Gant Announces Arrival Of Student Identification Cards At General Office

Mr. L. O. Gant, Northern's Registrar, states that identification cards containing photographs of each student have arrived and will soon be distributed. Each card will contain a matriculation number which will also be used by the general office in identifying student personnel records. These cards will be used by students as admission certificates to athletic activities and all other college functions to which students are admitted without charge.

Some students will be disappointed in their photographs due to the fact that the camera did not function accurately at all times. Some photographs overlap each other necessitating the retaking of some pictures.

Students are advised to watch for a notice to pick-up their identification cards which will be placed for distribution soon.

N. M. C. E. RECEIVES WORD OF CRITIC TEACHER'S DEATH

Word has been received that Miss Sidney Harring, former critic teacher at John D. Pierce Training School, passed away after a lengthy illness at her home in Packwaukee, Wisconsin, last August.

Miss Harring, a graduate of State Normal in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, taught school in Ironwood, Michigan, for two years before going to Searles County Normal at Creswell, Michigan, where she was a critic for a year. After serving as Assistant Principal of the City Training School for Teachers in Saginaw for two years, she became a critic teacher in the Genesee County Normal at Flint in 1914. During the summers she taught Summer School at Central State Normal at Mount Pleasant.

In January, 1915, Miss Harring came to Northern as a critic teacher in the third and fourth grades of the Training School. She spent her summers in California and attended the University of California Summer Schools. She received her A.B. from Northern in December, 1922.

EDUCATORS VISIT NORTHERN FOR U. P. CONFERENCE

Board members and superintendents of Upper Peninsula public schools, who attended the annual mid-winter conference at Northern college Saturday morning, heard talks on current educational issues by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction; P. J. Hoffmann, director of the state department of conservation; Dr. A. J. Phillips, executive-secretary of the Michigan Educational Association; and Hugh Masters, representative of the Kellogg foundation.

Sessions, which were held in the college, convened at 9:30 in the morning and continued through 2:30 in the afternoon. Dr. Henry A. Tape, Northern college president, delivered an address of welcome to the conferees, who have met annually at the college for many years.

One of the chief issues which faced the schoolmen was the releasing of students from classes since a week for religious instruction in the church of their faith. In Marquette, children are excused early on Wednesday afternoons in order that they may go to their own church for special religious classes. The legal side of the program was presented by Dr. Elliott and Irving S. Edwards, Houghton superintendent, discussed all sides of the program with regard to the schools.

Clair F. Taylor, administrator of all state school funds for the department of public instruction, spoke on "State Aid and School Finance," and Dr. Phillips addressed the group on "MEA's Legislative Program."

Outdoor education and its value was discussed by Mr. Hoffmann, who explained how the conservation department regards the outdoors as a public asset, and Mr. Masters, who spoke on "The Outdoors as an Integrated Part of Education." An open-forum discussion of the subject was led by Julian Smith, of the department of public instruction.

"Schools and the College Agreement Plan" was the subject of a talk by Joseph Guey, Stephenson superintendent. Dr. Elliott also spoke on "The Department of Public Instruction and the College Agreement Plan."

Dr. R. B. Hockings, of the Crystal Falls board of education, presided over the business session. Duane Hasakell, of the Northern college music staff, directed community singing.

Saturday's session was preceded on Friday by a meeting of Upper Peninsula superintendents and county school commissioners, and a special College Agreement meeting open to all superintendents and high school principals. About 30 educators were present.

OPERATIC GROUP PLEASES AUDIENCE

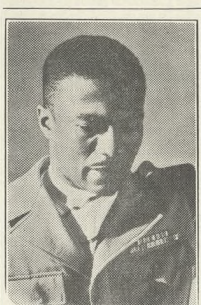

Members of the Marquette Community Concert Association were indeed in for a treat on Thursday, January 22, when the Columbia Operatic Trio presented the second number of a concert series in the college auditorium.

The young trio consisting of Agnes Davis, soprano, Elwood Gary, tenor, and Carlos Sherman, baritone with their fine singing, made the evening one to remember. Otto Lehmann at the piano performed artistically.

"The first one half of the program included soloistic operatic numbers. Although the majority of the audience was introduced for the first time to this type of music, by the sound of their applause, they liked it. The second one half of the program consisted of familiar favorites. One could hear as the audience filed out from the auditorium, folks humming the melodies of "I Got Plenty O' Nuttin'" and "T'm Falling in Love With Someone."

The trio sang many encores and the audience clapped on and on. Each performer was poised and the audience welcomed their warm smiles on such a cold night. They should be commended for the evidences of dramatic ability, their sense of humor, and for the excellent performance as a whole. The next number in the concert series will be presented February 19.

TAPE ANNOUNCES CONSTRUCTION JOB

President Henry A. Tape announced that the contract for the building of an addition to the main building has been awarded to the Miller-Davis Construction Company of Kalamazoo. The Miller-Davis Company was awarded the contract after submitting the lowest bid for the construction of the addition.

"The firm will build an addition that will give Northern two more brick rock and eight offices for members of the faculty. The second floor of the administration building will be connected with the second stories of the Longyear and Peter White buildings. It will then be possible for students to pass to the Peter White or Longyear buildings direct from the second floor.

Construction will begin on about April 1 of this year.

Ex-Sgt. And German War Bride Join G. I. Society At Northern's Vet Ville

One of the recent additions to Vet Ville are Mr. and Mrs. Jarl Roine. Mrs. Roine has the distinction of being the first German war bride on the campus. The combat veteran's wife was born in Berlin, where 1st Sgt. Roine of the 388th Military police, first met her. Jarl, of Rock, Michigan, is a Freshman at Northern.

Edith Roine is an attractive English well, but corrects her husband's grammar, confesses Jarl, White in Germany. Mrs. Roine graduated from Halle University. Besides her parents she left one brother, all of which live in the American sector of Berlin.

At the time of their meeting, in April of 1946, Edith was working as a waitress in the cafeteria where Jarl ate. On August 11, they became engaged and Jarl applied for permission to send his fiancée to America. Army red tape delayed Edith's departure for over six months. Finally she received permission to depart, and flew to New York, arriving on July 4 of last year. Shortly thereafter the couple were married. Mrs. Roine likes Marquette and

Members Hear Thirty-Five Negro Voices on Monday, February 16th

On Monday, February 16th the DePaar Infantry Chorus will present a program at Northern under the sponsorship of the Community Concert Series. The chorus is a group of thirty-five former Negro G. I.'s who have remained as a unit under the leadership of Captain Leonard DePaar's direction and are now making their first American concert tour under the auspices of F. C. Coppicus and P. C. Schang of Columbia Concerts. National interest in this new concert assemblage has already resulted in an extension by three months of their original tour.

The DePaar Chorus gave more than 2,000 concerts for the American armed forces throughout the auspices of the United States Army and the USO, visiting every theater in the United States during their three year travels, and sometimes giving as many as six performances a day.

Captain DePaar has picked his chorus from the best voices in the United States Army. His exceptional leadership fused these soldiers into a noble ensemble.

The chorus makes up part of its repertoire from the music of the many lands the ex-soldiers have visited. Some of these will be heard by concertgoers for the first time. This unique choral group was organized in 1942 by men of the 372nd Infantry Regiment as a volunteer, off-duty activity while its members were training at Fort Dix, N. J. Every member had a regular job during working hours, as a rifleman, cannosner, cook, communications and all of the other classifications found in an infantry regiment. At night, however, they met in mess halls, chapels, bandstands or wherever they could to rehearse the songs they have since made famous. The group's renown spread early and soon it was appearing by public demand in many eastern cities at War Bond rallies.

Captain DePaar was assigned to the 372nd regiment in 1944. He had just completed a tour as director of the celebrated chorus in the Air Forces show "Winged Victory". Under his leadership the work of the infantry chorus now became inspired. It was soon heard on all the top Army broadcasts and made a tour of the principal cities of the country. In early 1945 the group was sent to the Pacific where it was detached from its regiment and set up as a unit to entertain at Army, Navy, and Marine installations.

When the war was over in the Pacific the singers went to Europe to sing for the occupation forces and were mustered out of this activity only last spring.

SEGS DRAW CROWD AT "GIBSON" SOCIAL

The Gibson Girl Social sponsored by the Cegmer Seg sorority, was attended by 270 students and teachers Friday night, January 23 in the gymnasium.

The guests were met at the door by three dummies dressed as Gibson Girls. In the center of the floor was a perfect room with a love seat, old fashioned table, chair, and an easel with an oil painting of a Gibson girl. Card tables with bright table cloths were placed around the gym. On each table was a sign with humorous sayings.

Harry Peterson dressed in a plaid coat, trousers, high collar, spats and straw hat took pictures of people standing behind card board figures of a Gibson girl and man, and a couple on a bicycle built for two.

Frank Richardson as "Master of Ceremonies," announced the program. "I Want a Girl," was sung by the whole group. Harry Peterson gave his version of the can-can dance, and the highly entertaining melodrama, "Only an Orphan Girl" was presented.

The music was furnished by Paul White. The Seg pledges served refreshments of a bowl of potato chips on each table and punch.

It's Our Responsibility

Many surveys have been made to set-up the qualifications of good teachers and school administrators. Such lists have always included effective leadership, cultural background, scholarship, ability to get along with people, good judgment, skill in communication, poise, sympathetic understanding of students and their problems, a sense of justice, and personal appearance.

This year students have an opportunity to gain experience in poise and skill in communication through mock convention activities proposed by the social science department.

Recent years have seen an increasing awareness of the close relationship of the school to the community which it serves. The schools have made an effort to teach those courses which will be useful to students who are going to earn their living. Every teacher needs this experience, for most communities lack leaders upon whom they can depend for counsel and guidance. It is time that colleges prepare teachers to take their place, not merely in the classroom, but as community leaders.

Superintendents and principals have an even greater responsibility as community leaders. Their work, as educational leaders, should extend to their community, state, and nation. They must be prepared in college to perform this obligation in an acceptable manner so as to help build the type of a society that will insure the four freedoms and so make this a better world in which to live.

Many people outside of the teaching profession are willing and anxious to assume community responsibility. Some are interested in the welfare of all, but others are interested only from a selfish motive.

It is the duty of every educator to take a more positive part in the work that lies ahead.

Let all of us get behind the Social Science Department in this project, which offers so much in the way of "practical training" in matters which so vitally concern us as good citizens.

HORTENSE RALLIES AFTER HEROIC STRUGGLE AGAINST MALNUTRITION

Hortense got up late one morning. There was barely enough time to make it to her first class. She dressed quickly, gave her hair a quick combing, gathered up her books, and hurried off. When she got out into the cold air, she became aware of a great breakfast appetite within her. There was nothing she could do about it at that late time, however. She would just have to wait until lunch time for her first food of the day. Hortense had missed breakfast before, but usually she didn't have so many classes on such mornings; and she therefore didn't have the opportunity to sit so long during lectures and meditate upon her ever-mounting appetite as she did that day.

That morning seemed especially long. After her second class she noticed that her hands began trembling from lack of nourishment. Her eyes began hurting too. Not only that, in her third class of the morning she noticed that one of the boys who had an unusually large nose attracted her attention very much. The student's nose was not only unusually red—it seemed to Hortense to be just like a large, well-tipped piece of fruit, "Strange," she thought to herself, "that I should think of that today!" In her next class she sat behind a Swedish boy, who had unusually blonde hair. His hair was a source of attraction to her throughout the period. The hair seemed to her just like dehydrated noodles.

When finally her classes were done for the morning, Hortense need to a lunch consisting of a sandwich near the Northern campus. The lunch room was very crowded at the time with many students busily trying to get their lunch over with, so they could get to school for their 1:25 classes. After waiting patiently for fifteen minutes a waitress finally attended to the order of a boy sitting next to Hortense. Hortense had heard her. The boy next to Hortense got his order filled, but Hortense didn't. Then Hortense sat about and waited for the waitress to approach her again. She was so famished by then that her hunger had turned into a dull ache. Her hands still trembled, her head began aching, and she grew dizzy. More time went by. Hortense could think of nothing but her misery and the cheeseburger that could cure her.

The waitress approached again. Hortense gave her order again. More time passed. Hortense talked to the waitress. "I'm sorry," the waitress explained. "We're all out of cheeseburgers." Hortense then ordered a hamburger. More time passed. Hortense asked the waitress when her hamburger would be ready. "Your hamburger isn't ready yet," said the waitress. "I'm sorry I can't help you. I only serve them. I don't make them." More time passed. Hortense's hopes dropped to a low ebb. Then a third was heard by the other students. Hortense had collapsed to the floor.

STATISTICS REVEAL NEWEST AMBITIONS

After much conscientious thought during which it was only mildly disturbed by someone beating out Boogie in the music practice room, it has come to me that clearly we should all have a wider appreciation of the wider things (doggone this typewriter). I mean the finer things. To often our lives tend to become centered to such an extent, wrapped up in our own aims and ambitions that we lose sight of the things of the world around us. Recently a poll taken down at the Tip Top showed some very interesting results:

10% were enrolled in Pre-Professionalism like Jerking. 15.2% (2 is little Egbert's opinion which really doesn't count) were interested in one of the newer courses—Snow-shovelling 606, coupled of course with Grasscutting 101 during the Summer Session.

25% were completely agog over floorwalking in a Phone Booth—which I personally thought would get rather boring after awhile unless they were well equipped with slugs.

The largest number, 42% were of the opinion that by far the most pleasant life would be Chief Bum on a tramp steamer and were adequately preparing themselves with Goofing Off 203 and the more Advanced Goofing Off for Married Men 305.

The remaining 8%, according to this very reliable poll, thought that Basket Weaving, Bird Calls, of Upper Michigan, and How to Cope with your Mother-in-Law, of far more practical value. Frankenspatz.

NORTHERN LITES

John Bottum

After John L. Bottum collects his A. B. degree this month, he plans on thirty days of relaxation before entering the Northwestern University graduate school. There John will work on his master's degree in chemistry which he majored in here at Northern. John also majored in math and minored in physics; altogether we'd say that young Mr. Bottum's schedule spelled work, with brains to match. John's credits were increased by the Navy V12 program in which he took part for two years. Actually John has been enrolled at Northern less than two years, but he has participated in several extra-curricular activities including the Theta Omicron Rho Fraternity, the Math Club, and Foreign Language Club.

Alfred Hakala

Within a few days Alfred Hakala will receive his Bachelor of Science degree and proceed to lower Michigan to put said document into practical usage. Bayport is the town in which Al will teach students of both junior and senior high levels. His preparation for this consists of a course major and minors in economics and geography.

Al entered Northern in 1940 with Gwinn High School credits for guarantees. After two years, "Hak" took a leave of absence from his studies to become an Army man. During the next three years the South Pacific, including Japan, received the greater number of "Hak's" soldier days. By 1946 gaudies, tweeds, and sweaters replaced Al's khaki wardrobe. Northern's campus was once again the center of "Hak's" educational activities which took in the Commerce and Geography clubs in addition to those ever present scholastic duties. Conservative in most respects, Al keeps his music books in the same classics and smooth popular ballads. For easy listening relaxation he chooses Romberg's "The Student Prince," although he won't complain about a substitution when either Bing or Perry C. vocalize. In the danceable category comes the softer arrangements of Sammy Kaye and Guy Lombardo. But once in awhile, the man craves jazz so in steps a Dixie two-beat job.

Another substitution "Hak" never minds is pork chops for steaks; in fact he usually substitutes the same steak fadism he had by so many people. And coffee? Al loves the stuff, but claims it's more of a habit than anything else. All in all, food never presents much of a problem to "Hak"—which merely proves what an easy disposition this handsome Hakala man possesses.

Sports consume quite a bit of Al's time especially in the summer when he plays on the Gwinn baseball team. Football and basketball are enjoyed when time time permits, as is hockey—the latter being sported with improvement. "Hak" names his tennis game and wishes he could swing a racket with comparative skill.

"Hak" doesn't mind leaving school since he is anxiously looking forward to his teaching duties. His only comment before joining the solid citizen world was on student opinions which he thinks should deserve more respect and recognition. With this attitude, we are convinced Al Hakala will be a popular instructor at Bayport, Michigan.

N. M. C. E. CAGERS TO RESUME CAGE WARS NEXT WEEK

The Northern Wildcats will not swing into action until Friday evening, February 13, when they will match their sport wars with the Ferris Bulldogs in the college gym.

Due to the examination schedule this week Coach Money has been giving his boys a well earned rest. This two-week layoff hasn't been a complete vacation for the hard-court boys as Coach Money has been keeping them at their mid-season form by light drills. He is anxious to keep them at their peak of performance for the remainder of the schedule.

Northern with a season's record of seven wins and three losses, will be in excellent physical condition to sweep its remaining games. Truman Guard, promising freshman from Lake Linden, who sustained a knee injury in an early season game with Central has been slowly rounding into shape and should be ready for the starting whistle in the coming encounters.

FERRIS
Coach C. V. Money's cagers will make a home stand against the Bulldogs of Ferris, February 13, in a game that promises to be one of the top-flight attractions of the year. Ferris earlier this year suffered a trouncing at the hands of the Wildcats and are out to upset Northern's apocryph.

WILDCATS DEFEAT SOO TECH, 62-35

Paced by Marquette's own Tom Kirby, the N. M. C. E. cagers posted its seventh triumph of the season in the N. M. C. E. gym Saturday night, defeating the Sault Tech Engineers 62-35.

The Wildcats held a commanding lead throughout the entire game. Outstanding on defense were Sam Minard and Cliff Puckett. Jack Reffling collected 17 points closely followed by Bill Zigelmeier who tallied 11.

The cooperation of the Faculty and Students is requested with reference to the observation of parking regulations in the circle driveway in front of the College. With one violator, others follow and the general purpose for which the driveway was planned is destroyed. If we will try to observe the general principles of democratic procedure, knowing that all cars cannot be parked in the circle driveway, we will not be the selfish ones to violate the parking regulations.

MONEYMEN CLIP FERRIS BULLDOGS IN ROUGH CONTEST

The Wildcats got back into the victory column Saturday, January 24, by beating Ferris Institute, 71-54, in Big Rapids. It was Northern's sixth victory of the current campaign.

Coach Money's squad outplayed the Bulldogs, scoring 30 baskets against 16 for the losers, but were penalized by 35 personal fouls. Four of Northern's players left the game early because of fouls. Sam Minard, Northern's standout defenseman, was unable to play much of the game after getting tagged for four personals in the first 10 minutes of action.

Tom Kirby led the Wildcat offense, racking up 20 points. Northern led 27-24, at the intermission. Northern—

LITTLE 'CATS WHIP SAULT BEES 37-27

Playing their best basketball of the current season, the Northern Bees defeated the Soo Tech Bees squad 37 to 27 in a preliminary to the Varsity game last Saturday night in the college gym.

The game was a nip and tuck throughout most of the first half with the score tied several times. With three minutes left before intermission, the Bees managed to edge away from the invaders and the score at half time found Northern leading 18 to 13. The second half found Thurston and Whitman continuing to pace the 'll cats as they once more outscored Sault 19 to 14.

CLUB NEWS

Newman Club

The regular meeting of the Newman Club was held Tuesday, January 20. Election of officers took place and four veterans now lead the club. They are: Joe McAliff—President, Louie Siedl—Vice-President, Chet. Casari—Secretary, Stan Whitman—Treasurer. Father Dunleavy reminded the members of the coming of Lent. He also stated that Holy Mass will be offered every morning during Lent at 7:15, in St. Michael's church, for the benefit and convenience of the members. In the past years, attendance has been exceptionally large. Students are urged to make this year's attendance record surpass previous years. This can be done if Catholic students cooperate 100%.

Cambium Club

The regular meeting of the Cambium Club was held in the Biology lecture room on January 20, 1948. After a brief business meeting, Dr. West told the group about the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science which he and Dr. Schaefer attended in Chicago. Dr. West told the group of the history of the organization, and then of the present scope of the organization. He described his activities there, and gave a clear picture of the entire gathering. Dr. Schaefer contributed several humorous incidents, and a period of questions and discussion followed.

Language Club

The Modern Language Club had a meeting in Room 206 on Tuesday, January 27, at 3:20. A short business meeting was held in which it was decided that the Spanish and French groups would get together for dinner. A social committee was selected for the French group composed of Glensy Lawry, Ida Giotto, and Donald Wachter. The social committee for the Spanish group includes: Carmen Conte, Howard Karjala, and Ronald LaViolette.

Athenaeum Society

The Athenaeum Literary Society held a meeting in Room 209 on Wednesday, January 28, 1948 at 4:15 P. M. During the meeting an election of officers took place. "COLLEGIANS"

(Continued from Page 2) Frank Richardson took off this week-end for Battle Creek. He and Marjorie celebrated his birthday. We hereby retract our statement of last week concerning Pete Diether. It is Pete who likes Sousa marches, not his landlord. We will offer our apologies in person on Wednesday.

We wish that someone would talk Dorothy Nashlund into giving a public performance of "Fuedin' and Fighting!" It's a scream!!! Due to previous commitments or our services at this time, we are forced to close this column sooner than we would like. Who are we to argue with Dr. Thomas and American Lit.???

VET'S DOPE

Due to the fact that a large number of educational institutions have increased their tuition rates, many veterans may find that their total eligibility time for study under the G. I. Bill will be decreased if the tuition and other appropriate charges of the school exceed $500 for an academic year.

Veterans Administration today emphasized that for each $2.10 which is expended for a veteran in excess to the $500 limit, the veteran exhausts one day's eligibility time. VA also pointed out that substitute allowances do not increase despite tuition costs in excess of $500 an academic year.

Further, VA will not increase the substitute allowance for a veteran who acquires dependency status until the time he actually notifies the VA. In other words, if a veteran marries, thereby becoming eligible for increased substitute allowances, and falls to notify VA until five months later, this increased substitute allowance will not be retroactive to the date of marriage but only to the date notification was filed with VA.

The Novahoma Club will entertain the H. H. girls of John D. Pierce at a Valentine party to be held Tuesday, February 10, 3:30, in the Home Economics Department.

"HORTENSE"

A boy propped her shoulders up against his knee. Hortense called a bit. A glass was placed in her hand. She wished it would be milk. Oh, if only it would be milk! She placed it to her lips. It was water. Then she collapsed again.

Hortense was rushed away to the hospital in an ambulance. In the hospital her case was diagnosed as malnutrition, and she was held there for three days; but she wasn't allowed to have a cheeseburger. The first day she was allowed to have fruit juices only. That night she dreamed that some fiend was continually squirting grapefruit juice in her eye. It was very painful, and she ran into a dark forest where she began eating bark off the trees.

The second day she was fed eggs, and these proved to be just much more satisfying than fruit juices. That night, however, she suffered from insomnia, and in trying to get to sleep she counted ten thousand cheeseburgers hurdling a fence.

The third day she was given toast for breakfast with more fruit juice, and in the course of the day, she was given a few more solid foods. In the middle of the night she awoke quite famished again, however. A nurse paced back and forth in the corridor outside of Hortense's room. The nurse's shoes squeaked. Hortense thought the leather in the nurse's shoes squeaked in a very charming manner. Then Hortense fell asleep again, and she dreamed that she was a sailor on Magellan's ship. "The food ran low, and all the squeaky shoes aboard were boiled up in making stew. It seemed to Hortense that the stew was very excellent too.

Hortense has been out of the hospital for some time now, and to all appearances, she is a very healthy girl again. It should be noted, however, that she has begun carrying a lunch pail to classes lately, and she has been many-times rebuffed for eating in a most ravenous and loud manner during lectures.

Northern Gets Plant Collection From Cranbrook

Thanks to a recent gift of the Cranbrook Institute of Science in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, Northern now has its first real foundation of a herbarium—a collection of 700 dried plants which will be used for study in the college botany department.

The Cranbrook Institute at Bloomfield Hills, which is between Detroit and Pontiac, is a privately endowed institution founded by George G. Booth, builder of the Detroit News and a famous chain of other Michigan newspapers. The plants came to Northern as an outright gift.

Of the 700 specimens, approximately 500 are scientifically prepared sheets of native plants. Of these 500, about 300 to 400 are native of Michigan. The remainder come from Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, New York, and several Southern and other Eastern states, and also from the foreign regions: Canada, Labrador, and Denmark.

The remaining 200 specimens, arranged individually in glass bottles, are plants having economic value. Included in the classifications of this group are: drugs, such as quinine and gold thread; beverage plants, such as coffee, tea, cocoa, and mate; spices and flavoring, such as cinnamon, vanilla, tyme, and basil; and gums, fibers, agricultural plants, and common weeds. Not only will this collection be used for study and demonstration by General Botany classes, but also for research reference by the students and faculty of Northern and by visiting professional sciences workers. Further, it will be the basic tool for the students who take Systematic Botany, a new course which is planned on being offered in the spring semester of 1949.

Of the importance of this gift to Northern, Mrs. Bingham, of the Botany department remarked: "With this important representative herbarium gift as a basis of a collection, biologists at Northern receive an impetus to build up the collection so that it will rank favorably with herbaria of other educational institutions of similar standing in Michigan."

Veterans enrolled under the G. I. Bill of Rights are asked by the employees of the book store to bring their identification cards with them when requesting supplies and books at government expense.

All students are further requested to refrain from purchasing all items except books for the first two days of the second semester. Students are asked to cooperate in order to eliminate unnecessary congestion and confusion in the small confines of the book store.

Robert Walker, who graduates in February, will no longer be working in the book store much to the regret of the other employees.
