

MINERS SWAMPED

NORMAL UPSETS M. C. M. IN MUD

Normal, 25; M. C. M., 3. Despite a wet field, Normal swamped the Miners in more ways than one. Jerry Hemr slipped across for the first touchdown like Columbus discovered land. Jerry discovered land, but it was smothered on his face. The Miners called for row boats, but they did not arrive in time. There is no doubt about it, Northern is way out of M. C. M.'s class. M. C. M. should practice with the high schools. Northern repeatedly scored, getting the Miners so guffazled they cried for their mamas and that their school song was "Please Show Me the Way to Go Home." The game looked more or less like a political campaign, as a great deal of mud was slung by both parties.

Students who didn't see the game sure missed something. Even Nero with his burning of Rome, didn't see anything as good as Northern really playing football.

HAYNES STARTS PROGRAM FOR COMING YEAR

Men Wanting to Join Should Do So Immediately.

The Haynes Debating Society has organized and is holding meetings every Wednesday at 3:45 in Mr. Bowman's room. At the present the enrollment numbers seventeen, but there is still room for several more men who would like to learn a little more about the gentle art of "mudslinging". 1926-27 officers are:

President—Minden Maynard.
Vice-President—Emory Johnston.
Secretary and Treasurer—Donald McDonald.

Among the new members are several veteran H. S. debaters who have represented their respective schools in forensics for the past several years. Along with these are degree students who are returning to Northern after several years spent in the teaching field. This should give the society a goodly number of representatives in collegiate debate.

Men who have not yet enrolled and who wish to do so can secure admission by reporting to the meeting at 3:45, October 20, in Mr. Bowman's room.

The Haynes Debating Society had to postpone its meeting last Wednesday because of class meetings. The members were all keenly disappointed, as they are so alive and eager to chew the rag they cannot wait long enough for the meetings to be called. Webster will have to step lively to be school champions this year.

MRS. HALLE OFFERS GOOD POINTERS ON CHOICE OF COLLEGE

Do All Young People Want College Education? She Asks.

Young people have their possibilities, good or bad. Of course, I am interested in them, because I am one of them (and they are an interesting subject). People think they have to take sides in discussing youth; that's part of their altruistic, curious, callous attitude. But generalizations have a better place in history. There has been much said by the wisecracks concerning young people, their fast life (as though they are mechanisms equipped with high-revolving speedometers), and their "going to the dogs." All that is not only destructive of any friendliness, but is irretrievable besides.

It is a relief to find an older person who lets that problem alone. Mrs. Rita Halle, in McCall's Magazine, in an article entitled "Is Your Son or Daughter Going to College?",

SORORITY GREETES SISTER MEMBERS WITH LUNCHEON AT M. E. A. MEET

Make Success of Holding Real Get Together.

One of the pleasantest things about an organization is its joyful reunions and remembrances. Reminiscing is talking about people and things we love, and a gathering of sisters in an organization is just the place for doing it.

The Deltas had such a gathering on Friday, the eighth of this month, during the Institute. They gave a luncheon in honor of all sister Deltas who had come to attend the teachers' convention. It was an opportune time, and they took advantage of it to have a real Delta get-together.

The Deltas who were entertained as guests of this year's chapter were the following: Carolyn Ingram Love, Thelma Bretz, Anona Anderson, Thelma Anderson, Lillian Holman, Cecil Lobb, Grace Billings, Libbie K. Hermann, Violet Nordgren, Florence H. Barber, Aurora C. Beaulieu, Helen Marson, Aura M. Gaberson, Gladys Vial, Irene Schartz, Ann Weiss, Isabel C. Muck, Moncera E. Kikish, Anna M. Johnson, Helen C. MacFarlane, Esther M. Peterson, Ruth Stetler, Clara Junc, Helen Witter, Frances C. Hallfrisch, Ethel C. Lacc, Helen V. Wareham, Delma E. Arnold, Mrs. Vida Cathleen Laumer, Evelyn Verian, Sarah N. Bottrell, Frances Nadeau, Ellen Risku, Helen Andree, Clara Laidlow, Gladys Page, Edith Brown, Inez Bertrand, Bertha E. Wyse, Jean E. Lester, Dorothy Mack, and Delphine Carlson.

Organizations Promise Gay Parties For Coming Friday Evenings

There is a nice group of Friday evenings ahead of us which promise a variety of good times. Friday evening of this week, the churches of Marquette will entertain their respective student followers. Next week Friday, October 20, the Phi Kappa Nu sorority will have charge of the social evening in the gym. They promise something good. November

5, the night before we play Superior here, the Brothers of Diogenes say they are going to put on a real, rousing good time. The Tri Mu's take charge on November 12, and will never have it said that their party is second to any other. So it looks as though no one need worry about something to do Friday evenings for a while. Turn out and make them go big.

Hail, Mr. Bowman Has Another Brain Child Off The Press

LYCEUM NUMBER FRIDAY NIGHT POSTPONED

On account of conflicting dates, Mr. Tom Skehill will not be here on October 22, as has been announced. He may appear on our platform later in the year, or at any rate there will be a number on the course which will be a full compensation for the cancelled date. Watch for future announcements.

reminds the older people that, after all, their children must be educated. She realizes that college training is not suited to all people; some don't need it, and others would not make use of it if they had it. Nevertheless, all young people are marching toward higher education. What, then, should be the basis for choosing college training. She gives these rules: First, see that you are properly equipped mentally, emotionally, and physically; second, decide whether you want vocational training, or merely a cultural education; third, do not enter too young; fourth, do not let the expense worry you; fifth, do not choose a college because one of your friends has been there, or because it has a good football team; and sixth, if you are from a small town, choose, if possible, a college in a large city.

Mrs. Halle covers practically every part of the problem. It would be an excellent idea for more of the parents to read this article and to do less worrying and more planning.

THETAS ACT AS HOSTS FOR TRI MU FRATERNITY

The Theta Fraternity House was the scene of a mighty good time, when the Theta Omicron Rho entertained the Tri Mu on the evening of October 5. Everyone who could play cards had a chance at his favorite game, for there were tables for every game except poker, blackjack and fan tan. Lunch was served at ten-thirty, and enormous quantities of rolls, wieners, coffee, and cake disappeared in a remarkably short time. Then followed the crowning glory of the program—there were no speeches!

ELECTIONS OF THE OFFICERS ARE TOMORROW

Will Take Place In Room 111 From Eight To Four.

The Freshman class has the following slate of officers up for election Wednesday:

President—Alfred Hildner, Geo. Collins, Theodore Thoren, Robert Clark.
Vice-President—Wellington Huss, Paul Derleth, Lauri Hillberg.
Secretary—Zyra Murphy, Dorothy Harris, Cecilia Parry.
Treasurer—James LeBlanc, Dorothy Neel, Elizabeth Rogers.

The Sophomores met in the high school auditorium last Wednesday for the purpose of nominating candidates for class officers. It was decided to elect a nominating committee which would nominate the candidates. The class was divided into three sections, each of which selected two members of the committee. The first section consisted of all students from Marquette county, and the other two were made up of all others, divided into two groups. The committees chosen were: Harold Christian, John Wills, Doris Bredback, Christie James, Lorraine Danborn, and Dorothy Garrity.

The committee met on Thursday, and the following candidates were selected:

For President—Norman Jeffery, Earl Holman, Doris Bredback.
For Vice-President—Herbert Helman, John Wills, Gladys Wiggins.
For Secretary—Arne Olanen, Ella Olson, Kathleen Brophy.
For Treasurer—James Bennett, Irene Doetsch, Ruth Roepke.

The election will be held tomorrow in Room 111. Hours will be from eight in the morning until four in the afternoon. Everyone should be sure to vote.

The Juniors met Wednesday to organize and get their activities under way. Milton Gustafson, former secretary, took charge. The first business was nominating candidates for class officers. The nominees are:

For President—Mary Bennett, Kenneth Schultz, Arnold Neimi.
For Vice-President—Ann Witter, Howard Ivens, Raymond Bordeaux.
For Secretary—James Carpenter, Lillian Holman, Ed. Honkanen.
For Treasurer—Mrs. Matilda Larson, Janet King, Milton Gustafson.

The names of the nominees will be printed on ballots to be voted on later.

The nominees for president gave campaign speeches, giving the usual electioneering promise. The meeting was adjourned at 4:45.

The Senior class will ballot on the following ticket tomorrow:

President—Halstead Monical, Cornelius Sullivan.
Vice-President—Emerson Johnston, Randolph Smith.
Secretary—Byron Coles, Emella Olson.
Treasurer—Ben Harris, Louise Rydholm.

GIRLS' SOCIETY IS SELFSTARTER FOR THE SOCIAL YEAR

The Girls Show Their Initiative By Giving First Event On Social Calendar

The Delta Sigma Nu Society gave a real party Friday, October 15. The gym was very prettily decorated with streamers and pine branches. Being the first organization, they broke the ice extremely well, long cracks being seen in all directions. Because our President thought sufficiently well of it to come and look it over. The gym was also decorated with beautiful girls in equally beautiful dresses distributed around the room. The boys attempted to contend with the girls in appearing as decorations, but were flat failures.

If the students of Northern State Normal expect a good time they must help to give some one else a good time. Bashfulness is no excuse; it just signifies you have not sufficient control of yourself to

AUDIENCE HEAR DELIGHTFUL RECITAL BY T. RITCH

Opera Star Pleases Hearers at Normal.

Last week Monday night, Theodore Ritch sang beautifully a concert of many languages and strong appeal. The songs were all of the same type, however, and the singer even replaced Tom's "Good-bye" with "I'll Sing The Songs of Araby," by Clay, which is also a favorite with concert goers. The reason for this charge is that he was afflicted with a severe cold, and so could not afford to let his voice out. Nevertheless, the program was greatly enjoyed, as the tenor's tone quality was true and pure, and quite full at times, notably in the song "Silence" (peculiarly enough), by Tschalkowsky, which was exquisitely done.

Mr. Ritch's beautiful French made "A Dream, from Marmontel," the more enjoyable. Rimsky-Korsakoff was especially well represented on the program by the numbers "The Night of May" and "The Rose and the Nightingale," two little tone pictures, and the much deflated but still well-known "The Song of the Volga Boatmen" completed the program. This was one of the most interesting numbers on the program. The singer sang it with characteristic Russian vigor and gruffness. Probably very few of the audience had ever heard the great Russian folksong given with the almost brutal accent on the rising note of the opening phrase, which was repeated every time that phrase recurred. Dramatic gestures and posture, seldom overdone, characterized the concert.

The tenor was ably assisted by Mr. Ralph Bennett, pianist, who accompanied and also played one group of solos. This group consisted of the fiery "Valcik," by Mokrejs; a sonorous tone poem, the "Lento," from "Pierrot Pieces," by Cyril Scott, and the dancing Humoreske by Rachmaninoff. Mr. Bennett is an artist. He was called back on the platform for an encore, which he delivered with the same strength and ability that characterized his entire part in the program.

Recall Pleasant Times of the Past.

The Phi Kappa Nu sorority gave a tea at the home of Mrs. Conway Peters on Friday, October 8. The active members entertained the alumnae and pledges. The informal gathering was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. It brought the older girls into contact with the pledges and gave them an opportunity to talk over old times. After the tea, the girls attended the Northern banquet.

carry out your desires. That is the reason the insane asylums are full. You may be laughed at, but in that way you may be pleasing some one, or that they are rude enough to laugh at another's mistakes. Girls like to dance as well as boys. Because of our antiquated customs a girl cannot ask a boy to dance, so boys, although it may discomfort you, give some girl the pleasure of dancing.

If you are going to teach or go into any kind of a business you will be judged as to your ability to mix with other people. Dancing is one of the universal customs for people mixing, and unless you can take care of yourself at a dance your business ability will be underestimated. At least help entertain yourself and do not expect others to, all the time.

The Well-Dressed Man.

The other night, at the library, we had occasion to pick up a book on United States History. We were quite surprised to learn that when Lee surrendered at Appomattox Court House he was handsomely attired in full uniform and wore a sword, while Grant had nothing on but a ragged old union suit.

Pop Lewis: "Mr. Brown, will you explain this problem for us?"

Brown (waking from sound sleep): "Did you call on me?"

Pop: "Yes, I wanted to inform you that we charge extra for sleeping in here, especially when people sleep with their boots on."

"I was there with burrs in my hair," said Herb Helman, as he returned from an eventful trip to the standpipe. Ask Glenn Morey — he knows.

We have one person in the Junior class who has the makings of a real pro, and is already beginning to show the earmarks of one. The other day he was seen out for his early morning walk in the rain with only his pajamas and bedroom slippers on. Keep it up, Oxide, you'll get there.

Elections

It is every student's duty to vote in the coming class elections. Just stop and consider the importance of having competent students elected. They will represent your class throughout the year. Upon them rests the responsibility of making or breaking your reputation as a class. You, Freshmen, who have yet to prove yourselves, must see to it that you elect a hard-working leader, an influential one, a second Mussolini. You will need one to guide you through several crises. One is the Freshman-Sophomore Rush! The leaders of the Sophomore class must shoulder heavy burdens. Sophomores, realize this! Your class officers, the students whom you elect will represent the class in the Student Girls' League and the Men's Union. These are positions which only students with executive ability and initiative can fill. There are big jobs to be handled: the Prom, Kawanawgan, etc. You built up a fine reputation as Freshmen. Are you going to add to or detract from that reputation? You must have the right leaders. Vote, Wednesday, for the greater glory of the Sophomore class and N. S. N.!

Pots

The Freshman pots are here now, and no Freshman has any excuse for being on the street without one. Perhaps some Freshmen may think that wearing pots bears out their greenness. The truth of the matter is exactly the opposite of this, for the Freshman who does not wear his pot is the person who shows up his ignorance to school tradition. Tradition is a very powerful influence for the fostering of school spirit, and its strength in any school is a good index of the quality of the student body. Just as the upper classman is proud of his ribbons, the Freshman should be proud of his pot, and proud of the fact that in wearing it he is upholding the traditions of his school.

Advice to Freshmen

The hard school of experience has taught the writer a few things about school, which he feels duty bound to pass on to our new arrivals. First, you shouldn't work while at school. Go out every night and enjoy yourself. That's what school is for. You can bluff your classes easily. Second, smoke on the campus all you want, and don't wear your pot. Never mind the rules concerning it. All rules are violated at some time, and someone has to do it. Third, tell all the profs and upper classmen how good you were in high school. The faculty members like to hear about your prominence as a high school student, especially the coach. He's sure to reward you with a nice position on the varsity. Fourth and last, pay no attention to Normal athletics, but talk incessantly about your high school team, and go home every week-end to see your high school games. The Normal team just loves to play when there are very few on the sidelines, and the cheering sounds like the whooping cough. They also might miss you back home, whereas they don't even want you here feeling that way about it. Do all these things, and ten years from now, when questioned about your life at Northern, you will be able to say, "Yes, I went there once." That will be all, for attendance will have been the height of your accomplishment here.

Don't Be Dull

Northern State Normal students take "dull"ing! Don't be dull! Attend the social events; the football games; show an interest in fraternities, sororities, and clubs; be a booster of social activities at N. S. N. You have come to N. S. N. to work—quickness, alertness, enthusiasm, persistence and energy characterize a good worker! Friday afternoon at the close of his last class, a tired student found himself facing a dark, forbidding week-end. He had a theme to write, endless pages in History and Psychology to read. Disconsolately he followed the crowd to the dancing party, and mustering a little energy, he began to dance. An hour later a changed student jauntily hopped up the steps and started for home. His mind had cleared; he was happy; it wasn't such a bad world after all! He reached home and wrote a theme which merited an "A"! His recitation in his classes he following Monday were extraordinarily good!

You don't believe this? Just take yourself for example. After a football game, don't you feel an unworldly zeal surge through your veins? And doesn't that zeal produce untoward results? Of course it does! Under its influence you feel that you could meet and overcome any obstacle!

It is unnecessary to enumerate the benefits derived from affiliation with a fraternity, a sorority, or a club, because they are so evident. A common band of interest encourages friendship, and every student in N. S. N. wants—more than that—needs friends. It has been openly announced that membership in a debating society adds to the value of every student as a teacher. Why not take advantage of these opportunities? Be a worth while student! Make Northern better for your being there!

Taken from one of Dr. Lowe's biology exams: "If it takes a duck with a rubber bill two hours to peck a hole two inches in diameter through a cedar post four inches thick, how long will it take a grasshopper with a cork leg to kick a hole through the thick end of a shingle?"

Wednesday afternoon, October 13, from four to five-thirty, the Beta Omega Tau Society entertained at a tea in the Home Ec. department. The room was decorated with autumn leaves and astors and also with the faces of fifty happy girls. The Betas gave the party for some of their newly-made Freshmen friends.

Library Notes

The following books have just been placed upon our library shelves:
American Labor Year Book for 1926.
Boucke—Principles of Economics.
Bergey—Principle of Hygiene, 7th edition.
Cambridge Mediaeval History, volumes 1 and 2.
Eycleshymer and Jones — Hand Atlas of Clinical Anatomy.
Gillin—Criminology and penology.
Gorgas and Hendrick — William Crawford Gorgas, His Life and His Work.
Griffin—W. Murray Crane, a Man and Brother.
Hacker—How to Put on an Amateur Circus.
Key—The First Crusade.
Ogg—A Source Book of Mediaeval History.
Thatcher—A Source Book for Mediaeval History.
Thordike—History of Mediaeval Europe.

Why Is It?

In reviewing "The Story of Philosophy," a book just off the press by Dr. Durant, Henry Hazlitt, prominent critic for the New York Sun, writes: "I fear this volume will never be used as a text-book. It is too fascinating, too brilliant, too clear, too human. We herewith turn out the guard and fire a twenty-one gun salute for the Story of Philosophy." Mr. Hazlitt has hit the nail on the head. We are trying to make our text-books so vague, uninteresting, and unintelligible one must go to school to have them explained. Instead of most instructors taking advantage of this and explaining the subject interestingly, most of them assign a few pages to be read out of class and reread it in class till it is as painful to the student as seeing an Egyptian mummy mutilated.

He Was a Northerner

The Detroit Panthers swallowed the Kansas City Cowboys 10-0. Gus Sonnenberg, former Normal player and chosen for the All-American football team while playing with Dartmouth, is one of the mainstays of the Panthers, professional football team. The Panthers have won every game played so far. "Rah for Gus."

Strenuous Game

The girls' hockey teams indulged in the usual game Wednesday. Not more than three were killed. The casualties were slight, only a few broken arms and legs were collected. The strong Bolshevik Reds opposed the Black and Tans with murder in their eyes. The Blacks ruled one Red player ineligible because of having no hair to pull, as was the case of Boots Print in football. The game was enjoyed by everybody except those who were knocked unconscious. Thank the Lord girls don't play football. The bloodshed would be too terrible for the most hardened spectator to endure. We propose Coach Hedgecock send a girls' football squad against Central.

Saturday, October 9, the Beta Omega Tau society entertained alumnae members at a luncheon at the College Inn. Fourteen alumnae members of Beta Omega Tau were present. After the luncheon, they all attended the football game and enjoyed it immensely, in spite of the weather.
