NOTICE GIVEN TO RUSSIA OF U. S. EMBARGO

HOOVER ADVOCATES WITHDRAWAL OF AMBASSADOR

BY WILLIAM B. ARDERY Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt followed up his denunciation of the Soviet attack today that Russia now falls under the administration's "moral embargo" against sale of warplanes to nations bombing defenseless civilians.

The chief executive named no countries in issuing a formal statement calling the attention of American airplane manufacturers to the official condemnation of nations "obviously guilty" of unprovoked aerial bombardment of civil centers.

He did refer, however, to the "recent recurrence of such acts." And within an hour, Secretary of State Hull made public advice from H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, American minister to Finland, saying that he had personally witnessed indiscriminate Russian bombing of Helsinki within three blocks of the American legation.

The "moral embargo" has no force of law, but it was quickly apparent that the airplane industry in general would comply with it, as it has with a similar embargo on sale of warplanes to Japan. Most major manufacturing companies immediately indicated that they would follow the government's wishes.

The president's statement said: "The American government and the American people have for some time pursued a policy of wholehearted condemnation of the unprovoked bombing and machine gunning of civilian populations from the air."

"This government hopes, to the end that such unprovoked bombing shall not be given material encouragement in the light of the recent recurrence of such acts, that American manufacturers and exporters of airplanes, aeronautical equipment and materials essential to airplane manufacture, will bear this fact in mind before negotiating contracts for the exportation of these articles to nations obviously guilty of such unprovoked bombing."

Manufacturers Cooperate The government first invoked the "moral embargo" after the Japanese bombed unfortified Chinese cities. Japan was not mentioned by name at that time, but American airplane manufacturers stopped all sales to Japan.

Through Stephen T. Early, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, the White House called attention to "the fine spirit of cooperation given by American manufacturers and exporters to the government's policy as outlined in the statement."

"How damaging to Russia the "moral embargo" might prove was a question for which officials here

MEXICAN COURT BACKS OIL GRAB

Appeal of 17 Foreign Firms Rejected In Two-Year Fight

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2 (AP)—The supreme court today voted unanimously to uphold the government's expropriation of the vast foreign oil industry in Mexico.

The decision rejected the appeal of 17 American, British and Netherlands companies which have carried on a two-year court fight.

The opinion provided: 1. The expropriation was not unconstitutional and did not violate personal guarantees.

2. A denial that the companies ever owned the subsoil, which was held to be the exclusive property of the nation.

3. The companies are entitled to compensation for the expropriation of their wells and their capital invested directly and "legitimately" for the exploitation of the oil industry.

4. Indemnification must be made within 10 years from proceeds of the government's operation of the industry.

5. The companies are entitled to the return of their records, archives, accounts and cash seized in the course of the expropriation.

The next move in the conflict was expected to come soon when the departments of finance and national economy present their valuations of the properties as a basis for indemnification.

Government Goes Red $1,703,045,860 In 5-Month Period

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Treasury figures showed today that the government had gone $1,703,045,860 into the red during the first five months of the current fiscal year. This compared with a deficit of $1,438,188,765 for the similar period last year.

The national debt stood at $41,305,056,749 on November 30. The excess of expenditures over income during November was $284,939,261, compared with $296,945,555 in the same month last year.

Total receipts for the five months were $2,175,995,245 against $2,322,781,416 in the same period a year ago.

BRITISH NAVY REMAINS BOSS OF HIGH SEAS

SHIPPING LOSSES 4 PERCENT IN 3 MONTHS

BY ROBERT E. BUNNELLE London, Dec. 2 (AP)—An authoritative announcement asserted tonight that Britain's big navy had "enabled 21,000,000 tons of British shipping to keep to the seas with a loss of just four per cent of her total naval tonnage" in three months of war.

This declaration followed closely the disclosure of another loss to mines in waters around England, the sinking of the 8,010-ton British tanker San Callisto off the southeast coast. Two of her crew were killed, seven injured, and 35 landed unhurt.

Balanced against this was the capture of two German vessels, the 2,185-ton steamer Ellbek and the 2-15-ton trawler Sophie Buss, and the reported scuttling of the 3,621-ton German lines Watussi by her own crew.

Submarine Sunk The crew of an unnamed admiralty trawler reported the sinking of a Nazi submarine and possibly a second off the east coast this week. After sinking the first U-boat, the crew said they attacked another with depth bombs and that oil patches indicated they had been successful.

The Watussi was run ashore south of Cape Point, Union of South Africa, by her German crew after being intercepted by South African bombers. Her 35 passengers and crew of 137 were rescued.

This was the eighth German steamer beached or scuttled to avoid capture.

The British statement said that Germany had "put out of action through sinking only about 53,000 tons of British warships and the most important units in the group were a quarter of a century old."

(Britain's chief losses were the 28,150-ton battleship Royal Oak and the 22,500-ton aircraft carrier Courageous.)

Huntington Beach, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—Frank E. Doehberg, 64, retired secret service agent who acted as bodyguard for presidents from Theodore Roosevelt to Franklin D. Roosevelt, died today of a heart attack.

Civil Service Rent Reduced At Lansing

Lansing, Dec. 2 (AP)—Its personnel reduced, the civil service department will move to smaller quarters within a month to affect a rent saving of $125 monthly, it was announced today.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the state board of auditors, said the new quarters would rent for $225 monthly, instead of $450, but supplemental space would reduce the net saving to $125.

Red War Machine Smashes Into Little Republic

Striking by land, sea and air, the mighty Soviet war machine is grinding across into Finland in blitzkrieg invasion that rivals the Nazi push in Poland. While artillery forces bombard border towns, bombers raid industrial cities farther inland. The Red fleet is said to be headed past Hogland Island toward Helsinki, and Soviet troop landings are reported at Siskari and Hangoo. Finnish resistance has been strong, and the invaders have suffered heavy losses.

CENSUS BUREAU SCHOOLS OPEN

Michigan's Enumerators Train at Grand Rapids, Lansing, Detroit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The census bureau announced today it would open schools in 97 cities Monday to train district supervisors who will direct the activities of 140,000 enumerators in the 1940 census.

Area managers who completed six weeks of training at the census bureau will instruct candidates for positions as supervisors and assistants from December 4 to 9 at most of the cities. Schools will be held later at Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Newark, Jersey City, Baltimore, Seattle, Los Angeles and the District of Columbia.

Examinations will be held after the instruction period and successful candidates will open district offices at the end of the year for the census of business and manufactures beginning in January. Starting date for the census of population, agriculture and housing is April 1.

Among cities in which schools will open Monday are Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pin-Ball Machines Looted By Youths To Finance Jaunt

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (AP)—Two youths accused by police of paying their way from Los Angeles to Detroit by nickels taken from pin-ball machines along the route, were convicted of simple larceny here today.

The charge on which they were found guilty was brought by a Detroit bartender who said the tin cash box of a pin-ball board in a tavern here was missing after the youths gave it a play. Recorder's Judge Donald Van Zile imposed 30-day terms in the house of correction on Edward Say, 23, and Jerome Magnis, 26. A girl companion was acquitted.

Police told Judge Van Zile the glove compartment in the youths' automobile yielded $24.75 in nickels.

The officers quoted Say and Magnis as reporting different engineering problems presented by pin-ball machines in various states. Sometimes a saw was required, but Michigan was described as a "screwdriver" state.

Mailing Begins Early For Mary Christmas

Racine, Wis., Dec. 2 (AP)—Mary Christmas, who has devoted her life to bringing to shut-ins, especially children, a touch of the holiday cheer her unusual name implies, is doing her Christmas mailing early.

The smiling Racine housewife, annually deluged by mail already is at work on her cheerful custom of sending Christmas greetings to the many crippled and invalided persons who have written her from the far corners of the world.

This is a labor of love for Mrs. Christmas, who has five children of her own to keep her busy, but the Racine Junior Chamber of Commerce is assisting her this season in handling the mail.

Trolley Coach Strike Jams Traffic In Flint

FLINT, Mich., Dec. 2 (AP)—Michigan's third largest city, without mass transportation because of a strike by employees of the Flint Trolley Coach, Inc., today experienced a downtown traffic jam described by police as "the worst in the city's history."

Christmas shoppers, taking advantage of the Saturday holiday, used family cars to full capacity. It appeared entirely probable that nearly every automobile in Flint was in use.

The city's industrial plants are closed on Saturdays with few exceptions. Merchants feared that next week when schools and factories are open and private automobiles are being used for other purposes.

LEAGUE CALLED TOOL FOR REDS

Dies Witness Declares Moscow Dictates to U. S. Communists

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Jay Lovestone, former secretary of the Communist party, in this country, told the Dies committee today that the policies of American Communists were dictated by the desires of Moscow.

Questioned as to why the American Communists were advocating a policy of isolation for the United States at the present time, the "disappointed witness" declared that was "pro Stalin-Hitler propaganda."

He said the interest of Soviet foreign policy dictated that the United States should keep out of the European war because "the Hitler-Stalin bloc" knew this country would be on the side of the allies if it entered the conflict.

In response to questions by J. B. Matthews, committee investigator, Lovestone said that while he had no documentary proof, he felt sure that the American League for Peace and Democracy was "nothing but a tool" of the Communist party and that the American Youth Congress and the American Student Union were subject to Communist control.

John Christ Must Quit Drinking And Kiss Wife Daily

Pittsburgh, Dec. 2 (AP)—A magistrate today ordered John Christ, 52, to stop drinking and to kiss his wife "at least once each day, for a year."

Mrs. Julia Christ halted her husband into court, claiming he was intemperate and abused her.

"Besides," she said, "I haven't been kissed for a year. I'm a kissless wife."

Christ pledged he would kiss and quit imbibing.

Nazi Police Move Nearly 2 Million Jews Into Poland

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (AP)—Nearly 2,000,000 Jews in Greater Germany and Poland will be transferred to the Jewish reservation in eastern Poland set apart by Adolf Hitler, authoritative sources said today.

The transfer of these people to a segregated district around Nisko on the San river, a small Polish town on the new German-Soviet Russian demarcation line, is being carried out under Heinrich Himmler, head of the SS (elite guard) and chief of all German police.

The following groups of Jews are to be settled there just as rapidly as conditions permit: 150,000 from the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, 65,000 from Vienna, 30,000 from Posen and West Prussia, recently annexed from Poland, and 200,000 from the "Austria"—the German realm as it was before expansion began with the Anschluss of Austria.

Allowed $120 Each Besides, approximately 1,500,000 Polish Jews are to be evicted forcibly from their homes in cities and villages which are to become parts of the new Polish state devised by Hitler.

The Gestapo, or secret police, has laid upon the Jewish community in each town or village the responsibility for organizing and financing the exodus.

Each deported Jew may take along 300 marks ($120), only such personal belongings as will go into a large suitcase, and essential household goods, especially bedding, cooking utensils and such tools that would be useful in building barracks and primitive homes.

Towns and villages of the region around Nisko are being abandoned as quickly as possible by Poles, Germans and Ukrainians, and the dwellings, many showing the effects of the German-Polish war, turned over to the Jews. The Jews are to be strictly segregated from the rest of the people under German jurisdiction.

Germany hopes to complete the resettlement movement by April 1, 1940. Regular transports have started from Vienna and Bohemia-Moravia but nothing apparently has been done yet to move Jews out of the German Reich proper.

Just how the Jews in the proposed reservation are to find a means of subsistence appears not yet to have been determined. Most of those who receive notices to be ready for a transport are told they will first be taken to a camp and taught a trade or handicraft. They often find that their activity consists in building additional barracks to house the Jews that are to come.

Whatever property a Jew leaves behind, whether in real estate, business or house with its belongings, must be turned over to the Jewish community, which has charge of its liquidation.

SWEDES FIGHT AGAINST RUSSIA

New Military Measures Taken to Protect Norrland Area

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 2 (AP)—Strengthening of Sweden's military preparedness was ordered today, coincident with unconfirmed reports a national government would be formed to preserve neutrality and meet problems of the Russian-Finnish conflict.

Carnival-like novelty and coffee stands with band music to attract the crowds were erected in a square to raise funds for Swedish forces. Nearly 600 Swedes enlisted to fight for Finland while Finnish students and workmen crowded their country's legation to volunteer for service against the Russians.

The new military measures were reported primarily to concern Norrland, the northernmost of the three great divisions of the nation, the island of Gotland and coast defense.

The island of Gotland, "the Malta of the Baltic," off the east coast of Sweden, also is included in the preparedness program.

Sweden already had decided to postpone indefinitely the proposed dismissal of certain military units. Reserves recently were called to begin 11 weeks of training that began yesterday.

NORWAY LOSES SHIP London, Dec. 2 (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Bergen tonight said the 1,277-ton Norwegian steamer Arcurus had struck a mine off the eastern coast of Scotland Friday and that nine of her crew of 17 were missing.

SOVIETS ARE DRIVEN FROM ARCTIC PORT

COMMUNIST LEADER CONCLUDES PACT WITH MOSCOW

By The Associated Press Soviet Russia concluded a mutual assistance pact last night with the Communist-sponsored Finnish "peoples" government while her army reported new gains against the stubbornly fighting Finns.

The pact with the Soviet-recognized "democratic republic of Finland" gave Joseph Stalin all the things he had asked of the Helsinki government before hostilities started, including sweeping territorial changes, islands for naval bases in the Gulf of Finland and a military agreement.

Fighting bitterly for her independence, Finland decided meanwhile to submit her case to the League of Nations.

She claimed successes in the Petsamo district on the Arctic Ocean while her troops withdrew on the Karelian Isthmus to make a stand on the Mannerheim line.

The Russians claimed they had penetrated from 19 to 22 miles into Finnish territory and were sweeping the Finns out of the Petsamo district.

The embattled Finns will to resist was reflected in their public opinion and statements of their leaders.

No Weakening Vaino Tanner, foreign minister in the reorganized Finnish cabinet of Premier Risto Ryti, declared in a broadcast to the United States that the "independence and integrity" of Finland "can not be destroyed by our eastern neighbor."

Soviet Russia, meanwhile, showed no weakening in her determination to batter down Finnish resistance and replace her government with one headed by a Communist and proclaimed by the Soviet Union.

A Finnish government spokesman at Helsinki called Kuusinen "the so-called prime minister who lived 20 years in Moscow as a traitor to the Finnish cause and now is seeking revenge."

At Helsinki the government of Premier Risto Ryti held two meetings and decided to submit the problem of Finnish relations to the League of Nations, of which Finland is a member.

The Finnish-Russian conflict developed into bitter fighting on land.

Christmas Carols Through the Ages

DECK THE HALL WITH HOLLY "Deck the hall with boughs of holly, 'Tis the season to be jolly, Don we now our gay apparel, Troll the ancient Christmas carol."

In the Yule season, celebrated in Britain before the Christian era, a winter festival was held. Bells were decorated with holly, ivy and mistletoe, and the Yule log was lighted. This traditional Welsh song reflects the spirit of these celebrations.

FATHER DIVINE IS IN LAWSUIT

Preacher Too Grasping; Ex-Follower Sues for $4,476

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Harlem's bald-pated little Father Divine brooded tonight over whether he might not just "evaporate for 1900 years" in disgust over a lawsuit that may expose the secrets of his multi-million dollar religious cult.

"Father is very, very disgusted," said one of his disciples. "He may just evaporate."

Barring a carrying-out of his threat to "steam off" the terrestrial premises, the erstwhile Bahai more odd-jobs man who became the messiah of thousands of dusky, peace-shouting "angels" will go on trial Monday in state supreme court in an equity action for $4,476 brought by one of his recanting followers.

"I paid all this money," said the complainant, Mrs. Veranda Brown, a cook, "in the belief that unless I did so I was doomed to everlasting misery . . . and that by giving the money to Father Divine, I was depositing it in his heavenly treasury and life."

Mrs. Brown, who said she was also acting for four or five other ex-"angels" with claims totalling about $22,000, said her interest in Divine's "peace, ain't you glad?" movement began to curdle when the pudgy, 5-foot preacher became "too grasping" and demanded most of her husband's wages.

NOTICE GIVEN TO RUSSIA OF U. S. EMBARGO

had no answer. There were reports in commercial circles, however, that the Soviets had discussed with airplane manufacturers in recent weeks the possible purchase of large numbers of all types of airplanes.

Despite the reports of neutral observers, such as Schoenfeld, Russian officials have not admitted the bombing of open Finnish cities. A statement from Premier Molotov yesterday said that Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to Finland and Russia to refrain from bombing civilians was "not in the least" because Russia was not bombing Finnish towns and did not intend to.

Only 200 Planes Both Early and state department officials said they did not consider Molotov's statement an answer to the president's message, and Early remarked:

"You might ask the dead, the injured and their widows and orphans how pointless it is or has been. Of course, I mean the dead civilians."

There were some indications that "moral embargo" would not be applied to Finland if the Finns in retaliation should bomb Russian cities.

Some authorities said that this government might regard any Finnish bombing of Russian cities as a defensive measure which should be treated in a different category from the Russian bombings. They explained that this country has urged belligerents to refrain from unprovoked bombing of civilians and that, to the present, there has been no case in which a defending nation bombarded unfortified cities from the air.

This question was believed largely academic, however, because Finland has less than 200 military planes of all types, compared with Russia's 7,000.

Expressions of sympathy for Finland continued today, and some senators suggested that congress declare a moratorium on that nation's debt payment to the United States. The tiny Baltic republic has been the only European country to keep up its war debt payments. It has indicated that it intends to meet the regular installment of $243,692, due December 16. Finland's aggregate debt to the United States is $8,232,157.

WHY THE TENDERNESS?

Palo Alto, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—Withdrawal of the United States ambassador to Russia because of Russia's invasion of Finland was advocated today by former President Herbert Hoover in a statement issued at his home.

"Why all of this tenderness toward Russia?" Mr. Hoover asked. "Our government offers its good offices to prevent the attack on Finland. The administration very properly protested against the bombing of Finnish women and children. We do not even get civil replies. Moreover, has Russia kept her agreement with the United States not to engage within the United States in propaganda to destroy our government?"

"Mr. Roosevelt gave recognition to the Communist government by treaty and the exchange of ambassadors. That gave them standing as a decent member of the family of nations."

"We long since had withdrawn our ambassador to the Nazi government of Germany and we even raised our tariff 25 per cent on German goods. Is the assault on the freedom of Finland, and the dead women and children in their streets any less a shock to us than the Nazi barbarities? We should, as was done in Germany, leave a routine official to represent us in Moscow and withdraw the dignity of our ambassador."

at Helsinki said the Finns inflicted "heavy losses" on the Russians and Feld Marshal Baron Gustaf Mannerheim's order of the day said the country would "fulfill its duty unto death" in the war that was "nothing but the final act in our war for liberty."

Reverberations of the conflict in the north spread to Scandinavia.

Norway, uneasy over Russian troops a few miles from her border, sent more reservists for border patrol duty in Finnmark, her most northern district.

Speculation on the possibility of friction between Russia and England was aroused by an unconfirmed report that British warships had been seen in the Arctic ocean near Petsamo.

Sweden's government ordered further military preparedness but it did not appear that general mobilization of her forces had begun. She was understood to have 100,000 troops under arms out of a maximum reserve power of 500,000.

Too Small to Help

A Swedish official said Sweden's hope was to keep calm and preserve her neutrality because "we are small—too small—to be of any great aid to Finland."

In Rome uniformed Fascists demonstrated their anti-Russian feelings. A body of 3,000, unprovoked by police, shouted anti-Soviet slogans before the Russian legation, then marched to the Finnish legation and cheered for Finland.

In Europe's other war, the slow tempo of the conflict between Germany and the British-French allies continued.

Britain declared her navy had kept 21,000,000 tons of shipping on the seas with a loss of only four per cent of Britain's naval tonnage in three months of warfare.

The Norwegian steamer Arcurus, 1,277 tons, with nine members of her crew missing, was reported in a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Bergen last night to have struck a mine last Friday.

It was announced that the 8,010-ton British tanker San Galisto had been sunk by a mine off the southeast coast with two crewmen killed, seven injured and 35 landed safely.

An unnamed admiralty trawler reported the sinking of one submarine during the week and said its attack on another one might have been successful.

French Release Fathers

The British announced the capture of two German vessels to balance the loss of the San Galisto. They were the 2,185-ton Ellbek and the 215-ton trawler Sophie Buse.

A third German ship, the 9,521-ton Watussi, was reported scuttled by her own crew off South Africa.

The French high command took cognizance of the lethargy of war on the land with a decision to release gradually thousands of fathers from the army, beginning December 15. They will return to their civilian pursuits to bolster French economy.

At the same time, however, activity on the western front showed more life. Patrols on both sides made raids.

Berlin said there were no "special events" at the front. The French reported a "quiet day."

BY LYNN HEINERLING Helsinki, Dec. 3 (Sunday) (AP)—Embattled Finland, proclaiming anew her determination to remain independent, decided today to lay her case before the League of Nations as her stubbornly fighting troops overthrew slowly in the face of overwhelming Russian invaders.

Military authorities said Finnish forces fell back along the border in the Karelian peninsula, abandoning five villages, after inflicting "heavy losses" on the Red army legions.

The decision to refer to the league the question of Finnish-Russian relations was reached during two meetings of the cabinet presided over by Premier Risto Ryt.

Still Hopes for Peace

(Finland's permanent delegates to the League of Nations indicated in Geneva that they might ask an urgent meeting of the league council to discuss the conflict with Russia. They said, however, definite instructions had not come from Helsinki.)

Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner declared in a radio address to the United States that the Finnish nation's "independence and integrity can not be destroyed by our eastern neighbor."

He referred to the ruptured negotiations on the Russian territorial demands and declared that Russia's invasion "brought bitter disappointment x x x shared by the entire nation."

The new foreign minister expressed the hope that Finland and Russia might yet return to peaceful relations but added:

"Anyone who believes the Finnish can be brought, by threats of force, to make concessions that would mean the loss of liberty is mistaken."

March In Snow (At Kirkenes, Norway refugees said the Finns had recaptured Petsamo, their chief Arctic port, from the Russians after an all-night march in the snow.)

"The aggressors suffered heavy losses," a military communique said. "The enemy made several attempts to capture our positions but the troops have been able in most cases to throw them back. The hardest fighting of the day was at Suojarvi (about 50 miles north of Lake Ladoga, on the Russian-Finnish border.)"

The Finns said they withdrew from Jappinen, Maltonen, Sirkka, the island of Saaroinen and Terjoki.

(Terjoki is the town in which Tass, official Russian news agency, reported a Finnish "people's government" had been organized. Russia has recognized the Terjoki government.)

Snow Halts Air Raids

That the public remained undaunted despite the almost constant air raids was indicated in a report from the Karelian village of Oikunora asserting three Russian fliers had been killed by a crowd of women and children.

Children saw the fliers abandon a disabled plane by parachute and land in a field. They notified the villagers. Women and children armed with axes, pitchforks, clubs and shotguns surrounded the Russians and demanded they surrender.

The aviators refused, drew their guns and fired into the crowd which attacked the Russians and killed them.

Snow fell in Helsinki, bringing hope of protecting clouds and respite from the Soviet air raids which have reduced some parts of the city to shambles.

Refugees crowded roads leading out of the capital and women and children packed the railroad station waiting for trains.

Business was almost at a standstill and few persons were on the streets.

Relatives and friends of missing persons searched in the tangled wreckage of apartment build-

LIGNIN PLASTIC NEW WOOD USE

Discarded Waste Matter May Be Cinderella of Forests

Madison, Wis., Dec. 2 (AP)—Lignin, a wood derivative long discarded as waste matter, may become the "cinderella" of the lumber and paper industries as a result of the federal government's research into the plastic possibilities.

At the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory here, where experiments have been carried on for more than 10 years, research workers said the product, low in cost, may supplant wood and steel, as well as other elements, in the automobile, electrical, building, furniture and other industries.

The dashboard and steering wheel, perhaps even the doors and smaller panels on your next car may be made of lignin plastic. It has been found satisfactory for electrical insulation, wallboard, large panelling surfaces, radio knobs, gun stocks, and hundreds of novelty items.

Elwin E. Harris, laboratory chemist, said the automotive industry probably would be the first to put it to general use.

"There isn't a week goes by that some representative of the big auto manufacturers doesn't drop in here," he said.

"Henry Ford," he added, "has installed a lignin plastic panel in the trunk of one of his cars and is putting it to severe tests."

Lignin is produced by "cooking" the caustic solvents out of sawdust or the waste material left after pulp and paper operations. When dried, it turns to a brownish powder. When heat and pressure is applied, it forms a solid, durable, anti-absorbent plastic which appears to be black, but which is really dark brown.

Freighter Delayed On Lake Superior

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 2 (AP)—The Novadoc of the Paterson Steamship Lines arrived today at Sault Ste. Marie downbound more than 48 hours late.

The captain because of wintry conditions took the longer south shore route through Lake Superior. Some concern was felt last night when the vessel did not arrive from Port William.

The London County Council Welfare gives shelter nightly to about 3000 homeless people, who have no money for a bed.

In return, Russia agreed to: 1. Transfer to the "Democratic republic of Finland" districts of the Karelian peninsula with pre-dominating Karelian population (totaling 70,000 square kilometers (about 27,000 square miles).

2. Pay 120,000,000 Finnish marks (about $2,400,000) for railroads transferred to Russia in the swap of Karelian peninsula territory, and 300,000,000 Finnish marks (about $6,000,000) for the territory ceded or leased.

3. Render assistance in armaments and other war materials "on favorable terms."

The two governments also agreed to "undertake to render each other every assistance, including military, in the event of attack or threat of attack on Finland and also in the event of attack or threat of attack on the Soviet Union across the territory of Finland on the part of any European power."

An Ex-King Comes Home To Fight for England

WHAT love of family and of his country could not do, war has accomplished. David, duke of Windsor, former ruler of the British Empire, has returned from his three years of self-imposed exile to serve in Britain's army.

The duke has resigned his commission as field marshal and will serve in the field at the lower rank of major general. The temporary resignation was accepted by his brother, King George VI, and the new appointment made effective on Sept. 3, the day Great Britain declared war on Germany.

As Prince of Wales, Windsor was under fire more than once during the World War, and his persistent efforts to reach the front gave those officers entrusted with his safety numerous headaches. As future king, his life was not permitted to be endangered.

The duke is no stranger to Hitler or to Hitler's methods. He was in Austria before the Anschluss and visited in Berlin. Most of his exile, however, has been spent in France.

The duke's portrait is shown on the British stamp, above, issued during his brief reign as Edward VIII. He became king on Jan. 20, 1936, upon the death of his father, George V, and abdicated on Dec. 11, 1936. His marriage to the American-born Mrs. Wallis Simpson followed in June, 1937.

PLAN INDOOR MEET Sault Ste. Marie—Sault Winter Carnival and Sports association is taking into consideration a plan to hold the Upper Peninsula indoor speed skating championship here this winter.

The suggestion to the Sault association, which is sponsoring the third annual Upper Peninsula Winter Carnival here February 14 to 17, comes from Beverly Butts, secretary of the U. P. Skating association, who points out that indoor title races here would round out a fine program for 1940 skating.

Although it is believed that the U. P. skating event could not find room on the four-day program lined up for the U. P. Winter Carnival the association will consider holding the event at another date.

The Bay De Noc Open is scheduled for January 13 and 14; the Michigan State championship is set for January 20 and 21 and the National meet will be January 27 and 28.

Butts, who is also secretary of the Bay De Noc Skating Club of Escanaba, has promised the Sault group all assistance possible in the sponsoring of such a program.

C-G PREPARES FOR '40 CENSUS

Citizens' Committee Will Be Appointed to Lend Aid

Preliminary plans through which Escanaba and its trade territory can be assured a full and complete report of its population, farm and business resources in the 1940 Decennial Census were announced today by Secretary H. P. Lindsay of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary Lindsay said he is acting in response to a letter from Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, urging that civic leaders of Escanaba organize to make the various censuses to be taken in 1940 the most complete and accurate picture of the community's human and economic resources ever compiled.

"Only by the active interest of every American community in seeing that its resources are fully and correctly reported," Secretary Hopkins said "can we get the full and complete factual picture of the nation as a whole which is so vital to both private and public enterprise."

Secretary Lindsay said he will select a General Citizens' Committee embracing all of the principal civic interests in the Community—commercial, educational, labor, religious, publicity—and that this committee will appoint subcommittees to stress specific census activities.

This is the first time for many years that all of the Censuses—Business, Manufacture, Population, Agriculture, Housing, Mines and Quarries, Drainage and Irrigation—will be taken in a single year.

They will not all be taken at the same time. The censuses of Business, Manufacturing and Mines and Quarries will start early in January, some three months ahead of the counts of Population, Agriculture and Housing, which begin April 1, according to law.

Secretary Lindsay said that the General Citizens' Committee will be organized soon, and will be asked to appoint subcommittees on Business and Manufacture and on publicity, which will start at once supplying information to business interests concerning the nature of questions to be asked them and the significance of these questions to the nation's business as a whole.

Aside from perfecting its organization and beginning a study of questionnaires and other material supplied by the Census Bureau in Washington, the general committee will not begin its community-wide drive for cooperation on the later censuses until after the first of the year, Secretary Lindsay said.

"Our first job is to make certain that every business man understand that this community's hopes for new industries, investments, payrolls and residents—in fact, all its plans—are tied up directly with getting full census reports from every business firm," Secretary Lindsay said.

"We don't want a better record than we can get by reporting truthfully, but we want everything to which we are entitled, so that we will have a proper ranking when compared with other similar cities and areas."

Communication

CHRISTMAS TREE SITUATION

During my visit in Milwaukee over Thanksgiving I attempted to analyze or estimate the possible consumption with the supply already in evidence in the Xmas tree business. I don't believe that anyone can get any reliable information or estimation on this business now or any other time before Xmas eve or rather the day after.

However, there is some indication of how the pendulum will swing. In Milwaukee the trees are very much in evidence now, which is earlier than usual. In talking with some of the dealers who I have known for years, and who get trees from all parts of our land, the general information received from them was we are going to be "lousy" with trees this Xmas. On my way home Dec. 1 I met more than a dozen truckloads of trees and many more loads of trees along US 41 between Menominee and Escanaba, more trees than I have ever seen in all the years I have been interested in the business. The latest of this communication is to warn those who are cutting trees in this district not to do so, unless they have orders for them and even then be very careful so as not to get stung. My idea is and has always been not to cut any more than can be used, the trees that are cut over the actual demand for consumption, are a total economic loss to the man who brings them to the market, and trees are lost to the woods sooner or later that wasted tree would have brought the owner something in return for allowing it to grow. Those who are cutting and bringing trees to market on the assumption that they can be disposed of readily at a good profit, will find himself disappointed, and it is to those who have no definite place to dispose of their trees that this warning is intended for and I will admit that this warning is not altogether altruistic as I am one of the heavy ones who stand to loose by a heavy overflow in the market. It can be avoided only by us who cut and supply that market.

Yours truly,
R. M. Johnson,

Russia Opens Land, Air, Naval Attack on Little Finland!

FINLAND Out of a total population of 3,687,000—half the size of New York City—Finland has 800,000 men now under arms. Peacetime army strength is only 25,000, and military men estimate war strength at 125,000 trained men. The others now bearing arms are older men, youngsters, and possibly the physically unfit. Up to 100,000 of Finland's women are enrolled in the Lotta Svastd to back up the men. The normal army strength consists of three infantry divisions, one cavalry brigade and a tank company. The air force consists of 50 hydroplanes and 100 land planes marked, strangely, with swastikas. The navy, aside from the training ship shown, consists of two coast defense battleships and five submarines.

RUSSIA The army of the Soviet Republic draws from almost unlimited manpower. Military authorities put the potential trained men at 14,000,000 out of a population of 168,000,000. Practically, experts believe, Russia can keep in the field only a few more than 2,000,000. The peacetime army is 665,000 men, including 26 infantry divisions, 14 cavalry divisions, three mechanized divisions, 50,000 fortress troops and 28 mobile regiments. The air arm is a mystery, but 5000 ships is considered a conservative estimate and it may run three times that number, including many obsolete planes. The navy is headed by five old battleships, backed by 11 or more cruisers, 23 or more destroyers and 200 or more submarines.

DOGS AS SPORT AND HOBBY

By C. E. Harbison

No sport or hobby so constantly occupies as many devotees as does the breeding and showing of pure-bred dogs. The dog must have daily attention, whether he is in competition or not. The same thing is true of horses, cats and other animals, but not one of these can count as many fanciers as does the pure-bred dog. Of some 1,300,000 dogs of all breeds registered by the American Kennel Club since the establishment of the Stud Book, nearly 600,000 are now living. These are the specimens around which the sport revolves.

About 100,000 dogs are benched during the year at the member-club, licensed, and sanctioned shows. During 1938 there were 236 all-breed, limited breed, and specialty shows. These exhibitions constitute the "major leagues" of the sport. They are events in which only the best can hope to score consistently.

Behind the big shows are other, smaller exhibitions which seldom receive publicity because they do not create news. But these smaller shows play their part in preparing the show dogs of the United States for the major circuits. They carry no championship points, the exhibitors competing merely for ribbons and prizes. In the course of a year there are about 1,000 such matches held in various parts of the country.

The match shows serve another extremely important function in the sport. They are the means of training new judges who later will be added to the American Kennel Club list of qualified authorities. New names must always be added to this list, and all judges must be sure of themselves before they make decisions at the major exhibitions.

Breeders of pure-bred dogs are constantly judging the members of their kennels. This is particularly true of puppies, for they change greatly from month to month—even from week to week. Time and again it happens that the "ugly duckling" of a particular litter becomes the sensational winner, while the puppies which have appeared to be the most promising become merely pet dogs.

The smaller shows perform a function very similar to that of farm clubs in baseball and their increasing numbers are one of the healthiest indications that the dog world is healthy.

THE BEAR AT THE DOOR

JAPAN has changed her conception of regulations, and hereafter 400,000 recruits will be sent to the colors each year, instead of, as formerly, 125,000 young men.

By law all able-bodied men in Japan between the ages of 17 and 40 must serve when called upon. Of these, one-third go into active service and the rest into the army reserve.

While a temporary peace between Russia and Japan has been patched up, there is no doubt that Russia is actively aiding China through the latter's back door.

Whether Mr. Arnold's dynamic campaign will have its effect remains to be seen. It probably will. According to Bruce Catton, Washington columnist, a downward trend in construction costs has already been noticed in Pittsburgh.

Generally, however, building costs showed a slight rise in October over the previous month. Using 1926 as 100, the index in September of this year was 105.2, but in October it had risen to 106.

Something to Think About MICHIGAN members of the Izaak Walton League have interested themselves in the preservation of a sizeable tract of native pine in the eastern part of the peninsula.

It will be remembered that the Tabquamenon Falls state park premises were acquired through the help of this potent agency. The state had no funds for the purpose, so the Forest Service paid over the money and took state tax lands which it could use nicely for incorporation into the national forests.

In any project of this kind, the initiative must come from the Michigan Department of Conservation. It must be satisfied that the area to be purchased is a desirable one, and that the price is a fair one.

Along about October of each year, the building industry has come to expect an increase in the number of construction contracts. During the past 13 years, building activity has averaged an increase of 8.7 per cent in October over September contracts.

So while the industry waited with ink-filled pens and sharpened saws to tackle the increased volume of business it quite naturally anticipated, figures began coming in to show that something had gone haywire.

World Affairs Reviewed

One stumbling block in the way of recent Finnish-Russian negotiations is the request of Soviet Russia for permission to build a naval base on Finland's peninsula of Hango, also Hanko.

Hango is a slim 20-mile peninsula jutting into the Baltic Sea from southwest Finland, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

In Soviet hands, this peninsula would give the Russians control of both sides of the strategic north-European gulf. For already an agreement with Estonia has resulted in Russian occupation of the two islands of Osel and Dago, just 50 miles south of Hango.

First used in 1890, the icebreakers force a way through the frozen sea by sliding up onto the ice and then crashing through because of their great weight.

Now a free port, with an excellent harbor which the largest ships may enter, this Finnish town lately has been making a bid for increased Baltic trade as well as for winter cargoes bound for the northern ports of Soviet Russia.

Since 1875 Hango has been linked by rail with Leningrad, by way of Finland's capital at Helsinki. Through it today passes much of the nation's chief exports of timber, leather, hides, furs, and dairy products.

Imports coming into Finland by way of Hango include cotton, coal, sugar, coffee, iron and steel. In addition to its port activities, Hango's several factories produce margarine and biscuits, while granite works afford additional employment.

Although there was an old site as early as the 13th century on the site now occupied by Hango, the modern town dates only from 1874 and the building of the railroad.

Much of Finland's abundant and varied sea-food diet—herring, salmon, perch—comes from fishing grounds between Hango and Helsinki. Hango is the base of one fishing fleet which in 1930 expanded its herring industry to include Icelandic waters.

Three-fourths of the inhabitants of Hango speak Swedish. The first spelling of the city's name is therefore generally given in the Swedish Hango. Hango is the Finnish form.

Q. What are raffishes? L. S. K. A. They are remarkable parasitic plants of the East Indies which attack various vines of the grape family. Q. How long has railroad stock been listed on the New York Stock Exchange? J. G. H. A. In 1839 the first train was moved by an American steam locomotive in this country. A year later the first railroad stock—that of the Mohawk and Hudson Railroad—was listed on the Stock Exchange.

Q. What are the most dangerous sports? T. R. P. A. Football is by far the most hazardous of games, producing many more injuries than polo, wrestling, lacrosse, soccer, crew, and boxing which follow in that order.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Kings have been dethroned and empires have crumbled in the two decades that Paul Whiteman has been King of Jazz, but he still is the absolute monarch of music.

There are numerous pretenders to his throne, of course, but pin them down and they will admit that his baton is the scepter that sways the do re me on America's musical scales.

He has outlived, professionally, a dozen modes of song and—bind him trails a retinue of orchestral climbers who would have liked to have seized his kingdom. He celebrated his 20th anniversary as a bandleader the other night and from the festivities, you would have thought that a holiday had been declared in honor of a heroic statesman.

The celebrity list defied an accurate tabulation, for so many came to help "Pops" Whiteman (as the music world calls him) celebrate a jubilee.

That was the night of November 23, 1919, and young Whiteman was a pretty nervous, but confident, fellow when he clambered up to the lofty podium. He was to initiate himself into the jazz world that evening after an ardent schooling in the classics.

His father, Wilburforce James Whiteman, had been music superintendent of Denver schools and his mother was a well-known coloratura soprano. So they naturally reared him in the master-piece tradition. He was an adept violinist in his early teens and at his parents' behest, he had secured for himself a place in the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra as a viola player.

But between rehearsals and after dark, there had come to Whiteman's ears an unfamiliar but exciting rhythm, which was dubbed ragtime and slangily, jazz. He had heard these savage strains along the Barbary Coast, purveyed by small bands of three or four men and irreconcilable as these sounds were with his symphonic background, he knew when he first heard them, that he had found his meter.

So he quit the symphony orchestra and bravely organized a jazz band—the original aggregation which he cajoled the Alexandria Hotel to hire for a peanut-stipend.

The news of this new orchestra reached the ears of the Barbary Coast musicians, and much as swingsters prey upon each other now, they came to hear him. Their admiration conquered their resentment and soon the name of a new jazz wizard, Paul Whiteman, was passing from west to east.

I believe that criticism, favorable or unfavorable, is good for public officials. Gov. Luren Dickinson of Michigan. —Stephen Early, White House press secretary.

We all know that anti-Semitism is irrational and emotional. It can only be combated by Christians. —Dr. Salo W. Baron, Columbia University history department.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—There is an excellent reason why the U. S. Navy has been so secretive regarding the German magnetic mines which have been causing such disaster to Allied shipping. Probably it will be denied, but the real fact is that the Navy has been experimenting with this type of mine itself.

Behind the scenes, the British have known the exact make-up of the German mines for some time. So also have our own experts. The first German magnetic mine was found washed up on the coast of Norway, several weeks before the Germans began their campaign in the English Channel.

Apparently, the Germans at that time were experimenting with the mine in Norwegian waters. The British, however, didn't pay much attention to the new mine. So when the Nazis began their campaign in earnest, Allied shipping was caught completely off base.

Since then, more mines have been washed up off the English coast, and have been taken to pieces by the British. The principle on which the mine works is a magnetic compass. The needle of the compass points normally north. But when a large body of steel passes nearby, the needle is deflected from the north, and this swerving of the needle ignites the high explosive inside the mine.

The mine lies at the bottom of the sea and does not rise to the top. Therefore, it is effective only in shallow water. But even 30 or 40 feet from the hull of a ship, its explosion can be just as deadly as if it actually struck the ship itself. —SHALLOW WATER WEAPONS—

Because the mines are effective only in relatively shallow water, they have been concentrated in and around the English Channel. They would be valueless if shrewn around the deep Atlantic. One important effect which they have had on German warfare is to force all Nazi submarines out of control waters.

Submarines explode the mines just as easily as merchant vessels, in fact more easily. So the Germans have to keep their U-boats in the deep Atlantic or at home. Reports from the British navy received in official quarters are that the British now have the mine terror licked. The British solution is to tow a large piece of iron behind a wooden boat. The wooden boat does not set off the magnetic mine, but the iron which follows in its wake, does.

At present the British have abandoned the old fashioned mine sweeper, and are literally combing the seas around the English Channel. They may be too optimistic, but they think that in another week, or even less, German's magnetic mines will be all expended. Meanwhile the British air corps is extra diligent to prevent Nazi planes from dropping more mines around the English Channel. They are not, entirely sure, but they believe most of the mines were dropped from the air, unless some were planted by disguised Nazi wooden vessels.

—MRS. R.'S THANKSGIVING— Scene in Mrs. Roosevelt's New York apartment about two weeks ago: Enter Miss Thompson, the First Lady's secretary. Miss Thompson: "Well, at last I've found out when Thanksgiving is."

Mrs. Roosevelt: "When is it?" Miss Thompson: "It's on the 23rd. At least that's the day your newspaper syndicate is celebrating it." Note—Mrs. Roosevelt had been anxious to find out which day her syndicate was celebrating, as it was necessary for her to write two columns on the day before Thanksgiving, so the syndicate staff could take a full holiday off.

—CAPITAL CHAFF— Keep an eye on Rear Admiral James Otto Richardson. He is scheduled to command the United States Fleet upon the retirement of Admiral Bloch next year. . . . Washington circles find it hard to believe that Senator and Mrs. Gerald P. Nye have agreed to disagree. The Senator has maintained a separate residence since late spring, and friends insist there seems to be no prospect of reconciliation.

The Senator has been in the Far West on a speaking tour since Congress adjourned and the family has been living at 3802 Gramercy where the Nyes have resided for nearly fifteen years. . . . The British admirals never appointed a board of inquiry to examine the reasons for the sinking of the Royal Oak. They knew that any such inquiry would reveal that they had taken no precautions to prevent submarines from entering Scapa Flow. Ordinarily, when a warship is even scratched, a board of inquiry investigates.

It was Britain, the Nazis say, who is responsible for the fall of Poland. Germany and Russia are merely accessories after the fact. A Democratic leader was cleared of voting twice because he said he was absent-minded. Thought he had voted two years ago instead of that morning.

Three Deaths of Sterptococcus; Scarlet Fever Prevalent

There were 29 cases of scarlet fever, 49 cases of chicken pox and four reported cases of streptococcus throat infection, with three deaths, during November, Dr. Fred O. Tonney, Delta county health director said yesterday.

The streptococcus infection is particularly dangerous, he said, and he urged parents to be very careful of even slight sore throats among their children.

When there are many children in the family who come down with the disease successively, it is entirely proper for the original case to return to school as soon as the skin is cleared of eruption.

Emphasis was also placed upon the value of the dental services provided by the Children's Fund of Michigan through Dr. R. Lazowski now located at Rapid River, with offices in the school building of that city.

Perseverance Wins, Gunnar Nelson Finds

Bringing down a fine eight-point, 200 pound buck almost the last hour of hunting season, after he had hunted unsuccessfully since the first of the season, was the lucky experience of Gunnar Nelson of 1028 Stephenson avenue.

Mr. Nelson spent fifteen days hunting in the Eighteen Mile district, and returned home Thursday, empty-handed. He decided to try his luck on the Stonington peninsula the last few hours of season, and at three o'clock that afternoon, filled his license.

A member of his party at the Eighteen Mile, Helmer Nelson of 1310 Stephenson avenue, filled his license early in the season, getting a six point buck, weighing 115 pounds.

Evangelist Opens Lecture Series at Rapid River

Evangelist W. C. Hankins will deliver the first of a series of Sunday night lectures on present day conditions in the light of Bible prophecy, at the Rapid River high school gymnasium, this evening, at 7:30 o'clock. His topic will be "Will Hitler Conquer Europe? Is Civilization Doomed? What Does the Bible Say?" Mr. Hankins is the Superintendent of the Upper Peninsula of the Michigan Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists. He has been in the gospel ministry for nearly thirty-seven years, and has made a very careful study of Bible prophecy and its historical fulfillment. The lectures will be illustrated on the screen by beautiful colored pictures.

Mr. Hankins says that the questions that are uppermost in many people's minds are many of them fully answered by the Bible, and while no man can tell what the morrow may bring forth, God has plainly outlined the course of history to the end of this world in His Holy Word, so that the student of the Bible often knows more of the future than the wisest statesman. All lectures are free and the public is cordially invited.

RAIL HEAD SEES BRIGHT PICTURE

Williams Reveals C&N Is Returning Many Men to Work

Chicago—"I am very much encouraged about prospects for business in this country and I believe that the present improved business situation will continue for at least the next several months," declared R. L. Williams, chief executive officer of the Chicago and North Western Ry. in commenting informally on the general situation.

Mr. Williams' optimistic outlook was based on a variety of reports coming to him from other departments. From the North Western's big Chicago locomotive and car shops emanated word that 278 men have been recalled to work, 220 in the locomotive shops and 58 in the car shops. The locomotive shops are jammed with engines undergoing repair and renovation for the winter and spring season.

In the car shops additional men are employed on passenger equipment which will soon be pressed into service for the expected rush of winter business to California.

To improve the efficiency in the locomotive shops at Chicago, considerable reconstruction work in the shops themselves is being done, calling for expenditures of more than $100,000.

Freight Revenues Increase

Freight operating revenues for the year to date show an increase of 9.7 percent over the corresponding period in 1938. Although current car loadings show a seasonal dip, still they are ahead of last year's. In preparation for 1940 business, orders have been placed for 300 new 50-foot box cars, 500 new 70-ton steel hopper cars, and 20,000 tons of steel rails.

Passenger revenues for the year to date show an increase of 2.1 percent over the corresponding period in 1938.

The tour department is preparing for a heavy winter season to California, already several special tours via the famous Challenger trains having been announced. The outlook for winter sports travel to Sun Valley, the Pacific Northwest and to the North Woods of Wisconsin and Fenelon Michigan also appears bright.

In answer to the direct question "what is the matter with the railroads," Mr. Williams declared, "There is nothing the matter with us that a little more revenue and a little more hard work won't cure. We may have been ill but we're in the convalescent stage now and look forward to recovery."

Passenger Business Up

"The American people all have been having their troubles and don't care to hear about ours, but despite their own ills and ailments, they are game enough to give us a hand are doing that. To prove it our passenger and freight revenues have been moving up steadily, not by leaps and bounds, to be sure, but slowly ahead, which is certainly an improvement over standing still or going backward."

"Besides stepping up our revenues we are also taking a whack at the expenditures end of the business, instituting economies by centralizing work, consolidating departments and at the same time improving the efficiency and speed of operations."

"I believe all that is necessary to give the railroads new life is to furnish the public a fast, comfortable and economical service, and North Western is doing that. We have just inaugurated the new streamlined '400' with very gratifying results. We are also participating with our western connections in the building of two new streamliners for the coast runs, a new City of Los Angeles and a new City of San Francisco."

ICC Orders Cuts In Southern Rail Rate

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—In a five to four decision, the interstate commerce commission upheld today the south's long-standing complaint against "discriminatory" freight rates, and ordered reductions in northbound rail charges on a list of manufactured articles.

Granting a plea of the southern governors' conference, the commission in effect recognized the principle of establishing rate parity between shipments wholly within the north and those from the south to northern points.

On a dozen commodities, the commission ordered rate reductions ranging from five to 35 percent. On about as many others covered in the southern complaint, it ordered no change, pointing out there was no evidence that existing rates were unduly high.

It was generally believed that the southern governors' success in this case would encourage them to file proceedings seeking a general downward revision of south-bound rates.

Egg Futures Drop Nearly 1c A Dozen

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—Heavy liquidation dropped egg futures here today nearly a cent a dozen, December contracts falling to 15.60 cents, lowest for the contract since 1933, closing prices were only slightly above the lows.

The break—which was the fourth consecutive one this week—was attributed by traders to an overnight government report that egg receipts in midwest markets jumped 23 percent and private reports that country marketings were sharply above normal.

Old Orchard Farm

Basement for Caretaker's Home Finished

Full advantage has been taken out at Old Orchard farm of the wonderful early autumn weather conditions, with which this section has been favored, for the past two or three weeks. The basement for the caretaker's house, which is to be moved to a location down at the farm entrance, is fully completed and the drainage system, necessary at that point so that Jimmie Leach and his sister, Ellen, won't have to use a row boat to reach their house, when the spring thaws come, is also ready for use.

Drainage pipe was laid both under and around the foundation walls and after the concrete walls were poured and "set", the exterior was given a heavy coating of asphalt paint—all to the end that a dry basement may be made possible at the location. Because it is one of the lowest spots on the farm, where the remodeled house will be established, it was possible to extend the basement but four feet under the surface and the remainder of the seven foot walls, extend upward, so the building will have to stand pretty well up in the air.

But other material will be hauled in and the yard about the house will be terraced and covered with black loam, to provide an attractive lawn, in the spring. A drizzling rain, that set in on Friday and continued through most of Saturday, prevented the moving of the present caretaker's house to the new location, but everything is in readiness for the actual moving operations, as soon as the weather clears again.

Getting Wood Supply

Advantage has been taken of the recent fine weather to get most of the farm's winter supply of wood cut and ready for the various stoves, that will have to be kept popping, when zero weather finally hits this district. All of the brush, taken from the windfalls in the farm woodlot, was burned as it accumulated and last week the big pile of rubbish and quack grass roots, piled down in the corner of the farm, was burned out, as slick as a whistle. The recent dry weather and the warm, sunny days, made conditions ideal for burning and many farmers, with brush and other material to burn, took full advantage of the opportunity to do this work.

In spite of every effort to hold them back for a more favorable market, Old Orchard's drove of feeding hogs, are getting too fat for comfort. Besides they are eating up a lot of feed, that may be needed for other stock before winter is over. So as soon as colder weather sets in the farm manager is considering slaughtering a few of the hogs at a time and disposing of the pork, direct to local consumers. There was a time when many families bought the carcass of a pig or hog, in the fall, from which they obtained the bulk of their fresh meat supply during at least a part of the winter. Some families used their carcasses, to make up a supply of sausage, salt pork and lard. The practice isn't generally followed in these days, but the manager of Old Orchard believes that at least some families might like to go back to old customs for a time, so, if present plans are carried out, the farm's pork supply may go direct into local homes, as whole pigs, halves or quarters, as the purchasers wish. And Old Orchard's fat pigs should make especially fine pork, for from the time of the birth of these pigs, they have had only clover, milk and corn as their diet and the farm manager firmly believes that finer pork cannot be produced any place in this land.

On the rainy days of last week the farm crew got at the job of grading out some of the stock of potatoes, stored in the basement of the farm house. The bulk of this season's crop will be reserved as certified seed, for sale next spring, but as an average, about one third of the total crop will have to be graded out for table stock. Only potatoes of certain size and shape, can be sold as certified seed, so all tubers too large for seed and individual specimens that do not conform to specifications in shape, will be graded out and sold locally for table use. And because of the belief of the farm manager that there will be a considerable demand among farmers in this section of the peninsula for better seed stock, in the spring, it is not now planned to make any outside shipment of seed, in the hope and belief that they can be disposed of locally.

Warm Weather Problems

The recent period of unseasonably warm weather made a lot of people happy, but deer hunters, of either local or down state variety, were not impressed and out at Old Orchard the warm days have brought about an unexpected problem. This is the time of the year when silos are opened and ensilage fed to the dairy stock, to supply food elements they get from green pasture, during the summer months. Usually at this time of the year, cold weather permits the keeping of ensilage perfectly, as it is fed from the silo. This year, on a farm with as small a dairy herd as Old Orchard, it has been found difficult to feed the silage fast enough to keep it from spoiling on the surface. Under ordinary conditions the ensilage is loosened about the outside rim and piled in the center, as it is used. Under present weather conditions, this practice cannot be followed on small farms, for as soon as the ensilage is loosened and allowed to stand in a pile, for a few days, it becomes mouldy and unfit for cow feed. To meet the situation, out at Old Orchard, only enough silage for each feeding is carefully scratched from the surface of the silo and the remainder is kept packed as solidly as possible. This plan does not work perfectly, but it is better than having considerable quantities made unfit for anything but hog feed, each day. The cows have just got to have their ensilage, as long as it is available, so the farm crew, while they can make use of more nice weather, will be a little happier when the daily temperatures get down to normal for this section.

All of which merely goes to prove that a farmer is a pretty hard creature to completely satisfy, when it comes to the matter of weather.

HUNTING-FISHING TOURIST PROMOTION LAND PROBLEMS

CONTINUE WORK ON DEER FENCE

Find Whitetails Will Go Through Space of Eight Inches

The deer-proof fence experiment in Alcona County has been giving results during the last month, reports Ilo H. Bartlett of the Game Division...

Bartlett carried out tests on two miles of fence involving twenty-two different kinds of wire. About one and one-fourth miles were woven wire and the remaining three-fourths were electrified barb wire.

Deer will go through an electric barbed fence with spaces as small as eight inches, says Bartlett. In one alfalfa field the deer went back and forth through the fence almost at will, even though it was electrified.

Electric fences with wires spaced more than six inches apart will not keep out deer, concludes Bartlett.

The woven wire fence experiments have shown that when deer pressure gets heavy, 12 1/2-gauge fence shows signs of weakening. The 11-gauge fence seems to be holding out, and the nine-gauge fence stands unmarred.

Buffer Strips Planted This year the Game Division tried planting buffer strips for the first time. At present, nearly five miles of such strips, in which rye and vetch have been planted, are laid out in Alpena, Montmorency, Oscoda and Alcona counties.

Department Lines Up Game Experts

Lansing—Oral examination of 87 candidates by specialists of the game division of the Michigan department of conservation, now under way, will establish an eligible register for five technical classifications of conservation work.

Examination results will be announced December 9. Positions to be filled are those of game refuge superintendent, game biologist, game research ornithologist and game research mammalogist.

The 87 candidates admitted to the oral examination were selected from a much larger number of applicants on the basis of education, training and experience.

The northern or grass pike feeds almost entirely on fishes.

Wearing Male Attire Her Downfall

MICHIGAN BUCK HOLDS RECORD

Largest Whitetail Ever Killed Came From Trout Lake

Now just a minute, before you place any claim for a record on that buck. At least wait until the "evidence" is all eaten up, then take a look at the record.

That is the question that pops up in the mind of many a hunter as he looks over his season's buck and makes the first move toward dressing it out.

Authorities say that the average Michigan buck deer will weigh about 140 pounds, 110 pounds dressed, but they admit that this figure, an average of the deer taken, includes many spikehorns that have barely "gotten their growth."

Michigan deer can and do become much larger. The biggest whitetail ever taken came from Michigan, near Trout Lake.

The largest set of antlers ever grown by a whitetail also came from Michigan. The buck was taken by J. C. Phillips and the antlers were 32 1/2 inches in length, had a girth of 6 inches and from tip to tip measured 8 inches.

Although this magnificent rack is the largest recorded, one buck taken by Alfred Friedrich of San Antonio, Tex., boasted 78 points. The antlers, however, were not nearly as large as the Michigan buck's.

YULE WREATHS HOME GROWN

Michigan Holly Provides Color for Holiday Decorations

Lansing—Michigan holly—lex verticillata, if you wish to be precise, and winterberry or black alder, if you prefer more familiar names—is furnishing many a Michigan farmer with gay wreaths for the Christmas season.

Unlike the true holly which grows only in the south, the Michigan variety sheds its leaves. But even without the leaves, which may be gone by Christmas time, the branches of bright red berries alone make colorful decorations.

The fact that the shiny scarlet berries cling to the five to 10 foot high bushes in winter is making the shrub popular for home landscaping. Wild growth is protected as are Christmas trees, but the shrubs may be secured at nurseries.

In early days both bark and berries of Michigan holly were used in medicine. It is now one of 39 trees and shrubs being studied for value as wildlife food and cover. In winter deer browse on twigs of the last season's growth and on the berries. Since the berries remain above the snow, they are available as grouse food, though it is not known how readily grouse will eat them.

Michigan holly occurs generally throughout Michigan, more frequently in the northern part, where there is also "mountain holly," memo panthus mucronata. Both are found in and near swamp lands.

FLYWAYS TAKE TOLL OF BIRDS

Perils Encountered By Migrants In Long Flights Many

Almost anyone knows that most of our song birds, who add such a pleasant touch to summer days with their cheerful music, fly south when cold and stormy weather makes our northern states uninhabitable for the more delicate feathered friends, but few know just where the birds go in their migratory flight or what perils they bravely encounter in fleeing the cold days.

A surprising number of song birds of all species fly as far down as South America for their winter sojourn and when their size and relative weakness is understood, this feat is well nigh unbelievable. Imagine barn swallows which flit about of a summer evening helping to rid the land of thousands of pestiferous insects, flying to the South American continent. Along with them go warblers, sandpipers, bobolinks, yellowlegs and many more.

Not all of the migratory songsters make the complete journey. The long flight takes its toll from their ranks and thousands upon thousands fall by the wayside, exhausted by the strain of the great distance they must go to find the necessary warmth for life.

Dr. Alexander Wetmore of the Smithsonian Institute estimates that the ranks of the song birds are annually depleted by the southern flight to a much greater extent than the ranks of human beings are by a great battle, even with the terrible destruction that may be wrought by modern weapons.

On an inspection trip to Venezuela, Dr. Wetmore stood on a sandy beach on the north coast of the South American republic and watched thousands of birds come in so exhausted that they could scarcely land after an over the ocean trek. The birds were not only thoroughly exhausted, but also were emaciated by their hazardous flight. The birds were literally nothing but skin and bones and their flying muscles were wasted away to mere thin bands.

It is difficult to estimate what percentage of the birds which started south for relief from the northern cold arrived at the hoped for destination, but from the condition of those which finally did fly in it is certain that many of the weaker birds were unable to survive the trying ordeal.

Peccary Killed at Ypsilanti Puzzles State Naturalists

Ypsilanti—Biologists, game experts and naturalists in this district have a new problem for discussion that should last out the winter—the question of the origin of the peccary killed a mile west of the city limits of Ypsilanti recently.

Definitely identified as a true peccary, the animal was about 2,000 miles from home. Ernest Rowe, Jr., 17, and Richard Palmer, 19, both of Ypsilanti, came upon the animal while hiking. The peccary attempted to hide in a drain pipe under a railway track but was poked out and killed with clubs by the two youths.

The identification of the animal, which weighed about 40 pounds, gave credence to several reports made this summer that such an animal had been seen near Ypsilanti. Previously it had been believed that the subject of the reports was a farm hog that had escaped and reverted to the wild.

Home of this wild pig is Mexico and the southernmost parts of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. As far as is known, the species has never before been found in Michigan. Game men agree that the animal probably escaped from a circus or zoo or from someone who had brought it north as a pet, but no report of such an escape has been made.

The animals usually travel in companies of from 15 to 30 under the leadership of some wise old boar and will eat anything in the line of fruit, nuts, vegetables, eggs, snakes or the carcasses of dead animals.

A formidable foe when cornered they are gregarious by nature and are said by authorities to attack hunters without provocation. They attain a maximum weight of from 50 to 75 pounds. The flesh is of coarse grains and unedible unless the musk glands on the upper part of the hips are removed immediately after the animal is killed.

Abandoning the material which has been used for Junior Audubon clubs in recent years, the Michigan Audubon society will adopt the revised leaflets sponsored by the National Association of Audubon Societies. It was announced by Margaret E. Gross of Grand Rapids, secretary-treasurer of the state society, on her return from the national Audubon convention in New York recently.

These revised leaflets are very attractive and readable. Miss Gross states, "They follow the older style of furnishing a colored picture of the bird described in each leaflet, accompanied by an outline of the same bird for the junior Audubon to color."

Roger Troy Peterson, widely known bird artist and conservationist associated with the national association, has completely rewritten a large number of the leaflets, dividing them into two series, one of the first to fourth grades, the other with more detail for older grades.

Birds described include the slate-colored junco, wood thrush, whip-poor-will, red-headed woodpecker, redstart, chickadee and others.

There is a possibility the Michigan Audubon group may affiliate with the national association once more, Miss Gross reports. There is talk among the national officials that their dues may be dropped at least to near the former levels, where they would not make such a heavy demand on the slender resources of the Michigan society, she explains.

Hunt Munchausens Have Their Innings With Season's End

BY BUELL PATTERSON I may be an old skeptic but when all the tales of deer hunting adventures are lined up end to end each fall it seems to me that we can forget the old time fairy tales and get a lot of material from the nimrods.

The dispatches recently had a story about a hunter out in New Mexico being attacked by a big buck, wrestling with the buck, throwing the buck (not bull), and then bashing in the buck's head with a rock to polish said buck off.

The correspondent who thought of that one was reaching a new high in hunting fiction, at least that is the way it reads to these feeble eyes. I have never yet seen an animal attack a man unless that animal was crazed by a wound or was completely loco.

A wounded buck is a very dangerous animal. He doesn't go in for a fight with those big antlers, however, but does execution with his sharp hooves. They will break a man's leg and wreck him if they strike a vulnerable spot. They are driven by an almost unbelievable power and are tough weapons to oppose.

I have seen a deer crush in the sides of a well-built boat and demolish a canoe when the deer was approached in the water. I never have seen a deer attack a man.

Countless times I have heard of does which bravely went into action when some man molested their fawns. Just as many times I have seen men pick up fawns and even carry them away without any attack from the mothers. The mothers have even fled when men were seen. This does not mean that they were not brave but does make it seem that man is more than fairly safe from attack.

The deer which started this trade was not even wounded but was stumbled upon, so the story went in the papers, by a man hunting for a wounded buck. Bull-dogging a buck is something for fiction but has no place in stories of hunting which are supposed to be true.

Keep away from a wounded buck or any wounded animal and you will have no trouble. Get near any desperate living creature and the results may be disastrous. Any animal with its back figuratively to the wall will do all it can to save its life. When there is a chance to get away from man without attacking the animals will flee every time.

Mind your own business and the animals will mind theirs. Stick your nose into a buzz saw and it is bound to get scrambled up a bit.

STATE WOULD IMPROVE PARKS

Project Calls for Total of $1,309,000 To Be Spent on 29 Sites

Lansing, Dec. 2.—A $1,309,000 state-wide WPA project for improvement of 29 Michigan state parks, supplanting individual projects for each of the parks, is being prepared for submission to regional and national WPA headquarters by the parks division of the Michigan department of conservation in collaboration with the Michigan WPA office.

The proposed state-wide project would absorb and include the 12 WPA park projects now approved or under way in as many parks, as well as others which have not passed the planning stage. Economizing, time saving, quicker preparation of projects, elimination of much detail and clerical work, and greater flexibility of control are advantages sought under the larger plan.

Of the $1,309,000 to be spent on the state-wide project, $900,000 will be used for labor. The state's contribution will be $327,000 in cash, materials, equipment, supervision, and some labor.

State park problems are comparable to the municipal problems of health, safety, traffic and maintaining order. W. J. Kingscott, chief of the parks division, points out in listing improvements to be made in 29 of the state's 58 well distributed playground spots. Included are water systems, wells, storm drains, sewage disposal system, toilet buildings, electrical installations, roads, parking areas, guard rails, landscaping, planting of trees and shrubs, erosion control, cleanup of fire hazards and erection of boundary fences.

Other park work includes camp ground development, tent and trailer sites off park roads, dams, docks and breakwaters, scenic overlooks, foot trails, fire breaks, picnic grounds and picnic tables, playground equipment and winter sports facilities.

MICHIGAN'S SIZE A circle drawn with the southeastern corner of Michigan as its center and a radius long enough to include the northwest corner would pass outside New York City, Nashville, Tenn., and St. Louis, Mo. It would include all or part of 18 states and much of Canada, as well as three-fifths of the U. S. population and three-fourths of U. S. industries.

18 Pointer Weighed 225 Pounds

Henry Negliski, of Munising, and the 225-pound deer which he brought down near Miner's bluff, northeast of there. Negliski shot the deer on the second day of the season while hunting with his brother, Jacob. The antlers on the buck have 18 points, if only those of about an inch or longer are counted, and instead of being round or oval are flat, somewhat like those of the moose. The deer is the largest reported shot in this area and was weighed dressed.

and a small bag filled with rags steeped in it may be dragged from several directions toward the traps or from trap to trap as the trapper proceeds on his grounds.

When you decide to cook up a mess of scent be sure to do so in an outside shack away from your home kitchen fire, otherwise you will get in wrong with the family and neighbors. The odor will penetrate the atmosphere in volumes unbecomingly to the average nose. Asafoetida, horse hoofs, pine needles and lard make a great scent for animals, but it's "phooey" to humans. Boil the "dope" together for about two hours, then place in a can and cover tight until ready for use.

The price of raw fur will be higher this season and it will pay to trap. However, one must first learn the secrets of the trade and go forth into a good territory and set his traps. Trapping is fun and a mighty interesting and healthful occupation, but don't buy a lot of traps and equipment with the belief that anyone can catch fur bearing animals. It's an "art" in itself and when once mastered will become the source of additional revenue during the cold weather period.

Life Span of Wild Game Imagine trying to sink your teeth into a goose that may die at the age of 235 years, or listened to the ancient chatter of a parrot boasting the age of 178 long years. We might even go further and ask you would you do with a 138-year-old pike, or how you would bake a 100-year-old carp.

The longevity or age of animals, fish and bird life might prove startling to the average sportsman when he reads the following accredited data collected by Carl W. Neumann (Lincoln Library of Facts) not so long ago. Here's the dope on the normal span of some of the more important animals and fish known to most outdoors enthusiasts:

Between 200 and 300 years: Elder duck, giant tortoise, goose, parrot and raven.

Between 100 and 200 years: Elephant, 150-200; falcon, 162; pike, 150; carp, 150; vulture, 118; golden eagle, 104; swan, 102.

Less than 100 years: Ant, 10-15; ass, 40-50; bear, 40-50; beaver, 20-30; bee (queen), 4-6; bee (worker), 6 weeks; blackbird, 18; canary, 24; cat, 9-10; chicken, 15-20; crab (fresh water), 20; crane, 40-50; crocodile, 40; cuckoo, 40; dog, 10-15; dove, 60-70; dromedary, 40-50; earthworm, 10; eel, 10-12; elk, 20; fox, 10; goat, 12-15; guinea pig, 5-7; gull, 44; hare, 7-8; heron, 60; hippopotamus, 40; horse, 40; lion, 20-25; magpie, 25; mouse, 3-4; ostrich, 60-70; pig (wild), 20-30; rat, 3; reindeer, 16; rhinoceros, 40-50; rookbeak, 15; salamander, 10-12; sheep, 10-15; squirrel, 10-12; star, 30; tiger, 20; toad, 40; tree frog, 10; wolf, 10-15; woodpecker, 60-70.

The average sportsman may find it difficult to determine the actual age of the various animals, birds and fish captured in season. However, science finds a way and our wild life authorities know exactly how old a fish or animal may be by certain signs of age. Size and toughness of the meat determines old age for the human.

Minnesota Caribou Herd Promises To Perpetuate Species

St. Paul—The heretofore rapidly dwindling woodland caribou herd in Minnesota holds out promises of a marked trend in the other direction from now on as a result of final preparations underway for the release of seven young animals, imported from Canada two years ago, in the wilds north of Upper Red Lake, according to reports to the state department of conservation.

These caribou, caught as young calves weighing about 50 pounds each, in the Wilderness north of Alberta, have been kept in a 2,300-acre corral in the Beltrami Island project area since brought into this country. They now weigh around 200 pounds each.

The original consignment from Alberta consisted of nine calves and one bull. One of the calves died and the bull was released about a year ago to join three native caribou which have been in that region for years. These are the only woodland caribou known to exist in the United States outside of Alaska.

This latest addition to the herd was brought about by a federal soil conservation service project. Ways and means are now being considered for turning over to the state of Minnesota the future management of the wild life area of some 1,500,000 acres in the region north of Upper Red Lake and south of Baudette and Spooner.

Broken Legs Fail To Hamper Hunters Aberdeen, Wash. (AP)—Infirmitudes didn't deter two Aberdeen mill workers from getting their deer when the season opened recently.

Joe Sanders, on crutches, because of a broken leg, joined Basil Johnson, hobbling with a cane to favor an injured foot, in a trip to Washington's Okanogan country. Hiring horses, they rode into the buck country. Both of the injured hunters got their deer the first day.

To Drown Perch So The Other Fish Will Have Enough Room New Gloucester, Me. (AP)—The Maine fish and game department is trying to drown hundreds of fish.

The department explained that in an effort to improve salmon and trout fishing in Sabbathday lake it wanted to exterminate large schools of white perch.

This the department hoped to do by saturating the waters of lake and a half long lake with a chemical solution designed to paralyze the gills of the fish and cause them to drown. If it should work—and the department's researchers say it will—the lake would be restocked next spring with salmon and trout.

The chemical, experts said, would not effect edibility of the fish nor harm the waters of the lake.

In Great Britain, during the World War, private citizens were not allowed to keep homing pigeons, for fear they might be used by spies in sending messages.

STATE TO BUY WATER FRONT

New Fishing License Law Effective On Jan. 1 Provides Funds

Lansing (AP)—The state conservation department today studied plans to acquire public access to fishing grounds with the funds provided by a new fishing license law which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Under the law, licenses will cost one dollar. Forty per cent of the fees must be used to acquire public access to fishing grounds, for research in fish life and improvement of fishing spots.

The department estimated that revenues under the new law will be $600,000 a year, compared to $386,989 from the present licensing law.

A tentative plan calls for the department to spend $165,000 for land acquisition, $60,000 for research and 25,000 for fishing improvements.

Fred A. Westerman, chief of the Department's fish division, said, "We contemplate the purchase of numerous small parcels of land on the banks of lakes and streams, rather than to buy only a few large pieces of ground. Much of this purchase should be in the lower half of the lower peninsula, and more of it should be spent on lakes than on streams. We should do as much as possible close in to Detroit, but we must not discriminate against outstate fishers."

He said he believed the Metropolitan areas provide most of the license revenues and that persons of modest means were owed protection against loss of access to fishing grounds.

"The poor man in the city will lose his sport unless his access is guaranteed, because he probably never will be able to afford many long fishing trips," Westerman said.

MICHIGAN BIRD BANDERS RATED

Two Lansing Men Place Seventh In Nation for Year's Work

Two Michigan men, C. C. and F. E. Ludwig of Lansing, placed seventh highest in total number of birds banded in the last year throughout the United States by co-operators of the United States biological survey.

The two Michigan men reported the banding of 8,420 birds during the year of operation ending last June 30. This total is higher than the total compiled by any of the federal referees.

Next Michigan bird bander on the list was Dr. Karl Christofferson of Blaney Park, who banded 1,444. H. D. Ryhl, chief of the game division of the state department of conservation, reported banding of 1,312. M. J. Bagee of Sault Ste. Marie banded 1,261 and Dr. M. D. Pirnie of the Kellogg sanctuary near Battle Creek, 1,011.

Bandings between 800 and 1,000 was Oscar M. Bryens of MacMillan. Those who banded between 500 and 800 include Bert Lambert of Allenville, Harry Richardson of Grand Rapids and Prof. J. W. Stack of East Lansing. Parks Allen of Ithaca and A. D. Trempe of Sault Ste. Marie banded between 300 and 500. Mrs. F. L. DeMond of Grand Rapids, Floyd W. Hatch of Copemish, Dr. J. VanTye of Ann Arbor and Dr. L. H. Walkinshaw of Battle Creek banded from 200 to 300.

A number of Michigan residents banded between 100 and 200 birds as co-operators of the survey. They are Robert W. Allen of Ann Arbor, Bernard W. Baker of Marne, Dr. T. Boardman and W. P. Nickell of Bloomfield Hills, Miss M. E. Gross of Grand Rapids, George W. Luther of DeTour and Henry E. Wagner of Detroit.

Total number of birds banded by the survey and co-operators since 1930 reached 3,234,143 with 64,836 returned from 202,913 specimens. A total of 436,648 birds was banded during the last year, the survey reports.

Michigan Pays Big Price For Sixty In Control Of Dogs

Lansing—Michigan spends $290,000 a year for serum to protect persons bitten by animals suspected of rabies.

This expense, added to the cost in lives of livestock and valuable dogs, runs the expense of rab control of dogs into figures which point to immediate need for effective state-wide control of the means of spreading the disease, the Michigan Department of Health reports.

A survey made by the Department reveals that during the last year 5,429 persons had to have injections to prevent rabies and that of 1,316 examinations of suspected animals made, 784 were found to be infected.

Although treatment of those bitten by suspected animals is painful and expensive, the program's effectiveness is indicated by the fact that but two persons died of rabies in the state during the first six months of 1939.

AMERICA OUT-OF-DOORS

SCENTS THAT MEAN "CENTS" TO THE TRAPPER

Trapping is an interesting and instructive art, because success in it requires study of the habits of the animals trapped. The best trapper is one who, in addition to his knowledge, is the most familiar with his territory. His observations extend throughout the year and his eyes are as open in the early spring, just at the beginning of autumn, for signs of game, since the cardinal point of trapping consists in finding out the exact haunts of the quarry.

Artificial scents are extensively used by trappers to give additional strength of odor. There are many of them, the commonest being made by hanging pieces of eel, lake trout or other oily fish in bottles in the sun, the resultant fish oil being particularly malodorous to the trapper, but quite the opposite to the fur bearers. Other "dopes" are made of annis, catereum, asafoetida, fennel, cummin, musk and chipped pieces of horse hoofs boiled to a sticky glue liquid.

Trappers differ greatly in their estimates of the real value of scents, many ignoring them entirely. It can certainly do no harm and may be recommended to all but the most wary and careful, as it serves to counteract the human smell. A drop or two should be put on the bait and more sprinkled about the trap. The soles of the shoes may be smeared with it.

Oldster Scoffs At Glasses, Downs A Buck At 60 Yards

South Lebanon, Me. (P)—George L. Chalmers, who will be 82 in February, has no difficulty sighting a gun, and he proved it today by shooting a 150-pound deer at 60-yards. Here's how he did it.

Taking two companions, Chalmers went to a spot near the town farm, unfolded a collapsible chair, lighted a pipe and sat down. Three hours later the deer approached, Chalmers, who scoffs at glasses, raised his gun and fired. The deer fell dead.

Attitude of America Toward Allies Studied

The Hague — Increasingly the question seems to present itself as to whether the United States can save the Allies again by coming into the war. We receive very few American newspapers and then they are usually a mouth or more old, but if we may judge from them, there are already those who would have us again send troops and our fleet to Europe, while Winston Churchill has been so unwise and unkind as to list the new American neutrality law as one of the achievements of Great Britain since the war began.

Century Old Game Laws Puzzling To Present-Day Reader

Lansing—While Michigan legislators may have been conservation-minded a century ago they were not so scientific in designating wildlife species as are present-day conservationists.

Act 109 of the Public Acts of 1840, for the preservation of woodcock, quail, partridge and pheasant in the county of Wayne, provided that there should be no killing of woodcock between February 1 and July 1, and no killing of quail, partridge or pheasant between March 1 and October 1.

Section 2 of the act provided a penalty of one dollar for illegal killing of partridge or pheasant, and a 50-cent penalty for woodcock and quail. But revenue clearly was not the purpose of the act: Half the penalty went to Wayne county and half to the informer. Persons selling or possessing the birds illegally were deemed guilty of killing.

What puzzles the modern reader is the word "pheasant". Separate references to pheasant and partridge indicate two different birds were meant, though the partridge, or ruffed grouse, was often called a pheasant a century ago. Game men of the conservation department believe the reference was to some other grouse, such as the prairie chicken, found in Wayne county a hundred years ago.

The pheasant of today, the Chinese ringneck, which now supplies more than 90,000 cock birds a year for small game hunters, was not introduced in quantities before 1918 by the state conservation department. Earliest known private plantings of ringnecks in Michigan were made in 1892.

made a bigger fuss about it in my judgment further proof of their eagerness to keep us out of the war if they possibly can.

Supposing, however, that the American people should decide to enter the war, are there not certain questions which should be asked answered and settled before we take a step which can not be less disastrous than was our last venture in Europe? Some of these questions are the following: Will or will not the entry of the United States again prolong the war as our coming in did in 1917 and make impossible the achievement of a decently negotiated peace? What assurance can the Allies give and will they give that the next peace will not be as bad or worse than the Treaty of Versailles? What unpaid and desperate garrisons became "Red Guards," supported by Russian refugees and native Reds. The country, as many times before in its history, was ransacked.

Mannerheim started on a small scale to organize a White Guard army in the north of Finland. Working his way south, his strength gradually grew, and with the aid of a full German division under Van de Goltz, finally defeated the Red forces at Viborg, April 28-29, 1918. White terror then followed Red terror. Thirty thousand lives were lost from a population of 3,500,000.

On these ruins, the independent democratic Finland was then built. In 1919, Mannerheim organized the "Skydskorp" of 100,000 men to keep order while the republic was organized. The following year all controversies with Russia were supposed to have been settled by the Treaty of Dorpat. But friction never really ceased.

RECALLED TO DUTY TO HEAD DEFENSE
Mannerheim in the first days of the new government acted as regent, for there was some talk of a monarchy. But when the first election of a president was held, and Prof. Karlo Stahlberg was chosen, Mannerheim stepped aside, resigned as regent.

For a time the aging military hero retired to his manor house at Villinas in the lake country, where he enjoyed hunting and country life. But when in 1931 the international situation again became critical, he was recalled to head a council of national defense. He has been the No. 1 military man of his country ever since, in active charge of defense measures, where despite his age he has constantly inspected in person all the defense works, especially along the Karelian peninsula.

Mannerheim, Liberator of Finns, Is Back At Front Fighting Reds

By NEA Service

When Russian leaders insisted that Finland either get rid of Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Emil Mannerheim or suffer invasion, they knew what they were about.

Mannerheim has spent the past 20 years of his life fighting Bolshevism. Almost single-handed, he kept Finland from falling into the hands of the Reds in 1918, and he has been a political bulwark against Communism ever since.

Mannerheim, more than 70, an old-time Swedish-Finnish aristocrat, now is out on the front again, leading the Finns' defense organization. He can still spend hours in the saddle or on his feet, personally inspecting troops or defense lines. A large proportion of the people of Finland look on him as their George Washington, the man to whom it owes its independent existence.

"EVERYTHING HATEFUL" TO RUSSIANS

But to the Red minority in Finland, and to all Russian Reds, he is anathema, standing for everything hateful to them.

When the Russian Czars ruled Finland, the Mannerheim family was highly-placed at the Russian court. The young baron was brought up in the smartest Russian military schools, and attended Czar Nicholas II at his coronation. He fought in the Russo-Japanese war, leading cavalry raids against the Japanese near Mukden. By the time the World War came, he was a cavalry general, and commanded Russian troops in Galicia and Bessarabia. But when the Russian revolution came, he left the Russian service and returned to Finland.

REDS RANSACK FINNISH COUNTRYSIDE

There, with the approval of the Russian provisional government, an effort was made to organize an independent democratic state. But as the Bolsheviks seized power in Russia, disorder swept across Finland.

Unpaid and desperate garrisons became "Red Guards," supported by Russian refugees and native Reds. The country, as many times before in its history, was ransacked.

Mannerheim started on a small scale to organize a White Guard army in the north of Finland. Working his way south, his strength gradually grew, and with the aid of a full German division under Van de Goltz, finally defeated the Red forces at Viborg, April 28-29, 1918. Conscripts Called By England; Men Of 20 to 23 Affected

London, Dec. 1 (P)—A new class of conscripts which may be ordered to active military service early in the new year was called today to register Dec. 9 by proclamation of King George VI.

The third conscription proclamation of the year, it applies to men aged 20 to 23. It affects about 250,000 men, extending the liability for military service to men of 22 years and also to those who have reached the age of 20 since Oct. 1.

Some 240,000 men aged 20 were called up June 3; the second conscription proclamation, on Oct. 1, applied to 21-year-olds and those who had become 20 between June 3 and Oct. 1.

Mine Tolls Continue

British naval authorities said few of the new-type German mines now were being sown and they asserted the problem was being solved.

Another British steamer, the 4,558-ton Dairyman, struck a mine today and sank off the southeast coast of England. Her crew was rescued.

The sinking of the 4,260-ton Finnish steamer Mercator by a mine off the Scottish coast also was disclosed with the landing of survivors. One member of the crew was missing.

The Danish schooner Grethe, 264 tons, sank off the mouth of the Thames. She was believed to have struck a submerged wreck.

The call for more conscripts was said by the British to be due to two factors: 1. The unexpected progress in training earlier classes. 2. The changing of age limits of reserved occupations so more men were retained for industrial work than had been expected.

A high British military source asserted Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland was "setting the stage" for Russian-German differences over domination of the Baltic. Any Finnish concessions to Russia, he said, would give the latter the whip-hand in an area the Germans long have relied upon for important supplies.

Older Girls' Conference Held Here Saturday Proves Highly Successful

Approximately 450 girls from high schools in Delta, Schoolcraft and Menominee counties attended the Older Girls' conference held here yesterday.

Represented were schools from Gladstone, Escanaba, St. Joseph's (Escanaba), Perkins, Rapid River, Nahma, Manistique, Powers, Spalding, Stephenson, Menominee, Garden, Hermansville, Cooks, Daggert, Inwood and Rock.

Highly informative was the talk on Personality delivered at the general session in the morning at the Rialto theatre by Mrs. Bertha Ashby Hess, director of health and social hygiene at the University of Oklahoma and a nationally known speaker on social hygiene.

Girls attending the conference were welcomed by Alice Quinn, president of the Gladstone high school senior girls' league and music by a double octette from Escanaba followed. Then came Mrs. Hess' address and a selection by the GHS girls' chorus brought the session to a close.

Because of the large number attending luncheons were held both at the Methodist and All Saints' churches.

Ruth Danielson, secretary of the junior class at Gladstone high school presided at the luncheon at the Methodist church. The double octette presented a selection and Mrs. Gordon Hughes of Manistique was the guest speaker. A vocal solo by Charlotte Nelson accompanied by Jean Miller followed.

Mrs. H. Holderman was guest speaker at the luncheon at All Saints' church. Alice Dehlin presided and the girls' chorus of Gladstone high presented a number and Helen Jean Langhill accompanied by Irene Seidt was heard in a vocal solo.

At the luncheons girls received miniature skis with "Older Girls' Conference" printed thereon while teachers received corsages of lacquered pine cones. Programs were of vogue with a picture of a skier as a frontpiece. The skis were made by the manual training department and the programs were got out by the commercial department of Gladstone high.

Discussion groups were held at the junior high school from 2 to 3:30 in the afternoon. Leaders were as follows: Hobbies, Roselien Bergman, Escanaba; Clubs for Girls, Eleanor Sharpsteen, Escanaba; Conduct, Betty LaBumbar of Gladstone with Miss Noppenberg as advisor; Popularity, Marjorie Ward and Patricia Nelson.

Darling is related to the Ed Millers and Forrest Millers of this city and is known to many persons in Gladstone having visited here summers for many years.

RILEY POLICIES WIN APPROVAL

New Purchasing Methods for State Stop Complaints

Policies adopted by Robert J. Riley, Gladstone, director of purchasing for the State of Michigan, are winning approval. It is indicated by a story appearing recently in the Detroit News, written by Donald W. Pollard of the Lansing bureau of the News.

The story follows:

"Lansing, Mich., Nov. 20—Robert J. Riley, director of purchasing, has eliminated 'daylight' buying methods from the State Government but no Lansing official feels like criticizing him.

"Riley was appointed by the Purchasing Committee of last summer after a long period of rumors of laxity in the department. He had been secretary of an Upper Peninsula Republican committee and had 20 years of experience as buyer for Michigan lumber companies.

"With the advice and co-operation of a committee of purchasing agents for private companies, Riley has reorganized many supposedly axiomatic principles of public purchasing.

"No longer does the department make a pretense of being bound to accept the lowest bid on any commodity.

"By paying one cent less a pound on meat you may get meat that isn't worth anything, Riley explains. We take what we think is the best value offered, considering everything.

"Formerly the department posted on a bulletin board notices of commodities it was preparing to buy. It published a bulletin listing major purchases of the preceding week, giving prices and successful bidders.

"NO MORE BULLETINS

"The theory of this 'daylight' system was that every merchant should have an opportunity to participate in State business and to know who got the business.

"Riley never has issued the list of successful bidders, and he has discontinued the bulletin board.

"I took out the board as an experiment, expecting many complaints, but there have been none, he said. The board was of no benefit to anyone but a few curbstone operators and chiselers. They would come in at the last minute, read the board, dash off a bid and, if they were low, try to get someone to fill it, probably with inferior goods.

"Now they don't bid until they have filled out a form stating whom they represent, giving bank references, territory they were able to serve, and so on. Only manufacturers and dealers with an established business and reputation may bid.

"CHISELERS OUT

"The nerve of some of the curbstone operators was amazing. They would walk into the buyers' offices, hang up their coats and stick around all day. They would even answer the phones and look at mail on the desks if they got a chance. I have rearranged the office so they can't get in except on legitimate business. Anyone with a good reason can inspect our records at any time.

Aud.-Gen. Vernon J. Brown, chairman of the committee and formerly the foremost critic of State buying methods, expressed himself as considerably encouraged by Riley's work.

"As a matter of policy I can see many objections to the system Riley and the private purchasers are setting up, Brown said. When they confine the business largely to a few companies it savors of a closed corporation. If a purchasing director who wasn't strictly honest should step into such a set-up he could really go to town.

"NO COMPLAINTS

"But no one has questioned Riley's honesty. So far as I can see the companies doing most of the business are the ones best qualified to furnish the goods. I used to get scores of complaints every month from dealers and from our own departments. I now get virtually none. Everything is left

"Coast to Coast" Greatly Enjoyed By Large Audience

"Coast to Coast," the three-act home talent play presented Friday evening under the auspices of the Child's Welfare club, proved highly entertaining and successful.

The play was directed and coached by Miss Helen Shimeall of the Redpath circuit and was witnessed by an audience which packed the high school gymnasium.

Every member of the cast which included Dolly LeClaire, Ted Fisher, W. S. Skellenger, Dale Minnick, Eileen Richards, Ruth Warner, Mrs. C. A. LaFave, Dean Snye, Wallace Cameron, Al Bouchard, Ed Zervic and Pat McCauley gave a good account of themselves in the busy number.

The song and dance numbers played by Mrs. LaFave and Dale Minnick about stopped the show. Of the specialty numbers the waiting exhibition by Dolly LeClaire, Eileen Richards, Dean Snye and Ted Fisher, to the music of Wallace Cameron, Al Bouchard and Mrs. Paul Syverson, was especially effective as were the Animal Crackers hand tap and song by the third and fourth graders, Piggies by the first and second graders, the Boy and Girl Friend number, and a Swiss dance by Willie Lundmark.

The third act, a take-off on a famed amateur hour, was also pleasing. Directed by W. S. Skellenger as Major Rowan, numbers were presented by Lois Peterson, Marjorie Ann LaFave, Paul Cowen, Patsy Bolger, and Paddy Sullivan.

Three Middie Backs Beat Army, 10 and 0

BY BILL BONI
Municipal Stadium, Philadelphia, Dec. 7 (AP)—Navy used three middie backs in its 40th football game with Army today. But three of them were today to bring the Middies their 15th victory by a score of 10-0 and to send the Municipal Stadium's goal posts tumbling down before an onrush of 2,300 midshipmen.

Before a crowd of 104,000—an annual number since the service schools moved their series into this tremendous arena—200-pound Cliff Lenz drove through and around an outcharged Army line to put the Sailors in position for a first period field goal.

Then Bob Leonard kicked that field goal from the 25-yard stripe, and the same Bob Leonard booted the extra point after Dick Shaffer had scored a last quarter touchdown.

Defense Impassable
These three claimed the lion's share of the offensive spots. But they had to share credit for the afternoon's fine work with four of their mates—Ulmont Whitehead, Ed Gillette, Wes Gebert and Lou Mayo—who transformed Navy's supposedly weak pass defense into an impassable barrier.

They gave Navy almost as much yardage on runbacks of intercepted aerials as Army got all day with its ground attack.

This was the only day and the one game that could save a sad season for Navy, and the Middies made the most of it. With Lenz packing the pigskin on ten out of 14 plays, they drove 50 yards in the first quarter from their own 33 to Army's 17. There Lenz, GROKED from the pounding he'd taken from Army tacklers, stumbled to the bench and Leonard came in for him.

The "sophomore" from Gainesville, Texas, stayed in for just one play. He went back to the 25-yard line and, with Whitehead holding the ball, kicked it square between the uprights 35 yards away even though he was aiming from a considerable angle.

Came the third period and Navy started rolling again. Lenz, making one of the Middies' five interceptions, ran the ball back 18 yards to Army's 47. Following a punt exchange and the Middies, taking the ball on their 47 again, scored in eight plays. The last 21 for the touchdown came on the first play of the final quarter as Shaffer broke through a hole at his own right tackle, cut to the right and crossed the goal line just inside the corner flag.

Little To Choose
Leonard came in again, made good the extra point kick, and stayed in for another play before returning to the side lines.

Army had been a favorite before the kickoff. Still, on their record against major opponents—two ties and three losses for Army, one tie and five defeats for Navy—there wasn't much to choose.

But on the fog-shrouded stadium gridiron, there wasn't any question as to which was the superior football team. Swede Larson, the marine major who ended his first year as Navy coach with the game, brought his gang up to a fighting pitch and able to capitalize at long last on its ample backfield material.

Navy made eight first downs to the Soldiers' six, but five of Army's came in the last half. They were part of three Cadet advances, two of which ended in pass interceptions by the alert Middle secondary, and the other in a fumble on an attempted Army pass after the Cadets had put on their best drive, from their 25 to Navy's 19 late in the final period.

Herb Frawley, a third string halfback from Fort Myer, Va., was in at Johnny Hatch's tall back spot. He threw two passes that covered a total gain of 48 yards and took Army to front down on Navy's 30. Art Frontczak, veteran West Point fullback from Dowagiac, Mich., hit into the middle line twice and it was first down on the 19.

"Two minutes to go," thought the Army rooters, "and ample time for a touchdown that'll at least put us in the ball game." They were roaring their lungs out, but the tumult of sound died down to a whisper all in a moment.

Pass Smothered
Frawley faded back to pass. From all sides, it seemed, Navy men poured in on him. As he disappeared from sight behind a jumble of muddy golden jerseys, the ball was knocked out of his right hand, all cocked for the pitch that never came. The ball went bounding back past the 30, then the 35, and Bill Montgomery, Navy end from Glendale, Calif., finally dropped on it on the 36.

That was Army's snafu, but just to drive home the licking, Mayo on the last play of the game, pulled another Frawley pass out of the air and ran it back 25 yards to the Army 20.

In the Army line, the outstanding figure was Center Bill Gillis of Cameron Texas, who played sixty minutes of heads-up, fighting football. But Army didn't have the offensive guns to back him up, and Navy came out the winner for the first time since 1936. Army still leads in the series though, 22 to 15. Three games were ties.

WAR DOG WINS FALL HANDICAP

Brown Colt Leads All the Way In Mud At Bowie, Md.

BY MASON BRUNSON
Bowie, Md., Dec. 7 (AP)—A mud-loving brown colt named War Dog won the $5,000-added Thomas K. Lynch Memorial handicap today with a sparkling performance that marked the closing of the fall racing season in Maryland.

Leading all the way and never challenged by any horse in the field of nine, War Dog romped to a six-length victory in 1:47 2-5, the fastest time recorded in the five runnings of the mile and a half stakes.

W. L. Brann's Chalphen, made the favorite by the rain-soaked crowd of 12,000, was second, half a length ahead of Belair Stud's Wise Lady, with H. Friedberg's Bala Ormont, two lengths back in fourth. Mrs. E. G. Lewis' Great Union, second favorite in the betting, finished eighth.

The victory was worth $4,500 to H. F. Guggenheim's Palaise stable and War Dog returned $21.90, $7.70 and $5.20 for $2. Chalphen returned $4.20 and $2.90 and Wise Lady, $4.50.

Tall Tree stable's Bill Farnsworth, ridden by Don Meade, got up in the last strides in a photo finish and won the $2,000-added Hardcastle handicap, six furlong secondary feature. Bill Farnsworth covered the distance in the good time of 1:13 3-5 and paid $8.40, $3.50 and $2.50 for $2.

STRIKEOUT KING REJOINS INDIANS

Sports Writers Estimate Bob Feller Will Get 23,000 in 1940

Cleveland, Dec. 2 (AP)—Bob Feller, 21-year-old strikeout king of the major leagues, tonight signed a contract for the 1940 season with the Cleveland Indians. The terms of the contract were not revealed, but the Indians' vice president, C. C. Slapnicka, said he "could not deny" that Feller would be paid the largest salary ever given a Cleveland pitcher.

The contract-signing followed a one-hour conference between the young hurler, Club President Alva Bradley and Slapnicka, after Feller came here ostensibly for the sole purpose of attending a high school father and son banquet.

Cleveland sports writers estimated Feller, who led American league pitchers with 24 victories last season, would receive $23,000 in 1940, about $3,000 more than he was paid last year under a contract providing a bonus. Slapnicka refused to say whether the new contract contained a bonus clause.

Reluctant to discuss his prospects for 1940, Feller advised against "going for any of that 30-game talk." "To win 30 games a fellow could hardly ever lose a ball game," he said. "All I can say about next season is that I'll be in there trying."

NORDBERG GIVES OUT 28 AWARDS

18 Seniors On Squad But Prospects Good for Next Season

Saginaw, Dec. 2—Saginaw high school's football team returned to the custom of electing an active captain in doubly convincing style Thursday when the 28 letter men named earlier in the day by Coach Carl A. Nordberg chose Jack Goodsell, center, and Dave McIntyre, fullback, co-captains for 1940. Saginaw has not had a playing captain for several years, principally because Chet Stackhouse, the former coach, did not like the idea. Nordberg, however, favors it and encouraged his boys to name a captain. They doubled his idea in deadlocking on Goodsell and McIntyre and thus electing co-captains.

Bob Thompson, senior fullback who scored both Saginaw touchdowns to beat Arthur Hill on Thanksgiving Day, was elected honorary captain for the 1939 season, an honor all the boys believed he richly deserved.

Ten Letter Winners Back

Nordberg, who wishes the football season were starting now rather than being ended, will start out next fall with ten letter men available. Besides Goodsell and McIntyre, the co-captains, who were regular starters, during 1939, Saginaw letter winners returning for action next fall will be Neal Dillon, halfback, Ed Engle, tackle, Bud Pohlmann, guard, and John Scott, end, all regular starters; Tom Baskins, an end; Charles Campbell, a guard; Tony Pabalis and Jack Spencer, halfbacks, who saw considerable service as replacements. Tony Pabalis, a sophomore, has two more seasons to play, while the other nine are juniors, with one more year to go.

Most seriously missed among the 18 seniors to get letters will be Thompson, the hard-running halfback; Joe Oeming, a smash-in tackle, and Andy Lutenski, dependable end. These three started every game for Saginaw when they were physically able the past fall, as did Ed Clazinski, a guard; Bernard Pabalis, quarterback and Henry Pawlick, a guard. Other senior letter winners are Don Brown, Fred Cady, Thomas Claggett, Jack Clark, Leroy Jackson, John McCarty, Frank Plear Jr., Jim Reynolds, Bill Stark, Ray Whalin, Eugene Woodward, and Don Rosberry.

Outlook for 1940 Better

On the whole, it was a disastrous season for Saginaw, with seven defeats and only two victories. However with little experience; they were outmanned in nearly every game, but they gave a good, fighting account of themselves in every game; they broke into a new system under a new coach; and they face 1940 with much more promising prospects. And they beat Arthur Hill on Thanksgiving Day to take much of the sting out of earlier disappointments.

The Trojan team was bolstered by a second team, most of whose members will be back next year, which had a very successful season.

Olympics Of 1940 May Be Cancelled

Brussels, Dec. 2 (AP)—Count Baillet Lathour, president of the international Olympic committee, today said that if Helsinki is unable to hold the 1940 Olympic games they will be cancelled.

The committee rejected an American offer to take the 1940 games since it was deemed impossible for European athletes to go to the United States. There had been some talk of transferring the games to Detroit in event Helsinki gave them up.

HOCKEY LEAGUE TO BE FORMED

Meeting of Managers To Be Held in Escanaba This Afternoon

The Escanaba Hawks will be hosts to managers and representatives of eight hockey teams of Northern Wisconsin and Michigan today at a meeting to form the first amateur hockey league in this region.

The teams to be represented will be Marinette, Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Stambaugh, Gladstone, Niagara and Escanaba.

Last year, the Hawks, after starting late in the season, played 12 games, ending in second place in the tournament, after losing to Marquette, 3-1, in a hectic battle.

This year, the locals are making plans for a fall season and will begin training as soon as negotiations are completed for the use of the indoor rink at the fairgrounds. There has been some delay in negotiations but it is expected they will be completed soon.

The Hawks are planning on issuing a call for all persons interested in trying out for the team, regardless of whether or not they played in past seasons. The team will be fully equipped with new green and gold uniforms.

Bob Pastor Signed For Omaha Battle

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Jimmy Johnston, manager of heavyweight Bob Pastor, announced tonight his fighter has signed to meet Paul Hartnek of Minneapolis in a ten round bout in Omaha January 26.

Pastor is in training now to take on Buddy Scott in Dallas Dec. 15, in his first fight since his 11-round knockout by Joe Louis in Detroit in September.

The Hartnek fight, Johnston said, will be one of three Pastor will have in January. He plans appearances in Buffalo, N. Y., and Kansas City as well as Omaha.

It is estimated that throughout the nation during the month of October, 214,000 new passenger cars were registered, thus making the best October in eight years.

TROJANS HAVE A CLOSE CALL

Huskies Halfback Nearly Boots Them Out of Rose Bowl Race

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Southern California's mighty Trojans had the closest call of a remarkable football season today as Dean McAdams, Washington halfback, nearly booted them off the undefeated list and out of the Rose Bowl.

The Trojans finally passed their way to a 9-7 victory over the Huskies in the last two minutes of a thrilling game and thus remained at the head of the Pacific Coast conference rankings.

That game was the climax of football's final big day of the 1939 season, a day which saw Duquesne dropped from the ranks of the undefeated and untied teams when it was held to a 10-10 deadlock by Detroit, and Navy, Stanford, Boston College, Tulane and George Tech emerge triumphant in some of the other important games.

Trailing thru three periods as McAdams' fine kicking held them at bay after first period pass from McAdams to Ernie Steels had produced a Washington touchdown, the Trojans struck through the air in the final quarter. Doyle Nave started running and passing from his own 14 and Southern California picked up two important points when Steels intercepted a pass and downed the ball behind the husky goal for a safety.

Tulane Downs Indiana
Its power throttled again, U. S. C. finally won out with only a minute and three quarters to go when Greenville Lansdell, forced out by injuries in the third quarter, made a dramatic re-entry and passed over the goal line to John Stonebaker for the winning touchdown.

Tulane won a part interest in the Southeastern conference title and virtually clinched a bid to the Sugar Bowl by downing Louisiana State 31-20 in a game that matched the Southern California-Washington battle for thrills and Georgia Tech earned an invitation to Miami's Orange Bowl by beating Georgia 13-0. The Engineers accepted without hesitation. Both Tulane and Georgia Tech are unbeaten in their contest, but their previous performances had been somewhat overshadowed by Tennessee.

RULES REVISED IN BASKETBALL

Three New Ones Added to Book By Coaches At Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 2 (AP)—Three new basketball rules were written into the book and two others, put in effect last year, were retained today by the Michigan High School Athletic association.

Coaches and officials, meeting here for the annual rules interpretation meeting, unanimously agreed to re-adoption of the 10-second rule and the point system in determining the winner of the overtime tie games.

New rules approved by coaches were:

1. That the referee shall examine and sign the official score book at the end of the first half and at the end of the game.
  2. That the distance of backboards from the end of the court may be between two and four feet for regular season's games. In state association tournaments, however, the two foot distance is to be official.
  3. That a request to waive a free throw and take the ball out of bounds must be made prior to the placing of the ball by the official in the hands of the player at the free throw line who is entitled to the throw.
- This rule, coaches said, would tend to discourage deliberate fouls in attempts to gain possession of the ball.
- Charles E. Forsythe, state director of high school athletics, said the new rules would be explained to coaches and officials at regional meetings to be held at Standish Dec. 4; Ewart, Dec. 5; Iron Mountain Dec. 11; Ironwood Dec. 12; Houghton Dec. 13; Marquette Dec. 14 and Petoskey Dec. 16.
- Approximately 300 coaches attended today's meeting.

Lions Only Obstacle In Packers' Path To Title

CRUCIAL GAME IS AT DETROIT

Green Bay Must Win Or Tie to Clinch Clear Claim to Crown

Detroit, Dec. 2. (AP)—The Detroit Lions opened 1939 football warfare in Michigan in early September and they also have the honor of closing the campaign. Out of the championship race in the National professional league and faced with the prospect of finishing the campaign with the poorest record of any Lion eleven in history, the Detroiters meet the Green Bay Packers at Briggs stadium Sunday.

Green Bay must win or gain a tie in order to avert a deadlock with the Chicago Bears for the Western division championship. The Packers have won eight games and lost two while the Bears have already finished their season with eight wins and three setbacks.

Detroit's record is six wins and four losses, and three of the setbacks have come in succession at the hands of the Bears, Cleveland and Washington.

Giants Play Redskins While the Lions and the Packers are meeting in the crucial contest at Detroit, the Redskins and Giants will be playing at New York with the Eastern division championship going to the victor. Lion officials predicted today that 45,000 would witness Sunday's battle if good weather prevails. The Lions lost to the Packers 17 to 0 at Green Bay earlier in the year.

The Lions enter their final contest in poor physical condition. Bill Feldhaus, veteran guard, is out with a serious leg injury. Bill Shepherd, star fullback, has a knee injury and John Pingel, quarterback, a cut on the right hand. Pingel is slated to start the game, however.

So far this season the Packers have relied mainly on their famous passing combination of Cecil Isbell to Don Hutson.

The kickoff Sunday is scheduled for 2 p. m. (EST).

SUED FOR $2,000

Detroit, Dec. 2. (AP)—Norman Purucker, former halfback at University of Michigan, filed suit for $2,000 today against the Green Bay Packers of the National professional football league charging breach of contract.

Purucker contended in a circuit court action that he signed in 1939 with the Packers for $175 a game and was to remain with the club regardless of injuries. He was injured in a pre-season game between the Packers and the Texas All Stars and shortly thereafter was released, he contended.

It was indicated that service would be obtained on the Green Bay management while the club is here for Sunday's game at Briggs stadium with the Detroit Lions.

They pulled in the front steps and batted down the hatches at the Highland Golf club this week, officially signalling the end of the 1939 golf season, one of the most successful in the history of the club.

Emil Dittreich, caretaker, put away his key to the front door Friday. But before doing so, he had seen to it that green number eight was all ready for planting and that the grass was growing well on number eight. The club is in the midst of a campaign to provide all grass greens and several have been constructed this year.

At a meeting of the directors of the club held Monday night, President Merton Jensen announced the following committees for the 1940 season:

DUQUESNE TIES TITANS, 10-10

Rokisky's Rubber Toe Helps Dukes Retain Unbeaten Record

Pittsburgh, Dec. 2. (AP)—The unerring aim of John Rokisky, 190-pound sophomore from Clarkburg, W. Va., and his detachable rubber toe today preserved Duquesne university's unbeaten record as the Dukes deadlocked Detroit's Titans 10-10 to climax their most successful football season.

With Duquesne's hopes for a bowl bid resting on the boot, Rokisky snapped on the attachment and sent the ball soaring from the soupy field in the fourth period for the tying point. The placement brought Rokisky's record for the season to only one failure in 13 attempts.

The slow-starting Dukes, untied before today in a nine-game schedule, came from behind, as usual. As in the Pitt and Marquette games—when they spotted their favored adversaries 13 points each—the Duquesne players saw the Titans gain an early advantage.

A Duquesne fumble in the first period by Phil Ahwesh started Detroit rolling. Pavelec recovered on the Detroit 41 and the Titans marched to a touchdown. Ghesquiere going over from the three. Hayes converted from placement and only a few minutes later booted a field goal from the Duquesne 20.

Rain Halts Scoring. That ended the Detroit scoring, but the Duquesne offense bogged down as heavy rain fell and it became so dark for a time that the players were indistinguishable from the stands.

Rokisky first snapped on his detachable kicking toe in the second period after Duquesne had marched from its own five to the Detroit 13, where the Titans stiffened. The sophomore dropped back to the 20 and recorded Duquesne's first three points from placement.

As the third period went scoreless, the outlook for Duquesne seemed as dark as the sky, but in the final period George Gonda, a sophomore halfback, suddenly broke loose on an off-tackle play and dashed 54 yards for a touchdown. It was then that Rokisky snapped on his toe for the last time and tied the score.

The attachment cost the Dukes $3.50. A crowd of 23,991 saw the game.

Farm System Storm Breaks At Cincinnati

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Cincinnati, Dec. 2. (AP)—Barely recovered from its world series siege, this town was subjected to another baseball storm today as delegates to the annual major and minor league meetings flocked from far and near bursting with argument about farm systems.

For the first time in several years there was reason to believe that actions on the convention floor might transcend the session's interesting side show of player trading.

When they all get here, the baseball assemblage is expected to amount to nearly 1,500 men associated with the game in varying capacities. The sessions, which include separate meetings of the National association of professional leagues (the minors) and the National and American leagues (the majors) were brought to Cincinnati as a final gesture in celebration of baseball's centennial because this was the home of the first professional team.

It is the first time that the majors and minors have met in the same city since 1923 when the representatives of the little leagues felt they were slighted by the "big timers." The majors, in turn, never meet anywhere except in New York and Chicago.

Thus the fact that they will be meeting under the same, neutral roof is only a coincidence with

FOOTBALL RALLY DETAILS GIVEN

County's Four Elevens To Be Guests of Lions Club

Details of the Lions club football rally, which will be held here Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week and at which Escanaba, St. Joseph, Gladstone and Rock high school football squads will be entertained, were worked out by a committee yesterday.

The Lions are entertaining members of the four teams, their coaches and cheer leaders at two parties. Escanaba and Rock teams, both of which went through the season undefeated, will be guests on Wednesday night and Gladstone and St. Joseph teams on Thursday evening. Escanaba and Gladstone high school bands will furnish music on the nights in which their teams are entertained.

Motion pictures of some of the most important college football games in the country will be shown, including the Michigan-Ohio State, Michigan-Michigan State, and other games. Following this, the Green Bay Packer film, "Gridiron Champions," will be shown.

After the pictures have been shown, coaches and captains of the teams will be introduced and the captains will be presented by Lions' President James Frenn with white footballs autographed by members of the Packers team for trophy cases.

During the program, school songs and cheers will be given and band music will be furnished before the pictures are shown. The footballs to be presented to the captains are on display in a Ludington street business establishment.

their consideration of the most controversial subject that has concerned their mutual relations in recent years.

Clubs Rebuked
 The crux of the argument is whether it is a good thing for baseball to have common ownership of clubs. Arrayed on one side are the few surviving independent clubs and Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, and on the other the big farm systems and the leagues that were saved during the depression by aid from major league teams.

As it now stands farm systems are in an extra-legal field neither provided for nor outlawed by the baseball rules and governed almost solely by the interpretations of Landis and William G. Bramham, president of the National association.

Time and again, Landis has rebuked clubs for their farm relations and this fall has refused to approve any working agreements between major and minor league teams whatsoever, pending a showdown on the problem at the meetings here.

Since a lot of jobs and a lot of people's favorite sport depend on a solution, it is no wonder that this topic not only is the principal matter before the convention, but before the shifting huddles in the hotel lobbies.

The minor league body, which opens its meeting Monday to be followed by the majors Thursday, will consider 53 proposed amendments to the code. Several changes would specify the rights of clubs to engage in working agreements with each other.

One would allow a major league club actually to sign players for a minor league farm instead of merely "recommending" as at present. Another would expressly require that each club be considered a separate unit in player relations, no matter if it were owned or was working with a club of different classification.

Big Deals Rumored
 This was brought about by the commissioner's interpretation that a rule against reacquisition of a player by a club which had let him go also applied to all other clubs in the same farm system.

The Cincinnati Reds touched off the first story of the convention by announcing the signing of third baseman Bill Werber. They expected to complete contracts with other players who came to observe the magnates in action at close range.

Having put off the matter as long as possible, President Larry MacPhail and Manager Leo DuRoche of the Brooklyn Dodgers also were to get together to arrange a new contract.

What deals might develop for players was wide open conjecture. Cincinnati and Brooklyn were seeking outfield strength, Pittsburgh a catcher and pitchers, the St. Louis Cardinals an outfielder and there appeared a chance the National league would again steal the swap show, although Clark Griffith of Washington and some other junior circuit traders had proposals to make.

RAM DYNAMITE BLASTS N.Y.U.

Second Half Push Gives Fordham 18-7 Victory Over Violets

BY SID FEDER
 New York, Dec. 2. (AP)—There was an explosion in the second half of the annual football "battle of the Bronx" at Yankee stadium today before 57,000.

It was Fordham's power coming to life. And when the pieces were all put together again in the rain and the fog, there was Fordham with an 18 to 7 victory over New York university in the 60th anniversary clash of these neighborhood gridgers.

For two periods, it appeared Dr. Mal Stevens, N. Y. U.'s professor of gridiron magic, might pull another rabbit out of the hat against the 1 to 3 favorites from Rose Hill, as the Violets took an early lead. But when that Ram dynamite went off in the faces of himself and his gallant lads, the rabbits stayed right where they were.

Statistically, there wasn't much to choose between the two, but almost from the start, it was apparent that sooner or later the Rams were going to "burst loose." N.Y.U. chalked up 10 first downs to six and passed for 71 yards to 21, but Fordham rushed the ball 208 yards to 122.

Rooters Get Scarce
 The Violets threw a terrific scare into the Ram rooters early in the second quarter, when they drove 57 yards for their touchdown. They had received a punt on their own 43. Then Boell pitched to Art Schilling, who ran through the mud to the Ram 29. Three plays later, Boell pitched again, toward the far corner of the field. In the muck, a Fordham man leaped and batted the ball into the air. It landed in Ivy Mond's arms and there was your touchdown. Bill Galu kicked the point and N.Y.U. led 7-0.

Fordham let that stand until the second half, but within six minutes after the intermission, they had two touchdowns. The first one came at the end of a 55-yard march, with Principle cutting through inside left end and galloping the last 38 yards for the tally.

The second topped off a 55-yard parade. This time, Sophomore Jim Blumenstock spun through the middle, and went straight down for the last 49 yards, sliding across on his tummy as a tackler hit him.

An intercepted pass, which Jim Haggerty returned to the Violet 33 set up the final Ram counter midway of the fourth period. Pete Holovak and Len Eshmont, who put on fine punting, duel with Boell early in the game, piked up 27 yards. Then Principle went over on a cross buck. All three of the Ram conversions attempts failed.

Airplanes are now being used on western farms and ranches to sow crops, round up cattle and hunt down coyotes.

IS YOUR RADIATOR FLUSHED PROPERLY?

Groos & Co. offers the latest method to properly clean the cooling system of your car, truck or tractor. Using the MARQUETTE FLUSHER the customer is assured the best possible results attainable in the treatment of the cooling system of his cars, truck or tractors.

Car manufacturers recommend cleaning radiators every six months!

WHY?

Because every time you grease the water pump bearing of your car, a certain amount of grease and oil enters the cooling circuit of your car. This grease in turn dissolves in the hot water of the motor and is pumped around through the entire cooling system of your car, tractor or truck.

When the radiator core is coated inside from grease and scale deposited from impurities in the water, it begins to lose its ability to dissipate the heat and begins to bail out the dollars worth of alcohol and prestone.

You can prevent this from happening to your car this winter by having your car flushed out at our shop with the new scientific MARQUETTE FLUSHER, before you winterize the cooling system of your cars or trucks.

Ben Runs Out Of Gas; Things Happen Fast

Two Auto Accidents and Three In Jail Mark Day In Nahma

One thing just seemed to lead to another at Nahma yesterday and when sheriff's deputies finally found time to sit down and tell about it there were three new inmates in the county jail and several persons were nursing cuts and bruises sustained in two automobile accidents.

The whole thing started, it seems, simply Ben Beaver of Nahma ran out of gasoline, about three miles west of Nahma on the Airport road, between Sand Point and Nahma. Ben left his car on the road, without lights, according to Deputy Harold Johnston, and went back to a road house for aid.

Roy Hartwick was willing to oblige and he and Ben set out for the stalled car. But when they were about a mile from the spot, Roy, reportedly traveling about 45 miles an hour, failed to negotiate a turn and demolished his car against a large stump at the roadside. Beaver was cut about the face, but Hartwick escaped uninjured, although deputies wondered why someone was not killed.

And while all this was going on, Mrs. Ed Paul of Nahma, with a car full of passengers, came along and smashed into the back end of the parked Beaver car.

No one was seriously hurt, but Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Alec Seymour were taken to Nahma hospital to be treated for cuts and bruises. Others in the car were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gill and Joe High.

BROADCAST FOR MISSING YOUTH

State Police Are Asked to Join Search for Ringstrand

State police broadcasts from East Lansing were begun yesterday in the search for Paul Ringstrand, 18 year old Escanaba youth, who has been missing from his home, 1029 Sheridan road, for nearly two weeks.

Escanaba police spent several days searching the waters near the No. 2 St. Paul ore dock, near where the boy's cap and bicycle were found, and for the last few days have kept a watch in that vicinity, without result.

Police still believed that the youth had drowned in the lake, but since about ten days is the usual time required for a body to come to the surface, they extended their search on the bare chance that he might have disappeared otherwise.

State police and other authorities had been notified previously, but the broadcast was not asked until yesterday, when a complete description was forwarded. The initials "P. R." are sewed into all the youth's clothing. He was wearing blue denim pants, tan shirt and black heavy jacket when he left home.

Anyone with information about the boy was asked to notify Escanaba police by telephone.

Wisconsin Stops Michigan Trucks In License Mixup

Madison, Wis., Dec. 1 (AP)—Col. George W. Rickman, head of the state motor vehicle division, disclosed tonight that field men of the department would take "retaliatory action" against Michigan truck drivers, beginning Monday.

Rickman said Wisconsin truckers complained they had been forced to pay a license fee for transporting their own produce into Michigan, and that operators of laundry, bakery and market trucks "are constantly held up and annoyed."

The situation is parallel to the recent Wisconsin license dispute with Minnesota, settled in a conference between licensing officials of the two states at La Crosse, Wis. There the officials agreed to reciprocate in allowing certain trucks, particularly those up to $,000 pounds, to operate intrastate providing they did not go beyond a city contiguous to the border.

Such a conference between Michigan and Wisconsin officials may be held December 14. Rickman blamed "over-zealous activity of some Michigan border traffic officers" for the trouble and maintained that a requested truce, pending a conference, had been refused by Michigan authorities.

"Patsy" Clark Quits As Brooklyn Coach
New York, Nov. 30. (AP)—George (Patsy) Clark announced today his resignation as head coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League.

His resignation, tendered to owner Dan Topping, takes effect immediately though his three-year contract does not expire until Jan. 1. Clark, who has been coaching in the National league for nine years, said he planned to remain in the coaching profession but did not reveal any definite plans.

Except for his three seasons with the Dodgers, Clark's teams always were in the thick of the championship race. His Portsmouth, Ohio, teams were runners-up for three seasons and with Detroit in 1934 he won ten straight to finish in the same spot. The following year he piloted Detroit to the league championship.

Before entering the National league, Patsy coached at Butler and Kansas university. In his college days he was a star quarterback on Bob Zuppke's great Illinois teams of 1914 and 1915.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLWITZ

The woman who looks on men as potential enemies to be outsmarted may be a successful gold-digger—but she hasn't a chance of being a happy woman.

Because the first thing a woman has to realize before she can find her place in a man's and woman's world is that men and women are fundamentally pretty much alike.

If she doesn't realize that, she will go around with a chip on her shoulder, becoming either a woman who uses men for what they are worth to her, or the kind of woman who turns up her nose at marriage and concentrates on a career.

But if she does realize it—she is probably an understanding sort of woman.

She'll bother to flatter men, not primarily because it gets her some place, but because it makes them feel so good. Just as she feels set up if a man says or implies that she is a good-looking woman.

SHE FOSTERS MEN'S PRIDE
She'll be considerate of men, because she knows that though she may never speak of it, she appreciates their consideration.

She'll never do anything to hurt their pride, because she knows theirs is as easily hurt as her own.

She won't be stand-offish in her relationship with men because she knows that men—as well as women—appreciate being noticed and taken into a group.

And one other thing. She won't say or kid herself into believing that old line "Men are just little boys."

She'll give them credit for understanding her as well as she thinks she understands them.

Weather For November Seldom Equalled Here

November set records as to lack of precipitation and snow fall that have been matched only in the annals of the weather bureau here and not at all except by going back several years.

It brought only 0.81 of an inch of precipitation, which is the lowest amount since November, 1930, when the month's total was 0.42 of an inch. There was a snow fall of only 0.8 of an inch compared with the normal fall of 6.4 inches and the month brought the longest dry spell on record since 1917.

The dry period, "with no precipitation whatever," according to Meteorologist W. T. Lathrop of the weather bureau, lasted 17 days and there were 18 consecutive days "with no measurable precipitation." "Measurable" precipitation, Mr. Lathrop said, is 0.01 of an inch or more.

The longest interval with no precipitation whatever (17 days) was from November 1 through 17, 1917. That year, however, had no "measurable amount" for 21 days—October 30 to November 19.

To refute wild stories of some of the old timers about the big snows of the old days, which might be prompted by this year's almost snowless November, Mr. Lathrop cited records to show that there was no snow in November of 1899, 1902 or 1908.

But in 1911 there was an 18.1 inch fall for the month and that is the November record.

Not So Warm
November, 1934, with a 5.66 inches precipitation record, was one of the wettest Novembers for a long time. The November average is 2.13 inches.

It was not exceptionally warm during the last November, although the dry, clear weather brought many a comment about the mild temperatures. The average for the month was 35.2 degrees while the average November temperature since 1871 is 33.1 degrees.

The lowest reading for this November was 22 degrees, registered on November 10 and 11 and the highest recording was 43 degrees on November 16.

The greatest day's rainfall, 0.73 of an inch, came on November 9, and there was measurable precipitation on six other days of the first of the month. Of the snowfall, 0.4 and 0.2 inches were registered on November 1 and 2, and another 0.2 of an inch was added on November 13.

The highest wind velocity of 38 miles an hour came on the ninth and there were eight clear days, eight partly cloudy and 14 cloudy.

Newest Fashions For Older Women Kind To Pounds

New 1940 clothes for women who are frankly fifty are designed to settle many worries of that "clothes problem age."

They are fashioned to cut down the effect of poundage and years and to add flattery and chic. They're the result of a definite drive in the fashion world to make smarter, more becoming clothes for older women and to give them a bigger play in shops. Many shops throughout the country are devoting special displays to them one day a month.

First attention has been given to the afternoon frock—great favorite of the woman who is frankly fifty—since it takes her to luncheons, bridge parties, club meetings and matinees.

Best frocks of the 1940 edition are designed of black, Delft blue, blackberry wine and dark green crepe. (Delft blue makes a cool background for too florid complexions, and blackberry wine flatters sallow skins.) There are also some brown and gray crepes, but these are fewer in number since the colors are harder to wear.

Vertical Lines
The smartest are designed to emphasize vertical lines, since these slenderize figures. Some dresses are pin-tucked throughout, others are accented with a band of vertical embroidery down the front and still others are finished with a narrow tucked inset of crepe in a lighter shade than the dress itself. Shoulders are broadened a little to minimize the width of hips, sleeves are widened at the armhole to accommodate upper-arm flesh and skirts are designed with soft fullness to camouflage broad hips. The old surplice cut and horizontal trims have been shunned like the plague.

Most of the new afternoon frocks are finished with some discreet use of glitter, which gives them a festive touch. Gold hooks running down the front, gold chataine clips and such novelties as a pin in the form of a big gold kangaroo chained to a little one do the trick.

New coats (nearly all of black wool) are cut on straight lines and finished with a small collar and front plastron of black Persian lamb or a big collar of silver fox.

For Evening

Best evening frocks for the woman over fifty are designed with sleeves. Some are long-sleeved dresses of black or of colored crepe studded with gold nail heads or worked with glittering embroidery. In others a jacket is worn over a décolleté evening dress. The model high is tops in chic combines a dress and jacket of black crepe embroidered in bands of shimmering gunmetal sequins lined with black marquette.

Gifts of Apparel Always Welcome

With the idea that her present to him this Christmas is going to make him feel pretty pampered and extremely popular with his family, she surveys a fine array of silk pajamas, ties, hand-made leather jewelry, dressing gowns, evening socks and other ever-welcome gifts of wearing apparel.

In line with the special attention which New York shops are giving to clothes for the woman over fifty whose figures have taken on weight, heads of departments have compiled a list of clothes cautions to keep them from costly mistakes. These are the things which they say emphasize avoidropis and should be shunned: Wide belts of contrasting color, embroidery at the waist, peplums, tight skirts, ruffles, tussy details and horizontal trims.

It is estimated that 87 per cent of the cars sold during 1938 sold at less than $750 wholesale.

Christmas Comes But Once a Year—Almost Any Time!

Merry Christmas is whatever you make it, whenever you make it. From December 5, when Saint Nicholas arrives for Dutch children, to the Aleutian Islanders' Christmas on January 7, someone is celebrating this festive day most of the time.

Holland chooses December 5 as the eve of the festival day which the church has set aside in Saint Nicholas' honor. In Hungary Santa Claus pays his first visit several weeks ahead of the Yuletide, leaving boxes of candy in preparation for his second visit.

Most of the unusual celebrations, however, come after December 25—indeed, fall after New Year's day. Remote Shetland Islanders north of Scotland celebrate January 5, still clinging to the old Julian calendar and refusing to accept that of Pope Gregory which most of the world has used for two centuries.

January 5 is also Christmas day in at least one part of the United States proper, isolated and windswept Rodanthe Island off North Carolina. The custom, apparently a holdover from "old Christmas"—the Twelfth Night, or Epiphany—the occasion finds all 300 residents hanging their stockings and awaiting Santa Claus.

In Alaska, where mid-summer delivery of Christmas presents makes them suitable either for last Christmas or the coming one, part of the residents celebrate on December 25 and the rest, January 7. The latter date is observed chiefly by Aleutian Islanders, which is populated by natives who were interbred with Russians hundreds of years ago. They use the Russian calendar, which has not been changed to conform with that used by the rest of the world. By this calendar, New Year's is celebrated January 14.

A LONG CHRISTMAS

Many countries in Europe celebrate Christmas on the principle that you cannot have too much of a good thing. In Italy, Holland, and elsewhere, the first celebrations begin on December 6, St. Nicholas' day, and last till Twelfth Night on January 6. In Poland the Christmas season lasts till February 2.

How Other Lands Mark Christmas

A melting pot of the world, America has created its Christmas traditions from countless customs brought across the seas from foreign lands. In these far-away places the Yuletide symbols of bygone ages still endure. Here are a few of them:

ENGLAND:
Christmas to rural Englishmen means not only the observance of Christ's birth, but also a parting of the ways between the old year and the new. Preparations are started to rite the next year's farm work, which begins right after Christmas. Throughout the island such trappings as the holly and mistletoe remain undying traditions, nor is any Christmas complete without the Yule log burning. On clear frosty nights the carol singers raise their voices over the countryside. To many Englishmen's despair, such American customs as the turkey dinner are gaining a foothold.

GERMANY:
Two years ago storm troopers in Berlin lit bonfires in the public squares as a revival of the pagan custom of celebrating the winter solstice. But this distraction will not stop the Christmas-loving Germans from decorating their trees in every town and village, and joining in the famed Christmas hymn, "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

ITALY:
Most Italian families celebrate Christmas eve and spend the following day quietly in their homes. Here it is a feast more for grown-ups than for children, whose merry-making day comes 12 days later, on January 6. On Christmas eve families gather around the "ceppo" or Christmas log blazes. At nine p. m. begins the "cenone," or big supper, at which no meat may be served. Gifts for children, which come on Epiphany, are brought not by Santa Claus but by an ugly witch whose name is "Befana."

FRANCE:
Exchange of gifts comes not on Christmas but mostly on New Year's day, which in France is the big family day for reunions of cousins, aunt and uncles. Santa Claus is "Pere Noel," who leaves his gifts in wooden shoes. Christmas eve is not spent at home but in revelry and feasting.

BELGIUM:
Neither Santa Claus nor Pere Noel visit children here—but St. Nicholas makes the rounds, surprisingly, on December 6! A quaint Belgian custom is the putting up the chimney of a few carrots for the little donkey on which St. Nicholas makes his visits.

RUSSIA:
This anti-Christian nation forbids celebration of the Yuletide but no longer compels foreign residents to import their own Christmas trees. Making an about-face, the Soviet government uses this emblem of childhood for its New Year's celebrations when Dadja Moros, or Uncle Frost, appears with gifts for good children.

POLAND:
This Christmas celebration lasts until February 2 and is preceded by fasting which is not broken until the first star appears on Christmas eve. In all homes the tablecloth is placed over a layer of fragrant hay in commemoration of the manger.

HUNGARY:
St. Nicholas leaves boxes of candy for children early in December, after which the youngsters must be on their good behavior. They write letters to the angels, who, they believe, bring the presents. If they find bits of tinsel on the floor, they claim this is an angel's hair and proof that the angels are everywhere, observing which boys and girls are good.

Both Amusing and Useful

A wood dresser set for a little girl is decorated with polar bears and colorful figures. Below are the merry old Land of Oz character in castle soap and a bathtub toy of castle soap and sponge.

Meat Packer Donates Food to Needy at Yuletide

Denver, Colo.—Because Louis K. Sigman sometimes went hungry when he was an orphan boy in the streets of Brooklyn, N. Y., he now gives 5,000 pounds of meat each Christmas for distribution to needy families by a Denver newspaper. This custom, followed the past 10 years, has helped make the holiday season cheery for the destitute. There are 5,000 parcels of 10 pounds each. In the 10-year period, Mr. Sigman has given away more than 250 tons of meat.

"I've had the idea ever since I was a little boy," he said last year. "I was in need a lot of the time myself."

The actual plan for a Christmas meat party came to him after he had observed dozens of adults and children at his packing plant asking for discarded scraps of beef, mutton and pork.

NEXT YEAR'S YULE CARDS ALREADY BEING DESIGNED

Workers on Christmas cards carry on steadily all through the year. The artists who draw them have already produced their designs for the 1940-41 season, and as soon as the holidays are over the printer will begin work on those cards. One big firm in England has 500 men and women employed in the production of these cards, sometimes with calendars added.

Where it all began nearly 20 centuries ago, worshippers reverently hail each Christmas at the church of Nativity which is built over Christ's traditional birthplace. It has remained unchanged more than 1,500 years. These pilgrims gather all over the world to intone "Glory to the New-Born King."

Feature Clothes
For Holiday Wear

BY ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

Lots of the frocks which gather around turkey-laden dinner tables this Christmas will be all wool and a yard wide—at the hem at least.

For holiday fashions feature scores of sheer wool frocks in soft light shades that make strangely colorful splashes on a sober winter fashion landscape.

They have come to life—and are going places—in such shades as mauved gray blue (a favorite), muted aquamarine, light grayed green, dusty rose, amethyst amber, gold, and silver gray. After one startled look at colors so unusually light for winter wear many New Yorkers have added one or more to their wardrobes and expect them to do duty not only for holiday daytime parties, but through the spring as well.

The light wool frocks are designed with soft skirt fullness, a number being about a yard wide at the hem. They generally have simple bodices which serve as backgrounds for a bit of costume jewelry. (Not much is needed, or liked, with these lighter hues.)

There also are a lot of sober wools, crepes and velvets—dark green, wine, grape, plum, brown and deep gray—which are going to be seen at many Christmas day family dinners. More than half are touched with some bit of glitter—sequins, bead embroidery, shining buttons and such—which will shimmer under Christmas tree lights.

Many a chic American, however, is going to choose black in a suave slim crepe or a swishing falde, and give it zip with costume jewels and a colored chapeau. Costume jewels never made a braver glitter than they do this year. They shimmer in ears and on wrists, swathe necklines like great brilliant hibs and gleam in brooches and clips worn over fur coats and muff.

Colored chapeaux are everybody's love this winter. Newest are turbans of wool lace in such colors as pale gray blue, green and red, sometimes spattered with a few gold sequins, draped suavely about the head and finished with two ends that cross under the chin. More are made of velvet or furry beaver felt in such hues as turquoise, old rose, amber, or bronze green.

The glitter which sounds lilting notes throughout Christmas daytime fashions bursts into a whooping theme song when night comes. It shimmers everywhere from the gold and silver threads woven into a number of laces and sequins cascades to the metal and sequins embroideries on evening wraps and dinner clothes and the jewels which are worn with every gown. Indeed there is so much glitter to be found that one New York shop is advertising "Gowns without a touch of glitter." But it promises to hold its own strongly throughout the holidays, for the best of it is used with good taste and restraint.

Flowers for Christmas

Most of the frocks which are going to be worn at the holiday evening parties reflect the strong vogue for the covered-up look. Dinner dresses and suits, designed for theater as well as dinner parties, are fashioned with high necks and long sleeves. Their skirts are nearly always slim, giving them a sleek suave air. They are made of black or richly colored wool, velvet or crepe and ty of dancing. Many combine at least two colors. Hip-sheaving Spanish Infanta frocks have skirt insets of contrasting color—snuff brown on black for instance—while swishing silver gray taffeta frocks are topped with citron yellow or green velveteen jackets.

Frothy full-skirted net frocks, inspired by the ballet are going to dance under the mistletoe, too, their bodices of shimmering brocade or sparkling sequins cut to a low décolletage contrasting with the covered look.

White, black, red, silvered grays and blues, gold and copper shades, rich pinks and deep greens and pinks are favorite dance frock colors.

The glitter which marks evening frocks appears again in wraps. Many long fitted ones of rich-hued wools are embroidered in metal threads while the cuffs of short fur ones are touched with shimmering paillettes.

Santa's Gifts Censored
In S. Africa This Year

They've cramped Santa Claus' style this Christmas in South Africa. Little Jannie may ask for a toy pistol and little Piet may want a box of lead soldiers. But they won't get them.

Toy soldiers, guns and tanks and pistols are now banned by the Union.

The reason: A recent outbreak of violence by young criminals frightened the legislature into barring any toy resembling a weapon, particularly a revolver. Water pistols are barred, and even the little percussion cap pistols are taboo.

There is now an organization of private flyers in the United States—the Aircraft Owners and Pilots' Association—that has about 2000 members.

-DON'TS-

Safety Is Watchword For a Merry Christmas

Here are a few "don'ts" for Christmas, recommended by safety authorities:

1. Don't give small children toys involving alcohol, kerosene or gasoline engines. They may tip over and set the house on fire.
  2. Don't permit small children to run electrical toys without supervision of an adult.
  3. Don't permit small children to use toy movie projectors without using safety film which burns slowly. Ordinary film burns explosively and gives off smoke and fumes which may cause death if inhaled.
  4. Don't use candles or light extra fires without being extremely careful, especially in regard to candles on trees.
  5. Don't wear inflammable costumes, especially Santa Claus beads, without fireproofing them.
  6. Don't use inflammable ornaments and evergreen decorations.
- Henry V was the first British monarch to pay a state visit to Paris; this occurred in 1420.

Analyze Subject's Personality Before Selecting Gift for Him

What to buy mother, father, brother, sister and sweetheart is a perplexing problem every Christmas. Most stores can give you specific tips, and probably there's something definite you've already decided to buy. But in case you're still puzzled here are a few general tips:

For Mother:
Buy her something she would not ordinarily buy herself. They tell about the young housewife who bought a woolen muffler for her husband's hard-working mother, and a fluffy, impractical gift for her own mother, who already had everything she needed. By error the gifts were switched. The young housewife was horrified but both mothers were pleased beyond words.

Practically is a nice thing but it's nice to give a kitchen-chaired mother something besides household equipment. Like perfume or bath salts or a bed jacket. Or a pair of sheer chiffon stockings. She'd also like a necklace or bracelet, or a carefully chosen set of costume jewelry to dress up last year's clothes. These are just a few tips—the stores can amplify them a hundred-fold.

For Father:
Ties, mufflers, cigarette cases or hose are always acceptable but you've only scratched the possibilities there. Does he have a hobby that needs encouragement? Does he have a peculiar weakness for some sport or a certain type of clothes which he's intentionally discouraged because it's extravagant?

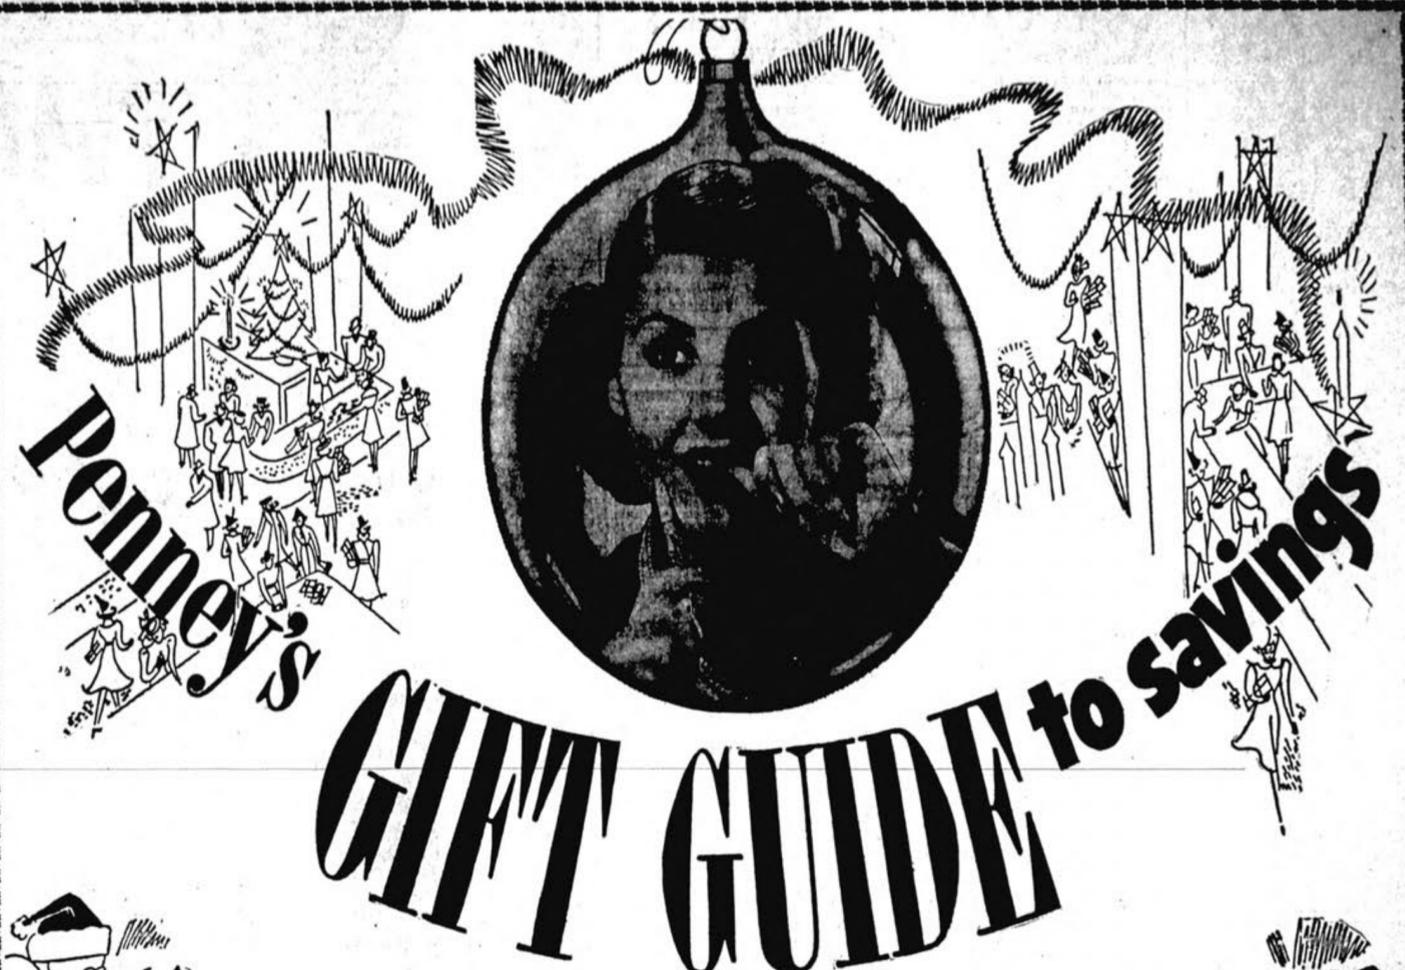

In the clothing line, besides the first named items, you might look at smoking jackets, cuff links or a tie clip set with his birthstone. Maybe he needs exercise for that waistline. Answer: Athletic equipment. Most men like games for fireside entertainment, or they'd appreciate a lunch kit for hunting and fishing trips.

For Sister or Sweetheart:
Flatter her tastes, and make it a distinctly "from-me-to-you" sort of gift. Jewelry is a favorite standby. Then there are books (which are regaining favor as gifts), a pair of gloves, a desk set, book ends—or how about a real, live dog to stress the "Love me, love my dog" angle?

For Brother or Sweetheart:
If the young man is particularly close to you there's an extremely wide range of gifts. Otherwise an expensive, elaborate gift might express too great an interest and you might therefore be wise to stick to the books-and-handkerchief line.

Proper choice of gifts requires a cool analysis of the man. If he likes the outdoor life, follow the sports motif. If he works inside, how about a memo pad or a desk set with a large blotter and leather accessories? Generally speaking, avoid tricky gifts and follow your salesperson's advice.

At the end of 1933 there was a total of 29,485,630 motor vehicles registered in the United States. Of this total 4,324,031 were trucks.

Toy Industry In U.S. Sees Much Expansion

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—The toy industry in the United States has grown to such extent that exports about equal imports. In the last two decades this country has gradually gained over other nations in this unique industry, and it is predicted that by 1950 toys made in the United States will be considered the best in the world.

Although toy-making is an old art, the industry in the United States is comparatively new. For example doll-making in this country was not sufficiently developed to attract attention in other countries until about two decades ago. Prior to 1900 domestic-made toys were not only inferior to those made in many other countries, but were few in number. The miniature train and its counterparts have been in existence only thirty years.

The manufacture and rise to popularity of toy trains and bridges is typical of how numerous other toys have found their way into the hearts of both young and old. Behind the enterprise is adventure and business. Among those who received their medical degrees from Yale in 1909 was Alfred Carlton Gilbert. But Gilbert showed little interest in the practice of his chosen profession. One day on his way to New York he saw a bridge, which gave rise to the thought that he would like to provide equipment for building miniature trains and bridges.

Inspired by this new idea, Gilbert went to a banker upon his arrival in New York, presented his plan, and later received a loan of $12,000. With this he began to manufacture metal parts which could be put together as miniature bridges and other structures. The popularity of the new idea was immediate.

The story of early toy-making is told in legend which comes from ancient Greece. In Corinth a little girl had died, and as was the custom in those days, all her toys were put into a basket and placed in her grave. Above the collection a slab of tile was placed for protection. An acanthus seed had found its way into the ground below the basket, and as the plant grew, it lifted the toys with its twisted stems until they assumed the shape of a lovely column. A Grecian sculptor passing the tomb one day was attracted by the sight. To him it suggested a new form of art, and was adopted as a model for the columns of that period. So from the little girl's basket of toys came the Corinthian column, which graces many of the world's finest buildings.

In many lands there is a legendary character to make children happy by the distribution of toys at Christmastime. In England the patron saint of children is Saint Nicholas. When the Dutch settled New Amsterdam—now New York City—in the early seventeenth century, they told their children the story of Saint Nicholas, and as the Dutch and English tongues began to merge, the name came to sound like "Sant NIKlaus." Eventually children of the United States found themselves in possession of a jolly old benefactor named Santa Claus.

Adults Like Playthings
About two years ago an American archeological expedition digging in northern India unearthed a vast collection of brightly painted toy animals made of clay, together with whistles, marbles, and various other playthings. These toys, authorities agree, were made by a people who lived at the close of the Stone Age 5000 years ago.

Workmen recently dredging the Seine River in France discovered a number of relics dating from early medieval times. Among these was a tiny tin knight in full armor, mounted on a base. This toy was probably the first of all the vast legion with which children in all lands have played, and concerning which Eugene Field wrote one of the most beautiful poems of childhood.

The oldest known mechanical toy in existence—made in Egypt at least 4000 years ago—is a jointed wooden form representing a man kneading dough. Another ancient Egyptian mechanical toy is a row of dancing dwarfs carved of ivory and mounted on spoons which are wound up with thread. Two centuries ago there lived in France a man named Jacques Vaucanson, who produced some of the most intricate toys ever made—the swimming ducks, galloping horses, and flying birds.

The appeal of toys is by no means limited to those who live in the enchanted land of childhood. Many adults, even among the famous, have not been unmindful and unappreciative of the symbolism of toys. For example, Louis XIV of France amused himself with a mechanical toy coach with clockwork horses which pranced around the royal table. It is recorded that Aristotle invented the dancing doll. Queen Victoria possessed 130 dolls and dressed many of them herself. The first doll to arrive in the United States was sent by Queen Elizabeth as a present to Pocahontas.

Toys in this country are a striking reflection of what is going on in current world affairs. Streamline trains, airplanes, automobiles, electromagnetic cranes, cement mixers, suspension bridges and hospitals with operating tables, are but a few of the realistic toys created by the toy industry. After Lindbergh's flight to Paris the demand for toy airplanes increased 1000 per cent. The current trailer craze has doubled the production and sale of toy automobiles. And modern children are insisting that their toys be accurate in every detail.

Immense Volume of Trade
Until the World War, Germany ranked as the outstanding toy-producing nation of the world. The German toy industry centered

Contradictions In Silhouettes Mark New Modes

BY ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor
This winter's fashions reflect the tangled international situation and the hysteria of war. Designers have launched a fleet of contradictory silhouettes, showing the greatest variety of a decade. Even the fashion press grew dizzy as one profile after another made its debut.

Molyneux's full-skirted silhouettes with two-tiered double-wing skirts, Piquet's "spindle" profiles with peg-top skirts, Mainbocher's corseted "stem-torso" dresses and Schiaparelli's ultra-slim "cigarette" silhouettes can all be found in day clothes.

The evening mode includes such contrasts as picturesque Spanish infanta dresses with tight waists, shoving hips and full skirts; slinky siren gowns, slim tubular frocks, spiraled "mummy" dresses and gowns with oriental drapes. There also are scores of long-sleeved dinner gowns and suits reflecting a decided "cover up" trend.

Another noteworthy influence traceable to the war is the use of military accents—braids, emblems and such on suits; double-breasted closings on coats, and gold swords and braid on hats. It's a trend that promises to grow.

By way of contrast to these fashions reflecting the influence of front page news, designers also have turned to the past for inspiration. Bustles and back fullness, passementerie trimmings, long fitted jackets, capes and fur hats and muffs directly traceable to the Nineteenth century and early Nineteen-Hundreds, add to the variety of the 1940 winter mode.

But one thing winter clothes have in common—a tiny waist, moulded over lightly boned corsets which often lace. These corsets, which some stylists list as a "hysterical wartime fashion," have created a greater furor than any new mode since Patou dropped hemlines with a fashion thud heard 'round the world.

As far as the clothes themselves are concerned, nearly all the designs in Nuremberg, and to that quaint old city buyers from all parts of the world congregated. Before the war, approximately two-thirds of all toys sold in the United States came from Germany. In 1924, however, an American doll of a new composition was introduced, which resulted in a decline in the sale of German-made dolls. With emphasis by American toy manufacturers upon purposeful toys adapted to the changing interests and needs of American children, the United States became the toy center of the world. At a toy fair held recently in New York City, 15,000 new toys were displayed.

The annual toy trade in the United States reaches about $125,000,000. Exports of toys for the first eight months of 1939 were valued at $1,892,140 and exceeded by 17 per cent the figure for the corresponding 1938 period. Toys are produced in many States, but the manufacture of dolls centers in New York City. There are 25,000 workers in the American toy industry, distributed among approximately 1000 firms.

"Toy-making the world over is a growing enterprise, but far greater than its value industrially is its contribution to happiness. And that happiness reaches from the cradle to the grave.

sign excitement appears in skirts. Hips are accented, very obviously, for the first time in years. Petticoats, drapes, new application of trimmings, and peg-top drapes all call attention to them.

More excitement appears in some new ankle-length skirts for evening wear. Some are full frothy affairs of tulle, others draped in harem effect. The majority of evening clothes, however, are still long.

Skirts of day clothes remain short, but their widths vary from straight, slim lines to full, circular cuts. Back fullness is important. Furs are used lavishly this year. They make hats, muffs, glove tops, coverings for umbrella handles and rich trimmings for coats and little suits (very important in the 1940 mode). Fitted and flared town coats, which are much more numerous than straight coats, are sometimes so lavishly trimmed that they seem to be half fur.

Accents are exceedingly important. Jeweled bib necklaces or pins bias on the plain bodices of day frocks. Bright red or sage green gloves are worn with dark or gray-lined costumes. Colored hats or dark hats whose snoods are splashed with a bright velvet bow top dark town clothes.

Though black tops the winter color card, new grayed hues (storm grays and gray-lined browns, greens and blues) are

Baskets for Christmas Spread Season's Cheer; Here's How to Fix One

Plan a Christmas gift basket this year if you want to bring joy to yourself as well as others. But plan it sensibly and be sure you don't duplicate someone else's effort. Otherwise one deserving family may receive four or five baskets the day before Christmas while another, equally deserving, goes hungry.

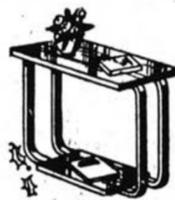

Size of the family should be kept in mind when preparing the basket, also the approximate age of the children. Choice of meat or fowl will be guided largely by the size of the family. While a turkey or goose may be—in your mind—more in keeping with the occasion, two chickens may fit your budget better and be no less fully appreciated.

The basket should also contain potatoes, vegetables (which may be canned), bread and fruit. Extra items depend on how much you can afford, but children will appreciate some candy and a fruit cake or plum pudding will make the holiday really festive.

Not only will the family on the receiving end be made happier, but yourself, and your children who can deliver the basket, will get a more sincere appreciation of the Christmas spirit.

As a form of salutation, residents of Tibet stick out the tongue.

The Crowded Inn

BY HELEN C. WENTWORTH
All day long they had been going by the inn, camels and donkeys stirring up dust, weary men and women resting by the stream outside the inn yard. The little country maid had never seen so much travel.

Just outside the city of Jerusalem, near by the village of Bethlehem, there were plenty of people who stopped for refreshment. And Jeremiah kept a good inn. He was a good man, too. But he was hard, sparing neither man nor beast. And his niece Rebecca was hard put to do the tasks that were set before her.

"Why are there so many travelers today?" she asked the little slave girl who helped her prepare the evening meal.

"The tribesmen," replied Fatima, "are going to Jerusalem to be numbered, so that they may pay their taxes. And this will continue for days. These are not times of rejoicing and feasting for us!"

Rebecca looked up as a bearded man, leading an ass on which a young woman rode, entered the courtyard. "Is the inn keeper here?" he asked gently. "My wife and I seek shelter."

"There are no rooms left," Fatima told him, going on with her work. But Rebecca looked up at the woman, whose face was weary and touched with pain.

"I will see what provision can be made," the little maid exclaimed. Her eyes never left the young woman's sweet face. The woman smiled at Rebecca, and her husband smiled too. Rebecca's face lightened eagerly and even Fatima found herself softening.

Rebecca had some difficulty finding her uncle, busy as he was with many things. Then it was hard to make him listen.

"There must be some place, uncle. That new stable, with the clean straw, would be warm and comfortable. She cannot go farther, I know."

"So be it," he answered. Then, as they neared the group, he too was impressed by the young woman's beauty and the lovely warmth of her smile. "There is naught but the stable," he told them, "but Rebecca will seek to make you comfortable there."

Even after she had done everything she could, and had crept into her own dark corner for the night, Rebecca found she could not forget the couple in the stable. Mary, the man had called his wife. There was such a radiance about her. "I wonder what makes her so different," Rebecca thought. And she opened her eyes.

In amazement she saw light in the courtyard, so much that it seemed the dawn must have come. But the light came from a star that shone just about the stable. Out into the yard the girl crept, and suddenly she heard a child's cry, a cooling, happy sound.

Rebecca looked about. No one was stirring. Far off, on the hillside she saw what looked like a group of men, shadowy, indistinct, seemingly moving toward Bethlehem. It must be her imagination. Possibly it was Ephraim's vineyard she saw. Soon she stood in the stable doorway.

There, lighted by a lantern, was Joseph, bending over the young woman and holding in his arms a tiny baby—her firstborn. At Rebecca's exclamation he turned, and into her outstretched arms he handed the little figure and showed her the snowy lengths of swaddling cloth. Tenderly the maid clothed the infant and laid it beside the mother.

"Thank you," Mary whispered.

"For the child's sake and in His name, I thank you for what you have done. We thank her, don't we, Jesus?"

The baby opened his eyes and smiled. "He smiled at me," Rebecca exclaimed. "I shall never forget, a new born babe smiled into my face to say thank you."

Mary drew the child into the shelter of her arms. Her eyes closed, Joseph walked to the doorway and watched Rebecca as she returned to her room. He, too, saw the clump of trees or vines, or was it a group of men on the hillside? Then he returned to the manger and settled down beside Mary and the sleeping Jesus.

Goose Is Favorite For Yuletide Feast And Easily Fixed

Goose, which is the traditional Christmas fowl just as turkey is Thanksgiving's dish, is easily prepared and is delightfully tasteful if handled correctly. Not until recent years has goose been properly appreciated, largely because it hasn't been prepared properly. Geese vary in weight from 8 to 12 pounds or more. Watch for soft feet and a pliable bill (if you dress your own bird) as an indication of proper age for cooking.

An excellent dressing is the apple-and-raisin variety, made with the following proportions: One pound of apples, peeled and diced; one-fourth pound of raisins; one tablespoon of brown sugar, and three cups of bread cubes. Salt to taste. Although this dressing is dry, the juices from the bird will make it tasty.

Removing fat is a simple process. First wipe the bird dry, inside and out. Place in a covered roaster in a 425-degree oven for 30 minutes to start warming. Remove from oven and cool. Remove fat. Repeat this process twice.

Then stuff the goose, close the opening of the body cavity and tie the legs together. Weigh the bird, allowing 20 to 25 minutes to the pound for roasting in a 325-degree oven. Roast with breast side down.

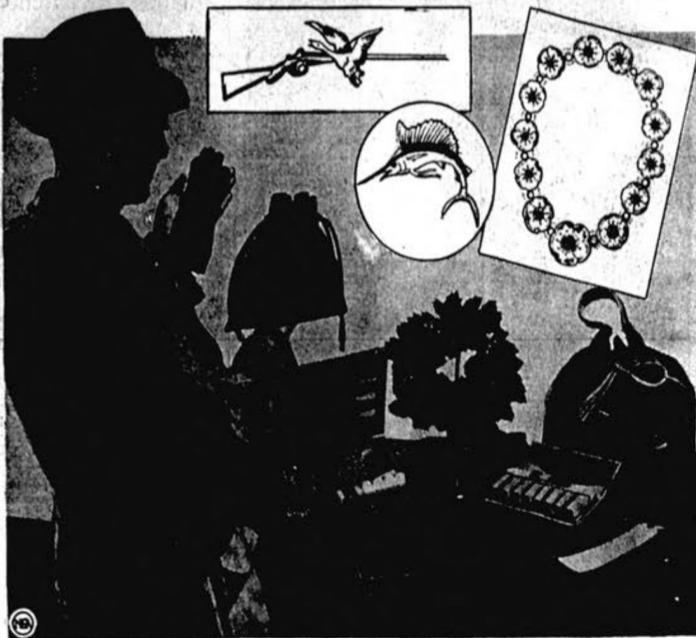

You don't have to baste the bird as it roasts, but orange juice with grated rind may be used if desired.

Yule Table Decorations Inexpensively Prepared; Add Gay Note to Feast

Company coming for Christmas dinner? Or just the family? In any event you'll want a Christmas looking table and it can be accomplished easily and inexpensively. Here are three suggestions:

A large bowl, preferably of wood and filled with shining fruits (a bunch of grapes on top) gives a festive air. You can lay a wreath of holly about the bowl and use tall, slender candles grouped about it. Lace runners or dollies that reveal the gleaming

Included are: handsewn gloves of softest suede; one of the new drawing handbags; a tweed-covered game set for the traveler; a leather sports bag with outside compartment for cigarettes; a clothes brush especially for tweed; a leather-covered table-lighter in the shape of a riding boot; monogrammed cards in a handsome leather box which would make a stunning jewel case; a chic duffel bag (extreme right) for packing odds and ends at the last minute. Insets show new and interesting pins for the sports-minded woman; a duck on a shotgun and a graceful sail fish. At right is a charming necklace of enamel pendants.

Think Of Children, Not Only Yourself, When Buying Toys

Don't buy the toy just because it pleases your fancy. Keep the child in mind, too. Miniature dogs with wagging tails are fascinating to parents but they won't keep the child happy very long. Miss Elisabeth Irwin, who is principal of New York's Little Red School House, says large blocks, tool chests or hand-manipulated dericks make much better gifts.

Keeping in mind the child's age and taste, durability of the toy and a few well-chosen scientific principles, she offers these rules to you who are Santa Clauses this Christmas:

1. Choose toys which stimulate the child's imagination, rather than mechanical toys. Trains that run by hand are an example.

2. Choose toys which help children exercise their large muscles, like large blocks, trapezes, boards to fit over saw horses. Roller skates, sleds, bicycles and other athletic toys are also good.

3. Find toys that don't break easily. If you buy tools, be sure the hammer head won't fly off. Inexpensive miniature automobiles may break down after a few trips around the parlor floor.

4. Buy games of skill, not of chance. Select games involving counting and building.

A device recently put on the market is a tall wheel brake for light planes. The new brake is an adaptation of the standard bicycle brake.

kept low so it will not hide the folks across the table. For a long table, make the arrangement long; for a round table, make it round.

For an all-white table, use a white table cloth for your background and a miniature Christmas tree in the center. For ends of the table, white tapers in candelabra are excellent, and around their bases are simulated snow, cotton sprinkled with tinsel.

Flowers, while more expensive, make a beautiful table. An arrangement of pompon chrysanthemums and red roses in a low bowl, bedded by sprays of long-needle pine and frosted with cones is particularly attractive. A bit of holly gives it a definite Christmas air. The entire arrangement needs a few more than a dozen flowers. Such an arrangement should be

Holiday Larders Should Be Filled With Good Things

By Louise Bennett Weaver
AP Feature Service Writer

Food preparedness will prove mightily helpful during the holiday whirl. It will give you more time to take part in the festivities, and will help you with impromptu entertaining.

Stock pantry shelves with canned fish, meats and sandwich fillings, relishes, cheese, crackers and marmalade. Cream the refrigerator with fruits, salad "makings" and dressings. Keep on hand a large order of sliced smoked ham and lots of eggs. A pot of baked beans won't come amiss, either.

Bake date or raisin bread, and steam some Boston brown bread with chopped prunes in it. Prepare extra cranberry jelly (it brightens up meat and salad platters), a fish loaf and a bowl of jellied salad.

Be sure to have enough Christmas cookies to last over. When you think you have about enough, mix another batch and store the dough in the refrigerator. Cookies can be baked quickly when needed.

Here's a fine holiday snack to serve with hot coffee, punch or cider—Fruit Crullers:

Mix 4 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup light brown sugar, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup chopped raisins and 1/2 cup chopped candied orange rind. Mix in lightly 1 1/2 cups buttermilk (or sour milk), 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup nuts, 4 tablespoons of melted fat, and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Toss the dough onto a floured board, roll it 1-3 of an inch thick, cut with a doughnut cutter, and brown in hot, deep fat. Store the crullers in a tightly covered jar in the coolest part of the cupboard.

Spiced Drops with their delicate mocha flavor are mainstays for the holiday guests. Make up a jarful:

Cream 1 cup of fat (part butter for flavor) and mix in 2 cups dark brown sugar, add 1-3 cup leftover coffee, 2 teaspoons cinnamon and 1 teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg, mace and salt. Add 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped dates, 1/2 cup chopped citron and 1/2 cup broken nutmeats. Beat 2 minutes, lightly blend in 4 1/2 cups flour and a teaspoon each of soda and baking powder. Drop dough from a spoon onto greased baking sheets. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven.

DATE STUFFINGS

Orange Fondant
1 egg yolk
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 to 2 tablespoons orange juice
Grated rind of 1 orange
Beat yolk slightly. Stir in sugar, adding juice to desired consistency. Add rind. Bits of candied orange peel sprinkled over filling add flavor and color.

Marshmallow Coconut

Cut 1/2 lb. fresh marshmallows into quarters. Stuff each date with a piece of marshmallow, cut side up. Dip sticky surface of marshmallow into shredded coconut, colored, plain or toasted.

Fruit Delight

1/2 lb. layer figs
1 pkg. pasteurized dates
1 pkg. shredded coconut

New Dresses Will Carry Summer Into Early Fall Season

BY ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

The New York style mart has launched a group of "stop-gap" frocks to fill the breach between summer and fall fashions.

They are meant to be worn on cool days and nights now to put "pep" in sagging summer wardrobes, and to do service after Labor Day when they have been smartened with new fall hats.

Fabrics (ribbed silks, crepes and rayon jerseys) and colors (black, brown, wine and gray) suit summer or fall.

Foremost fashion point on every one of the stop-gap frocks is the new waist, designed to make midriffs look smaller than ever. Next is the emphasis given to design interest in the back (fullness or modified bustle effects), expected to be much seen this fall.

All kinds of devices are used to focus attention on the back of the dress. Sometimes fullness breaks in soft folds from the waistline; again a peplum ripples across the back or a frill-edged apron is drawn smoothly across the front, to meet in the back.

Necklines range from a collarbone line to lower vees cut for hot weather comfort. Smartest

1/2 lb. marshmallows
1/2 cup candied cherries
1/2 pkg. candied orange peel
1 cup nutmeats
Put figs, dates, coconut, orange peel and nutmeats through food chopper. Melt marshmallows over hot water. Add fruit, paste and mix. Spread evenly in a well-buttered shallow pan. (The paste should be about 3-4 to 1 inch thick.) Stuff dates as usual and press slices of cherries in to filling.

Jap Villagers Kneel At Mound They Call Christ's Burial Place

Tokyo—Peasant in a remote northern Japanese village do not celebrate Christmas but they believe Jesus Christ died in Japan.

Nor are they Christians, but each year they kneel before a strange mound they believe is Christ's burial place.

This takes place at the village of Heral where Buddhists or Shintosts gather each year around a mound surmounted by a pillar on which are three Japanese characters and a six-pointed star composed of inter-locking triangles, like the Hebrew emblem.

How this strange tradition arrived in Japan is not known, but visitors notice that the village, which is located in Aomori, near the extreme tip of Honshu Island, is no great distance south of Mount Yadaiji, which is pronounced almost like the modern Japanese word for "Jew."

The six-pointed star is completely foreign to the people, yet some peasants are familiar with the Biblical version of Christ's death. The Aomorian story, which they have believed for 20 centuries, is this:

During the reign of the Emperor Sunin, the eleventh emperor, a young white man came to live in the district. Twelve years later, at the age of 34, he disappeared. His name: Soraitaro.

Fifteen years later he returned and told the people he had been to the land of his birth teaching religion and that, because of his beliefs, had been sentenced to death by crucifixion.

Soraitaro is then said to have told the natives that his younger brother, Iskiri, sacrificed his own life on the cross. Then he traveled for four years, across Europe and through Siberia. Finally reaching Aomori again, he died at the age of 105 in the eleventh year of Keiko Tenno's reign.

Now the alleged burial mound is the ruin of a stone building which villagers call "Tuskinotatte," the House of the Moon. Many foreign articles are reported to have been unearthed from this place. People say it is the place where Jesus worshiped.

Beauty Aids Are Welcome Gifts

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Service Staff Writer

She'd love to have Santa Claus bring perfume, luxurious bath preparations or a de luxe package of sachet pillows, of course, but the woman who does NOT have everything probably would be even more pleased with beauty necessities which she needs and really can't afford.

A huge jar of her favorite cleansing cream, for instance. Or a pretty large jar of a night cream, the price of which puts the preparation almost in the luxury category.

Three bottles of hand lotion, attractively wrapped and tied together with Christmas ribbon, would be sure to please. And a really good hairbrush is a fine gift for any woman whose budget is a trifle limited. Make sure that the bristles are long and flexible.

1939 Toys Sprout Wheels As Kids Imitate Parents

Today's civilization-on-wheels has revolutionized the Twentieth century toy industry. Several decades ago children played with paint sets and cut-out dolls. Now girls and boys want wheel goods. The desire to have an automobile like dad's is so great that toy auto manufacturers must change their designs as soon as new models appear. Velocipedes must be streamlined, scooters must have pneumatic tires, and doll carriages must be of the latest baby buggy designs.

Best Gifts Constructive

The artistically inclined girl or boy would love to find this de luxe water color set under the Christmas tree.

not have a great deal to spend on cosmetics usually considers a jar of masque an out-and-out luxury. And she'd be delighted with a large box of her favorite powder or two lipsticks—one for day and one for evening.

Among other practical gift suggestions are: a box of powder puffs; a bath brush; a good clothes brush; transparent hat boxes for closet shelves; jar of oily polish remover pads; special foot bath powder to soothe aching feet; after-bath lotion which can be used in the bath as well as afterward.

Don't Marry the Girl Day After Christmas

If you believe the early monks, don't select the day after Christmas to get married, start a new job or put on that new suit. It's Childermass day, commemorating the slaughter of the Holy Innocents of Herod, and in the early days was considered an occasion of the greatest ill-omen.

Children, according to legend, were soundly whipped Childermass day to impress on their minds the story of the baby mar-

St. Nick Has A Special Pack Of Gifts For Kitchen

When Christmas comes to your kitchen the family may be tempted to forget the rest of the house, there are so many attractive new things.

Among the newest utensils are those in which stainless steel and copper are combined. The vessel is of steel, the bottom copper. Copper, say experts, distributes heat more evenly. One of these utensils starts out as a double boiler. But there's a lid, a saucepan and a pan with two handles that fits over the saucepan. The saucepan may be used as such or as the bottom of the double boiler. The top pan may serve innumerable purposes—from ice bucket to baking dish.

A number of the new utensils are designed to become serving dishes for the food that's cooked in them.

One of the most interesting is a chrome-finished broiler-boiler. It has a set of legs on top, another set on the bottom. On one set of legs, the unit is a broiler or a toaster; the heating unit is above. Turned over, the utensil becomes a saucepan, since the heating unit is then underneath.

There's a new pressure cooker which it is said, reduces the cooking time of Boston baked beans, for example, from seven or eight hours to fifty minutes.

There seems to be a trend toward Mexican and South American kitchens. A bright red and green motif—two peons bending over a bowl of fruits and vegetables is a best seller in many linen departments. Other kitchen towel patterns include stylized fruit, vegetable and floral designs and gay outdoor scenes.

Add to these: food choppers... slicing machines... a twin-spout tea pot, one for tea, the other for hot water... wooden serving dishes... little alarm clocks to tell when to take the cake out of the oven... a slicer to cut up a round cake in one operation. That's an idea of the 1939 Kitchen Christmas. Don't say we didn't warn you.

Ex-Detroit Paper Boys Aid 65,000 at Christmas

Detroit—Twenty-five years ago the late James Brady conceived the idea of raising funds to insure needy children a merry Christmas by organizing a group of men who as boys had sold newspapers in the city. The idea was for them to return to their old corners at a stated period and sell papers to all who passed. Last year this organization of oldtimers raised about $150,000.

GIFTS FOR ALL THE FAMILY

'Merry Christmas, Mary Christmas,' Says Santa Claus

What's in a name? Plenty, if it happens to be Mary Christmas, or Santa Claus, and that's actually happened.

Both Evansville, Ind., and Racine, Wis., have their Mary Christmas, and at Marshall, Mo., there's a jolly fellow whose last name is Claus, and whose parents christened him Santa.

Evansville's Mary Christmas comes from an old family which has had a Mary in each generation. Racine's Mary Christmas got that way by marrying a fellow named Samuel Christmas, and she's now a telephone operator. Which explains that strangely personal and timely message long distance operators hear out of Racine around Christmas time: "This is long distance, operator—Mary Christmas!"

Racine's Mary Christmas, who is short, chubby and looks just like the artist's conception of Mrs. Santa Claus, gets hundreds of fan mail letters every year. Three years ago she appeared on a Yuletide radio program and has been so deluged with fan mail ever since that she's founded a "shut-in" club which has members in 40 states, Canada, Hawaii, India, China and New Zealand.

Marshall's Santa Claus is similarly Christmas-minded. Each Yuletide he tries to answer the fan letters which come from all corners of the globe, many in such strange foreign languages that he can't reply. He's much in demand for church parties and other Christmas affairs. Santa is a

A Watch for Christmas

What woman wouldn't welcome a handsome, modern watch for Christmas? Here are three of great distinction: At upper left is a bracelet model of yellow gold; at upper right, a chatelaine to be worn on a lapel; below, a sports creation with horse head crystals set in stirrups, linked to the watched by miniature bits.

White House Maintains Traditions 139 Years Old

Washington — Santa Claus makes his 139th visit to the White House this Christmas, carrying on a tradition started December 25, 1800, when Kris Kringle called on little Susannah, granddaughter of President John Adams from Massachusetts.

The White House in those days was in an unfinished state and the great barnlike rooms were only scantily furnished, providing a great contrast to the beautifully appointed mansion of today. Yet the same jolly spirit prevailed on that Christmas morning, more than a century and a quarter ago, as that found in the White House this Yuletide.

From early years of our country, Presidents have set aside the heavy burden of state and made merry Christmas day with their families.

A new Bellanca plane is now on the market. The ship, a three place low-winged monoplane, is powered with a 90-horsepower engine, giving a cruising speed of 120 miles an hour, and a top speed of 133 miles an hour. The plane has a landing speed of 47 miles an hour.

A $250 check sent him by May West, the actress.

In Rosalindale, near Boston, lives an Ambrose Claus, who with his wife last year celebrated his golden wedding anniversary. Like all other folks named Claus, they seemed to have a lion's share of Christmas spirit.

Smart Choice

A chiffon evening hood, sprinkled with stars, pastel suede evening mitts, edged with black lace, and a box of bath powder, with a white cotton Santa Claus on it, are smart Christmas presents for the very young girl.

The forest area of the United States is about 500,000,000 acres, or approximately four times the area of France.

Niagara Falls nearly ran dry on March 29, 1848.

3 Christmas Islands, Harbor, Cove, Sound, Are Found In Atlas

Not one, but three Christmas Islands will celebrate the Yuletide this year, all of them under the British flag. The first is located in mid-Pacific and is really a submerged mountain 15,000 feet high with only its top above water. The second, in the Indian ocean, is forest-covered and had a population of 40 when the last census was taken in 1898. The last Christmas Islands is near Cape Breton in the maritime provinces of Canada.

France has a Christmas harbor on Desolation or Kerguelen island about 2,000 miles southwest of Australia. The United States has a Christmas cove near Boothbay harbor, Maine, which is a summer resort.

There is also a Christmas sound near the southern tip of South America about 120 miles northwest of Cape Horn and located in an island belonging to Chile.

Tyrolan Village Folk Have Odd Yule Rites

Vienna — Simple-minded, devout folk of the Tyrol have grotesque Christmas customs. At Innsbruck, for instance, they celebrate the Lord's birthday by wearing masks of animals. In another section the Christmas tree is carved out of wood and elaborately decorated. A third extraordinary custom is the wearing of towering headpieces which are brought out only in the December holiday.

Superstitious Villagers
Fear Year of Bad Luck
If Candles Die on Tree

London—Early Christmas traditions still endure among English Yule celebrants.

No Christmas tree is considered complete in rural areas unless it is bedecked with little candles of different colors. Many people count it an ill sign if once lit the candles go out or are snuffed out before they have burned to their ends. In old days the candles were made such a size that it would burn from the time it was lit until midnight. If it went out before that, evil portended to the family for the coming year.

The Yule log which many hold should be lit by a brandy preserved from the previous year's stock, should be blown into a blaze by the maids, but these must have clean faces and hands or the log will not light easily. In the north of England it was once customary to let the servants have free drink so long as the log burned.

Here's a handsome array of the kind of beauty gifts that women like to find under the Christmas tree. Perfume, de luxe bath preparations, a Victorian dresser set and a miniature razor for the traveler are included.

Land of Midnight Sun Has Its Christmas Joy

The Christmas season in Norway—it is most beautiful! It is as though the whole of Christmas had been borrowed from all the other nations just to make the "Land of the Midnight Sun" a little bit more glorious. Each year an imaginary prince appears waving a golden staff over the mountain scenery changing it into a veritable fairyland.

The people of Norway have a most charming way of expressing their joy and gratitude toward the Christ Child on this most joyous occasion. They seem to possess an unsurpassed ability to bring out all the beauty and simplicity of the true holiday spirit. One is able to feel it as it pervades the atmosphere as though actually gushing out from the surrounding hills and valleys shouting hospitality and good will toward every living creature.

Streets are decorated with garlands of pine, holly and mistletoe. Flags fly from windows and flagpoles while the bright lights of the gayly decorated shops flood the snow with diamonds. Scarcely a home is without a lighted Christmas tree and the windows are filled with pots of scarlet poinsettias. They always have the tree and presents on Christmas eve instead of Christmas morning.

The Christmas dinner consists most generally of roast goose stuffed with apples and prunes and sometimes decorated with tiny flags. There are always plenty of candles and fruits and plates of gayly colored miniature cakes.

The celebration continues for several weeks with dancing and merry-making every night.—Alice B. Palmer.

Sun's 'Virginia'
Still Has Faith
In Santa Claus

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to life its highest beauty and joy."

Forty-two years ago an editorial writer for the New York Sun penned those now-famous lines in answer to a scrawled letter from a little girl named Virginia, whose faith in Santa had been shaken.

Today Virginia is grown up, married, and serves as assistant principal in an east side New York school. Her name is Dr. Laura Virginia Douglas and this Christmas she's playing Santa Claus not only to her pupils but her own daughter. Meanwhile, in 42 years she's evolved some ideas of her own on what to tell children about Santa Claus.

Pink-cheeked, vivacious, yet shy and hesitant in speaking of personal matters, Dr. Douglas is not in favor of breaking the news boldly to a child that there is no Santa Claus. He will learn naturally, she says, as he turns from the free, imaginative stage of early childhood to an interest in the world around him.

When she first became old enough to realize the full meaning of the Sun's editorial, she felt badly because poor children were not able to have Christmas gifts, as tangible evidence of Santa's existence. Later, she says, she grew to realize that material gifts were not so important as the faith which even the very poor child could have in something spiritual.
