TENSION IS EASED IN LOWLAND NATIONS

(By The Associated Press) Moscow—Russia claims Finland with recalcitrance in month-long negotiations, says Finns increased armed forces "overhanging Leningrad."

READY FOR ACTION

Military experts, however, have been disposed to discount the likelihood of a German attack on either end of the line this winter, unless desperation or political considerations force action. Yet the information gathered not only by allied air scouting and patrol actions but by neutral onlookers pictures the armed might of German massed for action.

Millions In Army

From Belgium and Holland has come word from neutral observers that another 500,000 Nazi picked men are lined up along those neutral frontiers. That makes at least 2,000,000 first line German troops disposed along the whole front of possible action.

TRUCKS HALTED AT STATE LINE

Christmas Tree Business Hard Hit By New Regulation

Menominee — The Michigan-Wisconsin interstate border "truck war" continued unabated today in Menominee and Marinette counties, with Wisconsin trucks being halted in Michigan, and Michigan trucks halted in Wisconsin.

About three weeks ago investigators for the Michigan department of state started halting Wisconsin trucks here which did not have Michigan plates. The truckers were told they had to have Michigan plates to operate in this state. More than $3,000 had been collected so far at the branch office of the department here from Wisconsin truckers buying Michigan plates.

Marinette county highway police on orders from George Rickmann, commissioner of the Wisconsin vehicle department, last week started halting Michigan trucks in Marinette county.

No arrests have been made on either side of the river.

Hits Xmas Tree Trade
Christmas tree trucking south out of Menominee county and the upper Peninsula has been hard hit by the new order requiring the truckers to purchase both Michigan and Wisconsin plates. Christmas trees are now being cut in the county but the cutters report that this year they are planning to ship by rail instead of truck.

The trucking of evergreen boughs has been curtailed by the new order. Last week five and six truckloads of boughs were passing southward through Menominee each day. This week the traffic has dropped to one or two truckloads a day.

Possibility that some reciprocal agreement will be reached between Michigan and Wisconsin has been voiced by Claude Johnson, Marinette county highway officer. Johnson said that he expected an announcement from the Wisconsin motor vehicle department by today.

Ervin Hassell, Menominee, investigator for the Michigan department of state, said the responsibility for the situation rests with Wisconsin legislature's failure to adopt a reciprocity agreement with Michigan. Officer Johnson of Marinette denies that Wisconsin is responsible, says that the trouble started when Michigan began halting Wisconsin trucks.

Old Orchard Farm

Caretaker's House To Be Moved

Old Orchard farm is just about as well prepared for winter as any farm can be, but like most farms there's still a lot of work to do. All of the field work for the season is entirely finished—all of the stock is under cover and the hay-loft and the granaries are loaded with winter stock feed, so on the surface it would look as though everyone out at Old Orchard should be happy at the prospect of an easy and comfortable winter.

But that isn't entirely true, for Old Orchard is running pretty close to regular farm form, in that it has given first and foremost thought to the care and comfort of the farm's livestock, without taking into account the needs of the human beings on the farm. Most people who travel through the country probably have noticed that on the places of most good farmers there will be found a big and comfortable barn and necessary buildings for the livestock, while the farmer himself, lives in the most any kind of shack until he can afford to build a real farm home.

And that is just about what has happened out at Old Orchard. The time has come when Jimmie Leach, caretaker at the farm, and his sister, have simply got to have a better place in which to live. The present caretaker's house was built for the needs of a bachelor, when old George Mebbins came to Old Orchard as the first resident foreman. And when George decided the job was getting a little too heavy for him, Carl Sjodin, young bachelor, moved in. And then when Carl came down with an attack of erysipelas early last February, and it looked as though he would have to be a hospital patient for several weeks, in the emergency Jimmie Leach and his sister moved over to the farm and they have been getting along in their cramped quarters ever since. And with a long winter ahead, they simply must have more room.

Berry Bushes Taken Up
It was first planned to build an addition to the present house in its old location, but it was finally decided that the logical place for the caretaker's home would be down close to the farm entrance. So a corner of the berry patch, on the immediate west side of the farm gate, is where Jimmie will be found when the house-moving and addition building operations are completed. The raspberry bushes that stood in what will be the caretaker's yard were taken up and re-set temporarily and in the spring, they will be given a place on the extreme west side of the present berry patch. All of the top soil in the location was scraped off and placed in a long pile, to be again used as surface soil for the yard, when the basement walls and necessary filling work is finished. The trenches for the concrete footings have been dug and if and when the weather moderates a little Sam Mills will get his crew of concrete workers on the job.

The location picked for the caretaker's house looks very low, but when Sam Mills set up his transit on Friday, it was found there was a four and a half foot drop to a drainage culvert twenty rods eastward, so drainage will be possible. Whether or not Old Orchard will have to pay a penalty for being the first farm in Delta county to set its road fences back to the legal line, remains to be determined. For when the road in front of the farm was widened and hard surfaced, the old drainage ditch was filled in and, at present, there is no drainage from the farm gate eastward to the county's established drainage system. The matter has been taken up with the county highway department and some solution of the problem may be reached. In fairness to the highway department it should be mentioned here that the reason a new drainage ditch was not provided at this point was because it would be necessary to destroy several fine elm trees, now growing between the fence line and the highway and at that time the manager of Old Orchard felt he would rather have the trees than a ditch. He hasn't changed his mind about the trees, but there's no law against putting the ditch inside the fence, along the edge of the garden and an adjoining field, to a point where it would connect with the regular drainage system.

Fodder in Barn
With the last of the field corn husked a week ago, the farm crew last Tuesday finished the work of hauling the corn top fodder to the barn, where it has been stored to be fed to the sheep during the winter. This fodder is made up of the portion of the cornstalk above the ear, which was cut off and tied up in bundles and shocked early in September, before the first frost. In reality this is the best part of the corn stalk for stock feed and the remainder of the stalk is left in the field, to serve as winter pasture. The farm's flock of sheep has been having a great time in the corn field, ever since the fodder was hauled off and the dairy cows browse on the corn leaves and the ears of corn, missed by the huskers, whenever the weather is warm enough for them to be allowed out of the stable. The two OIC sows, perfect sisters and real chums, also wander down into the field, whether the weather is fair or foul, to pick up stray ears and the kernels, shelled from the cobs in husking.

So, outside the building operations, one day will be much like another out at Old Orchard until spring comes. But Jimmie and Ellen will have a new home by Christmas time, if everything goes well.

DELFT 25th Anniversary

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, on November 16, 1914, the Delft Theatre was formally opened to the public. This week, starting with today's 4-star feature picture Hollywood Cavalcade, the Delft offers a Silver Anniversary program, details of which will be announced from day to day. Twenty-five years ago the Delft featured a "grand opening week" of shows. Starting with a Monday and Tuesday billing of 5 acts of vaudeville consisting of "The Sunny Side of Broadway" a tabloid play; "The Double Voiced Greys"; Willie Zimmerman, Impersonator; "Four Juvenile Kings", and Madame Busse Pets, it continued through the week with programs of one and two reel pictures supported by three and four vaudeville acts. Pictures shown the first week included: "The Difference Between Learning and Learning How" a one reel George Ade fable; "The Birth of the Star Spangled Banner" with Richard Travers; "When Men Wear Skirts" with Ruth Roland and Marshall Neilan; "The Aggressor" with Edgar Jones and Louise Huff; and "The Hidden Letters" with Antonio Marino, Julia Swayne Gordon and Norma Talmadge. These twenty-five years have seen the passing of those well remembered stars. Likewise there have been many changes in the "ultra modern" theatre that opened with the "last word" in theatre equipment at that time. In fact, during that period the Delft Theatre has many times installed the "last word" in equipment only to see it become obsolete and replaced. We hope to be privileged to continue this process of advancement for many years to come. On the occasion of this Silver Anniversary, the management takes the opportunity to thank the hundreds of loyal patrons, many of whom had reservations for the grand opening twenty-five years ago, for their generous support which has made possible the part played by the Delft Theatre in the steady growth and advancement of Escanaba.

INJURY FATAL TO DR. LIBBY

Iron River Physician Was Member of Pinecrest "San" Board

Iron River—Dr. E. M. Libby, 62-year-old Iron River physician and dean of the Iron county medical fraternity, died at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon in the Iron Mountain General hospital from injuries received when, Wednesday afternoon, he was thrown from an automobile in a crash occurring at the intersection of highway US-2 and the Traders' mine road.

It was the second fatality resulting from the accident, Wayne Heckler, 35, of Kingsford and driver of the second car involved, having succumbed at 10:45 p. m. Wednesday.

Dr. Libby had been unconscious since the accident, and physicians had despaired of his recovery.

Victor D. Laing of Stambaugh, was driver of the car in which he and Dr. Libby were returning from a meeting at the Pinecrest sanatorium at Powers. Heckler was driving west on the mine road, after having taken Charles Kuzola, owner of the car, to work at the Cornell mine. The two automobiles met near the center of the highway. Laing escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Dr. Libby was born January 3, 1877, in Chicago, attended the public schools there and completed his pre-medical work at the University of Chicago. He received his medical degree at the Rush Medical college, in Chicago, graduating when he was 21 years of age.

Moved to Iron River Shortly thereafter he moved to Iron county and located at what was then Atkinson, now known as Gibbs city. He remained in that small lumbering community for about a year.

He moved to Iron River in 1900 and became associated in practice with the late Dr. A. H. Sturgeon. Dr. Sturgeon later died from injuries received when the carriage in which he was riding was struck by a train.

Dr. Libby continued the practice alone, until his death. For a time he also conducted the Mercy hospital in Iron River.

An athlete himself in his school days, Dr. Libby at one time organized and played on an Iron River city football team. He was interested in music and organized an orchestra in the city. He was also a musician years ago, in the Delit theater orchestra, and held an interest in the theater itself.

Prominent Here Dr. Libby was a member of the Iron River school board for several years; a director and officer of the old First National Bank in the city and trustee of the new Iron River National Bank.

He held a Fellowship in the American College of Surgeons, and was recognized for his skill as a surgeon.

Besides the widow, four sons and one daughter, all of whom were in the city today, survive. They are Spencer, Vincent, Marvin and Dean Libby, and Mrs. Deborah Cunningham, the latter of Chicago.

Escanaba High Grad Stands Up And Says His Course Was Flop

Young Philip Westbrook, junior at the University of Michigan and a graduate of Escanaba high school in 1936, got his name in the Detroit papers the other day because he stood up and boldly stated to a group of teachers and parents that his high school course had been a flop.

Philip was one of the several earnest young men, representatives of leading campus activities such as the Interfraternity council, the Michigan Daily newspaper, the Michigan League, Rhodes scholars, Phi Beta Kappa and the Student Senate, who were invited to speak before a section of the Tenth annual conference of the Parent Education Institute, Nov. 10.

Not only Philip, but students from other parts of the country rapped various phases of educational, cultural and civic conditions as they exist today, under a general consideration of "The Community."

"We never were made to study in high school and we never did any original research of our own. You teachers should encourage your school systems to study certain superior high schools which point for individual effort, rather than just turning out degree earners."

"Most of my teachers were not suited to their jobs, in the respect that they specialized in college in a certain few subjects and then were required to teach many others."

Philip's fellow speakers were in agreement, according to the report in the Detroit paper, that high school training left them intellectually immature when they reached college age.

But they said they thought one of the chief reasons was that teachers salaries are low, and that which I ever tasted home made but now they do not butcher any more down there but buy it in the store and you even see pieces of pig these days wrapped in Cellophane and they never throw in no Suet or a piece of Liver when you buy meat and all the extra they put on the scales now days is lots of Paper or a finger or two and you pay for it also and the only place you get Free meat in the stores now is the worms in Apples of which there is lots this year meaning the worms

Well I suppose you wonder why I writing about butchering when you would like to have me give you the low Down on the War but I see the Paper is too full of it now and I wish we had some Difference good news to put in for Thanksgivings and I think you put that in once about the war that is enough as it is None of our Business any how so why keep reading about it if we are going to keep our Nose out of it and I do not like People which are too Nosey

Hopeing you are the same

Former Escanaban Dies In Minneapolis

Word has been received here of the recent death of Gust Lambert, a former Escanaba resident, at Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. Lambert while living in Escanaba was employed by the Chicago and North Western railroads and since leaving here had been a conductor on the Soo Line until his retirement a year ago.

He is survived by his widow, Anna and three sons, Carl, Arvid and Harold, all of Minneapolis.

Funeral services were held on last Monday and among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Claus Magnuson of Ishpeming.

their civil liberties are restricted. One speaker said, "Pay teachers what they are worth and give them civil liberties."

There was general agreement that extra-curricular activities in high school, such as public speaking and journalism are more provocative to learning and individual endeavor than most secondary school academic subjects. Sex instruction at an early age was one of the things the university students suggested.

School representatives in Escanaba were not inclined to take Mr. Westbrook's remarks too seriously. Philip was a rather nice young man, active in debate and speech work at high school and liked to talk at lot, his teachers said.

ARMISTICE DAY RITES ARE HELD

Legion Squad Tribute Paid; Peace Prayers Are Made

Simple ceremonies yesterday with the American Legion in a major role marked Armistice Day in Escanaba. Tributes were made to the war dead and prayers were offered that once again there may be world peace.

The bustle of traffic along Ludington street was hushed at 11 o'clock in the morning as a firing squad of American Legion members, led by a color guard of the national and Legion flags, lined up four abreast, heard the crisp command, "Ready, aim, fire!" and released three quick blasts toward the east.

Automobiles remained halted from both directions as the shots cracked out at the command of Dr. C. J. Corcoran. There was momentary silence and then the sound of taps, blown by Bugler Don Rogers. The firing squad fell out. Traffic hummed again. After 20 years the people had remembered the heroes who had made the first Armistice Day possible.

Members of the firing squad were Mike Bink, Ed Schwartz, Herb Grosnick, John Peltier, Joe Godin, L. A. Danielson, Jerry Desmond and Tom Beaton.

Hundreds of worshippers were present at a special "Peace" mass held at 9 o'clock at St. Ann's church, with the Rev. Fr. C. J. Guertin, chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, as celebrant. This was one of the hundreds of similar services sponsored by the K.

Office Service Co. Jackson Tailors 909 Ludington of C. throughout the nation to mark Armistice Day. High mass was sung by the St. Anne's choir and Leonard Moreau sang a solo "Ave Maria." Lucille DeGrand was organist. There was a silent prayer from the whole assembly for peace. Members of the K. of C. and of the American Legion sat in groups in places of honor.

The solemnity of the morning observances did not carry through the day, however. Many residents dropped ordinary Saturday pursuits to watch the final Escanaba high school football game in the afternoon and hundreds of others forgot their cares at the annual American Legion Armistice Day ball last night in the Elks club.

R. M. O'Neill and Emerson Harvey were in charge of arrangements for the dance.

Unrest in Germany

VARIOUS interpretations have been applied to the bombing of the Munich beer hall, which resulted in the death of several Nazi leaders celebrating the famous Hitler putsch.

The Nazi propaganda bureau saw in the incident an exceptional opportunity to unleash a barrage of criticism against Great Britain and the Jews.

The beer hall explosion is also being referred to as another Reichstag fire plot perpetrated by the Nazis themselves to arouse the fighting spirit of the German people.

All is not well on the home front in Germany, however. Oswald Garrison Villard, noted writer, who has just spent three weeks in Germany, cabled from Holland that the non-Nazi German people are unhappy and fear the dire effects of war.

The recent breaking of a store window, displaying a picture of Adolf Hitler, is cited as only one of a series of incidents that indicate an undercurrent of unrest in Germany.

The Nazi movement was built up through a constant play on the emotions of the people. Eventually, there must be some form of release, however.

Hunting on Increase THE department of conservation confidently predicts that the 1939 deer hunting army will total 170,000, or about 8,000 more than the number who took out licenses last year.

It is reasonable to expect that the Upper Peninsula will get a larger proportion of the traffic than in the past for during the past several weeks much publicity has been given to the greater degree of hunting success in the counties, north of the Straits of Mackinac.

The deer hunting season is looked upon as an extension of the tourist business from two to three weeks at a time of the year when this trade is much appreciated.

Approach of the hunting season again calls for the usual warnings to observe the ordinary rules of safety while in the woods.

Science Aids Farmer LIKE a kaleidoscope, the pattern of farmlands in the south and middle west has changed year by year.

Large areas have been taken over in many states for experiments with the latest methods of crop rotating. Soil erosion is being checked.

Other Editors' Comments THE GOAT REVOLTS (From the Chicago Tribune) The goat, it seems, is a much maligned animal and is growing tired, as they say, of being the goat.

Most everything people know best about goats, it appears, is untrue. A goat does not eat tin cans, but is finicky in its appetite.

Friends of the goat, in fact, are tired of so little being known about so excellent an animal. They demand for it the position in the social scheme and in literature that its qualities warrant.

not idly permitting the sands to shift beneath his feet.

The soil has not always been pampered. Before the days of dust bowls and repeated market collapses and prolonged droughts, the farmer was generally content to plant the same crop in the same places, or at best use only the simplest of crop rotating schemes.

By 1932 the farm situation was decidedly in ill health. Studies were made, and soil experts presented various recommendations.

The farm problem is by no means a closed issue. Research is far from exhaustive, and the steps thus far taken can not be accepted as complete solution.

But the farmer, with the help of experts, is working out his problem. He is willing to try anything once.

The White Way

TALK of the town the past week has been the installation of new lighting fixtures on Ludington street, which has made Escanaba's main business thoroughfare a blazing white way.

The new lights utilize the principle of reflecting the light downward upon the street instead of illuminating the skies as was done by the old units.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce has been considering the advisability of staging a community celebration of the city's new achievement as a feature of Escanaba Days this week-end.

Need Accurate Data

THE federal census bureau has been requested by the Marquette Chamber of Commerce to make an intensive survey of the tourist industry in the Upper Peninsula.

The Marquette civic organization expresses the opinion that there is a great need for definite data on this subject, and there are many who will agree with this contention.

In the past, there have been many wild guesses about the worth of the tourist business to the region.

The value of the census would be that it would determine for chambers of commerce, business and industrial concerns and individuals how much emphasis should be placed on the promotion of the recreational business.

No doubt, some communities have lopsided civic development programs. A through survey, such as that suggested by the Marquette Chamber of Commerce, might help them to secure a better balance in their promotional activities.

World Affairs Reviewed

The report, later denied, that Soviet Armenia has demanded from Turkey her eastern province of Kara gives headlines again to the name of one of the world's small but much-contested regions.

Since 1921, in accordance with a treaty between the Soviet and Turkish governments, the district of Kara has been a part of Turkey, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

On the northeast shoulder of Turkey as it thrusts northward into the Caucasus land bridge between the Black and Caspian Seas, Kara lies astride a historic route between West and East.

It was an independent Armenian principality in the 9th century. In the 11th century, its capital, with the same name, fell to the Seljuk Turks.

Today, with a population of some 25,000, the town of Kara is still a fortress. Visitors are unable to take photographs even of people in the streets.

On their high plateau land, cold in winter, hot in summer, the people of the Kara district wring a frugal living largely by farming and stockraising.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—No, Maestro Toscanini doesn't rumba. A few days ago, an overzealous publicist for a Latin night-club issued a canard of startling character. He declared that the white-haired monarch of the maestri had been seen on his client's premises, torso-twirling to the serpentine strains of a South American orchestra.

A few gullibles fell for the report. But a quick check showed that Toscanini was in his hotel suite by that hour, probably dipping into Shakespeare.

Arturo Toscanini has been back in New York since early fall to continue his orchestral broadcasts and he has resumed his usual secluded life at the Hotel Astor.

If he does venture out to a night club—and such excursions are so infrequent as to occur once or twice at best per season—he goes only if he is guaranteed obscurity, which he prefers to a conspicuous table.

Not that the maestro deplors night clubs. A year ago he turned up at the International Casino, which presents a loud and lusty spectacle. It would be no exaggeration to say he was delighted at what he saw.

At the Astor, Toscanini has settled down again to his accustomed suite on the sixth story where he has his living quarters, his grand piano, his voluminous library of music and literature and map of pedestrian New York.

The bellhops continue to call him Maestro. He didn't want them to recognize him at the beginning, but he has overcome that inhibition. The bellhops are properly awed.

They are not forgetting the night they saw a wispy, old, snowy-haired gentleman kneeling at the door of a transient guest, trying to fit a key into the lock without success. They did not interfere.

For they know the maestro's memory of such tripe details as hotel room numbers is not of the best. So they allowed Toscanini finally to seek out his own suite by trial and error.

Toscanini's memory for wordy details has not improved. Legendary is the tale of how once he departed from Carnegie Hall after rehearsal and tried to storm the subway turnstile without first inserting a nickel into the slot.

After a reprimand by the attendant, the maestro felt around for a five cent piece. He couldn't find one. And so he climbed back upstairs and hailed a taxicab, though he had been heart-set upon a subway ride that evening.

It later turned out that because he usually forgets to take currency with him, his wife always puts small cash into the pockets of the suit she thinks he will be wearing. But Toscanini wore the wrong suit.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON—Not all of the facts have leaked out yet regarding the Admirals' bungling of the brand new U. S. destroyers built as part of the Roosevelt big navy program.

It is generally known that the destroyers are top-heavy, but two other facts are not so well understood. One is that on at least three destroyers, the deck plates have buckled badly in what is technically known as a "moderately rolling sea."

Second is a metallurgical defect in the rivets. The Navy still insists upon using rivets in its vessels, refusing to concede the technical advantages of welding construction. And because of the defective rivets, literally millions of them will have to be replaced.

Of the 28 new destroyers now completed or under construction, 20 are top-heavy. The other eight are not far along in their construction and their design can be changed.

Reason for these construction honors lies in the antiquated system of bureaus within the Navy Department and the jealousy of certain admirals who can't get over the fact that they graduated at the head of their class at Annapolis years ago.

—INSIDE REASON— What happened was that additional weight, such as extra armor plate, was put on the destroyers at high points, which brought their center of gravity too far above the water.

The Bureaus of Engineering and Ordnance are supposed to certify these weights, while the Bureau of Construction and Repair makes the stability calculations, which are very intricate.

In the case of the new destroyers, the three of the private naval yards which were building the vessels feared that the center of gravity was too high and pointed this out to the admirals. The private builders even offered to submit the center of gravity test to Gibbs and Cox, who are private design agents.

The Admirals, however, declined the offer. They decided that they could do no wrong.

—NAVAL HOUSECLEANING— Result has been (1) that lead ballast was to be affixed to the keels to keep the vessels from rolling over in the water; and (2) Acting Secretary Edison has given the Admirals a thorough shake-up.

Admiral William G. DuBoe, Chief of Naval Construction, had claimed that the trouble was an engineering defect, not a construction defect. But Admiral Harold G. Bowen, Chief of Naval Engineering, hotly repudiated that DuBoe was at fault. So Secretary Edison has shifted Admiral DuBoe to the naval experimental basin in western Maryland, where he can play with miniature models of battleships. And he has shifted Admiral Bowen to the naval research laboratory in southern Maryland, where he can do more experimenting with ships.

Some consider it significant that Edison has shifted the two to opposite parts of Maryland.

Note—Reason for the undercover campaign against Acting Secretary Edison on the part of some naval officers is the fact that he has finally determined that he, and not the Admirals, is going to rule the roost.

—PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY FUND— Eddie Cantor had a talk with the President when he was in Washington recently, at which time Roosevelt disclosed important plans

BUNNY BANQUET MENU ALL SET

Munising Legion Will Not Have to Fall Back On Hens

Munising, Nov. 11—Munising Legionnaires, done "feuding" with the Mitchell post of Negaunee and Armistic declared, today prepared in three parties to make a final foray into the field for the elusive bunny. The post now has 51 rabbits all ready "on the ice" for the banquet on Sunday and the hunt today is expected to raise the total to at least 75 rabbits, eliminating the necessity of "falling back" on chicken for a part of the menu.

About 200 Legionnaires, Ladies Auxiliary members, Sons of the American Legion and other guests are expected to sit down to the banquet on Sunday evening. Members of the Ladies Auxiliary will have charge of the preparation of the meal.

Quarried as to the probability of the Negaunee post showing up for the "big feed", Walfrid "Bosco" Johnson, who shares the honor of making preparations for the dinner with T. J. "Tucker" Walters, merely said, "that's a lot of baloney and if they do show up we'll find enough to feed 'em."

The banquet program follows: Advance of the Colors—Walter Corey, William Dore.

Prayer—B. L. Zastrow, post chaplain.

Anthem, "Star Spangled Banner"—Audience.

Reading of the Preamble to the Legion Constitution—Legionnaires.

"Gymnastic Relief", song—Audience.

Dinner.

Song, "Smiles" and "Pack Up Your Troubles"—Group.

Remarks by Legion Auxiliary president—Mrs. Edith Holter.

Response—A. K. Jackson.

Reports of rabbit hunt captains—Dr. G. B. Baxter, Frank Runsat.

Address, "Americanism"—Warren B. Hileman.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Four Countries Honor Railways With Stamps

RAILROADS in United States may be facing financial difficulties, but in stamps the railroad business is booming. Four nations recently have issued or announced issue of stamps honoring railways. One of the Bulgarian release of four values, commemorating the 50th anniversary of state railways, is shown above.

The Netherlands marked 100 years of railroading with two stamps, one showing a reproduction of one of the earliest locomotives, the other a modern, streamlined electric car.

Six values were issued by Romania to commemorate the completion of 70 years of railroad service. Designs included all types of locomotives from earliest wood-burners to 1939 streamliners.

Release of Manchukuo's two stamps marking the completion of 10,000 kilometers of state railways in the Japanese-controlled state has been delayed. The issue was scheduled for release Oct. 20.

The lower value of the Manchukuo stamps details the network of railroads in a map; the higher value shows the crack "bullet express" train Asia running at full speed.

From 9 To 12 Boys And Girls Enjoy Same Books

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Boys and girls read pretty much the same type of books up to ten or twelve. Boys may not care for the straight girl story unless it includes boys. But for the most part they will enjoy the same stories.

The 1939 books for children from 9 to 12 are, if possible, better than ever. I can only mention a few: In any book list many of the best may be overlooked. I advise parents to go and judge for themselves. I myself have had an orgy for fall reading:

"The Singing Tree," by Kate Seredy (Viking).

"Flying Hoops," by Wilhelmina Harper (Houghton Mifflin).

"Princess September and the Nightingale," by W. Somerset Maugham (Oxford).

"The Trail of the Buffalo," by Rutherford Montgomery (Houghton Mifflin).

"The Sister of the Angels," by Elizabeth Goudge (Coward McCann).

"The Turf-Cutter's Donkey Kicks Up His Heels," by Patricia Lynch (Dutton).

"The Happy Flute," by Sant Ram Mandal (Stokes).

"Tall Timber Tales," by Dell J. McCormick (Caxton).

"Golden Gate," by Valenti Angelo (Viking).

"Wooden Saddles," by Marion Lay (Morrow).

"Francis on the Run," by Hilda Van Stockum (Viking).

"Under Three Flags," by Margaret B. Pumphrey (Caxton).

"Felix on the Post Road," by Eleanor Hubbard Wilson (Dutton).

"Bright Morning," by Charlie May Simon (Dutton).

"The Magical Jumping Beans," by Eleanor Hubbard Wilson (Dutton).

"Peter Hale," by Julia Davis (Dutton).

"Sea Bird Island," by Vera Andries (Harcourt Brace).

"Let's Go to the Movies," by William C. Pryor and Helen S. Pryor (Harcourt Brace).

"Terrence O'Hara," by Thomas Burns (Harcourt Brace).

"The Little House on Runners," by Marjorie Heyes (Little Brown).

"The Red Dory," by Hazel Wilson (Little Brown).

"Farthest West," by Laura Adams Armer (Longmans).

"Adventure May Be Anywhere," by Ruth Manning Sanders (Stokes).

"Jo-Yo's Idea," by Kathleen Morrow Elliot (Borzoi).

Horse stories are always popular. Here are some of them:

NOTE TO PARENTS: It is suggested that you clip and keep the book list above, and also the one that follows. You will find it a handy reference when making your Christmas list of gifts for your own children and others of various age groups.

Program Of Orpheus Choral Club For Friday Announced

Music of the old established masters like Tschalkowsky, and Mascagni, works of Noble Cain and F. Mellus Christiansen of the modern choral school, musical comedy numbers by Rudolf Friml and an original composition by one of its own members, Ross Stokes, are included in the program to be presented by the Orpheus Choral Club at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium in the Junior high school next Friday night.

The chorus is directed by R. P. Bowers with Viola Foster Olson of Gladstone as accompanist. Ruth Gessner, Escanaba's popular concert pianist, will be guest soloist and Frank Karas, local music teacher, will play a violin obligato in a special number.

The program by the chorus club is composed of three groups. It opens with a poem "Music When Soft Voices Die" set to music especially for the occasion by Ross Stokes, local music teacher who sings second tenor in the chorus. Included in the first group will be the Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana by Pietro Mascagni, Italian composer.

Arrangement by Noble Cain, who conducted a mixed chorus at the U. P. State Fair here two years ago. The number is often known as "Prayer." Frank Karas plays the violin obligato.

Two Friml Numbers
The second group is in a lighter vein and includes two musical comedy numbers by Rudolf Friml. One is the title song from "Rose Marie" and the other is "Symphony" from "The Firefly."

In its final appearance, the chorus will sing three religious numbers, all familiar to lovers of sacred music.

The complete program by the Choral club follows:

Music When Soft Voices Die—Ross Stokes.

Praise to the Lord—Mellus Christiansen.

Prayer from Cavalleria Rusticana—Mascagni, arranged by Noble Cain with violin obligato by Frank Karas.

O Watchers of the Stars—Noble Cain.

The Merry Dance—Mallory, Winter and Spring—Borowski, Rose Marie, from Rose Marie—Friml.

Sympathy, from The Firefly—Friml.

Fairest Lord Jesus—German Air arranged by Noble Cain, Legend—Tschalkowsky.

Remember Now Thy Creator—Adams.

Building Improvements

SMALL HOMES • STORES

APARTMENTS • MODERNIZATION

by PAUL T. HAAGEN, A.I.A.

Radiators Are Hard To Treat

Form Serious Home Decorative Problem

Radiators which are not recessed and covered with shields constitute one of the most serious decorative problems in the home. In spite of the discussion regarding the heating efficiency of painted radiators, it still holds true that the most popular treatment of these heating units is painting them the color of the woodwork.

In treating radiators as an integral part of the wall surface against which they are placed, the units become less conspicuous, and this is regarded as desirable by most home owners.

Authorities on painting advise that paint for use on radiators should carry enough linseed oil to give good adherence and elasticity. Experts also remind home owners that white or very light-tinted paints darken slightly when exposed to heat; thus radiator paint should be several shades lighter than the wall color to allow for a slight deepening of the tint later on.

Earth pigments, it is said, such as umbers, siennas, and ochres, stand heat better than chemically produced colors.

One of the most important points to be borne in mind by the home owner who intends to paint his own radiators is to allow sufficient drying time before turning heat into the unit. If each coat has not dried properly, blistering, cracking, and peeling are almost certain to occur.

Before starting the paint job, experts advise that all of the old finish be removed. Where previous coating is sound, the surface should be well cleaned.

So far as reducing heat transmission, many authorities believe that light tints of high-grade flat or semigloss wall paints provide the most efficient heating surfaces on radiators.

Interior and exterior painting may be financed under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration. Funds for the work may be obtained from lending institutions qualified by the FHA.

Wallpaper Provides Services Other Than Wall Covering

Wallpaper's primary use is as a covering for walls, but there are many other functions this material may serve.

Manufacturers are promoting the use of wallpaper as a ceiling covering on the basis that it substitutes decorative interest for bare white "nothingness." Rooms gain in unity and effectiveness, they say, by the use of an appropriate ceiling paper blending into the walls.

The interior of cupboards offers opportunity for effective wallpaper use. Modern paper designs form excellent backgrounds for china, as well as emphasizing the character and color scheme of the dining room and kitchen.

Clothes closets are now being wallpapered, either to carry on the treatment of the room or to contrast with it. Unfinished plaster closets appear bare and incongruous when closet doors are left open, while an added advantage is claimed for wallpaper in that it prevents plaster dust or paint from getting on the clothes.

Entire homes may be repaired or small jobs such as these now described may be financed with funds obtainable from qualified lending institutions under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

Shellac Given Waterproofing by New Mixing

Improved qualities are said to be imparted to shellac through use of a new waterproof mixing.

Among the advantages claimed for shellac which has been treated with this mixing are that it will not turn white, that it will possess increased elasticity, that it will have better flowing qualities, and that it is given increased durability. Besides having absolute waterproofness, the shellac and mixing furnish increased anchorage. Sanding costs are also said to be reduced.

The Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration offers the home owner a convenient method of financing painting jobs. Funds for the work are obtainable from qualified private lending institutions.

Commercial Buildings May Be Modernized

Commercial buildings which may have antiquated fronts and badly arranged window-display space have little appeal to the buying public. The application of a plan for redesigning and a reasonable expenditure of money, available from qualified lending institutions under the Modernization Credit Plan, may restore the rental command of outmoded stores and other places of business.

Designed For Good Living

This well-planned Ohio house, newly built, provides ample living quarters for the medium-sized family. The unfinished room above the built-in garage will enable enlargement of the livable area into additional bed-rooms, play-rooms, studio room, or whatnot. The Federal Housing Administration, whose inspections assured conformance with the original specifications, insured the $6,500 mortgage, after a property appraisal of $8,750 had been established.

Stairways Need Safety Design

Curves Dangerous Unless Carefully Planned

Stairways can be treacherous danger spots if not planned on a proper scale. Twenty-three per cent of all home accidents occur on stairways and steps, according to the National Safety Council's annual statistical report.

Where there is a corner in the stairway, safety can be maintained if no more than two steps are set in a 90-degree turn, and these allow for ample foot space. To divide the turn into three steps makes for unsafe footing and constitutes a safety hazard.

In modernizing older homes, unsafe stairways should be either replaced or redesigned. Care should be exercised to assure that the new stairway is easy to ascend and descend and that curves and corners have sufficient foot space.

Private lending institutions, operating under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration, make loans for improving unsafe stairways.

Wall, Fence May Aid Appearance

CaULKING Window Woodwork

The privacy and frequently the appearance of a home may be improved by a wall or fence along the lot lines or by a hedge. This improvement is relatively inexpensive and may be financed with funds obtained from qualified lending institutions under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

The kind of enclosure used can be determined by the type of architecture of the house. Colonial cottages and frame houses in general call for a white picket fence or neatly clipped hedge. The fences may be selected from many styles ranging from the least expensive type with plain flat railings to the more ornate style with rounded pickets and fanlight gate.

Brick dwellings of Georgian architecture are best framed by masonry walls. These may be any height desired, according to conditions.

Spanish or Mediterranean homes are best complemented by a stucco wall, although hedges of various types are used effectively. When a home owner contemplates the planting of a hedge he should consult a nurseryman before making his plant selections, as the expert can tell him what variety will thrive best in local soil.

CaULKING Window Woodwork

Cold air can be prevented, to a large extent, from entering around the woodwork of the windows. If the walls are of masonry, the joints between the masonry walls and the window frames should be thoroughly caulked. If the walls are of wood, shrinkage has probably taken place and the joints in the wood must be caulked.

Tow or cotton candlewick may be used as the packing, and this should be mixed with white lead and packed in tightly. There are many commercial caulking compounds which may be used.

Figures Indicate 450,000 New Dwelling Units In Year

Based on the records of the first nine months, approximately 450,000 nonfarm dwelling units will be constructed during 1939, according to figures revealed by Stewart McDonald, Federal Housing Administrator.

The records of the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that during the first nine months of 1939 there were 228,267 dwelling units erected in cities with populations of 2,500 and over. This was an increase of 34.4 per cent over the 171,101 provided in the first nine months of 1938.

"These reported building permits," Mr. McDonald said, "limited as they are to the 'urban' reporting cities, do not represent the total number of nonfarm dwelling units provided during a given period of time. For example, the residential building permits reported for those urban areas in the entire year 1938 numbered only 245,753, whereas the total estimated number of nonfarm dwelling units constructed during that year was 347,000.

30 Per Cent Increase
"Going on the conservative assumption that residential construction during the last quarter of this year will not exceed that of the final 1938 period, the total estimated number of nonfarm dwelling units constructed during 1939 will approach the 450,000 mark, an increase of approximately 30 per cent over the estimated 347,000 dwelling units constructed last year. These include, of course, privately financed large-scale rental-housing projects as well as public-housing developments," Mr. McDonald said.

Building permits for one and two-family dwellings in cities of 2,500 and over totaled 141,955 during the first nine months of 1939, a gain of 28 per cent over the first nine months of 1938. Once again, however, this number of dwelling units covers reports only from the so-called "urban" areas of the United States and fails to take into account the hundreds of nonfarm dwelling units constructed in smaller localities.

Rising Trend Seen
During the first nine months of 1939, Mr. McDonald said, the FHA selected for appraisal 126,622 mortgages covering homes to be built under FHA inspection, and during that period 96,876 new small homes were started under this inspection. These do not include new small homes financed under the provisions of Title I of the National Housing Act nor those loans under Title II on homes which were not built under FHA inspection. No record was kept of the number of homes started each week under FHA inspection until April 1938, but during the six months, May through October 1939, the number of these new homes started under FHA inspection showed an increase over the same 1938 months of 40 per cent.

At the same time, Mr. McDonald pointed out that, as against an increase of 30 per cent in all nonfarm residential construction, there has been a gain of 40 per cent during the last six months over the corresponding 1938 period in new small homes started under FHA inspection.

CONSIDER FUEL SAVINGS WHEN YOU BUY Shingles

Make This Test!

Place frying pan on hot stove. Lay in it small square of Carey Cork-Back Shingle and some size square of plain shingle. Place fingers on each square, as shown. Note that plain shingle gets too hot to touch much more quickly than Cork-Back Shingle—proof that the Cork-Back retards penetration of heat. Ask us for free samples of shingles to make test.

When you buy a roof of Carey Cork-Back Shingles you get more than a long-lasting, weather-tight roof. In addition, it provides roof insulation that retards wasteful passage of heat through the roof and definitely reduces fuel consumption. This is the only shingle built with outside slate surface for weather protection; cork layer underneath for insulation. Makes your home more comfortable winter and summer. Non-fading colors add to roof attractiveness. INVESTIGATE — before you re-roof or build.

FINE PROGRAM IS ARRANGED

Entertainment Activities Scheduled Afternoon and Evening

A record-breaking crowd of hunters and huntresses are expected to attend the third annual deer hunters pow-wow to be held at Nahma on Monday, Nov. 13.

The day's festivities will open at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with a tree entertainment program at the Nahma clubhouse. Log sawing and wood chopping contests, pistol shooting exhibitions by Sgt. William Irish of the Newberry state police post, and Alfred Hemming, Detroit, former national champion, and other specialties will be staged.

The annual grubfest again will be held at the Bay de Noquet Lumber company's boarding house, where the sumptuous meal will be served in typical lumber camp style.

Conservation Topics

KNOWLEDGE-CARE PREVENTS ACCIDENTS

With more than 150,000 hunters taking to the woodlands of the state next Wednesday in the annual quest for deer, it is fairly safe to say that accidents, perhaps fatal ones, will happen. Yet practically all gun accidents could be prevented if the hunters possessed the proper knowledge in the handling of their weapons and eliminated all carelessness.

State Urged To Buy Virgin Pine Near Newberry

Newberry, Mich.—A movement is underway at Newberry to preserve a privately owned tract of virgin Norway and white pine timber, located near Bodi Lake, northeast of the village.

This area of virgin pine covers an area of about 1,000 acres. On it trees are reported as large as 12 to 14 feet in circumference. It is said to be the last tract of virgin pine in this part of the country.

Sharpshills Show Increase In U. P.

Despite the prevalence of leaves on the trees and a still-standing rank undergrowth of ferns and herbaceous plants, which robbed many a nimrod of his chances at the flying target, grouse hunters who were out after the whirrbirds in the Upper Peninsula are now telling stories of better hunting than a year ago in many sections of this north country.

MORE HUNTERS ARE EXPECTED

Predict 170,000 Persons Will Go Into Woods This Season

The curtain goes up on Michigan's 1939 deer season on Wednesday morning and before protection is clamped on the bounding whitetails at the end of the month it is expected that the red-coated army tramping the northwoods will number about 170,000 men and women.

As usual the best hunting will be in the vast reaches of deer country in the Upper Peninsula where last year, the game census cards returned by the hunters show, 43 out of each 100 hunters killed their bucks.

It is expected that the number of successful hunters will be even greater this year. This prediction of increased success is based on a census taken by both the State and Federal government that credits Michigan with well over 1,000,000 whitetailed deer spread over the 22,000,000 acres of deer hunting territory.

Michigan Grayling Extinct, None Are Caught In 4 Years

Lansing—As the closing of the 1939 fishing season brings to four years the period in which no authentic report has been made of a catch of Michigan grayling, the writing of the epitaph of this almost legendary fish of early Michigan need be postponed no longer.

Last known catch of this "trout of the pines" was made in Otter river, near Houghton, though the grayling was properly the trout of lower Michigan as the brook trout was the trout of the upper peninsula.

U. P. Bear Kill Is Likely To Be Near The 250-300 Mark

Observers' reports are that the bear supply in the Upper Peninsula ranges from about average in some districts to little more than have been seen for several years.

Cold weather has already driven many of the big black fellows to their dens for the winter and any additional cold or snow will put a good many more away to sleep until spring.

Each holder of a deer license is permitted to take one bear. That does not mean that very many hunters succeed in bagging bears, for while last year 44,809 bucks were reported killed by the deer hunters last year, the total kill of bear was 598 for the state.

While influenced to a great extent by the weather, the variation in the kill of bear has been slight from year to year and that has led to the belief that bear population is pretty stable.

KINKS FOR HE-MAN HUNTERS

Skilled Woodsmen Enjoy "Roughing It"; Few Know How

BY ROBERT PAGE LINCOLN

While open-front shelter tents are useful in the summer, in a fall especially in cold and chilly weather, they are quite out of the question, unless, of course, the tent has an open-front, like the baker type of tent, which is meant for cold weather camping.

This drop-extension can be three feet from the ridge-pole to the front and can be held in place with a separate pole, nailed to two pieces coming out from either tree to which the lean-to ridge-pole is attached.

From time immemorial the bedding or "mattress" of the lean-to has been composed of balsam boughs. True, balsam boughs are not always to be found, in which case spruce will suffice, although either jack pine or white pine will prove little short of a mess.

There is something pleasing about a balsam bough bed, and this is never borne out so fully as when you utilize one of these in the autumn of the year. I commend that it is worth a trip into the woods just to sleep on a balsam in a hunter's open or lean-to camp.

SEWARD GRAY BEING SOUGHT

Marinette Man Disappears From War Veterans Home

Marinette, Wis.—A widespread search for Seward H. Gray, 67, 2438 Elm street, a Spanish-American war veteran and early resident of this city, was begun Wednesday after his sudden disappearance from Soldiers' home, Milwaukee, where he had been taken for treatment nearly two weeks ago. No clues to his whereabouts have been received thus far.

His absence was not discovered until last Saturday when his daughter, Edith, Clintonville school teacher who was in Milwaukee for the state teachers' convention, went to the hospital to visit her father.

Had Not Registered
Piecing together what information they had, officials of the home said the veteran had not registered at the institution and had left the same evening of his arrival. He came to Milwaukee with his son, John, editor of the Diamond Drill, Crystal Falls weekly newspaper.

Col. A. B. Thompson, chief medical officer, said the two were in the waiting room and the only doctor on duty at the time talked to them briefly and was called away on an emergency case, telling them he would return in a few minutes.

The father, according to the son, told the latter there was no use for the son remaining, that he would stay in the waiting room until the doctor returned. The son left to take a train back to Michigan.

Thought He Left With Son
When the doctor came back, the veteran had disappeared. The doctor, thinking perhaps the father had returned home with the son, attempted to reach the son at the railroad station, but was unsuccessful.

Mr. Gray had been a patient at the hospital for about six weeks last spring and had been averse to returning to the institution, a member of the family said today.

Hospital records show him to be 5 feet 8 inches tall, weight 155 pounds, has blue eyes and gray hair. He was "well preserved" for his age and walked erectly.

Worked for Oconto Firm
Mr. Gray, a filer and sawyer by trade, had been inactive since the close of the Holt Lumber company operations at Oconto about a year ago. He was employed here during the early lumber days, then went to Canada, and thence to Sagola where he worked for 11 years in the sawmill of the Sawyer-Goodman company. He had been with the Holt Lumber company for about three years.

Escanaba Days Sales To Be Held Nov. 16-18

Shoppers coming to Escanaba Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week will find the greatest array of merchandise ever displayed in stores along this city's "More Than a Mile of Modern Retail Stores." Figures released by the retail committee to the Chamber of Commerce indicates that more than a million dollars worth of merchandise will go on sale at 9 a. m. Thursday morning when retail stores open their doors for this big three day community selling event.

More than 50 stores along Ludington street are participating in the event and every one has special merchandise at sale prices so attractive that every shopper within an 80 mile radius will receive large savings by shopping in Escanaba on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It has been agreed among participating merchants that no merchandise designed for Escanaba Days shoppers will go on sale before Thursday morning when the stores open. All merchants are requesting the public to wait until Thursday morning before making requests for merchandise to be held until they arrive at the store. The committee's policy on these community-wide sales is to make values so exceptionally attractive that they cannot accommodate only those persons who visit the stores and select their items personally.

In order to take care of customers with the least possible delay all stores are employing additional sales help. All customers will find clerks ready for them in every store to help find and select the merchandise they seek.

The Escanaba Daily Press in cooperation with the Retail Merchants committee and the Chamber of Commerce is publishing a special section that will reach over 50,000 readers in this trading area. This section will be jammed full of bargains for every housewife and thrifty shopper in the territory.

ASKS MOTHERS TO CUT SMOKES

Governor Suggests Giving Cigaret Savings to Charities

Lansing, Nov. 11 (AP)—Governor Dickinson appealed today to "all mothers who smoke cigarettes" to reduce their ordinary consumption by half during the two weeks following Thanksgiving and donate the savings to charity.

"I am thinking that this alone would take care of every indigent in the localities (where the women live) that should be taken care of," the governor declared.

He explained that he was suggesting that mothers take the lead, and asking that children and husbands follow their example.

"But let us go further," the 80-year-old former temperance lecturer urged in his weekly open letter to constituents, "and ask that during these two weeks fathers, mothers and children indulging in intoxicating liquors turn five per cent over to this fund. Figure it out for yourself and you would find that this would take care of all."

Critiques Bureaucracy
Dickinson decried the bureaucracy that has grown up in state government, and called for a re-birth of private, local charities.

He likened the development of governmental relief agencies to the mushrooming of regulatory commissions and boards which he has repeatedly classed as non-essential.

"Every one adds so much to the expense of government," he said sadly.

The governor said an investigation of the appeals for aid that pour into the executive office convinced him few in any locality who were in actual need were not already receiving help from some official source, in spite of the constant demands for increased state grants and appropriations.

"There will be cases that are not fully provided for before any readjustment can care for them is evident and would occur under any system," he said, "with no monies-to-take care of pleas extra assistance would mean borrowing money if cared for in the ordinary way."

Opposes New Taxes
"Members of the legislature in general do not believe there is a necessity for legislation on this line and are against new taxes. To borrow means that you must later pay. It isn't shifting the burden but merely postponing it."

"Therefore, to care for any additional cases means that they should be cared for largely by charity. Considering that there are so few in any one locality, the burden would not seem to be hard and the cost if taken care of in this way would mean less expense in the end."

"I have faith in the people of Michigan," he declared, "that no locality is going to let the few who must have help suffer. This sympathetic feeling of any locality will gauge the needs of local applicants better than any authority in Lansing or any other distance from home."

Promises Economy
Dickinson said the idea behind the two-weeks drive was that at this time of year "we feel like giving thanks, particularly for the blessings that we have—so many of these are luxuries."

"I am suggesting," he said, "that during the last week of November and the first week of December we place a searchlight on our own activities and see where there is a chance to cut in to luxuries. What a movement it

Utilities Help Lower Taxes, States Report

Escanaba's city tax levy per capita is third to the lowest in Michigan among cities of 10,000 to 50,000 population, according to a chart published in the report, "Development of Municipal Services, 1922 to 1938", released recently by City Manager George E. Bean.

Escanaba residents pay taxes at the rate of about $8 per person and only residents of Marquette, where the rate is slightly more than $3 per person, and of Muskegon Heights, where the charge is about $7.50 per person, get off with lower payments. The Lincoln Park rate of about $26 per person is the highest in the population group.

Other Levies Listed
The low levy, according to the report, is made possible through city utility ownership, with net revenue from four utilities for the year ending last June listed at $72,478. This money was available for city use, it was pointed out, and utility income has in some years been a valuable financial backlog, to help keep the city from going into debt and consequently increasing taxes.

"It would be quite impossible for Escanaba to give the services that are given if the utilities were not municipally owned. Many cities with much higher rates find it impossible to make needed improvements and still maintain service at reasonable standards."

So speaks "Mr. Public Servant" in explaining the situation to "Mr. Taxpayer" in the report.

Water Income Shown
The average number of gas meters was 2,047 and the average sale per meter was 20,069 cubic feet per year. The capital charge

City are levied about $10 each and other cities in the 10,000 to 50,000 population group make levies in ascending scale as follows: Niles, Mt. Clemens, Benton Harbor, Alpena, Ann Arbor, Holland, Ferndale, Battle Creek, Adrian, Owosso, Port Huron, Bay City, Ironwood, Sault Ste. Marie, Menominee, Ypsilanti, Royal Oak, Monroe, Wyandotte, River Rouge and Lincoln Park.

Net Revenues Shown
The Ironwood levy, the report shows, is about $15.50 per person; the Sault Ste. Marie levy about $16 and the Menominee levy a little more than $16.

Total revenue in the Escanaba electric department for the fiscal year 1938-39 was listed at $216,034.94 and total expenses at $161,433.35, to show a net revenue of $54,601.59.

Among the expense items were taxes of $5,400; depreciation charge of $13,500; an "interest on investment" charge of $28,800 and "other interest charges" of $288.36. Capital charges, or investment during the year in the utility were listed at $12,962.19. Total operating cost was $113,444.59.

In the gas department, the total revenue was listed at $65,199.45 and total expenses at $62,191.68, to give a net revenue of $3,007.77. Total operating expenses were listed at $42,498.35; taxes, at $3,300; depreciation at $7,500; interest on investment, $8,760 and other interest charges at $133.33, these items being added to give the total expenses.

RESIDENTIAL LOT DEPTH SUGGESTED
Residential lots over 150 feet in depth are usually undesirable in a subdivision unless they are one-quarter of an acre or more in size, Federal Housing Administration officials say. Replacement of barns by garages has made deep lots unnecessary. If consistent with economical land subdivision, residential lots of 50 or 60 feet in width should not greatly exceed 130 feet in depth. Lots of from 100 to 120 feet in depth will usually be found satisfactory for single-family dwellings.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Keeping U. S. Out of War Was Problem in 1793, Toc

KEEPING clear of Europe's wars has always been difficult for United States. Hardly were the 13 colonies organized after the Revolution when the problem first presented itself.

France and England were at war. Under the treaty of 1778 United States was bound to France. Even Jefferson, shown above on the U. S. 2-cent Louisiana Purchase commemorative, always a warm friend of France, advised neutrality. Hamilton was decidedly pro-British and Washington was caught in the middle.

Hamilton declared the treaty, made with the French king, died with the king on the guillotine. Washington finally issued a neutrality proclamation. Both Britain and France captured American ships, impressed American seamen. War seemed inevitable.

Citizen Edmond Charles Genet, French envoy to U. S., supplied the solution. Disregarding neutrality, Genet rallied Americans to the French cause, outfitted privateers, defied Washington. The first President demanded his recall and got it.

Genet's diplomatic blunder and John Jay's treaty with Britain ended the incident. Young United States came out on the short end, with a sound drubbing from both belligerents and no apologies.

An unused vertical pair of the Jefferson 2-cent stamps, shown above, was one of the prize items of a recent New York auction. The stamps were issued in 1894 to commemorate the centennial of the Louisiana Purchase.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

Washington—Experts on labor disputes here believe that the recent history of the textile industry offers a valuable tip to the auto industry in wrangles like the one currently causing a costly stoppage of work in the Chrysler plants.

Central point of this dispute is the speed at which certain operations are put through. The union demands a voice in setting that speed. The company replies that to grant it would be a long first step toward admitting the union to a share in the management of the organization.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY HIT SIMILAR SNAG
The textile industry hit the same snag several years ago and got around it to the satisfaction of organized labor and management alike. It did this largely by using the services of a skilled technical staff maintained by the Division of Conciliation of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Here's how this body works: A dispute over speed of operations arises in a textile mill. Representatives of management and labor argue and reach no agreement. The Division of Conciliation offers its services and they are accepted. A government technical expert comes to the scene.

He makes a detailed stop-watch study of the operation in question. Then he makes studies of similar operations in other textile mills—in as many as 15 or 20, sometimes. He comes back, calls in both sides, and explains his findings.

By showing how the operation-speed in the local mill compares with the average for similar plants, and by calling on his own technical knowledge to suggest ways in which adjustments can be made, he usually is able to suggest a speed which both sides agree is fair.

Sometimes he is able to show that by slowing down the speed at the spot which has caused the trouble, it will be possible to increase the speed at another point in the operations. By suggesting readjustments in operations, he can show how an increased speed will profit both worker and employer.

DISPUTE SETTLED, NO FACE LOST
In any case, the point is that his arbitration is accepted. On the one hand, union grievances which arise over questions of speed are settled without strikes. On the other, the management is able to make concessions, where concessions are advisable, without in any way admitting that labor is entitled to a voice in setting the policy of the company.

It is admitted that the auto and textile industries are not exactly parallel, and that a procedure which might be fairly simple in the one could be extremely complicated in the other.

For one thing, tremendous sums of money are involved in an auto factory, and costs are shared with micrometers. A saving of a third of a cent on one operation and half a cent on another can mean a difference of millions of dollars on the year's balance sheet.

The thing that has been established in the textile industry is that determination of the speed at which certain operations are to be conducted can be made a matter of collective bargaining negotiations. This can be done without implying that a union has an actual or a theoretical right to exercise a voice in shaping management policies.

Within limits, the matter can be classed with the setting of hour and pay schedules. To that extent, the record in textiles may be a useful guidepost to the auto industry.

SERIAL STORY JOAN OF ARKANSAS

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOAN JOHNSON—a mysterious, good, glamorous girl of the Tech campus.

KEITH RHODES—Tech's star halfback, headed for All-America honors.

DAN WEBBER—the blocking back who clears Keith's way; a steady, industrious student.

Yesterday: Joan's plan to burn the hideout works. She breaks a jar of coal-oil, sets it afire. In the confusion she reaches Sam's gun, covers Big Ed. Dan, freed, takes care of Sam as he hurries into the house. Dan herds the two kidnapers into the car, orders Joan to drive to town.

CHAPTER XXVIII
From every direction, people streamed toward the great Tech stadium. It was like a pilgrimage, with the huge concrete horse-shoe as their mecca.

Tommy Peters, leaning upon his megaphone, started up at the stands. "They'll hit 75,000 sure today," he remarked to an assistant.

Suddenly his eyes froze on a spot six or seven rows above him. There sat Rocco Petrone! Tommy dropped his megaphone. "Take over till I get back!" he yelled, and dashed for the Tech dressing rooms.

There was still 20 minutes before the kickoff. It was a bare chance, but Rocco Petrone might be able to lead them to Joan and Dan. . . . Tommy swore excitedly as he raced to tell Bill Slocum.

He raced across the running track. Just as he approached the gate on the other side of the field he almost stumbled from shock. Dan Webber and Joan Johnson, escorted by three policemen, were being rushed into the stadium.

Tommy shrieked and dashed toward them. "No time for talk now," Dan howled happily. "Gotta get dressed." He hurried toward the tunnel.

leading to the dressing rooms, suddenly stopped and ran back to Joan. He grasped her shoulders, his eyes sparkling. "This'll have to do until later." He kissed her hastily and dashed off again.

Tommy howled and threw his arms around Joan. He shrieked in her ear but she hardly noticed. Her eyes swam with happiness as she watched Dan disappear into the tunnel.

"Hey, snap out of it . . . wake up!" Tommy pleaded. "What . . . ? Where . . . ? O'com, tell me something or I'll pass out!" She told him as much as she could in a rush of words. It didn't occur to her that she ought to be resting now. This was no time for convalescence. She'd call her father just as soon as she could get to a phone.

Tommy stopped short. "Tell me . . . was there a guy named Rocco . . . ?" "Rocco?" she echoed. "Yes, but how did you . . . ?" "Wait here," he ordered. "Don't cross the field yet!"

Never had there been such a scene in the Tech dressing room. Tears actually flooded Bill Slocum's eyes as he smothered Dan in his arms. Joe Donchek danced around in his stocking feet and howled in native Irish. They all acted like a bunch of Comanches, hurling helmets into the air in their delirium.

It took Dan just one minute to convince Slocum he was strong enough to play. Slocum slapped him on the back and shoved him toward his locker.

Keith came over and embraced him. "Gee, it's swell to have you back, Danny boy." "Thanks, pal. We're gonna take these guys, aren't we? Any new stuff?"

Very little. Keith informed him. "We'll steer you on one new formation . . . and you know all the old stuff." Dan felt like telling him that wasn't all he knew, but let Keith find out for himself, he figured.

The public address system had broken the news about Dan and Joan, and when the Tech squad raced onto the field, a bedlam of sound arose.

"Get yourself warmed up good," Johnny White advised. "You're probably a little soft and this is gonna be murder."

He wasn't far from right. Barney Hughes won the toss and chose to kick off. The referee blew the whistle, the Tech line moved forward, and Tony Mangano sent the ball end over and down to the five.

There was a roar as Hal Forrest took it, moved in behind his interference and started up field under a full head of steam. There was a flash of maroon as Joe Donchek, chortling like a kid with a new toy, smashed in from the side and brought him down on the 14.

Joe got up chattering furiously. "Okay, Danny boy . . . welcome home . . . that one was for you . . . let's get 'em . . . let's get 'em, Danny boy!"

The rest of them took up the cue as they lined up. Dan almost had to fight to keep the tears back. He knew how they felt.

Pitt went into a single wing to the right. The Tech line shifted out with them. Dan sneezed up just behind his tackle when the ball was snapped, and was right in his diagnosis. They thundered toward an opening but Dan knifed through and dropped the runner on the line of scrimmage.

Marty Gallagher helped Dan to his feet. "I hoped you'd make the first one . . . I hoped you would!"

The first few exchanges of downs indicated what was to come. There was to be a defensive battle. They had to stop Forrest and McCarroll and wait for a break of their own.

Dog Chats

TRAINING METHODS
By Horace Lytle

When I go from one field trial to another or when I go out after birds with some of my friends and acquaintances I can't help observing how their dogs behave. From the actions of the dogs at work I can get a pretty good idea of how they have been trained and whether the owner has used force methods, natural methods or let the dog get along like Topsy. I haven't anything against force methods with some dogs if by force methods physical punishment is not indicated. It shouldn't be necessary to submit any dog to mistreatment that may break his spirit and ruin him forever. Some dogs react to one style of instruction and some to another.

Some owners forget that their dogs, while highly intelligent, are actually aren't as smart as humans. They expect too much of their dogs. I hate to see such owners and don't go out with the type a second time if I can help it.

I always try to make close pals out of my dogs and figure that if I go out of my way to get to understand them they will be inclined to go out of their way to try to please me and to follow my commands and desires.

I talk to them a lot and yet don't overdo the conversation and I think they understand much of what I say to them. At least they react so well that they certainly appear to know what it is all about.

Don't get the idea that I ever let a dog get away with disobedience and that I am not a strict disciplinarian. I insist on obedience but feel that I can get it best without using punishing methods or subjecting my dogs to physical abuse. They seem to appreciate my thoughtfulness of them and return my kindness by their good work.

I like to begin working with my dogs when they are young and am very patient with them until they have had ample opportunity to learn the lessons I put them through. They don't get high school and college work before they have been well grounded in what it is all about. They learn their duties by regular stages and as they absorb what I teach them are given more difficult lessons. Nothing is done hurriedly for with dogs patience is as great a virtue as in any other contacts. Without boasting I am proud of what my dogs can do and think that treating them reasonably is the cause of their fine performances.

MISSION IS SUCCESS
Vulcan — The mission which opened last Sunday at St. Barbara's church in Vulcan will be closed with a service at 7:30 Sunday night. According to the Rev. Fr. George LaForest, the mission has been a notable success. Last night, despite a steady downpour, the church was filled to capacity.

Anticipating an overflow attendance at the service Sunday night, Father LaForest has arranged for extra chairs and benches. The mission will close with a candle-light ceremony at which the congregation will renew its baptismal vows and receive the Papal blessing.

The Most Rev. Joseph Casimir Piagens, bishop of Marquette, a guest at the service last evening, expressed pleasure at the manner in which the congregation and its friends have supported the mission.

The bishop, who gave the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in addition to his personal blessing, was assisted by the Rev. Fr. Joseph Schaul, of Gladstone, as deacon, and the Rev. Fr. Joseph Guertin of Escanaba, as subdeacon. The Rev. Fr. Norbert Rank, of Florence, was master of ceremonies, and the Rev. Fr. Albert Helster, of Iron Mountain, attendant to the bishop.

NEARS PARK STATUS
Houghton—Isle Royale, according to George Baggley, representative in charge, is rapidly approaching National Park status. Only one tract of land remains to be acquired and it is expected this transfer will be made before the end of the year. Formal dedication of the island as a National Park is scheduled for next summer.

Readers Comment On Thanksgiving Holiday Change

What do you think about the changing of Thanksgiving from Nov. 30 to Nov. 23 this year?

Conan E. Fisher, teacher, Gladstone high school—Looking back, just this week, into the history of Thanksgiving I discovered this: A date was never definitely settled. It was precedent that established the date we celebrated so many years. It was merely coincidence that George Washington proclaimed the last Thursday in November. The first Thanksgiving was held in October. The second year the pilgrims forgot all about it for a few years. They celebrated again for a few years, then again it was forgotten for 30 or 40 years. During the Civil War in 1863 Abraham Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday in November as a thanksgiving day. However, it wasn't observed as a national holiday. It was left to the discretion of the various states.

The thing that cuts to the quick is the fact that our merchants take the real spirit of Thanksgiving away from Thanksgiving due to the fact that they are taking a mercenary aspect by extending the annual Christmas display period one week longer. Thereby forgetting the real Thanksgiving spirit which goes without saying is a time when we give thanks for spiritual blessings.

George E. Johnson, manager, J. C. Penny Co., Gladstone—Every merchant will agree that the 23rd of November for Thanksgiving Day is more favorable to business. I like that date because we have an extra week to retail our Christmas gift merchandise.

The Thanksgiving holiday is designated by proclamation every year and it is only by custom that the last Thursday in November has been set aside for Thanksgiving.

Next year the dates will be straightened out. This year it has proved to be an inconvenience because it came without much notice.

Mrs. Hugh McMillan, housewife—The 30th of November was established as a day of Thanksgiving and I think it should remain that way.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are holidays that should not be commercialized. They should not be considered from that standpoint. It spoils the true spirit of the day.

Miss June Rosenblum, teacher, 1st Ward school, Gladstone—It really doesn't seem like Thanksgiving is only about 10 days away.

But we are glad they left it on a Thursday anyway.

A. T. Sohlberg—We have ample reasons to be grateful. We have reason to be thankful for 3000 miles of water on each side of us; for unfortified borders; and for the privilege of living without fear. We have reason to be grateful that we have room enough for our people and resources to provide for their needs. Our present day problems are not because of dearth, but by reason of our surpluses. We have reason to be grateful that we are ruled by proclamation instead of by decree; for the privilege we have of dissenting.

I am not greatly disturbed by the fact that the president has seen fit to select another date for our annual Thanksgiving festival. It is our privilege to break with tradition, if we wish. In my opinion the date should be advanced to about the 30th of October. It would break up the last half year I think a little more practically. About two months from the Fourth of July to Labor Day. About the same length of time to Thanksgiving, and a similar period until New Year, the only legal holiday at the mid-winter season. In the meantime we have 364 or 365 full days in which to be thankful beside the one set aside by presidential proclamation.

In Memoriam
 In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Aldage Gorr, who passed away one year ago, November 13, 1938.
 You had no one a last farewell. You said goodbye to none. Your loving heart had ceased to beat. Before we knew it, you were gone. More and more each day we miss you. Friends may think our wound is healed. But they little know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed.
 Sadly missed by his parents,

Notre Dame And Michigan Are Victims Of Upsets

JUG IS DROPPED BY WOLVERINES

Much-Defeated Gophers Show Old-Time Pep for 20-7 Verdict

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP)—Much-defeated Minnesota, which has taken a gridiron cuffing most of the season, displayed some of its old-time power to crush Michigan, 20 to 7, here today before 64,945 shivering fans.

The Big Ten champions, experiencing one of their worst seasons in years, completely took the play away from the favored Wolverines by rolling up touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods. For Michigan, whose title hopes were blasted a week ago by an inspired Illinois eleven, it was the second successive loss in a season that began in brilliant fashion and now seems destined to end on a dismal note.

Title Hopes Glimmer

With the triumph went the "little brown jug," one of football's historic trophies, and hopes of the Wolverines for a chance at the Big Ten title.

Hardly had the customers settled in their seats before Minnesota, carrying the fight all the way, had a touchdown with Halfback Harold Van Every hitting pay dirt from two yards out after less than eight minutes of play.

From then until the third period the two teams battled on fairly even terms. Then Van Every's running mate, Halfback George Frank, cut loose with a 59-yard touchdown run that took the heart out of the scrappy Michigan crew.

Still the Gophers kept driving and in the final period, after a pass interception had given them the ball, they staged a 64-yard march down the field that ended with Bruce Smith, substitute halfback, and a star in his own right, going over from the two-yard line.

Michigan was a constant threat but the mighty men of the north held its highly touted offense in check until the last stanza when, in desperation, the Wolverines took to the air and scored when Halfback Tom Harmon fired a touchdown pass to Halfback Paul Kromer to climax a 73-yard drive.

Frank Sets Stage

Statistically, the Gophers had the better of it, piling up 252 yards from scrimmage to 33 to beat the Wolverines at their own expense. They tried only four passes—which they needn't have done—and gained nothing while the Wolverines completed 10 out of 30 tosses for 172 yards to keep them in the contest. The Wolverines had an edge in first downs, 11 to 10.

Frank, one of the speediest backs in the midwest, set the stage for the first Minnesota score when he got off a 61-yard boot, the first of two superb punts, that Kromer let roll out of bounds on the Michigan 4.

Michigan temporarily got out of trouble but the next exchange of kicks gave Minnesota the ball on the Michigan 39 and the drive was on.

On third down, with four to go, Frank took the ball on a reverse, circled around his left end, eluded Harmon, and went to the two-yard mark, where he was finally brought down by Kromer. Two plays netted less than a yard but on the third Van Every slid through his right tackle for the score. Quarterback Joe Mernik added the point from placement.

Kick Goes Wide

Thrice in the first half Michigan reached Minnesota territory. Twice the Gophers, supposedly weak defensively, held and another time stopped a drive with a pass interception by Van Every in the shadow of his own goal posts.

It looked for a time like anybody's ball game as the third period opened. Both teams exchanged kicks and then, with the ball on the Minnesota 39, Frank took things into his own hands.

On the second play after getting the ball the speedy Frank broke through his left tackle, reversed his field, pulling Michigan's secondary wide to his right, and ran 59 yards to the goal line without a hand being laid upon him. Mernik's extra point attempt was wide.

Michigan put on a spirited drive that carried to the Minnesota 26, lost the ball on downs, regained it and started another down field march that ended with Van Every intercepting a pass that touched off the Gophers' final march.

With the ball on the Minnesota 26, Bruce Smith hit around his right end for 32 yards, added 22 more several plays later that took him to Michigan's five, and then he over left tackle for the touchdown.

Harmon Fumbles

Desperate, Michigan took to the air, drove to the Minnesota 34 on the aid of a pass interference ruling and went over when Kromer took Harmon's third-down pass on the 20-yard line as Center Bob Bjorklund stood watching him and scooted down the sidelines with pursuers hot on his trail.

A few minutes later Michigan, mainly on passes, drove to the Minnesota 19, where Harmon fumbled on fourth down, the Gophers recovering. Minnesota started out again, going 61 yards to Michigan's 18, before losing the ball on downs, a few seconds be-

Trojans Clout Stanford, 33-0

Southern California On Way to Bowl, Clinches Tilt in First Half

BY ROBERT MYERS

Los Angeles, Nov. 11 (AP)—Southern California's mighty Trojans, driving like a juggernaut along the road to the Rose Bowl, routed Stanford today in the biggest demonstration of scoring since the ancient rivals began their grid relations back in 1905. The final score was Southern California 33; Stanford 0.

The game was played—and thoroughly decided—in the first half. The warriors of Troy, performing before 59,000 fans in this Pacific Coast conference encounter, scored one touchdown in the first quarter, added three more in the second and with a powerful display of strength on the ground and in the air, quit the field at half time with a 27-0 lead.

Long before the score reached this all-time high, however, Coach Howard Jones was playing fourth, fifth and sixth string subs.

Star of the game, if one outstanding man could be singled out of the Trojan machine, was Grenville Lundseld, with big Harry Smith, running guard, soaking when the soaking was needed.

Lundseld engineered the first drive, a 72-yard affair, and counted the initial touchdown. He came back in the third period to buffet Stanford further with aerial skill, and after passing the team 60 yards, scored on an end run from the four. His were the first and last touchdowns of the game, which dragged on so the arc lights were turned on.

As soon as Lundseld left the lineup, Amby Schindler took his place, led the charge and passed for the second touchdown. Doyle Nave rushed in to relieve Schindler, and he accounted for two touchdowns—one personally, the other on a short but certain pass to sub Halfback Phil Duboski.

IRISH TRIPPED BY IOWA, 7-6

Successful Drop Kick By Kinnick Brings Winning Margin

BY L. E. SKELLEY

Iowa City, Iowa, Nov. 11 (AP)—Iowa's fighting iron men toppled proud Notre Dame from the ranks of the country's undefeated football teams today. The durable Hawks, eight of whom played the full 60 minutes, snapped Notre Dame's six-game winning streak by a 7 to 6 score in an exciting, pulse tingling game that had 46,000 fans standing for the last four minutes.

Durable Nile Kinnick, who completed his fifth straight game without relief, sent the Hawkeyes into a 7 to 0 lead with a four yard touchdown plunge and a successful drop kick for the extra point with only 40 seconds remaining in the second period.

Iowa had recovered a fumble to get the scoring chance.

The Hawks fought off Notre Dame until late in the third period. The fighting Irish climaxed the surge with Milt Piepul's cutback through center from the four yard line for a touchdown on the second play in the fourth period.

Extra Point Missed

Lou Zontini dropped back to try for that big extra point that would have meant a tie. He took careful aim but the big halfback, whose points after touchdown beat Southern Methodist and Carnegie Tech, booted the ball to the left of the goal posts.

That was all for the Irish. The game that had scheduled for a breather backfired to end Notre Dame dreams of its first undefeated season since Knute Rockne's last Irish team won the national championship in 1938.

The Iowa victory also duplicated the performance of the 1921 Hawkeye eleven which whipped the Irish 10 to 7 to crack a 20-game winning streak.

It was a terrific break that set the stage for Iowa's touchdown but the fighting Hawkeyes, who had only one scoring opportunity, beat back every Irish drive except for the fourth quarter thrust.

Just when it appeared that the first half would result in a scoreless tie, Kinnick tossed a long pass into the end zone. Steve Sisko, the Irish safety, intercepted the ball, raced back into the playing field and then apparently tried to lateral when he saw that he was cornered by the onrushing Iowans. He was cracked hard by Bruno Andruska and the ball went flying. Alert Dick Evans and Floyd Dean pounced on the oval and it was Iowa's ball on the Irish four-yard line.

Tossed for Loss

Kinnick and Dean tried the stout Notre Dame line but were piled up without gain. Then Kinnick, shifting over to right halfback from his customary left half slot, hit over Notre Dame's right tackle for the touchdown.

The Iowa backfield star dropped-kicked the extra point to give Iowa a lead it never lost.

Notre Dame, which switched from black jersey to Irish green in the second half, drove 59 yards midway in the third but saw its scoring threat choked off when husky Al Coupee, Hawkeye quarterback, tossed Harry Stevenson for a nine-yard loss after the Irish had reached the 16-yard line.

Notre Dame couldn't recover that lost ground. Kinnick knocked down Stevenson's pass and the Irish backfield ace tried a field goal from the 30-yard line but it was far short.

The Irish, however, weren't through. Getting the ball in mid-field a few minutes later, they opened their touchdown drive. Stevenson hurled a pass to Bill Herr who was downed on the Iowa 23. Piepul, the hard driving halfback, and Stevenson pounded to the Hawkeye 10 as the third period ended.

Aerial Thrusts Fall

On the first play in the fourth quarter Stevenson cracked off Iowa's left tackle for six yards and Piepul followed through with his touchdown smash. Hopes for a tie, however, went glimmering when Zontini missed the try for extra point.

Notre Dame never got into scoring position again, although they tried desperately to maneuver in position throughout the remainder of the quarter. At the end, however, the Irish were deep in their own territory trying frantically to get off a long successful forward pass and stave off defeat.

Notre Dame had the edge in first downs 8 to 4 and piled up 168 yards by rushing to 177 for the Hawks. Iowa attempted only one pass and it was intercepted but turned into the break that won the game.

The Irish tried 16 times to connect through the aerial route, completing two for a total gain of 43 yards.

In the first half Notre Dame shot past the 50-yard line six times, but the farthest point reached was the 32-yard line. Meanwhile, Iowa got beyond midfield only twice.

The victory gave Iowa a record of five triumphs in six starts. The Hawks have beaten South Dakota, Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue and Notre Dame. They lost to Michigan.

Notre Dame had knocked off Purdue, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech and Army before today's battle.

Touchdown Passes Humble Detroit U.

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—Boston college's massive football machine completed only three passes today but two were good for touchdowns and the University of Detroit went down to defeat 20 to 13 in an inter-sectional conflict played before a crowd of 10,342.

Charlie O'Rourke, halfback from Malden, Mass., was on the throwing end of both of the touchdowns and set up the other score with a successful 15 yard toss.

It was the sixth win in seven engagements for the Boston Eagles, who were fought on even terms for almost three periods by a light Detroit eleven that was forced to rely almost entirely on aerials because of the power of the easterners' line.

Kansas State Bows To Oklahoma, 13-10

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 11 (AP)—Oklahoma squeaked through with a 13 to 10 win over Kansas State today for its eighth straight Big Six victory. Beryl Clark and Bob Seymour scored the counters for the Sooners. Don Crumbaker tallied the Kansas State touchdown after Jim Brock's first period placement put the Wildcats ahead.

Record Crowd Sees Alabama Fall, 13-0

New Orleans, La., Nov. 11 (AP)—Tulane's Green Wave, featuring a sensational 69-yard touchdown sprint by Halfback Harry Hays, defeated Alabama's Crimson Tide, 13 to 0, today before a record southern crowd of 52,000 spectators. Tulane's triumph kept the Green Wave among the nation's undefeated teams.

Favorites In Football Find Traveling Rough

BY HERB BARKER

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—There was no Armistice for football's favorites today.

Notre Dame, Dartmouth, Kentucky and Catholic all were beaten for the first time as a half dozen other prime favorites bit the dust in the first great upset Saturday of the season.

The proverbial luck of the Irish finally deserted Notre Dame for Elmer Layden's South Bend outfit lost to Iowa's Hawkeyes by the margin of a point after touchdown, 7-6. Nile Kinnick, Iowa's great back, playing his fifth successive game without relief, scored the Hawkeye touchdown and drop kicked the decisive point.

Notre Dame drove over a fourth quarter touchdown but Lou Zontini "blew" the extra point.

Dartmouth, hailed as Cornell's only real rival in the Ivy league, bowed to Princeton, 9-7 while Kentucky's Wildcats dropped a 13-6 decision to Georgia Tech and Catholic, previously unbeaten and untied, was soundly whipped by St. Anselm's, 39-13.

There were other surprises but the upset parade failed to catch up with Tennessee, Tulane, North Carolina, Cornell, Oklahoma and Texas A. and M., all of whom remained unbeaten.

Texas A. and M. barely got past Southern Methodist, 6-2, in a great battle at College station that just about decided the Southwest conference championship and Cornell needed two extra points to stop Colgate's Red Raiders, 14-12. Oklahoma likewise foun the going tough before it could get past Kansas State, 13-10, but Tennessee and North Carolina won as they pleased. Tennessee whipped the Citadel, 34-0, and North Carolina pushed over Davidson, 32-0. Harry Hays' 69-yard run helped Tulane to a 13-0 victory over Alabama.

Missouri, which faces Oklahoma next week in the game that will virtually settle the Big Six title, provided the high-light of a slender inter-sectional program, trouncing New York university, 20-7, as Paul Christian scored two touchdowns, passed for the other and generally outplayed his N. Y. rival, Ed Boell. The East dropped another inter-sectional decision when Villanova bowed to Auburn, 19-5, but won three games. Fordham tripped Indiana 13-0 as Len Eshmont dashed 74 yards for one score; Duquesne nosed out North Carolina State, 7-0, to remain unbeaten and untied; and Boston college slipped Detroit, 20-13, on a fourth quarter pass by Charlie O'Rourke.

A crowd of 65,000 saw Minnesota upset favored Michigan, 20-7, in their annual struggle for the Little Brown Jug. Fred Montague's field goal gave Purdue a surprising 3-0 verdict over Northwestern as Illinois stopped Wisconsin, 7-0 on Jimmy Smith's 82-yard run, and Ohio State swamped Chicago as per schedule, 61-0. In the Big Six, Nebraska halted Kansas, 7-0, as Iowa State asbered a 21-2 beating from non-conference Marquette.

Baylor retained its slender chance for a share in the Southwest title by walloping Texas' Longhorns, 20-0, while Rice and Arkansas played to a 12-12 draw. Texas Christian won from Tulsa of the Missouri Valley conference, 16-0.

In the East, Penn State, Pitt and Harvard all overturned betting favorites. Pitt stopped Carnegie Tech, 6-0, on a pass from Edgar Jones to Bob Thurbon in the last two minutes; Penn State shocked the experts with a 10-0 decision over Penn, and Harvard swarmed all over Army to win, 15-0.

A late pass by Jack Naylor to Gus De Augustinis earned Columbia a 19-13 decision over Navy; Yale and Brown played to a 14-14 draw; Holy Cross won from Temple, 14-0 and Manhattan halted West Virginia, 19-7. Rutgers and Georgetown each remained unbeaten, the former winning the Middle Three title by beating Lafayette, 13-5, while Georgetown swamped Maryland, 20-0. Wesleyan defeated Williams, 13-0, and won the Little Three crown.

Georgia and Vanderbilt won Southeastern conference titles, the former from Florida, 6-2, and Vanderbilt from Sewanee, 25-7.

Form prevailed in the Southern conference as Duke stopped Virginia Military, 20-7; Furman beat South Carolina, 20-0; Clemson's fine team smashed through Wake Forest, 20-7, and unbeaten Richmond won from Virginia Tech, 13-0.

Also rolling along the undefeated trail, Southern California's Trojans buried Stanford under a 33-0 cover, worst licking Stanford ever got in this series. In other Pacific coast conference games, Oregon State outlasted Oregon in a brilliant duel, 19-14, and Washington upset California's bears, 13-6. Washington State took a decision from non-conference Idaho, 21-13.

Michigan State put up a fine battle against Santa Clara but, finally surrendered to the Broncos, 6-0.

Denver won from Colorado State, 13-6, in the leading Mountain states conference game. Brigham Young and Utah State played to a scoreless tie. Utah crushed Hawaii, 34-19.

Eskymos Beat Gladstone; Cinch Peninsula Title

SCORE EIGHTH VICTORY IN ROW

Don Pfothenauer Sparks Locals to 38-0 Win; Zervic Injured

Escanaba high school grid- ders today stand as undisputed champions of the Upper Peninsula.

The Eskymos climaxed a strenuous campaign before about 2,500 people yesterday afternoon by rolling up a 38-0 score over Gladstone for their eighth consecutive victory of the season and kept their goal line uncrossed.

In spite of the score, Gladstone proved a stubborn foe. They gave up one touchdown in each of the first three quarters before their lack of reserve strength began to tell. In the final period, the Eskymos, with three sensational, lightning-like drives, pushed across three touchdowns to make the game a rout but Gladstone came back with a threatening rally as the game ended.

Merle Opens Scoring
The Eskymos repeated the performance in the second period, the red headed younger brother blasting through for the touch- down from a 13 yard line after tackling and maneuvering through the Uppay secondary. Barron's at- tempted kick was wide.

Gladstone Threatens
Gladstone made a serious threat in the second period. Zervic, Uppay fullback, returned the kick- off to the 49 yard stripe. On a fake punt, Zervic passed to Arley for a first down on the 34 yard line. Three line plays failed, however, and Zervic punted to the 18.

The third Eskymo score came midway in the third quarter on a sustained drive from midfield with the aid of a 24 yard pass from Merle Pfothenauer to Barron, which brought the ball to the 30 yard stripe. On two smashes, Don took the ball to the 12 and Merle, with a terrific drive, smashed over for the score. Merle then passed for the extra point to Barron, the period ending, 19-0.

Worn down by continued pound- ing from the husky Escanaba for- wards, the Gladstone defense crashed in the final period to allow three Eskymo touchdowns. Don Pfothenauer, who was the shining light all afternoon with his sensational slashes off tackle, set off the fireworks with a 35 yard jaunt through tackle to the 29 yard line. Here the elder brother passed to Goymerac to the nine yard line for a first down. Don carried it to the six yard line on a weak side play and Craig cracked over left tackle behind nice blocking for the touchdown. Pepin's kick hit the goal post.

Barron in Nifty Run
One of the most sensational plays of the game came a minute later. After Gladstone received the kickoff, they tossed a pass which was intercepted by Keith McDonald, reserve center, on the 40 yard line. Merle Pfothenauer faded back and tossed a pass down the middle to Bobby Barron, quarter- back, who scored after a beauti- ful, twisting run of 20 yards. Dur- ing the jaunt, Barron apparently was stopped several times but al- ways managed to slip out of the grasp of the Uppay tacklers. An attempted pass failed on the extra point and Escanaba led, 31-0.

Two plays later, Escanaba racked up its final touchdown on a brilliant run off tackle by the red-headed Don Pfothenauer, whose clever footwork and timing com- pletely fooled the Gladstone se- condary. The run went for 54 yards. The Eskymos dragged out the ancient Statue of Liberty pass for the extra point. Bobby Barron faking a pass and Roy Cross, left end, coming around behind to take the ball from his outstretched hand and dash off tackle for the extra point.

2 Passes Completed
Passes from Knutsen to Min- nick and Knutsen to McGeary and a first down run by Lindahl took the ball to the 35 yard line for Gladstone where the game ended. Except for the first half when they looked doggy, the Eskymos played good ball and, with the exception of Don Pfothenauer, it would be difficult to name any outstanding performer. The line, led by Ray Pepin, tackle, and Jimmy Davidson, center, played a bang-up game and the backs drove hard and fast.

For Gladstone, Zervic played his usual good game at fullback before being injured and taken from the game. He did not get in- to the fray in the second half. Thompson, Uppay captain, played a sterling game at end while Knutsen's running and passing was the bright light of the Glad-

It Took A Lot Of Figuring To Build Eskymos To Champs But Coach Ruwitch Is Good At Figures -- He's A Math Teacher

Coach George Ruwitch's Escanaba high school grid- ders finished one of the greatest seasons in Escanaba history yesterday with a victory over Gladstone, which clinched the

It takes a lot of "figgerin'" to produce a winning football team — but then, George Ruwitch should be good at figures because he is a mathematics teacher.

When Ruwitch assumed his duties as head coach of the Escanaba high school football team after Carl Nordberg had resigned to coach at Saginaw Eastern, he was faced with a problem much more difficult than any concocted in his geometry or trig classes. Of course, he was familiar with prop- erties of lines and that helped a lot. He knew his angles, too—and coaches must know every angle of the game. So, after getting a line on things by exploring all angles, Ruwitch put his mathematician's analytical mind to work on the big problem before him—how to de- velop a winning football team with but two regulars back from last year's team.

Won Peninsula Title
Just how successfully Ruwitch solved his problem may be found in the fact that his Escanaba high school football team yesterday after- noon clinched the mythical Upp- er Peninsula championship with a victory over Gladstone, its eighth consecutive victory of the season.

When he called his gridders to- gether this fall, Ruwitch found himself with one regular back, Capt. Merle Pfothenauer, and one regular lineman, Ray Pepin, from last year's team which had led but one game. Those two boys were a delight to any coach, but, after all, they were only two in number and it takes eleven play- ers to make a team. So Ruwitch got busy.

The new Eskymo mentor took Bobby Barron, halfback who had shown flashes of brilliance for two seasons but who had divided playing time last year with Ver- non Anderson, and shifted him to quarterback post to utilize his smartness, his brilliant blocking and his pass receiving ability. Giving him plenty of leeway, Ru- witch developed Barron into one of the finest quarterbacks in the peninsula as well as in Escanaba history. Capt. Merle Pfothenauer remained at his left halfback po- sitions, where he developed into the outstanding back of the year in the peninsula. Ruwitch installed Merle's young red-headed brother, Don, at the fullback post and the latter proved a climax runner of great value to the Eskymos, win- ning the Stambaugh game with a long run for the only score of the game and teaming up with his brother to form the most potent ball carrying duo in the penin- sula. Bob Craig, sprinter, and Stuart Peterson, both juniors, di- vided the right halfback duties with little to choose between them, both fitting in very well with the backfield combination.

Line Is Powerful
Ruwitch built his line around 204 pound Ray Pepin, only regu- lar holdover who was shifted from guard to tackle and who was one of the most outstanding linemen in the peninsula. The Eskymo line was a formidable stone wall all year, its hard charging aggres- siveness throwing back every op- ponent with but little difficulty and holding opponents scoreless. Very few yards were gained through it all year. Paired up with Pepin at tackle was Wilbur Leon- ard, 185 pound senior reserve from last year.

Foy Arbour and Dick Van Effen, reserves, became regular guards and were aided materially during the season by Sammy Saykly, transformed fullback. Jimmy Davidson, who saw only limited service on Nordberg's last team, was elevated to the center spot and was pretty much of a 60 minute player, being an accurate pass- er on offense and a good line back- er on defense.

Roy Cross, reserve last year, and Nick Goymerac, who came up from the second team, were paired at the end posts and made a fine flank combination. Cross was the pass catcher and there were few finer in the peninsula in all around play. Leonard Fedrow, re- serve last year, was hampered all year with an infected eye but he did great work in spelling off Goy- merac and saw much action.

13 Players Graduate
These fourteen boys carried the brunt of the Eskymo fortunes this fall but eight other members of the squad saw action and gave the regulars tough competition in practice. They were: Kositzke, quarterback; Kozar, guard; Mc- donald, center; Nyberg, end; Stein, halfback; Seymour, halfback; Shallman, tackle, and Sattem, back.
Those who played their last game yesterday were: Capt. Merle Pfothenauer, Van Effen, Leonard,

Kingsford Upsets Iron Mountain By Score of 19 to 6

Iron Mountain, Mich., Nov. 11.—Sparked by John McCarney, hard running halfback who has been out of the game for most of the season on account of injuries, Coach Vic Wojcikowski's Kings- ford high school grid- ders pulled an upset here this afternoon by defeating Iron Mountain, 19-6.

Kingsford scored its three touchdowns in the first quarter and then staved off a determined Iron Mountain attack. McCarney scored touchdowns on a 15 yard run and a 24 yard jaunt, both around end while Johnson scored from the 21 yard stripe on a re- verse.

Iron Mountain came back strong in the second half to score on a five yard smash by Manko and to threaten several times.

Badminton Players Have Homecoming In Recreation Hall

Badminton enthusiasts playing at the senior high school every Monday night have approved a definite procedure relative to the birds used during play. In the future, these birds will be supplied by the Department of Parks and Recreation and if the person partici- pating during the evening does not have a bird, he will be assessed ten cents toward replacement.

Monday's special feature will be badminton homecoming night, and all former enthusiasts or those who have been intending to participate but who have not done so, are invited to be present. The largesse this year has been the largest that it has been in the past three years, and all members are enthusiastically looking forward to a successful season.

The church dart ball league will really go into high gear this week with four teams participat- ing. The new addition will be the St. Stephen's Episcopal church which is entering with one of the most powerful teams seen in ac- tion this year. Tony Chapekis is the star of the team. He made nine hits in fifteen tries at a practice game last Wednesday night.

In last week's play, the Bethany Lutheran defeated the Central Methodist two straight. Due to the fact that there were only three teams, former victories will not be counted in the standings, and the league will officially start with this week's play. The complete schedule is as follows:

Tuesday—First Methodist vs. Central Methodist at Central Methodist.
Thursday—Bethany Lutheran vs. St. Stephens at Bethany Luth- eran.

MARINETTE AND MENOMINEE TIE

Favored Marines Held Scoreless; Barefoot Punter Stars

Marinette, Wis., Nov. 11.—An inspired Menominee football team rose to new heights of gridiron glory here this afternoon by stop- ping a favored Marinette eleven with a scoreless tie in the 43rd renewal of the Twin City series, before a crowd of 7,000.

A harder charging Maroon line smacked down Marinette almost all afternoon as overconfidence, creeping into Marine ranks for the last three weeks, led heavily to shake Dave Knutsen, flashy back, away for any appreciable gains and had to be content with a me- dlor passing attack in the final minutes for their only serious threat.

Bill Dufrane rifled two com- pleted passes to Harry Delorme. One for a 14-yard gain to put them in scoring position, and the other for 17 yards that would have been good for a touchdown, but was called back by Big Ten officials who covered the game when Marinette backs were in motion. Delorme took the ball and ran ten yards into the end zone.

Menominee lost its only chance to score in the third quarter when they were held for downs on the Marinette three-yard stripe with less than a yard to go. The 60- yard Maroon drive was started with a 35-yard sleeper pass, Jack Reffling to Harold Hansen.

Menominee outgained Marinette 132 yards to 127, and broke even on first downs with seven apiece. Barefoot Johnny Butts contin- ually set Marinette back on the defensive with his booming punts after Marinette's Bob Brown had to give up his kicking duties when he injured his leg. Dufrane and Hansen were unable to compete with Butts in the punting depart- ment.
