ISLANDS HELP IN FRIENDSHIP OF 2 NATIONS

BRITISH - AMERICAN SP LICING TO BE CONTINUED

BY ANDRUE BERDING Washington, June 26 (AP)—Having found two matched pearls of Anglo-American friendship—the Pacific Islands of Canton and Enderbury—the administration is assembling a dozen or so more in the hope of stringing them on a strand of British-American splicing.

After reaching an agreement with Great Britain for the joint operation of Canton and Enderbury—South Pacific Islands claimed by both powers—the state department is compiling data and maps on a number of others in the same ocean. American whalers, travelers, naval men and explorers were among the first visitors to the islands.

Compromise Expected The British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, requested that the state department do this as a preliminary step to negotiations between the two countries on the question of sovereignty. The negotiations may reach the same conclusion as those involving Canton and Enderbury—postponement of a decision on sovereignty for 50 years and meantime joint management. But it is also likely, in view of the number of islands involved, that some will be adjudged American, some British, and the really doubtful ones will come within the compromise of joint control.

President Roosevelt took Canton and Enderbury as a sample of Anglo-American friendship and an example for the world when he toasted the king of Great Britain at the White House. He said: "If this illustration of the use of methods of peace, divorced from aggression, could only be universally followed, relations between all countries would rest upon a sure foundation, and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy, a prosperous and a peaceful world."

Dots On Ocean With this example before them, the state department would now like to see the question of the other small islands in the Pacific settled. Unnoticed for generations, the dots in the western ocean have increased enormously in importance in recent years because of their possible use as civil airplane bases on the route from California to Australia and New Zealand.

Dr. S. Whitmore Boggs, geographer of the state department, is preparing most of the data for submission to the British. At this moment it is not possible to say how many islands will be included in the list. The problem is complicated by the fact that in some cases an "island" which

Parolee Admits Killing Hall, Detroit Oil Man

Lansing, Mich., June 26. (AP)—Investigators of the mysterious hitch-hiker's killing of George G. Hall, Detroit oil promoter, slain by a bullet while riding in his automobile last Thursday, announced tonight a 32-year-old paroled convict had confessed the shooting.

State Police Captain Ira A. Marmon, co-director of the inquiry into the fantastic story, said that Daniel M. Kent, scar-faced former Michigan state prison inmate, admitted shooting the 50-year-old

WITNESS FAINTS East Lansing, Mich., June 26 (AP)—When Lieut. Harold Mulbar, of state police, announced to newspapermen that Daniel M. Kent was being sought as a suspect in the slaying of George G. Hall he called his information a "100 per cent tip"—and the reporters found out why.

Mulbar disclosed that Miss Doty, the only witness to the slaying, was studying pictures of paroled convicts when she was handed a photograph of Kent.

"That's the man," she screamed. Then Miss Doty fainted. business man—less than four months after being granted a parole.

Slain For Money Officers seized Kent in Grand Rapids, Mich., today and the confession, Captain Marmon said, followed a few hours after Hall's companion on his fatal ride, blonde Ruby Doty, 32, had sobbed out her tale of the killing at a coroner's inquest.

The hitch-hiker, whom Hall took into his car near Grand Rapids, shot him through the left lung, after his benefactor had died and he had disposed of the body in a roadside ditch, the killer made it to Miss Doty, she said, and released her hours later on promise of a date.

Chief of Detectives Albert Scheters of Grand Rapids said Kent asserted "I killed him to get his money."

The robber-kidder got $10 from Hall's body, adding to his meager plunder the dead man's watch and ring.

Boy Chicken Thief "I never saw Hall or the woman who was with him before," Scheira said the ex-convict told him.

Kent's record dates back to boyhood days when he stole chickens and was generally delinquent. Sentenced to prison in 1934 for automobile theft, he escaped in a guard's car in 1935 while serving the two and a half to five-year term but was captured in Chicago and returned.

Given an additional one and a half to four years for the escape, Kent was paroled last March 7. Capt. Laurence Lyon, of state police, disclosed that he had found a perfect finger print of the middle finger of the left hand on a door handle of the car in which

PUBLIC SERVICE STAFF REDUCED

State Commission Acts to Save State About $45,000 Annually

Lansing, June 26 (AP)—The public service commission completed an economy program today that was demanded by the late Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald attributed legislation abolishing the old utilities commission, which was replaced by the public service commission, to the refusal of Paul H. Todd, former chairman, to order payroll economies.

The new commission compiled with the late governor's mandate today, dismissing eight of its 32 inspectors and six other employees. Those who were dismissed included a director of interstate reciprocity contracts.

Commissioner Gilbert T. Shilson said the action reduced the department's staff to 88 men and women. With previous actions of a similar nature since the new commission took office, he said, it will mean an annual saving to the state of $45,000.

Wardens Voted Out Of Merit System

Lansing, June 26. (AP)—The state corrections commission voted today, 3 to 2, to request the civil service commission to remove from the merit system approximately 140 employees including prison wardens, deputies and administrative staff officers.

The prison wardens at the state prison of southern Michigan, the Marquette branch, and Ionia reformatory, and their deputies and secretaries, as well as chaplains, doctors, stewards, psychiatrists, educational directors, farm superintendents, mail superintendents, and probation and parole officers.

A request from the parole commission for an investigation of Attorney General Murphy's statements regarding politics and paroles was tabled with the explanation that the state attorney general has power to start an inquiry if he desires.

JAPAN TIRES OF DEADLOCK WITH BRITAIN

CHINESE POLICEMEN ARE THREATENED WITH DEATH

Tientsin, June 27 (Tuesday) (AP)—Milkmen mysteriously resumed part of their rounds in the blockaded British and French concessions today amid increasing reports that negotiations were under way with Japan to lift the military blockade.

How the milk entered the concessions was not revealed, but the shortage eased, particularly in hospitals where patients have had no milk in recent days.

The food situation was decidedly lean, however, with vegetables, meats and fish scarce as Japanese patrols kept all but a few provisions from passing barriers into the concessions.

Puppet to Negotiate One principal beneficiary of the new milk supply was a Japanese customs official who is ill in the British isolation hospital. He was admitted before the blockade was clamped down June 14.

According to the reports, which could not be confirmed, Wang Keh-Min, head of the Japanese-fostered government at Peiping, has arrived here to attempt to negotiate a settlement through Wen Shih-Tseng, the Chinese mayor of the Japanese-controlled portion of Tientsin.

They asserted the Japanese, growing tired of the two-week-old deadlock, were seeking a way out of the crisis and turned to their Peiping puppet regime to save face for the local Japanese army authorities.

May Lift Blockade (Reports circulated in London Monday that Britain and Japan had agreed to open negotiations in Tokyo within 48 hours, but the foreign office would neither confirm nor deny them. These reports said the Japanese had agreed to lift the Tientsin blockade soon after the beginning of negotiations.)

The British-Japanese quarrel, which began with a Japanese demand that the British turn over to them four alleged terrorists who were in the British concession, since has widened into a test of Britain's entire Far Eastern policy. When the British declined to turn over the accused men without a hearing by a neutral board, the Japanese imposed their further demands upon the British.

In contrast to the rumors of attempts at a settlement, local Japanese military authorities were preparing for an even more strict blockade.

Food Truck Stopped This report, also unconfirmed, said that a stricter measure would be enforced next Friday if the British had not by then complied with a demand presented by Mayor Wen last Saturday for "close cooperation," of foreigners with the Chinese section of Tientsin, over which the Japanese military authorities have taken sharp exception to action of the Japanese soldiery late Monday afternoon in holding up a British military truck seeking to enter the concession with foodstuffs from Chinese areas for the British garrison in the concession.

The Japanese held the British vehicle for one hour while officers of the two forces argued. The Japanese insisted the British were "not sufficiently identified," while the British recalled the Japanese military declaration when the

Ore Boat Aground In Lake Superior

Duluth, Minn., June 26 (AP)—Bound for two harbors to take on a cargo of iron ore, the Pittsburgh Steamship Co. freighter R. R. Richardson went ashore on the rocks off Fisherman's Point, a mile east of Two Harbors during a fog on Lake Superior today.

Herman Johnson, captain of the Edna G., early tonight went to the aid of the Richardson but the tug was unable to budge the huge ore carrier.

Captain Johnson said a second attempt to float the stranded freighter will be made tomorrow with the aid of one or more tugs from Duluth.

The crew of the Richardson is in no danger if the sea continues to remain calm. The ship is 414 feet long, 50 feet wide and has a depth of 28 feet, with a capacity of 6,100 long tons of ore at a draft of 19 feet.

DR. GUDAKUNST RAPS POLITICS

Retiring Health Chief Says Change In Law Is Needed

Lansing, June 26 (AP)—Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, who will step down from the office of state health commissioner July 1, to be succeeded by Governor Dickinson's personal physician, Dr. H. A. Moyer of Charlotte, issued a public plea tonight for the removal of the post from politics.

"The appointment by the governor of a new state health commission has brought out one most important point that is a fundamental fault in the present method of appointing the Michigan health commissioner," Dr. Gudakunst said.

"There is urgent need for a change in the law in respect to this important appointment. The health of the public can be safeguarded in proportion to the skill, ability and training of the director of the state health program."

Dr. Gudakunst endorsed the recommendation of the American Public Health association, in a recent survey of Michigan public health work, that the state council of health be made responsible for the appointment, subject to the governor's approval and with regard to qualifications established by the association. The association recommended a five-year term, with removal only for cause.

The retiring commissioner also urged representation on the council for dentists and laymen. Only members of the medical profession are on the board named by Dickinson.

Dr. Gudakunst received his commission from former Governor Frank Murphy. Murphy, a Democrat, dismissed Dr. C. C. Slemmons from the post and appointed Dr. Gudakunst.

BROTHER OF HUEY TAKES OVER JOB AS GOVERNOR

Baton Rouge, La., June 26 (AP)—Earl K. Long was sworn in as governor of Louisiana at 7:15 p. m. tonight after Governor Richard W. Leche stepped down as a climax to a day of swiftly moving developments obscured by mystery, scandal and embezzlement charges.

Leche, as chief executive, accepted his own resignation by proclamation effective at 7 p. m. and Long was sworn in immediately in hastily arranged ceremonies at the governor's mansion.

Dynasty Tottering Long, who served as lieutenant governor under Leche, took over the chief executive's post in an atmosphere of confusion and uncertainty which shook the old strongly entrenched political dynasty of his brother, Huey P. Long, to its very foundations.

The atmosphere was by no means cleared with the political changeover which occurred only a few minutes after formal charges of embezzlement of $100,000 of funds of Louisiana State university were filed in district court here against President James Monroe Smith, who vanished soon after he resigned his post late yesterday, and is still missing.

State police late today advised Leche they were without clues to the whereabouts of Dr. Smith, who was last seen at dusk last night just before Leche announced "financial irregularities" had been discovered in university affairs.

The swiftness with which changes were being made was illustrated by Long's unheralded inauguration after Leche said late last night he had called off his announced resignation and would hold the reins pending the university affairs investigation.

Then, shortly before 7 o'clock political leaders gathered at the executive mansion. Within a few minutes, the Kingfish's brother was at the helm.

Late today the university board of supervisors met with Leche to go over auditors' reports which informed persons said showed unauthorized issue of university bonds that might total up to $750,000.

The mystery of Smith's disappearance, apparently with his wife and another couple, was heightened by the cryptic remark of one official here today that despite the asserted "irregularities" the university "might not lose a single cent."

Smith handled the expenditure of more than $13,500,000 in building up the university from (Continued on Page Two)

RAIN HANDICAPS HAYWARD POSSE

Hayward, Wis., June 26. (AP)—A cordon of heavily-armed possemen kept a vigil in the rain today around a swampy area where Ray Olson, fugitive slayer of two deputy sheriffs, apparently had taken refuge.

Sheriff George Seehueter delayed plans to close in on the north woods killer as the steady downpour made footing so uncertain that the swamp was virtually impenetrable.

The rain halted further tracking by bloodhounds, which were returned to LaCrosse by their owner, George Brooks, mild-mannered soda fountain attendant.

Finding a newly killed and dressed deer in the woods not far from Olson's cabin led the sheriff to believe Olson shot the animal and ate the meat raw, since no fire was seen.

Olson, an ex-convict, has been the object of a manhunt by more than 200 woodsmen since he shot and killed Deputies Carl Johnson and Fred Scott as they sought to arrest him June 17 on a theft charge.

Stepfather Is Held For Drowning Boy, 7

Lufkin, Tex., June 26 (AP)—Sheriff H. C. Billingsley filed a murder charge today against W. Hayden Perkins whose stepson, Phillip D. Linderman, 7, drowned in a spring at Perkins' farm home near here.

Sheriff Billingsley said Perkins made a signed statement.

Ranger Captain Hardy Purvis asserted he would seek a court order to exhume the body of William L. Linderman, 2-year-old brother of Phillip, who died May 25 after a short illness.

Purvis said his investigation showed an insurance policy of $420 had been taken out on Phillip in May, and that one for $225 was paid on the death of the younger brother.

SILVER STATE SENATORS WIN REAL VICTORY

REPUBLICANS HELP TO CURB POWERS OF PRESIDENT

BY RICHARD L. TURNER Washington, June 26 (AP)—Hard-money Republicans from the east and silverites and currency expansionists from the west merged into a strange separate alliance today to riddle the administration's monetary bill with amendments highly unpopular at the White House and treasury.

When the confusion of a hectic day's session had subsided and Senator Barkley (D-Ky) the Democratic leader, had wiped the last drop of perspiration from his brow after three merciless defeats, this unusual coalition had: Stripped the monetary bill of all authorization for a further devaluation of the dollar by President Roosevelt.

No Foreign Buying Added an amendment to require that the treasury pay 77.57 cents an ounce for the product of the western silver mines, giving the silver bloc a stunning victory in its fight for an increase over the present rate of 64.64 cents.

Written in a provision forbidding any continuation of the administration's policy of buying foreign silver.

About all that remained of the original bill was its authority for the treasury to continue for two years the life of the $2,000,000,000 international exchange stabilization fund.

In this drastically altered form the bill was passed on a voice vote late in the day.

Silverites Delighted It was not a "deal" that brought all this about, both easterners and westerners explained. It was, they said, just "a loose understanding," of which no one was entirely certain until the votes were taken.

The silver-state senators were, of course, delighted. For a week they had been filibustering. Their aim was to force the treasury to increase the silver figure.

With today's developments, the filibuster halted—but possibly only temporarily. As passed by the house, the monetary bill contained no provision for the silver price, and no prohibition upon a continuation of the foreign silver purchasing program. It did authorize continuance of the devaluation powers.

Consequently, agents of the house and senate must now try to strike a compromise on the changes made by the senate. Realizing that the silver price amendment could be thrown out in that process, the silverites spoke words of ominous warning.

New Filibuster Promised "They won't bring the bill back without the silver price in it, or they will be here from now on," said Senator McCarran (D-Nev.). "We haven't carried this fight on and won't have it legislated out in conference."

Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), another silver leader, was even more specific. If the conferees threw out the silver price, he said, a "serious filibuster" would ensue which could last "two months."

(Unless the bill, in whatever form, is passed by Friday midnight, the stabilization fund will die, with possible serious consequences to international markets.)

In the voting test, the entire Republican membership, with two

(By The Associated Press) The senate passed monetary legislation already approved by the house, but eliminated the president's authority to devalue the dollar further, fixed 77.57 cents an ounce as the price for newly mined domestic silver and ended treasury purchases of foreign silver.

A senate appropriations subcommittee approved the $1,735,000,000 relief bill passed by the house, but deleted provisions earmarking $135,000,000 for works progress projects and substituting a three-man board for the present single administrator.

A joint senate-house conference on TVA legislation failed to adjust differences in bills passed by the chambers, and Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.) said there was "no possibility of agreement."

The senate judiciary committee approved, 10 to 6, a proposed constitutional amendment to give congress power to levy taxes for old age pensions.

President Roosevelt renominated Paul A. Walker of Oklahoma for a seven-year term as federal communications commissioner.

NOTED AUTHOR DIES IN FRANCE

Ford Maddox Ford Was Outstanding Figure In Literature

Deauville, June 26 (AP)—Ford Maddox Ford, an outstanding figure of British, French and American literature since the turn of the century, died today. He was 66.

Novelist, dramatist, poet, and critic, Ford was one of the most prolific authors of his generation with more than 60 full length works and 1,000 newspaper and magazine articles to his credit.

The British-born writer arrived in France from the United States three weeks ago and went to his home at Honfleur, on the coast of northern France.

He had been in ill health for several years. Yesterday he was stricken with a severe heart attack and was taken to a Deauville clinic where he died.

His widow said he probably would be buried at Deauville Wednesday.

Ford was born of English-German parents but during the World War he became such an enemy of Germany that he changed his name from Ford Maddox Hueffer because he did not like the German sound.

His father was Dr. Francis Hueffer, a music critic, and his mother was the daughter of a painter, Ford Maddox Brown.

He was admittedly a propagandist for France and much of his work was devoted to interpreting the French people to British and American readers.

Ford, in turn, was admired by the French almost as much for his qualities as a gourmet as for his writing.

He wrote many essays on food and took great pride in his ability to prepare difficult dishes.

enrollment of less than 2,000 to more than 8,000 since he was put in as president by Huey Long in 1930.

Highways Watched
Police throughout the state watched highways and trains for Smith. The man who by his own statement made it his creed to "get along with the politicians" apparently began to slip in administration grace last week when he said university sale of material for private purposes was not its policy and would be stopped.

This statement was in disagreement with a previous explanation by Governor Leche defending use of university trucks in delivery of university-fabricated material to a building site near New Orleans, owned by a close friend of the governor.

Anxious politicians streamed into the governor's mansion today for conferences with the chief executive, who several days ago said he would quit today because of ailing health and a desire to travel.

The governor was closeted almost through the day with Lt. Gov. Earl K. Long, Mayor S. Maestri of New Orleans, Louisiana political boss, and state officials.

None knew whether these parleys dealt with alleged university scandal or were conferences called to lessen the strain on the administration's political machine, weakened by uncertainty, falling leadership and unexplained maneuvers that left politicians gasping.

Chairman Of Labor Relations Board To Commence Mediation

Lansing, June 26 (AP)—Chairman Arthur E. Raab of the state's new labor relations board said today he would begin the job of mediating labor disputes at once, without waiting for the senate to confirm his appointment or for a formal meeting with other members of the board.

Raab said he had conferred with other members of the board and had their consent, in view of strike notices already received from labor organizations, to proceed individually in their absence.

"The whole thing is only a matter of mediation and conciliation anyhow," he said. "I shall try to do these people a friendly service, since there are as yet no rules to guide us in more formal procedure."

Raab sought conferences in the capital with Attorney General Thomas Read, who said recently that the board had interim powers to act in labor disputes, since the legislature gave the act creating it immediate effect, although Governor Dickinson's appointments have yet to receive confirmation.

Ferries To Resume Normal Schedule July 1 At Straits

Lansing, June 26 (AP)—The state highway department said today that ferry service at the Straits would be restored to normal for the July 4th rush of resort traffic.

George F. Loughin, acting superintendent of ferries, telegraphed G. Donald Kennedy, deputy highway commissioner, that repairs were being rushed on the ferry St. Ignace, damaged in a collision with the ferry City of Cheboygan. He predicted the vessel would be returned to commission by July 1.

A new $375,000 dock also will be placed in operation soon, Loughin said. The ferry City of Munising already has tried the dock and found it satisfactory.

bears one name on the map may actually be two or three islands. An unofficial prediction is that the number will be at least several dozen. They are located principally in the Phoenix group (which includes Canton and Enderbury) near the Equator, and the Ellis group not far away. Other groups likely to be mentioned are the Gilbert and Phil.

Found By Whalers
Great Britain is not the only country which disputes United States claims to Pacific islands. France lays claim to five of the Marquesas group supposed to have been discovered by Americans, and Japan asserts sovereignty to the island of Kusaie, in the Carolines. There is no indication at present, however, that discussions are to be begun with those countries.

The data to be submitted to Great Britain has its origin principally in the discoveries of American whalers in the last decade of the eighteenth century and the first three of the nineteenth. State department officials have made careful examination of books and records in the New England whaling ports of New London, New Bedford, Nantucket and Newport.

The United States has occupied, or agreed to joint management of, five islands in the Pacific in the last four years. Howland, Baker and Jarvis islands were occupied in 1935 by "planting" four American boys of Hawaiian descent on each.

The bride was attired in a rose and navy combination print of silk marguerite street length, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of baby roses and sweet peas. Miss Edith wore a silk jersey, white with colored print, street length, also white accessories, and a corsage similar to the bride's. A wedding supper for the immediate families and close relatives was served at the Lindberg home Saturday evening and at the Stone Anderson home Sunday evening. FORESTERS ENTERTAINED

Iron Mountain—An interesting review of the operations of the Goodman Lumber company, of Goodman, Wis., was given last evening to members of the Society of American Foresters and Ecologists and the state conservation department of Wisconsin at a dinner meeting held at the Dickinson hotel.

The dinner was complimentary on the part of the von Platen-Fox company, of this city, with M. J. Fox, president, as host. Frank O. Morett, president of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Chamber of Commerce, presided as toastmaster, but introduction of the visitors was made by Mr. Stone, of the foresters' association.

The foresters came here following a three-day meeting in Milwaukee held jointly with the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Thursday the group visited the state forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis., and yesterday they were at the Wisconsin conservation department and the Nicolet national forest.

PAROLEE ADMITS KILLING DETROIT OIL MAN IN CAR

the slaying occurred and that the print was that of Kent.

Capt. Marmon said that Kent would be taken to St. Johns from Lansing tomorrow morning for arraignment on a murder charge before Justice William J. Black and that if Kent waived examination he would be arraigned immediately before Circuit Judge Kelly S. Searl.

Woman Gives Tip
Kent was not brought to state police headquarters at East Lansing immediately, remaining at Grand Rapids where officers took a statement from him.

The tip that led to Kent's arrest was provided by a Lansing woman, Capt. Marmon said, and eight state troopers were sent to Grand Rapids where they were joined by local police in capturing the paroled convict.

Miss Doty, 32-year-old blonde, sobbed fitfully at the inquest at nearby Lansing today. She testified that the hitchhiker had shot her companion without any warning as they rode together, then dumped the body beside a lonely Shiloh-ware county roadside after a wild ride during which he threatened to kill her too.

The fire hall in the little village of Laingsburg cleared of all apparatus save an ancient horse-drawn hand pumper, served as the courtroom for the inquiry, in which a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death "at the hands of an unknown person."

The room was hushed as Miss Doty, speaking through sobs, testified that Hall stopped to give the hitchhiker a "lift," remarking that he "looked like a clean cut fellow."

As they drove northward toward Pinconning an hour later, the woman said the robber fired a single shot into Hall's body. The noise and Hall's cry of "Go, mister, why did you shoot me—I'd have given you anything you wanted" were the first intimation she had that anything was wrong, she declared. She was at the wheel of the car at the time.

Robbed Dead Body
The killer compelled her to drive on, she said, the dying Hall disassembled her when she attempted to turn the car broadside in the road to block a stream of traffic, she added.

Miss Doty surrendered the steering wheel to the killer and Hall died shortly afterward in her arms, she related, their assailant digging his pistol into her ribs with one hand as he drove a wild course over little traveled rural roads. About 9 o'clock, she continued, he drove to the Shiloh-ware county roadside, dumped out the body and robbed it.

"You're too particular," she quoted him as replying when she insisted that he straighten the body and cover it with a blanket. Then, she declared, he made love to her. "He said some awful things," she related. "I told him to spare me until we got to Chicago. He told me 'I think you're a pretty good scout at that' and patted my knee."

She pacified him with promises to accompany him to Chicago, she recalled Grand Rapids police when he permitted her to take the car to drive it to a parking lot.

None of Hall's relatives was present, although a brother, Cortes R. Hall, of Detroit, had announced he would take two unidentified witnesses to Laingsburg to testify.

Hall's widow remained in Detroit after funeral services for her husband. She said "if he could come back now, everything would be all right."

CURSES CAMERAS

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 26 (AP)—Coolly smoking a cigarette which he held in his manacled hands, Danny Kent, 32-year-old paroled convict, sat in the Grand Rapids police station tonight while officers questioned him about the hitchhiker slaying of George Hall, 50-year-old Detroit oil promoter.

The prisoner showed no outward nervousness, other than a continual picking of his right hand with a finger nail. He smiled occasionally during the questioning, but, for the most part, kept his mouth in a thin straight line, and looked calmly at the officers through his dark eyes.

Kent's own show of emotion came just as state police were taking him out of the station to start the ride to East Lansing.

News photographers were setting off flash bulbs nearby and the prisoner turned to an officer and said: "Smash the camera!"

Kent was neatly dressed in a blue suit, with a blue shirt open at the neck. His black hair was slicked back and the scar on his right cheek, which was one of the identification marks mentioned by Miss Doty, Hall's companion, was only slightly visible.

Ionia, Mich. (AP)—Arnold Geer, 21, a trusty at the state reformatory here, was recaptured Monday a few hours after he had escaped from a prison gang working in a reformatory beef field south of here. He surrendered without resistance when apprehended by a prison guard. He was sentenced in 1937 to serve a four and a half to ten year term from Paw Paw.

Hole-In-One Scored By Former Champ

Lansing, June 26 (AP)—Helen Hicks Harb scored a hole-in-one on the 195-yard seventeenth of the sporty Lansing Country club course today, the second in the former national woman champion's long career on the links.

Mrs. Harb, playing in an exhibition foursome, used a spoon in making today's ace, which entailed a long carry over water. Her card of 76 was seven strokes under the course record for women.

The Woodmere, L. I., star was teamed with Ole Clark, professional at Walnut Hills Country club, Lansing, against Marvin Stahl and Mrs. R. C. Brenner, who were playing their home course. Stahl is Michigan open champion.

Mrs. Harb made her first hole-in-one on a Long Island course nine years ago, the season before she won the national title.

The body was recovered by a Dearborn fire department rescue squad.

JAPAN TIRES OF DEADLOCK WITH BRITAIN

blockade began that the personnel of the various foreign garrisons and their maintenance would not be interfered with.

Chinese Warned
Chinese members of the British and French concession municipal police whose families live in Japanese-controlled areas received another threat against their own lives and those of their families.

Last week these men received letters from seemingly established Japanese sources saying that unless they resigned their families would be endangered. The new threat came in anonymous letters advising the men that they might be put to death and their families "punished" unless they ended their connection with British authorities.

"You are assisting the evil British and French rulers in their oppression of the people and protection of Communists, thereby making Tientsin a city of terrorism," the letters read. "Thus you are responsible for these conditions and from this day of warning it is better for you to sever relations with them."

"Otherwise you shall be dealt with by violent means, and even your whole family will be punished as well and all of you may be put to death. This shall be carried out absolutely. Take warning."

AGREEMENT NEAR

Tokyo, June 27 (Tuesday) (AP)—Preliminary talks are under way for a settlement of the 14-day British-Japanese deadlock at Tientsin, it was said authoritatively today, with actual negotiations expected to develop speedily with agreement upon a "few remaining points."

The British ambassador, Sir Robert Leslie Graigle, conferred half an hour yesterday with Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita, on a basis for a settlement.

It was understood one of the points to be ironed out before actual negotiations start centers around the place of the conferences. Japan was understood to be desirous of holding the conferences in Tientsin where she presumably would be represented by her consul general, Shigenori Tachiro, and a high ranking Japanese diplomat sent to assist him.

Britain preferred holding the conversations directly with the foreign office in Tokyo.

College Stars Sign For Pro Football

Chicago, June 26 (AP)—Three former college football stars signed here today to play professional football, two going to the Chicago Bears and one to the Green Bay Packers of the National league.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, signed "Bully" Sherman, halfback on the University of Chicago team last fall, and Charles Hellemann, husky end from Iowa State. Hellemann was one of the nation's leading pass receivers in 1938.

Paul Kell, of Niles, Mich., 225 pound right tackle for Notre Dame last fall, signed a contract with Coach "Curly" Lambeau of the Packers.

Gets Relief After 40 Years Suffering

KruGon Did for Him What He Thought Impossible After All Else He Tried Had Failed; Bowels Now Regular

"I had tried all kinds of remedies but it was not until I began KruGon that I was able to get much relief," said Mr. C. C. Gifford, 825 5th St., Beloit, Wisconsin. "For more than forty years I had suffered horrible misery with muscular aches and pains over my entire body. I was also very constipated and had to take strong laxatives almost every day. I was much disturbed by frequent bladder action too, making it impossible for me to get proper elimination and I felt so badly all the time I could hardly get around. I had been in this awful condition for so long I thought my case hopeless but was delightfully surprised when I began taking KruGon and things really began changing for me."

"KruGon was very different from anything I had ever taken," said Mr. Gifford. "It was so pleasant to take and did not gripe or nauseate in the least. My bowels are now regular in action and although I am still somewhat lame, I walk much better and my general health is much improved since the elimination of toxic impurities. My wife is also taking KruGon and it has been a very great benefit to her, and I agree with hundreds of others that TOO MUCH PRAISE CANNOT BE GIVEN KruGon."

Grove Allows Seven Hits In Winning 7th Victory

Washington, June 26 (AP)—The veteran Lefty Grove won his seventh victory of the season by blanking Washington 3-0 today with a seven hit performance.

Although touched by Washington batters for at least one hit in six of the nine innings, the Boston hurler kept the blows well scattered to escape unscathed.

Meanwhile his mates were slapping Joe Haynes for 9 and Walter Masterson for one blow, four of which off Haynes they bunched effectively in the second and third innings to score their runs. The Sox tallied the first time when Joe Cronin walked.

Ted Williams singled and Louis Berger doubled, and they got a pair in the next inning when Joe Vosmik singled, Jimmy Foxx walked and Williams tripled.

Indian Is Killed By C&NW Freight Train In Menominee

Menominee, June 26—Chester Letourneau (Blackbird), 40, an Indian, of 1605 Stephenson avenue, was fatally injured yesterday morning when he was struck by a freight train at the Menominee railroad bridge across the Menominee river near Bridge street.

Letourneau died at 10 a. m. yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital. He suffered injuries which included a skull fracture, the almost severing of the right leg below the knee and shock. Physicians at the hospital said today.

The partly severed right leg was amputated just below the knee at the hospital, physicians said. There was a great loss of blood. The accident is believed to have happened at 6:40 a. m. Sunday when a southbound freight train crossed the bridge, police said.

Since there were not witnesses of the accident the time has not been definitely fixed, and the accident may have occurred at 6-10 a. m. when a northbound freight train crossed the bridge, police said.

Letourneau was thrown against the bridge girders and then fell 12 feet to the ground at the edge of the river, police said. The body was lying about seven feet from the stone abutment of the bridge approach.

Sunday Was Swell, Say Delta County Anglers

From all the enthusiasm and tall tales that have been floating around since Sunday, backed with official reports from the conservation offices, the official opening of the 1939 bass season two days ago was a great success—except for sundry cases of sunburn and mosquito-bites to which allergic souls succumbed.

The official reports say that the Cedar river was the scene of great activity and that catches were plentiful and satisfactory. At least two hundred fishermen dropped their lines in "fishy-looking" spots and a good percentage of them were successful, from all indications.

At least one fisherman landed a limit catch. The bait—"915 Rainbow," a long, minnow-like affair with rainbow trout markings and spinners fore and after—was lost shortly after doing its duty in splendid fashion, and when last seen the owner was frantically searching for it, up stream and down.

Walter Nelson, 1222 11th avenue south, one of Escanaba's most ardent wielders of rod and reel, admitted himself "skunked" after a session with his favorite spots on the Cedar. He added, however, with true Waltonian spirit, "I won out anyway, because at least I didn't have to clean any fish." A thought which, it may be suggested, wouldn't be a bad philosophy for some of the rest of us during the—"off-days" of the coming season. To Mr. Nelson's support, however, is the fact, reported from all sides, that fishing was not as good in the afternoon and evening as in the morning and Nelson, having worked in his garden all day long, fished only in the evening. Further evidence of the widespread success was given, as Ervin Paulin, 229 North 18th street, tells of fighting it out with a three and three-quarter pound large-mouth bass on the Escanaba river. Ford river catches were said to be running in top form.

Wall-eyes were the main fare Sunday night for anglers at the head of the bay and "good fishing" was the byword there. From Nahma came the word that streams in that vicinity had yielded several nice bass to the enticements offered by Morris Ackerman, outdoor editor of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain, who is now collecting material in the Upper Peninsula.

The landing of a two-pound crappie, thirteen inches long and five inches deep, using as bait a live minnow, was the premier accomplishment of A. R. Vogel, 507 1st avenue south, who spent his first day fishing on Deer Lake.

Why Recovery Lags

THE world can never attain prosperity as long as it is kept dangling in a state of suspense, staggering from crisis to crisis like a drunken idiot.

Here is a little story that may show to Americans, who, after all, feel somewhat remote from Europe's troubles, just what this state of suspense means, in concrete terms.

An Englishman was telling the story, an intelligent and well-informed Englishman who was quite calm about it all, and related it without a sign of panic.

He and his wife had been thinking of installing a new hot water heater in their little cottage on the outskirts of London, he said.

The amount was about $25, but that was an important item in the family budget. The new heater was not absolutely necessary, but an improvement they both wanted very much to install.

They considered the situation. "What," they quite calmly considered, "if the bombers come over some night? We are warned. We save our lives by the dugout. But our little house is blown to smithereens, or burned. This might very possibly happen any night, practically without warning. Then with our house goes our new heater and our $25."

"Would it not perhaps be better to lay by the $25. If we were thus deprived of our home and became just two more of a wild mob of desperate refugees trekking wearily toward the country districts and comparative safety, wouldn't the $25 be doing us more good if we had it in our pockets and might buy with it some desperately-needed food or clothing?"

They decided on putting by the $25. Quite soberly they weighed the chances, quite soberly they decided that their $25 was worth more to them as a defense against such a desperate emergency than it was in the form of a comfort which needed some assurance of permanence to be realized.

Does it sound fantastic? Not at all. This was the deliberate decision of two excellent, intelligent, sensible, unpanicky people of London.

Multiply their decision by similar decisions of millions of families throughout Europe, and no doubt of some even in the United States. Watch the ripples of these decisions enveloping the entire economic world.

Now imagine what it would mean to world trade if all these millions of little decisions were made the other way — if these people, feeling secure and safe, would decide normally, and buy what they need and want. And then you get some idea of what the militarists and glory-hunters are doing to the world.

McNutt for President

THE campaign for Paul V. McNutt for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940 now is under way.

Newspaper editors of the nation are receiving this week biographical sketches of good looking candidate from his campaign headquarters in the Claypool hotel in Indianapolis. Enclosed in the material sent is a letter announcing his candidacy.

McNutt recently returned from Manila, where he succeeded Frank Murphy as high commissioner of the Philippine Islands. Prior to that he was dean of the law school of the University of Indiana, national commander of the American Legion and for four years governor of Indiana.

Although he is a colorful figure, McNutt will not get very far in the 1940 convention unless he has the support of President Roosevelt and Chairman Farley of the Democratic national committee. If the administration was willing to appoint him to Manila, there is the probability, of course, that the New Dealers will think well enough of him to back him for the presidential race.

Brings Only Trouble

CARNIVALS are in bad repute in Menominee, and undoubtedly a majority of the citizens would back up the city council in the future should it decide to refuse licenses to shows of this nature to appear in that community.

In the past four years, three Menominee girls have been the victims of sex offenses committed by carnival workers. Gifts of candy and passes to shows were used by the degenerates to lure the children.

Editorials in the Marinette and Menominee newspapers indicate that the communities are fed up with carnivals. Besides taking money that should rightfully go to local business establishments, these shows have proven themselves to be detrimental to public morals. Local organizations sponsoring the carnivals also are receiving their share of criticism.

Hitch-Hikers Again

THE dangers of hitch-hiking for both hitch-hikers and befriending motorists are again being emphasized in the grip of the day's news.

Down in Shiawassee county, a hitch-hiker is being sought for the murder of a Detroit oil promoter, although it is not definitely established that the person sought is the slayer. However, out in Akron, Colo., a jury on Saturday convicted a Fond du Lac youth was convicted if first degree murder for the hitchhike shooting of a salesman. According to the testimony of the defendant, he and the salesman engaged in a struggle when the latter asked him to leave his automobile as his company did not permit him to carry hitch-hikers.

In many instances, the story has been reversed. Hitch-hikers have been robbed and murdered by criminals riding in automobiles.

Some states, including Wisconsin, have laws prohibiting hitch-hiking. While it is another of those many laws that are difficult to enforce, nevertheless it must prove effective in curbing the menace to some extent.

No Joking

NOT even the smart-aleck intellectuals are as ready as they used to be to make jokes about Rotary and other service clubs.

The reasons are two: first, such clubs have attained a maturity and dignity which perhaps some of them lacked in their early days. And second, the ideal of good-will and simple friendship among men is more precious than it used to be, because there is so little of it.

The recent convention of Rotary International at Cleveland was marked by a dignity and sincerity that impressed all who were in touch with it.

And the ideal that personal friendships and contacts between men of many lands may help lead the world back to peace is something to which men turn with a desperate eagerness in these days.

Other Editors' Comments

UNWISE FATHERS

That is a serious charge made by Probate Judge D. J. Healy, that homes that should be rated as the best in the city are responsible for one of the most dangerous forms of youthful delinquency. The smart, well-dressed youngster behind the wheel of a nifty new car, who uses streets as speedways, usually is relying on the influence of his father to get him out of any trouble he may get into.

The community has a right to expect better conduct from its more prosperous and influential citizens. The damage that a pampered son may do with his speeding car is bad enough. But the most serious harm is the influence of such bad management and lack of discipline for the boy himself. By virtue of his inheritance, he should take a place of prominence in the community. But by his home training he starts with a light estimate of the seriousness of law breaking, and with an ingrained belief that wealth and social position justify tampering with justice.

Ticket-fixing is reprehensible always. Fathers should consider their responsibility to the community and to the coming generation in such matters.

GETTING READY TO VOTE

Members of Kiwanis club all over the United States will take part in a nationwide campaign next year to "get out the vote" regardless of party in the 1940 elections, according to announcement made at the Kiwanis International Convention in Boston. This is a very worthy civic activity and the Kiwanians are to be commended for undertaking it.

The movement to remind every citizen of his obligation and opportunity to express his view through the medium of the ballot box is one in which other organizations and individuals well may join. For a number of years a Washington lawyer, Simon Mabelet, with his "Get-Out-the-Vote-Club" has run a sort of one-man show which nevertheless has stimulated much thinking on the subject. Whatever the reasons, the percentage of eligible voters who exercised their franchise in 1936 had risen to 62.5 per cent from 53.7 per cent in 1924. This still is not nearly as high as it should be.

It is well that the Kiwanis club have begun their agitation of the subject this early. There are many steps before the actual, final general election in November, 1940, which may affect the result and the individual citizen's interest in it fully as much as the count of electors then.

There are presidential primary elections to be held in many states and political party nominating conventions in others. The citizen who wants an opportunity to vote for his favorite in the general election or who wants to assure a choice among good candidates in the congressional and state elections will remember to vote in the primary or take what hand he can in county or other local conventions of his party.

In order that one may be sure of being eligible to vote there are some points to be thought of well ahead of election day, also. States require that voters be registered at some fixed period before election, and some of them require also that the would-be voter shall have paid a poll tax. It is not too early now for the American citizen to be making a resolution that he shall be ready to vote in 1940.

(Marquette Eagle Star)

It is reliably reported that Governor Hell has admitted his error in attempting to supplant Robert B. Goodman of Marquette on the state conservation commission with a man from down state, which appointment did not go into effect because of a legal technicality. It is the hope of conservationists who view the state's program in a broad light that his reported admission of error will result in the governor reappointing Mr. Goodman, or, at least, permit him to continue in office as a hold-over.

Mr. Goodman is generally recognized as a forestry expert. Retention of his services as a conservation commissioner will be all the more imperative if the northern sections of the Great Lakes states embark

World Affairs Reviewed

BY MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

London—Great Britain, which for centuries has been the strongest naval power in the world, is making Herculean efforts to become equally strong on land and in the air. To do this the government has adopted the biggest peacetime budget in the nation's history and imposed taxes that approximate those inflicted in wartime.

All this is Britain's notice to Germany and Italy that she is getting ready to fight to the death. It is her way of making true War Minister Hore-Belisha's saying that in these troubled times the nation must sleep on its haversack.

Admiral Mahan of the American navy wrote the classic work on the influence of sea power upon history. He maintained that sea power most of the time is decisive in wars. England believes this and acts upon it. Nothing in Europe is comparable to the British navy.

But Britain has not been satisfied with this surface preponderance. It has to consider the submarine menace which it also faced in the last war. Germany is reported to be building many "subs." It is true that British naval authorities claim to have better detectors of submarines than ever before and that, therefore, the menace from them is less.

The naval budget of Britain for 1939-40 is $750,000,000 and provides for about 600,000 tons of ships, including two battleships of 40,000 tons each, a new aircraft carrier, four cruisers, 16 destroyers, four submarines and 22 swift escort vessels, designed to fight submarines and protect merchant shipping.

—CONSCRIPTION WAS HISTORIC STEP—

For the first time in its history Britain has gone in for conscription in peacetime. Young men of 20 are being called up. It is estimated this will yield 200,000 for army training yearly.

At the same time voluntary enlistment for the armed services is being pushed as never before. This applies not only to the regular army, but also to the Territorials—an English counterpart of the American militia. By the last of this year it is estimated the army strength of Britain will be:

Regular and reserves, 360,000. Territorial army field force 340,000. Anti-aircraft units, 115,000. Compulsory recruits, 200,000. Total, 1,021,000.

This will be the biggest peacetime army force England ever had.

—AIR FORCE IS RAPIDLY EXPANDING—

A gigantic effort is being made to create a huge air force. According to most confidential reports, the Germans, if they make war upon Britain, count mainly upon their air force. To offset this, Britain has to have a dual program: First—a force of big, swift bombers which can punish German cities as badly as the Germans hope to bomb British cities. Second—a defensive force consisting of squadrons of swift fighters to attack invading enemy bombers, plus a ground force consisting of anti-aircraft guns.

The government is no longer giving out figures. But it is known that since last September, when Premier Chamberlain made his famous peace pilgrimage to Munich to see Hitler, huge aircraft and gun factories have been completed. One in the north cost $50,000,000 and great parts of it are under ground and are reasonably safe from any enemy bomber attack. Not only are many of the new as well as old factories turning out airplanes, but Britain is buying still others in the United States.

On the recent annual Empire Air Day military planes went up into the air from 73 Royal Air Force stations scattered all over the island. The newspapers estimated that 5000 machines were up. And on the ground in the hangars were still others as replacements in case of war.

A few days after this a special show was put on for Parliament. Secret warplanes were flown over Northolt airfield. All those shown are already in large and rapid production. It is claimed that those shown, both bombers and fighters were unsurpassed in the world for speed, flying performance, fire power and military efficiency. At one time seven squadrons of eight gun fighters flew in formation. Another flight was of geodetic twin-engine bombers—24 monoplane—each able to carry a deadly load up to 3240 miles non-stop. Speeds of from 250 to 350 miles per hour were quite common among the types shown.

upon an intensive land utilization program, as there are now indications they will do.

Only this week, Dr. Raphael Zon, director of the lake states experiment station at St. Paul, told ecologists at a national meeting in Milwaukee that the plight of the people in the northern sections of the lake states is due to misdirected land use policies. Quite the same thought has been expressed in the state legislature. Out of the suggestions at the Milwaukee meeting and legislation at Madison may develop a sound program of land utilization. If this happens, the services of Mr. Goodman will be sorely needed.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—The problem of how to get business back into a full, healthy swing has been the subject of many quiet conferences at the White House lately, and one of the frankest of these resulted in an inferential bawling-out of Henry Morgenthau.

The man who did the plain-talking was Marriner Eccles, who in addition to running the Federal Reserve Board, is the chief inner circle advocate of heavy spending.

Eccles delivered his lecture while discussing the new self-liquidating spending program with the President. While he favors this, he does not believe it goes far enough. What is needed, he told Roosevelt, is to open up the pension system so as to pay out some of the huge idle reserves now being piled up through monthly payroll taxes.

This theory directly counters the ideas of Secretary Henry Morgenthau, who attended the conference, and Arthur J. Altmeyer, timid chairman of the Social Security Board. Both insist on a big reserve fund. Eccles made no direct reference to Morgenthau and Altmeyer but he kicked their policy all over the place.

—TOO MUCH SAVING—

"This system of piling up a vast pension reserve is deflationary," he declared. "It's taking money right out of the pockets of consumers and sticking it away in an idle fund. By the end of this year, $1,700,000,000 will have been collected from consumers in payroll taxes. The system operates as a gigantic saving device at a time when there is a surfeit of savings."

"What should be done is to provide reasonable pensions for old people immediately, regardless of whether they have contributed to the fund. That would not only meet a great social need and popular demand, but it would also be economically sound at this stage in our economic life."

"The present system is decreasing consumption when we have inadequate consumer buying power. That would be all right in a capital-poor country where a curtailment of consumption was necessary in order to divert more resources into the making of plant and equipment. But it has absolutely no economic justification in our capital-rich, consumption-poor economy. We are deflating when we ought to be spending."

The President listened to Eccles without interruption, but when he finished, said: "Maybe you are right, but it's too late to do anything now, Marriner. The social security amendments are on their way through Congress."

"It's never too late to correct an error, Mr. President," Eccles replied stoutly. "The amendments are still being considered by the Senate Finance Committee and a determined effort should be made to revise them."

—TOO TIGHT-FISTED—

Altmeyer's tight-fisted attitude on pension payments has cost him the job as head of the new consolidated Federal Security Agency. Also it may cause him a lot of trouble even to get reappointed as chairman of the Social Security Board. His term expires in August and there is considerable opposition to him inside the Administration and on Capitol Hill.

When the Federal Security Administration Act, Altmeyer was the No. 1 choice to boss the agency. But so much hostility developed that he was dropped from the list of candidates. Not even that stopped the fire on him. Recently, his inner circle and congressional critics, with powerful labor support, quietly started gunning for his scalp on the Social Security Board.

The odds favor his being reappointed, but he may be subjected to some vigorous buffeting in the Senate before he is confirmed.

FARMERS DESERT HULL

Enemies of Secretary Hull's trade agreement program may take heart: one of his principal allies has threatened to desert him.

All through the fight to negotiate — and retain — trade agreements with foreign countries, Hull has had heavy support from the Farm Bureau Federation. This was important because enemies were accusing Hull of "selling the American farmer down the river."

Farm Bureau Federation was the one farm outfit that went to bat for the Secretary of State, thanks largely to Wallace's influence, and actively tried to sell the agreements to the U. S. farmer. But now the Farm Bureau has flatly declared it would withdraw this support if the State Department continued to sabotage the cotton export subsidy program.

The issue is a hot one because the Federation has put all its forces into the fight for the cotton subsidy, in the face of heavy mill and market opposition. If it is to be defeated partly by an agency they have fought to support, then there will be no more support from them.

If there were no farm organization supporting the trade agreements program, farmers, who resent the importation of a single Polish ham, could be persuaded to tear it to bits in 1940.

PROTECTION OF BEAR IS URGED

Ackerman Claims Bruin Can Be Valuable As Tourist Sight

Nahma, Mich. — Wild bears should be protected as a tourist attraction in the Upper Peninsula, Morris Ackerman, Cleveland, outdoors editor of the Scripps Howard Newspapers, declared today.

Mr. Ackerman went out to see the half dozen bears, who have been visiting the Norman Creek CCC camp garbage dump, north of Nahma, and said that this is an attraction that is of much more interest to tourists than the tame bears in Yellowstone national park. Quite a number of persons go out each evening before dusk to watch the bruins rummaging around for food.

"I understand that bears may be killed anytime during the year as a result of the action taken by the last legislature," Mr. Ackerman said. "In woods areas, like that north of Nahma, I believe it would be well to protect the bears the year round because they certainly could be a valuable asset as a tourist attraction. I think the Mormon Creek sight is very interesting and that many folks would drive many miles to see it."

WANT PROTECTION

Houghton, Mich. — With the expiration of the state conservation commission's closing order on November 15 of this year, Keweenaw county bear, which have become an outstanding tourist attraction of great value to the Copper Country, will become unprotected, as the result of a revision of the general game laws by the current session of the state legislature. The new game law removes all protection on black bear by placing them on the open list. However, the Keweenaw county bear are protected by a special order of the conservation commission which expires on Nov. 15, 1939.

The state conservation commission will meet on July 14, when renewal of the closing order will be considered. In view of the importance of the bear in Keweenaw county to the entire district, the Copper Country Vacationist League urges all Copper Country organizations, business and professional men, sportsmen and other interested individuals to wire or write the conservation department requesting that the order protecting Keweenaw bear be continued indefinitely.

The Vacation Industry

As You Play, Thousands Toil In Nation's Five Billion Dollar Business

BY PAUL ROSS

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
New York—If you walked up to Joe Doaks & family as they sat in their joppy in some tourist camp and told them that they were part of an industry which—

1. Does an estimated $5,000,000,000 (five billion dollars) worth of business a year or more;
2. Has approximately 40,000,000 customers;
3. Probably shows more volume than any other industry except steel or automobiles;
4. Creates thousands upon thousands of jobs and livelihoods;
5. Is the most "democratic" of industries because no big, single units dominate it;
6. Has never been properly studied, analyzed or charted by anyone, including those in it;

—well, Joe Doaks & family might say you were daffy with the heat and ought to take a vacation, as they were doing.

BIG FACTOR IN BUSINESS

Yet that is the situation with the travel and vacation industry. Joe Doaks, by the million, thinks of it as two-weeks-off-with-pay, hot dogs, five gallons of gas, seeing Valley Forge, swimming in the lake and getting a painful sunburn.

In reality it is a gigantic economic force which, like other American phenomena, "just grew" without direction or guidance, and which might be used as a powerful factor for recovery.

American travel is not confined to ocean voyages. These constitute only a minor part of the industry. Approximately 85 per cent of all American travel is done in automobiles and is confined to areas which can be visited in automobiles.

The American Automobile Association has estimated that motoring Americans spent $4,509,000,000 in 1937, at an average daily expenditure of $7 per person.

THOUSAND GAIN LIVELIHOOD

What this means economically was indicated by an official of the American Express Co., who estimated that every time a vacationist spends $5 he indirectly gives one day's work to one person.

A New York publisher of travel magazines believes that vacationists create 350,000 jobs in the single field of travel agencies, railroad and ship passenger departments and tourist services. Southern California travel experts say that 150,000 in that area gain their sole livelihood from tourists.

Tourism is the only industry of Bermuda, the biggest industry of New England and Canada.

It provides Florida with more money than the citrus crop, brought (in 1937) nearly 9 times the native population to New Mexico, left (in 1937) over $800,000,000 in New York state.

Federal authorities have estimated that tourists alone consumed approximately 25 per cent of the aluminum, iron and steel, copper, petroleum, zinc, lumber, plate glass, tin, rubber, leather, lead, nickel, cotton, mohair, labor and insurance which the automobile manufacturing industry used up in 1935.

The major part of the tourist dollar received is immediately spent locally for labor, supplies, taxes, rent and services. It is impossible to calculate the total good which the blood-stream of tourist money performs in the body of American economy. One can only say that millions, many of whom never realize it, are benefited.

GOVERNMENT GUIDING THE TRAVEL TRADE

Yet until recent years America did virtually nothing to encourage and expand this great industry. While European nations set up government bodies to draw in American travelers, a few American states promoted themselves and their attractions, travel firms as individuals pushed the business. Today, all that is changed.

The Federal government recently set up a United States Travel Bureau with offices in Washington, New York and San Francisco, to encourage and guide the travel industry.

Thirty American states now provide money and bureaus to push travel in their areas.

With two fairs going simultaneously in the United States, 1939 promises to be the biggest travel year yet. Some travel authorities believe as much as $1,000,000,000 in new business may accrue. The railroads which reduced rates for the purpose, are looking forward to a 12 to 20 per cent increase in business. The ship lines expect about 15 per cent more in volume. The bus interests await an eight to fifteen per cent jump upwards. Air travel, of course, is constantly increasing.

Legend transformed the three purses of gold St. Nicholas generously gave away into the three golden balls with Lombard money lenders adopted as their sign, and which hang over pawnshops the world over today.

HORSE PULLING MONEY RAISED

Prizes Boosted to $1030 By Upper Peninsula State Fair

In recognition of the growing popularity of horse pulling contests, the board of managers of the Upper Peninsula Fair, which will be held Aug. 6 to 11 in Escanaba, has boosted the prize money by $500 to a total of $1030 for this event.

Last year, Archie Gota's team of Wilson pulled a 3,625-pound weight a distance of 19 feet to set a new Upper Peninsula record in the heavyweight horse pulling contest. The team also participated in a contest at the Farmers' Week program at East Lansing last winter.

In the lightweight contest last year, the event was won by the George Izzard team of Pickford, which pulled 2850 pounds for 24 1/2 feet.

The present world's record is 3,975 pounds established last September at Hillsdale, Mich., by the Cedardell Farm company team.

WARNING GIVEN ON POISON IVY

Strong Soap, Hot Water Should Be Used to Halt Blistering

With Michigan getting its usual large share of tourists this summer, the poison ivy still prevailing in many of the fence corners and woody spots will claim victims.

So the farm crops department of Michigan State College suggests cutting and salting the ivy to remove the pesky weed. And the home economics specialists in the extension service at the college suggest strong soap and hot water to halt the blistering effects.

Washing the hands or other parts of the skin which have been exposed to the plant removes the volatile acid oil which causes the swelling and blistering.

If this is done before the oil has had a chance to penetrate, the irritation is stopped. Careless washing, however, may spread the poison to other parts of the body.

Washing the finger nails and the tender areas between the fingers at least two or three times, interspersing the soap treatment with thorough rinsing helps get rid of the ivy oil. Hard scrubbing with a brush is to be avoided as this may rub the poison into the skin.

Even after inflammation has started, the soap treatment has

Dorothy Bittner Is The Bride Of Robert Bergstrom

An attractive bride of June was Miss Dorothy Bittner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Bittner of Bark River, Route One, whose marriage to Robert Bergstrom, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bergstrom, Sr., of Bark River, took place Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church at Hyde.

Rev. L. G. Lehman read the marriage service which was at 3 o'clock. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely fitted, floor length gown of white satin, with a white lace jacket, and a finger tip veil which fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, snapdragons and sweet peas with showers of white satin ribbon. Her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Mildred Bittner, wore a floor length jacket model of pink organza, and her bridesmaid, Miss Lorraine Bittner, also a sister, wore aqua net with a taffeta jacket. Both wore headbands of roses and sweet peas and carried arm bouquets of similar flowers.

Mrs. Bittner was gowned in powder blue lace, with which she wore navy accessories, and Mrs. Bergstrom wore navy with white accessories.

Roy Bergstrom, brother of the bridegroom, as best man, and George Cholger were the bridegroom's attendants, and Walter and Herman Bittner, brothers of the bride, acted as bridesmaids.

A wedding dinner was served at the Bittner home to seventy-five guests, with a reception and dancing party in the evening. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a tiny bride and bridegroom, and an arrangement of roses and sweet peas, centered the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Bergstrom left on a honeymoon trip to Chicago, the bride wearing a pink tailored suit with white accessories. They will make their home in Bark River, where Mr. Bergstrom, who is in the carpenter trade, is located.

Large Crowds Enjoy Play and Program Numbers

"Hot Copy," a newspaper comedy in three acts, was presented to appreciative audiences Sunday afternoon and evening, under the sponsorship of St. Anne's Holy Name society, by a talented cast, under the direction of Rev. Fr. Lester C. Bourgeois.

The play was in observance of the traditional festival of the French people, the Feast Day of St. John the Baptist.

Members of the cast, all of whom gave excellent interpretations of their roles were Clement Skopp, as Kenneth Wade, young owner of the newspaper, who was fighting a group of crafty politicians in his home town; Marie Charboneau, who was Jane Corwin, experienced newspaper woman; and an old schoolmate of Wade; Elaine Beauchamp, who played Sylvia Dale, starting her newspaper career after graduation from high school; Willard Norby, who played the wise-cracking reporter, Bill Gregory; Genevieve Thompson, who was the gushing Hazel Winston; Robert Gannon, the hardboiled shop foreman; Betty Tounignant, who played Peggy Wilson, charming and capable girl; Lucile LaViolette, who was the effusive Mrs. DeVine; Fred Fillion, who was the "villain" of the piece, an only son, running for mayor, and holder of the chattel mortgage on the newspaper; and Albert Piche, in the comedy role of Randolph, colored messenger boy.

Entertaining Acts
Excellent entertainment was furnished between acts and in the radio program of the second scene, by St. Anne's Girls chorus, St. Anne's orchestra, Ethel Mae Richer and David Thorsen, who sang duets, and a trio composed of Robert Moreau, Thomas Thompson, Jr., and Albert Piche.

Proceeds of the show will go to St. Anne's school fund.

TRAVELING CHIFFON

Albina C. Jones, Edward Pflieger Wed At Rothschild

In a quiet ceremony performed Tuesday afternoon, June 20, at Rothschild, Wis., Mrs. Albina Jones of Escanaba, and Edward Pflieger, sr., of Rothschild, were united in marriage.

The ceremony was performed at the Pflieger home, by Lawrence Pflieger, Rothschild justice of the peace, and a nephew of the bridegroom. Attendants were the bride's daughter, Miss Priscilla Coghlan of Wausau, and the bridegroom's son, William Pflieger of Rothschild.

The bride wore a dusty rose lace dress with white accessories, and her daughter wore a frock of lilac crepe. Both wore corsages of roses and sweet peas.

A wedding supper for thirty guests and an evening reception for 150 friends followed the ceremony. Garden flowers were used in the home decorations in a color scheme of rose and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Pflieger are making their home in Rothschild.

RELIEF OFFICES TO BE GROUPED

Changes Under Welfare Reorganization Bill Are Explained

Several federal and state departments administering benevolence to the aged and unfortunate in Delta county will be consolidated when the new Michigan welfare reorganization bill becomes effective.

Affected by this change will be the Emergency Relief Administration, superintendents of the poor, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, mothers' pensions, aid to the blind, crippled children's aid and others financed by state and/or federal contributions.

Governor Luren D. Dickinson has signed the reorganization bill which takes effect July 1 but sufficient leeway has been given departments to operate as individual units, as they are now, until the Delta county board of supervisors meet in October. At this meeting, the county board of supervisors will appoint two members of a three-man commission, the other member to be appointed by the state welfare commission.

The county commission has the privilege of administering relief through three channels (a) sitting as a full time board; (b) appointing a county director of social welfare or (c) appointing a member of the commission as county director. Under the state Social Welfare Commission, two county departments will be established. One to administer direct relief and the other, relief in which social security funds are involved. However, no change in the present set-up throughout the state will take place before November 1 and until then the present agencies will continue to function.

Under the new law, elimination of much duplication of relief investigating costs will be brought about. For instance, under the existing agencies, it is possible to have two or more relief investigators visit the same home where more than one type of relief is administered. The new bill places direct relief responsibility in the hands of county boards since the proposed three-member commission will be directly responsible to the board of supervisors and will serve only at the pleasure of the supervisors.

Relief, where federal funds are involved, such as old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind will be administered under the direct supervision of the director of the state bureau of social security. The director of this bureau is appointed by the state Social Welfare Commission.

Recently, Governor Dickinson vetoed a bill which would have permitted supervisors in counties of 60,000 or more population to resign from the board to accept county positions. Delta county was not affected by the bill since the population here is below 60,000.

SAVED FROM DROWNING

Marquette—Rescued by LeRoy Keller and Francis Smith, WPA recreational leaders assigned as lifeguards under the city recreational program, Wiljo Sarkela, 15-year-old Negaunee youth here to attend the Finnish midsummer festival, narrowly escaped drowning at the tourist park bathing beach about 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

The youth went down in eight feet of water about 35 feet from shore immediately after entering the swimming area. Cries of boys who saw him go down drew the attention of Keller, who was rowing on the reservoir. He dived from the boat at the spot where bubbles indicated Sarkela had gone down, found him immediately and, using regulation technique, brought him ashore.

Mackinaw Trout Is Served by Bradley At Farewell Party

BY Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Washington Correspondent
Washington—A Mackinaw trout luncheon was staged in the private dining room of the speaker of the House today as a Bon Voyage tribute to the dean of the Michigan delegation, Carl E. Mapes, of Grand Rapids, who flies to London tomorrow aboard the Yankee clipper. Congressman Fred Bradley, from the Northern part of the state where the 25-pound sweet-tasting trout was caught, was the host.

A merry luncheon it was with all the Michigan Republicans trying to worry Mapes with wisecracks about the dangers of the voyage. They dubbed him "the Lindbergh of Michigan." Always the prize-jokester, Clare E. Hoffman, of Allegan, told conservative Mapes that this unprecedented, dramatic, daring trip of his had the delegation apprehensive about his probable change of policy on legislative matters.

Earl C. Michener told Mapes to pay no attention to the disparaging remarks—they were just envious not to be chosen for such a historic first flight of the giant clipper over the North Atlantic route.

A special guest at the luncheon was Minority leader, Joseph Martin, of Massachusetts, who freely admitted that Mackinaw trout was far superior to the codfish from his state—and asked for a second helping.

Dignified Mapes is truly excited. He just hopes that the three days in London will not be filled with pre-arranged events. More than anything else he wants to visit parliament frequently. He is impressed with the fact that he leaves England at 2 p. m. Wednesday and arrives home 2 p. m. Thursday, with four one-hour stops thrown in.

Mapes was told he could bring 50 pounds of luggage. He was advised not to bring summer sports clothes, but dark suits including a heavy one for flying, a dinner suit, and a top coat. By no means a straw hat—a felt is recommended for London fogs. Umbrella optional.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg was one of the chosen few to be invited but regretfully he had to decline. He just couldn't trust unwatched those Democrats in the Senate with relief and tax legislation which must be passed by July 1.

LOOKING OVER NEW YORK

By Lucius Beebe

Whether or not the opening of "Streets of Paris" at the Broadhurst last Monday is to be regarded as the last first night of the old season or the first premiere of the new one is merely an academic problem along Broadway, but one thing every one at Sardi's, during the entr'acte, agreed on: that it emphatically disproved the thesis that vaudeville was dead. "Hellzapoppin'" might have been an isolated and unique manifestation reviving vestigial traces of the old Palace technique, but "Streets of Paris" definitely discredits the rumor of vaudeville's passing. It is, indeed, a sort of definitive, variorum edition of vaudeville lore, including every coray and delightful device, from straw-hat smashing and slats pasting to falling from stage boxes and hurling dead fruit. It is a sort of all-time high in the career of the wonderful Bobby Clark, and the first night itself witnessed a turnout of high-toned folk not usually associated in one's mind with fake adagio dancing and old-time bedroom sketches. Jack and Charlie at dinner, save for the various summer versions of evening dress around the premises, resembled nothing so much as a de luxe mid-season opening night, with Conde Nast and Kay Halle at the accustomed table and the rest of the room studded with George and Beatrice Kaufman and Moss Hart, Eddie Warburg, Steve Hanigan and all the accustomed regulars. If anything, the autograph fiends were thicker around the Broadhurst than in winter time, and what with the heat and general laugh qualities of the evening, every one was so thirsty as to swamp Sardi's under a deluge of cash customers. Later, both Morocco and the Stork were reported to have been jammed to the guards, and it was apparent all over town that some of the luxury trade which has been spending its evenings and money at the Fair for the last month or so is back in its accustomed Manhattan stamping ground. For a time it looked as though there wasn't going to be any more New York night life at all, with the French Pavilion's restaurant being reserved for six weeks in advance and all the town whooping and hollering at Billy Rose's incredible Aquacade and in Balentine's bar, but there seem to be enough spenders at the moment to populate both Gotham proper and the Fair.

In local tossap and etal circles of late there has been a great deal of gab about "a brandy," "nature cognacs" and "London-docks bottlings," and not a few wine merchants around the boulevards have stocked them, usually at pretty fancy prices. "Virgin brandy," when honestly bottled, may mean, in a loose sense, an unadulterated mixture of various growths—Grande Fine champagne, Borderie, Fins Bois, Bons Bois, etc.—with the brandy of each growth a product of several vineyard owner-distillers and all of varying age; or, in its most exact sense virgin cognac may be the unadulterated product of a single growth from one vineyard-distiller, of the same age, distillation and, preferably, one cask. As a matter of fact, individual distillations of matured, untouched first-growth cognacs are next to impossible to procure, since most vineyard proprietors cash in on their property through sales to the great cognac bottling firms as soon as their product comes of age. The Wine and Food gurglers and the Friends of Escotier hereabout pounce on any virgin brandy that appears on the local market like kittens after catnip. Far and away the best spirits in this category which this department has discovered are two casks which Fred Wildman procured for Bellows & Co. on his last sniffling safari abroad, one of them a Grands Fins Bois distilled in 1893, and the other a Grands Fins champagne a few years younger, light, fragrant and obviously well bred, to the Fins Bois what a highly pedigreed racehorse is to a Morgan station. The Fins Bois has a fuller body and more robust flavor and appeals, in general terms, to drinkers who prefer an armagnac to a cognac and like their spirits to have a quality they can sink their teeth into. Although he admits it to be tantamount to sacrilege, Mr. Wildman likes to serve the Fins Bois and the cognac mixed half and half.

At John Perona's cocktail party for Martin de Alzaga Unze, known to the town as "Macco," of Buenos Aires; Prince Ams; Jit and Prince Jit, of Kapurthala; Brenda Frazier and Lord Donegal; Homer Smith, the Winnie Gardiners Mae Murray, Peggy Joyce and Conde Nast, Mary Anita Loos, with a hat held on her head by a heavy, solid gold chain like a military helmet; Dorothy Lamour, with Mary Brian; Peter Arno and across the room from him, Jaro Fabry, whose first winks are also like Peter's; Hal Phyle, who went around taking candid shots for fun; Wally and Valerie Emmanuel Ziegler; Harold, McClelland Barclay, the Georges Metaxas and Tullio Carminali, Dick Brugiere, Lou Nova and Edmund and Toni Anderson—in a word, all the glamour girls and all the glitter boys in a Niagara of John's best Perrier Jouet, just like old times!

A correspondent's request for the formula for fishhouse punch, the great Annapolis drink, elicits the following formula from A. K. Mills, the demon publicist: six quarts of rye, one pint of rum, a quart of peach brandy, a cup of lemon juice, four cups of sugar

ROYALTON AUGUSTUS HERRING—just a guy with a car who met a girl.

CHAPTER IV
"Gosh," said Roy, "you don't mean it. What does that make me?"

J. Pemberton seemed surprised. "Make you? It doesn't make you anything. I thought you said you were an evolutionist. Well, a remark or two isn't going to make you anything different, is it?"

"I suppose not."
"Good. But this is really very fortunate. I didn't know Baskerville was so well connected."
"Oh, he's only an evolutionist's cousin," said Roy modestly. "But think of it. Here I've had a man in my employ all this time whose cousin was an evolutionist. And I didn't know it."

"Well," said Roy negligently, "we don't talk very much in our family."
"Family? H'm. It must be a pretty good family if you've had so much education. Can't think why Baskerville's a chauffeur."

"Baskerville? Oh, he's the black sheep."
"Humph! Too bad. Well, young man, you've got a real treat in store for you. I'll show you my museum."

"You don't mean you've got a museum?"
J. Pemberton swelled visibly. "Haven't I, eh? Well, let me tell you that I've got a private museum with stuff that some of the universities and big museums would give their shirts to get hold of. For example—"his voice sank lower and his eyes glittered—"I've got one of the finest Gobi dinosaurs in the world."

"You have!" exclaimed Roy. "I said I had. Come along. We'll go and see it now."
"Do you think I'd better," Roy asked, "in this costume?"

"My dear fellow!" J. Pemberton Ganning scoffed. "As if I care what you've got on. You can go about in Chinese pajamas if you want to. The fact that you're interested in something vital is enough for me. Come along!"

They went across the lawn. J. Pemberton Ganning in his gray blanket giving somewhat the appearance of Sitting Bull on the march. As they neared the house, the overlord of the Gannings stopped suddenly and clutched Roy's arm.

"See that?" he asked, pointing excitedly.
Roy followed his finger. A youth had come around a corner of the house, a bullet-headed youth with brown hair. In one hand he carried a golf club and in the other a white cloth bag. Even as they looked, he opened the bag and allowed a number of golf balls to fall to the greensward. Then he gripped the club, took a stance and made a furious practice swing, lifting a fair-sized divot from the Ganning lawn.

"It's only . . ." began Roy, and stopped.
From the other side of the house there appeared a similar youth, attired exactly as the first and carrying the same impedimenta. This second youth put down his bag and glared across at the first. The first returned the glare with one of equal stoniness. And in those two sets of eyes there was little sympathy and understanding, an entire absence of brotherly love. The glare lasted a full minute. Then, as if declaring a mutual truce, they turned simultaneously to divot-taking.

"There you have it," said J. Pemberton Ganning hoarsely. "That's what I've got to put up with."
"They're only a couple of golfers," said Roy.
J. Pemberton looked at him pityingly.

"If that were all," he said, "I wouldn't mind. But"—he drove a fist into the palm of his other hand—"one of them's a banjo player and I mean to ferret out which it is after breakfast. And when I do, I'll throw him out on his ear and his banjo after him."

"Good stuff," said Roy approvingly.
And then a vision loomed up before them. It had on a light blue sports dress and black-and-white shoes. It floated—a thing like this, in the opinion of Mr. Roy Herring, didn't walk like mundane people—up to J. Pemberton Ganning and implanted a kiss somewhere in the region of the mustaches.

"Oh, um—good morning, my dear," said J. Pemberton. "I'm—or—this is a friend of mine, Mr.—ah—er—I forgot the name. Anyhow," he concluded triumphantly, "he's an evolutionist."

The vision looked at Roy and allowed one black-lashed lid to drop over an iris-colored eye. Then she gave him a smile that almost unseated his reason.

"Daddy's so bad at names," she said, holding out her hand. "How do you do, Mr. . . ."
"Herring," said Roy gravely. "I don't think I told your father."

But J. Pemberton Ganning was anxious to display the Gobi dinosaur.
"Come on, Mr. Herring," he said. "Barbara, tell those idiotic boys to go farther down the lawn. They'll be breaking windows where they are. Now then, Herring. This way."

As he followed, Roy threw a glance over his shoulder. The vision stood looking after them and her eyes seemed to be laughing. He hoped he didn't look too ridiculous in his striped dressing-gown.

Breakfast, which Roy had obtained by slipping around to the kitchen after viewing Mr. Ganning's museum, was over. And now, having substituted sports clothes for the bathing costume, the younger of the two evolutionists lurked in the vicinity of the garage, his mind occupied with several problems which needed immediate attention. First and foremost, he perceived that if he were to continue as persona grata above the garage, he must improve his rather sketchy knowledge of evolution. Either that or consistently dodge J. Pemberton Ganning. His next problem was to see Barbara. But even as he gazed across the lawn he found this one being solved rapidly. She was approaching with speed, a goddess in a blue dress, and in her hand was something that flashed and glittered. She came up out of breath.

"Here," she commanded. "Take it quick!" Roy suddenly found himself nursing a banjo.

She was approaching with speed, a goddess in a blue dress, and in her hand was something that flashed and glittered. She came up out of breath.

"Here," she commanded. "Take it quick!" Roy suddenly found himself nursing a banjo.

He gaped at it. "Why—er—what the devil . . ."
Barbara seized his arm and shook it. "Don't be stupid. Take it up to your room and hide it quickly. Father's on the war-path."

Mr. Herring grasped the situation with admirable celerity. He did as bidden and returned. "Well, that's that," Barbara said, with relief. "The evidence is buried. Wilfrid was fool enough to play that thing under father's window last night and it kept father awake. He's holding an inquisition at the breakfast table now."

"I see. How did you get the banjo?"
"Took it out of Wilfrid's room. I was afraid father would brain him with it."
"Won't he own up to having played it?"
"Wilfrid own up? Not much. He lied like a trooper. He said he didn't even own a banjo. And then Ron saw a chance to get in soft and cramp Wilfrid's style, so he spoke up and said of course Wilfrid had a banjo. And Wilfrid said he had a banjo and they nearly had a fight right at the table. But father said he guessed they were both liars, which is pretty true when you come right down to it. And after breakfast, he's going to conduct a search."

"And if he finds it in my room?" asked Roy.
"Oh, he doesn't connect you with it. He won't look over the garage."
"Even if he does, I'll be all right."
"I don't understand," Barbara looked puzzled.

"Well, I can't afford to take any chances," said Roy comfortingly. "So I put it under Baskerville's bed."

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Tigers Win From Cleveland; Go Into Third Place

DETROIT COPS 11-2 SLUGFEST

Bridges Defeats Indians for Tenth Victory of Season

Cleveland, June 26 (AP)—Covering more ground in the long haul from the bottom of the American League toward the top, the Detroit Tigers galloped into third place by smiting the previous occupants, Cleveland's Indians, 11 to 2, today.

With war clubs swinging, the Tigers lashed Mel Harder and two other Indian pitchers for 15 hits, climaxing the attack with a bagful of runs in the seventh and eighth innings, while Tommy Bridges went along serenely to victory No. 10 against one defeat.

Right Behind Sox
The triumph, in which the Indians' old pal, Earl Averill, was a major star, moved the Tigers a half game ahead of Cleveland and kept them on the heels of the second place Boston Red Sox.

Up to the seventh, when Detroit climbed on Harder and Johnny Broaca in a four-run rally, the battle was a pitching duel with Bridges holding a 2 to 0 edge. The Tigers spanked Bill Zuber in the eighth, lacing him for five runs.

Given an 11 to 0 lead, Bridges eased up and granted four straight singles in the last of the eighth which put over Cleveland's only run. Tommy's control was a little tight, and he walked none while striking out seven batters.

Paying his first visit to Cleveland in a Tiger uniform Averill made the occasion a sweet day for himself. The veteran outfielder, whom Detroit got by trade from the Indians a few weeks ago, celebrated with two singles and a double, driving in two runs and scoring twice.

A shaken-up Tiger batting order presented Pinky Higgins in the cleanup spot, where he continued his hard clouting with two blows, while Hank Greenberg was dropped to sixth. Charley Gehring pulled a leg muscle while running the bases in the seventh and Red Kress replaced him at second.

Bridges Starts Rally
The Tigers picked up their first two runs in the fifth, starting with a walk to Birdie Tebbetts and Bridges' sacrifice, a stunt in which he is expert. Barney McCosky plunked a single to right to score Tebbetts and followed him around on Averill's double off the right field screen.

Bridges opened the seventh inning rally with a single and McCosky walked. Averill's single filled the bags, and Gehring smashed a two-bagger off the wall in right to clean them, and cause Harder's removal. Charley hurt his leg, and Kress, who ran for him, came home on Pete Fox's single off Broaca.

With Zuber on the mound, the Tigers went to town in the eighth for five more runs on as many hits. Tebbetts walked again to start it, and Bridges again sacrificed him along. McCosky's bunt to Keltner at third was good for a single, Tebbetts reaching that base.

Averill's single scored Tebbetts, Kress' fly scored McCosky, and Higgins' single scored Averill. Fox got a scratch hit, and both he and Higgins scored a moment later on Greenberg's blow through short.

EAGLES TRIM MUNISING, 16-2

Slam Three Visiting Aces for 16 Hits for Easy League Victory

Slamming three pitchers for 16 hits, the Escanaba Eagles easily trounced Munising, 16-2, in a Rainbow league game here Sunday. The game showed Munising down to third place in the league standings and put Escanaba in first place over Manistique, which defeated Gladstone.

The Eagles showed they were in no mood for play by starting their scoring spree early. They opened the jackpot in the second inning with three runs and followed with two more in the next frame. Munising touched Greenless with two runs in the fourth but that was the extent of their scoring. Thereafter, the Eagles counted once in the sixth and five times each in the seventh and eighth innings.

Russ Carlson, local catcher, led the Eagle attack with three doubles and a single, driving in four runs. Curran and Smithwick with two hits each also batted in four runs each.

The game was loosely played. Each team making three errors. Greenless allowed seven hits and struck out 14 batters.

Curtis Defeats Grand Marais, 6-1

Curtis, June 26.—Displaying smashing power and superb fielding, the Curtis Resorters handed Grand Marais their worst licking since the league season began, by 6-1.

Only two men reached third base for Grand Marais, while Curtis piled all over Chevette for 15 safeties. Grand Marais' lone tally came in the second when Merakas was hit by a pitched ball, went to third on a single and scored on an outfield out.

The game started out like another pitchers' duel between Chevette and Brotherton, but the Resorters got to Chevette in the third while Brotherton was hand-cuffing Grand Marais the rest of the way.

Galento Backers Are Few, Want Big Odds

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, June 26 (AP)—There is a little scrambling for foot-holds on the Tony Galento bandwagon as his bout with Joe Louis nears, but despite the noise there is the vague idea that even those who are shouting loudest for two-ton Tony are trying to down their misgivings. All they want is 20 to 1 that Tony wins by a knockout.

"And they aren't getting it," tersely commented Jack Doyle, Broadway betting commissioner. "The price on Galento to win is 6 to 1," he commented. "It is even money that he doesn't come up for the fourth round, 5 to 2 that he doesn't come up for the 10th, and 5 to 1 that he doesn't come up for the 15th." There was no price on whether he comes up to the stadium.

Odds Will Drop
"The price on him winning probably will drop to 3 1/2 to 4 to 1 Wednesday, the night of the fight," Doyle explained. "It always drops that way. Louis was an 8 or 10 to 1 favorite over Schmeling a few days before their first fight, but the price dropped to 3 1/2 and 4 to 1 on fight night. It's the old law of supply and demand. They take what they can get."

The 6 to 1 win and 20 to 1 knockout prices would appear to contradict each other, inasmuch as it is the general opinion that if Galento wins at all it must be by a knockout. The critics just can't visualize Tony lumbering through 15 rounds to a decision over a man who is a better boxer, a better two-handed puncher and has a sharp advantage in reach.

Joe Shows Class
Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 26 (AP)—Joe Louis showed something of championship form today as he put the final touches on his training for Wednesday night's heavyweight title battle with Tony Galento in New York.

The well-trained champ was hitting hard and fast about as he stepped through four brick rounds before a gathering of 500 customers. He stepped a heat each with George Snell of Chicago; Joe Banovic of Binghamton, N. Y.; Jim Howell and George Nicholson of New York.

Louis not only landed almost at will with rights and lefts, but came up with a defense for left hooks—the weapon Galento will rely upon mainly when the pair meet in the ring.

Both Bavonic and Snell flung left after left. Bavonic connected once. The others fell flat.
Louis' handlers said he will weigh in around 201 pounds. He will wait until tomorrow and remain here until time to motor to New York for the weighing in ceremonies at noon Wednesday.

GARDEN LOSES AT BARK RIVER

Home Towners Capture Heavy Hitting Tilt By 16-11 Score

Bark River, Mich., June 26—Garden and Bark River were in a hitting mood here Sunday and socked everything in sight and, when it was all over, Bark River was at the long end of a 16-11 score.

Garden took a five run lead in the first half of the first inning but Bark River ate into it with three runs in the first and second. Garden made the score 8-3 with a trio of runs in the fourth but Bark River came back with a resounding nine run rally which put them in the lead which they never relinquished.

Kleiman and Ward led the Bark River attack with three hits each. Kleiman swatting a home run. Ranquette had two hits for the visitors, one of which was a triple.

LOCALS SPILL NIAGARA, 4-3

Escanaba Out of League Cellar With Third Win of Season

The Escanaba city team came back into the win column and out of their cellar position in the Northern Michigan - Wisconsin league Sunday with a 4-3 victory over Niagara at Niagara. The win was Escanaba's third of the season, and was particularly welcome against Niagara, league leaders.

Hits were scattered and only one during the entire game, a double, went for extra bases. The locals collected two runs in both the second and fifth, while the defenders' tallies were strung out in the second, third and ninth. The score in the last of the ninth almost proved disastrous to the visitors' record, as it lifted Niagara to within one point of a tie score, but Brazeau, who pitched all the way, squelched the rally before it did any serious damage.

Kamrath, Sullivan, Flath and Renard stood out for Escanaba in the batting department, with two hits apiece, while Thiebert, Niagara's center fielder also collected two safeties, one of them a double.

A threatened Escanaba scoring spree was shut off by a fast-moving double play by Niagara, Wilson to Miller to Collins.

CARDS BEATEN BY GLADSTONE

Manistique Team Drops 8-7 Decision In League Game

Manistique — The Gladstone baseball team evened the score with the Manistique Cardinals Sunday, when they defeated the Cards, 8 to 7, in a Rainbow league game at Manistique. The Cards defeated Gladstone in the first meeting of the teams earlier this season.

Weakness at bat again proved the downfall of the Cards. They touched Dementer and Fitzpatrick for only four hits. Pitchers for both teams, however, were generous with passes. Gladstone received nine walks and Manistique ten.

The Cardinals held the lead on only one occasion, at the end of the fifth when they scored three runs. Gladstone quickly regained the lead in the sixth with a four run outburst and were never headed.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, June 26 (AP)—Increasing international tension was blamed partly today for the sharpest drop in stock market prices in the past two weeks.

Leaders lost fractions to more than 2 points at the worst, although mild recoveries were in evidence here and there at the close. Industrials suffered the largest declines. Rails and utilities held fairly well.

Dealings were slow except for one or two selling surges after mid-day. Transfers totaled 502,210 shares compared with 477,810 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 50 issues was off .8 of a point at 46.6.

Depressing sentiment, brokers said, was the cloudier appearance of the British-Japanese controversy in the Far East, news the Russians and Japanese air forces have been battling on the Mongol border for about a month, and the latest Hitler speech which was interpreted as a new threat toward the non-aggression front.

Relative lightness of offerings apparently was due to the continued brightness of business prospects at home.

The estimated dip in this week's steel mill operations of .7 of a point at 54.3 percent of capacity was hardly surprising to the financial district in view of the recent rebound in production. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem shares merely trailed the other groups.

Action of the senate in voting down the president's power to devalue the dollar was followed by another vote hiking the price of silver and both moves came too late to be an important market factor. Wall Street subsequently, however, refused to get enthused over the former development because it was realized the house had previously approved continuation of the devaluing power, which is to expire June 30, and that the legislation will now have to go to conference to iron out the differences. In other words, the thought was present that the chief executive's power to cut the value of the currency could yet be prolonged.

Foreign bonds weakened and domestic corporate loans tilted downward on a small turnover. Commodities came back after a bad start. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off 3-8 of a cent a bushel and corn unchanged to up 3-8. Cotton was 25 cents a bale higher to down 10 cents. European markets inclined to slip.

Fractionally in arrears in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed, American Gas & Electric and American Cyanamid "B." Standard Steel Spring dropped more than a point while Nebel-rallyed nearly as much. Turnover of 105,000 shares compared with 78,000 Friday.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

New York, June 26 (AP)—Stocks: Heavy; industrials retreat. Bonds: Lower; foreign loans decline. Curb: Down; all groups hit. Foreign Exchange: Quiet; market watches Far East. Cattle: Steady to 25 lower.

Scout Band Music And Movies Among "Bounce" Features

Escanaba's Boy Scout Band, the only Boy Scout Band in the Upper Peninsula, will take part in the Boy Scout Bounce to be held at the Escanaba Junior high school on June 28. The band is made up of Scouts and Cubs from various units in the city. Eleven regular members of the Scout band are at Mackinac Island and will practice there daily for their part in the show. Several musical selections will be offered including a "swing" band number. The band has been playing for a little over a year and are greatly in demand. The band idea was originated and promoted by the Odd Fellows Lodge of Escanaba. A. W. Erickson is director of Escanaba's Scout Band.

Sound motion pictures "Knights in Khaki" and "Dangerous Trails" also will be shown at the Boy Scout Bounce. "Knights in Khaki" is the story of how a Scout troop helps a father prove to his lazy son that Scouting offers rewards which fully compensate a boy for exerting himself. "Dangerous Trails" follows the adventures of a Scout troop in the various activities they take part in.

England's oldest pension dates back to 936 A. D. when King Ethelred founded an annual grant to the parish priest of Purhoe, a small village near Exeter, for bravery against Danish invaders. The payment has been made to the vicar of the parish ever since that time.

Fight Over Distribution Of Justice Fines To Be Taken To Circuit Court

An amicable court fight to settle the long standing misunderstanding over disposition of justice court fines between the county and the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone is in prospect as a result of action taken at a regular meeting of the board of supervisors at the courthouse yesterday.

The question arose on the floor of the meeting yesterday with a communication from Escanaba and one from Gladstone, indicating both cities felt unjustified in honoring bills amounting to about $6,000, presented to them recently by the county treasurer on the basis of justice court fines allegedly illegally turned over to the cities when they should have been given to the county. After considerable discussion pro and con over the issue on the floor, the proposition was submitted to the finance committee for consideration with mayors of both cities. The committee reported out an agreement for a friendly court suit to have the proper legal ruling on the case. The county prosecutor and the city attorneys of Escanaba and Gladstone will agree on facts of the case and submit them to Judge Frank A. Bell, circuit court judge, for a decision. It is likely that future distribution of fines will be materially affected by the ruling.

Delegates Named
The board approved a resolution asking the Soo Line and the Public Utilities Commission to reconsider a plan to discontinue trains No. 87 and 88. It was pointed out that the discontinuation of these two trains not only would vitally affect the occupation of 14 or 15 regular employees in Gladstone but also would curtail mail and passenger service from the Soo to Minneapolis. The board also adopted a resolution instructing the county judge of probate to send all county medical cases to Ann Arbor by rail instead of automobile.

Payment of $1,500 to the Pinecrest sanatorium as the final payment of the 1937 county allotment of $3,000 was authorized. As a result of the discussion on expenses of operation of the sanatorium, the county clerk was instructed to write proper authorities for a per capita cost of operating various sanatoriums throughout the state of Michigan. Several supervisors indicated they were of the opinion that there is a heavy operating cost at the Pinecrest institution as compared with other similar institutions throughout the state.

Chairman O. J. Thorsen and Mayors Peter Logan of Escanaba and Joseph LaFramboise of Gladstone were named to attend the state supervisors' association convention at Cheboygan. LaFramboise and C. J. Burns of this city were named as representatives of the board on the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau. Burns succeeds himself while LaFramboise succeeds J. A. Bradahl, former member of the board.

An additional $300 was voted to the veterans' fund, which already is overdrawn. Handing of this veterans' fund was secured by several supervisors as being extravagant and unnecessary and the $300 granted yesterday was earmarked only for medicinal and hospitalization purposes.

To Aid Convention
After hearing a discussion of the forthcoming state Legion convention, the board authorized the finance committee to further investigate the financial need and gave it power to act in appropriating not more than $1,000 for staging of the convention.

A report that Justice of Peace Thomas Truckey of Garden was in arrears of about $275 in fines covering a six year period and was unable to pay. The prosecuting attorney was ordered to make a further investigation and recommend possible action at the October meeting.

A request of Curtis Blosser of Cooks for $10 for the loss of two turkeys because of stray dogs was tabled as was a request for donation towards a Fourth of July celebration at Pinecrest sanatorium.

The county treasurer was authorized to advertise not to exceed $200 the new regulations allowing payment of delinquent taxes without the usual penalties attached. This is effective on taxes before September 30.

Money Request Denied
The treasurer was authorized to allocate national forest service money to schools and roads in the districts where the federal government has purchased property.

A request of $150 to help finance a county potato show was denied. The board suggested that individual townships be asked to sponsor the show.

County Veterinarian L. J. Holden was instructed to communicate with the state agriculture department in an attempt to regulate transportation of cattle through the county with the idea of prevention of disease by transient cattle. County Agricultural Agent E. A. Wenner was instructed to advise farmers to be on guard against such foreign infection of their cattle.

Whitney Postoffice To Be Discontinued

The fourth class postoffice at Whitney will be discontinued on June 30, according to word received from W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster general.

The patrons of the Whitney postoffice will be given service from rural free delivery route No. 2 out of Bark River after June 30. Walter A. Pach is the present postmaster at Whitney.

More than 60 species of mosquitoes are known to exist in the United States.

Supervisors In Trouble Over Dogs; Suggest "Dog Warden"

The city council has no monopoly on going to the dogs. Some time ago, the council went to the dogs and now they've got the county board of supervisors doing it!

It all came about this way. During an ordinary and peaceful discussion at the county board of supervisors' meeting yesterday, someone inadvertently dropped that electrifying, awe-inspiring question: "What are we going to do about dogs?"

That started the whole thing off just like the innocent assassination of the Archduke at Serajevo which eventually led to the World War. Well, of course, matters didn't progress that far but there was plenty of argument before they called off the dogs.

Prosecuting Attorney William J. Miller, upon request, told all he knew about dogs—or, rather, about their control. He said the state law provides that the supervisor of each township or district shall prepare a list of all dogs in his respective district. The list shall contain the owner's name, residence, breed of dog, age and distinct markings. The list then shall be turned over for collection of fees. He said the law provides for a "dog warden" whose duty it shall be to round up all stray dogs and either dispose of them or make the owners tie them up. It shall be his duty, too, to see that they are licensed. There, of course, was a tough proposition that the supervisors had never considered. After all, how were they to find time enough to go all through their respective districts recording the pedigree of the pooches of the neighborhood? Yes, sir, that would be enough to make their pups ache! So, the supervisors delegated the clerk to write to other counties for information on how they keep from going to the dogs. If it works, the supervisors will try the panacea at the October meeting.
