

POLAND ACCEPTS U.S. PEACE PLAN

SHIP TIE-UPS BRING WORRY TO AMERICANS

THOUSANDS AWAIT CHANCE TO GET BACK HOME

New York, Aug. 25. (AP)—A serious shortage of ships to bring home some 69,000 American residents and tourists in Europe was seen tonight as the state department announced arrangements for evacuating Americans should war break out.

A survey of steamship lines here showed the task would take weeks, possibly months, despite any plans by the state department.

The immediate destination of approximately 1,700 Americans on the liner Bremen, two days out of Cherbourg, was in doubt tonight. The order calling all German ships back to home ports was interpreted here as meaning that the Bremen would take the Americans to Germany.

Not Enough Vessels Operators of the Bremen here said they were "hopeful but doubtful" that the boat would continue its voyage.

"We haven't nearly enough ships to bring them back," a spokesman for the United States lines said.

The U. S. lines said the liner Manhattan, due at Cobh, Ireland, Tuesday, probably would be ordered to take Americans aboard and return to New York immediately, omitting stops at England, France and Germany. Yesterday the President Roosevelt was ordered to break its schedule at Havre today and return here.

The French line said it would do all possible, but pointed out that the Normandie was in mid-ocean bound for New York, the Ile de France was bound for Havre along with the Champlain. The Degraesse was enroute to New York.

Sailings Canceled

The Cunard White Star line's Queen Mary was two days out of New York, bound for England with the possibility of being held there. Other English ships were at sea or ordered home.

Not a large passenger German liner was in a Nazi port. The Anchor line (English) cancelled Glasgow sailings of the Caledonia and California for New York.

England ordered the Queen of Bermuda, on the Bermuda-and-New York run, to return to England next week.

Holland - America line ships were unable to help evacuate Americans as they were on cruise service or at sea between New York and Europe.

Unaccounted hundreds of Americans hurriedly cancelled trips to Europe at the New York offices of steamship companies.

Detroiters Involved In Cemetery Fraud

Pontiac, Mich., Aug. 25 (AP)—Four Detroiters connected with operations of the Grand Oakland Memorial Park, Inc., were charged today with fraud and two of the four were accused of embezzlement of $67,000.

Prosecutor Charles L. Wilson said it was impossible to determine how many persons had lost money in the sale of $2,500,000 in lots in a cemetery in Norl township or how much money was involved.

Warrants resulted from the report of justice of the peace John J. Schulte Jr., who conducted a one-man grand jury inquiry and expressed opinion that the Memorial Park was "a grand scheme of the promoters to fleece the public." Promoters, he said, were to have received 58 per cent of the gross sales.

Cyrus A. Cook, Forrest M. Keeton, A. L. Schneider and Zack C. Barber were charged with fraud, and Keeton and Schneider with embezzlement as well. Wilson said the land involved reverted to its original owners last March after foreclosure proceedings.

REVOLT IS PUT DOWN IN CHILE

Martial Law Proclaimed for Month; Popular Front United

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 25 (AP)—Chile's popular front government, backed by thousands of volunteer workers, today quickly put down an insurrection in the army.

With quiet restored and the leaders of the revolution arrested or dispersed, President Pedro Aguirre Cerda decreed a nationwide state of siege—the equivalent of martial law—for one month.

The ministry of the interior issued a communique praising the people's calm in the face of the uprising. Popular front leaders congratulated the workers for their support. Thousands had volunteered to defend the president and government buildings.

But it was probably the quietest revolution in Chile's turbulent history.

It was impossible to find anyone who heard any shots fired, although there was said to have been shooting this morning on Santiago's outskirts, and no casualties were reported.

The movement was said to have originated in an artillery regiment and to have spread to two others. It failed, however, when most soldiers in the three revolting regiments refused to join.

Authorities said the object of the uprising was to eliminate socialists from the leftist government which took office at the start of this year.

Crowd Breaks Up Texas Red Rally

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 25 (AP)—A yelling, jeering crowd of thousands broke up a meeting of Communists tonight, then was dispersed by a storm of tear gas and water from fire hoses manned by police and firemen.

The 100-odd persons who crowded a small room in the municipal auditorium, under the pledged protection of Mayor Maury Maverick, former congressman, fled through rear doors before volleys of rocks and the roars of the throng which repeatedly charged police.

While denouncing Communism, Maverick had declared he would use all powers at his command to guarantee freedom of speech and public assembly to any group of citizens and had placed more than 200 police in the vicinity of the auditorium.

Paralysis Outbreak Believed Past Peak

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—Dr. A. W. Newitt, state director of epidemiology, said today that the poliomyelitis case load in the state appeared to have reached its peak.

He reported there were 332 cases in the state and that the number was falling off daily.

In Detroit 15 new cases and one death were reported. The death total thus was raised to 13. Detroit had 95 active cases.

Detroit public and parochial schools will not open until September 18. Most of the suburban school systems plan to open on September 8 as scheduled.

New York Wants Lepke, But FBI Guards Prize

New York, Aug. 25. (AP)—The government's prize catch in its current anti-crime campaign, Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, was arraigned today on 10 indictments charging narcotics violations, bribery and conspiracy, while the office of Thomas E. Dewey, the Manhattan district attorney, sought vainly to lay hands upon the accused racketeer.

Lepke appeared in court guarded by two agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, entered an omnibus plea of innocence, and was ordered held by the FBI without bail.

He had been questioned hour upon hour, but whether he was "talking," in the sense of telling things about his former associates, was not disclosed. Only one thing appeared certain:

U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill had no apparent intention of giving up jurisdiction of his notorious prisoner until after the disposition of the most important of the various federal indictments against him.

The strong federal-city rivalry in the case was illustrated by these developments:

The bitter, although privately meek, complaints of high police officials that they got from the newspapers their first information of Lepke's capture.

Mayor LaGuardia's descent during the day upon police headquarters—a visit during which he betrayed strong agitation and of which he remarked subsequently: "Well, I didn't carry any medals down to police headquarters."

Lepke, who had been a fugitive for two years and upon whose head there had been a reward that under some conditions would have totaled $50,000, surrendered last night to J. Edgar Hoover, FBI head, and was quoted by Hoover as saying he hadn't been out of Manhattan during all the time he was "on the lam."

Mother Of Accused Killer, 14, Comforts Mother Of Victim

Los Angeles, Aug. 25 (AP)—Two grief-crushed women, one the mother of a 14-year-old accused boy killer, the other the mother of the victim, comforted each other at a coroner's inquest today.

The jury found Billy Williams died of "compound fracture of the skull administered by Richard Jensen with homicidal intent" and recommended prosecution of the boy, against whom a murder charge has been filed in juvenile court.

Later in the day Superior Judge Ben B. Lindsey ordered an intensive psychiatric study of the youth, terming him "the most callous and cold-blooded individual I have seen in 35 years of courtroom experience."

While young Richard looked on calmly, his mother, Mrs. Frances Jensen, in a trembling voice told the inquest jury her son screamed at her, "I just killed Billy Williams."

Officers previously quoted Richard as confessing he stabbed and choked Billy to death for calling him an "ex-con" because of a reformatory sentence he had served.

JAPS SHOCKED BY GERMANY'S RUSSIAN PACT

CABINET DECIDES ON POLICY OF ISOLATION

Tokyo, Aug. 25 (AP)—Japan, shocked by Germany's pact with her old enemy, Russia, was officially stated today to have decided on a drastic change in her foreign policy, hitherto linked closely with the Rome-Berlin axis.

She emerged as an international free lance, with her policy authoritatively described as one of "splendid isolation."

Conclusion of the nonaggression pact between Germany and Soviet Russia prompted the reversal, decision on which was said to have been reached first by the cabinet's big five—Premier Baron Kichiro Hiranuma and the foreign, finance, war and navy ministers—and approved later by the entire cabinet.

Kozo Ota, chief secretary of the cabinet, said the Russian-German pact caused the government to abandon any consideration of measures to strengthen the anti-Comintern pact, in which Japan has been linked with Germany, Italy and lesser countries.

Soviet Pact Protested Domei, Japanese news agency, said the cabinet had decided to protest to Berlin against the German treaty with Russia. The Japanese press took a sharp attitude toward Germany and virtually agreed that the anti-Comintern treaty binding Tokyo to Berlin and Rome was actually dead.

Relations between Japan and Soviet Russia have been strained since Japan started her conquest of Manchoukuo in 1931, and the two nations have been carrying on intermittent warfare on the Manchoukuo—outer Mongolia border for the last three months.

The cabinet secretary said "it is needless to say the government should pursue an independent foreign policy based on morality irrespective of the international situation. . . . the general policy in the future will be carefully worked out on the basis of a new idea."

While the cabinet's decision was not regarded as meaning permanent isolation, most observers considered it quite unlikely that Japan would undertake foreign commitments at this time.

Authoritative sources said it was "too early" to determine what effect the change in the policy would have on future relations with the United States.

GRADE CROSSING TRAFFIC HAZARD

Train and Car Crashes Just Carelessness, Says Scavarda

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—Grade crossing accidents were cited today as a major factor for an increase in the number of automobile fatalities in Michigan.

State health department officials reported 145 persons lost their lives in motorcar accidents in July, bringing the total number of fatalities for the first seven months of the calendar year to 726 as compared with 703 for the corresponding period last year.

Of this number, 84 deaths occurred in 52 grade crossing crashes in the first six months of the current year as compared with 20 deaths in 19 similar accidents from January to July in 1938.

"That is a shameful record of carelessness," Capt. Caesar J. Scavarda, head of the state police traffic safety division, declared. "Cautious approach to grade crossings is the responsibility of the driver alone."

Scavarda asserted motorists also are ignoring other accident causes.

"For one thing, they are driving too fast for the road conditions—with which they have to contend," he said. "The running of stop signs is another important factor."

Democrats To Rally Sept 2 At Mackinac

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—The call went out today to Democrats to gather at Mackinac Island Saturday, Sept. 2, for a rally and a meeting of the party's state central committee.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, who was acclaimed "head of the Democratic party in Michigan" at a similar get-together here in July, will attend the meeting, but it is doubtful that he will elaborate on his statement of political intention.

Van Wagoner declared at the earlier meeting he would accept any place on the ticket that the party felt would strengthen it, be it for United States senator, governor or another term as highway commissioner.

The Democratic headquarters sent invitations to county chairmen to turn out in force for the Mackinac Island rally and banquet. Van Wagoner criticized the chairmen at the July meeting for not having a bigger turnout.

ITALY BOLSTERS FIGHTING FORCE

Half Million Men Called to Colors; Roosevelt's Peace Plea Spurned

Rome, Aug. 25 (AP)—Premier Mussolini called up approximately half a million more men today to put his fighting forces on a war footing.

The call was estimated unofficially to give Italy a fighting force of about 1,700,000 men. The navy and air force have been virtually at full strength for five days.

While spurning the situation, Mussolini rejected his usual audiences with the German finance minister, Schuler von Krosigk, who was being visited in Rome, perhaps to coordinate German and Italian finances and settle such questions as the more than 21 million dollars (400 million lire) owed to Italian exporters by Germany.

Il Duce withheld any formal sign of his reaction to President Roosevelt's suggestion for a peace proposal, which King, Vittorio Emanuele referred to the premier from the royal fishing camp near the French frontier.

Newspapers unanimously praised the peace plea of Pope Pius, but rejected that of President Roosevelt.

Virginio Gayda, the authoritative editor of Il Giornale D'Italia, said Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Chamberlain were trying to throw the blame for Europe's plight on Germany, particular exception to Roosevelt for speaking in the name of the American people and to Chamberlain's attempt "to interpret the desire of all humanity."

Sheriff's Promise Governor To Stop Illicit Gambling

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—Governor Dickinson had assurances from sheriffs of two counties today that gambling laws in their districts were being enforced.

They were contained in replies to letters sent out last week by the Governor to sheriffs of counties in which state police seized slot machines.

"We are able to enforce the laws in our county and are able to handle the situation ourselves," Macomb county sheriff Robert C. Havel informed Dickinson.

Sheriff John A. Papendick of Crawford county told the Governor "I have every intention of performing my law enforcement duties," explaining five machines confiscated in his county had operated "without my knowledge."

Inquiry Proposed In Wayne County 'Building Racket'

Lansing, Aug. 25 (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read sought today to have Wayne County Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson's one-man grand jury investigation of gambling turn its spotlight, also, on what he described as "racketeering" in the building industry.

He forwarded to Judge Ferguson evidence obtained by his investigators in a study of the construction industry. The information, it was understood, dealt only with activities by groups representing themselves as labor unions. Read said he felt the state had no authority to inquire into charges of price fixing, because such offenses were covered by federal laws.

Leaves Of Canadian Air Force Canceled In War Preparation

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (Canadian Press)—Canada's air force units were ordered tonight to be in readiness to move to the stations they are to occupy in case of war.

The move, announced by Defense Minister Ian MacKenzie, followed an earlier suspension of all leaves for members of Canada's permanent forces.

The dominion cabinet met for two hours under Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King for the second time in two days. Topics discussed were not disclosed.

The order cancelling leaves applied to about 4,000 men in the permanent militia, 3,000 in the regular air force and 2,000 in the naval services.

DEWEY GREETED BY POLITICIANS

Vacationing Owosso Boy Meets Illinois Group At Lakeside, Mich.

BY T. H. PECK Lakeside, Mich., Aug. 25 (AP)—Illinois Republican leaders from Chicago and downstate points assembled here tonight to meet Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney who is spending a brief vacation in his native state.

The gathering was held at the spacious summer home of Leonard C. Reed, Chicago attorney and cousin of Dewey. A buffet supper was served on the grounds overlooking the sandy beach of Lake Michigan.

Among those present were former U. S. Senator Charles F. Dineen, A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Illinois Republican state central committee; Hill Blackett, national committee man from Illinois, and Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Cook county (Chicago) Republican committee.

Blackett said the meeting had "no partisan significance" but was one of several informal gatherings planned by Illinois Republicans "to look over possible candidates" for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination.

Dewey came here today from the home of his mother in Owosso, Mich. He planned to remain until Saturday night when he will take a train from Niles, Mich., to New York state where he is to be the guest at Plattsburg of Rep. Wallace Pierce.

Blackett said plans were being made for a Dewey visit to Chicago, Sept. 5.

"NEEDS HIS REST"

.. Berlin, Aug. 26 (Saturday) (AP)—Government spokesmen said early today the answer to the second peace message of President Roosevelt would come from Adolf Hitler himself or his chancellor staff because of the delicacy of the present situation.

They were unable to say whether the president's appeal had already been transmitted to Hitler.

"The probability exists that the message arrived in Berlin after the fuhrer retired. Because the fuhrer needs his rest these days, he certainly would not be called from his sleep to be notified of President Roosevelt's telegram," a spokesman said.

More IRA Blasts Rock British Towns

London, Aug. 26 (Saturday) (AP)—A violent explosion damaged the front of the town hall of the west coast resort town of Blackpool early today, 12 hours after a blast attributed by police to an Irish Republican Army killed five persons and injured about 50 at Coventry. No one was injured at Blackpool.

Police reported that before the Blackpool blast, bombs had been discovered in a dust bin in the promenade and in gardens outside the constable's office.

In London, a special police guard was placed over government buildings after Scotland Yard received reports of an asserted IRA plot to make a concerted attack on government buildings here.

PEROW CHILD FATALLY HURT

Three-Year-Old Boy Fell Off Automobile Bumper

Injuries received in a fall, while he was playing about his father's car, proved fatal Friday morning to Richard Joseph Perow, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Perow, of 2318 Ludington street. He died at 3 o'clock at St. Francis hospital, where he was rushed late Thursday, critically ill, for an emergency operation.

Blacksmith, Harness Maker and Old Horse Recall City's History

From the limbo of the Gay Nineties, when Escanaba's main street was a muddy trail for town-bound, swashbuckling lumberjacks with a winter's pay in their jeans, remain at least three who remember—a blacksmith, a harness-maker and a 50-year old paper-mache horse, which every year at State Fair time looks forth upon his one-time domain from the very peak of the racetrack on the fair grounds in north Escanaba.

A visit paid to the shop of Joe Dery, who, in the days when this city was in its lusty prime, shoed many a dashing team and forged many a logging chain, reveals little now but a nostalgic odor of horse, rusting iron and moulding leather. The casual visitor sees nothing in the dim interior of the old shop but row after row of rusty horseshoes hung from spikes in the rafters and a clutter of idle sledges and iron bars lying around an aged red brick forge filled with dead grey charcoal.

In the back of the shop, where dust motes slide down pale beams from a filmed window there is a wood-working bench, with a few modern tools and electric motors contrasting strangely with the relative antiquity of the rest of the place.

Dery Here 50 Years
"Fifty years ago I came here," said Dery. He puffed slowly on a corn-cob pipe as he sat in the open front doorway of the shop, waiting for a possible customer for gas from his single red pump standing in front. His dingy, plain wooden chair creaked as he half rose when a car stopped in front, then creaked again as he settled back when it drove on, its driver evidently not finding what he sought.

"I was born in Canada," Dery continued. For seven years I worked in Quebec city to learn the trade—at one dollar a month. Later I worked for a while in Pittsburgh, Massachusetts.

"When I came here on the railroad train from Chicago," he said, pointing toward the north and west, "I took a wagon from out at the depot. The first house this side was the Amiker boarding house and there was all jack pines in between."

For fifty years he has been in the business in Escanaba, he recalled, and for about 22 years he has been in the same building. At one time he had a shop in the Finnegan building, on the present site of the Delta hotel. In those days, he said, he used to have several helpers. In his present building, on North 12th street, just off Ludington, he has had as many as seven men working for him at one time. Three or four were blacksmiths and three worked at painting express wagons, buggies and cutters.

Shoed Last Team
At the height of the trade in this city, there were 13 blacksmiths who served the lumber-wagons and express teams which crowded the streets, winter and summer. The jingle of harness and the clang of sledges on the forge was a common thing then, mingling with the tramp of feet on board sidewalks.

"I shoed my last team this past fall," Dery recalled. "It was a team from the Birdseye Veneer company. Now I don't shoe horses any more."

He shifted in his chair as he puffed at his pipe. One by one he scanned the smoke-blackened rafters with his clusters of iron shoes. From huge ones for heavy draft horses to tiny, comparatively dainty ones for ponies and race horses. He gazed lingered over the silent forge, the anvil, with its sledges leaning against it, black and cold-looking under their dust.

"No," he said, "I don't shoe horses any more."

Harness Maker Close
It is only a block south, across Ludington street, to the harness shop of Joseph A. Beauchamp. For 23 years this coming February 5, Joe Beauchamp has been in the harness making and mending business. His shop is still continually littered with leather scraps and buckles, and fresh, new-smelling harnesses hang from pegs, destined to adorn some farmer's team.

But on the walls, in ancient lithographed prints from old newspapers, calendars and photographs, can be seen evidence of Joe Beauchamp's real love.

Here are pictured sleek trotters with racing sulks behind them and goggled, silk-capped drivers leaning forward in desperate efforts to get more speed-harness racing—that is Joe Beauchamp's first love.

And among the beauties pictured there is one in particular which carried the harness-maker's hopes in many a race. It was Beauchamp's own horse, which he raised and trained from an "out-law," a horse which would not run with a field, to become one of the fastest time-trial racers ever to run in this part of the country.

Beauchamp Also Canadian
Joe Beauchamp, too, is a Canadian. He was born and raised in Valley Field, 40 miles from Montreal, Canada, and came to Escanaba when he was 14. He, too, had helpers when he started, but now works alone in his shop, for the harness maker's trade, with the blacksmith's, has gone with the going of the horse. The decline of lumbering also took a good deal of the business of the harness maker, for logging harnesses were much in demand when the rivermen ruled the woods.

"Sure, I used to make lots of racing harnesses," Beauchamp said in answer to a question. "But business isn't what it was in those days."

He recalled such old-timers of the trade as Vlau, Sheedio, Kaufman and "Old Man" Rousseau, who were outstanding in the local harness trade some fifty years ago. Beauchamp worked with Theodore Sheedio at one time, before he bought his shop. He, like Dery and other blacksmiths and harness men, moved from the lower end of Ludington street to higher levels as the city grew. He is, as far as he knows, the only harness-maker in town at the present time, as Dery is the only blacksmith left in the trade.

And at last we come to the old horse, the inspiration and living, as well, for the harness maker and the smith.

Old George Kaufman was its first owner 50 years ago, as far as Beauchamp remembers. Theodore Sheedio then owned it and finally it came into Beauchamp's possession when he bought the harness shop.

Horse Made of Paper
Although he now stands upon the racing barn at the fair grounds and is painted white, the old horse once stood with all his four feet on the ground, in all his dapple-gray glory. He is a full-scale animal, too, being, according to Beauchamp, "the size of an 1100 pound horse." His actual weight, however, is only 400 pounds, for he is hollow and made of pressed, molded paper.

A "display" horse for the showing of harness on the sidewalk in front of the harness shop, he stood originally on a wooden base with four wheels and could be pulled into the shop at night and out to the street again during the day when prospective buyers were passing.

One of his legs is cracked and repaired, a reminder of the time he was blown over by a hard gust of wind. Unlike his flesh and blood counterparts, he did not have to be disposed of as useless, but was promptly stuck back together. His ears are plugged in, as is his tail. The latter appendage is of genuine horse hair and is tacked on the plug, which is wrapped in horse hide. His mane, also, is real hair, and is also tacked on.

Donated by Beauchamp to the U. P. State Fair commission, he has for several years decorated the speed barn on the fair grounds, being taken in for protection from the elements except during fair week, when he again stands for all eyes to see.

The day of the horse, the lumberman and the board walks has gone, but still there are three who remember—the blacksmith, the harness-maker and the old horse, with his dapple gray hidden now by new white paint.

On a regular week-day pedestrian deaths make up to 39 per cent of the total killed in traffic accidents; on Sundays and holidays, this percentage drops to 27 per cent.

ESCANABA HIGH IN AUTO TOLL

22 Accidents Occurred Here During Month of July

Escanaba, with a total of 22 automobile accidents led all other upper peninsula cities in this department for the month of July according to the monthly Michigan motor vehicle traffic accident summary compiled by the state police.

Of this total there was only one fatal accident, while there were eight in which there was personal injury and 13 in which property damage occurred. Reports were submitted by nine upper peninsula cities which were divided into two classes according to population.

Marquette possessed the outstanding record for those in the population range of from ten to 20 thousand having only three accidents for the month, none of which were fatal. Ishpeming has the best record for cities ranging from five to ten thousand with not a mishap, while Negaunee with five accidents, none of which resulted in a fatality or personal injury, ranked second high.

The total number of accidents occurring in the state for the month was 7,391. Of this number 129 were fatal accidents resulting in the death of 153 persons, and 1,901 were personal injury accidents. The total number injured amounted to 2,846.

In releasing the report state police pointed out the following three highlights of the survey:

1.—The 153 deaths in July was a great increase over June's record of 89 deaths and that injuries in July amounted to 1,901 as compared with 2,211 in June. The number of fatal accidents in July increased 65 per cent over the preceding month.

2.—This increase of fatal accidents was the result of the unfavorable experience in the rural areas. Trunk lines, county roads, and the streets of villages and cities with less than 5,000 people accounted for 47 fatal fatalities in June, but in July 103 fatalities were reported from these areas. That number is 67 per cent of all fatal accidents in the state during July.

3.—Analysis of the types of fatal accidents reveals that the number in all the major categories increased. Accidents involving a motor vehicle and a fixed object tripled. Those between two motor vehicles doubled. The types of motor vehicle accidents and the number of each for the month follows: collision with pedestrian, 566; other motor vehicle, 5,915; railroad train, 17; electric car, 40; bicycle, 252; horse-drawn vehicle, 18; fixed object, 263.

Sprungman To Take Tahquamenon Movies

Newberry, Mich.—The Tahquamenon River in color movies and stills from a Michigan department of conservation patrol boat, will be done by Ormal I. Sprungman, Minneapolis, photography editor of Sports Afield magazine, according to George Rintamak, local outdoors writer, who recently returned from Nahma, where Sprungman is teaching outdoor photography at the "backwoods university." The trip will be made Saturday, Aug. 26.

Sprungman, whose articles and pictures appear in many national publications, has gained considerable note for his movies of Alaska, the western states and of Isle Royale, which he visited the year before the big fire.

Various points of interest, including Grand Marais, Custino, Grand Island, Pictured Rocks, and others will be photographed by Sprungman while in the eastern part of the peninsula. Francis P. Furlong, of the local conservation office is co-operating in getting this valuable publicity of the Newberry district.

While here, Sprungman will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Rintamak.

Grand Marais

COUPLE HONORED

Grand Marais, Mich.—About one hundred friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Schneider gathered at the Finnish Hall Monday night on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

A very fine program was given with Mrs. William Donahay as toastmistress. Mr. R. C. Hill spoke of his association with the Schneiders down through the years reviewing many pleasant memories. Edward Bowles sang two tenor solos "We've Gone a Long Way Together" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold." A group of young people sang "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" and "Bicycle Built for Two." Then altogether the guests sang "Quitting Party" and "When You and I Were Young Maggie." Mrs. Donahay read a poem she had composed for the occasion.

Mrs. Schneider wore the wedding dress and hat which she had fifty years ago, which had been altered only slightly. A purse of fifty-two dollars was presented to the Schneiders, and the evening closed with the serving of refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider are truly pioneers of Grand Marais. They were married in Aurora, Ill., August 31, 1889, and came to Seney the following day, where Mr. Schneider was engaged in lumber camp work, and later in the store of Mr. Hargrave.

In 1904 when the railroad came into Grand Marais, the Schneiders moved in along with many others. A new lumber mill was being built, and many people were living in tents and shacks. Mr. Schneider built the present Thompson store building and kept the Schneider's department store until 1932.

Mr. Schneider has been prominent in community affairs throughout the years, having served on the board of education a quarter of a century, serving on town boards, and in other capacities.

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider had two daughters, one dying in infancy, and the other is Mrs. Arthur Gouppille of Grand Marais.

RECREATION CAMP

Twenty-six boys under the direction of Billy Thomas, recreational leader, enjoyed a four day camp in the cabin on the school forest property during the past week. Recreation of many types were enjoyed by the boys, and on Wednesday, L. K. Cheney conducted a tour for identification of plants in the afternoon, and in the evening the boys were shown conservation films by Mr. McLaughlin and Officer Forest Carter.

The boys were organized into Indian tribes with a chief for each tribe as follows: Menominee tribe, chief, Donald Nettleton. Bruce Bailey, George Nettleton, George Pegg, Ronald New and Rudolph Gupille; Sioux tribe, chief, William Tomkiel, Norman McDonald, James Thompson, Louis Bal, Steven Block, Reece Lee and Vernon Olli; Mohawk tribe, chief, Bill Roberts, Charles Lee, Jack Lee, James McDonald, Albert Gross, Dick Mulligan; Chippewa, chief, Harold Bailey, Forrest Kellin, Bobby Lee, Arthur Roberts, David Roberts, Chester Hughes, Scott Chilson.

GRAND MARAIS BRIEFS

Guests the past week at the Bowles cottage included Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Bicknell, son Jack and daughter Kathryn, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Holtzhouse, all of Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bowles and daughters, Beverly and Fay, of Royal Oak, are also at the cottage spending their vacation with Mr. Bowles father's family.

Mrs. Forrest Carter and son Jim visited the first of the week at Michigan.

Mr. Carter attended a conservation meeting at Marquette Tuesday.

Iron River—Marjorie Davies, Iron River's 16-year-old rhythm and figure ice skater, is making a name for herself in St. Paul, Minn., where she is developing showmanship and technique at a figure skating school.

She is registered at the school and the "pop concert" series as Miss Gateway, carrying the name of Kings' Gateway at Land O'Lakes, where she appeared on numerous occasions last winter. She will remain in St. Paul until September 6.

Her mother, Mrs. William Davies, has just returned from St. Paul, where she attended the Pop concert, in which Marjorie appeared in a Norwegian skating number. Approximately 3,000 persons witnessed the spectacle. She also appeared in a swing number the following night, and from now until "graduation" will be assigned to other features of the Pop concert.

WORK STARTED ON NEW CURB

Crew Installing Curbing Catch Basin, Sewer On 11th Street

Workmen have partially completed the task of putting in new catch basins, sewer pipe, and curbing on Eleventh street and First avenue south, which was started Monday.

The work is being done as a part of the sewer project in the city. The new curb begins on Eleventh street at the alley near the police station and will run around to the fire station on First avenue south.

The place where the curbing and catch basin is being installed has annually been a source of trouble to the city during the spring of the year. A low spot in front of the police station and city hall has caused the water to back up and flood the sidewalk here each year.

There have been no new developments in either the paving or beach projects during the past week. According to word received here the final okay has been given to the paving project but funds have not been designated for the work and the job will not be started until the money is available. It is hoped that the money will be set aside during the next few days in order that work may be started by August 29.

Although forms have again been submitted to federal authorities at Washington in regard to the beach project no word has been received regarding it. The work will first have to be authorized and then funds designated for the work before the job is started.

PRAISES HARTMAN

To the Editor: Copper Country people are pleased indeed that two of our citizens are so useful to the Commonwealth of Michigan as to be significantly honored by Governor Dickinson. We are proud of the distinction which the governor bestowed on Dr. Grover Willman and the efficient work he did for the state, at his own self-sacrifice, as budget director. And the people here are happy to have him back in his position as executive director of our great technical college at Houghton.

By the same token we feel that the governor is to be congratulated upon his acumen in selecting another good Copper Country man, Mr. Gus T. Hartman, to take over the budget job. The Copper Country people are thankful for this recognition of the ability of our citizens and congratulate the state on proper appreciation of outstanding ability.

Cordially yours,

147 Predators Are Taken During June

Lansing—The state's drive on predatory animals netted 147 during June, the take included five female wolves, according to records of bounty payments authorized by the Michigan department of conservation.

All districts of the Upper Peninsula turned in catches, and three contracts were issued in the counties south of the straits. Total payments were $2,545.

Leading the take were 47 coyotes, for which $705 was paid. Female coyotes, for which $20 bounty is paid, or five dollars more than for males, added up to 36. There were 32 coyote male pups and 27 female pups included. The five female wolves brought $20 a head.

LAND PARLEY WILL BE HELD

Delinquent Tax Problem To Be Studied Here Next Week

A long-range policy for relieving northern Michigan local governments of tax delinquent properties and putting such land back into productive use will be the topic at a conference of state and municipal officials in Escanaba, August 31 and September 1.

Officials of 20 municipalities are expected to meet with representatives of the Michigan department of conservation and the Michigan Municipal League. They will work out a procedure for formulating a delinquent-land management policy which can be applied to local units in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula as well as north of the straits.

Scheduled to address the group are Fred P. Strubshaker, chief of the lands division of the conservation department; M. W. Alger, field representative for the municipal league, and C. A. Miller, village manager of Kingsford.

The group will seek to reach an agreement on how to turn tax-reverted lands into private or public purposes, including the large number of holdings expected to revert to the state following the expiration in November of the period of redemption from tax sale.

"Although each community has pretty much its own problem, it was thought necessary to study the whole problem underlying this issue, a othral local officials and state agencies could have the basic features in mind before writing down a settled policy," Strubshaker explained.

Under state law, the conservation department will hold title to tax reverted properties located above, approximately, the Muskegon Bay City line. The State Land Office Board is given responsibility for the problem south of that area.

Questions up for discussion at Escanaba will include: (1) How to determine what lands within municipal boundaries will be needed to the state; (2) what is the possibility of acquiring title to such property and exchanging it for privately owned plots for the benefit of the owner and city alike; (3) what different uses can be made of the property; (4) what effect will such transactions have on local tax rolls and how much will they cost local units; and (5) how can outlying areas best be developed.

Reminder Issued On Tax Deadline

Munising, August 25—Thursday, August 31, will be the deadline for the payment of installments of taxes under the provisions of the two moratoriums and Alger County Treasurer I. J. LaFave today issued a warning that the deadline is nearing. Response in the county has been fair he stated.

According to the law the fifth-tenth of 1932 and prior years and the third-tenth of 1933, 1934 and 1935 may be paid on or before August 31, 1939, without penalty or interest.

LaFave urged that all persons who expect to make payments without interest charges do so at the earliest possible moment to avoid as much as possible the congestion and difficulties connected with a last minute rush. Payments this year are the same amount as those made last year. Long waiting at the treasurer's office will be avoided if taxpayers transact their business as soon as possible.

The treasurer's office in the courthouse is open from 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 1:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon on week days. The office is open on Saturday's in the morning only.

Texas Visitor Likes Upper Peninsula

The Upper Peninsula, with its scenic beauties and cool climate, should attract many visitors from Texas, according to Paul T. Vickers of McAllen, Texas, who is making a tour of the Middle West. He is accompanied by Mrs. Vickers and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Gilbert.

Mr. Vickers said that many Texans have been going to Colorado to seek relief from the heat in the summer, and he could see no reason why that travel could not be diverted to this region. He said he would do his part to sell the Upper Peninsula to his friends.

Mr. Vickers said that the Rio Grande valley region in Texas attracts about forty thousand winter tourists each year. Michigan stands fourth among the States in the number of folks wintering there, he said.

Let Us Think Clearly

GALLOPING with the ever-increasing speed and recklessness of a cavalry charge, the events of Europe rush to their fulfillment. No man can yet tell exactly what that fulfillment may be.

We know that we can no longer look on such a European catastrophe with the fine detachment with which we viewed it in 1914. The world has grown smaller since then, more closely interlocked and mutually interdependent.

If Germany fights, it will be because for six years she has staked everything on a promise to her people of expansion and world-power which has led her so far along that road that she cannot turn back even if met by resistance in arms.

If Russia fights—there is the riddle! But her willingness, far in advance of expiration of their present pact, and at the time when it did the greatest possible harm to the British-French cause.

This is power politics of the old familiar type—all Europe is playing that game today, and all the brave talk of Democratic fronts and Anti-Communist fronts is out the window.

Looking such coldly-practical viewpoints of self-interest in the face, the United States can scarcely adopt any other attitude. We must with the utmost coolness, nay coldness, chart a course in the face of a shifting tempest which is calculated to bring us safe into harbor.

At the conference, dates for next winter's carnivals will be set so as to not conflict with one another, advertising and publicity plans discussed, and other promotion problems studied.

The meeting is being held early enough to give sufficient time for Upper Peninsula communities to arrange a well-rounded winter sports program.

A pioneer in winter sports promotion, the city of Ishpeming is finding the winter sports to be an effective magnet to attract visitors during the off-season.

Another Airport
MENOMINEE county officials are giving serious consideration to a proposal to acquire 250 acres of land, near the city of Menominee, for the construction of a new airport.

The inadequacy of airports at Menominee, Escanaba and other Upper Peninsula cities was discovered when a movement was started to secure air mail and passenger service to this region.

planes destined to be used in the future the only solution seems to be to make them longer.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended for Upper Peninsula airport development, but still the facilities are inadequate, mostly because of the lack of intelligent planning.

Incidentally, there is more recognition now of the need for proper planning. Along that line is the formation of the Upper Peninsula Project Sponsors' association, which held a meeting in Iron Mountain yesterday.

G-Men Get Their Man
IN the Canadian Northwest, it is the Mounties who get their man, and now in the United States it is J. Edgar Hoover's G-men, who have won a similar distinction.

Louise (Lepke) Buchalter, New York racketeer, rated as one of America's most important public enemies still at large, has surrendered to the federal bureau of investigation.

The G-men have demonstrated that it is possible to curb crime in America if the right kind of law enforcement personnel is developed. More important than ability and training of the officers themselves, however, is the need for honesty.

Other Editors' Comments
ONE-EYED LA FOLLETTE COMMITTEE (Milwaukee Journal)

The La Follette civil liberties committee issues a blast against the National Association of Manufacturers, charging that organization with "deliberately" organizing a campaign "to nullify the administration of the national labor relations act."

The association has collected money and has spent funds to present arguments for a modification of the Wagner law. Its printed statements have been widely mailed.

Anybody receiving such statements, pamphlets, clip sheets, can either read them or throw them away. There is no compulsion even to read, much less of acceptance. It is all a part of a system developed in this country for calling attention, through printed matter, of subjects in which someone is interested.

Why is it a sin that must be attacked by the La Follette committee? Why is it a sin when the manufacturers do it, although it apparently is not wrong when all, or nearly all, of the promotional organizations toward which men of the Senator La Follette type look so benevolently also do it?

Why is the expenditure of money by the manufacturers to present a matter to public opinion so singularly bad? The La Follette civil liberties committee itself has already spent $150,000, not of its own but of the taxpayers' money, to influence public opinion. And it has $50,000 more to spend. Most of its work, and many of its statements issued to the press are as one-sided as anything the manufacturers could possibly print.

Or take another instance. The Harry Bridges defense committee is spending $30,000 out on the west coast to present the case of the labor leader and to influence public opinion even while the Bridges trial is going on. Its full-page clip sheet, loaded with propaganda, comes regularly to editorial desks. Is the La Follette committee mentioning that?

We have no general objection to the La Follette committee's pointing out what the manufacturers are doing and naming the sums that have been contributed. But we fail to see how this has a thing to do with the purposes for which the La Follette committee was created—to get the facts on alleged labor espionage and alleged violations of civil rights of citizens. But let that pass.

However, if the committee is going into this question of propaganda, it is morally bound to go into all sides of it. A crowing honesty would be for it to point out

—MOTHER AN AMERICAN—
"There is going to be a hell of a fight in the next two or three years," the admiral said then, "whether we build them or whether we don't. We have got to build them."

Blunt, breezy, straight-from-the-gold-pauletted-shoulder talk comes natural to Admiral Sir Alfred Dudley Pickman Rogers Pound, the 61-year-old seadog recently appointed first sea lord of the British admiralty and now promoted to admiral of the fleet, the navy's highest post. The English say he gets it from his American-born mother whose maiden name, Pickman Rogers, forms two of the "coaches" in the "train" by which he is known.

Admiral Pound believes, too, in taking the initiative in battle—the so-called modern strategy of offense compared with the more or less passive policy pursued by the British navy during the first two years of the World war.

—EIGHT NERVOUS YEARS—
The admiral's not just talking idle theory. For 45 years this gray-haired old salt of medium height has served in the British navy, eight of them among the most critical years in British history—the four of the World war and the four since 1935.

They've been watching, too, in the crisis-ridden post-war years when the Italo-Ethiopian, the Palestine and Spanish affairs each contributed their quota of grievous worry to the Mediterranean fleet.

Admiral Pound took command of this most important of the British fleets in March, 1936, after several months as chief of staff. With the job went the responsibility of interpreting the government's policy on the spot.

Planes and "pirate" submarines soon were sniping at Britannia. Peace often hung by a thread. That is why many experts say Pound has shouldered a heavier load these last four years than any other man in the service.

—UNDER GERMAN FIRE—
Before that he had gained administrative experience as second sea lord, assistant chief of the naval staff and director of the plans division of the admiralty; and political experience as the admiral's representative to the League of Nations.

He has a reputation for brilliant seamanship and has written a standard textbook on ship organization. He has a reputation, too, for courage. He had a narrow escape at Jutland when H.M.S. Colossus, which he was commanding, was struck by German shells.

—WORSE THAN BATTLE—
With a lifetime of harrowing experiences by his credit, he got into the dentist's chair one day five years ago—and found it more dangerous than the battlefield.

He was under anesthetic for an extraction, when another tooth became dislodged and slipped into a lung. It took a lengthy operation and several months in bed to restore the admiral to fighting trim.

Q. When was the last time the famous mace in the House of Representatives was used? E. D. H. A. It was probably during the Sixty-fifth or Sixty-sixth Congress when heated words passed between Representative Tom Heflin of Alabama, and Representative Patrick Daniel Norton of North Dakota. Norton approached Heflin belligerently, but before any damage could be done the Sergeant at Arms came between them with the mace. Mr. Heflin figured in another incident with Representative John L. Burnett of his own State during the same hectic session. Mr. Heflin, a leading advocate of war with Germany, had made some remarks which were construed as casting aspersions upon the patriotism of Members opposed to the passage of the resolution which took America into the World War, whereupon Mr. Burnett inquired why his colleague did not go to war himself. The mace was required to restore order.

20 Years Ago

Yesterday was one of the busiest days in the history of the local docks. All day long, ore boats were moving about and with all dock workers back on the job, ore was moving as it has not moved since the busy days during the war. At the Northwestern docks 13 boats were being loaded or waiting to be loaded. Over at the St. Paul docks seven big ore carriers were being loaded and awaiting their turns. It is assumed that the next few days will see a continuation of this condition and everything moved along yesterday as if the work had never been interrupted by a strike.

Miss Mary Scallon of Hancock, field representative for the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis association, was in the city yesterday securing data for use in securing appropriations for a sanatorium, which the association hopes will be built by Delta, Dickinson and Menominee counties in the near future. The site proposed by the state association is Powers. Miss Scallon will visit the other county seats and attempt to revive interest in the movement.

Paris—Endless dickerings in the supreme council is having a serious effect. Revival of many questions in which the United States is not interested is making the American delegation impatient. Americans are constantly called on to act as arbiters in Balkan and other questions and as a result, sections of the European press are assailing the American position on questions in which Americans acted without self-consideration.

It has been announced by John A. Allo, chairman of the concession committee at the county fair, that the plan has been completed and any prospective concessionaires are advised to see him at once for a location. The plan this year presents some very desirable locations for concessions of all sorts.

Railroad men who passed through Brampton and Perkins yesterday bring reports of snow there yesterday afternoon. The snow storm, however, was limited to a few scattered flakes.

Washington—Abolition of the submarine as an instrument of modern warfare does not seem probable to American naval officers who have given careful study to the arguments put forth before Allied naval commissions investigating the subject. It is the belief of these officers that submarines will become more and more numerous in the principal navies of the world during the next few years.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS
New York—No Hollywood-Broadway figure has more iron in the theatrical fire than has George Jessel, whose marital rift with Norma Talmadge has just become public news.

Some divorcees charge mental cruelty and others list a large variety of reasons for demanding their liberty. Norma, in effect, merely charged that George's work took him away from her too often and too much.

Even Jessel would have difficulty denying it. For example, he now is the proprietor of one of the hugest exhibits at the World's Fair and he is headlining a major vaudeville bill on Broadway.

A friend, encountering him on the street, asks, "What are you doing, George?" and the reply is a long prospectus: "I have three plays," says George. "I'm crazy about two and will produce them. Hollywood wants me to do a couple of pictures. I'll write one of them. I have the biggest show at the Fair. This vaudeville date is cutting into my time. I've three speaking dates at banquets in Chicago, San Francisco and Tulsa—and this radio show once a week takes a whole day. But I feel fine. All I need is something that really will keep me busy!"

So Miss Talmadge seems to have had a true complaint when she sued for her divorce. Nevertheless, friends of the once-devoted couple insist that they will be reconciled, and all strife forgotten, before the year is out.

WELCOME HARBINGER OF COOL WEATHER
The perspiring cliff-dwellers of Gotham are facing the thermometer these days with new courage and contempt. The happy news has come across the Hudson from the Palisades.

The katydid has been heard. The katydid's repetitious message has sounded on the ragged cliffs opposite New York, and folk are cooling off by merely thinking about it. The katydid, harbinger of frost, is the most welcome visitor to these parts at this season of the year. When he drones a changeless, monotonous "Katydid, Katydid," it is not for us to question what Katy did, but to content that winter is on the wing.

It is amazing how many skyscraper-bound Manhattanites are conversant with the katydid's speech. There's an insect who is really a popular fellow around Gotham at the height of the summer heat.

So now that he's here, a Happy Thanksgiving to you all, whenever it happens to fall by Presidential decree.

SALESMEN OF SENSATION
A rowdy-dow impresario wants "Dixie" Davis, the underworld mouthpiece, to appear before the public as a human lesson in "Crime Does Not Pay."

Davis is considering it, though the racket-busting Dewey will have to approve of such exhibitionism before the notorious ex-lawyer can accept.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN
Washington—As you look back through the vista of Europe's precarious peace, the road is littered with broken pacts and the debris of diplomatic double-crossing.

Poland would not be in her present desperate plight if she had not engaged in the game of double-cross. And the British would not now stand humiliated before the world if they had not soiled their fingers in the same game.

The game began in dead earnest shortly after Hitler, the master player of them all, took over the reins in Germany. One of his first moves was to negotiate a non-aggression pact with Poland. For ten years there was to be no war between them. Poland and her once bitter enemy, Germany, were to be bosom friends.

This was a complete reversal for Poland. Chief sore-spots on her body politic long had been Upper Silesia, the Corridor, and the Free City of Danzig, torn from Germany at Versailles. To protect herself, Poland early had negotiated an alliance with France, natural enemy of Germany. France had trained the Polish army, lent money for munitions, steered Polish foreign policy.

But in 1934 French influence vanished overnight. The alliance with France never was denounced; it was merely put on the shelf.

—HITLER STRIKES—
Meanwhile Hitler bided his time, built up his army, waited until he was strong enough to strike. That time had almost come by March 7, 1936—almost, but not quite.

That was the date on which German troops goose-stepped into the Rhineland, an area guaranteed under the Versailles Treaty as an unfortified buffer for the protection of France.

All day on March 7, the French Cabinet debated Hitler's occupation of the Rhineland. To permit the occupation meant the neutralizing of French fortifications, the neutralizing of the Maginot Line. But to oppose occupation meant risking war.

What the French did not know at that time was that German officers had double marching orders—the first, to advance into the Rhineland; the second, to retreat in case of French resistance. Secretly, Hitler was not ready for a military showdown.

But what the French did know was that if there was war with Germany, Poland their one-time ally, was bound by a non-aggression pact not to fight against Germany. Hitler, who now has proved himself the smartest manipulator in all Europe, was proclaiming Poland his staunch and life-long friend.

—POLAND DESERTS (CZECHS)—
Next scene in the European game of double-cross shifts to the fall of 1938 and Munich. Hitler was about to walk into the Sudetenland. Roosevelt was making frantic efforts to support belated French and British efforts for a general European peace conference. Mussolini was amenable. Hitler was not.

Suddenly tipping the scales against a general conference came Poland and Hungary, both avid for small pieces of Czechoslovakia. And so for Techen—one small scrap flung from the Hitler conquest table—Poland contributed to the downfall of Czechoslovakia and to her own present predicament.

Lines for Living

By Barton Rees Pogue
LAKE COTTAGE
All our lives we dreamed about
A cottage at the lake,
So summers we would not be forced
To stay in town and bake,
But now we have the little house,
Where summer comfort is,
We wonder if it might be best
To stay in town and size!

How many friends we find we have!
Why, folks we've only met
Have joined the stream of company
That keeps the place upst.
Mother toils, and father spends,
The kids sleep on the floor—
For insects had advised our mom
To get some hellebore.

At last it got to be a pill
Our parents couldn't take,
So dad has advertised to sell
The cottage at the lake!

FAVORS PUBLIC OWNERSHIP. Sault Ste. Marie—Mayor Paul L. Adams, crusading for lower electric rates in Sault Ste. Marie, today stood definitely committed to a municipally owned or leased plant in the city. "A municipal plant," he said, "would not only mean that electric rates could be cut one third in five years, but that taxes could be cut one third during the same period and without costing the taxpayers one cent. "I have been doing some investigating on my own hook," the mayor continued. "I am now convinced that the answer to the Sault electricity rate problem is a municipal plant, but I want my own conclusions on this point confirmed by an engineers' investigation. That is why we are pushing our campaign to raise $600 to finance the investigation."

Pick Your Evening Mood—Demure or Sophisticated

Striking in its simplicity is the smart dinner-evening suit, left, for the college girl who likes a touch of sophistication in her formal wardrobe. It's of bronze silk and metal matelasse, and includes a decollete gown with turn-back flange and flat pleats across the bosom and a dramatic skirt with unpressed, accordion pleats. The jacket is fastened with buttons of self-material. The other gown, right—as demure as the dinner suit is sophisticated—is of white silk net with the bodice embroidered with pearl sequins that extend in slim points over the bouffant skirt.

Marie LeGolan, William Baxter Wed In Marquette

An interesting announcement is that made of the wedding of Miss Marie Louise LeGolan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Celestin M. LeGolan of Marquette, and William Scully Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homer Baxter of Houghton, which took place on Monday, August 21, at Marquette. The marriage service was read at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, in pink and white gladioli and roses decorating the altars and chancel of the church. The bride was attended by Miss Betty Baxter, sister of the bridegroom, who was maid of honor, Miss Alice Baxter and Miss Irene Kameron of Neagunee, her bridesmaids. Suzanne Haslitt, who was junior bridesmaid, and Joan Gaffney, a cousin of the bridegroom, who was flower girl. Paul LeGolan was best man and ushers were Charles W. Baxter, Joseph J. LeGolan, Robert C. Baxter and Arthur Davis, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter, following a honeymoon tour through the east, will make their home at 211 Mullen street, Ironwood.

The bride, a graduate of Baraga parochial high school and of Northern State Teachers' college, has been teaching at Rock for the past two years. She is a member of Phi Kappa Nu sorority. Mr. Baxter, a graduate of Houghton high school, and the Michigan College of Mining and Technology Houghton, is a mining engineer with the Montreal Mining Company, Montreal, Wis.

Perhaps we can't help feeling sorry for the nice, willing, intelligent young man just out of college who can't marry the girl wearing his fraternity pin. But let's quit encouraging those two to feel sorry for themselves. After all, for healthy young people, every obstacle should be a challenge. It is for some of them. But they aren't thinking or talking about their "rights." They are working too hard—at jobs, or at trying to land them.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

Boston—Once upon a time Boston harbor rot all messed up with fresh tea because the Massachusetts taxpayer figured he was being imposed on.

That happened a long time ago, but the Massachusetts taxpayer has never quite forgotten it. And today he is on the warpath once more—disgusted this time, not as an Indian, but as an ultramodern pressure group.

All of which is by way of saying that the taxpayers here have found a way to make an effective protest against the rising tax burden. They are doing it through the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations, Inc., which is a pretty cumbersome title but which stands for a smooth, efficient organization that has half the politicians in the state scared to death.

ALL FOR ECONOMY

Each local association is a voluntary organization of taxpayers who have combined their forces to do two things—investigate their local town or city government and see where it can save money, and see to it that the local representative in the state legislature remains properly aware of the great virtue of economy.

In the smaller places, all of the work of such associations is purely voluntary. Some 40 of the larger ones maintain paid secretaries. And the Federation itself—supported by the subscriptions and dues of the 200-odd locals—keeps a paid staff of 21 people on duty in Boston constantly.

These workers concern themselves, first of all, with scrutinizing all pending legislative bills. Each one of the 3000 bills filed in this session of the legislature was studied carefully to see if it contained anything that would boost taxes and, if so, if it was something the state could do without.

After study comes lobbying. And here the Federation really shines. It has an efficient staff of legislative agents, for one thing. More important, it has a sure-fire method of stirring up trouble for a legislator back home.

It keeps a most exhaustive set of records on votes. Every so often, it will send to each of its member associations a table, showing how the representatives from each district voted on each money-spending bill, and showing also whether the Federation itself was for or against that bill.

The local paper usually prints this table, in any case, the members of the association get it, and are urged to telephone, call on, or write to each legislator who voted for anything the Federation disapproved of.

PRESSURE WHERE IT'S NEEDED

As a means of putting on the pressure, this adds up to as neat a political device as has come on the scene in a long time. It does two things; it makes the taxpayer tax-conscious, and it makes the legislator taxpayer-conscious.

One of the Federation's pet projects is to have enacted a 2 per cent sales tax for the financing of relief costs. The money thus raised would be distributed to the cities and towns on a basis of need, with the provision that any city which increased its local budget over the average for the last five years would suffer a proportionate cut in its share of the sales tax money. This bill has been twice defeated by the legislature, but the Federation is still hoping.

Another pet project is streamlining of the state government. Norman MacDonald, executive director of the Federation, recently announced that the group would study the possibility of reducing the size of the legislature, paying special attention to the unicameral system made famous in Nebraska. A report on this will be made before the legislature convenes again.

SERIAL STORY

Murder on the Boardwalk

BY ELINEORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS—CHRISTINE THORENSEN—came to visit her cousin, found a mystery. BILL YARDLEY—had a reason for watching Christine. GEORGE WILMET—employed Christine as a Boardwalk artist. CHANDRA—looked into the future—and into the past.

Yesterday, Newspapers brand Christine "Mystery Girl" of the Talbert murder. At her room she finds a sheet of $1000 bonds hidden in her suitcase. She tries to tell Bill. He cuts her off with "Bill Yardley's shoes fit the prints found by the police."

"Oh, Bill—no!" Christine cried miserably. "And then some." His voice was a little grim. "But at any rate, I'm still in circulation. And I've got a little sleuthing of my own to do while I am. I'll be sewed up tight till noon; but how about meeting me for lunch about 12:30 at the same place where we ate last night?"

Christine said, "I'll be there, Bill," and hung up, trembling a good deal. But Inspector Parsons, she remembered after a moment, did not arrest people for murder until he was sure they would stay arrested. . . . And she had business with Inspector Parsons herself, as soon as she could find him.

Just outside her own front door she had to snub three reporters. She was not sufficiently experienced to dodge the news cameras.

She was admitted to Inspector Parsons' office at once. He looked, Christine thought, as if he had hardly slept; but he was as cool and alert as ever. "I've come to tell you," she began, "that I've been a good deal of a fool."

"You—and several others," he agreed pleasantly. "Last evening," Christine hurried on, "I went to a public reading by a clairvoyant called Chandra—"

"And he told you," the inspector put in with a tired smile, "among a lot of other things you didn't believe any one but yourself could possibly know, that you were going under an assumed name?"

"Why—yes," Christine admitted; "but he also told me something that may surprise even you, Inspector—that someone had disturbed my things at the Crestview."

"So you have called to tell me that it was Chandra's dagger you found so opportunely last night. . . . A little late, isn't it?"

After a startled breath, Christine asked, "How do you know that it is his?"

"Practically every one in Surf City has seen that dagger. You drew his picture yesterday. Artists don't miss picturesque details like that. . . . I wonder if you would be interested if I told you that two hours after that merger between Amalgamated and National went through yesterday; this Chandra sold a piece of land he's been paying ruinous taxes on for years to the reorganized company, for a new plant they're planning."

"Then you've arrested him?" "Not yet. . . . That dagger was a little too obviously a planted clue."

Christine thought in sudden panic. Can he imagine that I put it there?

"It didn't occur to you, I suppose," she said, "that as shrewd a man as he might have planted it himself—guessing that the police would reason that way?"

"It did," the inspector told her wearily, "even after our medical officer told us that Mrs. Talbert was not stabbed in that booth at all, but was brought there after the murder."

"Oh!" Christine said blankly. Then she rushed on in her eagerness to get on with her own errand. "But what I really came to tell you is that, when I did examine my things, I found these hidden away among them."

She pushed the envelope across his desk.

He opened it, rifled through the contents; then looked up, a frown between his brows. "And," Christine finished hastily, "I haven't any idea who put them there or whose they are. If that's what you're going to ask."

He glanced from her to the papers and back again with such cool, mirthless amusement that Christine thought in sudden panic. He's found something I missed. I should have looked more carefully. "You mean," the inspector demanded, "that you don't know that these bonds were the property of your cousin?"

After a moment's blank consternation, Christine shook her head wordlessly.

"Well, now that I have told you, does it suggest anything to you that you had not thought of before?"

"But," Christine hazarded, "if someone killed her for those, why wouldn't he keep them?"

"There are other reasons for murder besides robbery, Miss Thorenson. Suppose Mrs. Talbert was not killed for the bonds after all, but from any one of a number of other motives. . . . In such a case, mightn't the guilty person reason that the smart thing to do was to make it seem as if she had been robbed by someone else—especially someone who might be thought to have a motive for the murder. . . . You, for instance, Miss Thorenson—with a fortune at stake if that will be authentic."

When she only stared at him without speaking, he went on, "Or supposing the bonds do explain Mrs. Talbert's death, perhaps the murderer thought that, after the first shouting was over, he could get them from you as easily as he left them with you."

"Perhaps," he added softly, "it was even someone who counted on your keeping them safely for him."

"You—you can't believe that, Inspector Parsons."

"Frankly, I don't know what I believe, except that finding these has completely changed the complexion of this whole business. I have been supposing that your cousin's death was tied up with her opposition to the Amalgamated-National merger. Now it begins to look as if it had only been very neatly timed to look that way—or planned to suggest anything except what's really back of it. . . . Have you read the papers, Miss Thorenson?"

"Yes," Christine told him, dreading she hardly knew what "That is—the extra, after I left here early the morning."

"Then perhaps you saw that your cousin's shoes had been found to fit one pair of the shoe footprints leading from that stranded rowboat toward the booth where she was found?"

"Yes."

And Bill's shoes, Christine was remembering, fitted the other pair.

"That story happened to be true, except," Inspector Parsons was going on, "that they weren't made by the shoes she was wearing; but another pair, identical in measurements with one slightly broken heel. We haven't found those shoes yet; but we are reasonably sure that they were taken from your cousin's house by someone who entered it after it was closed for the evening—taken for the express purpose of making that false trail."

"You mean that my cousin's house has been broken into?" "I didn't say that. It was entered by someone who had a key."

When Christine did not speak, he demanded, "Do you happen to have a key to Mrs. Talbert's house, Miss Thorenson?"

Christine moistened her dry lips and said, "No," hating the woodenness of her own voice as she spoke.

When she began to think he would never go on, he asked, "Do you know anyone else who has one?"

"No," Christine said woodenly again.

Then she thought. But of course—Jasper.

The inspector shrugged and demanded with one of his disconcerting shifts of subject, "Was your cousin's vision particularly poor?"

"I don't know. . . . Of course she wore glasses."

"Do you know who her optician was?" "I don't, but Jasper would, of course. He knows more about her affairs than anyone else."

"Jasper?" He glanced at some notes on his desk. "Oh, yes. That's the name of Mrs. Talbert's butler. We haven't been able to get in touch with him yet."

"Oh, yes you have," Christine drew a deep breath. Now she was in for it. (To Be Continued)

TALKS ON HAY FEVER

Sault Ste. Marie—Members of the Sault Ca Choo Club, an organization of hay fever sufferers, heard of the development and study of the hay fever from D. C. Durham, Chicago aerobiologist, who was here Wednesday on tests with the Pennsylvania Central Airlines ship and attended the annual picnic of the club at Sherman Park.

Durham, a biologist from Abbot laboratories who has been active in the study of hay fever for many years, said that although the study had gone on for many years it was not until 1910 and 1915 that immunization treatments were started in the United States. People had been tested with pollen before that time but the study of disease was a more serious matter after 1915.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Doings About Capitol

Copper Harbor, Mich.—Mountains in Michigan? Yes, it's true. Thousands of residents of the Wolverine state may scoff at the statement, proof indeed that this strange, vast region of the Upper Peninsula is still the "great unknown."

Here is a country of mechanized mines and many idle workers. It is a land covered 50 to 100 years ago by virgin pine forests, now being gradually restored by federal and state agencies.

It contains the cream of Michigan's natural scenery.

Its people are generous and hospitable. They welcome the traveler. A treat him royally, and all for a very good reason. For the tourist business has supplanted the exploitation of natural resources—copper, iron and lumber—as its leading industry.

That is why mountains in Michigan are going to continue to pay millions of dollars in dividends, regardless of what happens to their mineral content.

"Toonerville Trolley"

But before you pull on your hiking boots for a stiff mountain climb, tarry with me for an interesting side trip near Newberry—to the Tahquamenon Falls.

In this feverish age of hurried tourist travel when the American tourist spends much of the day behind an automobile wheel and expects to see the scenery at stops of an hour or so, the trip to the Tahquamenon Falls is delightfully old-fashioned. Its slow pace may be accidental, but nevertheless it is a positive asset.

You drive your car over M-28 between Sault Ste. Marie and Newberry to a spur going north to Soo Junction.

On an old narrow gauge lumber railway line the famous "Toonerville Trolley" is a two gasoline pusher engines, a couple of flat cars, and a string of open sight-seeing wagons on wheels—transports you lazily to the Tahquamenon river. Although the distance is only four and one-half miles across a blueberry marsh and cut-over pine land, the trolley requires nearly an hour. What's the hurry, anyway?

At the wide river you board a spacious two-deck "showboat," the Betty B, propelled by modern twin motors, and in dreamy comfort travel by water through a hardwood forest for around 20 miles. That takes two hours and a half.

A brisk walk over a woods trail to the falls. Ninety minutes' time to view the second largest cataract in the Mississippi, and then you're on your way leisurely back to Soo Junction. The trolley leaves at 10 a. m.; it returns at 3:30 p. m.

We saw seven deer from the boat. On the day before the trolley party was started with the sight of a bear running for cover.

Captain Joe Beach of Newberry, a former game warden, has developed this trolley-showboat trip into an ace tourist attraction. Two trips daily are planned for 1940.

Marquette on the Lake

Heading toward the Copper Country the traveler arrives at Marquette, a prosperous industrial center on Lake Superior which is less dependent on tourists and mining than most of the Upper Peninsula cities. North of the city is Sugar Loaf mountain with a blazed trail over which venturesome tourists may climb to obtain a breath-taking view of forests and islands.

Nearby are prominent iron mining towns such as Negaunee and Ishpeming.

To the east of Marquette is Munising, well known for its "Pictured Rocks." Travelers may inspect a pulp mill of the Munising Paper company which consumes Canadian logs rafted across the lake each spring, and also a woodenware plant operated by the Piqua-Munising Woodware company. An Upper Peninsula meeting of the Michigan Press association will be held at Munising on September 9 and 10.

At the low rip of Keweenaw bay is L'Anse, enterprising hub of Henry Ford's hardwood lumber holdings. One of the Ford boats, "Green Island," has a retracting stack and house which are lowered to clear bridges on the Erie canal between Buffalo and Albany. Lumber shipments are shipped by water from L'Anse to the Atlantic seaboard for sale on the open market.

More than 1,000 persons, employed by the Ford Motor company, dwell in model villages in the vicinity of L'Anse.

Houghton, Copper Capital

At Houghton and Hancock the United States government is spending three million dollars to improve the ship canal through Portage lake, connecting Lake Superior with Keweenaw bay. The canal is being widened and deepened to accommodate large freighters.

Although Houghton has less than 4,000 population, it is the retailing center for a vast mining empire. The Houghton Mining Gazette, a morning daily, delivers more papers in Calumet (a city of 15,000) than does the Calumet News-Journal, an afternoon daily. Calumet, likewise, is a small municipality, actually being made up of a dozen or more villages having such unique names as Red Jacket, Yellow Jacket, Blue Jacket, and Raymentown (which was renowned in prohibition days for its moonshine.) Mining companies preferred to organize their own towns for taxation purposes.

The Calumet region once had 40,000 inhabitants; today, it has 16,000. When Michigan's automobile centers were booming, Calumet people departed by the trainloads. Detroit, for example, has a large Calumet "colony."

Mechanization of the copper mines, together with sinking of shafts to unprofitable deep levels and the low price of copper itself, brought widespread unemployment to the Copper range. Old deserted mining towns present a picture that is strange to the average inlander. Contrast to this are well filled theaters and taverns.

The Keweenaw peninsula is literally packed with scenic grandeur.

After traveling through numerous mining towns, most of them situated in a valley between two ranges of hills, you arrive at Eagle Harbor on Lake Superior and soon start ascending the Brockway mountain drive.

Devoid of billboards, hot dog stands and gasoline stations, the drive sweeps around and over the Keweenaw mountains, giving you a double view of forests and lake on one side and a rocky, forested shore line of the blue Lake Superior.

When the atmosphere is clear, you can see Isle Royale, 50 miles away.

A sleeping fishing village, Copper Harbor, comes into sight, and adjoining it is the million-dollar Keweenaw Park, built by the WPA in the depression days when most of the county inhabitants were on relief. Instead of keeping the jobless miners on a dole, the government put them to work creating a model tourist park from amid a wilderness. A clubhouse, cabins and a nine-hole golf course were constructed and then handed over to the county highway department to maintain.

Harold Wescott, aviator and proprietor of the Pontiac Resort at Copper Harbor, told us that more than 70 cabins are now available for tourists. This region is especially lovely in the Fall between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1 when fronds turn the forest foliage into riotous gay hues of reds and yellows.

Lake of the Clouds

Within an easy drive from Houghton is Ontonagon at the edge of the Ottawa National Forest and adjacent to the Porcupine mountains.

Ontonagon is enjoying a belated boom. Seven miles of streets are being paved. Many new homes have been built this season. The state highway department is constructing several rustic bridges, the upper parts consisting of logs, on the Porcupine drive which skirts Lake Superior going as far west as the Lake of the Clouds. There the road terminates with a turn-around. Someday it will be pushed west along the lake shore through virgin white pine tracts to the vicinity of Ironwood with connecting roads to Duluth.

Guided by Claude Riley, publisher of the Ontonagon Herald, we climbed "Porky," abetted by a firm staff, and viewed the Lake of the Clouds. This body of water is cupped between two ranges of rolling mountains.

"This region has great tourist possibilities," enthused Riley. "But the average tourist doesn't know what to look for. We need rustic signs to guide the traveler over trails. We must acquaint the visitor with our historical lore as well as our scenic lure. The NYA is starting a sign project here, and James Jamison, former deputy auditor general, is supplying the wording for them."

Lake of the Clouds was formerly known as Carp Lake, an abbreviation for Escarpment lake, so named because of a high stone bluff on the mountain from which hikers obtain a rare vista of distant mountains.

WILL PROMOTE LETTER WRITING

Post Office Department Sponsors Event On Nat'l Scale

A 2nd National Letter-Writing Week is to be sponsored by the United States Postoffice department the week of October 1 to 7, according to information received by Postmaster B. R. Micks from Ramsey S. Black, third assistant postmaster general.

Different mediums will be used to publicize the movement and encourage the writing of letters. Attractive posters have been prepared for display in the lobby of postoffices throughout the country.

On the margin of the communication received by Postmaster Micks is an inspirational article entitled "The Phantom Letter" by David Manley.

It follows:

"I am the letter you MEANT to write.

"But you were too busy, or you kept putting it off, or you excused yourself by claiming you 'didn't know what to say.'

"So I never was written. And because I never was written there is a question in the mind of one of your friends; or a pleasant bond with some one has been broken; or there is loneliness in the heart of one who thinks of you.

"It was such an easy thing to have done—that letter which should have been written. But you let the time pass, and somewhere a friend, or a family, or even an acquaintance, is the poorer.

"The word that would have brought cheer to the sick one was not written; the gracious thank-you for a favor done or a gift exchanged was never mailed; the happy ones who wished to know that you shared their happiness; and the unhappy ones who so craved a word of sympathy are wondering at your silence.

"I am just a phantom letter.

"I am the letter you DID write. Joyfully, cheerily, I sped on my way, expectant for the warm welcome I knew awaited me wherever my destination.

"I went into the eager hands of a mother of a father, and I watched old eyes grow bright as my message of love and remembrance was read and re-read.

"I went to the absent friend of yours and brought to him or her the news of early intimates; I renewed to them the picture of their home circle, and with them I relived hours of friendly and warm-hearted activities.

"I went to the newlyweds and in your name rejoiced in their delight; I went to the bereaved and your sincere words brought them a comforting ease.

"To a birthday I added the joy of your good wishes; I refreshed a shut-in with your newsy chat; to a young person on the threshold of a career I brought your words of courage.

"Everywhere I went I spread the warmth of your personality, and I brought back to you an overflowing wealth of friendship and affection; your name was loved and remembered.

"It's so easy to write a letter, because a letter is just yourself. Fancy phrases aren't necessary. The best letter is the one that makes the reader say happily, 'Take your sounds now.' Write across the surface of that blank sheet just merely what you would say in person. The simple words of Lincoln's letters are great literature because the words were just his own voice speaking. Write your thoughts just as they come to you.

State Police Requested to Arrest Alleged Photo Agent

A telegraphic warrant for the arrest of L. L. Bonietes, purported agent of the Renee Portrait Studio, Austin, Minn., was forwarded yesterday afternoon to Michigan state police by Prosecuting Attorney Wm. J. Miller at the request of Chief of Police Torval Kallerson.

Checkups Urged After Recovery From Active T-B

"Would it be quite safe for a normally healthy person to marry another suffering from tuberculosis?" asks W. T. "Would the children of such a marriage have the disease?"

These questions cannot be answered with an unqualified "Yes" or "No." Much depends on the stage of the disease, the success of the efforts made to cure it and the fidelity with which the afflicted individual will submit to at least semi-annual chest examinations and x-ray studies for the rest of his or her life.

The Phipps Institute of Philadelphia concluded many years ago that 50 percent of the wives or husbands of tuberculous persons eventually contracted the malady. It is now impossible to accept this conclusion as a fact. Better methods for early diagnosis have been perfected and more efficient therapeutic procedures are now in general use. Cures have become common and it is possible to control the disease so that it may not be transmitted to others.

Thus, if the person whom W. T. proposes to marry has been given a clean bill of health by a sanitarium or physician, there should be no danger in marriage nor fear of children being afflicted. Nevertheless, it must be remembered that every case of tuberculosis, no matter how thoroughly treated or completely cured, may reappear with stimuli leading to stresses and strains.

For this reason, periodical examinations are essential, however trivial the original lesion and however well-healed it might have been.

To marry a person with well-advanced tuberculosis is to incur considerable danger. Children of such marriages rarely escape. An individual suffering from an active case of tuberculosis spreads the bacillus of the disease by coughing, spitting or even by talking. Unless such cases can be brought under control, the sufferer would be ill-advised to marry.

De Pue-Edwards
Miss Frances De Pue, daughter of Mrs. Elma De Pue, of Kalamazoo, became the bride of William P. Edwards, son of Mrs. E. J. Wood, of this city, Friday evening, August 18, in the First Presbyterian church, of Kalamazoo, in the presence of forty guests. The Rev. Paul Heath officiated.

Attendants to the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. George Kerbride, of Kalamazoo, cousins of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards accompanied by Mrs. De Pue arrived in Engadine late Saturday night at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson.

A reception was given Sunday evening at the Patterson home for about seventy friends and relatives. The living room and large dining room were beautifully decorated in pink and white. Garden flowers were also used. A mock wedding and special music provided the amusement of the evening. The guests were seated at three long tables in the dining room. The bride's table was centered with a huge wedding cake, a gift from the groom's stepfather, Mr. E. J. Wood.

WELFARE IDEAS WILL BE HEARD

Fine Program Outlined for Conference at Houghton

Three more speakers were announced yesterday who will appear on the program of the Upper Peninsula Conference on Social Welfare to be held at McNair Hall in Houghton, Michigan, on Friday and Saturday, September 1 and 2. Dr. Grover C. Dillman, State Budget Director and President of the Michigan College of Mining & Technology, will address the Conference on one of the most perplexing situations in the State. His subject is "Problems of State Finance". Because of Dr. Dillman's current experience as Budget Director, his knowledge of State finance, and his experience in public life as former State Highway Commissioner, this should be one of the most interesting and informative parts of the Conference program, all sessions of which are open to the public.

"The Youth Problem of the Upper Peninsula" is the topic of Dr. Orin W. Kaye, Director, National Youth Administration of Michigan, Lansing. The problems faced by youth in the Upper Peninsula as a result of seven years of involuntary leisure will be analyzed by Dr. Kaye as well as pointing out specific steps which should be taken to improve the situation.

The Hon. Clark E. Higbee, Judge of Probate of Kent County, Grand Rapids, and President of the Michigan Conference of Social Work, will speak on the activities of the Conference and the significance of the current re-organization of welfare and relief agencies in relation to public policies in relation to public policies involved.

All members of the new State Social Welfare Commission, of which Walter F. Gries is Chairman, will be present, together with Mrs. Frederica Rogers, Director; George F. Granger, Deputy Director; and Dr. Phillip A. Callahan, Supvr. of the Bureau of Social Security. The State Social Welfare Commission is having meetings with the County Boards of Supervisors of the counties of Gogebic, Ontonagon, Baraga, Houghton, and Keweenaw at the Houghton County Court House on the morning of September 1 and will be available for interview during the course of the Conference.

In all, it is expected that twelve outstanding speakers will be on the program. Reservations for housing arrangements should be made by addressing the following: Social Welfare Conference, Community Bldg., Houghton, Michigan.

The three other speakers and their topics previously announced are as follows: "The Significance of the CCC Program", Dean Snyder, Chief of Selection Operations, U. S. Dept. of Labor, Washington, D. C.; "Social Security - 1940 Model" Robert Goodwin, Regional Director of the Social Security Board, Cleveland; "Progress Through Adversity, or, After Seven Years", Walter F. Gries, Chairman, State Social Welfare Commission, and Superintendent, Welfare Department, Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company, Ishpeming.

Other speakers and their topics for the Conference which promises to bring to the Upper Peninsula a most impressive array of speakers will be announced in the immediate future, according to the Program Committee.

Librarian Reviews
Travel To Panama
And San Blas Isle

Mrs. Dorothy Shipman, Manistique librarian, dressed in native San Blas costume, gave a vivid and entertaining description of her summer trip to New Orleans, Cuba, Panama and San Blas Islands at Birthday Grange Wednesday evening.

The topic of Mrs. Shipman's address was "San Blas and Tropic Skies" and was presented as a feature of the Gulliver Ladies' Aid bazaar at the Grange hall.

Mrs. Shipman described the costumes and customs, the scenic points of interest and oddities in the countries through which she traveled.

Of particular interest to her listeners was the review of Avery Islands, near New Orleans, which boasts a bird sanctuary of 120,000 snowy egrets.

The speaker explained that the sanctuary was organized in 1892 by Edward Avery McIlhenny to prevent the extinction of snowy egrets, the plumes of which were very popular as millinery decorations.

Mrs. McIlhenny has made a fortune in the production and sale of peppers grown on the island and from the salt mines, and the island is famed for its tobacco sauce, Mrs. Shipman revealed.

The island is located 126 miles from New Orleans.

The people of San Blas Islands, which is a part of the Republic of Panama, have a very simple social system, and have been comparatively untouched by civilization,

LOOP LEADERS IDLE SUNDAY

Little Change Expected In Top Bracket of D-M League

With the league leading Perronville team idle for the day, there will be little change in the top bracket of the Delta-Menominee league Sunday.

Bark River, which last week soundly walloped its old rival, Ford River, will travel to Garden for one of the top games on the league schedule.

The hapless Ford River team, which has failed to show much in the line of attack or defense of late, will play host to the heavy slugging Perkins team, which always makes things interesting.

In the final game of the afternoon, Trenary and Wells will tangle on the Alger county diamond.

PLAY SCHAFFER

Perronville, Aug. 25.—Perronville of the D-M league with an open date in league competition will entertain Schaffer, an independent team, in a benefit game on the Perronville diamond Sunday afternoon.

The game promises to be an interesting battle between these two neighboring towns. Schaffer, aspiring to join the D-M league next year will be out to prove that they are worthy of consideration when new applicants are considered for the circuit.

The proceeds of the game will be turned over to Casimir Slaga, a member of the Perronville team, who has been confined at St. Francis hospital with a severe leg injury.

Cooke and McNeill Bolster Cup Hopes

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25 (AP)—The Davis cup hopes of Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Edward Cooke of Portland, Ore., which appeared ruined by their national doubles failures, soared again today when they gained the final singles round of the Newport Casino tennis tournament.

Both were dropped from the international squad last week, but were given assurances that successful Casino campaigns would merit reinstatement. Both have been impressive here all week and especially in today's semi-finals play.

McNeill, who topped the draw, had an easy task defeating unseeded Dave Freeman of Pasadena, Cal., 7-5, 6-2, 6-3, and Cooke performed exceptionally well downing the veteran Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, 6-0, 6-3, 6-8, 6-1.

Freeman and Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., became doubles finalists by defeating Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta and Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, but a shower halted Cooke and Edward Allen of Berkeley, Cal., as they led Grant and Hal Surface of Kansas City, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, in the other semi-final, which will be completed before tomorrow's singles final.

NEWSOM GETS 15TH TRIUMPH

Fox' Fielding Features Game; West Robbed of Triple

Detroit, Aug. 25. (AP)—With big Buck Newsom pitching four-hit ball the Detroit Tigers defeated Washington, 5 to 2, today. It was Newsom's 15th victory of the season.

The Tigers made 12 hits off Joe Haynes, with Earl Averill leading the attack with two doubles and a single.

Detroit scored four of its runs in the first three innings. Thereafter Haynes tightened up and the Tigers encountered difficulty in getting hits when they had men in scoring position. Twelve Tigers were stranded.

Long Drive Nailed The game was featured by the fielding of Pete Fox. In the fifth after Buddy Lewis had walked Fox raced to the screen in right center and pulled down a drive by Sam West. Lewis had rounded second and was easily doubled off first. The poke by West had all the earmarks of a triple. In the seventh Fox made a running one hand stab of a liner by Jim Vernon.

With big help from an error by Cecil Travis, the Tigers pushed over three runs in the second after the Senators had scored in their half on singles by Bloodworth and George Case and a walk to Vernon.

Bill Rogell opened the Tiger rally by singling and after Birdie Tebbetts fled out Travis muffed up Newsom's grounder. A wild pitch advanced both runners, and Averill chased them both home with a double to right.

Runs Unearned All three runs were unearned in view of Travis' muff. Just before Averill's double, Barney McCosky had fled out for what should have retired the side.

The fourth Detroit run came over in the third on Fox' single, Pinky Higgins' double, and Rogell's short single. The last one came in the seventh on singles by Rogell and Tebbetts and a wild pitch on which Newsom struck out trying to bunt.

Singles by Travis and Vernon and an infield out gave Washington its last run in the ninth. Canadiens Hockey Star Is Drowned

Zuric, Ont., Aug. 25 (AP)—Albert (Babe) Siebert, 34, famous defense player of the Montreal Canadiens of the National hockey league, drowned late today while bathing in Lake Huron at St. Joseph, Ont.

Siebert recently was named coach of the Canadiens for the 1939-40 season. He made his home here.

Swimming with his three children and a friend, Siebert went after an inflated inner tube which had drifted away from his small daughter. About 150 feet from shore, he called for help and disappeared.

Divers were sent down at the spot where Siebert sank. Other men watched the shore line for the body. A fishin' boat left from Grand Bend to start dragging.

Siebert led a brilliant amateur career at Kichener, Ont., in 1925 to join the now defunct Montreal Maroons. For seven years he piled up goals and penalties for the Maroons before being sent to the New York Rangers in a surprise deal in 1932. He didn't always see eye to eye with Coach Lester Patrick and during the 1932-33 season was traded to Boston. There, teamed with the famous Eddie Shore and later with the Canadiens, he was known as one of the great defense men of hockey.

Seven Runs In Eighth Give White Sox 9-2 Victory

Chicago, Aug. 25 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox slapped a second, straight defeat on the Boston Red Sox today, winning 9 to 2 with an eighth inning spurge of seven runs before a ladies' day crowd of 16,000.

The White Sox got away to a fast start on old Lefty Grove, scoring two runs in the first inning. Joe Vosmik cut this lead in half with a home run in left center field and Jimmy Fox hit the score with another round trip blow in the eighth, his 34th of the season.

But in the last of the eighth the Sox hit everything tossed up by Emory Dickman, who had relieved Grove in the seventh. Joe Heving and Jake Wade to clinch the decision.

WOMEN REACH GOLFING FINALS

Dorothy Kirby and Betty Jameson Prove Good Mud Players

BY BILL BONI Darien, Conn., Aug. 25 (AP)—Two good mudders, Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., sloshed over the Wee Burn club's broad fairways in impressive style today to reach the title round of the 43rd U. S. women's golf championship.

Slim Dorothy, practically read out of the meeting when she finished nine holes 3 down to Charlotte Glutting, switched from skirt to pants at that point, walloped the blue blades out of the ball, and finally won out on the 18th green, 1 up.

Miss Jameson, wrapped in a rain coat for all of her match, still was able to stroke her putts and smack her irons decisively enough to trim 110-pound Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., 3 and 1.

Thus they brought about the youngest final in U.S.G.A. women's golf history. Miss Kirby is 19, Miss Jameson is 20. Tomorrow they will meet over 36 holes.

Both were favorites when they began play today, for Miss Glutting, 28 years old, is considered past her peak, and Miss Hicks, at 18, had reached match play in a national championship for the first time.

But no one ever looked less like a favorite than Miss Kirby for the first four holes. She lost all of them to Miss Glutting's one-under-par pace, then all at once began hauling herself up by her shoulder straps. She threw in two strokes to save halves on the 5th and 7th; won the 6th when Charlotte took seven blows to get home, and was 3 down at the turn.

She won the 10th, and 12th and 14th to Miss Glutting's wins on the 11th and 15th to be 2 down with three to go. Then came the turning point. At the 16th, Miss Glutting got home in two.

Miss Kirby, on the other hand, broke her second shot into the creek, only to have the ball ricochet off onto the fringe of the green. Here Charlotte three-putted, to be only 1 up with two to go. She lost the 17th when she took her three to get home, and then, steering her approach into a trap at the 18th, needed two to get out and conceded the hole and the match.

Miss Hicks, despite her lack of tournament experience, fought a grand fight for nine holes to be all even. Rules Meeting Will Be Held Here September 11

Escanaba will be one of four Upper Peninsula cities, holding regional football rules meetings this fall, it was learned here by Principal Edward Edlick in a communication from C. E. Forsythe, state director of athletics.

The Escanaba meeting, which will be held in the junior high school, will be Monday night, September 11 at 7:30 o'clock.

Other meetings will be held on successive nights at Bessemer, Houghton and Negaunee with one at Traverse City on Friday night. Forsythe will direct the discussion of rules interpretation at the meeting, which will be open to coaches, officials, school men, players and any fans interested in attending.

Motion pictures, "Post Graduate School of Football" and "The Rules of the Game," will be shown as a feature of the meeting. The pictures are instructive, appealing and interesting to persons interested in football.

One of the items to be considered at the meeting will be the possibility of permitting forward passes from any point back of the line of scrimmage, the change, if adopted, to become effective for the 1940 season. It is to be clearly understood that there will be no change in this phase of the rules for the present season and any change next year will have to follow a favorable vote of coaches.

SOUTHPAW WINS AT VANDALIA, O.

Grand American Decided In Screw Shoot-Off For First Place

Vandalia, O., Aug. 25 (AP)—A left-handed storekeeper who loads his own practice shells today captured the highest honor in the trapshooting game—the 40th annual Grand American Handicap championship.

He is Dwight L. Ritchie of Goheen, O., who broke 99 of 100 from the 22-yard line to tie G. A. Wagner, Dayton, Ohio, clerk, and then went on to powder 22 of 25 in the screwiest shoot-off the "roaring grand" American ever witnessed.

With the $1,000 first prize, a diamond medal and some $2,300 in added money hanging in the balance, Ritchie missed the first, eighth and ninth targets of the shoot-off. Wagner pumped straight through the first 13, but ran into a case of jitters and dropped two of the next five. The two marksmen turned in two of the worst shoot-off scores in the Grand's 40-year history.

BOND MARKET AVERAGES table with columns for Net change, Friday, Previous day, etc.

New York, Aug. 25 (AP)—The war scare eased its grip on the bond market today sufficiently to permit an irregular recovery in prices.

With quoted values slashed billions of dollars as a result of the nervous selling since Tuesday, the market used the Berlin reports pointing to peace parleys to generate a brisk rally.

The reversal brought the most rapid recovery to U. S. treasuries, in which there were a large number of net gains running from 2-32 to 29-32 of a point at the close.

Representative foreign issues, at one time down 2 to more than 6 points, struggled for a better footing on the peace rumors and some managed to close with actual gains of a point or more.

German, Italian and Japanese loans led the comeback, while those of Poland, Australia, Brisbane still lagged at the end.

Corporate bonds making final gains of a point or more included Western Union 5s at 60 at 67, Nickel Plate 5 1/2s at 54, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 5 1/2.

Transactions totaled $5,114,200, face value, against $7,347,050 Thursday.

LEADERS GAIN 1 TO 4 POINTS

Tending to complicate the market picture was the action of the British in pulling the support plug from sterling and permitting that monetary unit to slump from $4.68 1/2 to $4.38, a new low since the middle of 1933.

The currencies of France, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, tied to sterling, fell with the British unit. Stocks in London and Paris, however, put on substantial rallies.

Winchell Tells How Lepke Surrendered To Him In New York

New York, Aug. 25 (AP)—How Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, industrial racketeer for whom the nation was searched, walked unrecognized past J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, to surrender to Walter Winchell was told tonight by the columnist in the New York Daily Mirror.

Within stepping distance, Winchell related, two New York police radio cars waited for traffic lights as the man with a price of $50,000 on his head, calmly stepped into the columnist's automobile Thursday night and was driven to a pre-arranged spot where Hoover waited.

The columnist related that he received a telephone call from an unidentified person Aug. 5. He was told "Lepke wants to come in if he can find someone he can trust. He will give himself up to that person. The talk around town is that Lepke would be shot while supposedly escaping."

Winchell gave assurances that Lepke could trust him, and that he would contact Hoover. A promise of "safe delivery" then was given over the air during Winchell's radio program.

Last Tuesday, a man halted Winchell on the street, went to a telephone booth with him and told him to receive a call there in an hour.

Winchell said that Hoover at this stage contended, "you are being made a fool of and so are we," and declared orders would be issued to shoot Lepke "on sight."

Winchell, however, received the call at the booth and was told Lepke would surrender but "must have time." On subsequent telephone instructions, Winchell made a trip to suburban Yonkers and there met a stranger who directed him to a drug store in lower Manhattan.

At the drug store, Winchell said, he was met by a man who said, "tell Hoover to be at 25th street on 5th Avenue between 10:10 and 10:20."

Hoover was informed.

"When we (Winchell's editorial) we returned to the car the man was at the wheel," Winchell continued. "He drove slowly, to kill time for more than an hour."

Finally at Madison Square, he stopped the car and said: "Just wait here—and good luck."

"And so saying he left hurriedly. We took the wheel, turned our eyes left and noticed many people across the street lounging around."

"Suddenly a figure approached our car in haste. Out of the no-where, it seems. He opened the door, got in and said, 'Hello, Lepke, very much.'"

"We released the brake and stepped on the gas. We'll be with Mr. Hoover in a minute or two, we said, 'he's waiting in his car at 25th street.'"

"Yes, I know," said Lepke. "I just passed him."

"You, I know," said Lepke. "I just passed him."

Hagen And Sarazen Run Into Ambush, Dropped To Fourth

Chicago, Aug. 25 (AP)—Two of golf's old guards—Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen—ran into a blistering "ambush" from two of the game's younger shot making stars at the Midlothian Country club today.

The oldest townsman of eight teams competing in the Hagen Invitation tournament, Hagen and Sarazen, were coasting along with a "plus two" hole rating when they encountered young Ralph Guldahl and Harold (Jug) McSpaden in the third round this afternoon.

When the match was over, Hagen and Sarazen had been routed by a five hole margin. They were shoved down to fourth place in the standings and Guldahl and McSpaden held a tie for first place, at the end of 54 holes, with the combination of Paul Runyan and Horton Smith.

Runyan and Smith were tied for the lead as the result of a great morning performance, when they defeated Denny Shute and Ernie Harrison by six holes.

NAZI CAPITAL ASTIR; HITLER TO ACT SOON

to "agree to the pacific means of settlement accepted by the government of Poland."

"All the world plays that Germany, too, will accept," President Roosevelt added.

The acceptance from Moscicki came from Warsaw this morning a few hours after events in Germany had spread acute alarm in Europe.

Communication between Berlin and most of the outside world was suspended for seven hours last night and early today. German commercial airplanes were grounded and German commercial ships were ordered to speed home or, if at home, to remain there.

Ambassadors Called In

Another sign believed ominous was the cancellation of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's Tannenberg speech on Sunday, for which elaborate preparations had been made.

These developments came after Hitler had called in the British, French, Italian and Japanese ambassadors in rapid succession for what were believed to be talks of the greatest importance.

What Hitler had to say to the four ambassadors was not known. Some quarters in Berlin expressed the belief that the fuehrer had McSpaden in the third round this afternoon.

When the match was over, Hagen and Sarazen had been routed by a five hole margin. They were shoved down to fourth place in the standings and Guldahl and McSpaden held a tie for first place, at the end of 54 holes, with the combination of Paul Runyan and Horton Smith.

Runyan and Smith were tied for the lead as the result of a great morning performance, when they defeated Denny Shute and Ernie Harrison by six holes.

British telephone officials, however, denied the lines had been cut; and said the interruption was due to "a storm and electrical difficulties."

Europe Kept Guessing

A series of unexplained moves in Europe's undercover politics kept the world guessing. Most officials were silent, but Premier Daladier of France made a radio appeal to his nation to be ready for "every sacrifice" to defend "the safety of the fatherland."

Hitler summoned the four ambassadors to the chancellery a few hours after a competent Nazi authority had stated Poland had been given another "day of grace" to accede to Germany's demands, indicating decisive action might be taken tomorrow.

Meanwhile Japan, reacting sharply to Germany's action in signing a non-aggression pact with Tokyo's old enemy Russia, decided on a drastic change in her foreign policy. Abandoning her link with the Rome-Berlin axis, Japan emerged as an international free-lance.

The day's events threw shipping between New York and Europe into confusion. The German order calling home all commercial ships found not one of the crack Nazi passenger liners in a home port.

Ambassador Henderson planned to fly to London to report on his talk, and was expected to return immediately to Berlin.

Nothing From Mussolini

Berlin dispatches said the Soviet ambassador in Warsaw had approached the Polish government in an effort to inflame steps toward a peaceful settlement.

This was denied in Warsaw, however.

Informed quarters in Berlin forecast that Hitler would reject peace proposals sent to the fuehrer late last night by President Roosevelt.

Premier Mussolini was silent on the peace message Roosevelt sent to the Italian king, but it was unanimously rejected by the Italian press. Polish official circles expressed the belief that the American president's suggestions could hardly produce successful results in the present circumstances.

Poland continued her firm refusal to enter into any discussions while German troops lined her frontiers. She was represented as feeling that the present moment was hardly susceptible to any efforts toward conciliation.

Britain Signs Pact

The belief in Warsaw was that peace hung by the slimmest thread and that it was up to Hitler to decide whether it could be preserved. Military preparations continued and volunteers started digging trenches in parks and public squares.

"Poland is ready," was the general theme in the press.

Great Britain gave further evidence of her intention to aid Poland by signing the new British-Polish mutual assistance pact into more formal shape. The pledges already exchanged by the two countries last spring.

The situation was made more tense by reports of numerous incidents along the Polish-Danish and Polish-German frontiers. A Danzig report said two Polish soldiers were shot and killed late today.

Three German planes allegedly were fired upon as they skirted the Polish Corridor.

France, fearing some minor incident might touch off the explosive situation, urged Poland to take precautions in her treatment of Germans inside her borders so that Germany would have no excuse for an attack.

It was emphasized in Paris, however, that this move did not in any way signify a change in France's determination to fight by Poland's side in case an attack came.

Talks Discontinued

One of the ominous signs of the day was the calling up of 500,000 additional reserves in Italy, bringing Mussolini's fighting forces up to about 1,700,000.

Prior to this move there had been no major military preparations apparent in Italy.

In Moscow it was disclosed that the British and French military missions which had been engaged in staff talks with Russian representatives when the new German-Russian non-aggression pact was announced were breaking off the talks and leaving immediately for home.

The move was interpreted as the first answer of Britain and France to Russia's secret negotiations with Germany.

Meanwhile, reports from Bucharest said Rumania had offered Hungary a non-aggression pact which was described by diplomats as a major step towards preserving the neutrality of south-eastern Europe in the event of war.

Americans and other foreigners continued to flee Europe's danger spots. United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, who yesterday advised all American tourists to get out of Britain, arranged today to get his wife and children out of Cannes in the south of France and send them home.

New Traffic Law

Speed Limits Are Defined

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of ten articles, prepared by the Michigan State Police, high-spotting Michigan's new traffic law which becomes effective Sept. 20. Important changes have been made in customary driving habits. Greater safety—and fewer traffic arrests—will result from a close study of these articles.

SPEED LIMITS

The legal speed limit under Michigan's new traffic law is 25 miles per hour in both business and residential districts. It was formerly 15 miles per hour in business districts and 20 miles per hour in the residential districts.

Local authorities may establish higher speed limits in either business or residential districts. In no case may such limits be less than 25 miles per hour.

All highways on which the limit is set in excess of 25 miles an hour must be designated as through highways and adequate signs posted informing the motorist of the permissible speed. Entrances to such highways, the Michigan State Police point out, must be posted with stop signs.

Within cities and villages the state highway commissioner may increase speed limits on state highways outside of business districts. Adequate signs will inform motorists of such limits in excess of 25 miles per hour.

Signs are not necessary in business or residential districts except where the limit is in excess of 25 miles per hour. Motorists driving on unmarked streets in either business or residential districts are subject to the 25 mile per hour limitation.

On the open road outside the limits of cities and villages, a safe and prudent speed is lawful. The new law, however, in the case of vehicles towing other vehicles or trailers, sets a definite speed limit of 50 miles per hour. This applies especially to house trailers.

Speed regulations of this act are based on recommendations of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, and puts Michigan in step with other states in a uniform traffic code.

Upper Peninsula WPA Roll Reduced

A total of 412 WPA workers in Delta county and 3,448 in the upper peninsula have been dropped from the payrolls under federal order "403" which requires that persons employed for 18 months or longer be released for a period of 30 days, Harold Gill, district director, said yesterday.

The reduction of 3,448 for the peninsula cut the district's total to 10,103, the lowest in many months, but Director Gill said 1,000 persons would be assigned to the rolls immediately, bringing the total to approximately 11,000, the district's allotted quota for the month of August.

New Quota Soon

A new quota will be given the district on September 1, Gill said. All men released for the 30-day period are eligible for re-employment at the end of the period but must be re-certified by county ERA offices, Gill said. As long as quotas vary from time to time, he pointed out, there can be no guarantee of re-employment of those released, although many actually will be re-employed at a later date.

The reduction for the upper peninsula follows:

County	Cut	Total
Alger	20	318
Baraga	122	363
Chippewa	23	405
Delta	412	1,202
Dickinson	742	1,219

Luce	2	172
Mackinac	11	277
Marquette	225	801
Menominee	84	678
Ontonagon	56	250
