ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

It appears probable that the Kipling furnace of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company will be moved to Munising. The fact that the company has a hundred and fifty miles of railroad traversing its property and terminating at Munising, makes it appear profitable to the management to concentrate its interests. It will be a great loss to Gladstone, though for some time but little has been done; the closing of the furnace in April and the reduction of its working force cut the payroll very low and its influence has been felt but little this year. But it was hoped that another year would see the plant here extended and operated with vigor, so this latest determination of Mr. Mather must cause great disappointment to all Gladstone. The conseover. quences of this move will be felt in many directions, for the furnace was the most important of the local indus-

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—Maj.-Gen. Corbin, after casting a sort of bomb-like order into army officers' ranks by recommending that no one with the regulars' stripes shall wed unless his income is sufficient in the eyes of the war department to support a family, says:

Ident to support a family, says: If it were possible to absolutely stop the manufacture and use of intoxicating drinks and to prevent its use in the military serv-ice. I would do so: but, realizing that the impossible must give way to what is pos-sible and practicable. I am firmly of the opinion that it would be in the interest of discipline to re-establish the canteen feature of the post exchange.

Belgrade, Servia, Sept. 21 .- Peter Karageorgevitch was crowned King of Servia today. There were no hostile demonstrations and no attempt to carry out the numerous threats against the new King's life.

Murder Is Forgotten.

In the solemn ritual of the Greek church and in the elaborate state pro-cession which preceded and followed the coronation, the tragedy of Servia's vious ruler found no echo. Amid the thunder of the saluting guns from the royal palace and the garrison, King Alexander's murder was, at least outwardly, forgotten.

King Starts Early.

Here and in every garrison town of Servia the dawn of day was marked by a salute of twenty-one guns and before the sun was well up King Peter, on horseback, rode out from the palace. The brilliant procession then started for the cathedral through the troop-lined streets. Behind the soldiers were packed dense crowds, who, in spite of the rainy weather, stood patiently awaiting to see the King.

Royal Procession.

The royal heralds cavalry and life guards (the heralds bearing the roya) standards) and carriages with the Mon tenegrin and Servian princesses, preced-ed the monarch. Beside King Peter rode his two sons, George and Alex-ander. The cathedral was reached shortly after 8 o'clock. There the representa-tives of the foreign powers, the cabinet

It is generally thought that Field Marshal Oyama will continue pressing Kuropatkin back until the winter falls Now all papers connected with the and will then strongly guard his advance line until spring. The Japanese carried on an aggressive campaign against the Chinese during the winter, but conditions are different in this war.

At Port Arthur.

A renewal of the attack upon Port Arthus on newer and more aggressive lines is expected this week and it is predicted in well informed quarters that the reduction of that fortress will be accom-plished within ten days or a fortnight. The authorities continue silent concern-ing operations there. The publication of a small list of casualties in the naval brigade operating on land is the only recent official utterance in reference to the siege.

stitute was admirably stated by Pres- passed a week on the Exposition ident W. C. Latta at the late meeting grounds, and much of the time was of the International Institute association. In part he said: "The farmers' institute should be something more than a means of making agriculture more profitable. It should be the means of uplifting the people morally and socially. To tell them how to earn a dollar is a good thing, but to instruct in the wise use of the dollar when earned is better. The institute should be the means of forever banishing the farmer's low estimate of himself and his calling and be made the means of ridding farmers of the petty jealousies and suspicions which prevent them from intelligently co-operating for mutual protection and advancement." It would be difficult to say more in the same amount of space. Probably the most important item is to get farmers to respect themselves and their work. This will come with a better knowledge of agriculture's place in the world's economic structure and the practice of the best agricultural methods. Doing anything well with accompanying success breeds self respect. A broad gauge, successful farmer certainly has just cause to be proud of his vocation .--American Agriculturist.

Jerseys at the World's Fair Are Expected to Show That They Are Superior to All Other Breeds.

When it is known that this herd is to compete with selected herds of Holsteins, Shorthorns, Brown Swiss and Devons, and the herd making the best score for the production of butter, milk and cheese is to establish the standing of the various breeds, the importance of the cows being in perfect condition may be understood.

For a solid year the Jerseys have been in constant training. Twentyfive cows will participate in the contest. Cows were selected from the best herds in the United States.

Dr. J. J. Richardson, president of the American Jersey Cattle Club, under whose auspices this entry is made, toured Europe and visited the famed Isle of Jersey, where the breed originated. He was seeking the best cows, but returned satisfied that Europe could show no cows that were better than those bred in America. Though only twenty-five cows will participate in the test, forty cows were selected. They were assembled at Jerseyville, Ill., a year ago. This is near St. Louis, and the cattle have become acclimated. Last December they were removed to St. Louis. The cows are the property of individual members of the club and are loaned for the term of the test. C. T. Graves, a breeder at Maitland, Mo., was selected as the superintendent to have charge of the cattle, and he has been highly complimented by Dr. Richardson and Inspector Spann for the wonderfully fine condition in which he has placed the herd. A series of model dairy barns have been built for the breeds competing in the test. The barns are octagonal in form, and are so arranged that the cows are in the center and a wide promenade permits visitors to pass around and view the cows as they

9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9×9× Mrs. Van Vorst's By SARAH Lace COMSTOCK Handkerchief ...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure ...

"This is the man," said Mrs. Van Vorst.

She laid on the table the pretty silver police whistle with the satisfaction of having used it to good purpose. Then she stood back complacently to view the result.

A strange group was gathered in her dainty dressing room. In the midst of its gilt and whiteness and laciness, its filmy curtains and tinted satin upholsteries, stood two burly policemen gripping her butler. Three frightened maids huddled in the doorway, too much terrified to come in and too curious to go.

"So ye found him tinkerin' with a ful treatment lavished on animals. No drawer, did ye, mum?" asked one of

"I found the drawer open, and he was speed, skill and endurance than has just putting the lace handkerchief into his pocket," replied Mrs. Van Vorst, indicating an open drawer of the dresser with a sweeping oratorical gesture, for she had a keen liking for the dramatic, and this situation appealed to her. She was no coward, and there was something delightful in having entered her room to find a burglar, even though her own familiar butler. there before her. Perhaps the affair was more pleasing in that he had been such an oddly mild and obliging burglar. "I came to my room only a short time ago," she went on, "and as I entered the door I heard the sound of a soft step. I thought that Fifine had come in before me. Strangely enough. I did not even glance up at first, but stopped there by the door to arrange do you?" those orchids. While I was bending above them a voice spoke. Imagine my start when I heard a man's voice saying, 'I have stolen your handkerchief.' I repressed a scream and looked up to recognize in this creature the man whom I have lately employed as my servant."

The man stood quietly before her while she went on with her story. The policemen kept a wary eye upon him, but relaxed their grip as they saw his submission.

"What came next on the programme, mum?" the officer pursued. "I cried 'Base wretch!' and seized the whistle that summoned you. He calmly as if waiting to be arrested." "And, faith, what did he do with the Did ye think ye'd wait for an umbrella before venturin' forth in the inclemency?"

It was an astonishment to every one who knew him when it was told that he had been stealing. He had been known to the police for a long time as a toper, but no one dreamed that he had any vice more serious than a love for the bottle. He had paid the penalty of being found drunk a number of times and was known to the force as a thoroughly good fellow when sober. Judge Marvin had given him a long sentence the last time, hoping to work reform, and he had endeared himself to everybody about the jail, where he was intrusted with the care of the flower beds.

The formalities of another sentence passed quickly. Page was strangely cheerful about it all. Judge Marvin reprimanded him severely, all the time feeling that his words made no impression, for the man seemed well content with his lot. And yet he was not in need of shelter, as are some who seek arrest. He was entirely sober, and investigation proved that he had given up a well paid position for a petty offense, the theft of an article that must have been useless to him. The jail doors creaked to admit him once more. He settled down cozily in his quarters, affably friendly to some of his old time comrades.

Days slipped by, and a restlessness came over him, although he was the same orderly prisoner as ever. At last he approached the jailer:

"Why don't you give me my old job. sir?" he asked anxiously. "Oh, you had the flower beds, didn't you? That's so. Want them again,

"Oh, please, sir," Page replied, his face as eager as a child's.

Next day found him out in the sunshine, shears and trowel in hand.

The flower beds surrounded the next building, which was the woman's section of the jail. Page approached his work nervously and went about trimming the roses in a preoccupied manner. At every sound he started.

A light step came up the walk. Page jumped to his feet as he recognized the sound of it.

"Polly!" he cried and seized a girl's hands in his.

Joy and sorrow mingled in her face. "Oh, Bill, you're back after you swore made no reply to me, but sat down to me you'd never drink again!" she cried.

> "I haven't touched a drop, Polly," he answered, and his words rang true. "It was for stealin'!" he cried joyfully. "Stealing!" she gasped in horror.

fore the busy season begins. Take the harness warm water and soap. It is important that the harness be clean before applying the oil. After washing let the harness dry. This can be hastened by rubbing with a dry cloth; then apply the oil while the leather is soft, but in the open air until the oil is ab-

Old, neglected harnesses that are dry and hard had better not be oiled. The fibers of the leather have lost their tenacity, and oil will not restore it.

Oil does not add to the strength of leather. It merely softens and keeps it from cracking. It is a preventive of decay, not a restorer. A well oiled and repaired harness will last as long again as a neglected one.-I. A. Leonard in American Cultivator.

Harmonious Action.

The lack of unanimity among farmers on matters of legislation is one of their weakest points. Many a delegation of farmers has gone before a legislative committee to state its wants and come away without accomplishing anything because the members differed among themselves as to what they wanted. When a committee can't ask with perfect unanimity for something it would better keep still. Legislators cannot be blamed for not knowing what farmers want as long as their representatives are not in agreement about it .- Stockman and Farmer.

Apple Barrels and Boxes.

The apple barrel adopted by Ontario contains 112 imperial quarts. That in use in the United States holds ninetysix quarts. This gives the larger barrel an advantage in foreign markets which is an object lesson in the importance of having an international barrel. The bushel box that is used in Oregon is 10 by 11 by 20 inches. It has been adopted by nearly all the provinces. The indications now are that it will soon take the place of the barrel for the apple trade of the United States and Canada, except perhaps for exporting.

The Prolific Scale.

The total number of descendants from one individual of the San Jose scale during the time between the middle of June and the last of November has been calculated at 3.216.080. 400. As all these millions obtain their food by sucking the sap from the plant they are on it is not to be wondered at that a tree which in the spring was apparently in good condition may be nearly or entirely dead by fall.

stand in their stalls. The milking and feeding are to be to pieces and wash thoroughly with done in plain view of the public, and representatives of the various herds will at all times have access to all the barns to see that no sharp practices are indulged in.

The test not only consists in showing the amount of butter, milk and not too wet. The harness may be hung cheese produced, but the cost of production is taken into consideration. Every ounce of food given each cow is weighed and carefully recorded. When the cows are milked, the milk is conveved to a model creamery in the Agricultural building, where it is tested and made into butter and cheese and where all records are carefully kept.

The Jersev cattle participated in a similar test at Chicago during the Columbian Exposition and carried off first honors.

Superintendent Graves is sanguine over the result of the present test. He says that the Jerseys have always demonstrated their superiority over all other breeds when placed in competition, and this time they will show to better advantage than ever. Not only is the Jersey milk richer in butter fat than the milk of any other breed, says Mr. Graves, but it can be produced at a less cost. The Jersey cows are the smallest of the standard breeds, and he asserts that they consume less feed. They assimilate their food, and it is converted into milk and butter and is not used in building up and sustaining a large carcass. "We are going to make all other breeds take to the woods after this test," said Mr. Graves. "A few days ago I was testing some of our Jersev milk, and my hands were all sticky and greasy from the enormous amount of butter fat the milk contained. Mr. Von Heyne, who is in charge of the Holsteins, sent over a quantity of his milk for me to test. Of course, from a commercial standpoint, there was no comparison between the milk, but it was a pleasure to test his milk, for when I got through there was no grease on my hands. After this I will have a bucket of Holstein milk around handy to wash my hands in after testing our own rich Jersey milk." The test begins May 16 and contin-

Unique California Man.

A unique exhibit at the World's Fair was prepared by the agricultural department of the University of California. It is a large map, so colored as to show the character of the various soils of the state. It gives a clear idea of the situation and the extent of the arable and untillable sections. In the localities that cannot be cultivated are shown the Sierras, the lava beds and the desert. The map indicates the location of the cultivable portions of the mountains and Mohave plateau and shows the nature of the foothills and valleys of that wonderful state.

Do College Women Marry?

Two questions are very familiar to those who are interested in college training for women; the first is,-"Does college unfit a woman for home life?" and the second, "Do college women marry?" The writer has often wondered whether the first question is urged upon the faculty of a man's college? The man's work home is different from the woman's but is it not quite as definite in own way and as important that his train-ing shall fit him for it? It is assumed that the broader his culture, the wider his horizon, the more will ne be able add that which should be the center of his life, however manifold his outside interests. It is illogical to think that the contrary result is to be expected from the tducation of a woman, and experience Disalways proves that logic is right. content, lack of appreciation and ineiliciency in the home are less often seen among college women than among those who have never been away from home and thus do not realize its full value. Certainly in no class of women is the home instinct stronger than among those whose lives are spent largely in the col-lege,-President Mary Woolley, in Harper's Bazar.

Women's Strength.

A young mother was boasting the other day of her baby, her first and nat-turally the most wonderful baby in the Among other things she told of world. her strength and remarked that it was an inheritance from herself. She belonged to a family of strong bodies and healthy minds obtained through a free cutdoor life, in which walking, rowing and swimming played an important part. "But mother is losing her strength," remarked, and in further explanation gleaned that in the pursuit of a hobby she had sacrificed a precious gift. Stin was devoted to painting and worked at it long after she had become conscious of extreme weariness.

To take your husband about with you instead of some other woman's husband is a sin against society as constituted to-day, and to wear a smile on your face or to seem to think life worth living is also hopelessly vulgar. Society does not want to be instructed, pendent. An Italian philanthropist says bread, and it is quite true, but everybody shrould also be able to secure work and wages that will buy bread.

When you are tempted to hire some piece of work done or buy something you want, your first question should be, "Can I afford it?" That settled to your satisfaction, you may rest in the conscious-ness that somebody is getting the benefit of your money, it is not wasted. Money was made to spend, but not to be thrown away. Life is ours to enjoy, if we ever learn how, to endure at all events, and to make it endurable we have to indulge our tastes to a certain extent.

I believe that nature put into every woman's heart a love for pretty things. In some cases it is smothered by lack of money and hard surroundings. Necessity is a stern teacher, and we never can es cape her lessons. TRY TO BURN BODIES.

Two Dead, One Fatally Wounded and Fourth May Have Crawled

Away to Die.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 20 .- Two men are dead, a third is fatally wounded and another is missing and thought to be dead or wounded on the prairie south of the city as the result of the attack of two masked robbers on Italian section hands who were constructing the Belt Line railroad at Riverdale at 10 o'clock last night. The robbers escaped after setting fire to the victims' shanty.

Shot Sleeping Workmen.

Four men were asleep in the shed when the robbers arrived and, without a word, opened fire. Three of the laborers were shot as they lay and a fourth ran out, though many shots were fired at him at close range. All were planning to return to Italy in a few weeks and had been hoarding their savings for a long time

This was known to other laborers there and it is thought that Italians who knew the men committed the robbery.

Set Fire to Shanty.

The bandits after robbing their victims set fire to the shanty, leaving the two bodies and the wounded man inside. The who was wounded managed man crawl out of reach of the flames and lay on the ground until help arrived.

The shanty is just a block south of the city limits and a quarter of a mile north of the Illinois Central station at River-dale. That village was quickly aroused dale. and the police were on the scene within a few minutes, but were unable to find any trace of the robbers. Police from Kensington and West Pullman were also sent to the scene of the robbery.

Other Workmen Suspected.

It was impossible to learn how much money the robbers obtained. The police at once turned their attention to the other workmen in the gang, searching earefully to see if any of their usual occupants were missing.

A train was made up at once in River dale and the wounded man was placed on board and brought to Chicago. A fast run was made to Randolph street, where a police ambulance met the vic-tim and hurried him to the county hostim and hurried him to the county pital in an effort to save his life.

Nicholas Henry Ferdinand Herbert, second Prince von Bismarck, was born in Berlin December 28, 1849. He was educated for a military life, but decided to follow the intricacies of affairs of state and the allurements of diplomacy. This decision, however, was preceded by the one dark episode in his career—an in-

STRIKES AND THEIR CAUSES.

In recent years the growing frequency and persistence of strikes as a means of clarifying the industrial atmosphere have forced themselves upon the attention of those who, although not active participants in such expodients, share in all the results of industrial agitation. The magnitude of some recent strikes has done much to emphasize the damage done to business and the interest which the general public really has in the sense of being a third and impartial party. In the last few years conciliation and arbitration have come forward as remedies for strikes. In the United States strikes have never been illegal unless accompanied by violence, but in Europe they were until recent years prohibited by law.

Among the great labor upheavals in this country one of the most historic is the strike in 1877 on the Pennsylvania Railroad, in which much damage was done and troops were called out. In 1883 the telegraph operators were called out, and the entire American telegraphic system was tied up. The famous Homestead strike at the Carnegie works in 1892 was the most bitter industrial conflict in American history and involved a sanguinary battle between private detectives and unlonists, in which many were killed and wounded. The memorable Chicago strike of 1894 originated in an effort of the newly-organized American Rallway Union to obtain favorable terms for the striking employes of the Pullman car works. There were street railway strikes in several large cities in 1900, and in the following year a great steel strike. In 1902 the anthracite coal strike came nearer to producing a famine in that commodity than any previous event.

The causes of strikes are manifold. The most frequent cause, however, is the wage question. In prosperous times strikes are likely to occur on account of demands for higher wages. In times of business depression there has been much industrial trouble on account of attempts to decrease wages. The regulation of working hours has also furnished frequent cause for labor upheavals. Many of the recent strikes have had their origin in a determination of the members of trades unions to affiliate only with fellow members. Quite as frequently a resolution on the part of the employer to avoid discrimination between union and non-union labor has been productive of industrial trouble. Of still later origin is the sympathetic strike, in which the workmen of one trade, convinced of the righteousness of the cause of a body of striking workmen of another trade, decline to labor at their usual avo eation until justice prevails.

The old-time top boot is fast disappearing from the face of the earth. Even Than the harp of the handlest angel, back the miners of the west, among whom a pair of ordinary shoes used to be as rare as sombreros on Broadway, are abandoning them.

Eight or ten years ago the young mining experts, fresh from the eastern col-leges, used to come into camp with hob-mailed laced boots. This style of footwear was at first scorned as the mark of the tenderfoot and dude.

Then a few miners tried laced boots just for fun, and found the fashion a sensible one. Laced boots brace the ankles for climbing and can be taken off with-out a bootjack. They fit more snugly all round and are less likely to chafe.

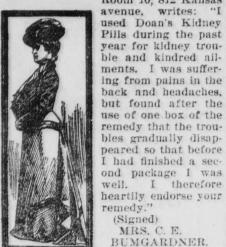

So the miners began to take them up. Now the old-time boots is rare in the min-Let 'em take the sh'nin' palaces, an' keep ton Transcript.

Give me the little cabin where the lights of are taking to laced boots. There was a time, in the heyday of the cow country, when a special grade of fine, high-heeled, thin-soled boot was manufactured solely for the cowboy trade, since cowboys were always very vain about their footwear. But with the decadence of their trade the cattlemen have lost their small vani-ties, and a full half of them ride in the more comfortable laced boots. So is the old top boot, once worn by most city men, vanquished in its last stronghold. -New York Times.

Miss Whittaker, a prominent club woman of Savannah, Ga., tells how she was entirely cured of ovarian troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINEHAM :- I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a Uterine Tonic and Regulator. I suffered for four years with irregularities and Uterine troubles. No one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental misery those endure who are thus afflicted. Your Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. I was fully restored to health and strength, and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to be able to obtain such a remedy when so many doctors fail to help you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had. Very truly yours, Miss EASY WHITTAKER, 604 39th St., W. Savannah, Ga." - $5000 forfeit if original of

CHANGE FOOD

Some Very Fine Results Follow. The wrong kind of food will put the body in such a diseased condition that no medicines will cure it. There is no way but to change food. A man in Missouri says:

"For two years I was troubled so prostrated and could hardly ever get in a full month at my work.

> "My stomach, back and head would throb so I could get no rest at night except by fits and starts, and always had distressing pains. "I was quite certain the trouble came from my stomach, but two physicians could not help me and all the tonics failed, and so finally I turned to food.

"When I had studied up on food and learned what might be expected from leaving off meat and the regular food I had been living on, I felt that a change to Grape-Nuts would be just what was required, so I went to eating it.

"From the start I got stronger and better until I was well again, and from that time I haven't used a bit of medicine for I haven't needed any. "I am so much better in every way, sleep soundly nowadays, and am free from the bad dreams. Indeed this food has made such a great change in me that my wife and daughter have taken it up and we are never without Grape-Nuts on our table nowadays. It is a wonderful sustainer, and we frequently have nothing else at all but a saucer of Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast or supper." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Good food and good rest. These are the tonics that succeed where all the bottled tonics and drugs fail. Ten days' trial of Grape-Nuts will show one the road to health, strength and vigor. "There's a reason."
