

S. G. L. GIVE CO-ED PARTY FEBRUARY 3

Big Surprises Are in Store For All the Girls.

The S. G. L. is leaning toward the new and different. Their latest plan is no longer a secret—it's an outburst, or it will be!

All by themselves, the girls are going to have a great big party. No, men, you won't be there. Half of the girls will primp in the usual before-dance manner. The other half—oh, my! Sh! They're going to borrow their brother's best suit, and take their best girl friend stepping. They're going to have one evening of great hilarity while the boy friends can go to bed at 7 o'clock. Every girl in school is invited to the Co-Ed Party. If you haven't a partner notify a member of the Girls' Council, or see Florence Billings, president of the S. G. L. The date is February 3, Friday night. The admission will be 25 cents. Ha-ha, men!

PUBLISHES AN ARTICLE FROM CAMBRIDGE

Dr. Bowman Writes "The Amateur Spirit in English in the English Leaflet."

One would love to be "one's best self" when reviewing anything Mr. Bowman has written; by that we mean not an erudite or verbose self, but an understanding self. Mr. Bowman is understandable; he is an "intimate scholar and writer." If one may coin the phrase. He represents "one person to another" in literature.

STILL FIGHTING

JOE DE COOKE

The latest article of Mr. Bowman's we have noticed is contained in the "English Leaflet" for December, 1927. He calls it "The Amateur Spirit in English," and reviews the different way; in which people play with their mother tongue. Boys and girls enjoy the picturesque and the startling in language, and they originate most of it. It shouldn't be dreaded, but furnishes a good beginning for the development of a necessarily more sensitive taste. Encouragement of boys and girls on the part of the instructor by a wise selection of models and titles for stories forms an intellectual challenge they are eager to accept.

At the conclusion of his article Mr. Bowman gives a list of assignments along with some actual themes written by students to illustrate how an instructor can introduce the amateur spirit into the English class.

First Assembly of Term Gives Entertainment and Advice

A little diversion! Instead of the usual rendition of "America the Beautiful" or some other such demonstration of patriotism, we met at our post-vacation assembly, January

Soph. Treasurer And Staff Member

DOROTHEA JOHNSON, Treasurer, Sophomore Class.

If Dorothea were given twenty years at hard labor—if it were possible she'd ever deserve it—she'd punch the time-clock on the dot every morning and we'll wager she'd spend her extra moments doing something besides moaning over the injustice of the universe. She is a girl who is always busy; yet one who can be relied on to get any job done. A committee with Dot a member can't fail to qualify. She's made of the finer stuff.

An interview with her seems the most casual chat; she talks as though she is interested in more important things than herself. Her activities are many. Right now she is president of the Phi Ed Club, chairman of the social committee on the S. G. L., a News reporter, and sophomore class treasurer. Delta Sigma Nu, too, wouldn't lose her for the treasures of Arabia. She was in the Dramatic Club when it existed, and was "Marian" in "The Boomerangs" last spring. Before that, in Gladstone High, she was a debater, yell-leader (a regular "maid Marian" with braids), and so on ad infinitum. In the march of achievement Dot will carry a banner.

JOHN D. PIERCE COMES OFF BIG VS. NAT'L MINE

Will Play Home Game With Baraga Friday Night.

The John D. Pierce basketball team played its third game of the season at National Mine Friday, January 13, defeating the home team by a score of 31 to 27. The form which the John D. Pierce boys have displayed so far this year promises well for the final results of the season. On November 27 they defeated the alumni team by a score of 21 to 12. While this meant defeat for the alumni, it proved to be excellent preparation for the John D. Pierce team for their games the following week on the Gogebic range. When they met the Wakefield team December 3 they came away with a victory of 21 to 18. The next night at Bessemer they were defeated with a score of 19 to 6.

MICHIGAN TECH GETS TROUNCED ON THEIR VISIT TO NORTHERN

Playing their first home game Friday night, January 13, the Northern State Teachers College basketball team took the Michigan Tech quintet into camp with a 46-14 victory.

The Northern squad, although lacking in smooth team play, have exceptionally powerful forward combinations. The Miners, very weak in the offense, at no time seriously threatened the Olive and Gold basket.

Twelve men were used in the contest by Coach Hedgcock and all but Team Puts Up Strong Game Away From Home.

The Northern State Teachers College basketball team opened its season by tackling the Superior Normal five at Superior Friday, January 6. The Superiors played an excellent brand of ball during the first half and ran up a ten-point lead, 17-7. The Hedgcock crew came back strong in the second half and managed to pick up three points, but fell seven points short of tying the count.

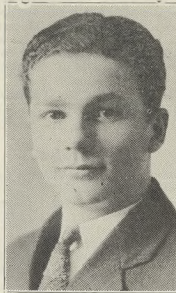

Wassburg was high point man for Northern, with seven to his credit. For the Superior call, Mepinick lead the field with nine.

President Men's Union, Senior Vice-President

"MICKEY" GUSTAFSON, Vice-Pres., Senior Class.

Mr. Milton Gustafson (I should add the "Esquire" Jimmy Hardimon intended for himself) is a brave fellow. Regardless of mental anxiety over a stiff exam, he willingly took time off for an interview.

"Mickey" used to be an athlete in Marquette High. Now he is president of the Men's Union here, proving he has a business head besides physical strength. (We don't mean the Strongman kind, so don't shout.) He is also a member of the Alpha Delta Fraternity.

He isn't out for publicity. Mickey's a sensible young man.

KEEP FEBRUARY 26 OPEN FOR ONE BIG DATE

The Event of the Winter Term Will Come Off That Night.

There's something big coming off February 26. It isn't a race, nor a dance, nor a Lyceum number. It is even better than anything like that. It is going to be big. It is going to be full of laughs. You will never miss it and live; so watch for further announcements and save your family trouble.

Referee—Marvin.
Umpire—Harris.

After a defeat at the hands of the Superior Normal quintet, the Marquette Teachers journeyed to Ashland, Wis., to tackle the Northland College five on Saturday, January 7. Northern opened with a barrage of shots on Northland's basket and ran up a fairly comfortable lead during letics, is the belief of Branch Rickey, who for more than 20 years has been an outstanding figure in the baseball profession. It is his contention that legitimate contests enliven an otherwise monotonous career, prevent idleness and qualify as moulders of character.

Branch Rickey is a clean-cut athlete whose prowess in the world of sport is accentuated by rare intellectual training and a high sense of duty on moral and religious issues. Furthermore, his magnetic platform presence, his forceful presentation and his ability to sustain interest through a wealth of personal experiences, make him an ideal lyceum speaker. His meteoric rise in the platform realm has been as noteworthy as his rapid climb in athletics.

The career of Branch Rickey as a professional athlete began immediately after his graduation from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1904. His playing on the Dallas team in the Texas league attracted immediate favorable attention, and before the season closed he reported to Cincinnati in the National league. Later he caught for the St. Louis and New York teams in the American league. After coaching athletic teams at Allegheny College and Ohio Wesleyan University, Mr. Rickey went to the University of Michigan, where he drilled baseball teams and studied law for four years. Here he discovered George Sisler, present manager of the St. Louis team in the American league. His university de-

Aren't We Queer?

We sometimes say that a foreign language is queer—"there are too many exceptions—it sounds 'foolish.'" We do not realize the irregularities in our mother tongue. This poem will help us to see that the English language might seem "queer" to a foreigner:
We'll begin with a box, and the plural is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.

Then one fowl is goose, but two are called geese.

Yet the plural of mouse should never be meese.

You may find a lone mouse or a whole lot of mice

But the plural of house is houses, not hices.

If the plural of man is always called men,

Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?

The cow in plural may be cows or kine

And the plural of vow is vows, not vine.

And if I speak of a foot and you show me your feet,

And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beed?

If one is a tooth and the whole set are teeth

Why shouldn't the plural of boot be called beeth?

If the singular is this, and plural is these,

Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed keesse?

Then one may be that, and three would be those.

Yet hat in the plural would never be hose,

And the plural of rat is rats, not rose.

We speak of a brother and also of brethren.

But though we say mother, we never say methram.

The masculine pronouns are he, his, and him,

But imagine the feminine, she, shis, and shim.

So the English, I think, you will all agree,

Is the most wonderful language you ever did see.

When better ones are built Ziegfeld showed them.

Co-ed: Did I ever show you the place where I hurt my knee?

Frosh: N-no.

Co-ed: All right, let's drive over there.

Slade: Now you fellows have got me all wrong.

Pete Y.: Yes, we give you more credit than you deserve.

Chas. Cobb: Hey! Are you fellows going to the same church we are?

Buck T.: Sure, what one are you going to?

C. Cobb: I don't know.

The skin we all love to touch: raccoon skin.

Gert: Whenever I get peeved at Tom I give him the air.

Myrt: Heavens! What a healthy fellow he must be!

Famous last words: "I didn't know you assigned that."

He flunked in physics, failed in chem,

They heard him softly hiss,

"I'd like to catch the guy who said that ignorance is bliss."

The gum-chewing girl, and the cud-chewing cow—

There's a difference, I allow.

What is it? Ah, I have it now!

'Tis the thoughtful look On the face of the cow.

Grouches
We wonder sometimes when this old world will rid itself of that sect of people who are always looking for someone to bring them an "all ready to serve" good time.

But what is it all about? What right has anyone to a good time if he can't make it? Who in this pasture lot is under any obligations to go round handing anyone a good time?

If you cultivate a peeve for your own poor self and what you can get out of it you will die a poor starved grouch.

Collegiate

We offer no apology for the above headline; it is so old it's beginning to have a new childhood.

Yes, we are collegiate. Not the passionate and flippant and gaudy young 'uns of '26, but a more cultured and gay (even when we are ironic) and religious bunch.

When we're sitting in the library the girl across from us is saying to her friend: "My dear, what time didya get in? What did ya tell 'er?"

"Shut up! I gotta study. But, oh, listen, * * * blah, blah, blah. Maybe we're not sane. We are collegiate and we aren't dusty. So why worry about our intelligence?"

Good advice! Mr. Munson told us some things we ought to know, and asked us the questions we should ask ourselves, are we to succeed: Have you the ability? Have you the proper preparation?

It was announced, also, that all persons entering school after June must enter on a three-year course in order to gain a Life Certificate.

Lillian Antilla Dies At Home In Eben, December 11

There is always something to regret. This time it's someone whom we didn't get a chance to know—and who didn't get back to school after Christmas.

Lillian Antilla enrolled here as a Freshman last September, apparently ready to start a year's work. About Thanksgiving time she became severely ill with endocarditis, and was taken to St. Luke's Hospital November 28.

We extend our deepest sympathies to Lillian's parents.

CAMPUS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Washburn, who are the new proprietors of the College Inn, extend a cordial welcome to all Northerners to walk in and make themselves at home. They have made the Inn attractively spick-span; they have revised both food and prices, and are serving food any way you want it—by lunch, meal, day, or week. The Washburns are ready to accommodate any kind of party, tea, dinner, luncheon, or dance. They will be open all day and evenings whenever there are goings-on at the college. Their latch string is always out.

The Cegmer Segs held their first business meeting of the term Monday evening, January 9. Plans were discussed for several functions for this term, the first of which was a luncheon and dance for the Cegs, pledges and guests, on Thursday, January 12.

Now that we are all back again—"anxious to begin our studies"—ahem!—we remember that one of our New Year's resolutions was to take precautions to avoid nervous prostration from overwork—so we plan to mix a little play with a lot of work.

The Social Evening, Friday, January 6, was sponsored by the Social Committee. A large group of students attended, and if smiles and good spirits are an index to degree of enjoyment, an unusually good time was had. Formality was dispensed with, the music was good, the crowd enthusiastic, and in conclusion—the hall was attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns.

In spite of the stress of final exams last term, the Delta Sigma Nus managed to evolve a magnificent idea: Delta needed equipment; why not have a shower registration day this term, each girl bringing some useful addition to our very own store of possessions? They drew lots, no article was to cost more than a dime, and attached to it was to be a verse out of each girl's own store of originality.

With dishespan and can openers to think about, one began to feel a bit domestic and to contemplate said articles in hope of finding inspiration for verse.

What fun it was unwrapping them and disowning one's bit of literature! That was done after a luncheon where every girl appeared who finished enrolling on time. The Deltas were happy to greet Mrs. Launer that afternoon, and, of course, Miss Schacke and Dr. Lowe were with them.

We might add that one or two of the pledges were rather more clever than the rest in thinking up verses—circumstances necessitating, we would term it.

The Beta Omega Tau Sorority had a "get-together" by means of a dinner served them at the College Inn last Friday evening, January 13. About twenty-two girls, including several guests, were served, after which the girls attended the Northern-Tech basketball game.

Basketball season! That's what it is for girls as well as men. The girls' season started last Wednesday afternoon. Girls' teams are being organized according to departments. Special practice nights will be held in the gymnasium. There will be a real tournament with trophies and all sorts of excitement. All girls are urged to get lined up with a team. It is not necessary to be a member of a Phy. Ed. class. Don't lay around and get fat, girls! Come out and play!

Forum officers for the Winter Term are the following:
President—Eda Whitford.
Vice-President—Kathleen Shingler.

Secretary—Eleanor Rasleigh.
Treasurer—Marjori Fox.
Wednesday, January 18, a debate will be held at the regular meeting which reads as follows: "Resolved, That the courts of the United States should make companionate marriages legal."
Forum still has a few vacancies. New members are welcome.

Tyre Versus Lidon

The Garden of Eden was all abustle. Crows hurried along the beautiful streets of Paradise. All the newspapers were filled with flaring headlines. "Tyre versus Lidon." "Large Encounter at Nile Park." The arena was packed to overflowing, and still more people were coming. At last the opposing teams began to warm up. Throwing off their sweat-shirts, they began to throw their bats back and forth. A moment of silence. The game was about to begin.

Solomon took his place in the umpire box. Just as the clock on the Cathedral tower struck two-thirty, the game began. Cain was up to bat, and was facing his pitcher with a look of scorn on his face. David, who was the renowned pitcher for Sidon, coolly took in the situation, and threw the ball to Cain. Cain made a base hit, and the charming co-eds joyously waved their white shawls. The dainty voice of the Queen of Sheba could be heard above them all as she cried, "Holy Moses! He's a second Babe Ruth!"

Goliath was next up, with the Prodigal Son on deck. Davis struck out Goliath, which made the score zero to zero. Again the stands roared. This time it was David's frat, who were cheering their brother on to victory. The Prodigal Son was now up to bat, with two men on base, two strikes, and three balls. At this juncture of the game, Adam stole second. The game now became exciting, with two minutes to play, still two strikes and Noah taking in all the fouls and flies. Gideon then rattled the pitcher, and the Prodigal Son made a home run. The game continued with one team having the edge, and then the other. At last the gong blew and the game ended. Sidon had won, with a score of one-half to Tyres one-fourth. At the close of the game, Rebecca walked home with the pitcher. J. H.

John D. Pierce School

For an hour Friday morning Walter Gries, commissioner of Marquette county schools, entertained the senior high school with Cornish stories. Those who have heard Mr. Gries in this, his greatest hobby, know something of the nature of the treat. Throughout the story telling the pupil's admiration for the Cornishman increased. Therein lies the success of Mr. Gries as a story teller. To tell one story after another for an hour, stories with point and wit and humor tucked away in the very last sentences and still keep these stories free from ridicule and depreciating references is a fine art; and that is what Walter Gries possesses—the fine art of telling Cornish stories.

Because the upper peninsula is the very heart of Hiawatha land, the Fifth Grade pupils are making a study of the poem Hiawatha, locating the places spoken of, such as the "rushing Escanaba," the Pictured Rocks, the shores of Glichee Gumees, etc. In the Art class they are illustrating various parts of the poem. The best illustrations will be kept for the Hiawatha book that is being prepared.

The following is a list of the pupils in the Seventh Grade who had no grade below C for the last six weeks of the fall quarter: Elsie Storsirang, Arvo Savoia, Helvia Beck, Arthur Elonen, Orvo Maki, Lenore Mallete, Evelyn Peterson, Eleanor Murray, Charly Erickson, Anna Hatinen, Oliver Hakala, Jack Hubbard, Edward Lake, Margaret Larson, Merton Knisley, Thure Waltosen.

The Sixth Grade honor roll for the last half of the Fall term includes the following names: Clara Barkow, Helen Bystrom, Kimball Hatch, Noble Hatch, Earl Luoma, Norman McLean, Eunice O'Neill, Catherine Penberthy, Anne Reynolds, William Rogers, Gertrude Rytty, Lorena Young.

Branch Rickey Speaks January 31

grees include Bachelor of Literature, Bachelor of Arts and Doctor of Jurisprudence.

In 1913 Mr. Rickey became secretary of the St. Louis American league baseball club. A year later he became this team's manager, and then its vice president and business manager. For three years he was president and for six years manager of the St. Louis club in the National league. In 1925 he became business manager and vice president of that club.

Branch Rickey is an enthusiast for young people. He understands the youngster's viewpoint. That is why, years ago, he organized the "Knighthole Gang" in St. Louis, whereby the boys of that city have an opportunity to "pay their way" with clean living, and as boosters for the home team. And then—he and Mrs. Rickey have six children of their very own.

Recently a leading baseball authority stated that the day of the rowdy, the rough-neck, the bully and the loose-liver has gone from the big leagues forever. "And Branch Rickey," he added, "is one of those who have hastened the passing of that day. Many of his notions, once considered radical, have been accepted by various managers. Some day the real story of Branch Rickey and what he actually did for the game will be told, and it will be summed up, perhaps not in championships, nor in piles of gold and glittering fame, but in simple narrative of a man of brains and character and ideals who left his profession better than he found it."

Those who have known and heard Branch Rickey concur heartily in that tribute and prediction. He is "a man with the bark on," who plays a clean game, and plays to win. Branch Rickey will speak in the Auditorium on the evening of January 31.

"When women think of pretty things to wear they usually think of The Paris Fashion."

TEACH THE JOY OF SAVING!

It's a course that's taught by all too few instructors. Yet it's the most important practical lesson within or without the curriculum and one that brings the greatest returns for the effort expended.

Before you teach saving, take a course at this strong bank, and master it yourself. With the compound interest your dollars will earn, it is a course that will yield more than you put into it.
