$800 Investment Gives Value Received

City Clock One Of Few Manual Types Still Operating In UP

Forty years without stumbling, tick-tock, tick-tock. As in the case of the grand father's clock, which according to song went 10 years without rest, the timepiece on top the Negaunee City building has furnished local residents with the correct time for the past four decades.

Recent electrification of the municipal clock at Hancock makes the Negaunee time piece one of the few manual types still in existence in Upper Peninsula cities.

Actually the clock has been a local landmark longer than 40 years, for it originally was ordered for the fire hall tower when the present building was planned to house city fire fighting equipment was constructed in 1910.

Awarded Contract
J. J. Wentala, who at the time operated a jewelry establishment in the city was awarded the contract for the clock, that was manufactured by the Howard Company of Boston.

An article appearing in the June 10, 1910 issue of The Iron Herald sited an expert in clock recreation from Chicago was supervising installation of the clock. The Herald article follows: "The clock manufactured by the Howard Company of Boston is considered one of the best of its kind in the country. So far as the public is concerned, interest centers in the dial rather than the mechanism.

"To be exact there are four dials, for time is to be told at four points of the compass. The dials are 5 feet 8 inches in diameter, which may be a little smaller, there was a specification as wide as could be conveniently fitted to the original tower plans.

Early Visible
"The dial itself is constructed of iron and glass, and electric lights within the tower will furnish the illumination for night viewing, the iron Roman numerals and the iron hands standing out clearly against the white dial. As the tower has an elevation of 25 feet and the dials will be well toward the top, the clock will be visible from practically all parts of the city. With installation complete the clock will cost $800.

When the new municipal building was constructed in 1910 it contained a tower with space for a clock. However, city fathers, probably for financial reasons decided against purchasing a new one and instead decided to transfer the fire hall timepiece to the new building.

At that time the clock was sent to the Howard Company for remodeling which was enabled it to be used in the city hall tower. The clock works themselves were unchanged, but numerous readjustments, length of pins and supplying of new hands and dials were necessary to adapt the clock to the location which will serve as its home. Four replacement dials were obtained, each with a diameter of seven feet, making them approximately twice the size of those used in the fire hall.

Still Is Silent
Since installation in the city hall, the clock has functioned perfectly with few exceptions for 40 years. However, the bell which formerly told the hours has been silent for about 15 years, as the striking mechanism was damaged during World War II and the bell has not rung since that time.

Assigned to the task of winding the clock each week is Al Bellstrom, who has performed the duty with the exception of a three year period during World War II, since 1933. Prior to Bellstrom the official clock winder was Bill Heggaton, local residents since 1910, first at a location in the fire hall tower, and for the last four decades at its present site atop city hall.

According to an appraisal figure obtained in 1954 replacement value of the clock today would be $6,850, as compared with an original price of $600. Other Costs Compared However, figures obtained from City Manager George E. Meboldt, Jr., show that costs have increased considerably since 1914 as far as other municipal expenditures are concerned. At that time only $23,500 was spent on snow removal and plowing, while the entire street and highway budget was $17,000. Last year snow removal cost the city $23,880.15, and the public works budget was $235,260.57. Electric utility expenditures 40 years ago were $14,137.10 in comparison with $43,703.83 in 1954, and the water utility $23,076.58, as compared with $45,214.59 last year.

Eventually $600 was a lot of money for the clock at the time it was installed, but after 40 years of faithful service, Negaunee has had value received far more from the original investment for the city clock.

Lookout View Popular With Visitors Here

One of the popular attractions for tourists from Michigan and other states in the Negaunee area is the lookout tower, that was erected last summer for the purpose of calling attention to the site marking the discovery of iron ore in the Negaunee area.

Periodic checks made at the lookout this summer reveal that it is just as popular as it was a year ago, when it was erected by the Cleveland Club, near the Jackson monument.

Overlooking the Jackson pit, first iron property worked, the lookout station, which is covered with view nettings on three sides, is the lookout tower, providing an excellent view of the area.

From the tower, tourists can obtain a view of properties covering three stages in the iron ore industry. Directly beneath the station is the Jackson pit, where ore was hauled from an open pit by the wagon load. Looking directly north, one can see the shaft of the Hambley, Jackson mine, one of the older properties in the city, which is still active, while to the north and northeast lie the Mauber A and B shafts, representing the latest developments in the mining field.

Adjacent to the tower is the Jackson monument, which marks the site of the iron ore discovery and is a familiar landmark to residents of Marquette county.

Conservation Award Won by Hoyt Fern

Hoyt L. Fern, Negaunee, who is also in present manner instructor in the Iron River public schools, has been selected as the initial recipient of the Fetter conservation award. Presentation of the award will be made at the annual convention of the Northwestern Iron Sportsmen's Association in September.

Presenting a portable flame thrower are midshipman D. H. Middleton (left), and Mark D. McRobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. McRobb of 663 First St. Both are students at the University of Michigan.

Lions Charter Night Plans Are Complete

Morris A. Kupler, International Director, will be the principal speaker Saturday night, when the newly chartered Negaunee Lions Club receives its charter at a dinner to be held at the Elvewood Golf Club.

MORRIS KUPLER

Invitations have been sent to all clubs in the district and approximately 20 Lions and their ladies are expected at the charter presentation.

Invitations have also been sent to the Hambley, Marquette, past district governor, will be postmaster, and the program will include a lecture by the Harveters quartet, and a novelty act by Dan Crocoll, of Iron Mountain.

Kupler, who was elected to the International Board of Directors at the International Convention of the New York City in 1954, has served in all offices of his own-shipville, Ill. club, as well as serving his district as zone chairman, deputy district governor and district governor. He is a charter member of his club holds the key of state, and has a record of 100 per cent attendance for 25 years of Lionsism.

A native of Oklawville, Lion Kupler received his education from the Iron River, Marquette and McKendree Colleges. He is engaged as utility director of the Illinois Telephone Association.

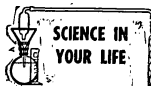

Lion Kupler is also active in the work of the Iron Scouts, having received a Scouter Award from the Kaskaska Council, and has been active in the Iron River public schools, has been selected as the initial recipient of the Fetter conservation award. Presentation of the award will be made at the annual convention of the Northwestern Iron Sportsmen's Association in September.

Announcement of Fern's selection as the first winner of the award came from William A. Association, representing the Northwestern Iron Sportsmen's Association.

Fern, one-time Norwaine resident, has long been recognized for his work in the field of conservation, and particularly for his work in the Iron River Conservation Club and school lines. The latter recently won the first annual Iron River Conservation award to a Michigan school class for outstanding conservation projects in a conservation class.

Fern has been interested in conservation since boyhood, when a game warden friend took him on many field trips pointing out animals, trees, birds and other wonders of wild life in the Upper Peninsula.

Conservation education award will be given annually in honor of the late Peter Traudt, of Negaunee, organizer of the Northwestern Michigan Sportsmen's Association, and president for many years.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Premature Babies—One of medicine's most difficult problems is premature birth. Infants who arrive early are actually ready to begin life in our world. They are too small, and their nervous systems are still undeveloped. Infectious diseases find them easy prey. Their feeding is difficult.

In spite of all this, doctors now have new tools with which to help a baby's life when his mother is unable to give him the best treatment.

When a child arrives prematurely, the doctor usually gives him a special medicine to act as an incubator, a supply of pure oxygen and different kinds of food.

Preventing the infant from infection is the first problem. In spite of all efforts, germs can still attack the child. And recent research shows that the best way to combat the infectious invaders is with the antibiotic drugs that are being widely used.

These drugs are not harmful. In fact, the infant is being studied as a possible cause of premature birth. Preliminary studies indicate that there is danger of premature birth unless the expectant mother is getting enough vitamin E, the so-called fertility vitamin in wheat germ oil, and vitamin K, which promotes healthy blood circulation.

The laboratories have developed nutritional supplements like Obion to provide in capsule form the vitamins and minerals needed by a pregnant woman.

Much more will have to be learned by science before premature births actually can be prevented. However, their number is gradually decreasing. And when a baby does arrive before its time, today's methods of survival are much greater than they were even five years ago.

WAKEFIELD—The city improvement program was given a severe jolt this week, when shortage of cement curtailed completion of approximately one thousand feet of concrete sidewalks in different sections of the city. The firm supplying the municipal needs notified the city manager on further deliveries of concrete can be expected until next August.

CRYSTAL FALLS—An anonymous donor has made available a choice building site upon which the new St. Mark's Episcopal church will rise. Rev. Herman Page, vicar, has announced success of a building fund campaign virtually assured that work will be started this fall.

MUNISING—Aiger county's school houses, constructed more than half a century ago, is due for a face lifting. Bids on the renovation project are being asked by the board of supervisors.

STEEPHENSON—School electors will go to the polls here on Monday to cast their ballots on the proposal to construct a new elementary school, which would include grades from kindergarten through the sixth grade. A five mill special levy for ten years is being asked by the board of education to supplement $110,000, which the board now has in a sinking fund for a building program.

ONTONAGON—The sub-committee on buildings of the Senate committee on Public works has approved a project calling for construction of a new post office in Ontonagon.

MANISTIQUE—Action has been postponed by the Manistique City Council on a vacation plan for city employees. The plan, as drawn up by City Attorney William Hild, did not meet the original intention of the city council.

GLADSTONE—Utilizing the money available in the cemetery perpetual care and employee retirement funds, the Gladstone City Commission has authorized purchase of $20,000 worth of Gladstone Electric Revenue Bonds.

ST IGNACE—Grover C.

Denny, project engineer of the $100,000,000 Mackinac Straits bridge during the most critical period of the construction, left this week for a new assignment at Baltimore, Md. Council Gives Approval To Storage Tank Plan

Members of the Negaunee City Council meeting in special session last Thursday night authorized City Manager George E. Monahan Jr., to continue the preliminary work on plans for an elevated overhead storage tank in Negaunee with the use of special funds in the 1936 budget to cover engineering costs.

Council members concurred with the manager that a source of water, if required by the municipality during emergency periods when the regular supply may not be available because of electrical or mechanical failures. Members, without taking formal action at this time, appeared to favor putting the question on the ballot in connection with the regular city election in December.

In calling the matter to the attention of the governing body, Metelick said, "I believe that with budget time drawing near, we should begin thinking seriously about an item that has been number one on the manager's list - a rate improvement program for the last five years.

"I refer to an elevated storage tank. When the recent power failure occurred during an electrical storm, we had to rely on a mechanical device to raise and provide the municipality with water. Failure of this device rendered fire-fighting equipment and personnel useless. It also affected such pieces as hospitals and industries, where immediate requires water. "In 1918 there was proposed to the Negaunee electorate a water works improvement program that included chlorination of the water, installation of an overhead elevated storage tank and filtration. This plan was rejected because the city attempted to accomplish too much at one time.

"This project called for a 300,000 gallon tank at an estimated cost of $90,000. I believe the plant and specifications prepared at that time are good and the site for the tank ideal. The only difference that should be considered now is the size of the tank, for in my opinion we now need a tank having a 400,000 gallon capacity.

"By setting up such a system we should save a considerable amount in electrical energy consumed, for it would mean we no longer would have to operate our pumps 24 hours a day.

"I estimate that a tank of required capacity would cost approximately $150,000. If we were to borrow $100,000 and repay the loan over a 20-year period, it would mean payments of only $3,000 per year, in terms of how to pay the principal and interest. It would require an additional tax of only one-half mill, which would cost the taxpayer 50 cents per $1,000 of property valuation.

"The council should consider two things: in terms of policy, whether or not it wishes to take this step, and if it does, the method of paying for the improvement."

As a result of the manager's report, Councilman G. Vance Hines said, "I think the plan is feasible and sound. It should be included in our budget thinking in September, as I believe most, or all, of the council members would be in favor of the idea."

Councilman Earl Makela added, "I believe we should put the question up to the electorate at the December election."

Metelick informed council the first step should be to retain an engineering firm to do preliminary planning. "You would have to decide whether you want to use the plan and specifications for the previously planned tank now on file, or obtain new ones."

City Attorney Aaron Lowenstein inquired "as to length of time a supply of water in a 400,000 gallon tank would last, and the manager replied that based on the normal consumption of the city of 900,000 gallons for a 24-hour period, the supply would provide a steady supply covering from eight to 12 hours, depending on demand.

Hines summed up advantages of the improvement and concluded his summary by offering a motion that the manager continue his exploratory work and the council budget funds at the budget meeting for engineering costs. The motion was unanimously passed.

Bennett Will Aid Drive for Highway P. O.

Congressman John B. Bennett has pledged his support to the drive which is underway to obtain highway post office service for this area over the route formerly covered by railway post office service on the train line.

Continued Aug. 1 by the Duluth South Shore and Atlantic.

Petitions bearing signatures of approximately 500 citizens of

The Negaunee post office work started last week in Congress-man Bennett seeing his help in immediate establishment of the new service.

The petition forms were distributed to local business houses by the office of the secretary of the Negaunee Business and Professional Association. In a letter received today by Tom Pellow, NBPRA secretary, Congressman Bennett acknowledged receiving the petitions and wrote as follows:

"I have been discussing this matter with the Postmaster General's office from time to time during the past several weeks, and you are assured that I will do everything within my power to have better mail service established over this route."

In addition to the petitions, copies of resolutions asking for the highway post office service, endorsed by officers of the NBPRA, the Negaunee Lions, and Negaunee City Council, have been mailed to Congressman Bennett, Senator Charles Potter and Senator Patrick McManara.

Residence Phone Rates Increased

Announcement was made this week by William S. Ryan, Michigan Bell manager for the Negaunee - Ishpeming area, of an increase in rates of 25 cents per month for individual residence service as a result of a recent order by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Rates for all other classes of service in the community will remain unchanged, Ryan said, except for exchange line mileage charges for both residence and business customers, and a number of adjustments involving auxiliary services such as time as well as distance, key telephone systems, inter-office communication systems.

It was pointed out that while the cost of providing these auxiliary services has risen substantially, there have been no rate increases affecting most of them for five years.

Ryan stated that the increase in residence individual - line rates recognized the greater value of this high-grade service and would help compensate for the additional investment involved in furnishing it.

"Telephone service," he said, "is no different than other services or commodities. People are often swayed by the higher price for specialty goods and services."

In commenting upon the commission's order, the company termed it "disappointing because it gives inadequate recognition to increased costs and denies the company an adequate return on money invested on the business."

Work Underway On Fire Hall Roof

Work has been started installing 6th new roof on the Negaunee Fire Hall, which was authorized by the Council in June, Fire Chief Milton Johnson announced this week.

Successful bidder on the project was H. H. Pelloy and Sons, Marquette, who submitted a price quotation of $1853 for a 15-year bonded guaranty roof.

First Step In Program
Installation of the new roof is the first step in a renovation program at the building, which houses fire trucks and other fire-fighting equipment, according to Chief Johnson.

Contract has already approved purchase of materials for decorating the interior of the building on the first and second floors. Painting and repairs to windows throughout the building will be carried on by the regular municipal maintenance staff.

Mighty Lat - a Bird

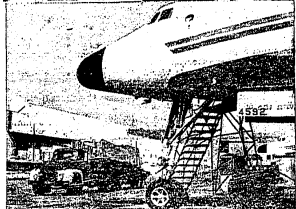

MILLIONS of pairs, thousands of tons of delicate and complicated machinery, 11,000,000 square feet of area and upwards of 50,000 people on the job that's what Lockheed Aircraft Corporation was in producing aircraft ranging from bulge-top radar planes for military, below, to domestic airliners.

INSTALLING intricate electrical wiring system of Mustang. Configuration is typical of tasks confronting company's workers. One of every five is a woman.

AT SPRAWLING California division plant in Burbank, workers then are often dwarfed by such production line features as three-bladed, 12-foot propellers on giant 40-passenger airliners.

CLOSELY LINKED with Lockheed operations is motor truck transportation. Its big trucks and trailers are more than transport vehicles—they are an extension of assembly lines that produce components of aircraft. International trucks, like that shown above by Consolidated's own, virtually tie company's three California factories together.

Former Negaunee

Resident Dies

At Rogers City

Word was received here this week of the death in Rogers City last Friday of Joseph Pengasse, a former Negaunee resident.

Mr. Pengasse, a native of Negaunee, was the son of Capt. Billy Pengasse, pioneer local mining man. He was born June 7, 1874, in Negaunee, attended local schools and prior to the turn of the century was employed in the old Jackson Mine.

He left the Jackson Co. to become a machinist and in 1913 went to Massachusetts to engage in construction work. He started at the Calfee plant of Michigan Limestone and Chemical Company as master machinist in 1916, was promoted to general superintendent in 1928 and became vice-president of the company in 1930, a position which he held until his retirement in 1941.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon in West-End Presbyterian church, under the direction of Rev. Frederick T. Steen officiating. Burial was made in Memorial Park Cemetery in Rogers City.
