Definite Revision Plans

Common Learning Faces Change

Major revisions in the NMU common learning program are in the mill. After a three semester series of committee meetings and proposals, definite plans for the revision are now taking shape.

The Undergraduate Programs Committee of the All-U Advisory Council earlier this semester presented a series of recommendations to the Academic Senate for consideration. After modification by the Senate, the proposed changes were presented to the ASNMU Governing Board for recommendation. Any changes in the system, however, must first be approved by the NMU Board of Control.

However, several points listed and approved by the Senate were questioned by the student representatives on the Governing Board. While the questioned points carry no weight to the Senate proposal, since it was submitted to the Governing Board only to test student opinion on the revisions, nevertheless, the Governing Board has seen fit to sample student opinion further by calling a symposium, open to the entire university, next Tuesday evening. The exact time and place will be announced by posters placed around campus.

Basically, the Academic Senate proposal calls for a reduction in the hours required for graduation from 128 to 124. Thirty-two of these hours must be from a general

Economics Club Sponsors Speaker From Union Bank

The Northern Michigan University Economics Club will sponsor its second seminar of the current academic year on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. in room 105 of the Instructional Facility.

The program will consist of a speech by Meldon Pitt, senior vice president of the Union National Bank in Marquette. Pitt will speak on job opportunities, and his speech will be followed by a question and answer period and open discussions.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program.

education curriculum designated by the departments. Four hours of physical education are required. Education majors are required to take additional courses. Minors may be waived in some cases. Eight hours of English are required within the 32 hours of general education credit, instead of the four Humanities courses required now.

The Governing Board feels that the general education requirements should be clarified by someone other than the departments, such as the Undergraduate Programs Committee. The Board also questions the possibility of a waived minor and the possibility of Honors English courses being established for incoming freshmen with high GPA's or ACT scores. The Board also recommends that two Physical Education courses be required instead of four. These courses would consist of one fundamentals course and one elective. Phy Ed should not be required for the handicapped, veterans or students over age 26.

Students and faculty members interested in airing their opinions may do so at the symposium Tuesday evening.

organizations, and other members of the Northern Michigan University community at a nominal cost; to provide a means of transmitting up-to-the-minute information of interest to the students as well as to other members of the university community; and to provide a source of student-oriented entertainment on campus.

CAMPUS RADIO STATION CLEARS FINAL HURDLE WITH CHANGES

By Eric Larson
NEWS Associate Editor

At a meeting of the Northern Michigan University Board of Control on Thursday, December 3, the Board approved the establishment of the proposed student radio station. The "Proposal for the Establishment of a Student Radio Station" was passed unanimously, following revision of three items in the November 11 proposal.

In Section II of the proposal, "Policy Governing the Presentation of Programming, Especially Critical Issues," the Board inserted an additional clause: (in italics) "If at any time the facilities of this station are used to advocate violence or destruction of private or public property or are not used in accordance with FCC regulations, the President of Northern Michigan University shall have the prerogative of causing the station to cease broadcasting for a specifically stated period of time."

In addition, the Board of Control, decided to delete the following statement from the "Proposed Budget" section: "An additional source of revenue in two years will be through the sale of on-air advertising."

Under section V of the proposal, entitled "Evaluation," the Board chose to evaluate the radio station's operations during, rather than at the end of the first year.

The purpose of the Student Radio Station is to provide a channel of communication and publicity for students, student or-

Dr. George Lowe

Environmental Educator On Campus Today

Dr. George Lowe, a top-ranking Federal official in environmental education, is on campus today to confer with NMU administrators and faculty.

Lowe, who is executive coordinator of the Environmental Education Studies Staff at the U. S. Office of Education, Washington, will speak on a new concept of education based on greater awareness of man's relationship to his environment.

He will confer with Northern's administrative officers and faculty on development of environmental studies programs at the university.

His talk, which is open to interested university personnel, students, area educators and others is scheduled for 3 p.m. in Room 239, West Science Building.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Lowe received a bachelor of arts degree from Grove City College, Grove City, Pa. and a master's degree from the University of Chicago, where his doctoral studies were also completed.

He has taught at all levels, including grade and high school, junior college and university, from 1950-1970. During this time he served intermittently as an Air Intelligence Officer with the U.S. Navy, 1953-1957, and 1960-1961. From 1961-1964, he was a member of the U.S. Foreign Service in Paris, France.

In 1964 he joined the U. S. Office of Education as a consul-

Marine Officer Selection Team

Here Next Week

The Marine Corps Officer Selection Team will visit the Northern Michigan University, Marquette, on December 7, 8, and 9 to interview students interested in becoming commissioned officers.

The Officer Selection Team will be located in the Union Railway to provide information pertaining to Marine Officer programs, according to First Lieutenant R. W. Dunlap, the Marine Officer Selection Officer;

The Marine Corps offers program leading to a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant. These programs are open to undergraduates as well as graduating seniors. To be eligible, students must have a "C" or better average, pass a written examination, be physically qualified and have the leadership potential required of a Marine Officer.

Aviation Officer programs are open to highly qualified students. Woman Officer programs are available to junior and senior women.

Next Drama Production 'Rosencrantz And Guildenstern' Preview Slated For Wednesday

The comedy, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead, is the next major production for the Northern Michigan University Drama Department's 1970-71 season. This play is an award-winning, sly, modern and refreshingly funny look at Shakespeare's Hamlet through the eyes and antics of his two college chums, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern.

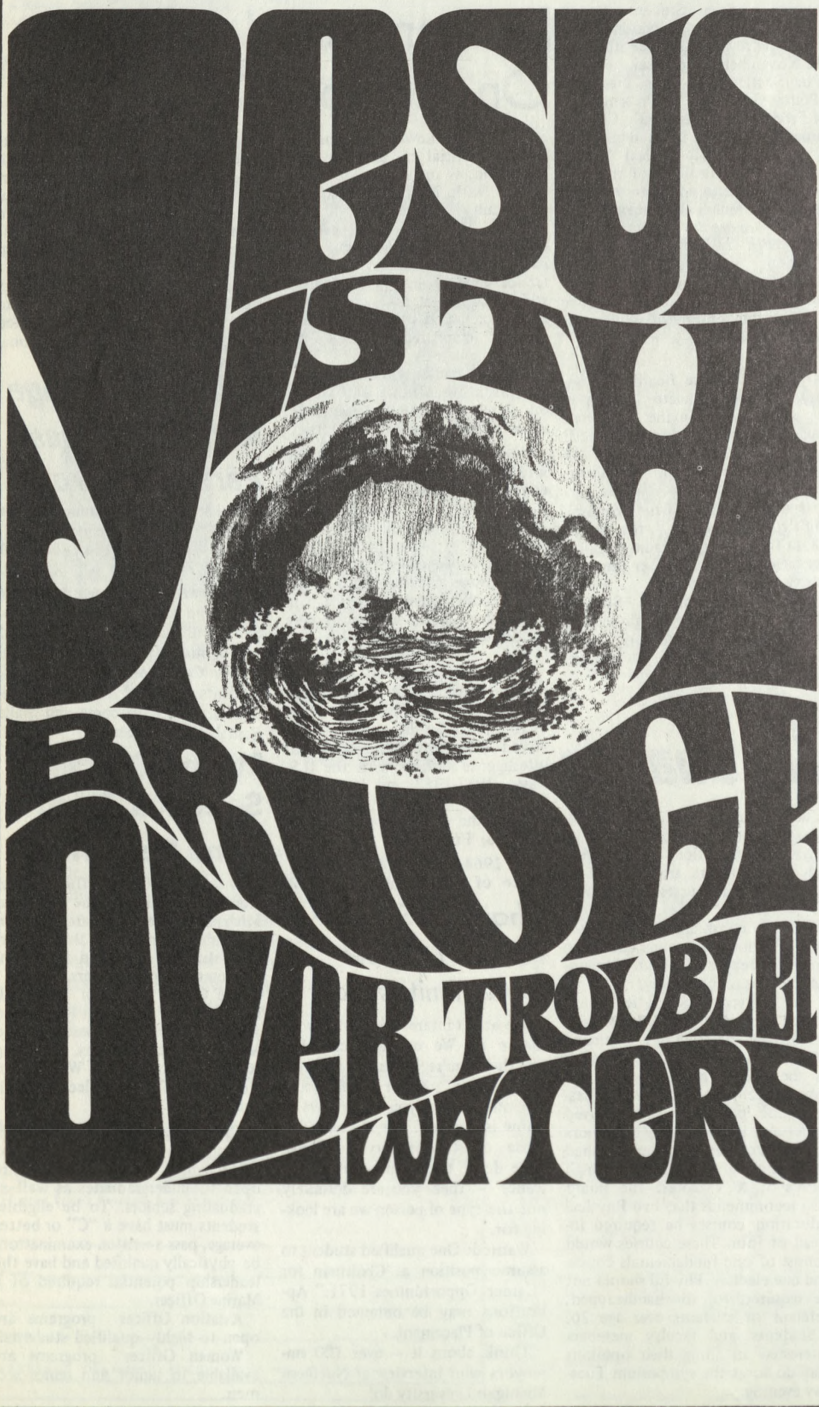

The idea of the writing of Shakespeare's characters from a completely different point of view is not a new one, but playwright Tom Stoppard's treatment is fresh and "modern."

The preoccupation with a search for identity marks the works of many avant-garde plays, but this play avoids triteness with humor, and our reactions are no less thoughtful because we laugh. One thing is certain—the play is not a production of Hamlet.

Directing Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead is W. David Hagans, director of theater at NMU. The production will run from December 10 through the 13th in the Forest Roberts Theater, with a special NMU student preview to be held on Wednesday, December 9.

Cost of tickets for this production is $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for students. Tickets are now on sale weekdays from 10 a.m. to noon and one to four p.m. at the box office of the theater. Phone reservations may be made by calling 227-3533.

CENTER STAGE

MINI-REVIEWS. . . The Three Sisters: Anton Chekhov's tense drama, performed in the Marquette Community Center, was an attempt to stage a very difficult piece of dramatic literature. The production perhaps elevated Northern Michigan University's theatrical billing for the 1970 academic year, but Sisters proved something less than 'par excellence'.

A major criticism of the production stemmed from the weak character portrayals of numerous male cast-members: the reason for this weakness was reliance by P. Gibson Ralph on physical rather than emotional capabilities in casting the leading men. My sympathy goes out to the leading ladies for their endurance against those odds.

Promises, Promises: Thanksgiving recess offered me the opportunity to see this David Merrick musical comedy, in addition to Hair. Promises at the Shubert Theatre provided an enjoyable romp, like most Neil Simon money-makers. Jack Kruschen, as Dr. Dreyfuss, recreated that role in the motion picture, The Apartment, upon which the musical was based; his portrayal received top honors, in addition to the leads: Anthony Teague, Melissa Hart, and Bob Holiday. Also commendable for her comic overtones as Marge MacDougall was Kelly Britt, a real scene-stealer along with Kruschen. The exceptional choreography, staged by Michael Bennett, was definitely a highlight of the production.

Hair: The second show for this theatre-addict was the acclaimed 'American Tribal-Love Rock Musical,' now in its final six weeks at the Blackstone Theatre. Gerome Ragni, who wrote the book, recalls the origin of Hair in a program note: "We started writing this play because we were both actors (he and lyricist James Rado) and we were tired of the kinds of plays we were in. . . the same one-dimensional characters, the conventional entrances and exits. We didn't want to 'act' these plays; we wanted to 'be' on stage."

Now the musical is an institution in a dozen countries. The Chicago company of 25 people satisfactorily effected the musical, although I would rather label Hair as a 'theatrical experience,' but not in the traditional sense of the word "theatrical," Hair, to me, is only a musical comment; this reviewer considers it in another realm because of the love-rock musical's greater emphasis on spectacle and little emphasis on character, plot, or dialogue.

Moral Guardian

(Editor's Note: The following editorial space is donated by the editors for the presentation of a guest viewpoint. The views expressed in this editorial do not necessarily represent the views of THE NORTHERN NEWS.)

The university has taken upon itself the right to regulate student privacy. It has unjustly taken the right as moral guardian of the students. The regulation of what a student does in his or her own room (a room paid for by the student) and the guests that are allowed is an attempt by the university to control student morals. This is unjust and must stop! The university should have NO say in a student's private life.

The university, at present, is attempting to regulate the guests a student has in the room he is paying for. The university also maintains a policy of forcing the students to remain on campus and inherit a debt for the dormitories that was accepted by the university, NOT the students. This policy enslaves the student and provides him with no escape from university moral control.

At present, it is my understanding that the students ALONE are paying for the university's debt in the construction of the dormitories. No state money is subsidizing this debt. If the students (alone) are paying the debt for the university, the students should have full and total control of the rules and regulations that apply to them within the dormitories. The university, which has not paid any part of the dormitory debt, should not have any say in the rules and regulations within the dormitories. Moral control over students within the dorms must stop if justice, in any way, is to be served.

The university must stop taking a "mother role" in deciding student morals. In deciding morals for the students, the university is repressing student thoughts and student rights. The university apparently believes the students are not capable of thinking for themselves or deciding their own personal moral code. This misconception must not exist! We (the students) have a basic right to privacy. This right is natural and is supported by the constitution of our nation. If the university is not going to grant the student natural inborn rights, these rights must be taken! Now!

The students cannot, for long, endure the injustices inflicted upon them by the university. The students are the reason for the existence of the university, and when they fail to grant students the basic right to decide their own personal moral codes, they stop functioning as an educational system. It is time the university adheres to student concerns. It is time the university stops attempting to be the moral guardian of the students! (. . . They have NO right. . .) It is time for the university to stop playing God.

The Art Of Brevity

How long will it be until Dr. Jacob Vinocur learns when enough is enough? How long will it be until he learns to present a brief, courteous introduction? How long will it be until he learns to let an audience go after a nationally known figure has finished speaking?

The length of the introduction that Dr. Vinocur gave when introducing the Rev. Ralph Abernathy was totally absurd and was most certainly an insult to Rev. Abernathy. Then, to continue on rambling after Abernathy was finished was just a little too much for most people to take.

However, thank goodness for little favors: A number of paragraphs were "cut" from Vinocur's introduction at the Holiday Inn before the speech.

The crowd that came to hear Rev. Abernathy speak did not come to hear Dr. Vinocur. But, as the saying goes, "You give him a 'mike' and you can't take it away."

The crowd almost started an applause just before Vinocur concluded his epistle. Next time this happens, we will personally lead the applause. (See related "Letter-to-the-Editor.")

R.O.T.C.

Dear Editor:

In the November 20, 1970, edition of the Northern News, Mr. Randy LaLonde brought up a number of interesting questions dealing with ROTC on the NMU campus. Two of his questions concerned academic credit for ROTC and whether ROTC violates NMU's "neutrality" as an academic institution. Concerning the question of academic merit and credit for ROTC: To evaluate ROTC courses properly, one must look at the contents of the individual courses offered by the Military Science Department and compare these courses with those offered by other departments. A close examination of the school catalog will show a very broad range of courses receiving credit. These courses range from "academic" theory courses (i.e., philosophy, higher math, history, etc.) to more "practical" type applied courses (i.e., home economics, teaching, physical education, etc.) An examination of ROTC courses will show that they, too, fit within this broad range. For example, Military History, required of all second-year ROTC cadets, is taught by the History Department as HS 457. Other ROTC courses include: Military Teaching Techniques, Principles of Leadership, Logistics and Management, Military Law, Role of the United States in World Affairs, etc. It would seem that the criticism of the ROTC program stems from a desire to attack the Department of Defense and the war in Viet Nam rather than the ability of the individual instructors or the merit of each course.

When Mr. LaLonde writes about ROTC violating the University's "neutrality" as an institution, one is quite puzzled by the term "neutrality." If by neutrality Mr. LaLonde means free from outside influences, he could not be further from reality in believing NMU or any state supported university is free from outside influences. The existence of an "outside" Board of Control, State Legislature and even the North Central Accreditation Agency attest to the fact that NMU has no "neutrality" and is constantly being pressured by some outside group. The Department of Defense has spent large sums and employed some of the country's top educators to develop courses for ROTC that consist of challenging college-level material, worthy of academic credit. To deny academic credit to courses because the Army rather than some other organization, developed them again demonstrates the prejudice and faulty logic that is being used to undermine the individual's freedom of choice as well as the defense of this Nation. Further, true "neutrality" decrees that this school present all sides of a subject, not merely Mr. LaLonde's.

A closing point for consideration is this: In 1969, NMU students and faculty voted on ROTC. The male student body voted 790 to 209 for ROTC (Faculty organization minutes May 27, 1969) and the Faculty Senate voted 157 to 86 to award credit for ROTC (Faculty Senate minutes June 4, 1969).

If a few misguided individuals are allowed to turn on one Department of the University, will any of the other departments really be safe from a similar type of groundless attack? Perhaps Mr. LaLonde could find a better way to use his time to help solve many of the real problems on campus (i.e., off-campus housing, campus theft, lack of cultural activities, etc.)

Abernathy

Dear Editor:

In regards to the recent lecture by Dr. Ralph Abernathy, I wish to question the conduct of the administration concerning the selection of the location for the lecture, the introductory speech, and the obvious absence of President Jamrich.

Surely a man of such esteem as Dr. Abernathy should have had consideration over a few dozen basketball players. He was forced to speak in our none-too-large gym while in the fieldhouse a small number of students were engaged in an informal basketball session. The locations for these two activities should have been reversed, since the basketball session could just as easily have taken place in the gym. It should be noted that people were turned away for lack of space and those fortunate enough to gain access were subjected to a sardine-like, sweat factory environment. Could this have been an attempt by the administration to gain sup-

BLACK VOICES

by Rose Fuller

Submitted by Linda Bolden

Just yesterday, I came across, in an article which some of you might have read in a copy of the Black Liberation Front newspaper, ideologies which I felt compelled to pass on to the Brothers and Sisters here at Northern. The article consisted of a motto, an oath and a prayer for unity, all which if taken into ones heart and mind will undoubtedly free us—in order that we may build and love. . . . build and love.

Motto: Servants of my people first

Oath: I dedicate my life to the struggle of African people and to the struggles of the other oppressed peoples of the world. I promise to be the eminent expression of African unity and I will walk upright as a torchbearer of the revolution. I will be an example for the generations to come to reflect on by adhering to a code of self-discipline, self-criticism, self-respect, self-confidence and self-initiative.

I dedicate my life to the development of a strong African Nation. I will be a proud warrior, ready at all times to fight and die if necessary for my people. I have nothing greater to offer than my service. And all my energies and skills will be utilized serving my people. My time is my peoples time and my people say it's nation-time. Therefore, I will undertake the task of nation-building. All power to African people wherever they may be waging war.

Prayer for Unity: We pray for unity. Our strength as a mighty race can only come out of our organic oneness. We therefore pray that we may all come together in a workable framework. Our prayer is not for some sort of abstract unity. And our cry for unity is not for the sake of just giving the visage that are united. We pray that brothers and sisters will understand that it is necessary for them to pool their resources, talents and skills together to build a viable African community. This is our prayer.

This is why it is so important that we get ourselves together and for black people to reach out for one another and black men to adore black women and black women to be black women, and for us to love and build a nation.

I am certain that you are as tired as I am, perhaps not all in the same way—but we must see that "our people" are waiting.

Upcoming Events: Friday, December 4th the women of Delta Sigma Theta present "Delta's Do It Again" at the University Center, 8-1. Saturday, December 5th, the women of Delta Sigma Theta present their second annual Sweethearts Ball "Cream and Black Sugar" at the Northwoods Supper Club 9-1.

Conference Director Explains

Rock Concert Cancelled Because Of Improper Request Procedures

By Eric Larson
NEWS Associate Editor

A rock concert for Northern Michigan University students on Saturday, December 5, (tomorrow) has been cancelled due to improper procedures by an Ann Arbor firm S.R.C. Inc., in requesting University facilities.

In a letter to Mr. Peter Andrews, booking agent for the promotion firm, Northern Michigan Conferences Director George W. Tomasi explains the reasons for the necessary cancellation of the concert:

"In our telephone conversation of Friday, November 20, and earlier with Mr. Desnick, your agent, we explained the procedures required to secure the use of University facilities. To repeat again; your organization was to produce an advance "good faith" deposit and proof of public liability and property damage insurance. After receipt of these items a request for use of the NMU facility would be initiated by this department for approval by the University. If approved, your organization would be allowed to use the requested facility for a specific function on the date and time indicated.

"On Friday, November 20, we received your "good faith" check for $150.00. We have not yet received proof of insurance, therefore we have not yet initiated a request for the use of the facility.

"During the past weekend your agents posted notice of the Rock Concert you are sponsoring on campus and in the community even though permission to do so has not yet been granted or even applied for.

"Understandably, those University officials who have the responsibility for approving this kind of activity take a dim view of promotion prior to permission."

In an interview with the News, Mr. Tomasi stressed that all University and non-University organizations must follow the proper channels in order to secure University facilities for any on-campus functions.

Next: The Howl Of The Hounds, More Deer Hunting And Fishing

By Butch Sapp
NEWS Outdoor Writer

Now what? The season on just about everything is over. From now until March, most environmental practitioners will curl up by their fireplaces to hibernate or dream.

That gimmackry euphemism "environmental practitioners" got itself thrown in because I'm tired of the terms "sportsmen" and "outdoorsmen," terms that don't mean anything anymore. Keeping in tune with this age of specialization, I even like to think of myself as an "environmental communicant," rather than an old-fashioned outdoor writer.

At any rate, those folks who use hunting and fishing as an excuse to get beyond four walls have now reached the season when they are susceptible to cabin fever. This disease is brought on by winter cold, wet weather and chilly winds. Symptoms include listlessness, restlessness, cantankerousness, and glassy eyes. Unless proper treatment is administered, the prognosis is extremely guarded.

Treatment is quick and painless. Fortunately, victims merely have to get off their dead duffs and sample a hair of the dog that bit them. Pneumonia weather is perfect for curing cabin fever, and that disease is no worse than the claustrophobic infringement of a dorm room or off-campus apartment.

Of course, victims still have to have an excuse to get outside. Let's take inventory of the possibilities: First, there's deer hunting. No, it didn't end Monday, not all of it. Through the month of December, hunters can still chase their bucks with bow and arrow; does, too, if they have a mind. Deer will soon be yarding up, making it easier for a mobile hunter to take his pick of targets. With the wet, freezing rain we've been having icing up the food supply, taking yarded deer may be port for the construction of a new fieldhouse? If so, it was an exceptionally rude power-play inflicted upon Dr. Abernathy and his audience.

Concerning the introductory speech by Vice President Vinocur, regardless of his intentions, it was excessively long and boring and created a restless and tense audience. Fortunately, during this display, Dr. Abernathy waited with undue patience.

In all actuality, President Jamrich should have been the one to greet and introduce Dr. Abernathy. How does it affect Northern's image when the president does not have the decency to welcome this most influential and respected man. I realize that President Jamrich was in Lansing attending some type of meeting. However, Dr. Abernathy's flight to Marquette stopped in Lansing and I believe it would have been appropriate for our president to have flown back with him, or at least, greeted him at the Lansing airport.

Let us hope that this type of treatment will not be extended to future guests, if any will appear after this fiasco.

Thank You

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Wildcat football squad and staff, let me express our sincere appreciation to the Administration, faculty, staff, and total NMU student body for their tremendous support and loyalty during the course of the 1970 football season.

I would point out the following facts as concrete evidence of this support:

1. An All-Time Home season attendance record of 27,552 persons was established; this breaks the previous high of 1969 by some 400.
2. A single Home game attendance record of 8,431 was established at the Central Michigan contest. This breaks the previous record of 7,259, by 1,172. (North Dakota State - 1969)
3. 5,522 NMU students saw our Homecoming game with Central. This surpasses the previous high student attendance for a single game by 1,511. (1969 - Northern Iowa - 4,011)

As coaches, we well realize the importance and advantage of playing before your home crowd. It is generally conceded that the home field represents a touchdown advantage for the home team. It is my observation that the type of student support we received in 1970 represents considerably more than the so-called normal advantage. We are grateful and encouraged to see more and more students, as well as the general public, attend our home contests.

I would like to especially thank Mark Kelly, Marty Fox and the Northern News for their splendid professional coverage of our program. John Gardner and Gant Hall also deserve a special note of thanks for their interest and tangible efforts. Kevin O'Donnell, as President of the ASNMU, sent telegrams and phone calls whenever the Wildcats were on the road. It goes without saying this was a thoughtful and helpful action.

With the 1970 season past history, we look forward to 1971 with complete confidence it will be "bigger and better". Again, let me reiterate my personal thanks to all of you that helped make the 1970 season a successful one.

Propaganda

Dear Editor:

It has recently come to my attention that Mr. Earl McIntyre has taken it upon himself to be propaganda dispenser for President Jamrich. It seems that he has been attempting to insert articles into the Northern News by going to the printer, instead of going to the editor.

If the Northern News were a university administration's publication, this would still have been wrong. But to attempt to circumvent the student editor of a student newspaper is one of the most flagrant examples of high handed arrogance this university has ever displayed. The very idea of a university official attempting to interfere with a student newspaper is despicable. And when that official is the advisor to the newspaper, the action becomes even more idiotic and absurd.

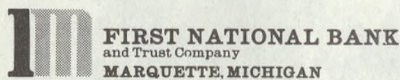

Such ill-advised, poorly timed and insane attempts to subvert the student newspaper must not go unnoticed or unpublicized. Neither must such actions go uncondemned. Mr. McIntyre's actions were wrong, irresponsible, and highly insulting to the Northern News staff and the NMU student body. The News staff and the student body should be satisfied with no less than a public apology from both Mr. McIntyre and Dr. Jamrich. These officials of the administration obviously need to be reminded that the Northern News will not be a publicity rag for the university. Under no conditions must such high-handed, irresponsible tactics be allowed to succeed. The Northern News must take a firm stand—both for its own good and the good of the students of NMU. To refuse to speak out publicly is only to invite further attempts by McIntyre and the president to undermine and circumvent the News staff. Any such actions should be stopped before they begin by a public drive against such actions.

President Jamrich and his officials must be told that the students of NMU are not going to accept such tactics anymore. Once, they might have been successful, but now they cannot be and will not be allowed to exist. An informed and active student body led by an active news staff can be an effective force against such actions. We can not delay, or allow the university to lull us into thinking it won't happen again if given the chance. The Northern News, although much criticism and maligned is the only printed voice the students on this campus have. The university officials who are trying to subject and change it must be told "NO!" We will have our student voice and we will allow no interference.

Frederick E. Pentz

'Cats Host New Hampshire Tonight

Northern's basketball Wildcats tip off against New Hampshire College tonight at 8:00 in the C. B. Hedgecock Fieldhouse. The clash marks the first of four straight home games for the 'Cats in the next eight days.

The Penmen out of Manchester, New Hampshire, are coming off a 17-7 record in 1969-70. The school is an NAIA independent of 1400 students.

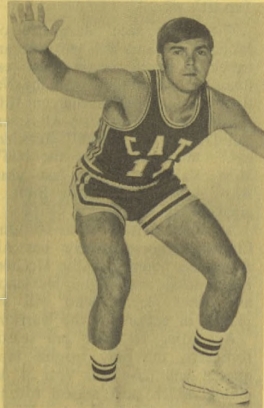

Leading the Penmen are John

Astarita, a 5'11" senior, and Reginald Brooks, a 6'5" senior. Astarita averaged 13.5 points a game last year and hit 82 per cent of his free throws. Brooks, a potential All-American, averaged 18.4 points per game last season and pulled down 15 rebounds per contest. He was one of Long Island's top prep stars.

New Hampshire College met Eastern Michigan last night before coming to "God's Country."

Sunday afternoon at 4:00, the Wildcats tangle with the Swedish National team. The foreign visitors have been defeated twice so far on their American tour: Robert Morris College edged the Swedes as did Wisconsin State-Eau Claire.

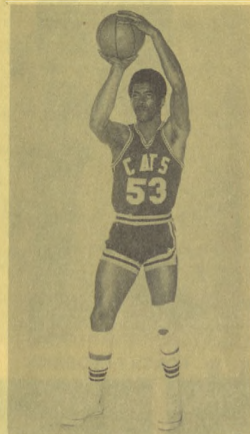

Tuesday evening the 'Cats host UW-Parkside and then close out the home stand against arch-rival Michigan Tech on Thursday evening before visiting Utah Saturday, Dec. 12.

Meet The Wildcats

Glenn Brown

Coach Glenn Brown goes into his third season at the helm of the basketball Wildcats, having compiled a 26-24 record in two seasons. Half of those losses have been at the hands of major schools.

Brown, a native of Joplin, Mo., earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees at Bradley University where he lettered two years in basketball.

Beginning his coaching career at Ft. Ord, Calif., Brown moved on to high school positions at Farmington and Danville, Ill., and New Castle, Ind., before coming to NMU as an assistant coach in 1966, a post he held for two years before succeeding Stan Albeck as head mentor in 1968.

Brown is author of "The Secrets of the Zone Press," a book currently in use as a college text. He and his wife, Dee, are the parents of a daughter, Lyndee, and a son, Bob.

NMU Drops Season Opener To Tough Tennessee, 90-68

by MARK KELLY
NEWS Sports Editor

Glenn Brown's Northern Michigan basketball Wildcats stuck close to highly rated Tennessee for three quarters before the rugged Volunteers turned superior rebounding and several steals into a 90-68 win Tuesday night in Knoxville. The game was the season opener for both schools.

The Vols, slated by pre-season prognosticators to be runner-up to Kentucky in the talent laden Southeastern Conference, held a 40-30 lead at halftime as the determined 'Cats scrapped to stay in the game. The margin stayed at about ten points throughout most of the last half, until the hosts from the South began to pull away with about six minutes remaining in the game.

Northern's inability to click from the free throw line was a deciding factor as the Wildcats sunk only six of 14 from the charity stripe. In addition, NMU lost the services of Brian Ouimette, 6'4" junior forward from Iron Mountain, with 13 minutes left in the first half. Ouimette suffered an injury to his left ankle, the extent of which was not known at press time, which sidelined him for the rest of the evening.

Lee Palmer, 6'5" junior from Detroit, led NMU in scoring with 18 points. Playmaker George Barber and sharpshooting Marty Griffin were also in double figures, hitting 13 and 10, respectively.

Jimmy England, an All-Southeastern Conference pick at guard last season, led the Volunteers with 26. Sophomore Mike Edwards tallied 20, while Don Johnson notched 16 and Jim Woodall had 13 to pace the balanced Tennessee attack.

Freshmen Face K.I. Sawyer In Season Opener Tonight

By Marty Fox
NEWS Sports Writer

Northern Michigan's freshman team starts the season tonight against K. I. Sawyer.

The little 'Cats gave the varsity a rugged game before bowing 104-83 in the Green-White game. Leading coach Lee Frederick's team is Karl Salscheider who scored 18 points and pulled down 18 rebounds in the Green-White game.

Bob Leanes from Marquette also did an outstanding job, pumping in 23 points.

Jim Kroll and Dewey Bellisle also did a good job in the game and will be in the lineup against Sawyer.

On Tuesday, the freshmen play Gogebic College of Ironwood and on Thursday have what shapes up to be a very interesting game against the Michigan Tech freshmen.

The MTU Frosh have something of a U.P. all-star team. Richard Brown, 6-5, from Gwinn, leads the Tech team. He will be joined by 6-4 Leo Donovan of St. Ignace, Brian Salo, 6-5, from Houghton and 5-11 Gary Lange, also of Houghton. All were on one of the numerous all-state teams as high school players last year.

The game also offers what could turn into an outstanding individual battle between Lange and the 'Cats Bob Leanes.

Tip off for all three Frosh games will be 6 o'clock.

FOCUS

By Marty Fox
NEWS Sports Writer

- SWEDISH NATIONALS
- WSU-PARKSIDE
- MICHIGAN TECH

Little specific information is available on the Swedish National team, other than that they are making a Midwestern tour that will include such Northern opponents as WSU-Eau Claire, WSU-Parkside, who the 'Cats meet Tuesday, and Lakeland College. The tour was arranged through "Moose" Woltzen, head basketball coach, and athletic director at Lakeland. The Swedes are expected to have a team made up of veteran cagers in the 22-29 age bracket, all experienced in international play. The game will be an exhibition game for Northern, and will not figure into final record or statistics.

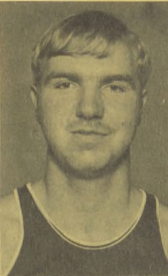

Wisconsin-Parkside makes their first appearance on Northern's schedule, and head coach Steve Stephens will bring a squad led by eight returning lettermen to Wildcat Country. Leading those eight experienced hands that played on an 11-10 team in 69-70 is senior guard Him Hogan, 5-10, who boasted a 23.3 average last season. Eli Slaughter, a 6-2 senior forward, will be coming off a year that saw him average 24.3 a game in one semester of play. The Rangers are expecting help from transfer Jack Findreng, a 6-5 junior forward, who was a reserve for the University of Maryland last season.

Michigan Tech rolls into town Thursday, December 10, for their fourth game of the season. After facing Lake Superior State Tuesday and Ferris State Wednesday, Tech steps off the deep end and into big-time basketball tomorrow night when they face the Big Ten University of Wisconsin Badgers at Madison. Dave Cade's Huskies are led by Larry Grimes, a sharpshooting junior guard from Crawfordsville, Indiana. Grimes, who established a new all-time MTU scoring record as a freshman, averaged 27.2 last year, including another record-setting performance of 44 against Northland, a game in which he proved his versatility by hauling in 15 rebounds. Grimes proved it was no fluke when he scored 43 against Minnesota-Morris later in the season. Against Northern last February 24, he pumped in 27.

Jerry Muff, 1969-70 leading rebounder, returns to wipe the boards and try to improve on his 11 per-game rebounding average. Overall, Cade's charges look good in terms of depth, with 11 lettermen returning from a squad that posted a 9-17 record.

Courtside Comments

By Mark Kelly
NEWS Sports Editor

The game is about 11 days past, and probably even the sparse crowd estimated at 800 has pretty much forgotten the Green-White game of November 23, but just the same, I'd like to offer some observations before the home campaign begins tonight.

First off, the varsity was unimpressive, but I find this no surprise. They were playing their freshmen, right? So how do you get sky-high for your freshmen? Besides, Monday's opener against Tennessee proved that Northern, with some work on the free-throw game and more aggressive rebounding, has all the balance and ability that points to a fine season. If they put it together, they have what it takes. And the schedule smiles on them at this point. They play four straight at home, including the exhibition against the Swedish Nationals Sunday afternoon, and against opponents who won't scare the pants off too many people.

But the team I'd like to comment on is the freshmen. The freshmen impressed me. To be honest, they have less overall raw talent than the freshmen teams of the past two years. But they have some attributes that I find pretty appealing.

Before I get too deep into this, let me point out that I'm not always a Grade A, Certified Blue-Chip judge of basketball talent. Take last season, for instance. Early in the first freshman game, I recall observing then-frosh center Mike Brumit, and brilliantly and cunningly remarking to statistician John Doyle that "he's not much." So what does Brumit do? Oh, he merely leads the team in rebounding and becomes the second leading scorer on the team. And sets a freshman rebounding record of 25. That's all. Thus, big dumb sports-writer opens big dumb mouth and inserts his big 11½ Converse All-Star.

But back to this year's frosh.

Bob Leanes showed that he's a winner in every sense of the word. Leanes is not used to losing. He led a Marquette Bishop Baraga to a state Class D championship in that school's last year of operation, and then moved to Class A Marquette High, demonstrated the same brand of leadership in a different uniform,

Four Major Schools Dot 1970-71 Wildcat Schedule

By Marty Fox
NEWS Sports Writer

Tennessee was the first of four major opponents the Wildcat basketball team will face this season. Still remaining on the schedule are Illinois, Utah and Marquette.

The 'Cats will face Utah, December 12 in Salt Lake City. The Redskins have a classy 15,000 seat basketball arena and a classy team to go with it. Senior Mike Newlin leads the Utah attack. Named the Western Athletic Conference player of the year after his sophomore and junior seasons, Newlin averaged 26 points a game last year. Newlin also hit 87% of his free throws and his ability to drive enables him to draw a high number of fouls.

Ken Gardner, an excellent shooter from the corner, averaged 15 points a game last year and led the team in rebounding.

The center is 6-10, 225 lb. Jim Mahler. Another fine prospect is 6-5, Early Laster.

The Redskins are in the pre-season top twenty and should have an outstanding year.

On December 14, the 'Cats travel to Illinois. The Illini return three starters from last year's 15-9 team. Leading the returnees is guard Rick Howat, an excellent shooter. Greg Jackson, 6-8, 260, and 6-4 Fred Miller are the other returning starters. All are muscle men, which makes Illinois a formidable rebounding team.

Sophomore Nick Weatherspoon, is looked upon as possibly the best of many outstanding sophomores in the Big Ten.

The Illini are also in the top twenty and one of the favorites in what should be a rugged Big Ten title race.

The 'Cats face Marquette on January 26 and the Warriors are expected to be better this year than last when they won the National Invitational Tournament title.

Heading the Warriors is All-American Dean "The Dream" Memminger. Memminger was the NIT's Most Valuable Player last year. Also returning is Gary Brell, a great rebounder.

At center will be 6-10 Jim Chones, who definitely has All-American potential. Allie McGuire, Bob Lackey and Hughie McMahon are other players who will see plenty of action for the Warriors.

According to most pre-season forecasts, the only trouble Marquette will have this year is deciding which post season tournament to participate in, the NCAA or a return for a defense of their NIT title.

and aided that team in a winning season that took them downstate in tourney play before succumbing to a Grand Rapids high school power. You can tell just by watching Leanes that he thrives on playing basketball. He's in constant motion, with or without the ball. When he makes a good play, you see that satisfied look. When he muffs one, he looks like he's lost his best friend. That intensity, zeal, aside from the fact that he scored 23 against the varsity and contributed 13 assists, is what sells me on Bob Leanes.

George Wadlin, the 6-2 starting forward recently hailing from Hancock, is a rarity in college basketball. He never earned a basketball letter in high school. Wadlin was hampered by the fact that he never went to high school in the same place two years in a row—he lived in Orono, Maine; Alexander, Va., outside of Washington, D. C.; Bangor, Maine; and finally Hancock. In fact, last year he was student manager for Hancock. Yet, this year he comes out for the team as a walk-on, works like hell, and establishes himself as one of the starting forwards.

Jim Kroll, on the other hand, was vigorously recruited. Kroll, at 6-9, is the first bona fide "big man" the 'Cats have had in some time. Kroll is a diligent worker in practice, constantly striving to improve in all aspects of the game. His biggest asset at this point? The statistical play-by-play from the second half of the Green-White game pretty much answers that question. "Kroll jump from 20". . . Kroll has a good outside touch for a big man, proven by the fact that he was seven of 13 from the field and five of those he made were from 15 feet or farther.

In Titan Relays

Tankers In Opener Tomorrow

By Erin O'Brien
NEWS Sports Writer

Tomorrow, December 5, the NMU swim team, under the guidance of head coach Don Trost, will be competing in the Titan Relays at Oshkosh, Wisconsin. The meet will be the first of the season for the Northern swimmers.

"We're going down with the idea that we're going to win it," Coach Trost stated. "We haven't won a season opener in four years."

The meet will be a relay consisting of ten events, each with three or more men from each team participating. Northern would like to defeat favored Northern Illinois and Loyola University of Chicago.

The end of last year's season found the NMU swimmers ranked tenth in the national standings. Coach Trost considers the progress of this year's team about the same compared with last year's team at this time. The sprinting and distance men, however, along with butterfly swimmer Fred Eisenhardt, are a little bit ahead of last year's schedule. Trost is confident that they will finish higher than tenth in the national rankings this season.

This year's swim team consists of six freshmen, three sophomores, two juniors and eight seniors. Anyone is eligible to come out for the team but the majority of the NMU swimmers have finished in the top six in competition in their home states.

After the team is selected, practice begins in the second week of September and extends through April 1. Lately, the team has been concentrating its efforts on relay starts and each swimmer is beginning to work on his own specialty. "We are now shifting our gears," said Coach Trost, "and going into the second phase of our training."

Outstanding swimmers on the team this season are freshman David Cummings, Wisconsin State champion and Steve Bachorik, a freshman from Dearborn, who placed third in Michigan State competition. Outstanding upperclassmen are senior Captain Mike Matter of Royal Oak, and Manager Lou Carr of Escanaba.

Winning individual honors in national competition last season were George Eisenhardt, who placed sixth in the three-meter dive and Tom Schwab, who placed 11th in the same event.

Northern will be facing some tough competition as they will be meeting against schools such as Eastern Michigan, the small college swim champs, Central Michigan, who placed 12th in national competition last year, the University of Iowa, a big ten school which handed NMU one of its three losses last season, and the University of Miami.

The swimmers will be facing Eastern Michigan in their first dual meet on December 12.

African Displays To Be Reshown

Due to the Thanksgiving vacation break last week at Northern Michigan University, the third in the series of West African Displays by Dr. Orville McShine, assistant professor of foreign languages, was postponed.

This display, on African fashions for men and women, is now being shown in a showcase in the University Center, near the Alumni Office, and will run through Monday, Dec. 7. A number of articles are on display.

Then there is the classic winter sport, rabbit hunting. A pack of beagles is pretty hard to hide from your RA or landlord, but there are bundles of bunnies located in local swamps that are easy to track and bring down with a .22 or light shotgun load. Sometime when you're staring at the snowbanks outside your window, imagine that pane is a looking glass you can climb into to chase white U.P. bunnies and eat magic mushrooms. It may not be strictly Lewis Carroll or even Jefferson Airplane, but at least it's fun.

Water dogs are still taking salmonoids from the big lake and will continue to do so even after the ice forms in the bays. Spawn and hardware are favored, especially in the warmer water near stream mouths. Although the big runs are over, some feeding action is still taking place. Early winter is no time to be on Lake Superior in a boat, however. If you insist on trolling, be sure to check with the Coast Guard and the weather bureau first.

If you can hack enough weather to try these three sports once or twice this winter, you're sure to be content enough to enjoy spending the rest of the time by the fireplace tinkering with your gear. And whenever you feel like a case of cabin fever is coming on, get back outside again.

When you know it's for keeps

Happily, all your special moments together will be symbolized forever by your engagement and wedding rings. If the name, Keepsake is in the ring and on the tag, you are assured of fine quality and lasting satisfaction. The engagement diamond is flawless, of superb color, and precise cut. Your Keepsake Jeweler has a selection of many lovely styles. He's in the yellow pages under "Jewelers."
