COURT CHOICE BY ROOSEVELT IS BIG CHANCE

ANTI-NEW DEALERS MAY BE SOOTHED FOR 1940

BY RICHARD L. TURNER Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The present supreme court vacancy offers President Roosevelt an unusual opportunity to soothe the Democratic party's anti-new dealers and help build a united front for 1940.

It could do so, some are urging, by appointing a man of middle-aged or moderately right economic tendencies for whom his foes within the party could show a genuine enthusiasm conspicuously lacking in their attitude toward previous appointees.

And, the argument runs, the president could make such an appointment at no cost to himself, for he already "has his court." Recent terms of the court have shown that the president's four past appointments, reinforced by Associate Justice Stone, have solidly entrenched the "liberal interpretation" of the constitution upon which Mr. Roosevelt has insisted.

Other Side Needs Break To urge that the appointment be guided by considerations of party welfare is, of course, to put such an important presidential chore as the making of the supreme court upon a coldly practical basis. But the proposal has a more idealistic argument behind it, too.

This is derived from a view which has received fairly widespread acceptance in the past. It is that in such appointments a duty rests upon the president to give the country's principal economic and constitutional viewpoints representation on the court. Such a philosophy was said to underlie President Coolidge's appointment of Stone and President Hoover's naming of the late Associate Justice Cardozo, both new deal mainstays in the battle over the constitutionality of Roosevelt legislation several years ago.

So, it is argued that by his four appointments and the presence of Stone on the bench, the president's viewpoint is adequately represented and the time has come to give the other side a break—and thereby give the party a lift.

Murphy Heading List? Right now, Washington thinks that Attorney General Murphy heads the list of prospects for the appointment. This view is based upon Murphy's closeness to the president, and the facts that he is a Catholic and comes from the west. There is no Catholic and no westerner on the court at present.

Murphy could be confirmed with votes to spare, it is conceded, but only after a rough reopening of the party wounds which were

RUSSIA CLAIMS RULE OF BALTIC

Admiral Warns Finland Not to Hamper Red Fleet's Position

Moscow, Nov. 21 (AP)—Soviet Russia today coupled a declaration of her supremacy in the Baltic with a strongly worded warning to Finland to refrain from putting any obstacles in the way of this position.

The advice to Finland came from Admiral V. Tributz, commander of the Soviet Baltic fleet, who expressed "the regret of Soviet Baltic sailors" at the Finns' refusal of Russia's demands for territorial and military concessions.

"In Finland we hear but the rattling of arms and the call to war with the U. S. S. R.," the admiral said in an article in the newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Communist Youth League.

"The dark game of Finnish ruling circles favors incendiaries of war who aim to use Finland as a base for hostile plots.

"No obstacles will ever break our decision to establish a strong peace over the Finnish gulf to the safeguard Soviet borders, the safe city of Leningrad and friendly Baltic countries. The red bannered fleet is ready at any minute."

His statement that the Baltic fleet acquired command of the Baltic through newly gained bases in Estonia and Latvia was accompanied by the disclosure that the fleet was engaged in large scale maneuvers there.

Through the Latvian and Estonian concessions Admiral Tributz said, the Baltic fleet, previously landlocked in the Gulf of Finland by winter ice, now could navigate the year round.

MUNICH BEER CELLAR BOMB SUSPECT HELD

GESTAPO ANNOUNCES BRITISH AGENTS ARRESTED

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP)—German secret police tonight announced the arrest of a man charged with the Nov. 8 beer cellar bombing attempt on Adolf Hitler's life and the capture of two British intelligence agents accused of plotting German revolution from Netherlands soil.

While the official announcements of Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo, did not connect the arrest and the capture, they did charge Otto Strasser, one-time Hitler lieutenant but now a leader in the dissident "black front," with organizing the bombing plot, and the British intelligence service with furnishing the money.

Tried To Escape The man charged with the bombing was named as Georg Elser, 36, of Munich, who was said by the Gestapo to have confessed. He was said to have been arrested Nov. 11—three days after the Munich explosion which took eight lives and injured 63 others—while attempting to escape into Switzerland, and to have confessed on Nov. 14. Several of his accomplices also were declared to have been arrested.

The two British agents were named as "Best" and "Captain Stevens," and were declared to have been captured on Nov. 9 while attempting to escape across the border into the Netherlands at Venloo.

The Nazi report said that "contradictory claims whether they were captured while still in Holland or when in Germany are at present being examined."

Alleged At Revolution (Netherlands reports of Nov. 9 said that occupants of a German automobile alighted, crossed the frontier on foot and engaged in gun-play with occupants of a Venlo border customs station. One report said two persons were killed, another that only one was injured, but all accounts agreed that several occupants of the Netherlands car were carried into Germany.)

The Nazi communique charged that The Hague, Netherlands capital, was headquarters of the British intelligence service for western Europe.

It charged further that those headquarters attempted to "organize a revolution."

Parole Is Refused Boss Pendergast In Leavenworth Prison

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The federal parole board refused today to grant a parole to Tom Pendergast, erstwhile Democratic boss of Kansas City, who is serving a 15-month term in Leavenworth prison for evading the income tax law.

The decision meant that Pendergast probably will stay in the penitentiary until May 30, 1940, which would be a year and a day from his entry. Good behavior would cut his sentence to that length despite the board's decision today.

"The board," a statement said, "is constrained by the conviction that parole issuance in the case of Thomas J. Pendergast would be unjustifiable and incompatible with the public interest."

It reached this decision, the board said, "after a most thorough investigation" in which it took into consideration Pendergast's age, health, previous clear record and his plea of guilty. Pendergast is 67 and some time ago was reported to be ganderously ill.

Many Deer Hunters Leaving For Home; Kill Remains Light

(By The Associated Press) Colder weather in the upper peninsula was forecast Tuesday night although it was estimated about 30 percent of the deer hunters already had started home, discouraged by high temperatures which have prevailed.

Hunters said the woods were so dry that snapping twigs warned the prey. Another factor in the exodus was the approach of Thanksgiving Day.

The state department of conservation described conditions as "fair to poor" and the kill as generally light. The department's daily report said 2,118 deer have been taken south across the Straits of Mackinac in addition to 40 bears, a wolf and five foxes.

White Buck Shot A 10-point albino buck was killed at Trout Lake in Alger county.

At Harrisville, Harry Brouse, 21, of Alpena, pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal injury last Wednesday of Augustus Altvater, 67, of Fowler. Altvater was shot while hunting near Glennie. Judge Herman H. Dehne deferred sentence.

Some of the returning hunters declared they were anxious to quit the woods because they feared too many over-anxious deer seekers were in the field. Earl Reed, Battle Creek, reported that while hunting near the Newaygo-Lake county line he was attacked by a deer he had wounded. Reed related that he grabbed the deer by the horns and that while wrestling with it he accidentally shot the deer.

The Bullet, Reed said, went through his hat and both deer and unidentified hunter fled. Reed said he decided to go home without a deer.

Bullet Hits Woman No fatalities were reported Tuesday. Leo Shaddock, 48, of De Witt, was taken to Mercy hospital in Grayling after he was accidentally shot by Thomas Mellow of Marlette. He was hit while sitting on a stump. Mellow was shooting at a deer. Shaddock was wounded through the right hand and thigh.

Mrs. Richard Hunt, 59, was slightly hurt by a spent bullet. O. J. Harwood, Kalkaska, was shot in the foot.

State police and civilian conservation corps youths found William Moore, 78, Romeo, after he had been lost for eight hours in Lake county.

STRIKE LOCKED ON WAGE ISSUE Chrysler Union Demands Too High, Is Claim of Management

Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—Federal and state conciliators intensified efforts tonight to break the wage issue deadlock that is delaying settlement of a contract dispute involving more than 50,000 Chrysler corporation employees.

James F. Dewey, of the United States department of labor, conferred separately with corporation officials, Arthur E. Raab, chairman of the state labor mediation board, talked with representatives of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

There has been "no tentative agreement on any wage issue," Dewey reported.

Wage discussions centered about four points, it was reported. They were: A five-cent hourly general increase, vacations with pay, rate adjustments in skilled classifications and equalization of Newcastle (Ind.) and Marysville (Mich.) plant rates with the Detroit schedule.

"The management says the union demands are too high and unreasonable," Dewey said. "The union says the demands are proper and justifiable."

No Buck Yet, Garner Hunts On Birthday

Uvalde, Texas, Nov. 21 (AP)—Somehow along the Rio Grande that "poker-playing, whiskey-drinking old man," Vice President John N. Garner, will celebrate his 71st birthday anniversary tomorrow by cooking his own dinner over a campfire.

"He'll take time out for a little hunting," Rose Brunfield, his hunting companion, revealed here, and "Cactus Jack" would leave early tomorrow on their second trip of the season.

Ducks, turkey and deer had better take heed, for the vice president is none too happy over his first venture. His wife said he failed to bag his buck, which makes him six days late bringing in his 1939 set of horns.

Chicago Mills Call For More Iron Ore; Ships Race Deadline

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Freighters were reported today to be operating at full speeds in efforts to fill steel storage yards of the Calumet district with enough iron and coal for a winter of record production before December 5, when marine insurance rates increase.

During the last three days more than 35 boats entered ports at South Chicago, East Chicago and Gary with shipments of iron ore, coal and pig iron and each left within 24 hours after docking to make at least another run before the insurance rise deadline.

Meanwhile, the Calumet district production rate was estimated at 93 per cent of capacity, equalling the national level. This rate was expected to be maintained until at least the end of the year, when some equipment will be shut down for repairs so as to open the first quarter of the new year at or near capacity output.

Mill officials reported that backlogs still were "unusually heavy" despite current record-breaking production.

DETROIT GRAFT CHARGES AIRED

Mayor Cuts Hunting Trip In Peninsula Short to Renew Probe

Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cutting short his deer hunting trip to the Upper Peninsula, Mayor Richard W. Reading returned to the city hall today, summoned Police Commissioner Heinrich A. Pickert and ordered an intensification of the investigation of graft charges and other alleged police irregularities.

The mayor said he expected two reports from the commissioner on the charges made by Detective Maurice Garrison, one on the reasons for delay in investigating Garrison's accusations and another on an analysis of the charges proper.

The mayor said he was particularly interested in why Garrison was not taken before the police trial board until Nov. 14 although Pickert knew of his charges Aug. 21.

Police were busy all day on the Garrison case, which involves allegations about graft. Sales of promotions and other corruption. However, around headquarters there appeared to be disagreement about what was being investigated.

After talking to Pickert for a half hour, the mayor said he expected the reports in a day or two. Pickert refused to talk after the parley.

Farley Wants Vote Of New York State, Paul McNutt Hears

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, active candidate for the presidential nomination next June, said today he had "heard" that Postmaster General James A. Farley "wants the New York delegation pledged to himself."

Without definitely renouncing a bid of his own for New York's important 90 votes, McNutt told a press conference: "We are not making any effort for first choice votes in any state that might have a candidate but we want second choice votes where there may be favorite sons. Of course, if President Roosevelt becomes a candidate I am out of the picture—and so is everyone else. If he decides to run, he will be the candidate. That is a political fact."

Leader Artie Shaw Gives Up His Band To Rest In Mexico

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Artie Shaw is a sick man—so sick that he is leaving his band for good and going to Mexico to rest for several months.

His orchestra—which is estimated to have earned from $250,000 to $400,000 in the last year from records, radio, movie and dance engagements—will continue playing under the leadership of Tony Pastor, first saxophonist. When Shaw returns to New York he will organize a new band, he disclosed through press agents today.

Shaw has suffered from a nervous ailment since April. In an interview late in the summer he voiced the opinion that "the music business stinks." That, he added, went for the jitterbugs who were always seeking his autograph.

STATE TO WEED OUT CHISELERS

Lansing, Nov. 21 (AP)—Budget Director Gus T. Hartman today proposed employing "detectives" to rid the state relief rolls of "chiselers."

Asserting large economies were possible if undeserving cases were removed from the rolls, Hartman said "I know that some of our welfare clients are spending money for beer and liquor. They have no business on the welfare lists if they can afford such non-essentials."

Governor Dickinson, originator of the campaign against "non-essentials" for relief clients, said he was impressed by reports that the state of Ohio had saved $2,000,000 a year by dropping undeserving relief cases. It was accomplished by a survey which cost $30,000, he said.

Walter F. Gries, chairman of the state social welfare commission, said he was investigating the possibility of employing the same "detectives," or accountants, who made the Ohio survey.

Gandhi's Ultimatum Handed To Britain; India Asks Freedom

Bombay, Nov. 21 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi told Britain bluntly today that the resignation of eight of India's provincial governments meant they could not participate in the war against Germany unless they obtained in return "complete freedom" for India.

The little leader of millions of Indians asserted that this was their "emphatic" answer to the British white paper of Oct. 17 deferring discussion of India's status until after the war.

His statement was made as he met at Allahabad with a committee of the congress party (nationalists) to discuss the country's attitude toward the European conflict.

The Moslem League, second largest political party in India, has endorsed the British stand despite the protest resignations of the eight provincial governments dominated by the congress party.

DEADLY MINES AROUSE ANGER IN OCEAN WAR

BRITAIN TO AVENGE TERRORISM BY GERMANY

BY EDWIN STOUT London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Great Britain, accusing Germany of "ruthless brutality" and illegal mine warfare, today proclaimed in reprisal an unrestricted high seas blockade of German trade.

While Prime Minister Chamberlain was announcing this step to the house of commons and blaming Germany for the past week's heavy toll of merchant shipping off the British east coast, the 11,930-ton Japanese passenger liner Terukuni Maru became the latest and largest victim.

Reprisal for "Brutality" The vessel, which was believed to have struck a mine, sank within sight of the coast, and her 26 passengers and 139 crew members were saved.

Chamberlain said the government had decided to "subject to seizure on the high seas" all exports of German origin or ownership.

He said this practice had followed during the World war "as a measure of justified reprisals for submarine attacks on merchant ships," and it was to be put into effect now because of "many violations of international law and the ruthless brutality of German methods."

Two Trawlers Sunk The measure, to be put into effect "shortly" by an order in council, calls for seizure of all German exports on the high seas, regardless of whether they are carried under neutral flags, in order to effect now because of "many violations of international law and the ruthless brutality of German methods."

1. Announcement of the sinking of the 490-ton minesweeping trawler Masetti, sixth acknowledged British naval loss of the war, off the east coast by a mine yesterday. One crewman killed, five missing.

2. The British merchant trawlers Thomas Hankins and Sea Sweeper, of 276 and 329 tons respectively, were sunk by submarines off the Irish coast. The 250-ton trawler Delphinus was sunk by a submarine in undisclosed waters. Her crew was rescued.

Balloon Barrage Works The Delphinus was the 15th ship, including 10 British and five neutral, to be sunk by torpedoes or mines since last Saturday.

Coupled with these mounting losses was a report by Reuters, (British news agency) that the 16,622-ton German liner Windhuk slipped out of Lobito Bay, Angola (Portuguese West Africa) Friday, to begin her career as a surface raider.

3. German reconnaissance planes made flights over southeastern England and northern Scotland for the second successive day. The air ministry announced one craft was shot down by British pursuit planes over the east coast.

4. Gunfire was heard at an undisclosed town on the northeast coast of Britain tonight, and air raid warnings were sounded in the district about Humber, in the center of Britain's east coast.

5. Antiaircraft guns fired again at 7 p. m. on German planes over the east coast and British fighters were sent up to intercept them. No bombs were dropped, however.

Numbered Labels On Beer Barred; Store Hours Given

Lansing, Nov. 21 (AP)—The liquor control commission ordered the Grand Rapids Brewing company of Muskegon, today to cease the use of numbered labels that the commission contends were subject to use for gambling purposes.

The company, of which Frank D. McKay, Grand Rapids political leader, is president, was given 60 days in which to use up or destroy the last of the labels.

The commission authorized specially designated liquor distributors within so-called restricted-hour zones to ignore the hours limitations on holidays during which state-owned liquor depots are closed.

The restricted zones are those within a mile of a state store. In them a special distributor may remain open for business only from 7 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 6 p. m. to 2 a. m.

Roosevelts To Eat Turkey In Dixie, Visit Sick Folks

Aboard President Roosevelt's Special Train Enroute to Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 21 (AP)—President and Mrs. Roosevelt traveled into Dixie tonight to spend Thanksgiving with the children and grownups who are receiving treatment for infantile paralysis at the Warm Springs, Ga., Foundation which Mr. Roosevelt helped create.

The children will draw straws to see who will sit next to the chief executive Thursday night at a turkey dinner where Mr. Roosevelt will have an opportunity in a short talk to express his thanks that this country is at peace in a war-racked world.

Mr. Roosevelt intended to remain at his "other home" until next Tuesday. He traditionally spends Thanksgiving at the little white cottage on Pine Mountain. On the return trip he will stop at Asheville, N. C. There he plans to see Marvin McIntyre, a presidential secretary, who is ill, and Margaret Durand, former secretary to the late Louis Howe, long-time aide and adviser to the president. Miss Durand is gravely ill at Asheville.

MUNICH BEER CELLAR BOMB SUSPECT HELD

Organize plots" in Germany, and sought to "establish contact with what were surmised to be revolutionary organizations."

On the basis of German emigre's stories, it went on to say, the British believed that "opposition existed in the (German) state party and army with the aim of causing revolution in the Reich."

Agents Fooled—Officers in the security service of the black-shirted elite guard were assigned to establish contact with the British headquarters at The Hague, it recounted, adding: "In the belief that they actually were dealing with revolutionary German officers, representatives of the British intelligence service revealed their aims and plans."

"In order to be able to keep continued connection with these supposed German officers they delivered certain English radio sending and receiving apparatus through which the German secret state police had maintained connection with the British government until today."

Elsner was caught, Himmler said, when he attempted to flee "illegally" into Switzerland.

The border had been closed temporarily after the attempt on Hitler which the Nazi fuhrer escaped by only 11 minutes from a blast which wrecked the interior of the famed Burgerbrau cellar.

Here is how the case shaped up, as outlined by Himmler: After laying plans for the plot in September and October, 1938, Elser began putting them together in August, 1939.

Clock Kept Ticking—During several weeks of tinkering "in a manner unique in criminal history" he built a bomb attached to a six-day clock and hid it in a pillar of the cellar.

Seven days before the annual Nazi get-together the explosive was carried into the building. After two failures—on Nov. 2 and 3—he succeeded in placing the detonator into the bursting chamber of a bomb during the night of Nov. 4-5.

Therupon Elser left for Switzerland to join his employer, but instead returned to Munich, Nov. 7 to convince himself that everything was set, that the "clock was ticking" and to deaden its sound.

On the morning of the explosion he departed by way of Ulm for the border and was arrested early the next day when the closing restrictions were clamped on.

In Paris, Strasser told the newspaper Paris Solr Monday that he was forced to flee from Switzerland to avoid extradition to Germany in connection with the explosion. He said he had only four hours to leave Zurich when the Nazi government asked the Swiss to extradite him for trial as its "instigator."

(Strasser, whose brother Gregor was killed in the 1934 "blood purge," said his first opinion was that the blast was the work of his underground units in Germany but that he now was convinced it was staged by the Gestapo itself. The black front leader who fled Germany after he was deprived of his citizenship in 1934, expressed the belief that Germany was ready for a revolution by next spring.)

REWARD NOT MENTIONED

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP)—The question of rewards totaling 900,000 marks ($350,000) offered for the arrest of persons who attempted to kill Adolf Hitler at Munich was not mentioned today in the Gestapo statement announcing the arrest and confession of a man accused of planting the bomb.

Immediately after the bomb explosion in the historic Burgerbrau cellar in Munich, Nov. 8, the government offered a reward of 500,000 marks ($200,000).

On Nov. 9, Heinrich Himmler, chief of German police, offered 300,000 marks ($120,000), payable in the United States or anywhere else, to anyone abroad providing information leading to arrest of the bombers. On the same day, the original 500,000 marks reward was increased 100,000 marks ($40,000) by an anonymous donor.

Food Strike Staged At Folsom Prison; Inmates Locked Up

Folsom Prison, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—Nine hundred Folsom prisoners staged a food strike today and prison authorities subsequently locked up all 2,500 inmates as a precaution against possible disorders.

Warden Clyde I. Plummer gave this account of the incident: The prisoners declined to eat breakfast because of sour mush and later refused dinner.

About 800 convicts assigned to the rock quarry also refused to work or to return to the mess hall for lunch after they were locked up.

Plummer, confronted with the first major incident since he became warden two years ago, said he tried to placate the striking convicts by offering them other food. Some ate prunes and bread and had coffee, but others beat on the tables with cups and yelled to the guards.

The warden said the prison cook tried to prepare the mush in a different way and it turned out sour and unpalatable. He took steps to correct the situation and reported the situation under control.

Plummer has instituted such innovations as music with meals, entertainment, holiday refreshments and other "reforms."

DEADLY MINES AROUSE ANGER IN OCEAN WAR

and the all clear signal was given after 75 minutes. The air ministry announced a British civil planes flew inadvertently into London's balloon barrage yesterday and that both occupants were killed when the ship was brought down. The craft was the first victim of the system of protective balloons which ring London's industrial areas.

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON (Associated Press Staff Writer)

The smouldering war in Europe flamed into a blaze of activity with the formal announcement by Prime Minister Chamberlain that the British would retaliate for a new form of sea terrorism which he charged against Germany.

Mysterious sinking of nearly a dozen allied and neutral merchant craft within a three-day period prompted the decision. Chamberlain insisted, despite denials from Berlin, that Germany was strutting the seas with deadly mines in "brutal" defiance of her treaties and the universally accepted rules of sea warfare.

First moves of retaliation presumably will be to tighten the allied sea blockade against Germany through interception of German exports as well as imports. That of itself would represent a scrapping of accepted war practices. Blockades have been aimed historically at enemy imports only.

Sky Battles Dreaded—There was already talk in London and Paris of carrying the economic war against Germany to that existing, even before the recent sinking of the merchant ships. The prime minister's reference to a forthcoming British order in council indicates that under such provocation, the allies will reach out to throttle German trade still further.

Controversy with neutral powers now receiving German products for their own use or for exchange with other neutrals can be expected to result from any such action. London and Paris appear prepared to risk that rather than resort to air-bombing retaliation and precipitate the dreaded battle of the skies for which the world was prepared at the outset of the war.

Pending some definite proof that German mines have been let loose in supposedly open waters around England or France to ambush any ship plying those sea lanes, responsibility for what happens cannot finally be fixed. Yet if the British charges are ever substantiated, there will be little doubt that revision of American neutrality laws helped pave the way for that development of Nazi policy.

American Ships Gone—Before that revision took place, several other inland shipbuilding concerns had been invited to submit bids.

The new ferry will increase Pere Marquette's fleet to 10. Two now operate in the Detroit river and seven others between Wisconsin points and Ludington, Mich. The last launching was in 1930.

The new boat, of "streamlined" design, will be 406 feet long with a 57-foot beam. It will carry 34 freight cars and 50 automobiles and have 74 passenger state rooms.

Contract To Build Carferry Given To Manitowoc Company

Cleveland, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Manitowoc (Wis.) Shipbuilding company today received the contract for a new $1,370,000 car ferry to be operated by Pere Marquette railroad.

George D. Brooke, president of the railroad, said the ferry will be the largest and most powerful ever destined for use on the Great Lakes. It is scheduled to be ready in January, 1941.

Eat Thanksgiving Meal Backwards, This Doctor Says

Portland, Ore., Nov. 21 (AP)—"Eat your Thanksgiving dinner backwards," Dr. Adolph Weinzirl, city health officer, advised today in his annual anti-indigestion campaign.

"Begin with the dessert and save the salad to the end of the meal if you wish to get up from the table of your own volition and feel fit."

"The sweet starch or sugar dessert, if eaten early in the meal will tend to reduce the likelihood of overeating with the attendant miseries that follow. The fruit or vegetable salad will leave the mouth in a clean, sanitary condition."

You crowd the turkey in somewhere between. At one time, poultry and bees were included under the heading of "cattle" in England.

This long-haired male chapeau, modeled by George Worther, socially prominent New Yorker, may point the way toward things to come—if the men fall for them. A chic little number, it was raffled at a benefit for Chinese refugees.

American ships were plying the danger zones. If Germany resorted to ruthless mine warfare or torpedoing without warning, some of those ships might have been sunk and American public opinion might have been stirred to a war fury.

With that danger removed by the proclamations issued by President Roosevelt under the revised neutrality act barring American vessels from virtually all European waters except the Mediterranean and the Arctic, the sea stage was set for an intensified German effort to drive all other merchant craft off of vital allied supply lines. Berlin would have small fear of military consequences for her attacks on ships of small European neutrals.

Grand Marais

Hunter Injured
Grand Marais, Mich.—William Sinclair of Detroit was accidentally injured Saturday morning when hit by a bullet from the gun of his brother, Gordon Sinclair. The accident occurred east of Grand Marais in the vicinity of the Sucker river in Luce county. The injured man was taken to Newberry Hospital where it was found the bullet had lodged in his spine.

According to the hunters, the accident occurred in a very unusual manner. Gordon fired at a rabbit and the shot hit the ground, hit a tree, and then continued on to strike his brother William. Both hunters were staying at the Green Shingles hotel here.

Annual Ball Held
The Hunter's Ball, which is an annual event sponsored by the Holy Rosary Church, was held Friday evening in the Opera House. Fish dinners were served to approximately 175 people early in the evening and later the crowd danced to music furnished by the 24-piece American Legion band from Newberry.

Lucky Hunter
An interesting story is told by Joe Desjardin as to how he "shot" his buck. Another hunter shot the deer, and after looking at it he decided he had made a mistake and shot a doe, and left it lying as it had fallen. Joe decided to investigate and turned the animal over and found to his surprise that one antler had been shot or broken off sometime in the past while the remaining one was buried in the dirt. The deer now hangs in front of the Desjardin home with Joe's tag on it.

Briefs
The Junior Choir of the Holy Rosary Church enjoyed a party Saturday afternoon in the church basement, under the direction of Mrs. Forrest Carter and Mrs. Farmer Masse.

T. W. Linnamaki arrived home from Chicago Friday to spend but Governor Dickinson smelled a rat and objected to being swapped.

"You know as well as I do why they made that offer," he said, suspiciously. "I haven't the time to pay much attention to it."

So unless someone pops up with a little stronger bid for the governor of Wisconsin, it looks as if all deals may be off for the present.

Experiment Tried For Boy Scouts

A novel experiment has been launched by the Red Buck Scout Council to enable more boys to attend camp, A. V. Aronson, council camp chairman, announced yesterday.

The plan permits Scouts to purchase stamps at 10 cents each and paste them in a booklet. When the booklet is filled it is good for a week at summer camp. As a special bonus each Scout receives a free 10 cent stamp for each 90 cents he saves.

One hundred and seventy-one boys spent at least a week in camp last summer. The new plan is expected to double the number attending camp next season.

Several service clubs have shown interest in the plan and have purchased blocks of stamps to sell to their members. When a boy is needed to shovel snow or do some miscellaneous odd job the holder of the stamps will call a Scout.

A new 45 foot "T" dock has recently been completed at the Scout camp by the U. S. Forest Service. A council ring seating 100 persons has been added since camp closed.

Another building is now being moved from the former Camp Kentucky and will be used for handicraft and first aid.

During the recent celebration of the twenty-first birthday of the Czechoslovakian Republic, the country in which most Czech-Slovakian flags were still flying was the United States. The Legation in Washington, the Czechoslovak pavilion at the World's Fair in New York, and numerous consulates displayed the red, white, and blue ensign of Czech sovereignty.

While America Talks

NOBODY should minimize the importance of the European conflict to this country. Directly and indirectly its evil effects will be felt for many years to come. But in some respects America is acting like a family excitedly watching a neighbor's house burn, while, unnoticed, flames devour their own back porch. Instead of getting busy and wetting their place down to prevent spread of the fire, they merely talk of what should be done. The other day while America talked, the Federal debt passed the $41,000,000,000 mark.

During the recent celebration of the twenty-first birthday of the Czechoslovakian Republic, the country in which most Czech-Slovakian flags were still flying was the United States. The Legation in Washington, the Czechoslovak pavilion at the World's Fair in New York, and numerous consulates displayed the red, white, and blue ensign of Czech sovereignty.

Rallying around the exiled diplomats for the anniversary were the United States citizens of Czechoslovakian origin, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. This colorful Czech element has appeared in the American mosaic from the start. Possibly the very first naturalized American was the Czech, Augustine Herrman, denaturalized in 1664.

Before 1918, there were more Czechs in Chicago and Cleveland than in any homeland city except Praha. The 1930 census counted 1,352,000 Americans of Czech-Slovak birth or parentage, and estimates of grandchildren raise the number to 1,750,000—nearly one-tenth the population of their homeland. One-fifth of them live in the cities of Chicago, New York, and Cleveland. Chicago's late Mayor Cermak, like a score of other mayors at that time, was a Czech; a plaque on his birth in Klado bears his last words. I'm glad it was me instead of you, spoken as he lay dying of wounds an assassin intended for President Roosevelt.

The Czechoslovakian strain in the United States racial symphony has contributed drama, music, humor, education, and hard work. Antonin Dvorak's famous symphony, From the New World, and his American Quartet show today's concertgoers what music yesterday's grateful Czechoslovak immigrant could extract from Spillville, Iowa. Mutt and Jeff have packed chuckles into miles of comic strips from the brain of a Czech immigrant's artist son, Bud Fisher. A Czech architect raised the Gothic pinnacles of St. Patrick's Cathedral above New York's Fifth Avenue. Czech actors, actresses, and ballerinas have had their day on Broadway and in Hollywood. A Czech voice in 1935 received the award for the best diction used by United States radio announcers. Everyone who whistles a tune from Rose Marie pays tribute to the Czech composer, Rudolph Friml.

Ringside, St. Paul, Nov. 21.—Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, and Mike Gibbons, St. Paul, fought a terrific, bloody 10 round bout tonight. The fight was vicious and close all the way and although several ringside experts called it a draw, the majority gave O'Dowd a slight shade.

Early in the fight, O'Dowd opened a cut over Gibbons' left eye and from there on Gibbons was at a disadvantage.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN Washington—There is much wailing and gnashing of teeth these days among New Dealers. The President, greatest spender of them all, has sent blunt orders down the line that all estimates for the new budget must be pared to the bone.

The boys just don't know what to make of it. They expected economy demands from Congress, but for Roosevelt to wield the ax has cut them to the quick.

And they know he isn't kidding because of what he already has done to WPA. He has quietly ordered its new appropriation slashed to $1,000,000,000—a cut of $500,000,000 under the current budget. If anywhere near this percentage of economizing is imposed on other major appropriations, then the budget he will submit to Congress in January will amaze his critics.

It also will be in line with the advice given him by the Democratic congressional leaders.

They have urged him to cut everything but national defense sharply. If Congress wants to boost his figures, that will be its responsibility. But the Administration, they insist, should be on record for a balanced budget in order to meet Republican campaign attacks.

Judging from the cries of anguish among his New Deal intimates, the President is definitely acting on this counsel. —SUPREME COURT BATTLE—

There was a touch of the old Supreme Court fight in what Roosevelt said about the late Justice Butler, but you had to hear the words read aloud to get it.

Newsmen at Steve Early's press conference asked if the President had any comment to make on the death of the Supreme Court Justice. Early had anticipated that, and was ready with a statement from the President.

He read it aloud in a quiet voice, but when he came to the line about Butler's philosophy, there was an unmistakable emphasis laid upon one word, which loaded it with meaning.

" . . . his complete frankness," Early read, "in the expression of his philosophy . . . commanded my respect." Early emphasized the word "his", an emphasis which was doubtless not his own but the President's. "Respect" applied only to Butler's frankness, not to Butler's philosophy. —AMERICAN HORSE SENSE—

—INLAND WATERS— The ouster of Major General T. Q. Ashburn as head of the Inland Waterways Corporation was no sudden convulsion. It was the climax of a long behind-the-scenes row between the retired army officer and Commerce Department officials.

First blow in the feud was struck by Ashburn, who hotly resented having his agency put under the Department in last summer's government reorganization. He had been his own boss for years and didn't like being subordinated.

At the first meeting of his board after the transfer, Ashburn took the offensive by reading a legal brief challenging the legality of the shift. To Assistant Commerce Secretary J. Monroe Johnson, two-fisted South Carolinian who was getting his first close-up of the Inland Waterways Corporation, this seemed a deliberate affront and he told Ashburn so in so many words.

Thereafter, Johnson lost no time in digging into the affairs of the Corporation and quickly uncovered three interesting items: (1) that in addition to his $10,000 a year salary, Ashburn was getting $5,000 for personal expenses; (2) he had a government yacht that cost $20,000 a year to operate; (3) that IWC barge and river hands were up in arms over low pay and poor food.

On orders of Secretary Hopkins, Johnson put the ax to the expense fund and the yacht. Ashburn was furious. —MERRY-GO-ROUND—

GUARDS TO GET FUND OF $2,000

City, C. of C. and Banks Cooperate to Aid Unit Here

A fund of $2,000 was assured to the new Escanaba National Guard unit in a meeting of Chamber of Commerce, bank, National Guard and city representatives, it was announced yesterday.

Under the agreement, the banks will advance the money to the city to lend to the guard unit for the purpose of establishing an armory in one of the fairgrounds buildings for carrying on the unit's activities.

The Chamber of Commerce agreed to guarantee full repayment of the sum in the event the full amount should not be repaid in the form of rent of $50 a month, or $600 a year.

The city had been asked to lend the money outright, but the city council in a meeting last week preferred not to go into the banking business and delegated Councilman Harold Gasman and City Manager George E. Bean to attempt to arrange for the money through other channels. Council members regarded the unit as an important asset to the city and wished not to let it fall for want of the funds.

Present at the meeting on arrangements were William Warrington, banker and Chamber of Commerce representative; John P. Norton, recently elected president of the Chamber; Leslie French, Gerald Cleary, Joseph Charlebois, Mr. Gasman, Mr. Bean, H. P. Lindsay, secretary of the C. of C.; and L. W. Jenkins, commander of the guards unit.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tutty Sit down strikes have given Michigan a bad name on the labor front among other states, but the Governor's two delegates to the Sixth National Conference on Labor Legislation in Washington this week discovered that on labor legislation Michigan ranks among the best and most progressive.

Right now while many states are crippled with an ineffectual wage and hour law to facilitate the enforcement of the Federal Wage and Hour law, Michigan is right along with Wisconsin in its adequate state legislation.

Republicans John H. Thorpe, Commissioner of Labor, and James F. Shepherd, chairman of the Department of Labor and Industry, appointed by Governor Dickinson as delegates, do not let partisanship, it is said, upset a smooth cooperation between their offices and the Detroit Federal headquarters of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor. Often they uncover "corporate devices" and "evasions" and report them to the federal inspectors, who in turn report violations of state regulations.

Our delegates found other states worried about a migratory farm problem but the Michigan men could report that outside of the Mexican families who flock in decreasing numbers, into the beet fields very few come into the state. Even the fruit pickers along the Western Shore now come in such small numbers that they arouse little concern, Thorpe said.

Still other delegates sought to abolish industrial work in homes as unfair competition. Thorpe laughingly said about all this in Michigan was confined to a few basement dressmaking establishments and home mattress-making concerns.

But there are two improvements for the benefit of Michigan employees that Thorpe is going to launch on his return. He will fight for more teeth in the state law concerned with helping workers collect their wages. He favors a law making it mandatory for prosecuting attorneys to issue warrants against employers to settle wage claims.

Thorpe does not complain about his own experience with prosecuting attorneys but he feels a permanent protection to employees is needed. Some $36,000 in wages was recovered for employees during the last year.

Soon, Thorpe will appoint an apprenticeship council in an attempt to establish the best possible standard for suitable arrangements for apprentices to have proper training for skilled labor jobs. Many mechanics out of work during the depression now need retraining to get new jobs. It is promised that employers and employees will have equal representation on the new council.

Like most other delegates who for the first time meet the much discussed—and cursed—Secretary of Labor, Thorpe admitted he was pleasantly surprised with Frances Perkins. "A remarkable woman and amazingly well-informed" said Thorpe, who gives her male staff full credit for keeping her well-posted.

Eight educators from the Michigan State College, headed by the bill. Should the president select Murphy as Butler's successor the appointment would remove him entirely from the field of partisan politics.

The national convention delegates will elect the party's two members to the national committee. The incumbents are Edmund C. Shields of Lansing and Mrs. Clara VanAuken of Detroit. They are serving their first terms, having been elected at the last national convention in Philadelphia.

There has been no talk that would indicate either of the incumbents will have opposition. Shields opposed VanWagoner's program of electing Porritt state chairman. But as VanWagoner is virtually in the race for governor next year he probably would like to have Shields with him so there seems little possibility of retaliation.

Of course Murphy supported Shields and Mrs. VanAuken. Howell VanAuken, the latter's husband, later became a member of Murphy's utility commission.

PORRITT WANTS DELEGATION TO BE UNINSTRUCTED. If the spring convention follows Porritt's suggestions the Michigan delegation to the national convention will go uninstructed. Van Wagoner has shown some sentiment along the same line. This program, of course, can easily be changed. Some believe it hinges on what the president does about a third term.

The highway commissioner would go for a third term for Roosevelt. He believes with the president heading the ticket the party would have the best chance to win. He does not favor Murphy as a vice presidential candidate. His opposition is predicated on the fact that Murphy failed to win a second term as governor.

Assuming the president is not a candidate but attempts to dictate his successor, Michigan's delegation may be instructed and bound by the unit rule. That was the case in 1932 when President Roosevelt was first nominated.

Such a move might bring out a number of favorite sons and precipitate a wild scramble for instructed delegations. If that condition obtains, then the boss of Michigan's delegation would carry considerable influence. He would sit in on the political deals when they were made.

stately and genial R. S. Shaw, the President, are in Washington for the 53rd annual convention of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

In hushed tones and in closed administrative sessions there is much discussion about the effect of the "limited war emergency" on the military training activities required at all land-grant colleges. Will it be expanded in preparation for a war that does not seem remote enough—How much control over administration will the War Department demand of the colleges?

The only comment Michigan's President Shaw was willing to make was: "All are agreed to cooperate with the government in the activities fitting to national defense."

In the group are: Dean E. L. Anthony; R. J. Baldwin, director of extension; C. L. Brody, trustee; H. B. Dirks, Dean of Engineering; V. G. Grove, Acting Dean of Graduate School; Marie Dye, Dean of Home Economics; V. R. Gardner, Director of the Experimental Station.

CITY MAY FACE SUIT IN DEATH

Iron Mountain Attorney Suggests Settlement In DeJka Drowning

The city yesterday was asked to make a settlement or face a suit for damages in the drowning on July 24, 1938, of Sophie DeJka, then of Bark River, in the bay at Ludington Park beach.

An Iron Mountain attorney wrote City Manager George E. Bean that he had been retained by Walter E. DeJka, the girl's father, to handle the suit.

The attorney said that it appeared the city was negligent "in that guards were not attending to duty at the time of the drowning and had they been attending to duty, this drowning would not have occurred. Then, too, there was a large hole where she was drowned."

It was suggested that a $1,000 out-of-court settlement might be satisfactory.

The city manager turned the letter over to City Attorney H. J. Rushton.

Democrats to Get Early Start for 1940 National Convention

(By Guy H. Jenkins) (Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing—Taking the lead, the Democratic organization in Michigan early in January will prepare for the spring convention which will name delegates to the 1940 national convention.

The preliminary battles will be fought in Detroit, Jan. 25, at the time of the Jackson day dinner, the proceeds of which will go to help reduce the national committee deficit and create the 1940 campaign war chest.

Charles S. Porritt, state chairman, was in Washington to obtain a national speaker. Someone outstanding is really needed when the organization charges $25 a plate for boneless squab, breast of guinea hen or maybe diamond back terrapin.

But, after all, the dinner and the national speaker are incidental to the whole affair. Porritt has called a meeting of the state central committee for that day. Included in the committee's business will be the selection of the place and fixing the time for the spring convention to name delegates to the national convention.

At this writing it seems safe to predict that none other than Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner, will drive the bandwagon and unless there is an upset he should be in a position to say who will represent the state at the national convention.

MURPHY MAY OPPOSE VAN WAGONER RULE.

Right now VanWagoner is the big boss but maybe Attorney General Frank Murphy will have more to say than some now expect.

When Porritt was elected state chairman at the dictation of Van Wagoner Murphy took it on the chin. He found it impossible to manipulate the convention of last April by remote control from Washington. He had no real organization and accordingly Van Wagoner breezed along like nobody's business.

But since then Murphy has been building a little organization. For example, he recently gave his legislative floor leader, Representative Joseph C. Murphy, an assistant United States district attorneyship. This may help him with certain Detroit politicians.

It is reported here that Joseph M. Donnelly of Ontonagon, usually listed as the administration chief hater, declined to accept an appointment in Washington because it would require his absence from Michigan, but took a special assistant attorney job in the upper peninsula. He was on the governor's utility commission. John N. Fegan of Sault Ste. Marie, whose policies while a member of the state tax commission precipitated severe criticism, not only of Fegan but Murphy, is reported to have landed a soft berth on the federal pay roll.

ROOSEVELT-MURPHY SLATE SEEN BY EX-GOVERNOR.

Of the group probably only Joseph Murphy and Donnelly would be worth their salt in lining up delegates for the former governor, but the Hatch bill reduces this number by one. Because of his federal appointment, Joseph Murphy is barred from political work.

The attorney general will be without the political services of Judge Frank A. Picard of Saginaw. Here again Picard's position eliminates him from political work. Murphy never had a more enthusiastic supporter than Picard.

The gossip for some time has been that Murphy is going to oppose VanWagoner at every turn of the political road and that if VanWagoner seeks the Democratic nomination for governor he will have the attorney general for an opponent.

But some are inclined to doubt that really is Murphy's program. Turning one's back on a cabinet position to run for governor would be somewhat of a step-down.

Some of the Washington newspaper men say that Murphy visions a national ticket of President Roosevelt and himself as the party's candidate for vice president. Others contend he looks ahead to the time he will be a member of the United States supreme court. The death of Justice Butler has revived this possi-

VANWAGONER INVITED
Iron Mountain—Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, during the course of a visit in Iron Mountain today was invited to be guest of honor at the Pine mountain ski tournament to be held February 11 and said that if it were possible he would be present.

Van Wagoner visited the slide this afternoon, and not only looked it over at the base of the hill, but climbed to the top of the super-structure and took pictures. "It isn't reasonable," he said, "to believe that anyone would take a jump off this slide, but apparently they do. There should be some world records broken here and I, for one, would like to see the tournament."

SKI TRAINS PROPOSED
Ironwood—A proposal to bring ski trains into Ironwood from Minneapolis this winter was presented to the Ironwood Association of Commerce at noon today by Wesley Painter and Russell Knight of Minneapolis. The commercial group voted to back the plan and asked the men for a program planned for such a special train.

Painter, proprietor of a Minneapolis sports store, and Knight, secretary of the Norwegian-American Ski association, said trains would leave Minneapolis on Friday night, if the plan is adopted, and arrive at Ironwood Saturday morning and remain until Sunday.

Cranberries Are Answer To Many Menu Problems

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
(P) Feature Service Writer

These little red berries have come far since the days when the Indians called them "cranberries" for their resemblance to the head of a crane. Through cultivation, they have stepped into the front rank of health-giving foods.

Cranberry Juice makes a good starting point for luncheon or dinner. For 7 minutes, cook 3 cups of berries and 4 of water. Strain and mix in 2-3 cup of granulated sugar. Simmer 3 minutes. Add a dash of salt and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Serve chilled. On brisk days, serve hot and spiced. Cook 6 whole cloves and an inch of bark cinnamon, along with the berries.

Jellied Cranberry Juice makes colorful salads. Stiffen it with gelatin, pour into small cups or ring molds, then unmold on lettuce and fill centers with apple, celery and nut salad, topped by salad dressing. A really smart idea is to fill with avocado cubes blended with white cream cheese and French dressing.

Sliced Berries bring a new flavor to waffle, fritter, cornbread, muffin and pancake batters. Fold in 1/2 cup of them the last thing before baking.

Cranberry Nut Bread: Serve sandwiches made of it at your next tea, or put it in school lunch boxes. It is full of nourishment. Mix 1 1/2 cups Graham flour, 2 cups white flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 1 egg, 1/2 cup shredded Brazil nuts or walnuts and 1 1/2 cups sour milk or buttermilk. Fold in 1 1/2 cups chopped cranberries. Bake in a large, wax paper-lined loaf pan for one hour at 350 degrees.

Steamed Cranberry Pudding: Mix together 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup chopped berries and 1-3 cup melted fat. Half-fill a buttered mold, cover tightly and steam 2 1/2 hours. Serve hot, with hard sauce, vanilla or spice flavored, or liquid lemon grapejuice sauce.

Cranberry Sherbet: Serve it with the main course of fowl or roast meat. To serve 5 or 6 persons, cook 4 cups of berries and 3 cups of water until the berries are soft. Press through a sieve and stir in 1 1/2 cups of granulated sugar. Heat until the sugar dissolves. Cool, add 1/2 cup orange juice and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Freeze until stiff.

Holiday Hair-Dos Need Preparatory Work Right Now

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

It isn't too soon for you to begin wondering how you're going to look during the holidays—and doing something about it.

One of the first things to think of when you start a pre-holiday conditioning program is your hair. And one of the first things you should consider is: how pilable is my hair?

Because of neglect, bad permanents, lack of stimulation of the glands around each hair, many women needlessly resign themselves to the fact that their hair has lost much of its old elasticity. Any determined woman can definitely improve the condition of her hair, however.

What to do about it?

Brush, brush, brush. Lean over forwards, head down, and begin brushing from the base of the neck to the top of the head. Brush above the ears. Brush at the temples. But be sure to use a good, clean brush with firm bristles—no bristles that tear into the scalp.

Massage Later
Brushing should be a nightly ritual. A hundred strokes. Not many more—and none less.

Once a week or so, over a period of three or four weeks, give yourself a hot oil treatment. Heat some olive oil or good mineral oil in a double boiler. Part your hair, first in the center and divide it into one-inch rows from ear to ear. Dip some cotton into the olive oil and work the whole scalp has been covered. Then wind a towel around your head and leave it for 10 or 15 minutes.

Afterwards, give your scalp a thorough massaging. Start at the back of your neck, behind your ears. Use both hands at the same time and massage around and around.

Then give your hair a thorough shampoo, using a pure soap. A few weeks of all this and you can go to your hairdresser with hair that is really ready for a permanent, or whatever other treatment you want.

About Permanents
A few things you should know about permanents:
Insist on "tests" curls. Not one, but at least three. The best place for them is about an inch from the nape of your neck. Then they won't show up too much.

Croqu Shore waves are almost the only type given today. They are waves wound from the bottom of the hair toward the scalp. That means the tightest curl will be on the ends—where you want it—and the softer wave will be on top. Spiral waves, wound from the scalp out, are very seldom given now.

You can test a test curl by wetting it and pulling down hard on it. If it springs back into a curl—in other words, if it shows a reasonable degree of elasticity—you may be sure you have a good curl.

Don't be afraid to get a machineless wave, if your operator suggests it. There are some people, it is true, whose hair doesn't take a machineless wave, but not very many.

Ask the shop to keep a record of your permanent—so you can know what to ask for next time.

POLICE SEARCH LAKE FOR BOY

Paul Ringstrand, Nervous Patient, Missing; Cap Is Found

Paul Ringstrand, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ringstrand of 1023 Sheridan road, object of a dragnet search in the bay near the St. Paul ore docks all day yesterday, was still missing at 10:30 o'clock last night when weary policemen gave up the search until morning.

The youth's cap was found at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon floating in the water close to the No. 2 St. Paul docks and about 50 feet from shore, by Policeman Ray Van Enkevort. The black and white checked cap was later identified by the lad's mother as his.

Police began dragging the water early yesterday after the watchman at the docks reported about 7 o'clock having found the youth's new red and white bicycle under the north dock.

At the same time, policemen began a systematic search of the 50 acre tract of woods just west of state route M-35 opposite the docks, with John Sullivan in charge of a crew of six who spent the afternoon walking back and forth in a thorough combing of the territory.

Ringstrand, who had been a patient for nervous disorder treatments until three weeks ago at a Milwaukee hospital, left his home at 8 o'clock Monday night, and when he had not returned at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, his parents, notified police.

The parents said he had mentioned that he planned to go back to Milwaukee for further relief of his trouble, although he had been discharged for recuperation at home. He was still in weakened condition, the parents said. Police checked with railroad officials and the highway department to have them on the lookout for traces of the lad.

But since the trail led toward the docks, the city tug was ordered to the scene early and a crew of workers under the tugboat master, Jack Langworthy, let down grappling hooks for the search of the bay.

Patrolmen Henry Breaud and Walter Antonson spent the morning in the woods and a crew including Granville Roeder, Harvey Gasman and Harold Finman, with Patrolman Sullivan spent the afternoon in the woods search. Some of the same men were used in the lake search.

When he left home, Ringstrand wore a pair of blue dungarees, a black jacket, a tan shirt, black ox-fords, light gray woolen stockings and black woolen mittens, besides the cap that was recovered. He is five feet four inches tall and weighs about 125 pounds. He has dark brown curly hair.

One theory of his disappearance was that he might have gone to the former mooring of his boat, which he removed from the water recently, and that somehow he might have slipped or fallen into the water while approaching or leaving the place, near the docks.

LeClaire Requests Cancellation Of Old Chattel Mortgages

Mrs. Ethel L. Phillips, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Association of Registers of Deeds, has called attention to the rolling, by Melville B. McPherson, chairman of the state tax commission, that chattel mortgages will be taxable in 1940 under the new intangible tax law, P. A. LeClaire, Delta county register of deeds, announced.

On this account, Mrs. Phillips stated that all chattels now on file with the various registers of deeds of Michigan, which have been satisfied, should be discharged by the mortgagees, as the registers' chattel mortgage files will be the basis of investigation for payment of the intangible tax on chattels.

Mrs. Phillips said: "Millions of dollars worth of personal properties are covered by these obsolete chattel mortgages which still remain on file with the registers of deeds of Michigan, and which appear in our files as 'live' chattels, on which the intangible tax will have to be computed."

"It would be much cheaper and easier for the mortgagees to pay the small fee prescribed by statute to discharge these chattels, than to have to include them in the intangible tax report which will have to be made prior to March 1, 1941."

Personality Is Chief Factor In Grid Coaching

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Service Sports Editor)
Chicago, Nov. 20—The story book success of Dr. Eddie Anderson at Iowa sets Joseph Ralph Brandy to talking about coaching. "Coaching," says Little Joe Brandy, "is 90 per cent personality, 5 per cent psychology and 5 per cent knowledge."

Brandy, now editing a newspaper at Ogdensburg, N. Y., . . . right on the Canadian border. Likes Dr. Edward Nicholas Anderson's lucky pants yarn.

When Eddie Anderson drew his equipment as a 17-year-old, 150-pound Notre Dame freshman in 1918. Knute Rockne said to him: "Here's a lucky pair of pants, Anderson. They need some patching, so take 'em over to the tailor and have them fixed. But don't lose 'em. They're lucky. 'I'll let you wear 'em."

"Darned if I didn't believe that luck business," recalls Dr. Anderson. And he's been "lucky" ever since. . . "lucky" as a player. . . "lucky" as a coach at Columbia college of Dubuque, DePaul of Chicago, Holy Cross and Iowa.

All of Dr. Anderson's good fortune cannot, of course, be traced to the lucky pair of pants, but, as Brandy points out, Rockne got the youngster off on the right track.

Dr. Anderson gets as much or more out of the Notre Dame system and its variations than any other product of the plan. "That," explains Editor Brandy, "is because he came up in football's golden era of ideas."

ROCKNE CREATED DEMAND FOR NOTRE DAME COACHES
The 1920 Notre Dame team . . . the best one Brandy ever saw and on which the then 147-pound quarterback blocked for the immortal George Gipp . . . sent more young men into coaching careers than any other one array.

On it were Dr. Eddie and Hunk Anderson, Clipper Smith of Villanova, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, Slip Madigan of Saint Mary's; Chet Wynne, who went to Kentucky; Harry Mehre of Mississippi; Earl Walsh, the Fordham line coach, and Chet Grant, who is still a member of the Notre Dame staff.

Frank Thomas of Alabama, Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, Dutch Bergman and Tom Lieb played football at Notre Dame while Dr. Anderson and Brandy were in school. Jimmy Phelan of Washington captained the club in Brandy's freshman year.

"Less was known about football then," explains Brandy. "There was more to learn. We had a wonderful instructor in Rockne. "We came into college with little or no knowledge of the game."

BOYS MORE RECEPTIVE WHEN ROCKNE COACHED
"Boys now go to college with considerable background. Many of them are coached by All-American men in high or prep school. I doubt that the majority of them are as receptive as we were. "And Rock, fresh on the job, energetic and highly imaginative, was doing things in new ways. "He was first to send decoys downfield on passes. "He originated the shift to throw the defensive team off after it was set and which brought about rule changes. "He substituted speed for brawn . . . the sideswipe for the pile-driver . . . saw that it wasn't necessary to completely drive an opposing player out of play . . ."

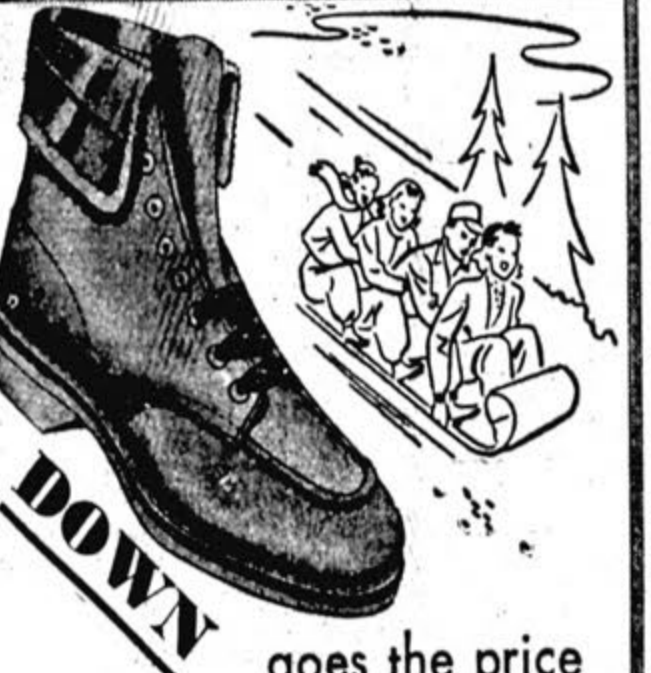

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills today and ask for new money-saving Family Size.

that delaying him just long enough for the ball-carrier to take advantage of the opening was sufficient. "Eddie Anderson got in on the introductory burst of Knute Rockne's tremendous enthusiasm. "Iowa is now getting the benefit of that." Little Joe Brandy would like to wager that Dr. Eddie Anderson distributed a complete set of lucky pants in Iowa City this fall.

Jewels Glimmer Behind The Ears In New Coiffures

BY BETT YCLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer
Glimmering hair ornaments gleam in the new fall coiffures.

Rhinestones, simulated sapphires, emeralds, rubies and topazes—all sorts of brilliant stones—are seen in all sorts of settings, from combs and barrettes to wrap-arounds.

The elegance of the new fashions is behind it all, explains Fred Behr, New York hair ornament designer. "A woman who wears one of these elaborate new evening gowns won't feel dressed unless she has something in her hair," he says.

Newest of the ornaments are those made to be worn just behind the ear. There's a spray of dull gold leaves fastened to a swing comb and trailed by six little imitation pearl lilies-of-the-valley, for instance. You may wear a pair of them, if your coiffure warrants, or just one, so long as you wear them somewhere around your ears. There's a bit of gold finery (it comes in silver, too), that looks almost like an old Victorian brooch. It is set with a whole rainbow of simulated stones.

Then there are bows of all kinds. A black velvet one is attached to a barrette that drips with gilt nuts and leaves. It's meant to be worn at the nape of the neck. A bow-knot of iridescent plastic and set with tiny rhinestones also looks nice at the nape of the neck. There are gold kid bows to complement gold evening slippers and bag, or a tremendous bustle bow of black taffeta ribbon to be worn with a black taffeta bustle dress.

In combs there are Spanish effects of simulated tortoise shell; a fan-shaped affair made of gold lace and held together at the base with a tiny black velvet bow. Snoods, wrap-arounds, Juliet caps—yes, and turbans—of non-tarnishable gold or silver thread, with or without jewel settings, complete the array.

$123,000 WPA PROJECT SENT

Drainage, Ski Club and Dock Work Included in Plans

A three part city of Escanaba WPA project, calling for expenditure of a total of $123,476 was signed yesterday and sent to WPA authorities for approval. The city will put in $32,657, or 26.5 per cent of the total.

Included was a drainage project for the southwest section of the city; a plan for the development of a ski club area near the northwest city limits, and a dock project for Ludington park near the Ludington and Second streets intersection, which will be the first step toward construction of a new water plant here.

Total cost of the drainage project was put at $47,539, with the city to pay $6,457, or 13.6 per cent. Total cost of the ski area work was set at $2,809, with the city to contribute $1,099, or 29 per cent and total cost of the dock project was listed at $66,148, with the city to contribute $24,793, or 37.5 per cent.

This work is planned to consume 1,589 man months of labor or to furnish work for 200 men for eight months, at the rate of a little more than $50 a month, which will mean a payroll of about $10,000 a month on the project as a whole.

The city's share will be largely in the form of equipment rental, including rental for the sand sucker, figured at $8,640; charges for the pile driver, for a total of $1,740 and rents for shovels, trucks and other city equipment.

The drainage project is being submitted for the second time, with some changes, after it was turned down a year ago because the city's share was too small to meet government requirements. A recent ruling has made it possible to combine all the city projects into one, so that the low city share on the drainage job is offset by higher city percentages on the other projects, to bring the total slightly above the government minimum of 25 per cent city contribution. For this reason, city officials think there will be no objection to the drainage work.

City Manager George E. Bean said he hoped for prompt government action and approval of the project by January 1, in order to relieve the relief burden here. There is no assurance, however, as to when the projects may be sanctioned.

Housewife Shows New Yorkers How To Buy For Less

BY JOAN DURHAM (P) Feature Service Writer New York—Remember that riot Manhattan housewives almost brought about recently, skyrocketing sugar prices overnight?

It took a woman to bring the housewives back to their senses; a white-haired woman with kindly blue eyes and a generous supply of good old-fashioned horse sense.

Mrs. Frances Foley Gannon, head of New York City's Consumer's Service Department, had spent six years preparing for just such an emergency. She was so well prepared, in fact, that although she was on vacation when the "emergency" occurred, her department took care of it without her presence.

The minute the department gave word to the housewife that there wasn't any reason to fear a sugar shortage," she explains, "the price of sugar fell back to six or seven cents. It had been as high as ten."

That rise in the price of sugar focused attention on the rising costs of other foods.

"The rise would have come, war or no war," Mrs. Gannon says. "Prices always go up this time of the year."

One of the first things Fiorello H. LaGuardia did when he became New York's mayor was to start checking up on complaints about high prices and irregular quality in perishable foods.

He got Mrs. Gannon, a widow who had raised five children, to head a Consumer's Service department. Mrs. Gannon began very carefully.

One thing she soon discovered: The waterfront produce markets were clogged with perishable foods that were perishing.

"Snooping" Declined She set two men to checking fruits, vegetables, dairy products and fish in wholesale markets.

Merchants began to protest her "snooping"; professional home economists looked askance at an ordinary housewife in such a job. Even the farmers raised a few howls. But Mayor LaGuardia backed her and she kept right at work.

Every morning she sent checkers into the markets at 2 a. m. to see what was coming in, to determine average prices and watch how things were turning over.

At 7 Mrs. Gannon correlated their reports. A little after 8, when housewives were starting to make out shopping lists, she discussed the day's best buys in a 5-minute talk over the city's radio station. She established a service to distribute news to New York papers. She mailed literature to persons willing to pay the postage. She established cooking classes.

She arranged exhibitions to teach housewives to recognize cuts of meats and provided for lectures to women's organizations and neighborhood centers.

Now, she says, wholesalers, retailers, housewives and even people in other cities find her work good. They're on her side now.

During 1937, 109,000,000 of the 258,000,000 coins issued by the British Royal Mint were pennies.

Red Cross Drive Hits $1,000 Mark

The Red Cross drive in Delta county reached the $1,000 mark yesterday. John A. Lemmer, roll call chairman, said.

With the addition of yesterday's receipts of $90.75, total to date was $1,005.84.

The second out of city district reported yesterday, Frank Tebo of Garden reporting $22, an increase over last year. Almost all districts have reported increases over last year thus far.

Keen Rivalry Is Featured In Elks Bowling Leagues

A three way tie exists for first place in the Elks National League bowling race at the end of the week's play. R. G. Hentschell's Times-Tribune, Alex Creighton's Fords, and Ray Prine's Browns are in a stalemate with a percentage of .667.

John Kasun's Giants are a shade behind them. R. G. Hentschell of the Times-Tribune squad is already making reservations for world series seats.

The race in the American League also is close with the Pedagogues holding a slight lead over Len Male's Yanks and Cliff Cool's Badgers. Malcolm Nelson's Cards are coming to the front in a big way and climbed into fourth place last week. Tom Mulrooney's lowly Papermakers showed a reversal of form and now are tied for fifth place with Fred Hahn's Nationals.

Ed. Busch's Pirates rolled high series this week in the National League with a total of 2443 for three games. The Giants led the league for high single game with 871 followed by the Pirates with 871. The best three game individual score was rolled by Charlie Robinson of the Bulcks who spilled the pins for a 630 count.

Ed. Busch of the Pirates was second with 572. Robinson also had high single game with 236 while John Kasun was second with 202.

In the American League the Cardinals hit 2635 for high three game series, while they also had high single game with 940. Schuster's 914 gave them second place. John Kelly of the Peds leads the American league for high three game score this week with 616, followed by Malcolm Nelson with 575. Kelly also has high single game with 233. Carl Carlson is second with 228 while Kelly is third with 226.

Accident Victim Reported Improved

The condition of Vernon Lee, 21, wounded in the left shoulder and lung in a hunting accident five miles east of Blaney Junction Monday afternoon was described by attending physicians here yesterday as improved.

Lee, who is being treated at Shaw hospital in Manistique, was shot by a 30-30 rifle shell fired by a hunting companion, Edward Ruby, 21, who lives at the Lee residence in Newton township, Mackinac county.

Attending physicians reported yesterday that although Lee's condition is improved, the possibility of infection in the wound is prevalent and that he would not be out of danger until that possibility is materially diminished.

A Proclamation

Ever since that first memorable Thanksgiving in 1621, when a brave handful of Pilgrims gathered to praise God for their first harvest, Thanksgiving Day has been the motivating spirit of all Americans.

That hardy band had passed through a perilous winter. Many obstacles threatened to end their hopes and lives. Supplies were depleted... strength was exhausted. A harvest meant life or death. But the new land produced bountifully, success was assured, and because they were God-fearing men of character they humbled themselves in gratitude.

The country has gone forward and produced bountifully for the past three centuries and while we have been through a most trying depression we still have much to be thankful for.

Therefore, I, Milton Berg, by virtue of the authority vested in me as mayor of the city of Gladstone, do hereby urge cessation of business so far as possible on Thursday, Nov. 23, 1939, and that people rest from their labors and in homes or houses of worship give devout thanks for the blessings which a merciful Father has bestowed upon them.

Signed:
Milton Berg,
Mayor of the City of Gladstone.

Lively Football Parties Assured For Saturday

SPILLING the DOPE

THROUGH COURTESY of an aroused Cleveland Ram outfit, the Green Bay Packers are on top of the western division of the pro grid league . . . Dutch Clark, coach of the Rams and former Detroit Lion star, pulled a prize bit of psychology out of his bag of tricks during the past week that enabled the Rams to upset the favored Lions . . . when Clark went to the Rams this fall as coach, it was with the understanding that he would not serve as an active player, the Lions retaining his playing contract . . . before the game Sunday, Clark applied to the league president for permission to play against the Lions, claiming his back was injured . . . the Lions, however, refused to grant him permission to play . . . and that was just what Dutch wanted . . . he fired the Rams with hate against the Detroiters . . . and they went out and conquered them . . . so, the Packers are on top today . . . but just how long they'll remain there is a moot question . . . they've still got a tough row to hoe . . . incidentally, the Packers always get teams and teams of valuable publicity for the little town of Green Bay in metropolitan papers when they play in New York . . . Curley Lambeau is the Bay chamber of commerce without portfolio.

Love is like eating mushrooms—you never know if it's the real thing until it's too late.

FOOTBALL is a funny game . . . it is the only sport we know of that does not have an official scorer . . . and one of the other officials is the timer . . . a near riot was perpetrated after the Penn-Michigan game in a mix-up over time . . . while an argument was going on down on the field, the big electric clock, which was operated by a mechanic at signal of the head linesman, kept ticking . . . if the head linesman is doing his job well, he has little time to worry about keeping time . . . in a basketball game, the timer is seated at a table and, in many cases, operates the electric clock . . . it seems that that would be the solution to the problem for football . . . or perhaps, the Boiler Room Gang at the junior high school could solve the dilemma.

A rumba dancer starts at the bottom and works up.

WE HAVE a letter from the booking agent of the House of David basketball club wanting a game with a local team on December 6 . . . if any team in this district would like the game, get in touch with us and we'll turn over the letter . . . the following night, they are playing the reorganized Crystal Falls Ramblers . . . from there, they go to Houghton to play Michigan College of Mines . . . the Ramblers, with the addition of Moose Malinowski and Val Heim, two very clever boys from last year's Iron River team, will be plenty tough this year . . . they gave the Oshkosh All Stars a good rub Tuesday night before succumbing by a score of 36-25.

Football-For-Fun Scheme Is Winner For Swarthmore 11

Swarthmore, Pa., Nov. 21. (AP)—Football "just for fun" with practice when it doesn't interfere with studies, has sent the Swarthmore "Little Quakers" through the season undefeated.

Under President Frank Aydelotte's policy of "no scholarships, no professionalism and no undue emphasis," Swarthmore has won 11 games, tied two and lost one in two years. A 12-1 tie with Oberlin marred the record this season.

Dr. Aydelotte, who leaves Swarthmore next year after 18 years, considers the record "an unexpected triumph in our policy of playing just for fun" under Coach Lew Elverson, former Penn halfback.

The college has a sports-for-all policy, with 70 per cent of its enrollment of less than 1,000 participating in intra-mural competition. Football gets no more attention than any other sport.

Q. Did Cecil Rhodes believe that the United States would eventually be a part of the British Empire? V. W.

A. Cecil Rhodes dreamed of a government of the world. To W. T. Stead he confided his dream of cessation of all wars, one language throughout the world, and of a federation with America. He said: "We could hold our federal parliament for five years at Washington and five years at London." In his first will he said: "Colonization by British subjects of all lands where means of livelihood are attainable by energy, labour and enterprise . . . the ultimate recovery of the United States of America as an integral part of the British Empire . . . the foundation of so great a power as heretofore to render war impossible and promote the best interests of humanity."

BY MAJOR AMOS B. MOOPLE

Specialist in Setups, Upsets, Etc. Egad, the thought suddenly occurs to me, this fine fall morning, as I turn to the task of selecting this week's surprises, that I neglected to emphasize in my brochure of last week that I especially like Duke to defeat North Carolina, Auburn to beat Louisiana State, and Nebraska to nose out Pitt.

Hak-kaff! I believe I picked those upsets in my list of handicaps, and indeed I meant to speak strongly about them to my gentle readers, but, Ho-Hum! Delightfully dozy weather, isn't it? (Ed. Note: The major was found asleep in his chair at this point, and we had to wake him.)

Hak-Spurt! How's that? Was I napping? My word! But to get on with our essay: This week I have delved deep into the bag, as we sports scribers are wont to say, to bring up for you one of the choicest morsels of the budding—hm! I mean the waning—season.

That one, friends, is Notre Dame to defeat the touted Trojans of Southern California. The score, if you care for details, will be 16 to 14. And so, Au Revoir! See you later—Har-rumph!

IRISH STADIUM GETS THRILLER

Prospects to USC Upset to Pack Stands At South Bend

BY EARL HILLIGAN
South Bend, Ind., Nov. 21 (AP)—There'll be a rousing gridiron "open house" here next Saturday—at which someone's going to get hurt.

On the turf of Notre Dame stadium, the Irish take on those tough Trojans from Southern California in the biggest intersectional football battle of the day. Fifty-six thousand wild-eyed fans will pack the Irish stadium, all seats having been sold a week ago. With Notre Dame out to avenge a 1938 Trojan victory and Southern California aiming at an undefeated season, it promises to be another typical Irish-Trojan thriller.

Yet there is even another "angle" this year—and it will add significance to this pigskin brawl.

In the spacious press box keen-eyed University of Tennessee scouts will go into action with pencils and charts. According to the Chattanooga Times they'll be there as "preparation" for the possibility of Tennessee going to the Rose Bowl. Of course, no decision on the Rose Bowl party will be made for some time, but virtually everyone thinks the Trojans will "pour" for the Pacific Coast Conference and a lot of folks think Tennessee should be No. 1 on the invitation list.

All of which gives Notre Dame a chance to upset the apple cart with a crash that would be heard from the Bronx to the Golden Gate—and all points south. Victory for the Irish, who'll be the underdogs, would not directly keep the Trojans out of the bowl game, but it wouldn't do that contest any good. And wouldn't the Tennessee scouts have a glum afternoon watching Notre Dame toss blankets on the team they'll be trying to uncover?

The Irish could do it. They'll be remembering how U. C. C. spiked a perfect season for them last fall. They've won seven games—losing by one point to Iowa—as the Trojans were tied by Oregon and won their next five battles. But don't expect Elmer Layden of Notre Dame to make any prediction. As he gives his old felt hat another tug and cups his chin in his hands he'll only shake his head and say:

"Boy, this is gonna be a dandy!"

Luckman Fast At Learning Intricate Plays of Halas; Praises Don Hutson

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
Chicago—Carl Brumbaugh was released once by the Chicago Bears before he finally mastered George Halas' shelves of plays.

It took Bernie Masterson two years to reach full efficiency. So it is little wonder that Coach Halas marvels at the fact that Sidney Luckman has memorized most of his volumes in less than a season.

Sid Luckman says that counting all the variations the professional Bruins run something like 396 plays.

He believes that one more fall in a training camp and another full season will leave him in complete command of the situation.

Master Mind Halas figures that a quarterback is doing all right if he masters the Bear system in two years.

Luckman is "way ahead of schedule even though he never before had played "under center" as the Bear signal-caller must do.

LEARNED LEFT HALFBACK ASSIGNMENTS FIRST
Luckman was always a tailback in high school in Brooklyn and at Columbia. When he first joined the Bears he learned the left-halfback assignments. Before he reported to the College All-Stars in Chicago in August he spent lots of time with Halas going over plays, so that when he finally reported to the Bears' camp he had a good mental picture of what the left half had to do.

So when he was switched to quarterback, he had the advantage of knowing what the left half should do, when to send him in motion and all that sort of thing.

"But the business of taking the ball under center and handing it to the carrier was puzzling," he explains. "I had a terrible time with the pivots."

"I practiced them at home. Every day I'd spend hours in my hotel room spinning, pivoting and practicing handling the ball. I'm getting the knack of it now, but I still haven't got it down pat."

"It was my fault Joe Maniac was hurt in the first Detroit game. I didn't get the ball to him just right and as a result he was off balance trying to keep from fumbling it when he was tackled, and his knee buckled. I think that break lost the game because we had the spark then . . . were just starting to roll."

CONCENTRATES ON FAKING FIRST TO DECOYS

Passing from the quarterback position also was new to Luckman when he switched to the money ranks.

"At Columbia, passing from tailback, I could spot my receivers at a glance," he asserts. "But taking the ball under center and faking rearward, I have to turn my back and as a result I can't see my receivers until I turn around to get ready to throw. Then there is the tendency to look first for the receiver I want to find instead of faking to a decoy."

"That's something I've got to overcome because if you fake to a decoy properly you help the real receiver to get into the clear."

Luckman contends that the great number of pass completions in the professional ranks is due, not to faulty defense, but to perfect offense as carried out by such renowned pitchers as Sammy Baugh, Ace Parker, Davey O'Brien and Arnold Herber—not to mention a fellow named Luckman and perfect receivers like Don Hutson and Bobby Swisher.

"Why," concludes Sid Luckman, "we had three men covering

BARRED BOXER WILL NOT TALK

New York Commission Checks Up On Story of Thomas Dive

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Harry Thomas, barred from Illinois rings after claiming he "threw" fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento, declined to talk when he appeared before the New York state athletic commission today.

Thomas declined to make any statement on the grounds that it might "incriminate and degrade" him.

"I don't feel I want to be sent up the creek for anything I say here just to help the commission," he said.

The Thomas-Schmeling fight was held in Madison Square Garden December 13, 1937. Arthur Donovan, who referred the bout, told the commission there was "absolutely no question" in his mind that the fight, which ended in a knockout for Schmeling in the eighth round, was an honest one. Kid McPartland, one of the judges, agreed.

Donovan's score card of the bout showed three rounds for each man and one even up to the eighth.

Joe Jacobs absent
Promoter Mike Jacobs was called before the solons to identify a check for $4,451.64 which was paid to Nate Lewis, Thomas' manager, as the fighter's share. Several boxing writers were asked to identify stories written before the fight in which they quoted Thomas as saying he would give his best, and others written after the bout in which Thomas was quoted as saying he had taken a terrific beating.

Absent from the session was Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling and Galento at the time each fought Thomas.

The commission is inquiring solely into the circumstances surrounding the Thomas-Schmeling bout. Brig. Gen. John P. Phelan said other witnesses would be called at a later date.

Present at today's session was Leon Rains, chairman of the Pennsylvania commission with which, it was announced, the New York commission has entered into a working agreement. Pennsylvania authorities had jurisdiction over Thomas' bout with Galento which was held in Philadelphia.

NO EVIDENCE PRESENTED

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, said today that the commission would announce at a special meeting next Monday what action it would take in the case involving Harry Thomas, who charged in a story in the Chicago Tribune that he engaged in faked fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento.

Chairman Triner said no new evidence had been presented to the commission, which also lacks affidavits from Thomas. The impression prevailed that Governor Henry Horner of Illinois would order a public hearing in an effort to remove suspicion and clear the way for Chicago's obtaining important matches.

Lions Tail Twisters Lose As Donkeys Balk

Everybody got excited last night at the Lions club Tail Twisters-High School Faculty donkey basketball game in the Junior high school except the donkeys.

The donkeys have performed in other similar games and perhaps are used to the limelight, so they really didn't care. It appeared whether they got into the game or not. Some of them insisted on just standing around and then, others decided it was getting late, perhaps, and just lay down on the job completely.

PITT PANTHERS BOOK BUCKEYES

Rumor Says Team Seeks Berth In Big Ten Conference

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21. (AP)—Pitt rumored to be seeking a berth in the Big Ten, scheduled Ohio State today for the 1940 season and dropped West Virginia university, its second oldest rival.

The Panthers, limiting their contests to eight, will open Sept. 28 at Columbus against the Buckeyes, then take on Missouri Oct. 5, South Methodist Oct. 12, Fordham Oct. 19, Nebraska Nov. 2, Carnegie Tech Nov. 6, Penn State Nov. 23 and Duke Nov. 30. All games except Ohio State and Duke will be played in Pittsburgh.

The Ohio State game marked a resumption of relations with Big Ten schools after a three year's break and came in the wake of the new "Bowman strictly amateur code" instituted by Chancellor John G. Bowman and now being supervised by Big Ten Commissioner Major Griffith.

Pitt already had signed to play Minnesota and Purdue in 1941 and was understood to be nearing an agreement with Indiana and possibly another member of the Western conference.

Pitt's authorities gave no explanation for dropping West Virginia, who may get Dr. John Bain Sutherland, ex-Panther coach, to handle the team next season unless he goes to Stanford. The two teams met first in 1935 and have played annually since 1939.

Illness Can't Lick Big Bill DeLancey

St. Louis, Nov. 21. (AP)—One dreary winter day four years ago a pale young man was bundled into an ambulance and carried to the railroad station for a trip to Arizona, where it was hoped the dry climate would save his life.

Doctors said they feared Bill DeLancey would never play baseball again.

The sensational Cardinal rookie who caught every inning of every game of the 1934 world series contracted a lung ailment after the 1935 season. The baseball world figured it had lost one of its most promising young stars.

But Bill was a courageous chap and he was determined to whip the illness. It appears he succeeded.

At any rate, big Bill DeLancey is going to report to his beloved Cardinals next spring for "what should be one of baseball's most dramatic comeback attempts. He will be carried as a third-string catcher, but if his health is as good as he says Mickey Owen and Don Padgett will have their hands full of competition.

That was a fine idea for the donkeys, of course, but there were the Lions Tail Twisters with their basketball reputation at stake, getting not only no co-operation, but absolute opposition from the steeds they had depended on to carry them to glory.

So, of course, (any alibi will do) the Tail Twisters came out on the short end of the 14-12 count, with the faculty team, under the direction of Capt. James Rouman, basketball coach, ekeing out a victory with the last basket, dumped in by John Groop, who thereby won himself fame.

Someone among the hundreds of wildly cheering spectators said he had kept score and that it was 12 to 12. Since both donkeys and players were becoming weary, the next basket would decide the match, the referee announced.

With lightning dashes up and down the court, one each way, and a dazzling display of passes that missed their marks and resulted in scrambles for the ball, and with as many as two shots for each side, the contest came to a speedy close—five minutes later.

Among the stars of the high school faculty team, which opposed the Tail Twisters (who were not observed practicing their art on the donkeys—and thereby hangs a tale of defeat, perhaps) were Principal Edward E. Edick, Lytle and Ray Shaw, John Groop, Bert Henne, B. B. Loveland, H. Wylie, F. Bennette and Captain Rouman.

For the Tail Twisters there were such stellar performers as Nick Blinn, Joe Shipman, Russell Owen, Cliff Vadrnais, Clyde Nelson, Ross Gamble and Capt. Harlan Yelland.

Capt. Yelland had perhaps the most refractory of all the beasts on the floor. He pleaded frantically, but his donkey had decided to take the night off and insisted on lying out most of the game and the captain just had to let it be that way.

The game was a benefit for the high school basketball team, and at a nominal admission charge, it was estimated that more than $75 would have been taken in when all accounts are checked.

Cheese Bowl Game Is Wisconsin Idea

Some skeptics have bobbed up who aren't so sure the Dempsey of 1919 could beat the Louts of today. They argue it would be a straight punch against a hook, and they like the straight puncher—Louis. All agree a meeting of the two in their prime would have been one whole of a battle. The Brooklyn Dodgers tried three squeezer plays in 1939, and all were successful, although the batter didn't touch the ball. The catcher dropped the ball twice and the runner beat the throw the third time.

WAR STORIES IN STAMPS

Three Baltic States Face Poland's Fate

WITH Germany and Soviet Russia apparently in full accord over the partition of Poland, the three World War-born Baltic triplets, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia helplessly await developments which may doom their independence. Although protected from German invasion by non-aggression pacts with the Reich, the three little countries are in danger of being returned to Russia.

Hitler has already recovered the important port of Memel, ceded to Lithuania by the Versailles treaty, and apparently has no further ambitions on the Eastern Baltic coast, but possession of the countries would give Russia a vastly greater coast line and many important ports.

All together, the three nations are not as large as the state of Missouri; most of their area is flat coastal plain. For centuries these plains have been battlefields, for Germany's eastward expansion, for Napoleon's campaign against Russia and during the World War. There are no natural barriers, such as Switzerland possesses, to safeguard neutrality.

Exports consist chiefly of forest products and foodstuffs. Flax is also exported in quantity. These goods constitute a rich prize for a belligerent nation. A view of Lielad is shown on the Latvian stamps above, issued in 1938 in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the republic.
