known in Delta county, and has many friends throughout it who will make his vote a large one at the primaries this fall. His work during the half term has met with general approval, and the judgment of the board as to his fitness will be undoubtedly confirmed by an appreciative public with a nomination and election to a full term. This is a year where devotion to details and courtesy to all who deal with a public officer will be more than ever effective in securing his continuance in office, and on this score Mr. Mallman has much to expect and nothing to fear.

ON HIS RECORD.

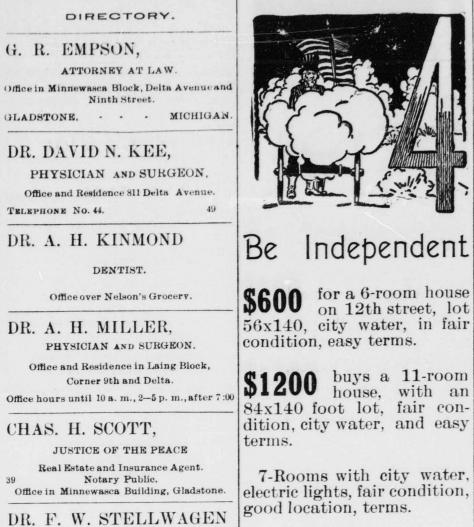

The announcement of Sheriff Aronson that he will be in the field for a second term has met with approval from all parts of the county. The sheriff's acquaintance throughout the county is probably the widest of any county officer's, and the encouragement he has received from those who approve honest and fearless conduct in office has induced him to enter the primary for that reward it is the party's custom to bestow on faithful service. Mr. Aronson, as undersheriff during the interrupted term of Richard Perow, earned the promotion which was ananimously awarded to him two years ago by his party. Since then the county has been familiar with his official record; it is now a stronger factor in the campaign the townships; their vote will decide than any eleventh-hour canvass. Mr. Aronson, however, intends that it shall be known that he is in the running. His many friends throughout the county will supplement his efforts; and though the field of opposition is, as usual, widespread, it is probable that success will crown his efforts at the September primaries, on a strictly individual vote; and that Mr. Aronson will continue, for the remaining two

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Editor, Gladstone Delta. Dear Sir:-

I wish to announce through your paper my candidacy for the nomination for Prosecuting Attorney on the Republican ticket at the Primary Election to be held in September.

I realize that no can idate can hope to succeed at this election without the hearty cooperation of his friends. It will be utterly impossible for me to see port and vote at the Primaries. If nominated and elected it is my intention to treat the county the same as any other client, and to see that its interests and the interests of every person in it, are fairly and faithfully lookvictuals toward the end of the siege:

"Even the rich had to live on the meagerest diet and to take into their menu things that till then only the trapper in the virgin forests was supposed to eat. I leave it to you to imagine what kind of meals were served in the small restaurants and boarding houses.

"Moreover, everybody had to submit to the strictest orders. People stood in file before the butcher and baker shops to wait for their turns. Each household was furnished with a card from the municipality authorizing the bearer to ation. buy a certain amount of meat and bread. The cook, the housewife, the young girl, the little child (men never go shopping in France), were posted for hours before the shops in rain and snow, with wet feet, shivering with cold. The unfortunate ones endured without a murmur these hardships. Women throughout the time of the slege were setting an example of courage and self abnegation not always followed by men. "It was a sad and touching spectacle these long files of women, nearly all dressed in black, grouped before the doors of the dealers, watched by the national guard, with whom they at first were laughing and chatting, till the sufferings from the cold had silenced the laugh and sometimes brought forth the tears. "But in spite of all precautions the stores one by one were exhausted, the provisions, put in too late before the siege, were used up, and, while the babies, deprived of milk, died in great numbers or, fed on sweet wine and bread, pined slowly away, the big people tried to find new resources to prolong their lives."

A FAITHFUL SERVANT. A. P. Smith, county clerk of Delta POLITICALLY county is again a candidate to succeed himself in that office and his petitions have been circulated and signed in varing his term of office. All who have clerk's office pleasant to all.

He was a resident of Gladstone at the time of his first election and is regarded here with great esteem. Since he has made his home in the county seat he has found equal favor with the people of Escanaba. No one who has business with his office will care to see any change made this year, and unless all signs fail he will be renominated at the September primaries by a large maj-

the business men alone, it would be almost unanimous. Those who seldom or never are concerned with the clerk's office should think long before committing themselves to any other candidate. The work of a county clerk is like any other-it must be learned. A beginner will make many mistakes before he becomes proficient and the annoyance will fall largely upon those who do business with him. For this reason a change should not be made merely to give another the place. In many of the older counties a clerk fills the office for many terms, and the The name of the Hon. Thomas B. bench, the bar and the public profit by his proficiency. There seems to be no serious opposition this year and The much trouble in securing the nomin-

Three candidates at least for office are unanimous in the opinion that governor and as many for representano better officer can be found in this tive will appear on the ballot, together bailiwick. He has been uniformly with the long list of aspirants to county courteous and obliging and has spared offices. The precautions directed by no pains to make business with the law, of changing the order of the names on the ballots, and impossibility of instruction ballots, render the elector's choice a difficult one. Neither will the old slip method be allowed; so that each man must be his own county convention. Whether a satisfactory and wellbalanced ticket will be put up, remains to be seen. If so, the primary system is a success.

As no combination among candidates is possible, every man stands or falls by himself; and each must press his claims directly upon the people, of long and faithful service, or on the part of the new comers, promise of diligent and capable work in office.

Escanaba, as usual, presents a field of candidates for every office; but as the city will be split among its factions, all eyes are turned toward Gladstone and the honors. The tempest of cards and pictures, of pledges and promises, of buttons and badges, is at hand; at present only a sprinkling has fallen.

Mallman, who has made a good record in the office of county treasurer, during the past year, has annonnced himself a candidate for nomination. Mr. Mallman, who became fully conversant as deputy with the office work, was appointed by the board to fill the vacancy left by the death of Charles J. Semer. Generous Mrs. Crewe.

A gambling story is told of Charles James Fox that rather reflects on his honor. He was one of the ardent admirers of Mrs. Crewe, a noted beauty of her day, and it is related that a gentleman lost a considerable sum to this lady at play and, being obliged to leave town suddenly, gave Mr. Fox the money to pay her, begging him to apologize to her for his not having paid the debt of honor in person. Fox lost every shilling of it before morning. Mrs. Crewe often met the supposed debtor afterward and, surprised that he never noticed the circumstances, at length delicately hinted the matter to him.

"Bless me!" said he. "I paid the money to Mr. Fox three months ago." "Oh, did you, sir?" said Mrs. Crewe good naturedly. "Then probably he paid me, and I forgot it."

Risky Revenge. Gaganini, the wonderful violinist, had a narrow escape at Ferrara from a violent death. Enraged by some hissing from the pit, he resolved to avenge the insult, and at the close of his programme informed the audience that he would imitate the language of various animals. After having rendered the notes of different birds, the mewing of a cat, and the barking of a dog, he advanced to the footlights, and, saying, "This is for those who hissed!" imitat ed the braying of an ass. At this the occupants of the pit rose, rushed on to the stage and would probably have killed their caluminator had he not hastily retreated.

Already the work of destruction and mutilation incidental to the advance cele brations has begun in Chicago and elsewhere. In this city three boys sustained serious injuries yesterday and a store was set on fire through the careless handling of crackers by children.

H. W. Marshall, Indianapolis, Indicted in Connection with Frauds in City Contract Work.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 1 .-- The Marion county grand jury made its final report yesterday afternoon, and among the indictments returned is one against Henry W. Marshall, former speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives, and president of the Western Construction company. This company was organized to repair asphalt pavements and had the contract for this city last year. Harry Brunaugh was employed as superintendent under a contract that gave him half the profits, and about six months ago it was discovered that he had committed gross frauds upon the city by charging for work greatly in excess of what had been done. Brunaugh's sys-tem was to increase the size of the patches repaired, as recorded by the inspec tors, and in some instances he reported and was paid for patches in the streets that were wider than the streets them-

The United States government possesses upon the entire Pacific coast only two completed drydocks; one at the Mare Island navy yard, in San Franisco bay, and one at Bremerton, Wash., on Puget Sound.

The dock at Mare Island is 513 feet long over all, 80 feet 7 inches wide at its entrance and 27 feet 6 inches deep over the sill. It is available only for the accommodation of the smaller ships. The drydock at Bremerton is more commodious, being 650 feet long over all, 92 feet 8 inches wide at the entrance and 30 feet deep over sill. Occupied with Business.

Business rather than politics occupied the attention of Secretary Taft today. Numerous and complex questions await-ed him when he reached his office in the war department this morning and he plunged into the work of disposing of them with characteristic energy. Tomorrow he will resume his political work, with conferences with Frank H. Hitchcock, the Washington manager of his preliminary campaign, and with Ar-thur I. Vorys, the manager of his Ohio campaign. These conferences will relate to the national chairmanship of the Re-upblican party and they premise to have an important bearing upon the selection of the campaign director.

Leave Washington Friday.

Secretary Taft said today that Mrs. Taft had so arranged the breaking up of housekeeping in Washington that they would be able to leave here next Friday for Hot Springs, Va., where they will remain until the first of September. The likelihood is that when Mr. Taft leaves Washington on Friday it will be not to return to the national conital until not to return to the national capital until after the November election, and, in the event of his election to the presidency, he may not return to Washington until two or three days before his inaugura-tion on March 4.

Nothing illustrates the change that has been wrought in the zone by the introduction of American methods better than the American way of treating these outcasts of society. When the zone first came under American control there were a number of makeshift pesthouses in out-of-the-way stations along the line of the Panama railroad. Some were in the city of Colon, while on the outskirts of Panama eleven patients, norminally in the care of the government of Panama, were huddled together in a small building.

Difficult Test Before National Educational Association.

CLEVELAND, O., June 30 .- With 1560 chances to err, fifteen of the eighth grade school children of Cleveland yesterday misspelled only forty words in the big intercity spelling contest which opened the annual convention of the National Educational association, and this city won the contest from Pittsburg, New Orleans and Erie, Pa., each of which cities sent a team of fifteen to the convention.

The victory was a personal triumph for a little dusky maiden, Marie C. Bolden, 13 years old, daughter of a negro mail carrier of this city, who spelled ev-ery word correctly, both in oral and the written tests. The convention was swept with a storm of applause at her demon-stration, the result of which was made known far down the line of announcements on the big blackboards, and at a time when her score meant a victory for Cleveland, the earlier announcements having put Pittsburg and New Orleans in the lead.

Earlier, just before the contest began, several of the New Orleans children had balked at the idea of spelling against a negro girl, but in a caucus the southern team decided to go into the contest, waiving race prejudice.

Another child, Mae Thursby of the Pittsburg team, made a perfect score, and the medal offered by the Junior Or-der United American Mechanics of Pittsburg will be awarded to her on her re-turn to the Smoky city.

That the contest was remarkable became apparent to the 6000 adults who occupied seats in the big hippodrome when the words were pronounced.

LESS IDEAS AND MORE IDEALS.

By Mayor McClellan.

The crying need of the day is fewer men with ideas and more men with ideals. One of the most difficult problems of the great trust which I occupy is to get the right men for public office. In this country official salaries are small, on the theory, I suppose, that the honor of public service is a sufficient reward. There are, therefore, just three classes of men who accept public office: Men of independent means, men who have not succeeded in private life and who take office as a business proposition, and men with enough public spirit and sense of duty to make a money sacrifice to serve the State. Unfortunately, there are all too few of the latter class. This is not a plea for a general increase in salaries, but a plea for a general increase in interest in public affairs.

There are very few Americans who will not willingly and cheeerfully give their lives for the flag; there are very few who will give their time, or any part of it, for the State. No man should enter politics with the hope of pecuniary reward. There is no such thing as "honest graft." Salaries are small and the continuity of office holding so uncertain that the life of an honest politician is one of constant self-sacrifice.

Moreover, our journalistic and political ethics are such that the honest man who accepts office in this country must expect from the beginning to the end of his term to wage one insistent struggle to do his duty.

AMATEURS IN THE ART OF LIVING.

By Arnold Bennett.

Considering that we have to spend the whole of our lives in this human machine, we really devote to it little attention. When I say "the human machine" I mean the brain and the body-and chiefly the brain. The expression of the soul by means of the brain and body is what we call the art of "living." We certainly do not learn this art at school to any appreciable extent When we have been engaged in the preliminaries to living for about fifty-five years we begin to think about slacking off. Up till this period our reason for not having scientifically studied the art of living is not that we have lacked leisure, but that we have simply been too absorbed in the preliminaries-have, in fact, treated the preliminaries to the business as the business itself.

See this man who regularly studies every evening of his life! He has genuinely understood the nature of poetry, and his taste is admirable. He recites verse with true feeling and may be said to be highly cultivated. Poetry is a continual source of pleasure to him. But why is he always complaining about not receiving his deserts in the office? Why is he worried about finance? Why does he so often sulk with his wife? Why does he persist in eating more than his digestion will tolerate? It was not written in the book of fate that he should complain, and worry, and sulk, and suffer. My aim is to direct a man's attention to himself as a whole, considered as a machine, complex and capable of quite extraordinary efficiency for traveling through this world smoothly, in any desired manner, with satisfaction not only to himself but to the people he meets en route and the people who are overtaking him and whom he is overtaking. My aim is to show that only an inappreciable fraction of our ordered and sustained efforts is given to the business of actual living as distinguished from the preliminaries to living.

SENSATIONAL EDUCATORS CONDEMNED.

By Andrew S. Draper.

Sensationalism has no rights of any kind in a university. Yet we must have learned that it is not to be kept out by the saying. Novelty of theme or of statement, suited to exploitation and to personal notoriety, is as repugnant to the traditions, the philosophic basis, the moral sense, and the freedom of a university as illiteracy is a menace to government in a democratic state, or as greed is repugnant to fellowship in a philanthropic guild. One cannot be allowed to propagate his vagaries upon the time and in the name of a university that would like to be thought prudent and rational. If one wants to be a professor of myths and ghosts, he ought to go out in the woods and sit on a log and pursue his inquiries on his own time and in the most appropriate place.

I have no valid objection to a professor being a free trader. I cannot object to his telling students the reason why. But I have abundant reason for objecting to his hiding from the students the arguments which support the policy of protection, and to his enforcing his partisan view against mere youth with the ponderous solemnity of a military execution.

FAULTS IN TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

By President Henry Smith Pritchett. We Americans have had some illustrations of late that our firm American belief that we have a fine system of college efficiency and modesty may not be infallible. Our critics are declaring that our educational systems are not training men properly, and point to Germany, France and England as doing better, as having something better. They say our bankers are not bankers, but promoters. They attack our technical institutions.

This much is true, at least, that in the last two decades we have not been good borrowers-not nearly so good as Germany and Japan. It is a truism that the next best thing to being able to do a thing well yourself is to become a good borrower of a better method than your own. There are, we must admit, some foreign methods that are better than our own-methods of technical training broader than our own, and which open paths to the industries and arts which perhaps we do not offer.

The first time I saw General Grant was through our headquarters field glasses from the Howlett House line on the James river, opposite Dutch Gap canal. This line across to Swift Creek and Fort Clifton on the Appomattox was held by Pickett's division after the retaking of Bermuda Hundred, which capture so pleased General Lee that he sent Pickett a complimentary acknowledgment of his services.

It was the summer of 1864. General Pickett and I were riding along the line, looking over at the Federal gunboats and monitors not more than 600 yards from our headquarters, when suddenly I saw a puff of smoke drifting, scattering, becoming a mere shadow as it floated higher and was lost against the blue sky.

"Look-look, General!" I said. "Isn't that beautiful?" "Dangerously beautiful. It's from a shell. The enemy are firing over there. Come, dear; whip up your horse, and let me get you out of this as quick as I can."

"No, indeed," I said. "I'm not a bit afraid, and if I were, General, do you think I would let Pickett's men see me run?"

"Come, dear, please! You are in danger, useless danger, and that is not bravery," he said.

The General's soldiers did not seem to agree with him, and Corse's brigade when we passed sent up cheer after cheer as I rode slowly along. Just then Captain Smith came across the field to greet us.

"What is the cause of the firing, Captain?" asked the General.

"The Federals are testing some guns, I think, for the entertainment of visitors. They are not firing at us. I learn that Mrs. Grant and some friends of my uneasiness, the President said : have come down from Washington this morning. They are over there to the right of that oak. Mrs. Grant, you see," he said, handing me the field glasses, "is standing between those two short, stout men. The one at the left with a cigar in his mouth is Grant. The shorter, stouter one on the right is Ingalls, Grant's Quartermaster General, who, they say; is one of the brainiest men in the army." "Yes, that's old Rufus," said the General. "See him laugh, the old rascal! But come; let's ride on."

young recruit. Grant, Ingalls, Suckley.'

This unofficial and the following official letter from General Lee's headquarters are still sacredly preserved, and the ink and the sentiment expressed are alike unfaded:

"Headquarters Army of Northern Virginia. - Dear General: Accept through me the congratulations of the General commanding and the whole army. My best wishes in addition. Yours truly, W. H. Taylor, Acting Adjutant General."

Some days later there came through the Federal lines a beautiful silver cup engraved, "For George E. Pickett, Jr., from his father's friends."

Grant was at West Point at the same time as Pickett, but in the class ahead of him. PAPER BAG AND GROCERS.

Latter Are Judged by the Character of the Former.

Few wholesale grocers realize the Importance and extent of the paper-bag industry, or the large amount of capital invested in the production of this absolute necessity to the retail grocer, says the American Grocer.

There are consumed in the United States alone grocers' paper bags to the value of nearly $12,000,000 annually, not taking into account paper sacks for flour, cement, charcoal and other articles. The total capital invested in this business is probably $50,000,000, represented by mills, factories, patents, woodlands and water powers.

When it is remembered that fifty years ago there was not a paper-bag factory in the entire country, each grocer making, as opportunity offered, the 5,000 people and producing some 5,000,-000,000 paper bags annually, it must be conceded that, as an industry, the

"Let me get down and try our guns, too, please, and then I'll go," I said. "Not for the world," replied the General. "The enemy are not shooting at us. Mrs. Grant is a kind-hearted woman, and would not even shoot this way if she thought it interrupted our morning ride. Besides, she is very crosseyed, and doesn't know directions." The Captain saluted the General, lifted his cap to me, suggestively pointing to the beautiful grove on our left. and rode away. I was watching his graceful horsemanship, which the Southerner has by inheritance through a long line of ancestors, and, becoming ashamed of my disobedience, was about to turn into the grove, when a then I saw Captain Smith's horse dash madly on, bearing his headless body. As I looked it swayed from side to side, and fell a hundred yards in advance of the handsome head. My heart stood still. It stands still even now as I faintly try to record the dread sight. One of the aimless balls, alas! General Grant, as I saw him that day been.' across the waters on the slope, quietly, peacefully smoking, always comes to me associated with the fearful sight that followed it. On July 17, 1864, when General Pickett was riding into Richmond to welcome his first baby boy, the loving, loyal men of his division built bonfires all along their line in honor of the event. The Army of the Potomac, knowing that there had been no battle, were curious and anxious, accrediting the demonstration to the only plausible reason, foreign acknowledgment of our independence. General Grant sent out scouts to reconnoiter, and when he learned the cause of the celebration he turned to Ingalls and asked: "Haven't we got some kindling wood over here on our side of the line? Why don't we strike a light for the young Pickett?"

The light was struck by Grant's order, and bonfires burned along the Federal line as well to welcome General Pickett's heir.

The next day this letter, marked "Unofficial," came through the lines and was mysteriously delivered at Pickett's headquarters:

"July 18, 1864 .- To George E. Pickett: We are sending our congratula-

The First Moving Pictures.

Moving pictures originated in an experiment to show both sides of a shilling at once. In 1826, according to the Chicago Tribune, Sir John Herschel asked his friend. Charles Babbage, how he would show both sides of a shilling at once. Babbage replied by taking a shilling from his pocket and holding it before a mirror.

This did not satisfy Sir John, who set the shilling spinning on a large table, at the same time pointing out that if the eye is placed on a level with a ratating coin, both sides can be seen at once.

Babbage was so struck by the experiment that the next day he described it to a friend. Doctor Fitton. who immediately made a working model.

On one side of a disk was drawn a bird, on the other side an empty bird cage. When the card was revolved on a silk thread the bird appeared to be in the cage. This model showed the persistence of vision upon which all moving pictures depend for their effect.

The eye retains the image of the object seen for a fraction of a second after the object has been removed. This model was called the thaumatrope. Next came the zeotrope, or "wheel of life." A cylinder was perforated with a series of slots, and within the cylinder was placed a band of drawings of dancing men. On the apparatus being slowly rotated, the figures seen through the slots appeared to be in motion.

The first systematic photographs of men and animals taken at regular intervals were made by Edward Maybridge in 1877.

BIG SEAGOING RAFTS.

Transporting Logs Along Coast from Oregon to Southern California.

Another big cigar shaped seagoing raft vas launched recently from the cradle of Wallace Slough, near here, by the Benson Logging and Lumbering company. Three of the five rafts to be constructed feet of logs and is worth about $50,000. The dimensions are: Length, 740 feet; idth, 52 feet; depth, 36 feet; draught, 24 feet.

Aside from the timber value, thousands of dollars worth of chain is used in their construction. Extending through the center of the raft and acting as a backcenter of the raft and acting as a back-bone, to which the circle chains are fas-tened is 756 feet of 1½ inch herringbone chain, and to bind the logs at intervals of 12 feet requires 7700 feet of 1½ inch circle chain. As a hawser for towing, 900 feet of heavy tow chain is used. From the time the logs are hoisted from the river into the cradle just two and a half months' time is required to put a raft in seagoing condition, and un-der favorable weather conditions it will reach its destination in about eighteen reach its destination in about eighteen days.—Clatskanie Cor. The Value of Standing Timber.

A nearly complete cruise of Jefferson county timberlands shows 3,000,000,000 feet of fir, cedar and spruce and 1,500,-000,000 feet of hemlock. At a confer-ence between the county assessor and representatives of large timber interests the assessor announced that an equitable valuation of first class timberlands would be $40 an acre, the valuation per acre of the remaining five grades being less. The general effect of the proposed plan will be to increase the valuation of a forty-acre tract, which has been about $310, to from $640 to $1600. The assessor proposed that the valuation be made without regard to location of lands. The acreage assessment means in feet that the timber will be valued at 60 cents a thousand, except low-grade timber, which will be 50 cents. Two large buyers of timber in that county in 1907 paid from 40 to 50 cents a thou-sand.—Tacoma Ledger.

WASHINGTON BUREAU IS MODEST

IN DEMANDS.

While Expenses Are Reduced Yearly Commission Increases Steadily the Output of Fish.

One man in Washington who is satisfied with the treatment of his department by Congress is George M. Bowers, United States fish commissioner, says the New York Tribune. He was moderate in his demands, and as a consequence received distinguished consideration at the hands of the appropriation committee, which also bore in mind that Mr. Bowers had for the last four years been gradually diminishing the expenses of the fish commission, while increasing the output of the work and the efficiency of his bureau. "We will plan over three billion fish in the United States this year," said

Mr. Bowers, "without any increase in our force, but because we have, by con-stant experiment, found better and eas-ier methods of distribution. Last year work with the hatching and distribution of fish it was an expensive proposition, and during the early days of the com-mission it cost a fabulous sum to dis-tribute a million fish. Four years ago he sum had been reduced to $378 a mil-on, while this year 1 do not expect that t will cost more than $168 to hatch and listribute that number of fish.

"I have just returned from a trip among the fish hatcheries of New Engand, and find that they are doing excellent work. Especially in the lobster beds is this noticeable, and I predict that within a few years the lobster will no longer be the costly delicacy it is now, but will be so moderate in price that very one who likes it can make it a daily meal. Several hundred millions have been planted on the New England oast at our various stations there, and when these are ready for market an unprecedented reduction in prices may be expected. From Maine to Boston the price of lobsters now is between 9 and cents apiece, while a few years ago ey were 40 cents wholesale, and at certain seasons often went much higher than that. Of course, we do not make oster planting our chief work, but this merely serves as an example of some of the benefits that are derived from the fish commission. The first consideration in the bureau's distribution of fishes is to make ample

At first we were looked on as interlopers in a field naturally endowed to the fishermen, but this view has been gradually changed, so that now we work hand in hand."

FISH CULTURE CHEAP ly he needed a hat, so he proceeded to one of the city's grandest men's fur-nishing stores and stated the fact. The obliging young clerk who waited upon him, after the purchase had been made, proudly announced that his house had the only machine in town for cutting initials in the leather bands of head coverings and asked if Turner would like to have his chapeau marked. "What initials?" inquired the chant-prince-to-be, swelling out his chest. "Well, let me see," said the reflective Turner, and after further deliberation an-nounced his choice as "H. A. T." 'H. A. T.?" gasped the astonished clerk "Yes, H. A. T.; that'll be enough."

So the hat was marked, and putting it in, the drummer started out of the store. The mystified clerk's curiosity got the better of him before the customer had reached the street, and, hurrying up, he asked pardon, and said he would like to now the reason for those letters, adding "Why, anybody can see it's a hat"

At this time my leg was peeled from the knee, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh, and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a set of Cuticura Remedies. After the first two treatments the swelling went down, and in two months my leg was cured and the new skin came on. The doctor was surprised and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. There is NOTHING TOO GOOD for the American people-that's why we started to make Cascarets Candy Cathartic. The first box made its appearance in 1896, and the enthusiastic endorsement of the people has been bestowed upon Cascarets ever since.

The sale today is at the rate of OVER A MILLION

BOXES A MONTH, proving that the American people recog-nize, that what is BEST FOR THEM is none too good.

Why this enormous patronage?

The answer is simple: Cascarets are pure, clean, sweet, mild, fragrant, harmless but effective little tablets for the treatment and cure of Constipation and all Bowel Troubles. They are put up in neat little enamel boxes, easy to buy, easy to carry (in vest-pocket or purse), easy to take and easy of action, always reliable, always the same, they "work while you sleep" and wake you up feeling fine in the morning.

They not only regulate the movement and stimulate the muscular walls of the bowels, but they keep the ENTIRE CANAL CLEAN and antiseptic, forcing out and destroying all disease germs that breed in the accumulated filth unless promptly and regularly discharged. Therefore, they are a great preventive of disease, and may be taken continuously as a precautionary measure.

The new Pure Drugs Act, adopted by Congress on June 30, 1906, and in effect January 1, 1907, is a GOOD LAW and means better and PUREA drugs for the American People. We endorse it and will live up to it is SPIRIT and LETTER,-an easy task, as we have always been actuated by the same principles and no changes are required in our formula or package. We adopted OUR OWN PURE DRUG LAW in 1896 when the first box of Cascarets came on the market and have lived and worked and produced under it ever since.

To-day, after a record of nearly 100,000,000 boxes sold, Cascarets STAND the greater in PURITY, QUALITY and MEDICINAL MERIT than any other preparation for Bowel trouble in all the world.

This should be a great argument for any one, to try Cascarets AT ONCE, and be healthier and happier for it. Some people have CHRONIC CONSTIPATION with all the horrors derived from it; others have HAB-ITUAL CONSTIPATION from carelessness and neglect, but nearly EVERYBODY has OCCASIONAL CONSTIPATION, which, if not promptly taken care of is liable to result in its degeneration into the worse forms and cause great suffering and perhaps death. Cascarets, if taken patiently and regularly, will remedy all of these awful troubles, but if taken promptly at the very first sign of an irregular-ity of the Bowels, will act as the FINEST PREVENTIVE ever discovered and will keep all the machinery running in good order. 753

We advise you to get a little 10c box of Cascarets TO-DAY and carry it in your purse or vest pocket. Take one when you feel anything unusual about your bowels. Your own druggist will sell you the little box, under GUARANTY of satisfaction or money refunded. All druggists, 10c, 25c, 50c.
