

BRITISH WON'T FIGHT, GERMANS SAY

LONDON GETS DEFENSE SET FOR ATTACKS

PERIL MET CALMLY BY PEOPLE; HUGE GUNS MANNED

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain solemnly told Britain today that it was in "imminent peril of war," and the nation hurriedly but calmly prepared to meet the danger.

Parliament, answering an appeal by Chamberlain for speedy action, passed without a record vote an emergency powers bill giving the government virtual dictatorial authority and suspending some civil liberties; King George, having cut short a vacation to hurry to London in the crisis, immediately gave assent to the measure.

Museums Closed The British navy was reported to have strung a barrier across the Skagerrak, strategic channel commanding the entrance to the Baltic Sea; the foreign office advised British subjects to cancel vacations abroad; women and children left London for the country; workmen silently but hurriedly built air raid shelters in London's parks, and gleaming anti-aircraft guns were manned there.

American tourists in England, Scotland and Wales—there are between 3,000 and 4,000 of them—were advised by Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy to go home immediately.

Museums in London were closed and steps were taken to move art treasures to safer places; precious stained glass windows in Canterbury Cathedral were being removed and taken to an unknown underground vault; all London school teachers were ordered to return from vacation and report at their schools Saturday to prepare for possible evacuation of children into the country.

Standing By Pledge The tenor of all this preparation was one of calmness and determination. This was a keynote sounded for the nation by tall, 70-year-old Chamberlain in a speech to the house of commons reviewing recent events and urging passage of the wartime emergency bill.

Chamberlain told commons that Wednesday's diplomatic message to Chancellor Hitler, delivered by the British ambassador and restating Britain's position, was answered by Hitler with a demand for a free hand for Germany in eastern Europe.

Hitler added that any country which interfered was to blame for any war that might ensue, Chamberlain related. He implored Hitler to settle his dispute with Poland by negotiation, but he firmly repeated that Britain would stand by her pledge to assist Poland in event she resists a threat to her independence.

"As we think, so shall we fight, as a united nation," he said. Commons arose and cheered his.

Unity Stressed And the British press almost as a single voice stressed the nation's unity in support of Chamberlain in his course in the crisis.

In passing the emergency powers bill parliament agreed to these (Continued on Page Two)

Additional State Employees Removed From Civil Service

Lansing, Aug. 24 (AP)—An additional 108 state employees, including 90 in the corrections commission, were placed in the unclassified service today by the civil service commission.

Upon the recommendation of Paul T. Anderson, acting personnel director, the commission also declassified five division heads under control of the state administrative board and 12 housemothers at the Girls' Training School at Adrian.

The commission refused, however, to act on a corrections commission request to declassify 235 other employees, including 90 secretaries, pending "further investigation."

"We need more information before we can consider further declassification," Chairman William A. Irving said. To date, the commission has stripped approximately 1,100 state employees of civil service protection under the revised merit law enacted at the last legislative session. Several thousand others automatically were removed from civil service rolls by the act itself.

16 at Marquette Those declassified in the corrections commission—all "supervisory" and "policy-determining" employees—included 28 division heads at the state prison of Southern Michigan, 22 at Ionia state reformatory, 20 in the department of prison industries, 16 at Marquette branch prison, three in the bureau of pardons and paroles, and one in the commission office.

Previously, 59 corrections commission employees had been placed in the unclassified service. The department has approximately 975 employees.

The board, in declassifying four buyers in the state purchasing department, overrode Anderson's recommendation that they retain civil service status. It went along with him, however, in declassifying the purchasing director.

In addition, the commission placed the head of the office division of the military establishment on the unclassified list and denied a request for declassification of the secretary to the chairman of the milk marketing board.

The resignation of Robert J. Birenbaum, chief examiner, was accepted. It will become effective Aug. 30.

ACCUSED TORSO SLAYER SUICIDE

Prisoner At Cleveland Hangs Himself With Ragged Towel

Cleveland, Aug. 24 (AP)—The suicide of the only person ever formally charged in Cleveland's 12 "torso" slayings added another question mark tonight to the five-year investigation.

Frank Dolezal, 52, brawny Bohemian-born bricklayer accused of decapitating Mrs. Florence Polillo, hanged himself from a clothes hook with a ragged towel at county jail, Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said. Coroner S. R. Gerber returned a suicide verdict.

Deputy Sheriff Hug Crawford found the accused man's limp body and cut him down. On two previous occasions, the sheriff said, Dolezal had attempted to end his life—first only three days after his arrest, when he attempted hanging with a shoe string, and later with his shirt, which broke.

An original charge of murder against the suspect was reduced to manslaughter, and he was to have faced a grand jury investigation on that count Sept. 7.

On July 7 O'Donnell announced the suspect, after 40 hours of questioning, confessed slaying Mrs. Polillo, a 42-year-old waitress listed as No. 3 among the "torso" victims.

Her decapitated body was found Jan. 23, 1936, in a vacant lot, but the head was never recovered.

Airport Inspection In State Canceled

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Thomas S. Voss, acting commandant of Selfridge Field, received word today that the visit of Major General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, has been cancelled indefinitely.

The air chief and his staff were scheduled to arrive in Michigan Sunday for a four-day inspection of airport and industrial facilities. No reason was given for the sudden change in plans.

JUDGE TO SEEK DETROIT CRAFT

Secret 'Hideout' Will Be Used for Grand Jury Witnesses

Detroit, Aug. 24 (AP)—Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, appointed a one-man grand jury to investigate charges of collusion between police and gamblers, disclosed today he had arranged a secret "hideout" for grand jury sessions.

The judge said routine sessions of the grand jury would be held in the county building, but that the "hideout" would be used when necessity demands that the names of those who come and go remain secret.

County auditors have agreed that the names of secret investigators will not appear on the payroll of Chester P. O'Hara, special grand jury prosecutor. The names will not be known to them or any one else except the judge and O'Hara.

Answering questions as to the scope of the investigation, both Judge Ferguson and O'Hara declared it would deal only with sifting of charges that there is graft and corruption between members of the Detroit police department and the city's commercial gamblers.

O'Hara said emphatically that the grand jury would not study alleged unethical practices in the building trades, as was requested in a petition filed by Attn. Gen. Thomas Read.

Three Men Escape From Antrim Jail, One Is Recaptured

Bellaire, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—One of the three prisoners who escaped last night from the Antrim county jail was recaptured there tonight. He was Joe Tincher, 20, of Charleston, West Va.

Tincher and Leland Decker, 26, of Central Lake, and Ira Higby, 19, of East Jordan, broke out of the jail during a thunder storm. They saw a hole in the ceiling of the cell block and climbed into an attic, finally lowering themselves to the ground with strips of knotted blankets.

Tincher sprained an ankle in descending and was unable to leave town with the others, he said. He is held for breaking and entering. The others were accused of attempted larceny.

Exemption Granted Lumber Industry In Labor Standard Act

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—The wage-hour administration granted the lumber industry in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota a partial exemption from the fair labor standards act today for spring freshet driving.

Administrator Elmer F. Andrews ruled that the operation was seasonal and the industry entitled to an exemption which will permit employment of workers for as much as 56 hours a week for 14 weeks without payment of overtime compensation.

Ordinarily overtime pay is required for work done in excess of 44 hours a week.

NOTE IS SENT ADOLF HITLER BY ROOSEVELT

METHODS OUTLINED FOR AVERTING BLOODSHED

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—With a forceful message to Adolf Hitler, and a milder communication to President Ignace Moscicki of Poland, President Roosevelt tonight renewed his efforts to keep Europe at peace.

He suggested three methods of settling the German claims to Danzig and the Polish Corridor—discussion between the Nazi and Polish governments, arbitration, or submission of the dispute to conciliation through a neutral third party.

Not a Conciliator Stephen T. Early, the White House secretary who made public the messages told reporters that neither the president nor any member of the United States government was offering himself in the role of conciliator.

Consequently, Early said, there was no possible suggestion of involving this government.

The president, Early said, did not have in mind another "Munich," since in both messages he said: "Both Poland and Germany being sovereign governments, it is understood, of course, that upon resort to any one of the alternatives I suggest, each nation will agree to accord complete respect to the independence and territorial integrity of the other."

No Answer In April Early said the message to Hitler had been sent in sufficient time to have reached him at the moment it was given to the press here—10:15 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

When the president sent his appeal in April to Hitler, the latter objected that it had been made public here and in various European nations, before it reached him.

While tonight's messages contained some identical language, there were passages in each far different in tone.

First of all, the president reminded Hitler that the latter had not done him the courtesy to reply to his last peace appeal, transmitted April 14. But, Mr. Roosevelt added, the cause of world peace rises high above all such considerations.

Ammunition, Guns In Car, 3 Quizzed By Detroit Police

Detroit, Aug. 24 (AP)—Detectives of the special investigation squad questioned three men arrested today in an automobile which police said contained a large quantity of ammunition, a shotgun and a revolver.

Patrolman Fred Robinson said the men were taken into custody in front of a CIO United Automobile Workers Union hall. The officer said the men told him they were organizers for the American Federation of Labor sent from Pittsburgh. Their car bore Pennsylvania license plates.

The three gave their names as Carl K. Greene, 31, Henry A. McFarland, 28, and Jesse Gallagher, 30, all of Pittsburgh. Greene admitted ownership of the weapons; police said, but declined to discuss their presence in the automobile. Both weapons were loaded.

Racketeer Buchalter, Hunted For Two Years, Surrenders to Hoover, FBI Chief

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, for a month the most hunted man in America, surrendered tonight to the head of the nation's G-men, J. Edgar Hoover.

Quietly and secretly, the boss racketeer submitted to arrest somewhere in Manhattan—in a dramatic meeting in which he and the federal bureau of investigation director were alone.

The surrender took place shortly after 9 p. m. (EST) and an hour later Hoover announced it at FBI headquarters. He gave few details but asserted Lepke, the fugitive was waging a deadly "war of extermination" against witnesses and former associates.

The city subsequently raised the reward for information leading to the capture of Lepke from $5,000 to $25,000 and only this week it was learned the FBI had likewise raised its reward. In announcing the surrender, however, Hoover said no money was involved.

Lepke, taken to the detention pen in the federal courthouse, was to be questioned all night and arraigned tomorrow morning before a United States commissioner.

Will Poland Be Split Up Anew?

Is a German-Russian non-aggression agreement also a death warrant for Poland? . . . The present Polish Republic, like Czechoslovakia won independence from Russia after the World war and was augmented by patches of other countries, principally the defeated Germany and Austria-Hungary. If another war or "appeasement" resulted in the partition of Poland between Russia and Germany, it would be the fourth time that an independent Poland has been wiped out, and divided up among powerful neighbors. The map above shows a possible basis for such a fourth partition. After the World war, Russia lost the large dark area; the shaded parts to the west and south were taken away from Germany and Austria-Hungary.

Americans In Europe Crowd Boats For Home

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—Holiday Americans, warned to cut short their visits in view of the critical international situation, jammed westbound travel facilities tonight.

Liners leaving from ports in the British Isles—especially those of neutral countries like the United States and the Netherlands—were booked to capacity. Many arranged to set up cots in lounges and dining rooms to accommodate additional passengers.

Bay City Firm Low On Mosquito Fleet Submarine Chaser

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Defoe Boat and Motor Works, Bay City, Mich., submitted the apparent low bid to the navy today for construction of a 170-foot submarine chaser, the last of the 12 vessels contemplated in the navy's new "mosquito fleet" authorized last year.

The Defoe company bid $1,056,400 for the hull and fitting, machinery and spare machinery parts delivered at Norfolk, Va., and $1,048,400 for delivery at the plant.

Navy officials explained, however, that the bids submitted were not strictly comparable due to variations in types of machinery and equipment the several bidders proposed to use.

Eleven vessels in the "mosquito fleet," built from designs developed in a nationwide competition, already are under contract and the first is scheduled for delivery at Norfolk about December 1.

The total program includes 8 motor torpedo boats and 4 submarine chasers.

Riviera Danger Spot In France

Nice, France, Aug. 24 (AP)—Americans by the hundreds scurried for home today and American consular officials hastened plans for the mass evacuation of thousands others, chased by war clouds from the Riviera sun.

Overnight the 15-mile beach playground between here and the frontier was transformed into a potential danger area, and the exodus was spurred by an official notice from the United States embassy in Paris late in the day advising all Americans in France to hurry home.

But many did not wait for this. They started packing the moment they discovered the beaches, where only yesterday they idled by the Sapphirae sea, were occupied by grim Senegalese troops armed with machine guns.

They had the following disconcerting facts to digest over their coffee and cognac: A triangular area running from Nice to the Italian border, then back into the mountains, may have to be evacuated of its 30,000 residents because of the presence on the Italian side of the border of heavy guns capable of shelling a considerable part of the section. American consular action have worked out an evacuation plan with the United States navy.

Norway, Gibraltar, Cairo and London Feel Stir Of War

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—The general postoffice today asked telephone users to limit private conversations to the minimum to give the right of way to "essential calls."

The telephone service will be used if mobilization or air raid precautions must be taken quickly.

Gibraltar, Aug. 24 (AP)—All artists and musicians, except Britons, holding permits to reside in the British military garrison, were notified today they must evacuate by Saturday.

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 24 (AP)—Norwegian diplomats on vacation were ordered back to their posts.

Jerusalem, Aug. 24 (AP)—Britain's high commissioner for Palestine, Sir Harry McMichael, who left Aug. 13 for a two months holiday, was recalled today, departing from England by air. He was expected here Friday evening.

Copenhagen, Aug. 24 (AP)—Prime Minister Sauntey announced after a two hour cabinet meeting that "everything is ready for enactment of quick preparedness measures."

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 24 (AP)—The British charge d'affaires, the general officer commanding British troops in Egypt, and other state officers conferred with the Egyptian high command today. Troops were being sent westward today as a precautionary measure. Italian Libya lies to the west of Egypt.

Paris, Aug. 24 (AP)—It was officially announced today that all holidays for employees of firms engaged on national defense works have been cancelled.

WISCONSIN TAX BILL WHITTLED

Senate Ponders Revenue Plan to Balance State Budget

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24 (AP)—Administrative forces in the Wisconsin senate salvaged about $10,800,000 out of the assembly's $16,000,000 tax bill today and adjourned until tomorrow to determine whether a supplemental revenue measure would be necessary to balance the budget.

The new income surtax, which in original form would have raised $14,000,000, was withdrawn at the request of Senator Otto Mueller (Rep) of Sauk, chairman of the finance committee.

The senate reversed by 17 to 14 its previous adoption of the amendment, which would have fixed the income surtax proceeds at about $10,200,000 and earmarked the entire yield for old age pensions.

This left in the assembly bill the 60 per cent income surtax, which was in effect last year. The 60 per cent tax, yielding an estimated $4,800,000 for the current biennium, and the proposed $6,000,000 tax on cigars, would produce $10,800,000.

Oakland Prosecutor Demands Ouster Of 'Fee Mill' Justice

Lansing, Aug. 24 (AP)—Governor Dickinson received his third ouster petition within 24 hours today, a demand from Oakland county Prosecutor Charles L. Wilson that he remove Vincent S. Wootton, a Royal Oak township justice of the peace, on grounds that he operated "a fee mill or speed trap."

The governor announced yesterday he would hold an ouster hearing Sept. 8 on charges that C. A. Crosier of Battle Creek was guilty of irregular conduct as a member of the state electrical administrative board, and another Sept. 7 on charges that Roy Minney, Monroe county constable, violated the law by accepting money from three men he had arrested.

No date was set for Wootton's hearing.

ROOMER FOUND DEAD

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—David Burling, 69, formerly of Ishpeming, was found dead in his gas-filled bedroom in a rooming house here today. Coroner Marvin Fassbender said death probably premeditated as a jet was obly and there were no pans or dishes on the stove.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER Berlin, Aug. 25 (Friday) (AP)—Adolf Hitler and his most trusted advisers deliberated early today on his asserted right to a free hand in eastern Europe in light of Germany's consultation and non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's speech to the British house of commons.

In authoritative quarters, Chamberlain's speech was pronounced "purely negative."

Only the ministers most directly involved surrounded Hitler at the conference which went into the early hours of the morning. They included among others Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels and Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy party leader.

High military officers also were present.

Danzig Comes First It was considered most likely that an official communique would be issued. Men, however, who were in constant touch with the chancellery, presented the following picture:

1. Albert Forster, now the chief executive of the baby state of Danzig, can do two things—first, declare that Danzig considers itself part of the Reich; second, ask that this latest acquisition to the Reich be properly protected in view of the asserted "encirclement" of Danzig by Polish troops.

2. Germany will not declare war upon Poland. It will merely organize a punitive expedition to Poland to "establish law and order." One of the places that must be guarded from lawlessness, above all others, is Upper Silesia with its rich zinc, iron, copper and coal deposits. To safeguard these deposits the "police action" in (Continued on Page 16).

YEARS SHOW UP IN HAIG'S GAME

Veteran Sarazen Comes Through In All-Star Play At Chicago

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Chicago, Aug. 24 (AP)—The years exacted a toll of six strokes from Walter Hagen's golf game today—but another veteran of the fairway war, stocky Geo Sarazen, came through gallantly to take up the slack.

Hagen and Sarazen formed one of the eight all star teams which opened first round play today in the best ball, round robin tournament commemorating Hagen's first national open victory scored 25 years ago at Midlothian country club.

It was on the same course that Hagen and Sarazen started shots with golf's younger stars today—and it was Sarazen who produced the more brilliant individual performance.

"The Hags" needed 74 strokes for his round in contrast to the 68 he fired in that first round in 1914. Sarazen came home with a great 67, four under par and the best medal for the select field of 16 experts.

It was Sarazen's fine play which kept him and Hagen all even with Horton Smith and Paul Runyan in the opening skirmish of a four-day tourney in which the team taking the most holes will be named first place winner.

Two of golf's younger stars—Dick Metz of Chicago and Byron Nelson, the national open champion from Reading, Pa.—took honors for "plus holes." won. This combination finished two up on Denny Shute of Huntington, W. Va., and Ernie Harrison of Little Rock, Ark. Their medal scores were Shute 73, Harrison 73, Nelson 74 and Metz 71.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Verdun—Battlefield Of The World War

GREATEST name in the history of the World War is Verdun. For four years, some of the heaviest fighting of the war centered about this strongly fortified city of northern France. To the Allies, it became a symbol of heroic defense; to the enemy, a prize to prove the power of its crushing advance.

More than 600,000 men died at Verdun that the vow, "They shall not pass," might be kept. For 11 months, from February to December, 1916, French and Germans battled fiercely for possession of Douaumont Ridge, overlooking the city.

Early in 1914, the Germans made their first thrust at Verdun. Forts Douaumont and Vaux, two of the 30 forts in the ring around Verdun, saw heavy fighting. The French dug in, waited.

A year and a half later, Germany's General Falkenhayn launched his plan to blast French resistance with artillery, conserving his manpower. But it did not work. The French stood in their tracks and died. Even the Crown Prince's vigorous attack failed to move that French wall.

Fighting eased for a time, but in 1918 Americans wrote brilliant history at St. Mihiel and the Argonne, in the Verdun sector.

The 23rd anniversary of the battle of Verdun is honored by the recent French commemorative stamp, above.

18 LETTERMEN AT MARQUETTE

Paddy Driscoll Invites 43 to First Drills At Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—Eighteen lettermen, according to a current compilation, will be included among the 43 candidates who report for the first 1939 football workout at Marquette university on Sunday, Sept. 10.

Coach Paddy Driscoll has asked his men to show up on Sept. 9 to receive equipment and locker assignments, but the first workout will not be held until the following day.

Four ends, four guards, two centers and six backfield men are listed as veterans on Coach Driscoll's tentative squad this fall. More than 20 of the candidates will be sophomores.

Lettermen returning to the Marquette line include: Ends, William Burke, Chicago, Don Vosberg, Dubuque, Ia., Gil Thompson, Kenosha, Wis., and Bob Sleske, Milwaukee; tackles, Ray Busler, Watertown, Wis., and Tom Woods, Chicago; guards, Ted Tunis, Chicago, Bob Kemnitz, Green Bay, Wis., and Dave Braden and Al Beltzinger, Milwaukee, and centers, Ray Apolskis, Chicago, and Jimmy Bribbs, Gary, Ind.

Backfield veterans on hand will be Reggie Coldagell, Eveleth, Minn., Norm Woods and Steve Seakowski, Chicago, Bill Phillips, Spring Valley, Ill., and Harry Leysenauer and Johnny Maltch, Milwaukee.

Notice Required By Dairy Workers In Calling Strike

Lansing, Aug. 24 (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read held in a formal opinion today that employees of dairy companies could not strike without 30 days' notice to the state labor mediation board.

Dairy companies are "affected with the public interest," Read declared, and as such rank with public utilities and hospitals in the eyes of the new labor relations law. In other industries strikes may be called after five days' notice to the board.

A. C. Lappin, a member of the labor mediation board, requested the opinion after the United Dairy Workers of America, a labor union, had filed a five-day notice of dispute with eight Detroit dairy companies.

Lappin was in Detroit today, seeking to arbitrate the controversy.

Read held in a second opinion, requested by the state department of agriculture, that the state has no authority to revoke the license of a potato shipper who refused to pay an inspection fee. An assistant informed him the potato inspection law "has no teeth."

Read declared in another opinion that Alma college, at Alma, is not entitled to tax exemptions for property it rents to faculty members as living quarters.

Dewey Makes Speech At Owosso Gathering

BY T. H. PECK
Owosso, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, New York's district attorney and Owosso's favorite son, urged a home-town audience of 2,500 who attended an open-air reception in his honor tonight to pray "that men shall not be sent to kill in the fruitless struggle for power."

"In America," he said, "we watch with dismay and still with hope the troubled affairs of Europe. We who came here to leave behind us the hate and fear of the old world may still hope that it shall not sink into a conflict which will destroy it."

"Let us join in praying tonight that nations shall not be plunged into the despair of struggle which no one can win, and most of all that we in America shall keep clear minds and gentle hearts so that we may preserve here for all the world the traditions of a free republic and a free people."

Dewey addressed "neighbors, playmates, childhood friends who taught me how to use my fists, former teachers who tried to make me study, former bosses who succeeded in making me work." Briefly he summarized memories of boyhood chores and Halloween pranks.

He simulated surprise at the importance Owosso attached to his homecoming.

"Why," he declared, "Herman Diddan (state senator and hardware dealer, who is a close friend of the Dewey family) actually put on a coat in August in order to come here tonight."

The reception, held in Athletic park, was the occasion for Dewey's only public address of a vacation trip spent, in the main, at the home of his mother here. His secretaries had announced that the talk would avoid politics, in line with Dewey's unannounced policy of avoiding even the appearance of a contest with U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg for the support of the Michigan Republican delegation in Vandenberg's home state.

Mayor John N. Oxford headed a reception committee.

A cake baked by Mrs. E. S. Brewer, Dewey's former teacher in public school here, helped fortify him for an ordeal of handshaking.

Dewey and his party are to leave at noon tomorrow for Lakeside, where he will remain until Saturday night or Sunday to receive visits from politicians of Illinois, Indiana, and neighboring states.

domination. They are as one in rejecting the thesis that any ruler, or any people, possess the right to achieve their ends or objectives through the taking of action which will plunge countless millions of people into war and which will bring distress and suffering to every nation of the world, belligerent and neutral, when such ends and objectives, so far as they are just and reasonable, can be satisfied through processes of peaceful negotiation or by resort to judicial arbitration."

To Moscicki, the president said: "The rank and file of the population of every nation, large and small, want peace. They do not seek military conquest. They recognize that disputes, claims and counterclaims will always arise from time to time between nations, but that all such controversies without exception can be solved by peaceful procedure if the will on both sides exists so to do."

Three Plans Suggested

The two messages were the second and third "shots for peace" which the president fired today. Even before returning to Washington from a north Atlantic cruise, he addressed a message to King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy asking that he exert all his influence for the avoidance of war.

Outlining his three-way method for settling the German-Polish dispute, Mr. Roosevelt asked that both the German and Polish presidents agree to abstain from any positive act of hostility for a stipulated period, with the following procedure to be employed:

"The controversy between the government of Poland and the government of the German reich might be made the subject of discussion between the two governments.

"Should this prove impossible or not feasible, a second avenue might be that of submission of the issues to arbitration.

"A third method might be conciliation through a disinterested third party, in which case it would seem appropriate that the parties avail themselves of the services of one of the traditionally neutral states or a disinterested republic of the Western hemisphere."

POPE BROADCASTS

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—A cry of "peace—before it is too late"—encircled the earth tonight.

Lord Halifax, Great Britain's foreign secretary, appealed directly to Adolf Hitler in a worldwide broadcast to head the peace pleas of Pope Pius, President Roosevelt and King Leopold of the Belgians.

President Roosevelt delivered through Ambassador William Phillips an appeal to King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy to use his influence for a peaceful solution of the German-Polish problem. There was silence after the message was delivered.

Meantime, Premier Mussolini conferred with his military leaders on war measures.

Pope Pius, in a world broadcast from Castel Gandolfo, cried "nothing is lost through peace; everything may be lost through war."

Addressing "the strong," the pope pleaded "there is yet time" for peaceful solution of the "enormous dangers" confronting the world.

Preparing for Worst

Halifax, warning that "no doubt can exist" that Britain will stand by her pledges "to assist Poland if she is attacked, added: "I would earnestly hope that in the face of all the consequences of a resort to war, and before any step is taken that cannot be retraced, reason may yet prevail."

Parliament voted the government wartime powers of virtually dictatorial scope to enable the most efficient "defense of the realm" and royal assent made the measure effective at 10:15 p. m. (4:15 p. m. EST) tonight.

France prepared for the worst and Premier Daladier announced he would address the nation by radio tomorrow.

Poland, with almost stoic calm, made itself ready for any fate. A sharp definition of her "limit of forbearance" was believed in some quarters to be under consideration tonight, possibly warning excited Danzig Nazis against "unacceptable violation" of Polish rights.

In Warsaw the press emphasized Poland's unwavering determination to defend her "rights and territory," and the nation strengthened her frontiers. Leaves of government officials and employees were cancelled.

U. P. HERDS ARE BEING TESTED

Federal Veterinarians Are Checking Herds for Bangs Disease

The upper peninsula will be the largest area in the United States free of Bangs disease when a crew of six government veterinarians complete the work of testing dairy herds in the peninsula this winter.

At present the crew is working in Alger county with headquarters at Chatham. According to J. G. Wells, Jr., superintendent of the state farm at Chatham, four or five Bangs disease "reactors" have been found there in approximately 300 cows tested to date.

The veterinary crew has a laboratory in a trailer where as many as 300 tests of blood samples taken from cows can be made in a single day.

Under a new state law, all Bangs disease reactors must be removed from a herd. Farmers, in addition to getting the beef value of the animal get indemnity payments from state and federal funds. The farmer gains because payments he receives enable him to replace the diseased animal or animals and at the same time guarantee the health of his herd.

Delta Herds Tested

The herds in Delta county were tested early this spring. There were 1,218 herds tested which included 12,843 head of cattle. Of this total there were 71 head that showed a positive reaction to the test and they were immediately slaughtered.

Upper Peninsula counties not yet tested include Schoolcraft, Luce, Chippewa, Mackinac and Menominee. Keweenaw county was completed before work was started on Alger county. Following completion of Alger county in two or three weeks, work probably will be started in Schoolcraft.

Monominee county is last on the schedule and the veterinarians believe it will be completed late this fall or in early winter. According to E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, when the Bangs disease infection is brought down to a maximum of one half of one per cent an area is known as federal credits for Bangs disease.

The percentage in Delta county at the present time is .675, but a re-check of the herds will be made some time this winter and the percentage will be undoubtedly far below the one-half of one per cent needed for federal accrediting on a county basis at that time.

The upper peninsula will be the largest area free of the disease in the United States when the testing is completed. Michigan at the present time is leading the nation in the elimination of diseased dairy cattle.

Fr. Peter Bleeker Is Transferred To Parish at Rudyard

Rev. Fr. Peter Bleeker, former chaplain of St. Francis hospital, and pastor of Holy Family parish, of Flat Rock, has been appointed by the Most Rev. Joseph C. Pilegns, Bishop of Marquette, to the pastorate of St. Joseph's church, at Rudyard, and will leave today to assume his duties.

The pastor, who came to Escanaba four years ago from the Copper Country, where he was in charge of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church at Franklin Mine for over ten years, served for three years as hospital chaplain and was appointed pastor of Holy Family parish, of 225 families, on May 24, 1938.

He served the Flat Rock parish until the recent appointment of Rev. Fr. Matthias LaViolette as pastor of the congregation.

Her daily poem feature is syndicated to more than thirty of the larger papers in the United States and England. She is a public speaker and reader of her own verse.

She is the author of several collections of poems, including: "Companionship and Other Poems," "Back Home," "The Heart of Home," "Jesus and His Twelve Apostles" and "Songs from the Beatitudes."

NAHMA DINNER ROTARY TREAT

Over 80 Hear Addresses By Anne Campbell and Robert Gessner

Over 80 persons enjoyed a delicious chicken dinner and listened to interesting talks by vacation school staff members at an Escanaba Rotary club ladies night meeting held at the Nahma boarding house last night.

On the program after the dinner were Anne Campbell, noted writer of poetry, who presented some of her original compositions, and Robert Gessner, author and instructor, who told of the effects of the movies on literature, together with some of the other troubles of writers.

A vacation school lecture program at the community hall was opened to Rotarians and guests, with Jean Mowat, business writer, telling of covering stories for the fashion world. The "alouette" octette, with Charles E. Good as accompanist, entertained with several numbers.

WINTER SPORT MEET PLANNED

Flaa Calls Conference At Marquette On Sept. 19

Ishpeming—James E. Flaa, chairman of the winter sports committee of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, today called a meeting of all upper peninsula communities interested in the promotion of winter sports to be held Tuesday, September 19, in the Northland hotel in Marquette.

This conforms to an agreement reached at the last winter sports conference in Ishpeming, when the invitation of Marquette was unanimously accepted.

This date, much earlier than sessions held previous to last season, is pegged to bring interested communities together before their 1939-40 plans have been definitely set. In this manner conflicts of major importance can be avoided and a better development program outlined.

The conference will start with a noon luncheon, after which there will be one or two short talks on winter sports.

Round Table Discussion

At the conclusion of this program, the conferees will go into a round-table discussion of the problems that confront communities in building a winter sports program for the north country and "for our towns in particular." Mr. Flaa added: "We want a winter sports program that not only will be satisfying to our own citizens, but of such nature that we can sell the winter resources of the peninsula to outsiders."

Among questions slated for round table discussion are the scheduling of local events to avoid conflict, value of winter sport advertising in newspapers, magazines and folders, problems of organization and promotion; award of the annual winter sports queen contest, and value of an upper peninsula winter sports council.

An effort is being made to get outside speakers. At the Ishpeming conference last September more than 75 persons were in attendance.

U. P. STUDENTS GET DEGREES

Summer Session Closes At Michigan State; 115 Honored

East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 24.—One hundred fifteen degrees were granted by Michigan State College at the close of the 1939 summer session, the registrar's office announced here today.

Of the 115 who received diplomas nine were graduate students. Master of Arts degrees, were awarded to Harry Charles Beaman, Lansing, and M. Gordon Bull, Chicago Heights, Ill. Wanda Virginia Cook, Lincoln, Neb., received the Master of Music degree, and Master of Science degrees were granted Willis Henry Bush, East Lansing; Edmund Stanley Burke, Scottslandville, Louisiana; Russell L. Eggert, East Jordan; William Paul Fuller, East Lansing; Clifford J. Gibbs, Laingsburg; Tompkins W. Terwilliger, Utica, New York.

The Home Economics division lead in number of undergraduate degrees, 32 completing requirements during the six-weeks course. Twenty-one Liberal Arts students earned diplomas, and the Applied Science division graduated 24. Ten engineering, four agriculture, five veterinary science students, and one in medical biology also completed qualifications, making a total of 106.

Following are the undergraduate students from the Upper Peninsula who received degrees: Coy and Lowell Eklund of Manistique, bachelor of science in police administration; William Frank of Gladstone and Martha Vial of Iron River, bachelor of arts in liberal arts; and Walter Mack of Sault Ste. Marie, bachelor of science in medical biology.

STATE EXPECTS LARGE NUMBER

Biggest Enrollment In History Predicted at East Lansing

East Lansing, Mich.—The largest enrollment in history was predicted by Michigan State College officials for the 1939-40 school year today when the registrar's office announced approval of 200 more applications for admission than were approved at this time last year.

Today's checkup showed 1,938 high school graduates had been granted admission, compared to 1,735 in the corresponding period last year.

New students and upperclassmen who return to the campus in September will find two new dormitories ready for occupancy, and four other buildings under construction. Two other buildings, hospital and veterinary science clinic, also are completed and will be ready for use during the school year which begins Tuesday, Sept. 19.

The College will provide rooms for 1,000 women students in four dormitories and six co-operative houses, and 1,080 men will live in three dormitories. A few dormitory rooms still are available for women, and about 100 rooms for men are not yet taken. It was said today, that the college will be filled before September 1.

With the completion of Campbell Hall, new women's housing unit, the Union Building dormitory will be released for other purposes.

"It is gratifying to have dormitory rooms available for promising students," Dean Elisebeth Conrad said today. "In past years, before completion of the new dormitories, many students had to be refused dormitory accommodations because of room shortage. This year, there will be nearly enough rooms to accommodate all who desire them."

The 1939-40 school year at Michigan State College opens with freshman week on Monday, Sept. 25.

DEALINE FOR PLATES AUG. 31

Half-Year Licenses Will Expire Next Thursday

Deadline for the use of Michigan half-year license plates will be next Thursday, August 31. Delta county motorists were advised yesterday by chief of police, Michael Ettenhofer, who suggested that they obtain their new plates early and avoid the last minute rush.

The Delta county branch of the secretary of state's office for the sale of license plates is located at the Ludington Motor company, corner of Ludington street and Stephenson avenue. William Ranguette is manager of the branch office.

Motorists were advised by Chief Ettenhofer, of the following motor vehicle laws regarding license plates, many of which are violated daily:

- 1.—All trailers must have trailer license plates.
- 2.—Cars must have two license plates, one attached at the rear and one at the front of the car.
- 3.—Plates must be free of attachments or decorations, except insignia of war veteran organizations issued by the secretary of state's office.
- 4.—Car dealer plates may be used only when the car is operated by an official, a salesman or an employee of the car agency, and then only for business purposes.
- 5.—Michigan residents are required to have Michigan license plates on their cars.

Ex-Governor, Escanaba Resident, Visits Here

A. W. Norblad, one-time Escanaba attorney and governor of Oregon in 1929, accompanied by his wife, the former Edna Cates, daughter of one of Escanaba's pioneer residents, arrived in Escanaba Wednesday night to visit over the week-end at the Judd Yelland home, 528 South 9th street.

A. W. NORBLAD

Mr. and Mrs. Norblad came from their home in Astoria, Ore., through San Francisco, where they visited the Golden Gate Exposition, to New Orleans, Detroit and Grand Rapids, motoring to Escanaba.

Mr. Norblad is a former law partner of Mr. Yelland's and practiced law here several years before moving to Astoria.

Wife Well Known Here

He was educated in the University of Chicago law school, through which he worked his way as a police reporter on a Chicago newspaper. He came shortly after his graduation to Escanaba to practice law. In 1909, he moved to Astoria with Mrs. Norblad, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Cates. Mr. Cates will be recalled as one of the pioneers in the printing business here.

Mr. Norblad became governor of Oregon in 1929, upon the death of his close friend, Governor I. L. Patterson. He was president of the Oregon state senate at the time of Patterson's death. He revealed at that time that he and Governor Patterson had discussed the possibility of Norblad's running for governor in the next election if the latter did not enter the race.

Norblad has been president of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce, served as a member of the school board several times, was city attorney and served five regular and two special sessions of the state senate.

In 1938 he was a member of the national committee which accompanied the Swedish royal party from Gottenburg, Sweden, to the United States for the Swedish Tercentenary ceremonies in Wilmington, Delaware, and in Philadelphia. He also represented his state in the official party.

From Escanaba, they will return by motor to Astoria.

THE TOWNSEND PLAN

In the first place let me state that the Townsend Plan is definitely not a $200 per month old age pension plan but a National Recovery Plan on a pay-as-you-go basis. There would have been born no National Recovery Plan in the mind of Dr. Francis E. Townsend except for government failure to find a cure for poverty and unemployment in the United States.

The Townsend Plan is the result of years of research and effort to find a scientific and workable recovery plan. The revolving effects of the plan will be apparent the moment the first annuities start purchasing and as transactions increase, tax revenues will mount and the pro-rated share of the spending agents will grow to be again spent in 30 days. Continued increase in business will cut America's annual crime bill of $15 billion in half and put children to school and graduates to work, 37.4 per cent of all crime is from our youth below the age of 26.

The older citizens jobs will be thrown open to younger workers and, reducing unemployment rolls by four million immediately and with the four million now on the dole and meagre pensions, will create at once jobs for eight million younger workers. Demand for commodities will rise and the neighborhood grocer, theatre, and stores will get their share of that increase. This will necessitate an immediate opening for every available worker between the ages of twenty and sixty. The master teacher once said, "I came that I might have life and have it more abundantly," and I ask why not consume as fast as we produce when living abundantly means that we will not have any over-production nor shutting down of factories nor laying off of men and women?"

Project Association to Meet at Iron Mountain This Morning

A second meeting of the Upper Peninsula Project Sponsors' Association will be held starting at 11 o'clock this morning at the Elks club in Iron Mountain.

Registration of delegates will be from 11 to 12 o'clock noon, when a luncheon will be served in the clubrooms. The guest speaker at the luncheon will be C. A. Sirrine, of Lansing, director of operations of the Michigan Works Progress Administration.

Following the luncheon a business session will be held starting at 2 p. m. A. V. Aronson, city engineer, will represent Escanaba at the meeting.

The association is a group composed of sponsors of projects in the upper peninsula, the purpose of which is the ironing out of details in regards to various projects

Utilizing Farm Waste

CHEMISTS have scored again by announcing several new products made from by-products of the farm—sometimes called farm waste. Products being made from such materials number several hundred.

More than fifty commercially useful products are made from corn cobs. Manufacturers are dreading workers seeking commercial utilization of farm waste materials have learned how to make more than two dozen products from corn stalks, half that number from straw, and nearly a dozen from corn husks. Out hulls, sugarcane bagasse, and even egg-white foam, are being utilized. At any moment experiments in laboratories or commercial plants may result in discoveries giving these by-products enhanced commercial values.

Although the use of farm waste for the making of useful things has increased in recent years, the effort is now new. In 1803 a popular treatise on chemistry was printed on paper made from straw to show what chemistry could do in providing a profitable outlet for that by-product of the farm. This accomplishment was hailed as a great benefit to agriculture, although the paper was not of high grade. Manufacture of paper from straw, however, never has developed into a well-established industry, although the technology of paper manufacture has been greatly improved since that time.

Extensive research studies constantly are under way by Federal, State, and private agencies to determine uses to which waste products may be put and ways for utilizing ordinary farm by-products.

Notable among the accomplishments along these lines are the new uses for lemons. Recently some 40,000 tons of lemon culls were converted into 2,000,000 pounds of citric acid. What formerly had been a liability, costing the producer much for disposal as waste, thus became an asset.

Changed conditions and new demands may convert waste into valuable products. In this transition, however, the fact should be borne in mind that in adding one class to utilize farm products to better advantage, other classes may be seriously disturbed. For example should corn stalks be converted into rayon, the market for cotton goods would be diminished, which would be of concern to the cotton farmer.

The preparation of citric acid by the fermentation of cane sugar works to the advantage of the sugar beet producer and the sugarcane planter, and to the disadvantage of the grower of lemons. Other illustrations could be cited, but fortunately the introduction of the newer methods ordinarily has been sufficiently slow to permit readjustments without serious disturbance.

The old joke about stockyards being able to convert every part of the pig into some useful object, even to preserving the squeal for Christmas toys, may some day have its equal, but in full truth. Waste materials of the farm may yet be more valuable than actual production. Millions of farmers at least hope so.

Poll Possibilities

THE poll mania, which as Cartoonist Herblock humorously suggested in a recent cartoon, is rapidly approaching the status of a minor menace, has found still another application, and this time a practical one.

At least three cities have made informal polls of local opinion to guide their city councils in deciding municipal policies. Winnetka, Ill., Syracuse, N. Y., and Montclair, N. J., according to the International City Managers' Association, have each recently put certain questions up to the citizens, and their councils followed the popular decision. In Winnetka, citizens were asked by postcard whether they wanted a grade-crossing elimination program. Syracuse manned polling places with volunteer officials one evening to permit voters to express their views on daylight saving time. Montclair also polled voters by postcard to find which city services the citizens wished to maintain, which to curtail.

Though it could easily be carried to extremes, the Managers' Association believes it offers a new technique for making city government more responsive to the citizens, and might well be tried further.

Teaching Honesty

PITTSBURGH has seized upon the recent suggestion of a Cleveland Grand Jury that more definite moral teaching ought to be a part of public school training.

The teaching of honesty stands at the head of the Pittsburgh plan for character guidance. Rather than by direct "preaching," the teachers of Pittsburgh are expected to conduct their lessons so that students will in their own discussions bring out the homely old fact that "honesty is the best policy." It is planned to discuss specific problems in honesty which fall within the range of experience of the students, such as altering report-card grades, misrepresenting ages, deceiving parents, forging excuses and even "chilling" on relief.

This will be an interesting experiment, for any improvement in morals that can be brought about will be all to the good. It seems certain that if the world's morals were only good enough, most of our other problems either would be greatly reduced, or perhaps would not exist at all.

Bigger Big Business

FOR 40 years there has been an almost constant hue and cry about "Big Business."

Yet today "Big Business" is bigger than ever. In 1919 only six U. S. corporations counted their assets in the billion-dollar class. By the end of the prosperity period in 1929 there were 20.

And by the end of 1938, there were 26 financial and commercial enterprises in the country with assets of more than a billion dollars each. On Dec. 31, 1938 their assets totaled $51,641,999,617, according to a compilation made by the United States Department of Commerce.

The fact that big businesses get bigger in periods both of prosperity and of depression suggests that there is something inevitable that connects modern technology and bigness. In Russia, business is "bigger" than anywhere else.

It is not "bigness" itself, but who shall wield the power that goes with bigness, and how, that is the modern problem.

Other Editors' Comments

OLD CUTOVER AREA PROBLEMS (Milwaukee Journal)

As Wisconsin officials and citizens again discuss rehabilitation of the northern cutover areas, the report of the Northern Lake States Regional committee on the cutover areas of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin undoubtedly will be looked to for guidance on the proper development of these regions.

And yet that report does not offer anything that is startlingly new or promising. Broadly, it goes over old ground. It points out that scattered settlements in the cutover areas are uneconomical; that the lumbering industry has declined and that these many forest workers have been left stranded; that these people cannot turn to agriculture in many instances, because many parts of the cutover districts do not constitute promising farm lands.

It suggests, as remedies, efforts "to meet social problems through development of opportunities for work"—which phrase sounds like something but means little unless practical men really "develop the opportunities."

The report proposes "encouragement of agriculture where feasible"; renewal and intelligent development of forests; exploration and development of mineral resources; encouragement of industry through research; attainment of uniform commercial fishing regulations; establishment of more economical local governmental units; a coordination of federal, state and local efforts, and encouragement of local leadership and initiative.

All of these are good "objectives," but again a federal group leaves the practical thinker groping for practical approaches. How "encourage agriculture where feasible"; how "co-ordinate federal, state and local efforts"; how apply the obvious remedies, long understood and long urged in the lakes states?

Perhaps that will be the problem of the various Wisconsin and other groups now again engaged in "studying" the cutover problem. Such groups must, of course, eternally be encouraged, since their purposes are sincere. But it looks as though the upper Wisconsin cutover area will attain ultimate prosperity largely by an evolutionary process, as forests and resorts are further developed, as recreational activities increase, as demands for agricultural products multiply locally, and as local people strive until at last they stumble on endeavors that are fruitful.

FOR DEMOCRACIES ONLY (Grand Rapids Press)

Establishment of the French Institute of Public Opinion, announced this week, as an affiliate of Dr. George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion has carried the Gallup poll idea into the three major democracies of the world. An English affiliate was organized three years ago.

The value of testing opinion in these three democratic nations simultaneously will be obvious. It is especially timely in the present period when the conflict between totalitarian and democratic philosophies is so keen.

But it is noteworthy also that this poll has reached its limit of extension among the major countries. Certainly it would be permitted in Germany, Russia or Italy where the people are not encouraged to express their private opinions. In a country where a dictator does the thinking for the people on matters of government it is not helpful for individuals to express themselves. The state does not wish them to.

The poll of public opinion would be valueless in a totalitarian nation even if it were allowed. In the democracies it may be a powerful medium for demonstrating the will of those who are supposed to rule—the people themselves. But it is strictly a democratic device.

Nothing could emphasize more strongly the difference between the democratic ideal and the totalitarian concept. In one the opinion of the people counts for everything, in theory at least, and in practice to a very large extent. But in the other there is no use for public opinion, except as it may be synthetically driven to private acclaim for the will of the ruler.

New York—No matter how the political tide turns next year and no matter who is elected president, Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York believes that the fundamental objectives of the New Deal have been achieved and that the nation is not going to backtrack away from them.

He feels that the important thing right now is for the country to stop calling the current depression an emergency.

"As long as we call it an emergency, we will continue the wastefulness of treating it as an emergency," he says. "We must realize that it is not a temporary depression but a new normal, and adjust ourselves accordingly."

SAYS NATION AGREES ON FUNDAMENTALS

In this situation, Mayor LaGuardia feels that there are certain fundamentals that everyone agrees upon. These are—that something is wrong when we produce both surpluses and want at the same time; that the remedies used to cure previous depressions won't work in this one; that, pending a solution of the problem, no unemployed person will be permitted to starve; and that the vicious circle which makes the cost of government greater in a depression—when it can least be afforded—than in times of prosperity, is something that can't be put up with much longer.

If these fundamentals are agreed on, then what? Well, Mayor LaGuardia believes that the greater part of the New Deal's social security program—old age pensions and unemployment insurance—is accepted by everyone. Still in controversy, he remarks, are the wage-hour law and the Wagner act.

The wage-hour law he considers fundamentally sound but in need of a country-wide educational campaign as to its benefits—and, also, of stricter enforcement. He suspects that the Wagner act is still causing discussion principally because it is still so new.

Beyond these things there is the problem of surpluses.

"Surplus," says the mayor, "is just a word. It was true in the days of the old economy but it is not true now. 'Surplus' today means that amount of our production over and above all the normal needs of the people, rather than the amount which is over and above their present purchasing power. If all of our children were properly clad and fed, for instance, it'd cut a pretty big hole in our surplus."

ENDING THE HUMAN SURPLUS

As things stand now, we have a surplus of manpower. And Mayor LaGuardia wonders if it might not be wise, instead of keeping this surplus on relief, to send it into the factories to produce a huge volume of goods for export—below cost, if necessary—to Central and South America.

Suppose, he says, that we produced, in that way, goods worth $1,500,000,000 and took a loss of half a billion on the deal. It would still cost us much less than it would have cost to keep that labor on relief—and it would have been a step toward cohesion and unity in the new work. He admits, with a grin, that he might have trouble selling this idea to Secretary of State Hull.

Regardless of the adjustments that may still be necessary, Mayor LaGuardia thinks that the fundamental objectives of the New Deal are so firmly established that "no candidate would dare to state that he'd change them or, if elected, would dare to go ahead and change them."

tures and submit the results for government inspection.

This exception invasion of personal privacy may become hazardous for the dominant politicians. It seems almost miraculous when a family budget works out in a manner suitable to members of the family. Attainment of a result satisfactory also to politicians may be humanly impossible.

COMMISSION ACTS (Iron Mountain News)

The state liquor commission, taking cognizance of reports that slot machines have reappeared here and there in the state, has instructed its representatives to report on all cases in which machines, or other forms of gambling, are found in licensed places. Unless these reports can be discredited, the penalty will be revocation of license.

This should be sufficient to stamp out gaming in licensed places. Their proprietors will, as remarked, given the choice between licenses. As for the greater number of machines ever operated in licensed places, this order alone should serve to put an end to any movement that may have been started to reintroduce the machines.

Commissioner Olander, of the state police, has, he says, no evidence of any widespread effort to reintroduce the machines. While it may have been planned to test the situation out by putting them in here and there not much, he intimates, had as yet been done to carry out the plan. The state troopers are under instruction to pick up machines wherever found in operation in public places, and a small number of seizures are made each month.

The attitude of the Governor and the liquor commission being what it is, the men who may have given thought to plans for getting a play from the machines may as well give their attention to other matters. The Governor and the commission are abundantly provided with power to deal with public gambling and they are in no doubt that public sentiment would strongly support stern repressive measures.

A. The Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition was held at New Orleans, Louisiana, from December 16, 1884 to May 31, 1885.

Q. For whom are the Helmsman, Maxwell, and Lambert football trophies named? K. R. S.

A. The John W. Helmsman Memorial Trophy is awarded each year to the football player deemed the most valuable. It perpetuates the memory of a football coach and gridiron mentor at many colleges for 35 years. The Robert W. Maxwell Trophy, also awarded to the outstanding player, is named in honor of Robert W. (Tiny) Maxwell, a former All-American player, sports writer, and gridiron official. The August V. Lambert Memorial Trophy, emblematic of leadership among Eastern gridiron teams, was donated by Victor A. and Henry L. Lambert of New York City in memory of their father, an ardent football fan.

Q. Please give the names of the flowers for each birth month. P. J. H.

A. January, carnation; February, primrose; March, violet; April, daisy; May, lily of the valley; June, rose; July, sweet pea; August, gladioli; September, aster; October, dahlia; November, chrysanthemum; December, poinsettia or holly.

New York—Revelation of extensive German plots in Mexico during the war which included an invasion of the United States by a Mexican-German army of 45,000 men when the Germans launched their last drive on the western front in July, 1918, was made tonight by the National Association for Protection of American Rights in Mexico, which gave out a statement by P. D. Alkendorf, formerly of the military intelligence department, reciting his experiences as a secret agent there.

William Patrick pulled no punches about his opinions of his kin, der Fuehrer—he castigated the German leader in no uncertain terms. As a matter of fact, he had come to speak out against the Nazi regime in the American lecture halls. But the lecture season doesn't start until autumn.

Meanwhile, William Patrick Hitler has been bidding his time in and out of Manhattan's pleasant little suburb of Hollis, Queens.

He is living there with his mother, Mrs. Brigid Downing, who speaks with even a thicker brogue than his. And who is equally defiant of her all-powerful brother-in-law Adolph.

W. Patrick has been going to the movies steadily since he has come here and that, he argues, is the only common interest between him and his uncle. He confirms the rumor, so often heard over here, that der Fuehrer sometimes sits hour after hour in a darkened projection room, wallowing in the latest romantic movies.

He confirms a few other items of hearsay about the Nazi chief, Hitler (Adolph), he says, doesn't drink or smoke, but is an avid reader of detective fiction. He has been known to sit up for hours after midnight with a German translation of Edgar Wallace's thrillers.

Der Fuehrer likes to carry a whip and beat it against the gravel or cobblestones of the paths that lead from his fantastic eyrie at Berchtesgaden.

And take it on the word of his embittered nephew, Hitler doesn't like all this gossip that makes him out a ladies' man.

LATE MR GILLETTE'S WHIMSICAL WILL

The estate of the late William Gillette, which nestles in the Connecticut hills, has not been sold yet, although purchasers have made frequent safaris to look at it. The country castle of the famed actor, who well might have made himself immortal with his creation of the role of Sherlock Holmes, is a fanciful place. Whoever buys it not only acquires a conservatory through which runs a real waterfall, but a baronial mansion with massive walls and many secret entrances and exits.

And, of course, that miniature railroad line which Gillette had built for his amusement. The railroad still is in a state of repair and the locomotive could course around the rails after a cursory oiling-up, if anyone were interested in such sport.

New York—Quite a fuss was made over William Patrick Hitler when he turned up in New York last spring and convinced folk that, though he speaks with an unmistakable Irish brogue, he really is a nephew of the other Hitler whose name is Adolph.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—U. S. military and naval strategists have been making some secret studies of British and French strength against the dictator powers, and their conclusions have been pessimistic.

Although the French and British are in better shape than during the Munich crisis, they are a long way from being able to box Hitler. In fact, it looks as if Hitler can box them.

Britain and France have two big assets—the greatest navy in the world, and the best trained army in the world. But the problem is how to use them.

The French army, for instance, is up against a tough proposition if it tries to help Poland. The logical move would be to attack Germany, thus shift Germany's drive from Poland to a defence of the Fatherland.

But the French army is stymied by the famous German Siegfried Line, built facing France's Maginot Line. The Siegfried Line is cheaper than the Maginot Line, consisting of concrete pill-boxes spaced at regular intervals. These are so small that it is almost impossible for artillery to hit them, but they house machine-gun nests capable of mowing down the French army.

Between the pill-boxes are buried electric mines, which can be exploded under advancing French troops at the touch of a button.

FRANCE VS. ITALY

Another natural move for the French would be to drive into Northern Italy. However, France now has to keep 10 per cent of her army along the Spanish border (thanks to Franco appeasement), and this leaves only 25 per cent of the French army to operate against Italy. This is not enough to ensure victory.

Furthermore, the northern Alps now are better fortified, and a new Siegfried line has been erected in Italy under German supervision. Even if the French should break through, Hitler has taken the precaution of placing his own divisions behind Italian troops so as to avoid too much risk on Italian resistance.

In addition, France will have a tough time defending her own borders in North Africa, where Italian troops already are concentrated against Tunis.

BRITISH FLEET

Secret strategy of the British fleet is to sail through the straits between Denmark and Sweden into the Baltic, where it could come to the aid of Poland by attacking the north coast of Prussia.

This would be easier to do now than during the World War, because the German fleet today is far smaller. Even so, such a voyage might lead to the bottling up or even destruction of the entire British North Sea fleet, a risk which few cabinets would care to take.

GERMAN MATERIALS

Biggest changes in the position of Germany today as compared with 1914 are:

1. Hitler need not worry about Russia. This is all-important. For although the Russian army fought almost with its bare fists in 1914, it will be recalled that Paris was saved in the battle of the Marne chiefly because the Germans were forced to shift part of their army from west to east to combat Russia.

2. Germany now has far more raw materials than during the World War. This is what Hitler has been working toward for the past year.

His generals told him that despite the efficiency of his army he could win no war without raw materials. But Hitler now has available the vast granary of Hungary, the oil fields of Rumania, the munitions plants of Austria and Czechoslovakia, and the copper of Yugoslavia.

Chief products which Hitler still needs are cotton and rubber, of which enough war stocks are reported to be on hand to last 18 months. Germany also has available, if she needs it, the $12,000,000 worth of U. S. cotton which the State Department recently loaned to Hitler's satellite, General Franco of Spain.

POLISH DILEMMA

If you want to see what the Poles are up against, take out the map of Northern Europe and in the little corner of East Prussia between Poland and the Baltic mark down the number 150,000.

That is the approximate number of troops Hitler has placed north of Poland to enforce his squeeze play.

Then directly west of Poland mark down 51 divisions of crack German troops, or about 650,000 men. They are ready to drive across the Polish Corridor.

South of Poland, in what once was friendly Czechoslovakia, mark on the map an additional 350,000 men.

In other words, Poland is almost surrounded with German troops—north, west and south. And on the east, Russian troops, now friendly to Germany, stand by ready for the final kill.

In the middle of Poland, write down the figure 1,200,000; which is the strength of the Polish army. It is a determined army, but it is fighting against the lightning mobility of the Germans.

All around Poland, Hitler has built a series of five-l

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS MEET

Phillips to Speak to Delta County Group Monday Night

The Delta County Association of School Board Members will hold its regular meeting at 8 o'clock Monday night in the Escanaba Township hall Dr. C. R. Lahay, of Bark River, president of the board, announced yesterday.

The principal speaker at the meeting will be Dr. A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the Michigan Education Association. He will discuss the program of the Association for the next two years and will explain also new laws affecting the schools which were passed at the last legislative session.

Dr. Lahay announced also the appointment of the following committees to work on various problems affecting the schools:

Legislative: William J. Miller, Masonville; Frank Brander, Maple Ridge and Elmer Hansen, Escanaba.

Business management: Omer Tangany, Bark River; Zola Beauchamp, Brampton; Hilding Olson, Ford River and L. E. Scott, Masonville.

Purchasing: George Brown, Wells, Carl Person, Masonville, David Phalen, Nahma and August Larson, Maple Ridge.

Professional problems: Superintendent George Weingartner, Maple Ridge; Superintendent James C. McNamara, Baldwin; Principal Robert McKindies, Bark River; Bernhard Mattson, Bay De Noc; Emma Folio, Fairbanks and Walter Stellwagen, Garden.

A treasurer will be elected at the meeting to fill the vacancy now existing in that office. Other officers of the board in addition to Dr. Lahay are Bernard Hamilton, Baldwin, secretary; Mrs. Anna Harrod, Cornell, director and Oscar Larson, Wells, director.

C. P. Titus, county school commissioner, announced yesterday that the first meeting of teachers in the county school system, would be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, September 5, in the Delta county court house.

SCHOOL GROUP HONORS TITUS

School Commissioner Is Elected President of Association

C. P. Titus, Delta county school commissioner, returned yesterday to Escanaba from Kalamazoo, where he was elected president of the Michigan County School Commissioners Association at the annual convention of the organization held there last week.

Other officers elected by the organization were Mrs. Daisy Howard, Flint, commission from Genesee County, vice president; and Miss Gertrude Eastman of Scottville, commissioner from Mason county, secretary and treasurer.

Lynn Clark, Grand Rapids, Kent County commissioner, and retiring president of the state association, was nominated as a candidate for membership on the board of directors of the Michigan Education Association which will be elected in the fall. Ypsilanti was chosen as the city for the 1940 convention.

A resolution was adopted asking the secretary of state's department to compile a complete code of Michigan statutes dealing with schools, and requesting that the department accept the assistance of the state department of public instruction in indexing the laws.

The business session included a summary of the discussions held in connection with the commissioners' class which was conducted for two weeks at Western State Teachers College. Miss Gertrude Eastman, Scottville, was chairman of the committee which prepared the summary, other members of which were Mrs. Daisy Howard, Flint; Miss Ottilia Fritsch, Saginaw; C. P. Titus, Escanaba; W. W. Manning, Mecosta county; and D. H. Vandebunte, Holland.

The summary was concluded with a panel discussion dealing with relations between pupil and teachers, which stressed the importance of the classroom teacher. Miss Verle Coppens of Western State's faculty was the leader of the discussion, and the members of the panel were Mrs. Beryl H. Abbott, Frankfort; Miss Melva Barnes, Blissfield; Ford H. Finkel, Lake City; Lloyd Fry, White Cloud and Miss Maude Rockwell, Mancelona.

Sault Ste. Marie. — John R. Merrifield, secretary of the Sault Chamber of Commerce, yesterday was lining up a delegation which is to go to Lansing to talk with State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner. The board of directors recently termed "lousy" and "terrible" highways in eastern Upper Peninsula.

Merrifield said that E. A. Wienecke, chairman of the tourist committee, would be one of the delegates and that an effort was being made to have someone from Cedarville included.

CREDIT MEN TO HEAR HEIMANN

Expect 250 Will Attend Conference Sept. 16 at Green Bay

General discussions on practical and timely credit problems and topics and addresses by several men nationally prominent in the fields of credit management and business will be among highlights at the annual conference of the Wisconsin-Northern Michigan Association of Credit Men in Green Bay on Saturday, September 16, according to the program being rounded out by organization officers.

It is estimated between 150 and 200 will attend the conference, which is the 24th annual to be held. Among the visitors and guests will be Charles A. Wells, St. Joseph, Mo., president of the National Association of Credit Men, and Henry H. Heimann, New York, executive manager of the national.

Grass to Speak
Heimann, a Green Bay visitor on other occasions, will be the featured speaker at the meeting and is to address the annual dinner that evening in the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Northland, convention headquarters. He has selected for his talk the subject: "War Hurts Business."

During the morning and afternoon business sessions the credit men will hear addresses by Circuit Judge Henry Grass, Green Bay, and Roger Sherman Hoar, Milwaukee, assistant to the secretary of Bucyrus-Erie company, who is well known throughout the country as the author of numerous books on business and finance.

See Packer Game

Many of the delegates are making arrangements to remain in Green Bay over Sunday to see the inaugural game of the professional football season when the Green Bay Packers meet the Chicago Cardinals in the initial league contest.

Association members are urged to make reservations as soon as convenient with their local secretaries. Further program details will be announced soon and those desiring additional information about the meeting and requested to make inquiry at the association headquarters in the Cady Land building, Green Bay.

Market For Short Stories Is Defined By Noted Writer

"While there is a big market for short stories of various kinds in the magazines—slicks and pulp—of the United States and Canada, requirements are getting more exacting right along," said Frank Kneuf of New Orleans, widely known feature story writer, who is one of the instructors at Nahma this week.

"When a short story comes to the editor's desk, the prospective buyer puts three questions to himself and the manuscript," continued Mr. Kneuf. "First, what is the writer trying to say? Second, has he said it competently? Third, is it worth saying and has it the proper degree of reader interest for its particular publication? The sale of the manuscript depends on the conclusions to these questions, and comparatively few stories submitted measure up to the tests."

Both editors and the public are much more choosy and critical in short story matters than they were even a few years ago, Mr. Kneuf stated. Standards of the pulp magazines today are fully as high as those of the slicks were a decade back.

Tourist Traffic Lags On Mackinac Island

BY ESTHER TUFTY

The East has its Plymouth Rock, landing place of the Pilgrims, but Michigan has its Mackinac Island, the landing place of traders who sought furs and fish from the Indians. Today it is the landing place for 100,000 yearly tourists who revel in exploring this island, older than Detroit, which was once the summer "safe" resort for Indians—so protected that it was chosen by the British in 1780 as the site of old Fort Mackinac.

Today the 2000 islanders, without one full-blooded Indian among them, no longer, swap 15-cent-a-gallon whiskey for fine furs pelts from the Chippewas. Largely they depend for subsistence during the winter months when they are isolated by ice, on a two months' tourist business from Mackinaw City, St. Ignace and Cheboygan.

The tourists, from far and near, are not so numerous this year, the hotel keepers regretfully inform me. Yet the ship captains refute the statement, with records of an increase in the number of passengers. This paradox is explained by the new kind of visitor, who climbs the 163 steps to the whitewashed, picturesque old Fort Mackinac, rides in the horse-drawn carriages nine miles around the island, indulges in summer sports, or just finds rest in breeze-swept spots of beauty. These are one-day visitors who pack all they can into a quick eight-hour before taking the last boat to Mackinaw City where their automobiles were left. No cars are allowed on the island.

Two Fairs Planned
Travel experts explain the new trend differently. Some say it's the two fairs. Others say that the American travelling public likes to cover more territory and does not linger long in one place. Still others say it is the fault of a few greedy shop-keepers, especially those who come up from the Florida season to skim off the cream, and who keep prices at an expensive resort level.

High prices constitute the outstanding criticism of the island, and have since the English fort commander wrote home in 1780 that Mackinac was an expensive place to live. The prices must indeed seem high to the one-day tourists, but they do not return year after year, and they know nothing about shipping charges for groceries, hay for the horses, etc., which make a vacation here a return to the horse and buggy era and a delightful luxury.

Certainly one sees few of the reputed "$1000-a-visit" grand folk at the Grand Hotel, the largest resort hotel in the country. Even a hungry vacationing newspaper writer can afford its famous food and a round of golf.

Anyway, the charging of exorbitant prices on the island is the principal headache of the Mackinac Island State Park commissioners, who are eager to attract more tourists. Appointed by the governor, these five men who serve without salary, are still in favor with the local government in spite of Governor Dickinson's recent embarrassing blast with a "$60 for two days" charge against the island. From intimate contact with the economic problems of the islanders, arising from a short season.

The members of the commission are Joseph H. Thompson, of Ypsilanti, chairman; Washburne Wright of Birmingham; Louis P. Simon of Kalamazoo; W. F. Doyle of Lansing, and Manfred Burleigh of Detroit.

The full flavor of the island is not found on the porch of the Grand Hotel, longest in the world, attractive as it is; nor even at the lively dock where the larger ships come in from Detroit and Chicago. No. It is found in the back of Mayor Doud's store, one of the few open the year round. All that is missing is an old-time country store cracker barrel when Old Man Bogan, admittedly the best story-teller of the early days, drops in to see his old friend Tim Doud, father of the mayor, the postmaster, and four other sons. This sturdy old-timer makes vivid a day when all the whitefish was sent down the lakes in brine; when St. Ane's church, the old Biddle house, the John Jacob Astor fur trading post and the old fort atop the crest of the hill were the only buildings on the island, except a close line of topees hugging the shore. These were the days when dashing soldiers of the garrison occupied the fort and gave the town blades too much competition with the girls.

Mr. Bogan recalls the consternation caused when Tom Thumb and his midget carriage and ponies visited the island. Little Tom so startled one Irishman that he jumped out of a barn yelling "The Leprechauns (wicked fairies to the non-Irish) are after me."

And the day a Catholic priest had the coffin of a wayward son brought into church, saying, "Faith, it's twice you've been to church, Pat; once when you were baptized and now when you're dead; and both times you were carried in." He tells the story of James Cable, who impersonated John Jacob Astor at the trading post to believing traders for fifty years after Astor died. Bogan, in a rich Irish brogue, ends each yarn—"And that's a true story."

All the stories on the island are not out of the past. One has it that a nudist is popping up here and there in lonely places.

Home of Senator Brown
Senator Prentiss M. Brown, whose home is across the straits at St. Ignace, and whose Arnold Transit company gives boat service to the island, is known here as the home town boy who made good. The island votes Democratic and right now is seeking the aid of its Democratic senator for WPA assistance.

Any time you want to stir up an argument at Mackinac Island, state flatly that "the federal government should take back the old fort and grounds, turned over to the state of Michigan in 1895, and establish a national park." Col. Roger Andrews, of Menominee, a former commissioner, and author of a reference history of the island, will back you up with enthusiasm. But most of the town leaders and the present commissioners will say that the state is doing a better job than Uncle Sam did.

Anyway, down in Washington the national park officials are not eager for the change. Besides, they are concerned with the dedication of Michigan's new national

DOCTORS ELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Mason to Head Society; Menominee Awarded 1940 Convention

Dr. S. C. Mason, of Menominee, was elected president of the Upper Peninsula Medical Society at its closing business session held yesterday morning in the Bonifas Memorial Auditorium. He succeeds Dr. A. H. Miller, of Gladstone.

Dr. Elwood Tew, of Bessemer, was chosen as president-elect succeeding Dr. Mason. The office of secretary was not filled because according to the rules of the organization the secretary of the county society in which the next meeting will be held automatically becomes secretary of the upper peninsula organization.

During the past year, Dr. Nathan Freeman, of Bark River, who was secretary of the Delta County Medical Society, also served as secretary for the upper peninsula. Delegates voted the 1940 convention to Menominee and awarded the 1941 meeting to Ironwood.

It was the unanimous opinion of representatives that the convention this year was one of the most successful ever held by the group. A crowd estimated at approximately 200, including doctors and their wives, attended the convention banquet in the Delta hotel, which was the largest crowd in the history of the event to attend the convention banquet.

"Heil Hitler" Is Tiring To Traveler, Ward Says

BY JIMMY WARD
Zeltz, Germany, August 12— Since I have been sitting here (about an hour), no less than 15 people have come in. The first thing they say, arriving and leaving, is "Heil Hitler," accompanied with the raising of the right hand as you've seen in the news reels scores of times. I hear it all day long. Cyclists I meet on the road, pedestrians, all give me a "Heil Hitler." I merely reply "Hello" and go on my way.

A young fellow I cycled with today for about 30 kilometers belonged to some Hitler youth organization and had a huge red swastika arm band. His home was in Nurnberg. Very pleasant company, although we could not converse a great deal.

Germans Don't Smile
I have picked up some German, however, enough to ask and get the necessities of travel. "Ein zimmer mit ein bet" is easy—meaning merely one room with one bed. The ordering of a meal is a bigger task. I have a little book which identifies the different foods for me. Germans are kind and congenial for the most part, although they don't seem to smile, laugh and joke as much as such as Americans. They all seem to act as if they were carrying a torch. I stopped at Schleiz for a cup of coffee on the way to Zeltz. The woman who waited on me said she had a relative in America. When she was convinced I was an American and not a German, we started talking about Hitler and she said: "Hitler, nicht," and made motions to imply that she was fed up with the whole deal. Opinion seems to be divided on that subject, however. Some are well satisfied. He has done a lot for a majority of them. There are no beggars in Germany. At the same time, there are no wealthy persons.

Uniforms Plentiful
Everyone seems quite content but the disturbing thing to the stranger is this everlasting "Heil Hitler" and the overabundance of men in uniform—young and old. All regimentation. I'd give a lot to be able to read a current American newspaper about the German situation as I travel about the country. It's difficult getting a great deal out of it unless you understand the language. I want to know what the average person thinks and feels.

Enough of Germany. I'm impressed with Switzerland as much or more than any other country. We had a grand time there. Getting on August 1 at Jungfrauch on a glacier at 11,340 feet was the highlight. I skied in shorts and picked up a ferocious sunburn. My skin is still peeling. I've never had a sunburn like that before. It tied up my leg muscles for two days and I couldn't stand up. My legs just buckled under me. They're fine now or I wouldn't be cycling 100 kilometers a day.

On French Riviera
Spent a pleasant four days on the French Riviera in Nice, France, before going to Switzerland. Swimming in the blue Mediterranean is a bit of all right but I still prefer fresh water. I can't keep my mouth shut about the American crawl and salt water doesn't taste good.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Stuart Painted Favorite Portrait of Washington
GEORGE WASHINGTON'S most loved likeness is not a handsome painting hung in an art museum. It is the small, engraved head which, from the first 10-cent adhesive, issued in 1847, to the 3-cent issue of 1932, has been the most popular stamp in U. S. mails.

The picture on the stamp was taken from a portrait of Washington by Gilbert Stuart, one of the greatest of the early American painters.

Stuart was born in Rhode Island in 1755. In 1775 he went to London, where he opened a studio six years later. He gained fame quickly, painted George III, Sir Joshua Reynolds and other celebrities.

At the height of his career he returned to America, in 1792, painted portraits of the first five presidents of United States and of many other distinguished men and women of the period.

Best known are Stuart's paintings of Washington. One of these hangs in the Metropolitan Museum, another in the Boston museum. A third, a full-length portrait, was painted for the Marquis of Lansdowne.

Stuart died in 1828 and was elected to the American hall of fame in 1900.

Tomatoes Retain Vitamin Content If Canned Right

Questions as to whether canned tomatoes retain their vitamin C arise with the beginning of the season for putting up the home-raised crop, say members of the home economics extension service at Michigan State college. Women want to know whether the method of canning or the length of time the canned products are stored affects the vitamin C content of the tomatoes.

If canned in the right way, tomatoes lose practically none of this valuable vitamin. They may, however, lose from one-third to one-half their vitamin C if stored for 6 months or more at ordinary room temperature. But even after this loss, the tomatoes still supply a considerable amount of vitamin C.

The "right way" to can tomatoes, recommended from recent tests by the federal Bureau of Home Economics, is to pack them either raw or preheated into containers, then process them in a boiling water bath. Tomatoes preheated to the boiling point, then packed hot into containers need a shorter processing than those packed raw. Tomatoes pre-cooked and packed hot in pint or quart glass jars will need 5 minutes' processing. Packed raw, the processing time should be 45 minutes.

Processing consists in putting the containers into boiling water in a boiler or bucket that has a tight fitting lid. This water bath has a rack in the bottom so that the water can circulate under the containers as well as between and above them. Water must come up over the tops of the jars or cans from 1 to 2 inches. Processing time is counted from the moment the water comes again to a full rolling boil after the containers are put into it.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Some of the don't-be-possessive advice that has been fed to women in big doses must have taken effect. For if you start watching closely the behavior of young married couples in public, you will notice that in almost every case the possessiveness is all on the man's side.

It's the man who does the patting, hand holding, and nickname calling. He's the one who says, "Stand still and let me get that smudge off your nose."

The wife seldom lets a "Darling" slip. When she does it is the same impersonal "Darling" she uses on other men.

She never straightens a necktie, or flicks a bit of dust from his coat.

She is very casual when she meets her husband in public. She leans over backward trying not to seem too much the wife.

If her husband is in a corner talking to a pretty girl she carefully leaves him there. But if she finds herself talking to a nice-looking man she soon sees her husband headed her way.

THERE'S JUST NO PLEASING THEM
Men are perverse creatures. When women went around with a possessive chip on their shoulders—the men looked not only uncomfortable, but resentful.

Then when a generation of wives adopted a hands-off-in-public attitude—the men suddenly turned possessive themselves.

Which is all right—and just as it should be. Because no woman in love resents possessiveness. It

Briefs
Mrs. Chas. Decker of Plains, Montana, has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roof.

Miss Esther Jane Overman, of Newberry, has applied for the admission to Wittenberg college of Springfield, Ohio. She will become a member of the class of 1943. This college is one of the ten oldest there. This college resumes for its 95th consecutive year. The beginning is freshman year, then junior and senior. The freshmen will report on Sept. 9.

It will be a one year course for Junior and Senior students and will include ground work and considerable actual flying.

As instruction will be given to only 20 men it will be a highly selective group. They must be American citizens. There will be a flight instructor on the grounds as well as other instructors, and numerous subjects relating to aeronautics will be studied during the year.

Regular credits will be given for this work and the course will be continued from year to year.

New York, Aug. 24—Europe's situation, moving back into the crisis stage this week, has found radio more than active in overseas pickups. The programs have been in addition to regular comment periods.

Like in previous developing situations, the broadcasts have been put on with little or no advance notice, being fitted into the schedule at opportune times, day and night. All three networks, NBC, CBS and MBS have followed a similar plan, with the intention to continue it as long as conditions warrant.

In celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Bret Harte, noted author, WJZ-NBC is presenting at 6 p. m. for the second time his "Outcasts of Poker Flat." A special musical score will be used.

Music from overseas, as listed for WOR-MBS at 2, is Act III of the opera, "Barber of Seville," at the Salzburg music festival in Germany. Also in the way of trans-Atlantic pickups, WABC-CBS has announced for a program described as Europe at Play, to which Paris, London and Berlin will contribute.

CHERRY PIE VS. Escanaba Chamber OF COMMERCE

There are no tricks about this headline. You are involved—every hotel and restaurant is mixed up in it—and so is the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce has, as a major plank, the development of the tourist business. O. K. Well, why not do this to help? See to it that tourists are fed better up here than anywhere else, Cherries are as cheap as apples. Every hotel and restaurant should serve Cherry Pie every day. And will the guests like it! And you folks at home should serve Cherry Pie to every guest visiting here—they'll love it and remember it when back home.

So—pound the table and demand CHERRY PIE because—Cherry Pie plus YOU plus HOTELS plus RESTAURANTS equals more tourists. And that is exactly what the Chamber of Commerce is driving at.

To be sure the visitors come back, use Elba Brand Cherries.

Koch—Valiant Foe Of White Plague

TO Robert Koch, little, hard-working Prussian bacteriologist of the 19th century, belongs the honor of organizing civilization's crusade against the White Plague, tuberculosis.

Before Koch's research, medical science had been forced to accept tuberculosis as a mystery, to explain its occurrence as a hereditary disease or with high-sounding treatises, but it remained for Koch to isolate the causative germ. His announcement in 1882 did not meet immediate acceptance, and 50,000 physicians in America and Europe organized collective investigations to settle the question as to whether tuberculosis was an infectious, contagious disease.

The result was a conflicting mass of testimony, but in the end the well proved experiments of the 39-year-old scientist were accepted.

Koch is noted not only for his isolation of the tuberculosis bacillus, but also for his achievements in bacteriology, his use of solid culture media, and exacting technique he followed. He made great advances in the study of anthrax, and he and his assistants discovered causes of cholera, typhoid, diphtheria, erysipelas, tetanus, glanders, pneumonia, epidemic meningitis, and plague.

Koch died in 1910, at the age of 67. His portrait is shown on the Danzig stamp, above, black, one of a series of three commemoratives honoring heroes of science. The inscription translates: "Air and Sunshine for Tuberculosis."

Two Versions Of Smart Frock In This Pattern

BY MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9187 Are you the demure and dainty type... or are you a tailored young modern? Perhaps you change your type according to the occasion? This delightful frock will fit into either mood, for Marian Martin's Pattern 9187 comes in two versions—one be-frilled; the other more on the shirtwaist order.

Both styles have bias skirts, and softly bloused bodices. The daintier version is cut with a pretty square neck, and has short sleeves, pointed pockets and ruffled edges. The tailored style uses a trim round collar, and is made with either short or long sleeves. Pattern 9187 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yds. ruffling.

Church Events

Luther League Picnic The Bark River Salem Luther League will have a picnic supper Sunday, August 27, at Pioneer Trail Park. Each member is asked to provide his own basket lunch. Members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Calvary Ambassadors The Calvary Ambassadors, young people's organization of Calvary Baptist church, will open their fall program with a social meeting this evening at 7:45 o'clock at the Haring farm at Bark River. A program of vocal and instrumental numbers will be given and there will be a talk by Reuben Nelson of Rapid River. A pot luck lunch will be served. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Christian Science Churches "Christ Jesus" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 27.

The Golden Text (John 1:14) is: "The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth."

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Isaiah 52:7): "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that published salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth!"

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 333): "The advent of Jesus of Nazareth marked the first century of the Christian era, but the Christ is without beginning of years or end of days."

Morning Session Ends Convention Women's Program

An interesting business meeting held Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the dining room of the Delta Hotel, with Dr. L. Fernald Foster of Bay City, and Mrs. P. R. Urnstom also of Bay City, the speakers, closed the women's program of the Upper Peninsula Medical society convention.

Mrs. John J. Walsh, president of the Delta-Schoolcraft Medical Society Auxiliary, hostess organization, presided.

Dr. Foster spoke of the value, importance and need of auxiliary units and emphasized the approval given their organization by the state and national medical societies. Mrs. Urnstom's address dealt with the history of the Michigan Medical Society Auxiliary, and of the many ways in which the state organization can aid the individual units.

Mrs. Otto Hult of Gladstone was elected corresponding secretary of the Delta-Schoolcraft Auxiliary and Mrs. William A. LeMire was chosen delegate, and Mrs. Hult, alternate, to the State Medical Society convention to be held in Grand Rapids in September.

Dinner Sunday At Rapid River

The Altar Society of St. Charles church, Rapid River, will serve another of its popular fellowship dinners, on Sunday at the Legion hall, directly across from the Rapid River Post Office. Serving of the delicious menu arranged for the dinner, will begin at 11:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Louis Thibault, chairman, and Mesdames Dallas Kniskern, George Martin, Frank Murray and Leo Thibault are members of the kitchen committee and Mrs. Ruth Short and Mrs. D. Peterson have charge of the dining room.

My time is too valuable to sit here listening. —Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, before the Dies Committee.

Ideas may be a greater peril to democracy than the sword. —Earl Baldwin, former British Prime Minister.

A horse chestnut is not a chestnut; grapefruit is not related to grapes; pepper-grass is not a grass; calla lilies are not lilies; and a pineapple is neither a pine nor an apple.

Betty Belanger Becomes Bride In Wedding At Suring

A wedding of interest to many residents of Escanaba, the former home of the bride, is that of Miss Betty Jayne Belanger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Surber of Suring, Wis., and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. DeLisle of this city, and William Hanson, son of William Hanson, also of Suring, which took place Saturday afternoon, August 19.

The double ring ceremony at four o'clock at which Rev. H. Watkins officiated, took place in the living room of the bride's home, a bower of flowers and ferns, forming the setting for the exchange of vows. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the processional.

The bride wore a lovely floor length gown of white dotted swiss over satin, trimmed with lace beading with ribbon inserts around the neck, sleeve bands, waist and skirt, and a finger-tip veil, which was caught at each side with clusters of lilies of the valley. She carried a mixed bouquet of pastel colored flowers, tied with blue ribbon. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Elmer Hanson, wore pink dotted swiss, and her bridesmaid, her sister, Marilyn, wore green dotted swiss. Both carried mixed bouquets.

The bridegroom's attendants were Elmer Hanson, his cousin, who was best man, and Donald Hanson, his brother.

A supper was served to forty guests, after which the young people left on a honeymoon trip through northern Michigan. They will make their home in Suring.

I've always been very proud of Mr. Roosevelt, but I think now he's gone one step too far. —Mrs. F. H. Markoll, Frederick, Md. A. R. regent, on the Thanksgiving alteration.

Church at Rapid To Celebrate Its 50th Anniversary

Rapid River, Mich.—The Congregational church of Rapid River will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on Sunday, Sept. 10.

An invitation is extended to all the old members and friends as well as the new and younger ones to join with them on this occasion and endeavor to make it a memorable one.

Divine service will be held at 10 a. m. The anniversary sermon will be preached by Dr. Stephen A. Lloyd, supt. of the Michigan Congregational Christian Conference, and a special program of music will be rendered by the church choir.

Following the services a basket lunch will be served in the Rapid River gym. Friends will bring their own basket lunch and table service. Drinks and one hot dish will be provided by the church.

Brief addresses will be given around the luncheon table by representatives of the State Conference and Wm. J. Miller will present the history of the local church.

Among other good things on the anniversary program will be a large birthday cake. Friends desiring to have a candle on the cake in their name may do so by contributing one dollar for the candle on the church's birthday cake. Requests for a candle should be sent to the pastor, Rev. A. J. Parker, who will attend to that. Candles may also be placed on the cake in memory of a dear departed one.

All churches in the parish are invited to join in the anniversary celebration, and are urged to make this the one central service and fellowship for Sunday, Sept. 10. To this homecoming and day of happy church reunion are cordially invited all who at any time have had associations with the church in the past, and all who are interested in the church today. They are also requested to bring their families and friends, that the celebration may be an outstanding success.

School Will Open Sept. 5th

During the vacation the High school as well as the two country schools have been thoroughly cleaned, painted and varnishing done wherever needed. The LaViolette school was moved farther back on the lot and turned half around. The move was made necessary by the widening of the highway at that place. Supt. W. C. Cameron will be in the high school office every day from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. to hold conferences with parents and students before the opening of school.

Personals

Joe Naugle of Kalamazoo, a former resident of Masonville called on old acquaintances here Saturday. He was employed in the Naugle, Holcomb mill, and left Masonville thirty-eight years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cameron returned from Zeeland Saturday. Mr. Cameron spent the major part of the vacation in Boy Scout camps as counselor, Mrs. Cameron spending the summer with her parents at Zeeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gray of Albion are spending several days at the Cameron home. Mr. Gray is principal of the Albion High school.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Klug

Stonington

Stonington, Mich.—The Bethel Lutheran church of Stonington will celebrate its thirty-fifth anniversary on Aug. 26, 27, and 28. The anniversary celebration begins Saturday evening at 7 p. m. with a Confirmation Reunion banquet in the Stonington Grange hall. Confirmants, their families and friends are invited to attend. The speaker for the evening will be the Rev. C. Gideon Olson, D. D. of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose subject will be "Loyalty to My Confirmation Vows".

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. the Rev. G. A. Danielson of Chicago will be the guest speaker. His theme will center around the thought of "Loyalty to My Church at large". The Gloria Dei choir of Rapid River will sing. Some vocal selections will also be rendered.

On Monday evening at 8 p. m. the day of organization will be celebrated when the Rev. C. A. Lund, D. D., president of the Superior Conference will bring the message. His subject will be "Loyalty to My Church in the future". Dr. Lund served the Stonington congregation for many years. The public is invited to attend these services and help the local congregation to observe its thirty-fifth anniversary.

CALL STATION WSOO

Sault Ste. Marie—Call letters for the broadcasting station of the Hiawathaland Broadcasting Co. will be WSOO, it was announced today by Vernon Atkins, president.

These call letters were first choice with the officers of the Hiawathaland Broadcasting company, and first on a list of several submitted to the Federal Communications commission.

Other call letters that would have been acceptable to the local station, which will be in operation by the close of the year if plans mature as expected, were WUPM which would have stood for Upper Peninsula of Michigan; WMUP another form that would have connoted Michigan's Upper Peninsula; WSSM for Sault Ste. Marie, WAND.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

STEP BY STEP TO HERE
My first thought was when I picked up the papers Monday morning and read of the trade treaty concluded between Moscow and Berlin: "The great war of nerves is over and Germany has won it."

If the news came as a shock to Whitehall; if Whitehall was "trunned" as the papers tell us it was, then there is no measuring the stupidity of Whitehall.

Germany knows perfectly well of the deeply anti-Russian feelings of precisely those circles in England who have the closest connections with the Prime Minister. Germany also knows how deeply distrustful Russia is of all Western capitalistic states. Therefore, as long ago as last May and possibly earlier, Herr von Ribbentrop suggested that frank and realistic proposals be made to Moscow.

Hitler, of course, declined to be openly identified with the idea, to which the Nazi extremists, including Herr Himmler, the head of the Secret Police, were wedded, but he told them to proceed, and if their achievements were successful they would be indorsed by him.

Herr von Ribbentrop took the attitude at the outset that the German and Soviet regimes could not, of course, be real friends. But, they argued, neither could the Soviets be real friends with the Western capitalist states, particularly with the British government, headed by Mr. Chamberlain. They suggested to the Soviets a three-point program: a trade agreement; a mutual non-aggression pact; that the two nations under no circumstances would go to war against each other; and an agreement regarding the Baltic states. I am quite sure that all three points were achieved, or will be, by Mr. Ribbentrop in Moscow. Whether the last point will take the form of an eastern Locarno, by which both nations guarantee the Baltic states, or whether it will take the form of an agreement about spheres of influence in the Baltic states—by which Russia is given Estonia and possibly Latvia—is a nice question.

Meanwhile, while the radical group in Germany was making this "realistic" approach to the Soviet Union, deepening in the Soviets the fear of Mr. Chamberlain, the "conservative" group in Germany was making a similarly realistic approach to Great Britain. They were telling the British that the radical element among the German Nazis was becoming extremely strong; that the financial situation of Germany was such that unless it were helped Germany would blow up in chaos and Bolshevism, and they were proposing a great general "appeasement."

This appeasement was to take the form of a "new and better Versailles." England was to give Germany a big loan; there was to be a "gradual unarming of armaments"; both countries were to enter together into a trade bloc among the lines proposed at the meeting at Dusseldorf between British and German industrialists just before the Czech affair, whereby Germany and Britain were to collaborate in an enormous export-drive at the expense of other exporting nations; and there were to be agreements on a colonial policy for the mutual development of sparsely populated sections of the globe.

American financiers participated in these discussions. Their business was to get American government to join in the plan. Some inkling of it got out when the conversations between Herr Wohltat and Mr. Hudson became known. Some inkling of it was implicit in any number of things that have happened. For instance, one may well ask why the British were so anxious to hand over Czechoslovakia's gold to Germany; or why they brought pressure on the French to return the Spanish gold to Franco—when there was a distinct probability that Franco might use it to pay his debts to the Italians and the Germans; or why the British have been sending enormous shipments of basic war materials for armament purposes—rubber, tin, copper—to the depletion of their own supplies, to Germany in the last days. (This fact has at last been reported by both "The New York Times" and the New York Herald Tribune in this country.)

The British anxiety for a general deal has been due in part to their own financial situation. Starting rearmament with an enormous national debt, and having to increase it drastically, with a large purchasing power among the masses, due to social services and wage agreements, and with the resources of the nation being suddenly and drastically canalized into capital goods away from consumer goods, the British government has been in terrible fear of an inflation, without being in possession of the means to at least keep it hidden which a totalitarian state has.

So while having given unilateral military guarantees to Poland, and Rumania, and Greece, and Turkey, British leaders have been negotiating with Germany for a vast economic deal implicating everybody.

They have thought that their own rearmament and the menace of war would make it possible for them to make a deal by compromise in which Britain and France,

Serial Story Murder on the Boardwalk

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CHRISTINE THORENSEN—came to visit her cousin, found a mystery.
BILL YARDLEY—had a reason for watching Christine.
GEORGE WILMET—employed Christine as a Boardwalk artist.
CHANDRA—looked into the future—and into the past.

Yesterday, Jasper escapes from the police and the others are allowed to go home. Bill tells Christine he saw Wilmet near the studio at 9:30, that Jasper was trailing her. She realizes the Inspector was certain she knew Jasper. CHAPTER X
"Then," Christine said slowly, "if you're right, Bill—if he is skulking in the dark somewhere—and if he does kill some one else, I'll be well, a sort of accomplice, won't I—because I didn't tell the police who he was and have them lock him up?"
"Nonsense! Not telling all you know doesn't constitute you a criminal. If it did, most of us would spend a lot of time behind bars."
"But in spite of Bill's light words, his voice was tense with worry."

A newsboy came along the Boardwalk abiding. "Wuxtry! Read all about it! Molder on the Boardwalk! Wuxtry! Wuxtry!" Bill bought a copy.
"Here's a good light," he said; and they stopped to read.
Most of the first two pages were devoted to the sensational murder of the wealthy and exclusive widow, Mrs. Emma Talbert.

At one of the items Christine stared with blanching cheeks.
"You said awhile ago," she faltered at last, "that not telling all I knew didn't make me a criminal. . . . What would this make me?"
"An unknown person," the item read, "has mailed to this office a document purporting to be the will of Mrs. Emma Talbert. According to that will, the dead woman's entire fortune—except for a substantial bequest to the butler who has served her for years—is left to her only relative, Miss Christine Thorensen."
"It couldn't make you anything but what you are," Bill tried to say reassuringly, "sweet and good and honest."

A good deal of space was given up to the mysterious beach-comber who was at large after having been arrested in connection with the case. The rumors were (1) that he was a notorious underworld character; (2) that he was an anarchist who hated the rich; (3) that he was a homicidal maniac.
A great deal of significance was attached to the footprints leading from the rowboat toward the booth where the body was found, one pair of which, police were reported to have said, had been identified as Mrs. Talbert's.

One item told of a strange sea-going launch which the Coast Guard lights had picked out, apparently drifting at anchor a mile or so off shore, directly opposite the beach.

her satellite, would have something to say about the terms.
Well, the result is the place where the world stands this morning, if the world really knows where it stands.

Either a titanic deal is on to which even Russia may be a party or Britain is in the most appalling dilemma imaginable. She has guaranteed to go to war if Poland decides to fight. Poland must either fight or perish, unless some great deal is in the offing.
The critical point is still Danzig, if the Germans take Danzig and fortify it, it will mean that not a single Polish soldier can stay in Pomorze, the so-called Corridor. The new German artillery can cover the entire Corridor from both sides. Poland will lose her outlet to the Baltic and the Gdynia-Silesia railroad, and that will mean that her economic lifeblood will be drained and east of Warsaw will be starved. Even if Russia supplied her with everything she could last only a few weeks, and without Russia it will probably be only a matter of days.

The British Treasury has been dragging out the matter of a loan to Poland whereby she could buy armaments.
Instead of giving her the money to buy arms wherever she could, the British Treasury has demanded that they should be bought in England and has not been able to supply them.

The Polish standing army of 300,000 men is well equipped, but there are not anything like enough rifles even for an army of a million, which would be necessary in case of war. The Polish cavalry is inadequately equipped. The Polish high command had been expecting that the British would immediately see to these deficiencies, and has been disappointed.

The whole situation is a triumph of double-crossing. Hardly a sincere word has been spoken in years. Mr. Chamberlain has been thinking about the next elections while he held the fate of Britain in his hands. The Russians have tied in their popular front espousal of "democracy," for which they have only contempt. Both Stalin and Hitler need each other, despite the fact that they are genuinely inimical to each other. But the Russian dictatorship and its ruthless oppression have been constantly justified to the Russian posited the booth where the tragedy had occurred. According to the newspaper, a detail from the Coast Guard had motored out and boarded it, only to find it abandoned.

A last-minute story told of the finding of the murdered woman's car, and the discovery in it of a hypodermic needle and a quantity of a powerful drug.
"So the inspector's key did open the car," Christine said.
"Key?" echoed Bill, who was frowning over the item.
In a moment he added, "Oh, those boys use can openers"; but his voice sounded flat and strained.

Aside from the space given Jasper, Bill and Christine received the lion's share of publicity. Bill came off with flying colors. The impression conveyed was that he had pursued the killer along the beach in a heroic attempt to prevent the crime.
But Christine was horrified to find herself played up in lurid colors as the Boardwalk Mystery Girl. . . . "WHY," one headline screamed, "WAS THE COUSIN OF THE WEALTHY MRS. TALBERT MASQUERADING ON THE BOARDWALK UNDER AN ASSUMED NAME?"

There was a gruesome description of the finding of the body, graphically contrasting Mrs. Talbert's rigidly cloistered life at exclusive Beachmont with the tawdry setting of her violent death.
Over that, Christine shed her first tears.
"Oh, Bill," she choked, her voice breaking at the stark pathos of it: "all these years she hasn't had any one but me, and I—I never really tried to be nice to her. . . . And now I haven't any one either."
Bill drew her to one of the benches that lined the Boardwalk and gathered her gently into his arms as if she had been a very little girl, and she sobbed against his shoulder until gradually she found relief.

Presently he said, close to her ear, "You've got me, Christine. You'll always have me—if you want me. . . . I didn't mean to tell you—not for months—because I didn't dare think you'd believe me. . . . I hardly believed myself that it could happen all at once that way. But this is what I've wanted from the first."
Because she had been so sure from the beginning that Bill was safe and wholesome as the fresh sea air and sunshine; and because she realized all of a sudden that this was what she had really wanted from the beginning, too, Christine did believe him, and clung to him as the one sure, sane refuge in a world suddenly gone insane.

And because this was Surf City, concerned first and only with its own interests, its own amusement, its own desires, the Boardwalk crowd eddied and passed without a backward glance.
At length Christine sat up, protesting between tears and laughter. "Bill—all these people! I couldn't have believed I'd ever do a thing like this."

And Bill said, a little unsteadily himself, "So far as you're concerned, we're no even here. Anything could happen to any one on this Boardwalk, and no one else would even notice."
Later, in the crisis that rushed upon them with such cruel inevitability, Christine was to remember his words.

When they finally reached Christine's door, Bill took her almost roughly into his arms again.
"I wish to God I didn't have to leave you alone," he said, his voice hoarse with trouble. "Promise me that you'll be careful, Christine—if you have any idea what the word means."

Once in her own room, Christine set systematically about the examination of her belongings.
"I'm a superstitious fool," she thought in the release of her new happiness. But I've got to be sure."
At length she found it—in a big manila envelope into which, before she had left New York, she had hastily stuck some canceled checks she didn't quite want to throw away.

"It" was a thick sheaf of thousand dollar bonds. There was nothing to indicate whose they were, and Christine did not look through the bundle to find out how many there were. After the first frightened look, she dropped them as if they burned her fingers and sat staring, her shaking hands tight at her throat.
Her first impulse was to call Bill; but there was no telephone in her room. To reach one, she must go into the public hall and risk being overheard.

She did the only other thing that occurred to her. Making sure that her rather flimsy door was locked, she pulled the heavy bureau in front of it, and went to bed.
Christine did not hope to sleep; but after a while she did.
She was hardly dressed next morning before she was summoned to the telephone. It was Bill calling.

"Bill," Christine said swiftly, "I've got to see you. Something—" "Listen!" Bill's voice was sharp with warning. "Don't use words that mean anything over the telephone. You've probably got a reporter in each pocket. . . . And don't be worried when you read in the paper that the shoes of one William Yardley have been found to fit into one pair of footprints found by the police."
And the other pair, Christine remembered, were Cousin Emma's.

Schedules for Schools Announced by Supt. A. F. Hall

The fall school term will open on Labor Day, Sept. 4, with a general teachers meeting at 9:30 a. m. in room 37 of the senior high school.

The daily schedule for schools has not been changed and will be as follows, the same as in preceding years:

Junior and senior high schools: 8:15 a. m. to 11:15 a. m.; extra curricular, 11:15 to 12 noon; 1 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Grade classes: kindergarten, 8:45 a. m. to 11. Afternoon classes, 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. First grade in two-grade rooms (all but Lincoln school) dismisses at 11:10 and 3:10 p. m.

Children must be five years of age by Sept. 1 to be eligible to attend the sub-primary (kindergarten) rooms.

The kindergarten classes will be in session as follows: Central school and Lincoln school, mornings; Lakeside and Riverside schools, afternoon.

The district of the public schools has four sub-divisions as follows: Lakeside comprising all of the area east of Range street; Central comprising Range street and all territory north and west to the bridge; Riverside comprising all area north of the Soo Line tracks on North Houghton; and Lincoln comprising all territory west of the bridge and south of the Soo Line tracks on North Houghton.

In the event of congestion in particular grades or rooms, it is necessary to disregard these lines and transfer students residing closest to another school.

WARNS AGAINST PROPAGANDA

But such as does go, how will it affect our stock markets? The selling of European stocks or stocks held by European money here, coupled with the general fear always engendered by war, will certainly tend to depress our markets.

But this need not be the necessary prelude to a period of decline. The effect of the war may be far from deleterious on American trade as a whole, though it will certainly injure some.

The plain truth is that Americans will be wise to be governed by calm prudence. There is no need for speed, hurry, fright, panic. A lot of the war fears have already been discounted.

The chief danger is from the two streams of propaganda which will begin to pour into our ears and minds from the contending sides to get us embroiled. We will do well to keep our ears tuned for that.

ARM AMPUTATED Menominee—Eugene Strutz of Daggett, Mich., was resting in M. & M. Hospital in Marquette, today after having his right arm amputated about the middle of the forearm following an accident at Daggett Tuesday.

Employed at the Otto Kayser farm at Daggett, Strutz was changing a grease cup on a gasoline motor when his hand became caught. Attending physicians said the arteries and nerves were severed and the bones crushed.

PERSONNEL IN SCHOOLS GIVEN

Five New Teachers To Be In System Here This Year

There will be five new teachers in the Manistique public school system this fall, Supt. Hall has announced. They replace six teachers who are not returning to the local staff this year.

Under the new alignment, there will be two less teachers in the grades, but an addition has been made to the staff of the senior high school.

Eleanor Wachter succeeds Mrs. William Norton, who was Rose Greene before her marriage. She has been transferred to the senior high school, however, and will teach English.

Ellen Speck succeeds Meredith Nelson as 5th and 6th grade teacher at Lakeside school and will be principal of the school, succeeding Helen Watson.

Florence Shutey has been assigned to the third and fourth grades at Central School, and Bessie Jachor has been transferred from Central School to Lakeside school, where she will teach third and fourth grades.

Dorothy Kelly will teach the kindergarten classes at Lincoln and Lakeside schools, and Lucille Weir will teach the first and second grades at Lakeside, which were taught last year by Miss Watson.

Edith Bowman will teach English and Latin at the Senior high school, succeeding Kathryn Helmes who accepted a position in Illinois.

Margaret Lewis who taught second and third grades at Lincoln school will not return this year and Ruth Richmond who taught second and third grades at Lakeside has accepted a position at Waupun.

The full slate of teacher assignments follows: Senior high school: A. F. Hall, superintendent, economics; Carl Olson, principal, chemistry; Preston Tantis, social science and speech; Lawrence Schuster, apprentice training; Evelyn Schuster, physical education and English; W. J. Cook, science and mathematics; Stanley Carlyon, manual training; Wayne Martin, history and band; Oscar Wassberg, physical education and bookkeeping; Alton Bjork, commercial; Frank Jehle, athletics, science and physical education; Arvin Hoge, English and natural science; Helen

RELIEF SETUPS WILL BE AIRED

Hearings Planned Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 In Peninsula

The Michigan Social Welfare Commission will conduct hearings in the Upper Peninsula on Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 for the purpose of securing first hand information on welfare and relief problems in the peninsula, it has been announced.

The first meeting will be held at Ishpeming Aug. 31 for 10 counties of the peninsula, including Schoolcraft. The other five counties, Gogebic, Houghton, Baraga, Keweenaw and Ontonagon will be represented at the meeting Sept. 1 which will be held at Houghton.

Every county delegation will be given an opportunity to present its problems, ask questions and make suggestions.

The state welfare commission will hold a regular meeting following the upper peninsula meetings, probably at Houghton. Information secured in the upper peninsula hearings will be tabulated for further study and consideration.

The hearings will be public and open to anyone wishing to attend.

Miss Hazel Pallin left for Chicago, where she is employed, on Monday following a two weeks' vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pallin, N. Houghton ave.

TRADE SLUMP SEEN BY FLYNN

Economist Predicts War Would Not Stimulate Business

John T. Flynn, noted writer on economic topics, supposes for the purposes of this article that war will actually come to Europe. What, then, will be the immediate effect upon American business?

BY JOHN T. FLYNN NEA Service Staff Correspondent New York—The first effect of war in Europe, so far as the United States is concerned, is easily predictable.

First of all there will be a certain psychological shock. In spite of all the pretense and discussion preceding this war, in contrast with the last world war, innumerable people will find themselves suddenly bewildered by it.

And the early response will be fear, hesitation, a tendency to draw into their shell economically.

This ought not to last long, because financial and business leaders do know more of the situation than they did when confronted by the last war. And they should be able to steady their communities.

FOREIGN MONEY IN U. S. NOT IMPORTANT FACTOR Second, there is a great deal of foreign money in the United States. Some of it is invested in securities. Some of it is just lying around in transient investment. What will happen to this money? Will it suddenly start back home? Or will it, like American money, dig deeper in here to escape the disorder at home?

There is no doubt that there is a great deal of it which, one way or another, will be drawn away from here quickly. This may tend to upset the money market and stock market. But it may be that we can very well exaggerate the extent of this flight.

Why should privately-owned capital which came here out of fear of war fly homeward when the anticipated danger arises? Of course, foreign governments will promptly commandeer much of this money—some has already been commandeered. But this does not mean they will hurriedly draw it home. It may even do the governments more good here than at home. They will all want credits here. With these investments and funds here they will be able to buy here. Therefore this flight of money may be very much over-estimated. We can well afford to be calm about that.

But such as does go, how will it affect our stock markets? The selling of European stocks or stocks held by European money here, coupled with the general fear always engendered by war, will certainly tend to depress our markets. A lot of people will be much frightened and will dump their stocks.

But this need not be the necessary prelude to a period of decline. The effect of the war may be far from deleterious on American trade as a whole, though it will certainly injure some.

The plain truth is that Americans will be wise to be governed by calm prudence. There is no need for speed, hurry, fright, panic. A lot of the war fears have already been discounted.

The chief danger is from the two streams of propaganda which will begin to pour into our ears and minds from the contending sides to get us embroiled. We will do well to keep our ears tuned for that.

U. P. Gridder Head Iceman at Lawrence

Jack Nystrom, of Norway, is one of six members of the 1933 Lawrence college football team keeping in shape this summer by delivering ice for an Appleton ice concern. Lawrence meets Northern State Teachers of Marquette in the opening game of the season on September 30. In the picture above Stan Zwergel, Edgerton, is at his regular position at center; John Kohl, Appleton, is at left guard; and Alvin Staffeld, Neenah, is at right guard. Nystrom is the ball carrier; the other half, Fred Olivef, Appleton; and the fullback is Fred Swamer of Appleton. Zwergel and Nystrom are lettermen.

High Life Wedding

Wrapped Up In Fashion

It might be a bath towel hastily pinned on, but it's actually a new bathing outfit of brightly figured monk's cloth, designed by Claire Ellis of New York. She is pictured wearing it on the beach at Cape May, N. J.

Headed for College

Smartly dashing but at the same time essentially practical are these fall hats, designed especially for college girls. The black model, left, is trimmed with bands of patent leather, the larger one threaded through miniature buckles. The other, right, is olive green with soft, medium brim and fairly high crown, both intricately stitched.

"How'm I Doin', Doc?"

Mae West, famed "come up and see me sometime" star, is shown playing hostess to Dr. Frank Buchman, leader of the Moral Re-Armament crusade. "I'm all for the idea," she reportedly told him at her Hollywood apartment. "In fact, I owe my success to that philosophy."

Dixie Davis Takes a Dare

"Alone At Last!"—except for two persistent detective bodyguards and a battery of newspaper photographers—newlyweds Hope Dare and Dixie Davis posed in the swank New York apartment of a friend. Davis, one-time attorney for the top-ranking Gotham gangsters, is free after his year in jail.

Off to the Labor Wars

Three more distinguished members of the theatre, Frederic March, Tallulah Bankhead and Frank Conroy, entrain for Atlantic City, N. J., to bolster the strength and ease of the Actors' Guild who are waging a showdown fight with the Stagehands Unions for control of some 12,000 actors, and actresses.

Here's What Million Looks Like

If you ever make your million, Earl A. Bauby of Chicago's Federal Reserve Bank shows what you will have. Piled high are 50,000 fives, 25,000 tens and 25,000 twenties. It will pack into a suitcase four feet long, 2 1/2 inches high and six inches deep.

State Political Gossip

1940 May Provide Opportunity for Young GOP to Push Forward

(By William F. Pyper.) Lansing—Anybody who has had his life ambition the leadership of the Michigan Republican party, either as a candidate for governor or the man who pulls the strings, may see the golden opportunity in the fatful year of 1940.

As far as leadership is concerned, Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald died interstate. There are numerous potential claimants to his crown, but no one appears to have sole claim on the scepter he waved over all the factions in the organization which twice made him governor of Michigan.

There is nothing fanciful about speculation on his successor. That Michigan Republicanism has continued since last March with no one at the helm or even grasping for it noticeably is remarkable. Come the summer of 1940 and the party must have a pilot or voluntarily resign from existence.

Will it be Gov. Dickinson? Will it be Auditor General Vernon J. Brown or State Treasurer Miller Duncel? What are the prospects for Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly and Attorney General Thomas Read? What if Melville B. McPherson, the canny Scottish chairman of the tax commission who looms big for governor then decides he wants only to stay on the tax commission? And what about Howard C. Lawrence, Frank Couzens and O. L. Smith?

Individually some of the contenders are major factors in the speculation because they have definite followings—blocks of votes which are needed to win an election. Without the help of the others, however few of them can be looked upon as "naturals" to lead their party to victory.

VANDBERG HAS ABILITY TO UNITE ALL FACTIONS
Over the whole picture soars the figure of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, a sort of "god out of the machine," who insists on remaining "scrupulously detached" from efforts to make him the GOP candidate for president.

Vandenberg, of course, has the ability to unite all the factions of Republicans, especially as he is a candidate for re-election to the senate. But as a presidential potentiality he cannot mix in the internal wranglings of a riddled state party. Presidential candidates must be above such nonsense.

It would appear that 1940 offers the chance that the Young Republicans have been seeking. For years they have wanted recognition and now it's anybody's ball game. In fact, the young Republicans have discussed the situation rather privately and leaders declare they are going to make their presence felt before the thing is settled. They have not reached the point of talking in terms of candidates for governor, perhaps because their membership is not sufficiently seasoned to enter the picture in person.

They might unite behind such a man as Frank Couzens, the former mayor of Detroit and son of the late United States Senator James Couzens. He is not necessarily numbered as one of them, but he is youthful enough to have some claim on their affections in a primary campaign. Of their own members perhaps John R. Dethmers of Holland is the leading possibility. Former prosecuting attorney in Ottawa county, Dethmers was the Young GOP choice for attorney general candidate in 1938 and was the subject of a bitter convention controversy.

In addition, Orrin McQuaid of Pontiac, Oakland register of needs, is said to have fair prospects among the young Republicans. Other possibilities in the general list could take shares of the youthful votes.

DICKINSON WILL CONTINUE TO REMAIN A FACTOR

On the other end of the plank is 80-year-old Gov. Dickinson, who has said consistently he would not be a candidate for re-election. But there is nothing to stop the old draft movement and his reluctant acquiescence to candidacy. Probably no one else knows what the governor will do. Possibly he has not yet decided himself. He rarely hurries. Dickinson always has had a solid block of church and dry organization votes, generally estimated at 200,000. In a primary election such a number is important. It was without doubt responsible for his nomination for lieutenant governor in 1938.

Whether his recent national pronouncements on morality have increased or reduced his solid block is a question often asked around Lansing. The answer must wait until 1940. Nevertheless, Gov. Dickinson at present is definitely a factor and will continue to be until he fails to file nominating petitions. And his designation for a successor, in case he does not run himself will be a coveted honor.

James F. Thomson of Parma, chairman of the state central committee, is a possibility. His strength evidently lies in the organization men—the county chairmen and their subordinates. Once united behind a man, such a galaxy is important, for it reaches deep into the precincts where the votes are. As chairman of the party, however, Thomson has no means ranks above state officers.

The four state officers in the picture supposedly were chosen for their diverse representations. Auditor General Brown carries with him his fellow weekly newspaper publishers, a group which is likely to be quite positive in its support, and perhaps a friendly attitude from the big brothers in the daily press field. He also seems to have the support of the Republican legislators, among whom he was built up to his present position.

Attorney General Read's strength goes far back into Michigan Republican history but probably has its foothold in the old Groesbeck organization. He never has been able to beat Dickinson in a primary fight but he is usually respected as a campaigner.

MAGNETIC APPEAL TO VOTER
Secretary of State Kelly entered the state political picture last year. A disabled veteran, he represents largely Wayne county Republicans. He is Fitzgerald's Wayne county campaign manager in the primary. He has a certain magnetic appeal wherever he campaigns, but his friends feel

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Court Blocks Ouster

Iron Mountain.—In an opinion received yesterday, Judge Frank A. Bell "set aside" the proceedings at the last meeting of the board of supervisors in which State Senator D. Stephen Benzie and Joseph Robinette were removed as chairman and member, respectively, of the county highway commission, by a vote of 8-7 of the full board.

The "dismissal" of Benzie and Robinette followed the reading of specific charges filed against them by a group of former county highway department employees, who claimed irregularity in the conduct of the commission's affairs. John Goulette, third member of the highway board, was not included, since the alleged irregularities occurred before he was appointed.

Leigh C. Caswell, attorney for the plaintiffs, retired from the case at the opening of the supervisors' meeting. Clarence Dwyer, of Crystal Falls, appeared for Benzie and Robinette. The full complaint, citing six specific charges, and the defendants' answers thereto were read at the board meeting, at the request of Chairman Amos Dishaw.

Rush for Licenses Keeps Police Dep't Busy for Time

About sixty persons applied for bicycle licenses the opening day on which they were issued. It is reported by Chief of Police Torval Kallerson.

The licenses are issued free of charge, but before issuance the officer makes sure the applicant has a general knowledge of traffic rules and common sense rules of safety for cyclists.

Chief Kallerson requests that in the future the applicant bring in the make and model of bicycle, color and the serial number of the frame upon making application. This will facilitate the issuance of the tag.

The serial number is ordinarily found on the bottom of the round hangar which houses the cranks. In many cases the number is painted over but scraping with a knife will bring it to view. In the event it is not on the hangar, it likely will be found on the upright bar directly below the seat.

Unspoiled Martha

The house was not the only thing that got warmed when Martha Raye celebrated the opening of her new home with a housewarming. As part of the festivities, just for luck, and also to celebrate completion of Martha's newest picture, "Never Say Die," Martha's mother, Mrs. Mable Read, took her daughter over her knee in the old-fashioned manner.

Social

Junior Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Hanson, Dakota avenue, entertained a group of friends at a party Wednesday afternoon in observance of his tenth birthday anniversary.

Games were played and refreshments served. Decorations were in pink and green and the table center piece was a two-tiered birthday cake. Favors for each of the guests were rolls of mints and Charlie McCarthy suckers, balloons, nut pucks, and miniature umbrellas.

The guests present were Shirley Lied, Hilding Granberg, George Latimer, Charles Green, John Charles Strickland, Donny Lynch, Patsy Ann and Junior Hanson.

Crawford-Vanierberghie Garden flowers placed in effective arrangement decorated the St. Paul's Lutheran church for the 4 o'clock nuptial yesterday afternoon of Helen Mary Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Crawford, 211 South 9th street, city, and Emerald V. Vanierberghie, Escanaba, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elair Vanierberghie, 630 South 16th street, Escanaba, Rev. Theo. Hoffmann officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was charming in a navy blue street length dress with matching bolero jacket. A white turban and white accessories completed her ensemble. Her corsage was made up of roses, ferns and baby breath.

Miss Ruth Crawford, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid and was also attired in navy blue with which she wore rose accessories and a corsage similar to that of the bride.

Howard O'Neal, cousin of the groom, attended the groom.

Mrs. Crawford, for her daughter's wedding, wore blue silk chiffon with white accessories. Mrs. Vanierberghie also wore blue silk chiffon with blue accessories. Both Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Vanierberghie wore like corsages of roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served members of the bridal party in the parlors of the church. Covers were placed for 35 guests. A beautifully decorated wedding cake formed the center piece for the table. The table appointments were carried out.

CLUBHOUSE WILL HAVE FIREPLACE

Norman Knutson Sponsors Improvement At Park

Plans are about completed for the construction of a fire place in the club house being erected at the Gladstone golf course and winter sports park on the Days River.

Norman Knutson is sponsor of the project and he is arranging for the financing and procuring of materials for the work.

A heatlator is to be used and masonry will be done by Sam Mills, Escanaba contractor.

Work on the golf course continues to progress satisfactorily according to reports made by WPA administrators who inspected the project this week.

City Manager A. F. Raddant plans to go to Iron Mountain today to meet with WPA officials and sponsors of projects in the U. P. in a convention at which differences attendant the work on many jobs will be ironed out.

Finnish Pastor To Speak Here Sunday

The Rev. Toivo Tervonen of the Finnish Baptist church at Paynesville, Ohio, will preach Sunday in the First Baptist church here, it was announced yesterday by Rev. Nils Hedstrom, pastor.

He will preach at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The morning service will be entirely in Swedish while in the evening Rev. Hedstrom will serve as interpreter and translate Rev. Tervonen's sermon.

Rev. Tervonen is returning from a preaching tour in Canada among Finnish speaking communities. Besides his regular work in Paynesville Rev. Tervonen visits two or three outposts, doing constructive work among Finnish speaking people there. The public is invited to hear Rev. Tervonen.

In a pink and white color scheme. At 8 o'clock in the evening a reception was held at the Crawford residence which for the occasion, was attractively decorated with garden flowers.

The couple later left on a wedding trip to points in lower Michigan, motoring around Lake Michigan and returning by way of Chicago. For going away, the bride wore a navy blue tailored suit. Upon returning the newlyweds will reside at 708 South 17th street, Escanaba.

The bride was graduated from Gladstone high school with the class of 1934 and for the past several years has been employed by the Banta Publishing company, Menasha, Wis.

Mr. Vanierberghie attended Escanaba high school and is employed by the Clark Motors Co., Escanaba.

Out-of-town guests in attendance at the wedding were Miss Elizabeth Woeckner, Mrs. William Buss, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Larson, Ed Larson, Jr., all of Neenah, Wis., and Miss Marion Carroll, Weyauwega, Wis.

Tigers Crush Washington, 8-1; Cubs Still Winning

LOCALS TAKE 7-3 VICTORY

City Team Wins From Highly Rated New Orleans Squad

After trailing for five innings in their game with the highly touted New Orleans Crescents last night, the Escanaba city team suddenly came to life and downed the southerners in a five run flurry, the game ending at a count of 7-3 in the eighth inning.

Kamrath and Maycunich were the spark-plugs for the locals, accounting for six hits, two of them doubles, between them, and also counting up a brace of stolen bases. Kamrath led the batting order with four safe ones, while Gregory, Flath and Maycunich each took two. McGovern, Flath and Andrews also boosted the Escanaba hopes in a flashy double play which helped mire the Crescents' attack.

The visitors did little in the way of hitting, getting only seven clouts, but Brown showed power, taking two of his teammates' total, one of them a triple.

Brotherton, local pitcher, did an efficient job on the mound, holding the visitors to only 7 hits, while the city team took 13, only two of their number missing all the way through.

Sunkists To Battle Johnsons In Junior Diamondball Finals

By defeating the Silk Sox last night to the tune of 19-2, the Sunkists earned the right to meet the Johnsons in the final diamondball game of the junior diamondball tournament tonight.

Pfotenbauer is scheduled to take the mound for the Johnsons and Larson will do the hurling for the Sunkists. Both pitchers have shown up well all season.

The game is scheduled for 6:15 o'clock at the Junior high diamond.

YANKS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK

Browns Steamrollered, 11 to 5; Last Three Innings Fatal

St. Louis, Aug. 24 (AP)—The New York Yankee steamroller wasted very little of a 12-hit assault today to pile up an 11 to 5 victory over the Browns and stretch its current winning streak to five straight games.

Powered by home runs by Charley Keller, Jake Powell and Frankie Crosetti, the attack took up all the slack caused by Monte Pearson's wabbling pitching performance. After the Browns had come on to go in front in the sixth, the Yanks put together four runs in the seventh and coasted in from there.

Pearson took credit for the win, but Pfyeman Johnny Murphy had to take over in the last three frames. Southpaw Howard Mills went the route for the Browns, fanning ten Yankees, but the "boom boom" balls he served to Keller, Powell and Crosetti and some miserable fielding by his mates, particularly in the seventh inning, nullified his efforts.

HITTING PACED BY GEHRINGER

Eight Washington Blows Kept Scattered By Paul Trout

Detroit, Aug. 24 (AP)—Charlie Gehringer, rapping out three singles and a double in five trips to the plate, paced the Detroit Tigers to an 8 to 1 victory over Washington in the series opener here today. He batted in two runs, and scored twice himself.

Paul Trout, Detroit right-hander, scattered eight Washington hits. The Senators' only run came in the second inning on a walk, a balk and Rick Ferrell's single.

Emil (Dutch) Leonard, Washington pitching ace, gave up seven hits and five runs in six innings before he was lifted for a pinch hitter, Walter Masterson finished.

Greenberg Hitless
Hank Greenberg, after missing two games because of a wrenched muscle, returned to first base for Detroit. He failed to hit safely in two official times at bat.

Bill Rogell hit one of his rare home runs, in the fourth inning with the bases empty. It was his second this year.

The dauntless Gehringer started Washington toward defeat in the first inning when he doubled and scored on a single by Rydy York.

In the second the Tigers put the game on ice. A double by Pinky Higgins was followed by a pass to Rogell. Trout then forced Rogell at second but Barney McCosky doubled, scoring both Higgins and Trout.

Rogell's fourth inning homer provided the fourth run. In the fifth Earl Averill tripled and scored on Gehringer's single.

Detroit added two more off Masterson on the seventh. Gehringer singled, went to second on a scratch hit by York, advanced to third on Greenberg's sacrifice and scored on an infield out. Shortly afterward York counted on a single by Higgins.

Seventh for Trout
The final Detroit run was scored in the eighth when McCosky walked, went to third on Masterson's wild throw to Bob Prichard and scored on one of Gehringer's numerous hits.

Manager Bucky Harris of Washington remarked after the game that he had been informed, erroneously, that Gehringer was just about at the end of the trail.

"Nuts," said Harris reflectively. Buck Newsom and Joe Haynes were the probable pitchers tomorrow.

Today's win was Trout's seventh.

Double In Sixth Starts Rally As Phils Nip Cards

Philadelphia, Aug. 24 (AP)—Virgil "Spud" Davis' double in the sixth, clearing the bases, started a Phillies rally tonight which gave them a 5 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The turning point came after the Cardinals had piled up a 5 to 1 lead. For four innings Bill McGee held the Phils hitless, then allowed three hits in the fifth to give the Quakers a lone run.

The sixth, a blank for the Cards, found the Phillies going to work. With two out Gus Subr doubled and Merrill May walked. Here Nate Andrews relieved McGee and filled the bases by walking and pinch hitting Gil Brack. Then came Davis' double between Ducky Medwick and Terry Moore in left field, for three runs. With that Bob Welland succeeded Andrews and made the third out.

YOU CAN'T BEAT good, clean fun... and Escanaba has had its share during the past week...

George Ruwitch faces a tough proposition as a result of gaping holes torn in the line of last year's team... if he produces a winning team, he'll deserve plenty of credit... Carl Kant over at St. Joe has several veterans although all not of top notch quality... it's a comparatively good spot to step into although the Parochials have a heavy schedule including Soo, Iron Mountain and Menominee... fortunately, none of those teams appears to be on top of the peninsula football world at present and they are early season games.

BEES' ERRORS HELP CHICAGO

Victory Over Boston, 6-1, Is 11th for Bruins In 15 Games

Boston, Aug. 24 (AP)—Claude Passeau won his 12th game of the season today as the Chicago Cubs defeated the Boston Bees 6 to 1, although they made but seven hits off Boston's Lefty Joe Sullivan.

Two Boston errors were major factors in the 11th victory for the Cubs in their last 15 contests.

The Bees made 11 hits but couldn't make them count.

Chicago scored twice after two were out in the first inning. With the bases filled on walks to Augie Galan and Bill Nicholson and a fielders choice on Hank Leiber, Glenn Russell singled to left center sending two home.

The Cubs made another in the sixth after an error by Henry Majskeki allowed Herman to reach. Galan doubled him to third and Reynolds, who replaced Nicholson in right field, hit to Warstler, who threw to first as Herman raced home.

Three singles and a muff of Galan's belt by Outlaw accounted for the other three Chicago runs in the eighth.

BIG MAX STOPS GIANTS

MARKET TAKES ERRATIC SHIFTS

Table with columns for Stock Market Averages, including Net Change, D.I., A.I., D.S., D.B., Previous Day, Month Ago, Year Ago, 1939 High, 1939 Low, 1938 High, 1938 Low, and Movement in Recent Years.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—War fears and peace hopes acted as conflicting influences in the stock market today and leading issues slumped, rallied and finally finished with the majority slightly under water.

In the erratic shifts prices tumbled 1 to more than 5 points in the first hour, then before a quick turnaround that reduced or erased losses.

Ordering were moderate in the forenoon, but a burst of short covering and speculative buying on the come-back put the ticker tape behind for a brief period. It was the first time the recording machinery has been pressed in a number of weeks. There was subsequent slow-down, however, and dealings were comparatively light during the remainder of the proceedings. Best recoveries were shared at the close and quotations were well mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 2 of a point at 45.3. Transfers totaled 1,293,680 shares against 792,990 the day before. It was the largest turnover since July 18.

Early stumbling blocks were seen in the signing of the German-Russian non-aggression treaty, expectations of a quick Hitler ultimatum to Poland over Danzig, a gloomy speech of Prime Minister Chamberlain before an emergency session of parliament, and huge troop mobilizations on European fronts.

The short-lived upward reversal of the share division followed unconfirmed rumors Polish Foreign Minister Beck was flying to Germany, ostensibly to work out a settlement of the threatening rift between the Nazis and Poland.

Seriousness of matters was stressed by the personal message of President Roosevelt to Italy's king "in behalf of the maintenance of world peace," the plea of the Pope for the avoidance of war and the action of American ambassadors at Berlin and Paris in advising nationals to get out while the getting was good.

Good business news at home was virtually ignored, although a more than seasonal climb in last week's freight loadings aided the rails.

Markets at London, Paris and Amsterdam broke sharply in the morning in the wake of news of the Nazi-Soviet coalition along lines apparently broad enough to keep Russia out of any conflict in which Germany might become involved. American securities received some support, but quotations in the principal European centers ended under the lows.

Demand for dollars in London grew apace with the British exchange control barely able to keep sterling level. The Bank of England, as a precautionary measure, boosted the discount rate from 2 to 4 percent. World silver prices slipped up briskly as India sold sterling and bought the white metal.

U. S. government bonds and foreign dollar loans were under considerable pressure in the domestic bond department.

Wheat futures, strong at the start in world markets, slipped finally. At Chicago the oatmeal closed unchanged to 5-8 cent a bushel. Corn was down 1/2 to 1-8. Cotton was unchanged to 35 cents a bale.

Aluminum, Ltd., tumbled 5 1/4 in the curb. Down 1 to nearly 3 were Bell Aircraft, Carrier, Lake Shore and Jones & Laughlin. Electric Bond & Share and Lockheed edged up. Turnover of 184,000 shares compared with 116,000 Wednesday.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

MARKETS AT A GLANCE - 1939 New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Stocks: Mixed; leaders steady after early slump. Bonds: Lower; U. S. and foreign loans hit. Curb: Depressed; industrials pushed back. Foreign Exchange: Nervous; pressure continues against pound. Cotton: Higher; trade and foreign buying. Sugar: Uneven; local demand offsets Cuban selling. Coffee: Improved; trade and European buying. Wheat: Steady to lower. Corn: Lower. Cattle: Steady to strong. Hogs: Strong to 15 higher.

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Nervous selling continued to depress the bond market today as unusually wide losses were recorded in the U. S. government list and the general run of corporate loans.

Foreign obligations of nearly every category also dropped sharply under selling inspired by the increased tension over the European situation.

U. S. treasury issues suffered their widest decline since 1934, many ending 1 to 1 7/8 points down, or the equivalent of $10 to $18 per $1,000 face value.

At the close dealers expressed the opinion the list had been somewhat overbid by the recent rush of some holders to liquidate because of the war threat.

Such selling, it was pointed out, was not altogether motivated by fear of a slump in values. It was described as a precautionary move to permit sellers to take advantage of any change in money rates in the event of hostilities.

The opinion in some financial circles is that such rates would rise if war occurred.

Foreign issues hardest hit by the war scare included Polish government 8 1/2% held at 95, down 5, Polish 4 1/2% of '63 annuities at 28, down 5 1/2, Belgium 6 1/2 at 97 1/2, down 2 1/2, Australian 6 1/2 at 84, down 3, German 7 1/2 at 19 1/2, down 1 1/2, and Italian 7 1/2 at 53 1/2, down 1 1/2.

Transactions totaled $7,347,050, face value, the largest since July 25, and compared with $6,385,725 Wednesday.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN

Minneapolis, Aug. 24 (AP)—Wheat, cash: No. 1 heavy dark northern, 75 1/2 to 78 1/2; No. 1 red durum, 66 7/8 to 67 7/8.

It is believed that have exceeded yesterday's volume in excess of 57,000,000 bushels of all grains.

Other grains moved largely with wheat but some independent movements were noted to increase country selling. Corn closed 1/2 to 1 1/8 cents higher, 2 1/2 to 3 1/8 off to 1-8 up to 7 1/2; native slaughter ewes, 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 higher; lamb 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 higher.

Heavy profit taking was in evidence on the abrupt downturn in wheat and at one point prices practically good quality, evidence. Action here paralleled the slump at Winnipeg but Winnipeg wheat closed 1/2 cent higher, 1/2 cent lower, 1/2 cent higher, 1/2 cent lower, 1/2 cent higher, 1/2 cent lower.

PASTOR BEGINS TRAINING GRIND

Huskies Get Tryouts As Sparring Mates for Challenger

Brighton, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—Bob Pastor today began intensive training for his 20-round world heavyweight championship fight with Joe Louis Sept. 20 in Briggs stadium, Detroit.

The swift-moving challenger, who did 75 rounds of boxing in preliminary training at Saratoga, N. Y., before pitching camp here at the Ben Hur farms, boxed two fast rounds with Italo Colonello, former heavyweight champion of Italy, punched the heavy and light bags for two rounds each, and shadow-boxed two more.

Pastor rocked his 200-pound sparring mate in the first round with a fierce right cross and then had him wobbling under a torrid two-fisted body attack in the second round.

Manager James J. Johnston was on the scene for the first time, driving in from Detroit. He was delighted with Pastor's condition and announced that a half-dozen huskies who have applied for jobs as sparring mates for the challenger will receive tryouts tomorrow before and after Pastor's workout.

ENTIRE WORLD VOICES PLEAS TO HALT WAR

Silesia must be so fast that the Poles won't have time to blow up or dynamite the mines.

3. After Chamberlain's speech the fuhrer and his advisers are more convinced than ever that the British and French will not fight.

Shipping As Usual

Accordingly, when the thirty German newspapermen still left in London urgently asked for instructions what to do, they were curtly told they must stick to their posts as there was no danger involved for them.

Also, German ships are arriving and leaving as though nothing were in the offing. There is an indulgent smile in Berlin for the anxiety of the Italians in not letting their big ocean liners leave their ports at this time.

From a military point of view, the entire emphasis is laid upon measures on the Polish border. There is no serious thought of any possibility of trouble from the west.

4. Preparations are going on as usual for the Tannenberg celebration next Sunday in East Prussia. This is done in the firm conviction that the "police action" will have been completed in time for the celebration to be held in perfect peace.

5. In order that Danzig, while awaiting deliverance from Polish "oppression," may not be unprotected, the armored German cruiser "Schleswig-Holstein" will arrive in Danzig today at 8 a. m. (2 a. m. EST).

Nobody Knows Answer

This cruiser carries four 28 centimeter and ten 15 centimeter guns. It is thus more than a match for the Polish fortress of Hel.

Also, with its 13,000 tons it has bigger tonnage—according to the German belief—than the whole Polish fleet put together.

In other words, as Danzig has not had time to build her own forts, she will have a swimming fortress equal to anything the Poles may use against her.

Such was the picture at midnight. What nobody could answer was: Just when will Adolf Hitler press the button for the "police action" in Poland?

And yet another question which nobody, not even Hitler, could answer was: What will the Poles do?

And finally: What will England and France do?

Hitler flew suddenly to the capital last night for his vital showdown talks.

Much Ore Shipped

Iron River.—Trainload after trainload of iron ore are moving from mines of the Iron River district to docks of the Menominee range at Escanaba this month, swelling the total tonnage of the season's second half.

The Bengal mine was shipping from stockpile yesterday.

With an increase of 12 furnaces in blast to a total of 102, consumption of Lake Superior iron ore during July totaled 3,143,337 gross tons, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported Saturday.

This was the highest ore melt since the 3,150,073 tons of November, 1938, and compared with 2,829,667 tons during June and with only 1,674,721 tons during July last year.

This brings consumption so far this year to 20,114,223 tons, compared with 12,341,008 tons in the like period last year.

WITH JIMMY LYNCH

Milwaukee, Wis.—Reggie Col-dagelli, halfback, and Ray Busler, tackle, of the Marquette university football team, making a one-day appearance at the Wisconsin state fair with Jimmy Lynch's "Death Dodgers," both indicated that a summer with the daredevil drivers has put them in condition for the coming gridiron campaign.

Coldagelli and Busler, both seniors, will troupe with the Lynchmen to Sioux Falls, S. D.; Des Moines, Ia.; Albert Lea, Minn.; and Fargo, N. D., before reporting for practice, Sept. 10.

Darien, Conn., Aug. 24 (AP)—Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, who used to be a child prodigy, and Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., who still is, proved they had what it takes "in the clutch" by coming from behind today to win their quarter-final matches in the 43rd U. S. women's golf championship.

Both 2 down at the turn, they put on the heat over the Wee Burn club's long, treacherous back nine: Miss Kirby to gain a 1 up decision over stout Dorothy Traung, the amiable 25-year-old San Franciscan. Miss Hicks to send Maureen Orcutt to the sidelines with a 3 and 1 triumph.

In opposite halves of the draw, the 19-year-old Atlantan and the 18-year-old California miss will find themselves matched with tough opposition tomorrow in the 18-hole semi-final round. Miss Kirby will take on Charlotte

All Stars Prepare For Tiff With Pro Champs Wednesday

Chicago, Aug. 24 (AP)—The college football All Stars who will oppose the professional champions Wednesday night mixed routine workouts with an outing under the lights tonight.

Coaches indicated the brief drill in an enclosed practice field north of Northwestern's Dyche stadium might be the only night session until Monday night's rehearsal at Soldier Field, site of the charity game with the New York Giants.

Coaches reviewed movies of yesterday's scrimmage game, which the varsity won, then worked the squad against a five man line New York used so effectively last year against passing of Washington's Sammy Baugh and Green Bay's Cecil Isbell.

EMIL HALLSTEN KILLED BY CAR

Munising Man Struck By Hit-and-Run Driver On Tannery Hill

Munising, Aug. 24—Emil Hallsten, 55 year old East Munising resident, was fatally injured on Tannery hill either late Wednesday evening or early Thursday morning when struck by a hit-and-run driver. Hallsten was discovered lying in the road about one o'clock this morning by Arneth Moe, a truck driver, who rushed the injured man to a hospital. He died there about 3 a. m. without regaining consciousness.

The accident occurred at the top of Tannery hill and it was believed that a car travelling west struck the man. Officers said that marks at the edge of the road indicated that Hallsten had been dragged approximately ten feet after being struck. He suffered a severe skull fracture, a compound fracture of the left arm and severe bruises, indicating, officers said, that the automobile or other machine was travelling at a high rate of speed.

A coroner's jury called by Coroner Joseph Lambert viewed the body this morning but will not meet again until the accident has been investigated fully by officers. Members of the jury were Paul Cotey, Charles McNabb, Charles Prato, Charles Belonga, Peter Peterson and Potter.

Hallsten is survived by a daughter, Ethel and a son, Tydo, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Nels Olson and two stepsons, Eugene and Edward Vitra. He was born in Vilpual Lanni, Finland, in 1884.

The body was taken to the Bowerman funeral home. No arrangements for funeral services have been made.

Supervisors Talk Up Tax Increase

Munising, August 24—Alger county supervisors laid plans on Monday to make the public conscious of the necessity of an increase of 3 mills in taxes for the next five years. The subject will come up at a special election called by the supervisors for September 11.

Fifteen mills are allowed under the limitation amendment. The increase of three mills in the tax rate will be used to pay off the state institutional debt which now amounts to approximately $40,000.

At the present time money due the Alger county road commission on McNitt and Horton refunds is being withheld by the state auditor general. State Auditor General Vernon Brown has emphasized that money being impounded by the state because of the county's institutional debt will be kept by the state until the county takes steps to dispose of the debt.

A comet is much lighter than air, and its only particles of mass are those infinitesimal ones in its head. In 1887, there appeared a "headless" comet; many comets have no tails.
