

EUROPEAN PEACE PROSPECTS DARKEN

WALL STREET SEES HOPE IN WORLD CRISIS

STOCKS HAVE FIRST WEEKLY GAIN IN OVER MONTH

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press General Financial Editor)

New York, Aug. 26 — Wall Street refused to be stamped by the latest European crisis this week, and the stock market registered its first weekly gain in over a month.

Rays of hope for peace helped share prices to push up $1 to more than $3 in many instances in the short Saturday trading session, but earlier in the week, when war clouds looked darkest, selling furries were short-lived.

Business Above 1938

Some analysis in the financial community sized up the matter this way:

1. The nation's business is approaching the usually active autumn season at a level well above last year, and if war is averted the outlook for the remainder of the year seems fairly bright.
2. If war comes, it will not take the business and financial sectors by surprise as it did in 1914, but will find the country psychologically prepared, and financially strongly entrenched.

Bond Situation Studied

A source of some concern in financial circles has been the problem of how the market for U. S. government bonds would respond to a world crisis in view of record high price levels, the government's direct debt (approximately $40,000,000,000) and the fact these bonds form the chief basis of bank assets.

War usually brings an increase in demand for the money, hence rising interest rates and lower bond prices. When the Bank of England boosted its discount rate to 4 per cent on 2 on Thursday, some investors accepted it as a straw in the wind, and treasury bonds experienced their sharpest price decline for any day in five years. They came back quickly the next two days, however, and the end of the week found them still at premiums of several points above par, and only a couple of points under recent record highs.

Banks Buying More

A conference at the federal reserve bank by representatives of leading banks was said to have brought forth information that there had been no important disengagement of bank and institutional holdings, and that the larger banks were preparing to buy more at the more attractive prices. In view of the huge amount of idle funds in this country, it was widely felt that European developments could scarcely be expected to bring any important increase in interest rates here, at least for some time.

Another development of which some in Wall Street have been fearful, came to pass when England withdrew support for her currency yesterday. Foreign exchange men, pointing to the large drain upon England's gold re-

BRITON BREAKS MORE RECORDS

Cobb Aims At 400-Mile Speed on Land, Sets Four New Marks

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Aug. 26 (AP)—Par Broker John R. Cobb of London, 39, became supreme ruler of the straightaway speed world today by smashing three more international automobile records, but he yearns to go faster.

After roaring across this Saline Lake bed twice to make the old five kilometer, ten kilometer and ten mile marks look slow by comparison, the big Englishman began planning for the future—and a goal of 400 miles per hour.

"I hope ultimately to achieve that mark," Cobb commented after hoisting the land speed record to 369.74 miles per hour Wednesday and adding these new marks to his string this morning:

Five kilometers, 326.66; ten kilometers, 283.01; ten miles, 270.35.

The old records: Five kilometers, 292.12, set here by Sir Malcolm Campbell of London in 1935; ten kilometers, 238.67, set by Campbell at Daytona Beach, Fla., in 1935; ten miles, 223.9, set by the late Berndt Rosemeyer of Germany at Frankfurt in 1937.

Cobb sped through the five miles on the northward jaunt at 327.27, far above Campbell's record of 251.4, but the timing device failed to catch him at that distance on the southward run.

Based on their figures on the ten miles at 303.93. They will apply to international racing officials for this record also.

Big, black type, London's newspapers sound warning, tell of Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech before Parliament, in which he stated that Britain is in "imminent danger."

Danzig Decorating For Celebration On "Return To Reich"

Free City of Danzig, Aug. 26 (AP)—Danzig's growing military establishment broadened its activity tonight and festive decorations and loud speakers were being installed for what many citizens believed was to be a celebration of "the return to the reich" with Adolf Hitler in the main role.

New defense barricades were thrown up in the west which faces Poland and the broad road leading to the East Prussian frontier apparently was receiving final military touches for entry of German troops.

Two new road barricades—one of barbed wire and another of logs and rocks apparently designed to stop tanks were put up on the road to the seaside resort of Zoppot, a short distance from the Polish frontier.

Along the road from Danzig to the Polish Port Gdynia little groups of anxious residents talked on the sidewalk and watched the passing patrols of soldiers and the building of grim looking barricades.

In Danzig workmen were busy erecting standards for shiny new loudspeakers which most residents believed were intended to carry the words of the Fuehrer.

All regular airplane connections with Germany were cut off today because of the threatening situation. Baltic sea ship service between Danzig and German ports to the east likewise was abandoned.

It was evident tonight that the Danzig forces had been strengthened but despite numerous rumors there was little evidence to prove that regular German troops were on hand.

Postmaster Farley Won't Let Rumors Spoil His Holiday

Paris, Aug. 26 (AP)—One hundred forty-six Americans, including Postmaster General James A. Farley and his two daughters, started for home today.

They boarded a thirteen-car special train for Le Havre, where they were scheduled to sail aboard the United States liner President Roosevelt at midnight.

The President Roosevelt arrived yesterday and cancelled her scheduled call to Hamburg, Germany.

Beds were set up in recreation rooms of the liner to accommodate the rush of passengers.

Farley, who is disembarking for a visit at Cork, Ireland, said "we aren't going to let these activities spoil our holiday."

MARTIN PUSHES AFL COMEBACK

Campaign for Members Will Be Waged In Flint UAW Ranks

Detroit, Aug. 26 (AP)—Homer Martin next week will direct personally an attempt to recapture membership lost in Flint, Mich., by the AFL United Automobile Workers Union he heads.

His office here announced today Martin would "take personal charge of the Flint district" where Jack Little, until recently one of his chief lieutenants, resigned Friday as regional UAW-AFL director.

Belief was expressed in some labor circles that the UAW-AFL, defeated by the UAW-CIO in three national labor relations board elections recently, was depending on Martin to build an AFL following in Flint automobile plants before an NLRB poll may be held there.

General Motors corporation has a number of plants in Flint. The UAW-AFL has petitioned the NLRB for bargaining elections in all G. M. units, but no hearing has been held, or decision announced.

Little resigned from Martin's office Friday, charging the AFL, with which the group affiliated after splitting with the UAW-CIO, "had played the strike-breaker ever since real unionism took hold in the plants."

Elmer Dowell, director of the G. M. department of the UAW-AFL, said today that Little "has been inactive a long time."

Soarers Gather At Frankfort, Mich.

Frankfort, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP)—Glider pilots from Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and Michigan assembled here today for the American soaring meet which will continue to Labor Day.

Several thousands persons gathered to watch brief flights. The weather was not favorable for sustained flying.

NATION FLOODED BY PROPAGANDA

Foreign Agents Active, Declares Report of Dies Committee

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Dies committee charged today that "hundreds" of agents of foreign governments were flooding this country with propaganda "through every medium of communication of ideas" in an effort to shape American foreign policy.

In a special report, the committee asserted it had "substantial evidence" of well-financed activities by many agents in violation of the statute requiring them to register with the state department.

(Under an act of congress, all agents of foreign governments, companies or individuals are required to register with the state department and give full information as to their activities and remuneration. The report said only 353 such agents had registered as of July 12, 1939.)

Asserting that American resources "may well become the decisive factor in any war waged in the world today," the committee said there appeared to be two major groupings of nations attempting to win this country to their side.

"The first of these is the London-Berlin axis; the second, the Paris-Rome axis; and in addition to these, Russia is in a special category," the report continued.

Two Hearst Papers Merged At Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner carried an announcement tonight that, effective Monday, it would be merged with the Evening American under the title of the Chicago Herald-American, an afternoon and Sunday newspaper.

The Herald and Examiner, one of Chicago's two morning newspapers, and the American are members of the William Randolph Hearst newspaper chain.

As a result of the merger, the Chicago Tribune will be the city's only morning daily.

World's Oldest Cat Dies At 24

Seneca Falls, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Tommie, 24, honored guest at birthday parties that attracted national attention and was killed by his owner, Veterinarian William L. Clark, to be the world's oldest cat, died today.

Tommie succumbed to a malignant tumor, after an operation failed to save his life.

Tommie was a yellow and white kitten, his eyes still unopened, when Dr. Clark found him while treating a sick horse which kicked the cat from its nest in a strawstack.

"I hoped he'd live to round a quarter century next Feb. 19," he said.

Marriage License Rush Is Reported In Monroe County

Monroe, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP)—The greatest rush for marriage licenses since the Michigan compulsory physical examination law took effect October 29, 1937, was reported today by T. Norman Niedermerle, Monroe county clerk.

The clerk said the war scare was responsible for the rush into matrimony.

Monroe issues many licenses to Toledo residents in addition to those residing in southeastern Michigan.

London Zoo Animals To Die If War Comes

BY DREW MIDDLETON
London, Aug. 26 (AP)—Englishmen gave up their cherished Saturday afternoon leisure today to push defense precautions, which included a plan to kill all dangerous animals and snakes in the London zoo in the event of war.

Scores of valuable but carnivorous animals will be shot immediately if war breaks out, zoo officials said, while the population of the reptile and insect houses will be gassed. Some of the more valuable animals are being evacuated, including an Okapi, two giant pandas, two gorillas and a Grevy's zebra valued at $2,500.

No one has offered to board the gorillas.

The Thames emergency river service was organized today. In the event of war motor boats will patrol 13 districts of the river that winds through London. They will carry doctors and nurses to care for air raid wounded, and fire-fighting and salvage equipment.

Other precautions in London and the countryside:

The historic stained glass windows of Canterbury Cathedral were removed and buried in the surrounding countryside.

The jewel house at the tower of London, Windsor Castle and Kensington Palace were officially closed until further notice.

Children were summoned to schools where teachers explained evacuation plans. Teachers will be held in readiness tomorrow and a full dress rehearsal of evacuation is set for Monday.

All day long, Germans packed the Liverpool street railway station enroute to Harwich for the channel crossing. They were obeying their government's order that they return home immediately.

One section of the Bakerloo subway line has been closed and although there was no official announcement, it is believed it will be converted into an air raid shelter.

Businesses continued to leave the city. One firm's 2,000 employees spent the hot, bright day packing.

Children still made up 60 per cent of the railroad traffic to the country. Many of them traveled alone with an identification tag on their clothes, with the name of the relative or friend to whom they were being sent.

Just the same it wasn't all war. The football season opened and for 90 minutes at least thousands of Englishmen forgot there was anything more important in the world than the winning score.

DEWEY CLOSES MICHIGAN VISIT

Republicans of 3 States Confer With New York Racket Buster

Lakeside, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, the New York district attorney, wound up a week's vacation in his native state tonight and prepared to leave for Plattsburg, N. Y., where he will be the guest of Rep. Wallace Pierce, New York Republican.

Dewey met Republicans of three states today at the summer home here of Leonard C. Reid of Chicago, where he has been a guest.

Reid's home, atop a bluff overlooking Lake Michigan, was the scene of a reception yesterday in Dewey's honor. Illinois Republicans and several from Iowa and Indiana attended.

Hill Backet, Illinois national committeeman, remained overnight for further conversations with Dewey, as did George Olmstead, Iowa state central committeeman. Another conferee was Pa. G. Hoffman of South Bend, Ind., president of Studebaker Motors.

Alfred R. Bone of Chicago's "committee of fifteen" visited the Reid home and invited Dewey to speak in Chicago in October. Dewey said it was unlikely he could accept.

The district attorney planned to motor to Niles, Mich., to entrain for Plattsburg, where he is scheduled to arrive Monday.

HELP OFFERED GRAFT INQUIRY

Detroit Judge Confers With Frank Murphy In Washington

Detroit, Aug. 26 (AP)—The federal and state governments stepped in today with offers of aid in the investigation of charges that law enforcement officers in the Detroit area accepted money from gamblers.

Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, appointed a one-man grand jury to conduct the inquiry, left for Washington to discuss with Attorney General Frank Murphy what the federal government would do in the investigation.

Judge Ferguson conferred with the attorney general in Washington by telephone and accepted Murphy's offer to meet with him Monday.

Michigan Attorney General Thomas Read offered Judge Ferguson and Chester P. O'Hara, special prosecutor for the grand jury, all state information on "crime in the Detroit area."

O'Hara said he and Judge Ferguson would select an investigating staff after Monday's conference and would begin taking testimony late next week.

Meanwhile, Ernest F. Rossi, counsel for the Metropolitan Title Contractors Association demanded the state attorney general's office speed its investigations into charges of racketeering in the building industry.

In a letter to Attorney General Read, Rossi charged the investigation "already has passed into oblivion" and accused Read of seeking personal publicity through the investigation.

REFUGEES JAM LINER FOR U. S.

Americans Rush to Boat at LeHavre From All Over Europe

LeHavre, Aug. 27 (Sunday) (AP)—Some of 250 American refugees from Europe's threats of war sailed for home early today on an emergency trip of the United States liner President Roosevelt.

An almost full moon hung low over LeHavre as the ship left the harbor to pick its way through the six miles danger zone around the French coast.

Patrolling French warships which have orders to shoot to sink any commercial craft found within the zone after nightfall received special notifications that the ship would be passing.

The passengers had rushed to Le Havre from all over Europe to board the liner, which was turned around at Le Havre to evacuate Americans.

The Roosevelt, which normally carries from 200 to 300 passengers, will have taken on 535 by the time she leaves Southampton and Cork. Cots were put in lounges and even the grand piano was jammed into one corner and circled with beds.

Many left all their luggage behind. Three men from Sweden, who were supposed to sail from Hamburg, said they had "only the dirty shirts on our backs." All the rest of their belongings were sent to the German port.

FLOOD STRIKES IN NORTH CHINA

Ten Million Suffering As Disaster Spreads Along Hai River

Tientsin, China, Aug. 26 (AP)—Authorities tonight considered the possibility of a mass evacuation of all foreigners from the flooded North China area as the scope of the disaster increased. They estimated that 10,000,000 persons already had suffered in the flood, setting this figure for those who were drowned, stricken with disease, starving or homeless. Engineers estimated that a large section of North China, extending to the old bed of the Yellow river near Tsinling in Shantung province, 250 miles southwest of here, was under flood water as other rivers overflowed to add to the devastation caused by the flooded Hai here. Continuing rains brought mixed results, adding to the woe of sufferers in exposed places but providing nearly everyone with a little drinking water. Normal water facilities have been crippled for days. Life here was desperate. All available men, haggard and unshaven, worked ceaselessly, while refugees continued to increase on the remaining perches provided by any dry object jutting above the water. Many babies were born to Chinese women in the groups of refugees. The stench and danger of foul waters was becoming acute. Bodies of the drowned were being gathered and dumped in increasing numbers into the Hai river in the hope they would float to sea.

WALL STREET SEES HOPE IN WORLD CRISIS

sources which have been required to support the pound at around $4.68, had been predicting a drop for some time. Pointing to the experiences when England let the pound depreciate in 1931, some saw a threat to American economy in this, explaining that lower levels for sterling and related currencies make their goods cheaper in relation to ours, and our goods more expensive for them to buy. Where the pound will settle remains to be seen. It has been fluctuating between $4.40 and $4.50. It went as low as $3.20 in 1932. Steel Production Up But some well-known Wall Street economists and exchange men took the view that letting the pound down at this time does not seem particularly disadvantageous insofar as American economy is concerned, for it comes at a time when England is preoccupied with buying materials from the outside to rearm, rather than concentrating on manufacturing goods to sell abroad. This is the reverse of the situation in 1932. Also, some felt that since England has large purchases to make abroad, she will be disinclined to let the pound depreciate very far, for the cheaper the pound goes, the more her purchases cost her. While she has abandoned supporting it with gold, she can still support it by placing restrictions on non-essential transactions. Scanning the domestic business picture Wall Street noted: 1. Steel production this week was above 62 per cent of capacity, compared with under 43 a year ago, with week-end reports from Pittsburgh of a further increase there next week to the highest since 1937. 2. Department store sales throughout the country last week, according to the federal reserve board, were 6 per cent over 1938. 3. Motor men in Detroit said dealer orders for automobiles indicated a high rate of factory shipments, beginning in September with active production of new models. Also, retail sales in August have shown striking gains over last year, despite earlier production of new models this year. In the stock market, flurries of buying in such industrial shares as steel, motors, coppers and chemicals was said to reflect a desire on the part of traders to hold stocks in companies likely to profit from either peace or wartime activity. Shares rising $1 to $3 today included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, International Nickel, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Douglas Aircraft, and others, but buying spread through most of the list. Bonds generally recovered strongly. In the U. S. government list, one of the most actively bought issues was the treasury 3 per cent of 1948-46, which rose $11.25 per $1,000 par value to $1098.75, which compares with its record high of $1119.68.

BETTY JAMESON NEW CHAMPION

Texas Girl Annexes Golf Title With Birdies At Darien, Conn.

BY BILL BONI
Darien, Conn., Aug. 26 (AP)—Sturdy Betty Jameson, who insists she can't putt, rapped in a 28-foot putt for a winning birdie 3 on the 20th green, hanged in a 15-footer for a vital half in birdie 4's at the 31st, and thereby today became the first Texan even to win the national women's golf championship. The 20-year-old star from San Antonio had to go three more holes to defeat Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, 3 and 2, in their 36-hole final of the 43rd title tournament at the Wee Burn club. But for Betty and the gallery of 1,200 that trailed this brilliant match, she had sealed the slim southerner's doom with those two putts. Miss Jameson had been 4 up at the end of the morning 18 holes, when she shot a sparkling 78 and took the lead, never to lose it again. She looked an easy winner then, but she needed 41 strokes to play the outgoing nine in the afternoon and lost half her margin. In the face of this final threat, Miss Jameson never wavered, won the 27th by belting two beautiful wood shots to the green, she played for her pars and got halves on the 28th and 29th. Came the 30th, and Miss Jameson slapped an iron up 28 feet from the cup. Miss Kirby went her six feet better. But it was Betty, who studies every putt as if it were going to be her last one, who rolled the ball into the hole, and she was back to 3 up. It was the first she'd canned of more than 10 feet, but there was another to follow. Miss Kirby, putting all her 120 pounds into her shots, was 30 yards short of the 31st green in two, while Miss Jameson, with some 25 pounds more behind her drives, was almost home in two on this 427-yarder. Then the Atlantian lofted a pitch that might have disheartened any opponent. Her ball hit the cup and rolled around the back edge to stop only inches away from a sure birdie 4. Miss Jameson took out her chipper, laid one on to the green 15 feet away, and then knocked in the putt to hold her margin safe. If there'd been any doubt, she dispelled it two holes later. Miss Kirby won the 32nd when Betty was trapped on her second, but on the 33rd, after Miss Kirby's tee shot had fallen short, Miss Jameson banged a beauty that stopped only 2 feet from the flag, 204 yards away. That gave her a conceded duce, but her dormie 3, and the match was over when they halved the 34th.

Detroit Policeman Captures U. S. Title At Camp Perry, O.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 26 (AP)—Alfred P. Hemming of Detroit, national all-around pistol champion, outshot 227 of America's law enforcement officers today to capture the national police individual pistol title. The Detroit policeman scored 288 of 300 in the match which consisted of 10 shots of slow fire at 50 yards, and ten each of timed and rapid fire at 25 yards. Emmett E. Jones of the Los Angeles, Calif., police, was second with 287. Hemming succeeds his team mate, Maurice W. Lalond, as national champ. The U. S. Treasury team supplanted Detroit's police quartet as team champion.

German Freighter Held Up In Canada For Non-Delivery

Quebec, Aug. 26 (Canadian Press)—The German freighter Konigsberg, halted off Quebec last night as she heeded a call to the fatherland, was unloaded here today, still held up by legal proceedings. John Home, an attorney, said he had started litigation for several Montreal and Toronto firms charging non-delivery of goods, and that the freighter could not leave port until a $20,000 bond had been posted. Dock workers were taking 800 tons of general cargo from the boat, but Home said the unloading did not concern his clients who sought damages for non-delivery. Royal Canadian mounted police boarded the Konigsberg last night as she steamed for home from Sorel, Que. Benjamin Franklin printed the first Masonic book in America in 1734.

Prison Trombonist Escaped Captured At Ottumwa, Iowa

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 26 (AP)—The law caught up again today with Michigan's trombone-playing reformatory inmate, E. W. Nebergall, chief of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation, announced the arrest at Ottumwa, Ia., of Jesse E. Weaver, 23, a trombone player in the Michigan reformatory band, who fled with a second trombone player in the band while the prison orchestra was competing in a musical contest at St. Joseph, Mich., last June 24. Farrel Lehigh, 20, Weaver's companion in the escape, was retaken two weeks ago near Manistowic, Mich. Both were serving terms for robbery. An informed source said further clarification of Hitler's views might have to be conveyed back to London. This appeared to indicate that Henderson would not take back a definite final reply to the fugher's proposals, but a cautiously worded answer designed to keep open the door for further consultation. Willing to Negotiate France, emphasizing her position as "one of absolute firmness," brought her army to a stage approaching complete mobilization with 2,200,000 men estimated under arms. A highly placed informant in Berlin, who said today that "the danger of a World War is definitely averted," indicated Henderson's mission resulted after Nazi generals urged Hitler to show the same willingness to negotiate that Polish President Moscicki expressed in his reply to President Roosevelt's appeal. ### Boy, 9, Drowns Near Lake Huron Island

Cedarville, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP)—Nine-year-old Louis H. Dunton of Fort Wayne, Ind., rowing with his sister, Ardella, 15, in Lake Huron northwest of Coryell Islands, fell overboard and drowned this afternoon. The sister followed him into the water in an unsuccessful effort to save him and was in turn rescued by Gus Alexander of the islands. The children's father, Louis H. Dunton, Sr., Fort Wayne attorney, was in Canada on a fishing trip. The mother was at the family summer home on Hill Island.

dissatisfied with the reaction of France and Britain to the Hitler proposals. It seemed obvious in Berlin that Nazi and government leaders figured on being too busy in the coming weeks to participate in a party convention. Berlin reports said Hitler appeared to have been all ready to strike against Poland early Saturday, but decided suddenly late Friday upon another course, after which he called in the French and British ambassadors, along with the Italian and Japanese, and gave out his peace terms. This was interpreted in London as indicating he did not want to risk a European war over his claims against Poland. Fuehrer Impressed Polish circles in Warsaw said Hitler apparently had been impressed by the stand of Britain, France and Poland in the face of the crisis. Informed quarters said Prime Minister Chamberlain had decided to call a special meeting of parliament Monday as a result of Hitler's message, the nature of which was undisclosed. Another meeting of the cabinet was called for tomorrow morning, the first Sunday meeting since the crisis last September. Whatever Hitler's offer, it was authoritatively stated, Britain's position is that Poland must have the say as to whether the proposals are acceptable to her as a basis for negotiations between the two countries. An informed source said further clarification of Hitler's views might have to be conveyed back to London. This appeared to indicate that Henderson would not take back a definite final reply to the fugher's proposals, but a cautiously worded answer designed to keep open the door for further consultation. Willing to Negotiate France, emphasizing her position as "one of absolute firmness," brought her army to a stage approaching complete mobilization with 2,200,000 men estimated under arms. A highly placed informant in Berlin, who said today that "the danger of a World War is definitely averted," indicated Henderson's mission resulted after Nazi generals urged Hitler to show the same willingness to negotiate that Polish President Moscicki expressed in his reply to President Roosevelt's appeal. ### DETROIT NAVAL RESERVES HERE

U. S. S. Dubuque Carries 218 Men from Lower Michigan City

The U. S. S. Dubuque, Great Lakes naval training ship, anchored at the Merchant dock here yesterday with 218 men and 18 officers aboard. Commanding the reserve vessel is Captain Richard Thornton Brodhead, Detroit. The reserves aboard are also of Detroit and vicinity, and are numbered with the 3rd battalion. The Dubuque is one of the three largest naval training ships on the lakes at the present time, but will be moved down to fourth place with the acquisition by the reserve fleet of the U. S. S. Sacramento which will replace the Hawk as soon as it is commissioned. This change was announced a short time ago by naval reserve headquarters. Originally a river gunboat for foreign service, the Dubuque saw action on the Yangtze river in China and in various South American areas. It was turned over to the reserve naval corps in 1922. Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 25 (AP)—Salvagers seeking to raise the $4,000,000 submarine Squalus and her 26 dead closed the craft's high induction valve today and predicted she might be brought to the surface late tomorrow or Monday. Those differences, he said, were over a Russian demand that Soviet troops be permitted to pass through Polish territory in case of war. AIR LINES SEVERED Paris, Aug. 26 (AP)—The French government tonight cut off all air communications between France and eastern Europe. A decree, to become effective at 9 a. m. (4 a. m. E. S. T.) tomorrow, forbade any planes except French military craft to fly over French territory east of a line from Calais south through Paris and Lyons to Marseille. Eight regular air routes used by lines serving Belgium, the Netherlands, Germany, Switzerland and Italy as well as countries farther east were eliminated by the order. ### Truck Loaded With Dynamite Explodes; Several Are Killed

Holden, Me., Aug. 26 (AP)—A man, a woman, and three children were blown to bits and four other persons severely injured tonight when a quantity of dynamite aboard a truck exploded here, littering the countryside with debris. The five victims, all occupants of the light delivery truck, were the driver, Joseph Moffett, 35; Mrs. Chester Grindle, 37, and her three children, Margaret, 15, Stella, 9, and Marion, 7, all of Ellsworth. Two automobiles travelling in opposite directions were blown from the highway by the force of the blast, which aroused this northeastern Maine town of 543 inhabitants. Joseph J. Muir of Bangor, an occupant of one of the machines, was not expected to live. He and two companions, Mrs. Annie Harlow and her 12-year-old son, Lawrence of Bangor, were taken to a Bangor hospital.

Jackson Automobile Race Driver Killed

Hamburg, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Glenn Myers, 32, Jackson, Mich., veteran automobile racer, was killed in a four-car crash at the Erie county fair grounds today. State Trooper Alex Larson said another driver was injured and two escaped unhurt. The accident occurred during a five-mile race on a half-mile dirt track. Buy and Sell the Classified Way.

RECORDS MOVED IN COURT HOUSE

Old Books Transferred to Vault Located In Basement

Work was completed during the past week moving records of the county treasurer from the treasurer's office in the court house to the vault located in the basement of the building.

It was estimated by Alfred Bonamer, who was in charge of the work that the books moved weighed approximately four tons. They included tax rolls, assessment rolls, delinquent tax receipts and other miscellaneous records of the county dating back to 1870.

A similar project was undertaken last month with old records covering the same period for the county clerk's office. New shelves were built in the basement vault and the records have been arranged in chronological order.

The new location of the records makes it convenient for anyone who desires to have access to them and at the same time prevents any interruption in the routine work in the offices of the treasurer or county clerk.

The vault may be approached by a basement entrance located in the rear of the court house building and as the books are arranged in chronological order persons desiring to refer to them will have no trouble in finding any one particular record.

Croatians Holding Celebration Today At Hermansville

Hermansville, Mich. — Final plans have been completed by the Holy Cross lodge of the National Croatian society for the all day celebration of the thirty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the local lodge in Hermansville on Sunday.

The program will open at noon with a huge Croatian dinner served in the old fashioned Croatian style, after the dinner movies taken last summer of Jugo-Slavakia will be shown to those attending the dinner. The movies and machine are being furnished by the national societies in Pittsburgh. The program will conclude at night with a dance in the local Croatian hall with the music being furnished by a Croatian tamborine orchestra from Gladstone.

Large delegations are expected from other Croatian lodges in the upper peninsula and northern Wisconsin, some of which are located in Escanaba, Gladstone, Kipling, Perkins, Iron Mountain, and in Niagara and Goodman, Wis.

There are about two hundred and fifty Croatians in Hermansville with about sixty being members of the local Holy Cross lodge. The lodge has been very active in civic and athletic affairs of the village. Mike Posig is president of the lodge and also chairman of the celebration on Sunday, other officers of the lodge are Ivan Kobasic, secretary, and Nick Kure, treasurer.

Device Shows Arrival Of Death Within Body

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEI
Associated Press Science Editor
Chicago, Aug. 26.—Death's arrival, as it looks to an observer inside a living body, has been seen for the first time with aid of a new device at the University of Chicago.

The view covers the two to five final minutes, the so-called agonal moments before and after the heart stops. Rapid, dramatic changes within the tissues have been discovered.

The new method of seeing inside a living body was perfected by Dr. Melvin H. Knisely, assistant professor of anatomy. He is a sandy-haired young man from Houghton, Mich., and the idea came to him indirectly from his father's attempt to make him a mining engineer, against his wishes.

Knisely avoided this by spending his freshman year at the Michigan School of Mines reading books on other subjects. He flunked out.

Among the books one told how a rod of solid quartz transmits light like a hollow tube, but with the added advantage that the quartz can curve the beam around a bend. Dr. Knisely remembered this later when, as a medical student at Chicago, his professor of anatomy, Dr. R. R. Bensley was regretting that many actual life processes cannot be seen. Internal tissues are seen only after they are dead, or so injured that they no longer have much of the semblance of life.

Dr. Knisely suggested inserting a lighted curved quartz rod painlessly, bloodlessly, and without any other disturbance into an anesthetized animal's body to light a living organ as brightly that its internal details could be seen under a microscope. Prof. Bensley told him to try.

The "try" has lasted about 10 years, with such success that the device was shown this year to the great American Medical Association meeting in St. Louis. Physicians saw details of internal life processes new to science.

Tried on Animals
Dr. Knisely was probably the first man to see a close-up of death, magnified about 600 times, in its natural state. He viewed it in the spleens of mice and other small animals. It was always the same, regardless of species.

The red blood corpuscles, instead of continuing their ordinary travel through fine capillaries of the spleen, swarmed out of these tubes in all directions. The white blood cells, the phagocytes, whose usual job is to engulf and destroy foreign particles such as bacteria, set out after the red cells and began swallowing them.

This cannibalism of the white cells was contrary to their action in the spleen in normal life. For even in health, a few red corpuscles wandered outside their appointed channels. They would penetrate blood vessel walls by making themselves thin and finally popping through like a seed squeezed between thumb and finger. But in health the white cells were never seen to go after the wandering reds in the spleen.

In the death moments, also, the walls of the capillaries could be seen to disappear.

At the same time the larger passages of the spleen, which are mostly small veins and sausage-shaped passages called sinuses, ers held in Green Bay.

Mike Miketinac is visiting with friends in Milwaukee during the past week. Mike has been lifeguard at the Nahma beach during the past summer.

began to flatten and emptied quickly of blood. Red cells piled on one another like stacked coins. A phenomenon whose medical name is rouleaux formation.

All this happened during death. It had the appearance of obeying some prearranged signal!

Takes Movies of Liver
Actual existence of some sort of signaling apparatus is plainly seen in actions of the normal, healthy spleen. Whether this signal is mainly a chemical change, or comes from one of the body's nerve centers, or from the brain itself, is not known.

Similar action can be seen in motion pictures of the liver taken by Dr. Knisely's process. The pictures show some of the hundreds of thousands of "sinuses" in frog liver.

In the spleen the sinuses ordinarily look merely like slightly broadened sections of veins. Blood courses freely through them.

Then, at some as yet unseen signal, the wadstream end of such a sinus will pinch together, so tightly that corpuscles cannot get through. Meanwhile the fluid part of the blood passes on through the sides, like water draining out of a sack.

The red corpuscles remain behind, trapped like fish in a bag net. The sinus widens until it looks like a tiny sausage, and is filled completely to the top with red corpuscles. At that moment the top end also pinches off, like tying the top of a sack.

After a few minutes, as a rule, this living sack opens both its ends, disgorges the corpuscles back into the blood stream and seems to rest. Occasionally it may remain "tied" for hours. The little sacks do this individually, or in groups, but usually not all of them in the spleen simultaneously.

Right after a rich meal, thousands of them will fill with red corpuscles. But if an animal is frightened, or has been working hard, the sausages hardly trap corpuscles at all, but permit them to flow freely with the blood.

In these normal processes there is evidence of a definite control system. There are no visible muscles to do the constriction at the ends of the sausages. Yet the constriction is plainly visible. The sacks seem to know when they are full. They stop when they are stretched walls become so thin that apparently any further enlargement would begin to let corpuscles leak through the walls.

Similar storage of red corpuscles has been seen in the liver. In that organ there are a million hexagonal-shaped arrangements of the sinuses which will trap red corpuscles or permit them to flow through freely. Each of these tiny corpuscle rest houses works independently, as if equipped with its own signal system.

Frogs, slightly anesthetized, lying at rest with their lives visible under the "internal eye", sometimes give a slight kick with their legs. Almost simultaneously with the kick, some of the storage depots in the liver open and pour their red cells out into the blood stream.

The speed and sensitivity of this unseen signal system, with its million "subscribers", outdoes anything made by man. One of the new things made possible by Dr. Knisely's method is use of chemicals to try to trace these controls.

If China and Japan will only follow the Nazi-Soviet example, we might get our Chinese laundryman to start washing our silk shirts again.

Relatives Await Word From Local Tourists Abroad

Families of Escanaba residents now touring Europe, who have not received late word from abroad, are anxiously awaiting messages, in view of the tense situation of the last few days in war-threatened countries.

A cablegram was received by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark Saturday morning from their son, William H. Clark, who had been touring Germany, advising them that he had left that country and was in Paris, France. The young man is leaving October 1 for Beirut, Lebanon, where he will enter the American University for a year's study, as an exchange student from the University of Michigan.

No word has been received from Mrs. C. W. Bissell or from Mrs. Ruby Stoll, who are touring abroad. Mrs. Bissell, according to her last letter, planned to be in Switzerland, Roumania or Sweden, at this time of the month, and Mrs. Stoll is thought to be in Sweden.

James G. Ward, Jr., son of Rev. and Mrs. James G. Ward, who has been on a bicycle tour of Germany, was last heard from when he was at Zeltz, Germany, August 12, and is believed to have continued on to Amsterdam, Holland, where he planned to visit for several days. His plans were to sail on the steamer Deutschland on September 1, arriving in New York September 8, but the sailing of the liner, is at present, problematical.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Paris—Is Premier Daladier sitting on the lid to prevent a national scandal which will wreck the careers of men in high places in the financial, social and political life of France?

All France is asking the question. In many circles there is nervousness and high tension. Two recent events helped bring this about:

1. Otto Abetz, blonde, blue-eyed, young head of Nazi Foreign Minister Ribbentrop's private information bureau, was asked by the French authorities to leave France.

2. Two journalists in high position, one on "Le Temps," organ of the French steel and armament kings, and another on "Figaro," also a paper on the right, were arrested and sent to the Cherche Midi prison, charged with accepting money from the Nazi propaganda service.

These events brought about what many people had suspected—that in France as in England, Hitler has his "Fifth Column."

In both countries the sympathizers and friends of Nazidom are pretty much the same—men of the extreme right—aristocrats or socialites or financiers who think a strong government would safeguard their privileges and therefore believe in the Hitler method.

—EDITOR LAUNCHES VIGOROUS INQUIRY—

The Abetz incident and the arrest of two Parisian journalists at once started a vigorous attack in the Paris press. Most of those on the Right backed up the government when it demanded that press discussion cease.

Kerillis, in an editorial, said all his life he had combated Communism, but it would be a fatal mistake in this grave hour if Frenchmen left to the Communists alone the battle to secure the punishment of traitors to France.

—PAPER PLACED UPON TRIAL—

Lucien Sampaix, in "Humanite," not only said he had a list of those who associated with Abetz, but he actually named some of them.

Waxing bold, Sampaix asked whether certain well-known Frenchmen whom he named were associating with a German woman who, he claimed, was a German spy.

—BONNET HIT BY ACQUITTAL—

The next day in more headlines he charged that M. Bonnet, Foreign Minister, had requested the prosecution. The trial was held. Sampaix bluntly said to the judges:

—FRENCH MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS OR FOREIGN MINISTER OF FRENCH AFFAIRS?—

Compulsory compensation? In Massachusetts, labor spokesmen are now convinced that such a bill, no matter how carefully drawn, will not be passed without public support.

—COW JUMPED ASTRIDE THE HOOD OF A CAR—

A Montana imbler contributed a dollar to the police road fund after paying his fine for drunkenness. He evidently hadn't sobered up yet.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—I learned a few things the other day from a disillusioned debutante. Or, as Jean Harrington, a tall and pretty lass with a flair for hats and clothes, identified herself—a "post-debutante."

I asked her what that meant. "Well," drawled Jean, for the girls in her set choose their words and utter them in slow motion "a post-debutante is a debutante who was left at the post four years ago."

Staring at the comely features, I expressed my doubts. "Not at all," said Jean. "The public never seems to learn the difference between a debbie and post-debbie. A girl can only be a debutante for a year or two. Not long after her coming out party, she becomes a post debutante. I've been one for four years, but you would never know it by the society columns. They expect me to be a chicken all my life, apparently. And Brenda—Miss Harrington, of course, is speaking of Miss Frasier—"will never live it down. She'll probably be called a deb until she is 60!"

"And why not?" retorted Jean. "A girl can't look forward to night club tables, teas, cocktail parties, charity committees, eligible bachelors and dress fittings all her life. You columnists have said some nasty things about us that aren't true. Don't faint, but you'd be surprised to know that some of us even have ambition to do something useful!"

"What, for example, Miss Harrington?" I had been calling her Jean, but this seemed a good time to wax formal.

MAKES 'SUPREME SACRIFICE' FOR ART. I ventured that it certainly was rare to meet a damsel of the Stork-El Morocco circle who didn't object to growing older.

"Well-I," she drawled again, "I am interested in designing clothes. And hats. And I have a job modeling them now. And it keeps me pretty busy. I have even skipped a couple of lunches at '21' to hang around the show-rooms. And you probably won't believe it, but I also told a boy friend that I couldn't meet him for dinner at the Colony Restaurant. Now, you know, for any debutante, that is the supreme sacrifice."

"I like Brenda," she rambled on irrelevantly, "very much, and it's remarkable how she has kept her head with all the wonderful publicity, but I think it's terrible that she turned down an offer to go into the movies. Brenda isn't so occupied that she couldn't undertake a little hard work!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—What Roosevelt thinks of war and its relation to domestic economics was graphically described by him in a recent talk with an old friend.

This friend, a middle-of-the-road Democrat who helped nominate and elect the President, went in to see him to voice what many conservative Democrats have felt: that the country needs a moratorium on reform. In a heart-to-heart talk, he counseled Roosevelt to "ease up" on Congress and "let things ride quietly for a while."

"People are tired of change," the friend argued. "They want to be let alone."

Roosevelt's reply, briefly summarized, follows:

"I agree with you on the desirability of peace and quiet. No one wants that more than I. I have been fighting this battle for a long time and I can assure you I would like nothing better than to sit back, fold my hands and take it easy.

"But you don't seem to realize that with world conditions as they are, we can't stand still and do nothing. We have got to keep moving forward if we are to save democracy—if we are going to save economic and political liberty.

"You must understand that war in Europe will mean the complete collapse of private economic enterprise there. As a matter of fact, private enterprise has almost gone already in Germany and Italy, and entirely in Russia. Private economic enterprise is a luxury in this age of super-nationalistic powers.

—SOVIET REVOLUTION—

"The Russian revolution set in motion forces and influences that are sweeping the world. In the '20s, Italy went Fascist; in the '30s, Germany went Nazi. Suppose all of Europe shifts from a system of free private enterprise to these other systems. This is certain if there is a war, and it may happen anyway.

"The United States could not escape the effects of such a change, either politically, socially or economically. We would be confronted with a titanic war of ideas. We have millions of dispossessed, jobless and hopeless people. They would be easy prey to the illusions and promises of these nationalistic systems. Look what happened in Italy and Germany.

"We have to put our house in order to meet the attack of these foreign systems. We have got to give our people a stake in our system of free economic enterprise so they will be willing to defend it and fight for it. We must prepare to meet the great test that is approaching.

"That is why we can't sit down and fold our hands and take things easy. To do that is to invite certain destruction of the liberties we cherish. If we want to preserve Americanism as we know it and want it, we have got to take protective measures now. Standing still or turning back the clock won't do."

—NEW DEALERS IN CRISIS—

The Roosevelt Administration is all hustle and bustle about Europe now, but here is where those most concerned in high official places were when the crisis first broke:

The President was sunning himself on a cruiser off Canada. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, was golfing at White Sulphur Springs. Postmaster General Jim Farley was receiving the benediction of the Pope in Rome. Frank Murphy, Attorney General, was receiving the smiles of dowagers and debutantes at swank Bailey Beach, Newport, R. I.

Harry Hopkins, Secretary of Commerce, was in Annapolis sitting in the sun by Chesapeake Bay. Henry Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, was enjoying the blue waters of the French Riviera. Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, was at his old home in Iowa. Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, was motoring in New York and New England.

Only Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior; Harry Woodring, Secretary of War; and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison were laboring in the vineyard of the Government.

Thus the New Deal, famed champion of the underdog, walked into a crisis that may throw millions of men into battle.

THE GOSSIP

A fly goes 'round and 'round my head—I wish the little fly were dead—But he gets comfort from his rounds, So let him fly till Gabriel sounds! He never lights, he never stings, He flies and sings of precious things That, could I understand, would mean So much of joy and love serene, I'd not, for all this world express My thoughts of him with such finesse.

A gossip flies around my head—I would not wish that gossip dead—I only wish that in "his" rounds 'Twould strike the "happy hunting grounds"!

If "it" would only light and sting I then could calmly state the "thing", But 'round and 'round, buzz and hum, Drives me nuts, about, or some! And yet, I s'pose I should rejoice The gossip uses just "his" voice!

Yacht Club Stages Fourth Annual Regatta This Afternoon

MANY VESSELS ARE COMPETING

Race Around Six Mile Course Scheduled to Start 2:30

The Escanaba Yacht club's fourth annual regatta will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock off the north shore around the six mile course.

The event this year will be exceptionally interesting on account of the entry of two dark horses in Class A. These two are Clyde Cole's marconi sloop "Doris" and Jack Erickson's marconi sloop "Marjac II." Both craft have shown considerable speed in trial runs while the Doris ran away from the fleet on corrected time at the Gladstone mid-summer regatta.

The "Marjac II" does not carry as much canvas as the "Doris," but seems to be much lighter and handles more quickly. Either of these boats is very liable to take the cup from John Mitchell's "Olo" which has been a consistent winner for the last three years.

Gladstone Dark Horse

With sufficient wind the Min-demoys should be well out in front in Class A as she has been equipped with many more yards of canvas including a large fisherman and balloon jib and spinnaker.

In Class B another dark horse will be Cliff Kinney's "Y-Not" of Gladstone. This boat was originally rebuilt and re-rigged last year. She gave a very good account of her self in the EYO mid-summer regatta, but was not sailed by her owner at that time.

The Seagull class will be closely contested as usual and it is expected that at least three of the fleet will finish the course within seconds of each other. Francis Boyce's "Melodie" has been well up in front during the last three gull races and he expects to take the trophy in this event. Ed (Lief) Erickson however does not intend to let any gulls get away from or pass his "Nautical" and with such boats as "Lu," "Care-free" and "Ah-Mie" sailing hard to get the finish gun, this should be one of the highlights of the afternoon competition.

In the class C free-for-all it will be just anybody's race. There will be no handicaps in this event as all boats will start from scratch.

Times Scheduled

The race committee consisting of Dr. R. H. Banks, Sheldon Cobb and E. J. Vinette has warned all contestants that the starting gun for each event will be fired exactly on time for each of the following events so that any late boats will suffer accordingly. The following is the starting time and flag signals:

Class A—2:30 p. m.
Class B—2:45 p. m.
Seagulls—3:00 p. m.
Class C—3:15 p. m.

Preparatory gun will be fired fifteen minutes before the start of each race, white flag raised ten minutes before start and gun and red flag at the start. Contestants will be advised as to course direction on or before 2 p. m.

Long-Wearing Bath Towels

Turkish towels need no ironing—simply shake them when dry to fluff up the pile. Then pass off the hems with a warm iron. Any loose ends or pulled threads should be clipped off even with the pile—never pulled. A firm, light underweave, close even pile, firm selvages and well-finished hems should be assurance of long-wearing towels.

MRS. SIVERTSEN DIES SATURDAY

Escanaba Woman Taken At Chicago Hospital After Long Illness

Relatives here were notified yesterday of the death, on Saturday morning in Chicago, of Mrs. Gehart Sivertsen, 48, of Escanaba. Mrs. Sivertsen had been in ill health for about a year and for the past month seriously. She had been taken to the Augustana hospital at Chicago about three weeks ago. Death was due to a heart ailment. Her husband and two daughters, Evelyn and Orvella, were with her when the end came.

Mrs. Sivertsen was born in Escanaba on May 7, 1891 and had been a lifelong resident of the city. In addition to her husband, she is survived by five children, Mrs. Wm. Rodgers, Evelyn, Orvella, Roy and Vernon, all of Escanaba. There are four grandchildren. One sister, Mrs. Charles Simpson of Chicago, and three brothers are also survivors. The brothers are Arthur Gangstad of Escanaba and Robert Gangstad and Harold Gangstad of Chicago.

The body will be brought to Escanaba on Monday morning and will be taken to the family home, 1409 First avenue north, but complete funeral arrangements have not been made.

Jitterbug Tap—Shirley Mae Fletcher and Kenneth Owen.

To Store Lampshades Safely

Unused lampshades are easily packed in good-size hat boxes and if the sizes graduate, several can be stored in one container. Wrap tissue paper around each. If moving, be sure to mark the box "Fragile" to avoid crushing.

The speed record for light planes over the 100-kilometer (62.5 mile) course is now 173 miles an hour. This record was recently set by Miss Jacqueline Cochran.

Dorothy, Heroine Of 'Wizard of Oz', Lives In Peninsula

Watermeet—Golden-haired Dorothy—the girl who inspired L. Frank Baum to write his classic for children, "The Wizard of Oz"—lives near Watermeet.

She is Mrs. Laud Jacobs, who before her marriage was Dorothy Stickley. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and their two children reside at Stickley lodge, the year-round home of Mrs. Albert Stickley, Dorothy's mother. Mr. Jacobs is an employee of the state highway department. Baum, as the story goes, lived next door to the Stickley home in Grand Rapids shortly after 1900. Albert Stickley, Dorothy's father, was a furniture manufacturer.

At Grand Rapids

Baum became acquainted with his young neighbor and the idea of writing a fantasy for children occurred to him. He would build the tale around Dorothy.

He laid the scene on a Kansas prairie. A cyclone strikes the lonely farm home when all but Dorothy have retreated to the security of a cellar. She is whirled off in the home to a wondrous fairland and there she makes a strange pilgrimage with curious companions to the Land of Oz to seek the aid of the Wizard.

"The Wizard of Oz" captured the imagination of children and adults alike when it appeared in book stores. It was sold widely and the persons who read it clamored for more. So Baum wrote sequels to the book, continuing the adventure of the inhabitants of Oz.

Mrs. Jacobs is reported to be in the east this month, on a personal appearance tour as the girl who inspired the heroine of the Oz books. Her tour has been arranged by the motion picture firm which produced "The Wizard of Oz."

CUTOVER AREA MEET PLANNED

Program of Action To Be Mapped At Parley Here Aug. 31

Ways and means of putting the recommendations of the Northern State Lakes Regional committee into a definite unified program of work for the benefit of the Upper Peninsula will be discussed at a meeting to be held at the Escanaba postoffice building Thursday evening, August 31.

The Lake States Regional committee sometime ago completed its study of the economic and social problems of northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota and made recommendations for the rehabilitation of the cut-over land region. Representing the Upper Peninsula on this committee and the various sub-committees were: G. Harold Earle, Hermansville; George E. Blahop, Marquette; C. H. Baxter, Houghton; Abbott Fox, Iron Mountain; Arthur E. Erickson, Ironwood; and Henry Wylie, Escanaba.

It is hoped, Mr. Wylie stated yesterday, that a definite program of action, based on the recommendations of the committee, can be produced for northern Michigan before Jan. 1, 1940. Congressman Fred Bradley has given assurance that he will gladly give all possible assistance in the work, and he has pointed out that any federal legislation that may be proposed for the next session of Congress should be ready by the first of the year.

The Mount Rushmore memorial carving in the Black Hills of South Dakota is being done mostly by blasting. This method is used down to within an inch of the finished surface.

Give Instructions On Shipping Furs

Lansing — Persons shipping, transporting or carrying furs out of Michigan are still required by state law to mark on the outside of the container a detailed description of the contents.

This is the advice which the law enforcement division of the Michigan department of conservation is giving in answer to inquiries concerning the effect of the recent act of Congress relaxing the package-marking provision in the federal penal code.

"The amendment has no bearing at all on the fur shipping done across the Michigan state line," stated W. A. Bergin, assistant chief administration of the conservation department. "Nor does it have effect in most other states, because the state law takes precedence over the federal amendment," he explained.

The 1939 Congress changed the federal act relative to interstate shipment of furs by permitting shippers to confine their labeling to the name and address of the shipper and consignee. Bergin said that conservation officers were continuing to enforce the Michigan law as it stands, and that all persons making inquiries were to be so advised.

Rapid River

Legion Auxiliary Meeting
Rapid River, Mich.—The American Legion Auxiliary will meet Tuesday evening, Aug. 29 at a home of Mrs. Andrew Wilis. A good attendance is desired.

Personal
Carl Person left Thursday evening for Fredericksburg, Va. in response to a telegram, of the critical illness of his sister, Mrs. Edna Dickinson.

Mrs. Alvina Carlson is leaving this week for Onaway, where she will teach the coming year. Helmer Nelson, formerly superintendent of the Rapid River schools is superintendent at Onaway.

Mrs. J. A. Shippy returned Sunday August 20 from a month's visit with relatives at Bellaire. Mr. Shippy met her at St. Ignace.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burke, of Washington, D. C., arrived Wednesday to visit with Mrs. Burke's mother, Mrs. Hilda Johnson. They were accompanied from Bay City by Mrs. Enoch Peterson, called here by the serious illness of her father, I. W. Christanson.

Mrs. Ed. McCabe of New York City is visiting relatives here. Mrs. McCabe is the former Clara Callahan.

June Kniskern and Mrs. Walter Hornstein of Garden visited here Tuesday, at the Kniskern home.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Papineau, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lind, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Marenger of Perkins and Miss Irma Scherlinger spent last Sunday at Marquette.

Mrs. Chas. Archambeau and Mrs. Lucile Archambeau shopped in Escanaba Tuesday.

Mrs. Bill Richards and son Spencer returned to their home in Flint after spending several months with her mother, Mrs. A. Murchie, who is sick.

How the War Would Be Fought

The strategy on which a war between England, France and Poland against Germany and Italy could be fought. The arrows indicate points of combat.

By NEA Service
Washington—An overpowering drive from Germany eastward into Poland will mark the start of the next war—if threats of war materialize—in the opinion of military authorities here.

The broad lines of attack and objectives already are known to military men, because rules of war are universal. As sized up by the authorities, and assuming that Germany and Italy were lined up against England, France, and Poland, here's how the war, in their opinion, would develop:

The Germans would drive on land to cut off the Polish Corridor and the Vistula valley industrial areas. They would concentrate on this at first, using enough troops on the French border to hold the French at bay.

The German drive would extend from along the corridor south to an offensive launched out of Slovakia. The southern offensive would drive two ways, north toward Warsaw and east toward the Russian Ukraine—the latter operation designed to close Poland's back door entrance for supplies.

The Italians would be busy with their own troubles, but might send troops north through Germany to aid the Germans in the Polish campaign. Italy, however, is believed by military men to be so vulnerable to attack that it is the almost unanimous opinion of military men here that Mussolini would not even go to war on Germany's side.

FRENCH WOULD HIT AT PO VALLEY
Assuming the axis held, however, Italy on land would be put to defend herself from French attack launched at the French-Italian border. The French would be in a position to attack from the outer edge of a fan converging near Turin.

The Italians would have to fan out their troops at the four entering passes, while the attacking forces would be converging together toward the final assault.

France, on land, aside from the Italian offensive, would throw all possible weight against the Germans on the French-German border, defended on their own side by the "Impregnable" Maginot children of Munising visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johnson of Maplewood. A dinner was given in honor of Mrs. Olson and Mrs. George Fuhrman, the occasion being their birthday anniversaries.

line and by the Germans by the reputedly equally strong Siegfried line of underground forts. France would throw all the force possible on this front, to ease the strain on Poland on the other side.

England would send her own men to fight with the French.

The experts believe Poland might fall to the Germans within a matter of weeks, leaving the theater of war to shift to the western front altogether.

France and England would use every resource to prevent Polish collapse, and keep the way open for a "pincer" attack on the Germans from Poland and France.

BRITAIN WOULD TRY BALTIC BLOCKADE
The fight to keep Poland going would turn on naval operations. Britain would seek to block the German fleet in the Baltic sea—and is reported already to have sent ships to blockade Straits of Skagerrak. They undoubtedly would sacrifice some ships to bottle up the Germans, in the meantime trying to cut off the German submarine fleet by air attacks on the Kiel and Kaiser Wilhelm canals. Some German subs are reported already to have gone south to join the Italians.

Then, to keep open the Polish line of supplies—some British troops might be sent to help Poland—Britain and France would engage the Italian navy in the Mediterranean. The British would operate in the eastern Mediterranean to protect the Suez canal and protect troop movements from Australia and India, and to cut off Italian troop movements from the colonies.

In the western Mediterranean, the British would control the outlet at Gibraltar and the French navy would drive on Pantelleria, Italian base, in conjunction with the British. The Italians, in turn, would hit the British base at Malta and the French base at Pantelleria.

British and French would throw blockades around Italian shipping points—assuming they gained control of the Mediterranean. Italy is particularly vulnerable to attack both by land and air from France.

MEDITERRANEAN IS VITAL
Control of the Mediterranean, and a friendly Turkey and Rumania, would be necessary if the democracies were to preserve the back door supply line to Poland.

If the line were cut, or if Poland capitulated, the offensive would shift, probably on Germany's part to a flanking land drive on Paris, the most logical route being through Belgium as during the last war.

Those are generally accepted basic land and naval tactics that would be followed in some degree, at least, military men believe.

In the air, much is speculation. London, it is believed, would be a German air objective. England is not expected to bomb German cities except in retaliation. However, the air would scream with planes and bombs aimed at military objectives—rail lines, factories, roads, troops, munition works—in all countries—however the bombing of cities developed.

The Germans would undoubtedly use an air force in the naval battle to clear the attempted British blockade at the Straits of Skagerrak. Air attacks would be the rule, too, in the Mediterranean.

OLD TIMES IN ESCANABA
If I am not mistaken it was the winter of 1874-5, when the Escanaba village board secured the services of a certain Mr. Tibbals as principal of our school; he was a man about 5 ft. 7 inches tall and would weigh about 135 pounds, rather delicate in appearance but had a brilliant eye; in fact he had two brilliant eyes; in giving his little talk at the opening of school, he said that he did not believe in corporal punishment, he put the pupils on their honor.

Entering the school that year was five husky men, Frank Anthony about 5 ft 11 inches tall, Jim Lyons about 6 feet tall and a perfect specimen of young athletic perfection, Paddy Murphy about 5 ft. 10 inches tall, a fine boxer and all around athlete, Charlie Moran another good boxer and one or two others; these boys smiled at each other when Mr. Tibbals said he did not believe in corporal punishment. It was the custom of these boys to spend their time boxing.

Mr. Tibbals was a perfect gentleman, kindly a good teacher. The pupils all liked him and behaved themselves very well; occasionally some pupil would break the rules and Mr. Tibbals would not say a word but he would use those terrible eyes of his. Every thing went along smoothly but one day during the idea of March something happened; Mr. Tibbals went for his mail, the postmaster defacto was George Preston and the postmaster dejure was Covell Royce; after receiving his mail he walked up Ludington street until he came to the entrance of Music Hall where he found three boys. He stopped to talk to them and hearing a noise in the hall above inquired the cause, the boys told him that some of the boys were boxing and asked him to go up and watch it, which he did. Upon entering the hall he found quite a number of his pupils there and Jim Lyons had the gloves on with Paddy Murphy. Some of the boys present were Frank Tyrrell, Tom Torney, Charlie Moran, Jack Fleming, Joe Patterson, Pat Glavin, Munkey Webber, Francis McLean and some others. I did not remember seeing Tom Daley and Will Finnegan but they must have been there for they were always present when there was mischief was going on. Jim Lyons came over to the teacher and wanted him to put on the gloves with him; the teacher politely said "I do not think I had better for I have not had gloves on for a long time."

But Jim said, "Oh! Come on teacher I won't hurt you," so Mr. Tibbals said if you promise not to hurt me I will put them on.

Subsequent events proved Jim's remark and promise unnecessary, they squared off and might remind one of the Bible stories of David and Goliath minus David slung and smoothe stones from the brook and Goliath sword and buckler.

As I said before they squared off and parried for an opening, Goliath Jim thought he saw an opening and let drive a haymaker at poor little David. David saw that big fist coming his way and did not like it so he stepped quickly to one side and as Goliath passed him he turned quickly and hit big Jim on the back of the head which nearly floored him, amidst the cheers and taunts of the boys.

The nuance of Jim's visage turned to a scowl and he made a lunge at poor little David but that time David did not side step but parried the blow and braced himself; Goliath's weight came against David's short arm jolt and Goliath's feet left the floor and his shoulders and head came in sudden contact with the floor.

Elliot's livery barn was on the floor below and if the horses had not been securely tethered there would have been a stampee as the noise of the contact of Jim's head and shoulders with the floor was sufficient to cause any thing. Jim got to his feet and waving his hands he said:—!!—!! take these —! gloves off; Mr. Tibball had his gloves removed and re-invested himself with vest, coat and hat then he turned toward Jim and politely said (with a bow) I thank you Mr. Lyons for not hurting me.

This event caused some curiosity, it finally leaked out that Mr. Tibball while in college had been an ardent member of a boxing club and was never defeated. Before this event he had the sympathy of the pupils but now he was a hero not only with the girls but with the boys as well.

SMALL HOMES • STORES • APARTMENTS • MODERNIZATION

Special Kitchen Cabinets Solve Storage Problems

If the average kitchen cabinet is not sufficient in size and range of service to care for all kitchen equipment and functions, there are many special cabinets which may be installed to share some of its burden. Like new kitchen cabinets, these special cabinets may be added to the kitchen with funds obtainable from qualified lending institutions under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

One useful cabinet now being manufactured is designed for the storage of vegetables. The front of the three drawer-type bins is louvered for air circulation. Made of steel, it has a smooth work surface.

Linen cabinets of varying heights effectively take care of linen storage, while soiled linen hampers, which operate on the drawer principle, offer a permanent solution to a temporary storage problem.

Implement cabinets, available in all heights and sizes, provide space for mops, brooms, soaps, and other cleaning materials, while shallow "step" shelves may be installed high on the wall to take care of canned and bottled goods. Bread bins and bulk storage bins, the latter for sugar, coffee, etc., form small cabinets, while "dead corner" cabinets are made to fit into inaccessible corners for general storage.

Space Heaters Warm Bathroom One Type Available Uses Wall Space Well

One way of solving the problem of how to bring comfort to a hard-to-heat bathroom is by installation of a radiant type electric heater. One type, which may be installed with funds obtained from qualified lending institutions under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration, is logically shaped to utilize wall space to greatest advantage and to flood the lower portion of the room with quick steady heat.

The limited width provided by most bathrooms permits placement of these units in wall spaces formerly too narrow for the installation of any heater. Its unusual height radiates the heat from head to foot.

These heaters are also adaptable to small bedrooms, breakfast rooms, and other rooms of 700 cubic feet or less, where instant heat is desired.

Small But Efficient

This tiny house really has a great many rooms crowded into a very small space... The first floor has the unusual advantage of a small vestibule a coat closet, large living room and small kitchen and alcove. Three bedrooms with good closet space are found on the second floor. R. C. Hunter, architect.

Need Efficiency in Heating Plant System Often Controls Design of House

In the selection of an efficient heating system, there are a number of factors which not only affect the selection of the heating system itself but control to a varying degree, the design of the house as a whole, Federal Housing Administration officials say:

The type of system selected will depend upon: (1) Adequate capacity in relation to the severity of the climate, (2) the form of the house and its effect upon the heat distribution system, (3) plan layout affecting the location of the equipment, (4) the quality of the construction of the house, (5) the degree of convenience and comfort demanded, and (6) the fuel to be used.

FHA officials say that, when selecting a heating plant, it is advisable to get a written guarantee from the contractor to the effect that the equipment has a heating capacity sufficient to heat all habitable rooms to 70 degrees Fahrenheit when it is zero out of doors. In localities where the temperature commonly falls below zero a lower base, such as minus 10 degrees or minus 20 degrees Fahrenheit may be used to get adequate capacity.

LIGHT WEIGHT LAWN MOWER

No longer is it a task to mow the lawn, with the light weight mowers on the market. It may instead become a lighter and desirable form of exercise.

The new mowers come equipped with pneumatic tires and made of lightweight metal which at the same time is as durable and strong as our former heavy and cumbersome mowers.

Approximately three-fourths of all pedestrian deaths—in city and country—occur after sundown.

Unique Full Mirror

A full length mirror in a bedroom is a very convenient and considerate nicety for the woman who occupies the room. Here is the solution to the problem of how to arrange such a mirror.

Place between the two windows and make it a decorative feature.

Obtain a mirror large enough to fit the space and have V shaped grooves made in the glass, dividing the mirror into sections about the size of window panes. The horizontal grooves should line up with the horizontal members of the window sash.

Tight Windows Help Reduce Loss of Heat

The Federal Housing Administration urges prospective home builders and buyers to give special attention to the windows in structures they contemplate purchasing. Heating studies having demonstrated repeatedly the importance of windows as a factor in heat loss.

House buyers have learned that tight weather stripped windows mean an essential long-term saving, FHA officials say. Builders have learned that the most economical method to get windows with the necessary qualities is to buy them prefitted as a packaged unit, whether in wood or metal.

From the standpoint of savings, a separation of the two functions of windows—lighting and ventilation—gives a better approach to the problem. Authorities say that glass fixed in place is cheaper than movable sash. If used in combination with casement or double-hung windows, such an arrangement will definitely result in economies.

Floating Shelves

It is a clever thought to arrange in one of the kitchen cupboards a series of three or four rotating shelves on which the things stored there and most frequently used may be placed. Then when something is wanted that is not in the front row on the shelf, it may simply be turned about to the point where the article desired is within handy reach.

Such shelves may be made from five-ply veneer, mounted on a common vertical shelf about which each shelf is free to rotate independent of the others.

Such a device saves the spilling of contents by knocking over of boxes, canisters, etc., and contributes to a neat cupboard because everything may be gotten out of the cupboard in a very easy, handy method.

This might be an interesting problem for the home workshop.

FILLING WOODWORK CRACKS

If there are cracks or depressions in your woodwork which must be refilled in order to refinish the walls or floors, they must be carefully handled.

First fill with putty or plastic wood, and then after smoothing off at the surface, paint same with an oil pigment paint. Do not use a water paint in this instance.

Youth Gathering At Fortune Lake During Holiday

A two day outing of the Ishpeming District Luther League, which includes Ishpeming, Marquette, Negaunee, Sault Ste. Marie, Munising, Newberry and Marquette, and in which the Luther League members of other cities in the Superior Conference will join, will be held Sunday and Monday, September 3 and 4, at Fortune Lake Bible Camp.

Rev. Theodore E. Matson of Bethany Lutheran church, Ishpeming, will be director. Fortune Lake Bible Camp, which is four miles west of Crystal Falls, has a spacious new auditorium which seats over 600 people, a well equipped stage for the production of plays or pageants, large dormitories for girls and boys and individual cabins, for campers and tourists when sessions are not being held. It is used by the Conference Luther League, the Iron County 4-H club, the Finnish Lutherans of the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin and the Episcopalians of this area.

In connection with the Labor Day holiday encampment a meeting of the executive council of the Superior Conference will be held on September 3. Members of the council are Rev. R. E. Byquist, Wakefield, president; Rev. Carl I. Faust, Iron River, vice president; Milton Bloomquist, Escanaba, who is publicity director of the camp; secretary, Rev. Carl F. Johnson, Daggott, treasurer; Stanley Lundahl, Niagara, statistician; Mrs. Milton Johnson, Marquette, historian; and the Council members who are Dr. C. Albert Lund, Escanaba; Rev. C. E. Peterson, Norway; Rev. C. A. Brostrom, Ironwood; Rev. Rudolph Nilson, Merrill, Wis.; Carl Kronberg, Negaunee; Rev. V. T. Mattson, Sault Ste. Marie; Dr. O. H. Bostrom, Marquette; and Mrs. Martin Pederson, Crystal Falls.

Mary Breckinridge, Club Convention Speaker, Is Outstanding Personality

Women of the Upper Peninsula will be accorded a rare privilege in the opportunity to hear Mary Breckinridge, founder and director of the world famous Frontier Nursing Service, when she speaks during the convention of the Upper Peninsula District of Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs. The convention will be held in Escanaba, September 13, 14 and 15, and in Gladstone on September 16.

Born to a life of luxury and social position, the desire to aid those less fortunate than herself led Mary Breckinridge to forsake ease and comfort in order to alleviate the needless suffering among the Kentucky mountaineers.

In carrying on this medical missionary work she has surmounted great obstacles and endured countless hardships frequently at the risk of her own life, to administer to suffering humanity in the lonely backwoods mountains of her home state.

Mary Breckinridge is the daughter of Clifton R. Breckinridge, Minister to Russia during Cleveland's second administration, and granddaughter of John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky, Vice President of the United States with President Buchanan, also Major-General of the Confederacy and its last Secretary of War. She is the great, great granddaughter of John Breckinridge, Cabinet-General in Jefferson's Administration.

Extension Education Mrs. Breckinridge was educated by private governesses and tutors in Washington, D. C. and in St. Petersburg, Russia, until the age of 15, when she was sent to school at Rosemont-Dezaley, at Lausanne, Switzerland, for two years, and then to the Low and Heywood School at Stamford, Conn. She is a registered nurse, having trained at St. Luke's Hospital, New York City. She is a certified midwife holding the certificate of the Central Midwives Board of England, having taken this training in the British Hospital for Mothers and Babies in London. She has also taken advanced courses in Public Health at Columbia University, New York. She holds the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Louisville, in Kentucky.

Her experience is varied and extensive. She was one of the first speakers sent out by the Children's Bureau, in co-operation with the National Council of Defense, when Julia Lathrop launched her magnificent program for the protection of childhood. During the War, she organized nurses in the Southwestern Division of the Red Cross for service overseas, and was State Representative for Arkansas of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

Volunteer in France Late in 1918, after the death of her baby, Mrs. Breckinridge offered her services to the American Committee for Devastated France as a volunteer worker. During the two years following, she organized a group of graduate nurses, from the Florence Nightingale School of Bordeaux, into a public health service for the Department of the Aisne, the first of its kind in France, covering four cantons, about one hundred twenty-eight villages, and caring for ten thousand French children. This work was so well organized that it has been continued and is now supported by French governmental authorities and the income from an endowment left by the American Committee and its friends.

It was during these two years in France that Mrs. Breckinridge made an exhaustive study of the training, the work and the supervision of the French midwives, and also made her first approach to England for a similar study in the British Isles.

After her sojourn in France and the completion of her public health course in Columbia University, Mrs. Breckinridge in co-operation with the State Board of Health of Kentucky made a survey, at her own expense, of several mountain counties to discover not only the health conditions there of mothers and babies, but also the type and status of the mountain midwife. The findings of this survey were so enlightening as to the need for change that Mrs. Breckinridge immediately set sail for England to get the necessary midwifery training, not available in America, so that she could undertake her work, the present program of the Frontier Nursing Service.

Service in England At the completion of her training in England, Mrs. Breckinridge worked as a district midwife in the East End of London. Then she spent some time with the Queen's Nurses in England and Scotland, and especially in the outer Hebrides, in order to test their technique for application to a remote section in our own country, and to study the scheme of organization of the Highlands and Islands Medical and Nursing Service.

From childhood, Mrs. Breckinridge has been alive to the needs of the mountain children. Through sharing the interest of a great-aunt who established mountain schools in Kentucky and North Carolina, she had early come to realize the tragic limitations of the lives of these children and their mothers, a fact which had never left the background of her mind. She had hoped to raise her own family of children. She had two, a son and a daughter, and when she lost them both, she turned to this work in their memory.

The Frontier Nursing Service was organized in the spring of 1925; actual work began in the fall of that year in one county, with one poorly housed nursing center, covering a district of fifty square miles. Around this little oasis of modern science stretched an area of one thousand square miles of rough, horseback mountain country where there was not a single resident-physician.

Eight Nursing Centers Today, there are eight nursing centers, one twenty-bed hospital, a medical director, a social service director, and a staff of thirty-five district nurse-midwives, hospital nurses, statisticians, volunteer couriers, and administrative and recreational workers, covering an area of hundreds of square miles in several counties, and serving many thousands of people.

The Frontier Nursing Service is a national demonstration, located in the Kentucky mountains, and designed, primarily, to solve remotely rural problems of maternity, infancy and disease, in relation to social and economic environment; and, subsequently, to train personnel to carry this cabin-and-saddlebag technique to other American frontier territories.

The general public is privileged to attend the sessions of the convention by paying a nominal registration fee. Members of the Escanaba Woman's club and the Gladstone Child Welfare club will be admitted free of charge.

Around this little oasis of modern science stretched an area of one thousand square miles of rough, horseback mountain country where there was not a single resident-physician.

Eight Nursing Centers Today, there are eight nursing centers, one twenty-bed hospital, a medical director, a social service director, and a staff of thirty-five district nurse-midwives, hospital nurses, statisticians, volunteer couriers, and administrative and recreational workers, covering an area of hundreds of square miles in several counties, and serving many thousands of people.

The Frontier Nursing Service is a national demonstration, located in the Kentucky mountains, and designed, primarily, to solve remotely rural problems of maternity, infancy and disease, in relation to social and economic environment; and, subsequently, to train personnel to carry this cabin-and-saddlebag technique to other American frontier territories.

The general public is privileged to attend the sessions of the convention by paying a nominal registration fee. Members of the Escanaba Woman's club and the Gladstone Child Welfare club will be admitted free of charge.

The total number of revenue miles flown during 1938 was approximately 5 per cent higher than that of 1937.

WELFARE UNIT AT HOUGHTON

Record Crowd Expected to Attend Welfare Conference

All roads lead to the Copper Country for the Labor Day weekend is the apparent trend from the more than 100 reservations already made to attend the Fourth Annual Upper Peninsula Conference on Social Welfare which will be held in Houghton and Hancock on September 1 and 2, according to an announcement released yesterday by the Program Committee of the Conference. It is expected that more than 400 persons from the Upper Peninsula and throughout the State will be in attendance. Housing facilities are most adequate and it is requested that reservations be made by addressing the following: Social Welfare Conference, Community Bldg., Houghton, Michigan.

In addition to the nine top-notch speakers previously announced, the Program Committee announces three more as follows: Dr. Robert F. Kelo, Director, Institute of the Health and Social Sciences, University of Michigan, Detroit, will speak on "Finding Our Way Out". Dr. Kelo's talk will deal with the general problems of unemployment, economic security, economic and population trends in the state and country generally. Dr. Kelo, always excellently received by Upper Peninsula audiences, is a national authority on his subject and draws from a rich background in business, in private social work, and in public relief administration agencies.

"Implications of the Unemployment Compensation Program" will be the topic of Thomas F. Carson, Associate Executive Director, Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission, Detroit. Recent legislative action made many important changes in the Unemployment Compensation program. These changes which will be explained by Mr. Carson will be of especial interest to all business men and public officials. The importance of the compensation program, its effects and its implications will all be covered in the talk. The Michigan program in the last year, having distributed more than sixty millions of dollars in benefits to the unemployed, has far-reaching effects and is of importance to a large proportion of the population.

The noted psychiatrist, Norman Westlund, M. D., will give an address on "Mental Hygiene in the Community". The importance of mental hygiene problems as they relate to individuals in the community and to the community itself has been given a place of increasing importance by students of human behavior in recent years. Possible programs which might be established in the various counties in order to increase the facilities for the study of mental illness, and their importance to the individual and the community will be covered by Dr. Westlund.

The theme of the entire Conference is "Progress Through Adversity, or, After Seven Years". The slogan of the Local Committee is "Spend Your Labor Day Week-end in the Copper Country."

New Traffic Law

Define Traffic Signals

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of ten articles, prepared by the Michigan State Police, high-spotting Michigan's new traffic law, which becomes effective Sept. 29. Important changes have been made in customary driving habits. Greater safety—and fewer traffic arrests—will result from a close study of these articles.

The state's new traffic law prohibits right-hand turns on a red light. Red means stop for all traffic—including the driver who heretofore has been swinging to the right around an intersection into the flow of traffic moving on the green. This driver, hereafter, stops on the red, and makes his turn only when he has the green signal.

Flashing red means stop. It is to be interpreted the same as a stop sign.

Flashing yellow or amber means caution.

Green means vehicles may go straight ahead, right or left unless a sign prohibits such turns. Traffic proceeding on the green must, however, yield the right-of-way to other vehicles and pedestrians lawfully within the intersection.

Yellow or amber when shown with green requires that vehicles be brought to a stop before entering the intersection if such stop can be made in safety.

If a green arrow is shown with the red light, vehicles may cautiously enter the intersection to make the movement indicated by the arrow, but must yield the right-of-way to other traffic.

Legal placing of lights in traffic signals, the Michigan State Police point out, calls for red at the top, yellow or amber in the middle and green at the bottom. Tomorrow: Pedestrians.

An automatic top, which is raised or lowered entirely by vacuum power from the engine, can now be obtained at slight extra cost on most automobiles.

4-H Puppet Show To Be Staged At Stonington Aug. 30

Stonington, Mich.—A 4-H Puppet Show will be featured at a program in connection with a 4-H community fair to be held at the Stonington grange hall Wednesday evening, Aug. 30. The program will start at 8:15 p. m.

The puppets and a puppet stage are products of the Fayette 4-H Handicraft Club and were made under the direction and supervision of E. Walfred Granskog, 4-H club leader, who has been connected with 4-H clubwork in Delta County for the past ten years.

The cast consists of 32 puppets ranging in size from the midget dancers standing three inches tall to the large marionette using a real human head and standing thirty inches tall.

A variety program of farce comedy will be presented. Musical selections and vocal numbers in both Swedish and English language will be rendered. A Punch and Judy play and Jitterbug contest will be featured on the program. 4-H club members will assist in presenting the program.

The puppets made their first appearance at a Christmas program at the Fayette town hall last year and have entertained several audiences since, the last being the Business and Professional Women's club of Escanaba at the Ludington hotel.

The community fair is sponsored by the State 4-H Club Department of Michigan State College of East Lansing. Andrew Skaug, 4-H club leader of Stonington will have charge of the exhibits. The program will be in charge of E. Walfred Granskog.

A small admission fee will be charged. Refreshments will be served after the program. The public is cordially invited to be present.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

Boston—Native Yankee caution never deserts the New Englander. Conditions that would make a midwesterner glow expansively and predict a year of pretty good business will lead the New Englander to admit only that right now things aren't too bad. Then he'll add that he isn't at all sure about next month.

So you can't say business men here are optimistic. They are free-admitting, however, that right now things aren't too bad—and some of them forget to add the gag line about next month.

Which means more than a mere rise from the low of the current depression; for New England had a private depression of its own long before the big 1933 crash took place, and the fact that that depression is pretty well licked now is good news any way you look at it.

TEXTILE PLANTS SHUT DOWN

New England industrialized itself ahead of the rest of the country, and as the rest of the country caught up with it, a lot of New England industries migrated away. This has been most notably true of textiles, but to an extent it has been true in other lines also. All through the early twenties New England's business was going steadily downhill.

In the middle twenties New England started a counter attack. The governors of her six states got together and caused the formation of the New England Council, an advisory and co-ordinating body which was to be, and is, supported by subscriptions sold to business men. Its first president was John S. Lawrence, a former textile manufacturer, and under his guidance the organization went to work.

It tried, first, to get all the data it could on what the problem really was, and next to figure out some solution. The symptoms of the problems were all too visible—empty factories in cities and towns all over the area. A part of the solution seemed to be to persuade industrialists that these factories were still perfectly usable and that New England's supply of skilled labor and her transportation facilities were valuable assets.

Somewhere between 1925 and 1930 the long process of migration was stopped, and since then New England has slowly been winning back the lost ground.

BUILD NEW FACTORIES

During the last three years, for instance, more than 14,000,000 square feet of idle factory space has been returned to active use. In addition, $38,000,000 worth of new factory construction has taken place. A large amount of idle space remains, to be sure, and in some cases empty factories which might still be used are being torn down simply to save taxes and upkeep; but the trend has been reversed, and although today New England shares in the national depression her own private depression is being conquered.

Charles F. Weed, vice president of Boston's First National Bank, and president of the New England Council, says that the present business outlook would be quite satisfactory if two uncertainties could be removed—uncertainty about the European situation, and uncertainty about what the gentleman in the White House is going to do.

It is the latter uncertainty which he considers the more damaging; and he believes that business's objection to the new deal is more a matter of the administration's general attitude than of any specific New Deal act. He does not, for instance, share the rather common New England feeling that the reciprocal trade treaties are damaging to this section.

"They may hurt some particular lines and help others," he remarks. "If they result in greater prosperity for the country as a whole, New England will share in it and be better off."

SERIAL STORY

Murder on the Boardwalk

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS CHRISTINE THORENSEN—came to visit her cousin, found a mystery.

BILL YARDLEY—had a reason for watching Christine. GEORGE WILMET—employed Christine as a Boardwalk artist. CHANDRA—looked into the future—and into the past.

Yesterday, Christine goes to Inspector Parsons, tells him of Chandra and gives him the bonds. Parsons asks another cousin's vision. Jasper might know her captian, if police could find him. "You have already," Christine asserts.

CHAPTER XII

"Jasper," Christine told the inspector very distinctly, "was that beachcomber who got away last night."

For a moment Inspector Parsons simply sat and looked at her. Finally he said softly, almost as if to himself, "I wonder if any policeman ever got the whole truth from any woman at any one time. . . . You said you read that early morning extra, Miss Thorensen. You must have seen the story about the abandoned launch the Coast Guard searched. Suppose I should tell you that, shortly after dark yesterday evening, this Jasper rowed out to that launch and spent some time aboard?"

"Are you telling me that?" "In so many words."

"Then," Christine surprised herself by telling him, "if that launch really had anything to do with the murder, I should say that Jasper would have been too smart to stick his neck out that way if he really murdered my cousin."

"I wonder"—again he seemed to change the subject, but Christine waited warily—"if you were too young to recall the abduction of Mrs. Talbert's nephew, Earl Talbert, about 12 years ago. Whoever engineered that was pretty smart, too. Mrs. Talbert paid a sweet ransom; but the boy was never found."

"I was 10 years old then," Christine said. "Are you suggesting that I had something to do with that, too?" He ignored that.

"This Jasper was employed by Mrs. Talbert at that time, also, wasn't he?" "Ever since I can remember."

"Can you think," he demanded, "of anyone who might have sent that word to the newspaper?" "Not unless that was Jasper, too. . . . But why should he? It puts him on a spot as well as me."

"Any idea where this Jasper is now?" he shot at her. "No."

When, at length, he let her go, Christine went out with her mind whirling. . . . If there were only someone she could talk to—someone who might have some key to this terrifying puzzle!

As if in answer to her need, a girl's voice sounded in her memory—breathless, hurried, frightened—"If there's any trouble, Miss Thorensen, call Main 2079. Ask for—"

On a desperate impulse Christine found a telephone booth, dialed the number, and asked for Lucille. . . . It would be better not to give her own name, she decided; so when a girl's voice answered, she began, feeling her way guardedly, "I wonder if it was you I talked to over the Beachmont exchange night before last. . . . I was to call you, if—"

"Oh, Miss Thorensen, I've been so afraid you wouldn't," the other girl broke in. "And I couldn't think how to get word to you after you left the Crestview."

"Well, I'm calling now," Christine said. "Where can I see you?" "Let me think," the girl hesitated. "It wouldn't do for you to come here. They may be watching the house."

"They? Christine wondered. The girl was going on. "And I'd better not come to your hotel."

"Not if you don't like being watched," Christine told her dryly. "Half the newspaper men in Surf City are probably camped on the porch by this time."

"Could you meet me about 9—"

It will be dark then—outside the Paris Smart Shop?" "How should I know you?" "I'll be window shopping; and I'll wear a dark blue dress with a cherry hat and belt. I'll know you from your pictures in the paper. Don't speak to me; just follow—you know, kind of carelessly—when I move on."

It sounded so incredibly bizarre that Christine opened her mouth to refuse. Then, on one of her unpredictable impulses, she decided, "All right. At 9 then."

"Wait!" the girl called sharply. "You won't—say anything to the police?"

"Of course not," Christine recklessly burned her bridges.

When she came out from the booth, she bought a newspaper. There was, she decided after one glance at the front page, such a thing as being entirely too photogenic. As the girl Lucille had intimated, there could be no mistaking the original of her published pictures. Already people were staring at her. She spent four of her cherished dollars for a wide-brimmed hat and a pair of sun-glasses.

It was already 10:30 when she remembered that she was to meet Mr. Wilmet at that hour.

Christine's confidence in her sketchily assembled disguise was strengthened when Mr. Wilmet, peering anxiously from the drug store, failed to recognize her until she spoke to him.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed, blinking at her. "You've done something to yourself. And a smart idea, too. One of those important reporters followed me two blocks trying to get an interview."

Nevertheless, it occurred to Christine that the little man's sudden notoriety had pleasantly titillated his ego.

He seemed so disappointed when she explained about giving up her work—for she had decided that to go on would be impossible unless she wanted to be hounded by curiosity seekers—that Christine felt sorry for him. So much so that when he asked her almost wistfully to have dinner with him, she answered, "I have an engagement to meet a friend at 9; but I'd like ever so much to have dinner with you, Mr. Wilmet, if you don't mind my running away early."

At first Mr. Wilmet looked crestfallen; then he brightened. "If it's Mr. Yardley you're to meet," he said hopefully, "I just heard them tell him at detective headquarters that they might keep him till late tonight."

"Oh," Christine said blankly, "so you've been to headquarters, too?"

"Inspector Parsons sent for me," Mr. Wilmet admitted. "About not being able to prove where I was last night. As if I wouldn't have sense enough to get an alibi ready before I killed someone. . . . Miss Thorensen, you don't suppose he really thinks I had anything to do with this?"

"Do you—I don't suppose you know what they wanted with Mr. Yardley?" "It was about his keys," Mr. Wilmet told her chattily. He had been afraid, she realized, that she might not ask. "His keys?"

"Yes, I heard one of the detectives ask him how he could explain having a key to Mrs. Talbert's car. The little man fairly glowed with his news. 'He—you aren't dizzy, are you, Miss Thorensen? It is hot.'"

Christine was; but she steadied herself to ask, "What did Mr. Yardley say?"

"He said"—Mr. Wilmet's inflection deplored the filminess of Bill's story—"that he did sit in a parked car near the Boardwalk for a few minutes to wait for someone; but that he didn't know why he had that key, unless it was that when he got out, he forgot the car wasn't his, and seeing a key in the door, just took it out and put it with his others."

Christine stood very still for a moment; but her mind raced, trying to sort and piece together scraps of memory.

Mr. Wilmet was saying insistently, "Shall we say 7, then, at Decker's?"

"Why, I—yes, all right," Christine answered, and moved away, her legs dragging numbly as if in some hideous dream.

If Bill's explanation had sounded pitifully thin even to Mr. Wilmet, how would it sound to Inspector Parsons' case-hardened ear?

The Wishing Well puzzle grid with numbers and letters.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Old Orchard Farm

New Silo Nears Completion

Old Orchard farm's new concrete silo will be fully completed by Monday night and plans are being made to place it in actual use on the following Monday. The last concrete for the walls was poured on Saturday morning and the builders advise allowing it to cure for at least a week before filling operations are started. Old Orchard's field of corn is now in prime condition for conversion into ensilage and just as soon as it will be safe to start filling the silo that job will be undertaken.

The new structure, 16 feet in diameter and rising to a height of 24 feet above the ground, is the product of a crew employed by Henry E. Johnson, of Pound, Wis., one of the leading silo builders of northern Wisconsin. The structure was placed on a concrete and stone foundation four feet under ground and the silo pit extends two feet below the ground's surface. The walls of the silo are six inches in thickness, reinforced with steel, and are guaranteed to stand, without cracking, for many years.

The silo building crew arrived at the farm on Monday night and at the crack of dawn, on Tuesday morning, they were at the job of putting in the foundation. A monster truck load of steel forms, a big concrete mixer and all the equipment needed for modern silo building, accompanied the crew to the farm and from daylight until dark each day that crew really worked. A six foot section of the silo wall was poured each day and at noon yesterday the final course was laid. All of the members of the crew returned to their homes at Pound and Coleman, Wis., to spend Sunday and will return to the farm on Sunday night. On Monday they will pour the concrete couple, with its filling touches on both the silo and the concrete feed room, which connects the silo with the barn.

Electric Fence Effective
All of the field corn at Old Orchard has now progressed to a stage, where it would be harmed but little by an early frost. Both in the section of the field where mature corn is being developed and in the section that was drilled closely in the rows for ensilage, the kernels of corn on the ears are now deeply dented and await only the action of nature to become fully matured. Corn is best suited for cutting for ensilage when it is still green and the kernels on the ears are denting, so that nothing will be allowed to interfere with the beginning of silo filling operations the first of next week.

If anyone doubts the efficacy of an electric fence in turning farm stock, a visit to Old Orchard will be most enlightening. Corn and oats were raised in the same field this year and on Thursday of last week a two wire electric fence was erected around the corn field, to make possible the pasturing of the oats stubble, with its thick growth of young clover. The farm's herd of 24 pigs were turned into the field on Friday, and as the pigs had been running in the barn yard, where a single electric wire had been placed close to the ground, in that enclosure, they needed no further education when they were turned into the field. A few of the most inquisitive animals, took a light sniff at the lower wire, just to test its electric shock qualities, and none of them was disappointed. There was a little squeal and a vigorous twisting of tails as they absorbed the slight flow of electric current through the wire and then they settled down to feeding—but always a safe distance from the wire.

Large Apple Crop
Most of the apples in the farm's two orchards are of the early varieties, of which there is such an abundance at this season of the year it does not pay to pick them, but Old Orchard's apple crop will not be entirely wasted this year. The largest orchard lies down in the oats field and it didn't take the pigs long to find that in addition to rather generous pickings of oats and clover they could have apples for dessert. The ground was literally covered with apples when the pigs first visited the orchard, but the apple crop, formerly almost completely wasted, is fast disappearing and within a few days the pigs will be waiting for apples to drop.

The last picking of raspberries from the farm patch was made last week and within a few days the annual job of cutting out the old canes and thinning the new raspberry shoots, will be started. It is upon the care given a raspberry patch at this season of the year that determines its productivity next season. The job is a tedious one and the work is not easy but if we are going to have raspberries next season, the work must be done now and then will follow cultivation and a generous use of the hoe until late fall.

Ferdinand the bull, who has been a lone wolf ever since he was turned out to pasture in early summer, is beginning to associate with his kind, these days. Earlier he didn't care whether he fed with the sheep, the pigs or the horses—he just wasn't either careful or particular about the company he kept. But these days he's sticking pretty close to the cows, so some hope is beginning to be entertained that he's a lot smarter than he either looks or acts.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN SWENSON

Rites Monday for Pioneer Businessman of City

John Swenson, 85, a resident of Gladstone for over a half century and one of this city's pioneer businessmen, died at his home at 902 Montana avenue late Friday. Death, which was due to complications attendant old age, came after an illness of 10 days.

John was born April 12, 1854 at Fristad, Vastergotland, Sweden, a son of Sven August Olafson and Frederika Aman. He came to the United States in 1886 and to Gladstone in 1888. In that year, in partnership with two other brothers, the late Claus Swenson and Caspar Elquist, city, he helped establish the furniture firm of Swenson Brothers, located then at the corner of Superior avenue and Ninth street. He remained with the firm for 21 years as a partner and worked for his former partners for several years after disposing of his interest.

Since 1915 he has worked as a carpenter, which originally was his trade, and dealt in real estate to some extent.

He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Surviving are four brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Anderson and Mrs. Charles Lundstrom and Caspar Elquist of Gladstone, Emil Elquist of Ellison Bay, Wis., Frank Swenson of Webster, S. D., and Pere Swenson of Fristad, Sweden.

The body was removed to the Swenson Brothers funeral parlors and will be taken to the Noble Swenson home, 902 Dakota avenue, to repose until the hour of last rites.

Private funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home, the Rev. Otto Magnuson, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be made in Fernwood cemetery.

Mrs. H. W. Turner Dies at Stoughton

Mrs. Millie Turner, wife of Herbert W. Turner, former resident of Gladstone, died at her home at Stoughton, Wis., Friday morning, according to word received here yesterday. She had been in failing health for several years.

Mrs. Turner, nee Millie Anderson, was united in marriage to Turner in Feb. of 1937, and was a resident of Gladstone until August of 1938 when Mr. Turner retired from his position as manager of the Railway express office here and removed from Gladstone to his boyhood home at Stoughton.

Funeral rites will be conducted at Stoughton.

Coaling Up the Ol' Bus

Europe has been experimenting for years to find a satisfactory gasoline substitute for its mechanized armies but is still unsuccessful. So if the coal-driven privately-owned automobile above, which is undergoing regular test runs from London to South Wales, a distance of about 160 miles, proves practical, England will be first to have armored cars driven by coal instead of gasoline which, in Britain, costs about forty-five cents a gallon.

Yesterday's Newspaper Boys Are Today's Leaders

All Things Being Equal, There Usually Is A Deciding Factor.

FOR EXAMPLE, two boys graduating from high school or college fill out application forms for a position with an established firm. As the employer closely examines the relative qualifications of the two lads, he sees that "all things seem equal" until he reaches the question "Previous experience?" Here the one boy writes "None" . . . the other one has written "Newspaper Carrier Salesman, 3 years."

Employers, naturally, are in business for ADVANTAGES, so there can be no question about the decision in this case. The boy with the ADVANTAGE, the boy who made excellent use of his spare time to gain a practical and profitable basic business experience now cashes in on his investment.

A keen sense of gratification can be enjoyed by parents who advise and encourage their boys to begin preparing at an early age for the rigors of this ever increasingly competitive business world. There's no use kidding ourselves . . . it's the survival of the fittest. It doesn't help you to envy a man who is successful, enjoying a good income and all the comforts good incomes afford. Don't say, "He's just lucky" or "He got the breaks" . . . chances are he was smart enough or industrious enough to create "the breaks."

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER BOY is laying the very foundation for a successful business or professional career . . . he's creating the "breaks" so that when the time comes to be judged on the basis of "all things being equal" he will have that extra PLUS-advantage to fill in that space "Previous Experience."

Electric Fences Help Halting of Deer Farm Problem

Electrically charged fence has proved partially effective in preventing deer from entering farm fields and damaging crops...

He said experiments with temporary fencing at a test plot near Mio, where deer herds numbering up to 200 had been raiding alfalfa fields, had materially reduced the number of trespassing deer...

Men Work in Shifts Game division men have been working in shifts during feeding periods for the deer, both day and night.

Records are being kept of actual observations and much comprehensive information is being obtained from the experiments.

Stephenson said I. H. Bartlett, deer investigator for the department, reported the best electric barrier used so far is a fence of four strands, spaced 12, 24, 32 and 35 inches from the ground, and topped by a 42-inch width of woven wire.

Need for Patience Comes After Fish Has Been "Hooked"

So many fishermen miss fish which they should land that at the start of the season they should take stock of their deficiencies.

Such explanations as the following are futile: "It is just an off day" (Brother fish must eat. Find out when); or "It lightened and thundered last night."

When a fish strikes on an artificial lure the fisherman should strike back with a quick, hard snap of the wrist to set the hooks.

Modern rods are well built to furnish the proper amount of tension to wear out a fish. If the right amount of pressure is exerted against the fish, it will sap his strength and keep him constantly battling to get free.

Another mistake which many fishermen make is to reel in too rapidly. If possible, the fish should be allowed to make his spectacular runs and jumps at a distance from the boat so that there will be no interference.

When a fish is tired out, he should be kept out from the boat or canoe in landing because he may have that ounce more of fight which will let him bang into the boat or break away, or even to dive under the boat to the sorrow of the angler.

Fish Lure To Come Out In Eight New Patterns In 1940

One of our operatives at the South Bend Bait Co. reports that there will be eight new patterns in that fish-getting little Fish-Obite lure for 1940—in addition to the 14 patterns that proved so popular in the 1939 season.

It has also been reported to us that they have been giving these new patterns some very intensive testing this season before making official announcement of their introduction; they are elated over the results and promise the anglers another revelation in lures for 1940. In fact, these new patterns are available in limited quantities now, we are informed.

State Fishing Fee Is Low, Governor Bought A License

Lansing—A fishing license receipt bearing the name of Luren D. Dickinson is on file with the Michigan department of conservation—the first for a governor in a number of years.

Conservation officials are not certain what governor last took out a license. Only three in the past two decades were known as enthusiastic fishermen or hunters.

And so far as records are concerned, one would have to dig through the stubs of licenses—now about three-quarter million a year—to learn precisely which chief executive bought what type of fishing permit.

Maine Hunters Wage War On Seals Which Infest Coast, Prey On Fish

Valuable Lobster Industry Suffers From Marauders

BY BILL KEAGAN NEA Service Special Correspondent

Boothbay Harbor, Me., Aug. 26.—On the boulder studded islands that rise off Maine's rugged coast and in the yawning mouths of its winding rivers, the ruffles of a rapidly growing army of hunters are roaring a symphony of death through the herds of seals that infest these waters.

Branded as extremely detrimental to both commercial and sport fishing, a law was passed in the legislature last winter placing a bounty of one dollar on every seal killed.

That law went into effect July 21 and now, all along the coast, large numbers of men and boys, some of them Indians, are hunting the carnivorous mammals.

This bounty is collected by cutting off the nose of the seal and presenting it to the nearest town clerk, who is later reimbursed by the Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries.

Commercial fishermen claim the seals destroy tons of food fish and lobsters every year. They warn that unless the mammals are either exterminated or at least greatly reduced in number, the industry will be ruined.

Although they destroy and devour the very valuable lobsters the year 'round, the heaviest kill is made during the moulting season every summer.

During the moulting season when the lobsters shed their shells and take on new ones, large numbers of them are killed and quickly devoured.

At this time of year the lobster crawls into shallow water and under some boulder where the rushes grow thickly, slowly sheds its shell. With its suit of greenish black armor off, the lobster is just a mass of soft, quivering flesh and being absolutely defenseless is easily captured and killed by the seals.

The sport fishermen—those who cast their flys for Atlantic salmon and striped bass in the fresh water rivers—claim that the seals are also killing large numbers of these very game fish. They also claim that the seals prevent many of the salmon and bass from going into the rivers and on to the spawning beds.

During the past few years many salmon and bass taken in the various rivers have been badly gouged by the destructive seals. Some were minus parts of their tails.

Usually quite tame, the seals, now being hunted hard, are very wary and only the craftiest of hunters and the sharpest shooters are able to bag one.

Another thing that makes successful seal hunting difficult, is the fact that when shot and killed, the heavy carcasses sink almost instantly. Only those hunters with fast power boats are able to get most of the seals they kill.

Shore Fisheries, is urging all hunters to bring in the whole carcass instead of just the bewhiskered nose.

Experiments are already underway in hopes that some use can be found for the hides and the very greasy flesh. Commissioner Greenleaf believes the hides might be tanned and used in the manufacture of slippers and the flesh ground into dog food.

Veteran commercial fishermen who have been doing some experimenting on their own, claim the flesh cut into ragged chunks, makes the best lobster bait they have ever used.

KNOW YOUR FIRST AID METHODS

By W. J. Nixon Davis, M. D. People relax during their vacation time and often neglect to be prepared for the injuries and emergencies which are inevitable during the holiday let-down.

Everyone who goes on a camping trip of any kind should have a reasonable amount of first aid materials at hand.

The item which should be placed at the top of the list is 1,500 units of anti-tetanic serum. This may be carried in the syringe in which it is sold by druggists and will keep for several months if placed in a cool spot whenever possible.

Other items which are necessities are two or three yards of sterile gauze, the same amount of three-inch bandages, ten or twenty yards of two or three-inch adhesive tape, a bottle of rubbing alcohol, a bottle of tincture of iodine, Epsom salts, tannic acid, and a pair of wire cutting forceps.

When a fish strikes on an artificial lure the fisherman should strike back with a quick, hard snap of the wrist to set the hooks.

Modern rods are well built to furnish the proper amount of tension to wear out a fish. If the right amount of pressure is exerted against the fish, it will sap his strength and keep him constantly battling to get free.

Another mistake which many fishermen make is to reel in too rapidly. If possible, the fish should be allowed to make his spectacular runs and jumps at a distance from the boat so that there will be no interference.

When a fish is tired out, he should be kept out from the boat or canoe in landing because he may have that ounce more of fight which will let him bang into the boat or break away, or even to dive under the boat to the sorrow of the angler.

Community Forest Can Result In Big Tax Money Savings

By JACK THOMPSON AP Feature Service Writer Washington — Taxes in your community too high?

Let trees help pay 'em. Scores of European communities have been doing that for years.

Now the community forest idea is catching on in the U. S. Fifteen hundred cities, towns, villages, counties, school districts, churches, townships now own three million acres of forests. New ones by the dozens are being reported to the Forest Service.

Provide Play And Jobs Sale of timber, pulpwood, fuel, Christmas trees, nuts, maple syrup helps fill community coffers.

Besides, the forests make new playgrounds, game and fish preserves, protect city watersheds, provide employment.

From Europe come reports that the forest of Orson, Sweden, earns enough to pay all local taxes and provide free street car and telephone service.

Such famous forests as that at Heidelberg, the Black Forest in Germany, and those at Versailles and Fontainebleau in France, net $3 or more an acre every year.

The oldest community forest in America at Newington, N. H., dates from 1710. Records since 1822 show that forest has provided fuel for the poor, the church, the town hall and the school plus $5,238.41 in cash used to help pay an old debt.

Improve village buildings and help toward payments on the library and a new school.

Seattle Has Largest The largest municipal forest in the United States, owned by Seattle, covers about 67,000 acres of watershed. The city has sold more than a million dollars worth of timber, more than the initial cost of the land and trees.

Of course, a new forest won't contribute to a community budget right off the bat. It may take 15 to 50 years. Wisconsin has solved this problem by paying ten cents an acre a year to the county owning the forest until the forest comes into production.

Then the state gets its money back through a severance tax as the timber is cut.

Now 25 Wisconsin counties have 1,700,000 acres in forest on which they have planted about 35,000,000 trees. New York reports the largest number of community forests of any state, 573 forests covering about 150,000 acres.

Other community forests are reported in New Jersey, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New England, and elsewhere.

About a third of the New England community forests have been gifts, another third were acquired through tax delinquency, the rest by purchase.

"It doesn't take much money to start a community forest," says F. A. Slocum, chief of the U. S. Forest Service. "Most community forests can be developed on cheap land, and there are millions of acres of tax-delinquent land that can be put to work growing trees."

"One of the great values of community forests," he says, "is the opportunities they afford for replacing a public dole by worth while work."

Town forests in Massachusetts, for example, have provided a million man-hours of work for relief labor in the last few years. The men thin and prune trees, cut fuel, plant young trees.

"GLASSES" GIVE HUNTER HELP

Allow Spotting Game At Distance, Furnish Added Pleasure

BY JACK RYAN

Maybe it's because Gus Ingersoll is a nut on binoculars and scopes as well as guns that so many hunters ask him what good they are in this or that situation.

"How do they help with duck or 'wild geese' somebody will ask. And he'll get off a little personal illustration.

"Well, I was up in the Caribou country two years ago with two pals. We were stealing along a pastured ridge overlooking a wide, meadowy plain that merged into the dry mud margins of a three-mile lake. We heard the electric honk of a goose from somewhere. I unslung my 7x50 binoculars to study the whole expanse before us.

"Now it's a curious thing that many hunters who will not deign to carry glasses are invariably anxious to relieve you of them when there is anything to be seen. My glasses went the rounds like a noggin of Scotch.

"Somewhere in front of that faded, grassy margin down there, just high enough to shelter a lean man, a big flock of honkers were sunning themselves and nibbling well back from the water's edge. I should think they were easily from 500 to 700 yards away. The old 7x50 showed them plainly waddling in and out of the grass. They were not hazy blobs but sharply cut figures whose motions were easily visible.

"Unfortunately our 12-gauge glasses wouldn't carry as far as the glasses so we started to play Indians with these birds, working around toward them by taking such cover as was available. We had arrived at a small cover of dwarf birch, probably 200 yards away, when there was a roar of wings and a clamor of protesting throats as the whole flock quit the shore-line and headed for the other end of the lake.

"Although we bagged four geese that day, half of my pleasure came in watching them from all sorts of vantage with my glasses. And I noticed that my buddies watched just as eagerly through the 7x50's, describing every move and guessing at the weights of some of the prizes for which their mouths watered.

Watch Glasses "The next day we sat in blinds of dead sedges. One man would do a stalk for the other two while we watched through the glasses to see what tack the geese were taking. Seldom if ever did they fly over us. They paid no attention to decoys whatever.

"You can say what you please," said Gus, "but a man misses a lot of the fun of watching wildlife when he leaves binoculars behind. You can't get a shot every minute or sometimes one an hour, but there's nothing to stop you from seeing what is going on whether you get a shot or not.

"The 7x50's suit me fine. They have a relative brightness of 50.4 and a linear field of 381 feet at 1,000 yards. I like the extra light-gathering ability of the 50's as against the 35's. The other day I bought a pair of the little 3-power Balars, a nifty little glass if ever I saw one. Not so good maybe for hunting as the bigger glasses, but they can be slipped in a vest pocket and carted along with ease on account of their rectangular shape.

"I took them to some field trials for shooting dogs a few weeks ago, and I was all over the 200-acre stubble field right along with the dogs. I could see a false point, gun-shyness, cut-backs, and I saw good bird sense and good handling when nobody around me could see.

"When you're in the field, you want to see as far as possible and as much as possible. I figure a good glass—and I need only one in a lifetime—is a big part of the fun in hunting." Copyright 1939, North American Sportsman's Bureau, Inc.

Anglers from all over Michigan and several bordering states are finding lake trolling a thrilling sport. It carries plenty of lure to the angler who likes fish-fighting, as the average trout hooked is five or six pounds and can weigh, according to championship records, as much as 43 pounds.

The sport can be enjoyed at comparatively low cost, officials stated, inasmuch as boats and equipment usually are rented by parties of several persons dividing expenses. Besides fishing possibilities, parties find the lake cruises a diverting family group.

Trolling for Mackinac or lake trout on the Great Lakes is prohibited in Lake Huron during the month of October, in Lake Superior from October 10 to November 4, and in Lake Michigan from October 10 to November 10, during which time lake trout may not be taken in any manner.

"Deep-Sea" Trolling Interest Increases Close Season Near

Lansing—"Deep sea" trolling for Mackinaw or lake trout in waters of the Great Lakes off northern Michigan coastlines is winning greater popularity among anglers.

Reports to the fish division of the department of conservation indicate this, and it is reflected in the number of sport trolling licenses issued to date by the department.

In the first five weeks of the 1939-40 season approximately the same number of licenses were issued to operators of trolling boats as were certified in the entire previous season. By August 8 there had been 33 licenses for the new season, as compared with 34 for the season which ended June 30.

From a tabulation prepared by the fish division showing the residence of trolling boat proprietors, it is indicated that the business of renting out boats and tackle for the pursuit of lake trout is centered in Grand Traverse bay waters and in the western part of Lake Superior.

New attention is being given the sport, however, in Lake Superior waters off the shore of the

50,000 VISITORS AT BIG SPRING

1939 Record Already In Excess of Total for Last Season

Attendance at Kitchi-tiki-pi Spring for the current season passed 50,000 this week. It was announced yesterday by the caretaker. This exceeds the total for the 1938 season, when attendance was 48,000.

The highest total attendance for the summer season at the spring was made in 1937 when attendance reached the peak of 63,000. It is likely that this year's official attendance will approach or exceed that mark, however, since attendance has been steadily climbing in recent weeks and the heavy Labor Day weekend will be an important factor.

That actual unofficial attendance at the Big Spring for 1939 will exceed any previous year is probable since the attendance figures were not taken prior to June 15 this year, whereas in former years the park was officially opened on May 15. The total of 50,000 is only for the period since June 15, but many thousands of persons visited the beauty spot prior to that time.

CAR HITS TREE; DRIVER INJURED

Nels Larson, 32, of Newberry, Victim of Mishap

Nels Larson, 32, of Newberry, was seriously injured when his automobile crashed into a tree a half mile west of Blaney on US-2 Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

State police from the Manistique post investigated the crash and yesterday indicated a warrant would be issued against Larson on a charge of drunken driving.

State police reported Larson's car which was travelling east swerved off the highway to the left and then swerved back across the road to the right, toppling over before it struck a tree 10 yards off the highway. The top of the car collided with the tree and Larson was pinned in the car. After smashing into the tree, the car rolled 24 yards.

Larson was extricated from the machine and brought to the Shaw hospital in Manistique by ambulance.

The extent of his injuries could not be determined immediately because of his condition but he was suffering severely from shock and a back injury, which doctors indicated may be a fracture.

State police reported Larson apparently was alone at the time

LOCALS GO TO IRON MOUNTAIN

Boys Heartened By Win Over Colored Team During Week

Heartened by their victory over the New Orleans Crecents, the Escanaba baseball team will travel to Iron Mountain today to meet the Twins in a Northern Michigan Wisconsin league game.

The locals are pretty much out of the running for championship contenders, largely because of the loss of their last three games.

It is expected that Cliff Oseen will draw the starting assignment for the locals this afternoon.

The Twins are playing a doubleheader over the week-end, having met South Range yesterday.

After Sunday the Twins have only one more scheduled game—with Crystal Falls here Labor Day. They are open September 3.

Attempt to Break Three Game Losing Streak This Afternoon

Determined to break their losing streak, which has extended three games, the Escanaba Eagles will travel to Munising this afternoon.

The Eagles were riding gaily on the crest of the league standings until their march was rudely interrupted a month ago.

The locals have been especially effective against Munising this year and they hope to be able to get back into the win column today in the Alger county community.

It is expected that Manager George Williams will call on Benny Greenless for mound duty.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

BRUNELLE HAS LIKELY OUTFIT

Squad Shaping Up Well; Named Rams; Play September 10

Approximately 30 graduates of Escanaba and St. Joseph high schools, at least four of whom have had college or university experience, are working out three times weekly under the direction of Leo Brunelle in preparation for the first independent football game of the season here September 10.

The team, which has been named Rams, is practicing on Monday nights. Most sessions to date have been routine conditioning practices and the fellows are rapidly rounding into playing shape.

Among those who have reported for duty thus far are: D. Chase, Tom Harvey, Fryal, Wolfe, W. Wilson, and A. Nicholson.

The schedule will follow: Sept. 10, Manistique; Sept. 19, Newberry; Sept. 24, at Soo; Oct. 1, Iron Mountain; Oct. 8, Manistique; Oct. 15, Iron Mountain; Oct. 22, Newberry and Oct. 29 at Soo.

Cleveland, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Indians chalked up their fourth victory in three days over Philadelphia, 7 to 5, today, the Athletics donating three runs on two eighth inning errors.

The Mackmen held a 5-to-4 margin entering that inning. Hal Trosky doubled and Jeff Heath walked, then pitcher Nelson Potter was replaced by Henry Phippen.

Play will start at 9:30 this morning with lunch at noon and another round of play in the afternoon.

College All-Stars Preview In Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP)—Sid Luckman, Vic Bottari and Billy Patterson—three of 1938's most celebrated backfield stars—showed how they got that way today in the college all-stars' final scrimmage before their charity game with the New York Giants.

The "first team," designated as such by the coaching staff although it is not the starting lineup against the Giants, was composed of Bill Daddio, Pittsburgh, and Waddy Young, Oklahoma.

The starting lineup, however, was determined by the fans, players receiving the most votes in a nationwide poll automatically being in the "Blue" to a 10-0 victory in one of the two games played under a broiling sun.

Luckman and Bottari carried the "Blue" to a 10-0 victory in one of the two games played under a broiling sun.

In the second game another pair of teams battled to a 7-7 tie, Patterson, the Baylor star, intercepted a pass and ran 72 yards for one touchdown.

The scores were 5 to 2 and 6 to 1.

Walters and Luke Hamlin, the Dodger ace, engaged in a fancy hurling duel in the opener.

Hamlin gave only two hits until the eighth. Then an error by Babe Phelps, a walk and a single by Walters filled the bases and set the stage for a five-run rally that won the game.

John Niggeling, who had won two starts and lost none since joining the Reds two weeks ago, started the second game and was shelled out in the third inning.

FLIVERS HAVE SMALL OUTFIT

Vic Wojcikowski Finds Tough Sledding With Gridders

Kingsford, Aug. 26.—A "light and inexperienced" Kingsford high school football team was forecast today by Coach Victor Wojcikowski, who, with his new assistant, Walter Schrader, has been drilling a squad of about 75 candidates since Tuesday.

There's no "bear" story connected with Coach Wojcikowski's outlook on the Flivver grid possibilities. Out of the entire crop of 75 aspirants, only four are returning lettermen from last year's squad.

The scores were 5 to 2 and 6 to 1.

REDS SPLIT UP WITH DODGERS

Brooklyn Takes Second Contest, 6-1, Loses Opener 5 to 2

Brooklyn, Aug. 26 (AP)—A lucky pitching performance by Buckie Walters helped the Cincinnati Reds establish a partial guarantee today against the plague of the Dodgers, but they dropped the second game of a doubleheader and a full game of their National League lead.

The scores were 5 to 2 and 6 to 1.

Walters and Luke Hamlin, the Dodger ace, engaged in a fancy hurling duel in the opener.

Hamlin gave only two hits until the eighth. Then an error by Babe Phelps, a walk and a single by Walters filled the bases and set the stage for a five-run rally that won the game.

John Niggeling, who had won two starts and lost none since joining the Reds two weeks ago, started the second game and was shelled out in the third inning.

CITY TOURNEY STARTS SEPT. 3

Softball Meet Drawings Held; Results of Week Given

The annual city softball tournament for possession of the rotating trophy now held by Stoves of last year will begin Monday with semi-finals and finals to be played Sunday, Sept. 3.

The Stoves of last year are the Taverns who are not given any better than an even chance to repeat although the luck of the draw was very distinctly in their favor.

The complete schedule for the week is as follows: Monday, Pearsons vs. Eskys, No. 1; Fords vs. Fair, No. 2; Paper Mill vs. Spartans, No. 4; Tuesday, Elks vs. Midway Lanch, No. 1; Loans vs. Red Ribbons, No. 2; St. Ann's vs. Sherman Hotel, No. 4; Wednesday, Taverns vs. Ritchies, No. 4; Thursday, CYO vs. winner of Elks and Midways, No. 1; Winner of Taverns and Ritchies vs. winner of St. Ann's and Sherman, No. 2; winner of Loans and Red Ribbons vs. winner of Paper Mill and Spartans, No. 4. Semi finals Sunday. Winners of games of No. 2 and 3 and winners of games on No. 1 and 4.

French and Page Turn Trick On Boston In Twin Bill

Boston, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs continued their late season surge today by sweeping a doubleheader from the Boston Bees by identical scores of 8 to 1. The double victory gave the Cubs a record of 13 triumphs in their last seventeen games.

Larry French outpawped the Bees into submission with eight hits in the first contest while the Cubs combed Lou Pette and Dick Erickson for twelve hits, one of them Hank Leiber's fourteenth homer of the season.

Vance Page went French one better in the nightcap, allowing only seven hits while chalking up his sixth victory. The Cubs made 13 hits off three Boston pitchers.

TIGERS SWEEP 3-TILT SERIES

Final Game Taken From Senators, 6-3, With McKain Pitching

Detroit, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers bunched their hits today to beat the Washington Senators, 6 to 3, and sweep the three game series.

Joe Krakauskas started on the mound for Washington and retired the first twelve batters to face him.

Charlie Gehringer hit his thirteenth home run of the season with the bases empty in the eighth off Alexandra Carrasquel, who finished for the Nats after Krakauskas was lifted for a pinch triple by Roberto Estalella and Mickey Vernon topped the Senators' attack.

CHISOX CLEAN UP ON BOSTON

Chicago Sweeps Series, Annexes Last Contest By 5-4 Score

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP)—The surprising Chicago White Sox squeaked Boston's dangerous ninth inning rally just in time today, retiring the side with the tying and winning Red Sox runs on base for a 5 to 4 victory.

It was the White Sox' third straight over Boston and their 10th decision in their last 13 games.

Boston knocked starting pitcher Bill Dietrich and Johnny Marcum out of the box in a two-run uprising in the sixth but Clint Brown, making his 50th relief appearance of the season, put out the fire and held the visitors runless thereafter.

STOCKS FINISH NERVOUS WEEK

BY FREDERICK GARDNER New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—Financial markets today finished a tense week with a further revival of price hopes sufficient to push up prices in all categories.

Stock leaders extended Friday's brisk rally by 1 to more than 3 points, while U. S. government securities, corporate loans and many foreign bonds put on a recovery show.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added .9 of a point to its 1-point jump of the preceding session and, at 47.3, was up .3 of a point on the week, first advance after four consecutive weeks' declines.

Among the day's principal share gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, General Electric, Great Northern, Union Carbide, American Telephone, American Water Works, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, Eastman Kodak, Loft, Anacosta, Phelps Dodge and Standard Oil of N. J.

The markets had plenty of good domestic news to go on. Steel operations, while easing in some other sections, were scheduled to advance at Pittsburgh next week to the highest mark since October, 1937.

Rising automobile production and sales, mounting carloadings and another year-to-year increase in department store sales throughout the country were seen as bullish straws in the wind.

A stock exchange seat changed hands for $60,000, up $3,000 from a transaction on August 9.

Higher by fractions to more than a point in the curb were American Cyanamid "B," Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and International Petroleum. Aluminum Co. shot up 6 1/2. Turnover of 60,000 shares was the best Saturday in a month and compared with 52,000 a week ago.

'Polio' Postpones Opening of Schools In Detroit 2 Weeks

Because of the epidemic of infantile paralysis, public and parochial schools of Detroit will not open until Sept. 18, almost two weeks later than usual.

E. E. Prime, Detroit, president of the Michigan Commercial Secretaries association, asks in a letter to the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce that Detroit vacationists in this region be notified of the postponement of the school opening.

It is felt that vacationing families would do well to extend their stay away from Detroit until the epidemic has subsided.

Mr. Prime asked the Chamber of Commerce to send a bulletin to hotel and resort managers, asking them to call attention personally to the Detroit epidemic to parents of children who are now guests.

Canada Helps U. S. Protect Wildfowl

JOINT efforts of sportsmen in United States and Canada to check the alarming decrease in the number of game birds are taking effect. The 1939 hunting season will see the greatest southward flight of ducks in six years—proof that conservation programs are getting results.

Completion of three major sanctuaries in the prairie provinces of Canada has been announced by Ducks Unlimited, Inc., an organization of sportsmen operating in Canada and United States.

Three more similar preserves will provide a total of 763,000 acres of lake, marsh and swamp land for summer nesting places.

Alliance Committee Plans Wide Demands For U. P. Meeting

With a program based on the presentation by a state executive committee of the Workers' Alliance union of demands covering almost every phase of the present W. P. A. and relief controversies, the first U. P. "Right-to-Work Conference" will convene this morning at 9 o'clock under the direction of various peninsula, state and national officers of the Alliance.

Among those present will be Herbert Benjamin, national secretary-treasurer of the Workers' Alliance, Wayne Adams, state secretary, Frank Ingram, state secretary, and state executive board members Matt Wald, Detroit; Wallace Slocum, Flint; E. Ingram, Lansing; Alex Walker, Manistiquette, John Spiegel, Toivola (Ontonagon county), Harold Hoffman, Wakefield and Julius Carlson, Escanaba, representing Delta county temporarily, pending recommendation by U. P. locals for a permanent representative.

The keynote of the conference, according to Frank Ingram, state Alliance secretary, is to "organize the unorganized in the upper peninsula." There is, he said, to be special emphasis placed upon the organization among the unemployed who "make up the largest single section of the U. P. population."

Mayor to Speak

Among possible speakers for the conference are the following local men: City Councilmen Charles Gallagher, Mayor of Escanaba Peter Logan, Prosecuting Attorney William J. Miller and Major Fritz Nelson of the Escanaba Salvation Army.

The Workers' Alliance, according to Ingram, now has local unions in 10 out of 15 upper peninsula counties and they intend to "soon make it 100%." The state organization, he says, has 72 locals, which extend across the state from Calumet and Ahmeek in the northwest to Benton Harbor and Gallien in the southwest, to Monroe and Lambertville in the southeast and to Sault Ste. Marie in the northeast.

Representatives of the Workers' Alliance and other trade unions, principally in the U. P., business men and city officials and the general public are invited to the meeting, the members of the committee say, and delegates from fraternal organizations will be welcome.

Actions and recommendations of the state executive board mentioned above, which met Friday and Saturday, were listed by Frank Ingram, state secretary of the organization as follows:

Ask End of Layoffs

The Workers' Alliance: "1. Demand an immediate program of action to stop W. P. A. layoffs.

"2. Demand immediate and adequate relief for all those laid off.

"3. Demand that those laid off under the 30-day clause shall be given priority for reassignment."

On the question of wages they take the following stand: They "welcome the small increase that the majority of U. P. workers have received by the recent revision in rates." This, they say, is in direct line with what the Workers' Alliance has fought for.

They "protest unfair differentials between counties as not truly based on cost of living, as provided by the W. P. A. act itself."

They "contend that the wages as in line with the cost of living in the U. P. should be revised upward." They further will propose, they say, widespread circulation of petitions in the U. P. for public hearing on living costs with a view toward obtaining upward revision.

"Condemns Governor's Policy"

In the matter of direct relief they go on record as "condemning the 'starvation relief policy' of mittee outlined the following program:

"1. Delegation of unemployed to go to relief stations to demand immediate reinstatement and re-certification for W. P. A. work.

"2. Same delegation to go to W. P. A. offices to demand immediate reassignment to W. P. A. of men laid off under the 30-day clause.

"3. Mass delegation to go to the city council and county boards to demand appropriation of additional relief funds to take care of the increased relief load due to W. P. A. layoffs.

"4. A big, massed job-hunt on September 11 to expose the fraudulent statement by reactionaries that jobs are available."

"It is also the hope of the committee," said Ingram, "that U. P. delegates to the conference will set up a U. P. coordinating committee to carry on organization work among the unemployed and W. P. A. workers."

In conclusion, he added, "The conference will take up the question of a broad, long-term program for rehabilitation and recovery in the U. P. to once again give the people jobs and security, hope and happiness."

Announce Civil Service Exams

Notification was received yesterday by the Delta county clerk from the Michigan Civil Service commission of examinations for cartographic engineering draftsmen to be held here on September 16, and examinations for prison guards, Class A 2.

The examinations for draftsmen are divided into classes A one and two and will be held in Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie and Houghton in addition to Escanaba. Persons desiring to take the tests must file application not later than September 6.

Applications of those desiring to take the examination for prison guards must be filed not later than September 4. The time of this examination will be announced later.

In accordance with the Civil Service act the examination will be held at the state prison at Jackson, the Michigan reformatory at Ionia and the state house of corrections and branch prison at Marquette.

The Civil Service act provides that all positions in any state institution shall, in case of vacancy, be filled from eligible registers made for the institution only and by giving of examinations at the said institution.

The purpose of the act is that vacancies shall be filled, so far as is practicable, by residents from that part of the state in which the institution is located.

Gasoline taxes represent an average of approximately 25 per cent of each state's revenue.

SCHOOLS OPEN ON WEDNESDAY

Six New Teachers Will Appear On Faculty At Munising

Munising, Aug. 26.—Munising township school students will start work again here on Wednesday morning, September 6. The opening date is set one day later than that following Labor Day to avoid increasing traffic during this holiday for students returning to their homes and school. Labor Day has been one of the record accident periods on the highways.

Six new teachers will appear on the school faculty. Miss Esther Kemp will be replaced by Arthur Carlson of Ironwood, who is a graduate of Northern State Teachers and the University of Michigan. He has been teaching for several years at Trout Creek.

Miss Louise Sibley of the Lincoln school will be replaced by Miss Mary Harvey of Iron Mountain, a graduate of the Northern State Teachers college and a resident of Ne-gaunee.

Miss Irene Hedman, who taught last year at the Shingleton school, will take the place of Miss Eloise Brewer at the Washington school.

In the Mather elementary grades, Miss Alice Jaaksi of Ishpeming will take the position vacated by Miss Aili Skytta. Miss Hedman's position at Shingleton will be filled by Miss Norma Arola of Republic, who took her training at Northern State Teachers college. Veri Willis of Palmer and a graduate of the Northern State Teachers college will replace Miss Clara Nordstrom at the Wetmore school.

Transportation arrangements for the pupils have also been completed. A new group of pupils residing between Doty and Wet-

Township Schools Short On Revenue

Munising, Aug. 26.—"Unless some unforeseen source of revenue develops, the income of the Munising township schools will be insufficient to meet the costs of operation for the year," H. A. Wood, superintendent of schools, stated here today.

"Last year the operation costs in the Munising township schools were greater than the income. This difference was offset by a cash balance on hand at the beginning of the year. The schools are starting now without any funds and unless some unforeseen source of revenue develops, the income will not be sufficient to meet operating needs," he said.

NEW BAR OPENED

Munising, Aug. 26.—Leach's new bar and cocktail lounge on Munising avenue opened on Thursday and crowds thronged the building on the opening evening. Located in the Sharkey building on Munising avenue, the quarters were completely remodeled for occupancy by the bar. Equipment which was to be used in the new bar was moved from the old location of Leach's tavern on Elk avenue to the new quarters on Wednesday.

Cushioned booths, in addition to the bar and tables, are provided for the accommodation of patrons. A forty-foot-bar of dark mahogany has been installed in the building and space is available for dancing.

Symons Are Back From Trip Abroad

Munising, Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Symon returned on Friday from a ten weeks' tour of the European continent and England and Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Symon landed at New York on August 17 from the S. S. Manhattan. The two made the tour by tandem bicycle as a part of their wedding trip. They will reside on Cherry street here.

RAPPERT-ST. MARTIN

Munising, Aug. 26.—Miss Esther Rappert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rappert, became the bride of Merle St. Martin of Munising at a nuptial high mass at 8 o'clock this morning in the Sacred Heart church. The Rev. Fr. Ovid J. LaMothe officiated.

HARRISBURG C-C TO CRUISE HERE

Secretary to Come Here to Make Plans for 1940 Visit

Members of the Harrisburg, Pa., Chamber of Commerce are planning to take a lake cruise from Buffalo to Escanaba in 1940, according to a letter received by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Daniel N. Casey, secretary of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce, will be in Escanaba Wednesday, Aug. 30, to make local arrangements for the cruise.

Escanaba entertained the Detroit Board of Commerce cruise party this year.

Horse meat can be sold only in special shops in Holland. National laws make it illegal to sell it in shops were beef, pork or mutton is purveyed.

Miss Rose Rappert, sister of the bride, and Clayton St. Martin, brother of the groom, attended the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. St. Martin will reside here.

Among those present will be Herbert Benjamin, national secretary-treasurer of the Workers' Alliance, Wayne Adams, state secretary, Frank Ingram, state secretary, and state executive board members Matt Wald, Detroit; Wallace Slocum, Flint; E. Ingram, Lansing; Alex Walker, Manistiquette, John Spiegel, Toivola (Ontonagon county), Harold Hoffman, Wakefield and Julius Carlson, Escanaba, representing Delta county temporarily, pending recommendation by U. P. locals for a permanent representative.

The keynote of the conference, according to Frank Ingram, state Alliance secretary, is to "organize the unorganized in the upper peninsula." There is, he said, to be special emphasis placed upon the organization among the unemployed who "make up the largest single section of the U. P. population."

Mayor to Speak

Among possible speakers for the conference are the following local men: City Councilmen Charles Gallagher, Mayor of Escanaba Peter Logan, Prosecuting Attorney William J. Miller and Major Fritz Nelson of the Escanaba Salvation Army.

The Workers' Alliance, according to Ingram, now has local unions in 10 out of 15 upper peninsula counties and they intend to "soon make it 100%." The state organization, he says, has 72 locals, which extend across the state from Calumet and Ahmeek in the northwest to Benton Harbor and Gallien in the southwest, to Monroe and Lambertville in the southeast and to Sault Ste. Marie in the northeast.

Representatives of the Workers' Alliance and other trade unions, principally in the U. P., business men and city officials and the general public are invited to the meeting, the members of the committee say, and delegates from fraternal organizations will be welcome.

Actions and recommendations of the state executive board mentioned above, which met Friday and Saturday, were listed by Frank Ingram, state secretary of the organization as follows:

Ask End of Layoffs

The Workers' Alliance: "1. Demand an immediate program of action to stop W. P. A. layoffs.

"2. Demand immediate and adequate relief for all those laid off.

"3. Demand that those laid off under the 30-day clause shall be given priority for reassignment."

On the question of wages they take the following stand: They "welcome the small increase that the majority of U. P. workers have received by the recent revision in rates." This, they say, is in direct line with what the Workers' Alliance has fought for.

They "protest unfair differentials between counties as not truly based on cost of living, as provided by the W. P. A. act itself."

They "contend that the wages as in line with the cost of living in the U. P. should be revised upward." They further will propose, they say, widespread circulation of petitions in the U. P. for public hearing on living costs with a view toward obtaining upward revision.

"Condemns Governor's Policy"

In the matter of direct relief they go on record as "condemning the 'starvation relief policy' of
