INSIDE FACTS OF SUBMARINE TRAGEDY TOLD

CHIEF OF SQUALUS SAYS AIR VALVE IS MENACE

Portsmouth, N. H., June 20. (AP)—The commander of the submarine Squalus, which still is the sunken sepulchre of 26 men, told a naval board of inquiry today that a recommendation born of a submarine disaster nearly 13 years ago might have prevented the recent tragedy if it was caused by a faulty air induction valve.

Disaster Preventable It was near the close of a dull day on the witness stand for Naquin that Captain William R. Munroe, assistant director of naval intelligence asked the Squalus commander if the accident could have been prevented if there had been a device to prevent the flooding of the vessel's ballast tanks necessary before a dive, until opened air induction valves were closed.

Earlier, Naquin had declined to concede directly that a mechanical fault in the air induction valve caused the disaster, telling the court that while there had been a failure of a latch to hold the valve open, there had been no difficulty in closing the valve.

Captain Munroe based his question on a recommendation by another board of inquiry, which investigated the sinking of the Squalus in the Delaware Capes in September, 1930.

That board had recommended that "steps be taken to investigate and install, if found feasible, a device which, by means of interlock, will insure that the middle ballast tank vent is closed until the main induction valve is closed."

Whether the recommendation was acted upon and found not feasible was not brought out. With dramatic suddenness, Naquin had surprised the court early in today's session with the assertion that if any of four pipes which feed air to the submarine during surface maneuvers were ruptured by a depth bomb or a mine, the entire ventilating system of the ship would be flooded.

Battery Fire Prevented He recommended installation of "automatic, instantaneous, snap action" equipment for closing those pipes, through which, some officers have said, came the water that flooded the action section of the Squalus on May 23.

The dramatic highlights of the day centered around Naquin's testimony concerning his men—both the alive and the dead.

He recounted a report from Ensign Joseph W. Patterson, of Oklahoma City, Okla., who perished, that his after section was "rigged."

Father's 'Formula' Misses On Sex Of His Own New Baby

Newark, N. J., June 20. (AP)—The stork delivered a daughter to the Sidney A. Fortel today, but it failed to dent the father's faith in his formula for sex-pre-determination, a faith which led Fortel to announce last March that the baby would be a boy.

"As wrong as I am, I am right," said Fortel. "I am not giving up," he continued.

Mrs. Fortel and the baby were doing as well as the father. Dr. Herman S. Nash, the family physician, said Mrs. Fortel was "a bit disappointed" that the baby was a girl, but Fortel said his wife told him she was glad.

When he entered her room at the (Beth Israel) hospital, Fortel said, his wife eyed him to see his reaction. "I laughed, and then she laughed," he said.

Fortel's explanation of his "miscalculation" involved the failure of the baby to be born three days ago, as he first announced would happen. When the stork showed no sign of appearing then, he said the actual date of birth was immaterial, that it was the time of conception which counted.

"If the baby was born on Saturday and was a girl, I really would have been puzzled, but, as wrong as I am, I am right."

Losses $50 In Bets "I have to look thoroughly into my records for an exact reason. I am going to study harder than before and I am not giving up. I am positive I am right and my formula will work."

"At first," conceded the slightly built operator of an apron and towel service, "I had a funny feeling, and when I came to I was not exactly happy, but you can understand that."

The baby will be named "Hazel Ann" in honor of his wife's mother, Fortel said.

Weighting 8 pounds 13 ounces, the child joined unexpected infants in a list of "miracles." Had he proved right in his forecast, Fortel would have tried to market his "secret formula." Having proved wrong, he will have to pay bets costing him about $50 in smoking supplies.

Mrs. Fortel had expressed implicit faith in her husband's formula, which he said had been based on a study of medical books and had been successful in forecasting the sex of children born to fifty friends. The Fortels have another child, Marvin, 5, who was unpredictable.

COUNTY BOARD DENIED 'PLUMS'

Plan Gives Supervisors Too Much Authority, Governor Thinks

Lansing, June 20. (AP)—An act of the legislature which would have permitted members of county boards of supervisors in counties of 40,000 population or more to resign and accept county appointments was vetoed today by Governor Dickinson.

The present law declares that a supervisor may not accept a county appointment until six months after the expiration of the term for which he was elected. Asserting that was a "good principle to follow and should not be wiped out," Dickinson asserted the proposed new law would have given supervisors too great authority and permit them to award choice jobs to themselves.

The governor also vetoed the Town bill to exempt from state jurisdiction non-alcoholic fruit juices and soft drinks which were manufactured, packed and labeled according to federal food and drug act standards. The governor said the law would have left the state department of agriculture with the duty of determining the correctness of the labeling and the purity of the products but would be deprived of authority to examine them.

Bills signed by the governor: Require courts to file with the state corrections department two copies of psychopathic reports of persons sentenced to state prison. Reduce from 50 to 15 per cent railroad companies' share of building grade separations.

BRAZIL RETURNS FRIENDLY CALL

Annapolis Guns Boom for Gen. Goes Monteiro On U. S. Tour

Washington, June 20. (AP)—The United States welcomed General Aurelio Goes Monteiro, Brazil's army chief of staff, today with the booming guns, armored cars, and roaring planes that twice before in recent weeks had been put on display for distinguished guests.

The military greeting was similar to that given King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain and President Somoza of Nicaragua.

Goes Monteiro arrived at Annapolis aboard the cruiser Nashville in mid-afternoon. As he approached the shore in a launch, a 17-gun salute sounded. Waiting to receive him were General Malin Craig, United States army chief of staff, Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, and other high ranking officials.

The Brazilian visitor will travel from coast to coast in army planes during his 20-day visit. Finally he will be flown home. In coming to this country, Gen. Goes Monteiro is returning a call to his country by Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, who soon will become the United States army chief of staff. General Marshall accompanied Goes Monteiro on the Nashville.

Diplomats view the exchange of visits as a step in furthering the administration's "good neighbor" policy. It was arranged shortly after it became known that Gen. Goes Monteiro intended to visit Germany. His trip to the reich has been at least temporarily called off.

Rattlesnake Victim Very Ill In Pontiac

Pontiac, (AP)—Donald Vail, four-year-old Leonard boy who was bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake Monday, was reported in critical condition at a hospital Tuesday. The accident occurred while the boy was playing in the yard of his home.

NOTED BOATMAN DIES

Detroit, June 20. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Thursday for David N. Perry, great-great nephew of Commodore Oliver H. Perry. A prominent boatman, Perry died Monday at the age of 83. In his younger days he built and operated sailing craft, winning many races.

Traffic Toll

Detroit, June 20. (AP)—August Dullack, 60, died today of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile shortly after midnight. Police said John E. Moskowsky, 21, was the driver of the car and that he told them Dullack ran into the path of his vehicle.

Dickinson Says He May Slice Michigan Budget

Lansing, June 20. (AP)—Governor Dickinson indicated today he would revise downward the $57,000,000 a year omnibus budget bill adopted by the legislature in his attempts to help Michigan balance the budget.

Dickinson asked the attorney general staff for an opinion concerning his powers. The constitution declares that "the governor shall have power to disapprove any item or items of any bill making appropriations of money embracing distinct items."

The governor said he understood he could either approve or disapprove an item, but had no authority to change the totals. He has not concealed his irritation over the fact the legislature adjourned with appropriations totaling $7,000,000 more than the state's anticipated revenue, but said he had not made up his mind concerning how deeply he should cut.

He conferred with Grover C. Dillman, state budget director, asserting "we went over a few items but reached no decision on any of them." He will meet with Dillman again tomorrow.

The governor said public school groups "must make up their minds to accept less" than the $43,000,000 which the 1937 legislature appropriated for the fiscal year that ends June 30. Under a prevailing deadlock of house and senate, state aid for schools would remain at that figure because of a continuing clause in the old act.

A delegation of Detroit women, representatives of labor union auxiliaries, visited Dickinson today and warned him they planned organized mass meetings in protest against the prospect of a reduced school appropriation. The governor is to confer Thursday with legislative leaders in regard to school aid.

SETTING FOREST FIRE ADMITTED

Onaway Man Confessed Starting $125,000 Atlanta Blaze

East Lansing, Mich., June 20. (AP)—Harold Mulbar, state police polygraph expert, said today Fred Shimmel, 38, of Onaway, signed a statement in which he declared he alone had set the $125,000 forest fire that destroyed 50 square miles of northern Michigan timber land May 5.

Mulbar said Shimmel dictated the confession to Montmorency county Sheriff Charles Brown and District Conservation Officer Charles Eagles after submitting voluntarily to a "lie detector" test.

He quoted Shimmel as having declared he deliberately set the fire in the mistaken belief it would sweep over the lands of the Canada Creek ranch, a private hunting preserve near Atlanta, Mich. Actually, the fire skirted the private preserve and ran wild through valuable timberland before 1,750 fire fighters extinguished it.

Mulbar said Shimmel told of jealousy because he felt the ranch property offered better hunting than public hunting grounds that bordered it. "It preyed on my mind," he said Shimmel declared.

Shimmel already is under arrest and awaiting trial in the Montmorency circuit court on charges of wilfully and negligently starting a forest fire.

Mulbar said he and Sheriff Brown were satisfied that Shimmel had no accomplice in starting the fire.

Detroiter Wins His Fight To Get Wife Over From Russia

Detroit, June 20. (AP)—Edward Ruzansky, 45-year-old River Rouge engineer, disclosed today that he had apparently won his four-year fight to gain permission from the Soviet government for his wife to join him in the United States.

EARLY ACTION IS ASKED FOR TAX MEASURE

CURRENCY STRATEGY DELAYING NEEDED LEGISLATION

Washington, June 30. (AP)—While the bill wiping out the undistributed profits tax made quick progress in the senate today, President Roosevelt called informally for early action on another tax measure, eliminating tax exemptions on future issues of federal, state and local securities.

He indicated, however, that the latter bill would be passed this session. He told reporters at his press conference that he hoped it would be added that some times he was called an inveterate optimist. Hearings on the subject are to begin June 28 before the house ways and means committee.

Bridge Bill Vetoed Meanwhile the president used his veto power to make sure that the income and bonds of the new "Rainbow" bridge to be built at Niagara Falls, N. Y., shall not be tax exempt. They were exempted under a provision of a bill which Mr. Roosevelt signed last year, but he explained today that the exemption provision was overlooked at that time.

To "correct this oversight" he vetoed today a bill extending the time for commencing the bridge from June 16, 1939 to June 13, 1940, and the time for completing the structure from June 16, 1941 to June 16, 1942.

He explained he was not opposed to the bridge itself but merely took this step to kill the tax exemption. Rep. Andrews (R-N. Y.) immediately introduced a new measure repealing the exemption provisions in last year's bill.

May Lose Revenue Asked by a reporter today what he thought of the bill which deletes the undistributed profits tax and makes other changes in the revenue structure, the president said it was a good one. This bill, passed yesterday by the house, was approved unanimously by the senate finance committee today and went to the senate floor for consideration Thursday.

Instead of the undistributed profits tax, the bill sets up a flat 18 per cent tax on corporation income. It also continues for two years a group of so-called "nuisance" taxes which bring the treasury $55,000,000 annually. Three cent postage on non-local mail, which yields $100,000,000 a year, also would be continued for two years.

The nuisance taxes are scheduled to expire June 30. Thus the treasury will lose revenue unless the bill is passed before then.

Apparently in perfect agreement, both Democratic and Republican committeemen joined in calling the measure a "good bill" and in predicting that it would aid in bringing economic recovery.

NEAR TO FILIBUSTER

Washington, June 20. (AP)—Senate advocates of a $2,000,000,000 expansion of the currency, threatened to delay the enactment of highly important legislation today, unless they received administration concessions on their demand for issuance of new money.

Carefully avoiding the word "filibuster" but making their strategy none-the-less obvious, they pointed to the fact that certain bills must be enacted by June 30 to avoid serious consequences.

Beer By Bottle Also Banned On Sunday Morning

Lansing, June 20. (AP)—The liquor control commission today put a ban on the Sunday sale of beer between the hours of 2 a. m. and 2 p. m. for consumption in the home.

It previously had voted informally to forbid beer sales in drinking places between those hours on the Sabbath, but broadened the regulation today in formal session to include the sale of packaged brew.

The regulation, as amended, permits bonafide restaurants that hold licenses to sell beer to reopen for meal service at 6 a. m. on Sundays, and permits 24-hour meal service by establishments that hold special permits.

The regulation applies as well to places with liquor licenses. By formal motion the commission declared the early Sunday beer ban applied to clubs as well as to commercially operated establishments.

Bad Man Continues To Baffle 200 Men In Hayward Posses

Hayward, Wis., June 20. (AP)—The woods and waters Ray Olson "knows like a book" befriended the elusive badman tonight as he continued to keep afield of 200 possemen determined to get him dead or alive.

Olson, 30-year-old ex-convict, has been in front in the grim game of hide and seek through the green northern Wisconsin timberland since Saturday, when he escaped a squad of deputy sheriffs by killing two of them.

Twice since, Olson slipped away when the posse was convinced it had him bottled up. His story was told best, perhaps, by Charley Ross, a resident of the woodland and companion of Olson on hunting trips, who said:

"Olson can hide out around here until the snow flies if he wants to. He knows these woods—every stream and lake—like a book. Worst of all he's the type who will shoot at anybody who comes near him."

The deaths of Deputies Fred Scott, 46, and Cully Johnson, 37, attested to Olson's quick-triggered marksmanship. He killed both Saturday when they went to Indian John Blue Sky's shack to arrest him on a charge of possessing stolen property.

Olson slipped away and the sheriff's regular forces were augmented by residents of the area and vacationers who put down their rods and reels, borrowed rifles and went on a man hunt.

Bloodhounds picked up and lost the scent several times but the hunt was confined today to the Moose Lake area 20 miles east of Hayward. Olson apparently has subsisted comfortably on sausage, cheese and bread he stole along with a quantity of cigars from the Moose Lake general store early yesterday.

FEDERAL JUDGE SENT TO PRISON

Manton Gets Two Years and $10,000 Fine for Accepting Bribes

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE New York, June 20. (AP)—Martin T. Manton, the only member of the federal judiciary ever to be thus stigmatized in the 150 years of its history, was sentenced today to two years in prison and fined $10,000 for selling his integrity as senior judge of the second district U. S. circuit court of appeals.

From the same bench upon which he once had passed judgment on the acts of other men, he was coldly denounced by Federal District Judge W. Calvin Chesnut, of Maryland, as the betrayer of "a sacred trust."

The punishment was the maximum the law allowed. He was convicted on June 3, specifically of conspiring to obstruct justice in accepting bribes to influence his judicial decisions.

The only one of his four co-defendants who stood trial with him, George M. Spector, an insurance broker, was sentenced to a year and a day and fined $5,000.

John L. Latsch, formerly a minor Brooklyn politician and banker, was sentenced to one year and $1,000 fine, and Forrest W. Davis, an accountant, received a suspended sentence and two years of probation.

William J. Fallon, described by the government as the former judge's "bad man," or intermediary for bribes, was ill and thus the disposition of his case was deferred. All three had pleaded guilty and aided the prosecution.

President Says He May Postpone His West Coast Jaunt

Washington, June 20. (AP)—President Roosevelt said today a congress was moving along so rapidly that he had pretty well made up his mind to postpone a trip to the west coast and Alaska until after adjournment.

Commenting on the legislative situation in general, the president said things were looking up on Capitol Hill.

Until early adjournment prospects brightened he had considered leaving for the west on July 2.

The president remarked too that he did not believe he would get to Panama this year. The ambassador from Panama had invited the chief executive, on behalf of his own president, to attend a celebration in August in observance of the 25th anniversary of the opening of the Panama Canal.

EXODUS BEGUN IN BLOCKADED FOREIGN AREA

ENGLAND ASSISTING KAI-SHEK, TOKYO ALLEGES

BY J. D. WHITE Tientsin, June 21 (Wednesday) (AP)—One hundred British women and children were evacuated from Tientsin's blockaded British concession today as the second week of Japan's "siege" began.

The women and children began a 200-mile voyage to Peltah, north on the China coast.

With their departure the British male community in the isolated British and French concessions considered itself in a better position to take care of itself in the long-drawn test of patience that was foreseen. The women and children had been most inconvenienced by the lack of milk and fresh food.

General Wom't Yield General Gen Sugiyama, commander-in-chief of Japan's expeditionary forces in North China, charged Britain had forfeited her rights as a neutral by what he called policies designed to assist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

In a statement issued from his headquarters at Peking, General Sugiyama declared forces under his command would follow a "realistic" policy toward the Tientsin British concession until Britain recognizes Japan's "new order in east Asia" and cooperates in establishing it.

Some of the British refugees boarded a steamer last night and arrangements were completed for the whole party to leave today.

The women and children were to sail from the British harbor aboard a small British river boat for Tangku, port of Tientsin at the mouth of the Hai river. There they were to transfer to the steamers Wingsang and Shengking for Chinwangtao and Peltah, beach resorts about 200 miles north of Tientsin.

Food Still Short Most of them, it was pointed out, had planned previously to go to summer homes there but had been delayed by the blockade imposed by the Japanese eight days ago after British officials had rejected Japanese demands for custody of four Chinese accused of killing a local official.

The food situation behind electrified barricades with which the Japanese have ringed the British and bordering French concessions remained unchanged despite General Sugiyama's statement that the Japanese would "do everything to facilitate the entry of food."

Japanese patrol boats in the Hai still were preventing all sampans from landing food in the British concession and Domei, Japanese news agency, reported that vegetable growers outside the British area had agreed on a "spontaneous boycott" of the area. It said they had decided to sell only in the Japanese-controlled zone.

Chinese Threatened The 1,500 Britons virtually imprisoned within the concession, meanwhile, faced the loss of vital public services as Chinese employees quit their jobs under threats of death to their families if they remained at work for the British.

Chinese workers in the concession's water, electric power, police and other departments received the threats and those with relatives outside the concession were resigning.

Although the source of the letters was not disclosed, both Chinese and Japanese officials said they were not disclosed, both Chinese and Japanese officials said they were not disclosed, both Chinese and Japanese officials said they were not disclosed.

Capital Highlights

(By The Associated Press) The senate finance committee approved unanimously the tax revision bill passed by the house Monday.

President Roosevelt said at a press conference he preferred that congress dispose of neutrality legislation before adjourning.

Leonard F. Ayres, Cleveland economist, told the senate banking committee congress could promote "sustained business recovery" by encouraging investors.

Expressing the view that things were looking up on Capitol Hill, Mr. Roosevelt said he might postpone his western trip until after congress adjourns.

Secretary Hull said the United States charge d'affaires at Tokyo had protested Japan's continued bombing of American properties in China.

ST. LOUIS GOES TO PENZANCE

Escanaban Visits Cousin of Wm. Warrington of This City

BY STANLEY ST. LOUIS
Newcastle-on-Tyne, England—Penzance, the southernmost city in England, is the home of Miss N. Warrington, seventy-five year old cousin of Wm. Warrington, Escanaban, Michigan.

The writer cycled from Southampton, through the Devonshire and Cornwall districts, a distance of one hundred and eighty-five miles to Penzance and visited with Miss Warrington. She is also related to Miss Lucille Warrington, a teacher in the Escanaban Public schools. Most of the visit was spent in answering questions about her relatives in Escanaba and in Dollar Bay, Michigan. The delightful old lady, active far beyond her years, was a veritable gold mine of information in regard to English history and the colorful story of Penzance in particular.

From Penzance, it is only ten miles to Land's End, the rocky southern tip of England and one of her most attractive tourist spots.

A Musical Mecca
London, today, is credited with being the European Mecca of music lovers. During the season most of the world's outstanding artists play at least one London engagement. The extent of English demand for fine music is clearly indicated in the rush to buy up all available space for concerts.

Arturo Toscanini, world renowned symphony conductor, lead the British Broadcasting Company Symphony Orchestra, which he claims is the best in the world, in a series of Beethoven concertos. Seventy-five thousand people clamored for tickets but only three thousand could be accommodated. The writer, after several diplomatic approaches to the ticket window, and through an incident of good fortune, secured one of the highly prized duets.

The concert, played in London's Queen's Hall also featured the singing of Isobel Baillie, Margaret Balfour, Parry Jones, Harold Williams and the British Broadcasting Company Choral Society of 235 voices. These artists are frequently heard in the United States by short-wave broadcast.

The fiery, little Italian maestro conducted the one hundred and twenty-seven piece orchestra with all the vigor and dexterity for which he is noted.

Repeated curtain calls for Toscanini and the featured artists, by a wildly enthusiastic audience, gave adequate proof that London appreciates fine music.

Visits Turner Kin
London traffic may move slowly, and it does travel on the left side of the street while the rest of the world keeps to the right, but getting around London is greatly facilitated by excellent bus service and the ever-ready, eternally patient, Bobby. More courteous, better informed policemen than the English Bobbys, do not exist. A stranger can ask them anything and they have the correct answer ready. If you do not understand what is being told you the first time, they will keep on explaining and giving information, until you do.

The writer was endeavoring in Newport, England to locate the brother of George Turner, manager of the Hotel Ludington, Escanaba. The day happened to be Sunday and Mr. Turner's place of business was closed. The bobby spent all of an hour and a half trying to locate the residential address of the party sought.

While the people living in the Southern part of England are known to be rather distant, they too, if properly approached, will assist a stranger in any possible way. One of the most definite impressions a visitor takes with him when leaving England is the courtesy and excellent manners displayed by people from all walks of life.

In the case of cafe waitresses, politeness seems to be carried to extremes. It seems to be a universal English custom that with the placing of each dish or bit of food on the table the waitress accompanies the act with an habitual, "Thank you".

English Train Service
It is doubtful whether anyone who has ridden a train in Europe would ever again tell the urge to criticize equipment or service on American railroads.

Air-conditioned cars do not exist. Each compartment in a car has a separate door and no two people in the compartment are ever able to agree upon whether the window in the door should be open or remain closed. Often as many as ten passengers share each room, and if, as is often the case, each has his own idea of what should be done about the window, some little confusion is bound to result.

Checking your baggage and traveling free from care as is practised in the United States, is not quite so simple here. Your baggage is your own problem, and how you decide to solve it is more or less your own individual business. Whenever a change of trains is necessary, through trains are rare indeed, the passenger not only transfers himself but sees to his baggage as well.

Tunnels are frequent in this land of hills, and attempting to get the car window closed before entering a tunnel, is a favorite pastime of travelers. If the passenger loses the decision to the tunnel, the price of defeat is a thick layer of soot, sufficient to qualify the owner for a minstrel show appearance.

The cost of rail travel in England is substantially higher than in the United States. When services rendered are taken into consideration the prices are entirely out of proportion.

A railway employe receives approximately one half the wages paid in the United States. Annual passes are not granted to employes. The worker is allowed two passes, yearly, good only on his own road. Passes on foreign roads as well as free transportation for wife, children or other dependents, are not granted.

A man who has been employed by the London and North Eastern Ry. Company for forty-five years, as a car repairer told the writer, that he was to be pensioned in six weeks. He stated that his pension would amount to about $5.00 per week, far below what an American railroad employe, working on a similar job would receive. Yet the cost of living in England is equal to, if not greater, than in the United States.

nese and British expressed belief that the Japanese military had sent them after a census of families of Chinese employes of the concession who were living outside its boundaries.

Japanese Consul-General Shigenori Tashiro informed foreign consuls of electrification of the wire cord around the concessions, asking them to notify their nationals so as to prevent casualties. Up to early today no one had been hurt.

The Japanese refused to disclose the voltage and amperage carried by the wires, taking the start that the figures were military secrets. Power is furnished by a Japanese plant.

Japanese army spokesmen would not say whether it was the intention to kill anyone trying to pass the barrier without Japanese permission, but authorities of the French concession said they were informed the wires carried a charge sufficient to cause instant death.

A similar line of electrified wires was thrown around the concessions by the Japanese last winter and it was recalled that several dogs were killed by these barriers.

Wisconsin Honor Prisoners Escape
Ladysmith, Wis., June 20. (AP)—Four honor prisoners who escaped from the state reformatory night camp at Amberst Sunday night were locked up in the Rusk county jail tonight after their car bogged down on a side road near here.

Mrs. Ellsworth Wilson, wife of the sheriff who took them into custody, said the men had had nothing to eat since they overpowered Guard Arthur Collette at the Amberst quarry camp and escaped in his automobile.

The convicts, as listed by the reformatory, are:

Matthew Slaven, 19, of Rockford, Ill., serving one to four years for statutory rape; Robert Vertigan, 22, of Ladysmith, one to three years for forgery; Clayton Dean, 17, of Madison, four to five years for robbery, and Edward Zembuzoski, 20, of South Milwaukee, a year to 18 months for larceny.

Untidiness Starts Talk of Secession in Wolverine State
East Lansing, June 20 (AP)—Secession, an ugly word to statesmen, raised its head in the Wolverine boys state at Michigan State college today but the motive back of the step would hardly be impressive in actual government.

Nonetheless it was vital to half of the "citizens" of the mythical city of "Van Buren" that the other half neglected to keep their neat and tidy, thus earning double clean-up duty for tidy and untidy alike.

So today, the tidy citizens of Van Buren forced through their council a petition for secession and carried forward to set up their own city "West Van Buren."

Their youthful city attorney held that a special election of the citizens must be held and that the legislature and governor must pass on the action. That was being arranged tonight.

Advisors of the camp, an American Legion project, watched the uproar without interfering, believing it all helped to acquaint the 800 citizens with governmental procedure.

Farms of the United States have a total of 400,000,000 chickens with more than 1,400,000,000 chicks being hatched annually.

Big Grand Rapids Robbery Unsolved
Grand Rapids, Mich., June 20. (AP)—With only a rifled wardrobe trunk as a clue, police searched today for jewel thieves who stole approximately $25,000 worth of unmounted diamonds, ring mountings and other articles here Monday night.

The trunk was found today in an alley approximately one mile from the downtown hotel where it was taken from a baggage truck. Twenty seven of the 28 packages of jewelry were gone, according to Arthur S. Feiss, 50, of St. Louis, salesman for a New York firm. The jewelry was insured, Feiss said. He collapsed when informed of the robbery and was placed under the care of a physician.

Police were told the theft occurred when a truck driver, who had placed the trunk aboard his truck at a hotel, stepped into the hotel to get some shipping papers from a porter. When he returned, the truck was missing.

Briefly Told
Girls' Diamond Ball—The Stokers and the Vintettes will play diamond ball tonight at 7 o'clock at the Light House diamond.

Attend School—Jos. O. Murphy of the Murphy Funeral Home and Joseph Blanchet attended a funeral director and embalmers school conducted last week at Eau Claire, Wis., by the Wisconsin state board of health.

Insurance Men On Trip—Local Metropolitan Insurance representatives will leave this afternoon on a trip to Oshkosh, Wis., and Chicago, meeting the president of the company at Oshkosh and then proceeding to Chicago. In the group will be: Joseph Pillote, Dave Peterson, Clifford Vadsnals and Roy Starrin, of Escanaba; Hubert Bray, of Gladstone; Ronald Flegel and George McFarland, of Manistique.

Take Canoe Trip—Maynard Coplan of Escanaba and Joseph Roth of Chicago are leaving today for a three-day canoe trip on the Whitefish river, starting near Marquette and ending near Rapid River.

Mrs. Sarah McLean, the Misses Bessie, Alice and Florence Cottrell and Ernest Cavanari of Iron Mountain visited friends here yesterday.

The Misses Anna and Mildred Michaud left yesterday for Duluth, where they will visit their sister, Miss Ethel Michaud.

Miss Jean McEwen of Chicago is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McEwen.

Mrs. L. E. Tollack and daughter, Laurie Jean, are visiting this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Johnson, parents of Mrs. Tollack.

Wisconsin Honor Prisoners Escape
Ladysmith, Wis., June 20. (AP)—Four honor prisoners who escaped from the state reformatory night camp at Amberst Sunday night were locked up in the Rusk county jail tonight after their car bogged down on a side road near here.

Mrs. Ellsworth Wilson, wife of the sheriff who took them into custody, said the men had had nothing to eat since they overpowered Guard Arthur Collette at the Amberst quarry camp and escaped in his automobile.

The convicts, as listed by the reformatory, are:

Matthew Slaven, 19, of Rockford, Ill., serving one to four years for statutory rape; Robert Vertigan, 22, of Ladysmith, one to three years for forgery; Clayton Dean, 17, of Madison, four to five years for robbery, and Edward Zembuzoski, 20, of South Milwaukee, a year to 18 months for larceny.

Untidiness Starts Talk of Secession in Wolverine State
East Lansing, June 20 (AP)—Secession, an ugly word to statesmen, raised its head in the Wolverine boys state at Michigan State college today but the motive back of the step would hardly be impressive in actual government.

Nonetheless it was vital to half of the "citizens" of the mythical city of "Van Buren" that the other half neglected to keep their neat and tidy, thus earning double clean-up duty for tidy and untidy alike.

So today, the tidy citizens of Van Buren forced through their council a petition for secession and carried forward to set up their own city "West Van Buren."

Their youthful city attorney held that a special election of the citizens must be held and that the legislature and governor must pass on the action. That was being arranged tonight.

Advisors of the camp, an American Legion project, watched the uproar without interfering, believing it all helped to acquaint the 800 citizens with governmental procedure.

Big Grand Rapids Robbery Unsolved
Grand Rapids, Mich., June 20. (AP)—With only a rifled wardrobe trunk as a clue, police searched today for jewel thieves who stole approximately $25,000 worth of unmounted diamonds, ring mountings and other articles here Monday night.

The trunk was found today in an alley approximately one mile from the downtown hotel where it was taken from a baggage truck. Twenty seven of the 28 packages of jewelry were gone, according to Arthur S. Feiss, 50, of St. Louis, salesman for a New York firm. The jewelry was insured, Feiss said. He collapsed when informed of the robbery and was placed under the care of a physician.

Police were told the theft occurred when a truck driver, who had placed the trunk aboard his truck at a hotel, stepped into the hotel to get some shipping papers from a porter. When he returned, the truck was missing.

EARLY ACTION IS ASKED FOR TAX MEASURE

to the government and added that many speeches might "block procedure."

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) counted the tax bill, the relief appropriation, the monetary bill now before the senate on his fingers and added that his convictions and responsibilities made it necessary that he take advantage of the opportunity presented.

Uses Old Tricks
On the senate floor, Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), his colleague in the currency expansion battle, was holding up action on the administration's monetary measure by the use of many of the little devices of delay familiar to senate filibusters.

He broke up an apparent agreement to limit debate on an amendment to abolish the dollar. He demanded frequent quorum calls. When Senator Wagner (D-NY) presented an amendment to another bill, he insisted that it be read in full by the clerk. And he prolonged the speeches of other senators by frequent and lengthy questions.

Administration leaders, although confident that such tactics could be broken in time, were concerned at the possible immediate consequences. Treasury officials have repeatedly said that unless the tax bill is enacted by June 30, the government will lose a sizeable amount of revenue. And WPA officials have contended that the administration of relief would be hamstrung by uncertainty and lack of funds unless the appropriation were passed well before the end of the month. Silverites' Give Support

In addition, the filibuster possibility menaced the monetary bill, which gives the treasury authority to continue the operation of the $2,000,000,000 international stabilization fund beyond June 30, in addition to prolong the president's power to devalue the dollar.

McCarran and Thomas are the authors of a substitute for that measure which would: Reduce the stabilization fund to $500,000,000; take the remaining $1,500,000,000 and add $500,000,000 of free treasury gold to it to furnish the backing for the issuance of $2,000,000,000 in new paper money; and increase the price paid by the treasury for newly mined silver from 64.5 cents an ounce to $1.05.

The last provision won the support of some senators from the silver producing states. On June 30, the treasury is to announce a new price for silver. The silver senators were frankly not adverse to delaying action until they could be assured of a satisfactory treasury price, but many doubted they would go far beyond that in backing the demand for new money.

Many of the silverites are asking that the price be set at 77 1/2 cents, but privately several of them had indicated they would be satisfied if the present rate were continued without a decrease.

He commended Lawrence Gainer, Honolulu electrician's mate, as the man, "unmindful of the danger and on his own initiative," pulled a switch in the forward battery room of the Squalus as she dropped, "undoubtedly saving a serious battery fire."

Special commendation went also to the radiomen and signalmen of the Squalus—Theodore Jacobs, Staten Island, N. Y.; Charles A. Powell, Leesdale, La.; Warren W. Smith, Jr., LaPorte, Tex., and Arthur L. Booth, Milford, Conn.

Messages Tapped Out
"They took more punishment than any of us on the bottom," Naquin said, as he told how they expended their dwindling energy tapping out messages on the vessel's hull. He recommended some improved method of communication.

He spoke quietly and in measured sentences as he gave the court the details of the preparations for the final dive, but as he came to the point of describing the dark, cold hours in the submarine after she struck bottom, he stopped.

That part of the story been told private to the court yesterday, he explained.

Again this afternoon, newsmen sat forward in their seats, as the court recited in alphabetical order the names of each of the dead members of the Squalus' crew, asking after each name: "Was his death the result of misconduct in any way or did he violate any law or regulation just prior to his death?"

To the first name Naquin answered "No," and to the others he curtly snapped "Same answer."

Old People's Home Residents Denied Old Age Benefits
Lansing, June 20 (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read held today that residents of the old people's home of Chelsea, Mich., maintained by the Methodist church, have no right to state old age assistance benefits.

The opinion, requested by George E. Bohm, Detroit attorney, said residents were required to assign all of their property to the home before they could be accepted, with a minimum requirement of $1,000.

By transferring the property, Read declared, the resident "thereby disqualifies himself to receive old age assistance, and if he has theretofore been receiving that old age assistance his right to receive the same terminates, and therefore neither he nor the institute would be entitled to receive this old age assistance."

SOCIETY BEGUN BY DR. BANKS

Dental Group Organized In 1914; Jubilee Here This Week

The Upper Peninsula Dental Society, which will hold its Silver Jubilee convention in Escanaba Friday and Saturday of this week, was organized in 1914 by a group of dentists headed by Dr. R. H. Banks, now of this city but then of Hancock.

The first dental organization was in the Copper Country under the direction of Dr. Banks, who later helped to start the Iron county group along with the late Dr. William Hald of Negaunee. When Dr. Banks moved to this city, he was instrumental in organizing the Delta county society. These three units were joined and the Upper Peninsula Dental Society took form in 1914 under the direction of Dr. Banks, Dr. Eldred Robbins of Ishpeming, Dr. Dew Coggin of Calumet and Dr. Hald of Negaunee. The first meeting was held at the Peter White public library in Marquette. There were about 30 members in the association in its first year of organization. Since that time, the organization has increased in size until now the membership is approximately 200 dentists.

At that first meeting, papers read included: "Fractures of the Jaw" by Dr. C. J. Kitchen of this city; "General Dentistry" by Dr. R. W. Britung, now dean of

Fireworks Appear
 MICHIGAN has a law banning the use of fireworks by the public excepting those displayed at celebrations under supervision and by permission of authorities. The statute is not being observed, however, for fireworks are appearing in Escanaba and other communities.

That the law prohibiting the use of these explosives in Michigan has good purposes can be realized from the accident tolls of the past. Last year in the entire United States there were 7,933 fireworks injuries. Of these 281 were injuries to the eye and 43 resulted in blindness in one or both eyes. Even in Michigan there were 107 injuries and two cases of blindness. These would not have occurred had the law been observed.

These firecrackers come into the hands of Michigan children usually by one of two methods. Either local merchants are selling them in violation of the law or else out-of-state manufacturers are distributing them through the mail to the users. One of the evil practices followed by some manufacturers is to offer a bunch of fireworks to a child if he or she sells a certain number of sets to other boys and girls.

The bootlegging of fireworks is probably a more serious menace to human eyes than the old-time trafficking in moonshine liquor ever was.

Record Not Overlooked

WHILE Attorney General Frank Murphy expressed laudable motives when he voiced a plea recently for reduction of government payrolls, it was quite natural to expect that Republicans would check up on his administrative record as governor of Michigan.

Perusal of the state's books during the recent Murphy administration revealed that the state payroll jumped from 15,185 to 17,354 persons, and the total of salaries from $19,714,902 to $24,293,317.

Of course, the attorney general's remarks are typical of many others that have been made in recent years. President Roosevelt campaigned on a platform to reduce governmental expenditures by 25 per cent, but upon his accession to office boosted federal spending to unprecedented high figures.

Public officers are getting that way; they think that merely the making of speeches in favor of economy solves the problem.

Boosts Tourist Wares

THE Houghton Mining Gazette has issued a splendid special edition of its newspaper, devoted to the publicizing of the many and varied recreational attractions of the Keweenaw peninsula and the new Isle Royale national park.

With the decline of mining during the past several years, citizens of the Copper Country has looked for sustenance through the development of other economic assets, with emphasis particularly on recreation and agriculture.

Unusually attractive scenery, cool climate, fishing and historic places have combined to make the Keweenaw peninsula a celebrated vacationland. It is quite noticeable in the tourist inquiry bulletins from the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau that there is much interest in the Copper Country.

The Copper Country is the point of departure for Isle Royale, America's newest national park on Lake Superior, which will be formally dedicated in 1940. Already, Isle Royale is being given national publicity in the travel sections of metropolitan newspapers, all of which is directing attention toward the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The Mining Gazette, like many other newspapers in the United States, is lending a hand in the efforts that are being exerted to develop the resources of the community to the benefit of all. It is this type of community service that is often overlooked when political rally crowd hear self-seeking politicians lambaste the local newspapers because the editors do not endorse their many futile panaceas for the country's ills.

Good News

THE anti-trust division of the Department of Justice is pursuing a widespread investigation of why it costs so much to build a house. This inquiry is aimed at four fronts—materials, distribution, contractors, labor.

In a recent dispatch from Washington, Bruce Catton of NEA Service related important news regarding materials. For many years, according to Secretary of Interior Ickes, the government has been receiving identical bids for building materials, particularly cement.

But that appears to be a thing of the past. Henry J. Kaiser, a newcomer to the cement business on the west coast, submitted a price for cement for California's Shasta Dam which was $150,000 lower than other bids.

The six companies which lost the contract protested. They sought to have Kaiser's bid thrown out on technicalities. But Comptroller General Fred H. Brown has ruled that his office will not question the award.

This saving is only a small step when the entire construction industry is taken into account. Whether it can be extended throughout the materials division and whether costs can be reduced similarly in distribution, contracting and labor must await conclusion of the justice department's inquiries.

Only a slight reduction in these costs might give the home building business a spurt which would return it to the prosperity of a former day.

Copper Duty Retained

THE Michigan Copper Country will view with satisfaction the action of the house of representatives in voting a two-year extension of the four cents a pound duty on copper importations. The provision was included in the new revenue bill which was sent to the senate.

Because of their depth, Michigan copper mines have higher operating costs than most of the other properties in the United States, and therefore are at a distinct disadvantage in trying to compete with importations of copper produced in Rhodesia and other foreign countries, where native labor is paid only a few cents a day and the metal is found nearer the surface.

The Copper Country feels that an import duty on copper is absolutely necessary for the salvation of its chief industry. Resolutions and petitions urging the extension of the duty are always easy to procure in that region.

WORDS OF WARNING
 (Marquette Mining Journal)

Suggesting that the liquor commission will go about the task of tightening up on present regulation of sales is the order restricting the hours on which beer may be sold on Sunday. The governor had a conference with the members on Monday and plans more conferences.

The extent to which the commission can go in changing the conditions under which the traffic is carried on is indicated by the statement of the chairman, Mr. DeMass, that the content of only two bills affecting the traffic introduced in the legislative session cannot be made effective by regulation. One proposed to give the commission power to subpoena complainants against licensees. The other would have made it a misdemeanor for minors to purchase liquor.

"All the rest we can do by regulation," DeMass declares. "We can close licensed places whenever we want them to close. We can control liquor advertising and make newspaper or billboard advertising unlawful." Significantly, in view of the governor's known views on the traffic, he says, "we're going to get together with the governor more often."

If the licensees are wise they will see in the emphasis laid on the far-reaching powers in the hands of the commission and its purpose to consult with the governor warning to be on their good behavior. The atmosphere at the commission's offices will not likely be friendly to those of them called to account for violations. If a large proportion of their number are hailed before the board for infractions, the likelihood that the regulations will be made more stringent will be increased. The more effectively the licensees minimize causes for complaint the more surely will they gain for themselves the largest possible freedom of action. If they are intelligent enough to appreciate this they can save themselves much trouble.

It is to be hoped that the commission will see that the root of much of the trouble arising in conducting the traffic is over-licensing, particularly of places authorized to sell only beer and wines. The local governing boards, with, to some extent, an eye on their shares of the license money, are, with few exceptions, too lenient in recommending issuance of licenses. They approve too many and in many communities recommend the licensing of men whose past records makes all but certain that they will fail to give a good account of themselves. There are so many licensees that but few of them can make, unless they violate the law, reasonable profit from the business. If the commission sharply reduced the number of licenses those that were left would, because their licenses had an increased value, be more likely to be at care to see that they were not deprived of them.

If the commission turned its attention to this subject and also reduced the number of special distributors so that more business would be done in the state stores it would, it appears, deal with two of the problems of most importance that demand its attention.

'COULDN'T TAKE CURVE'

(Milwaukee Journal)

Two passengers were killed near Waukesha in a car that apparently was moving so fast that it couldn't "take a curve." It careened right on, forward, into a tree. Men are driving Wisconsin's highways at 60, 70, and even 90 miles an hour. It can't be done with safety—not by the average driver.

A few men know how to adjust a car's mechanisms, and use its modern power plant, and use its modern power plant, for really fast driving. They know how to approach, and how to accelerate around a curve, at really high speeds. And modern cars can perform marvels against the force of momentum.

But it takes skill and understanding to keep a car steadily on the road, and securely rounding curves at 50 or more miles an hour. The average driver has neither the skill nor understanding to operate with safety beyond, say, 50 miles or thereabouts. If, frequently, he "gets by" at 70 or 80 miles, it is by the grace of God, the foresight of highway engineers, and the intervention of fortunate circumstances.

That is being demonstrated in Wisconsin every day, especially in the last 10 or 15 days. Before that time—up to and including April of this year—the Wisconsin fatality record already had shot up to 23 per cent above the fatalities of a comparable period last year. Wisconsin made, for this period, the worst showing in the nation. No other state so recklessly was killing its people or visitors in automobile accidents.

And in the last 10 or 15 days there seems to have been a further sharp upswing in fatal accidents. The records won't be compiled until the end of the month, and won't be comparable with the records of other states for perhaps two months, but they have an ominous look.

High speed, in unskilled hands, is not the only cause of smashups that takes lives. Nonobservance of stop signs, reckless weaving in and out of the traffic streams, and other well known practices contribute their parts.

But Wisconsin drivers ought willingly to admit to themselves that beyond a 50 or possibly 60 mile top speed they reach the range of expert driving—and motorists, by and large, are not and cannot be experts. Unless they will realize it, they yet will have speed limits clamped upon them on all Wisconsin roads.

London—The Christian world of Europe is deeply conscious today that not for centuries has Christianity been under such a drum-fire of attack.

The seizure of the residence of the Most Reverend Sigmund Waltz, 75-year-old Archbishop of Salzburg, by Nazi storm-troopers who immediately moved out the furniture and converted it into an office, underlined the conflict that is sweeping over Europe.

This conflict is basic and inevitable. The rulers of totalitarian states base their regimes on the principle that all earthly and temporal activities, and even the thoughts, of their subjects must be controlled by the state. No Christian believer can accept this, for all Christian faiths consider their beliefs a living force in daily conduct.

—GERMANY IS BATTLEFRONT—

In Russia there is little struggle; the Soviet masters are completely in control. In Italy the fight has not really begun, though the conversion of the Italian leaders to German ideas of racialism and anti-Semitism indicates that inevitably it will come.

It is in Germany that the battle rages with greatest severity. There the eviction of Archbishop Waltz was only one shot on a wide-fronted battle-front. Eight thousand anti-Nazi Evangelical ministers of the Confessional Synod repudiated Dr. Friedrich Werner, Nazi-controlled head of the Evangelical (Lutheran) church's supreme council. They read letters declaring that Werner had placed himself "beyond the pale of the church of Christ." The Nazi government retaliated by forbidding religious broadcasts, restricting the sale of Bibles to religious bookstores, and withdrawing subsidies to Bible and tract publishers.

It is the conflict between God and Caesar which is as old as Christianity itself. —PLANNED PERSECUTION—

This conflict has been inevitable since Hitler took power in 1933. For the first few months he declared friendliness toward both the Protestant and Catholic faiths. By July (a concordat had been negotiated by Franz von Papen and Cardinal Pacelli, now Pope Pius XII. It guaranteed the preservation of Catholic schools, youth organizations, and the free circulation of pastoral letters. For a time Hitler adhered to it closely. For the Saar, with its large Catholic population, was about to vote on adherence to the Reich. But after the Saar had voted "Ja!" everything changed. The Catholic Center party had been dissolved long before. Now the youth organizations were forbidden. In the struggle for the minds of the young, Hitler would brook no rivals.

In Munich, in December 1935, the whole Nazi organization was used to terrorize Catholic parents into voting for state schools as against parochial schools. A long series of persecutions followed. Nuns and priests were charged with smuggling currency. Priests were charged with the grossest immoralities. Catholic youth leaders disappeared into concentration camps and did not reappear. The Bishop of Munster said:

"Today there are in Germany many fresh graves where rest the ashes of those whom the Catholic people regard as martyrs . . . although nothing is permitted to be revealed as to how they met their ends."

Cardinal Faulhaber in Munich denounced the "demonical blasphemies of the Nazi press. His house was fired on by ruffians in 1937, and again in 1938, at Fulda. Catholic bishops signed pastoral letters attacking the war on Christianity and the censorship of Catholic thought and publications. The inclusion of Austria and Czechoslovakia into the Reich brought thousands more Catholics under the Nazi sway, accentuating the problem.

Efforts are now being made to patch up the shattered concordat. Recently Papi Nuncio Orsenigo visited Hitler at Berchtesgaden. There came, until the Archbishop Waltz incident, a lull in the wave of "immoral trials" and persecutions. Hitler is knee-deep in foreign affairs. In the conduct of these, world Catholic opinion is a large factor. Thus it is more than possible that some sort of a truce or working arrangement is in view between the Vatican and Hitler.

But it can scarcely allay the essential and basic conflict between the Christian and the totalitarian ideas.

NEXT: Wedged between active persecution and efforts to create a new official Nazi church, German Protestantism also faces a critical future.

 A. One inch of rainfall represents about 113 tons of water per acre.

Q. Is the American robin the same as the English robin? N. D.
 A. It is not. The bird we commonly call robin is a true thrush. The robin of England is a small bird about one-third the size of ours. The two are superficially alike only in having a red breast.

Q. What percentage of those eligible to vote in the United States actually go to the polls in an ordinary national election? W. W.
 A. The percentage of the eligible voters actually voting declined more or less steadily from about 56 per cent in 1896 to less than 57 per cent in 1920 and 1924, but turned upward to about 67.5 per cent in 1928 and 70 per cent in 1932. It has been estimated that about 45 per cent of the total population of the United States was eligible to vote in 1935. Probably about 75 per cent of those eligible actually voted.

Q. Please give some information on the proper way to clean paint brushes. J. W.
 A. Paint brushes should always be cleaned before being put away. Hardened brushes may be soaked in raw linseed oil for 24 hours and then placed in a pot of benzine. After this, work the bristles until they are separated when the paint will soften so that it will wash out. Ordinary fiber brushes may be soaked in laundry soda water until soft and then washed clean with soap and water.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—The private talks which British Ambassador Lindsay has had with Secretary Hull can be summed up in one sentence: The British desperately need and want U. S. cooperation in the Far East to help stand off Japan.

Hull has been very secretive but his personal reaction, although he probably would deny it, has been favorable to the British. However, the reaction of the U. S. Navy, especially the dynamic admiral who is its real boss, is emphatically negative.

One year and a half ago, when the Japanese deliberately bombed and sank the U. S. gunboat Panay, Admiral Leahy was in favor of cooperating with the British. He pointed out that American rights had been deliberately flouted and that the American public would support a blockade against Japan.

Secretary Hull hung back. His career advisers, particularly Hugh R. Wilson, were opposed. Wilson paced the floor of Hull's office, frenziedly urging that no action be taken.

Now, however, the position is reversed. Admiral Leahy points out that Americans are not being molested, that no American rights are at stake, and that the United States immediately would be accused of pulling British chestnuts out of the fire.

So he proposes keeping the U. S. fleet out of Japanese waters. —BRITISH DOUBLE-CROSS—

Significant fact to remember about the Far East is that the British now are reaping what they sowed. Back in 1931, when Japan first invaded Manchuria, Secretary of State Stimson did his best to rally world support and the peace machinery of the League of Nations against Japan. He got the cooperation of France and various smaller nations, but from the British nothing but empty promises.

In fact, when it was agreed with the British to deliver identical notes of protest to Japan against aggression, the British Ambassador would come back to the Japanese Foreign Office shortly after delivering his protest, and say in effect that Britain merely was going through a routine protest in deference to the United States, and that she thoroughly understood Japan's problems.

Even during naval conferences, the British frequently played with the Japanese, and the American delegation at one conference was cautious about giving out confidential information in front of R. E. Craggie, for fear it might leak to Japan. Craggie is now British Ambassador to Japan and has the unpleasant task of protesting to the government which he once so ardently favored.

—GATE CRASHER—

No place in Washington is more closely guarded against intruders than the House of Representatives when in session. Four doorkeepers stand guard at each entrance and it's about as easy to get by them as to break out of Alcatraz.

Yet that is exactly what a stranger did the other day, and the boys are still gasping at his nonchalance. Tall, white-haired and well dressed, the intruder first was noticed calmly sitting at the Democratic leaders' table in the middle of the chamber. Members asked one another who he was. None knew. Former Congressmen have the privilege of the floor throughout their lives, and it was assumed he was an old-timer.

"Never saw him before," he said, after scrutinizing the stranger. Neither had Sergeant-at-Arms Kenneth Romney. So Doorkeeper Fred Schatzman was directed to do the bouncing. He walked up to the intruder and quietly inquired what he was doing in the chamber.

The gate-crasher ignored the question. Instead, to Schatzman's astonishment, he shoved out his hand and said amiably, "Plunkett's my name, Plunkett from Iowa. What's yours?"

When Schatzman regained his breath he explained that visitors were not allowed on the floor. "Those galleries up there," he said, "are for that purpose."

"Oh, I was up in the gallery," replied the gate-crasher blithely, "but I couldn't hear very well. As there were a lot of empty seats down here I decided to come down so I could make out what was going on."

Local Police Warn Of Fireworks Ban

Advance warning is issued by the police department to local merchants and citizens that any person or firm found to be selling or shooting fireworks of any kind will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

With the Fourth of July only twelve days away, local people may well recall accidents of previous years which have resulted in serious injuries to local children and adults alike. Last year several children were injured, one of them receiving severe and agonizing burns and cuts when a firecracker he was lighting exploded in his face.

Special warning is served to those who buy fireworks from out-of-town and out-of-state firms. Although local authorities can do nothing to prevent such sale, since there is no restriction on interstate commerce in this particular respect, all persons found shooting or reselling such products will be prosecuted and the fireworks will be seized.

JULY FOURTH PLANS STARTED

Celebration Planned In City; Band to Play; Games Scheduled

July Fourth in Escanaba will be celebrated with a program of activities extending from 9:30 in the morning until 10:30 at night, the planning committee announced yesterday.

The day will start with a support parade honoring Escanaba's best junior hardball team, which, to the music of the Escanaba municipal band will be escorted to the hardball diamond where they will meet a team from Harris composed entirely of Indians. The game will start at 10:00 o'clock. Admission is free and a thrilling game is assured.

For those who find it impossible to attend the city team-South Range game in the afternoon, there will be a program of races, games and novelty events directed by the department of parks and recreation from 2:00 until 4:00 at Ludington Park. Immediately following, Escanaba's leading girls' softball team will meet an opponent to be selected later.

The Municipal band will open the evening program at 7:30 with an outstanding speaker scheduled to talk at 8:00. After the address the band will play until dark when the brilliant display of fireworks will start.

County Drivers Are Governed By New Regulations

County drivers of private motor vehicles and chauffeurs are governed by the new rules regulating licensing, Undersheriff John Frederickson said yesterday.

Starting today the price of the operator's license will be $1.25 instead of the $1.00 previously collected. This figure is all that is collected, no money being allowed for stamps, money orders and the like.

Examiners are authorized to administer the oath on all license applications, no notary public being necessary.

Chauffeur's licenses will cost $2.00 annually. Hereafter, applicants for chauffeur's licenses will not be required to submit a picture. Instead, they will be fingerprinted and copies of the prints will be carried on the licenses.

Chauffeur's licenses are needed by all persons whose principal business is the purpose of operating motor vehicles and in use as public or common carriers of persons and property. All drivers of delivery trucks are required to have chauffeur's licenses even if they are working only on a commission basis.

WARM WEATHER FILLS BEACHES

Much Activity At Parks; Influx of Tourists Is Under Way

With the temperature hovering for a major part of the afternoon in the vicinity of 80 degrees, many residents of Escanaba took refuge in the cool waterfront parks yesterday and the first real signs of summer activity appeared in the city.

A large number of persons, especially younger people, took advantage of the warm weather to take their first dip in the water at the Ludington Park beach. Others were content to don bathing suits and cool themselves in the shade of the park trees. Fritz Frederickson, life guard last year, will be on duty at the beach every afternoon except Sundays starting today until the regular bathing season opens, probably on July 1. Frederickson, who will be present at the beach in the morning for the purpose of erecting equipment but who will not be on guard duty until afternoon, returned yesterday from the Red Cross Aquatic school at Hastings.

Tennis courts were a popular place yesterday, especially those at the east end of Ludington park near the yacht harbor. The three courts there were kept busy constantly and there was much play on the courts in northtown near the conservation department headquarters. Courts at the southern end of the Ludington park, however, were not in use much because the hot sun had softened the surface so much that play was uncomfortable during the afternoon.

Diamondball courts, too, came in for attention. At the northtown court, a team of girls was opposing a team of boys. There was no activity at the hardball diamond at 23rd street, however.

With the advent of warmer temperatures there has been a noticeable influx of tourists to the city. In the past week, there have been a large number of cars from Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota with sprinklings from Ohio, Indiana, Florida, Missouri and many other states in the warm weather belt.

Bank Debits Show Gain In Peninsula

Marquette regained its lead position for volume of bank debits among upper peninsula communities during May, with an increase of $329,000 for the month for a total of $2,873,000.

Menominee, in first place during April with $2,660,000, dropped to second position when its debits slipped to $2,620,000, despite the fact there were 26 working days in May compared with 24 in April.

As a whole, U. P. banks belonging to the Ninth federal reserve district showed a net gain of $1,175,000 for the month, debits increasing from $20,561,000 in April to $21,736,000 in May.

Ishpeming Gains
Sault Ste. Marie scored a gain of $157,000 for the month but was unable to climb out of third place. Iron Mountain gained $135,000 to take fourth place from Escanaba which now ranks fifth. Iron Mountain had total April debits of $1,807,000 as compared to $1,942,000 in May.

Marquette's total of $2,873,000 represents a gain of $176,000 over May, 1938.

Ishpeming reported one of the best gains of the month. Its debits rose to $368,000, an increase of $107,000 over April, and Negaunee climbed from $322,000 to $382,000 for a gain of $40,000.

Calumet also scored one of the largest gains of any community in the U. P., its bank transactions amounting to $1,451,000 for the month of an increase of $253,000 over April.

Escanaba, Laurium, Manistique and Menominee were the only cities to report declines.

Body Of Missing Man Discovered

Iron Mountain—The partly decomposed body of Arthur Jokela, age 55, who disappeared Saturday, June 10, from the home of his son-in-law, Leo Butterfield, 108 Withworth avenue, Kingsford, was found Saturday afternoon lying in the grass near the baseball field about half a block from Breen avenue in East Kingsford. It was reported today by Sheriff Ed Corey.

Search for Jokela was begun a week ago today, after the man had failed to return to his son-in-law's home. He had resided with the Butterfields for about a year, coming here from Quinnesec. He was employed at times as a wood cutter.

Jokela was born October 22, 1893, in Calumet. Four daughters and three sons survive. His father, John Jokela, resides at Calumet. There are two brothers and one sister, Arvid, of Nathan, and Felix, in the United States navy, and Mrs. Florence Sanchez, of LaCrosse, Wis.

Pet Show Entry Deadline Tonight

The Department of Parks and Recreation announced last night that the deadline for entries in the second annual pet show to be held at the junior high playground has been extended until five o'clock tonight. Many boys and girls went to the playgrounds yesterday to register their pets but all WPA playground directors were attending the weekly In Service Training meeting and were unable to get back to their grounds before late in the afternoon. These boys and girls will have a chance today to register.

The pet show is sponsored each year by the Escanaba Lions who provide first, second and third place ribbons in each of the events. Any boy or girl 15 years and under is eligible to enter their pet by contacting the nearest playground director. Clifford Anderson is director of the show.

"Rented the first day" said Smith. Try a For Rent Ad today.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Young girls are the biggest snobs in the world. Mother and Dad ought to remember that this summer when Daughter is home from school, and tries to remake both them and the house.

To begin with, she'll want her mother to be a lady. Virtue — and no accomplishments — will not be accepted by a young girl in place of a mother's looking like a lady of leisure. She doesn't want her too modern either. The idea of a mother and daughter being "sisters" may appeal to Mother, but not to daughter.

Of course, she'll want the family to use perfect English. A "he don't", even if it is spoken in the sacredness of the family circle, will make her blush with shame. Blame her English teacher — not her — for that.

Then, too, she will probably think that the living room looks terrible. To her it is one thing, a backdrop for herself when she has dates. And if it isn't the best backdrop possible, she'll push furniture around all summer.

"TERRIBLE" BROTHERS

If she has any brothers, she is sure to think their manners are "terrible". She won't even admit they are in the same world with the boys who take her to dances, and keep her primping

Oh, she'll be tough to live with for three months. But mother and father have one consolation — school starts again in September.

COUNCIL HAS LONG MEETING

Proposed New Contract On Power Discussed; Manager Upheld

In the third meeting in a week, the city council last night debated until almost midnight on personnel problems and the proposed new power contract.

A lengthy discussion was held on the proposal submitted recently by the Upper Peninsula Light and Power company for a new contract. The present contract does not conclude until 1941 but both the power company and the city have indicated a willingness to sign a new contract, provided that terms are agreeable to both.

The council expressed approval of the type of rate presented by the power company in its communication but instructed the city manager to ask the company for some revision in the higher consumption bracket of the rate for promotional purposes in order to enable the city to build an additional load.

Under the terms of the proposal submitted by the power company, power would be supplied at .0124 cents per kilowatt hour. The present rate is .0141 per kilowatt hour, the difference meaning a reduction of approximately $9,500 per year at the present rate of consumption. The new rate proposed at the present time, the council was informed, compares with that of .0123 under which the power company and city operated in 1924 just before the present rate was put into effect.

Personnel Discussed
The first three hours of the meeting last night were devoted to a discussion of personnel problems, principally involving the case of Roy Swaby, city employee who protested his removal from a temporary position in the service department after he had failed to pass a civil service examination.

The council heard the story of Swaby, the story of City Manager George Bean and of members of the grievance committee of the city employees union after which Councilman Carl Richter offered a motion to restore Swaby to the service department job. He was supported by Councilman Charles Gallagher. In offering the motion for consideration of the full council, Mayor Peter Logan questioned the legality of it, pointing out that in his opinion, it was a violation of the city ordinance which makes the city manager director of personnel of the city administration.

He was backed in his contention by Councilmen Harold Gasman and Carl B. Johnson that the principle involved was a dangerous proposition in which to meddle. Mayor Logan asked Richter to withdraw his motion but he refused to do so and it was put to a vote. Richter and Gallagher approving and Logan, Johnson and Gasman dissenting.

No action was taken on a resolution submitted by Gallagher on a proposed "working agreement" between the employees union and the city. The resolution will be redrawn and resubmitted at a later meeting of the council.

A recorded instance of osprey thievery ended very disastrously. A farmer, working in the fields, hung his coat on a fence, and some time later saw it dangling from the talons of the osprey. His watch and chain were in the pocket.

Minneapolis Man On Visit To Escanaba Describes Pioneer Days Of Railroads

A colorful story of the romantic period of railroading in the upper peninsula in the 1870's and 1880's was described to an interested Press reporter yesterday afternoon by Jerry Bennane, retired railroad veteran of Minneapolis, who is visiting friends here.

Although 82 years old, Mr. Bennane possesses the physical attributes of a man at least 20 years younger, and he displayed a remarkable memory as he recalled some of the interesting incidents in his life.

Lived At "Iron Kiln"
Bennane was born in New York and came to the upper peninsula at the age of 5. His father, an iron worker, moved his family to the "Iron Kiln" section, which is now the village of Palmer, and they resided there from 1863 to 1871. The railroad veteran recalls attending school in Negaunee during this period, a fact which stands out in his memory, because of the five miles which he walked to school each day.

It was during this time that the mines were being developed in the Negaunee area, and the city was composed largely of French, German and Irish settlers. As operations were speeded up Cornish miners were brought in and there was considerable trouble between the Cornish and Irish workers.

Landed At Sandy Point
The Bennane family left the "Iron Kiln" district in 1871, moving to DePere, when a new furnace was opened there. It was in 1873, when he was only 14 years old, that the aged railroader made his first trip to Escanaba, making the journey from DePere on an ore boat. The Escanaba business district was then in its infancy and the boat landed at what was known as "Old Sandy Point." Mr. Bennane recalled that the boat was met by Indians who had fish and blueberries to sell.

During this period a large amount of track was laid and railroad men were in demand. Bennane obtained employment as the yardmaster at Norway, a position which he held up until he retired. He was influenced in accepting this position by the fact that the seniority rule was then in effect among railroad employees, and he felt that it offered more chance for advancement.

"I had a number of opportunities to get a job as a fireman or brakeman," he said, "but I thought that it would be a long time before I would be able to get one of the good runs out of Escanaba."

First Coal Burner
"However, I did make the run up to Cascade in 1879 as an observer on the first coal burner to make the trip in order to learn how to fire a coal engine. At this time the old wood burning locomotives were being replaced by coal burners and it was hard to find men who had experience in firing the new type of locomotive."

U. P. Briefs

Grand Rapids—Shifting to a new policy, the city commission Thursday afternoon denied the petition of Old Kent post, No. 830, VFW, for permission to conduct a carnival July 19 to 24. The vote was 3 to 2 and Commissioner John McNabb was absent.

Commissioner Harry C. Leonard contended carnivals were expensive to the city in police protection and "do nobody any good."

Commissioner Perry W. Greene argued two carnival permits to veterans posts already had been granted this year and that to deny the present request would be discriminatory. He suggested a change of policy wait until next season.

Mayor George W. Welsh and Commissioner Joseph A. Kozak voted with Greene and Commissioners James C. Quinlan and Edward A. Borgman with Leonard.

Firecrackers Illegal

Sault Ste. Marie—Police and fire authorities today warned bootleggers or would-be bootleggers of fireworks in the Sault, following the arrest Sunday of two

Sault youths for shooting firecrackers on the streets.
The boys, Hudson Elliott, 17, of 432 Cedar street, and Victor Panks, 18, of US-2, were to appear in justice court today.

"The state law forbids the sale of fireworks. Some have been smuggled into the Sault. Anyone caught selling fireworks is subject to $100 fine or 30 days in jail, and we will recommend a strong sentence," said Fire Chief Frank F. Trombley today.

Chief of Police Matt H. Mitchell was equally emphatic. He said he would suggest heavy fines for any caught selling fireworks.

HONEYMOONERS ON ROAD

Menominee—Tourist travel increase in the past week-end and in prospect are further increases as the vacation season advances. H. E. Bruemmer, manager of the state tourist lodge here, reported today.

Notable this week-end was the number of honeymooning couples, Bruemmer said. On Saturday there were 44 cars and 127 persons, and on Sunday 48 cars and 142 persons registered at the lodge.

For last week a total of 239 cars and 715 persons were registered. This week the tourist registration is expected to go over

SHOWMEN ARRESTED

Menominee—Richard and Gordon Miller, operators of a concession at the carnival now in Menominee, were to be arraigned today in Municipal Judge V. A. Lundgren's court on a drunk charge.

The men were arrested at 2:45 a. m. today on complaint of a woman occupant of a Sheridan road apartment, who said the men were trying to enter her rooms. The men told police they were looking for rooms to which they had been directed.

Here's The Difference

Railroads operate on their own roadways, built and maintained entirely by the railroads.

Out of every dollar the railroads take in, taxes take 9 cents, and their rights-of-way take 23 1/2 cents—a total of 32 1/2 cents for roadways and taxes.

Highway motor carriers operate on public highways, built and maintained by taxpayers.

Out of every dollar taken in by the certificated motor carriers, 7 1/2 cents (I. C. C.) goes for taxes of all sorts—and this represents all they pay for roadways and taxes.

Barge lines which operate on our inland waterways—the canalized rivers of the country—operate on "roadways" built and maintained by taxpayers.

Out of every dollar taken in by these inland waterway freight carriers slightly under 2 cents goes for taxes of all sorts—and this, too, represents all they pay for "roadway" and taxes.

Thoughtful people now believe that forms of transport which operate on and by means of facilities provided by the taxpayers shall pay for the use of such facilities and shall be on an equal basis as regards taxes—real taxes to be expended for the general support of government.

Laws now before Congress aim to remedy the present inequitable situation in the American transportation industry.

In substance, they call merely for a square deal for the railroads.

And a square deal for the railroads means a square deal for the taxpayers, too.

SERIAL STORY BRIDE ON A BUDGET BY JANET DORAN

Yesterday, Bart and Iris quarrelled, but Iris has been dinner just the same. She tells Bart she has no money, he discovers she is in debt. Yr Iris buys a new mink coat to "feel wanted."

CHAPTER XI
Though it was Monday, and she had recklessly splurged $12 on a dinner party for her friends Saturday night, and Bart had worked at the shop all day Sunday, and Sunday night until long after she slept, Iris left the office with a clear plan in her busy mind. She had taken the mink coat at noon, and hidden it deep in one end of her clothes closet back of her last winter's coat, her raincoat, her summer sport coat, and the long, furred tweed coat to her wardrobe suit.

Now, at four-thirty, she bought a steak, bought everything for a grand feed. The way she used to here they were married. When she was trying every wife she knew to entice Bart and make him propose to her.

Now, she haggled over water-cress—it wasn't fresh enough, it was bruised, it didn't look good. She bought four big baking potatoes, and a dozen home baked rolls. At Mrs. Kember's Home Kitchen, she bought peaches and heavy cream for whipping, and a pound of butter, and lima beans because Bart was crazy about them, stewed in a rich butter sauce.

She squandered 50 cents on Ben Whipple's taxi to take her home with all her parcels, and hurrying out of her office clothes, tied a cute printed house-coat about her slender waist and started the meal.

At six, everything was ready and waiting, even to the iron skillet smoking hot, ready for the steak the minute Bart appeared. The salad was on the ice, and the shortcake, also. And in the glass coffee-maker, amber brown brew murmured contentedly.

At six-fifteen, Bart came in, tired, dispirited, and silent. Iris flung him a radiant smile and started the steak. She took the potatoes out and popped cubes of butter into each yawning seam, where the scored place had burst a few minutes before. The lima beans oozed yellow butter as she poured them into the dish, and the hot rolls were just right—crisp, and not dry.

Still he didn't notice. Still he just came in, pulled his chair out and sat down and began scooping his potato out onto his plate. Iris passed him the platter of steak and he helped himself to it. By the time they reached the shortcake, Iris was ready to scream. She watched him cut the cake, plate, laden with cream topped peaches and cake, to his mouth, and back again, to his mouth, and she pushed away her untouched dessert. Desperately, she faced him across the little table laden with the remnants of their lovely dinner.

"Bart, what is it?" she asked shakily. Dully, he looked at her. Wearily, as if trying to brush away a burden he could not bear, he plowed tense fingers through the thick wavy brown hair. Then lighting a cigaret, he started spitting the match a dozen ways with nervous thumblin'.

"What's it to you, Iris?" he asked bluntly. "Bart, you know anything that concerns you, concerns me, too!" "Don't worry, I'll manage to support you in the manner you're determined to enjoy, Iris."

If she had to use any of her salary to run the house, or pay expenses with, she'd be in a bad jam all right. With all the other payments she had to make on the clothes she had been buying right along. Paying on old accounts, buying more, creating further budget appropriations.

That night, Iris woke up toward morning, and a cold fall rain was blowing in. She got up and closed the window, and turned, arrested, when Bart began muttering in his sleep.

"I tell you it's impossible—I'm sorry, I can't help it. I can't do it, I tell you, I can't—don't you understand? My wife's salary has nothing to do with this, this is my affair. Seventy-five a week together and we owe everybody. All right, so what? Do you want all my creditors to be cheated of their money?"

Shivering, she lay still listening, but there was no more. Though he tossed and turned a lot and groaned, Shivering, she wondered if she oughtn't take the mink coat back after all. Before it was ever worn. But it was so cold in the morning, a sharp wind, and the driving rain, and remembering her heavy coat was worn, she put the anxiety out of her mind. Bart was always borrowing trouble. This was probably just another false alarm because he hadn't made $50 clear profit this week, or something like that.

They breakfasted hastily, and Bart hurried away as soon as he was finished. At noon, when she telephoned, Iris was informed he was out. And Ellen was lurching with her husband, and neither offered to invite her to join them. So she ate a solitary lunch at the soda bar around the corner. And finishing, heard the news about her husband losing his radio and washing machine agency.

"Sure, didn't you know? Truck's over there now, taking the stuff. I heard he couldn't make a lot of dead-beats pay their weekly installments, so the company took them over. But this will be a bad dent to the shop all right. Hurts a business when anything like that hits them."

Iris didn't answer. She walked out and went back to the office. That Professor Kitteridge's little bungalow where the young men and girls of the senior and junior classes gathered to discuss serious things, nightly from 4:30 to 10. Past the Gamma sorority where girls often dashed out in mid-winter to set a pan of chocolate peanut butter fudge to cool in the snow; where gay lighted music blared forth during post-weekends. Where smart roadsters swooped up to tootle musical horns for the fortunate few who were dated.

It was raining, still, and a sophomore took off his raincoat to hood a junior's freshly waved colfleur, and across from Chem Lab to Lib Arts, trouped couples, arm in arm, or fingers laced, totting armfuls of books, talking earnestly, laughing. College kids. Iris felt almost old, hurrying past them. Nodding to one or two she knew. Knowing they thought of her as "Mrs. Whitaker, of the dean's office." Because she'd been there so long. Longer than any of the present crop had been in college. Two college terms longer. Eight years.

It was funny, too. All through each one of those eight years, she had had almost the identical same worries. Worries over some dress she wanted and thought she couldn't have. Worries after she got it, for fear she wouldn't be able to make the payments and might lose it. Worries over suits, coats, gowns, wraps. But always the same. Always budget worries.

All her married life, too. Worrying over the powder blue suit the very night Bart asked her to marry him. Then silencing her worries because of what she could do, once she had it.

Laurila, Newberry Youth, Makes Good With Mansfield Team In Ohio League

Newberry, Mich., June 20—A tall, personable Newberry youth, George Laurila by name, is winning over the hearts of a great many Ohio baseball fans, with an assortment of fancy elbow bending as he is getting himself off to a brilliant start in his debut in organized baseball.

GEORGE LAURILA

The former Northern Michigan league strikeout king, who pitched the Newberry Indians to the league championship last season, has won the praise of critics at Mansfield, where he has won three and lost one.

YANKEES WHIP WHITE SOX, 13-3

Bronx Bombers Tee Off On Three Pitchers for 19 Hits

New York, June 20 (AP)—The New York Yankees' dominance over the Chicago White Sox was maintained today on a 19-hit blast that carried the champions to a 13-3 victory.

Today the Bronx Bombers teed off on three Chicago pitchers, Johnny Knott, Vic Frasier and Ed Smith and made their most vicious bid in the seventh inning when they bagged eight hits after two were out to score seven runs.

Monte Pearson, after a shaky start, collected his sixth victory of the season, limiting the Sox to 10 hits which he kept scattered, with the exception of the first and seventh innings.

George very nearly edged himself into the hall of fame at Cleveland last year. He issued only one hit. He had two shutouts in his string and so stingy was he with his hits that in three of his games he gave up only four safe outs. He won ten and lost only two that season.

In his professional debut, George has been troubled with more wildness but that may be traced to anxiety and tightness. Stover, however, believes George will get over much of his tightness on the mound as he gets settled.

Happy Lou Gehrig Back From Mayos

New York, June 20 (AP)—Grinning happily, Lou Gehrig of the Yankees came back from a trip through the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., tonight—but he was silent as the sphinx about his physical condition.

He carried with him a complete report on his condition from physicians there who examined him thoroughly. He said he would hand it over to "the boss"—Ed Barrow, president of the Yankees—tomorrow and let Barrow make an announcement about the future if he cared to do so.

"Whatever announcement is made will have to be made by him," Gehrig said. "I have absolutely nothing to say."

It is expected that Barrow will have something to say tomorrow after he studies the report. Gehrig's dramatic ending of his consecutive game playing streak and his subsequent trip to the clinic has kept baseball tongues wagging.

The big first baseman was met at the airport by his wife and a handful of reporters and photographers. He seemed in the best of spirits.

TOMMY BRIDGES MAKES SHUTOUT

Floodlight Tilt First of Season for Detroiters

Philadelphia, June 20 (AP)—Night baseball introduced itself to the Detroit Tigers tonight, and the Bengals took to it so well that they slugged the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 0, with Tommy Bridges hurling his ninth victory in ten games.

Making extraordinary use of nine hits, the Tigers notched their eleventh triumph in their last 13 engagements and jumped into the first division of the American League. Fourth place was the reward, a half game ahead of the Chicago White Sox and a half behind Cleveland.

While Bridges was doing an elegant job under the floodlights, the Tigers used seven of their hits in the run-making with a triple, three doubles and a home run predominating. Earl Averill clouted the four-baser in the fifth inning with one on.

The A's couldn't touch Bridges, except for the ninth, and were dangerous in only two frames. He allowed six hits and struck out five while walking two men. George Caster and Chubby Dean worked for Philadelphia.

Tebbetts Crashes Wall One untoward incident was an injury to Catcher Birdie Tebbetts, but that was blamed on his own zeal for chasing foul flies.

Rudy York came in to pinch-hit for Birdie in the third and started the first Detroit rally by singling to left with none out. Bridges sacrificed him to second, and Barney McCook slashed a triple to center to score him.

Averill, hitting star of the game, doubled to right to count Barney. Charles Gehring popped out, and Hank Greenberg went out on a 400-foot fly.

In the fifth, Bridges opened another attack with a single to right after one out. Averill clubbed the ball over the right field fence for the two runs.

Beats Out Tap The A's got troublesome in their half on a walk and Bridges' wild throw to first when Nelson, batting for Caster, beat out a tap to the box. Tipton, who had walked, reached third on the error, but Tommy bore down on force Gantenbein to fly out in short left and Ambler to ground out.

With Dean on the mound, Pete Fox doubled to left after one out in the sixth. Frank Croucher struck out, but York doubled to center to score Fox.

Brucker opened the Philadelphia ninth with a double to left and after Chapman flied out Tipton sent the A's catcher to third with a single. Here Lodigiani fanned, and Dean flied out.

Before the game the Tigers expressed themselves favorably on night play.

VOSMIK SPOILS ROOKIE'S START

Auker Goes Distance and Is Credited With 8-1 Slap At Browns

Boston, June 20 (AP)—Joe Vosmik ruined rookie righthander Harry Kimberlin's first start as a major leaguer today by giving a major performance at the plate as the Boston Red Sox defeated St. Louis 8-1. Vosmik got four for four, including two consecutive triples, scored two runs and drove in three more.

The Sockers pounded Kimberlin for seven hits and six runs before chasing him in the fourth inning and hit Roxie Lawson for two more tallies in the seventh. Hole-in-One Easy, Says Pro, Keeps Going All Night

Michigan City, Ind., June 20 (AP)—Darkness settled over the Beverly Shores country club golf course tonight but, standing on the tenth tee, Harry Gonder, pro at the course, still fired away at the green determined to prove that "anyone can make a hole-in-one."

At 8 p. m. (Central Standard Time) Gonder had taken 1,350 shots at the cup since his start at 9 o'clock this morning. On his 995th shot Gonder brought gasps from the crowd of 200 when the ball hit the pin and bounced three inches away from the cup. Encouraged by that effort, Gonder announced he would keep shooting all night if necessary and lights were installed so

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

Table with columns for Stock Market Averages, including Net change, High, Low, and Volume for various indices like Dow Jones and S&P 500.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, June 20 (AP)—The stock market remained on the recovery track today and, with a little more steam, posted gains running to a point or more for leaders.

The list was up from the start and held on to most of its improvement at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .4 of a point at 47.6, duplicating the Monday rally. Transfers expanded to 434,930 shares from 344,820 the day before.

Wall Street seemed to find bullish fuel in the quick and almost unanimous passage by the house of the tax revision bill and prospects which measure would slide through the senate before the end of the week.

Business news, on the whole, was to the liking of the analysts and the belief was expressed by some that the normal summer lull would be less than seasonal.

The British-Japanese Far Eastern controversy, while apparently viewed as still serious, was without particular market disturbance, brokers said.

European markets did better all around. This week's rebound in steel mill operations and sustained motor sales bolstered shares in these groups.

Last month's favorable carrier revenues brought support for the rails.

United Aircraft jumped 1-1/8 to 37 on reports of an additional French order for engines and propellers amounting to $5,400,000.

American Airlines ran up 1/4 to 3 1/4 at the finish when the Air Transport Association of America announced passenger air travel in May was the largest for any previous month for which records have been kept.

Utilities were given a related push on estimates profits for the power corporations this year would top 1938 by 8 percent.

Metals were narrow as bar silver at London dropped to a new 1939 low on fears the purchase of foreign silver by the United States might be curtailed.

Selective strength was exhibited in the bond department, with rails favored. Commodities were mixed. Wheat at Chicago was up 1-1/8 to 1 1/2 of a cent a bushel and corn was unchanged to off 3-8. Cotton was unchanged to down 20 cents a bale.

Lifted fractionally in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Wright Hargreaves, Lockheed, International Petroleum and Lake Shore. Minnesota Mining got up 2 1/4 on light sales. Turnover of 91,000 shares compared with 80,000 Monday.
