MOONSHINING.

More Illicit Stills In New York City Than In Kentucky.

"Don't talk to me about moonshining in Kentucky," said the internal revenue agent. "There's more moonshining going on all the time in little old New York than could be done in ten Kentuckys. In the crowded sections of the east and west sides stills spring up right along and for awhile conduct a flourishing business in the low grade whisky they manufacture. You see, it doesn't take much trouble to equip a still with corn and yeast and start in to make the mash, which is finally turned out as a pretty poor sort of whisky. The great difficulty is in getting rid of the peculiar smoke and a race track and win some money on odor from the stills without exciting by running the still in connection with a dye shop or some other chemical enterprise as a blind. We keep watch on all such establishments and have the town well covered by sharp eyed and sharp nosed agents besides. We are constantly arresting these small moonshiners and sending them to jail. But dead sure investment and in that way enough spring up in their places for you to say with safety that, as I say, there's more moonshining going on in New York city right along than there could be in ten Kentuckys."-New York Sun.

THE PIANOFORTE.

A Direct Descendant of the Clavichord and Harpsichord.

The pianoforte was directly evolved from the clavichord and the harpsichord. In 1711 Scipione Maffei gave a detailed account of the first four instruments, which were built by Bartolommeo Cristofori, named by him pianoforte, and exhibited in 1709.

Marius in France exhibited harpsichords, with hammer action, in 1716, and Schroter in Germany claimed to have invented the planoforte between 1717 and 1721. Marius at first was generally credited with the invention, for it was not until 1738, when Cristofori's instruments had become famous. that the Italian advanced his claim, and it was in 1763 that he brought forward the proof of his contention.

Pianos of that period were shaped like the modern grand, the first square piano being built by Freiderica, an organ builder of Saxony, in 1758. The first genuine upright was patented in England and the United States by John Isaac Hawkins, an Englishman, in 1800.-Scrap Book.

But the $1,000,000 prize awaiting the discoverer has about the same foundation as the millions in Colonel Mulberry Sellers' great triumphs of ingenuity. This mythical prize of the bottle that cannot be used over again bids fair to take the place in popular belief so long occupied by the reward awaiting the collector of a million postage stamps. That prize also was iridescent in the gaze of hope, the conditions were plain to the meanest comprehension, but the name of the donor was in the mist. So with this. People Who Cannot Let Well Enough Alone. WANT CHANGE OF SOME SORT.

THE RESTLESS CLASS

Just Now They Seem Bent Upon Repeating 1892, When They Knocked the Tariff Prop From Under Their House and the House Fell Down.

What can we do with the always restless ones-that class of people among us who are never content to let well enough alone? When they go to a horse, they, these always restless suspicion. This is usually attempted ones, cannot let well enough alone, but immediately risk what they have made and usually something more on another horse and lose. When they take a flier in stocks and fortune favors them, do they let well enough alone, put their profits in a bank or in some let well enough alone? Not they! Off bey rush again to their broker, deposit their profits and usually something more, do these always restless ones, and often all they get is a call for more margins or a statement which reads, "Balance due," on the wrong side.

When they are owning and running a tariff protected business, be it factory, store or even a newspaper, and business is good and profits large, do they, these always restless ones, rest content with the respectable profits they are making and let well enough alone? Not they! On the contrary, they hasten to use up reams of paper and barrels of printer's ink in crying fire when there is no fire in seeking to make a somewhat indifferent public believe that tariff revision is necessary and "imminent," that a "permanent tariff commission" must be appointed at the coming short session of congress and a lot more tommyrot of the same will o' the wisp chasing order, while all the time that same "suffering" public is steadily going on with its business, selling goods or selling lots, building business blocks or building houses and making tariff protected profits at every turn.

from the same cause and gold is being hoarded in the oriental way usual when times are good. A consular report says that nearly $20,000,000 was sent from London last October, but it has all been absorbed. The sellers of the cotton crop have the money hoarded in their houses. The gold beaters' bazaar is crowded all the time, and it is estimated that each week many pounds in gold coin are melted or beaten into bracelets, necklaces and chains. That gold is always hoarded in Egypt is proved by the fact that some George III. sovereigns are coming into circula-

Shocked the Hostess.

There are many stories incident to the career of the late Eugene Field, who not only wrote songs for the children, but who was at times fond of practical jokes, which illustrate his inimitable humor.

On one occasion he played an unexpected part at a dinner given in honor of himself and his wife which, while it had its serious side, was made all the more enjoyable by the grave deportment of Mr. Field.

The dinner was given by a leading Chicago family. When all were seated Mr. Field repaired to the pantry, only to return in a few moments with a dozen or more costly gold embroidered wineglasses, the property of the hostess, which, to her silent astonishment, he proceeded to hand over to each guest, one by one, a souvenir of the

BURNING IN EFFIGY.

A Custom Born of the Superstition of the Ancients.

The burning of people in effigy has come from a foolish superstition of the ancients, who believed that by burning a likeness of a person they were inflicting pain upon the individual himself. Theocritus tells us that the Greek sorcerers killed their enemies by magic rites performed over the effigy of the person who had offended them, and

Virgil also makes mention of this. In the days of witchcraft and perse cution one of the most common charges against witches was that they made waxen images of their enemies which they melted before a fire and thus caused the dissolution of the originals.

The Japanese still regard the effigy as a means of punishment of faithless lovers, and in France to the time of the first revolution execution by effigy was a legal rite. In the Netherlands the same illogical custom prevailed. and the different religions burned the effigies of each other's leaders with zeal. # Lord Erskine.

From midshipman to lord chancellor is a very far cry. Lord Erskine, however, whom Lord Campbell once described as the greatest advocate of ancient or modern times, did not find much difficulty in reaching the Woolsack, although he started life as a "middy" and did not settle down to study law until he was twenty-five years of age. His defense of Captain Baillie, prosecuted fer his exposures of gross abuses at the admiralty, raised him from an obscure lawyer to a foremost position at the bar, and thirty briefs were offered him before he left the court. From that time until he became chancellor in 1806 his career was marked by a long list of successes .--London Standard.

Fortune Made in Milwaukee.

The Smith $50,000,000 fortune was ac cumulated largely in Milwaukee by the decedent's uncle, George Smith.

George Smith, with Alexander Mitch-, organized the Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance company in 1839. The company was really organized for bankcompany was really organized for bank-ing purposes but at that time the very word "bank" was so odious on account of currency troubles that the Legislature would not grant a charter in which the word appeared. The elder Smith and Mr. Mitchell made money fast and soon had won a reputation as safe and conhad won a reputation as safe and con-servative bankers in a day when wild cat banking was at its worst. George Smith never actually became a resident of Milwaukee, but he came here frequently from Chicago and he was a embankment. This probably would have happened had not the Chicago Limited train No. 23, running on track No. 4, westbound, been late. Fortunately it was delayed and reached Wilmerding some time after the Keystone express had en derailed. The railroad officials discovered that a fish-plate had been fixed tightly between the two rails that had been disjointed. The purpose was to prevent the interruption of the electric current. # AMERICA LEADS IN AERIAL NAVIGATION. By Alexander Graham Bell.

Ten years ago I was given a perfect realization of the feasibility of the flying machine. At that time Professor Langley had constructed his first aeroplane and I was allowed to see it in operation. He had a steam engine in it and it flew about from one place to another, and I managed to get a photograph of it. On two different occasions he was successful with it. That demonstrated that he was on the right track, having a and the set of the set

A. G. BELL steam propelled airship.

The fact that the Wright brothers have been able to fly with a machine that weighs 1,925 pounds proves conclusively that the first stage has been passed. Their engine alone weighs more than 200 pounds and their car embodies a great many principles which are in the line of progress. The flexibility of the rudders in front and rear is something that seems to auger well for the future success. While I have not personally seen it, yet I can readily see how such rudders may be worked advantageously in controlling the machine.

The outlook for aerial navigation is growing brighter every day. Just what it will eventually amount to is problematical now. However, the hardest part of the difficulty has been overcome, that of really flying, and proving to the world that it is a reality. The next stage is the studying out of the problem of weight that can be carried. If the Wright brothers are able to navigate the air, with their structure bearing nearly a ton, it seems that a greater weight can be carried.

OUR NATIONAL FORESTS.

By Gifford Pinchot. National forests (formerly called forest reserves) are created with the main object of using all their resources in the wisest way. Everything is for use the timber, the range, the water, the land. Only those lands chiefly valuable for the production of timber or the protection of the water flow are included in national forests.

It happens that little patches of agricultural land, small mountain meadows, necessarily fall within their boundaries. These are being platted and will rapidly pass into private ownership.

The mining prospector is permitted to explore and locate his claims in the reserves without the slightest restriction, and in mining localities the timber is protected, kept in the country, and kept from burning up. for the particular benefit of the miner.

All timber and wood in the national forests is for use. and for prompt use. It is sold to the small man and to the big man. Everybody who needs timber to establish his home gets it free of charge, and gets it when he asks for it. In the case of the national forests recently created, the settler will not have to wait until they are under administration. He may take what timber he needs for domestic use without asking.

In the sale of timber there is no chance for monopoly, for the Secretary of Agriculture can sell as much or as little as he pleases, to whomever he pleases and for whatever price he deems fair for the best interests of all the people. The government gets a fair return for its own timber, whereas before it practically gave it away, and gave it away in such a manner that it was monopolized in vast tracts by corporate interests. And after it was cut off the land was burned over and became a non-productive waste.

The range is used for the grazing of live stock. On those national forests created after March 1, 1907, there will be no interference with the grazing industry. It will go on just as if the national forests had not been established, during the entire grazing season of 1907, without fee and without any interference.

The land within national forests is freely open to use as sites for hotels, stores, mills, residences and all other legitimate purposes. The greatest possible use of the land is desired. The more people, settlement and industry the better is the protection which results. All kinds of improvements are not only permitted, but are decidedly welcomed.

ARE YOU TIRED OF YOURSELF? By Zelma Travers.

Do you find yourself good company? Do you ever get tired of being yourself? Down in your heart do you really like yourself and do you find your thoughts really good companions?

These may seem odd questions, but unless you can answer each one of them in the affirmative I would advise you to find out what's the matter.

There are very few of us who never get tired of being oursel es. Very few of us really admire ourselves, and not al vays do we find our thoughts good, comforting angels.

Indeed, the world is trying to get away from itself. That's just what we are trying to do when we go to the theaters, parties, read novels the day long. O, the joy of a live novel, a story of love and adventure; of a hero-handsome, strong, manly; of a heroine-pretty, chaste, demure. Lost in the story we imagine that we are the hero or heroine, and forget all about the person called "me," who perhaps may be everything that the hero isn't.

The thing to do, then, is to endeavor to live a hero, isn't it? Find out your lackings and fill in. Be very careful what you do, be as careful what you think.

Build up your character until you never get tired of yourself, until you can find pleasant company in your thoughts.

Daily strive to do right, and don't take any off days. Study good books and good people. Mold yourself anew. If your thoughts are bad, banish them and find good ones. You will never get tired of the company of good thoughts.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured Stubborn Rheumatism When Other Treatment Gave No Relief.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been euring the most stubborn cases of rheumatism for nearly a generation and thousands of grateful patients have given testimony that cannot be ignored

Mr. Robert Odbert, a machinist, living at 201 Cameron Street, Detroit, Mich., had a very distressing experience with rheumatism for about two years. He makes the following statement: "About the year 1887 I felt the effects of rheumatism which gradually grew worse until I was compelled to give up work for a time. The years of '97 and '98 I was confined to my bed most of the time. I was under doctors' treatment but found no relief. My legs were swollen from the hips downward and red blotches appeared all over them. Frequently they pained me so that I had to bind them tightly with strips of linen. This sometimes relieved the pain but at other times failed to do so. At times I had to crawl to my work, using two crutches. During these spells I suffered greatly from pain around my heart which I attributed to the rheumatism.

"At last my mother wrote me and asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did and in a short time I found myself getting better and have had no trouble since. I may here add that I consider myself perfectly cured. I have not had the least sign of the disease since and feel better now than I ever did. For these reasons I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any one affected the same as I was."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

Congressman J. Adam Bede of Duluth, one of the wits of the House, was a newspaper reporter in Washington for years. Mr. Bede was first a Democrat, and, desiring appointment as marshal and, desiring appointment as marshal, made application to President Cleveland on a piece of birch bark, which he sent through the mails. Mr. Cleveland was so struck with the originality of the ap-plicant that after investigating his char-acter he appointed him. Sunken Logs from the Mississippi. Some 30.857 "deadheads" aggregating 1.300,000 feet df lumber, have been pulled out of the bay in the Mississippi river a short distance above this city. The method employed in raising the "deadheads," which are waterlogged with but one end floating, is as follows: Part of the crew approaches the "deadhead" in a bateau, and reach down with their pickpoles and catch the sunken as infantry but the military commander ultimately was obliged to use artillery before he was able to force the peasants end with the spur on the pole, and bring this end to the surface. An iron spike is then driven into the sunken end of the log and a stout rope attached. When several logs have been harnessed in this fashion the ropes are brought to the shore and horses hitched to them. The tension on the ropes is sufficient to raise the sunken end of the log and the MOSCOW, March 27.-Dr. Jollos, edi-r of the Russki Viedomosti, was assas-they are skidded up to the bank and left

Emmett was born in 1868, yet one would have put him down as a man bordering on 50; even his fellow clerks always referred to him as "Old Emmett." He was one of life's derelicts -worn by hopes deferred, illusions shattered and early ambitions nipped. It was natural enough that three days after his wife fell ill the head of the firm should summarily dismiss him with a month's salary, and a hint that his work was getting slovenly. How he got out of the office he never quite knew. He remembered nothing until he found himself on the front steps, numbed with sickening apprehensions for the future.

From his long connection with the firm he knew, and was known, at many offices. He went the round of these and of many other strange ones. At every one he received the same answer, sometimes bluntly, sometimes with a show of consideration-"Times were badcutting expenses not enough work for their own staff, let alone extra hands."

With a shiver, he turned to face the five-mile trudge home. Home! He shivered again as he thought of itthe stuffy house in the little street; the slatternly girl who slept out; the peevish they'll excuse me being late at the ofwoman who lay ill upstairs, crying be- fice."

At moments of extreme tension, the most trivial detail frequently assumes an undeserved importance. Emmett was by nature and training an orderly man. As he snapped the breech to for the second time he noticed an envelope tucked away under the looking glass stand.

He glanced at it. On it was the stamp of a firm of solicitors. The name was unknown to him--but solicitors' letters had been painfully frequent of late. A freak of curiosity tempted him to know the worst. He opened it, and the lines swam before his eyes.

"Dear sir," he read, "we beg to inform you of the death of your uncle, our esteemed client, which took place on the 14th ult. Newspaper Nicknames In London. Judge Rentoul's reference on the bench to the Times as the "Thunderer" reminds us how remarkably this nickname has persisted. The Morning Post is no longer "Jeames;" the Standard has not been "Mrs. Gamp" since the decrease of the Morning Herald-the "Mrs. Harris" to whom it would allude as an independent authority, though the two represented the same proprietor. But the Times is still the "Thunderer." It owes that name to Captain Edward Sterling, who is said to have begun a Times article with the words, "We thundered forth the other day an article on the subject of social and political reform."-London Chronicle.

opens in front are very unbecoming, being apt to make the waist bag in the back. These waists are made with large sleeves of medium fullness, with cuffs about five inches deep. The cuffs have tucks to break their plainness and a turnover about one-half their depth. These turnover cuffs are embroidered either in white or colored thread. They are made of sheerer linen than the remainder of the waist. The collars, which are attached to the waist, are standing turnovers and, like the cuffs, are made of very shallow plaited ruffle, as is the turnover. The little ties which are shown for use with these shirt waists are most attractive. There are some of them in the form of little bows made of satin, rather stocky, with short, fat loops and pointed double ends. Bright colors, especially blues, Roman plaids and stripes and flowered ribbons, are all used for this purpose, but the most recent fad of fashion along this line is for little bows of Quaker colored satin grays, grayish brown and slate color.

However the materials are combined, one color must prevail. Although the new cloths are lightweight, a still lighter waist may be desirable, in which case a silk or liberty satin may be used, trimmed with the cloth in bands. bretelles or folds. The lace yoke and stock have been found so universally becoming that there is a general demand for lace on the waists of dressy costumes. Most of the new gowns have the short sleeves or cape sleeves, with a blouse that has a V front or is round or square cut over the shoulders, and this blouse is worn with a guimpe or waist of white lace. Fine laces are most popular for these, but a combination of heavy and fine lace is

A Protest Against Fear.

It seems to me that fear has got hold of all this land. Each one has a great fear of himself, a fear to believe, to think, to do, to be, to act.

Who dares to do anything without fear Prizes so costly naturally instill an inwhat some other will think or say? You, younger students, who are entering this garden of toil, where flowers are grown by love and patience, why do you not try to be true to your better selves, who do you not try to see the finer, bigger things that are all about you, and to kill in your garden those mawkish weeds of sugar-sweet sentimentality and shallow feeling. Try to feel truly one thought, one scene, and make others feel it as keenly as you do-thus is art born.—Pamela Colman Smith in The Craftsman

Home Quarrels.

The home should never be the scene of a quarrel. A man cannot afford to quarrel with his wife; it is undignified. A woman cannot afford to quarrel with her husband; it is unladylike. Parents cannot afford to quarrel in the presence of their children; it gives them wrong views of life, and weakens their respect for home. Every quarrel leaves an ugly scar, no mater how well it may be patched up. Small differences must occur in every household, but they can hardly be called quarrels. To quarrel with the person who stands nearest and dearest to you is to put a stain on love that in the long run snaps There is no sadder sight than to see two people who have grown so used to bickering that they do it almost mechanically. ther minds to tread life's path together they should make up their minds to make it as sunny a path as possible, and to avoid all the stumbling blocks to happiness that they possibly can happiness that they possibly can. Marriage is the best thing in the world, but it cannot be improved by cuarrels. A quarrel brings out the ugliest, meanest side of a person's nature, and surely no one can find virtue in anything that does that.

The query is put to me: "How can we love our neighbor as ourselves, if our neighbor is all that is unloyable, ggressive, disagreeable, immoral, of-

MAN'S BEST FRIEND.

The Nutmeg state has a rare breed of canines that show nearly human intelli-gence. They begin to exhibit their intelligence soon after birth. William Marti-nez, a cigar manufacturer of Winsted, Conn., went out sleigh riding the other night with his wife and collie. Some distance from home the sleigh careened and Mr. and Mrs. Martinez were tossed out. The horse bolted. The collie ran along and jumped into the sleigh. Fifteen minutes later the horse and sleigh hove in sight with the collie sitting on the seat, the reins in his mouth. The dog had turned the horse around. sorry for the person we have been in-clined to abhor. The horse and collie are inseparable, both sleeping in the same stall.

The crying of some setter puppies at the home of David Eggleton, at bury, last night, awakened six nersons ust in time to save the house from burning to the ground and themselves from probable death by fire.

A remarkable instance of canine intelligence has recently been reported from Frankford, says the Philadelphia kecord. John Megonigal has been the proud possessor of a little oull terrier, with a pedigree long enough to extend from his native town in North Carolina to Philadelphia. Recently the dog had a slight cold, which settled in his eyes, so that the animal was confined to the hous Through an inadvertence he escaped from the house the other day and took his usual stroll from Frankford avenue. Midway up the block a neighbor's child was playing with her doll carriage, and a recognized an old acquaintance and made a frantic dash. His chagrin on discov-ering the composition of his "old friend" can only be imagined. Mortified by the of a crowd of urchins who witjeers

MEN OF PROMINENCE.

JOHN HENNIKER HEATON, M. P. o whose untiring effort England and her colonies owe much of the efficiency of the British postal and telegraph service, was born March 11, 1848. He spent all his early days in the colonies.

For a number of years he engaged in newspaper work in Australia. It was his experience in the Australian mining camps, where he saw how the miners suffered through the heavy charge for letters to England, that led him to begin his postal reforms. In 1885 he repre ented the Tasmanian government at the Berlin Telegraph conference. After years of agitation he succeeded in carrying the imperial penny postal scheme in 1898.

Subsequently he introduced telegraph money orders in England and parcels post with various foreign countries. For his work in bringing about reforms and improvements in the postal service the freedom of the city of London was conferred upon him in 1899.

ADOLPH S. OCHS who, while still under fifty years of age has attained rank among America's foremost newspaper publishers, was born in Cincinnati, March 12, 1858. His parents had emigrated to the United States from Germany

While a young boy Adolph removed with his parents to Knoxville, Tenn., and it was in that city that he received his public school education and began his career. From the time he left school until he reached manhood he was in turn a newsboy, a clerk in a grocery store, a lruggist apprentice and a printer. Dm ing the most of this time he attended night school in order that he might be come better educated.

At an age when most young men are just beginning to figure on their future calling young Ochs became publisher of the Chattanooga Times, which was his first newspaper venture, and of which he is still the proprietor. A year later he established a trade publication, which was a financial success from the start and out of which he made enough money to acquire a controlling interest of the great metropolitan dailies in New

He rose to the commend of the Deside to the command of the Russian army and became minister of war.

For years prior to the clash with Ja-pan he was the unchallenged head of the war party in Russia. He believed in pushing Russian troops to the uttermost ends of Asia. ### Contentment.

There is a spirit of contentment that is neither slothfully sleepy nor stoically resigned. It is a contentment that knows the difference between a June aped with a June apple in June but it is not contented with a June apple in October. In June it is contented with the pale, tiny green fruit, but by October months of progress.

So today our contentment is satisfied with todayness, but tomorrow it expects tomorrowness, twenty-four hours of progress. We are contented with today as today, but we expect to make tomorrow better by the experience of today. We are contented with our mistakes of

To Make Domestic Science Practical.

There is a prevalent impression that domestic science means only the teaching ing of the rudiments of home-making, the fundamentals of cookery, the first stages in the art of needlework, and the general management of the house which practical housekeepers have learned through experience. The fact is that domestic science and domestic arts are, practically speaking, the formulation of the experiences of the home-maker and the results of scientific investigation. None of us wants to expose the privacy of the home life to the public gaze, but no man does this when he meets his fellow worker in his profession to discuss professional subjects, and there are many questions in home life which an open and free discussion among the women managing these homes would clear and assist. Until we break down this feeling of reserve, until we learn to become impersonal, which is the secret of maintaining the spirit of privacy, and

Typical American Women.

Every once in a while Miss Helen Gould does something that makes the American people proud of her, and yet it can be truthfully said that she does less for the purpose of drawing the limelight of publicity to her acts than any woman in any way before the public. No woman of wealth in this country better deserves to be called a philanthropist in the very best sense of the term than she does, and yet it can almost be said that the things she does not do, as much as, or even more than,

not do, as much as, or even more than, what she does, command the respect of the people. Her charities are bound-less, and yet, she knows how and when to say "no." In the annals of true philanthropy her name stands second to none in America, and yet it is almost impossible to secure a photograph of her for publication, so little does she like the parade that has come to he so much the parade that has come to be so much a part of doing good. The large sums she has given the Young Men's Christian association alone mark her as one of the leading public benefactors in the country, but it is said that she always knows try, but it is said that she always knows just where every dollar she gives is spent, and she takes precaution to see that only worthy objects profit by her beneficence. Illustrative of this is a beneficence. Illustrative of this is a story just brought by cable from Paris. While in the French capital a few days ago she was free handed, and soon the idea seemed to get abroad that she would give to almost anybody who came beg-ging. She subscribed liberally to an organ fund for one American church; in another the backt after preparing included in the articles well and rub in thoroughly common beeswax. Then rub well with a cloth until the wax is well rubbed in. Knives, tin or iron kettles or any article which will rust baye heen kept for years in this mangirl students and to the American hos-pital fund. Then it seems that what might almost be called a "put up job" was sprung upon her. With apparently deliberate purpose a great deal of so-called information was thrown in her way about life in what is commonly called the Lotin constor and when it called the Latin quarter, and when it was thought that conditions were about right she was induced to visit that par-ticular section of the city, and the wires laid to secure from her a liberal do nation for American art and for the students and the dwellers in that an-cient and more or less honorable or dis-honorable "Bohemia." Right there is where the schemers overshot their mark. At almost the first glance at conditions that prevailed in "the quarter" she tight-ened her purse strings, and she drew them tighter at every step of her progress. It was apparent that there wa nothing in the life or surroundings of the gress. 'Bohemians" that in the least appealed to her. In fact, she may almost be said to have shuddered with disgust. Sh bought not a single picture, subscribed to no fund, and in short looked with such coldness on what she saw that her guides were in haste to get her away. It was simply the good common sense of the healthy-minded American woman as-serting itself. She saw through the were in haste to get her away.

Slaughter Seems Imminent.

Should the peasants refuse to retire, orders have been issued to the troops to use shrapnel against them. Soldiers and large bodies of the police have been sta-tioned in the Jewish quarters here for the protection of the inhabitants. Severe encounters, accompanied by much bloodshed, are reported from various places.

The plundering usually appears to start at the synagogues, winding up with attacks on Christian property. The district of Vlashica is overrun by marauders who have cut the graph and telephone wires. A band of 2000 peasants Monday made a furious attack with hatchets and cudgels on a detachment of cavalry in that district. The troops only dispersed the rioters after killing or wounding many of them.

Curious Boundary Dispute Betwee Wisconsin and Wolverine State.

The project to appoint a joint commission of the States of Michigan and Wisconsin to examine into and correct what is declared to be an engineer's error in marking the boundaries of the two States sixty-six years ago is up again. Peter White is interested in the matter and wants the Legislature to vest him with authority to try and secure the consent of the Wisconsin Legislature for a commission.

George H. Cannon, a retired surveyor, now in his eighty-first year, living on a farm near the village of Washington, in Macomb County, who spent the ten years from 1850 to 1860 on government surveys in the upper peninsula, has given the subject a good deal of consideration, and he is convinced that because of the error in the original government boundary survey there are now in Wisconsin about 600 square miles, including some prosperous towns and villages, that rightfully belong to Michigan. He wrote an exhaustive paper to show that the surveyor took a wrong terminal in running the boundary between the two States and the mistake has never been corrected. This paper is printed in volume 30 of the State Pioneer Society's records, from which the following facts are gleaned:

Congress in 1838 authorized the boundary survey. Michigan had been admitted as a State: Wisconsin was Cram, of the topographical engineers, was assigned by the War Department region, so his instructions were necessarily somewhat vague. In general water.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 26 .- Full terms of the proposed arbitration between the railroads and the state over the passenger and freight rate war, were public in both houses of the Minmade nesota Legislature today in a debate over the resolution authorizing a confer-ence committee already appointed to propose a plan of arbitration to the governor, attorney general and representa-tive of the railroads.

For 21/2 Cent Fare.

The proposed arbitration plan embraces the adoption of a 21/2-cent per mile passenger rates, a 2000 mile interchangeable mileage book and a 500-mile family mileage book, both redeemable in cash at 2 cents per mile at any time. The mileage books are to be unlimited as to the time in which they are to be used. The 21/2-cent rate is supposed to protect the railroads in their interstate business

Freight Reduction, Too.

In regard to commodity freight rates, the railroads are to agree to accept a reduction of an equivalent of two-thirds of the reduction ordered by the state railroad and warehouse commission. In return for these concessions the state is to dismiss all suits now pending in the courts looking toward an enforcement of the railroad and warehouse commission rates. The railroads are also to agree to resognize the state's right to supervise and regulate all railroad rates.

Goes Into Effect April 2.

If the compromise is accepted the new chedule of rates is to take effect immediately after passage. The committee is o report April 2.

SHARK ROBS U. S. NAVY.

Sailor in Philippines Plugs Hole in Boat with Trigger Finger Which Is Immediately "Amputated" by Monster.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26 .-A curious story illustrating the number and ferocity of the sharks that infest the river. Captain Cram evidently never harbor of Manila is afforded by an incident reported in the mail just received at the insular bureau.

One of the boats belonging to the little gunboat El Cano was being rowed out to the ship February 9. The plug in the bottom of the boat came out and to pre-vent it from being swamped J. J. Dunlap, a sailor of the El Cano, thrust his finger into the hole. The finger was immediately bitten off as if it were ampu-

Captain since it was impossible for me to ascer-Cram came into the region by way of tain whether the poison you took was the Menominee and Brule rivers to an acid or an alkali, I was compelled Lake Brule, where he commenced his to administer all the antidotes of which operations.

Captain Cram worked on the sur- Companion. vey two seasons. From a synopsis of his report to the department it appears that his conclusion was that there was not to be found in nature any conditions of a natural boundary between the head waters of the Montreal and Menominee rivers, and, therefore, it became necessary to make a delineation of the country between those head waters and along the intended route of the boundary.

Accordingly, the survey was commenced from the Lake of the Desert and continued westward. When within a distance of some twenty miles he came to a river two rods in width, which he thought might be the Montreal, and, carrying the survey to its mouth, found that the Ontonagon had been reached, and that the Montreal must be many miles to the westward. Continuing the survey westward for thirty miles or more, a good-sized stream was intersected which Mr. Cannon says was the east branch of the Montreal river, but which he deemed to be the real Montreal river, the object of his quest.

Making some examinations of the region in the vicinity he selected the confluence of two streams for the terminal point of the boundary survey at a place on the east branch, where a small stream which he named the Balsam river came in from the east, while the main river to its source, six miles further south, was called Pine river, and the lake from which it issues Pine lake. From this point the distance in a direct line to Lake Superior, at its mouth, is eighteen miles or more, and by the meanders of the river upwards of thirty-four miles. In fine, Captain Cram marked the boundary mistakenly along the east branch, so called, of the Montreal river, instead of the main river. Mr. Cannon says: "Some twenty years later the linear surveys were extended over the region when it became apparent for the first time that the point selected by Captain Cram was on the east branch of the Montreal and not on the headwaters of that saw the Montreal river, or, at least, only that portion from where the east ald branch formed a junction near to Lake Superior. It is now known that the headwaters of the Montreal river is a lake of more than 2,000 acres, and that the east branch had its source in a much smaller lake. Curious Story of a Dog.

"I have a young retriever, gentle, well bred, handsome," says a writer. "Her kindly disposition has won her much popularity and she is loved by the family cat, the green Amazon parrot and the village children. A few days ago some poor little superfluous Aberdeen puppies had to be drowned. But when the man went to get the little bodies to give them a decent burial, two had mysteriously vanished from the pail in which they had found a watery grave.

"For a long time we searched in vain, puzzled at the unaccountable disappearance, until a servant voluntered the information that 'Maggie had two little dogs in her bed.' And here we found them, two little corpses, licked clean and dry and gently laid side by side on the straw. She had fished them out of the pail, carried them there, and, apparently done all she could to revive them. She has never had any puppies of her own, so this seems a curious instance of maternal instinct."

Couldn't Figure It Out.

The story is told of a lank, disconsolate looking farmer who one day during the progress of a political meeting in Cooper Institute stood on the steps with the air of one who has been surfeited with a feast of some sort.

"Do you know who's talking in there. now?" demanded a stranger briskly, pausing for a moment beside the disconsolate farmer, "or are you just going in?"

"No, sir, I've just come out," said the farmer decidedly. "Mr. Evarts is Muscles what a Massage and Cold Bath talking in there."

"What about?" asked the stranger. "Well, he didn't say," the farmer answered, passing a knotted hand across his forehead.

The Handy Doctor in Your Vest Pocket

TS a thin, round-cornered little Enamel Box-

When carried in your vest pocket it means Health-Insurance.

It contains Six Candy Tablets of pleasant taste, almost as pleasant as Chocolate.

Each tablet is a working dose of Cascarets, which acts like Exercise on the Bowels and Liver.

It will not purge, sicken, nor upset the stomach.

Because it is not a "Bile-driver," like Salts, Sodium, Calomel, Jalap, Senna, nor Aperient Waters.

Neither is it like Castor Oil, Glycerine, or other Oily Laxatives that simply lubricate the Intestines for transit of the food stopped up in them at that particular time.

* * *

The chief cause of Constipation and Indigestion is a weakness of the Muscles that contract the Intestines and Bowels.

Cascarets are practically to the Bowel are to the Athletic Muscles.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract, expand, and squeeze the Digestive Juices out of food eaten.

They don't help the Bowels and Liver in such a way as to make them lean upon similar assistance for the future.

This is why, with Cascarets, the dose may be lessened each succeeding time instead of increased, as it must be with all other Cathartics and Laxatives.

* * *

Cascarets act like exercise. If carried in your vest pocket, (or carried in My Lady's Purse,) and eaten just when you suspect you need one, you will never know a sick day from the ordinary Ills of life. Because these Ills begin in the Bowels, and pave the way for all other diseases. "Vest Pocket" box 10 cents.

PE-RU-NA A MEDICAL COMPOUNT

In any medical compound as much depends upon the manner in which it is compounded as upon the ingredients used.

First, there must be a due proportion of the ingredients. Each drug in the pharmacopeia has its special action. To combine any drug with other drugs that have slightly different action, the combination must be made with strict reference to the use for which the compound is intended. The drugs may be well selected as to their efficacy, but the compound ENTIRELY SPOILED BY THE PROPORTION in which they are combined.

It takes years and years of experience to discover this proportion. There is no law of chemistry, of pharmacy, by which the exact balance of proportion can be determined. EXPERIENCE IS THE ONLY GUIDE.

In compounding a catarrh remedy Dr. Hartman has had many years' experience. In the use of the various ingredients which compose the catarrh remedy, Peruna, he has learned, little by little, how to harmonize the action of each ingredient, how to combine them into a stable compound, how to arrange them into such nice proportions as to blend the taste, the operation and the chemical peculiarities of each several ingredient in order to produce a pharmaceutical product beyond the criticism of doctors, pharmacists or chemists.

WE REPEAT, THAT AS MUCH DEPENDS ON THE WAY IN WHICH THE DRUGS ARE COMBINED AS DEPENDS UPON THE DRUGS THEMSELVES.

The compound must present a stability which is not affected by changes of temperature, not affected by exposure to the air, not affected by age. It must be so combined that it will remain just the same whether used in the logging or mining camps of the northwest or the coffee plantations of the tropics.

A complete list of the ingredients of Peruna would not enable any druggist or physician to reproduce Peruna. It is the skill and sagacity by which these ingredients are brought together that give Peruna much of its peculiar claims as an efficacious catarrh remedy.

However much virtue each ingredient of Peruna may possess, the value of the compound depends largely upon the manner and proportion in which they are combined. The right ingredients, put together rightly, is the only way a medical compound can be made of real value.

That Is the Story of a Michigan Farmer Who Lives in Western Canada.

Spruce Coulee Ranch, Olds, Alberta, Dec. 10th, 1906. Mr. M. V. McInnes, Canadian Govern-

It will be four years next May since I came to Olds, and I have lived here ever since.

Since I came here wheat has run from 25 to 45 bushels per acre, oats from 65 to 115, that I know of. I raised that last year; 115 bushels to the acre of the finest oats I ever seen, and oats that I sowed the 31st day of May this year went 721/2 to the acre and weighed 41 pounds to the bushel. My barley went 40 bushels last year and 50 this year, and was not sown until the latter part of May. I had three acres of potatoes this year and sold 700 bushels and put 275 bushels in the cellar and no bugs to pick.

We have a fine Government creamery at Olds. Our cows made $41 per head and didn't feed any grain-only prairie hay-so you see we are doing weil. We have the patent for our homestead now and am very thankful that we came to Alberta. We have made a wi
