SQUAD MAKES FINAL BOW AND RECEIVES AWARDS AT BANQUET

Seventy-five Bid Farewell to Senior Veterans and Listen to Their Reminiscent Talks

Practically every man, who, directly or indirectly has had a hand in Northern's gridiron destinies this fall, was present at the Annual Football Banquet in the College Inn, at six-fifteen o'clock, Thursday, November the twentieth.

Formality, though not entirely forgotten by the men as far as table etiquette was concerned, assumed a secondary role when "King Goodfellowship" made his appearance. He was present when the jostling, laughing, joking admixture of varsity men, faculty men, and "lean and hungry" freshmen trooped into the dining room where tables were set for seventy-five. He was forgotten for a short time, however, when the savory heaps of good old-fashioned roast pork, potatoes, and buns made their appearance. Even the supposedly nonchalant faculty men, of whose voraciousness little comment is ever made, forgot for a few minutes about their tablemates and waded into their food as if in hunger.

It was not long, however, before Toastmaster Halverson tactfully maneuvered the men into a talking mood. Chairs were shoved back, and, with contented sighs, the men awaited the introduction of the speakers of the evening. The first was George Gundry, Northern's last four-stripe man. His terse remarks on the values of football training were well received. Football has taught George how to cooperate. Captains Vicklund and Nelmark spoke next. Vicklund opened up a recently acquired wound when he attempted to explain the defeat at Central. According to "Vick", and according to no other member of the team, the Olive and Gold clan was simply disorganized by the subtle, appealing glances of a prize group of co-eds which the Central boys had placed in the bleachers for this very purpose. The "Frosh" unanimously decided to try out this little tidbit of awful football strategy, next year. Vick says that it either (Continued on page 3)

YULETIDE DRESS TO DECK FOYER

Christmas at Northern is not slighted in the excitement of finals, graduation and farewells. On Monday of the last week we enter a foyer resplendent in holiday attire. The railings of the second and third floors are laden with branches of spruce and cedar and pine—multi-colored lights shine a gay welcome—fragrant odors assail us.

At the main landing hangs Northern's Christmas picture. It is a beloved tradition of ours, yet few know its interesting history. Six years ago an art class under the supervision of Miss Spaulding painted that picture as the first of a series. It was to symbolize the Christmas spirit of adoration and love and peace. The nine students, working with colored chalks and sincerely believing in their work, produced a beautiful picture. Bethlehem lies softly outlined in the background, while the central thought is brought out in the Star, symbol of the birth of Christ, and the kneeling figures of the wise men. Northerners will not hear of another replacing that picture, so it remains The First.

The Men's Union, Student Girls' League and the Art classes unite in making our Xmas week at school a happy one, for they dress the foyer. This holiday dress is especially welcome during finals, and leaves a glowing memory of "the last week" in our hearts when we leave Northern for home.

MLLE. TALKS ON VISIT TO FRANCE AND BASQUE LAND

Miss Evelaine Archambeault, of the Northern State Teachers College, French Department, spoke in the assembly recently of her trip to France. At the requests of her first year French students, she has added several details concerning the trip.

She made the journey to France on a United States steamer, the President Harding, manned by German seamen. Amusements on board ship were interesting and varied. Ping-pong, horse races, dancing, deck tennis, shuffleboard, and movies entertained the travellers.

The President Harding cast anchor in the channel near Cherbourg. Three French men-of-war, watch dogs of the sea, stood in the harbor overlooking the coast of France. Their presence was due, however, to no fear of attack, but a peaceful review. Cherbourg with its multi-colored roofs welcomed the delighted passengers. Miss Archambeault here boarded a boat-train which took her through Normandy with its pretty villages, on through green and gold country side, past chateaux hillside and peaceful towns nestling below them.

PHYS. ED. GIRLS WIN EASILY

The first girls' volley ball game of the year was played on Wednesday, November 19, by the Phys. Eds. and Neguance Independents. The score was 64-20 in favor of the Phys. Eds.

Much energy was shown by both sides, and the Phys. Eds. appreciated the spirit shown by the Neguance team which was the first to accept the challenge of the Phys. Eds.

The next game of the Phys. Eds. will be played Wednesday, December 3, when they will clash with the Cosmopolitans. The Cosmopolitan team is composed of girls from various towns.

Anyone interested in watching the game is urged to be present on December 3.

tête-à-tête over her tea (or coffee) cup with as many of her sister Juniors as possible.

The plans for a most delightful event are in the hands of the following: Anona Anderson, general chairman; Ruth Friday, reception; Mildred Ulitt, program; Ruth Mattson, favors; Elizabeth Cowell, decorations; and Margaret Nicholls, refreshments.

See you there!

DEAN TALKS ON CHANGING STATUS OF TEACHERS

Finds New Styles, Ways, Economics, and Ideas.

The assembly program of November 20 featured a talk by Mr. Lee and selections by the String Quartet. The quartet, composed of Messrs. Conway Peters, Robert Haskins, Everett Norgard and Carl Senob, played "Song Without Words" and "Moment Musical".

Mr. Lee spoke on the differences, economically, between the teachers of today and of twenty years ago. Today instructors are farther advanced economically because of higher wages paid and the proximity of Universities and Colleges to small towns. The speaker stated that he would sooner be a teacher than a lawyer, dentist, or doctor, for the simple reason that he would not care to spend his life taking part in others' troubles.

Many teachers who graduated fifteen and twenty years ago are returning to college in order to obtain a higher education. Obviously funds are necessary for continuation in school, and for this reason Mr. Lee encouraged students to use their money economically when they obtain a position, so that they may prepare for old age or return to school.

One of the things that determines the success of a teacher socially as well as educationally is proper dress. In advising the students to economize, Mr. Lee pointed out that they should not go to the extreme by wearing shabby clothes. A shabbily dressed teacher is not accepted by the community nor by the students.

In concluding his talk Mr. Lee humorously related his early experiences as a school teacher, featuring the extreme pleasure he derived from wearing celluloid collars.

Haynes Win Two Debates, Minervans Down Forum

Websters and Minervans Will Meet Tonight.

Debating can be a most enjoyable part of school life when a very human subject is under discussion, when a very human group discusses it, and when a very human audience shares enthusiastically in the discussion. The large crowd that heard the Haynes-Minervan debate Wednesday, November 19, on the question: "Resolved, that state medicine should be adopted," is able to bear out the truth of the statement above. Both teams were decidedly alive to the subject and with pungent and humorous argument greatly delighted and entertained their audience. It was a struggle characterized by quite as keen thinking as debates usually offer. Factual material presented with clear logic and illustrated by means of striking figures of speech cannot be sought but absorbing, to say the least.

The affirmative side of the question was upheld by Glensy Morgan, Dorothy Collins, and Lenni Lapola, who represented the Minervans. The victorious Haynes team consisted of Harold Fortna, Stanley Roberts, and Allen Good. This team argued the negative side of the question. Mr. Gustafson acted as chairman of the debate, which was judged by Miss Van Antwerp of the College faculty.

CLASS PRESIDENTS

The Senior class has selected one of the best and most popular men on Northern's football squad as president. George Ferguson, "Fergie", is a graduate of Albion High School. He entered Northern in the fall of 1927, enrolling in the Manual Arts course. He has been out for football each of his four years at Northern. During this football season he has played the position of wingback on offense and guard on defense. Ferguson has been an active man at Northern, having served as vice-president and president of the Man-

James Green, member of the Alpha Delta fraternity, guides the destiny of the Sophomores this year. Having been graduated from Newberry High School in 1927, where he showed his metal as a debater, "Jimmy" came to Northern to study for a Bachelor of Arts degree. He is still vitally interested in debate. Last year he debated on one of the intercollegiate teams. Withal he is working his way through college. It promises to be a busy year for the new Sophomore president.

ual Arts Club and as secretary of the Tri Mu Fraternity. He will receive a Bachelor of Science degree this year.

Large Squad Out For Basketball This Season

Six Veterans Back.

With football a thing of the past, Coach Hedgcock now has his attentions centered in the gym, where he is putting a squad of about twenty basketball aspirants through their paces. From this group will come Northern's 1930-31 cage team.

Prospect for a good team are far from discouraging, as six lettermen from last year's squad are back, plus a promising group of Sophomore material. Regulars in line are Albert and Marshall Treado, and Clarence Nelson; along with them are Gus Carlson, George Gundry and Jack Nelmark, each of whom saw plenty of action last winter. Pushing these men for positions are Erickson, Hari, Dunstan, Noonan, Miller, Jeffries, Zentl, Sullivan, Thoren, and Vicklund, a letter man two years ago.

Although there is no complete schedule arranged as yet, outside of the annual trip to the lower peninsula, a pre-Christmas game is being planned.

AMERICAN SINGERS TO GIVE CONCERT

A Musical Program which Offers Unusual Talent.

The Lyceum Course for this year includes a number of worthwhile programs. Among these is the program of The American Singers, which is scheduled for December 11.

The American Singers comprise a quartette that has been called a "perfect singing ensemble". It has been said of the personnel—"Not only can they sing—but they are personalities".

Helen Becherton, the soprano of the quartette, has had a great deal of training in America, Italy, and France. Recital, oratorio, opera—each finds her capable, for her art makes a picture of everything she sings—"a picture toned and colored by a genuine artist".

Ester Muenstetmann, contralto, has a voice deep and rich in quality, of great range and color. Her songs are "given with feeling and intense emotional expression".

Fred Wise, tenor, has a voice of warm, rich, lyric loveliness—full of melody, dramatic power, and meaning.

Raymond Koch, baritone, has appeared throughout the United States in recital, oratorio, and opera. He has a strong, deep, beautiful voice, made more charming by the ease with which he sings, and by his absolute control of it. "He sings like a star".

When four such outstanding performers as these are brought together, one cannot afford to miss their program. Remember—The American Singers—December 11.

say that prospects for a winning team are unusually bright. As is the usual custom, Tech meets Northern in a couple of games and the engineers are ever so keen on the idea of winning them, since our football team displayed such terrible manners and whitewashed Tech twice this year.

We would like to have had some pictures of our first year letter winners, and some of the other notables on the football squad, in this issue but as the cuts have not yet been made we could not print the pictures.

With a last minute warning to the "Frosh" we will close this column. If next week be a basketball game here next week, don't forget to bring your little green caps along, and wear them during the game.

"THE MAGI'S GIFT" TO BE PRODUCED FRIDAY NIGHT

Pierce Grades Prepare Christmas Operetta—Directed by Miss Irish

On Friday evening, December 12, the pupils of the John D. Pierce School will present a Christmas operetta in the college auditorium at eight o'clock. The operetta which is in two acts, is entitled "The Magi's Gift". Miss Marie Irish, director of music for the Pierce school, will supervise the production. The characters will be portrayed by John D. Pierce pupils from the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and high school grades.

The operetta is replete with swinging Christmas choruses and carols. There are also a number of exquisite dances. There are solo parts for the leading characters.

GAMING FESTIVAL AT HUNTING LODGE

Realistic Details Make Woody Party.

What could be more appropriate in this hunting season than the cheery hospitable hunting lodge which the Tau Pi Nu Sorority opened to the students of Northern on Friday evening, November 21?

There was a huge fireplace on one side of the room. The members of Robinson's orchestra were seated here, and each one wore a flame-colored hat. Their melodious music greeted the guests. Above the "mantle" of the fireplace hung a beautiful painting of a huge hunting lodge over the door of which were painted the words, "Tau Pi Nu". Much color was added to the scene by the decorated walls and the rails of the balcony. There were many hunting trophies hung about the walls, and on these were placed cards bearing (Continued on page 2)

SOPHS' PROM TO BE FUTURISTIC

Get Invitations Now.

Friday, December 5, is the day on which the annual Sophomore Prom is to be held. This will be an outstanding event of the school year. The Sophomores are leaving nothing undone to make this prom an entire success. "Jimmy" Green, the Sophomore president, says that plans are now in the final stages.

Johnson's Dance Kings of Iron Mountain will play the dance program.

The decorations are to be of a futuristic nature.

Dancing will be from 8 to 12. Reception will be from 8 to 8:30.

All Northerners are advised to procure their invitations early and to observe the rules for obtaining them. These rules are posted on the bulletin board in the foyer.

"The Freshman Prom of last year was but a prelude to the Sophomore Prom of this year."—So say the Sophs.

The College News in publishing a list of its contributors in the last issue innocently overlooked the name of Hugo Kilpela. Mr. Kilpela, a member of this season's football team, reported on all the games for the News. The News feels that readers who have enjoyed Mr. Kilpela's vivid accounts of our games would be very glad to know the author of those write-ups.

PUGLISTS WANTED

Men interested in boxing have an opportunity to join a class conducted by Oliver Gjekja at four o'clock in the small gymnasium. Some benefit is sure to be derived—black eyes, bruised lips, and damaged complexions.

Exams and—

Thanksgiving vacation, cherished respite from the daily grind, is behind us. Two weeks, and perhaps the most strenuous, hectic, and important weeks of the term, yet remain. For let us not forget that the finals, "that ever present peril," must be reckoned with. It has been said that man's inhumanity to man makes countless student's buy blue-books. 'Tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis 'tis true. But let us turn our gaze to brighter hues. And the while we remember the impending judgment week, we'll not forget the Prom. The Sophomores are planning to entertain us in true Lucullian style. It is there we hope to meet again some of our alumni friends. It is there we all hope to meet—all of us, the student body of Northern.

In two weeks the long halls, the empty libraries, the lecture rooms,—mute unappreciated friends of our student hours, will await in silence the return of a new spirit. However, for an undergraduate school, I prefer the quarter system. It is possible for the student to get more work accomplished in a year, because of the number of subjects which can be taken.

Mr. McCollom: I prefer the quarter system. It so happens that all my college work has been done at schools of this type. Under the quarter system, it is possible for the student to get more work accomplished in a year, because of the number of subjects which can be taken.

Save Your Books

As the college year draws to a close great numbers of students may be seen hurrying across campus with arms and satchels filled with books for the secondhand dealer. The thought of a little ready cash keeps luring greater numbers each year to dispose of their books at a fraction of their real value. None of them apparently have considered other dispositions which would more nearly approximate their real value, though not always calculated in dollars and cents. The undergraduate should be made to realize that his college textbooks have permanent value as reference works and could be profitably kept for future use, or, failing to interest the owner a moment of his college days, might be given to one who is unable to purchase them but eager to use them.

Recent quotations in New Haven on secondhand textbooks, reveal that books are bought back at one sixth or seventh of the original price. After three months or more they are resold for many times their cost, the bookstore profiting as much as two or three hundred per cent.—And yet the undergraduate encourages or at least is indifferent to the continuance of a practice that is not only costly to himself but also to all future buyers of secondhand books.

The uses that good books can be

Sidelights

Cited as one of the leading articles of the month, no article has received so much criticism, both appreciative and derogatory, as La Marr Warwick's "Farewell to Sophistication." The title, suggestive of Hemingway's Farewell to Arms, starts with an invective by Bertrand Russell against that very book in which he calls it "Mid-Victorian." Mid-Victorian! That book which reeks with violence and tries, very successfully, to make people think, to be so very sophisticated and ultra-modern. Then to be called "Victorian"! What discouragement. In answer to this the author explains that, although he does not realize it, Mr. Russell is becoming old-fashioned. He is like the old-time-honored parent who does not understand his children. Formerly this parent, while boasting that little Johnnie's tastes were just like his (he did enjoy Pilgrim's Progress so much) would inevitably find Johnnie devouring Nick Carter. Now the parent who boasts that Johnnie reads The Triumph of Methodism with fervor would be surprised to hear Johnnie remark that "some of this modern stuff is worth following up—but a lot of it is just plain hokey!"

For, as Miss Warwick explains, there are tides of sophistication and ingenuity. Yesterday's youth, disgusted with traditional morality, traditional religion, traditional standards of beauty, threw the whole lot overboard. Today's youth, disgusted both with traditional standards and with chaotic results which have been achieved by throwing overboard those standards, is looking for a re-statement of morality, of religion, of love.

It's all rather discouraging yet. Since change is a sign of life, let us say, "Farewell to Sophistication," "Hall, Ingenuity," and hope its progress.

Simple Study.

The secret is not in how to study, it is in how to review. Try this simple system.

Take your notes as you have been taught to. Then buy some three-by-five filing cards. Look over your notes and use a red pencil. Some parts are easy to remember. There are other parts that are "the veriest devil." That form the key points in the lecture. Write small and enter these high spots on your three-by-five cards. One side of such a card will take care of the real posers in any one lecture.

Now you have the difficult points all together on cards. . . . Tuck those cards into your pocket. Then, during the spare moments of the day, use those cards. The student before dinner or waiting for a date, or loafing after one. Your success in that chemistry course isn't going to depend so much on getting every day's work, although that is important. It depends on your not forgetting the work that has preceded. You have the key points of this and other courses in your vest-pocket notes.

Here is where system enters. Get busy at the beginning of the term. You will find that your pack of cards rapidly grows. Mix them all together—chemistry, French, history, math, and biology. Now be careful. Every morning select a certain number from that pile for review—let us say ten. Make it an absolutely rigid point that these ten are read over carefully during the course of the day. You've got to hold yourself to a schedule. Where, when, or how you read them makes little difference, but get them read and be thorough about it.

HAYNES WIN TWO DEBATES

In a later engagement the Miner- van Debating Society defeated the Forum girls on the same question. In this debate the Minervans were represented by Dorothy Wiggins, Lucille Martin, and Alice Bagley. These supported the affirmative and were opposed by Esther Spear, Jean Conway, and Clara Schuster.

On the same evening the Websters and the Haynes held a verbal tussle on the unemployment question. The Websters argued in behalf of the adoption of legislation by the several states providing for a system of compulsory unemployment insurance. Although they did good debating, they were unable to offer a case that would be quite intangible. For the Haynes boys found little trouble in refuting their opponents' choice arguments. Robert Nancarrow, alternate debater for James Green, deserves to be complimented for having prepared a worthwhile discussion under the handicap of short notice and scarcity of time preceding the debate. Mr. Nancarrow is a Webster. The personnel of the teams is as follows.

Webster Haynes
Robert Bishop Wesley Gustafson
Robert Nancarrow Melvin Campbell
Earl Holmberg Minden Maynard
Bert Hesse acted as chairman of the debate. Miss VanAntwerp judged the debate.

story woven into the melody of "The Magi's Gift".

The scene of the story is laid in medieval England on Christmas Eve. In the cathedral is a shrine believed by many to contain the crown and scarlet robe once worn by Caspar, one of the Three Wise Men. Tradition has it that every year at Christmas time, Caspar returns again, giving golden gifts to all he meets.

The story centers around Elsbeth (who believes implicitly in the legend), a little girl who lives as the ward of the innkeeper. In reality he keeps her to cover his theft of gold from her dead parents. Her relatives believe Elsbeth dead. One of them, a crusader, returns, however, and terms that she is his sister. When Elsbeth first sees him in his knightly robes, she thinks him to be the Magi, come to give her a heavenly gift. When he forces the innkeeper to pay back the stolen gold, she feels as tho she has really received the Magi's gift.

The story ends in a jubilant singing of carols.

GAMING FESTIVAL AT HUNTING LODGE

Little stories and anecdotes "razzing" various students, especially some members of the football squad. The grand march, to the tune of "A Hunting We Will Go", was led by the sorority's president, Miss Blanche Le Page and Mr. W. Weyland. The favors were then distributed—creaky, little bugs for the girls, and top tie holsters as watch fobs for the men.

In one corner of the gym were two large tables with red and white checked tablecloths. Root beer and animal crackers were served. Large, comfortable chairs and davenport, and card tables for those who wanted to play cards or the old game of checkers, were placed around the edge of the dance floor.

The Tau Pi Nu Sorority is to be greatly complimented on their Hunting Lodge Social which was truly a successful, novel party.

The newly elected officers of the Tri Mu were installed last Monday. As is customary, they provided a feed for the members of the frat.

The Tri Mu wishes to announce the following as pledges: A. Doellte, Negaunee; A. Johns, Negaunee; H. Bannon, Negaunee; P. Paulsen, Ishpeming; O. Cejka, Kingsford, and R. Finnegan, Bessmer.

At the first meeting of the Newman Club, held in the Baraga Auditorium on November 3, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: John Wysocki, president; Glennery Harrie, vice-president; Bertrand Henne, secretary; Margaret Piggot, treasurer. Miss Herald, faculty sponsor, spoke briefly on the aims of the organization. The program consisted of a reading, a vespers, and a cello solo. After a short social hour given over to dancing, the members went home with the anticipation of many more pleasurable meetings.

Miss Teeters has been chosen advisor of the Forum Debating Society. At the meeting of November 19, Mae Jenkins was elected secretary to take the place of Clara Schuster, who resigned.

The other officers of the club are: All Akkala, president; Dolores Lenz, vice-president, and Elsie Trevis, treasurer.

The Phys. Ed. club meeting of Tuesday, November 18, was very interesting. Dr. Glucas gave an interesting lecture on "Bibularism and Conditioned Reflex." Marie Pastore spoke on "Physical Illiteracy." Ethel Stephens told the members of the club "How to Get Twice As Much Out of Twenty-four Hours." There were a few remarks by Mr. Hedgecock, after which the meeting was closed by the singing of the Phys. Ed. song.

The Phi Kappa Nu Sorority is pleased to announce as its pledges, Miss Anne Shaeffer of Greenland, Miss Betty Ferguson of Sault Ste. Marie, Miss Signe Kallio of Painesdale, and Miss Phyllis Skewes of Negaunee.

A regular meeting of the Mathematics Club was held Tuesday, November 18. Miss Asiala gave an interesting account of the Egyptian, Greek, and Roman methods of multiplication. "The Value of Studying Mathematics with Relation to the Seven Objectives of Education" was discussed by Mr. Mattson. Mr. Kiltinen concluded the program with a recreational topic of mathematical problems and tricks. The meeting then was adjourned.

At the last meeting of the Commercial Club, held November 18, it was decided to restrict the membership of the club. From now on, new applicants will be voted upon before they become members. At the next meeting the subject of mining will be discussed.

At the regular meeting of the L'Alliance Francaise, November 18, the French students were entertained by two charming numbers. Antoinette Bertrand showed her mastery of the French language by reciting "Conselle a une Parisienne." Dorothy Muck gave a diatonic number called "The Blossoming Barrow."

The Phi Kappa Nu Sorority held a formal initiation Friday, November 14, for the Misses Eleanor Siegel of Marquette and Verna Trudell of Sault Ste. Marie. After the ceremony, a "spot lunch" supper was held in the new recreation rooms. Among the guests were Miss Griswold, the sorority advisor, Miss Carey, and Mrs. Lee.

thing on it thoroughly. Place it on the bottom of the pile. It will be quite a time before you meet again. Another you are not so sure of. Put it in the middle. That means you will run across it again in, say, two weeks. Finally, you meet a card which represents a lecture of yesterday. It was difficult and you know that you have not mastered it. So put it near the top, where you will get at it again in the very near future.

The idea is to guarantee that you keep reviewing your entire work during the course of the year. Also, that you keep seeing the stuff you have mastered in rather long intervals, while you have the material you have not mastered served up to you every few days.

Another point. Do exactly the same thing with the books you read. Don't blame your memory because you read through a book once and then fail it on an examination. Any one but a genius will do the same thing. Be reasonable—and systematic. Get the hard points of that book down on your cards. One card will generally cover from ten to twenty pages, dependent on the nature of the book. But treat your outside reading just as you would treat your lectures.

Finally, you run bump into the examinations. If you have been following my suggestions you are more or less "all set." Your review is practically done because you have been seeing to it every day. However, you take all those chemistry cards out of the key pile. Go through them and check all doubtful points with a red pencil. Do it again and the puzzlers should have a blue pencil this time. Then, finally get the points which are still beyond you taken down on separate cards and hammer away at them. There won't be more than three or four cards. Lastly, the day before the examination, read over your general notes carefully and then go to a picture the night before.—G. H. Eastbrooks, Colgate University, in The Intercollegian.

makes or breaks men, that's all. Nelmark dwelled briefly on the lasting friendships which are born during one's football days. Jack has played football, so he says, since he was five years old; yet he remembers every member of his earliest childhood eleven. In concluding, Jack reminded the Freshmen that it was their duty to carry on next year.

At this point, someone noticed that President Munson had become quite fidgety. Toastmaster Halverson, realizing that he had committed a grave injustice in withholding from the floor a football player of the "old school", hurriedly introduced the president. The president, a man who has coached and played football in the days when the game was a "tooth and nail" affair, gave the boys a few interesting sidelights on Coach Stage of Chicago. Stage, Mr. Munson stated, raced up and down the field with a bicycle when coaching the group of which the president was a member. The coach, it seems, had a bad case of rheumatism. However that may be, President Munson stated that his gang was quite fast. The last remark cleared things up considerably. As a result of this President Munson also launched himself into the Central game. But before he had really become warmed up to the subject, the boys felt the soothing effect of the words of one who really understood the situation, and could evaluate the efforts of the team accordingly. To the president, the fact that the game was lost meant nothing; the fact that the team knew how to lose meant everything. He stressed the fact that Northern's policy has not been a policy of solicitation of prize athletes. The college does not and will not offer to reimburse any man, financially or otherwise, to attend the institution and win athletic contests for it. To President Munson, the fact that the college has disposed of ninety-seven percent of its graduates sixty days after they had received their diplomas is of greater significance than the number of games that are won or lost. The college is a teacher factory; and, if these teachers can play football, so much the better.

Fearful that the president had forgotten himself and would talk on far into the night, Halverson, by some form of mental telepathy, succeeded in causing the president to reluctantly give way to the last speaker of the evening, Coach Hedgecock.

The coach gave much of the credit for the team's fine work this year to his able backfield mentor, Mr. Hurst. The work of Mr. Davis, the freshman coach, was also commended highly by Mr. Hedgecock. In the course of his talk, the coach made the statement that no faculty man had ever approached any of the sixty men present relative to their entering Northern in order to compete athletically. In all probability, this partially accounted for the spirit of close cooperation so evident on Northern's athletic teams, and also for the feeling, generally current, that we had done our best. This best was quite acceptable to all who placed scholarship as the first essential of a good educational institution.

The following men were given the right to wear "N's" with a sweater: Gundry, a four year man; Vieklund, Nelmark, Ferguson and Albert Treado, the three year men; Phil Noonan, Nelson, Zenti, Kilpela, Collins and Bullock, the first year men. "N's" on gold footballs were awarded to men of two years' varsity competition. They were: Jacobsen, Johnson, Erickson, Wilkins, Hiney, Sullivan, Marshall Treado and Maki.

MILLE TALKS ON VISIT TO FRANCE AND BASQUE LAND

In Paris, Miss Archambeault stayed a short time at the Ambassador Hotel, where the American war mothers were royally entertained by the United States government. She studied a few weeks at the University of Paris. During that time she made visits to the famous monuments of Paris (already familiar to Miss Archambeault, who has made several visits to France). Most lovely are the tall Gothic cathedrals, with their beautifully carved spires, the simpler Grecian La Madeleine, with its colonnades, the Oriental Sacre Coeur with its golden cupola—each of them the enduring monument of the faith of an age.

There was Mademoiselle's trip to the Pyrenees, passing through Les Landes, which once threatened to separate the Pyrenees from France, with shifting sands slowly covered by the sea. Pine trees were planted here, which gave rise to the now flourishing resin and turpentine industry. The houses, delightfully colored, are of peculiar shapes. The people, too, differ from most French in that they are not very friendly until one becomes acquainted.

The journey to the Pyrenees continues to Pau, the home of Henri of Navarre, who said "Ne perdez pas de vue mon panache blanc! Vous le trouverez toujours au chemin de l'honneur." It was in Pau, his birth place, that Henri IV staged his youthful mock sieges and miniature wars.

From Pau to Lourdes one finds the same peaceful country side. Lourdes nestles on the side of a hill. Below, like a silver ribbon, a stream winds in and out endlessly seeking the spacious seas. Overlooking the valley, the Basilica stands in all its majesty like a prayer in stone, lifting its Gothic spires to an overhanging sky. This massive structure has three distinct stories: the ground floor, or crypt, whose walls are beautiful mosaic, the second floor, or church proper, with multitudinous altars, and thirdly, the basilica proper. Below on the right of the church is the Grotto and the celebrated shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. On the left, ascending about the mountain side, are the fourteen stations of the cross cast in bronze. The last station, the sepulchre, is a natural one in the side of the mountain.

At Lourdes one sees the Spanish influence. The Basque is found here, whose language is called "une langue agglutinante," for with one word the Basque may express that which in another language would take a whole sentence.

The return to Paris from Lourdes was in a train crowded with people returning from holidays—a good natured crowd in spite of the intense heat. Upon returning one welcomes the Parisian boulevards with their terraced cafes, the clanging bells, and the horns of the taxis.

A few days later, Mademoiselle Archambeault left Paris for Le Havre, to sail home on the La Fayette (a French liner beautifully modernistic.) Here, too, could be found the amusement travellers expect everywhere. The night before the landing a concert was presented in which Charles Hackett and Richard Bonelli of the Chicago Civic Opera, and Lerche and Ryan of the Metropolitan, took part.

Miss Archambeault landed in New York, where she visited Greenwich village. Ann Sutherland's tea house, with its walls decorated with autographed pictures of noted actors, is interesting and quiet as is all of Greenwich village.

Permit us to quote Miss Archambeault, who knows both France and America most intimately, on America's position in relation to other countries of the world: "After fraternizing with many different peoples, I feel more than ever the need for America's mission in world affairs today. If we can lend a hand, let geographical barriers, social barriers, and any other barriers sink into oblivion. Not one nation today can afford to stand apart and to look down on the world's affairs when it can join hands in amicable help. Let our toll be upward; we cannot set ourselves apart on a pedestal and look down. It is more interesting by far to watch the stars shine overhead than to gaze upon dissenting faces."

Paul, born on September 26, 1930, in Dearborn. Mr. and Mrs. Knight are living at 615 Horger Street, Dearborn.

Koepf, Walter, '18, A. B. '20, and Mrs. Koepf (Dorothy E. Medland, yrs. '20-'23) are the parents of a daughter, Barbara Joan, born October 22, 1930, in Marquette. The Koepfs are living at 131 E. Park Street, Marquette.
