FIVE YEARS FOR THOMAS COGSHILL

SEYMOUR BANK CASHIER WHO BE-CAME DEFAULTER IS PUN-ISHED.

WIFE FAINTS IN COURT.

Took Money to Recoup Loss and Is Dragged Hopelessly Into

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 21.-A even to court attaches inured to distressing occurrences, was enacted in the United States district court this morning when Thomas C. Cogshill, defaulting cashier of the bank of Seymour, Wis., was sentenced to five years in the government prison at Fort Leavenworth, by Judge Joseph V. Quarles.

Cogshill's wife, who came from their home at Seymour in the summer to be near her husband during his confinement in the county jail, was in the courtroom, and, after her husband stepped forward to the bar to plead guilty, her feelings overcame her and she was carried from the room in a fainting condition. Cogshill, whose life, until the indiscretions for which he is now suffering had been blameless, made a brief statement to the court concerning his crime and the events which led up to it and which was so simply told and so convincingly that even the judge was moved almost to tears while imposing the sentence.

Arrested in June.

Cogshill was arrested June 15, 1907, and brought to Milwaukee after a heavy shortage in his accounts had been discovered by the directors of the bank. The grand jury which reported Saturday indicted him on three counts charging the embezzlement in December, 1906, and January and February of 1907 of

Other counts in the indictment charged the cashier with the misapplication of $5000 on March 15, 1907, $5000 on March 23, 1907, and $5000 on April 29. The remaining counts charged him with unlawfully drawing notes of exchange, one of them for $2000 coming to the National Exchange bank. The entire amount aggregated about $50,000.

"A year ago I noticed a shortage of $2000 in the bills receivable account," said Cogshill when he was asked to plead. "I was unable to trace the source of this shortage, but I tried in many ways. I then took other funds in the bank and speculated in wheat on the board of trade in Chicago, hoping to recoup the loss. I can inform the court that not one cent of the money I took went into my own personal account. Every bit of it went in to make up the original shortage.'

Plea for Mercy.

A plea of leniency was made by Cogs attorney who said that the cashier had always borne an excellent reputation many of them having written to him and declaring that they were unable to account for his actions, They, too, asked for leniency. The cashier's counsel exfor leniency. The cashier's counsel explained that after the shortage was made known, Cogshill had $1 and $20 was given to his wife, all the rest of their savings and property being turned over to the bank in the effort to make up the

"This is one of those inexpressably sad cases. In this case the court must administer the law the same as in any other similar one. All of the sad wrecks that lie in the pathway of the human race have the same source. I cannot understand why a man cannot face the directors of his institution and make a clean breast of everything instead of becoming involved in a game which is worse than lottery. I realize that you are not like the professional wrong-doer, and the sentence of this court is that you committed to the Fort Leavenworth prison for a term of five years, commencing at noon today."

President Has Lad Dragged from Beneath Wheels of Train at Roanoke, Va.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 23.-Presilent Roosevelt arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning and found awaiting him at the station about 1000 people. He spoke briefly from his car platform.

Speaking of his feast on game in the anebrakes he said: "They were all good, including the possum." Just before the train left Roanoke the President espied a boy crawling under the car and yelling lustily to some one to have him rescued, he succeeded in having the youngster dragged out just before the wheels began ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt reached Roanoke at 8 o'clock his morning, the last day of his twentyfour days' outing. Seeing the disappointment was so plainly written on their the President requested that the rief talk. While he was still speaking, train pulled out for Washington. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 23.— Probably 20,000 persons were in danger of injuries last evening at the Central station when President Roosevelt's speeial train rolled into the shed at 6:10 clock. It was a surging mass of humanity that could not be controlled. The demonstration was so great that it was practically impossible for the President to speak. HERSEY TELLS OF TRIP GERMAN BALLOON REACHES THE OCEAN.

POMMERN LANDS AT ASBURY PARK, N. J., AND THE DUSSELDORF IN DELAWARE.

MAJ. HERSEY LOSES CONTEST.

Almost Every Aeronaut Exceeds Record Made by Milwaukeean, Who Descended in Canada,

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 23.-Indications this afternoon were that Germany had carried off the honors in the international balloon race and that Maj. Hersey's flight across the lakes into Canada will not stand as a record, although the Milwaukee man surpassed the distance of 402 miles which he made with Lieut. Lahm at Paris in the first contest. This mark is being broken by nearly every balloon racing.

The German balloon Pommern No. 1. with Oscar Erbsloeh has landed at Asbury Park, N. J., covering an air line distance from St. Louis of nearly 880 miles.

The German aeronauts did not descend until confronted by the shores of the ocean. It is believed the Pommern might easily have exceeded the 1200 miles made by Count de La Vaulx, but for this Another German in Record.

The St. Louis, American, landed at Westminster, Md., not far from Baltimore, making 730 miles.
The United States, Hersey's balloon, landed last night at Caledonia, Ont., making 650 miles.

The balloon America, Chandler, pilot; McCoy aid; landed at 8 o'clock this morning at Patuxent, about 21/2 miles from Annapolis Junction, Md.

The German balloon Abercron landed at Prince William, Manassas county, Va., at 7:10 a. m. today. Their record was 680 miles One Still in Air.

The balloon Anjou (France), Rene Gasnier, pilot, and Charles Levee, aid, landed two miles east of Armenius mines in Louisa county, Va., at 7:45 a. m. The occupants were well but exhausted. They estimated they traveled 700 miles air line.

There is one balloon still to be heard from. This is the Isle De France, which at last reports was traveling high over Mount Holly, N. J.

Philadelphia Is Excited.

Dispatches from Philadelphia are to the effect that the Quaker city became much excited upon seeing three balloons this morning.

One was positively identified as the Pommern. Another was identified as the Lotus II. A note dropped from the German balloon and picked up by a man on his way to work read: "Am 8000 feet in the air and have traveled 1000 miles. Am trying to make Atlantic City."

In some sections the crowds of people watching the balloons were so great that street car traffic was interfered with.

Rules of Contest. The James Gordon Bennett cup will be awarded to the balloon that has covered the longest distance from St. Louis measured in a straight line regardless of how long the balloon may have been in the air or how many miles the recording instrument carried shows to have been actually traveled. For example, a balloon that has trav-eled 1900 miles and returns to within 100 miles of St. Louis would lose the race to a balloon that traveled only 150 miles and landed that distance from St. Louis.

Feared Ocean, Says Moore.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.— Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, and president of the Aeronautical congress, today made this statement:

"I have anticipated that whenever a serious effort was made by enthusiastic aeronauts the records of Europe would be beaten because of our swiftly currents. If the present race had started at Kansas City or even farther west, probably 500 miles would have been added to the splendid records made in this race, long though they be, because it is apparent that several of the aeronauts descended because of their proximity to the ocean. However, the distribution of air pressure was ideal for the making of long flights."

Pommern's Trip Pleasant.

ASBURY, N. J., Oct. 23 .- The jour ney from St. Louis to the point just out-side of Asbury park where the German balloon, Pommern, landed was made in just five minutes less than forty hours, according to time record kept by the aeronauts. Mr. Clayton, one of the occupants of the balloon, said they had provisions and gas enough for an additional 500 or 600 miles. He said the voyage was an unusually pleasant one. There was no rain and scarcely any cloudy weather.

Germans Tell of Trip.

DOVER, Del., Oct. 23.—The German balloon Dusseldorf landed comfortably in balloon Dusseldori landed comfortably in the cornfield in which the corn had not yet been cut. The pilot and his aid. Hans Heidemann, were well and said they had an enjoyable trip and that the balloon behaved splendidly. The average balloon behaved splendidly. The speed was twenty miles an hour. Capt. Abercron said he attempted to make the Atlantic coast, but after passing Dover and seeking Delaware bay ahead of him he decided to land as the bay at the crossing point is thirty miles wide.

The two aeronauts are being royally entertained by the people of Dover and this section of Delaware.

WESTINGHOUSE IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

GREAT INDUSTRY IN TROUBLE AS RESULT OF TIGHT MONEY MARKET.

PITTSBURG EXCHANGE CLOSED

Financiers Fear Crash and Hear of Stock's Sensational Slump in Wall Street.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 23.-[Special.]-Pittsburg financial circles were thrown into an uproar this morning when it was announced that the local stock exchange would not be open today and that the Security Investment company was involved as a result of the tight money market and the financial troubles of Wall street. The amount involved will run into millions. This throws such great industrials as the Westinghouse Electric into receivership.

Ask for Receiver. Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon a petition was filed in the United States circuit court asking that receivers be appointed for the embarrassed circustances of the Westinghouse interests. The receivers for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company are

This will necessitate a temporary suspension, of receivership of the Westinghouse Electric company and the Westinghouse Machine company, and the Nerrst Lamp company. The manufacturing companies are in an absolutely solvent condition. The condition of the Security Investment company will in no way affect the Union Switch and Signal company, and the Westinghouse Air Brake company. I would like it explicitly understood that it was at the request of the Pittsburg clearinghouse that we have suspended trading temporarily.

Tight Money Blamed. The embarrassment of the concerns is attributed to inability to secure funds on account of the stringency in the money market.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has more orders on its books than it can comfortably han-dle, according to statements of officials and bankers conversant with the affairs of the corporation. So much business has been offered they did not have sufficient capital to hardle it.

It has been known for several months that the electric company was in need of ately.

To offset any fear that may be entertained here it was made public that local banks had expressed a large sum of money yesterday to New York for the purpose of relieving the money stringency in that city.

Following the close of the Pittsburg stock exchange, the Pittsburg clearing house association held a meeting for the purpose of making a full investigation of the financial affairs of the Westinghouse company and know for certain whether or not the local banks are warranted in coming to their assistance.

Receivership Is Certain.

When the meeting adjourned at noon Chairman Andrew Long, cashier of the Exchange National bank made the following statement:

So far developments indicate no trouble in the situation here. We have received no application for assistance, but the members of the association have agreed to stand together for mutual protection.
We realized that the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the Westinghouse Machine company, the Nernst Lamp company, and the Securities Investment company will likely go into the hands of a receiver. For that reason I believed it the better part of wisdom to advice the suspension of trading on the Pittsburg stock exchange.

RHEUMATISM RECIPE.

PREPARE THIS SIMPLE HOME-MADE MIXTURE YOURSELF.

Buy the Ingredients from Any Druggist in Your Town and Shake Them in a Bottle to Mix This Harmless Preparation.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being a vegetable extraction, are harmless to take

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of even the small towns elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists will mix the prescription if asked to.

Lady Warwick's White Peacock.

The agricultural school which the Countess of Warwick founded in Essex ten years ago, and which is to be closed forthwith on account of lack of support, was founded for the purpose of supplying a sound education to boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 17 who intended to follow rural pursuits. Those who know how hard the countess has worked to make this and similar schemes a success will understand her keen disappointment.

Outside her work, Lady Warwick finds chief recreation in her garden and in the society of her various pets. Among the latter must be numbered some sixty peacocks, which are to be seen about the grounds at Warwick castle. Lady Warwick takes immense pride in these birds, and tends them with great care. There is one pure white bird which never mixes with the others, but stands aloof in "splendid isolation."

The oldest man employed on the estate says his father could not remember the time when it was not at the castle, which would make it nearly a century old at least. Although his wonderful white lace tail is getting very thin he exhibits no other sign of age, but he never associates or feeds with the other peacocks.—Tit-Bits.

Chopping Ice with Pins.

"Lady, lend me your hatpin, please," said a burly iceman to a resident of West Philadelphia; "me partner's gone up the alley with me axe." Accordingly the lady lent him her hatpin and then watched developments. The iceman stepped to the back of his wagon, and, prodding a great cake of ice with the slender article of feminine apparel, soon severed a piece of ice of the desired size. As he delivered the ice he thanked the lady, remarking as he did so that he usually carried a hat-pin himself, but thought his wife must have worn it the day before and forgot to return it. The circumstance seems odd, but inquiry disclosed the fact that trained nurses are given to using even ordinary pins in breaking off bits of ice to administer to fevered patients, and that a larger pin, such as a hatpin, is efficient (and far less noisy), than the usual icepick, the latter article being tabooed in the sickroom.—Philadelphia Record.

OUR DEBT TO ENGLISH COMMON LAW.

By British Ambassador Bryce. How great a part the conception of the legal rights of the subject or citizen against the crown or the state power played in English and American history is known. Still less need I dwell on the capital importance for the whole political system of the United States of that doctrine of limited powers which has been so admirably worked out in your constitution, nor of that respect for a defined legal right which supports their provisions. JAMES BRYCE. The life of every nation rests mainly on what may be called its fixed ideas, those ideas which have become axioms in the mind of every citizen. Now, it was mainly by the common law that these fixed and fundamental ideas were molded whereon the constitutional freedom of America, as of England, rests.

One hundred and thirty-one years have now passed since the majestic current of the common law became divided into two streams, which have ever since flowed in distinct channels. Many statutes have been enacted in England since 1776, and many more enacted here, but the character of the common law remains essentially the same, and it forms the mental habits in those who study and practice it.

In nothing, perhaps, does the substantial identity of the two branches of the old stock appear so much as in the doctrines and practice of the law. It is a bond of union and of sympathy whose value can hardly be overrated. It is a bond of sympathy not least because it is a source of common pride.

EUROPE LIKELY TO LIMIT EMIGRATION.

By Senator Dillingham.

The constant and long-continued drain upon the rural population, from which class the great majority of emigrants come, and the general prosperity which now prevails have produced a scarcity of farm labor, and, it is claimed, the agricultural industry is suffering in consequence. Because of this scarcity of labor the condition of those remaining at home has, to a degree, been improved, but the general condition is causing much alarm among land owners, and a strong sentiment against emigration has developed. A very large proportion of male emigrants leave their native countries at a time when they are liable to military service, and this constitutes a strong objection to such emigrants. On the contrary, it is true that, in some parts of Europe at least, emigration is not without its attending benefit, and this is recognized and considered. For example, there is a decided tendency on the part of allens of certain nationalities to send back to their native countries a large part of their earnings in the United States. The total amount of money thus transferred each year is enormous, and the greater part of it goes to countries where it is much needed, and therefore highly appreciated.

Added to this is a desire on the part of nearly all the seaboard countries of Europe to build up a merchant marine, and as the carrying of emigrants is in many cases essential to the success of such enterprises the attitude of such governments toward emigration is affected accordingly. These are the real forces that control the situation in Europe to-day, and the trend of affairs indicates that more attention and greater supervision of emigration on the part of the countries most concerned will result.

CHURCH SHUNS POOR.

By Bishop Henry C. Potter.

destroying the habit and instinct BISHOP POTTER. of personal service. It is only by personal service that we can lift the man in the gutter. The church should take active steps to cure the physical and mental as well as the religious ills of the people. Its neglect of this vital work cannot be remedied too soon. It has neglected its most important functions. As a further and great cause of social unrest there comes that monstrous profusion and extravagance of expenditure which I am at times inclined to consider the worst note of our American civilization. As I grow older, I am more and more profoundly convinced that the impatience of the masses comes more from the abuse of wealth than from any other cause. Many of us who claim to be Christ's disciples are guilty in this particular. We fail to set the pace for the community in which we live by our own habits. The presence of luxury in the midst of tenement life has become to the average worker a source of irritation. He sees wealth open lavishly around him, while he struggles in misery. Is it any wonder he becomes wrought up at what he considers the great injustice of society? The conditions of modern life are making the average workman a bondsman to machinery. When you have reduced a man to a mere machine it is impossible for him to sustain life except by artificial methods more destructive even than the industries in which he is employed.

"How queer the women look!" he exclaimed. "Of course, the women themselves are lovely, but I don't like their clothes. Those rich colors are too flashy, the skirts are queer, and those big hats make them appear topheavy. I think the women of twenty-five years ago were more becomingly attired and looked sweeter."

Some of Hackett's experiences were nathetic. He hadn't had a pocket in his clothes in twenty-five years, and he felt about in constant fear that he would lose the things he was carrying. His Derby hat made his head ache, and when he took his first look at the big skys rapers the light hurt his eyes.

Bird Cages Filled with Silk.

Several Chinese debarked from the steamship Minnesota the other day carrying bird cages, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. The cages were partially wrapped with paper, but not so completely covered as to prevent Customs Inspector A. McLean from seeing they were occupied by yellow canaries.

After two or three of the Chinese the second carpenter of the ship and the second bo's'n, both Chinese, came along with bird cages completely wrapped in paper. They had almost reached the electric car before the inspector, whose curiosity was aroused by the unusually heavy influx of birds, overtook them and asked what was inside the cages. "Canally bird," said the men. "Let's have a look," said McLean.

He tore off the paper wrappings and found the cages stuffed with silks. The Chinese submitted to arrest as impassively as they had played the whole

A search of their bodies disclosed the fact that both men were wrapped in layers of costly silks. Kimonos, caps, scarfs and bolt silk were found in the collection. The men will have a hearing before a United States commissioner in a few days.

BANK DECLARED SOLVENT.

Wall Street Market Almost in Alarm Reflects New Shock to Financial Confidence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.-[Special.]-A financial crisis of serious proportions came to a head at 12:30 o'clock today when the Knickerbocker Trust company suspended payments of deposits during a run on the main and, branch offices of the company.

The institution is declared to be solvent and the reason of the suspension was due to the inability of officials to secure ready currency.

Second Vice President Brown said: "The trust company finds that it will be impossible to pay any more checks today on account of the company's inability to get sufficient currency. The trust company is perfectly solvent and may resume payment tomorrow."

Cortelyou to Rescue.

No other banks are affected and dispatches from ail parts of the country are to the effect that disturbance was not noticeable. This was true in dispatches from the middle west, particularly. Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou is expected to come to the relief with $6,000,000, although he refuses to commit himself on his policy.

Depositors in a Clamor. The closing of the doors of the institu-tion was attended with sensational scenes at its main banking room and the Harlem branch. Depositors who crowded the rooms clamoring for their money were insistent that they be permitted to withdraw even a few dollars and when this request was refused many refused to leave the building. Police assistance was necessary to preserve order. At the main office, Fifth avenue and Thirtyfourth street, after the doors were closed the crowd surged its way inward. The police forced them back to the street again, and from that time a guard was kept in front of the entrance.

Wall Street Shaken. The only place where the suspension nade itself felt violently was in the stock exchange, where prices move up and down with the slightest shift in financial minds. Here there was a wild time. Prices went up and down all day, some of the leading gilt-edged securities suffered severely. Call money went up to 70 per cent. Real Financial Shock.

Bankers, brokers and business men generally came down to their offices early today. The feeling of relief and satisfac-tion with which these men began the transaction of business yesterday was succeeded by early nervousness as a result of the developments concerning the Knickerbocker company. The news made public last night and printed in the newspapers today that the National Bank of Commerce yesterday gave notice that it would decline any longer to act as clear-inghouse agent for the Knickerbocker Trust company and the resignation of had successfully passed the inspector the latter institution served to unsettle sentiment more than the Morse-Heinze developments of last week. The magnitude of business transacted by the Knick-erbocker Trust company with its deposits amounting to more than $60,000, 000 gave a much more serious aspect to the changes made in its managemen than did the changes in the relatively smaller Morse-Heinze concern.

The announcement of Mr. Barney's resignation was followed by a series of conferences of financial men at Sherry' which lasted until nearly 2 o'clock this morning. Among those present at the conferences were J. Pierpont Morgan and his partners, George W. Perkins and Charles Steele, Mr. Morgan taking a leading part in the discussion looking to the improvement of the situation. Directors Give Out Statement.

Three separate meetings were held. one of the directors of the Knickerbock-Trust company, a second of the trust mpanies' association, and a third bankers and financiers generally. When the meetings broke up the following statement was given out by a committee of the directors of the Knickerbocker Trust company:

Trust company:

In view of the fact that Mr. Barney's outside interests had become greatly extended, and in view of his personal position in the directorate of certain institutions recently under criticism, in particular because of his position with Mr. Morse and some of Mr. Morse's companies, he has decided that the best interests of the company would be served by his resignation, although he had no loans with the Knickerbocker Trust company. He has resigned as president of the trust company and will resign as a director. He also will resign as a director of the National Bank of Commerce, which was the clearing house agent of the Knickerbocker Trust company. In view of the fact that the Knickerbocker will hereafter clear by itself it was deemed advisable to obtain guarantees of additional cash should it be needed. These guarantees have been obtained and the Knickerbocker will be amply prepared to meet any exigencies that obtained and the Knickerbocker will be amply prepared to meet any exigencies that may grow out of a change in 'the method of clearing. The Knickerbocker has in its own vaults today $8,000,000 in cash. If more cash is needed it will be immediately forthcoming under the guarantees. The meeting of the trust company presidents was largely for the purpose of outlining a plan for a clearing house of trust companies, similar to the clearing house of banks. This will enable all trust companies to stand together as the banks are standing together.

Barney's Resignation Reasons.

Is that I resigned to give my associates in the company a free hand in the management. It occurred to me that they might fill my place by the selection of a man able to serve the interests of the company, and if this could be done I wanted to give the directors ample opportunity to do so. There is not the slightest truth in any report that I was forced out of the company by the clearing house commission or by the action of the Bank of Commerce."

Charles W. Morse in the American Ice company, the National Bank of North America, and the New Amsterdam National bank, in all of which he was a director. Mr. Morse was likewise a director of some of the realty companies in which Mr. Barney is heavily interested. It was suggested that Mr. Barney resigned from the presidency because his name had appeared as a director of Morse institutions in the course of the notoriety achieved by Mr. Morse in the last week. Mr. Barney refused to entertain the suggestion. Nevertheless, it was believed this was a reason prompting his resignation. prompting his resignation.

Government to the Rescue.

FIRE IN THE WEST MILWAUKEE SHOPS

PLANING MILL AND WOODWORKING PLANT TOTALLY DESTROYED SUNDAY NIGHT.

LOSS REACHES $100,000.

City Department Aids Milwaukee Road Firemen but Supply of Water Is Insufficient.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 21.-Fire destroyed the large planing mill and woodworking shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road in the Menominee valley west of the city, Sunday night, causing a loss of nearly $100,000 to the company and a heavy loss to workmen, whose tools were burned. Owing to a shortage of cars the loss outside of the value of the plant is a heavy one, for no cars can be built until the building is replaced.

A Mass of Flames.

The cause of the fire is not known and the theory is that it started through spontaneous combustion. It was first noticed by John Murphy, night engineer, and Hubert Broenon, a night watchman. A single alarm was turned in and the city fire apparatus responded as well as the fire department at the shops. The shop department soon had five streams playing on the fire under low pressure, soon got beyond their control. When the first engine arrived from the city the entire building was a mass of flames and the large air compressors in the power house west of the main building had blown up tearing a huge hole in the roof. An attempt was made to confine the flames to the north end of the shops, for in the south part much valuable timber was stored, which burned like tinder. The effort was futile, however, for the fire spread rapidly over the entire building. The lack of wind saved other buildings of the company from destruction.

Several Narrow Escapes.

A large reservoir containing 75,000 gallons of water was soon pumped dry by the engines and two tanks containing each 50,000 gallons were also emptied. The fire burned fiercely from 7:15, when the alarm was turned in, until 11 o'clock before it was found possible to withdraw most of the apparatus. At 9 o'clock a part of the heavy east wall fell with a crash, narrowly escaping killing Pipeman John Moroney and Acting Capt. James Roe of No. 24.
These two leaped back and fell into a reservoir still containing five or six feet of water. They were rescued by policemen and onlookers who rushed their aid with poles. Parts of the west walls also fell and the north and south walls only were left standing. The system of sprinklers installed at the woodworking shops, which were thought sufficient to cope with an ordinary fire proved of no protection. The valiant work of the twelve firemen employed by the railroad company did much to check the flames until the arrival of the city department. The lack of sufficient pressure was a serious draw-back to the department in fighting the

The wooden portions of engines and wood portions of freight and gondola cars were manufactured in these shops, and the loss of the building, the timber and workmen's tools will prove a severe drawback to the company. The fire started in the drying room in the center of the large building. At the north end of the mill were stored valuable patterns which are also lost, although many of them had been moved only a week ago. Some of the engines were withdrawn shortly after 9 owing to inadequate pressure, and after the each wall fell the fire was soon under control. There was only a smouldering ruin to mark the spot of the huge brick structure at midnight when the last en-gines left the scene.

To Rebuild at Once.

C. F. Loweth, superintendent of the bridge and building department of the Milwaukee road, arrived in the city at o'clock this morning from Chicago. He comes to Milwaukee to look over the condition at the Milwaukee shops and to take prompt steps to insure rebuild-ing of the burned structures, and in the meantime to arrange for shifting the work. For the time being Supt. A. E. Manchester of the shops will draw on the company's plants at Dubuque, Ia., and Minneapolis, Minn., for necessary material to carry on general repair work at the Milwaukee shops, until changes can be made to insure resumption regular construction work here, wh will be suspended at the Milwaukee shops.

GOSSIP FOR THE LADIES.

My little lad, so dear you grow
That, never sleeping, lives a fear
Within my breast that you will go
From arms that gave no welcome here.

If I had sought God's love to see, When first I knew; or had been glad— As women are, when tenderly His message comes—my little lad,

I need not tremble all the day, Nor clasp you closer in the night; Well knowing, were you called away From undescrying love, 'twere right.

Now life has grown so fair to me. Seen through your eyes that find it so, I ask no more—resentfully— Why women are, for mothers know.

Oh, little lad, if God is good,
Then you will live, that I may make
Not only you the man I would,
But my life worthier for your sake! -Elizabeth Payne in Harper's Bazar.

Inviting the Right Woman. "Now, my dear," said a young husband one morning to his wife, who was making out an invitation list for a house party, "if you'll allow me, I really think I can be of some service to you in this matter. You've given a great deal of attention to the masculine element-in fact, you've given every man twice as much consideration as his worth, and you've racked your brain to find reasons why he mustn't fail you on any pretext what-soever. The result will be that you'll have no time to think of the women, and you'll end by inviting them as if they were some wholesale commodity. If you'll give me your list of men I think I can give you some ideas as to the womwho will be most agreeable to them. I've always thought that if husbands more consulted house parties wouldn't so often consist of the right kind of men and the wrong kind of wom-Now, I have a chance to test my Unjust Charity.

New York Tribune.

"To occupy the position of a donor is decidedly flattering to self-love, and therefore women often indulge in the luxury of charity at the cost of justice and common sense," said a philosophic matron recently. "The statement that it is more blessed to give than to receive is not generally understood to have any application to the one whose giving involves no self-denial. What, then, can be said of the very common practice of presenting what is not our own? No woman with the smallest pretension to respectability would take money from the purse of her cook or dressmaker in order to give it to the interesting person with a good story, a plaintive voice and a large capacity for idleness. But if she does not take it out she often fails to put There are rich women who pay sweating wages to their servants and who yet never refuse to place their names on subscription lists. When Success Spells Failure.

Business success for the woman does not mean domestic or individual happiness, and, on the whole, business makes for restlessness, selfishness and discontent. You cannot measure the influence of business on the woman by figures or statistics. You cannot count wrecked lives among women wage earners as you can tally off divorce cases on court calendars, and trace them to certain causes, such as incompatability, desertion, cruelty, etc. You cannot say that a woman in business is a failure or sucess according to the salary she draws. You cannot expect the trim, self-contained girl at your elbow to admit that her perfectly appointed little apartment, her perfectly trained maid, her perfectly ordered life of dinners, clubs, theaters and opera parties spells failure. She says she is a success. In her heart she knows that when the last guest has gone, and the trim little maid has been dismissed, the exquisitely appointed little apartment becomes a whited sepulcher in which the starved soul of the woman sits alone weeping .- Anna Steese Richardson in The Woman's Home Companion.

How the Engaged Girl life May Make Others Happy

A girl who is engaged to be married has opportunity when away in the sum mer to make herself the most popular person present when her fiance is her. For if she has the least thought for others it lies within her power to do much for them and to help other girls not engaged to so many good times that the fruits of her thought are more than attractive member of society as well as likely to materialize in the unusual number and attractiveness of wedding gifts On the other hand, she can thoughtlessness and selfishness make herself, if not disliked, at least a person of indifference to others.

The road to popularity lies simply along the way of trying to use her happiness to add to the pleasure of others.

The presence of a man sometimes makes possible excursions not safe for girls alone, and there is scarcely a place in the country or seashore where men are not in the minority and sadly needed at times. If the engaged girl will take occasion when her fiance is with her for a time to make up a picnic or boating party and ask the other girls to go along she will have done a graceful and kind thing. One day occasionally spent in the society of others is not going to spoil the man's whole vacation, which naturally he would rather have as much as he can with his fiancee, and unless he is extremely selfish he will be quite willing to share in this respect of helping others.

To spend her time ostentationally writing to her fiance and talking of him in his absence is not only bad form, but silly and often bores others extremely. The wearing a betrothal ring must not forget that she is not the first one who has been engaged and that she is not a paragon of perfection and a fatal fas-cinator even though she is and should be her future husband. Others, however, not regard her with the same eyes, and unless she carries herself simply and she becomes Also, she makes herself disliked by self-are boarding schools and boarding Investigation cannot be too And how is this to be accomplished? careful before placing a girl in one of them. The best offer advantages of an admirable kind. The courses of study, while not so diverse as those of college, are particularly adapted to feminine tastes, while the accomplishments which tend to make social life more interesting and agreeable are given a large share of attention. History, literature, the modern languages, music and drawing have perhaps the foremost places in the curriculum. Many of these schools are in cities where opportunities are given, under proper chaperonage, for girls to see the best theatrical performances and to hear concerts of value. In these schools girls come into more intimate relations with their teachers than is possible in a college, and they are also much more strictly chaperoned. Matters of form and deportment, details of manner, so far as it can be taught, are given thought and attention, often with happy results. One may say that a girl should learn these things at home, but sometimes her surroundings are not favorable and again she needs the impetus of just such cricism as she receives at a good boarding school to make her aware of the value of form. The aim of a good boarding school is to make of a girl an to make her mentally appreciative.

A woman's college offers a much wider sphere for a girl's energies and abilities than does a boarding school. If she loves study, is fond of athletics, and is interested in a large variety of human nature, college is the place for her. Here she has a chance for the develop-ment of her best mental powers. Deportment is not one of the unwritten branches of the curriculum as it is in a what it is in boarding schools, it is not so is taught by the social pre-eminence of those who bring the best breeding with them. Though the surveillance is not what it is in boarding school, it is not so necessary, because the girls are somewhat older than those in boarding schools, and because the sentiment of the students generally is for law and order. The best-known girls' colleges in the United States are situated in the couptry, and the opportunity thus given for sport and for a healthy appreciation of nature is an invaluable asset for those institutions. At no time in life is the love of beauty at once so delicate and love of beauty at once so delicate and so keen as in those years when one is eligible to college life. To foster this perhaps latent appreciation by a direct contact with the beauties of nature is one of the opportunities offered by Bryn Mawr, Vassar, Wellesley, Smith and other well known women's colleges.

The three or four years in college among a hundred or more other girls often forms one of the happiest and most fruitful periods of a girl's life. She makes interesting and valuable friendships. Often her knowledge of the world is broadened by visits paid her school-is broadened by visits paid her school-mates in vacation time. The advantages she derives from properly directed study are great; the advantages in other directions are possibly greater. A woman col-lege is a little world in which every variety of femininity may be observed. The life there gives opportunity for the develop-ment of the most diverse talents. Any sort of capability eventually finds scope for action in college life. The serious for action in college life. The serious and the recreative sides of life each find expression there. A girl who lends herself freely to the opportunities of college life should quit its doors prepared for social and domestic life, and able also to take care of herself financially if emergencies requires gencies require. The comparative cost of college and boarding school life is often an important point in the matter of deciding a girl's educational destination. The best boarding schools are more expensive than the colleges, so far as formal expenditure is concerned. A girl's personal expenses, THE LAST SUMMER BOARDER.

'Tis the last summer boarder Left boarding alone; All his hungry compan'ons Have settled and gone; No clerk, or school teacher, No salesgirl is nigh To hear him imploring A third piece of pie.

He has packed up his gripsacks,
He's loaded his trunk
With ris golf suit and flannels
And similar junk;
Soon to the veranda
Again he'll repair
And for one restful evening
He'll now find a chair.

Ah, the last fly of summer Has dropped in his tea, And the last lonely chigger Has bitten his knee; The last girl of summer This morning must go, And sixteenthly and lastly She whispered her "No."

And the last lorn mosquito
Has buzzed in his ear,
With the faith of the lonely
That casts out all fear,
It sat on his eyebrow
And bit its last bite, Frostnipped and exhausted Its spirit took flight.

'Tis the last summer boarder—
He looks at his bill,
And the silence grows thicker
On valley and hill.
The extras are charged in,
The bill is quite high—
And the last item "Extra"
Is one for "Good-bye."

USES OF REDWOOD.

California Coast Product a Strong Competitor of Cypress.

In searching for a substitute for ordinary woods employed in construction work, the supply of many of which is rapidly decreasing, it has been found that the coast redwood forests of California offer a product which can be put to excellent commercial use. California red-wood is durable and its fine working qualities make it a strong competitor of cypress, and also adaptable to many of speedy extinction of this unique and wonwith difficulty, says the Boston Transcript. The coast redwood is much more plentiful, and reproduces abundantly, so that it is a good tree for the forester to utilize for successive timber crops. It is likely that the lumber trade will encourage the use of redwood more and more in the future, as comparatively little practical use has been made of the products of these extensive forests of California up to the present time. The use of redwood is now about 1½ per cent. of the total consumption of lumber. It is estimated that the forests of California estimated that the forest estimated that the fo have about 75,000,000,000 feet of

The Redwood association has recently requested the forest service of the Unit-ed States department of agriculture to make a complete study of the physical and mechanical properties of redwood lumber in order to obtain reliable information concerning its properties. Redwood timber for a long time has had extensive use in California, but not until recently has entered the eastern markets. Its use in the east, thus far, has been for shingles, finishing, flooring, ow," siding and laths. It is probable that in the near future its usefulness as a structural material will extend because of the rising price of the commoner eastern woods, and because of its durability and strength in comparison with its weight. Its fire resisting quality is another argument for its use which has caused it to find favor in the west. Citizens of San Francisco have always held that the fire risk in that city was less than in other eities with an equal number of wooden structures because of this quality of red-

This opportunity came when war was declared with Spain. At the beginning of the conflict the young surgeon, assisted by Provided velt who had resigned his position as assistant secretary of the navy, organized the famous regiment of Rough Riders. Wood was made colonel of the regiment, Roosevelt being lieutenant colonel. Upon the surrender of the Spanish forces at Santiago in 1898, Wood was appointed military governor of that city and after that his rise was rapid. AMERICAN EMBASSY PROBES AR REST OF AMERICANS BY PO-LICE OF CZAR.

CUSTODY CAUSE IS HIDDEN.

Chicagoan and Wife Are Socialists and Are Taken with Number of Finn Revolutionists.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.-The machinery of the American embassy was set in motion today to secure the re lease of William English Walling of Indianapolis, his wife, Anna, and his sister-in-law, Miss Rose Strunsky, who were arrested at the Hotel De France here last night because of their association with members of the Finnish progressive party, four of whom, including the wife of Prof. Malmburg of Helsingfors university, were taken into custody at the same time.

May Be Released at Once. Attaches of the embassy visited the prefecture of police and the headquarters of the secret police in endeavors to learn the nature of the charges against the American prisoners and to see whether they were comfortably treated. The Wallings probably will be released on condition of their leaving Russia, but the examination of the books, manuscripts, and other documents seized by the police when the Wallings were taken into custody, may delay the release of the pris-oners for a few days. The police accuse Mr. Walling with furnishing financial aid to the revolutionary movement, but that is not the charge on which he and the other members of the party were arrested last English, an uncle of Mr. Walling. The telegram contained a brief summary of the facts concerning the arrest as sent out in the press dispatches.

Walling's Career in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 21.-William English Walling, who is 32 years old, is the son of Dr. Willoughby Walling, 4127 Drexel boulevard, and brother of Willoughby G. Walling, secretary of the Western Trust and Savings bank of this city. He is a grandson of the late William English of Indianapolis. Both he and his wife, whose maden pame way and his wife, whose maiden name was Anna Strunsky, are widely known, principally through their literary work in connection with Russian revolution.

Mr. Walling was arrested in the Russian capital in January, 1906, because of his alleged interest in the revolutionary movement, but was released soon after-

He was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1897 and was elected to the honorary fraternity of the Phi Beta Kappa. He also was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He was state factory inspector under Gov. Tanner. He is known as an ardent Socialist and is considered an authority on economic questions.

Wife Also a Socialist.

His wife is a Jewess of striking beauty. She became known to fame severa years ago as the collaborator with Jack London in "The Kempton Mace Letters." She was born in Russia. Mrs. Walling's education was received in this but her sympathies ever turned back to the oppression of her race in Russia. She studied sociological and economic questions in New York city, developing a decidedly Socialistic turn of mind. While in that city she lived at Whittier hall, the Columbia university dormitory for women.

It was while she was in St. Petersburg on a journalistic errand connected with the revolutionary propaganda two years ago that she met Mr. Walling, who was traveling in Europe to study the immigration problems.

Although they never had met in America they became acquainted as fellow workers in the Russian capital. Their common aims and sympathies soon ripened into love and in June, 1906, their engagement was announced. Their mar-riage in Paris soon followed.

In December following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Walling returned to America and paid his parents here a visit Later they returned to Europe to pursue their literary work and interests in the Russian people.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The audience at David Warfield's performance in "A Grand Army Man," at the dedication of the Stuyvesant theater, little knew that the star was gambling suc-cess in his new character against the biggest offer of salary ever made to an American actor. Mr. Warfield had declined a proportion of $1,000,000 for contract covering ten years at $100,000 a year, in order to make his latest try for the approval of the theatergoers under the management of David Belacco, who first introduced him to the public in serious roles. This great sum was to be guaranteed by real estate values and the actor was to risk no capital in the venture. The offer was made by Felix Isman of Philadelphia, who is thought to have been acting for others. "Yes. I received the offer," said Mr.

Warfield. "Was Mr. Isman making it for him self?

"I don't think so," replied the actor.

ARE SHIPPING TOO MUCH PULP WOOD,

Canadian Papermakers Allege Their Business Is Being Ruined-Ask Imposition of Duty.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 21 .- For some time past there has been a strong movement in Canada in favor of a radical change in the fiscal condition foverning the export of pulp wood to the United States. This movement, which has for months been growing in force and intensity, culminated a few days ago in the deputation from the pulp and paper manufacturers of the Dominion, who came to Ottawa and waited upon the government, that the exportation of pulp wood from Canada should be prohibited.

It is claimed not only by those interested in the manufacture of pulp paper, in this country, but by impartial authorities who have studied the question, that Canada, which has probably the greatest supply in the world of spruce for the manufacture of paper, has made lit-tle progress in that line of industry. It is alleged that the cause of this is to be found in the laws that permit the export of pulp wood to the United States at a price which enables the American manufacturer to get his raw material from Canada, turn it into paper and then sell the finished product in Canada to the serious detriment of the home industry.

Comes from Quebec.

Official figures, emanating from the department of commerce at Washington, go to show that the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York produce more than two-thirds of all the pulp that constitutes the output of the mills of the United States. In order to accomplish this production there were required, in 1905, nearly 1,300,000,-000 feet of timber, and of that enormous quantity the province of Quebec contributed almost one-third. New Hampshire used 70 per cent. of Quebec wood in 1905, and last year used a still great-er amount. The figures further show that, during the six years ending December 30, 1905, the increase in the export of spruce pulp wood from Canada to the United States has been 83 per Say Demand Is Just.

Canada is the second best customer that the American paper manufacturer has for his finished product. The Cana-dian manufacturers declare that they are justified in making the demand which they are now nurging upon the Dominion government, for many good and sufficient reasons, one of the most cogent being that "the free export of pulp wood to the United States, combined with the tariff against our pulp and paper, favors the development of the paper industry in the United States rather than in Cana-

The arguments advanced made strong impression upon the members of the government who heard the deputa-tion, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised early and earnest consideration of the question. The remedies suggested to ameliorate the condition of the Cana-dian paper manufacturer at the present time are the imposition of an export duty on pulp wood, or the passing of general legislation prohibiting its exportation altogether.

GOOD ARMY JOBS GOING BEGGING.

College Men Turn Down Commissions in Coast Artillery Service-West Point Not Necessary.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21 .-There is a short cut to a commission in the United States army without passing through the four years' course at West Point, but young American college men do not appear disposed to take advantage of the opportunity.

Capt. Hagood of the coast artillery, who has been specially designated to col-lect information for the war department as to the causes and remedies for this remarkable situation, has this to say:

Not One Application. "For the first time in the history of the army, vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant are going begging. The artillery bill of last year authorized the appointment in the coast artillery each year for five years, of sixty second lieutenants over and above ordinary casual tenants. Invitations were sent to the presidents of twenty-five principal schools and colleges instructing them to send in the names of graduates who desired to be appointed second lieutenants in the coast artillery. After waiting six months no names have been submitted. Eighty-five vacancies in the grade exist today and the only applications on file are about twenty enlisted men and civilians."

Enlisted Force Worse Off.

The enlisted force is even worse off and according to Capt. Hagood there is now need for 10,000 able-bodied men for the coast artillery at $13 a month with board and lodging.

"Not only is it impossible to recruit the army to the authorized strength, but the inadequate force is shrinking day by day. On the 15th inst., there were only 9628 enlisted men in the coast although its authorized strength is 19, 321. So that the service has actually lost 2000 men in the last year, and the non-commissioned officers, particularly, non-commissioned officers, particularly, are leaving by hundreds for good jobs in

The evidence consists of alleged in-criminating letters which passed between sisters and Howard W. Lappe. Chief Judge Rice after a consultation with the judges informed Hartje's attorney that the court did not desire at this time to listen to argument on the merits of the appeal but that the court was anxious to hear argument as to the court's power to order the reopening of the case. Counsel for both sides then proceeded to argue on the question of the court's right to reopen the case and at the conclusion of the matter was taken under advisement.

This quality policy so consistently pursued has resulted in healthful and rapid growth. In the twenty-five years since in the last six months, during which the last factory annex in Milwaukee has been building, the volume of business has so greatly increased that even with this demand.

Including the new Seattle factory which has juest been completed, the total capacity of the Mayer Boot and Shoe Company exceeds 9,000 pairs a day. WHAT IS PE-RU-NA?

Is it a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or is it Both?

Some people call Peruna a great mic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy.

Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh remedy than to call it a tonic? Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic.

In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membranes affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonio action on the nervous system.

Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEES and COPAIBA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, reinforced by such renowned tonics as COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, COR-YDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body.

From a theoretical standpoint, therefore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna, confirms this opinion. Numberless testimonials from every quarter of the earth furnish ample evidence that this judgment is not over enthusiastic. When practical experience confirms a well-grounded theory the result is a truth that cannot be

Bible Recovered from Sea.

A remarkable find was made recently by a Shields trawler while fishing fifty miles from the Tyne. When the net was hauled on deck a Bible was recovered from the load of fish. This proved most fascinating. He placed a large quantity of flour in a small bowl, emptied a jug of water on top of it, and proceeded to mold it deftly into shape, as he had often seen his wife do. The flour and water promptly forsook the bowl and betook themselves to his hands. Then the water promptly forsook the bowl and betook themselves to his hands. He rushed to the rescue, and left the greater portion of paste fairly evenly divided between the handles of the two saucepans and the poker. At this juncture the tomatoes started to see if they couldn't surpass he milk in burning. They succeeded. TEN MILLION BOXES A YEAR

The most wonderful record in all history - merit made it. The great sums of money spent in advertising have only served to make CASCARETS known, but the greatest advertisement ever printed could do no more than induce a person to try CASCARETS once—a free sample, or at most, a 10 cent box. Then comes the test, and if CASCARETS had not proved their merit beyond the highest expectations there would not today, after five years on the market, be a sale of nearly a million boxes a month. This great success has been made by the kind words of our friends. No one who has ever tried CASCARETS fails to be pleased and talk nicely about them. CASCARETS are not only easiest to buy, to carry, to take, to give, but are also the best medicine for the bowels ever CANDY CATHARTIC discovered. Files full of voluntary THEY WORK WHILE YOU SIEEP testimanials Cascarets are a perfect cure for Constipation, Appendicitis, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Insomnia, Palpitation of the Heart, Bad Breath, Bad Blood, Pimples, Piles, Worms and all bowel diseases of childhood and old age. They make mother's milk mildly purgative. Mama takes a CASCARET, baby gets the benefit. Children like to take them. They are the one perfect, unequaled family remedy. Nothing more can be said. Everybody should carry a box in the pocket and have another in the house. Don't forget "they work while you sleep," and "a CASCARET at night makes you feel all right - in the morning."
