George P. McCallum of Ann Arbor, senate tax committee chairman.

One senator said the demand stemmed from discontent with the present method of making appointments. The governor, using his 80 years as a bulwark, has periodically requested job-seekers and their pleaders to leave him alone. Legislators complain that they are unable to penetrate the portals of the executive office.

"I wanted to get a job for a constituent," Senator Vanderwerf explained. "I wouldn't know where to go. I can't get to see the governor."

CALENDAR CLEARED UP

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The senate cleared its calendar of 23 bills today, grinding out its greatest grist of legislation to date in an effort to pave the way for consideration of appropriations and other controversial legislation which must be disposed of before the May 11 adjournment date the lawmakers are shooting at.

Among the bills passed was a measure intended to plug loopholes in the existing system of sales tax collection. This bill, sponsored by Senator George P. McCallum, Ann Arbor Republican, would enable the board of tax administration to require bonds to insure sales tax payments by delinquent business men who could not otherwise provide assurance of their financial responsibility. It goes to the house.

Election Code Amended Ten amendments to the election code slid through, virtually without debate. In the main, they proposed only minor changes which included:

A restriction preventing a candidate from running on more than one ticket, or for more than one office; tightening regulation of the use of absent voters' ballots; restoring the felony penalty, dropped inadvertently by an earlier amendment, for recount fraud; provision that one public building, in populous districts, may house the polling places of two adjacent precincts; reduce the number of instruction ballots printed to cut down waste.

Other bills would: Provide a penalty of $100 fine (Continued on Page Two)

Military Welcome Given In Detroit To Danish Royalty

Detroit, April 26 (AP)—Crown Prince Frederik and Crown Princess Ingrid of Denmark received a military welcome at the Michigan Central station upon their arrival late today from Chicago for a 24-hour stay in Detroit.

The second infantry band from Fort Wayne played and two hundred members of the unit participated in the reception at the station, where Police Inspector Mason Harbison estimated that 5,000 persons had gathered.

William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corp. and a native of Denmark, greeted the royal party, which then was taken to the city hall and welcomed by Mayor Richard W. Reading.

Eight hundred persons attended a banquet at a hotel tonight for the prince and princess. They will entrain for Buffalo tomorrow afternoon after visiting automobile plants.

Wisconsin To Bar Trading Stamps On Fixed-Price Goods

Madison, Wis., April 26 (AP)—Governor Julius Hell signed late today a bill prohibiting issuance of trading stamps with the purchase of nationally advertised merchandise bearing manufacturer-fixed prices.

Stamp issuance would be barred if the effect of redemption of the stamps would reduce the price of the product below the contract figure.

The bill will become law upon publication, probably by the end of the week.

The assembly excise and fees committee reported favorably for passage late today a bill which would bar the sale of beer throughout the state between the hours of 1 and 8 a. m. The bill would exempt from its provisions restaurants, hotels, clubs and other places whose principal business is the sale of food or lodging to patrons or members.

Sale of hard liquor already is banned by the state between 1 and 8 a. m.

HIGHWAY BILL FREED

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—Republican strategy and voting power pried out of a house committee today a bill to compel the state highway department to share in the expense of street lighting on trunk line highways within municipalities.

The bill as finally released by the roads and bridges committee called for a 50-50 division of the expense of purchasing electrical power for lighting streets that also have been designated as trunk lines. The municipalities would bear the cost of maintenance and installation as at present. Originally the entire expense would have been shouldered onto the highway fund.

The committee, once controlled by Democrats, was enlarged by the addition of two Republicans. After it first refused to release the bill, one of the new members, however, joined the Democrats, and it still was stalled. Ultimately Speaker Howard Nugent added a third Republican, Rep. Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, sponsor of the bill, to the committee to break the deadlock.

MILK PRICES DEBATED

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The house of representatives received a forestate of debate on a controversial milk price fixing bill today, although the merits of the measure itself did not come up for consideration.

The members deferred action on the measure for a day to permit an early adjournment in honor of the late Rep. Victor Benson of Iron River.

Rep. Joseph E. Warner, Republican, Ypsilanti, provoked the fight when he asked that debate be set for Friday. He had opposed the measure in its earlier appearance on the floor, and led the movement to have it referred to the ways and means committee to be killed. The committee, instead, added an appropriation clause and bounced it back to the floor.

Rep. Stanton Welsh, Republican, St. Clair Shores, opposed delay, asserting "Warner wants to put the Simon Legree whip" to the measure. Rep. Paul Begick, Republican, Bay City, demanded an end "to this horse play and stalling" and declared a delegation of farmers in the galleries was entitled to have the issue fought out immediately.

Warner's motion was rejected, 39 to 43.

The bill would create a milk board with authority to fix prices to halt price wars.

The house adopted and sent to the senate a measure reducing the legal limit on pickering in Great Lakes waters from 16 1/2 inches to 15 1/2 inches, ordering that the original limit be restored when other states on the Great Lakes adopted the more stringent requirement.

BRITISH BOYS OF 21 CALLED TO JOIN ARMY

"throughout the period of uneasiness which may last for a considerable time" it was necessary to call up some territorial and non-regimental air force personnel.

A bill to limit profits of armament industries is to be introduced also.

It was disclosed that from now on every anti-aircraft gun and searchlight in the country will be manned 24 hours a day.

At present the royal air force is patrolling the east coast every night as a precaution against sudden attack.

"We are not at war now," Chamberlain told the house, "but when every country is training all its resources to be ready for war, when confidence in the maintenance of peace is being undermined and everyone knows that, if war were to come, we might pass into it in a matter not of weeks but of hours, no one can pretend that this is peacetime in any sense in which the term could fairly be used."

Before his speech, the prime minister told a questioner that Britain was ready to discuss a "general settlement" with Germany—if "satisfied such a discussion would be welcome and would be likely to have useful results."

WON'T CHANGE SPEECH

Berlin, April 26 (AP)—Heavily-militarized Nazi Germany was represented tonight as "not in the least impressed" by Great Britain's new compulsory military service, which was called a "quieting measure for France."

At the same time British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson succeeded after a two-day delay in conveying to Chancellor Hitler through a subordinate a message about British motives for taking the unprecedented peacetime step, but Hitler was said already to have finished his anxiously-awaited Friday speech and to be unwilling to change what he intended to say.

"It is the provocative nature of the move and not its military aspect that interests us," a government spokesman said concerning the British announcement that all British men in their twenty-first year would become liable to six months of military training.

Militarily, the Nazi reaction, tinged with sarcasm, was summed up by the spokesman's remark: "You probably can train men to use umbrellas in six months, but you can not train them for modern warfare within that time."

Will Answer Roosevelt

He said that Hitler in his forthcoming address to the reichstag doubtless would deal with Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech today, in the house of commons, along with the Nazi answer to President Roosevelt's request that Hitler and Premier Mussolini give 10- or 25-year non-aggression pledges to 31 nations.

The spokesman said it was doubtful whether official, detailed reaction would be forthcoming, before the speaker spoke, to Chamberlain's assertion that Britain was ready to discuss a "general settlement" with the German government and that Britain also was willing to consider any proposal that might be brought forward for the better distribution of raw materials.

Hitler had advance knowledge of what Chamberlain was going to say through the message delivered by Sir Neville at noon today—almost too late. Kalamazoo Girl, 18, Is Blossom Queen At Benton Harbor

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 26 (AP)—Miss Annabelle Dykstra, 18, a brunette from Kalamazoo, was chosen queen tonight to rule over the annual blossom festival in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph from April 30 to May 6.

Eighteen girls from southwestern Michigan cities participated in the competition.

Miss Dykstra works in a pharmaceutical company laboratory and is soprano soloist with the First M. E. church choir. She is five feet six inches tall and weighs 133 pounds. Her father, Everett Dykstra, is a Kalamazoo contractor.

She succeeds another Kalamazoo girl, Miss Dorothy McBride, who was blossom queen last year. Runnerup this year was Miss Donna Osborn, 19, a Battle Creek officers of the rank of captain and above.

Proposing also that the test should apply to the national guard, Woodring said he would make such a request to state governors.

"In connection with congressional action now being taken with respect to armament and equipment, the measure will aid materially in answering the concern of the people as to the readiness and adequacy of its military forces," the war secretary said.

Warships Speeded

Other defense developments included:

1. President Roosevelt asked congress for $31,621,000 to start work on twelve naval air bases in Alaska, several Pacific islands, Puerto Rico and the continental United States. Expected to cost $66,800,000, the bases were authorized in a bill approved yesterday. The navy said the work could start this summer and would require about three years to complete.

2. The speed deliveries of steel plates for warship construction, the navy announcement that a small part of its $25,000,000 World war ordnance plant at South Charleston, W. Va., would be leased to the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. The plant long has been idle.

3. The house approved legislation to retain until 1944 upwards of 400 naval officers who otherwise would have to retire though adjudged "fitted".

4. The house likewise passed a measure permitting the navy to keep aviation cadets on active duty for seven instead of three years, as at present.

5. In a negative development, senate house conferees eliminated from a $160,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill $4,000,000 to establish at Sunnyvale, Calif., a second aviation research center for the national advisory committee for aeronautics. Army, navy and civilian aviation officials urged the appropriation.

Government experts predicted the acreage of most crops in the United States in 1939 would be held approximately to 1938 figures, but that the livestock industries might expand.

HOPE TO CREATE SMELT MARKET

Menominee and Marinette Want to Cash In On Publicity

Menominee—Plans for next year's smelt carnival on the Menominee river were indirectly underway today, but they centered on the disposition of smelt, and not on a carnival.

"The time has come," Jack Boyle, secretary of the Marinette County Outdoor Recreation association, said today, "when we must find a way of disposing of the tons and tons of smelt, keep up the local prices, and get a wider distribution in the metropolitan areas."

"Last week I was in Madison with a group of men," Boyle said today, "and we found people clamoring for smelt, but unable to obtain any, and yet the smelt were so numerous along the Menominee river that during the closing days of the harvest part of the run they were selling for as cheap as a dime a bushel."

Need Distribution
Outlining a plan, Boyle said, "Escanaba and the Twin Cities of Menominee and Marinette have publicized the smelt all over the nation and the people are now conscious of the fact that these silvery little fish that spawn in our waters by the millions are a delicacy, and our duty is to find the easiest way to get distribution and still keep a standard price."

"Furthermore," he continued, "we cannot expect the fishermen to stick to their jobs each year for a couple of weeks if they do not get any return. Several of the fishermen this year reported a return of $200 for a week's work, but that included sales at 1 1/2 cents a pound at the early part of the run. At the end of the run it was practically nothing."

Underwrite Sales
"I would suggest, and our correspondence committee is working along similar lines, that we make plans right now to underwrite the sales of smelt so that we can maintain a flat price of 1 1/2 cents a pound for the smelt throughout the smelt run on Menominee river."

"The only way we can do this is to make sure we have a market for the smelt. One sure market is for relief purposes. We are going to contact the procurement offices at Madison, Lansing and Washington and see if arrangements cannot be made for next spring. It may be necessary to raise $10,000 to $15,000 in the Twin Cities to keep the price high enough for our local fishermen to make money."

Bigger Carnival
"Of course," Boyle said, "the carnival will not be forgotten, it may even be said that we hope to have a bigger and better one next year, but right now we should start working on this smelt proposition, and the fishing and distribution should come first. We have gained a lot of publicity for this area through the smelt and have created a demand for our product, but we must continue to work to reap some of the benefits of our smelt run. We cannot slack off on the fishing either, because if we do the smelt will soon overrun Green Bay waters, and when they do they will probably do away with all fishing."

How Danzig Might Be Taken

Should the Danzig area and the Free City of Danzig be next in Nazi expansion, above map shows how the seizure might be accomplished. Over highways, shown in heavy black, German troops could march in from East Prussia on the east, and across the Polish Corridor from Germany, on west. RIVER DRAGGING IS ABANDONED

Officers Plan Search of Banks and Dams As Water Recedes

Officers abandoned their work of dragging the Escanaba river last night at the end of two days' futile search for the body of Charles Wick, 55, missing since he disappeared from his West Gladstone farm last Saturday afternoon. Wick was last seen by his wife at about 4:30 o'clock, when he left their farmhouse near the banks of the river to go down and pick up drift wood.

"We have covered each inch of the river bed near the Wick farm," Sheriff William Miron said last night. "If Wick fell into the river, his body must have been carried a great distance downstream."

The current is very swift opposite the Wick farm, and greatly hampered work of deputies in dragging the river bottom. A wide scow was used, equipped with an outboard motor, and the river was covered for some distance both above and below the farm.

The officers planned a search of the banks of the river, as the present high water recedes, and also arranged to keep a check on the dams along the river in case the body might drift up against one of them.

"We don't even know for certain that Wick went down to the river," Miron said yesterday. "We know that he said he was going down there for driftwood, and that he disappeared, but he may have gone off somewhere else as far as we can tell."

Bloodhounds were used last Monday in an attempt to find out for sure whether the missing man had gone down to the river. They appeared to catch the scent at several points between the farmhouse and the river, but no definite trail was established. "Even if a trail to the river had been found, it wouldn't have indicated certainly that Wick fell in to the river," the sheriff said. "He might have been down there on Saturday morning, leaving the trail at that time."

In Right Direction

MANY who approve of the idea of promoting the tourist business probably have not recognized the important role that the WPA guide service training course promises to play in this program.

Two training schools have been in operation in Delta county for several months, and graduates and present students of the courses have organized the Hiawatha Guide Service, which will serve tourists who want to go hunting and fishing in this region in the future.

Members of the Hiawatha Guide Service have decided not to stand idly by and wait for the tourist business to come to them, however. And this is a very encouraging sign. The guides are getting out wild life pictures, advertising their services, and will place them at gasoline stations and other places, where visitors stop. They also will equip themselves with boats so that they will be able to take tourists on river trips. They are making other necessary preparations for the coming season.

During the smelt runs, the members of the Hiawatha Guide Service donated their services as guides for visiting parties. Their contribution promises to bring worthwhile returns for a considerable number of the smelt fishermen are returning later and will engage their services for trout and bass fishing, and bird and deer hunting.

Up in Canada, the guide is an important factor in the tourist program, and his services contribute much to the satisfaction and enjoyment that many Americans gain from a hunting or fishing trip in the Dominion wilds. Well-trained and intelligent guides are just as much a requisite in the Upper Peninsula, and one needs only to converse a little while with members of the Hiawatha Guide Service to realize that they recognize the problems of this north country and have some good ideas as to what has to be done.

Merit System Advances

ALREADY in 1939 four states have established the merit system for creation of a systematic civil service personnel plan.

The Civil Service Assembly reports Minnesota, Alabama, Rhode Island and New Mexico as adopting merit systems in March. There are now 17 states operating under merit system laws, and the number has doubled within the past two years. Similar legislation is pending in at least five more states.

Thus the Great American Pie Counter is being shortened year by year, and the principle that to the political victor belongs the spoils is being whittled away.

Administrative and policy-making positions must always be the spoil of politics under a political system. It is probably so, for when the voters have registered a wish for a change in policy, those must be put in key positions who favor the new policies. But the vast bulk of routine and technical employes are gradually being given the protection from the winds of politics that they need and deserve.

While other states of the Union are taking steps to eliminate political spoils from their governments, Michigan's legislators are demonstrating to a disgusted public that they wish to take a backward step. The Michigan legislature is conniving to destroy what has been considered a good merit system, one that could be ranked with the best if only a few amendments were made to eliminate obvious defects. Instead, the spoils-grabbing obivous are intent upon revamping the civil service system to the point that it will be merely a sham.

Good citizens of Michigan would do well to forget their partisan prejudices long enough to unite for a hard fight against the spoilsmen. There should be more intelligent discrimination between what is good government and what is "good" politics.

Hindenburg to Schurz

ONE of the first principles of politics is that in order to stop any movement to which you are opposed, you have to present a positive program. Mere opposition is not enough.

Americans of German blood in Milwaukee, one of the great "German" cities of the world, have learned this truth. And they have used it in neutralizing and nullifying a budding Nazi Bund movement in that city.

In 1935, when Nazi Bund influence began to be strongly felt in Milwaukee, it made an effort to control the Wisconsin Federation of German-American Societies.

But fortunately those societies were under dynamic control, and Bernhard Hoffmann, their leader, was ready with a positive program. He well knew that many of those who thoughtlessly join the Bund were simply victims of pressure of one kind or another, and that if they knew their own organizations were standing firm, they could stick with them and not be drawn by pressure into Nazi organizations with which they readily had little sympathy.

The Nazi group, led by George Froese, started one of those "summer campa" where young men were taught the Hitler salute beneath the Hitler Youth flag. It was named Camp Hindenburg.

Hoffmann was not content with protecting. He had his federated societies lease the camp for this summer. It will be operated this year on American principles for the sons and daughters of the members of the German-American societies.

They will change the name to Camp Carl Schurz and run it with all the advantages of outdoor and camp life but without any "hellings" or foreign-inspired trimmings.

The change of name from Hindenburg to Schurz is symbolic of the change in spirit. For it replaces the name of the reactionary Prussian Junker militarist with that of the Republican rebel who fled Germany in 1848 after an unsuccessful effort to set up free government.

Schurz's career in the United States continues to be a greater inspiration to Americans of German blood than that of any Prussian Junker. For Schurz took a brilliant part in American politics as a supporter of Lincoln, served as minister to Spain, distinguished himself during the Civil War as a volunteer officer, became the outstanding editor of the Westliche Post, and later United States senator from Missouri.

Negative opposition to the ideals of Hindenburg is not enough. The Milwaukee German-Americans have shown a splendid example in turning instead to a positive and constructive devotion to the ideals of Schurz.

Should Be Investigated

AUDITOR General Vernon J. Brown has made the surprising but important disclosure that he has received a complaint from the United States Rubber company that this firm had been asked to grant a secret five per cent rebate to a department head on an order for tires.

The rubber company added in its letter of complaint that because it refused to acquiesce to the state employe's demand, the order went to another firm. The U. S. Rubber company also charged that it has been "blacked out" of tire purchases by the state, although it pays $500,000 annually in taxes in Michigan.

Those of us who know Auditor General Brown are confident he is sincerely endeavoring to foster honesty and fairness in the operation of the people's affairs in Lansing. Being a veteran newspaper man, he believes that full publicity should be given to governmental doings, and that any act that is honest and above-board will survive the test.

The charge made by the rubber concern that a state official attempted to extort rebates on state purchases for his own enrichment is a serious one. It should be investigated, for no good can result from merely forgetting about it.

HITLER

(Boston Evening Transcript)

The world undoubtedly will long ponder this complex phenomenon of Hitler. Probably no one will question at any time his remarkable feat of uniting Germany and retrieving for her a position of central importance. But no one can question, too, the appalling price, in terms of repression of freedom and human dignity, which was paid and is being paid for it. In the first of these Hitler has achieved his greatness. In the second, he has marked himself down as humanity's lasting and dismal enemy.

COAL TIE-UP

(South Bend Tribune)

It is a strike, according to coal mine operators, and a lockout, according to the organized miners' spokesmen. That difference in description is not of major importance from the public viewpoint. The popular opinion is that it has lasted too long; and there is rapidly expanding conviction that it should not have been permitted to begin. The issues involved in the wrangling are not of a nature tending to promote public tolerance of results on the nation.

SOUND ADMINISTRATION

(Marquette Mining Journal)

The fact that Marquette has one of the lowest general city tax rates in the state is not traceable entirely to the profitable municipally-owned light and power system. Equally important has been sound administration of the city's financial affairs through the years.

With sizeable income from the light and power department, it would have been easy for the city government to carry a large bonded debt and at the same time spend considerable sums for a much wider array of non-essential services. That it has held the non-essential to a minimum and placed strong emphasis on debt reduction is the reason why the city now has outstanding only $375,000 in school bonds, that all light and power, water and improvement bonds have been paid off and that it now is in a stronger financial position than at any time in its history.

The costly light and power improvement program being undertaken without issuing new bonds, borrowing a cent or increasing taxes is the best commentary on the city's fiscal condition. Cash surplus will be cut to a relatively small figure to finance the work, but as a result of it larger light and power income in the future can be expected.

When the light and power project is complete, the city will not have to make any considerable outlay of money for many years, barring an unforeseen emergency. This means that when new surpluses have been created and further reductions made in school bonds, increasing amounts of money will be available for further improvement of parks, playgrounds, recreation facilities and other non-essentials.

But before additional expenditures can be made for non-essentials, more money must be invested in equipment for essentials. Rapid headway already has been made. The health department last year ac-

World Affairs Reviewed

Who is Europe's real "tough boy", capable of facing down Hitler, of making other nations march to his tune whether they like it or not? The man who really holds the chips in Europe's grim gamble with war is Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck, and here in an article written exclusively for NEA Service Daily Press, Paula Lecler, noted woman foreign correspondent tells from first hand knowledge of Beck and his methods.

BY PAULA LECLER

Written for NEA Service

New York—No meat for Nazidom's Caesar or anybody else, Colonel Josef Beck, Poland's Foreign Minister since 1932, and her virtual dictator since Pilsudski's death in 1935, has been the diplomatic tough boy of anti-Axis Europe. His tactics have been complicated, with no holds barred, but their object has been single: Poland for Poland.

That means the political and territorial integrity of Poland as she stands now, with no improvements or revisions. To safeguard this he has kept prepared to fight whether anybody else did or didn't. Alone among the supporters of the Versailles status quo, he has from the beginning shrewdly evaluated the Hitler menace and stood up to it.

That is why Poland, whom Britain and her friends have distrusted and hated almost as much as they have Hitler, is today Britain's Number One protege, holding her first unconditional pledge of military assistance.

The tall, saturnine Beck, soft-spoken and deadly, put the final spoke in Chamberlain's plan to let time and economics work for Britain while weaker nations perished. The British Prime Minister couldn't manipulate Beck as he had Beneš, yet had hoped he would be willing to postpone the final issue by giving Hitler Danzig or a slice of Polish Corridor.

Then Hitler made his demand and the hard-boiled Beck said NO. That meant war if Hitler persisted, a war in which both Beck and Chamberlain knew Britain would be involved, willy nilly. To safeguard her strategic leadership she had to come out quickly with her positive assurance, startling the world—but not Poland. Beck, remembering Czechoslovakia, insisted on more definite commitments. In his London visit, he specified them. Then, back in Warsaw with his pact, he kept Chamberlain waiting for his signature.

The Polish foreign doctrine as evolved by Pilsudski and Beck has been built on friendship for everybody and confidence in nobody. Beck's last public formulation of it, in an interview he gave me this January, made it clear that all Poland's defensive alliances from the beginning, mutually contradictory, are still on the books.

But the truth is, Beck—like Hitler—never has and will not now, short of actual fighting, depend upon alliances; his real weapon, backed by Poland's perpetual preparedness, has been, and will continue to be the maneuver.

Not sufficiently stressed in the Hitler saga has been the extra-ordinary Beck record of having, up to the present, out-Hitlered Hitler. He has compelled the Fuehrer to cry quits on occasion.

When Hitler first took up full blast the German Republic's revisionist campaign against Poland, Poland promptly foresaw his rising power. She saw also, as Czechoslovakia failed to, that Britain and France could not be depended on to take decisive steps against him. Without consulting France, though retaining their French alliance, Beck and Pilsudski proceeded to bludgeon Hitler out of his anti-Polish projects.

They succeeded by being hard-boiled and meaning it. The first to use his own shotgun diplomacy defensively against him, they told him a single offensive step meant instant war.

Hitler at once called off the long-standing Poland-revision program and (January 26, 1934), signed the German-Polish Non-Aggression pact he now talks of cancelling, permitting Poland to reserve her prior French and Rumanian alliances.

One would expect all this to have branded Beck as Hitler Aversion No. 1 Yet a member of Beck's staff who ought to know, tells me the two men get on capably together. Surrounded by thick-skinned yes-men and apprehensive "appeasers", the Nazi leader may enjoy his encounters with one man he cannot intimidate or out-bluff, but who has had the sense to appreciate his talents from the beginning, one who can speak with him, too, in his own Viennese German.

Fact is, the two men are not unlike in many ways. Both are extraordinarily tenacious. Hitler acts swiftly and inflexibly, after long pondering. Beck said to me recently: "I investigate thoroughly first of all, then make a quick decision not to be changed during its execution."

Both are ruthless and take long chances: as witness Beck's seizure of Teschen during the Czech crack-up. Both have an amazing sense of timing. Beck slapped down his ultimatum on Lithuania under cover of the excitement luss. Beck, like Hitler, values his luss. Beck, like Hitler, values his hard pragmatic schooling in underground revolutionary activity (prior to the Polish Republic), and his World War fighting record. Characteristically, he told me: "I think war experience is valuable for everyone." Neither can be accused of lacking his own brand of courage.

quired two modern garbage removal units and the department of public works replaced some of its older equipment.

Items of this character must hold a position of preference. When all city departments have a maximum of equipment to perform all services demanded of them, the time for city expenditures in other directions, such as for a community recreation center, will be at hand.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—The Coney Islanders are getting their Midway ready, tuning up the callopes, scraping the hot dog grill, gargling the barker's larynx, and sweeping up Surf Avenue—all in preparation for a summertime boom.

For Coney expects to profit, rather than lose, by the World's Fair at Flushing Meadows and the folk with "sand in their shoes," are giving Coney a beauty facial for the visitors. Sand in their shoes? That's Coney Island talk for folk who become sentimentally attached to their garish resort and are reluctant to shake Coney's sands out of their footgear.

One with sand in his shoes is Charlie Salatioli, who has spent the past decade of his life at Steeplechase, manning the controls that blow air up the valves and set milady's skirts flying above the knees. For ten years his control room has been within a paper mache elephant where he works and lunches and often sleeps. And it is his favorite occupation, besides his sole one. Nevertheless, Charlie doesn't care much for practical jokes off company time.

Professional Heart-stopper

Of Coney Islanders like Charlie, there is a small but colorful legion. Oscar Krahe probably is the leading thrill-rider in Coney. His pride and joy at the moment is The Flying Turns. But in the past quarter of a century, he has been inventing and designing almost every other stomach-turning, heart-stopping, ricocheting loop-the-loop on the midway.

He has ridden them all thousands of times and he has owned and operated a number of them. Not even the most vertical spill would cause him to bat an eyelash now. Nevertheless, he still enjoys a dozen spins each day on The Flying Turns. That's because he is sentimental about aviation, having attempted to build his own plane soon after the Wright Brothers went up in theirs at Kitty Hawk. His never flew, of course, and the Flying Turns, I guess, is his tardy consolation.

Back in the mauve decade, Richard Canfield was the most fabulous gambling impresario in New York. Millions changed hands over his roulette table.

What's in a name? Now Fred Canfield (no kin) is the king of chance on Coney Island. He is the island's leading game concessionaire—everything from Fascination to Bingo—and he is in love with his profession.

For, after his bingo establishments draw to their normal close this summer, Canfield will wander over—as he always has—to the Cosmo Cafe, on Coney's fringe, and there with his buddies play—bingo.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—it is not supposed to be known, but the principal obstacle to Roosevelt on reorganization is personality and prima donna stuff. He can't shift bureaucrats away from chiefs who are powerful with Congress and who don't want them shifted.

Big surprise package Roosevelt has been working on for some time is the transfer of RFC Chairman Jesse Jones to be held of an expanded Commerce Department, with Commerce Secretary Hopkins transferred to be Secretary of the Navy. Two motives are behind this:

1. To give the Navy Department, at this crucial time, an active executive as its chief.

2. To put various lending agencies, such as the RFC, Commodity Credit Corporation, Export-Import Bank, Home Owners Loan Corporation, Farm Credit Administration and Federal Housing Administration, all under the Commerce Department.

Roosevelt's first plan was to lump these all under Harry Hopkins, but this was spliced by Jesse Jones. Jesse didn't like the idea of giving up his present independent status as RFC Chairman and working under Hopkins.

So Jesse scammed up to Capitol Hill and proceeded to enlist his many friends in a "Stop-Roosevelt-from-Transferring-the-RFC" movement. Jesse, a Texan, has powerful friends in Congress, among them Vice President Garner. They promptly served notice on the White House that Jesse Jones was not to be subordinated to a New Deal Cabinet member.

—GUN-SHY FDR—

After his bitter experience over Tom Amle's appointment to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Roosevelt has become gun-shy regarding Senate confirmations, so he decided not to risk a fight over Jesse Jones and his RFC.

Instead he turned toward the Navy, which is in a woful condition as to its civilian executives. Secretary of the Navy Swanson has striven desperately to hold up his end, but his 77 years and falling health have made it almost impossible. When he attends Cabinet meetings, Swanson has to wait until his aide enters the room to help him up from his chair.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison also has been stricken with a serious eye ailment and cannot resume work for some time.

Roosevelt is most fond of Swanson and has hesitated about replacing him. The Secretary of the Navy has no income other than his government salary. However, the needs of the Navy, which are vital at this period of renewed building, have convinced the President that personnel changes are necessary.

—GARNER AND TOURIST—

Ambling by the crowded Senate restaurant on the ground floor of the Capitol, silver-hatched Jack Garner was stopped by a young woman who asked to be directed to a rest room. Startled, the Vice President beckoned urgently to a nearby guard, who ran over and inquired solicitously, "Yes, Mr. Garner?"

"Heavens!" gasped the lady tourist "are you the Vice President?" Why, I thought you were just another employe around here.

Garner waited to hear no more. Abandoning both the gaping woman and the grinning policeman, he dashed into the dining room and hustled toward a side entrance.

—SENATE SPEEDSTER—

The Senate has a new speed champ. Senator Homer Bone, wiry Washingtonian, has been dethroned as fastest talker in the chamber by Senator Charles W. Tobey, plump New Hampshire rookie.

One of the fleetest speakers in the history of the Senate, Bone frequently hits a high of 300 words a minute. But he isn't in Tobey's class. The newcomer tears along at a steady rate of around 400 words a minute.

That is bad enough for the official reporters, but what makes it worse is that Tobey has an impediment in his speech which makes it extremely difficult to understand him. When he came to the Senate he warned the shorthand aces about his shortcoming.

"Newspapermen back home called me a 'reporter killer,'" he said. "I'm going to be a tough customer for you to handle and I'll help you in any way you suggest."

Note—The average flow of Senate oratory is 150 words a minute. The late Senator J. "Ham" Lewis of Illinois was a slow talker but difficult to "take" because of the extreme length of his sentences. Once he delivered a sentence 1100 words long.

Sports fans can easily tell when it's time to put on the screens. Three weeks before the hockey play-offs start.

Lines for Living

By Barton Rex Poque

WHEN I THINK OF YOU I think of the road, The open road and the sky, The lonely night and the lacy stars, And a good gold dawn by and by.

When I think of you I think of the woods, The sighing woods, and the streams, And the leafy lodge with room enough For a dog and us and dreams.

When I think of you I think of a fire, An open fire on a hill, That overlooks the setting sun, And shelters a whip-poor-will.

When I think of you I think of a hand, A soft, white hand in mine, And the will to climb to the top of the world, And stand in the white sunshine.

But the road runs on, and the fire burns low, And the stars are out of the sky, There's no white hand in mine tonight, Nor the love to guide me by.

TRAINING SHIP NOW IN SERVICE

Arntzen Replaces Velle Monocoque and Stinson

A new training ship, recently purchased by Lieut. Walter Arntzen, local flying instructor and Escanaba airport manager, has gone into service at the local airport. It replaces a Velle monocoque and the big Stinson which Arntzen had operated here for a number of years.

The new plane, an Aerona Chief, is powered with a 50 horsepower Franklin motor and has a top speed of 105 miles per hour. Its cruising speed is 90 miles per hour. It seats two persons, side by side, and has a luggage compartment directly behind the seat. It is equipped with dual controls for student flying.

Only standard instruments are installed in the ship at present, but Arntzen stated yesterday that he plans to put in all equipment necessary for blind flying. This will include a radio, compass, bank and turn indicator, rate of climb indicator, air speed indicator, and a sensitive altimeter. The radio will also be used for beam flying, when on courses where beams are in operation.

The monocoque, which had been in use at the local field since last summer, was sold to Earl Brukhart of Wilson. The Stinson was traded in to Earl Gustafson of Menominee, agent for the Aerona company. The big ship had seen years of service here, and was used for passenger flights from Escanaba to Washington Island and many points in Lower Michigan, Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula. Last summer it carried the mail in a National Air Mail Week flight from Menominee to Sault Ste. Marie.

Humor At Hearing On Straits Bridge

Washington—A little political humor found its way into the Straits bridge hearings on Thursday.

During the questioning of Professor James Cissel by Rep. James Wadsworth of New York it was brought out that during the past winter a number of Escanaba Republicans had to go around by Chicago to attend the Flint convention.

"Oh, we'll have to do something about that. The need for a bridge is clear to me already," mused Wadsworth amid a roar of laughter from the Bradley contingent of Chamber of Commerce secretaries and newspapermen.

Michigan Mirror

Doings About Capitol

Lansing—The capitol circus is topy-turvy. Sideshows over the McKay bridge fee and state purchasing investigations, just to mention two stellar attractions, are stealing the spotlight from the legislative big tent.

The net result is confusion, and a number of legislative veterans have come to the conclusion that they should attend to four major problems—welfare, civil service, labor and the budget—and go home.

The death of Governor Fitzgerald, the advent of a new leader and the subsequent inquiries which have centered around the convention manipulators, Frank McKay and Edward Barnard, have all tended to impede action in the house and senate.

The fourth month is drawing to a close, and comparatively little has been accomplished. This is not intended as sarcasm. Circumstances have been most unusual.

PARTY PURGE

While headlines hint of new sensations in connection with McKay and the Republican party, a group of legislators at Lansing is grimly determined to purge the party in Michigan of the growing suspicion that conventions have been controlled in recent years by big city bosses.

The fiery, crusading Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, in Wayne county, led a band of young Republicans in the house to effect passage of a bill aimed at the clipping of Barnard's wings at Detroit. In the senate the bill encountered an unfriendly committee. A substitute bill was hurriedly introduced by Senator D. Hale Brake of Stanton.

With the McKay inquiry adding fuel to the flames, the Eaton-Brake allies are demanding a thorough "clean-up" of the party, once and for all. Apprehensive lest the party be accused of conducting a "whitewashing" investigation, James Thomson, chairman of the Republican state central committee, sent an invitation to Attorney General Frank Murphy at Washington for action by G-men. Murphy is said to have smiled cryptically at the letter and remarked: "He is just two weeks late."

Department of justice agents have been sifting possible evidence of fraud in connection with the Blue Water bridge financing. While it is very doubtful whether anything worthy of grand jury consideration will be found, Murphy is reported to be hopeful that G-men will be able to substantiate the charge which the New Deal governor made frequently last fall that gambling interests were contributors to the Fitzgerald campaign chest. Thomson invites an inquiry, pointing out that the committee has a treasury deficit of $43,000.

Messrs. Eaton and Brake have grabbed hold of the lion by the tail, or, in language of the street, the party purge has become a "hot potato". Somebody's hands are sure to be burned!

DUNKEL-BROWN FEUD

When Governor Luren D. Dickinson announced shortly after taking the oath of office that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself, party leaders immediately began to speculate on (1) whom would Dickinson appoint to be lieutenant-governor? (2) who would be the Republican nominee for governor in 1940?

The governor let it be known that he would not select his successor as lieutenant-governor during the legislative session, and probably would make no choice at all.

As for the 1940 nomination, capital observers began to survey the "cabinet" to weigh possibilities.

Simultaneously, while the McKay sideshow was getting a full house, Auditor General Vernon J. Brown precipitated a counter attack with a disclosure about cancellation of state purchasing orders involving many thousands of dollars, and substitute orders at higher prices.

State Treasurer Miller Dunkel, who with Brown and Thomas Reed are responsible for state purchases, promptly branded Brown as a publicity seeker and declared openly that he (Brown) was courting the nomination in 1940. Dunkel said that the higher prices could be explained.

Thus, the first inter-cabinet feud has started.

The decision of Governor Dickinson to sign a bill appropriating $2,500,000 for public school tuition comes as a relief to educators.

Grover C. Dillman, director of the state budget, recommended that this amount be authorized as an advance payment on the school's allocation of state money for the coming fiscal year. Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction, reported that none of the financially distressed districts would have to close public schools. Rep. John P. Eeple, chairman of the house ways and means committee, added encouragement to the picture by saying that the committee had agreed upon a $37,000,000 allocation for the schools and that it might not be necessary to deduct the $2,500,000 from that sum.

Dillman opined: "The state is very sound financially. Its net debt is only some $5 per capita, and only 12 states have a lower

TOM GARTLAND PASSES AWAY

Body Found In Harbor Had Been Ill for Long Time

The body of Tom Gartland, 78, who resided at 318 South Third street, was found floating in the water at the municipal yacht harbor by city employees early yesterday morning when they reported for work.

There was only a slight cut on his head and Coroner Kevill Murphy said the case was a suicide. Gartland had been ill for some time and was to have submitted to an operation for cancer yesterday. He was last seen about 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the lower end of Ludington street.

Gartland has no known relatives in this city but is believed to have a brother in Cheboygan and another in Toronto, Canada. The body was taken to the Murphy Funeral Home to be prepared for burial. Arrangements are incomplete.

Travelers on the Trans-Siberian railway bring their own teakettles. First-class passengers are furnished with hot water, while others obtain it at special hot-water taps at station stops. Many of the passengers make the seven-day journey with their own food supplies.

With separate bills passed by the house and senate, the final measure will be agreed upon in conference committee.

The Lansing sideshows, however, have taken much of the "heat" off labor and civil service. European headlines, too, are diverting the voter's attention from the legislative scene.

C&NW TO CARRY MEMOMINEE ORE

Pool Agreement to Enter Third Season; Ore Now In Yards

Iron River.—For the third season, ore from the mines of the Iron River district will be shipped over North Western line tracks via Florence and Iron Mountain to the docks at Escanaba. In the pool service agreement between the North Western and Milwaukee roads, the equipment of both lines will be used in hauling the long ore trains over the 90-mile route and the revenues will be shared on a 60-40 basis. Prior to 1937, the Milwaukee road hauled a portion of the district's ore tonnage over its own tracks to Channing and from there via Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad rails to Escanaba.

The M. A. Hanna mines on the Menominee range and the Verona Mining company properties, here and at Vulcan, are expected to be the first to send shipments of ore through to the docks.

Early estimates indicate that about two and one-half million tons of ore will pass through the Escanaba docks this year, about twice as much as was handled during the 1938 season.

The peak season of recent years was 1937, when 3,147,741 tons were shipped. In that year, the carryover Chief Wawatam crushed a path for five ore carriers through the ice of the harbor to open the port to navigation.

Consumption of Lake Superior iron ore in March totaled 3,316,691 gross tons, according to figures of the Lake Superior Iron Ore association.

This compares with 2,852,540 tons in February and 1,980,182 tons in March, 1938. The March consumption was the largest total since October, 1937, when 4,203,873 tons was consumed.

Furnaces in blast March 31, 1939, numbered 97 out of 189 available, an increase of four during the month.

Ore on hand at furnaces and Lake Erie docks April 1 amounted to 25,872,124 tons comparing with 28,840,053 tons on hand Feb. 1, and 35,223,309 tons on hand April 1, 1938.

The amount of ore on hand April 1 was the smallest since July 1, 1937, when there was 24,394,929 tons.

Townsend Speaker Will Tell Of Plan At Meeting Friday

Conservation Department Makes Plans for Season

Regional and district officers, fire wardens, towerman and equipment operators of the Michigan department of conservation met at the local headquarters yesterday for a discussion of plans for prevention and suppression of fires in this district this year.

The meeting was in charge of L. N. Jones, regional supervisor, Milton Bergman, fire technician, and Clare Farwell, district supervisor.

Last year was the most successful in the history of the department for low fire losses, frequent and well spaced rains aiding greatly. Department officials are not optimistic in believing that the season will again be as favorable and are making plans for efficient fighting of any fires which might break out.

Yesterdays' warm weather brought the fire hazard up to class four and a warning was issued to all persons wishing to burn grass or brush must secure permits from officers, wardens, Lundgaard's store at Cornell, Rock Coop and Schoen's at Perronville.

Those who attended yesterday's meetings here included: L. N. Jones regional supervisor; Milt Bergman, fire technician; Clare Farwell, district supervisor; Robert Furlong, assistant supervisor; A. L. McNeil, clerk; George Hughes, equipment operator; Allen Tweedy of Rapid River; Willard Schwartz, of Escanaba; Omar Sanderson of Escanaba; John Shemky of Hermansville; Clarence Lienna of Stephenson, conservation officers; Robert Frank of Stephenson, Chas. Koehn of Rapid River, August Meyer of Escanaba, Chas. O'Neil of Escanaba, Wm. Haglund of Escanaba, fire wardens; Miles Froberg, Flat Rock tower, Henry Nelson of Rapid River tower, Guy Ohman of Falthorn tower, Leslie Vekery of Spalding tower, Gerald Hendrickson of Stephenson tower, towermen.

MANY WORKERS LOSE BENEFITS

Must File MUCC Claims Within 14 Days of Period

Detroit, April 26.—Many workers face the loss of benefits for partial unemployment to which they may be entitled because of their failure to file claims within the period set down by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission, it was announced today by John C. Townsend, executive director of the commission.

"To receive benefits for partial unemployment," Townsend explained, "eligible workers MUST file their claims not later than fourteen days from the end of the period for which they claim the benefits."

"This means simply that a worker entitled to partial benefits for the month of April must file his claim for those benefits not later than May 14. Only under exceptional circumstances will the commission accept claims presented after the 14-day period has expired.

"Reports from the 55 offices maintained by the commission indicate a large number of workers, for some unknown reason, are waiting until after the required 14 days to file their claim. Under the law, the only thing the commission can do is to deny such claims."

Townsend urged all workers who feel they may be entitled to either partial or total benefits to file their claims immediately and preclude the chance of being denied their benefits because of delay.

The Escanaba office of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation commission has paid out a total of $132,838.05 since it began operations. FIRE FIGHTERS HOLD MEETING

Conservation Department Makes Plans for Season

Regional and district officers, fire wardens, towerman and equipment operators of the Michigan department of conservation met at the local headquarters yesterday for a discussion of plans for prevention and suppression of fires in this district this year.

The meeting was in charge of L. N. Jones, regional supervisor, Milton Bergman, fire technician, and Clare Farwell, district supervisor.

Last year was the most successful in the history of the department for low fire losses, frequent and well spaced rains aiding greatly. Department officials are not optimistic in believing that the season will again be as favorable and are making plans for efficient fighting of any fires which might break out.

Yesterdays' warm weather brought the fire hazard up to class four and a warning was issued to all persons wishing to burn grass or brush must secure permits from officers, wardens, Lundgaard's store at Cornell, Rock Coop and Schoen's at Perronville.

Those who attended yesterday's meetings here included: L. N. Jones regional supervisor; Milt Bergman, fire technician; Clare Farwell, district supervisor; Robert Furlong, assistant supervisor; A. L. McNeil, clerk; George Hughes, equipment operator; Allen Tweedy of Rapid River; Willard Schwartz, of Escanaba; Omar Sanderson of Escanaba; John Shemky of Hermansville; Clarence Lienna of Stephenson, conservation officers; Robert Frank of Stephenson, Chas. Koehn of Rapid River, August Meyer of Escanaba, Chas. O'Neil of Escanaba, Wm. Haglund of Escanaba, fire wardens; Miles Froberg, Flat Rock tower, Henry Nelson of Rapid River tower, Guy Ohman of Falthorn tower, Leslie Vekery of Spalding tower, Gerald Hendrickson of Stephenson tower, towermen.

Prayer Day Called To Help Taxpayers

Lansing, April 26 (AP)—The Rev. J. Frank Norris, Detroit clergyman, said today he has been designated to "integrate" Governor Dickinson's "day of prayer for the taxpayer" in churches throughout the state Sunday.

The governor has called upon taxpayers to form their own lobby against extravagance in government, and asked churches to conduct special services Sunday to pray that the legislature will have strength to ignore the pleadings of pretentious groups asking for big appropriations.

The minister, pastor of the Temple Baptist church in Detroit, said he would deliver a radio address Sunday morning to lead the prayer day.

Happy Relief From Painful Backache

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or easy passage with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BERRY STARTS SEVENTH YEAR

Head of Relief Work In Peninsula Observes Anniversary

Iron River, April 26.—Six years of continuous work as upper peninsula field representative for the state emergency welfare relief commission was observed April 23 by Walter M. Berry, of Caspian, who began his seventh year yesterday in the bustling regional office in Iron Mountain.

Six years ago Berry was drafted, along with other socially trained and minded Michigan men, to organize and direct the tremendous task of distributing relief to the state's unemployed and destitute. Berry was assigned to the upper peninsula, pitifully stricken by the stagnation of its few industries, and although major political guns were intermittently turned on him, as well as on other key men in relief administration, he still serves in his original capacity, the last of the field representatives called to public service at the inception of the emergency relief program.

Only one other person, Miss Ella Lee, of the state office in Lansing, remains of the original organizing, administrative and supervisory group of seven persons, including Fred Johnson and William Haber, former state relief directors, who were drafted into service to get the program under way. In each instance the job sought the person and not the person the job and without consideration or reference to political beliefs or affiliations.

Bans Politics

"It has been my privilege to serve the state, and particularly the upper peninsula with its tremendous relief load, and special problems of need, under four successive gubernatorial regimes and the various state relief commissions and state administrators and I am happy to bear witness to the fact that in not one single instance have I been requested or pressured by any governor, commissioner, or administrator to conduct the affairs of my office on a political or other discriminatory basis," Berry said.

"On the other hand, admonitions to the contrary have been the rule and we have so operated.

"In line of duty, it was my responsibility to recommend to the state commission the appointment of members of county relief commissions. Only in this connection regarding the political party affiliation of the individual and then only for the sole purpose of keeping each commission bi-partisan or non-political, which is fundamentally good relief policy. In approving individual members of each county relief staff we have not to make our first inquiry regarding the politics of the person to be employed. We have been motivated always by the primary desire to find the person best qualified for the job."

The competency of relief supervision in the 15 counties of the upper peninsula in charge of Berry may be judged by the fact that although millions of dollars have been disbursed by the Emergency Relief commission, no case of fraud or misappropriation by any employee has been reported. Generally, a high degree of service has been given by staff members, most of whom are comparatively underpaid for the work they do.

County commission members, according to Berry, have taken their responsibilities seriously and have served without pay. Many have held office from the beginning of the program nearly six years ago and deserve public recognition.

Prior to service with the state emergency relief commission, Berry was director of the Caspian Community Center, an institution widely known through the nation for its mission work which is being carried on under Mrs. Frances Berry. The center's program and physical plant was expanded

FRANK YOUNGS DIES

Iron River—Frank M. Youngs, 58, superintendent of the Idle Smuggler, or Youngs mine in Gaasra, died suddenly from a heart attack while visiting the property Saturday noon.

No one was present when he was stricken, but it is believed he collapsed near the shaft and apparently weakened when he attempted to walk to a spring to get water. Foot and hand marks on the snow along the bank of a small creek running from the Baltic mine indicated how he had struggled. The body with just the head in the water was discovered by a shacker living near the mine. The creek, approximately 100 feet from the shaft, is only a foot deep.

Mr. Youngs was born in Algoma, Wis., on February 21, 1881. He was graduated from high school there and attended the University of Wisconsin for two years. He came to Iron River in 1900.

LOSS IN BANK FIRE $75,000

Estimates of Damage In Munising Blaze Raised After Inspection

Munising, April 26.—Estimates of the fire damage to the First National bank building climbed to $75,000 here today after an inspection of the building had been completed. An early estimate set the loss at $50,000.

The fire broke out early Tuesday morning some time after City Patrolman Ernest Schultz had passed the building at 3:30 a. m. At about 4 o'clock he noticed the blaze coming from the basement of the building and the front of the bank. The siren system installed in the fire hall recently, failed to operate because of a blown fuse and the city truck siren and the Munising Paper company siren were used to sound the alarm.

The fire destroyed the offices of the Munising News, weekly newspaper and job printing firm, and gutted the First National Bank's offices. Other offices in the building suffered smoke and water damage. The bank opened for business in the show room of the Cox Chevrolet Sales this morning. Equipment used in the old post-office in the bank building was pressed into service in the show room by the employees. The Munising News plans the publication of a four page paper on Friday, utilizing the printing plant of the Independent Press, who produce the weekly Alger County Independent. The Independent's publication day is Thursday. The Munising News ordinarily publishes an eight-page weekly. Offices for the Munising News were set up in quarters with the Mining Journal company in the People's State Bank building. Dr. L. B. Ruggles, dentist, whose office suffered some water and smoke damage, moved his equipment to the Cowell building across the street and will be open for business there. The offices of the Alger County Taxpayers' association were moved to occupy quarters with G. A. Baldwin in the bank building. Baldwin's offices were not damaged by the fire. Dr. P. N. Wharton's offices and equipment were damaged by the fire and water seriously. The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company lumber department offices were damaged by an explosion. The office of Dr. Haldor Barnes also suffered from the explosion.

Investigation of the cause of the fire was expected to be started here on Thursday afternoon in an effort to determine the reason for the blaze.

The bank building, a red sandstone structure, was constructed in 1896. No definite plans for repairing or rebuilding have been made as yet.

High Water Spoils Trout Prospects In Alger District

Munising, April 26.—Alger county Isaac Waltons, lured by the pull of a fighting brook or rainbow trout on the line, Saturday will take to the county's streams for the opening day of the fishing season. High water will leave little hope for a good catch, according to the opinion of many. Most of the streams are swollen by the rain and warm weather of the last week and fly fishermen will probably have little luck on the opening day.

Many of the fishermen who last year made the trip to their favorite fishing spots this year will bide their time and wait until the water has dropped. Heavy snow, during the winter, well over 200 inches for Munising, has helped to feed the streams and swell them so that in many places they are overflowing their banks.

The lowly worm may achieve a place of honor on the opening day of the season and many fishermen will probably seek to lure fish with that bait.

An estimated 25,000 fishermen will try their luck on the opening day. More than 100,000 persons are expected to fish in the waters of the state during this year's season.

The 1939 resident fishing license is $1 and the non-resident is $2. The special non-resident ten-day license is also $1. All species of game fish except grayling may be taken on these licenses during the season. Any person over 17 years of age fishing in inland waters is required to have a license.

VETERAN RETIRED

Marquette—After 55 years of railroad service, 51 of which were spent in Marquette, John H. Block, 70 years of age, of 348 East Hewitt avenue, has retired from active duty, it was announced yesterday by Lake Superior and Ishpeming railroad company officials.

For 43 years Mr. Block has served the L. S. & I. as train dispatcher. He was chief dispatcher for 15 years, retiring from that position of his own accord. He was with the Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon railroad, and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic for 12 years before his employment with the L.S. & I.

DIAL PHONES AT BARK RIVER

Automatic Service Will Be Installed This Coming Summer

Bark River, April 26 (Special)—Dial telephone service is to be supplied to Bark River residents upon the completion of a $7,000 project which the Michigan Bell Telephone company is planning here, according to O. Sundquist of Escanaba, manager for the company in this area. Bark River at present has the magneto type of manual service.

The dial central office equipment will be installed in a building leased from Albert E. Johnson, across old US-41 from the present office. It is expected that the work will be gotten under way about the middle of July. Installation will be made by the Western Electric company, manufacturing and supply branch of the Bell system. Crews of Michigan Bell workmen will improve and add to the outdoor telephone plant. The engineering has been completed.

The project will include the placing of dial telephones on the premises of the company's customers. Following the cutover to the new type of service, the date for which likely will be by early fall, the old instruments will be removed. Customers will be advised by letter in advance that representatives of the company will call to install the new telephones, and will be instructed in the use of the dial instruments at the time of installation, Mr. Sundquist says.

How to Operate

The new dial central office apparatus is designed to function automatically to make the connection with a called local telephone when the person making the call operates a dial on his own telephone. Should the calling party require the assistance of an operator in securing a local connection, or wish to place a long distance call, he will dial "0," which will cause his line to be connected with that of an operator, who will secure the desired connection. Calls for the time of day, or to the telephone business office, repair service, information, or other departments of the telephone company, also will be made by dialing "0" and asking the operator for the desired service or connection.

Special features of the new system will include the audible ringing and audible busy signal, and the dial tone. The audible ringing signal is a soft "bur-r-ring" sound heard in the telephone receiver by the calling party while the bell of the called telephone is being rung. The audible busy signal is a rapid "buzz-buzz" heard in the receiver when the called telephone, or another telephone on the same line, is busy. When a person places the receiver to his ear with the intention of dialing a number, he will hear the steady humming of the dial tone, which will indicate that the central office equipment is ready to take a call and make the desired connection. It also will be a signal to the calling party to begin dialing. The dial tone will not be heard, however, if the calling person's circuit is being used, as might be possible in the case of a party line.

Will Change Numbers

Coincident with the change to the new type of service, Mr. Sundquist explains, it will be necessary to change the numbers of all telephones served by the Bark River exchange. That will make necessary the issuance of a new telephone directory, which will be distributed before the cutover to the new equipment. Because of the necessity for changing all local telephone numbers, the telephone manager suggests that, at the time of the switch to dial service, all old telephone directories and personal lists of telephone numbers be destroyed in order to eliminate, as far as possible, the dialing of wrong numbers. He also recommends that business people planning to advertise their telephone numbers on stationary, vehicles, in newspapers or otherwise, refrain from doing so until the new numbers are announced.

MR. E. M. HAZNAW

said Mr. E. M. Haznaw, 1124 River Drive, Watertown, Wisconsin. "For the past seven or eight years muscular aches and pains had caused me continual suffering which gradually grew worse. This was aggravated by a chronic case of constipation which allowed the clogging of toxic impurities. At times I felt I could not stand the awful pain in my back, shoulders and limbs which caused me such discomfort. I was actually in such a crippled condition I could not raise my arms to my head. Medicine after medicine failed to help me and I did not know where to turn next when friends recommended that I give Kru-Gon a trial."

"This laxative-tonic proved to be just what I had been needing for years," continued Mrs. Haznaw. "For the first time in several years I am feeling like my former self. Those dreadful aches and pains have been relieved and I have full use of my arms and hands and really feel like a different person. This was all made possible by the thorough action of Kru-Gon in giving me proper elimination of waste impurities and regular bowel action. . . . It was one medicine that did not disappoint."

Kru-Gon is sold by the West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

THREE PUPILS GET PUBLICITY

Hermansville Students Draw Comment In Magazines

Hermansville, April 25—During the past month three students have received considerable publicity due to two articles appearing in national publications. The first story was about the Machalk twins which appeared in a national Croation paper, the Zajednicar, and the other one was a story about Clarence Ryberg which appeared in the Michigan Farmer and was written by Henry Wolfe of Escanaba. Both stories carried pictures of the local students. The article which appeared in the Michigan Farmer last week read as follows:

U. P. Potatoes Win Again
 "Northern Michigan can grow the best potatoes in the United States," according to Clarence Ryberg, 4-H club member, Smith-Hughes student and a member of the senior class at Hermansville high school. His classmates listen attentively when Clarence talks about potatoes because he has demonstrated that he knows what he is talking about.

They know that the sample of fine Russet Rurala which young Ryberg selected at digging time from his field on his father's Menominee County farm placed first in the 4-H club class at Menominee County Potato Show and first in the Russet class of the 4-H club exhibit at the Upper Peninsula Potato Show in Escanaba last fall.

His classmates also know that these same potatoes looked too good to end their career at the Escanaba show so Clarence carefully repacked them, stored them in his cool root cellar for a few weeks and then sent them to Chicago to be entered in the Russet Rural section of the National 4-H Club Potato Show. There his Russets placed first, national competition bringing new honors to the upper peninsula potato-land and orders for seed potatoes to their youthful grower from several states.

Clarence Ryberg at Hermansville is the second upper peninsula high school boy to win high honors on his potatoes this past year. The first, William Barion, Escanaba High School senior, produced a higher yield per acre than any grower in Delta County and was second among all of the growers in the upper peninsula with a yield of 478 bushels to the acre.

Other Michigan growers will have to look to their laurels when these young fellows begin growing potatoes in earnest.

Ranking Seniors Announced
 The valedictorian and salutatorian of the graduating class were announced last week. The valedictorian, the student with the best grades over the four year period in high school will be Margaret Faccio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Faccio. The salutatorian, which is the second ranking senior will be Rita Landerville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Landerville.

The other ranking seniors listed alphabetically are Ruth Click, George Earle, Marjorie Fish, Evelyn Halterman, Dorothy Kobasick, Anna Machalk, John Parish, Beatrice Perry, and Francis Posig.

Residence Changes
 The regular spring moving is well under way here. In the past month or so the following families have shifted homes either to another house in Hermansville or to another community: Leonard Schultz, Gotfrid Logman, John Stokero, Clarence Christian, Ivan Kobasick. There are also at least four other families contemplating moving in the near future.

Senior Play
 Rehearsals for the senior class play, "Here Comes the Prince" are progressing very well and they expect to present it early in May. It is expected that this comedy in three acts by Anne Coulter Martens will amuse young and old. The plot turns on the troubles and hinders of a young man who masquerades as a woman and a young woman who passes herself off as a prince who actually arrives and almost spoils all the plans of the conspirators. An absent-minded professor, an ambitious social climber and other eccentric characters add to the excitement and confusion. Naturally all is made straight at the conclusion of the third act.

Growth Of State Employment Service Traced By Escanaba Office Manager

The development of the Michigan State Employment Service, and its basic aims and purposes, are described in the following article, prepared by Whitney R. Dixon, manager of the local employment service office. Due to changes since the department was created as the National Reemployment Service, a number of individuals are not acquainted with the service as it is now operating.

This free public employment service was organized several years ago under the name of the National Reemployment Service. Under the terms of the Wagner Peyer Act of 1933, there was to be created in the various states, State Employment Services set up according to the specifications of the United States Employment Service which was also created by the Act.

One of the major purposes of the Social Security Act was to provide for cooperation between the States and the Federal Government in the establishment of State unemployment compensation laws and provision was made for grants to the States to cover the cost of administering approved State unemployment compensation laws if they meet general requirements.

In this regard, the legislature of the State of Michigan passed in 1936 the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act with Amendments in 1937, creating the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission; to provide for the cooperation of this State and compliance with the provision of the Social Security Act and the Wagner-Peyer Act; to provide for the establishment and maintenance of free public employment offices, etc.

Has Two Divisions
 As a result, there was created within the Compensation Commission, two divisions: the Unemployment Compensation Division and the State Employment Service. Branch offices of the State Employment Service were established in 1938 with Unemployment Compensation Division representatives in all offices. Unemployment benefits were first paid in Michigan in July 1938 through the offices of the Michigan State Employment Service who were given the responsibility of accepting and processing claims for unemployment compensation.

In addition to these functions of Unemployment Compensation procedures, the State Employment Service has equally important purposes. Under the original NRS, a great deal of the work in the past was the furnishing of the workers to public projects. The State Employment Service, a division of the Compensation Commission as it is now, has the additional aim of placing as many as possible men and women in employment in private industries.

In this respect, the Service has the following procedures: Unemployed individuals are registered with the service. His work experience, education, description etc. are entered on a permanent registration card which is filed in local office, not according to person's name, but according to the occupational classification that individual. In other words, if the person has been a plumber for several years, the son's card will be under classification "stonemason, legal, public etc." as a plumber. This classification enables the service to quickly qualify individuals for a particular type of work when an employer desiring who has had that type of experience.

Contacts Being Made
 Also in connection with inasmuch as the service is new, it is necessary to have an intensive program of contacts with the various employers in the vicinity served by the service. These contacts are made with the various employers with the various functions and procedures as a result, when the employment problems in the area are utilized, as much as the facilities of this free employment service in business.

The State Employment Service does not technically place in jobs; it acts as a referral agency only. When an order is received from an employer for a particular type of worker, it selects several of the best qualified individuals which are found under particular work classifications and refers these workers to the employer for his selection. By this, the State Employment Service eliminates a lot of time and effort by the employer or his personnel department, by eliminating a number of job applicants who could not be considered for the position because they are not the qualifying experience, education, or personality. Employers throughout the state of Michigan are using the services of the State Employment Service more and more every day. They are fast realizing that this free public employment service can eliminate for them a lot of unnecessary effort, time and expense.

The local manager of the Escanaba office of the service extends an open invitation to employers in this vicinity to visit the office and inspect the facilities. He also offers the free services of the service in any personnel problems they might have. And in so far as the service is supported in part by both state and federal monies, there is no charge whatever to either the employer or the employee.

The Michigan Employment Service has as its primary aim, the bringing together of the job and the man, and to this end they are striving to act as a clearing house for the employer who needs workers, and the workers who need a job.

Lancour-Patrick
Among the pretty weddings of the spring season was that of Miss M. Lancour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lancour, 1412 Lake Shore Drive, and Joseph Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Patrick of Schaffer.

The ceremony took place at St. Anne's church at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning with Rev. Fr. Lester Bourgeois officiating at the nuptial high mass.

The bride's street length dress was of a lovely shade of orchid marquisette, with which she wore matching slippers and a bridal crown with a shoulder length veil.

The bride's attendant, Miss Helen McDonnell, wore navy sheer chiffon, with rose colored accessories. Her corsage was of sweet peas and snapdragons.

Mrs. Lancour wore a dress of deep green with matching accessories, while Mrs. Patrick's ensemble was of navy blue.

Leo Lancour, brother of the bride, attended as best man. A wedding breakfast was served at 11:30 o'clock to thirty guests at the home of the bride's parents.

The table centerpiece was an all-white wedding cake, topped with small bridal couple figurines. Other table decorations were of orchid and white.

In the evening, a supper was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents and was followed by a well-attended wedding dancing party. Out-of-town guests included: Oscar Nadeau, Detroit, uncle of the bride; Jeanette Patrick, sister of the bridegroom, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. George Patrick and family of Schaffer, and Mrs. Ardee Wellman and family of Bark River.

FEATHER FRIPPERIES

Feather frippers are light and gay—altogether suitable ornaments for spring wear. A bright colored bird, poised as if for flight, looks well on the lapel of a tailored suit. It can serve a double purpose, too. Wear it again some evening at an informal party as a hair ornament.

Hahn-Potvin
Miss Elizabeth Hahn of Escanaba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hahn, became the bride of Valbert Potvin of Gladstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potvin, in a ceremony performed by Judge Frank J. Mileki of Delta county probate court at the county courthouse yesterday afternoon.

Fourth Cooking School And Demonstration Will Be Held This Afternoon

The fourth electrical cooking school and appliance demonstration of this year's series will be held this afternoon, beginning at 2:15 o'clock at the Deift theatre, under the sponsorship of Moersch and Degnan.

Miss Eleanor Rahn, Norge home service consultant and nationally famous home economist, who is well known in Escanaba through her previous visits here, will conduct the school, which is open, free of charge, to all those interested in the classes.

A graduate of Milwaukee Downer college, Miss Rahn is widely recognized as an authority on menu planning and scientific cooking, and her informal chats accompanying her demonstrations are filled with interesting and valuable kitchen hints.

In addition to her experience as a home economist, she has had extensive experience in working with factory engineers, suggesting improvements on models, and has done considerable factory research for the engineers of her company.

The theme of her demonstration today will be simplicity and economy, and she will show how moderate priced ingredients may be made into attractive tasty meals at minimum cost.

Among the dishes she plans to prepare this afternoon will be Spring Vegetable Fricassee, the recipe for which, originally brought from Alsace Lorraine, has been in her family for years, and she will round out this spring menu with pigs in blankets and frosted fruit ring.

A second meal, of simple, old-fashioned food prepared in the modern manner, will include Spanish meat balls, parsley potato casserole, grapefruit salad, dried fruit medley and Swedish tea ring.

Her third group of dishes will be those easily prepared and delicious foods, popular for Sunday night suppers, among them: five-minute steak sandwiches, tomato and onion salad, egg-cheese toast, jellied pepper rings and old-fashioned gingerbread.

Valuable gifts, as well as the dishes which Miss Rahn prepares will be awarded at the school this afternoon.

You can lay the groundwork for mutual liking by telling each one about the other—building each up as the most he is capable of being.

Choir Members Entertained By St. Anne's Court

An enjoyable social affair of St. Anne's parish this week was the annual dinner at which St. Anne's Court, W. C. F., entertained Tuesday evening in honor of the church choir.

Those present included the choir members, and Foresters and their friends, as well as Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guertin, Rev. Fr. Lester C. Bourgeois, and two former members of the choir, Joseph Deloria and Albert LaViolette, who served for many years in that department of the church.

The dinner, for which appointments were in the Forester Court colors, yellow and white, was followed by an entertaining program. The numbers included selections by the choir, and solos by Mrs. Thomas Tougissant and Robert Moreau, with accompaniment by Miss Lucille DeGrand, organist; a humorous reading by Mr. Deloria, who sang with the choir for more than forty years; a French song by Mr. LaViolette; and piano numbers by Willard Clark.

Short talks on the importance of the choir in the church and the value of its cooperation were given by Rev. Fathers Guertin and Bourgeois, and by Mrs. Ben Meloche, president of the Court, in her response after the choir had presented her with a lovely corsage.

Cards and Chinese checkers followed during the evening, Mrs. Meloche holding high score in five hundred; Stanley Morin, high in pinochle, and Rev. Fr. Bourgeois, high in checkers.

Senior Play At St. Joseph's Is Impressive Drama

A logically developed plot, with impressive religious undertone, stirring situations and a cast deeply mindful of the characters and story being presented, the three-act drama by William Roeder, presented last evening by St. Joseph's senior class, at William Bonifas Memorial Auditorium.

The story was that of a reckless young man and his insincere love for a lovely young girl. Following an accident, thinking he is near death, he reveals his hidden life to Father McDonald, a brother of the girl, and his confession is overheard by her other suitor, also seriously hurt, who, unable to break the seal of the confessional, is grief-stricken, holding his secret for months, until the final dramatic climax, in which Billy, the little brother of the bride, comes to the rescue.

Underlying the entire story was the lesson of divine providence carrying for its children.

The settings for the play, which last evening was given its second production on the Catholic stage, were effectively arranged, and appropriate music by the school orchestra and glee club added to the enjoyment of the drama.

Selections played by the orchestra were "Joy March," Ascher; "Pilgrim's Chorus," from Wagner's "Tannhauser"; "March from Athalia," Mendelssohn; "Cleopatra Gavotte," and "Metropolitan Life."

Augsburg Choir Begins Its Tour, Sings Here May 2

The Augsburg College Choir of Minneapolis is now on its spring tour which will bring the choir to Escanaba on Tuesday, May 2, for a concert in the William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium.

This choir has taken tours to the Pacific northwest, through the north central states, and into Canada. It has broadcast regularly from three Minneapolis radio stations and has been presented over Canadian national radio hookups, over NBC and CBS, and also in an international broadcast to Scandinavia.

The present tour itinerary includes the larger cities of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Minnesota. On Tuesday of this week, the choir was presented on the Blue network of the National Broadcasting company from its Chicago studios.

Dr. Victor Nilsson, music critic of the Minneapolis Journal, says of the Augsburg Choir: "The Augsburg College Choir has fully proved its ability to take rank with the leading choirs of its kind."

Reservation of tickets begins Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Junior high school. The Norwegian Danish Lutheran church is sponsoring the local concert.

Cooking School Recipes

Following are a number of the recipes for delicious dishes prepared by Mabel Hildebrandt, home economist, at Tuesday afternoon's cooking school:

Silver Cake (Four egg whites) 3 cups sifted cake flour 3 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 cup butter, or other shortening 1 1/2 cups sugar 1 cup milk 1/2 teaspoon almond extract 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add extract. Fold in egg whites quickly and thoroughly. Bake in two greased nine-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Mile High Frosting 2 egg whites 1 cup white corn syrup 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/4 teaspoon almond extract Combine egg whites and corn syrup in large bowl. Beat with rotary beater until mixture stands up in peaks. If an electric mixer is used, start at low speed and gradually work up to high speed. Add flavoring last. Covered, this icing may be kept several days in the refrigerator.

Refrigerator Salad Deluxe 1 box lemon gelatin 1 cup boiling water 1 small green pepper 1 small can crushed pineapple 1/2 pint whipping cream 1 cake cream cheese 1 small bottle Maraschino cherries 1 cup nut meats (chopped) Add boiling water to gelatin and let dissolve. Cool until the consistency of heavy syrup. Allow cheese to dissolve in cream, whip, and add to gelatin. Drain pineapple and add with the chopped cherries, nuts and green pepper to first mixture. Pour into mold and place in refrigerator until firm.

Noodles and Pork 2 pounds chopped pork 1/2 pound cheese 1 cup condensed tomato soup 1/2 pound finely cut, noodles 1 cup water Brown pork in skillet. Stir with fork so that it is broken into small pieces. Add cheese cut into bits and stir until cheese melts. Add tomato soup and one cup of water; season; add noodles. Cover and leave switch on high until steam comes from vent in cover. Turn off and cook for 45 minutes on stored heat. Serves six.

Cinnamon Breakfast Bread 2 cups pastry flour 1 teaspoon salt 4 teaspoons baking powder 4 tablespoons butter 2-3 cup milk 1 tablespoon sugar Mix like biscuit dough. Roll out in a square. Fit in buttered nine-inch square pan. Brush top with melted butter. Sprinkle with mixture of three tablespoons sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon. Start from a cold oven. Remove heat-evening. Place rack on third set of glides from bottom. Set temperature at 450 degrees. Bake for seven minutes. Switch to broil for two minutes.

Russian Opera Is Study Topic Of Final Meeting

At the concluding meeting of the Escanaba Woman's club music section, Russian opera was reviewed.

Mrs. William Shepeck and Mrs. J. J. Engel, each presented lives of composers with stories of several operas by each. These outlines were studiously prepared to carefully contrast the various composers and their type of work from Glinka, the earliest writer, to Igor Stravinsky, the most modern. Russian ballet and its relation to opera, a review given by Mrs. I. W. Smith, developed the historical significance of ballet and its importance as an art form, together with brief sketches of famous dancers and their training, notably Pavlova and Nijinsky.

It was decided by the group to continue the study of music next year, extending the outline followed this year by definite study of theory and production of six separate operas in six monthly meetings. The complete outline will be announced later.

Some authorities credit Thomas Rawlinson, an Englishman, with the origination of the Scottish kilt in 1728.

Today's Recipe

The following method of making wallpaper cleaner at home is given Daily Press readers by Mrs. Clyde Knutson, who uses it with great success.

Wallpaper Cleaner Mix four teaspoons baking soda, two cups bread flour, five teaspoons ammonia and one and one-half cups water. Stir well and put in double boiler and let cook from one to two hours. When almost cool, knead, as for bread dough. Make cleaner a few days before it is to be used.

Mrs. Knutson also uses the soft soap, the recipe for which appeared a few days ago for cleaning upholstered furniture and rugs, as follows:

Dissolve one-fourth cup mild soap in one quart of water, and whip with egg beater, a cup at a time, until you have dry suds. Scrub a square foot of surface at a time with the suds and a soft brush; wipe off suds with a soft cloth dipped in luke-warm clear water, and then partially dry with another soft cloth. For rugs use a soap jelly made of one cup pure soap and one quart of water, using the same method.

Out of 885 plaice, fish marked and liberated in the North Sea, a total of 21 percent were recaptured within 12 months.

THE WAGNER-ROGERS BILL.

The world situation, Senator Robert F. Wagner and Representative Edith Nourse Rogers are responsible for the introduction of one of the most intelligent pieces of immigration legislation ever framed in this country.

Our previous legislation has been only vaguely selective. Our quotas are established by a mathematical computation. But this bill would admit to the United States immigrants of an age group which is precisely the one for which there is a definite need, and the organizations supporting it are prepared to take care of every one of the immigrants, so that nothing will be left to chance. It is, therefore, the first planned immigration which we have ever had and the revolutionary crisis in the world is responsible for it.

The bill would permit a maximum of twenty thousand children refugees under the age of fourteen to enter this country over two years' time and outside the quota, provided that the child welfare agencies which are organized in every state of this Union are prepared to find a home for each individual child.

The little immigrants would be selected by the American Friends Service Committee, the organization of the Quakers, whose humanity coupled with hard common sense has given them an amazing prestige in every country in the world.

The child welfare agencies, who have already raised a revolving fund of a quarter of a million dollars, have no doubt—on the basis of surveys already made—that they can place these children with foster parents able to care for them and educate them until they can earn a living.

The refugee problem is a world problem and the United States realized months ago that something constructive must be done about it in an intergovernmental fashion if it was not to add increasingly to world chaos.

That was why the United States government initiated the Evian Conference, which led to the setting up of a permanent intergovernmental committee. We are dealing with one of the greatest mass migrations in history—and a migration caused not by economic depression nor by natural catastrophes but by political measures.

The Wagner-Rogers bill is a very small contribution to a solution of a tiny segment of this problem which is now being dealt with by the British, French, Scandinavian and Dutch governments as well as by our own.

But it is a contribution which makes a great deal of sense, both from the humanitarian and from the practical viewpoint. For years the vital statisticians of this country have been pointing out that the falling birth rate is a cause for concern. This nation, occupying the better part of a whole continent, and containing only a hundred and thirty million people, is rapidly ceasing to have an expanding population, will soon have a stable one, and after that may be expected to decline unless there is fresh immigration.

The average age of the population is increasing, and under the new old-age pension legislation a large burden will have to be borne by the young. It is also a very great question whether this limit in the expansion of the population is not responsible for many of our economic ills since the number of people newly requiring the essentials of life is diminishing.

Children under fourteen, therefore, fall into the age group which is most desirable for immigration, according to the vital statisticians. And coming to this country at an impressionable age to be taken immediately into American families, the assimilation which usually takes two or three generations will be accomplished in one.

Furthermore, the children available come from a much better background than much of our previous immigration. In the past the citizenship of this country has been augmented by people who were unable to earn a living in their own homelands. The families of these children have had enough health, competence and general ability to support themselves, and are would-be immigrants wholly because of political conditions artificially imposed.

Many of these children have been orphaned or half-orphaned by the German revolution. Others have devoted parents who are willing to give up their children to foster parents in a distant country only because those children have no chance to grow up to be normal human beings where they are.

The testimony on this point at the hearing now going on in Washington from people who have been in Germany and former Austria is impressive and unanswerable.

Contrary to popular opinion, these children are by no means all Jewish. If the bill passes, it is the intention of the committee to select children from various racial and religious categories, so as to have a balanced ratio and to select them all with a particular view to their health and intelligence. There are Catholic children, Protestant children, Jewish children and others officially classified under the German Nuremberg laws as non-Aryans, although they may be only a quarter Jewish and have been brought up as Christians for generations.

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Taking increasing risks Betty goes to Barro's ranch. There she will try to find out when he will smuggle over his aliens.

CHAPTER XVIII

The ranch home of Luis Faustino Rodarte y Barro was well known in the vicinity of Juarez. It was like other ranchos in Chihuahua, save that this one was reputed to be rather luxuriously furnished and maintained. From time to time cattle appeared on the hundred or so acres behind it, but the information seemed vaguely to be that Don Luis made his money mostly by buying and selling cattle, rather than raising them. That is, to those persons who knew only superficially about him.

The entrance was a long curving driveway to the house proper. And the house was indeed striking. It was once owned by a member of the historic Terrazas family, wealthy folk of another decade. Cocotillo and maguayo and yuccas adorned the yard. Barroes and grilles windows, graceful arches that were shadowed and deep, balconies here and there, all were part of it. The rooms of the building seemed to ramble interminably. The main entrance was labeled with a painted sign, after the manner of so many old Spanish or Mexican homes. This one, Don Luis had caused to be named "Casa Hermosa"—beautiful home.

"Oh, the lovely old carreta!" Betty Mary saw it with an artist's eye, a genuine old ox cart with two immense wooden wheels standing near the entryway. Several people were out front too. They appeared merely to be loafing there in the sunshine, enjoying the lovely desert and mountain view. Juarez and El Paso were plainly visible five miles in the distance, and between them the silvery Rio Grande snaked off across the far plains. The elevation of Casa Hermosa added immensely to the view. Betty Mary noted the hill or mountain that rose abruptly immediately behind the house, too.

"Senorita to see Don Luis," the taxi driver told a man servant who appeared in the arched entryway.

Betty Mary got out, paid the driver generously and told him not to wait. She wanted an excuse to be here as long as necessary, now that she had dared to come. She gripped her sketching pad hard to avoid showing nervousness, and followed the servant inside. He opened a ponderous, hand-hewn door and motioned her through. It led to a great living room which held 15 or 20 ticularly the Viennese children, are the products of one of the best systems of education which I have ever been familiar with. Since they are to be placed in American homes, the American Friends Service committee which will make the selection will be forced to pay special attention to the kind of human material they are taking. And because the whole project is planned from start to finish, the children can be placed in the most desirable areas from a population viewpoint. They will be scattered throughout all the states.

That they will find homes is I think unquestionable, in view of the fact that there are in this country at any moment far more homes desirous of taking children than there are children to fill the demand. This fact will be vouchered for by any of the adoption agencies.

Also, the experience of the child welfare agencies in placing American children from institutions or disrupted families in foster homes has been highly encouraging. The home is carefully selected in the first place, and the child is followed up for five years. In 98 percent of cases the adjustment is completed satisfactorily, and these children start out by being social cases and present certainly as many, if not more, problems than will those immigrant children who are perfectly normal and have been brought up in a perfectly normal environment as far as their own homes are concerned.

The abnormality in the political and social environment I see no conceivable reason, even from the most hard-boiled standpoint, why this bill should not be passed. Hundreds of social agencies are guaranteeing that these children will grow up in normal conditions and not be public charges.

Unless we are so utterly defeatist as to believe that this country can no longer stand a normal addition to the younger age group, there is no conceivable economic argument against it. And if we are that defeatist we had better prepare to make way for the dictators, who at least affirm life for their own tribes. I am leaving out of account in this argument all humanitarian considerations, although they are vital. It was Walt Whitman who said: "The largeness of nature, and this country would be monstrous without a corresponding largeness and generosity in the spirit of the citizen," and in anti-thesis to the heroic principle as enunciated by the dictators he said that it was always hospitality that indicates heroes.

In England, 85 persons have incomes of more than a half million dollars a year.

people, mostly men. Luis Barro was sitting at a table with several persons around him.

"Senorita!" He jumped up in high surprise.

"Hello—hello, Don Luis!" she began her artist manner again. "I just couldn't resist calling on you in so lovely a place! So picturesque and all! It just must be painted! I should think—"

"Miss Jordan! How you come here? How you know this place? How—you—what you do here?"

"Oh, I just took a taxicab. It was a lovely drive. Really it was! The hotel or somebody, I forget who, showed me where you lived. I have always wanted to visit a real Mexican rancho, dear me! So nice of you to welcome me. Aren't you going to introduce me to all these interesting people?"

Her chattering had given Barro time to collect his own wits. He made a pretense of introducing his companions, mentioning them as business callers from Chihuahua City. "And let me present Senorita Betsee Marie Jordan," he bowed to her and to them.

Now, in all truth, Luis Barro had been highly impressed by Betty Mary's beauty. When he was in lighter mood, feeling romantic and a trifle devilish in the Juarez cafe that day, he had maneuvered to become acquainted with her and impress her, as he thought, with his own good manners. It was a social contact he fully meant to follow up. So utterly charming a girl was not to be taken lightly.

And in truth also, he would have followed up that meeting at once if circumstances had permitted. He did shower her with every courtesy he could in the first few days he knew her. He took her to dinner twice, to lunch twice, to a theater once. He sent her an exquisite bracelet in Mexican silver filigree work, so delicately beautiful that Betty Mary loved it instantly and felt like a hypocrite for accepting it. But meanwhile, too, his private business had been experiencing some very definite ups and downs. Black anger had suffused him when his avenues for smuggling cocaine had suddenly been detected. He was furious at what he thought was a group of bungling, incompetent lieutenants on the American side of the river. And he also had a major alien smuggling deal coming to a climax.

"I have been so sorry not to have seen you as much as I hoped," he purred at Betty Mary now, as if in apology for his first lack of hospitality. "It is honor to have you call, senorita!"

That was more like it, thought Betty Mary. She breathed a little silent sigh of relief, wondering just what tack she ought to take now. She fell back on her sketching again, deciding to move slowly and begin to pump the servants when she could. She talked gaily as Don Luis himself showed her to a beautiful sun room and introduced her to a duenna—the combined woman servant and chaperon who so often is a blessing in Mexican homes. He promised to join her soon, then went back to his business callers.

At 2 p. m. that same day, Hope Kildare went to a florist in El Paso and ordered $5 worth of roses sent to Miss Betty Mary Jordan, Hotel Montezuma, Juarez. "And give them to her in person, or ask where you can take them to her," he commanded the delivery boy. "Say they are from Oscar Smith in El Paso. If anybody asks. Here's a dollar for yourself."

"Yes, sir, Mr. Smith! Gee!" In an hour—a long long hour for Hope—the boy was back. Hope had kept an eye on the florist shop, watching for him.

"Sorry, Mr. Smith," he apologized. "But she wasn't in, and hadn't been in several hours. They didn't know where she went, but I left the flowers in water in her room."

"In her room? Was she—were the shades—th windows—?" Hope didn't want to talk too much, but—

"Oh, the shades were pulled," the boy assured him. "They won't wilt."

Hope didn't ask any more. But he didn't like it. This was the first time in days that the two white cloths had been missing. He hoped that perhaps Betty Mary was in El Paso again, and so hastened back to headquarters to be there if she should telephone.

"She hasn't called here, and her window's blank," Sheridan Starr informed him, looking exceedingly glum. "It's been nearly six hours now. What'll we do?"

"Let's go over there," Hope suggested, glumly.

"She'll skin us. Anyhow—If Barro was back of that submarine business, and I'm sure he was—"

"You scared to go?" Hope glared at his buddy.

"Course not! But—all right let's go!"

Sheridan left his chair and started toward the door, but Hope himself retraced his challenge.

"Wait! You're right. No use being foolish. Regardless of Barro, we can't mess up her plans now. She may have something else good in mind. It's still daylight. But tonight—"

"Right, Hopey. He was eyeing his pal closely, though. Suddenly Sheridan lowered his voice perceptibly. "Listen, son, you're in love with that little trick, aren't you?"

Hope ignored him, his face stern. He took out his pocket knife, and began slowly to trim his finger nails. Finally he muttered an answer. "Well, aren't you in love with her, too?"

FESTIVAL PLAN PROPOSED HERE

General Meeting Will Be Held Friday Evening At Courthouse

Representatives of civic organizations and lodges of Manistique will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the courthouse to consider plans for the development of a blueberry festival in Manistique.

A committee representing the Manistique Lions club has considered the proposal and made tentative suggestions for the event, which will be turned over to the general meeting Friday evening.

The proposal for a blueberry festival at Manistique has been presented as an efficient method of tourist promotion for this area, and a fitting program in elevation of the blueberry has been suggested because of the numerous blueberry plains in and around Schoolcraft county.

Hundreds of crates of berries are picked on plains of this county annually, providing supplementary revenue for many persons and delectable fruit preserves for numerous others.

It is suggested that a blueberry festival, properly worked out, would not only result in considerable publicity for Schoolcraft county, but also would be effective in enlarging the market for Michigan's annual crop of blue gold.

All service, civic and fraternal clubs in Manistique have been invited to name committees to attend the general meeting at the courthouse Friday evening.

Lieut. Kirchner Speaks At Lions Meeting Tuesday

Lieut. Kirchner, commanding officer at Camp Germaak, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Manistique Lions club Tuesday evening at the Legion Cottage here.

Lieut. Kirchner declared the officers in the CCC camps are promoting a closer relationship between the CCC and the civilian population, a program which is resulting in better understanding of the CCC activities.

Rowdism and criminal tendencies are checked at their source by the vigilance of the CCC officers, the speaker said, and the CCC boys are taught to take a fruitful place in society.

Admitting that some CCC boys have run afoul of the laws in the past, Lieut. Kirchner explained that such boys are immediately weeded out from the camps, and given dishonorable discharges. As a result of this policy, the problem of delinquency in the camps has been materially reduced.

Mr. Jacques formerly taught school at Bark River in Delta county.

Communication

FUNDS FOR WPA
Editor Escanaba Press,
Escanaba, Michigan.

Dear Sir:
Will you kindly print the attached open letter to the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors, in your paper, under the heading of "Communications"? We will appreciate this very much.

Very sincerely yours,
Workers Alliance of America,
Local G 723.
Alex J. Walker, President.

Manistique, Michigan
April 25, 1939
Mr. Charles Howard, Chairman,
Schoolcraft County Supervisors,
Manistique, Michigan.

If the County Board of Supervisors want the power and glory of directing relief distribution, they must also accept the responsibility for the serious state of affairs now existing in the county.

The attitude of not being in the mood, or not interested, when approached by the Workers Alliance must be changed. We feel the Board must bring some pressure upon the State Relief Commission to loosen up with State funds, as long as that body is more or less controlled by the State Association of Supervisors.

Our letter of the 17th, to the Board while in session, should not have been so inconsiderately tabled with the knowledge of the conditions in WPA lay-offs, the heavy case-load of Relief, the need for additional WPA projects and the need for additional relief funds. Action would have been timely to get an additional appropriation for all the counties of $2,000,000.00 which will be needed before July 1st, when the $4,000,000.00 appropriated in March will be gone. You will recall that the County agencies of the state recommended the legislature appropriate $3,500,000 in March, which might have been adequate for the anticipated needs. Governor Fitzgerald promised an appropriation of $5,500,000 but the Economy Bloc trimmed this down to the inadequate amount of $4,000,000, which will result in empty relief chests unless additional funds are provided for.

With an increase necessary each month over the previous month in relief budget, we feel our argument is well supported that there is a need for the $2,000,000.00 immediate action. Industry in this county at least is not waiting for the unemployed as promised by the party now in power, to reduce the WPA and ERA rolls. While the National Government is making efforts to handle the situation with your support in proper distribution where it is urgently needed, we feel the Board has a plenty to do, and it should be attending to its share of the business.

The fact that the Board did not take proper action at this time is beyond comprehension. The importance of all this should warrant some attention, the need should not be denied until it suits the good pleasure of the Board to convene a regular meeting in June. We feel the need is so great that a meeting should be called within the next ten days, to help bring about some hope and encouragement to those who are depending upon your immediate action.

Very sincerely yours,
WORKERS ALLIANCE,
Local G-723.
Alex J. Walker, President.

EYE TESTS ARE CONDUCTED HERE

Dr. J. G. Campbell Is Examining Pupils of County

Approximately 275 children of the county have submitted to examination of eyes at the temporary office of Dr. J. G. Campbell of the Children's Fund of Michigan located in the Gladstone high school.

In addition to the number now tested, Dr. Campbell expects to test the eyes of approximately 150 more students. Between 15 and 18 per day or 85 to 90 per week are being tested. Bartell Comes Through Like House Afire As Ankle Improves

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Chicago, April 26 (AP)—Peppery Dick Bartell is cashing in on the silver lining he found behind the clouds which recently darkened the Chicago Cubs hopes of a second straight National league championship.

The $24,000 a year shortstop didn't start the season April 18—but neither did his mates. Cloudy, cold, rainy weather forced the Cubs to wait until April 22 to start the campaign, and the postponements were "ill winds" which blew Dick a lot of good. For an ailing ankle, which had sent him into a hospital April 4, was further strengthened by the enforced layoff and he fielded brilliantly as the Cubs downed the St. Louis Cardinals in Chicago's inaugural atkrib.

He's been going like a house-afire ever since. Through Tuesday his batting average was .333, built on five doubles and a single. He drove in four runs, stole one base and hit for 11 total bases. Against Pittsburgh Tuesday he was pivot man on a lightning fast double play, his speed in getting to second to take Bill Herman's toss resulting in wiping out the fast Waver brothers, Lloyd and Paul. He didn't act at all like a hospital case.

"I'm tickled to death this ankle at last feels right again," he said today. "All it needed was rest and those postponed games were breaks for me. And say, when you play between Herman (second baseman) and another fine infielder like Stan Hack (third sacker), you have to step fast to keep up with them."

Bartell, along with Catcher Gus Mancuso and Outfielder Hank Leiber, came to the Cubs last winter in a deal which sent Ken O'Dea, Bill Jurges and Frank Demaree to the New York Giants. With Bartell apparently ready for a great season, Cub fans are positive Chicago got the best of the transaction.

Bartell's shrill, fiery voice carries to every part of the Wrigley Field stands and he has the same kind of color for which Cub customers long have admired Manager Gabby Hartnett. The veteran Mancuso has been handling pitchers smartly and drawing applause for rifle-like pegs which have cut down several would-be base stealers. Leiber is batting only about .263, but his defensive work has been excellent.

Extra Good Pegs Stop Cincy Reds; Cards Win, 1 to 0

St. Louis, April 26 (AP)—Two accurate throws by Outfielder Terry Moore helped Curt Davis pitch and bat the St. Louis Cardinals to a 1 to 0 victory today over the Cincinnati Reds.

Davis limited the Reds to five hits, but they could have scored one and possibly two runs had Moore's pegs been wild. In the sixth, Ernie Lombardi was nipped at the plate attempting to lumber in on Wally Berger's single, and in the ninth Moore natted Ival Goodman trying to reach third on Frankie McCormick's single.

GENE LILLARD TAMES PIRATES

Former Infielder Makes Debut On Mound With 3 to 1 Victory

Chicago, April 26 (AP)—The National League's pace-setting Chicago Cubs ran their victory string to four today as Gene Lillard, former Cub infielder making his major league debut as a pitcher, turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 1.

It was the sixth straight defeat for Pittsburgh.

Lillard allowed eight hits and walked four men, pitching himself out of several tight spots as the Cubs managed to get their first man on base in every inning but the fourth and ninth.

The lone Pirate run came in the seventh when Woody Jensen's force out scored Gus Shur after a single and two walks had filled the bases.

Chicago collected seven hits off three Pittsburgh pitchers, bunting four of them in the fifth for all their runs. The attack drove Cy Blanton from the box after the Buc hurler had retired the first nine batters to face him.

Former Caddy Shows Technique

Harry (Cooney) Hogan, former caddy and two time Upper Peninsula golf champion, is shown here demonstrating the fine points of caddying to some of the 75 boys who reported at the country club for examination yesterday. Vernon Johnson, Escanaba high school distance man, is holding the pin.

SPILLING THE DOPE

FOOTBALL FANS at Iron Mountain, Mich., are planning to turn an excursion to Green Bay on Sept. 24 when the Chicago Bears travel with the Packers at the City stadium. There will be sort of an Iron Mountain angle to the gridiron combat as Gene Ronzani, veteran halfback of the Windy City Bruins, and John Biolo, recruit guard for Lambeau & Co., are both natives of the upper Michigan community. —Ronzani

INDIANS TAKEN BY WHITE SOX

Lone Score In Ninth Spoils Shutout for Bill Dietrich

Cleveland, April 26 (AP)—With bespectacled Bill Dietrich scattering eight hits in his first starting assignment of the season, the Chicago White Sox trounced the Cleveland Indians 5 to 1 today in the deciding game of their series.

The White Sox crammed four of their runs into the third inning in a foray which cost Johnny Broaca the first game he has pitched since jumping the New York Yankees' reservation in 1937.

Dietrich lost a shutout in the last of the ninth when Frank Pytlak opened with a single and scored on Jim Schilling's double to the leftfield bleachers.

The victory lifted Chicago out of a tie for sixth into fifth place in the American league standings. Chicago — 004 000 001—5 3 0
Cleveland — 000 000 001—1 8 1
Dietrich and Sylvestri; Broaca, Dobson and Pytlak.

DETROIT WINS IN 10 INNINGS

Seven Circuit Clouts In Game; Deadlock Is Broken By Rogell

Detroit, April 26 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers climbed into second place in the American league today by taking a ten inning home run bee from the St. Louis Browns 7 to 6.

Bill Rogell scored Hank Greenberg from second base with a surge single to center field off Jim Walkup to break the deadlock.

Seven homers were swatted, two of them by Hank Greenberg, of the Tigers. Rogell and Charley Gehring also hit for the circuit for the Bengals while Billy Sullivan Mel Almada and Myril Hoag had homers for the Browns.

Bob Harris, Tiger rookie flinger, was credited with the win while Walkup, who relieved Louis (Buck) Newsom at the end of the ninth, was charged with the loss. The Browns outhit Detroit 15 to 12.

Second for Greenberg
Three singles—by Almada, George McQuinn and Red Kress—in the first inning gave the Browns their first run but the home run show didn't start until the second when Catcher Billy Sullivan sent the ball into the upper right field pavilion with the bases empty.

Gehring opened the Tiger fourth with a single and reached home ahead of Greenberg when he tallied his second homer of the season. Pete Fox fanned and Birdie Tebbets popped out, so there was no one on when Rogell walked the ball into the stands, putting Detroit ahead 3-2.

But when St. Louis came to bat in the fifth Almada tied the score with his round trip. The Browns pulled ahead in the sixth on Myril Hoag's four-bagger which went two down and no runner on. The next batsman, Johnny Berardino, singled and Sullivan walked. That was the end of Vern Kennedy, who started for Detroit, and Slicker Coffman went to the mound and induced Newsom to fly out.

McQuinn's double and a single by Kress gave the Browns another run in the seventh and Harris took up the Detroit pitching burden at the beginning of the eighth. With two out, Sullivan, Newsom and Almada singled successively, making the score 6-3 for the visitors.

Even In Ninth
The Bengals pulled into a tie in their half. Barney McCosky opened with a double and, after Dixie Walker had line out, raced home ahead of Gehring, who made the sixth homer of the game. Greenberg followed with his second home run of the contest and the sides were even going into the ninth, which was scoreless.

St. Louis got two men on bases, one as far as second, in the tenth but was unable to break the deadlock. Walkup pitched to the Tigers in their half. Gehring singled but was forced by Greenberg, who reached second when Berardino threw the ball into the dugout. Fox fouled out and Rudy York, who batted for Tebbets in the eighth and caught the rest of the game, walked. Then came Rogell's single which scored Greenberg for the deciding run.

Major Hoople Casts Glimmers On Proud Horseflesh In Derby and Picks Winner

BY MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Also a Colonel, Kentucky Home Guards

Louisville (Straight From the Stable), April 26.—To start with a bit of nonsensical play that is nothing if not apropos, it happened that when I was broached on the subject of predicting the winner of the Kentucky Derby, my good Martha was within earshot. Har-rumph! To quote her:

"We're having hash tonight at the Boarding House!"

Egad! How quaint that there should be a horse bearing that nomenclature, entered in the Derby!

Those who subscribe to omens may discern some portent in Martha's remark—and, indeed, Mrs. Payne Whitney's bay colt Hash is forsooth a tasty dish of Derby delicacy, having scored one triumph as a two-year-old.

But we Hooples have been sticklers for breeding down through the years since one of my grand-uncles—I believe it was Zanzibar Hoople III—discovered the Godolphin between the shafts of a water cart in Paris. It seems to me Uncle Zanzibar was in search of a chaser that morning! Kaff! Kaff!

Escanaba Golfers In Opening Frolic Saturday at Club

Divot diggers of all degrees will be out in force on Saturday for the opening frolic of the Escanaba golf club. The program for the day calls for golfing in the afternoon, eats from 5 to 7:30 p. m. and entertainment at the club house thereafter. The affair is to be strictly informal.

With a break at last, from the weather the course is in fine shape and the regular greens will be in use for Saturday's opening. This event, which really sets the season underway, has been planned by Cotton Leonard, club pro, to provide the maximum in enjoyment for the members.

Following golf in the afternoon will be the serving of the barbecue lunch. Barbecue Frank and Chippeny Pote Koester will again be on hand to officiate at the barbecue pits, to the delight of their many fans.
