Slow Progress May Mean Reclassification

Many of our students have been reclassified 1-A by their local draft boards during the past few months, according to assistant Registrar Mr. Robert Nystrom.

The main reason for this seems to be involved with the new Selective Service Act which was enacted in June of 1967. One of the most important parts of this Act is as follows:

"Satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction means that a student who is taking a four-year course should earn 25% of his credits each year." In other words, since it takes 128 semester hours for graduation at Northern, a student should complete 32 semester hours each school year. A school year consists of both semesters and our summer session.

I would like to caution all male students to be sure and complete 32 semester hours of passing work.

If anyone has questions about selective service, please contact Bob Nystrom, Assistant Registrar, in the Records Office.

Comes As Surprise Faculty Motion Recommends Dr. Barnard For Honorary Degree

A motion passed at a general meeting of the faculty Tuesday afternoon recommending to the Honorary Degree Committee that former faculty member, Dr. Ellsworth Barnard be made a recipient of one of the honorary degrees given at mid-year commencement ceremonies next weekend.

Barnard was an active participant in the McClellan controversy last year, submitting his resignation at the height of the conflict at the end of the second semester.

His re-application for a position at the University next year was turned down because there were no senior positions available in the English Department at this time. It was pointed out by his department chairman, Dr. Arthur Pennell that although he had hoped Dr. Barnard would be returning, there were "simply no funds available." Presently he has taken a full-time tenure position at the University of Massachusetts where he is a visiting professor this year.

Dr. Michael Shapiro, apparently to nearly everybody's surprise, placed the motion to recommend Barnard for an honorary degree with John Frye adding the second.

Various individuals spoke in Barnard's behalf, pointing out his excellence as a teacher and outstanding individual character.

There were very few negative votes on the motion, although an estimated one-third of the faculty present abstained. Also, according to the Faculty Senate, Dr. Donald Baker, there was "considerably less" than the entire faculty present.

The recommendation now goes to the Honorary Degree Committee of which Dr. Richard Sonderegger is chairman. Dr. Sonderegger was not available for comment because of illness but Dr. Baker commented that the action taken at the general faculty meeting had already been made known to him.

According to Dr. Baker, "There is no question at all that they (the committee) will be taking the recommendation very seriously."

Job Corps Director Claims

Center Success Should Decide Future

In the face of the controversy over the Women's Job Corps Center, Dr. Bert Jones, director of the Center, stated this week he thought a decision on whether to renew the Job Corps contract should be made after determining if the Center has been successful in achieving its objectives.

"We feel that we are meeting our objectives," Dr. Jones said. The Center's objectives are to provide an education equivalent to a high school diploma and to improve the girl's social attitudes, he added.

Dr. Jones reported that since opening the Center here at Northern Michigan, 1,056 girls have been enrolled. Of the enrollees who completed training at the Center in the past, Dr. Jones noted that 58 percent have had placement in jobs.

Dr. Jones said that some of the girls are transferred to YWCAs for their placement.

He further reported that since the Center's opening two and one half years ago, 111 girls have obtained high school diplomas from the Center itself and 45 from Marquette High School.

Dr. Jones said of the Faculty Senate's recommendation that the Job Corps Center be removed from the campus or, if this were not feasible immediately, that NMU not seek renewal of the Job Corps contract, that the Senate "made an honest reaction to the President's request for an evaluation of the effects of the Job Corps Center on the University community." He took issue, though, with some of the statements made by the Faculty Senate.

Refuting the Senate's charge that the Job Corps enrollees are taking the University Center away from Northern students, Dr. Jones said, "I think that if a survey is made it will be found that there are very few Job Corps girls who use the University Center in relation to the total number who do use it."

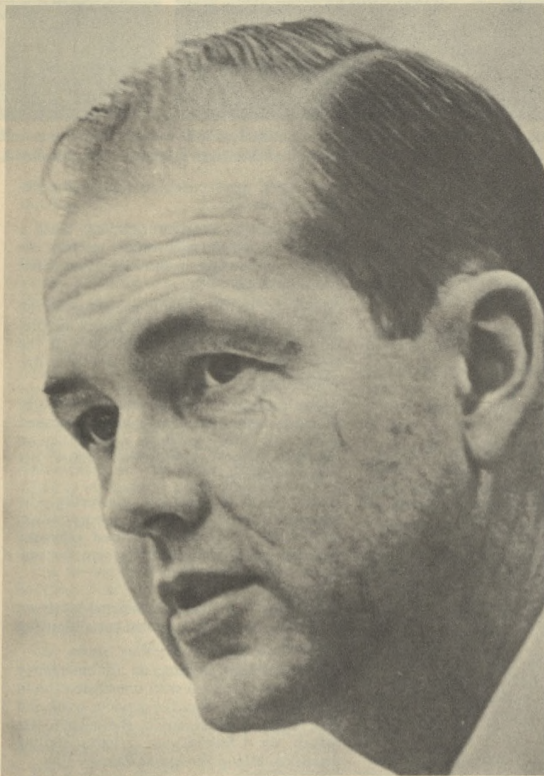

Dr. Jones also stated that he felt it was the guests of NMU students and Job Corps enrollees who are causing the problems in the University Center and not the Job Corps girls. He said that out of two and one half years, there has been only one incident involving a Job Corps enrollee in the University Center and that the girl involved was suspended immediately.

"There have been practically no incidents between Job Corps enrollees and University students and only a few incidents with the Security Police," Dr. Jones said. Only ten girls were involved in the black militant sit-in which forced cancellation of the NMU-Pan American basketball game last month.

Dr. Jones announced that an invitation has been extended by the Job Corps Center to NMU students to tour the Center. Tours began today and will be conducted next Monday and Tuesday at 9:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

Students wishing to take the tour are to meet in the Carey Hall lounge, where bus transportation will be provided to the Birds-Eye Building.

CHANCELLOR EDWARD WEIDNER

Torchlight Parade Sets Off Snowflake Holiday

An estimated 10,000 persons visited this Upper Peninsula city last January for the Michigan State Snowmobile Championships under the sponsorship of the Ishpeming Lions Club.

Thousands more are expected this week-end as the entire community has become involved in planning fun-in-the-snow holidays, a three-day weekend of activities visitors will long remember. It is, in fact, to be called Snowflake Holidays. And snowmobile racing will be only a part of it.

An hour-long torchlight parade tonight through the downtown area of Ishpeming will mark the official start of Holidays. The coronation of a Snowflake Queen will follow the parade. A Snowflake Ball is scheduled later tonight.

A Snowflake Ski Jumping Tour-namment will be held at Ishpeming's famed Suicide Hill Saturday morning. A flyover of jet aircraft from K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base at noon will coincide with the start of the drag races in snowmobile championship competition at the Ishpeming Playground. A snowmobile dance is scheduled tomorrow evening.

Festivities will conclude with the snowmobile speed races at the playground beginning at noon on Sunday.

Throughout the three days of activities, visitors are invited to take advantage of guided tours through the National Ski Hall of Fame located in Ishpeming. Visitors also are advised to bring their snowmobiles, skis and skates and take advantage of the winter sports offered in Mid-America's Snow Capital.

Green Bay Chancellor Speaking

Another Record Mid-Year Commencement Next Week

Northern Michigan University will confer 269 degrees including 23 Masters of Arts degrees and 246 Bachelor's degrees in the largest mid-year commencement exercise in Northern's history.

The commencement exercise will take place at 2 p.m. on Saturday, January 18 in the fieldhouse of the C. B. Hedgcock Physical Education Building.

Of the 246 graduating seniors, 45 will be graduated from the School of Arts and Science, 41 from the School of Business, and 160 from the School of Education. The degrees will be conferred by NMU's president Dr. John X. Jamrich.

In 1968 at mid-year 261 degrees were awarded.

Delivering the mid-year commencement address will be Dr. Edward W. Weidner, chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. Weidner, who assumed his present post in February, 1967, previously taught political science and public administration at the Universities of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Kentucky, UCLA, and Michigan State University.

Northern will award Weidner an honorary doctor of humanities degree.

Weidner was at MSU for 12 years, from 1950 until 1962, where successively served as director of the Governmental Research Bureau, Chairman of the department of political science, and director of the Institute of Research on Overseas Programs.

He left MSU to become vice-chancellor of the East-West Center, University of Hawaii, a post he held for four years. After an interim period as director of the Center for Developmental Change at the University of Kentucky, he became chancellor of UW-GB which has campuses at Green Bay, Menasha, Manitowoc and Marinette.

Weidner earned his bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Minnesota.

Group Seeks To Change 'Disruptive Approach'

(ACP)--Amid the continuing turmoil on American college campuses, a relatively small group of well-groomed, mild-mannered students is struggling to prove that there is room for a national organization offering a "constructive alternative to the disruptive approach now evident across the land."

The organization, established four years ago, is the Associated Student Governments of the United States of America. It advertises "no political intent or purpose," thereby inviting comparison with the larger and more activist U.S. National Student Association, and it says its only aim is to "promote the sharing of ideas about student government."

The ASG's fifth annual convention, held at the Mayflower Hotel here (Wash.) during the Thanksgiving weekend, drew some 300 students from about 60 institutions. The organization says it has 150 member student governments representing about a million students.

The character of the meeting and of the organization was exhibited mainly at a series of seminars, business sessions and social events, where the lack of a political or partisan orientation left the delegates with little that was controversial to talk about.

"A good deal of publicity has been given to campus sit-ins, protest rallies, and the violence that they sometimes foster," says an ASG brochure. "But does student dissatisfaction mean student rebellion? Associated Student Governments think not."

President Jamrich, Dr. McClellan: Settlement Top News In 1968

Two Events Figure Large In Charting NMU Future

Dr. John X. Jamrich assuming the presidency of Northern Michigan University and the reinstatement of Dr. Robert McClellan were the top news items for 1968 as seen by an informal poll of the NEWS staff.

Selection of these two stories as the top news items for 1968 was made because the staff felt that they will play a particularly important role in the future of the University. Dr. Jamrich brought to Northern a type of academic governance that was badly needed and Dr. McClellan's reinstatement paved the way for its success and the unification of the University community.

The following is 1968 in review as reported in THE NORTHERN NEWS.

JANUARY 5 - Student body president Don L. Keskey announced that "in an effort to give the Student Senate the freedom to work on behalf of the student body," that he will ask the Student Government Association to meet before the student body a referendum calling for drastic reform of the University's funding policy. Keskey said the referendum would consist of a proposal for a student head tax that would be collected through the business office's filing card system at the end of each semester.

Northern Michigan University's basketball Wildcat captured the title at the Wayne State Centennial Tournament, led by the high scoring of Ted Rose.

JANUARY 9 - Slow Dance on the Killing Ground a three character play starring Peter LaVoy, Rye Case, and Meg Henning and directed by Vernon L. Pierce of NMU's speech department, opened in the Little Theatre for a five day run. It was the major theatre production of the winter season.

It was announced that Dr. David W. D. Dickson, Northern's Academic Vice President, would leave NMU February 1 for a position as Provost of Federal City College in Washington, D.C.

JANUARY 12 - Trying to rally support in an effort to give his suit against the University a broader base, Dr. Robert McClellan presented the opinion of the American Civil Liberties Union Counsel to a faculty meeting this week.

Students were extended an invitation to look at the facilities of the Women's Job Corps Center on January 24 and hear a leading woman educator, Dr. Miriam S. Sheldon.

Northern recorded its first gymnastic victory in the history of the school as they split a regular meet with Central Michigan and the University of Cincinnati.

Stan Albeck's NMU eagles cracked the century mark for the first time in the season, and Ted Rose equalled his career high as the 'Cats defeated St. Norbert, 103-80.

Announcement came from interim president Ogden E. Johnson that Northern had related with the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and that its athletic teams are now entitled to all the benefits of NCAA membership.

Head football coach Rollie Dotsch flatly denied reports that he will be the new coach at Idaho State University.

FEBRUARY 9 - The 1967 Fall Semester came to a close January 24.

The 1968 Spring Semester opened this week.

A major policy change was announced for the Don H. Bottum University Center. The Center in the future will only be open for NMU students, faculty, staff, and their guests with the exception of those attending authorized conferences or meetings and those partonizing the Charcoal Room.

The KIS Transit Company inaugurated intra-city bus service with two routes through the campus.

During the semester break, Northern's Arts Chorale made a eight-day, 20-concert tour which took them through four states and reached an estimated 25,000 high school students.

FEBRUARY 16 - Congressman Philip Ruppe, 11th District, Michigan, told 200 Northern students that the present differences in the draft laws from state to state should be changed, pointing out that the differences between Michigan and Texas draft laws were so great that a man drafted in Michigan may not be drafted in Texas.

Football Wildcat co-captains Dennis Porter and Jack Spulver were this week negotiating grid pro contracts; Porter with the world champion Green Bay Packers and Spulver with Montreal of the Canadian Football League.

FEBRUARY 23 - Mary Hammerschmidt, a blue-eyed blonde sophomore sponsored by the Vets Club, was crowned Sweetheart during All-Events Week activities. The nationally popular "Sandpipers" gave the All-Events Week concert.

Seventy-five percent of those students living on campus are, for the first time, enjoying two-man rooms in the residence halls. This announcement by the Housing Office followed closely on the heels of a Registrar's Office report indicating a record spring enrollment of 6,538 students.

Northern's gymnasts completed their first full season of intercollegiate competition with a 3-4 overall record.

MARCH 1 - It was announced this week that Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity had taken possession of the All-Events Week traveling trophy, winning the all-around fraternity competition for the third straight year.

Acting as the duly representative body of the students of Northern, the SGA voted by a 23-1 margin to file as co-plaintiffs in Dr. Robert McClellan's suit for reinstatement.

Northern ended its second season of intercollegiate wrestling with a 13-5 mark.

MARCH 8 - Dr. John X. Jamrich, associate dean of Michigan State University's College of Education since 1963, has accepted the presidency of Northern Michigan University.

Dick Gregory, Negro comedian and civil rights crusader, speaking to a packed house in the B. Hedcock Fieldhouse, stated that the paramount problem facing America today is the "moral pollution of our society."

Because of a technicality involving the filing of certain forms with the NCAA, the Wildcat basketball and wrestling teams were ruled ineligible for participation in any NCAA post-season tournaments.

Stan Albeck, head basketball coach, was named Michigan NAIA Coach-of-the-Year for the third time.

Dave Kovack, at the season's end, now ranks fourth on the list of all-time scoring leaders in Wildcat basketball with a three season total of 1,037 points.

MARCH 15 - "The Four Tops" will give the first concert in NMU's new Pop Concert Series.

Newly appointed president of Northern,

The University welcomes its new president, Dr. John X. Jamrich, and his wife, June. The McClellan issue is settled out of court. . . Paul Harrington is elected president of Northern's Student Government Association. . . Black Student was named head coach to replace the departing Stan Albeck.

APRIL 26 - Northern students were a part of a nationwide mock election to indicate preferences in the 1968 presidential elections October '68.

MAY 3 - Dr. Jamrich, speaking before the Student Senate, praised its effort in presenting the three referendums while at the same time subtly pointing out the discrepancies he found in them.

One student's hearing was permanently damaged, several students narrowly escaped injury, and fifteen windows were broken on campus during a brief power failure last Sunday evening.

MARCH 22 - Attorneys for Dr. McClellan filed suit this week in U.S. District Court here in Marquette against interim president Ogden E. Johnson, president emeritus Edgar L. Harden, and members of the University's Board of Control.

Competition was tough for the 1,000 reserved seats for the "Four Tops" concert as some were in line as early as 6:00 in the morning to wait for the box office to open at 11:00 a.m.

MARCH 29 - The racy Broadway hit Stop the World I Want to Get Off, the spring musical starring Roger Stephens of NMU's musical department, opened in the Little Theatre.

APRIL 5 - It was announced that Stan Albeck, the man who made All-American basketball players at NMU, would be leaving to take over the head coaching job at the University of Denver.

Using "sickness" as an excuse, "The Four Tops" canceled their scheduled concert here. However, Robert Nederlander, Pop Concert Committee Chairman, stated there is sufficient reason to believe they broke their contract in order to be in Hollywood, Florida, for promotional reasons.

APRIL 10 - The Student Bill of Rights, women's hours, and financial reform were overwhelmingly approved by the student body in a campus-wide referendum election.

Northern students along with faculty members and several towns people paid their respects to the slain Reverend Martin Luther King at a memorial service held on the steps of Kaye Hall, and the University closed yesterday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. in memory of him.

The News this week obtained a "First Class" rating in an Associated Collegiate Press evaluation and took second place to The Central Michigan Life at the Michigan Collegiate Press Association spring conference.

Glenn Brown, assistant basketball coach,

Wrestling coach Ed Brown, the man responsible for bringing collegiate wrestling to NMU, announced that he was taking a temporary leave of absence from Northern for one year to pursue his doctorate at the University of Utah.

Orestes, a Greek play by Euripides, opens next week with an all student cast headed by

Association president Melvin Payne and President Jamrich confront one another at the Black students sit-in which forced cancellation of the NMU - Pan American basketball game.

Gene Durney. It is the spring drama production.

MAY 24 - The largest graduating class in the history of Northern (513) will receive their commencement address from University of Michigan president Dr. Robben W. Fleming in ceremonies Sunday, June 2. Honorary degrees will be presented to Dr. Fleming, to NMU's president-elect Dr. John X. Jamrich, and to Lord Roy Thomson, owner of a newspaper empire which includes the London Times, and Dr. Arthur L. Turri, director of the C.S. Mott Foundation Children's Health Center in Flint.

The Northern chapter of the American Association of University Professors has raised as of this week $6,500 in pledges in an attempt to raise enough money to provide Dr. McClellan, if necessary, his salary for next year.

The second Mud Festival in the history of Northern Michigan University, sponsored by the Residence Hall Association, is drawing to a close this weekend.

The annual spring Green and White intercollegiate football scrimmage will be held tomorrow night.

Northern's spring semester will officially close June 16 and the Summer Session will commence on June 27.

JULY 2 - A record 2160 students have thus far enrolled in Northern's Summer Session according to Anthony F. Forbes, Director of Summer Session.

Northern greeted the seventh president in its 69 year history yesterday as Dr. John X. Jamrich officially assumed his new position as president of the university.

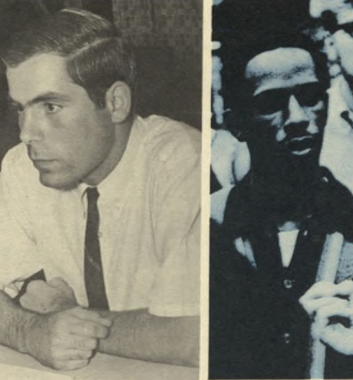

An out-of-court settlement has been reached in the case of Dr. McClellan against NMU officials which calls for reinstatement of the history professor for the 1968-69 academic year and for dismissal of the litigation.

It was announced that Dr. Jacob Vinocur, associate dean of the graduate school and professor of English at Michigan State University, is Northern's new Vice-President for academic affairs.

William Inge's play Bus Stop will be presented July 11 and 12 as the first of two summer productions.

Northern's varsity athletic teams posted a 61-29 dual record while competing in the intercollegiate sports during the 1967-68 academic year.

Ground was broken June 27 for Northern's $2,790,000 basic instructional facility which is scheduled for completion in December of 1969.

Association president Melvin Payne and President Jamrich confront one another at the Black students sit-in which forced cancellation of the NMU - Pan American basketball game.

semester today stood at 7,170, marking the 13th consecutive year that the school's enrollment has set a new record.

OCTOBER 4 - Student body president Paul Harrington announced "with some bitterness" another small number of petitions have been turned in for the fall Student Senate elections.

The unbeaten Wildcats of Northern stretched their winning streak to 14 consecutive regular season games and retained their third spot in the national rankings by defeating Central Michigan University 28-24 last Saturday night in Saginaw.

OCTOBER 11 - Northern students turned out to vote in the Student Senate fall elections in the heaviest percentage in recent years.

The first Dr. Martin Luther King Scholarship will be awarded for the second semester the Human Relations Committee of Northern announced this week. NMU's Board of Control contributed $5,000 to the scholarship fund.

In the first freshman game in Northern's history, Coach Pat Arsenault's team beat the Central Michigan freshmen 42-21 last Saturday.

OCTOBER 15 - The 1968 Homecoming Committee, presented with a complaint by Omega Psi Phi fraternity of "inconsistencies and irregularities" in the preliminary homecoming election, decided to re-hold the election today. Homecoming Week, with the theme See America First, began yesterday.

Major college opponent North Texas State ated Northern 17-3 in the Wildcat's first loss of the season to give them a 4-1 record.

OCTOBER 18 - Nearly 50 companies will be represented at Northern's first Career Opportunities Day next Tuesday. The purpose of the affair is to allow students to visit with representatives of companies in marketing, manufacturing, accounting, banking, retailing and insurance.

It was announced that for the first time in seven years Northern will not be presenting a musical. The production has been dropped because of a space conflict with the production of Taming of the Shrew according to the Speech Department.

Homecoming Queen candidate Linda Johnson replaced Claudia Malmberg as the only change in the six finalists in the rescheduled preliminary election.

OCTOBER 25 - Miss Shelley Sherman, a sophomore physical education major sponsored by Delta Tau Delta, was crowned Northern's 1968 Homecoming Queen.

The rejection of student body president Paul Harrington's nomination of Duane Conroy to Justice of the Supreme Court provided the major excitement at the Senate's first meeting of the fall semester.

Although it has been established that the notorious Hatchet Man does not exist, effects of his rumored presence were still felt at Northern.

It was announced that Northern's Arts Chorale has accepted an invitation to be one of three such U.S. groups to participate in an international symposium on choral music in Vienna, Austria next summer.

The Adding Machine, NMU's first major production for the academic year, opens next Tuesday for a five day run.

NOVEMBER 1 - Confusion arose in the controversy resulting from Omega Psi Phi fraternity's insistence that it is still presently a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council after being notified by the Council's president, Mike Karna, that it was not.

Ted Rose broke his right thumb and the football Wildcats have lost him for the remainder of the season and his status for the basketball season is in doubt.

Richard Nixon will be the next president of the United States according to 91 per cent of the nation's college newspaper editors in an Associated Collegiate Press survey revealed this week.

NOVEMBER 8 - About 300 student employees confronted Auxiliary Enterprises this week with wage and labor demands, threatened to strike if their demands were not met and staged a partial sit-out Wednesday night to strengthen their position.

Last week, fourth-ranked University of Tampa defeated the Wildcats 22-19 in one of the most questionably officiated games in many years.

NOVEMBER 15 - It was announced that Northern students are enjoying for the second straight semester a high rate of two-man room over three-man rooms in the residence halls.

The football Wildcats, deeply disappointed that they couldn't win the final game of the year for the sake of the twelve seniors on the squad, closed the season with a 5-4 record.

NOVEMBER 22 - Women's Job Corps enrollees and personnel of K.J. Sawyer Air Force Base were involved in a melee with Northern Security police last Sunday night.

Progress in the three Task Forces established by Dr. Jamrich has been limited to preliminary work according to reports from the Task Force chairmen.

Northern's second major production, Bell, Book and Candle, will open for a five day run on December 10.

A "Study Night" for Gries Hall was approved by the Housing Office.

DECEMBER 6 - The Negro is in an atmosphere at Northern in which he is being deprived of an equal opportunity to participate in all aspects of University life. This is the unstated conclusion drawn from a Report of Concerns by the Human Relation Committee presented to Dr. Jamrich.

The student laborers and the university agreed upon a wage schedule providing for a starting salary of $1.40 an hour.

DECEMBER 13 - Between 125 and 150 black students participated in a sit-in at the fieldhouse Monday night forcing the cancellation of the scheduled Northern Pan American basketball game.

The Faculty Senate recommended that the University should not seek a renewal of the Job Corps contract for next year.

Northern's basketball Wildcats, looking for their second win of the season, lost 56-61 to Michigan Lutheran College Wednesday in NMU's first home loss after 39 consecutive wins in the Hedgcock Fieldhouse.

Editorial Comment:

Emotions Dangers Objective Selection

An honorary degree for Dr. Ellsworth Barnard? It certainly is one of the most emotionally packed subjects that a decision has had to be made on at Northern in some time. In fact, there has probably not been a situation during this school year that stirs up such a wide range of strong emotional reaction as the name Dr. Ellsworth Barnard will. He was to some a rather harmless peaceable man of the highest rectitude. But, especially after the University's schism over the fate of Dr. Robert McClellan, he came to be viewed by others as a dangerous anarchist of sorts.

Last year during the height of the McClellan controversy Dr. Barnard submitted his resignation effective at the conclusion of the second semester.

Speaking from my own frame of reference it hardly seemed like an effective way for an individual with the academic qualifications that Barnard had, to handle this confrontation. This unwillingness to work toward a settlement that he, along with everyone else, would have to live with, seemed something less than all the fine things Dr. Barnard was to many people.

However, this interpretation is from one frame of reference. Things undoubtedly looked an awful lot different to the idealist Ellsworth Barnard who had very black and white concepts of right and wrong all of his life, with little room for compromise.

However the Board of Control did accept Dr. Barnard's resignation and when he reapplied for a position at a later date there were no senior posts available in the English Department under Northern's system of fixed positions. As it was put by his department chairman, there were no funds available.

Whatever the reasons, Dr. Barnard will not be returning. So much emotion has surrounded him as a result of his final year that he tends to be evaluated strictly on that basis. To some, that meant some very serious and irrational personal mistakes, while to others it meant a personal, moral, idealist triumph.

Partisans at both extremes may tend to forget that regardless of his politics, his greatest achievement was that while Northern was going through a critical decade of growth, Dr. Barnard was one that upheld the highest and fairest academic standards in the classroom. He would undoubtedly have to be one of a handful of the finest faculty Northern has had.

Even if it were assumed that Dr. Barnard had made some bad mistakes in his final year, it would be unfortunate to forget or even minimize his overall contribution to the University.

After all, by the same token, it could also be said that Dr. Edgar L. Harden made some fairly sizeable mistakes in his final year as president. This certainly doesn't mean that his overall contribution to Northern Michigan University can be ignored.

Recommending Dr. Barnard as an honorary degree recipient may be personally upsetting to some people. However, because of his extensive contributions to NMU, he deserves to be given most serious consideration.

When looked at in this light, maybe Dr. Barnard would make an extremely well qualified and fitting recipient of an honorary degree from Northern Michigan. Also, by the same token, the honorary degree committee may feel they have more fitting individuals to honor.

As one final word of explanation, there was probably no one in the University last year more critical of Dr. Barnard's professional behavior than the editor of the Northern News. At some very critical times, his emotions seemed to completely dominate his logic. But then there were individuals at the other extreme who were equally guilty of this same offense.

Ellsworth Barnard was for a decade an academic giant at Northern. And even though his sense of reality may have been subject to criticism, the sense of morality exhibited by this basically peaceable man was, at least idealistically, beyond reproach.

Looking in retrospect these attributes of his may have even rendered a restraining effect upon the McClellan conflict.

Speaking from a very personal point of view as my own tenure as editor of the Northern News is within one semester of the end, I would certainly hope that I'm not evaluated after I leave solely on the basis of my last mistake. I hope my complete tenure is taken into consideration.

This isn't to say that either one of us, Dr. Barnard or myself, will be honored as saints. In fact, for one or both of us the result could be quite opposite. The one thing this does mean is that our performances will be looked at in its entirety and evaluated as such.

Choices Difficult

Outstanding Achievers Recognized By NEWS

The Question Box

Fred Hartschorn

Individuals who have questions for the Question Box can communicate them to the NEWS by writing them down and leaving them at the NEWS office anytime during the day.

Q. Commuters have to come to school in spite of bad weather. Shouldn't there be some liberalization of this policy?

A. The current University policy on the subject is that commuting students should use their judgment of conditions and act accordingly. Dean Niemi stated that if a conflict arises with a faculty member (such as not letting you count it as an excused absence), the Student Personnel Office should be contacted. Dean Niemi also said that this policy will be reviewed with the Academic Vice President, Dr. Vinocur, in the near future and possible changes will be considered at that time. Dean Niemi stated that "Act of God" circumstances could be taken care of through his office.

Q. Due to forced residence on campus, the students of Gries Hall feel that there is dire need for four study rooms being built in four of the six laundry rooms in Gries Hall. The University has felt that study rooms are necessary for the new dorms; Gries Hall feels that study rooms will be conducive to academic success.

A. Director of Housing, Lou Myefski, along with the Gries Hall Council proposed these four study rooms, with estimates, to Mr. Hodges and Mr. Newman from Self-Liquidating, who have in turn made a joint recommendation to Vice President for Financial Affairs, Mr. Van Tassel, to allocate the necessary funds and/or priority to have these study rooms built.

Q. Would it be possible to have the cafeteria in Complex One open for study at night?

A. Mr. Hodges said that it was tried before and didn't work because it posed problems with damage to furniture and misconduct. He added that it was used for a lounge. The Grievance Committee set up a system of student supervision and procedures. Consequently, on December 10, Mr. Hodges agreed to open the cafeteria for study.

Q. What is the record for most free throws made in a row by a Northern basketball player?

A. Fritz Wilson made 13 consecutive free throws in a game against the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee in the 1957-58 season for the record in one game. In the 1966-67 season, Les Coduti made 26 consecutive free throws over several games.

Q. What is the highest post-season award ever bestowed on a Northern basketball player?

A. Gene Summers was named to the Associated Press second All-American team in 1966. He was also named to the NAIA first team in 1965. Seven other NMU cagers have earned berths on All-American second and third teams, as well as honorable mention.

Courts More Receptive

'In Loco Parentis' Losing Ground As Education Concept

Under the common law doctrine of "in loco parentis," a schoolmaster stands in much the same relationship to his scholars as a parent does to his children. Consequently, he has the right to enforce reasonable discipline and to do what a parent would do to enforce good behavior. In recent years, however, this ancient doctrine of the common law has been subject to question by students and their legal counsel. The courts are more receptive to the argument that students must be granted many of the constitutional rights enjoyed by adults.

Based upon information from unnamed but reliable informers, two narcotics agents, accompanied by the dean of men at Troy State University, searched six rooms in a student dormitory owned and operated by the university. The single room occupied by Gregory Moore was searched in his presence but without his permission, and a small amount of a substance, identified later by chemical analysis as marijuana, was found. Mr. Moore was granted a hearing by the student affairs committee of the college and was "indefinitely suspended."

He initiated an action in a federal district court (Moore v. Student Affairs Committee of Troy State University, 284 F. Supp. 725 (D.C. Ala. 1968)) to compel the college officials to readmit him as a student in good standing. He based his petition for relief on the following grounds:

*That he had been denied procedural due process in the proceedings which resulted in his suspension since they were not open to the press, other students and the public generally;

*That the admission of evidence obtained through a search of his room without his consent or a search warrant violated his Fourth Amendment rights prohibiting illegal search and seizure.

On the question of illegal search and seizure, the court declared, "A reasonable right of inspection is necessary to the institutions performance of its fundamental duty to operate the school as an educational institution even though it may infringe on the outer boundaries of a dormitory student's Fourth Amendment rights..."

"The constitutional boundary line between the right of a dormitory student to privacy must be based upon a reasonable belief on the part of the college authorities that a student is using a dormitory room for a purpose which is illegal or which would otherwise seriously interfere with campus discipline."

Semester Beginning Same

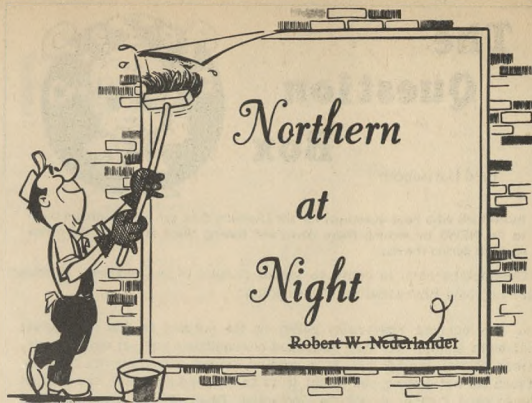

Exam Schedule Revised, Begin Week From Monday

Due to the change in the semester calendar resulting from the added week of Christmas vacation caused by an outbreak of illness on campus, several changes have had to be made in the schedule of events for the final weeks of the semester. Instead of final exams beginning Thursday, January 17 and concluding Wednesday, January 22, they will begin on Monday, January 20, but still conclude on January 22. Instructors having less than five class meetings per week for a section are urged to increase their meeting times for the remaining weeks of the semester.

There will be no change, however, in the date for starting the second semester. Registration for second semester will be held on Monday and Tuesday February 3 and 4 and classes will begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday, February 5.

Written as Robert W. Nederlander, who is alive and well at the University of Detroit, would have liked it.

The only thing at Northern Michigan University that is more of a certainty than snow this time of the year is mediocre entertainment at the All-Events Week concert.

It is still a few weeks away from a formal announcement but look for the Cowsills at the concert. That's right, that very same group which had its first and last hit early last summer. What is really fantastic is that if this follows like the concerts at Northern in the past, you can pretty well bet that the University is paying top dollar for a second class show.

The amateurs that bargain for these concerts haven't come out on the top of a deal with the booking agency from Minneapolis they deal with, since Glenn Yarborough gave a concert on a one week notice three years ago.

It's not too hard to understand that the funds are not available to finance a series of good quality popular concerts on a year around basis. However it is difficult to understand why, when there are only two events during the school year when the University can justify having a popular concert on campus, that it can't be a good quality popular concert.

It has been argued by some members of the All-Events Week committee that the group performing at the week's concert isn't that important since students will attend regardless because of the occasion.

There may be a large degree of truth in this statement. However it is also a pitiful rationalization for accepting something less than is possible to achieve.

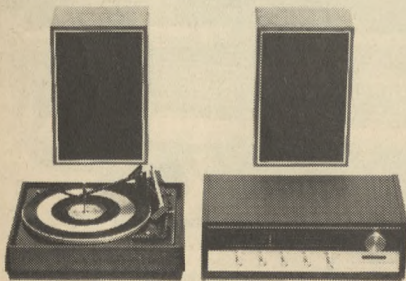

(Editor's Note: For the benefit of those who do not know or remember Robert W. Nederlander; he was the original editor of "Northern at Night" and an acute critic of Northern's theatrical productions and a staunch critic of the archaic concepts of "popular" entertainment at NMU.)

Education Needs Federal Support

The federal government needs to increase its support of higher education from $4.7 billion to $15 billion by 1976, says Clark Kerr, chairman of the Carnegie Commission on the Future of Higher Education.

The federal share of total spending on higher education should rise from 24 to 33 percent, and higher education's share of the gross national product should rise from 2 to 3 percent, he says. Mr. Kerr, former president of the University of California, presents his views in "Agenda for the Nation" a book published in early December by the Brookings Institution.

The book contains 18 papers on domestic and foreign policy issues.

Inkala Sparks Fire

Wildcats Regain Old Form

With Al Inkala coming on like a gang-buster and Ted Rose doing everything on the court better than anyone else, the Wildcats upcoming may not be as long off as previously predicted.

Inkala has been showing the opposition more moves to the basket than Northern has seen in a long time, not to mention his fine defense. Combined with superb passing and Rose's outstanding performance in all facets of the game, the Wildcats are turning into a deadly machine.

After three straight wins over University of Minnesota-Duluth, St. Norbert, and Michigan Tech, NMU will be back on the road in Ypsilanti for a game tomorrow night against nationally ranked Eastern Michigan University. The Hurons are 5-3 and have suffered two close losses to the University of Detroit and Spencer Haywood.

Head Coach Glenn Brown's Wildcats will be seeking their fifth of the year. The Wildcats will be led by the rapidly improving 6'6" center Al Inkala and 6'6" Ted Rose. Rose, who scored 24 points against St. Norberts became the fifth member of Northern's 1,000 point club.

The Wildcats now sport a 5-6 record and in the past few weeks have shown marked improvement. As the season progresses, the team is beginning to play as a team, not as five individual players.

The new year started out in good shape with the three wins over Minnesota-Duluth, St. Norbert, and Michigan Tech.

The Wildcats won their first game at the University of Minnesota-Duluth in eight years. The 'Cats grabbed an early lead, and held back a late UMD rally as Northern went on to a 67-64 victory.

In that game, captain Mike Boyd came off the bench and pumped through 16 points to help the 'Cats balanced scoring attack. Once again, Indala led the team in scoring with 17 points and 17 rebounds.

The Green Knights of St. Norbert became the next victim as they fell to the hot shooting Wildcats 105-94. The Wildcats offset the fine shooting of Joe Emer's 28 point performance with a tremendous team effort, aggressive rebounding, hustle and some clutch freethrow shooting.

High scorer in the game was again Inkala with 29 points and Rose followed with 24 points, as both teamed up to control the boards for the 'Cats. Dom Jacobetti gave the Wildcats a needed outside scoring threat and pumped in 15 points, mostly on long jump shots.

Some excellent passing, feeding three men up front was a big factor in the Northern victory.

Al Inkala

Ted Rose, the fifth cager in Wildcat history to score more than 1,000 career points, gets two against the Bison of North Dakota State in action early in the season at the C. B. Hedgcock Fieldhouse.

Rose Adds Name To Elite 1000 Point Club At Northern

by Scott Thurber
NEWS Sports Editor

Ted Rose, the 6'6", 230 pound center from Louisville, Kentucky, became the fifth member of Northern's elite 1,000 point club, by scoring 24 points against St. Norbert College.

Rose now has scored 1,017 points in 51 games for nearly a 20 point average since coming to Northern three years ago. As a freshman, Rose served primarily as the 'Cats sixth man and averaged 14 points a game.

Last year Rose gained recognition as a Little All-American by averaging 25 points a game and scoring 585 points. He was named MVP in the Wayne State Centennial Tournament, averaging 28 points and a dozen rebounds during the three game tournament.

Rose seemed to be at his best when the Wildcats played the "big" games against some of the toughest competition in the country. Last season he poured in 25 points against Dayton, 27 against Bradley, 34 against Eastern Michigan, 26 against South Dakota State, 34 against St. Norbert, 35 at Purdue, 37 against Pan American College, and 20 against Southern Illinois.

He ended his sophomore season by being named MVP by his teammates and he led the 'Cats to a 16-8 season.

Rose, the always smiling, comedian of the team, has been off to a very slow start this season. Despite scoring 28 points against the University of Iowa, he still hasn't played with the same ability, determination, hustle and desire that earned him recognition as an All-American last year.

Ted's best all-round game of the year was against St. Norberts last week as he scored 24 points, had rebounds, and played with the same type of fire spirit and desire that helped him become the basketball player he is.

Busy Sports Schedule Here This Weekend

Northern Michigan athletic teams face their first big sports week-end of 1969 today and tomorrow as Wildcat swimmers, symnasts and wrestlers return to action following a holiday lay-off.

Northern's swimmers will be the busiest when coach Don Trost sends the Watercats into the NMU pool Friday night against Minnesota-Duluth and again Saturday afternoon against Bemidji (Minn.) State.

The Wildcat tankers are 2-1 after three dual meets this season, including wins over Wisconsin State-Oshkosh and Central Michigan and a loss to Eastern Michigan.

Meet times for the swimmers are 7 p.m. Friday and 2 p.m. Saturday. Coach Lowell Meier's gymnasts make their lone home appearance of the season Saturday afternoon when they host Bemidji State.

Northern is 1-2 thus far this season, losing to Eastern Michigan and Slippery Rock before defeating Central Michigan.

The gymnastics competition is slated for 2 p.m. Saturday.

NMU's wrestlers will be out of town for their initial 1969 appearance, grappling with Eastern Michigan University Saturday afternoon in Ypsilanti.

The wrestling Wildcats have a 1-2 dual record under first-year coach Ken Koenig. Northern defeated Minnesota, but lost to Central Michigan and Wisconsin State-River Falls.

Eastern has yet to take part in a dual meet, but has competed in two tournaments and quadranglers.

Northern Michigan's freshman basketball team will also see week-end action.

Diggs Visits

Representatives Get Into Job Corps Controversy

"Racial overtones" surround the controversy over the Women's Job Corps Center, U.S. Representative Charles C. Diggs, Jr., a Detroit Democrat, said.

Diggs, one of the state's two Negro congressmen, made the claim at the conclusion of a fact-finding trip to Northern Michigan University. Diggs had a day-long session of conferences with Dr. John X. Jamrich, NMU president; Dr. Bertis Jones, director of the Job Corps center; other NMU officials; representative black students; Job Corps trainees; and Negro airmen from K, I, Sawyer Air Force Base.

Diggs' trip was prompted by the Faculty Senate's recommendation that the Job Corps center be removed from the campus and that NMU should not seek renewal of the Job Corps contract if this was not feasible immediately.

"There is no question in my mind about the racial problem," Diggs said before leaving to return to Detroit. "The acceptance of black Job Corps enrollees and their visitors (the Negro airmen from K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base) on the part of some persons on the campus and in the community is different than the acceptance of white Job Corps enrollees and their guests."

Diggs reported that: --Job Corps enrollees told him they were more accepted in the community than on campus.

--The black airmen told him they are not accepted in either place.

"There is a tremendous moral problem among Negro servicemen on the base," Diggs said, "caused by the feeling of rejection and differential treatment."

"The Job Corps girls, however, are very enthusiastic about the program and the living experiences they are being exposed to."

Prior to making his trip here to step into the controversy that he saw as leading to the eviction of the predominantly Negro Job Corps center, Diggs stated that he "would hate to see this program lost from the state and from the campus environment, which should be expected to provide extra dimensions, not only for the trainees, but for both black and white students."

Upper Peninsula congressman Chuck Varnum and Dominic Jacobetti, in a television interview on WLUC-TV, both stated they personally thought the university campus was no place for a Job Corps center (sighting also the fact that NMU is the only school of higher education in the country which has a center on its campus) and that the center should be removed from Northern's campus.

The Faculty Senate, in making its recommendation for removal of the Job Corps center, emphasized they made the recommendation not because of racial problems but because of a "cultural gap."

"I am reinforced in my belief that this is not a cultural gap but a racial gap," Diggs said at the end of his day-long session here.

Diggs said that acceptance in the area between Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie has never been felt by Negroes from Lower Michigan. He bases his claim on impressions gained from talks with students, tourists, and servicemen.

Diggs reported that black students made mention that they were having difficulties in obtaining off-campus housing, and that they were either being told point-blank that the housing was not available to Negroes, or were being asked to make "outrageous deposits."

A report of his trip will be sent to Dr. Bennetta Washington, director of the Women's Job Corps in Washington, and to the secretary of the Air Force, Diggs said.

Diggs admitted that he had not at first been aware that the Faculty Senate recommendation was only one of several to be made at his request to Dr. Jamrich.

"I am very impressed with the strong commitment of the president of the university in trying to resolve these problems in a fair fashion," Diggs commented.

Following his meeting with Diggs, Dr. Jamrich pointed out that although the center has always had an enrollment of about 300 its appropriation has been cut severely by Congress in succeeding years.

In the first year of operation, the budget was $2.8 million, in the second year $1.8 million, and this $1.6 million, Dr. Jamrich said.

This year's staff at the center has 27 fewer staff members than in its first year, he added.

The Job Corps center this year has 310 enrollees, 80 per cent of the Negroes.

Dr. Jamrich has stated that before making a final recommendation on the center's future to the Board of Control this month, he will study reports from various other departments and officials within the University community for their recommendations.

Reasoner Lecture Re-canceled

The on-again off-again lecture by CBS News Commentator Harry Reasoner at Northern Michigan University has again been postponed.

Reasoner was scheduled to speak at NMU on Monday (Jan. 13) but is being sent to Lebanon to cover the latest Mideast crisis. He was originally scheduled to speak here in October, but a change in assignments by the CBS news staff forced him to postpone that appearance also.

A Northern spokesman said the university will "try again" to re-schedule Reasoner at a later date.

Arts Chorale Fund Raising

Patrons' Dinner Wednesday Night

A patrons' dinner concert, to raise funds for the Northern Michigan University Arts Chorale, which is making an appearance in August at the Vienna Symposium, will be held January 15 in the Great Lakes Rooms of the University Center.

The patrons' tickets will be $25 a couple, and no singles will be sold. Tickets are available in the Alumni Office.

Rescheduled Christmas Concert Held Tonight

The annual Christmas Concert at Northern Michigan University, which was postponed because of the early Christmas vacation, will be held tonight at 8:15 in Kaye Auditorium.

Elimination of Christmas carols to have been sung by the Freshman Choir, under the direction of Roger Stephens, is the only change in the program according to Dr. Harold E. Wright, head of NMU's music department.

The concert will feature, as previously scheduled, the Northern Community Symphony Orchestra, Arts Chorale, University Choir, and guest pianist Tibor Yusti, artist in residence at the Oklahoma College of Liberal Arts.

Yusti will be soloist for two compositions as presented by the Chorale, University Choir and orchestra. Conductor for both selections will be Dr. Wright.

Four students (Gretchen Steiner, Frances Murdock, James Stedman, and John Sippola) will be featured in the "Gloria from Mass in G" for double choir and orchestra. Dr. James McKelvey of NMU's music department will direct the combined Arts Chorale and University Choir

"We have a tremendous challenge to meet to raise funds to make it possible that the image of Northern be projected internationally through this Viennese Symposium," Ellwood Mattson, chairman of the campaign, said.

"The fact that only five college choirs throughout America have been invited to participate attests to the quality of the musical program he developed at Northern and particularly in the college choir division under Dr. James McKelvey," he said.

Early reaction to the opening sales of the tickets indicate an attendance well over 500 persons Mattson said.

This event will be one of several solicitation programs to be held to raise funds for the trip. The NMU Development Fund trustees already have discussed the project, and an appeal will be made to the alumni and interested civic groups in the community.

Dr. John X. Jamrich, NMU president, expressed appreciation for the support already given the project by the NMU Development Fund and felt confident that the patron's dinner would have a wide appeal.

Dr. Jamrich said that with the "wonderful indication of wide support" that he "was certain we shall be able to meet all financial requirements for the Vienna and Central European tour."
