

GERMANY SPURNS PEACE MEDIATION

TRUCE LEAVES DEMOCRATS IN SAME SPLITUP

FUTURE OF PARTY HINGED UPON THIRD TERM

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—The end of the political truce finds the Democratic party pretty much where it was when that fabulous intermission began—split down the middle by Roosevelt policies and the future turning pretty much on the third term question.

Armistice for 6 Weeks
As such, it was generally considered to have been a success. And as one by-product, something may have been gained for the Democratic party by the fact that for six weeks or so there was no name-calling, no slapping at the president by anti-new deal Democrats, and no slapping back from the White House.

For that length of time, at least, it brought a lapse in a trend of events which promised to turn next June's convention into such a savage melee as the Democrats have never known. It was, it will be recalled, only a short time before the war abroad began that Mr. Roosevelt infuriated his foes within the party by his announcement that no conservative party nominee could expect his support.

Issues Unchanged
How much longer the beautiful surface serenity of the party can be continued has now become a question of great uncertainty.

Underlying the truce was the desire to keep the party on a quiet talk with almost any of the anti-new deal Democrats in the senate would dispel such an idea at once. Because Senator Burke (D-Neb.) voted for the neutrality bill, and was willing to let politics go while it was up, does not mean that he now is reconciled to the national labor relations board. Because Senator Byrd (D-Va.) or his colleague Senator Glass, were for repealing the embargo, hardly signifies they are now ready to support pump priming expenditures, the issue on which the last regular session of congress ended.

A number of Democratic senators, who by their stands on one issue or a combination of issues have been rated as anti-Roosevelt, are obviously counting primarily on Vice President Garner to rescue them from the third-term threat, or the threat of the nomination of a man pledged to carry on with the new deal program.

Garnerites in Action
And the truce, being a surface affair, did not mean any abatement in the quiet, intensive activities of campaign managers—Garner's among them—customary to this season of the pre-convention campaign. The Garner people were in fact, busy in numerous states getting things lined up for the convention proper.

Obviously, the Garnerites must have felt encouraged—or alarmed—at what they found. For the neutrality act had scarcely been signed and the truce ended, than the vice president's managers passed the word that the Garner name would be presented to the convention, whether Mr. Roosevelt

Daily Cost Of War Is 100 Million

BY E. C. DANIEL
Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Europe's war is costing the belligerents possibly 100 million—a tenth of a billion—dollars a day in current cash outlay alone. Additional costs in losses of property, arms and commercial revenue cannot be computed now.

The 100 million is neither an official nor exact figure. It is merely an estimate made from the best information available here—and the best is none too good. The estimate may be far too high. On the other hand, war costs may rise even further, it and when wholesale destruction of men, guns, fortifications and ships begins.

However, data from several sources indicates that Germany, heading the list, may have spent $12,000,000,000 for war by the end of her fiscal year next March; Great Britain, her dominions and colonies, at least $5,562,000,000; and France, using a calendar year fiscal period, at least $2,194,758,000 by the end of 1939.

The 100 million-dollar figure was computed like this: By the end of March, Germany and the British Empire supposedly will have spent $17,362,000,000 for a war that began 211 days earlier on Sept. 2, or $81,800,000 a day. By the end of December, 120 days after the start of hostilities, France will have spent $2,194,758,000 or $18,200,000 a day. The total is $100,000,000 a day.

That figure does not take into account the billions that were spent in years prior to the German-British fiscal period of 1939-40 and the French year of 1939 for arms and ammunition now being expended on the Western front.

SHIP TRANSFERS TO BE OPPOSED

President Sees Trouble for Panama; Idle Seamen Aided

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—The WPA and the maritime commission announced plans today to assist some 13,000 seamen beached by the neutrality law, while President Roosevelt indicated he would refuse to permit transfer of eight liners to Panamanian registry.

The WPA announced that the relief quotas of five coastal cities are being increased so that 5,000 sailors may be added to the rolls. They will be assigned to waterfront improvement and similar projects.

The maritime commission said facilities for training 3,350 seamen a year are being made available to officers and crews of ships tied up by the neutrality act. While in training, officers will receive $125 and seamen $36 a month plus food, clothing, quarters, medical care and transportation.

President Roosevelt told his press conference that transfer of United States Lines vessels to the Panama flag so that they might ply the north Atlantic combat zone would violate the spirit of the neutrality law in part, and he added, there was another consideration which had been given little attention in public discussion of the proposal.

This, he said, whether the United States ought to put any sister American republic in a position of neutrality different from that of this nation. Some vessels, tankers, were transferred to Panama, but that was done before the neutrality law was passed, he said, and that was water over the dam.

Don't Slam Doors On Census Takers, Nation Is Warned

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins appealed to the nation today not to slam doors in the faces of the census takers who will canvass the country next spring. He made the appeal in letters to more than 7,000 mayors and chambers of commerce urging educational campaigns for cooperation with the census.

Pulaski, Wis., Sets Third Turkey Day

Pulaski, Wis., Nov. 14 (AP)—Dramatic fancies in this Brown county village now have a good excuse to tie into the turkey and "Gibbs" the Thursdays running. With President Roosevelt proclaiming Thanksgiving on Nov. 23 and Wisconsin's Governor Julius Hall specifying Nov. 30, the village fathers here—perhaps to be neutral—proclaimed a Nov. 14 observance.

Fire Destroys Oil Town In Venezuela, 800 Dead

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 14 (AP)—The oil town of Lagunillas, built on stilts on the edge of Lake Maracaibo and one of the major oil terminals in Venezuela, was destroyed last night by a fire in which more than 500 persons were reported dead or missing. Some estimates of the dead ranged as high as 800.

The flames were assumed to have spread quickly over the oil film on the lake in which hundreds of oil derricks stand. The fire roared through some 200 wooden shacks which had been built out over the water as homes of the oil workers of the great Lake Maracaibo field.

BOY ESCAPERS ARE ARRAIGNED

Mosinee Youth Captured at St. Ignace Insists He Is Only 14

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Nov. 14 (AP)—Nelson Pasha and Robert Noel, youths who escaped from Rapid Rapids officials last Friday night in a struggle after which Chief Roland S. Payne died, were arraigned in justice court today on charges of automobile theft.

District Attorney Fulton Colpp, of neighboring Adams county, where Payne died, said he would issue warrants against the boys but that there was a question whether Pasha's age would necessitate his case being taken into juvenile court.

When brought before Justice of the Peace George C. Jacobson, Pasha insisted he was only 14 years old, Noel said he was 17. They asked for a preliminary hearing, which was scheduled for Nov. 22. Bail was fixed at $2,500 each.

Washtenaw Clerk Is Convicted For Relief Embezzling

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Emmett M. Gibb, former Washtenaw county clerk, was convicted by a jury of seven men and five women today on a charge of embezzling relief funds handled through his office.

The jury deliberated 33 minutes. Gibb immediately was sentenced by Circuit Judge George W. Sample to a term of from five to 10 years in prison. Gibb, who resigned as county clerk last May, was accused of embezzling $5,547 in welfare funds, but was tried on only one count. Defense Attorney John W. Conlin said he would appeal to the state supreme court.

PRISON BREAK IS BLAMED ON MAN AT GATE

READ RECOMMENDS JACKSON GUARD BE RELIEVED

Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—Attorney General Thomas Read declared in a formal report to Governor Dickinson today that blame for the escape of six convicts from the state prison of southern Michigan November 5 after they had killed an inspector of guards rested entirely with Russell Day, a guard.

The attorney general recommended that Day be assigned to a job in the prison with little or no responsibility, or dismissed if no such spot could be found for him. Favoritism Charged

His report criticized state parole policies, and the civil service method of selecting guards. It spoke of protests by inmates that favoritism entered into relationships between prison officials and prisoners, and complaints that the menu was not sufficiently varied.

Read prepared the report at the governor's request after the convicts had shot and killed Guard Inspector Fred Boucher and fled through the main gate of the prison walls, at which Day was on guard.

The attorney general asserted Day disregarded rules that required him to ascertain who was at the gate before opening it, and to have a loaded pistol in his hands when he opened the gate. In addition, he told Dickinson, Day did not resist the convicts when they were through.

Outside Help Discounted
He said there was no evidence the prisoners had outside help, and did not mention speculations by Governor Dickinson that there might be some connection between the southern Michigan prison break and one September 25 at the Marquette branch prison in which a group of convicts captured four state officials.

In his investigation of the Marquette branch he recommended that Warden Marvin Coon be dismissed, but the corrections commission did not act on the report.

Read said there was no general unrest among southern Michigan prison inmates, and that he considered the break was due only to a "desperate" hope by the participants that they could "get away with it."

Civil Service Rapped
He asserted the inmates complained that the parole board pays too little attention to good conduct in prison when it awards paroles. He recommended that the board avoid "hard and fast" rules and place more of a premium on good conduct records.

Of the convicts' stories of favoritism, he said he was not very much impressed, declaring that probably was due to the fact that some of them were more likeable than others.

He was critical of the civil service system of choosing guards, asserting he "knew of no examination confined to the question and answer method which will reveal the virtues of courage and loyalty." He added that training school for guards is being conducted at prison, and recommended that it be continued.

Read assailed understaffing of the prison and said guards were underpaid.

ORE IN SWEDEN ATTRACTS NAZIS

Trade Talks Are Held Up By Plan to Put Mines Up to 3-Mile Limit

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 14 (AP)—Swedish-German trade negotiations were adjourned today and the chief of the German mission returned to Berlin.

Swedish foreign office officials said the negotiations would be resumed after "investigations" by both parties, but no date was set. Reliable informants said important points involved were the amount of ore to be exported to Germany, and the German desire to establish mine fields up to the three-mile limit of Swedish waters opposite the Danish coast.

Sweden opposes the latter plan because it would bar large steamers from Stockholm and other ports in the Gulf of Bothnia, and especially would block the transport of wood pulp westward except by more expensive rail routes to western ports.

Oil Firms Indicted For Juggling Price Of Retail Gasoline

Los Angeles, Nov. 14 (AP)—A special federal grand jury today indicted more than two score major and minor oil companies on charges of conspiring to control the price of retail gasoline in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

The indictments were returned after several months' investigation in which federal prosecutors sought to determine the reason for the "remarkable stability" shown in gasoline price for the past several years.

Among the companies indicted were Richfield Oil Corporation, Standard Oil Company, Tidewater Associated Oil Company, Union Oil Company of California, Gilmore Oil Company, Rio Grande Oil Company, Shell Oil Company and General Petroleum Corporation of California.

Inland Steel Gets Big Railroad Order

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—New York Central railroad announced today it has placed orders for 64,000 tons of steel rail and track accessories at a cost of $5,700,000 for delivery in 1940.

The rail order was divided among Bethlehem Steel, Carnegie Steel, Inland Steel and Algoma Steel companies.

With these contracts New York Central's purchases of equipment and heavy material in the last four months have been raised to more than $17,200,000.

Unionists On AFL Roster To Demand Work At Chrysler

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—The AFL division of the United Automobile Workers, declaring itself to be unconnected with the contract dispute between Chrysler corporation and the UAW-CIO, instructed its members today to assemble at gates of Chrysler's Plymouth plant at 7 a. m. tomorrow "and demand that they be permitted to work."

Homer Martin, UAW-AFL president, said this action would show that the AFL unionists and workers not affiliated with any union "have been put out of work through no fault of their own and are therefore entitled to their unemployment compensation."

The Michigan unemployment compensation commission ruled last week that the more than 58,000 Chrysler employees now idle as the corporation and union officers try to negotiate a new contract are not eligible for unemployment benefits.

Welfare Aid Available
Several hundred Plymouth employees appeared at the plant today, and Peter McGavin, AFL local union leader, said members of his group worked for an hour. A corporation spokesman said no employees had been called back to work and said "the Plymouth plant cannot operate until it obtains materials from the Dodge plant," which remains closed.

This spokesman added, however, that a "few employees" have been working on maintenance jobs.

A Plymouth UAW-AFL delegation appeared at noon at offices of the state unemployment compensation commission to demand benefits. John C. Townsend, secretary of the commission, said he instructed them to file an appeal from the commission's ruling with a referee, the procedure provided by statute.

The Detroit public welfare commission ruled today that idle Chrysler employees are eligible for welfare aid. Such employees, it said, would be certified to the WPA as employable and, if unassigned by WPA, would be available for jobs in the city's work-relief program. G. H. Harris, welfare superintendent, said 2,802 Chrysler employees had applied for relief to date.

INDUSTRY FEELS REAL COMEBACK

Statistician Sees Doubt of Ability to Keep Boom in Motion

Cleveland, Nov. 14 (AP)—There is no room for doubt "about the genuineness of this industrial revival," Col. Leonard P. Ayres said tonight, "but there is real doubt about the possibilities of keeping it going."

"Apparently there are only three sources from which it could receive enough motive power to sustain its upward progress for any considerable number of months," the Cleveland statistician observed in his monthly business review for the Cleveland Trust Co.

He listed these sources as "generally big war orders, increased large-scale pump-priming" and "an important increase in the volume of new capital issues."

He said it "seems unlikely" that warring nations will order here in volumes comparable to those of 1915-16. Pump expenditures probably will decrease and new capital issues depend "on such improved relations between government and business as will enhance the prospects for profits," Ayres asserted.

Schools In Toledo Close Up For Year As Funds Give Out

Toledo, O., Nov. 14 (AP)—Faced by a $600,000 deficit, the Toledo board of education tonight ordered all public schools closed Nov. 23 for the remainder of the year. The closing is a "mandate from the public," board members said, pointing out a four-mill tax levy for school purposes was defeated two to one in the Nov. 7 election. New revenue will become available after Jan. 1.

HITLER TURNS DOWN BELGIAN, DUTCH OFFERS

BITTER SEA WAR WITH ENGLAND REVIVED

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Adolf Hitler politely but firmly turned his back on peace mediation efforts by little Netherlands and Belgium yesterday. Simultaneously there was a revival of the bitter sea warfare between Britain and Germany.

The fuhrer's foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, made known Hitler's decision to say "No" in a polite manner to Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, and King Leopold of the Belgians, who extended their good offices for peace on Nov. 7.

Outlook Hopeless
Hitler was described as considering the possibility of peace nonexistent at the present time since Britain and France failed to accept the mediation offer. The allies previously had answered that any move for peace was up to Germany.

The British admiralty, which Monday night reported two German merchantmen had been scuttled by their own crews on being intercepted by British warships, disclosed last night that a German mine had sunk an unnamed destroyer—the fifth British war vessel lost since the start of the war. One crew member of the destroyer was killed, six were missing and 15 injured.

Norway Loses Tanker
The British also reported the sinking of three British merchant vessels and a Norwegian tanker, bring to 122 the number of ships sunk since the war began and the number of sailor dead to at least 1,875.

At least 28 persons were reported dead or missing in yesterday's three British merchant vessels sent to the bottom were the 8,003-ton Matra, the 275-ton trawler Crosswell and an unidentified craft. The Matra was believed to have struck a mine while the Crosswell's survivors said she was torpedoed.

The admiralty's announcement did not name the Norwegian tanker but from Oslo came a report that the tanker Kjoeda was torpedoed Sunday near British waters and 17 men, including her captain, were lost. A British trawler rescued 23 others. The tanker was said to have been carrying American oil to England.

Reds Through Lithuania
In eastern Europe, Soviet Russia sent the vanguard of 20,000 troops into Lithuania while the Finnish delegation journeyed homeward from Moscow after futile talks with the Soviets.

The Red soldiers moved into the right to establish army garrisons in the Baltic country. One of the posts occupied was between Kaunas, Lithuanian capital, and the German border.

In Helsinki, civilians who had been removed as a precautionary measure during the Russian talks were urged to remain away since "the causes which inspired the removal remain unchanged."

Both the German and French communiques disclosed that the warfare on the western front continued in the same pattern of the last few weeks—patrol clashes and reconnoitering.

Meanwhile, delegates to the first Pan-American conference of treasury department representatives, meeting in Guatemala, expressed wholehearted support of a Guatemalan call for closer economic unity among American republics in view of the European war.

TREMORS FELT IN NEW JERSEY

Four States Are Shaken But No Serious Loss Is Reported

Philadelphia, Nov. 14 (AP)—An earthquake of considerable intensity, apparently centering in southern New Jersey, shook a four-state area tonight.

Windows rattled. Buildings swayed. Dishes tumbled from shelves. Pictures fell from walls, but no serious damage was reported.

The Franklin Institute in Philadelphia said its seismograph showed the tremors began at 9:45 p. m. and lasted for approximately ten seconds.

An institute spokesman said the "quake was the most severe registered in this area in recent years. Reports from several seismographs will be necessary, he said, to locate the exact center of the disturbance.

The tremors were felt as far south as Bridgeton, N. J., as far west as Baltimore, and northward to Allentown, Pa., and Trenton, Riverton and Palmyra, N. J. Wilmington, Del., also reported a severe shaking.

A deep rumbling that resembled distant thunder accompanied the rocking and rattling of buildings.

Witness Says Kuhn Paid Doctor's Bill For Georgia Peach

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, who already had acknowledged paying out of the funds of his German-American bond the transcendent moving expenses of a woman friend, was declared today to have paid a $50 doctor bill for a second—the nine-times married Mrs. Virginia Cogswell.

Testifying for the state in Kuhn's trial on charges of theft of money from the bond, Dr. Francis La Sorsa described a professional call made upon Mrs. Virginia Overhiner Patterson Stark Von Freilager Seeger Gilbert Kahn Gould-Porter Kaplan Cogswell at 1 o'clock of the morning of Sept. 2, 1938.

The physician said Kuhn was present in the hotel room of "the Georgia peach"—so called because, although she came from Peoria, Ill., she won a beauty contest some years ago down south—and that at the end of the call the stout bundsfreier had written his name and the Bund's address on a prescription blank and directed that the bill be sent there.

Later, Dr. La Sorsa said, he got a check from Kuhn.

Varsity News Editor Is Out

Lack of Cooperation Blamed for Purge at Detroit U.

Detroit, Nov. 14 (AP)—John P. Kavanagh, news editor of the Varsity News, University of Detroit student publication, has been relieved of his duties for failure to cooperate with university authorities, it was disclosed today.

Kavanagh, a son of Giles Kavanagh, U. S. collector of internal revenue at Detroit, said he had been "in the doghouse" since he wrote an editorial this fall criticizing Governor Luren D. Dickinson for his "puritanical attitude toward evil." The editorial did not get into print.

The Rev. Marshall J. Lochbiler, S. J., faculty moderate of the publication, said Kavanagh had "displayed a lack of cooperation over a long period."

Kavanagh said he was dropped as news editor when he refused to resign after writing an editorial on "university policy." He was replaced by George A. Bick, a junior from Toledo.

Fr. Lochbiler said Kavanagh is "a very fine young man" whose "spirit of resistance probably is due to his immaturity." Kavanagh had an all-A record last semester. He is a junior in the college of arts and science.

South China City Attacked By Japs In Revival Of War

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (Wednesday) (AP)—Imperial headquarters announced today that combined units of the Japanese army and navy had landed near Pakhoi where they attacked Chinese forces. Pakhoi is on the South China coast, about 300 miles southwest of Canton.

The Japanese campaign in South China has been virtually at a standstill since the fall of Canton October 21, 1938.

Simultaneously the foreign office issued a statement saying that "in connection with the operations just undertaken the Japanese government will adhere strictly to the policy hitherto pursued toward third powers."

Pakhoi is also about 300 miles west of the British crown colony of Hongkong.

Liquor Commission Investigates Labels At McKay Brewery

Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—The liquor control commission ordered officials of the Grand Rapids Brewing company, of Muskegon, today to answer charges that labels on its bottled beer violate state regulations.

Frank D. McKay of Grand Rapids, powerful figure in Michigan politics, is president of the company.

The commission charged that numbers printed on the backs of the labels could be used for gambling purposes and to encourage the drinking of beer. It has ruled that beer labels must bear no gambling inducements.

The commission set a hearing of the case for November 21.

Normal Baby Born After Mother Dies

Baltimore, Nov. 14 (AP)—Split-second timing of a caesarian operation, resulting in birth of a baby five minutes after his mother died, was reported today by Dr. Frank K. Morris, instructor in gynecology and obstetrics at the University of Maryland Medical school.

Dr. Morris delivered the six-pound boy Thursday, a few hours after the mother was brought to Mercy hospital suffering from cerebral apoplexy.

"She was unconscious, and her right side was paralyzed," Dr. Morris said. "From the first it was apparent the mother would die, and we obtained permission to do the post-mortem caesarian."

"At 2:02 a. m. the mother died, and five minutes later the baby had been delivered. It looked as though it were dead. But we applied artificial respiration and oxygen for four or five minutes and then the baby began voluntary breathing. It is perfectly healthy and normal in every way."

Dartmouth's Daily Now 100 Years Old, Has Special Edition

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 14 (AP)—Eagerly turning to their tasks, shirt-sleeved Dartmouth college student editors burned the midnight oil tonight putting to bed the 100th anniversary edition of "the oldest college newspaper in America."

An attractive journal of 14 pages, "The Dartmouth," the young editors were convinced, would be a far cry to its centenary from the student body's first publication, that featured Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem, "Lexington," on a brisk November morning in 1839.

It is one of eight American college student newspapers having an Associated Press membership and is the only daily published in Hanover, a town of 6,500.

A champion of the principle that an undergraduate newspaper that does not express undergraduate opinion honestly has no right to exist, "The Dartmouth" has fought often and staunchly in defense of that principle and currently is considered an important factor in the shaping of Dartmouth's policies.

that he considers the possibility of peace non-existent at present since Britain and France failed to accept the Nov. 7 mediation offer from the sovereigns of Belgium and The Netherlands.

Hitler's views were made known through his foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, who told the envoys of the two rulers that the reply would be a polite "No."

Von Ribbentrop gave this notification to Viscount Jacques Davignon, Belgian ambassador, and H. M. Van Haerema De With, Netherlands minister, in advance of formal delivery of the reply in Brussels and The Hague.

"Though expressing appreciation of the sovereigns' motives in offering their good offices for peace, Von Ribbentrop was said to have held that the replies from Britain and France made peace impossible now.

Offensive Due Soon?
(The French and British replies, delivered Sunday, put any move for peace up to Germany.)
Whether a much-discussed German offensive might begin now on the western front remained Hitler's secret.

Businessmen returning from the Rhineland reported, however, that the bustling activity of the past few weeks had given way to quiet digging in as though any offensive plans had been postponed until next spring.

By permitting newspapers to publish a list of French and British merchantships which Germans regard as armed, the German navy high command paved the way for dealing with such ships by submarines "as circumstances necessitate."

Episcopal Diocese Convention To Open In Negaunee Today

Negaunee, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP)—Presentation of a report of the standing committee on the Episcopal endowment fund, action on recommendations of the ways and means committee for changes in regulations for control of all diocesan monies and discussion of the civil suit brought by the Sault Ste. Marie parish against trustees of the endowment fund are the principal matters to occupy the attention of delegates attending the Episcopal diocese of Northern Michigan in Negaunee Wednesday.

The 44th annual diocesan convention was held in Escanaba last April, but was adjourned, subject to the call of the standing committee. The delegates will convene at 8 a. m. for celebration of Holy Communion in St. John's church. The business session will begin at 10 a. m. with the Rt. Rev. Herman Page, of Detroit, presiding. Bishop Page, who is elected as head of the Detroit diocese, accepted an invitation to take temporary charge of the Northern Michigan diocese after its former bishop, Hayward B. Ablewhite, whose name had been stricken from the roll of Episcopal clergy by the house of bishops, was sent to prison for embezzlement of diocesan funds.

Approximately seventy delegates will attend the convention here. Each parish in the diocese is entitled to a representation of three delegates and each mission one delegate. Rectors of churches in the diocese will attend, as will members of the standing committee, ways and means committee and bishop's council.

It is expected that the churchmen will sit in executive session when they discuss the suit brought by St. James' parish, of Sault Ste. Marie, against the trustees of the Episcopal endowment fund, so it transpires will be made public. The Sault parish seeks an accounting from the trustees and restitution by them of approximately $76,000 which was found missing from the fund and which, it is alleged, was lost through embezzlement on the part of the late Albert E. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the fund for thirty years, and the former Bishop Ablewhite, who served as president of the board of trustees. The Sault parish charges that the trustees were negligent in handling the fund and that they are legally responsible for the shortage.

vell sought a third term or not. Their statement, with the added assertion that a determined fight would be made to obtain the nomination for the Texas, was manifestly aimed at the president, at Paul V. McNutt, a new deal candidate, or at both.

If the utterance reflected encouragement it meant the Garner supporters were highly confident of the outcome. If it reflected alarm it meant that they were hopeful of offsetting Roosevelt support by offering a candidate around whom dissident Democrats could rally at once. Regardless of other possible interpretations, it was ample notification to the White House that Mr. Roosevelt, or the new dealer he chooses to back, can have the nomination only at the cost of a ferocious convention battle.

Roosevelt Dodges Subtle Reporter's Third Term Query

Washington, Nov. 14 (AP)—For weeks, Washington reporters have racked their brains for a question on the third term which President Roosevelt would answer. They tried again today, and again had no luck.

A correspondent called attention to the recent announcement that Vice President Garner's name would be placed before the coming Democratic convention, and with elaborate artlessness inquired:

"Does that change your plans in anyway, Mr. Roosevelt?"

The answer was that the reporter should not be so subtle.

Mr. Roosevelt's renomination, meanwhile, was predicted by Gov. John E. Miles (Dem.) of New Mexico, who said at Santa Fe that New Mexico would join a movement to draft Mr. Roosevelt at the next convention.

THREE MAY TIE IN GRID LEAGUE

Playoff In Prospect for Lions, Bears and Green Bay Packers

Dayton, O., Nov. 14 (AP)—Facing the prospect of a three-way tie among the Green Bay Packers, Detroit Lions and Chicago Bears for the championship of the western division of the National Professional Football League, President Carl L. Storck today announced there would be a three-way playoff in such an eventuality.

"Should there be a tie," said Storck, "the deadlocked clubs will be requested to draw for the first time, with the odd team drawing a bye. The playoffs of the tie would start December 10 and continue on following Sundays until the division championship is decided. The games will be played at times and places to be determined by the club owners and the league president, who also shall determine what procedure to follow in the event of tie games."

Detroit and Green Bay already are tied for the western division lead. The National League started its playoff system, in which the eastern winner meets the western winner, in 1933 and so far the divisional titles have been decided without ties.

Parents Arrested For Helping Son's Escape From Court

Lansing, Nov. 14 (AP)—Guy Vander West, 35, of Grand Rapids, faced new charges today as his parents were arrested and arraigned on charges of helping him to escape from the Ingham county circuit court.

A warrant was issued accusing him of resisting an officer in his dash to freedom, while his father, Edward N. Vander West, 60, Muskegon architect, and his mother were released in bond of $1,000 each for municipal court examinations Friday.

The younger Vander West still was the object of a widespread police search tonight. He bolted from the court room yesterday, knocking down Court Officer Arthur Kiese as he fled.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Jerry Allen asserted Vander West jumped into the motorcar of his parents, parked outside the city hall, and was driven away. The parents, arrested here this morning, said their son left the motorcar in Lansing. He had been brought to court originally on a contempt bench warrant charging him with having failed to support his children. He is divorced.

Billy Rose Marries Swim Star Eleanor

New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—Eleanor Holm, former Olympic backstroke swimming champion, and producer Billy Rose were married late today by State Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

The ceremony was performed in the justice's chambers just after he had ended his day's work on the bench. Ben Bernie, the comedian, was best man, and Mrs. Bernie the matron of honor.

Miss Holm, 25, the former wife of Arthur Jarrett, orchestra leader, wore a dress of pale beige wool, a sable wrap and a blue feather hat.

Rose, 39, recently was divorced from Fannie Brice, the entertainer who made famous the song "He's My Man."

OFFER JORDAN TO U. S. ARMY

Aviation School Sought From Government at Menominee

Menominee—Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, took under consideration today a proposal from Mayor Michael C. Olson, chairman of the Menominee Industrial Commission, to strengthen the national defense by establishing a U. S. Army air base in Menominee and take over Jordan college as an Army air training school.

Looking after Menominee's interests in the proposal at Washington are Senator Prentiss M. Brown and Congressman Fred Bradley, both of whom have enthusiastically endorsed the plan and report considerable interest in it among heads of the American War College.

Chief point stressed by Mayor Olson as to the merit of his proposal was the fact that one lone anti-aircraft machine gun, at the Soo locks is now the sole protection of the water route by which 85 per cent of the nation's iron reaches the steel mills.

Chief Ore Route
"In 1937," Mayor Olson told Secretary Johnson, "61.7 million of the 72 millions tons of iron ore produced in the United States came from the Lake Superior district, comprising the upper peninsula of Michigan, Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota."

"The ore from this district," the mayor continued, "goes to market by way of the Great Lakes with the principal route from Duluth-Superior, via the locks at Sault Ste. Marie. At the present time, I am informed, one lone anti-aircraft gun at the Soo protects this water route. Wrecking of the Soo Canal would bottle up our whole fleet of ore carriers in Lake Superior and would necessitate bringing the ore by rail to Escanaba, the only other like port with ore docks of any consequence. But this would set up another hazard, in that passage from Escanaba to steel centers, except those in the Chicago area, must go by way of the narrow Straits of Mackinac."

Offer Inducements
Mayor Olson said that should the War Department be favorably impressed with the merit of his proposal, the City of Menominee was prepared to make valuable and substantial concessions by way of cooperation with the federal government. Accompanying his letter was a fine map of the whole Great Lakes area prepared by George Byrnes, of the city engineer's department, showing Menominee in the hub of the Great Lakes wheel with radial lines setting off the air distances between Menominee and the chief shipping industrial and mining locations in this area.

Concessions which Mayor Olson offered outright to the war department were:
Jordan College, with its 97 acres of land, most of which is cleared. The proposed new county airport, which would be approximately one mile square, and lie between the Prescott company and County Road 877, almost adjacent to Jordan college.
An 80-acre plot, lying to the north and west of Jordan college which is owned by the city and part of which has been used for the past several years as the dumping grounds.

Thordarson Builds Miniature Iceland Out of Rock Island

Balleys Harbor, Wis.—Almost daily news items mention the little island country, Iceland, as a refueling station for ships of war, or a route taken by vessels to escape this or that country's submarines, but few people realize that here in Wisconsin there is a small transplanted Iceland. Rock Island, off the tip of the Door county peninsula, has been turned into a reproduction, in a small way, of the homeland of the owner, C. D. Thordarson, Chicago industrialist.

It seems fitting that Rock Island should be chosen for this purpose, for it was on nearby Washington Island that the first colony of people from that northern island settled in America. It was in 1872 that a group of 15 Icelanders left Byrabbaki, Iceland, to come to America. A site had been picked for them by a friend, and among that group were such names as Gudmundsson, Einarsson, Gieslason and Hansson, names that are common on Washington Island today, for there are nearly 300 descendants of the original group living there now.

Founded Electrical Company
The owner of Rock Island, Mr. Thordarson, was not in that original group, but he did come to America the following year with his parents. Growing to manhood, his talents took an inventive turn, and in 1895 he founded his own electrical company in Chicago to manufacture his own inventions. With the years came prosperity. It was then that he cast around for a spot to build a summer home, but not just a cottage to spend the hot months in. He wanted a place that he could turn into something resembling his native Iceland. He purchased Rock Island.

At the time the only person living on the island was the light-house keeper, it having passed from its former glory as a thriving community, the first in what is now Door county. For as far back as 1835 a group of hardy pioneers established homes there to take advantage of the excellent fishing around the island.

The island fitted into what Thordarson had in mind, for even though it had no safe harbor (that being the biggest reason for its decline as a community), it did have the towering limestone bluffs on the west and north, sloping gently to a beach on the south and east, resembling Iceland on a small scale. And it was not too big for his purpose, being only about a mile square.

Built Huge Boathouse
The fact that there was no harbor was easily remedied, for Thordarson had constructed a boathouse that would care for two 70-foot boats at once. The boathouse was not just an anchorage, but an enclosed building where the boats can go right into the house. This is believed to be the largest boathouse on the Great Lakes. The foundations were laid in a stone ledge, in 12 feet of water. The ceiling of the house is 20 feet high, allowing ample clearance for most boats.

While the boathouse was being constructed, a home in the true Nordic style was also being built, with the living room one of the most unusual in America. At one end of this spacious room was built what is claimed to be the world's largest fireplace. Of heavy steel structure, faced with stone, it burns logs eight feet long, and is seven feet high. The fireplace and chimney serve all purposes, 10 in all at the home, and it never smoked.

Other buildings were constructed for various purposes, and the entire island has been landscaped to resemble Iceland, with the whole of the land being stone-terraced toward the shore. But none of it has the appearance of being handmade, for rough stones were used in such a manner that the whole presents a scene of rugged natural beauty. Thordarson has added to that beauty by planting hundreds of flowers that are native to Iceland.

Same Scheme Inside

Inside the building, the same Iceland scheme has been carried out, with much of the furnishings being hand-carved Nordic, furniture, besides the valuable Nordic tapestries that hang in the large hall and living room.

Thordarson was recently presented with the Cross of Icelandic Falcon Order, by King Christian of Denmark. The cross was given him for outstanding achievement of the world. In his case it was for having perfected the transformer, and benefitting science by collecting 16th and 17th century books and manuscripts on scientific subjects.

His home on Rock Island, built as a summer residence, is being used more and more by the owner, as he spends a large share of his time there now, and intends to spend even more time there in the future, at what is in reality a little chunk of far northern Iceland.

Colored Photos Of Criminals Is New Idea In Manhunts

Art has invaded the field of the criminal search. Police here yesterday received a bulletin from Indiana state police, bearing the picture in full color of a wanted man. It was the first color print ever received here. The conventional print is black and white.

Chief of Police Michael F. Ettenhofer said the idea is a great improvement over the black and white prints in that the color of hair, eyes and complexion are indicated and a better idea of exactly how the man looks is given.

The man wanted is Willard L. Carlson, alleged killer of his father, Clinton S. Carlson, in Union county, Indiana. A $1,000 reward is offered for his capture and information should be sent to the Indiana State police, Indianapolis, Ind., or to the sheriff of Union county, Liberty, Ind.

Carlson is 37 years old now, five feet nine inches tall and weighed 160 to 170 pounds when he was last seen 10 years ago. He has medium brown, kinky hair, fair complexion and hazel eyes. He has bullet scars on the right side of his abdomen and on his left arm and shoulder.

There's
No Great Mystery
about Cigarette Tobaccos

THERE ARE FOUR TYPES of tobaccos found in the more popular cigarettes, namely...Bright, Maryland, Burley and Turkish.

ALL THESE TOBACCOS except Turkish (which is bought direct from the planters in Turkey and Greece) and Maryland (which is bought through sealed bids under government supervision) are bought at public auction, just like any other auction where you might have bought in a table or a chair.

AT THE AUCTION SALE the tobacco is piled in baskets weighing from about 100 to 500 pounds and each purchaser buys all of his tobaccos by competitive bidding for the particular piles he wants.

THE CHESTERFIELD BUYERS buy the best of these mild ripe tobaccos for the Chesterfield blend. And it is Chesterfield's Combination... the right amounts of Burley and Bright... just enough Maryland... and just enough Turkish—that makes the big difference between Chesterfield and other cigarettes.

IT IS BECAUSE of this combination that Chesterfields are COOLER, have a BETTER TASTE and are DEFINITELY Milder. They are made of the world's best cigarette tobaccos. You can't buy a better cigarette.

Not for Democracy

THE United States was misled into entering the World War on a "save democracy" slogan, and undoubtedly there will be foreign propaganda at work again in this country in an effort to get us to furnish military aid to the Allies.

In this connection, the warning given by H. V. Kaltenborn, noted commentator, in a speech before a Town Hall audience in Detroit, is very timely and worthwhile.

But this is not America's war. There is no need for America's launching a crusade to exterminate Hitlerism and again save the world for democracy.

PROMISES of economy made by office-seeking politicians during the political campaign usually are forgotten after election.

Conlon reports that taxpayers leagues have been organized in the 83 counties of Michigan, and that the foundation is now laid for a vigorous campaign to make the people tax-conscious.

Referring to a survey made by the Detroit News, Conlon said that the taxation trend has been always upwards.

The blame for higher taxes in Michigan cannot be placed on any particular party for both the Republicans and Democrats have been in office during the period mentioned.

DURING the prohibition era, gangsterism in Chicago and other large American cities was prospering on the profits of the illegal liquor racket.

Now, these same gangs have turned to the vice and gambling rackets. Gambling in particular is a lucrative business.

Where there is much illegal money to be made the organized crime syndicates will be found at work.

When rackets flourish in a community it means that police and public officials are being bribed and corrupted.

INCREASED demands on the part of American railroads for cross-ties indicates that the nation's transportation system is improving its financial position

The lowly ties, after all, are the foundation pieces of a railway system.

White oak, fir and pine are the woods generally used in making railroad ties.

locust, cedar, walnut, cypress, larch spruce, redwood, gum, ash and beech.

According to the latest information available, the number of cross-ties in railroad tracks of Class I roads in the United States is 1,025,207,769.

Steel ties and concrete ties are in use on certain sections of railroads but the majority of ties are wood.

All ties used in the railroad industry have to pass certain specifications set up by the Committee on Ties of the American Railway Engineering Association.

The average life of a railroad tie varies. A 1925 report stated the average life of an untreated tie was from 8 to 10 years;

In 1925 the number of renewals of ties was 82,716,674. The number decreased annually from then until 1933 in which year the number of renewals was 37,295,716.

While wood preservation science is steadily reducing renewal demands, the cross-ties still remain a stable item in the purchases of a railroad.

Students and War

A SAMPLING of opinion among 500 colleges and universities indicates that an overwhelming percentage of students is unequivocally opposed to entry of the United States in the war.

Between 1914 and 1916 opinion against participation in the European struggle was almost as great among university students.

Perhaps the thread of peace is not so thin in 1939 as it was in 1917. Maybe the hands will have to play louder and the flags wave in greater profusion before today's college man is converted to the war attitude.

BROWDER'S 'QUICK TRANSITION'

All those liberals and fellow travelers who aided the communist front in the United States, joining its organizations, lending their names, giving it money, now get a preview of what they actually were supporting.

Throwing overboard all pretense about "communism being twentieth century democracy," Earl Browder, the communist leader, in a New York interview with the Associated Press, outlined these objectives for the new order:

1. The end of all political parties except the Communist party. He cites that parties disappeared from the Russian political scene and he thinks that they just naturally would "disappear" here, they would.

2. The educational system would be made over to teach only communist ideologies. There would be a quick end to academic freedom.

3. Religion would be purged of its present leaders and teachings. Mr. Browder would allow such religion as was not a "social menace," which means that it would be nothing more than an extension of communism.

4. Industry would be socialized. It would be taken over by the state, which would henceforth control every man's living.

5. The press would be taken over. Instead of getting news, the people would get communist propaganda.

What Mr. Browder wants to do is to abolish the freedoms—political freedom, academic freedom, religious freedom, freedom to make a living and freedom of speech. This is the "quick transition" that he has in mind.

Let the liberals who played the part of suckers for the communists take a look at that. Because Mr. Browder had raised pictures of Washington and Lincoln at the head of his column, they thought they were going to have a fuller, more liberal democracy if a little country could go places then. What a "dream." What a duping that was.

The communists never had anything in mind but a straight-out dictatorship, as anybody can see who takes the trouble to read Earl Browder's testimony before the Dies committee. But Browder needed money and standing—he needed the use of liberal names. That was the reason for the false front.

Now that Russia is back into European power, the world revolution is on once more. So Mr. Browder sheds democracy, and how he sheds it. Suppose Stalin, Molotov and Browder won in this country, what would be that first group "liquidated"? The liberals who thought communism would help them get more democracy.

"NEW" PARTY LINE

(New York Times)

From behind the false fronts, the counterfeit labels, the faked passports, there emerges the familiar shape of the original party line. Moscow returns to the old war-

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIG J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—One of the many curious things about war is that even neutral nations must help pay the price. There is a feeling that participation in war is costly to a nation, but that a neutral country has nothing to lose and nothing to gain. Such is not the case.

The United States, now having established a policy of neutrality, is surveying the price it must pay for its position. The merchant marine, sponsored by Federal and private funds, seems destined to make the first payment for this country's efforts to keep out of the European conflict.

The policy of the United States in dealing with its merchant marine has been positive and constructive since 1916. This policy is designed to furnish shipping services adequate for maintaining the necessary flow of American water-borne foreign commerce and capable of serving as a naval and military auxiliary in periods of national emergency.

United States documented vessels of ocean-going size engaged in transportation of passenger and dry cargo in the foreign trade of this country—excluding the Great Lakes and 365 American tankers engaged in hauling liquids—number 326.

During the past two years the United States Maritime Commission has ordered for itself more than 1,000,000 tons. Twenty-two of these ships already have been launched, and those upon which trials have been made have proved to be the most efficient of their types in the world.

The enormous losses and expenditures occasioned by the Nation's lack of ships during the World War convinced the people of the United States that an American merchant marine is a necessity.

The shipping business, being highly competitive, cannot be dropped and re-entered at will. Good-will in shipping is an asset which is built up gradually.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Roosevelt Cabinet meetings usually are not very stimulating affairs. Madame Perkins frequently goes into detail regarding a relatively obscure strike. More recently John Carmody has given loquacious reports on the Federal Works Administration. During these, the Cabinet looks bored, and waits for private talks with the President when the real decisions are made.

But last week's Cabinet session over the transfer of ships to Panama registry was just the opposite. It was one of the most important meetings held recently.

Roosevelt talked for one hour about the maritime problem created by the Neutrality Act and gave various reasons for permitting the United States Lines to transfer eight of its old merchant vessels to the Panama flag.

But when he finished, every member of the Cabinet was against him. Attorney General Murphy was vigorously opposed. So also were Harold Ickes and Jim Farley. But the man who talked the longest against the transfer was Cordell Hull. He was consistently and emphatically of the opinion that the ship transfer would be a violation of the spirit of the Neutrality Act.

Confronted with this unanimous opposition, the President bowed to the judgment of his Cabinet. The ship transfer plan was put on the shelf.

HULL'S VICTORY

Cabinet members who participated in the debate considered the decision an important victory for Secretary of State Hull.

For in the hot, behind-the-scenes battle over ships, Roosevelt was torn between two powerful groups. On one side was the high-pressure urging of Admiral Emory Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission (and Lindbergh's cousin), who was backed by a potent shipping lobby.

On the other side was Hull, the entire Cabinet and also most of the congressional leaders. Just before the Cabinet met, Speaker Bankhead lunched with Roosevelt and told him that regardless of the legality of the ship transfer, the country was sure to consider the plan a violation of the Neutrality Act—at least in spirit.

Note—The Maritime Commission, although bowing to the Cabinet, still maintains that the ship transfer is perfectly legal and may trot out the plan again.

AMBASSADOR STEINHARDT

U. S. Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt is getting a big hand, even from some of the career boys who don't like him, for the forthright job he is doing at Moscow.

Steinhardt has one quality so necessary in Russia—he won't take No for an answer. He is indefatigable, talks back to Molotov and Potemkin, and doesn't believe in the Oriental policy of delay.

He is shadowed almost everywhere he goes in Moscow, and any Russian who becomes intimate with him is also shadowed. This constant surveillance of his Ambassador has considerably irritated Roosevelt and has contributed in part to the strained relations with Russia.

However, the State Department, none too enthusiastic over Steinhardt at first, is anxious to keep him on the job.

Note—Steinhardt is the nephew of Sam Untermyer, famous New York attorney and supporter of the President. Both he and Steinhardt were heavy contributors to the Roosevelt campaign.

NO LABOR PEACE

Inside reason why there was no White House session following the Green-Lewis conferences with the President was the fact that there was nothing to say. Neither labor leader made any promises.

Green declared the AFL was willing to resume peace negotiations, but frankly said he didn't think they would get anywhere. He contended that Lewis didn't want peace and would never agree to terms.

Lewis was equally skeptical of further parleys. He declared the CIO was ready tomorrow to return to the AFL fold, provided that the entire CIO membership was accepted. But this, he told Roosevelt, the AFL persistently refuses to do.

And until the AFL does agree, added Lewis grimly, there can be no peace, because anything short of that would mean suicide for the CIO.

The President didn't argue the matter. But he indicated that he wasn't abandoning his efforts to effect a get-together. He told Lewis he would soon invite him for another talk.

Reason for Roosevelt's persistence is the behind-the-scenes encouragement of Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and co-founder of the CIO. Hillman is a strong advocate of peace and believes that despite the many obstacles, an accord can be patched up if both camps will make concessions. However, he stands firmly with Lewis against anything less than AFL acceptance of the full CIO membership.

SO BOW DOWN TO JOE MILLER

An almost legendary hero of Broadway ship is George Jean Nathan who is celebrated for his dyspeptic view of all but the most noteworthy and deserving plays.

Here's one by way of illustration: a young actor with a persecution complex is complaining about the beating he took from the critics. "And did you read G. J. Nathan?" he was asked. "Yes," he said, "he booted me around two times. Unlike opportunity, Nathan always knocks twice." There are hundreds of variations on that jest in the latter-day Joe Miller's leaders.

It amuses me very much to see the movie version of a composer laboring for a chord. —Rudolph Friml, noted composer.

We Americans who live in Europe and who see, perhaps, more clearly realize that we are faced with a repetition of the spirit of 1917. —Max Shoop, president of American Club of Paris.

Lines for Living

UNTIL HIM THAT OVERCOMETH The heroes men should recognize. Seek not to win some bloody prize, But rather find eternal quest. In making self its shining best— Little "Dot and Carry" rose. Beyond his limp and sorry pose; Outran his halting tongue and brain. And poverty that grew insane; "Dot and Carry" carried on. With only dreams to lean upon.

Till came the day when he who heled The creatures of the woods and field. Was mending well life's broken strands, And healing flesh with skillful hands; Old scuffers stood, amazed, to see The surgeon, had come to see; "Dot and Carry" worked with men. And brought them back to life again. He who wars for power and pelf. Better conquer his bitter self!

SEEK SPORTS AREA

Marquette—The Marquette Winter Sports club, according to information received by the city commission last night, will have to deal with the state department of corrections if it is to acquire a tract of land off U.S. 41, north of the Carp river bridge, for winter sports purposes.

F. P. Struhsaker, head of the lands division of the conservation department, informed the commission that the area is now under control of the state department of corrections.

Winter Sports club officials said last night they would lose no time in contacting prison officials to determine whether it would be possible to transfer title of the tract to the city, or whether some other arrangement could be entered into which would insure that the tract could be made available for winter sports use.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES
Compiled by The Associated Press
30 15 15 65

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
At New York, Nov. 14 (AP)—The stock market took a turn on the recovery side today, with selected stocks, motors, aircrafts, coppers, small orders and specialties accounting for gains of fractions to a point or more.

The list shifted over an uneven terrain at the start, but a sufficient number of buyers soon appeared and bid for favorites. There was a subsequent let-down on profit taking. The pace quickened during a brief forenoon interval, then reverted to the slow-motion gait of the past week or so. Closing prices were under the tops in many cases.

The Associated Press average of 40 stocks was up 4 of a point at $1.6. Transfers amounted to 775,244 against 651,750 the day before.

The European stand-still war furnished little if any speculative stimulation, brokers said, and the pleasing tone of home business news apparently gave only mild inspiration to most shares.

Boardroom observers, consequently, inclined to credit the better action of the list partly to the belief of some technicians that recently narrow or lower trends on slackening activity might mean that at least a temporary upward "correction" was in the offing.

Chrysler came back a point at $77-8 as hopes revived this concern's labor dispute was nearing settlement. General Motors edged up 1/2 at $53 3/4.

Suggestions of increased prices for some steel products in the next quarter proved a modest prop for stocks in this category, although all failed to finish at best levels. U. S. Steel held a gain of 5/8 at 70 1/2 but Bethlehem was off 1/4 at $33 1/2.

Further bright earnings forecasts for the airplane makers and air transport lines brought fresh support for this group. Fractionally ahead were Douglas, United, Glenn Martin, United Airlines and Eastern Airlines.

Ancanda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge lifted forward, helped by Alcoa's third quarter statement showing 51 cents a share compared with 19 cents in the 1938 period.

Among upward movers were Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide, American Can, Great Northern and International Harvester.

Electric Boat and International Mercantile Marine, lately fast climbers, slipped a notch or two on word the British intended to build their own submarine chasers for the time being.

Jones & Laughlin bounced up 3/8 in the curb and smaller gains were netted by Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and Standard Steel Spring. On the minus side were International Petroleum, Gulf and Crescent Petroleum, and Gulf of 151,000 shares compared with 123,000 Monday.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

THE TRANSFER OF OUR SHIPS

That the new neutrality act would inflict grave losses upon the American merchant marine was well known to the Congressmen who passed it.

The effect upon prices was severe. The cost of transporting cotton from the Gulf ports of the United States to Liverpool rose from $2.50 to $5.00 a bale. It is estimated that it cost this country $750,000,000 more to produce the cotton crop in 1914 than was received for it, largely due to the increased cost of shipping.

This, therefore, was the experience that furnished the reason for our building up a merchant marine by every encouragement, including subsidy. Private industry and government subsidies have spent hundreds of millions of dollars on ships, trade routes and good will, the latter depending upon dependability, frequency and regularity of service.

The legislation which, unless the ships are allowed to change their registry, will put some 130 vessels immediately out of operation puts us precisely where we were at the beginning of the last war—at the mercy of foreign shippers. Only this time we are there by an act of Congress, after we have spent hundreds of millions to avoid just this situation.

As a matter of fact, we are in a worse position, because the ships, being built, must be maintained, and they deteriorate faster in drydock than on the sea. A reasonably low estimate is $6,000,000 a year; interest and mortgage indebtedness will cost another three or four million; meanwhile the shipbuilding program already projected will hardly find investors and will be halted. And when the war is over, the American merchant marine will be at a tremendous disadvantage, for its trade routes will have been pre-empted and its good will lost. A lost customer is a lost customer—and hereafter will be a skeptical customer.

The merchant marine was not built, however, wholly for commercial reasons. It is a subsidiary arm of our defense, and a most important one. Its object is to make us independent of foreign war and to enable us under all circumstances to obtain vital and strategic raw materials not to be had in this country in sufficient quantity, such as tin, rubber, manganese, chromium and aluminum.

To put a large part of it wholly out of commission for an indefinite length of time and over an unpredictable portion of the high seas certainly is no strengthening of our potential defenses.

Actually, 43 per cent of our total trade is with Europe; 47 per cent of our ships can no longer operate on present trade routes, under the current definition of combat areas. And these combat areas are likely to expand rather than contract as the war goes on.

Meanwhile the Maritime Commission has 115 new vessels under order, in which the government and ship owners are investing $300,000,000. What is to be done about these new vessels? Will the building be halted, and more thousands of people thrown out of work?

If it is halted, we are halting an orderly, planned, long-range replacement program involving 500 new ships to be constructed resources, our products piled up in warehouses and elevators, in freight cars and upon docks, with insufficient ships to transport them.

The effect upon prices was severe. The cost of transporting cotton from the Gulf ports of the United States to Liverpool rose from $2.50 to $5.00 a bale. It is estimated that it cost this country $750,000,000 more to produce the cotton crop in 1914 than was received for it, largely due to the increased cost of shipping.

This, therefore, was the experience that furnished the reason for our building up a merchant marine by every encouragement, including subsidy. Private industry and government subsidies have spent hundreds of millions of dollars on ships, trade routes and good will, the latter depending upon dependability, frequency and regularity of service.

The legislation which, unless the ships are allowed to change their registry, will put some 130 vessels immediately out of operation puts us precisely where we were at the beginning of the last war—at the mercy of foreign shippers. There seems to be an optimistic theory that the slack will be taken up by increased trade in American waters and non-combat areas. This may be partially true. But new vessels entering the South American trade will compete with American vessels already there, and the bulk of the South American trade is also between its ports and Europe, from which our vessels will be barred.

It will be said, of course, that if American-owned ships flying the flag of Panama or any other American country come into conflict with belligerent submarines or searchers after contraband, we will be back in the situation we attempted to avoid by the neutrality act. This is somewhat true. United States lives will not, however, be lost and the United States flag will not be violated.

On the other hand, we are pledged to defend the Americas, and there lies the weakness of the whole legislation. For the South and Central American neutrals are not taking their ships off the seas, and whether their flags are on our vessels or their own makes, one would think, little difference in the long run.

The whole object of the legislation is to keep the United States out of war.

One would think, therefore, that the only question is whether the serious economic effect of putting the vessels out of commission is less likely eventually to involve us than is a roundabout attempt to keep our trade as near normal as possible.

This column believes that the steeper we can keep our economic equilibrium the less likely we are to go to war. But, it must be added, this column regrets that we so blithely abandoned the whole concept of the Freedom of the Seas in the legislation.

It was a very serious step that we took, the result of which will become increasingly apparent.

Joan winked at her father. J. G. laughed explosively through the room and Dan looked at him, somewhat hurt. He didn't notice Joan was smothering a grin.

"I don't get it at all," Dan said dolefully. "Or have I lost my sense of humor?"

J. G. cleared his throat for another verbal barrage, but Joan beat him to it.

"Maybe I should have told you this before, Dan... especially since it concerns you so vitally. She smiled impishly. "Don't look now, but you're dining with your future employer."

"I'm what with who?" he echoed.

"Acme Pottery Products," she announced. "Is now a unit of J. G. Johnson Industries, Inc. It was Pop's firm that bought it."

A half dozen ideas whipped through his brain as he looked first at Joan and then at her father. Things were moving a little too swiftly to comprehend. It was with an effort that he was able to pick up all the loose ends and tie them together.

"Well, what do you think about that, young fellow... ought to sound pretty good to you... pretty darned good, I say."

Dan smiled grimly. "That's just the trouble, Mr. Johnson. You've hit the nail smack on the head. It sounds TOO good."

He paused. Then: "I want to thank you a lot, but I'm not going to be handed anything like that. I—I don't like gifts of that nature... especially for something I don't really deserve. I've tried to tell you it was Joan who engineered our escape. I'm not taking a bit of credit."

DANCE PERMITS REVISED TO $25

Ordinance Providing for $150 License Yearly Is Amended

An amendment to the city's dance hall ordinance which provides for an annual license fee of $150 was authorized by the city council Monday evening, bringing the license charge to $25 annually in conformity with the dance permit charges made to taverns.

The request for a reduction in the license fee was made by Al Dupont, who declared it was inconsistent to assess a fee of $150 for dance halls and only $25 for dance permits for taverns.

The council agreed that the license fees are not consistent and instructed the city attorney to amend the dance hall license ordinance. It was explained that when the city adopted an ordinance setting up the fee of $25 for tavern dancers, it did not repeal the ordinance providing for a $150 license fee for dance halls.

The council also decided to enter into an informal relationship with the Claude Markle agency at Lansing as a Lansing representative of the city. The relationship will continue for a period of one year.

A sidewalk construction WPA project was approved by the council Monday night and is planned as a spring project.

The council also approved a recommendation of the city manager to construct an ice skating rink for children under the ages of 15 at the Lakeside park. The rink development program will be a part of the WPA construction project now in operation.

A resolution received from the city of Wakefield urging that WPA regulations be revised to permit snow removal projects received no action by the Manistique council. The city manager explained that the basic principle of WPA prohibits any WPA project designed for any normal function of governmental service.

A suggestion for a furniture renovation project also was rejected by the council.

SENATOR GIVES FINE ADDRESS

State Financial System Inefficient, Declares Tax Expert

In a most interesting and enlightening discussion of state financial problems, Senator George McCallum, of Ann Arbor, former Schoolcraft county resident, addressed a joint meeting of the Manistique Rotary and Lions clubs Monday noon at the American Legion Cottage.

Senator McCallum, who is chairman of the senate tax committee and one of the most able tax experts in Michigan, declared that all the desired services of government can be adequately financed without any new taxes, if the problem is attacked efficiently and sensibly.

In opening his address, Senator McCallum showed a map of the United States proving that all the income earned by every individual and corporation west of the Mississippi river, excluding the state of Louisiana, is absorbed in paying the tax bill of the federal, state and municipal governments of the United States.

A Vital Problem

"That tax bill for one year is $18,000,000,000 and the total income from all sources in this country is less than $68,000,000,000 annually," the speaker declared. "That means that every dollar earned from all sources in this country today, more than 25 per cent is absorbed by governments. Certainly this is a problem that must interest every one of you."

Senator McCallum declared that the State of California, with a population only one-seventh larger than the State of Michigan, collects $1,000,000,000 annually from a sales tax law similar to Michigan's law while this state collects only $52,000,000, although California makes no assessment upon foodstuffs and all foods are taxable in Michigan.

"The answer is simple enough," he said. "California has 190,000 firms paying the sales tax and Michigan has only 90,000. A total of 80 per cent of the sales tax force in California are auditors. Michigan has only a relatively small percentage of auditors in the sales tax division and most of the others on the staff are merely political tax chasers. There are too many tax chasers in the state. I claim it is dishonest and unfair to the firm honestly paying its tax load."

The tax expert declared that the new system of collecting sales tax upon automobile sales by the branch manager of the secretary of state at the time that automobile plates are purchased has resulted in an increase of approximately $4,000,000 annually. The speaker asserted that this fact clearly reveals that many automobile dealers in the past turned over to the state only a part of the sales taxes they collected from their customers.

Inefficient System

Sen. McCallum suggested that the state set up a department of revenue, headed by some man who would be appointed for a period of ten years and would be in direct charge of all of the auditing and tax collections and disbursements of the state.

"Do you know that there are 11 major collection agencies and 56 minor collection agencies of the State of Michigan now, each one operating entirely independently of the other, and that there are four distinct auditing groups, also operating independently of each other? Do you know that it now takes the State of Michigan at least 90 days to ascertain the exact status of its financial condition?" the speaker asked.

He explained that the State of New York, which has a Department of Revenue, has one of the most efficient systems. Each morning at 10 o'clock, the speaker declared, the director of the department places upon the desk of the governor a financial balance table, showing the exact financial condition of the state at four o'clock on the afternoon of the previous day.

Sen. McCallum declared that the present system is so inefficient that that state does not even know how many automobiles it owns, "but you can't find a single one in Lansing on a weekend."

The speaker declared that he introduced a bill in the legislature to set up a department of revenue, but that the bill received only 12 votes because prominent state officials spent all of their time lobbying against it. The bill would wipe out much of the patronage now enjoyed by governmental heads, he explained.

McCallum, a Republican, declared, "I am happy to say to you people that your senator, James Dotsch, of Garden, a Democrat, voted for the bill and called it one of the most important pieces of legislation ever introduced. Eight of the 12 votes cast for the bill were Democratic votes because of the support given by Senator Dotsch, the Democratic leader in the senate."

In conclusion, Senator McCallum explained the state's intangible tax law, which, he admitted, is far from perfect but is a start in the right direction. He declared that the bill, which he presented in the legislature, was amended many times and stripped of much of its best features. As a result, he said, the bill still permits many

ASK EXPANSION OF AIR SERVICE

Commish Also Urges WPA Projects for Snow Removal

A resolution urging representatives in congress to appropriate an additional $350,000,000 for improvement of airports, fields and landing facilities and an additional $5,000,000 for expansion of the air mail service as a means of development of the air defense service and for the further purpose of furnishing air mail service to communities throughout the United States including this community was adopted by the city commission in regular session on Monday evening.

Another resolution urging that representatives in congress act to amend the WPA act so that snow removal projects on highways may be set up as WPA projects in communities situated like those in the Upper Peninsula was also adopted.

In asking amendment of the act for this purpose it was pointed out that heavy snow fall in this area impedes highway facilities and activities of the WPA and on other federal projects and that the inability to immediately remove the snow occasions danger in case of illness, the delivery of food, fuel and other necessities of life and interferes with school attendance.

According to the resolution, the ability to set up snow removal projects under WPA would obviate these dangers and at the same time provide employment at a time when other WPA work is curtailed and cannot be carried on efficiently.

Copies of both resolutions are to be forwarded to Senators Arthur Vandenberg and Fred Bradley, Brown and Cong. Fred Bradley, Delinquencies in 23 different special assessments with interest totaling $5,940.48 were ordered spread on the general tax roll.

Application of Frank Nelson for a tavern license for the old Buckeye boarding house at 625 North Ninth street, was approved.

Goal Line Uncrossed, Vols Still Lead Grid Poll

TEXAS A. & M. COMES SECOND

Duquesne Takes Place of Twice-Beaten Michigan In Weekly Voting

BY BILL BONI
New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—"A team that won't be beaten can't be beaten," runs football's favorite fighting phrase. Today you can add to that, "and a team that can't be scored on won't be ousted from first place in the national football rankings."

Admittedly Tennessee's schedule isn't up to the caliber of those of Texas A. and M., Southern California or Notre Dame. Yet the Volunteers have come through seven games this fall, as well as their last five last season, without having their goal line crossed. That convincing argument, plus the high esteem in which they're held by all who have seen them perform, keeps the Vols at the head of the parade in the fifth Associated Press ranking poll.

They are there for the fourth straight week, topping the list by 66 first-place votes and 1,014 points to 25 first-place votes and 877 points for Texas A. and M. Together, these two high-powered machines drew all but 13 of the 113 first-place ballots cast by the nation's experts.

Only One Newcomer
While Tennessee held first place safe and unbeaten and untied Duquesne moved in with the elect at last place in the top ten. Texas A. and M. improved its position considerably. Homer Norton's Southwest Conference leaders, aiming at the No. 1 spot won for the southwest in 1938 by Texas Christian, showed an increase of 22 first-place votes over last week, and ran their second-place margin from two points to 31.

Duquesne, taking the place of twice-beaten Michigan, was the week's only newcomer to the first ten. The one-point victory of Iowa over Notre Dame brought about the other re-arrangement, for not only did it give the Hawkeyes 37 points for 15th place, but it pushed Notre Dame down from third place to ninth and moved Southern California, Cornell, Oklahoma, Tulane, North Carolina and Ohio State up one notch in that order. The Trojans now are third, while only 30 points separate Cornell, Oklahoma and Tulane in fourth, fifth and sixth.

Favorites Saturday
Tennessee, Texas A. and M., Cornell and Duquesne have perfect records and a good chance of finishing their schedules that way. Southern California, Oklahoma, Tulane and North Carolina have been tied, Ohio State and Notre Dame have one defeat each.

Saturday's games likely to have the greatest effect on the standings are those between Cornell and Dartmouth, last but one of the No. 1 eastern team's Ivy league rivals; Oklahoma and Missouri, which has moved up to 12th place with the sterling aid of Paul Christman; North Carolina and Duke, which is 13th in the rankings; Ohio State and Illinois, and Notre Dame and Northwestern. Tennessee, against Vanderbilt; Texas A. and M. against Rice, and Tulane, against Columbia, will be top-sided favorites, while Southern California and Duquesne will take the day off.

The standings (points figured on 10-9-8-7-6, etc., basis, first-place votes in parentheses):
TEAM POINTS
1-Tennessee (66) 1,014
2-Texas A. and M. (28) 877
3-Southern California (10) 846
4-Cornell (5) 545
5-Oklahoma (2) 631
6-Tulane (2) 615
7-North Carolina (1) 457
8-Ohio State 250
9-Notre Dame 244
10-Duquesne 129
Second ten: 11-U. C. L. A. 85;
12-Missouri, 55; 13-Duke, 52;
14-Santa Clara, 48; 15-Iowa, 37;
16-Clemson (1), 33; 17-Southern Methodist, 27; 18-Holy Cross, 15; 19-Oregon State, 10; tied for 20-Mississippi and Dartmouth, 6 each.

Also ran: Mississippi and Princeton, 5 each; San Jose State and Fordham, 3 each; Georgia Tech, 2; Army and Georgetown, 1 each.

SPILLING the DOPE

GEORGE RUWITCH and company were handed this bouquet from the great Buckskin Erickson of the Iron Mountain News: "Escanaba high school's football team nailed down the upper peninsula football title by defeating Gladstone 38 to 0 Saturday... A bright-colored plume in the hat of Coach George Ruwitch, a product of Norway high school... It is the first time in over a decade that an upper peninsula team has finished the season with an uncrossed goal line... The brilliant record of the Eskymos shows eight straight victories with an offensive attack that rolled up 180 points and a defense that has shut out the foe."

A 10 cent gas tax would aid recovery—and put a lot of motorists back in their feet.

U. P. SPORTSWRITERS will gather at Iron Mountain Saturday night to wade through a pile of statistics on high school football players and try and pick a representative All Upper Peninsula team... It is a tremendous task and one which causes a lot of hard feelings but fans look forward to it... Because of work of com-

GIANTS TAKE UP NIGHT BASEBALL

Club Does About Face; Will Install Lights for 1940

BY SID FEDDER
New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—The New York Giants, themselves, breathlessly announced night baseball in the Polo Grounds today—after just about every baseball writer in town had been announcing it for them for weeks.

"We're going to have the finest lighting plant in the game for 1940," President Horace Stoneham said.

"We'll play our first game at home either the last week in May or the first in June, and will have seven games under the lights during the 1940 season. We'll invite each of the other clubs in the league to play one night game at the Polo Grounds."

Thus, the last major league stronghold against night ball passed out of the picture. Just about a year ago this time, the Giants vowed they would never play under the lights, either at home or abroad. Every other team in both leagues saw some nighttime action during last season.

Ready April 1
The reason for the about-face could not be learned. Giants officials hemmed and hawed somewhat when the question was put to them. The rumor is Bell Terry was the chief arguer against the lights, but that when club officials realized the revenue from it, they over-rode Sweet William.

Now the club is going the whole hog. Not only will there be seven night games in the Polo Grounds next season, but the Giants also will play under the lights in Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

"We originally had planned to wait until 1941 to start," Stoneham explained. "But since we made the decision finally, and figured the revenue is so high, we thought we might just as well start in 1940. However, we'll have no foot-racing or circus stunts before our games, although we may have a band."

Construction will start soon after January 1, he explained, and the entire plant will be ready April 1.

There will be eight towers, extending 150 feet above the playing field and 70 feet above the roof of the stands. The installation will cost more than $100,000, and operation of the 200-million candlepower system will cost about $300 per game.

"Mr. Stoneham," one wag interrupted to ask, "are you in favor of a blackout whenever Zeke Bonura comes to the plate?"

Mr. Stoneham refused to answer.

Egad, those who were inclined to accept last week's prognostications by your handicapper somewhat have been rubbing their eyes last Saturday night when the returns poured in—

Iowa 7, Notre Dame 6!
Har-rumph! Let me pause to ask if any other football forecaster in the country selected that one!

The Iowa-Notre Dame upset headed the list of Hoople Hot Ones last week—and this week your selector has some more perfectly ripping choices.

Notable among last week's selections, besides the startling affair at Iowa City, were the predictions that Missouri would drop New York U., Illinois over Wisconsin and (of all things!) Minnesota to repulse Michigan.

80 Candidates Report to Coach Kraemer for Cage Squad

Ironwood, Nov. 1.—Get ready for a quick transition from football to basketball, fans, for there is little or no time at all to waste mulling over the past gridiron season or the first shots of the Michigan-Wisconsin cage campaign may be missed.

Coach Jack Kraemer today announced his 14-game basketball schedule which starts with a conference for November 29. The Red Devils will invade Hurley's gymnasium for the opener but Hurley's Midgets will have already seen action in a couple of games.

Eighty candidates have reported to Coach Kraemer for basketball and among all these players only three—Kuker, Kivisto and Ellefson—are returning lettermen. The squad will be rapidly decreased in size until Kraemer retains only as many men as he can work with without working the boys too many hours.

The schedule includes seven games at home and seven games away from home. The card reveals six home and home games and two single contests. Crystal Falls and Iron Mountain will be played only once. Hurley, Rhineland, Ashland, Wakefield, Bessemer and Iron River will be met in home and home games.

The schedule:
Nov. 29—Hurley, there.
Dec. 5—Rhineland, there.
Dec. 8—Crystal Falls, here.
Dec. 15—Ashland, here.

Homecoming Is Big Game For Spartans

East Lansing, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Michigan State Spartans, returning from another chapter in their most disastrous football season in years, will be greeted tomorrow by a demonstration proving that the student body is not a fair-weather friend.

Scheduled to arrive at 3:25 tomorrow afternoon and go immediately into a practice session on old College Field, the team will be greeted by a mass outpouring of students and townfolk, eager to show that the term "fighting Spartans" does not apply only to the athletes.

Focus of the demonstration will be to inspire the team to victory in its two remaining games, Indiana this Saturday and Temple the following week.

A win against Indiana would do a lot to erase the tarnish from State's gridiron medals, since that day will be homecoming day.

It will be the first Indiana-Michigan State game in 12 years and the third in history. In both previous encounters the Spartans have lost—33 to 7 in 1927 and 16 to 6 in 1921.

Odds Are With Deer As Season Opens Up

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A red-coated army of 170,000 rifle men and women blasted open the 1939 deer hunting season at dawn today.

It was the greatest opening day outpouring of hunters in Michigan's history, the conservation department reported, although weather conditions put the odds in favor of the deer.

Five state-owned ferries kept a steady stream of hunters passing northward across the Straits of Mackinac headed for Upper Peninsula hunting grounds, while other thousands swarmed into lower peninsula forest areas. Hotels, lodges and camps were filled in favor of the deer.

Upper Peninsula conservation officers said the woods were so dry that hunters would have trouble tracking difficult and there was insufficient moisture to deaden the sounds of the hunters' feet.

Arthur Pilgo, meteorologist at Sault Ste. Marie, said forecasts indicated a cold wave with possible snow by Friday.

There was about an inch of snow north of Newberry and around Baraga, however. In the lower peninsula the woods were not so dry, but the hunters prayed for snow to cover the bare ground, and hoped for a swift drop in temperature to preserve their meat.

Woodsmen said deer were plentiful. Conservation officers reported that in a 24-hour period Monday they found eight does, three bucks and two fawns that had been shot by hunters who got the jump on the legal opening of the season.

They made 15 arrests for a variety of game law violations. Some 200 officers were concentrated in the deer areas to enforce the laws and assist in locating lost hunters.

Statisticians figured that of the 170,000 hunters entering the woods, nine or more probably would be killed by careless gunfire. Twelve deer hunters were killed in 1934, four in 1935, nine in 1936, 14 in 1937 and eight last year, a five-year total of 47 and an average of a little more than nine a year.

The state maintains a "blacklist" of hunters whose carelessness caused death or injury to other persons, and those who are convicted of illegally killing deer. P. J. Hoffmaster, conservation director, said 634 persons are on the blacklist this year, denied the right to hunt for periods of three to five years.

Garden Will Stage Donkey Ball Game On Thursday Night

Garden, Nov. 14.—A real live donkey basketball game will be staged in the Garden Community building Thursday night.

Famous riders from Fayette and Fairport will oppose equally good riders from Garden. Tommy Peterson, Knute Leivdal and others of Fayette who were brought up on horses should make formidable opposition for Garden's crack riders. Garden's famous team will include Cowboy Hike Tatrow, whose legs are bowed enough to make him an ideal rider, and Walt Stollwagen who claims he's never been thrown from a horse and he has been on the best of them. All in all the fans are in for a treat.

HUNTERS FLOCK TO DEER AREAS

Seven State Refuges To Open This Season

Lansing—Zero hour today finds hunters deployed over most of the 34,500 square miles of Michigan deer territory, greatest invasion by a red-coat army in the state's history.

Early indications are that 170,000-odd hunters are in the north woods or will move into the deer country before the season ends November 30.

Reports from conservation officers indicate that deer are fairly plentiful in most of the major deer areas and in good condition. Hunting prospects are considered excellent.

Seven state game refuges that have been closed to deer hunting for from six to 19 years are expected to prove attractive to many hunters.

To protect a herd of semi-tame deer in the Okemaw refuge, 2,000 acres near the refuge headquarters have been kept closed and have been well posted to warn hunters using the remainder of the 5,432 acres against invading the area reserved.

The Okemaw refuge was established in 1924. The six other refuges thrown open to deer hunting by action of the conservation commission last July are: Alpena, Alpena county, 1,852 acres, closed seven years; Cusino, Schoolcraft county, 5,220 acres, closed seven years; Lunden, Montmorency county, 2,688 acres, closed 13 years; Pigeon river, Cheboygan county, 11,193 acres, closed 10 years; Molasses river, Gladwin county, 4,715 acres, closed six years; and Midland, Midland county, 2,457 acres, closed 19 years.

Refuges have been opened to hunting because the deer herds in the vicinity have been sufficiently large to withstand hunting pressure without endangering the breeding stock. In practically all of these refuges, also, the deer have increased beyond the deer food supply available in these regions in winter. Game refuges are normally of a temporary nature, established to protect and develop a game supply for hunting.

Early reports on bear forecast a favorable season. Some 600 bears were taken last year while the 1938 legal buck kill totaled almost 45,000.

Duck hunting was fair to good over most of Michigan's duck feeding grounds as the 45-day waterfowl season, which saw the ducks more abundant than in years, closed November 14. Though ducks were plentiful, weather conditions during the season often favored the birds at the expense of the hunter, permitting them to stay quiet far from shore, out of gun range. Geese appeared in considerable numbers shortly before the season ended.

Good 'coon hunting has been reported in the south central and western counties when weather conditions were favorable. Over most of the state rabbit hunters are awaiting more snow before beginning intensive hunting for cottontails and snowshoe hares.

Inquest To Be Held Into Powers Death

An inquest into the death of James Powers, 2314 Ludington street, who died late Monday at St. Francis hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile Sunday night, has been set for next Tuesday, when all witnesses are expected to be available.

Mr. Powers, 58, was struck as he was crossing Stephenson avenue at Third avenue north by a car driven by Vern Cass of 113 South Sixth street. Mr. Cass told police that he was traveling at only 20 miles an hour and that he did not see Mr. Powers until he was immediately in front of the car.

Several witnesses corroborated Mr. Cass' statement and he was not held.

State Political Gossip

Politicians Viewing Jeffries As Gubernatorial Possibility

BY GUY H. JENKINS (Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing—Capitol politicians are speculating as to what influence the Detroit election may have on the state and national elections next year.

Next statehouse politicians even tilted their eyebrows over the outcome of the race between Mayor Richard W. Reading, a Republican, and Edward J. Jeffries, a member of the city council who took the incumbent in stride.

Reading two years ago sank Patrick H. O'Brien, the CIO candidate, but soon after the former city clerk took over affairs of the city things began to happen. A new automobile for the mayor's office, attachment of several members of the Reading family to the city pay roll, just to mention two criticisms, turned public favor against him. Labor, particularly the CIO, did not like Reading's police commissioner and that became an issue.

Reading was unable to plaster Jeffries with the CIO label, a successful move which was a success against O'Brien, particularly when O'Brien sounded off with: "Labor must seize the reins of government."

New Mayor Keeps His Politics Secret. Some in Lansing are thinking about Jeffries as a gubernatorial candidate. Elected mayor for two years, there is nothing to prevent him from resigning to enter a partisan primary.

No one seems to know the new mayor's politics. He has remained aloof from any partisan movement. Because his father, the late Judge Edward J. Jeffries, was a candidate for the gubernatorial primaries, some are inclined to believe the son has GOP leanings. If he has, he has kept them to himself.

Many here expect a radical shakeup in Detroit municipal affairs after Jeffries takes office Jan. 2. The police department certainly will be under new management. Other key positions will be filled by the mayor's friends.

Because of the apparent strong labor support, Jeffries' dealings with the unions in the event of strikes will be watched with keen interest. He is reported to be tough when he believes he is right.

Republicans Happy Over Hamilton's Election. The Republicans are very happy over the election of John F. Hamilton as a council member, for it is understood here he intends to resign his seat in the house of representatives effective Dec. 31.

Hamilton, a member of the Democratic minority, was a thorn in the side of the Republican majority in the last session. He was chief needler, John always could be depended upon to think up something to annoy the GOP.

The Michigan house of representatives, usually sloppy in doing its legislative business, becomes a big target for the opposition when the opposition wants to heckle, and Hamilton loves to heckle.

Hamilton, a member of the old Comstock Wayne county wing of the Democratic party, will be the second Detroit member to resign if he goes through with his plans. Recently Representative Joseph C. Murphy ended his membership when appointed attorney in Detroit. He was Gov. Frank Murphy's floor leader in the 1937 session.

The politicians also are interested in the Ohio and California elections which rejected the screw ball pension plans. Of course no one believes the issues are dead, even though the two states put them in the mothproof closets for at least another year.

For the last six years the Michigan legislature has been unable to solve its social security program. One of these days somebody will pop up with a ham-and-eggs proposal for this commonwealth.

At present there are two groups trying to take charge of the Townsend plan in the state. This controversy eventually may go into the courts for a determination. The state under present revenue laws is unable to provide more

HEALTH TO BE THEME OF TALK

Arthur Santell, Strong Athlete, to Appear at Sr. High

Arthur Santell, one of America's strongest athletes, will appear before the student body at the senior high school this morning as the fourth number on the regular lyceum series.

Mr. Santell opens his program by performing several spectacular feats of strength and skill. He tears a large 1,500-page telephone directory into eighty-eight sheets or three 20-penny spikes through a heavy plank with his fist, breaks a heavy steel chain which several students are first permitted to attempt to break in a tug-of-war, and lifts a streak clear of the floor with his teeth.

Following his impressive exhibition of skill and strength, Mr. Santell explains that he became interested in physical education because at one time he was below average in health and strength. He had the desire to enjoy normal strength and abundant good health. Mr. Santell does not boast about his unusual athletic ability, but explains that his feats of strength are performed only to dramatize his highly important message on clean living and healthful habits. During his address Mr. Santell outlines clearly and simply the fundamental rules of intelligent living habits for building superior health and physical endurance.

Mr. Santell always illustrates during his program several of his famous exercises for keeping physically fit. Mr. Santell believes that good health of mind and body is undoubtedly our most valuable possession from a worldly standpoint, and that good health is of far more value than big muscles or mere strength.

Mr. Santell is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. He does not give the impression of being what is generally termed a "strong man". In street clothes he looks like a well-trained track athlete. He has appeared at the Chicago Century of Progress, the California Exposition, the Great Lakes Exposition, and the New York World's Fair.

Attorney General Thomas Read went post haste to Marquette after Coon, his deputy and two members of the parole board were held as hostages by four inmates who escape ended in solitary confinement. They were captured without the loss of a life.

The GOP boys have been after Coon since Jan. 1. When the prison break took place it looked as if they had him. Read recommended his discharge.

It seems Coon made some upper peninsula campaign speeches a year ago for Frank Murphy. He was on his way out when the Fitzgerald administration took charge but the governor's death intervened in Coon's behalf.

As might be suspected, Coon is a Democrat and Jackson is a Republican.

A Lansing newspaper man who was at the prison a few minutes after the guard was shot has come to the conclusion the prison really needs an official host. He puts it this way:

"From what I could find out the guards are not acquainted with each other. It strikes me the warden should take time to introduce the guards so the one being relieved won't be gullible enough to let a convict in a guard's coat take over his post."

"And no one seems to know why Warden Jackson happened to be getting a shave at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon while a football game was in progress within the prison."

Two Menominee Women Are Killed In Car Crash

Menominee, Mich.—Menominee county coroner's jury will resume investigation Wednesday afternoon of an accident that claimed the lives of two Menominee women early Tuesday on US-41 a mile north of Stephenson when their car hit the rear of a potato truck parked on the highway.

The dead are Mrs. Charles Baker, 38, of 413 1/2 Spies avenue, wife of a Menominee deputy sheriff, and Mrs. James Costello, 30, of 403 Michigan avenue, Menominee.

Injured was James Costello, husband of Mrs. Costello, and investigator in the Upper Peninsula for the Michigan public service commission. He was confined to St. Joseph's hospital today with bruises and suffering from shock. Physicians said his condition was not serious.

Mr. Costello was driving the car when it crashed into the rear of a truck owned by Walter Wangerin of Stephenson, which had been left partially on the highway after it ran out of gasoline. Wangerin is not being held.

Costello told officers he did not see the parked truck until he was within ten feet and he swerved to the left but the side of his car struck the rear corner of the truck.

The party was returning from a trip to Lansing where Mr. Costello had been on business and Mrs. Baker was visiting relatives. Mrs. Baker was in rear seat and Mrs. Costello in the front seat with her husband at the time of the crash.

Deputy Baker was on duty at the sheriff's office at the time of the accident and received the call, but no names were given. He remained at the office while Deputy Sheriff John Reindl investigated the crash.

Mrs. Baker was a niece of Mrs. Alphonsine Fillion and of Mrs. Clementine L'Heureux of Escanaba. She had visited in Escanaba on numerous occasions at their homes and with other relatives. Funeral services will be held at Menominee Thursday morning.

MEAT CONTROL CITY PROBLEM

Health Office Asks Council to Figure Out an Answer

Control of the sale of meat produced by farmers in this vicinity and marketed with city dealers is to be considered at a meeting of the city council Thursday night, at the request of the Delta county health department.

In a letter to city administrators, the health department pointed out that under present conditions meat killed by farmers may be sold to dealers in the city without any grading, testing or supervision and the city was asked to try to do something about the situation.

A comparatively small amount of such meat is sold, but to allow it to be sold at all, unless checked for purity, is a dangerous practice, it was reported.

Also before the council will be a discussion of what shall be done about additional lighting for Stephenson avenue where several accidents have occurred recently. It was at first proposed that lights removed from Ludington street should be installed on Stephenson to double the present amount of light there.

Consideration of a civil service ordinance presented at last council meeting also is scheduled.

The magic lily, Lycoral Squamiger, grows foliage in the spring, then disappears. A month later, long flower stalks burst through the soil and grow to a height of several feet.

George Carrothers Will Conduct Field Course On Saturday

George E. Carrothers of the extension division of the University of Michigan will conduct the regular field class courses at the junior high school here Saturday.

This is one of a series of such classes being held throughout the Upper Peninsula under the supervision of the university school of education.

Four Are Fined In Game Cases

Two Manistique Men Pay for Jumping Gun on Deer Season

Fines of $50 and costs of $7.35 were assessed Sunday by Justice of the Peace William McClincy at Nahma against Jack Rubie and Francis Hoholic, both of Manistique, on deer hunting charges.

Rubie was fined for killing a fawn deer and Hoholic was charged with possessing a portion of a deer in his car. Herb Lennon of St. Jacques, conservation officer, made both arrests assisted by sons of George Hughes.

Other recent cases before Justice McClincy were those of Arthur Larscheid of Isabella, charged with commercial fishing without a license, who was fined $25 and $7.35 costs on Nov. 10 and of Richard Hicks, Manistique, charged with setting a steel trap in a game area without tags attached. His fine of $25 and $7.35 cost was suspended. Mr. Lennon was arresting officer in these cases also and was assisted by Conservation Officers Allan Tweedy and Oscar Sundquist.

City Installs Own Blueprint Machine

The city now has its own blueprint shop, in the attic of the city hall over the city comptroller's office, and is prepared to make most of the hundreds of blueprints needed every year by the city engineer's department. Formerly this work was done by an outside concern.

The present blue print machine has just been installed and it will be operated by assistants in the engineer's office. A "photo-copier" machine was installed about eight months ago to do various photostatic copy work and proved successful enough that the blueprint machine was added.

Another Payment On Fieldhouse Is Made To Board

At a regular meeting of the board of education at the junior high school last night, the board accepted a payment of $400 from the Escanaba high school athletic association on the fieldhouse.

Construction of the fieldhouse was financed by the board of education with the stipulation that it was to be paid back by the high school athletic association. Original cost was $3,500 of which only $562.94 remains after yesterday's payment of $400.

GETS LIMIT

August Parent, St. Louis, Mo., former Escanaba resident, writes his sister, Laura Parent, 302 South Eighteenth street, that he is enjoying good squirrel hunting in Missouri. Parent said in a letter that he hunted in Pike county, near Bowling Green, with his brother, Arthur, and stepson, and that each shot his limit of ten squirrels.

Request For Review Comes From Canada

A request yesterday from Esquimault, B. C., Canada, set a record for distance among the many requests that have come for copies of the municipal services review prepared recently by City Manager George E. Bean. Copies have been requested by several cities and government organizations in Michigan and neighboring states.

So far only 45 private citizens have asked for copies of the book, which may be had for the asking at the city manager's office. A hundred fifty copies have been distributed to members of city service clubs; 120 were furnished for use in high school civics classes; 20 have been mailed on request and a dozen have been distributed to city department heads. About 100 are to be sent to Arnold S. Zander, head of an international association of state, county and municipal employees.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
