THIRD TERMER BOOM SCORED BY OPPOSITION

DEMOCRACY WOULD BE JEOPARDIZED, SENATORS SAY

Washington, June 19. (AP)—The movement in the new deal wing of the Democratic party for a third term for President Roosevelt encountered flat opposition tonight from two Democratic senators who frequently have differed with administration policy.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) declared in a radio address that to disregard the tradition against a third term might lead to a breakdown of the Democratic form of government while Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.) announced he was "opposed to the renomination or reelection of President Roosevelt or any other man for a third term."

Will Back McNutt Van Nuys said he would support Paul V. McNutt, former Indiana governor and now high commissioner to the Philippines, for the 1940 nomination, but Burke gave no indication of his preference.

Van Nuys' remarks to reporters attracted particular attention because Senator Minton, his Indiana colleague, had declared only last week that the McNutt organization would "get behind President Roosevelt" if the president were a candidate for re-election.

Both Burke and Van Nuys were among the Democratic senators who were aligned against the administration in the successful senate fight in 1937 against President Roosevelt's supreme court bill.

Burke asserted that because of present trends in government it was more important now than it had been in the past that the tradition against third terms be upheld.

Six-Year Limit Favored In an address prepared for the Washington Evening Star's radio forum (NBC), he declared there had been a trend in recent years toward centralization of power and toward a government of men rather than of laws.

In the light of prevailing trends, he added, "should the third term be broken in 1940, no man can safely predict the fate of our form of government."

For the same reasons that he opposed a third term for a chief executive, Burke said, he favored constitutional amendment limiting a president to one term of six years—a proposal which he has introduced in congress.

"A single six-year term," he asserted, "would allow sufficient time for a president to work out to some extent the disturbing influence of more frequent elections upon business conditions, which enable an administration to maintain full efficiency throughout its

Republicans Scan Murphy's Economy Record In Michigan

Lansing, June 19. (AP)—Republican state officials thumbed the records today for substantiation of U. S. Attorney General Frank Murphy's pleas of payroll economy in government.

State payrolls jumped from $19,714,902 in 1936 to $23,485,309 in 1937, the first year of Murphy's administration as governor, they found. In the second year they soared to an all-time high of $24,293,317.

Payrolls listed 15,185 employees in 1936. The state employed 17,022 persons in 1937, the first year of the Murphy reign, and 17,354 in 1938.

Murphy launched a civil service system he said would clip millions annually from the state payrolls. A Republican legislature discarded his plan as "expensive," estimating its cost at $1,000,000 a year, and adopted a bill materially amending the civil service law.

Michigan instituted an unemployment commission during Murphy's administration, to administer the benefits of a job insurance law. An ambitious hospital program, which likewise failed to show in earlier payrolls, also was undertaken in 1937.

JAP BARRICADE IS DEATH WIRE

British - French District In Tientsin Ringed With High Voltage

BY J. D. WHITE Tientsin, June 20 (Tuesday)

A thousand volts of electricity isolated the British and French concessions today, threatening possible death to any who dared try to slip past Japanese sentries.

The Japanese who established their military blockade last Wednesday whipped high tension wires (their danger depending on one's physical condition and the amperage or pressure of the current) around the concessions late last night. The action contrasted sharply with a foreign office statement in Tokyo expressing hope for prompt settlement of the Tientsin dispute.

There were many reports—which officials would not confirm—of Chinese food vendors being shot or bayoneted by Japanese guards at the concession boundaries. The electric barricade was directed primarily at those Chinese trying to smuggle in food.

A spokesman for the British said they were ready "to fight it out," but arranged that women and children should go on Wednesday to Chinwangtao and Pailiao, coastal resorts, to relieve the demand for water and food, because of the excessive heat, and because normally they go there in the summer. The seasonal transfer had been interrupted by the blockade.

Some fresh food was entering the concessions, but not enough. The danger of a shortage of water also loomed.

Serum By Airplane Helps Little Girl

Traverse City, Mich., June 19. (AP)—Improvement was reported today in the condition of two-year-old Barbara Shanosky, for whom serum was rushed here from Boston by airplane and state police relay Saturday.

The Maple City child is suffering from influenza meningitis, and the serum was obtained from the Massachusetts board of health, only source of the drug used in fighting the disease.

A few minutes after state police brought the serum here, it was administered to Barbara at Munson hospital.

Engel Is Wondering Where Money Goes

Washington, June 19. (AP)—Representative Engel (R-Mich.), estimated today that congress in the last seven years has appropriated nearly half of the amount of money it cost to operate the federal government in the previous 144 years.

"After spending all of this money," he said, "and appropriating more than $65,000,000,000 and going in debt $24,000,000,000 since March 4, 1933, we find we have about as many unemployed and more persons on relief than when we started this program."

Slayer Of Two Evades Posse at Hayward, Wis.

Hayward, Wis., June 19. (AP)—Darkness and a cooling trail tonight balked a sheriff's posse in pursuit of a man identified by authorities as Ray Olson, 35, wanted for the cold-blooded slaying of two Hayward deputy sheriffs.

Search was abandoned at nightfall after bloodhounds led Sheriff George Seebutter's hundred-odd possemen to the Chippewa CCC camp in the northeast section of Sawyer county. There the trail was lost. A highway patrol was set up for the night.

Olson gained two or three hours on the posse this afternoon when they paused to surround two cabins. In one of them a woman was the sole occupant. Although the dogs went directly to the cabin, she denied knowing anything about the fugitive. The dogs picked up the trail near the cabin again and the search went on.

Seebutter has plastered Sawyer and adjoining counties with one available picture of Olson,

SLAB OF SLATE CRUSHES CREW

Six Miners Pinned Down By Two-Ton Fall; 3 Near Death

St. Charles, Va., June 19. (AP)—A two-ton slab of slate crashed down on a string of cars a mile underground in the Kemmerer Gem mine near St. Charles today, and injured six miners, three so seriously they were not expected to recover.

The slate slab, about 30 feet long, struck the third and fourth cars of a string of 14 which was bringing 33 miners to the surface. Steel bars and railroad jacks were used to lift the slate from the men it pinned.

The first three cars were cut loose from the string and the injured men were brought to the surface and rushed to a hospital in Pennington Gap. The mine entrance was not blocked by the fall.

Mine Car Motorman Ike Fuitts said the string of cars was approaching a hill at the time and that he stopped the cars as quickly as possible after the slate fall.

The injured: Chris Hilton, spine fractured. B. Givens, head and chest injuries and a broken leg. Dudley Gilliam, broken leg and other injuries. Rucker Jones, head and chest injuries. Hack Hilton, head injuries. Buster Ball, slight back injury. Chris Hilton, Givens and Gilliam were given only a scant chance to recover.

FAULTY VALVE IS BLAMED IN SUB DISASTER

HENRY FORD SEES SABOTAGE FROM WAR MAKERS

Portsmouth, N. H., June 19. (AP)—Beneath the closed hatches of a sister submarine, Lieutenant Oliver F. Naquin reenacted for a naval inquiry board today the operations aboard his submersible, the Squalus, prior to her fatal plunge to the ocean bottom almost a month ago.

Earlier, as high ranking officers in full-dress opened the investigation at Portsmouth navy yard, the first air induction valve might have allowed tons of water to pour into the Squalus, which still holds 26 of her men entombed in 240 feet of water 15 miles off this port.

Courtroom Tense Suspicions of sabotage were voiced, meanwhile, from widely separated sectors. Henry Ford told a group of farm camp boys at Detroit that he believed all three recent submarine disasters—the Squalus, the British Thetis, the French Phenix—were caused "by sabotage," while, at Washington, Senator David I. Walsh (D-Mass), chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, declared the triple sinking, all within one month, "prompts the inquiry that these are more than coincidence."

The first day of the public inquiry was not without its dramatic incidents.

There was a tense moment as the "court" opened in a large, bare, rectangular room, hung with blueprints of the ill-fated craft.

Rear Admiral William T.arrant, head of the investigating board, turned toward the Squalus commander.

"Have you any complaint," the admiral asked, "against any of the surviving members of the crew?"

"I have nothing but praise for them," Naquin answered quietly. Men At Attention Then, his 32 surviving officers and men were asked if they had any complaint against their commander's conduct, and one might have heard a pin drop as the Squalus men stood at attention—silently and stiffly.

Only a few minutes, later, Commander A. L. McKee, one of the sunken vessel's builders, was asked if it was possible for the submarine's signal light to show "closed" if the main induction valve was still open.

There was a moment of thoughtful silence, then McKee answered slowly: "Yes, if the mechanism was out of order."

And, finally, late this afternoon, there came a climax as Lieutenant Naquin followed the

France Gives Haven To German Refugees

St. Nazaire, France, June 19. (AP)—A band of 97-German and Czech-Slovak Jews, who had been aboard the French steamer Flandres since May 16 unsuccessfully seeking a refuge in the new world, landed tonight to take up temporary residence in western France.

The refugees, who were denied admission by Cuba and Mexico, danced down the gangplank weeping for joy.

Among the 97 were children. The American joint distribution committee has posted a bond of $500 each for the refugees.

ported from Cedar, where authorities said someone tried to steal butter from a wrecked creamery, but peace officials and national guardsmen promptly set up their patrols and blocked any further attempts.

Their main effort, however, was to provide care for the homeless, who were being housed in tent villages and in hurriedly requisitioned vacant buildings. Adjutant General Ellard A. Walsh, chief of Minnesota's national guard, assured all that "nobody is going uncared for," and WPA officials and Red Cross leaders were prepared to help.

Linus Gotsbach, state WPA administrator, said $25,000 had been made available for rehabilitation work, and Governor Harold E. Stassen, who yesterday helped direct rescue operations at the scene of the storm, endorsed a Red Cross appeal for $25,000 contributions for the sufferers.

Mother Admits Slaying Baby, Claimed Kidnaped

Freemont, O., June 19. (AP)—The state of Ohio formally charged Mrs. Velma Baker Fink today with murdering her two-week-old boy by throwing him off a bridge into a creek.

Sheriff H. L. Myers swore out the charge before E. H. Buchman, a justice of the peace. Her arraignment at first scheduled for today was deferred until at least tomorrow because of her distraught condition.

The 22-year-old divorcee admitted, the sheriff said, that she took her son from her parents' home in nearby Clyde, O., last Tuesday night, drove about four miles out of town and threw the blanket-wrapped child from a bridge into Green creek.

Two deputy sheriffs found the body in the stream the next day, after Mrs. Fink reported the child abducted.

Prosecutor Hyzer credited a lie detector with providing the "break" in the case. He said after she told two known falsehoods, she was shown the reaction of the detector, strapped to her arm, which registered pulse and respiration by a red line on a graph.

H. G. Robinson, lie detector expert, told her "when you get up every morning and look in the mirror, you will be looking at the woman who killed your baby."

She agreed to tell the whole story to Sheriff Myers, and later said, "I knew they were going to use the lie detector on me again, and I would have to tell some time. I've got it all off my chest now."

Myers quoted her as saying she determined to "get rid of" the baby after she quarreled with her mother over care of the child.

ARKANSAS HAS AN EARTHQUAKE

Tremors Are Felt From Little Rock Down to Louisiana; No Loss Little Rock, Ark., June 19. (AP)—South Arkansas, from Little Rock to the Louisiana line, was shaken sharply today by a brief earthquake. No damage was reported from the tremor which lasted only a few seconds.

St. Louis university's seismograph at St. Louis recorded the quake at 3:44.23 p. m. (CST). At Arkadelphia, in South Arkansas, alarmed citizens ran out of buildings and a theater audience left midway of a picture.

The tremor was also felt at Hope and Texarkana, southwest from Arkadelphia to the Texas line. The Shreveport (La.) Times received several telephone calls from residents who said they felt the earth movement.

El Dorado, near the Louisiana line and almost midway between the eastern and western borders of Arkansas, reported buildings and residences severely shaken.

Warren, east of El Dorado, felt three shocks and Pine Bluff, in the center of southeastern Arkansas, was jiggled distinctly. A stenographer for the Arkansas Power and Light company, at work on one of the upper floors of an eight-story building, fainted from fright.

In Little Rock, the quake apparently was one sustained movement and very brief.

Detroit, June 19. (AP)—John Kubitz, 39, of Detroit, died today from head injuries suffered when he fell from the rear of a truck as the driver swerved suddenly to avoid collision with another vehicle. Kubitz lived for two hours after the accident.

Detroit, June 19. (AP)—Gerald McGowan, 3, of Redford township, died at a hospital today of injuries suffered June 14 when he was run down by an automobile.

Detroit, (AP)—Miss Esther Valentine, 27, Detroit, was fatally injured Monday when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into a dead end street sign near Belleville.

Charlotte, (AP)—Elton Howe, 65, of Charlotte, was fatally injured Monday in an automobile collision four miles east of here.

REVENUE BILL INTENDED TO AID BUSINESS

'NUISANCE' LEVIES REVIVED; ACTION SPEEDED UP

BY RICHARD L. TURNER Washington, June 19. (AP)—The house, Republicans and Democrats alike, gazed up on the much-denounced undistributed profits tax today and passed, 553 to 4, a new revenue bill removing that levy from the nation's tax laws.

The measure, approved after a scant six hours of unusually quiet discussion, would in addition make other tax changes which have been demanded in the interest of eliminating "deterrents" to business expansion, and would reenact a long series of "nuisance taxes."

Expire June 30 The one vote cast against the bill was that of Rep. Tinkham, bewhiskered Massachusetts Republican. He told reporters, in explanation, that he was opposed to "nuisance taxes" and thought that the bill should have contained greater concessions for business.

The measure goes next to the senate, where the finance committee is ready for speedy action. For the legislation must receive final action by June 30, or the government will suffer some serious losses of revenue, since several of the nuisance taxes otherwise expire on that date.

The undistributed profits tax applies to corporations with an annual income of $25,000 or more. If all their profits are disbursed as dividends to stockholders they are taxed at 16 1/2 per cent. If all the profits are held in the company treasury, the rate is 19 per cent. Between those figures, the rate is graduated upward in accordance with the proportion of the profits retained. The new bill would impose a simple rate of 18 per cent regardless of dividend payments.

Victory for Republicans The Republicans of the house, who fought the undistributed profits levy when it was first proposed and have clamored for its repeal ever since, claimed a "victory" for themselves and a "retreat" for the new deal as a result of the day's developments.

However, they themselves took a trouncing on the only major issue they raised in the course of the discussion. The bill provides that the undistributed profits tax shall pass from the statute books next December 31. The Republicans demanded that the elimination be made retroactive to Dec. 31, 1938.

Representative Treadway, (R-Mass), ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, which handles tax legislation, proposed the change as an amendment and was beaten. Later he submitted a motion that the bill be recommitted with instructions to the ways and means committee that the change be made.

Treasury Hard Hit This enabled Treadway to obtain a roll-call vote, and it showed the Republicans voting almost solidly for the proposal and the Democrats almost unbrokenly opposing it. The result was 150 votes for Treadway's motion and 295 against it.

Earlier, the Republicans were beaten back by a roaring voice vote, on a proposal that the continuation of the nuisance taxes be stricken from the bill. Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.), in charge of the measure for the ways and means committee, explained to the house that the amendment would result in an annual loss of $635,000,000 to the government.

Quintuplets Put On Diet, Too Fat

Callander, Ont., June 19. (Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets have been put on a diet because they are "a little too fat," Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo announced today.

The diet cuts down on starches and sugars. It is not strict, but potatoes are banned completely. "The girls are a little annoyed," Dr. Dafeo said. "The first time they were refused potatoes we told them they were getting too fat, but the explanation didn't satisfy them."

The doctor related they objected to their nurses with the observation they were "a little too fat too." As a result Nurses Molly O'Shaughnessy and Louise Corriveau had to give up potatoes too.

The quintuplets were five years old May 28. At their last weighing they registered as follows: Marie 50, Yvonne 50 1/2, Emilie 51 1/2, Cecile 53 1/2 and Annette 53 1/2 pounds.

Soldiers Ambushed After Liquor Raid

Puebla, Mexico, June 19. (AP)—Ten officials and soldiers, returning in a motor truck from a raid on a clandestine liquor plant, were ambushed by a band of 50 today.

The victims were three alcohol inspectors, an army corporal and six soldiers escorting them. A search was organized for the killers.

Capital Highlights

(By The Associated Press) The house passed the tax revision bill, eliminating the undistributed profits levy and extending excise taxes and the three-cent postage rate.

Secretary Hull expressed the United States' concern with the "broader aspects" of developments at Tientsin, China, where the Japanese have blockaded the British and French concessions.

The administration will seek a vote on neutrality law revision in both the house and senate, it was made known after administration leaders conferred with Mr. Roosevelt.

The senate debated a bill extending the president's emergency powers to devalue the dollar, but did not reach a vote. The senate agricultural committee approved a bill under which the government could underwrite $350,000,000 of private loans for the purchase of farms.

As a heritage, he advised fathers to leave their children education, character and discipline to help them solve the problems brought on by progress.

Cartoonist Nash Dies In Detroit; Noted As Painter

Detroit, June 19 (AP)—Fred C. Nash, 63, portrait painter and former newspaper cartoonist whose works hang in several city buildings, died at his home here today.

Nash, whose newspaper career began in 1905, turned from this to oil portraits about 20 years ago, and placed on canvas the likenesses of 200 prominent Detroiters.

At various times Nash was cartoonist on the News, the old Detroit Journal and the Free Press.

While in high school, Nash sketched strangers for a hobby. One day a man posing as a plumber came to the school building.

Atwood Is Praised As Loyal Official At Funeral Rites

Lansing, June 19 (AP)—Michigan Republicans gathered today for the funeral of Orville E. Atwood, second of the party's high command to die since its victory at the polls last November.

Atwood was managing director of the board of sales tax administration when he was killed in a highway accident last Thursday.

Atwood was not a running-mate of Fitzgerald in the 1938 campaign. He sought nomination for his old post, but bowed out of the picture in the face of insistent Wayne county demands for representation on the Republican ticket.

Dr. Edwin W. Bishop, who preached Fitzgerald's funeral sermon three months ago, praised Atwood as a "loyal, efficient public servant."

THIRD TERMER BOOM SCORED BY OPPOSITION

term without being distracted by a campaign for re-election, would minimize the evils of a political bureaucracy, and would check the trend toward a centralization of power and a consequent weakening of our form of government.

Tradition Long Established At the outset of his address, Burke, one of those Democratic senators who frequently have differed with administration policies, noted that Secretary Ickes had urged re-election of President Roosevelt and had referred to the tradition against a third term as "political humbug."

The senator went on to say that Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson had helped to establish that tradition and "as a life-long adherent to the political philosophy of Jefferson and Jackson I am proud that the Democratic party up to this day has given no countenance to sporadic attempts" to overthrow it.

Then, without making any direct reference to Ickes' former allusion to the Republican party, Burke added:

"If now our party is to follow after false gods it is fitting that it should be under the leadership of those not long imbued with Jeffersonian or Jacksonian ideals of democracy."

Governor Resents Federal Invasion Of Tax Prospects

Lansing, June 19 (AP)—Governor Dickinson said today he opposed further federal invasion of state and local fields of taxation.

The governor said he would testify June 30 at a ways and means committee hearing in Washington. The federal government should seek to reduce the public debt by economies rather than by a tax on state and municipal bonds, he declared.

Dickinson said he would visit Washington on a trip which will take him to a national conference of governors in Albany, N. Y. He told newspaper men he regarded a contemplated visit to his birthplace near Wright's Corners, 25 miles from Niagara Falls, N. Y., as the highlight of the trip.

Great Lakes Area Once Under Water, Beaches Indicate

Milwaukee, June 19 (AP)—Water high enough to bury all but the tops of the skyscrapers of the cities now bordering the upper Great Lakes existed only a few thousand years ago.

Evidence of fluctuations of hundreds of feet in the levels of Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron and St. Clair was given to the geological and geography sections of the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Prof. George M. Stanley of the University of Michigan.

The geological testimony is in beaches built during the ancient rises. Two of these beaches, known as the Algonquin and the Nipissing, now are high above water, in the northern areas and below water along the southern rims of the lakes region.

Two huge movements of nature caused them, Prof. Stanley said. First was glaciers, which dammed up the outlets of the lakes, causing rises of hundreds of feet. The beaches were built when the water was high. When ice melted, the waters dropped and the beaches were left high and dry.

The other great movement was weight of the glaciers to the north. They depressed the land so that the entire northeast sank. When the glaciers melted, the earth's crust in that area "re-bounded" slowly. This rise took the northern beaches high above water level. It sank the southern end of the beaches, like tipping a great platter.

This tipping of the Great Lakes, toward the southwest, Prof. Stanley said, still is going on very slowly.

Trunk With $25,000 In Jewelry Lost At Grand Rapids Hotel

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 19 (AP)—A trunk which a salesman told police contained jewelry valued at $25,000 disappeared here tonight from a trunk on which it had been loaded at a local hotel.

Arthur S. Peiss, 50, of St. Louis, a salesman for the Rosenthal Kaplan Co., of New York, said the trunk contained unmounted diamonds, earrings, rings, watches and other miscellaneous jewelry. The loss was covered by insurance.

James Tull, a local truck driver, loaded the trunk at the hotel for transfer to a railway station at 9:30 p. m. and stepped back into the hotel to get a receipt from a porter. When he returned to his truck the trunk was gone.

Police said they had been unable to find anyone who saw the theft. Peiss, who had been displaying the merchandise to local jewelers, collapsed when informed of the loss. He was placed under care of a physician. He said it was the second time he had been robbed in 30 years as a jewel salesman.

Family Leaps From Flint House Blaze

Flint, Mich., June 19 (AP)—Father, mother and five small children leaped from a second story window to the roof of an adjoining building today to escape a fire in a store beneath their apartment. Movies Whet Dispute Over Wooderson Race

BY ORLO ROBERTSON New York, June 19 (AP)—Sydney Wooderson was inclined today to let the 1939 Princeton mile pass into history as motion pictures of the event only added fuel to the controversy as to whether he was fouled by Blaine Rideout.

After thinking the matter over, England's little world record holder at a mile called his collision Saturday with Rideout an "unfortunate accident—an accident occurring in the heat of the race which is best forgotten."

The collision, occurring at the top of the home stretch, threw the Englishman off stride and cost him whatever chance he had for victory. Chuck Fenske came up fast to take the race in 4:11 with Wooderson finishing last in the field of five.

Meanwhile, the movies failed to clear up the argument whether Rideout bumped Wooderson or whether the record holder, apparently tired, hit the Texan when he (Wooderson) failed to straighten out in time for the final 200-yard dash to the finish line.

The pictures showed Rideout first passing Fenske shortly before the turn. Then Rideout pulled up even with Wooderson and for a time the two appeared to shoulder to shoulder. Coming into the turn Rideout, seeking to gain the lead, gradually seemed to crowd Wooderson toward the rail until the Briton half-stumbled and threw up his right arm as if to regain his balance.

Rideout went into the lead only to have Wooderson regain his stride and pass him momentarily. From the angle of the pictures it was difficult to determine whether there actually was bodily contact or whether Wooderson, seeking to avoid such contact, inadvertently stepped on the rail and lost his balance.

Before the two collided, Glenn Cunningham, who finished second five yards back of Fenske, also lost his balance when he stepped on the rail. When Wooderson stumbled, Glenn attempted to go through the hole, but the Briton's quick recovery blocked him off and he was forced to go around the leaders to make his stretch bid.

Some track experts felt that the mishap, regrettable as it was, had little effect on the final outcome. They pointed out the little Briton, hailed abroad as the greatest judge of pace since Paavo Nurmi and admittedly aiming at a new record around 4:03, ran the first quarter in the slow time of 64 seconds. This not only cut Wooderson all chance of a new record, but indicated to some experts at least that the Englishman was not in shape. Certainly the pace was just what the Americans wanted.

Pictures of the finish also were significant. All four Americans held perfect form while Wooderson apparently had lost his form, showing signs of sheer exhaustion. In fact, at least one English sports writer expressed the fear before Wooderson ever went to the post that he had "left his race in England," where he set a world record for three-quarters of a mile and run a 4:07.4 mile.

Charley Ross Plans Suit For Share Of $460,000 Fortune

Phoenix, Ariz., June 18 (AP)—Charley Ross, the Phoenix carpenter who, a court declared, was the principal in the famous kidnaping mystery of 65 years ago, said today he would sue in Philadelphia to obtain a share in a purported $460,000 family trust fund.

Ross, who used the name of Gustave Blair before establishing his legal identity as Ross, will leave tomorrow with his wife for Philadelphia. They will be remarried under the name of Ross July 1 in Germantown, Pa., where the child Charley Ross was kidnaped at the age of four, July 1 is the 65th anniversary of the world famous abduction.

Ross said he would file suit against Walter Ross and his sisters, Sophie, Christina and Marion Ross, for one-fourth of a trust fund he claims was established by their father.

The Philadelphia family has refused to recognize the carpenter as a brother.

Detroit Girl, Age 6, Bitten By Rattler

Detroit, June 19 (AP)—Six-year-old Jere Keyes was reported in a serious condition at a hospital today as a result of a snake bite suffered Sunday while playing on a neighbor's back porch.

SENATORS AND BROWNS SPLIT

Washington Takes First Game, 2 to 1, In 14 Frames; Loses Last

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Lanky Vernon Kennedy scattered six hits over 14 innings today to help St. Louis beat the Washington Senators 2 to 1 in the first game of a twin bill, but the Browns lost an abbreviated nightcap, 6 to 1.

In the first game neither team scored until the 10th, when Don Hoefner singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Billy Sullivan's single. The Senators tied it up in their half on two singles, a sacrifice and an infield out.

Chet Laabs won the game in the 14th, scoring Johnny Berardina with a triple. The second game was called in the eighth because of darkness.

First game: St. Louis ----- 000 000 100 01-----2 11 0 Washington ----- 000 000 000 100-----1 6 1 Kennedy and Glenn; Leonard and Ferrell. Second game: St. Louis ----- 100 000 00-----1 6 2 Washington ----- 401 100 0x-----6 6 0 Lawson, Harris, Mills and Glenn; Krakauskus and Early.

NEGRO FIGHTER TO LOSE TITLE

John Henry Lewis Is Ruled Out By NBA For Bad Eye

Pittsburgh, June 19 (AP)—Gus Greenlee, manager of John Henry Lewis, negro fighter whose light heavyweight title was lifted by the National Boxing Association today, said "the cards were stacked" against the dethroned champion.

"Some pressure was put on the NBA," said Greenlee, noting that three physicians recommended Lewis be allowed to continue fighting but that the association ruled him out for his "physical well being." Lewis' left eye was injured in a ring battle several years ago.

Greenlee said Lewis "didn't take the decision hard," but was "sorry he didn't resign first." The former champion said he would go to Oakland, Calif., to go in business.

GETS JULY 11 OFFER

Pittsburgh, June 19 (AP)—John Henry Lewis, stripped of his light heavyweight championship today by the National Boxing Association, because of partial blindness, received an offer tonight to fight next July 11 in St. Louis.

Matchmaker Larry Atkins of the Missouri town said he wanted to match the 25-year-old negro with Gus Lanesvich, of Jersey City. He said he believed the Missouri boxing commission, not a member of the NBA, would approve the contest.

Gus Greenlee, Lewis' manager, said he would discuss the offer with Lewis. Lewis won his title in St. Louis on Oct. 31, 1935 from Bob Olin. He said his eye injury, which resulted in Michigan and English commissions declaring him "physically unfit" to fight had been incurred before that fight.

Atkins said Joe Vella, manager of Lesnevich, would be here tomorrow to discuss terms for the bout. Earlier Lewis had announced he was "sorry" he had not resigned his title and said he planned to move to Oakland, Calif., and go into business. The NBA decision, announced in Washington, was made after two physical exams and an eye specialist examination. They reported his vision impaired but recommended he be permitted to continue fighting.

REVENUE BILL INTENDED TO AID BUSINESS

In explaining the bill, Rep. Cooper told the house it was a tax relief measure "designed to remove certain deterrents and irritants to a full and free flow of commerce."

Camp Wells Noses Out Hermansville By Score of 4-2

Camp Wells, Mich., June 19—Camp Wells scored runs in two while Hermansville scored in singles here Sunday, the CCC boys getting a 4-2 victory in an interesting and well-played game.

Hermansville drew first blood in the opening inning with a single score but Camp Wells went ahead with a brace of scores in the third and added two more in the fifth. Hermansville brought a home run in the first half of the ninth as a parting shot.

Supanich, CCC hurler, throttled Hermansville with seven hits, one of which was a home run by Mackchalk while Camp Wells touched the offerings of Lohf and N. Fullick for nine safeties, three of which were doubles.

Score by innings: Hermansville 100 000 001—2 7 1 Camp Wells 002 020 00x—4 9 2 N. Fullick, Lohf and Polazzo; Supanich and Smith. Umpires: Mattson and Tobias.

Maroons Smother Schaffer by 22-7 In Opening Game

The Escanaba Maroons, junior league champs of last year, won the 1939 opener, trouncing Schaffer Sunday at the Wells diamond, 22 to 7.

Schaffer started strong, chalking up three runs in the first inning, but the Escanaba team came back with five tallies in their own half of the inning to take over the lead. Going was uneventful until the fourth when the Maroons opened with a barrage that garnered them twelve runs to their opponents' nothing. They coasted to an easy finish, counting five more scores and allowing Schaffer only two.

Bolland and Grenier were battery-mates for the victors while Jones and Johnson functioned for the Schaffer squad.

Sivertsen, Boyle and Thorin counted two hits apiece for the Maroons, to add materially to the winners' margin.

The score: Maroons ----- 22 24 2 Schaffer ----- 7 8 5

Joe Louis Watches Baseball Champions

New York, June 19 (AP)—Joe Louis watched another champion—the New York Yankees—today as he left his training camp for the first time since he opened work for his championship bout with Tony Galento three weeks ago.

After a strenuous week-end, in which he belted spar mates right and left, the champion took the entire day off. However, it was his favorite team, the Detroit Tigers, and not the Yankees, that brought Joe to town.

Louis, nearing peak condition, has only five more public workouts scheduled before he steps into the ring to defend his crown on June 28. He will box Tuesday and Thursday and then complete his schedule with three successive days of hard work over the weekend.

Bartholomeus Sue For Million Over Freddie's Earnings

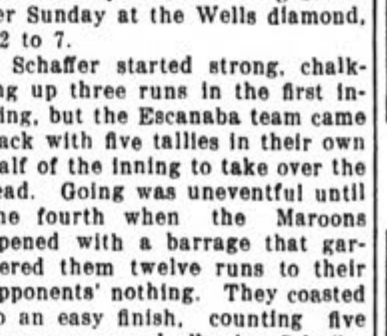

Los Angeles, June 19 (AP)—Parents of Freddie Bartholomew filed suit for $1,000,000 damages today, charging fraud and conspiracy to take the juvenile screen actor from them and divide his earnings.

Defendants include the boy's guardian, Mylicent Mary Bartholomew, sister of Freddie's father, Cecil Loyell Bartholomew; Isaac Pacht, attorney who once represented the father in litigation, and several John and Jane Does.

The parents charged the defendants conspired to cause them to lose the boy's affection and companionship, which they valued at $200,000. They also said they lost their son's earnings, which they estimated at $300,000. The additional $500,000 is asked for punitive damages.

QUIZ FEATURES SCOUT BOUNCE

Free Week at Camp Is Big Prize in Escanaba Area Contest

A Boy Scout Quiz program will be one of the features of the Boy Scout Bounce to be held at the Junior High school on June 28. Harold Gessner is general chairman of the feature.

The quiz will follow the pattern of a well-known program that is now on the air. Scouts will be selected to represent various troops and will draw for questions. Judges will determine the accuracy of the answers.

The scout winning the contest will be given a free week at camp. All the questions on the Scout Quiz will be taken from the Official Handbook for Boys.

Scouts will be selected from each troop from the Escanaba district which includes Wells and Bark River to take part in the Boy Scout Quiz. O. V. Thatcher will be director of the scout program.

The Official Handbook for Boys is the regular book used by scouts and contains a brief history of the Boy Scouts of America as well as all the Boy Scout advancement requirements. A similar Scout Quiz program was used in Escanaba, Gladstone and Manistique two years ago with very interesting results.

One for Ripley
At Manistique during a quiz contest a scout was asked how many pockets in the official scout breeches. He promptly answered, "Four." The judge announced correct answer was "Five" whereupon the contestant protested there were only four. Upon examination by the judges it was found that through error the company had omitted the fifth pocket—the watch pocket. The boy's answer was accepted.

At another time a contestant was asked what he would do if he saw a person's clothing burning. The boy was badly confused by the question and the audience, and announced, "I'd give him some of my clothing."

Knows Alger County History

Munising, June 9—If you are interested in Alger county lands, one of the ways you can obtain information about them is by visiting G. A. Baldwin, pioneer Alger county resident, who is the maker and owner of the first set of abstract books covering all the lands of Alger county. Abstracts are the record of anything affecting the title of real estate. Mr. Baldwin's books were started in the period of 1899 to 1902, when he was register of deeds for Alger county.

And if you have sometimes wondered what the large black envelope he carries under his arm on Mondays on his trip from his office to the courthouse and back is, now you will know the answer. The envelope contains abstract sheets and all the week's transactions pertaining to land in the county that are registered at the courthouse are copied by Mr. Baldwin each Monday morning and the loose-leaf sheets are then inserted in Mr. Baldwin's large abstract books.

Mr. Baldwin came to the county on March 1, 1892, and is among the early residents who still remember when Au Train was the county seat of Alger county. He came to the Upper Peninsula a year after his graduation from the Western Michigan Business university, Grand Rapids, and for a time was employed by his brother, Francis L. Baldwin, at his printing shop in Au Train.

During the early twentieth century Mr. Baldwin was postmaster at Au Train and from 1899 to 1902 he was register of deeds for Alger county. His abstract records were started during that time.

Mr. Baldwin was poor commissioner for Alger county from 1895 to 1906 and in 1906 he was elected as a member of the village board of trustees for Munising. He served until 1912. He also was register of deeds for the county from 1909 to 1912.

Mr. Baldwin now operates a real estate, abstract and insurance office here.

CHANGES MADE IN LICENSING

New Regulations Received Here; Go Into Effect On Wednesday

Several changes are being made in regulations governing licensing of auto drivers and chauffeurs, according to information received here by Sgt. Phil Bruce of the city police, who is in charge of the city licensing bureau.

Starting Wednesday, the price of the operator's license will be $1.25 instead of the $1.00 previously collected. This figure is all that is collected, no money being allowed for stamps, money orders and the like.

Examiners are authorized to administer the oath on all license applications, no notary public being necessary.

Chauffeur's licenses will cost $2.00 annually. Hereafter, applicants for chauffeur's licenses will not be required to submit a picture. Instead, they will be fingerprinted and copies of the prints will be carried on the licenses.

Chauffeur's licenses are needed by all persons whose principal business is the purpose of operating motor vehicles and in use as public or common carriers of persons and property. All drivers of delivery trucks are required to have chauffeur's licenses even if they are working only on a commission basis.

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

SEEING IS BELIEVING!

CAMEL'S expensive tobaccos, so inexpensive to smoke—is welcome news to millions who are keen for the smoking thrill of finer tobaccos! Naturally, a slower-burning cigarette, Camel, gives more and better smoking for the money. And now the impartial research of a leading laboratory proves that Camels burn far slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands. Here are 3 cigarette facts discovered by this scientific group:

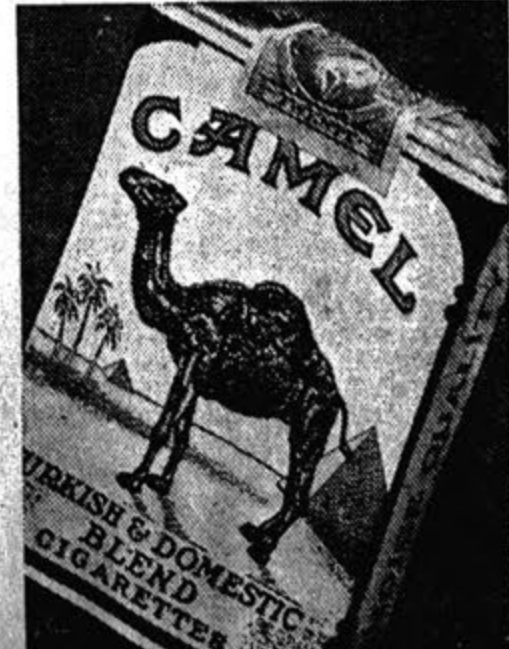

- 1 Camels were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.
- 2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!
- 3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

SMOKING IS BELIEVING!

Now—as the summer season of extra smoking starts—begin enjoying the cigarette of extra smokes! Everyone can afford the coolness, the true mildness, the ripe, delicate taste and fragrance of smoking pleasure at its best. Yes, enjoy more smoking for your money and the added bonus of Camel's costlier tobaccos. Try Camels—America's favorite and thriftiest way to true smoking enjoyment!

A BATTERY OF "SMOKERS" used in the impartial laboratory tests to determine the actual burning time of 16 of the largest-selling brands of cigarettes. Trained scientists and special equipment assured scientifically accurate control. Camels (shown here under test) proved to be 25% slower burning than the average of the 15 other brands tested, giving Camel smokers the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Against Third Term

LIBERALS and conservatives are lining up against what appears to be a studied effort to return President Roosevelt to the White House for a third term.

Oswald Garrison Villard, noted liberal writer, who has quite often supported New Deal policies, comes out in The Nation with a protest against a third term for President Roosevelt or any other president.

Frank Gannett, newspaper publisher, comes out with the recommendation that instead of discussing a third term for Roosevelt that the country should call upon him to resign so that the way may be opened for recovery and revitalizing America.

"The sooner he resigns the better," Gannett declared in a statement on Monday. "I say this with regret, for along with many others I tried wholeheartedly to help his administration but it has proved a failure."

The Democrats are in somewhat of a sorry plight. Admittedly, President Roosevelt is their most popular personality, but the Gallup polls and other public opinion surveys show that the people of America are opposed to a breaking of the no-third term tradition.

Railroads Offer Help

HISTORY books record that the American railroads played no small part in the development of this nation through the projection of their lines to new unsettled territory, providing the transportation facilities and promotion work that brought about the advance of white civilization.

The railroads are still opening up frontiers in this country, although conditions are much different now than they were in the early pioneering days.

At the meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau last week, the railroads' contribution to the promotion of the potato industry in this region was recognized. The railroads were primarily responsible, long before the coming of the automobile, for the building of the resort industry in the Lower Peninsula of Michigan and elsewhere, and now they are directing their efforts in a similar program in this northern part of the state.

Robert Thomson, official of the passenger department of the Chicago and North Western railway, stated at the meeting that the railroad would be willing to bring a party of newspaper writers of Chicago and other cities to the Upper Peninsula to introduce them to lake trout trolling and other attractions of the region.

It's a good idea. There are too few writers located in the Upper Peninsula to do an adequate job of public its outstanding fishing advantages, and the next best thing to do is to bring these publicists here. It is planned that has been worked with good results by Canada, North Carolina, Minnesota and other regions, who are doing a high class job of tourist and resort promotion.

Bare-Fisted Baccalaureates

PROMINENT Americans who are drafted to make college baccalaureate and commencement addresses year after year would find it interesting to dig through dusty files and compare their speeches for the last 10 years with those made in 1939.

A survey of newspaper accounts of at least 50 current dissertations leaves no doubt that the speakers no longer ramble on for hours (while perspiration flows beneath a thousand caps and gowns) about the great opportunity in life that is just outside the field house door.

Nor do they paint a dark picture of gloom and despair which challenges the metal of the stoutest hearted.

The 1939 style baccalaureate and commencement speaker takes off his gloves after the second paragraph and chooses to go the rest of the route with a little bare-fisted, hand-to-hand encounter with the realities of life, no punches pulled.

Of course, there are still a few old style orators who stress the importance of honesty, ambition, energy, willingness-to-work, industry, etc., etc., in the "great game which you are entering today." But just look at these excerpts selected at random from this year's speeches:

"If we are to avoid regimentation, we must exert active effort to order our own scheme of life."

"The question that remains to be an-sured in your time is: How far can legislation go and still register a gain for all the people."

"The present danger to democracy lies in the possibility that we ourselves will discredit the democratic system, or permit it to become atrophied through lack of use."

"The foundation on which these desirable structures (high standards of living) can be supported is an efficient and profitable production of things people need and are willing to pay for."

"An abandonment of co-ordinated thinking paves the way for fascism and revolution."

Yes, those are words spoken to 1939 college graduates by leaders in business, government and the church. Times do change, don't they?

Advice to Fathers

WHEN young boys are brought before juvenile court on various delinquency charges, the judge usually gives them a stern lecture on their waywardness and points out where they will end up if they continue along the same path.

Recently 40 such youths stood before Judge Frank Bieck in Chicago juvenile court. Some of them were repeaters and all must have expected the usual warning. Instead, Judge Bieck called in their fathers.

"I find that one of the outstanding causes of juvenile crime is parental neglect," said Judge Bieck, himself a father. "By that I mean a failure to recognize that children have problems as well as parents. These problems must be solved and it is our job as fathers to see to it that these immature minds have help and sympathetic understanding in solving them."

"The job of rearing children is not a part time job. If done right, it is the most important business in the world. It pays the greatest dividends. Let me advise you. Get to know your boy. Live his everyday life with him. Love him and let him know it. Respect his ideas but try to guide him. That is the way, the only way to be a father."

The men shifted their feet, surprised and dismayed at the strange departure from court procedure. It had been many years since any had received a lecture. But every father in the land knows that each of those 40 fathers went home that night vowing to follow Judge Bieck's advice.

REFUGEE SHIP

(New York Times)

The saddest ship afloat today, the Hamburg-American lines St. Louis, with 900 Jewish refugees aboard, is steaming back toward Germany after a tragic week of frustration at Havana and off the coast of Florida. She is steaming back despite an offer made to Havana to give a guarantee through the Chase National Bank of $500 apiece for every one of her passengers, men, women and children, who might land there.

It is useless now to discuss what might have been done. The case is disposed of, Germany, with all the hospitality of its concentration camps, will welcome these unfortunates home. Perhaps Cuba, as her spokesmen say, has already taken too many refugees. Yet all these 900 asked was a temporary haven. Before they sailed virtually all of them had registered under the quota provisions of various nations, including our own. Time would have made them eligible to enter. But there seems to be no help for them now. The St. Louis will soon be home with her cargo of despair.

VIEWES ON UNIONS

(Marquette Mining Journal)

The Institute of Public Opinion, reporting on the state of public mind on labor organizations and unions, finds that the great majority of Americans favor unions and uphold labor's right to organize. But it finds that this same majority is weary of having its interest adversely affected by repeated strike troubles and favors an automatic mediation plan imposed by federal law, a plan similar to those now in effect in the railroad and maritime industries. Also, it finds that while the labor relations law is favored in principle there is substantial sentiment for its amendment with the purpose of making it "fairer" to business.

To the question "would you favor a law requiring employers and unions to submit their differences to a federal board before a strike could be called?" there was an 86 per cent favorable response, analysis of which shows all income groups to be substantially of the same opinion. There was a 70 per cent declaration in favor of labor unions, but a 73 per cent declaration against the closed shop and one of 71 per cent against the union shop, or the shop in which only members of the union are permitted to work.

In summary, the great majority of the voters today, first, favor unions and uphold the right to organize; second, approve a plan by which federal mediation would precede the calling of any strike; third, believe the labor relations law is one-sided and should be amended to give some protection to the employer interest; fourth, are opposed to both the union and the closed shop.

His view on the latter highly controversial question is perhaps most important of all. It shows conviction that the right to collective bargaining should be recognized and made effective without denying the right to the individual who does not want to join a union to work alongside members of the union. Typical expressions on this point brought out by the poll are: "Jobs should be open to all qualified

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—In these days of international stress and strain, there are few places in the world that remain unaffected. Among these is San Marino, the smallest republic in the world. It is not only the smallest republic, but is said to be the oldest state in Europe. In addition, it is the sole example of liberty firmly sustained through centuries in Italy.

Between the blue waters of the Adriatic which wash that part of the shore of Italy from the city of Ravenna to that of Pesaro, and the lofty ridges of the Apennines which shut in the Montefeltro district, rises the high and isolated vertical rock of Monte Titano. The three peaks of this high place form the heart of the tiny republic, which for more than sixteen centuries has led a life of liberty. The republic occupies only 38 square miles and contains a population of approximately 15,000. This is some 5,000 more than the little country had twenty years ago, indicating it is not a place which is being deserted, despite its near isolation and smallness. The growth in population is due largely to an increase in the number of native births, for there are few inducements to attract outsiders.

Although completely surrounded by Italian territory, and Mussolini seeking opportunities for expansion, there has never been any indication that the peace of the community would be disturbed. One of those tranquil spots of Europe, San Marino has gone its way through the centuries and seems destined to remain apart from the humdrum of big things and political turmoil. Disturbance of its governmental life would frustrate a peaceful home rule that has lasted for centuries.

Off the beaten path of tourists, the outside world sees little of San Marino, and little is the tiny state disturbed by diplomatic relations and trade in commerce with other countries. It seems an ideal place for an isolationist.

To mention San Marino is to name its capital, for each has the same name. The dominant life of the small republic centers around the quaint old town which was built about the labors of a missionary. The capital is on a crag 2420 feet high, surrounded by a great wall with forts. Its several massive buildings, including the governor's palace, make the place a picturesque spot.

CITY DATES FROM FOURTH CENTURY

According to tradition, the town was founded by Marino, a Christian stone-breaker who came from his native town of Arbe near the middle of the fourth century. Together with his fellow-countryman, Leo, he gave himself to preaching the word of Christ among the oppressed masses who were engaged in building the walls around the city of Rimini and those who were working in the stone quarries of the surrounding mountains.

Having established themselves on the two rocky peaks of the Titano and of Monte Peretio, where the work of the stone-breakers was fatiguing and intense, Marino and Leo made converts and founded two small churches, to which, together with their reputation for holiness, they left their names. Their names are perpetuated in the capital and in other parts of the republic.

Founding the republic followed the building of the town of San Marino. To the grave of Marino pilgrims flocked with their pains, their afflictions, or in search of some boon of fortune. Many of these pilgrims were fugitives from their homes, driven by the unsettled conditions of Italy, and the devastation of unruly, invading hordes of barbarians when the Roman Empire fell. Many remained and took steps to form the small republic. Founded for the purpose of freedom, it has remained democratic.

The excellent character and superiority of these first settlers is clearly demonstrated. In their aim to have a stable and equitable government they founded a republic which has been possibly one of the longest duration of modern times. Addison wrote: "The commonwealth of San Marino may boast at least of a nobler origin than that of Rome."

The most historical period of the life of the republic began in the ninth century when the first defensive works were begun. Then came the Arringo—the general meeting of the heads of all the families as a governing body. This was the outcome of an increased development in civil life. The Arringo was later superseded by the general council, the executive power passing into the hands of the consuls or councilors elected by the people. That form of government still remains, and it contains all the elements of a democracy.

For example every six months the general council chooses from among its members two consuls or councilors, called regent captains, whose duty it is to see that the laws of the state are carried out and to preside at the meetings of the public councils. There is an old established law which prohibits them from being reelected within a period of three years.

workers not merely members of the union; "the matter of joining a union should be left to the individual;" "people should be free to do what they think best for their own interests."

The expressions of opinion are so decisive as to suggest that legislation will in time take cognizance of what is in the public mind. As the public is inarticulate and slow to make known what it wants, the time required to bring about practical recognition of its views may be relatively long. But it shows increasing realization that it is now, on many occasions, being as despoiled by organized labor as it was ever used by predatory capitalists.

Answers To Questions

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. What was President Grant's real name, Hiram Ulysses or Ulysses Simpson? G. H.

A. President Grant's full name was Hiram Ulysses Grant. He acquired the name Ulysses Simpson (Simpson was his mother's maiden name) by mistake. The congressman who filled out his appointment papers for West Point thought that Simpson was his middle name.

Q. Is it known how long the great Carlsbad Caverns have been in existence? E. F.

A. Geologists estimate that the formation of the caverns began some sixty million years ago at the end of the "Age of Dinosaurs." Water seepage into vast limestone deposits has caused their myriads of sculptured effects.

Q. When are wood ticks most prevalent? J. P. S.

A. May and June are the worst months in regions where the insects are abundant. By the first of August the ticks practically disappear.

Q. Please define the difference between a territory of the United States and a possession thereof. F. K.

A. It is difficult to define satisfactorily the difference between a territory and a possession of the United States. Alaska and Hawaii are, according to an official in the Division of Territories and Island Possessions, full fledged territories of the United States. Puerto Rico is also a territory, but its finances are handled in a slightly different way. In Alaska and Hawaii all of the internal revenue is collected and paid into the United States Treasury and appropriations made therefrom. Internal revenue of Puerto Rico is collected and paid into a separate fund. Under the Securities Act the term "territory" means Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, and insular possessions of the United States. The Canal Zone is administered by the War Department. Several of the other islands, such as Wake Island and Midway Islands are under the jurisdiction of the Navy Department. The District of Columbia is part of the United States and is not a territory but a district.

Q. How soon will the new small-sized turkey be on the market? L. P.

A. Government experts say that it will take probably another five years before the desired characteristics are "fixed" in the new small-type turkey. If they succeed, the small-type turkey will be white, with a compact body, short legs, a long keel bone, and plenty of breast meat. It would mature in 24 to 26 weeks, the young hen weighing 6 1/2 to 9 pounds dressed, and the young tom between 11 and 15 1/2 pounds dressed.

Q. Some people claim that Bell did not invent the telephone and that this was proved in the Supreme Court. Could you give details of this case? V. A. C.

A. The Supreme Court case in regard to the telephone was decided on March 19, 1888. The ma-

Q. Will you tell me the origin of the salute of twenty-one guns? F. L.

A. The following explanation has been given of this custom: Originally warships fired a salute of seven guns, the number seven being selected because of its mystical significance from antiquity. Although the salute at sea was seven guns, shore batteries were allowed to fire three guns to the ship's one. The reason for this was that sodium nitrate was largely used in the manufacture of powder. This was easily spoiled at sea, but could be very readily kept on land. The multiplier three was selected probably because of its symbolism. With the development of the manufacture of powder, the number of guns for the international naval salute was made to correspond with that of the land forces. On August 18, 1875, a resolution adopted by the United States provided that salutes be returned gun for gun. At this time the British salute was already twenty-one guns, therefore, this number was accepted by the United States.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Lay it to civic pride—but I venture that one of the world's scenic thrills is the first curve on upper Riverside Drive in full view of the George Washington Bridge. I've heard nonchalant globe trotters gasp their awe at the initial, unexpected vista before them, the arch bridge strung along the wide expanse above the Hudson.

And from the glassed-in terrace of Ben Marden's lovely Riviera, a palatial night club perched high above the Hudson, another eye thrill is in store for fortunate excursionists. While light still lingers over the dusk, the stretch of Manhattan from the Battery to the Bronx is plainly visible from there. Buildings, tall, short, squat, slender—all typical of the island's growth—line the shore.

A NOCTURNAL FAIRYLAND

Manhattan looks hard in the light from the Riviera promontory. Cold, sharp stone stands out in brutal reality. Then, as night flows over the waterway first sailed and discovered by Hendrick Hudson, and the darkness blots out the roughhewn skyline, a new Manhattan greets the eye—a soft fairyland of lights. What, in daylight, was a long, monotonous line of cars on the parkway along the opposite shore, now is a phosphorescent caterpillar winding along the water's edge.

And the gray, drab steel of the George Washington Bridge is hidden by night. The heavy cables of day become gossamer-like strands etched against a star-lit sky. A painted river, still and reflective, is the Hudson far below, though here and there, on its surface, lights of varied craft prick the black. Word landscaping of such scenes are meager. They must be seen.

SIGHT-SEEING IN NEW YORK

The other night we talked about other unforgettable settings in Father Knickerbocker's village. I argued for my own favorites: The night-time view of Central Park South from uptown, where pin-point lights slope off into the sky.

Central Park from its highest hill, near the Mall. The Battery looking out into the Bay and toward the Narrows where the leviathan ships crawl to their berths in port.

The East River banks that command a sight of the new, intricate but streamlined Triborough Bridges. The breathless view of the skyline from lower New York harbor.

The lofty panoramas of city, river, mountain, palisade, skyscraper, human anthracite, crawling cranes from atop the Empire State.

Selfishness and gain-seeking are assuredly controlling the policies of great nations called civilized and their contempt for moral principles is as complete and outspoken as if moral principles did not exist.

—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University. I expect the liberal wave to hold in 1940 and the forces of reaction to take over in 1944. If they do, I look for a real threat of dictatorship, and swiftly. And there may be war. —William Curtis Bok, noted jurist.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Behold the arrival today of General Goes Monteiro, Brazilian Chief of Staff, in an inside story of State Department blundering in trying to head off Nazi encroachment in Latin America.

It goes back to last winter's visit of Oswaldo Aranha, Foreign Minister of Brazil, and No. 1 democrat in Latin America.

Aranha also is No. 1 friend of the United States in Latin America, and as such he was invited to pay a goodwill trip to the United States. But when the State Department got him here, chief subject discussed was getting Brazil to pay her debts. It was as if Roosevelt had spent all his time with his guest, King George, demanding that England repay her war debts.

Because Aranha was such a staunch friend of the United States, the State Department imposed on his friendship, forced a debt agreement upon him.

Brazilians do not see why they should pay their debts if France, Britain, Italy, etc., do not pay theirs, so Foreign Minister Aranha had a tough time when he got home. One opponent was General Monteiro, a blunt-spoken army officer who was planning to accept a German invitation to witness Nazi army maneuvers. So the State Department, worried over its previous policy, moved heaven and earth to bring Monteiro to the United States instead of Germany.

LATE LESSON

This time the State Department has learned a lesson. Because Aranha was such a good friend, the State Department kept him waiting on a Jersey City switchyard for over an hour, brought him on a slow train to Washington, provided him with no aides in making other trips between New York and Washington, did not even help get his baggage from the station in time for him to dress for dinner.

This time, much less friendly General Monteiro has had a special U. S. cruiser sent all the way to Brazil to bring him here. Every hour of his three weeks' stay has been mapped out, and he will be flown from city to city by a fleet of flying fortresses.

Moral: In South America it pays to be aloof, or even unfriendly to the United States. Penalty of being a real friend is to be imposed upon by the State Department. No debts will be discussed with General Monteiro.

CORCORAN AND MICHELSON

Tommy Corcoran, Roosevelt's famed brain truster, and Charley Michelson, the Democratic brain truster of John Ras-kob's day, had breakfast the other day in a Washington hotel.

Good friends personally, the two have strongly divergent political views, Corcoran believing that the Democratic Party must be progressive and virile, Michelson believing that it must travel along relatively old-fashioned lines, a policy which Corcoran believes will doom the party to defeat.

The two did not discuss politics at the beginning of their breakfast. They were too busy eating waffles. Finally Tom offered Charley the last quarter of a waffle. "I'll split it with you," he suggested.

"You can't split a waffle," replied Michelson, thinking of syrup spreading in every direction.

MCCUTT STARTS YOUNG

To get an idea of how Paul McCutt is reaching for 1940, cast a glance at Pittsburgh. There, on the 10th, 11th, and 12th of August, the Young Democrats will hold their annual convention.

McCutt, through his campaign manager, Frank McHale, has said that Indiana will send no less than 2,000 delegates to the convention. An entire hotel has been reserved for them, and a big banquet planned for the second night.

Note—The number of delegates attending does not determine the voting strength of a State. Each State is allowed to cast one vote for each 1,000 paid-up members, regardless of how many attend. Indiana has 5,000 paid-up members, which is better than most.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

It is supposed to be a secret, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation is quietly probing the affairs of Mayor Frank ("I am the law") Hague. . . . To the surprise and delight of Townsend officials, registration for their national convention in Indianapolis this month increased after the House's thumping defeat of the old-age pension plan. Townsendites had feared they would fall off.

Chief speakers at the convention will be Senators Claude Pepper of Florida, Sheridan Downey of California and Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma. . . . The first thing Maury Maverick did after becoming Mayor of San Antonio was to fire from the city payroll all the relatives of his successful congressional opponent last year. Among those axed was the chief of police, brother of the Congressman. . . . Sixty Secret Service men guarded the King and Queen during their U. S. tour. The huge detail was under the personal direction of Frank J. Wilson, head of the S.S., and his assistant Joseph E. Murphy.

A TREE

I'm tired, but when I see a tranquil tree A mystic something calms and quiets me. I'm weak, but when I see a mighty tree The pulse of girding strength possesses me. I hate, but when I see a patient tree A poignant sense of shame comes over me. I mourn, but when I see a stretching tree Its arms of love reach out and comfort me. I laugh, and when I see a nodding tree I know that it is laughing, too, with me. God's gracious gift to man, a tree. Ah, let me live where trees can counsel me.

Schaffer News

Celebration Well Attended

Schaffer, Mich.—Many people from the surrounding towns and from this community, as well, attended the religious ceremonies, dinner and supper, and the diversions in the afternoon and evening at the Sacred Heart Church, Sunday, June 11. Due to the rainy weather the procession was held inside the church instead of out, as had been planned. During the dinner and supper the Schaffer String Orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Lebesu, played beautiful selections.

A table was reserved at supper for Mrs. Julian and Eugene Rousseau, several other priests, and over fifty relatives of the Frs. Rousseau.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dautre and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cory, of Iron Mountain visited with relatives here, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ell Taylor and family of Eustis, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taylor and Mrs. A. Taylor of Schaffer attended the First Mass read by the new ordained priest, Rev. Fr. Julian Rousseau, O. F. M., at St. Joseph's church in Escanaba, Sunday. They also attended the banquet given in his honor. Rev. Fr. Rousseau is a nephew of Mrs. A. Taylor.

The Misses Rita Seymour and Margaret Sullivan returned to Republic Monday morning after having spent three days here visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Collins and little daughter of Marinette, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Turk of Iron Mountain visited at the Joe Michel home, Sunday. Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Turk are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Michel.

Gerald Seymour of Escanaba returned to his home, Wednesday, after having spent a few days visiting with his relatives here.

Francis Degneffe arrived last week from Lansing where he attended school. He will spend the summer vacation with his parents here, then return to Lansing in the fall.

Harry Meyer, Marquette Journalism Student Touring Lakes In Canoe, Breathes More Freely Since Passing Detroit

Detroit, Mich., June 19.—Husky Harry Meyer, 22 year old Marquette university journalism student who is traveling 2,000 miles from Milwaukee to the New York World's fair in a 17-foot canoe, believes that "the worst is over" now that he is safely past Detroit.

The Marquette student set sail from Milwaukee in his fragile craft on Monday, May 29. He skirted the west shores of Lake Michigan and hopped across the perilous mouth of Green Bay to Manitowish, Mich. Then, although held up two days by dense fog, heavy rain and high waves, he negotiated the Strait of Mackinac and entered Lake Huron.

Meyer's route took him across Thunder Bay and Saginaw Bay, down the St. Clair river to Detroit. Then, via Lake Erie, he will touch Toledo, Cleveland, Erie and Buffalo, entering the New York state barge canals at Tonawanda. Crossing to the Hudson river, he believes there will be little difficulty in reaching the East river and the World's fair grounds.

Scanty Equipment

The youth's canoe is equipped with a small outboard motor and has built-in air tanks to make it unsinkable. A canvas tarpaulin covers the canoe to the rear thwart to keep the seas out. He carries a compass as his only navigation aid. A life jacket, a fire extinguisher and a Marquette university pennant complete his equipment.

When storm conditions prevent small craft navigation, Meyer camps on the beach. He has spent several nights en route in fishing shanties and aboard tugboats. Coast guard stations are cooperating to the extent that when he leaves one city, coast guardsmen at the next destination are notified and are on the lookout.

Meyer says one of the purposes of his trip is to demonstrate that small boats can be operated safely in large bodies of water when proper precautions are taken.

"The canoe," he explains, "has a decided advantage over larger craft because in the event of bad weather it can be beached quickly, while larger boats are forced to ride out the storm on an open lake."

Has Experience

Marquette's Halliburton has previously had experience in handling canoes in a summer camp, and used that experience to win his widowed mother in Milwaukee over to giving consent for the voyage.

Meyer, whose articles have appeared in national outdoor magazines, plans to write a story of the trip. If successful in this one, he plans similar ventures into other parts of the world.

Meyer believes he can complete the trip to the World's fair in about five weeks. At the trip's end he plans to take part in an exhibition at the fair.

'MUNY' LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

Local City Officials Go to Crystal Falls On Friday, Saturday

Municipal officials of Michigan's upper peninsula will convene Thursday and Friday in Crystal Falls for their fourth annual conference. It was announced yesterday by Herbert A. Olson, Director of the Michigan Municipal League.

More than 130 city and village officials, representing 30 communities, are expected to attend.

TO ATTEND MEETING

City manager George Bean and several department heads will attend the meeting of the Michigan Municipal League at Crystal Falls Friday and Saturday.

Although many state-wide problems will be under consideration, special attention will be given topics of particular interest to upper peninsula municipalities. Prime concern of the delegerator will be problems presented by legislation passed in the 1939 session, much of which has a direct effect on municipal government. Changes in tax procedure, welfare administration, disconnection of land from cities and villages, and neighborhood zoning will be considered in a general session.

To Review Proposals

At the same time Mr. Olson will review the history of proposals made by cities to revise the present law distributing highway revenues between municipalities and counties which were defeated by the Legislature. The new intangibles tax law will be explained by Mark W. Alger of the League staff.

Highlighting the noon program on Friday will be Abner Larned, state WPA administrator who will address the meeting on "The Future Program of WPA". In view of the major changes in the program now before Congress his topic is particularly timely, Olson pointed out.

The conference will open Thursday noon with a luncheon, when delegates will be welcomed by Mayor Novonio Pivatto of Crystal Falls. Mayor Vining Bjork of Ishpeming, League vice-president, will respond for the delegates.

Discuss Winter Sports

All delegates will meet in a general session following the luncheon to hear a discussion of the urban land policy of the state conservation department led by Fred P. Struhsaker, director of the department's lands division. Winter sports programs will be outlined by representatives of the various communities having organized activities. The afternoon session will close with a review of planning and zoning activities in Marquette county by Harry Nightengale, member of the county zoning commission.

Convening Friday morning in five groups, round table discussions of their particular problems will be held by mayors, village presidents and councilmen; attorneys; engineers and public works officials; finance officers; and electric utility superintendents. Olson stated that these informal discussions have proved in the past to be very valuable in bringing about an exchange of ideas and solutions to mutual problems.

As an added feature of the closing banquet, a film entitled "Your State Police" is to be shown by State Trooper Ralph Sheehan, in

Coast Guards Are Entered In Meets At Grand Marais

Grand Marais, Mich.—The annual Coast Guard Boat races are being held in the various districts. Wednesday, June 14, the Whitefish Point Coast Guards defeated the men from the Vermillion Station by five seconds, and Friday, June 16, the Grand Marais Coast Guards defeated the men from the Munising Station by 26 seconds here in the Grand Marais bay. The race is two miles long. The men who manned the boat from the Grand Marais Station were Theodore Hella, Lawrence Teller, Toivo Linimaki, John Masse Jr., Vilho Olli, and Captain James Thorrington as Coxswain.

The winners in the two contests, Whitefish Point and Grand Marais, compete here in the bay Monday, and the victors will go to Marquette to meet winners from the other Lake Superior Stations. The crew that wins out at Marquette will go to meet victors in the Lake Michigan district, and thence to Lake Huron for the finals.

Project Completed

The local N.Y.A. boys have completed their project in the School Forest making fire lines with teams, and are now beginning the annual cleaning and renovating of the school house, and also doing refinishing.

The spider builds her nest as a snare, for the capture of prey, and therefore it must be as inconspicuous as possible. Dow renders it almost useless, since no careful fly would fly into such a glittering, jeweled object.

Summery Style
Designed For Larger Women

BY MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9096

Slenderness can be a matter of optical illusion. Marian Martin's Pattern 9096 does its work of slimming with subtle, deft touches. The skirt's double front panels appear to be just smart and trim, yet they give you wonderfully full, slim lines. The bodice merely looks cool and soft, yet clever darts at shoulders and waist give you the freedom you need and the bow-and-button trim makes the eye travel vertically. The scalloped collar is becoming in snow-white or self-material. The scalloped sleeves may be made in either straight or short flare version. Use the Sew Chart to take you quickly step-by-step.

Pattern 9096 may be ordered only in women's sizes 24, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Bring into summer in a light-hearted mood with a wardrobeful of new clothes. Even if your budget won't "budge," you can find a way by ordering MARIAN MARTIN'S NEW PATTERN BOOK and watching up your summer things at home. You'll find brilliant street frocks... be-dazzled evening wear... The new baguette and "little girl" trends! Sportswear, sea-and-sun styles, housefrocks, bridal finery! The latest collars, sleeves and prints. Clothes for tiny tots, teens and twenties; slimming styles for maistress. Order a copy NOW! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PAY FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to Daily Press Pattern Department, 222 W. 15th St., New York.

Receives Degree

MARIE BEAUCHAMP

Marie Beauchamp of Gladstone received the degree of bachelor of arts from Marymount college, Fallina, Kan., at commencement exercises held this past week. Miss Beauchamp, a graduate of St. Joseph's high school of this city, completed course with a major in history and minors in languages.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Few women are original models. Most of them are copies from the curls at the top of their heads to the thoughts inside those heads.

They have about as much individuality as the beautiful young women cast in molds to model clothes in show windows.

Women start this blind following of fashion when they are just girls, with movie stars for idols. They keep it up until they are too old to struggle.

Whether she is 16 or 60, the average woman has her hair done up or down—according to the latest news from Paris. If curls are being worn, she wears curls—whether she is the giddy or the grim type.

Her clothes are whatever is "being worn this season," whether she has any business wearing them or not.

If she bothers to read she lets some book club tell her what is "being talked about," and she reads a biography this month and a history of art next—even though she would much rather be reading an exciting novel.

She criticized Mrs. Roosevelt for "chasing all over the country" when it was popular to criticize Mrs. Roosevelt. She started admiring her when a wave of admiration for the First Lady struck the country.

She builds the kind of home that is currently popular, and furnishes it according to what "they say."

BIGOTED WHEN THAT'S THE STYLE

If tolerance is in fashion, she is tolerant. If everyone is condemning a particular group—she condemns, too.

And she never outgrows this adolescent attitude toward life. When she gets to be 45 or 50, she still wants to look like the current crop of glamor girls.

So she dyes her gray hair; puts on the latest shade of make-up—even if it is cerise—and puts herself on the back for not having let the years change her.

She is just another copy—when she could be an original model.

This pretty little rayon dress, with full skirt and a basque-like line through the middle, is trimmed with pale pink cut-out embroidered batiste. It's shown with a demure poke bonnet, finished with crisp navy veiling and a pink bow, and pale pink gloves.

Radio Around The Clock

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor
Time is Central Standard
New York, June 19.—Grace Allen comes forward in a new radio role Tuesday night. Yes a new role, for she is going to turn expert and join the board of answering lights of Clifton Fadiman's Information Please on WJZ-NBC at 6:30. Incidentally, too, she will appear on the program without the aid and comfort of George Burns.

Another quiz series is due. It takes the place of the Tuesday night vocal varieties on WEAF-NBC at 5:15, run by Ransom Sherman and Bob Brown. It will be called Quicksilver. Questions are to be put in the form of riddles.

Further in the broadcasting planned from the maiden voyage of the British liner Mauretania is the scheduled pickup by WOR-MBS at 8:30.

Of the periods set aside for discussion programs are these:
WJZ-NBC 10 a. m., National conference of social work at Buffalo, panel discussion.

MBS-Chain—1:30 p. m., Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio speaking on the annual Buckeye boys state program.

WEAF-NBC 3, Tercentenary of founding of Rhode Island as the birthplace of "Religious Tolerance" and spirit of "American Democracy," speaker Dr. David de Sola Pool of New York.

WJZ-NBC—4:05 Roundtable on accomplishments of the CCC camps.

Also from the Kiwanis convention at 11 a. m., WEAF-NBC has scheduled the address of William Green, president of A. F. of L., while at 8:30 a. m., WOR-MBS is to carry the convention's symposium on labor relations.

During 1937, the Dominion of Canada produced 32 per cent more pig iron than in the preceding year.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

It's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Brans—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Social-Club

G. I. A. Meeting

Old Portrait Of First Girl Born In City Located

An oil portrait of the first girl born in Escanaba, a tiny hat of black velvet with its dainty golden yellow plume, which she proudly wore, a small collection of her baby toys, are to be the property of the city of Escanaba.

The girl was Hattie Dodge, a golden haired little miss who was born in Escanaba in 1866, and who died five years later, the victim of a whooping cough epidemic, and the portrait and her personal possessions were brought to Escanaba Thursday by her brother, A. C. Dodge, of San Pedro, Calif., who made a special trip from San Pedro, to the scene of his boyhood years.

Hattie was the daughter of Annie Marie Fox of Sheboygan, Wis., and J. P. Dodge, who, with his brother, came to Escanaba from New England, when they heard that the Chicago and North Western railway was planning to build shops on Sand Point.

The elder Mr. Dodge, following the trade of his family from the time Richard Henry Dodge came from England to settle in the American colonies, built the first shoe shop in Escanaba, in the tiny frame building which still stands at 203 Ludington street. Lumber for the building was floated by raft from the mill at Flat Rock.

A. C. Dodge, brother of Hattie, who is visiting here at the home of his boyhood friend, William Meiers, 412 First avenue south, was the first to deviate from the family profession. Declaring he was going to be either a sailor or a railroad man, he entered the latter work, moving from Escanaba to Two Harbors, Minn., 56 years ago, to become a locomotive engineer for the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern. He retired with pension after forty-five years, and for the past eleven years has lived in San Pedro.

He had long planned on returning to Escanaba, and bringing with him the treasured portrait, and an opportunity presenting itself, he left California on a vacation trip, arriving here Wednesday night.

Women's Events At Club Wednesday

The customary women's day program will be held on Wednesday at the Escanaba Golf club, a luncheon at one o'clock, with League golf matches and tournament bridge during the afternoon. Luncheon reservations must be made by calling the club house before noon today. Mrs. Matthew Sullivan is chairman of the Wednesday events, and the associate members of the committee are Mesdames H. A. McPherson, C. E. Hawkins, J. F. Richardson, K. W. Stilling, Kibby Treiber and Harold Groos.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

St. Louis Has Visit With Sir Arthur Sutherland At Newcastle

BY STANLEY ST. LOUIS
Newcastle-on-Tyne, England—Sir Arthur M. Sutherland, baronet and British shipping magnate, in an interview granted at "Thurso House", his Newcastle-on-Tyne residence, made some interesting statements on present world conditions.

The baronet and Lady Sutherland have just returned from the United States where they included a visit to the New York World's Fair in their business trip.

Both were enthusiastic about the Fair, saying that unquestionably the Russian Exposition had stolen the show.

Sir Arthur, in common with most of the English, holds the highest opinion of President Roosevelt. He thought that the President's action at the time of the Munich crisis had preserved world peace, at least temporarily.

Regarding the revised foreign policy of our state department he said, "The Administration's present attitude will go a long way towards strengthening the democracies and should prove invaluable in preserving the peace in Europe."

Favors WPA Over Dole

On the question of WPA, the baronet was emphatic in stating that he felt it a great improvement over the English dole system of meeting the unemployment problem, but deplored the extravagance and waste of public funds in administration.

The conscription measure now in effect in England he considered absolutely essential to the welfare of the nation. In his opinion, systematic measures to improve the general health of the country, have been long overdue.

Under the new Military Training Bill the physical training provided will serve to increase national health and well-being. He shares the popular belief that all citizens should participate in defence of the country.

By way of reply to the English Socialist's cry, "Wealth as well as the nation's youth should be conscripted", the baronet pointed out that wealth was being drafted. He said, "$3.87 out of every $5.00 of my income now goes for taxation. Most of this figure is taken up by income taxes. Fifty per cent of my estate will go to the government in the form of death duties."

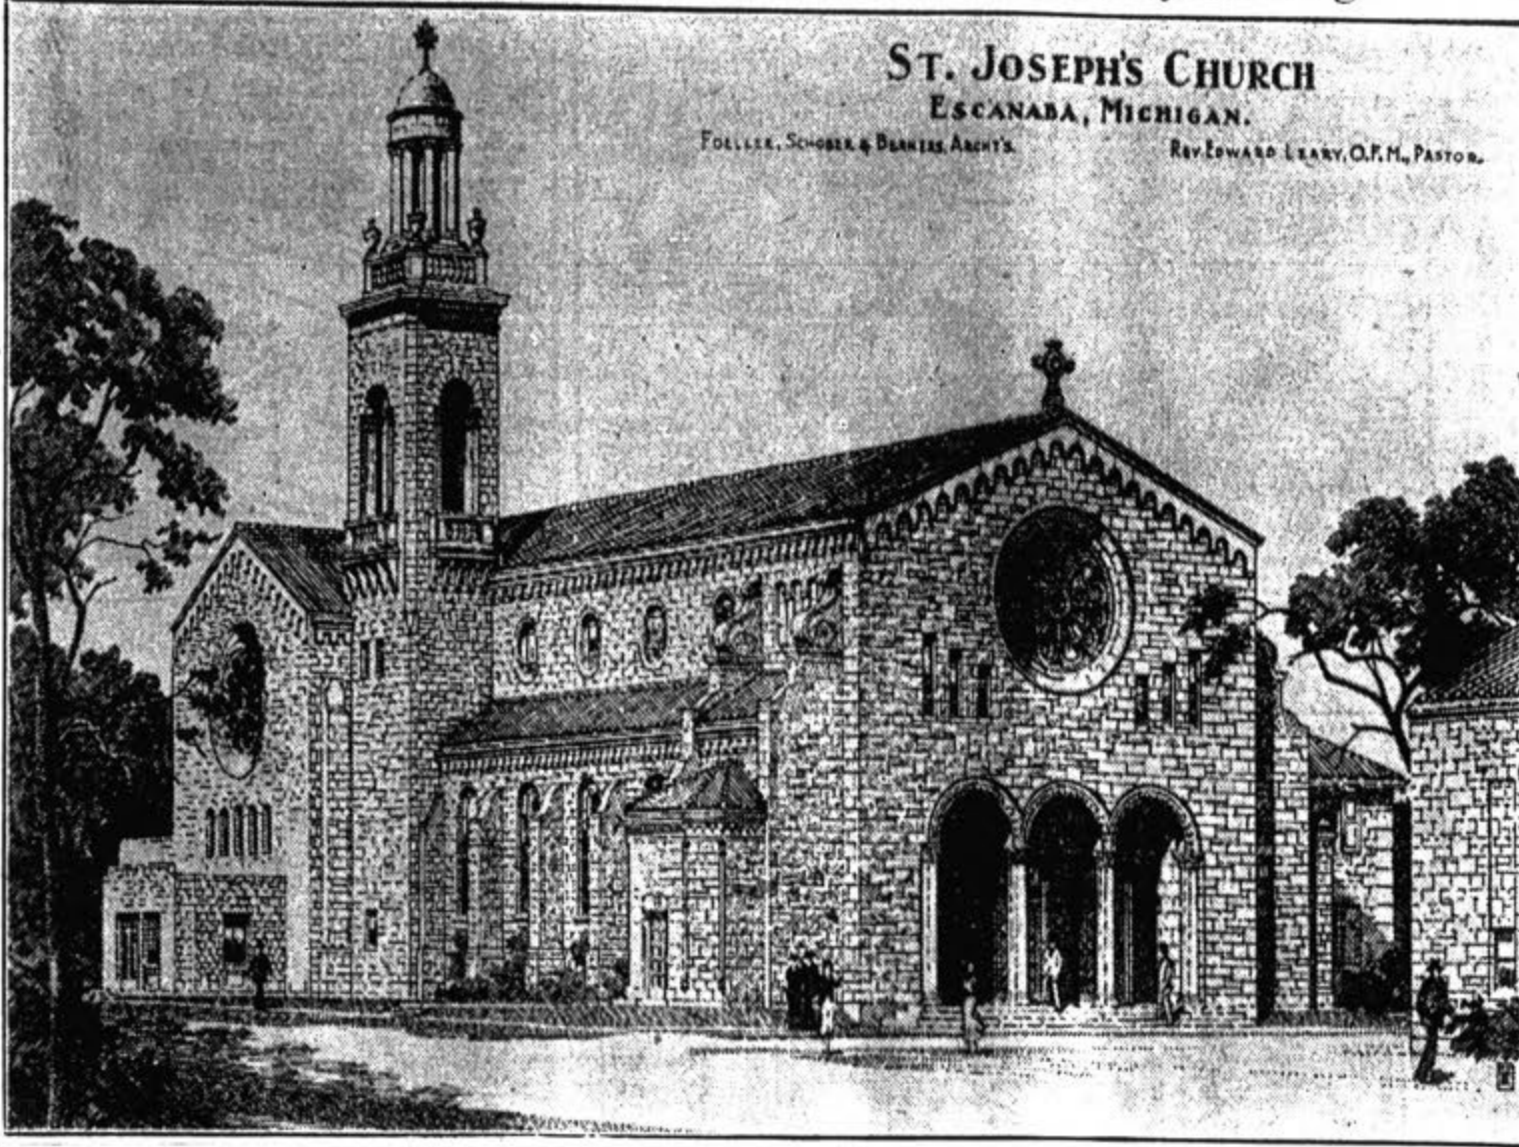

He frankly admitted that he thought the visit of the King and Queen to the United States was for the purpose of strengthening relations between the two countries. Speaking with intimate knowledge gained from personal friendship with the King and Queen he said, "Daily they are gaining in popularity with their subjects, and I consider them to be the most lovable and democratic monarchs ever to occupy the throne."

Sir Arthur was of the opinion that war in Europe in the near future was not likely but that if it did come, internal dissension within Germany would be the prime motivating reason for an outbreak.

Having been engaged in ocean shipping all his life, the baronet found navigation on the Great Lakes of fascinating interest. He expressed amazement at the unique types of vessels used, despatch of cargo handling, low rates and in particular admired the high degree of skill with which lake captains maneuvered their ships, often without the aid of tugs.

Lady Sutherland expressed the highest regard for the United States and its people. She said, "American shops and styles leave nothing to be desired but I should not care to live there, everything is done in entirely too much of a rush to suit English habits."

First Mass At New St. Joseph's Church Wednesday Morning

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH
ESCANABA, MICHIGAN.

FOLLETT, SCHUBERT & BARNES, ARCHTS.

REV. EDWARD LEARY, O.F.M., PASTOR.

The first mass in St. Joseph's beautiful new church edifice, which is practically completed, will be celebrated on Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock. It was announced Monday by Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, O.F.M., the opening service to be a solemn high mass for the donor of the building, the late William Bonifas.

Rev. Fr. Leary will be celebrant of the mass, and all members of the congregation, and others who wish to attend are invited to be present for the impressive religious tribute to Mr. Bonifas' memory.

Although about two weeks will be required to complete detail work on the interior of the church, all services will be held in the new edifice, beginning Wednesday. A temporary church has been in use in the gymnasium of the William Bonifas Memorial Auditorium, while the new building was under construction.

Says Schools Should Not Have to Take Leavings of All Politicians

"The notion that the schools should get along with what's left after other branches of state government are financed, again emphasizes the need for some plan for revenue for schools based upon the facts concerning their actual needs," said Earl H. Babcock, superintendent of Grand Haven public schools and president of the Michigan Education Association, when interviewed concerning the State school aid problem.

The Michigan Education Association includes in its membership approximately 34,000 members of the teaching profession, and also represents a number of departments or affiliated groups interested in public education.

"The schools urge that intelligent inquiry be made concerning the curtailments that schools already have suffered during the past few years, and that comparisons be made with the increased costs of other branches of the state government, some of which are new or experimental," said Supt. Babcock.

Now Getting Less

"The fact that approximately half the money for school support is collected by the state has created the mistaken notion that schools are costing more money than in earlier years. Actually, schools during the past year (1938) will receive $14,800,000 less than in 1930-31, and yet they have 25,000 more pupils than in 1930-31."

"Schools would have been helped considerably by the increase in the Primary School Interest Fund this present year, had it not been for the fact that Governor Mur-

NYA PROJECTS ARE PRODUCING

3,000 Articles Sewed in Peninsula During Past Month

Youth in NYA work centers in the Upper Peninsula sewed 3,003 articles last month that were turned over to welfare agencies for distribution to needy persons. Among these articles were 239 dresses, 88 slips, 489 diapers, 83 sheets, 65 boys suits, 31 boys coats and 15 comforters.

Employing girls from 18 to 24, who are out of school and in financial need, these sewing projects, located at L'Anse, Rock, Gladstone, Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Norway, Hardwood, Laurium, Ironwood, Hancock, Gay, Mohawk, Gwinn, Mass and Painesville, provide work experience to increase the youth's employability. The material is furnished by a sponsoring agency and the finished articles are turned over to them. Charity agencies, the ERA, the Farm Security Administration, cities and Surplus Commodities are the recipients of most of these articles.

At other work centers and projects in the Upper Peninsula, 317 pieces of woodwork such as rustic tables, signs, chairs, display boards, cabinets, and desks; 64 units of metal work as stove pipes, door frames, mat holders and hammer heads; and 97 Indian Artercraft articles as beaded belts, bags, necklaces, coin purses, head bands and book marks, were constructed. In all, a total of 4,105 articles were constructed.

"KruGon Was Well Worth A Trial"

Declared Mr. Servine; Clogged Impurities Are Being Properly Eliminated; KruGon Restored Him to Good Health

"KruGon is the first medicine I have ever taken that gave me the results I wanted," said Mr. C. A. Servine, 1224 Harrison St., Superior, Wisconsin. "For the past sev#### eral years my poor digestion had caused me all kinds of suffering due to a stubborn case of faulty elimination of waste impurities. I was unable to eat anything without great distress afterwards. Gas would form, I would bloat until I could hardly stand it and the attacks of indigestion were awful. I did my best to get relief but met only with repeated failure until KruGon was brought to my attention. I did not half-way expect the remarkable results it gave me."

"This laxative-ionic formula actually surprised me with its quick and thorough results," continued Mr. Servine. "My stomach is now functioning properly giving me proper digestion since the removal of waste impurities from my body and I can eat and enjoy the foods I want without the least discomfort afterwards. Those gas pains, indigestion and bloating have all been relieved. No wonder so many are praising KruGon. It is the first medicine I ever found that gave the results that were claimed for it."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

Yesterday's Newspaper Boys Are Today's Leaders

The Pen Is Mightier Than The Sword

SO, TOO, are the pencil, the school text book, the environment of cultural associations. The American newspaper boy typifies the basic spirit of freedom, of industry and progress which has moved America so far ahead.

"Over there" young boys are schooled, drilled and literally driven into militaristic training... these lads are not given the opportunities, the encouragement nor the incentive for business, professional and industrial training they should have.

"Over here" it is an entirely different picture. We think in terms of progress, improvement of the mind, advancement of science. Our schools are always seeking ways and means to cultivate cultural training of youths, to give them more comprehensive methods of academic understanding.

Augmenting the academic schooling, newspapers represent "America's Largest Institution of Business Training" for boys through route work. Each boy is kept advised of the most efficient sales methods, matters of handling his finances... and, of high importance, he learns that courtesy, promptness and regularity are so vital a part of success.

In recent years, schools and newspapers have been enjoying close cooperation, most newspapers requiring that carriers maintain passing grades. School work coupled with route work gives a boy that PLUS value, putting him years ahead of boys without similar training.

Sokolsky Scans The Headlines

By George E. Sokolsky

THE DOUBLE CROSS OF GOLD
At the end of a long article by Luis Araquistain, former Loyalist Spanish Ambassador to France, he gives these paragraphs:
"At the end of the war, the republic, people and army, tired of keeping up a war that had been virtually lost long before, and the continuation of which benefited only Russia, arose against Negrin and compelled him to flee by air to France. But what about the treasure? It is not for nothing that the Communists, which is to say Moscow, declared the Madrid Junta to be rebellious. It was necessary to defend the remnants of Spain's treasure."
"According to a communication dated Feb. 10, 1937, from the Spanish Republic's ambassador in Moscow, Barcelona Pasqua, the amount deposited in Russia was $10,078,529 grams of gold (approximately $573,889,115 at $35 an ounce for gold)."
"How much of it remains? Mystery. About this gold, Stalin knows a lot more than we, the Spaniards, do."
This confirms Gen. Krivitsky's account in "The Saturday Evening Post" of April 15, where he said, describing the Spanish gold:
"We were walking across the huge Red Square. He pointed to the area of several acres surrounding us, and said: 'If all the boxes of gold that we piled up in the Odessa yards were laid side by side here in the Red Square, they would cover it from end to end.'"
"What did happen to this $573,889,115? According to General Krivitsky, Stalin has this Spanish money in Moscow. Krivitsky did not know the amount. He estimated that it was huge. Araquistain definitely states the amount. Our eyes are now opened to the biggest robbery in history, the theft of the Spanish treasury by Soviet Russia."
Here, then, is an amazing picture. The idealistic Socialists, who labor only for humanity, go into a country to help it and walk off with its treasure. The Communists, who have been collecting pennies and dimes for Spain on the street corners of New York, never told us that they had a Spanish treasure worth half a billion dollars. We did not know that Spain had that much gold on hand—for who looks up such things when asked for a dime for a starving child?
We were never told that, just as there has been no public audit of the huge amounts collected in this country for the Spanish revolution, for Spanish children, for feeding the Spanish civilian population, for the care of American veterans of the Spanish war. Somewhere there has been a shameful double cross—a double cross of gold.

But there is a greater moral in this story, a moral that every American should note. These Communists, who walked off with the treasure of a country they were pretending to help, are always attacking the money-grubbers, the bankers, the business men. They maintain a constant barrage of foul language against any person who tries to earn an honest dollar for his own labor. They use their Congressional and Senatorial stoges to inveigh against the bankers and manufacturers and lawyers and doctors and even newspaper men like myself because they try to make a dollar or two.

We do not know the entire story of this robbery. We do not know what else they took from Spain. In time, the inventories of the churches and monasteries will be made public. In time, the inventories of the art museums will become available. It will be interesting to know what, besides gold, these humanitarians, these lovers of the laboring class, these friends of the people, took out of Spain. When Napoleon despoiled Italy and Egypt he was a piker, he left too much behind.

We ought to know the Spanish story in full because we need those facts to form a criterion for judging the bona fides of the idealism of our own Communists. But more than that we need the full facts about Spain so that we may be able to judge who among our own guides of public opinion may be trusted both as to fact and judgment.

For instance, I, not knowing Spain, accepted the preponderance of opinion of those who seemed to know Spain well. I have not been prepared to believe either the Communist or the Franco propaganda. I assumed that this was to some extent a private fight and none of my business. I had no criterion for a judgment in the matter. But from the evidence that has been offered by Gen. Krivitsky and Luis Araquistain and Caballero, I am forced to wonder whether every one who wrote and commented about Spain up to now has not been giving us a repetition of errors. I am going to read Mervin Hart's book, "America Look at Spain," to get the other side. It seems the only honest thing to do now—to try to discover what is and what is not true. And if we have all been talked about Spain, why not about much else?

Surely, some one is in error. I might even go stronger: Some one is lying. Who? It is possible to say that Gen. Krivitsky may have exaggerated because he now hates Stalin. But it excites me to know that the worst the American Communists can say about him is that his name at birth was not Krivitsky. But that is equally true of most Communists, including Stalin. It is true not only in Soviet Russia but throughout the world.

For instance, Robert Forsythe,

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Bart and Iris go on their honeymoon, spend lavishly. Bart meets a life-guard and likes him but Iris frowns on the acquaintance as beneath them.

CHAPTER X
The third week of their honeymoon vacation. Bart received a long telegraphic night letter from Britton, the new man managing the shop during his absence. It was the thing he had dreaded all along, fully expected. The budget customers were defaulting payments. During his absence, they were neglecting their contract obligations.

Bart wired Britton to send the usual formal reminders out, with polite warnings that defaults must be made up promptly.
"Warnings, forms and delinquent notices all sent first week. Wire instructions at once. Bank notes due. Signed Britton."
They went home at once, though Iris protested tearfully. They were having such fun, they'd never had such fun before, had they? And they might not have any vacation at all next year! Why did they have to go home a whole week early?

"It's only four days early, dear. Business. I have to get back at once." And he thought, "If I default that bank payment, there'll be fines. I can't even make the interest, if they don't make up the back payments." And his disgust over credit, its abuses and misuses mounted.
It was beautifully cool for September, and Iris decided to give a dinner party to celebrate their home-coming. She didn't have to report back for work until Monday morning, and it was only Friday. They had been home ever since late the afternoon before. And Bart had stayed at the shop going over things with Britton and Stevens until after midnight. He was going to work every night this week. He was that is, until Iris sprung the dinner party without warning, Saturday night.
"Hurry dear," she urged nervously, "we've company coming and you'll have to change."
"Change? What for? Who ever comes here who'll mind my everyday duds?"
"The Negleys and Hammonds and Treuts. We're going on to the Yacht Club after dinner. So do make yourself gorgeous, darling."

Bart turned to the bathroom, rebellion warring all over his serious young face. He had ten days overtime on the books and accounts, a week of hard work getting out special letters and correspondence on the delinquent accounts. He was tired, irritable, nervous. And of all people he knew, he cared least to see that night, the Negleys, Hammonds, and Treuts. Marcia Trent was a scatterbrained, jitterbug apology for a wife, and the Hammonds were always quarreling publicly over their financial woes. Yolanda and Ho were frankly beyond the stage of worrying over their precarious financial condition, and taken together, they were a headache to Bart on the serene occasions. On top of his present worries and a deskful of work demanding his attention, they were anticlimax.

"Iris, have you any money at all saved?" Bart asked, coming in to tie his little white tie, completed last minute touches to her toilet. She had on a new powder blue chiffon gown purchased that very afternoon and he grimaced a little, watching her preen.
"Where would I get two dimes to save, Bart? You know I haven't. Why?"
"I'm in a bad jam; need some ready cash in a hurry, dear, that's all." He looked at the new dress then, realized he hadn't seen it before.
"New dress, Iris?"
She shook her head quickly. Put her mirror down hastily, but not in time to cover the little shop tag his quick eye detected.
"Not new," Bart said slowly. Picking up the mirror, staring at the price-tag, $19.50, marked down from $25.
"Of course it's new, Bart. I didn't want to tell you because you make such a scene every time I buy so much as a pair of stockings."
"I see." He looked at the long rod running the length of the closet, packed with her lovely clothes.
"They're all new, Iris," he said heavily. "I... I should have known." Then suspicion laid cruel fingers at the throat of his reason. "Are they all paid for, Iris?"
Frightened, she shook her head.
"Not... quite... all paid for, Bart." And when he was still, letting the awful import of that of "The New Masses," is really Kyle Crichton, of "Collars," Mike Gold, of the "Daily Worker," was once known as Izzy Granitch; Joseph Freeman can go on endlessly. For instance, Maxim Litvinov comes from the same town, Bialystok, that my mother and father came from. My mother knew Litvinov's father. His name was Vallach, or maybe they used a W instead of a V. What difference does all this make?

It does not prove that a man is a liar because he works under an assumed name. Revolutionists, like movie actors, often work under assumed names. Does that prove that revolutionists and movie actors are ipso facto liars? Was Mark Twain a liar because he chose that name instead of Samuel Clemens? Obviously, that is nonsense.
Again, we might contend that

stink in, "Bart don't you understand? I haven't done anything wrong. I've done no different than I've always done. I buy all my things this way. I always have. Since long before I met you. It... it's the only way girls who work like I do can have nice things."
"Nice things. You had to have clothes fit for a society girl, on wages that were capable of buying only a working girl's wardrobe. Iris, you... never told me. You didn't want me to know. All this time, you kept me from finding out."
"Bart, it isn't wrong! Just because it isn't your way, doesn't make it wrong! There can be more than one right way of doing things—there is."
"Debts, time payments, budget books. Living beyond our means—so far beyond we're paying for living three months ago in installments, now. Running with a crowd of shallow, extravagant, spendthrift morons because you think it's smart, because you think they're smart."
"Bart, hush! They're... coming. Bart, you can't spoil my dinner like this! With an awful, stupid scene."
He turned and walked out. Not tying his tie. Not taking hat, coat or anything. He walked past the Negleys coming in, and the Hammonds coming down the hall and he didn't speak to any of them. Just nodded and kept on going. Like a man in a trance. He said, "Like a drunk, simply glazed, Yolanda thrilled."
"Bart's furious with me," Iris explained brightly, her color a bit high, and her voice shrill. "but we'll go right ahead."
They did. They went through the perfect dinner Iris had assembled with the aid of Martha Levitt, a little colored girl who cooked and cleaned by the hour. They laughed and joked and wisecracked their way through $12 worth of wonderful dinner. Then nothing would do but Iris must come along with them to the club dance.
"A poor, deserted overtime widow like you," Yolanda shrilled mockingly, "somebody's got to cheer the neglected wife up a little."
"Yes, after all, Iris, if it was golf or a little quiet game with the boys, we could understand. But business—phony. Whatever does it get him? Business will be just as bad, no matter what anyone does about it. And you might as well have a little fun along the way."
It was fun, too. Though Iris missed having Bart there, steady, dependable, the minute one of the others stopped dancing with her and went to look up his full time partner. He danced a lot with her, and he was a marvelous dancer. Only Ho believed his dancing was as good, if not better than Fred Astaire's. So it was somewhat of a strain, keeping up with his fancy innovations. It was almost like being a specialty dancer in a double team at a night club. Only much more tiring.

Then, Don Hammond got a little tipsy and began telling her the woes of his much frustrated, misunderstood life. By the time Marcia and John came to rescue her, Iris was convinced her evening was spoiled.

At 12, when she said goodby to Yolanda and Ho, outside her door Bart had not yet returned. At 12:30, she stopped trying to stay awake any longer. She did not hear him come in, quietly, shoes in one hand lest he disturb her. Or hear him undress carefully and slip into his own bed without turning on the light.
When she awoke in the morning, he was gone, but the coffee kept hot over the low flame on the gas plate, and the remains of his hasty breakfast proved he had been home. That, and his tumbled bed and shirt, sock and lingerie dropped on the chair in the bathroom, as he had dressed.
At noon, when she telephoned the shop, Bart wasn't in. So with Ellen Kent, Iris lunched at the Chocolate Shop, having an exciting time after all, despite their lack of husbandly escort.
"I'm simply jittery with nerves, Ellen," Iris confided over her peach ice cream. "You know that our coat sale down at Belldin's? Well, there was a mink coat there, a perfect treasure of a coat."
"Was?" Ellen asked, laughing. Because she knew Iris so thoroughly.
"Was is right. It's mine now, Ellen. When I get it all paid for. But what's driving me into nerves is the fear Bart will find out. He'd be simply fit to be tied if he knew."
"Then why take the coat, Iris? If you know he'll be so furious."
"You don't understand, Ellen. This is a bargain—one to a lifetime kind of a bargain. I simply had to have it. My winter coat is all worn out, and I'd be silly to pass up an opportunity like that. Only Bart thinks it's good is so bad. That is, it's good but he hates having his business all in time payments, and he thinks it's terrible."
"Maybe he's right, Iris."
"Maybe nothing. I got the coat. Wait till you see it. Only he'll know, now, because he found out about the other things I got on budget payments."
"Well if the coat is worth the worry and trouble, why bother?"
"In that coat," Iris breathed softly, "I feel like a princess or a queen. I feel—precious, Ellen. I feel rich, secure, sheltered. I feel—wanted."

stink in, "Bart don't you understand? I haven't done anything wrong. I've done no different than I've always done. I buy all my things this way. I always have. Since long before I met you. It... it's the only way girls who work like I do can have nice things."
"Nice things. You had to have clothes fit for a society girl, on wages that were capable of buying only a working girl's wardrobe. Iris, you... never told me. You didn't want me to know. All this time, you kept me from finding out."
"Bart, it isn't wrong! Just because it isn't your way, doesn't make it wrong! There can be more than one right way of doing things—there is."
"Debts, time payments, budget books. Living beyond our means—so far beyond we're paying for living three months ago in installments, now. Running with a crowd of shallow, extravagant, spendthrift morons because you think it's smart, because you think they're smart."
"Bart, hush! They're... coming. Bart, you can't spoil my dinner like this! With an awful, stupid scene."
He turned and walked out. Not tying his tie. Not taking hat, coat or anything. He walked past the Negleys coming in, and the Hammonds coming down the hall and he didn't speak to any of them. Just nodded and kept on going. Like a man in a trance. He said, "Like a drunk, simply glazed, Yolanda thrilled."
"Bart's furious with me," Iris explained brightly, her color a bit high, and her voice shrill. "but we'll go right ahead."
They did. They went through the perfect dinner Iris had assembled with the aid of Martha Levitt, a little colored girl who cooked and cleaned by the hour. They laughed and joked and wisecracked their way through $12 worth of wonderful dinner. Then nothing would do but Iris must come along with them to the club dance.
"A poor, deserted overtime widow like you," Yolanda shrilled mockingly, "somebody's got to cheer the neglected wife up a little."
"Yes, after all, Iris, if it was golf or a little quiet game with the boys, we could understand. But business—phony. Whatever does it get him? Business will be just as bad, no matter what anyone does about it. And you might as well have a little fun along the way."
It was fun, too. Though Iris missed having Bart there, steady, dependable, the minute one of the others stopped dancing with her and went to look up his full time partner. He danced a lot with her, and he was a marvelous dancer. Only Ho believed his dancing was as good, if not better than Fred Astaire's. So it was somewhat of a strain, keeping up with his fancy innovations. It was almost like being a specialty dancer in a double team at a night club. Only much more tiring.

Then, Don Hammond got a little tipsy and began telling her the woes of his much frustrated, misunderstood life. By the time Marcia and John came to rescue her, Iris was convinced her evening was spoiled.

At 12, when she said goodby to Yolanda and Ho, outside her door Bart had not yet returned. At 12:30, she stopped trying to stay awake any longer. She did not hear him come in, quietly, shoes in one hand lest he disturb her. Or hear him undress carefully and slip into his own bed without turning on the light.
When she awoke in the morning, he was gone, but the coffee kept hot over the low flame on the gas plate, and the remains of his hasty breakfast proved he had been home. That, and his tumbled bed and shirt, sock and lingerie dropped on the chair in the bathroom, as he had dressed.
At noon, when she telephoned the shop, Bart wasn't in. So with Ellen Kent, Iris lunched at the Chocolate Shop, having an exciting time after all, despite their lack of husbandly escort.
"I'm simply jittery with nerves, Ellen," Iris confided over her peach ice cream. "You know that our coat sale down at Belldin's? Well, there was a mink coat there, a perfect treasure of a coat."
"Was?" Ellen asked, laughing. Because she knew Iris so thoroughly.
"Was is right. It's mine now, Ellen. When I get it all paid for. But what's driving me into nerves is the fear Bart will find out. He'd be simply fit to be tied if he knew."
"Then why take the coat, Iris? If you know he'll be so furious."
"You don't understand, Ellen. This is a bargain—one to a lifetime kind of a bargain. I simply had to have it. My winter coat is all worn out, and I'd be silly to pass up an opportunity like that. Only Bart thinks it's good is so bad. That is, it's good but he hates having his business all in time payments, and he thinks it's terrible."
"Maybe he's right, Iris."
"Maybe nothing. I got the coat. Wait till you see it. Only he'll know, now, because he found out about the other things I got on budget payments."
"Well if the coat is worth the worry and trouble, why bother?"
"In that coat," Iris breathed softly, "I feel like a princess or a queen. I feel—precious, Ellen. I feel rich, secure, sheltered. I feel—wanted."

SUMMER BAND WORK PLANNED

School Musicians to Get Special Training Course

Instruction in band instruments for high school students will be continued throughout the summer months, Wayne Martin, high school band director has announced.

Individual and group instruction will be given daily except Saturday in the band room on the third floor of the junior high school, 8:30 to 12 o'clock and 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. Band rehearsals will be held each Tuesday and Thursday evenings in the high school auditorium at 7:15 o'clock.

The summer band course begins with the close of the school term and will continue for two months. The summer band course has two purposes. The first is the improvement of each individual player and, second, to keep the band together as a group so it will be better prepared for the busy fall season that starts with the reopening of school in September.

During the regular school term, virtually all of the band time is reserved for ensemble playing. Time is available during the summer months, however, for individual training.

The summer band instruction program is open to any grade or high school students in Manistique or any student who intends to qualify for membership in the high school band. Students desiring instructions on any band instrument are advised to see Mr. Martin to arrange for appointments.

Sokolsky Scans The Headlines

Luis Araquistain is bitter against the Communists because they spoiled his democratic revolution and made a Franco victory inevitable. But that does not prove him to be a liar. He names amounts; he states figures; he gives facts. Who contests his statements? Who proves his testimony to be wrong? Does such a Left Winger as Leon Blum, of France, who must know the facts, state that Krivitsky and Araquistain are liars? Who does? The only outcry has come from the editors of "The New Masses," and all that they can say is that Krivitsky operates under an alias. Don't most of them operate under aliases?

In this connection, I should like to call attention to an article in the July issue of "The American Mercury," to be published shortly and which I have been privileged to see in proof. "Stalin's American Passport Mill," by Herbert Solow, provides a detailed analytical account of a most significant phase of Soviet espionage in our country. Mr. Solow says: "The story shows that, just as Hitler utilizes his sympathizers in the German-American Bund and its auxiliaries for propagandize and spy for Germany, so Stalin utilizes members and hangers-on of the American Communist party for the Kremlin espionage."

Mr. Solow provides an interesting account of the Robinson-Rubens spies. I note that he says that Rubens worked under the name of Walter Krivitsky. I just wonder why Krivitsky was not called to testify either in these spy cases or by the Dies committee. Perhaps those New Dealers who doubt Congressman Parnell Thomas's discussion of Archibald MacLeish as a "fellow traveler" might want Gen. Krivitsky to explain what "fellow travelers" are and how they are used as stooges in United Front movements.

Mr. Solow refers to the case of Juliet Stuart Poyntz, whom he names as a Soviet spy and who disappeared from the American Women's Association in New York. Where she lived. Nobody seems to have worried very much about this important Soviet agent who apparently walked out of her room and never returned, leaving her possessions behind her. Was Juliet Poyntz kidnapped, or murdered, or what? Friends of hers insist that she was removed because of her knowledge of the Soviet passport ring. But the question that must be raised is: How does a foreign government remove a person, even in its employ, from New York? What have the police done about that? What has Tom Dewey done about that? What has the F. B. I. done? I suppose this case is assigned to some "Missing Persons Bureau," yet it involves authority—the security of a person under the authority of the law of the land.

I raise the questions because none of them involves red-baiting. They simply demand an explanation as to the methods of Soviet Russia in foreign countries. In Spain they seize the national treasury; here they operate a passport ring and an espionage service. What else do they operate here? How many officials of the United States government are controlled by the Communist party and, through it, by Soviet Russia?

Every American who asks that question may be called a "screwball," but that does not answer anything any more than calling Gen. Krivitsky by some other name disproves his charges. That type of smearing, which is practiced so avidly by the La Follette committee and which Senator Elmer Thomas introduced into the hearings on the Wagner act, is a product of the non-sequitur mentality which has become so prevalent in Washington since Mr. Roosevelt's first inaugural address when he adopted name-calling as his particular political weapon.

But name-calling and divergent non sequitur prove nothing. They confuse and confound, but they do not provide evidence. And that is what is most needed—evidence concerning the machinations of Soviet Russia, and Nazi Germany, and England, France, Japan, China and all other countries, to change our form of government or to operate against citizens of this country or to drag us into war.

We need facts and we do not have them. It is absurd to suggest that Krivitsky, Araquistain, Caballero, Herbert Solow, J. E. Matthews are all liars. How do we know that those who denounce and ridicule them are not the liars? How do we know? I think we ought to know.

LICENSING LAW TO BE CHANGED

New Provisions In Effect Throughout State On June 21

Immediate changes in the Operator and Chauffeur Licensing Act are provided for in House Bill No. 284 recently signed by Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, according to notice received by Chief of Police Torval Kallerson.

A supplementary bulletin of instruction as to the procedure all examiners are to follow was included. Changes are effective on and after June 21.

Principal changes in the licensing of operators are that the permit shall cost in the future $1.25 instead of $1 as charged in the past and that the examiner may notary the oath to applicants, a notary public's signature being no longer necessary.

Chauffeur licenses will cost $2 straight and will be good for one year from date of issue. No longer will the chauffeur's license be issued for $1 after Sept. 1.

Also in connection with this type of permit, a photo is no longer necessary, but a print of the right thumb, if possible, or some other finger if necessary is to be placed in the space now provided for the photo.

Examiners are not allowed to charge any fee other than the regular statutory fee provided for in the law.

There is also a change in the definition of the word "chauffeur." The new definition is "Every person who is employed for the principal purpose of operating a motor vehicle and every person who drives a motor vehicle while in use as a public or common carrier of persons or property. A person shall be deemed to be employed for the principal purpose of operating a motor vehicle when such employment involves the necessary use of a motor vehicle for hire or transporting passengers for hire or transporting for gain or hire any merchandise for display, sale or delivery; provided that a farmer or an employee of such farmer operating a vehicle exclusively in connection with the farming operations of such farmer shall not be deemed to be a chauffeur."

An operator's license will be issued for $1 on any incomplete application which was filed before June 21 providing the applicant completes the application before August 21 of this year. Incomplete applications made before June 21 are not completed by August 21 will be rejected and applicants will be required to make new applications before a license shall be issued.

ROTES VISIT GOLF COURSE

Layout Is Explained to Members In Hike Over Area

Members of the Gladstone Rotary club were treated to a trip to the Gladstone golf course project yesterday noon in place of the regular speaking program.

Dr. O. S. Hult, staunch supporter of the project, and Joe Hillerwaert, foreman on the job escorted Rotarians around the course explaining the layout, location of tees, fairways and greens and the length of each hole.

Considerable enthusiasm was displayed on the part of club members after viewing the potentialities of the project.

Work on the course is shaping up nicely. Many workers have been added to the crews until now there are 65 men on the job.

Roughing in of the No. 8 green is about complete and work on the No. 9 green is well along. It is expected that by fall all the work will be sufficiently completed to allow seeding.

PROTEST END OF RAIL RUN

Group Seeking Retention of Soo Line Passenger Trains 86 and 87

A protest to the proposed abandonment of Passenger Trains No. 86 and 87 by the Soo Line railroad is to be made, it was decided at a meeting held Saturday night at the city hall.

Attending the session from out of town were Daniel J. Costello of Minneapolis, and E. R. Carter, Lansing.

Abandonment of the two runs would locally affect about 12 men and would mean a loss in revenue estimated between $24,000 and $28,000, it was pointed out at the meeting. In addition it would affect mail facilities.

The belief was expressed by E. R. Carter that with the use of improved equipment, better service and proper solicitation the runs could be made a paying proposition.

A local committee composed of A. F. Raddant, Walter Van De Weghe and A. T. Sohberg was named to acquaint Gladstonians of town results the abandonment would lead to.

E. R. Carter was delegated to contact civic leaders at Manistique and the Soo. A hearing on the proposal is asked.

A. C. Peterson, superintendent of the Upper Peninsula division of the Soo Line, said yesterday that the road had been operating at a loss of from $18,000 to $25,000 for the past five years and that a year ago when the company first proposed to abandon the runs they were continued only because of the prospect at the time of increased business and resultant revenue.

He said that while 12 men were bound to be affected by the abandonment they would not be out of jobs as their seniority would provide work for them either here or at other points.

Pulling off of the runs is contemplated for July 15 and the postal department has already been given 30 days notice of the railroad's intent.

Rain Halts Cubs In 3-3 Tie; Yanks Take Tigers

WEATHER MAN WHIPS LEAGUE

All Games In National Washed Out; Dodgers Are Frustrated

Chicago, June 19 (AP)—The National league bowed to the weatherman completely today, with two of its scheduled three games cancelled entirely by rain.

The third—the Dodgers-Cubs battle—halted at the end of eight frames with the score tied at 3-all.

The Dodgers, victimized four times out of six tries in their current road tour, seemed headed for victory when the rain poured into Wrigley field and sent both teams scurrying for cover.

They teed off on Charlie Root in the eighth, sending him to the lockers as Cookie Lavagetto and Mel Almada each singled. In came Pitcher Larry French, and he got rid of Camilli but Babe Phelps sent a long fly to center, Lavagetto scoring and Almada reaching second. Then Dick Bartell made a bad throw of Koy's grounder, allowing Almada to score with the tying run.

The Cubs held a 2-1 lead at the end of the second as they got four hits and mixed them with two costly Dodger errors. Then Stan Hack put them in front with a homer in the fourth. The first Dodger run came on a pass to Goody Rosen, a single by Lavagetto that advanced him to where he could score when Almada hit into a double play.

TWO PLATINUM FOXES BRED

Platinum blondes will now be able to have natural platinum for furs to match if the breeding propensities of a female fox on a fur farm located in the vicinity of Chipman, on the lines of the Canadian National Railways in New Brunswick, continue and the strain can be stabilized. Two platinum foxes were born in a litter of three. One of the two is of a blue white color and the other is a light straw color. The third has the ordinary markings of a silver fox. Platinum foxes are a great rarity and very valuable.

WIN IS SCORED ON MANISTIQUE

Munising Lions Nose Over Run In Ninth for 1-0 Verdict

Munising, June 19.—The Munising Lions topped the Manistique Cardinals here on Sunday afternoon when a ninth inning single with the bases full gave Munising a 1-0 victory over the Schoolcraft nine.

A single by Boyak, Lion catcher, brought Morrison in with winning tally. There were no men out on the Munising squad when the run scored.

Playing a good game throughout, Malone allowed four hits for the locals and Lesica, Manistique hurler, allowed ten.

Sunday's game placed the Munising crew in a tie for first place with Manistique and Escanaba in the Rainbow league. Three teams have won two games and lost one.

EAGLES DEFEAT GLADSTONE 9-7

Stave Off Redskin Rally Late In Game To Win League Game

Staving off a late rally by the Redskins, Escanaba Eagles won their second victory in the Rainbow league here Sunday in an interesting game. The final score was 9-7.

Greenless held Gladstone pretty well in check, allowing but six hits and striking out 11 batters but four errors aided the Gladstone cause considerably. The Eagles got nine hits off the combined offerings of Fitzpatrick and Fisher and made them good for nine runs with the aid of two Gladstone miscues.

Gladstone opened with a single run in the second but the locals came back with three. The visitors counted again in the third but again the locals came back, this time scoring twice to take a 5-2 lead. Gladstone closed the gap with a two run burst in the fifth but the Eagles scored one in their half of the fifth, two more in the sixth and a final in the seventh to take a 9-4 lead. The Redskins staged an uprising in the first half of the eighth, scoring three runs but they were choked off in time to save the game for the Eagles.

Jungles, Perle and Kidd each got two hits for the Eagles while Smithwick got the only extra base hit of the game, a double. Gladstone's hits were well scattered.

Baker Won't Concede Pennant To Yankees

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—Dol Baker wouldn't concede the New York Yankees a three-inch putt, not to mention the American league championship.

"Concede them the pennant?" fairly shouted the dapper Detroit manager, tossing in a few descriptive adjectives for good measure. "I should say not.

"Sure they're 10 1/2 games in front, but there still are 98 games to play, and anything can happen.

TWINS DEFEAT ESCANABA, 7-0

Imported Southpaw Bad Medicine for Locals At Iron Mountain

Iron Mountain, Mich., June 19.—A southpaw hurler imported from Milwaukee, Novack by name, showed local fans he had the goods when he set Escanaba down with just four hits here Sunday as the Twins shut out the visitors, 7-0. The victory avenged a defeat handed the locals by Escanaba earlier in the year.

For five innings, the game was a beautiful pitching duel between Novack and Siko, Escanaba hurler. After the Twins got a run in the first inning, they were held scoreless until the sixth when they chalked up two more. They added a single run in the seventh and put the game on ice in the eighth with a three run burst. Three Escanaba errors contributed largely to the Iron Mountain cause, only two runs being earned.

Escanaba threatened several times but failed in the pinches as Novack bore down to retire them before runs crossed the plates. Ell Enger, Twins centerfielder, led the local attack with a single and double while George Mason, second baseman, slammed out a triple. Escanaba's hits were well scattered.

COOKS TAKES DOUBLE HEADER

Defeats Perronville and Rapid River to Top D-M League

Cooks, Mich., June 19.—Cooks won both ends of a double header before a capacity crowd Sunday by defeating Rapid River 11-10 in eleven innings and Perronville in the night-cap 7-3, handing both teams their first defeat in the D-M league.

In the first game Cooks tallied up four runs in the first inning to give the locals a lead which was not relinquished until the 8th when Rapid tied the score at 10-all. Cooks broke the tie in the eleventh. Young led the attack for Rapid with a double and two singles while Hamilton led for his mates with three singles.

Cooks got off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning of the second game after which Perronville never threatened.

St. Hubert was hurried by both Roberts and Mott, Mortensen for Cooks and A. Johnson for Perronville getting two each.

Kiwanians Enjoy Splendid Program

About seventy-five Kiwanians, their ladies and guests attended the all-Kiwanian night dinner program at the Chicken Shack last evening, an event held simultaneously with more than a thousand other Kiwanian clubs in the United States and Canada.

A highly appreciated entertainment program was presented at the meeting, featured by Rev. Carl Berger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who gave a series of recitations. During the dinner the K. of C. chorus, directed by Willard Clark and with Elaine Browne playing the piano accompaniment, sang a variety of songs. Solo and group song numbers all were well received.

The Ramona School of Dancing also presented a dancing program under the direction of Mrs. Roland Hale. The numbers included: Modernettes, Shirley Fletcher and Dorothy Passard; Grocer Boy Swing, Kenneth Owen; Rhythm Waltz Clog, Ramona Hale; Swingers, Shirley Fletcher and Kenneth Owen; Evening Star, Ramona Hale; Military Tap, Shirley Fletcher. Josephine Saykly was the pianist. The annual message of President H. G. Hatfield of Kiwanis International was read by Thaxter Shaw, Clement Tordour, chairman of the club program committee, presided as toastmaster. Mr. Tordour announced that the National Kiwanis broadcast of the special address by President Hatfield had been postponed from last night to 10:15 to 10:30 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, tonight. The program will be broadcast over the NBC blue network.

Police Officer At Los Angeles Visits Former Home Here

Donald Morin, member of the police department of the city of Los Angeles, Calif., is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Morin, 1109 First avenue north.

Morin, who was graduated from St. Joseph high school here in 1924, has been a member of the Los Angeles police department for the past two years. For a time, he was a member of the vice squad of Hollywood.

After graduating from St. Joseph here, Morin entered the U. S. navy and spent six years in the naval service, mustering out of the service as second class machinist on the U. S. S. Omaha in June, 1934. While in the service, he was stationed in China for two years and eight months in Latin American waters. At various times, he visited Melbourne, Australia, Yokohama, Japan, the West Indies and Hawaiian Islands. After leaving the service, Morin was employed by the Los Angeles railway before he joined the Los Angeles police.

Morin, whose last visit to Escanaba was eight years ago, came here with his wife from the latter's home in Grafton, West Virginia, where they visited for several days.

The Morin family held a reunion at the Louis Morin cottage at Ford River. Following a six o'clock dinner, John Loeffler showed motion pictures.

After tree families became old, the individual species are too distantly related to intercross. But the youthful oak family still is producing new hybrids, and today there are nearly 300 distinct species recognized by botanists.

JUNIORS START ON WEDNESDAY

Aces and Eskymos Are Booked for First Tourney Tilt

The junior baseball league will start the season's play Wednesday afternoon with the Aces and Eskymos scheduled to oppose each other in the first game beginning at two o'clock.

There will be six teams playing for the gold trophy which is awarded by the Athletic Institute each year. They will be the Aces, Eskymos, Wells Cubs, North Side Cavaliers, Orioles and West Ends. Players must be sixteen or under before January first.

The league is being directed by Isaac Schram, WPA recreational leader, under the supervision of the department of parks and recreation. In order to promote the sport, the city department furnishes balls, bats and other equipment for league play assisted by the city team, Eagles, and other interested organizations and individuals. A juvenile league for boys too young to play in the junior league is planned and boys interested are invited to see Mr. Schram for additional information.

JANE KAUFMAN TO WED

New York — Despite previous denials of the rumored forthcoming marriage of Miss Jane Kaufman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman, of this city and Marquette, Mich., to Edward Ellsworth Harding, 3rd, their engagement was officially announced today by Miss Kaufman's parents.

Miss Kaufman, who made her debut November 18, 1937, at Sherry's, received her education at Fernham and Todhunter schools. Mr. Harding was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, class of '37. Her father, Louis G. Kaufman, is former head of the Chatham Phoenix National Bank. The wedding will take place next month at Marquette.

Galento's Manager Wants Donovan For Referee On June 28

Summit, N. J., June 29 (AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Two-Ton Tony Galento, the challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, is going to ask the New York state athletic commission to name Arthur Donovan referee for the title fight June 28.

Jacobs announced as much today, though he said he would have to wait until the day of the fight to make his formal request, when the commission holds a meeting, at the weighing-in ceremonies.

The announcement came as something of a surprise, since Donovan is well liked by Louis, having refereed practically all of the champion's fights.

But Jacobs said, "Galento and I want Donovan because we think he is the most efficient referee in the business. Some time ago he gave out an interview in which he said the easiest fight he had ever worked was one in which Galento was a participant. If he permits Galento to fight his fight as he has done in the past, the public will get its money's worth."

Galento did no ring work today. He did a seven mile stretch of road work and will resume boxing tomorrow.

Every year, 4,000,000 copies of the telephone directory are turned out in London. They weigh 4000 tons.

Obituary

MRS. AGNES K. ALLEN

FIRST IN ECONOMY FORD V-8

In the 1939 Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run (314 miles over mountain roads) this 85-hp. Ford V-8 surpassed all other leading low-price cars for economical gas mileage. It delivered 24.57 miles per gallon!

THE THINGS YOU WANT ARE HERE:

- BIGGEST HYDRAULIC BRAKES AMONG LOW-PRICE CARS!
- STYLE LEADERSHIP!
- V-TYPE 8-CYLINDER ENGINE!
- SCIENTIFIC SOUNDPROOFING!
- TRIPLE-CUSHIONED COMFORT!
- CENTER-POISE RIDE! • WEATHER-TUNNEL TESTED!
- STABILIZED ENCLOSED CHASSIS!

IT'S EASY to talk about economy, but the Ford V-8 backs up its claims by actual performance on the road.

In this year's Gilmore-Yosemite Run the Ford, with its big powerful 85-hp. V-type engine, turned in a far better gas mileage record than any other car in its class, including the low-price "sixes"!

For all its size and power, this 1939 Ford V-8 is amazingly thrifty on gas and oil. Don't take our word for that. Come in and make us prove that Ford tops the field in economy and quality!
