THE CAREER OF LIPTON.

His Life.

UPS AND DOWNS OF A KNIGHT, for the poor at the least price.

His First Week's Salary Was $1, and the Earning of It He Recalis as His Greatest Happiness-Money For His First Business Venture Earned In America.

The Philadelphia North American publishes an interview obtained by its correspondent with Sir Thomas Lipton. in which the Irish baronet tells the story of his life, origin and business success. This is the story as told in his own words:

I was born in 1851, the year that saw the birth of the America's cup, and my birthplace was Glasgow, Scotland. My father and mother had come there some years before from the north of Ireland, and my father had started as a dealer in provisions in a small way. I was one of three children, but my brother and sister never reached adult age, dying when quite young.

Up to the age of 14 I attended school. and when I was old enough I helped my father at odd hours. Then I wanted to do something for the family and induced my parents to allow me to leave school and become a messenger for another shopkeeper.

I do not know and I cannot conceive Furniture Scales, etc., for sale cheap. of any greater happiness than I experienced at the end of my first week's work. My hours were long and my work hard for so young a chap, but all that was forgotten when my master handed me $1 as my week's work. I ran with it home and gave it to my mother.

> I came to America at the age of 18, and I was a steerage passenger. I had a very little money-only enough to get me across and then to take me to Charleston, S. C. There in looking about me for an opportunity for work I heard of the ricefields, and after a time I secured a position with the owner of one of them.

I was not a laborer, as has been stated, but more of an accountant and later an assistant manager. I worked hard. and after several years, when nearing my majority, I returned home with money in my pocket sufficient to engage in the provision business, as my Cooke said: ther had done before. Of course, my first venture was in Glasgow, where my parents had resided, and it was a very small venture, I assure you. I had made up my mind that the one thing necessary to commercial success was to first attract attention and then give satisfaction. I knew that once I do? had a customer I could keep him by honest dealing, and the problem was therefore to get him. I tried hundreds of schemes. One of these was by placing cleverly drawn cartoons in my windows touching upon popular events of a humorous character.

We went to Chicago because it was seen that the lake city was more of a center for cattle and hogs than Omaha. > According to M. Dusolier, the speed of the shepherd dogs and those used in hunting ranges from 10 to 15 yards a second. English setters and pointers hunt at the rate of 18 to 19 miles an hour, and they can maintain this speed for at least two hours. Foxhounds are extraordinarily swift, as is proved by the fact that a dog of this breed once beat a thoroughbred horse, covering four miles in 61/2 minutes, which was at the rate of nearly 18 yards a second. Greyhounds are the swiftest of all four footed creatures, and their speed may be regarded as equal to that of carrier pigeons. English greyhounds, which are carefully selected and which are used for coursing, are able to cover at full gallop a space between 18 and 23 yards every second. How great an achievement this is may be judged from the fact that a thoroughbred horse rarely if ever exceeds 19 yards. Moreover, it is said that a hare at its greatest speed never goes faster than at the rate of 18 yards. These interesting statistics are exciting much comment among sportsmen and other lovers of dogs, and the opinion is unanimous that M. Dusolier has fully proved the right of the greyhound to rank as the swiftest of the quadrupeds. Express engines only surpass them.-London Mail.

SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS.

GLADSTONE, MICH.

One of these, I recollect now, was a picture representing two men, one very stout and the other very thin. The lean man had a legend, "I am going to Lipton's." The stout man was supposed to be saying, "I am just coming from Lipton's."

When success began to come, I hit upon another thing. That was buying without the assistance of a middleman. Business increased so that in a few years I was able to open a second place in another part of Glasgow. This was again a small provision shop, and in it I installed a man.

With three shops going successfully and my business reaching out, I turned my eyes to another city of Scotland, and in a half dozen years Lipton shops were beginning to spring up not alone there, but in England as well.

The English are tea drinkers, as every one knows, and at that time tea drinking was prevented from becoming universal because of the expense.

It was then that Ceylon tea suggested itself to me. .I considered that superior in many respects to China tea, and I do so now. But at that time the business was so poorly managed that there was little or none of it in the English markets, and that only of an inferior grade.

I studied the subject and came to the conclusion that the best way out of it was for me to acquire tea plantations of my own. I therefore made a voyage to Ceylon to carry out this purpose. I simply bought a ticket to Australia, and when the steamship reached Colombo I went ashore and forgot to come back. I worked very quietly and before many days had acquired quite an estate in the country. My American interests were acquired for the same reason as the tea plantations-the desire to have only one step to the consumer. It was in 1887, as I remember, that I saw that I would have to get my own meats. I therefore came to this country and went west.

After investigation I determined to go into the pork packing business in South Omaha, and soon the Lipton ork packing establishment was an assured fact. It could not compare in size with the great establishments of the Swifts, Armours, Hammonds and others, but it employed a number of men and around it grew a very prosperous little community, which now is a city of itself.

"Well, in cases of that kind it is given to a man to use common sense instead of conscience. [Laughter and applause.] That old scheme of conscience has about worked itself out.

SPAIN'S FUTURE BRIGHT.

Traveler In That Country Sees Evidence of Progress.

Henry W. Raymond, a Chicago manufacturer now in Washington, says a dispatch to the Philadelphia Times, speaks in high terms of the enterprise which he observed in many parts of Spain, where he made an extensive tour on matters of business. He says it is a great fallacy to believe the nation dead or even decadent. Madrid. Seville, Barcelona and other large cities he found thoroughly up to date. He says the country is rich in material and agricultural resources, and the people, shorn of colonial burdens, are beginning to develop internal sources of wealth, responding to the summons of the twentieth century activity. "Spaniards struck me," said Mr. Raymond, "as being most virile as a people. They inherit noble traditions of art and literature, which beget healthy intellectual conditions. A fresh impetus actuates them in business as well as in drama, art and fiction. #### Eskimo Time Tables.

Wet -

"How do the Eskimos tell time?" was the inquiry made the other night of a most grotesque of these is when one man who has had considerable experience in north Greenland in connection and tightly clasps another man's body with the Peary expeditions. He had just been telling something about the long arctic "day," with the sun circling round and round a short distance above the horizon, and the question was a natural one.

"They have two different methods," he replied "according to the interval of time involved. For instance, if you are about to start on a journey and ask an Eskimo how long it will take he will tell you 'three sleeps' or 'four sleeps,' corresponding to the number of days the trip will take, but he knows nothing about a day, only that every so often he has to stop to sleep. And, fortunately, the Eskimo finds it convenient to sleep about once in 24 hours, so that his 'sleep' means practically a day.

"On the other hand. I remember seeing Peary dispatching an Eskimo one morning with a message to a nearby settlement, and the explorer kept pointing to the sun, which at the time stood immediately above a rocky eminence across the bay. I wondered what it was all about and asked Peary.

"'I want that fellow to be back here tomorrow at this time,' he replied, 'and the only way to tell him is to call his attention to the position of the sun. He knows that he is to return when the sun has got around to that point again.' "Sure enough, the next morning when the sun had circled the horizon and was again above the point of rock the Eskimo could be seen coming across the bay in his kayak."

New Fattening Fad.

A lady who was recently so ill of nervous dyspepsia as to be in bed and so thin that she gave up all hope of ever getting fat secured a new doctor. who used her for an experiment in diet. He placed her upon a strict regimen of bananas, nothing else.

The result was marvelous. She grew to really like them when prepared by baking and served with sugar and cream or cold in the form of delicate jelly. She also had banana fritters and biscuit made of banana flour. Daily she grew more plump and rosy, and now she is well and expects to stay.

Bananas contain starch in its most easily assimilated form. Homeopathic doctors have for some years called this tropical plant unwholesome, but it is only indigestible when unripe. As most green state, cooking is necessary to develop their valuable nutritive qualities.

The delicious large red banana from Cuba is the most acceptable one, but now very scarce. The cheapness of this treatment for weak nerves and poor nutrition is very expensive. The happy woman who tried the fad is telling all her thin friends about it and assuring them that it really is great.

Combination Diving.

The Swedes delight in "combination diving," and two men will perform many clever feats together. One of the man stands upright on the springboard round the waist, holding him head downward and putting his own head through the man's legs. When the upright man springs from the board, he throws his legs into the air so that the two men, clasping the other tightly round the waist, turn a somersault, and when they reach the water the man who started upside down arrives feet foremost.

The handspring dive is a very effect ive specialty of Swedish swimmers The performer takes off from the diving board with hands instead of feet, turning his body in order to descend feet foremost or somersaulting to arrive head downward. Very graceful also is the back dive, in which the spring is made backward, the body turning toward the springboard. Double somersault dives are made from platforms 30 or 50 feet high, the diver making two turns in the air and entering the water feet foremost.-Peterson's Magazine.

ANOTHER ROAD PLAN.

Everything relating to street making is of especial interest in Gladstone and The Delta reproduces this article from the Minneapolis Tribune, since it may contain ideas adapted to our city.

In connection with the call for the international good roads conference at Buffalo, on the 16th inst., Martin Dodge, director of road inquiries, of the agricultural department at Washington, is sending out a report upon the brick track road laid between the government agricultural department building and Twelfth street at the Pan-American exhibition. He says the indications are that this system of roads has many advantages over methods heretofore employed.

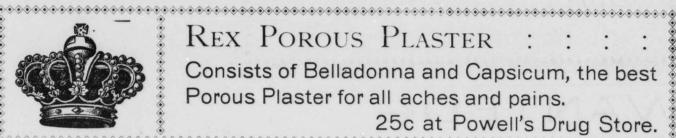

The system consists of the construction of brick wheel tracks in the roadway, in which the wheels of vehicles run, greatly reducing the power required for propulsion. It is claimed that they are adapted alike to country roads and city residence streets, and can be constructed at a cost of lessthan 50 cents structed at a cost of less than 50 cents per foot. The tracks are so nearly smooth that a greater load can be hauled on them with less power than on any other form of road or street pavement, outside of steel rails, while the horse has Calves, sheep and hogs, etc., have been carried off, and although numerous attempts have been made to capture the animals they have managed to escape. Mr. Obediah Barber, who has probably killed more bears, panthers and the like in his time than any other living man in that section, took a bear's liver and after treating it to an injection of strychnine left it in a spot where the animals had been gence or carelessness on their part. If seen. A day or two later some of his boys went out to look after the hogs, and they found near the bait put out the dead carcass of a monster panther. The animal was about three feet high and measured over seven feet from the point of its nose to the tip of its tail. Its weight, according to Mr. Barber, was 150 pounds. The mate of this one is still at large. It has been some years since we have had positive knowledge of the existence of panthers in the Okefinokee.-Macon Telegraph.

Germans With an Irish Brogue. Of late years many German boys go to Ireland to learn the language and acquire at the same time the Irish middle class opinion of England, which they cherish and propagate on their return to their native land. Perhaps that is one of the sources of German dislike for the Englishman. Another thing that the German boy acquires in Ireland is a rich and varied brogue, and one of the most amusing things one hears in Germany is the waiter who speaks German-Irish English. A music hall comedian who could adequately imitate this combination as I have frequently heard it would certainly make his fortune. Next to this in ludicrousness is the cockney English of many porters and waiters, learned, I have no doubt, within the sound of Bow bells .--Outlook.

He sent them to the hospital. and they were soon released.

MASONIC

The Best Far Short of the Ideal. Chips From the Temple.

Masonry offers a grand opportunity and imposes a solemn responsibility. About its altars and every step through its impressive teaching its influences are uplifting and educate the moral nature. Genius has never given to the poet's pen or the artist's brush or to eloquence the power to portray the grandeur of Masonry and of the mission of Masonry, and the Mason who does not realize that fact or the fact that, do the best we may, we shall come far short of the ideal of Masonry ought not to be satisfied either with himself or the record his lodge has made.-E. F. Lamb.

There are 38 chapters of Royal Arch Masons in New Jersey, with a combined membership of 3,559.

Freemasonry existed at Florence, Italy, as early as 1733, and the first lodge established in Spain was in 1726. Masonic lodges first existed in Portugal in 1727 and in Turkey in 1738.

Freemasonry is not a religion or a sect, never claimed to be and never will be, but its universal creed, known to all the world, of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man cannot fail to appeal to the heart of every true man of every sect. - Masonic Standard.

It costs but little effort in a lodge or chapter to make visitors feel at home. A kindly greeting does the work.

The grand lodge of England in 1721 constituted the lodge of Perfect Union at Mous, Belgium. In Holland there was a lodge started at The Hague in 1731.

Masonry without charity is like a "straw ride" without straw-calculated to "jar" those who put their trust in it. The Illinois Freemason says that many lodgerooms in that state are being equipped with electric fans and that the improvement "has proved conducive to an increased attendance."

In 1749 Freemasonry was instituted in Bohemia by the grand lodge of Scotland, and in 1737 the grand lodge of England introduced it into Switzerland.

Your lodge meetings will become attractive if the business of the evening is carried through with dispatch. Some idea of the proportions the Modern Woodmen society has attained during the past few years may be gathered from the fact that the biennial reports of the head officers of the society recently issued required six carloads of paper to complete.

The society does not pay its state and district deputies a salary, their compensation being based upon the work they accomplish.

The death rate of the Modern Woodmen society for the month of April is reported to have been the lightest so far this year. The number of deaths was 288, calling for $249,500 insurance. The practice of the Modern Woodmen society to publish in detail every transaction connected with the management of its affairs and the expenditure of its funds is to be commended. The Massachusetts grand lodge will be called in extra session probably in September to adopt the classified assessment system. At the regular session in April a large majority voted for it, but not the three-fourths requisite to amend the law. Since that time representatives who voted against it have changed their views and now desire an opportunity to vote for it. It is likely, therefore, that before the 1st of October the jurisdiction of Massachusetts will be on the classified plan.

By the sighing of the trees, By the dropping of the leaves, By the garners full of grain, By the stubble on the plain, By the harvest gather'd all, We note the coming of the fall.

By the aspect growing drear, By the grasses turning sere, By the flowers that droop and fade, By Old Sol less bright array'd, the air in hut and hall We note the coming of the fall.

By the birds that southward fly. By the brook that hurries by, By the threatening whippoorwill, nding note that bodeth ill, By the quail's familiar call We note the coming of the fall.

By the goldenrod alight, By the sumac red and bright, By the cardinals ablow, By the lilies lying low, By the reeds now rank and tall We note the coming of the fall.

By fair summer's requiem sung, By Dame Nature's plaintive tongue, By the sobbing of the rain, our hearts that join the strain, By the joys we would recall We note the coming of the fall.

MR. BUSINESS MAN :

We want to have a short business conference with you. To begin with the amount of business you and the neighbors do is not what it should be when you consider the amount of the wages earned in this city.

Do you know the reason?

We know what is out of joint; you ought to if you study business conditions sufficiently to properly conduct your own business.

Here it is for you:

You haven't the sand to losen up a dollar or two a week to tell the laboring man what you have to sell and what you will sell it to him for. The business men of Chicago and Minneapolis have and you know it, and you also know the value of their advertising because you kick and whine whenever you see any of it. A live business man in a neighboring town can put in a stock of cheap tinware, calico and clothing, advertise it and scare you to death, but you wouldn't tumble.
