The following petition was read;

To the Honorable Mayor and City Council, City of Gladstone:

Gentlemen.-We the undersigned, a committee appointed at a meeting of the property owners on Delta avenue for the purpose of making recommendations to your honorable body regarding the improvement of Delta avenue and improvements connected therewith, respectfully represent they have had the matter under advisement some time and would recommend

First. That Delta avenue be paved the full length with macadam a width of twenty-seven feet, except between Sixth street and Central avenue, which is to be paved the full width.

Second. That the cost of paving the said Delta avenue, except between Sixth street and Central avenue, be borne by the city at large. That the city at large pay toward the pavement of Delta av-Fine Furniture, Undertaking, Upholstered goods and Steamship Tickets. enue between Sixth street and Central avenue, a sum equal to what it would cost to pave it twenty-seven feet wide with macadam, the balance to be paid by special assessment on abutting property. We find also that it will be necessary to make some provision for taking care of the surface water and we recommend that the city adopt and put in a sewer system at this time. That a bill City police fund ... be passed by the legislature to bond the city for $20000.00, five thousand ($5000.-00)dollars of which is to be used in the construction of artesian wells, should it develop that the construction of the sewer system injure our water supply.

All of which is respectfully submitted. JAMES MCWILLIAMS, JAMES A. STEWART, SOREN JOHNSON, JOSEPH EATON, PETER LAING.

No objections being offered the mayor referred the report to the committee on streets and bridges. The following was read:

Influence of Protection Upon American Wages.

TRUTH AS TO HIGH PRICES.

If It Costs More to Live In the United States, It is Because Our Wage Earners Are Better Fed Than Those of Any Other Country.

The Kansas City Star makes the assertion that a protective tariff is not necessary to guard the interests of American workingmen. It says that to assume protection to be necessary implies that the American workingman is unable to compete with foreign labor. It argues that American skill, Industry, steadfastness and the better conditions provided for work and for living are elements that combine to give the workmen of the United States incalculable and unalterable advantages over the workmen of other coun-

Perhaps the Star will explain why it is that American workingmen enjoy better conditions, why they live better, why they have comforts that the foreign workingmen would regard as luxuries. We do not question that American skill, industry and steadfastness are of great advantage, but they do not constitute such an advantage as to make protection unnecessary. We could compete with the whole world on a free trade basis if we wanted to reduce our labor to the standard of foreign labor. It is our proud boast that the American workingman lives better and is housed better than any other workingman on the face of the earth, brightness of the morrow vanished as and this is due to the fact that we a dream which memory yearns in vain protect our labor.

But the Star will say that it costs more to live in this country, so that the workingman is relatively no better off. Let us see. In Germany beefsteak costs 26 cents a pound, pork 20 cents, bacon 21, ham 29, butter 30, coffee 28 to 48, tea 48 to 95, eggs 20 cents a dozen, flour $9.04 a barrel and potatoes 24 ful person is a pessimist's idea of a the city prisoners who are worked on cents a bushel. Comparing these prices fool. with the wages paid in Germany, it is American workingman.

As to the cost of living in England, food is actually very little cheaper than here, clothing being the chief necessity in which the difference in price is in favor of the British wageworker. When the wages paid in the two countries are taken into consideration, the English workingman is found to be paying a great deal more than his American cousin for the mere privilege

As a general statement the Star's observations relative to the benefits the American workingman derives from protection may suffice, but when its observations are viewed in the light of facts they only serve to prove that protection does benefit American labor immensely.-Springfield Union.

"Robber Tariff" Is to Blame.

It is very true that under present tariff conditions shipbuilding costs more in the United States than it does abroad, and the "robber tariff" is largely responsible. This is not the only thing that the "robber tariff" is largely responsible for. A mill worker in Wheeling carns from $4 to $10 per day; abroad he earns from one-fourth to one-third of these amounts. Every article of use in which man's labor is an reduced to 5,000 feet only in the important factor probably costs more process. to produce in this country than it does Eirst ward-John C. Young and David abroad, and the "robber tariff" is responsible, and at the same time the "robber tariff" is responsible for a higher standard of living, a shorter average workday, better educational facilities and a thousand other advantages which the American workingman enjoys and which workingmen abroad do not enjoy.-Wheeling Intel-

Practical Knowledge.

The American people have been discussing the tariff for over a hundred years and are still at it, but Secretary Root insists their knowledge of the subject is limited as compared to that Yeas, Ald. When the Earth Quakes. Some idea of the stupendous power of the subterranean forces exerted by earthquakes is shown by the changes effected by them in geography. Mountains have been obliterated or new ones formed, islands have been made or destroyed, and whole stretches of coast line wiped out. For instance, in September, 1759, on the lofty tableland about 150 miles southwest of the City of Mexico, a piece of land four square miles in area was suddenly raised 550 feet, and numerous cones appeared. one of them, the volcano of Jorullo. being nearly 1,700 feet high. He way pine planted as a commercial invest failed to rally from a surgical operation ment would net, the forest service thinks performed about a month ago. The nature of the operation was not made public. Mr. Aldrich is survived by his widow and one son.

Mr. Aldrich was known to critics as a genuine poet, an exquisite literary artist. As a wit and humorist also he bore a high reputation, and as a conversationalist was bright and sparkling.

Mr. Aldrich was born at Portsmouth, N. H., November 11, 1836. In his early days the family moved to New Orleans. At the age of 13 he returned to Portsmouth to be educated.

He dwelt with his grandfather and went to the Temple school, which in "The Story of a Bad Boy," he calls the fin that city. Temple Grammar school.

Assumed Life Burdens Early. When young Aldrich was 15 his father died, and he was compelled to leave school and take up the burdens of life. First he became a clerk in his uncle's banking office. He continued to read good books and earnestly desired to write for papers and magazines, and at the age of 19 one of his poems, called "Babie Bell," went the rounds of the press. In a short time he obtained employment in a publishing house as a reader of manuscripts, and speedily tiring of this work he accepted the editorship of the New York Evening Mirror. Successively he served on the Home Journal and Saturday Press, and in 1866 he went to Bos-ton to become editor of Every Saturday. Meanwhile, besides the "Ballad of Babie Bell," he had published "The Bells" and "Pampinea and Other

His best known piece of fiction probably is "Marjorie Daw," and he also wrote "Prudence Palfrey," "The Queen of Sheba," "The Stillwater Tragedy" and "Two Bites of a Cherry." One of his most recent productions was "Judith of Bethulia," tragedy in four acts.

"American Herrick" His Title

Critics have declared that Mr. Aldrich's prose is delicate and finished in style, but lacks constructive value, while as to his poetry he has been called "The American Herrick," owing to the fact that his verse is graceful, light, melo-dious, carefully penned and reminiscent of places that he had visited.

GRAFT AT FRISCO ASTOUNDS JURY

SENSATIONAL CHARGES INVOLVE MAYOR AND RUEF AS WELL AS MINOR OFFICIALS.

Allegation Is Made at Session of Inquisitors Lasting Far Into Night-Former Boss Gets a Respite.

GOT PAY FROM BOTH SIDES.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—A climax was reached in the graft scandals in this city Monday night when the grand jury received the testimony of the conditions of the condition of t grand jury received the testimony of the members of the board of supervisors. At a late hour the grand jury was still in session.

It is asserted that Ruef and Schmitz were betrayed by men with whom they had alleged dealings, and it is charged that at the very time the city was staggering from the great calamity of last April, certain officials accepted $450,000 as a bribe from the United Railroads.

Pay from Both Sides. The Pacific States Telephone company, it is claimed, bribed the supervisors to refuse to grant a franchise to the Home Telephone company, but the Home Telephone company appealed to Schmitz and Ruef, and through them the supervisors, some of whom, it is said, had already taken money from the old company, were coerced into granting the franchise to the new company.

The supervisors thus got money from both the telephone companies.

It was expected that indictments will be returned soon.

The first witness was James L. Gallagher, chairman of the finance committee of supervisors, one-time acting mayor and Ruef's direct agent. He was followed by Andrew M. Wilson, formerly supervisor and now state railroad commissioner. They were succeeded on the stand by Thomas Lonergan and Col. Charles Boxton, both prominent supervisors.

Big Graft Is Bared.

Deals hitherto barely suspected were divulged with an amplitude of explanation and a wealth of facts that amazed the inquisitors. Stenographers worked all night preparing formal indictments. First and most important, the purchase of franchises from the city by the United Railways by its president, Patrick Calhoun, is charged. The price paid is said to have been $450,000. Of this immense sum the supervisors received but a small share, it is said.

It is alleged that Ruef demanded $450,000 from Patrick Calhoun to carry through the transaction, and this money was drawn by the United Railroads in installments calculated to be small enough to be divided. Ruef, it is charged, explained that $85,000 of this was to go will lead them out of themselves. The world is not entirely material, but there remain thousands who are willing to sacrifice themselves for an idea. The sacrifice themselves for an idea. Big Sum for Two.

A few may have received nothing. It divided equally between Mayor Schmitz and Ruef.

The corruption surrounding the history of the franchise granted to the Home Telephone company is said to have been even more surprising.

The board of supervisors, it is charged, was bought twice, once by the Pacific States company and once by the Home company. The Pacific States company paid the most money-ever hired a suite of apartments, it is said, in which the boodle was given—but the franchise went to the Home Telephone people.

Most of the supervisors, it is charged, got $5000 apiece from the Pacific States company. A little later the Home Tele phone agents, it is said, paid a number of the supervisors $3000 each but Ruef Schmitz, having been seen meanwhile, the sum was considered enough to cheat the transaction. Another transaction which was suspected, but never proved, when it was sworn to by witnesses before the grand jury, is the prize fight boodle of $20,-

Ruef Trial Postponed.

On request of the prosecution the trial of Ruef, charged with extortion, as the result of a previous inquiry, was post-poned by Judge Dunne until March 25, in order to await the action of the United States supreme court at Washington on the writ of error granted to Ruef by Judge Hebbard. The writ of will come up in Washington next Monday.

Yeast.

Peel four large potatoes, cut them up and put them with a double handful of hops (tied up in a coarse muslin bag) into a saucepan with two quarts of water; cover and cook until the potatoes break to bits. Take out the potatoes with a swimmer, leaving the water boiling, mash the potatoes smooth and add to them four tablespoonfuls of flour and two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar. Moisten this with the boiling hop water and stir to a smooth paste. When all the liquid has been added set aside until lukewarm, then add four tablespoonfuls of good yeast, and turn into a deep bowl or crock to "work." Keep in a warm place until the bubbles cease to appear. When light, put in earthen jars with small necks, cork tightly and keep in a cool place.

Home-Made Cough Candy.

A simple home-made cough candy, whole flaxseed in half a pint of boilcupful of broken bits of slippery elm, Count Lamsdorff was for forty years and cover this also with boiling water. Let them stand for two hours, then strain them both through a muslin bag into a saucepan containing a pound and a half of granualted sugar. When it candies pour it immediately on greased papers.

Oyster Shortcake.

Sift two cups of pastry flour with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-quarter teaspoonful of salt. Rub in one-quarter cup of butter and mix with nearly one cup of milk. Add the last cautiously in order not to have the dough too soft to handle. Divide in halves and put each half on the floured molding board. Pat one to fit a round pan. Spread one part with soft butter, lay the other half on and bake until well browned. Tear the two portions apart, lay on a platter and pour one quart of creamed oysters over.

Stir to a smooth sauce, season with salt and pepper, add the sweetbreads, and, when these are thoroughly heated, serve, adding a tablespoonful of minced parsley just before dishing. This recipe is for two pairs of sweetbreads.

Currant Bread.

Into a pint of scalding milk stir a teaspoonful of melted butter and one of salt. Set the mixture aside until lukewarm, add a half cake of yeast dissolved in a gill of warm water and enough flour to make a good batter. Set in a warm place to rise for eight hours or until light. Beat again, add a cup of flour and one and a half cups of cleaned currants plentifully dredged with flour. Set to rise again and when light bake.

New England Indian Pudding. Scald a quart of milk, mix together one cup of molasses, five tablespoonfuls of Indian meal, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, and stir all into the scalded milk. Are Women More Quarrelsome Than Men?

The reports of the disagreement of the opposing lawyers in the Thaw case -what an endless source of subjects for moralizers and philosophers the Thaw case offers!-has given rise to the question: Would such a thing as a disagreement on such a vital occasion like this have occurred between women? or would the bitter contest between two women lawyers, suppose women lawyers had reached such a degree of assurance as to take charge of such criminal cases, have aroused so very little public com Two men, acknowledged to be of standing in their profession, who are the legal advisers in as complicated a contest in the courts as the modern generation has known, quarrel and indulge in personalities, and no comment is made upon the fact, beyond a few ex pressions of discomfort at the inconvenience and delay occasioned. Think of the outpourings of criticism and the ridirule of the weakness of women had these two lawyers been of the gentler half of humanity. "Just like women," the onlookers would have said; "they never can get together without quarreling." "Imagine professional jealousy and ambition intruding itself in such a tremendously important issue as this!" Etc., etc.

It all revolves itself into the question: Are women more quarrelsome than men? Is a quarrel or a "professional" differ-ence of opinion between men then so uncommon as te occasion no sweeping generalities of sex, and are quarrels among women so very usual as to give the scoffers an opportunity to indulge in the imaginary comments about the pugnacity of the women as quoted above? Nothing receives such credence among men as the well-circulated fact that vomen quarrel all the time among themselves. This is especially applicable to women in their clubs and in other organizations. One can scarcely mentio assemblage of women, from a mild sewing circle to an assembly of suffragists, without evoking the masculine: "You women have some pretty lively tussles among yourselves, I guess," or, "I im-agine there's a great deal of jealousy in your organization, isn't there? No matter what be the issue the mere fact that women are part of an assembly is enough to sanction this very common masculine criticism. No one denies that in a large assemblage of women there are differences of opinion, prejudices or whatever one chosses to call them. Could one fancy a high-spirited body of women all agree ing on every phase of a question? Could anything be more monotonous than a meeting were all of the women were of one mind? Think of any gathering devoid of the stimulating clashing of wits, and the heated arguments! Of course, all of these things exist in a woman's body of men who get together to discuss question, religious, educational or

Some scenes have occurred in the board of education of this city of brothgeneralizations on the part of women onlookers, upon the quarrelsomeness of men, had it been the fashion for women to make this time-honored comment upon the opposite sex. We occasionally catch echoes of some factional disturbances and internal wars at even such august assemblies as the Union league of these are endless. Every type of man has a duplicate in manner among wom-en. There are quarrelsome, unreasonable women, and there are numberless specimens of this kind of men; there are mild, complacent men and women, aggressive men and women, sympathetic en and sympathetic women, and so on through the whole list of varieties of men and women.

However, not even the very recent ertiveness of the woman as a distinct individual and a factor in modern life has quite overcome the old ideas of personal conduct. A woman cannot talk so freely to her opposing club member as a man, because Nature suggests more silent methods of expression—the old idea of "having a good cry"-is still in women; so she resorts to the weapons at hand, sometimes she gently whispers to her neighbor that she thinks a certain policy adopted by her opposing club officer is wrong, and the whisper augmented and heard perhaps by the club, but do they not exist also in any male members of her family, assumes the proportion of a very bitter quarrel. several generations from now when it will be considered "ladylike" for a woman to say exactly what she thinksnot several degrees north or south of it as is done now, women will conduct their disputes as men do. time when women shall use "strong language" so freely as men, but we can indulge in its feminiue equivalent perhaps without causing comment They shake hands without any personal a silver knife. Contentment.

Paul, in his epistle to the Philippians, says, "For I have learned, in whatso-ever state I am, therewith to be con-This is one of the hardest lessons of life, and happy is the one who can say he has mastered it. Yet there are various degrees of contentment. In some people it is a negative virtue, they simply accept their lot with they simply accept their lot without grumbling or railing at fate if it is adverse. Others reach to a higher plane Why no woman is gifted where contentment merges into satisfaction, and becomes a joy.

At a social gathering of literary people recently, 1 fell into conversa-tion with a lady, a stranger, whom I had particularly noticed for her bright, intelligent, happy face. She was no longer young, but when she talked in her quick, breezy manner, you forgot the gray hairs and the marks of age and saw only the vivacity and bouyancy of a spirit which "age cannot wither nor custom stale." "Isn't it beautiful," she said after we had listened to some very interesting reminiscences and some delightful singing from the elder mem-bers of the club, "to see people grow-ing old gracefully? Look at all these men and women. They are so enthusiastic, so cheerful, so ready to take part in all that is going on. It does me good to look at them." You seem to be happy, yourself,"

I ventured. am, I am glad to live and I am, I am grad to five and so thankful everyday that I have just what I have. I can truly say that I am perfectly content with my life and would not change it for anything I know of.

Yes, I am perfectly contented, and enevery minute. You are certainly to be envied." I replied. "You are truly a philosopher. May I ask where is your home?" "Oh." she said smiling, "I am a 'high private' in an Old Lady's Home, through the evil deeds of others, but I am just as happy there as I can be. I look over my past life and feel that I have done my duty in every condition in which I have been placed. I have lived for the good of others and have ever had their welfare in view, and now that I am oid I am reaping the reward in being cared for by the kindness of others. There is or evil in an nothing in the world so desirable as to require the be contented 'in whatsoever state' our lot is cast.

She had known reverses, trials and sorrows, yet in spite of all, the inborn courage and sweetness of her soul bore her triumphantly to the highest pinnacle reached by man, contentment with her lot and true happiness therewith.

Why it is that this kind of characters not oftener met with? Why is it that so many people are chronic grumblers and fault-finders? For them the weather is always too cold or too hot, the sun too bright or the day too cloudy, the home too small, or too large, and so on through the category of conditions. Old age finds them thus and implants its wrinkles and other insignia with layish hand because they have never tried to keep their eyes bright and their lips smiling. Contentment makes a happy a pleasant countenance and an agreeable companionship. Who does not desire these things?—Exchange.

Why no woman is gifted with that in describable and invaluable quality vaguely defined as a sense of humor we have never been able to understand, but surely adequate compensation is to be ound in the greater keeness of her wit Indeed, speaking antithetically, man has ever been so generally recognized as the example, par excellence, of sheer stupid ty that even the contemptuous Eliza ethan scholars did not take the trouble to give a feminine termination to the word "dolt." Certain writers have maintained that no woman could divine, with tamed that he wonthing count making direct inquiry, whether one is serious or whimsical, so he keeps his face free from signifying expression; but not this very fact, if such it be, evi dence of her greater straightforward-ness? Moreover, while it is undoubedly true that most women lie about one hing or another from the time they ter upon what is termed their social ex stence, is not their comparative clums ness in the practice of that are creditable rather than the reverse, affording as it does, a clear indication of their natural inclination towards truthfulness?

We are constrained to admit that in philosophy and correlative matters the more sensitized intellect of woman has made little progress; hence the obsoleteness of "casuistess." Why, we cannot tell. The defect—for as such we must regard it, in view of the severe demands of citizenship-may be inherent and in curable or, as we prefer to believe, at ributable to a condition of mind which has given rise to rejection of any trait which might be displeasing in the eyes of men. It is in the hope that the lat-ter diagnosis of cause is correct that we venture suggestions designed to induce rigid mental discipline while the mind is ill in plastic form. We have the greater freedom in makng such suggestions because of our feeling of certainty that, however deficient omparatively in reflective intellectuality. woman today is immeasurably superior hilt and his revolver empty, he pushed to man in a spiritual sense. This means that she is stronger in resistance to pain and went for the enemy with his bare or evil in any experience so crucial as to fists require the support of the highest-minded fortitude. The Causes of Worry.

Wise in his day and generation was the olden time philosopher who laid down the law unto himself that there were but two things that people worried about-the things that they cannot help, and the things they can help. Those things that people cannot help is useless to worry about, because they cannot be helped. Those things people cannot be helped. can help it is unless to worry about, 1889. because they can be helped.

Lately it has been shown that anger and worry are near of kin, another reason for not worrying. Indeed there is a deadly horde of kindred miseries that follow close in the train of worry, and are known to be related to it. They are fear, anger, melancholy and the "blues," and like worry itself, they are not of more use when it is something that can be helped than when it is something that cannot be helped. There are other reasons why we can not afford to indulge in worry. Some fine morning we are enjoying an extra quality of serenity of soul. A small cloud darkens the air, and lo! all serenity is swept away. No one can afford to be at the mercy of every ill wind that blows.

Our greatest educational problem is to make the utilitarian an integral part of our school work. Strangely enough, in this country, where we all respect labor and efficiency, the matter of trade schools which highly developed in Germany, land and Switzerland, is almost neglected. For the average American boy or girl it has been absolutely necessary to commit some crime and get into a form school to get training in a trade. There is nothing that we owe the children more than this. Psychological race suicide is an innocuous thing compared with the intellectual race suicide which we are allowing in permitting our children to grow up with no kind of soul life. all took a nap .- A. L. Sykes in St.

For some time the revenue officers have been aware that there was an illicit distillery situated in what is known as the Cold Springs mountain, near the line of Greene and Unicoi counties, and they were recently informed in some way of the exact location of this distillery in a way that they of course will not reveal. They quickly laid their plans to capture the distillery.

According to the description of the locations of the location of the loca cation as given by one who was a mem-ber of the party, it appeared that on one side the mountain was nearly perpendicular and looked as if it was a mile high, and in the head of the little cove where the distillerw was situated there was only room for the distillery building, which was about 20x30 feet, built of logs and covered with spruce pine shingles. All around it the scenery was as wild as could be imagined, with barely a pathway through the rel and over rough mountain boulders

In the distillery was found one of the and the distillery was found one of the largest stills ever captured in this section, having a capacity of from 125 to 150 gallons, and the capacity of the out-fit was equal to 4500 gallons of malt. About 1500 gallons of beer was found in tubs, which was destroyed, together with the still and effect. with the still and outfit. SCIATIC TORTURE

A Locomotive Engineer Tells How He Was Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Pain that sooms almost unbearable is a characteristic of sciatic rheumatism. In some cases the pain is knife-like, sharp or shooting; in others it is dull and aching. Sciatica is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient frequently suffers for years. This was the case with Mr. Herbert E. Spaulding, a locomotive engineer on the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway, whose home is at Longview, Texas.

"While running an engine some years ago," he says, "I fell off and hurt my knee and spine and I have always considered this to be the cause of my illness. The sciatica took hold of me from my heel to the back of my head. The pain was the worst I ever saffered in my life and my leg and back were twisted out of shape I was under a physician's care for several months and for six months could not get out of bed. I also went to Hot Springs but came back in a worse condition than when I went.

"It was when I was down in bed that I heard of the case of a Mr. Allison, a much older man than myself, who had been cured of sciatica by Dr. Willfams' Pink Pills. I began taking the pills and soon was able to get out of bed. When I had taken six hoxes I was able to work about the house and yard. I kept right on with the pills until I was cured and I have never had any return of the trouble. I have been running an HUNDREDS SAVED engine ever since!

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receint of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Shipping Disasters in Blow and Fog Off English Coast Cause Great Suffering.

LONDON, March 18.—Shipping disasers, in which narrow escapes of hundreds of passengers and great loss to vessels are factors, occurred Sunday and this morning in heavy seas and fog.

The fog lifted at 7 a. m., but the peril is still great. Suevic May be Total Loss.

Details of the disaster to the White Star line steamer Suevic, homeward bound from Sydney, New South Wales, by way of Cape Town with nearly 600 passengers and crew on board, show that she struck the Brandies Rocks, close under the Lizard lighthouse at about 10:30 Sunday night, and probably will be a to-

There were no fewer than 160 children on board, many of them being babies in arms whom the local fishermen and their wives lifted out of the boats and carried through the surf to nearby

Almost within sight of the wrecked White Star Line Steamer Suevic, the Elder-Dempster line steamer Jebba, from Calabar, Lagos, and other West Afri-can ports for Plymouth and Liverpool, ran on the rocks under the cliffs near Pawle Point in the early hours of the morning.

Her seventy passengers, many of whom were soldiers invalided home from the West Coast of Africa, and her crew were safely taken ashore by the breeches buoy. Heavy seas are breaking over the steamer, rendering the life boats which are standing by the vessel useless. The Jebba will prove a total loss.

General Protestant Council at Chicago Indian Agent Tells How He Once Averted a General Massacre.

Colonel John D. Miles, for twenty years an Indian agent, talked to the Lawrence Y. M. C. A. the other day of Indian matters. Among other things he told of a narrow escape he had.

Following the Indian outbreak in 1874, Colonel Miles, in common with all the whites at the agency, nearly lost his life, a speech of which he made to the Indians in their own tongue being so well received by the Indians as to placate them and turn their murderous intentions. One big Indian who came to the agency to draw his beef demanded his allowance for the preceding week, which he had failed to come for at the proper time. The regulations of the agency forbade delivering back supplies and the Indian was refused his meat. Later he came back, drew a revolver on the clerk and compelled him to deliver the extra beef.

A troop of soldiers which was sent out to arrest the thief was surrounded by 500 armed braves and given minutes to get back to the fort. They got One boat was capsized and seven were drowned. A relief train from Chico with boats, clothing and provisions has reached the scene. There is much sufferwhites there. Colonel Miles was lined back. Then the Indians came on to up with others to be shot, but he asked permission to make a speech and was given leave. He used their own tongue > speech, "your old men sent you braves out to slay and to burn. You went and you did as you were told. Had you come back without scalps your squaws would have laughed at you, called you squaws and hated you. You had to do what you were sent to do. The great father has sent us here and told us what to do. He says to issue no back rations. See, here is my instruction." He displayed his written orders from Washington. "I must do as the great father tells me or I cannot go back. The general from the fort will show you his orders. He, too, must do as he is told by the great father to do. Now tell me, what else could I have done?"

The Indians saw the logic and heeded the appeal to fair play. It was over a year from that time until Colonel Miles was again given trouble by his wards of the government.

&&&&&&&&&&& HUNTING A PANTHER. ******

~~~~~ Hunting big game in India should be preceded by some training of the eye to see things where they are. > When I reached the ground the panther was still there, and a keen-eyed native pointed it out to me.

"Hitherward is its head,' said the man, "thitherward its tail. Doesn't the sahib see it? There, there " and he pointed to a spot about three yards off.

But I didn't see the panther-either its head or tail or anything that was its. I saw only a mass of light and shade under a dense overgrowth of greenery, dead leaves and grass, that were yellowish where the pencils of light broke in upon the gloom, and, otherwise, they were mysterious shad-@7.90; rye 6.50@7.90; ow that told nothing to my unaccustomed eye. All that I looked upon in that greenwood tangle was equally panther. I could pick out no particular patch as being any more pantherish than the rest. Of head or tail I made out nothing where all was equally one or the other-and still that native of keenest vision besought me to see the panther's head and tail and right forefoot, and many other details of its anatomy. Then there came a roar out of the thicket, and a rush which was like the volcanic upheaval of the ground at my feet, and, as it seemed, several tons of upheaved matter hit me on the chest. and I was bowled over on to the broad of my back a yard or two from where

I had stood. That upheaval was the panther. The brute had not had the patience to wait until I saw him, or the modesty to take himself off peaceably in some other direction. He had resented my staring his way, even though I saw him not, and so had emerged from his lair like an animal rocket, and had knocked me down in his flight.

As he failed to claw me, I came off, scatheless: but not so my attendant, whe foolishly embraced the panther with a view to arresting his flight. He got himself rather badly mauled, and did not come out of the hospital for some weeks.

That was my disastrous commencement with panthers.

Who Said Bridge Breaks Up the Home?

My brother Johnny needs some clothes,
He wants some right away;
But father says the boy is wrong,
"Your suit's all right," he'll say.
But Johnny won't need clothing long,
He'll have a new suit soon,
For mother is to play some bridge
Tomorrow afternoon.

And little Mary wants a slate,
She's started in at school.
But pa says: "Make the old one do"—
He's stubborn as a mule.
But 'twon't be long till Mary has
Her slate—you wait and see—
For mother is to play some bridge
Tomorrow, about 3.

There's lots of things we need at home, He's says we're too extravagant—
It does no good to fuss.
But we 'most always get such things,
You bet your life we do,

For mother plays bridge now and then; She understands it, too.
