ALAN NEWMAN RECEIVES PROMOTION

Alan Newman is being promoted to Work Program Administrator at the Jacob's Creek Civilian Conservation Center in Bristol, Tennessee on February 12. Newman has been the Resource Assistant on the Ontonagon Ranger District, Ottawa National Forest for the past 1 1/2 years.

Jacob's Creek CCC Camp is similar to the Job Corps Camp which existed near Marenisco in the late 1960's. The camp provides basic education and teaches work skills to 200 young men. Through contracts with individual labor unions, the unions provide the work experience and

TOPICAL FLUORIDE APPLICATIONS OFFERED TO CHILDREN

This summer topical applications of fluoride will again be offered to children of Baraga, Gogebic, Houghton, Deweenaw, and Ontonagon Counties by the Summer Topical Fluoride Program. The fluoride program, which is sponsored by the Western Upper Peninsula District Health Department under the supervision of the Michigan Department of Public Health, will be available to second, fifth, and eighth graders and to special cases referred by dentists. The procedure for applying the topical fluoride consists of four visits to the fluoride clinic. On the first visit the child's teeth are cleansed and a fluoride solution is applied directly to the surface of the teeth. During the three succeeding visits, only the fluoride application is repeated. The technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about forty percent compared with the sixty to sixty-five per cent reduction obtained with fluoridated water.

In addition to providing protection against cavities, the program offers a valuable dental experience for children with no discomfort. Dental health education by the clinic personnel, including instruction in the proper method of brushing teeth, also is an important part of the program.

Parents of eligible children will be notified at a later date and be given an opportunity to enroll their children in the program. A fee of six dollars will be charged to cover the cost of operating the clinic.

In an attempt to eliminate the duplication of services and the confusion which results because of the duplication, the Summer Topical Fluoride Program will not be offered to those children who are eligible to participate in the Mobile Dental Project. Children will receive the same benefits from the Mobile Dental Project as they would from the Summer Topical Fluoride Program. The Mobile Dental Project is, however, limited to rural areas and certain dental manpower shortage areas. The Mobile Dental Project visits each eligible area at least once per calendar year and is open to all children in grades K through 8. The operating costs of the Mobile Dental Project are covered by federal funding, so there is no fee charged for care which is provided by the project. It is no longer necessary for the Summer Topical Fluoride Program to provide services to those communities which can receive the same benefits from a Mobile Dental Program at less cost to the patient. Therefore, communities in the five county area (Baraga, Gogebic, Houghton, Keweenaw, and Ontonagon) will be served by either the Summer Topical Fluoride Program or the Mobile Dental Project, but not both.

training in heavy equipment operations, carpentry, masonry and painting. Upon successful completion of the program enrollees are then employed as union apprentices. Newman's job will include administering the union contracts.

According to Owen Gusler, Ontonagon District Ranger, no replacement has been named to date.

WHITE PINE PLANS LAYOFF

White Pine Copper Division of Copper Range Co. is planning to lay off approximately 300 workers according to a company news release late last week. At the present time the division has 1,300 employees, with 40 to 45 percent being from Ontonagon County, 35 to 40 percent from Gogebic County and Iron County, Wis., and the remainder from other areas of the Western Upper Peninsula.

In its statement, the company said "management has determined that a reduction in personnel of approximately 300 workers will be necessary" in order to maintain the division "as a continuous operation and remain economically viable during a period of severely depressed copper prices."

The reduction, the firm said, will be effected during the remainder of this year.

"It is expected that after the reduction in personnel, production will continue at the current rate of 9,000 tons per day," the company stated.

"The matter is under study and a final decision on the precise number of terminations will be determined within a month.

DEROCHE CHALLENGES MACK TO OPEN DEBATES

Dave DeRoche, candidate for the Senate from the U.P. (38th Dist.) today released a challenge he recently issued to Joseph S. Mack of Ironwood.

The letter from DeRoche invited Mack to participate in a series of open debates on the issues of the district and the state.

DeRoche proposed five or six debates before various groups, such as the League of Women Voters, Labor Unions and other civic and political organizations.

Moderators and formats were left open to be decided by the two candidates in consultation. DeRoche said, "I feel the voters of the district are entitled to hear our positions and to have the opportunity to ask questions."

Certain issues currently being discussed in the district and in Lansing obviously would have to be on the agenda, such as land use, Project Seafarer, the mining industry, etc. Other concerns such as financing of education and environmental would probably be addressed.

A major part of the debate will undoubtedly be devoted to such ethical questions as lobbyist controls, financial disclosure and conflict of interest legislation.

The Democratic party's recent resolution on the seniority system in the senate should provide a topic for contrasting the views of the candidates, DeRoche said.

As far as I know, this will be the first time the voters of the district have had such an opportunity, if the senator agrees, DeRoche added.

We cannot hold a torch to light another's path without brightening our own.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN PANEL REPORTS WATER QUALITY CONCERNS

Houghton (January 16) - A citizens panel representing agricultural, business, environmental and industrial interests of Northern Michigan has submitted its report to the Pollution from Land-Use Activities Reference Group (PLUARG) of the International Joint Commission. (The IJC is responsible by treaty for international oversight of Great Lakes water quality.)

After three intensive study and discussion sessions, the Panel found its overriding concerns were "public apathy and bureaucratic inefficiency". The report states, "The Great Lakes, as the largest freshwater system in the world, is of such paramount importance as a regional and international resource that spectacular, innovative approaches must be taken" to protect and manage its water quality.

"Overlapping jurisdictions, bureaucratic territorialism, ineffective local stewardship, lack of coordination among regulatory authorities, inadequate recognition of regional differences" are cited as contributing to the problems of management.

As a solution, the Panel proposes creation of an International Great Lakes Authority to "simplify, clarify, make mutually consistent and regionally appropriate" all laws, rules and regulations regarding water quality management. The Authority would set priorities and goals and provide funding, but administration and implementation of specific projects would be local.

The Panel's highest priority water quality problems were listed as urban runoff, especially of pathogens, heavy metals and organic poisons, toxic substances from all sources, including atmospheric contaminants from the Basin, certain agricultural activities which contribute pollutants and increase erosion, and shoreline erosion and land filling.

To achieve remedial action, the Northern Michigan Panel placed emphasis on increased cost-share and tax relief incentive programs as more effective than laws and fines. Prevention of pollution is stressed by better planning of shoreland uses, re-use of materials and recognition of the responsibilities of ownership.

While remedial technology is well advanced, the Panel finds, "It is the implementation phase that is bogged down." It suggests that "Best Management Practices", developed cooperatively by the various land use interests could provide restrictions and guidelines for appropriate land use "without the onus of defining, identifying and 'zoning' all unsuitable areas."

Public purchase and reclamation where "present land uses are totally inappropriate and causing pollution problems" is suggested as possibly more cost-effective than continued efforts at treatment.

Upper Peninsula members of the Panel, selected by the IJC as representative of diverse public interests, included John Suffron, White Pine Copper Company, White Pine, Vernie Knudson, Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, and Barbara Clark, Houghton, elected chairperson by the Panel at its first meeting.

Northern Lower Peninsula members were Tom Wieland, Soil Conservation District trustee, Charlevoix; Richard Hudson, Forward Bay County, Bay City; Robert Tufts, County Road Commission Board, Huron County, Bad Axe; and Nicki Haberland, League of Women Voters, Bay City.

PLUARG will make use of the panel reports as they are forming their final recommendations. The PLUARG report will be the first of the International Joint Commission Reference Group reports to have utilized citizen input in its preparation. All panel reports will be published verbatim by PLUARG.

How to keep fuel costs down

Energy conservation hasn't disappeared just because fuel is more plentiful. Homeowners discovered it cost more than ever last winter to heat their homes. One way to keep fuel costs within reason, advises the National Home Improvement Council, is to "retrofit" homes to maximize the benefits of energy conservation.

Savings of up to 50 percent on fuel costs are possible, notes the Council, with the right kind of insulation in the ceilings, walls and floors over unheated basements or crawl spaces. The effectiveness of insulation material is expressed in R values—or resistance to heat flow. The higher the R value, the more effective the insulation.

The amount of insulation in terms of R-value required to provide energy savings of 50 percent depends on climate. Those who live in cold climates will need higher R-values than those who live in warm climates. As a general rule, however, a well-insulated home has R-30 insulation for ceilings, R-19 for floors and R-13 for walls.

Homeowners considering adding insulation should determine whether the house is currently insulated and to what degree. When checking, advises NHIC, the homeowner should look for insulation in the attic and in the basement or in crawl spaces between floor joists. For perimeter walls, check by placing a thermometer on an inside wall. With an outside temperature of 50 degrees and an inside reading of 68, a well-insulated wall should register about 65 degrees. If the reading is considerably lower than 65, it's likely the wall isn't insulated.

Besides adequate insulation, caulking and weatherstripping storm windows and doors can save homeowners an additional 13 percent in fuel costs.

Another fuel conservation measure calls for setting thermostats at levels that will save energy. In summer, for example, thermostats should be set above 78 degrees. In winter, they should be set no higher than 68 degrees. Should you feel a little chilly at 68 degrees, put on a sweater. Each degree above 68 adds about 3 percent to your fuel bill. At night, lower the thermostat several degrees and, if needed, use an extra blanket.

As with the heating and cooling system, the size of the water heater should be no larger than required to meet a family's requirements. Since about 15 percent of a home's energy bill goes for heating water, energy is wasted warming up unneeded water in an oversized heater. Also, the hot water heater should not be run above 140 degrees. Take showers instead of baths. Showers require less hot water. Consider installing an inexpensive flow restrictor in the pipe to the showerhead. This device reduces the flow of water to four gallons per minute from the usual seven to nine gallons a minute.

The same rule about size applies to refrigerator-freezers. Choose a unit that meets the needs of the family. There's even a new energy-saving model that uses about one-third less electricity than similar models not equipped with its special thermostatically controlled motor.

When it comes to cooking, there are some helpful hints to follow to avoid wasting energy. Cooking in an oven is less expensive than using the range top. The insulation in an oven holds heat in. Surface units disperse heat. But don't open and close the oven door frequently; it wastes heat.

Finally, frozen foods brought to room temperature before cooking require less energy.

How to order Chinese culinary wonders that are not on the menu!

If you have ever wondered why the Chinese patrons in your favorite Chinese restaurant seem to be eating food that is totally different from anything appearing on your menu, it is because the bill of fare from which they have selected their dishes is completely different from yours.

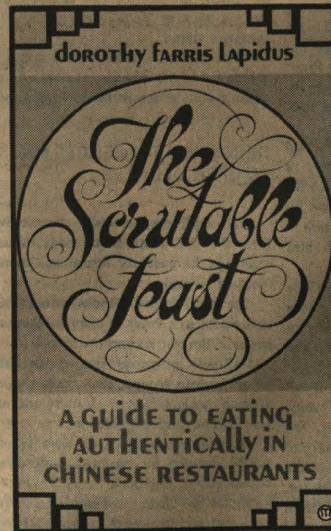

The English menu that the Westerner is given in a Chinese restaurant is not a translation of the Chinese menu that is distributed to Chinese patrons.

Dorothy Farris Lapidus of New York City has written a handy take-along-to-restaurant guide that shows how to order the culinary wonders on the Chinese language menu without knowing a word of Chinese—either written or spoken. The book "The Scrutable Feast: A Guide to Eating Authentically in Chinese Restaurants" was published September 19, 1977, by Dodd, Mead and Company, Inc. of New York.

The Chinese version of a Cantonese menu, for example, may contain as many as 350 dishes, while the English language version is likely to list only 75 to 85 dishes; and of these, rarely will more than five be found on the Chinese language menu.

"The Scrutable Feast" effectively removes the great menu barrier between the East and the West. Chinese language menus of both Cantonese and Szechwan restaurants are shown together with translations and full descriptions of the dishes.

These two cuisines were chosen simply because they have become the best known among Westerners. By selecting from the English descriptions and pointing to the Chinese characters that appear next to each dish, it is possible to obtain the finest and most varied selections available from San Francisco and Vancouver to New York, London and Paris.

Even in cities where choices might be limited by unavailability of certain ingredients, the book can still be used advantageously, as it will certainly improve the quality of the selections. Since the date of publication, the book has been successfully used in such places as Chester, Pennsylvania where, to be sure, no Chinatown exists.

The book also contains sample Cantonese and Szechwan dinners of various sizes and tastes ranging from "Curious" to "Knowledgeable" to "Adventurous." It also provides a key to the "total experience" of Chinese dining in a section on Chinese table manners, including instructions on the use of tableware and condiments, which contribute to the full appreciation of a Chinese meal.

An extensive glossary defines and describes the various ingredients used in the dishes. The index, which is itself divided into Cantonese and Szechwan sections, lists the dishes in various ways so as to make it as convenient as possible for the reader to find a particular dish that he may have in mind.

In the introduction, the author explains why even those Westerners who are expert in preparing Chinese food in their own kitchens may still be quite unable to order authentic fare in a restaurant. The various cuisines of China are categorized geographically, and some general characteristics of these regional cooking styles are given.

Some of the difficulties of translating the Chinese language menu are pointed out. According to the author, even in restaurants where an almost completely bi-lingual menu is available, the translations and descriptions of the dishes may be inadequate, inaccurate or unappetizing.

Dorothy Farris Lapidus received a bachelor's degree in physics and mathematics from City College of New York. For several years she followed these disciplines while holding positions in technology and research at General Foods Laboratories and Bell Telephone Laboratories. She also taught science for six years at Packer Collegiate Institute of Brooklyn Heights.

As a result of a long-held interest in languages, she eventually took courses in Russian, Arabic, Chinese and Japanese. These studies were pursued at New York and Columbia Universities.

It was as a diversion that Mrs. Lapidus started to translate the Chinese language menu of a typical Cantonese restaurant, and soon realized that this project was a discipline in itself.

The idea for her book emerged over a long period of time during which she escorted groups of people to Chinese restaurants, where she ordered dinners for them in authentic Chinese fashion, that is, by writing the menu in Chinese. On many occasions she wondered how it might be possible for persons who did not read Chinese to order the same authentic dishes. This guide is her answer to the question.

Mrs. Lapidus' husband, Leonard, an economist, shares her enthusiasm for Chinese food. He was a willing participant in all the eating orgies that were held for the purpose of gathering material for "The Scrutable Feast."

FOURTH SURVEY OF MICHIGAN'S TIMBER BEGINS

Foresters from the Forest Service (U.S. Dept. of Agriculture) and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources have begun the fourth inventory on Michigan's timber resource, according to Dr. John H. Ohman, Director of the North Central Forest Experiment Station in St. Paul, Minnesota, and Dr. Henry H. Webster, Forestry Division Chief of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources in Lansing. The last survey, dated 1966, found 18.9 million acres of commercial forest land (52 percent of the total land area) growing 15.0 billion cubic feet in live, sound trees.

Like the previous surveys of 1935, 1955 and 1966, the new one will give estimates of current forest area, timber volume, growth, mortality, ownership, and use. In addition, the new report will estimate the State's potential timber harvest, project the timber supply 30 years ahead, and discuss timber management opportunities. Comparing the new and past surveys will show trends in growth and use of Michigan's timber resource.

The first step in the new survey will be to obtain a preliminary estimate of the State's forest area and composition from aerial photographs. Next, two-man crews of foresters will visit some of the locations pinpointed on aerial photos to verify and correct the preliminary estimates and to establish new sample plots for making tree measurements. They will also remeasure old plots established in 1966.

The survey, which will take about 3 is a cooperative effort with foresters from the Station, the Michigan DNR, and forest products industries manning the crews. A total of 42 foresters will be in the field measuring trees on sample plots. In addition to manpower, the DNR will provide to the Station funds made available by the State Legislature for data processing and for special studies including a forest landownership study.

Field measurements will be processed by computer in St. Paul and findings of the survey will be summarized in several reports to be published later by the Station and made available to the public.

Why these periodic surveys? Forests, like all living things, are constantly changing. As forests change, new information is needed by forest owners, land managers, forest industries, bankers, railroads, and others to plan for the future. For example, forest survey figures may help a forest industry decide where to build a new plant; bankers may use survey data to study the economic prospects of such a plant before approving construction loans.

The information provided by the Michigan survey is not only essential to proper regional economic development, but forms the basis for planning and guidance of all land use and environmental protection programs. Sound forest resource management requires current information about the resource itself: its location, area, condition, growth volume, and associated water, wildlife, and recreation values.

The score was 69-67 as Burt missed his first free-throw and the Warriors got the rebound. Maksym scored 5 straight to end the game, 74-67, the Warriors the victors.

A great individual effort was shown by Steve DeMerse of Bessemer, in the fourth quarter, as he netted 12 fourth quarter points, three of which put Bessemer within two points of the Warriors.

Turnovers played an important role as White Pine only had eight and Bessemer had 22.

47TH ANNIVERSARY FOR OTTAWA NATIONAL FOREST

January 27, 1978 marked the 47th anniversary of the Ottawa National Forest. The start toward the establishment of a National forest in Michigan's western Upper Peninsula began in 1928 with the federal purchase of 162,000 acres of land near Kenton, Michigan. This area, known as the Keweenaw Purchase Unit, was typical of the logged and burned-over land of the Northern Lake States area. Efforts began immediately through programs such as the Civilian Conservation Corp to restore the forest resources.

By January 27, 1931, when it was proclaimed the "Ottawa National Forest" by order of President Herbert Hoover, the total acreage of federally owned land had grown to 250,551. The name "Ottawa" refers to the Ottawa Indians, an Algonquin tribe, who were driven by the Iroquois to the Lake Superior region. Until 1935 the Ottawa was administered as one of three National Forests in the Upper Peninsula by a Ranger at Kenton and a Forest Supervisor in Munising, Michigan. The other two National Forests, the Marquette and the Hiawatha have since merged.

Today the Ottawa National Forest consists of 923,998 acres of federally owned land, managed to provide multiple benefits of recreation, water, wildlife, soil, range, and timber to the American people. It is administered through six District Ranger Offices located in Bessemer, Bergland, Kenton, Iron River, Ontonagon and Watersmeet and by the Forest Supervisor's Office in Ironwood, Michigan. Anyone interested in obtaining more information about the Ottawa National Forest or the Forest Service is encouraged to contact any of these offices.

RUPPE ANNOUNCES NEW TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR U.P.

U.S. Representative Philip E. Ruppe, R-Houghton, today announced the inauguration on a new telephone service designed to give Upper Peninsula residents better service.

Ruppe said the Marquette office, headed by Jim Storey, now is linked to a WATS (Wide Area Telephone System) system that will allow constituents to call the district office free of charge. The new number is 1-800-56207856. This toll free service is available anywhere in Upper Michigan.

"I am pleased to improve the excellent service already provided by the Marquette office," Ruppe said. "The Eleventh District constituent office in Marquette has been a very valuable extension of the Washington office."

During normal business hours, a staff representative will answer the phone and during nights and weekends the calls will automatically be recorded for later follow-up.

The new number again is 1-800-562-7856 toll free from any part of the Upper Peninsula.

"I hope anyone needing help with any problem, anything ranging from bureaucratic red tape to social security, will call the number," Ruppe concluded.

SMORGASBORD FOR SCHOLARSHIPS AT SUOMI COLLEGE

The Suomi College Alumni Smorgasbord for Scholarships menu and plans are set for 11:30 - 3:30, Sunday, March 12, to be served at Nikander Hall on campus.

Alumni President, Ray Franz, General Manager of Copper Range Company, said that this year's Smorgasbord will top all previous twelve annual affairs. Some two years ago a record 1,200 people were served.

The annual Suomi smorgasbord was started with a pancake breakfast 12 years ago to offer the public opportunity to support Suomi student scholarships. It has grown each year, both in menu and attendance, people coming from as far as Indiana. Aid for students is still the goal, with hundreds of alumni and friends getting together for a post-winter day of work and eating together.

A snowstorm two years ago did not stop nearly 1,000 people from attending the smorgasbord. Last years attendance topped a thousand in good weather.

Suomi Smorgasbord Sunday has become an area tradition of good homemade dining and support for a good cause.

Tickets in advance are available from Kukkonen's Card and Gift Shop and Suomi alumni.

MDNR OUTDOOR REPORT

Ice fishing on Lake Superior is starting to show some activity around the mouth of the Falls River. There were about 40 fishermen in that area in tents or shanties this past weekend. I have no reports on what the fishermen were able to catch on Sunday, but there were only 2 fish taken on Saturday. One was a brown trout and the other a lake trout. There are a couple of shanties off the Baraga State Park and another couple off the Light House Point on the Baraga side of the bay. About the best fishing in that area was between the tip of Sand Point and the sawmill near the end of the week. The catch, however, was for perch and a couple of fishermen picked up a good number of that specie. We have been getting some below zero temperatures at night and some day time readings in the teens and 20's in the past 2 or 3 days which should help to make ice farther out than what there is now. If conditions continue like this for a few more days, I would imagine that the fishing activity will move out over some of the major reefs and shoals further up the bay.

Huron Bay is probably ice covered for better than half of its length, being quite a bit smaller than Keweenaw Bay, but fishermen should consider most of the ice as being unsafe until they have checked it out thoroughly. Keweenaw Bay should be given the same treatment to determine what areas are safe. There is another weather condition to be checked quite frequently on every fishing trip. Even when there is ice on the big bay that is over 6 inches or so, a good strong wind out of the north or northeast can set up some swells that could break the ice up in a very short time. It takes only a few seconds to stick your head out of the entrance of your shanty or tent to see what might be happening to the ice.

GARY HAUSWIRTH NAMED CO-OP EDUCATION DIRECTOR OF SUOMI'S NEW PROGRAM

Cooperative education has a new impetus at Suomi College with the appointment of Gary D. Hauswirth as director of the college and industry related educational program. Cooperative Education, popularly labelled Coop-Ed, is a contemporary educational concept in which students study on campus and also fit performance work in business and industry to their college study requirements for graduation.

The college and the work plants of commerce and industry join forces to prepare a qualified work-ready student. The advantages of Coop-Ed are designed to offer a student learning and earning at the same time, and produce a well-adjusted graduate with specific knowledge and skills gained both in the classes and at work. The expanded Suomi Coop-Ed program is supported by a U.S. Office of Education grant.

Gary D. Hauswirth brings to the directorship of Suomi's Coop-Ed programs eight years of experience, five as public school teacher and three from business as an insurance agent. Academic Dean Dr. Arthur E. Puotinen said that the new director is highly qualified to direct the college's off-campus and the classroom Coop-Ed programs. Planned are courses in areas of human services, industrial service management, security training, recreational leadership and business. The service area of Coop-Ed will extend to the Great Lakes basin region at the outset.

The new Coop-Ed director, Gary D. Hauswirth, born in Hancock, graduate of the local high school, was an all Upper Peninsula 1st team football player in 1963. He enrolled at Northern Michigan University on a football scholarship and was an "N" award winner as a sophomore. He earned his B.S. degree in history and business.

He was a teacher and a coach at Carney-Nadeau Schools, Michigan. Since 1974, he has been an area manager for Fidelity Union Life Insurance Company, Dallas, and a teacher in the Portage Lake Area Community Schools in Clerical record keeping.

Hauswirth has a permanent Michigan teaching certificate, life and health insurance agents licenses, and a first aid certificate. He is member of the Copper Country and National Association of Life Underwriters. He is a trustee of Grace Methodist Church, Houghton, and a city Volunteer Fireman. Mr & Mrs. Gary Hauswirth and their three children live in the city.

AAL GIVES SUOMI APPRECIATION GRANTS

Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) has awarded two appreciation grants to Suomi College for administration of college-level scholarships. The grant of $600 is for the Lutheran Campus and American Minority Scholarships Programs, based on 20% given by AAL for direct scholarships already awarded to Suomi students.

Suomi shares in the current AAL total grants program of $59,000 given to 50 colleges and Lutheran schools. William J. Schultz, FIC, AAL district representative, extended the grant awards to Suomi's president, Dr. Ralph J. Jalkanen, on campus.

CITIZENS BANK ELECTS NEW OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Officers were elected at the recent Annual meeting of the Citizens State Bank.

Stockholders elected the following directors: Frank A. Domitrovich, Frank O. Kaarto, Miles A. Plutchak, William J. Rosemurgy and Thomas M. Strong.

The board of directors later organized and elected Kaarto, chairman; Strong, president; Carl R. Lundquist, vice president and cashier; Mary C. Vezzetti, vice president; Lucille M. Johnson, assistant vice president; Larry C. Ivey, assistant vice president; and Christopher T. Ross, assistant cashier.

Ivey and Ross were designated as managers of the White Pine and Mass City branches, respectively, and Lucille Johnson was named audit supervisor.

An unusually large number of shareholders attended the meeting at the Ontonagon Community Building. The meeting was followed by a luncheon at the Candlelight Inn.

William E. Ryan, who recently retired as president, read the annual report and noted that total gross income for 1977 topped $1.1 million and net profits exceeded $118,000. Total assets at year-end exceeded $16 million and represented an increase of more than $1.6 million over the total on Dec. 31, 1976. Ryan said the record-breaking increase in assets enabled the bank to increase the bond account by more than $1 million and loans and mortgages by $500,000.

Ryan thanked the officers and staff for the cooperation given him during the past twenty-four years and lauded the directors for their dedication and interest in the bank's affairs.

A resolution praising Ryan for his years of service was read by Domitrovich and placed in the permanent corporate records. Ryan has been retained on a consulting basis for the coming year.

THREE GCC PRACTICAL NURSING INSTRUCTORS RECEIVE MASTER OF SCIENCE DEGREES

Three Gogebic Community College Practical Nursing Instructors: Mrs. Judyth Ann Clarkson, Mrs. Eleanor S. Wertz, and Mrs. Jean Flood recently received their Master of Science in Nursing Degree from Wayne State University, Detroit, Mi. according to Mrs. Maryann Novak, Director of Nursing Education. Each has her major in teaching clinical nursing/medical-surgical nursing.

These instructors attended an Outreach Program offered to Upper Peninsula nurses under the direction of Dr. Dorothy C. Reilly Education Division, Wayne State University. Faculty from Wayne State University came to teach the classes at Northern Michigan University, Michigan Technological University and Lake Superior State College. For each of the GCC Practical Nursing Instructors to attain the degree, it took approximately 2 1/2 years of traveling to the various campuses for weekends or several week days of concentrated classroom or clinical assignment. They averaged 14,000 to 16,000 miles of travel in commuting to classes.

Judyth Ann Clarkson is a Clinical Instructor in the Ontonagon County Medical Care Facility and Ontonagon Memorial Hospital. She previously taught Anatomy/Physiology and Medical Terminology for Medical Secretary students at GCC. She received her Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree from Ohio State University and was an instructor at the Black Hills Area Vocational Technical School of Practical Nursing, Rapid City, South Dakota before coming to GCC. A native of Columbus, Ohio, she is married to John F. Clarkson, also of Columbus. They have two children, John F. Clarkson II and Julie Clarkson. The Clarkson family lives in White Pine, Mi.

Eleanor S. Wertz is an Instructor on campus. She is responsible for teaching Fundamentals of Nursing I, II, III. Eleanor received her Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree from the University of Buffalo, N.Y. where she later became an instructor in the baccalaureate nursing program. She remained on the faculty for several years before coming to GCC. A native of Lancaster, NY, Eleanor is married to Frederick T. Wertz, formerly of Kenmore, NY. They have three children, Raymond, Ann Louise, and Jonathon. The Wertz family lives in White Pine, Mi.

Jean Flood is a Clinical Instructor at Iron County Medical Care Facility and Crystal Falls Community Hospital, Crystal Falls, Mi. She has a Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree from Michigan State University. Before coming to GCC Jean was a staff nurse at the Veterans Hospital in Iron Mountain, Mi. The Citizens Committee For Better Government, Inc. chartered by the State Of Michigan on October 11, 1977 has prepared and adopted their formal Creed. It represents a declaration of their purpose and their guidelines of conduct. The Creed, as adopted, is a part of the preparation the Board of Directors of the corporation have been engaged in for their forthcoming membership drive and the opening of several chapters in the U.P.. The corporation is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, and non-sectional organization open to every citizen interested in better government and in preserving all that is presently good in it.

THE CITIZENS COMMITTEE FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT, INC.

OUR GOVERNMENT, of the People, by the People, and for the People, is experiencing abuses by individuals who partake in the administration of government from township to the federal level. These abuses are rampant, prevalent; sometimes hidden and sometimes flaunted. More than often, we have stood by, idly believing that it is hopelessly, futile to attempt to cure this by any means. Fortunately, there are some of us that do not feel that good, dedicated government by honest and dedicated individuals is not attainable. We still believe that there are methods and means to eradicate the abuses of any prevailing government. If government, within its own framework, does not provide adequate means to deal with the abuses, then, in that event, the public will undertake to do so.

We have been made acutely aware that the People of the Upper Peninsula have never had a non-partisan, non-sectional organization of citizens dedicated to promoting better government. The People have never had a forum, a place to meet, discuss and focus on all the problems of the deficiencies and the betterment of government; be it township, city, county, state or federal.

We are dedicated to our purpose to promote better government, wherever and however government by any political unit affects our lives. We are born, reared and joined in society with certain inalienable rights. Our lives have chartered liberties, many of which are not understood, or of which we are unaware. Quietly, we cherish and respect the existence of these rights, etched and embodied in documents we know as the Great Magna Carta, Declaration of Independence, the United States Constitution, and all their counterparts in all of the states, territories and possessions of the Federal Union.

By using all of the means and methods, practical and available to us, we intend to educate ourselves and others concerning the operation of government. We will be receptive to all information and data; discuss problems and programs; communicate with all who may be concerned or involved; and always, where we must, act firmly and positively to publicize and reflect our considered judgments and opinions. We will evaluate candidates for elective and appointive offices, and with candor and fairness present our recommendations and our reasons for same to the People. We shall be the forum and the place to make, file, or review complaints and grievances relating to government and its operation by individuals involved; ours shall be a place where all said action or conduct will receive consideration.

We shall not be directed by individuals with selfish goals. We will find our leadership and our direction by consensus, in our adopted democratic process. We shall not stifle expressions or suggestions. We will demand openness and fairness. We will maintain a strong, independent view, and we will not be dominated or manipulated by anyone. In the conduct of our affairs we will demand an atmosphere free of external pressures and influences from partisan, political organizations and other special interest groups. We will strive to be a permanent organization dedicated to the expressed purposes of our existence.

We are not designed merely to accomplish the alleviation of problems personal or beneficial to members. Our scope of operation will be broad, covering the spectrum of all governmental problems. Our success will be measured, gauged and secured by membership participation and public interest. We will strive to be perceptive about people, and equally so, in evaluating all available and submitted information. We will defer to and respect opinions that people have derived from their experiences. We are also acutely aware that many wrong-doings, by omission and commission, go unnoticed, or fail to be alleviated when noticed and attacked by one or a few. Our concerted activity, in this regard, will provide the power of expression and the force of consensus. Our membership is open to all who desire to participate, to aid in any degree, in the fulfillment of our purpose of obtaining and of maintaining better government. If participation, by membership, is not convenient or possible, it is our fervent hope that our disclosed purpose and our activity will draw and merit wide, public support.

This country has engaged in too many conflicts, costly to life, limb, and our secured destinies to permit the abandonment or relinquishment of those very cherished and revered principles that people fought, died, and suffered for. To be blind to what is happening, to fail to recognize a growing deterioration of our government and its true purposes, would be pure mockery and a sad commentary. This would prove the futility of our sacrifices abroad, while erosion has been permitted to grow at home to the extent that little, or nothing, is left of what we were told and what we believed we were fighting for.

All of us, consciously or otherwise, are engaged in seeking betterment in our lives and in our destinies. We think that the forces directing our very existence, sometimes controlling it, is government; therefore, its purity is an absolute necessity. Government must merit the utmost faith and trust of all those it governs. Unfortunately, its purity is tarnished by individuals who use their roles, and their positions, for their selfish and greedy purposes. Our attention shall be, especially, directed toward such individuals.

Finally, we represent that our primary obligation should be, and is, the creative use of all of our resources, within our means, to protect the public, and each individual's constitutional rights; and to see that laws are properly administered and implemented; and, to contribute affirmatively to the integrity of government and a constructive moral leadership for the community. We know that we can accomplish all of this with the help and guidance of our chosen and abiding faith.

BE IT KNOWN THAT the foregoing CREED promulgated, considered and adopted by the undersigned members of the Board of Directors of The Citizens Committee for Better Government, Inc. on the Fourth Day of January, 1978 after expressing a solemn and prayerful hope that this Creed will provide the basic guidelines and moral guidance and leadership for its future conduct.
