Fundraising idea approved by Engler

By SHANA HUBBS
Editor in chief

It seems Christmas has come early for the 86 members of the United States Olympic Education Center.

Tuesday, members from Marquette met with Gov. John Engler to present him with some ideas about fundraising and discuss the feasibility of these efforts for the center and the role the state might play.

According to President William Vandament, "the governor has agreed to help with fundraising activities and to offer public support for the efforts (of the university and the U.S. Olympic Committee)."

He added that Engler is planning on naming a member of his staff to work with the university in an effort to save the center.

Vandament The governor hasn't named the person yet but Vandament said he should know by the end of the week.

When the governor has named the person (from Engler's staff) that will be working with the university, the first step will be to construct a work plan—a time line.

Harvey Schiller, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, has agreed to help work out plans for future cooperation between the center and Northern.

The group that met with the governor on Tuesday presented three proposals to raise funds for the center under the state.

The first proposal is an income tax refund check-off devoted to the USOEC for citizens that receive refunds. If a person was receiving a refund they could check a box to support the USOEC for possibly $1 or $5.

The second proposal would be for special license plates. According to Vandament, there are several states that have these.

It would have a more attractive design than the standard license plate. "This would be a commemorative plate," said Mike Clark, director of communications.

The license plates might have a symbol associating them with the USOEC and would be provided at an additional cost.

The third proposal the university presented was a state Olympic Lottery. It would be similar to the Lotto but would not be a regular lottery.

Minority enrollment grows

By KATHY BOURCIER
Associate News Editor

An increase in racial and ethnic diversity on NMU's campus was one of the goals that came out of last year's strategic planning conference. Many students and faculty members feel that in order to have a well-rounded college campus, there should be a student body composed of students from various ethnic backgrounds.

According to Paul Duby, director of NMU's institutional research, minority enrollment has increased since last year. The number of American Indian freshmen has increased from 1.7 percent last year to 2.37 percent this year (up 8 students). Asian students have increased from 4 percent last year to .59 percent this year (up 2 students) and black students have increased from 1.8 percent to 2.45 percent (up 7 students). The number of Hispanic freshmen has decreased, though, from .6 percent to .42 percent (down 2 students).

Minority population has been growing all over the country. According to Richard W. Jonsen, executive director of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE), "By the beginning of the 21st century, one-third of the school children and college-age population nationwide will be non-white or Latino."

Students from Asia and the Pacific islands make up the nation's fastest growing ethnic group. Their numbers are expected to increase more than 70 percent from what they were in 1985-86 by 1994-95. Latino enrollments are projected to increase more than 54 percent, American Indian and Alaskan Native enrollment by 29 percent and African-American enrollment by 13 percent.

Of all racial and ethnic groups, Asian

Americans (76 percent) are the most likely to pursue some type of postsecondary education immediately after high school, followed by whites (50 percent) blacks (42 percent), hispanics (39 percent) and American Indians (35 percent).

Karim Chraïbi, from Morocco, is a member of the International Students Club, which helps to get students from different countries together to get acquainted.

He is also a resident of Pangaea, the multi-cultural house in West Hall. According to Chraïbi, this style of residence hall living helps students "get to know one another, since we're all in the same boat."

Pangaea has helped the students from abroad feel more comfortable and more at home. The fear of being so far away from home is eased a little bit by living near people that have the same fears and anxieties.

Another office on campus organized to help minority students is Multicultural Affairs, directed by Marcia Moody.

According to Moody, the purpose of the office is to design support services for minority students and make the university more sensitive toward them.

The Human Relations Advisory Board, made up of a combination of 14 students, faculty and staff members who serve two year terms, was also

Fire damages VA

By PAUL STIEBER
News Editor

A smoke alarm that went off early Monday morning in Maude L. Van Antwerp Hall may have prevented further damage and serious casualties in the fire that caused $6,500 in damage and sent 6 people to the hospital.

According to Vic LaDuke, NMU Public Safety investigator, the detector and the fact that people had shut the windows and fire door, prevented the fire from getting out of hand.

"It's important that people pay attention to those things," LaDuke stressed. LaDuke said the fire was discovered at 3:30 a.m. Monday in room 346 of VA. The room is designated as a TV room, although there is no TV there.

He said the fire was caused by "careless smoking." He said that a burning cigarette left on a couch was the source. While smoking is allowed in individual dorm rooms, it is not allowed in public areas, such as the TV room. LaDuke said the "matter is still under investigation."

All the residents of the building were evacuated quite smoothly, LaDuke said.

He also said that "six people were treated and released for smoke inhalation." This includes five students and one Public Safety police officer. One Marquette fire fighter also received a cut on his hand.

LaDuke said the initial damage estimate is $6,500. This includes the replacing or repairing of furniture and carpet in the room, as well as the cleaning and painting of the room.

LaDuke also said the hallways will have to be cleaned, and some electrical repairs will be done.

"The fire was contained to the room itself," LaDuke said, "but there was

Halverson Hall to hold casino night in January

By AMY VANSTEE
Junior Reporter

The Student Finance Committee on Monday night approved a budget of $995.95 for Halverson Hall to hold a casino night in the Quad I Cafeteria.

It also denied a budget of $595 for printing costs of a newsletter for Clio, a new campus group composed of 25 history and political science majors.

Halverson Hall's casino night is planned for Jan. 23, from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Quad I cafeteria. Residents of Halverson Hall plan on raffling off prizes, donated by local businesses, based on the amount of "play" money won by participants.

The residents hope to get $2,000 worth of prizes donated for this event.

They also would like faculty and staff to volunteer time to assist in the games.

According to Halverson Hall representatives, no actual gambling with real money will take place and this event is planned so students can have fun after the holiday break.

Halverson will be taking donations of perishable food to give to the Loaves and Fishes House, which is a local home for the homeless.

Donating a can of food is not necessary to get in this event, but it's recommended. The event is free of charge and refreshments will be served also.

The budget that the SFC rejected was for the Clio Studies Group, a group which studies historical events, and participates in a wide range of historical activities, said Michael Carus, a group member.

The SFC felt that this proposal would interest only a specific segment of students and not the whole campus.

The Clio organization planned or sending out 400 newsletters to students majoring in history or political science, while having an extra 200 copies on hand for the public.

Copies will be sent to all department heads. Carus stressed that he did not want to send copies to students that were not interested in the newsletter. SFC member Wendy Krieg said, in the future, Clio should change its structure before again and asking for funds from the SFC.

The SFC also heard a report after Sandra Michaels, dean of students and SFC adviser, and four SFC members spoke with President William Vandament, addressing specific audio-visual concerns in a closed meeting.

According to SFC chairman Dave Dausey, the president was fully informed on the issues.

Michaels stressed that the meeting was "extremely productive."

Other issues addressed at the meeting were the AG Magazine and Northern Arts and Entertainment's program funding for next semester.

The AG Magazine has had a freeze of funds because the SFC has not seen any articles or art to see if it's worth publishing, Dausey said.

Dausey also said that NAE will likely be seeking funds from the SFC, due to the fact that Donna Pearce, vice president for Student Affairs, will not be providing the funding that it will need for the winter semester.

Gorbachev selects Shevardnadze:

President Mikhail Gorbachev is looking to bolster world confidence in the Soviet Union, in dire need of foreign help, by bringing back one of the original thinkers of perestroika, Eduard Shevardnadze. On Tuesday, Gorbachev reappointed the diplomat as foreign minister. He will aid Gorbachev in his struggle to forge a new confederation among the remaining 12 Soviet republics and to persuade them to assume responsibility for a foreign debt as high as $81 billion. The reappointment of Shevardnadze drew praise from President Bush and other Western leaders.

Two more hostages freed:

Former hostage Terry Waite went home to England Tuesday and Thomas Sutherland had a long-awaited reunion with his family at a U.S. military hospital in Germany. Waite, 52, who was taken captive in Lebanon in 1987 while trying to negotiate freedom for U.S. hostages, said that his captors had assured him the three remaining American hostages would be freed this month. Sutherland, 60, also said the other American hostages would soon be freed. He was kidnapped in 1985 while serving as the dean of agriculture at the American University in Beirut. In Damascus on Monday, Waite said one of the kidnapers predicted Americans Alann Steen and Joseph Cicippio would be released "we hope within the next five days." Waite added that the man told him Terry Anderson, the longest-held hostage, would be freed by the end of November. Six hostages have been freed this year, the most in any year since Anderson was seized nine years ago.

Soviet treasure found:

Soviet military intelligence has unearthed in eastern Germany a trove of Soviet treasures stolen by Nazi troops during World War II, a Soviet newspaper said Tuesday. The trove included the Amber Chamber, a spectacular 18th century creation of amber wall panels, furniture and other artifacts taken from an imperial palace near St. Petersburg. The treasure was found at an army base once used for top-level military meetings of the now-defunct Warsaw Pact alliance, suggesting it was located close to Potsdam or Berlin.

Women don't have to wear shirts:

A judge in Rochester, New York has overturned the convictions of 10 women found guilty exposing their breasts in public, ruling that women's breasts should not be legally distinguished from men's. Monroe County Judge Patricia Marks said that the women, who called themselves the Topfree 10, should not have been convicted of violating the state's public nudity law. Marks said legally classifying women's breasts as different from men's breasts is a violation of the state and U.S. constitutions.

Bush bans abortion counseling:

The House failed to override a presidential veto Tuesday, ending the last barrier to a ban on abortion counseling at family planning clinics that serve poor women. The 276-156 vote was a dozen votes short of the two-thirds margin needed to override a veto. It derailed abortion rights advocates' best chance of stopping the so-called "gag rule" and left President Bush with a perfect 24-0 record for making his vetoes stick. The regulations ban abortion counseling at federally funded family planning clinics. Some four million low-income women receive family planning services through 4,000 federally funded clinics. Some clinics have said they will stop taking federal money and risk shutting down rather than abide by the counseling ban.

Riot at CMU may end annual game:

Administrators at Central Michigan University are considering ending the yearly football game against rival Western Michigan University after about 3,000 students surged through a neighborhood near Central Michigan University late Saturday and early Sunday. According to Public Safety Director Marty Trombley, students threw rocks and bottles and at least four vehicles were burned. This is the third year of rioting following the CMU-Western football game. Central's 27-17 victory intensified the excitement of the crowd. Six police officers and an unknown number of civilians were injured, non-seriously. According to police, at least 33 people were arrested. Charges included inciting a riot, assaulting an officer and malicious destruction of property. Damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

No winter '92 tuition hike

Strategic Planning process also discussed at meeting

By SHANA HUBBS

Editor in chief

"There will not be a tuition increase," declared Phil Beukema, vice president for Academic Affairs and chair of the Budget and Planning Committee, after a meeting of the committee.

Because President William E. Vandament accepted the "economic provision" to ease NMU's budget crisis, there will be no need to raise tuition for the winter semester.

The committee also was updated on the seven goals of the strategic planning process at its meeting last Thursday.

Mary Vande Berg, professor of nursing and member of the committee, said that the Goal I group is "in the process of gathering data for information that (Ed) Penson requested." Penson, a strategic planner from Florida, will be coming to campus the week of exams and will be meeting with the Budget and Planning Committee Dec. 9, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Goal I is "a review of administrative structure and function including an outside evaluation with regard to size, cost, and efficiency to determine the ways in which decision making may be streamlined and decentralized," according to the strategic planning booklet.

According to Sandy Haavisto, director of accounting services, the Goal II group is "in its information gathering stage about library acquisitions." A survey pertaining to library acquisitions is done every two or three years. This group has been charged with the task of "implementing an ongoing funding plan to acquire, maintain, and replace equipment, including library acquisitions, which is required in the performance of its stated mission," according to the booklet.

Shelia Burns, associate professor of psychology and member of the committee, commented that the Goal III committee, which is looking into strengthening the process of advising, has added a graduate student and is looking into what each person wants to take on as far as a role within the committee.

John Hammang, director of human resources and data information services, said that the computer system "On Course" that is going to be installed in '93 will "have considerable impact on advising."

Goal IV focuses on developing and implementing a plan to make the delivery of services from each academic and administrative department more student centered, with emphasis on student retention. Donna Pearre, vice president for student affairs, said that she will be "meeting with ASNMU" to see how students can be involved in this process.

Hammang is working with the Goal V committee, and in the next couple of weeks he will be going over a list of some 40 specific recommendations that were brought up last year. This group is dealing with resources for minority and handicapped students.

John Berens, professor and head of publication services at the library, is working with the Goal VI committee which will recommend reallocation of funds to support the university's main objectives of teaching and learning and provide for continued communication with the campus community regarding the rationale for these reallocations.

Goal VII deals with improving the enrollment in summer session classes by 50 percent by August 1994 and by December 1994, double the number of credit hours generated through weekend, evening, and off-campus offerings.

Fred Joyal, associate vice president for Academic Administration and Planning, is working with this committee and stated that the committee hasn't met yet because several people that are going to be involved are involved in other areas right now.

Vandament addressed the board about the capital outlay requests which are 12 requests that NMU has as a wish list.

Vandament said that since Gov. Engler vetoed $100,000 in planning monies for phase II of the Dome, the project, with a completed estimated cost of $13 million, will have to be integrated into the wish list. It was taken out of the list and put into major construction projects in an effort to get the planning money.

Now the university will be going over the plans for phase II to see where cuts can be made.

Vandament said that the university hoped it could get the planning monies and the $13 million for phase II and get planning monies for the West Science Remodeling—Seaborg Center Annex. This remodeling—annex is estimated to cost around $20 million.

"We hoped that by doing this we could grease the skids, so to speak, for funding next year," Vandament said.

He added that a "performing arts facility (at NMU) would be great to have, but beyond the 1,500 seat capacity, it has no instructional value."

The next meeting of the Budget committee will be Dec. 5, from 9-11 a.m. in 602 Cohodas. The public is welcome to attend.

Editorial

Personal president sought

With the announcement of past President Appleberry's resignation last March, the university began looking for an interim president, who was named in the middle of June.

William E. Vandament, from Long Beach, Calif., was his successor. Now Northern has begun the task of replacing Vandament with another qualified person.

And they put together a committee to do it. The committee has met once this year and has reviewed the report compiled by the Academic Search Consultation Service in Washington, D.C. This report discusses the university's needs in regard to general observations by this group, objectives of the search, the university's strengths and its priority needs.

Its list of NMU's strengths includes "the presence of an interim president who is providing strong, stable leadership during this presidential transition."

For someone who said he didn't plan to sit idly by and just let this year happen, Vandament has definitely lived up to his words, even if we consider only his more publicized activities.

Instead of letting momentum dissipate from last year's Strategic Planning work, Vandament continued this process, and most of the work is underway.

Soon after the beginning of the year Vandament looked into the award fund for athletics and decided that a ring policy would be established limiting gifts of rings to players and coaches of championship teams.

The next publicized mess for Vandament to address involved the bulldozers the Board of Control was driving to demolish Longyear and Pierce Halls. After the Coalition to Save Longyear Hall was formed and hustled around for a few weeks, Vandament worked diplomatically between the coalition and the Board of Control and as a result, there will be not be any Longyear demolition decision made until the Board of Control meeting in May.

Vandament discussed with the Budget and Planning Committee the budget problems NMU has been facing and asked for recommendations, from the university community, within a three week period about where the shortfall in the budget should come from without raising tuition. It is doubtful Vandament's predecessor would have involved so fully the student body, faculty, or staff.

Although many of these suggestions did not apply to how NMU was initially trying to balance the budget, Vandament has ordered all university vice presidents to look into the feasibility of each and every response that affects their areas.

He has also personally delved into the Audio-Visual audit issue, meeting with the Student Finance Committee and others concerning the audit.

And probably his most commendable act as president would be the way he has stood behind the USOEC by trying to find alternative funding for this unique program.

In his four months here Vandament has made himself available to the heart of this university, namely the students. He has willingly participated in events with campus groups, is visible at campus events, and honestly seems to care about what the student body thinks.

The Presidential Search Committee should strongly consider President Vandament's professional attributes when looking for someone to fill the position of president.

Alumnus sets record straight

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the review of the coaching staff of the NMU football team which appeared in the North Wind on Thursday, Nov. 14. If the editors of your paper have the audacity to run this letter, I will be glad to set the record straight.

As a graduate of NMU and a former football player (1984-1989), I think I know a little bit more about the coaching staff than any arm-chair quarterbacks that sit on their duffs and take cheap shots at coaches.

First off, let me set the record straight about our coaches. I think I can speak on behalf of all the fine people who had the pleasure of playing for NMU under these fine men. The lessons that I learned from coaches Driscoll, Freeman, Grenke, Marana, Nystrom, Zimmerman, and various graduate assistants, will remain with me forever. They not only taught the game of football well, they also showed me how to be disciplined and give great effort in anything I did. We had some mediocre players become great players—professionals in some instances—with superior coaching. The 1987 team won the GLIAC and was the national semifinalist playing under the direction of the same people who are there now for the most part. Teams under this staff have always been excellent and very competitive each year. Clearly, the coaching staff is fine.

NMU has a rich tradition, and contrary to your biased beliefs, tradition has and will once again win games. Tradition has brought in many fine players. The team right now is much better than a 3-6-1 team. With a break here and there, they are 7-3. They are competitive in a very tough league, and are in every contest. They are playing some younger people and I know NMU will rebound. At one time, the 'Cats took a winless team and turned it around the very next year into a national champion; this was done with many of the same people that are on the staff now. I was annoyed at the comments:

"it is our tuition money that helps support athletics"
"you must diversify your offense"
"no offensive balance"

Writer's experience is shared

To the Editor:

Although a faithful reader for more than six years now, I have never felt as much of a need to comment on The North Wind contents as I did after perusing the Nov. 7 issue. I must begin by lauding Kelly Cross, not only for her self-described "10 part guts" in deciding to labor at a Lublin, Poland work camp, but also for her sharing of the experience with us. Her interesting, entertaining and instructive reflections reminded me of how I wish I had taken advantage of such travel opportunities in my relative youth.

Like Kelly's, my life has been enriched immensely in recent years with travel to Great Britain, Europe, Asia and throughout America. And like Kelly, I have found "dark, intimidating places" quickly and some other quip about alumni dollars. This is another case of some uniformed comments from people who don't know football, probably have not played in anything more competitive than a "rip-the-coaches" game, or perhaps a stimulating game of tidily winks, and wouldn't know the difference between an I-formation and a hanging indent. Then again, all the best coaches are in the stands. I would rather see my student fee go to athletics than to paying for a useless paper like the North Wind, which features such misleading and inconsistent writings as I read last week.

The coaching staff and team work very hard. This demands the respect

'Gonzo' film series should come back

To the Editor:

Like many Marquette locals and alumni who live in the surrounding area, I like to read the North Wind. It keeps me updated on campus events, which I try to attend as often as I can.

A favorite of mine, and many locals both alumni and not, was the Thursday night Gonzo Media films. I realize that is over and done with, but unless one rents a foreign film for viewing at home there are no longer foreign films for cinema viewing available in Marquette. Thursday night was a tradition that was often enjoyed by and support of everyone. If you lazy writers would ever get out and find opinions from anybody else other than yourselves, you'd find support for our coaches overwhelming. The last thing NMU needs is some pansy like you sitting on your dead tail cutting the gridder mentors and swaying student attitudes toward the negative side. If you have the guts to print this, you may sign my name. I speak on behalf of any player who had the privilege of playing for such a great staff who taught not only football, but lessons about people—lessons you obviously haven't learned.

those who were students, and could have been a tradition too made by those who are now students. With a little attention to promotion, it could have flourished. It is much missed by many more than Campus Cinema may think; their movie selections lack the style, variety and statement that was Gonzo Media. Thanks for the opportunity to let me say: Bring back Gonzo! I know I voice the opinion of more than just myself.

Gays are supported by Lutheran pastor

To the Editor:

In spite of considerable disagreement from many people in the church I work for (Evangelical Lutheran Church in America), I would like the NMU community to know that I support gay men and lesbians, and I am open to dialogue with members of the community who disagree with me.

I personally support the work of Lutherans Concerned North America, and I am dismayed by the attitude many in my church denomination have taken regarding gay men and women.

The issue is, I believe, a justice issue, just the issues of racism, sexism, ageism, environmental abuse, militarism, and a host of other issues I deal with fall on the justice/injustice axis.

Until the church begins to take some heat for the oppressed in our world, we will not be speaking with authenticity of a primary tenant of the Judaco-Christian tradition, that of justice.

Gregory A. Ormson

transformed into locations "normal, comfortable and full of friends." I could not agree more with Kelly's observations about travel "expanding the mind and putting the world in our grasp," as well as it being a "good cure for prejudice and ignorance." I hope students, those of traditional age and those more mature, will "take advantage of it" as Kelly advised.

One very exciting opportunity to do so was noted in Professor Jon Saari's announcement a couple of pages later about a year at the Japan Center for Michigan Universities. I had the privilege of visiting the Japan Center with my host family during a Marquette Sister City visit to Yokaichi, Japan, in May. Hikone is a lovely city in the heart of Japan's most historically and culturally significant region. The "campus" is beautifully situated on the shore of Lake Biwa (Japan's largest inland lake), the student residence hall is a very attractive and comfortable facility, and the Center staff is gracious, many of whom speak English. Frequent living with a host family in Shiga Prefecture may become the most memorable of many wonderful experiences. Please consider visiting Dr. Saari to learn more about this and other international study/living opportunities. You will never regret it!

Nor will you regret interacting with Northern's wonderful international students and learning more about their cultures through the Multicultural Affairs Office, as was noted in yet another article in the Nov. 7 issue.

"We wouldn't compete with the basic lottery. The idea is to make it a big event when it occurred," said Vandament.

The other option that had been discussed in the past was the idea of corporate sponsorship.

According to Vandament, the university is planning an approach to this and should be ready to announce it within two weeks.

"We are moving forward with the intention of continuing the center and gaining support for it. I intend to certainly keep the center open through July '92 or up until the '92 Summer Olympics," Vandament said.

Between now and August the university will be engaged in establishing a "vigorous" program of funding which will allow the center to go into the future.

Although Engler didn't provide any encouraging words about recovering the $600,000 that was spent on the USOEC last fiscal year, "for us, within the university, that's still an active issue," said Vandament.

The university will be putting an additional approximately $250,000 into the program to keep it running until the Summer Olympics.

"Investing money into the program is necessary. If the university doesn't invest money to keep it alive through the summer there is no chance of recapturing the funds.

"We can't go for funds from outside sources for a program that has been abandoned," Vandament said.

Both Vandament and Clark expressed that an underlying factor of the efforts of the university is the obligation to the 86 students that are part of the USOEC.

"Most of these students have spent a better part of their lives preparing for this (the Olympics)," Clark said.

Vandament added that there was enough encouraging or positive information from the governor and the U.S. Olympic Committee to make a commitment to the students and the program.

some smoke in the hallway."

The smoke detector belonged to a female student living in the house where the fire broke out.

Although many students don't know it, smoke detectors are available for installation in all university housing. According to Carl Holm, director of Housing Residence and Life, students can fill out a request for a detector. Students only pay for the purchase of the detector, not the installation.

Three people on campus have purchased detectors through this offer. "It just doesn't seem like a popular item," Holm said. "It really doesn't become important unless you need it."

Holm also said he hopes sales of detectors will increase.

"I would hope so," he said, "but I haven't seen any people requesting them."

For What It's Worth

Early birds catch worms

By KEVIN WEED

Senior Reporter
A university is a very competitive venue, where hypothesis are contemplated, ideas are discussed, and plans can come together.

This competitive atmosphere is often apparent in the classroom and will carry over into campus organizations, but I never expected it would happen in the movie rental section at Econo Foods.

It was a typical Sunday night and once again I put off studying for a test to hang out with the guys.

Andrew, John, and I found nothing better to do while hanging out than to watch a movie re-run on HBO that we had already seen—Back to the Future Part 2.

There was nothing special about the movie, it was just something to pass the time while we procrastinated.

However, as the movie ended and the credits began to roll something happened that... well, you can read for yourself.

We wondered whether or not we should call it a night or find something else to waste time doing.

Then all in a span of 20 seconds...
"Let's go rent Back to the Future Part 3 and watch it right away," I said with great excitement and enthusiasm.

"Yeah," Andrew said, "we can get it at Econo!"
"And we can get a twelve pack of cheap beer to drink and not do any of our homework!" John said.

We then proceeded to tackle one another on the living room floor. Male bonding at its finest.

After unpling, we all jumped to action in coordinating this truly beautiful moment.

Andrew and I ran to our rooms and managed to conjure up six dollars and seventy-nine cents between us, while John was scrambling through the glove box in his truck to scrape up three dollars and 56 cents, all in coin.

So armed with $10.35 in cash and coin, we made our way to Econo to carry out our "master plan."

Moving quickly through the automatic doors, we split up to accomplish our mission.

Andrew went straight to the movie check out counter to get a membership. John made a bee-line to the beer aisle, and I moved straight to the adventure/action section to find the movie.

Then it all came tumbling down.
I couldn't find the movie. John and Andrew searched with me and it was just nowhere to be found.

Then we heard the words which we hoped could not be true. "That's weird," said the girl at the counter, "it was checked out not even a minute ago by two other people who seemed really excited to see it too."

Our plan crumbled as quickly as it had begun, and it wasn't easy dealing with the fact that someone else beaten us to our own idea.

However, as we paid for our new section, we noticed two other groups of people frantically scampering through the B's in the adventure/action section.

As we walked out through the automatic door, we felt much better.

Nine ROTC cadets from NMU earned the right to compete and represent the 2nd Brigade at the Second ROTC Region competition Nov. 22 at Ft. Knox, Kentucky after they won the U.S. Army's Ranger Challenge held Oct. 25 and 26.

The competition took place at Camp Custer in Battle Creek and involved 36 hours of non-stop grueling competition consisting of M-16 rifle marksmanship, team orienteering, one-rope bridge, grenade assault course, weapons assembly, Army physical fitness test, and a 10-kilometer road march.

By winning, NMU's team earned the right to compete against top teams gathered from Central, a nine-state area stretching from West Virginia to Missouri, and Chicago State.

Members of the ROTC cadets from Michigan State University and the University of Michigan placed second and third in the challenge.

Quit kits may give smokers incentive

By SHAWN OLSON
Junior Reporter
If you're a smoker wanting to quit a potentially life threatening habit, you may want to participate in today's Great American Smokeout.

The American Cancer Society has attempted to help smokers quit through this nationwide program. The Marquette County Health Department and the NMU Health Center are the program's local sponsors.

For the past 15 years, the incidence rate of smokers contracting lung cancer is 1 in 12. This year, the U.S. has 50 million smokers, 160,000 of whom will contract lung cancer and 400,000 smokers who will die from it.

George Sedlacek, of the Marquette County Health Department, said the younger the age one starts smoking, the higher the risk of the disease. Today, 20 percent of high school seniors are smokers.

The Great American Smokeout supports smokers' attempts at quitting with quit kits. Sedlacek feels the number of smokers decreases when they are educated about smoking hazards.

Last year, 40 percent, or 16.9 million Americans, quit for the day. Of these, 7.4 million stayed off for the whole day and 4.9 million stayed off for 1-3 days.

Students who want to kick the habit for the day can pick up quit kits at the Bookstore, the Skill Center, and the Cotodas lobby from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Smokers who want to stay off longer can contact the Health Center about setting up individual motivational programs.

Bands to exhibit Northern spirit

By AMY VANSTEE

Northern's spirit and pride will be presented at a smaller number of students, and added that the current band is "probably the best in the history of Northern's Marching Bands."

The band now has about 70 members who comprise its marching unit, which is the smallest band Northern has had in years, said Smith.

The marching unit will perform rock tunes, marches, classical arrangements, and even a deer hunting tune. Visuals will be provided by the band color guard and The Wildcat Sensation dance team.

The event is free to everyone wishing to attend. Smith said that this performance is the band's gift to the community for the help and fund raising they received.

THINGS TO DO, PLACES TO GO, PEOPLE TO SEE

Deluca toys with students

By SHAWN OLSON

Junior Reporter
Dare to dance? Monday night an audience of 700 watched while 20 of their members were turned into "fetal thumb-sucking jelly" under the spell and sarcastic wit of Tom Deluca.

Deluca, Dave Letterman incognito with a master's in psychology, presented an unusual slide show and atypical hypnosis show.

The hypnosis act was atypical because participants were advised to come on stage "sans attitude" so their imagination would be "unconstrained and be able to take a suggestion and turn it all around."

Deluca forewarned the fetal thumbsuckers they would not be turned into "Madonna or a bad Elvis" while the audience was told they would not be partaking in mass hypnosis.

Under hypnosis, people would feel they were "asleep for seven or eight hours" but they wouldn't have "bad breath."

Deluca told the participants, who had their feet flat on the ground and were breathing deeply, to turn on their imagination like never before while going under.

Two of the participants were a scream to watch. Deluca told one girl that, whenever he would ask for her name, she would tell him to shut up. She did. The other scream was one male thumbsucker, a borderline schizophrenic during the show, who was told when asked for his name he would give a different name every time. He said he was Bart.

The grand finale for the hypnosis routine took on Las Vegas proportions. The participants had settled back into the audience when Deluca said there were Las Vegas dancers ready to take the stage to close the show out with a bang.

Unwittingly, six of the thumbsucking fetuses gyrated their way back onto the stage. Deluca gave them a few minutes to taste Solid Gold dancing before pulling them out of their trance.

The wanna-be dancers were astounded and embarrassed when they realized what was going on.

The hors d'oeuvres before the main course were the slides of wacky signs Deluca had seen during the course of his shows. Deluca was proud to show the sign for the college where he graduated cum laude, Cecil Junior College.

Deluca, who has worked the crowds at Caroline's in New York City, did his first routine at Richland Community College in Decatur, Ill., about 12 years ago in front of 75-80 people.

Deluca performs about 175 shows a year. 80 percent of the performances are done at colleges and the other 20 percent for corporations.

This was Deluca's eighth visit to NMU in 11 years. Why can't he stay away? It was one of the first venues he performed and he feels at home.

Chuck Roberts of U.C. Main Event said Deluca can "always count on a good crowd" since it's an "outstanding show."

The show cost $2,000.

What's Up, Doc?

Vinegar detects bumps

Dr. Thomas Schacht is a practicing NMU Health Center physician. Please send your questions to Dr. Schacht c/o the North Wind.

Doc,
Can you get genital warts in your mouth from engaging in oral sex with someone who has them? T.R.

Possibly, but this is a very infrequent complication of genital warts.

Genital warts are caused by infection with the human papillomavirus (HPV). There are over 60 types of HPV; certain types cause warts only on the hands or feet, while other types infect only the genitals. Genital warts are usually spread by direct skin-to-skin contact during vaginal or anal sex, and remain confined to the genitals. There have been infrequent reports of similar warts occurring in the mouth after oral sex with an infected partner. I have not seen this in my practice.

Genital HPV infection can be difficult to detect. The infection may cause obvious growths or bumps in or around the vagina, on the penis and scrotum, and around the anus. But HPV infection often produces only subtle changes in the skin or on the cervix, that can't be seen with the naked eye.

Often the infection is first discovered when these changes are noted on a PAP smear. To enhance detection of HPV infection, physicians often put a vinegar solution on the genitals. This causes the infected areas to turn white, and makes them easier to see. There are no culture techniques or blood tests for diagnosing HPV. DNA detection methods are under study, but their utility is still unclear.

Certain types of HPV are strongly associated with the eventual development of cervical cancer, while other types are unlikely to lead to any complication. Our knowledge of these associations and ability to accurately categorize HPV infection is still incomplete. Cervical cancer is readily detectable in its early and treatable stages by routine PAP smears.

While an HPV infection can be treated, eradication may be difficult. Visible warts and detectable abnormal areas on the genitals are treated with cryotherapy (freeze treatment), chemical application, or laser.

The virus may persist after treatment though, and recurrences are common in the first two years after diagnosis. Persons may continue to transmit the virus to their sexual partners after treatment of all visible warts. Despite these frustrations, most people eventually stop having problems related to HPV infection.

Genital HPV infection is the most common sexually transmitted disease on the NMU campus. The difficulty in detecting it facilitates its spread. You can reduce your risk of contracting genital HPV infection by remaining monogamous (having sex only with one person who has sex only with you), making self-protective decisions about prospective sexual partners, and using condoms if you are not sure that you or your partner is free of infection. However, condoms may be less effective for protection against HPV infection than other STD's, because condoms may not cover the site of infection.

Hockey team rips Denver

By JOE HALL
Sports Editor

After sweeping the Denver Pioneers on the road last weekend, the hockey Wildcats were definitely on a "Mile High."

Why would a team be so happy about beating a last-place team? Because for the first time this season, the defending national champions put two good games together to sweep an opponent.

The 'Cats won Friday, 10-2, then pulled away for a 9-5 victory Saturday to improve to 5-3-2 on the season.

"This was definitely a good weekend for us," junior captain Jim Hiller said. "I think we're starting to play more consistently."

"We were motivated by the big-time loss we took last week in Sault Ste. Marie," senior center Scott Beattie said. "We played hard. There was good communication out there."

It was the scoring of Hiller, Beattie, Mark Beaufait and Dallas Drake, combined with the goaltending of freshman Corwin Saurdiff and strong defensive play that beat back the 2-8 Pioneers.

Beattie scored two goals in each game and ended up with eight points on the weekend. Hiller had three goals and four assists, Drake two goals and six assists and Beaufait three goals and one assist.

"We had the best weekend of the season so far for the forwards," Hiller said. "We've been working on getting these things right all year. We scored more on rushing (into the DU zone) than by forechecking."

Drake is happy to be spending time on the line with Beattie and Hiller.

"It's very exciting to be playing with those guys," Drake said. "Those two are two of the best players in the country. They always find you and they know where the other is on the ice."

Drake scored just 31 seconds into the game Friday to put the 'Cats up, 1-0. It stayed that way until the 'Cats caught fire in the second period, scoring four straight goals, each about three minutes apart.

At 1:18, Beaufait scored. Senior Phil Neururer made it 3-0 at 4:29, then Steve Carpenter tallied at 7:57. Beattie capped the barrage with a goal at 10:33 to make it 5-0.

The 'Cats added salt to the Pioneer wounds with five more goals, including one from Scott Smith.

Saurdiff, the WCHA's top-ranked goaltender, stopped 20 of the 22 shots he faced before Jamie Welsh came in to mop up in the final minutes.

"The defensemen were playing well," Saurdiff said. "They (the Pioneers) had a few shots from the slot but most of them were from the point.

The defensemen made them shoot it from there and those are easier saves."

"I thought overall the defense was playing well," senior defenseman Phil Soukoroff said.

"We never passed the puck and stood still. We weren't going sideways. We moved the puck up with the play."

Saturday, DU stayed close until late in the second period. Two goals by Scott Beattie and one each from Drake and Brent Riplinger gave the 'Cats a 4-4 tie.

It didn't stay tied for long. Beaufait and Hiller both scored in the period's final five minutes to give NMU a 6-4 lead, then the 'Cats concluded the onslaught with three more goals in the final period.

"They are very vulnerable," NMU Head Coach Rick Comley said. "They're young and enthusiastic. They're a team that throws caution to the wind. We weathered their storm. The big goal was Hiller's."

NMU was outshot 40-26, but it didn't matter because Saurdiff stopped 35 of them.

"They came out flying in the first period," Saurdiff said. "They were ready to go. It was hard getting up for that game because we beat them 10-2 Friday. They had 40 shots. It was a good weekend for me."

It was a good weekend for the team, closing to within two points of the WCHA lead.

Saurdiff wins No. 1 goalie job

By JOE HALL
Sports Editor

Freshman goaltender Corwin Saurdiff, the WCHA's top-ranked goaltender, has emerged from a three-man battle the No. 1 man, at least for now.

NMU Head Coach Rick Comley said that Saurdiff is his man as long as he keeps playing well.

"I think we're at the point of the season where if he plays well, he'll keep playing," Comley said. "I'll start him Friday (against Wisconsin) and see what happens."

Saurdiff's statistics speak for themselves. He is 5-1-0 with an excellent 2.46 goals against average and a .914 saves percentage.

He has won the job over two members of last year's national championship team: Rob Kruhlak and Jamie Welsh. Both men backed up Bill Pye last year.

Saurdiff, however, doesn't count himself as being above Welsh and Kruhlak.

"I have to prove myself every day," Saurdiff said. "Every game I play gives me more confidence. The defensemen are playing very well in front of me."

For the first time this season, Comley started Saurdiff in net for both games last weekend in Denver. He stopped 20 of 22 shots Friday and 35 of 40 shots Saturday against the Pioneers.

Saurdiff's teammates are impressed by his play.

"He's definitely a good goaltender," senior defenseman Phil Soukoroff said. "It's a bonus for the team for a freshman to come in and play so well. He works hard."

"He's got a lot of little things to learn, but he's playing well."

'Cats to battle UW for top spot

By JOE HALL
Sports Editor

The hockey Wildcats are in a slump. They think they're still in St. Paul with the NCAA trophy in their hands. They think it's still . . .

Wait a minute. The hockey Wildcats are playing for first place at home this weekend?

It's true. NMU will host the Wisconsin Badgers Friday and Saturday at Lakeview Arena in a series that could put the 'Cats back in their accustomed spot: first place.

With 10 points in the standings, NMU sits just two behind co-leading Wisconsin and Minnesota and can take over the top spot with a sweep. Minnesota plays non-conference Alaska-Anchorage this week.

"We're playing for first place," senior center Scott Beattie said. "It's going to be a good series. We'll have to play hard and it'll be a good showdown."

Both games are sold out. There will be 200 standing room tickets on sale at 6 p.m. both days. The games begin at 7:05 both days (WMQT-FM 107.5; Bresnan cable TV-8 at 11 p.m.).

"We can't be overconfident because we are at home," senior Dallas Drake said. "We have to go out and keep working hard like we did last weekend. We have to keep our work ethic up."

Last year, NMU swept four meetings with the Badgers. Wisconsin is led in scoring by Doug Macdonald (4-6-10), Brett Kurtz (6-3-9) and Chris Tucker (6-3-9). The Badger goaltender is Duane Derksen (6-4-0, 3.38 GAA).

NMU is led in scoring by Beattie (10-18-28), Hiller (9-16-25), Drake (8-11-19) and Beaufait (9-7-16). Corwin Saurdiff (5-1-0, 2.46) has won the starting goalie job.

Forrest to fight for world title

By JOE HALL
Sports Editor

NMU boxer Vernon Forrest, the United States champion at 139 pounds, will fight for the world championship Saturday night in Sydney, Australia.

Forrest will face Soviet boxer Konstantin Tzlu in an attempt to become the first American to win a world championship at 139 pounds.

Forrest, given no chance to advance this far at the beginning of the tournament, has stunned four opponents to greatly enhance his chances of making the Olympic Team.

Late last night (Australian time), Forrest beat the defending world champion, Candelario Duvergel of Cuba when the Cuban hit him with a low blow in the first round and was disqualified. The illegal blow laid Forrest out on the canvas and the judge from Belgium began to count him out. When the American coaches complained, a jury looked at a replay and gave Forrest the decision.

Forrest

"After he caught me, I wasn't in any condition to continue," Forrest said. "I was scared the judges hadn't seen it and I was scared they were going to take it away from me."

Tzlu is all that stands between Forrest and the world title. Tzlu is ranked No. 1 in the world.

"My coach at NMU (Al Mitchell) has been saying he was going to make me a world champion," Forrest said. "Now, I'm almost there."

In the quarterfinals Tuesday, Forrest, 20, took care of England's Peter Richardson by a 33-18 score.

Forrest established himself from the beginning of the bout with the jab. Using the right hand, Forrest built a 12-4 lead in the first round. He led 21-12 entering the final round and held on for the berth in the semifinals.

On Sunday, Forrest beat Nara Cjantrapon of Thailand, 22-6. Forrest delivered a standing eight count to the Thai.

Forrest's first round victory came over Michele Picirillo of Italy, 33-15, last Saturday.

Forrest earned a berth at the World Championships after Terronn Millcut of St. Louis was shot in the abdomen.

Football team whipped in finale

By JOE HALL
Sports Editor

The NMU football Wildcats ended the season the same way they began it: with a blowout loss.

The 'Cats concluded their worst season in more than a decade by losing to the Ashland Eagles 49-7 Saturday at the dome.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Eagles punished the Wildcats with big play after big play. AU scored three of its seven touchdowns on plays of 60 yards or more.

"All year long we've played good defense but not tied in our run and pass until tonight," Ashland Head Coach Fred Martinelli said. "Northern Michigan is young and they're hurt."

The Eagles, 9-2, avenged a 26-23 loss suffered to NMU last season. Despite the great record, Ashland was left out of the NCAA-II playoffs. Butler, the MIFC champ, got in as did Grand Valley State.

The Eagles took a 7-0 lead on a 67-yard pass from third string quarterback Todd DuFour to Bill

Myers in the second quarter.

Just before halftime, Tom Shiban (16 carries, 186 yards) ran one in from five yards out to make it 14-0.

Shiban's 94-yard TD run after an excellent Pat Modjeski punt made it 21-0 and things got out of hand.

NMU's only score came with 3:19 left in the game on a Modjeski run of one yard. Nelson Edmonds rushed 30 times for 114 yards, but that was about it for offense.

"I think we had success running the ball in the first half," Edmonds said. "We had a good game plan. We had to pass when we got behind, after they opened up on offense with long passes and long runs."

"They are one-dimensional," said Martinelli, who has coached Ashland for 33 years. "Their problem is they can't throw. They're young at quarterback. They ran effectively on us in the first half, but they ran until they wore down."

Nick Bink completed nine of 18 passes, but most of the passes were short passes on long yardage situations.

Swimmers whip North Dakota

By CHRIS IOTT
Staff Writer

The NMU swimmers ran their dual meet record to 3-0 after beating North Dakota 129-71 Friday and 143-58 Saturday.

The 'Cats were led by senior Kim Wilkins, who turned in a national qualifying performance in one-meter diving.

"Kim Wilkins looks very strong at this point of the season," said diving coach Joe Segrest. "She should have a good senior year, especially after qualifying so early for nationals."

Jenny Kleemann qualified in her third event this year, the 500 freestyle (5:06.37). Kleemann also turned in a qualifying time in the 100 backstroke (1:00.29), an event she qualified in last week against Grand Valley.

Another top performer for NMU was Tea Cerkenik, a freshman from Split, Yugoslavia, who took first in both the 50 and 100 freestyle on Friday and also the 100 freestyle on Saturday. Cerkenik is the top scorer for this year's team with 58.75 points.

While the swimmers have outscored their opponents 501-187 this year, their task will become tougher this weekend when they compete in the Minnesota Invitational.

"We will be facing our toughest competition of the year," said swimming head coach Anne Goodman James. "We will be facing Division I schools Nebraska and Minnesota, and our division II rival Florida-Atlantic, who finished ahead of us last year at nationals. We are looking forward to the competition."

The invitational will be held Friday through Sunday at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Volleyball team 24-7 after win at Tech

By KEVIN W. NYQUIST
Staff Writer

The 'Cats downed another GLIAC challenger last weekend to remain unbeaten in conference play.

The conference champion Wildcats travelled to Houghton to defend their perfect GLIAC slate against Michigan Tech.

With a 3-0 victory, NMU improved to 14-0 in the GLIAC and 24-7 overall. The team closes the regular season this weekend at Ferris State and Grand Valley State.

NMU defeated the Huskies in the first game 15-5, but nearly lost the second game of the match.

"Tech played well; they were hitting the ball well," NMU Head Coach Jim Moore said. "We had some problems passing in the second game and they jumped off to a 7-0 lead."

The Huskies took the Wildcats to a game point of 14-9, but could not put the 'Cats away.

"We started blocking them and fought back for the win," Moore said. NMU won the second game 16-14.

The 'Cats won the third game 15-5 to take the match.

Sophomore Andrea Gommans again topped the 'Cats with 11 kills. Junior Dawn Donaldson recorded 10 kills against MTU.

NMU broke two single season records as of the match against MTU. The Wildcats set team records in blocks (410) and digs (1,935).

Moore said that even though the 'Cats have clinched the GLIAC title, there is no room for a let-up. "We want to keep winning," he said.

1991-'92 Basketball Preview

Five seniors to lead 'Cats

Men's team optimistic it'll contend

By TONY JUDNICH
Associate Sports Editor
Senior leadership.

Those key words may prove to be the rallying call for the NMU men's basketball Wildcats for the 1991-'92 season. Sixth-year Head Coach Dean Ellis says that could be a major factor for the 'Cats to win the GLIAC title. "We have four players back that played a lot of minutes," Ellis said. "That will give us our biggest strengths—the experience and leadership our seniors should provide."

The Wildcats finished fourth in the GLIAC last season at 10-6, 17-12 overall. Last season was the first with a GLIAC tournament, and the 'Cats were one of the qualifiers. NMU lost to eventual winner Grand Valley State in the first round. This year, the 'Cats may win it all.

"We're very optimistic," Ellis said. "We feel that with the players we have returning, we should be right in the conference race."

"I think that we're one of the top teams to win it," Goheski said. "It's everyone's personal goal and the team goal to win it. We just have to come together as a team."

The team opens the season at home against Michigan-Dearborn Saturday at 3 p.m. in Hedgcock Fieldhouse (WGLQ-FM 97.1).

The four players with the most experience include seniors Don Goheski, Tim Gray, Dan Viitala, and junior Scott Spaanstra. NMU will be without five players who graduated last year: Doug Ingalls, Kevin Rice, Sherman Campbell, Ron Strassburger and Rich Ledy.

Ellis feels confident that this year's team can get the job done, picking

Tough training for 'tough' GLIAC

Lady 'Cats hope to return to NCAA's

By KEVIN WEED
Senior Reporter

After finishing one of the most successful Lady Wildcat basketball seasons ever, which saw the team advance to the NCAA-II playoff round of 16, what did coach Mike Geary do to reward his team this year?

He turned the preseason training regimen over to second-year assistant coach Jeanette Yeoman, much to the dismay of the Lady 'Cats.

"Let me tell you this," senior Deanna Sutton said, "the conditioning was so hard we called her Hitler during preseason."

The more extensive training program—which included distance and interval running, agility skills and weight training—may not have been to the players' liking, but Geary was quite pleased with the results.

"Jeanette did a great job in carrying out the workouts," Geary said. "The girls had a tough time with the program, but it is the type of training we need to play our style of basketball."

The Wildcats will once again play with the up-tempo offense and the pressure defense which last season saw them average 79.5 ppg while allowing only 68.

The 'Cats finished with a 22-9 overall record, and finished third in the GLIAC conference with an 11-5 record.

With the loss of post players Lisa Jamula and Jenifer Okon to graduation, the 'Cats return three experienced starters and a deep bench.

"We cannot replace two players who were both three-year starters," Geary said of Jamula and Okon. "Instead we will concentrate on having a stronger perimeter game, and an overall balance on offense."

Sutton, a 6-1 center, junior guard Nichole Leibold, 5'5", and sophomore guard Amy Boynton, 5'8", will lead this balanced attack.

Sutton, last year's GLIAC tournament MVP, will provide scoring and rebounding inside, while the Wildcat perimeter will be lined with 3-point sharpshooters.

"Nikki came on strong at the end of last year and really established herself as a scoring threat in the second half of the season," Geary said.

Boynton, the winner of the Wildcat Newcomer Award, will be back to fire

Viitala is ready to pick up where he left off

By CHRIS IOTT
Staff Writer

Northern Michigan may be the only college basketball team in the country with a professional baseball player at shooting guard.

Dan Viitala, who returns to the Wildcat basketball team after playing instructional league baseball in Dunedin, Fla., for the Toronto Blue Jays' organization, is expected to play an important role in Northern's upcoming basketball season.

Viitala was the 1987 Class A-B-C Upper Peninsula player of the year in basketball at Gwinn High School, a school that doesn't field a baseball team.

So how does a person who claims he hasn't played baseball since the fourth grade get noticed by professional baseball scouts?

"It was really weird," Viitala said.

Viitala said that he and Don Wernholm, the strength coach for the basketball team, had "screwed around a little" with a baseball and that Wernholm's brother happened to be an assistant scout with the Blue Jays.

Wernholm told his brother about Dan, who then was invited for an individual tryout in Concordia, Mich.

The rest, as they say, is history. So why is he back now?

"I always knew I was going to finish my last year of basketball, I just didn't know when," Viitala said.

Viitala said it's just like going to school a long way from home and that he really missed his teammates, some of whom have been his friends "forever." He also said he owed it to Head Coach Dean Ellis and coach Troy Mattson for his return since they've always been so good to him.

"He's an excellent athlete and a great basketball player," Ellis said. "He's in great shape physically right now. He's more mature and committed mentally also. I look for him to be a major factor for us."

Viitala, a 6-foot-3 guard for the Wildcats, averaged 20 points per game as a junior in 1989-90 before being sidelined for the season with a stress fracture in his foot. He also led the team in steals before the injury and was 24 for 52 from the three-point line.

In 1988-'89, his sophomore season, Viitala averaged 17.1 points and led the team in steals, three-point baskets, and field goals made.

"He's a good guy and a good friend," said senior center Don Goheski, who lives with Viitala. "He's real confident with himself."

"Dan is real good in the open court," said Ellis. "He gives us an added dimension that maybe we didn't have last year."

Viitala showed the "added dimension" by scoring 25 points in the Midnight Madness intrasquad game held at midnight on Oct. 15.

What are Viitala's goals for the team this year?

"I want to win and win big," said Viitala. "I want the team to win 21 or 22 games and to win the GLIAC." Viitala added that he's never been on a team with a real good winning record and that he wants this year to be the one.

What about the rumor that Viitala has re-injured his foot and won't be playing this season?

"He's had some problems but he's fine," Ellis said.

"It's giving me a little problem," said Viitala, "but I'm so ready to play it wouldn't matter if I broke my leg in half."

'Cats led by veteran guards

NMU, Grand Valley State, and Ferris State as the top three teams in the GLIAC.

Goheski and Gray are the most experienced 'Cats, as both are three-year starters. Goheski, a 6-8 center, was a first-team All-GLIAC selection, and was also the Wildcat MVP last season, leading Northern with 15.9 points per game and 6.9 rebounds per game. He is currently nursing a sore knee he suffered in the preseason. After undergoing arthroscopic surgery, Goheski is ready to take it one day at a time.

"It feels pretty good," Goheski said. "I'm just waiting for the test results" to see if he'll be ready for Saturday's opener.

Gray has the big forward position secure. At 6-8, Gray proved his consistency game in and game out, playing in all 29 games. He averaged 7.4 points and 4.3 rebounds.

Another "big guy" who should see a lot of playing time for the 'Cats this season is 6-9 senior Mike Nelson. He averaged 3.0 ppg. and 1.8 rebounds off the bench last year. Erik Smith (6-8) could also see action.

"We've got a strong inside game," Ellis noted. "We'll utilize them."

Ellis may be concerned about the small forward position. Sophomore Kyle David, redshirt freshman Matt Wonders, and freshman James Williams will battle for that position. Wonders has impressed Ellis and will get the nod as a starter in the 'Cats' first game Saturday at Hedgcock Fieldhouse versus U of M-Dearborn.

"He's a freshman, but we're going to see how he responds to game situations," Ellis said.

A strong contribution is expected from returning senior Dan Viitala. Last year, Viitala played for the Dunedin Blue Jays, a minor league affiliate of the Toronto Blue Jays. The 6-3 guard scored 20 ppg. in 1989-90 before being injured with a stress fracture in his foot.

"Dan is good in the open court," Ellis said. "He gives us an added dimension that we didn't have last year. I look for him to be a major factor for us."

Spaanstra will be Viitala's backcourt sidekick, running the point guard position. The steady 6-0 guard scored 10.4 ppg. and was one of the top free throw shooters in the nation last season. Spaanstra looks forward to playing the point position.

"I played it in high school and last year for a few games after Doug Ingalls got injured," Spaanstra said. "Actually, I'd rather play there" instead of shooting guard.

Competing for the backup guard spot is redshirted freshman Brandon Sager and freshmen David Porter and Jason Kanczewski.

"I think we'll be more up-tempo than we've been in the past with Viitala back, and the people we have at the small forward spot can run the court," Ellis said. "We're going to run a little more, but we're not going to run so much that we take Goheski or Gray out of the game."

NMU recruited five players over the summer. These include Williams, Porter, center Alex Koers, forward Andy Brawner, and center Mike Gibala. Ellis likes the height of this year's class.

"The biggest positive from our recruiting class was bringing in three 6-7 to 6-9 players that will be major factors in our program, possibly this year, and definitely down the road."

So now it's time for the real thing.

The first game for Northern is only two days away. What do the 'Cats know about their first opponent, the Wolves?

"They re-started their program two years ago, so they're in transition," Ellis said. "They've played two games and struggled. We know that they play a deliberate offense, playing four corners."

The Wolves already have two games under their belts, and own an 0-2 record in early-season action.

Tip-off Saturday is set for 3 P.M.

Ten non-league games highlight schedule

The NMU men's basketball team will face ten foes outside of the GLIAC conference this season. Wildcat Head Coach Dean Ellis thinks these games will be a good experience for his squad.

"We'd like to see a number of players early, and get ready for a tough conference schedule," Ellis said.

Northern plays seven non-league foes in a row before facing the Chargers of Hillsdale College.

"We'll have to play tough in our non-conference games and then get ready for our league games," senior center Don Goheski said.

Michigan-Dearborn (Northern's first opponent, Saturday), Lewis, Ill., Milwaukee School of Engineering, and Cleveland State are teams that the Wildcats will face for the first time ever. Cleveland State is the only NCAA-I team on the NMU schedule.

"Cleveland State is a solid Division I program and Lewis University is one of the perennial tough teams in Division II," Ellis said. "We play them both on the same road trip, which should be an exciting challenge for us."

Sutton: more than just basketball star

By KEVIN WEED
Senior Reporter

When you are a 6-1 girl growing up in a small town in the U.P., people will often notice you for your physical presence.

But what is most striking about Wildcat cager Deanna Sutton isn't her height, but her energetic smile and her engaging personality. Simply put, the senior from Dafer, Mich., loves to be with people.

"I like to be with my friends both on the team as well as those not affiliated with sports at all," said Sutton. "Living basketball every day can get old and it's great to talk with someone who knows absolutely nothing about basketball and doesn't want know to either."

For Wildcat fans, it is hard not to talk basketball when speaking about Sutton. She set an NMU record for rebounds in a season last year with 309 in 31 games. She was a second-team All-GLIAC selection and was named MVP of the inaugural GLIAC post-season tournament after helping the 'Cats to the championship.

Impressive stats for a player who had to sit out a year after transferring from Lake Superior State.

"The year off actually helped my play, because I learned a lot about how to play the game while sitting on the bench and listening to Coach ('Cats head coach Mike Geary)," said Sutton. "I picked up on things that I couldn't have seen from being on the court."

"I knew Deanna could come in last year and play to her ability," said Geary, who coached Sutton at LSSU before he came to Northern in the fall of 1988. "She has the skills to dominate a basketball game."

However, the year off was a big personal transition for the Rudyard High grad, as she lived away from the Sault Ste. Marie area for the first time.

"That was the hardest part about leaving Lake State," she said. "It was nice having my family and friends there when I played, but I needed the change."

And while there were times early on when Sutton had second thoughts about the move, she now calls Marquette her home.

In fact, Sutton likes her new home so much, that she hopes to use the psychology degree she will receive next summer to work in the psych ward at Marquette General Hospital. It is a hope that is strengthened by two goals very special to Deanna.

"I love working with the Special Olympics and I'd like to eventually use the knowledge and experience I could gain at MGH to do that," said Sutton. "Also, many of my friends are staying in Marquette after graduation, and I'd like to stay around them too."

As for the upcoming season (which starts Saturday at home against UW-Parkside), Sutton is the only senior and is the sole returning post player thanks to the graduations of Jennifer Okon and Lisa Jamula.

With the loss of these two players (both three-year starters), it would seem obvious that Sutton will have to step up and be the team's go-to player and leader. But not according to Sutton.

"I hope my role doesn't have to change that much from last year," said Sutton. "I want to contribute to the team effort and hopefully we can go as far or farther than we did last year."

"Luckily, we have a team that helps each other, and with players like Nikki (Leibold) and Michelle Van Zee, there will be a lot of leaders on the floor. We have 12 unique personalities that have come together, not just as basketball players, but as good friends."

That seems to be the way Deanna likes things best.

Lady 'Cats ready for GLIAC

away from outside just as she did last year in setting a conference record for 3-point shots attempted and made.

The team will also look for help in juniors Michelle VanZee at guard and Charlotte Broersma at forward, and sophomore guards Leann Hudson and Michele Shingola.

"Michelle VanZee has been playing excellent so far," said Yeoman, "and we expect her to contribute as both a scorer and a leader."

"Leann has been hurting with a sprained ankle, but we hope she will help us out at the point."

Geary and Yeoman are also looking to some newcomers to contribute as well.

Junior transfer Julie Heldt, a 5-10 forward from Lake Michigan Community College, and 6-3 freshman center Shelly Havard, from Cadillac, Mich., should both see action in the post this season.

"Julie goes strong to the hoop," said Geary, adding that she scored 27 points in the team's intrasquad scrimmage.

"Shelly has practiced well and will get minutes depending on the situation," Geary said. "She does positive things in practice and has the ability to score inside."

The Lady 'Cats were picked to finish third in the GLIAC preseason coaches' poll behind defending regular season champion Michigan Tech and Oakland University.

"I think the league is going to be very competitive this year," Geary said. "We will have to be ready to play every game in the conference. There won't be any 'easy wins.'"

The team opens its season this Saturday at home against Wisconsin-Parkside in the Hedgcock Fieldhouse at 1 p.m.

Northern holds the series edge over the Rangers, 6-1, and took two easy victories the last time the teams met in the 1989-90 season.

"Parkside is always a capable team, and in the past have fielded some good teams," Geary said. "But we are more concerned with how we play than about what they will throw at us."

Parkside finished last season at 14-12 as an NAIA independent.

The Rangers are known for pushing the ball up court much like the Wildcats now do. However this year, head coach Wendy Miller's team simply doesn't have the horses.

"We have five sophomores and four freshmen on the team so we will be inexperienced and more apt to set up and pass the ball instead of trying to run with (Northern)."

The Lady 'Cats will square off Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 against Silver Lake College and Minnesota-Duluth University.

Both games will be played in the Hedgcock Fieldhouse. Tip-off is at 1 p.m.

QUIT TIPS

Hide all ashtrays, matches, etc.
Lay in a supply of sugarless gum, carrot sticks, etc.
Drink lots of liquids, but pass up coffee & alcohol.
Tell everyone you're quitting for the day.
When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath, hold it for 10 seconds, & release it slowly.
Exercise to relieve the tension.
Try the "buddy system," and ask a friend to quit too.

LEAVE THE PACK BEHIND

Join the Great American Smokeout on the third Thursday of November. Millions of smokers across the country will take a break and try not to smoke for 24 hours. How about you? Or, if you don't smoke, adopt a smoker for the day and promise to help that friend get through the day without a cigarette!
