A COLOSSAL ENTERPRISE

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company, with its twenty-seven subsidiary companies, is today the greatest force at peninsula of Michigan; under the active direction of William Gwinn Mather, it fosters every industry that may utilize, without destroying, the resources of a million acres to their highest productive

As an ore producer, it is second only to the giant steel corporation; it has railways and a navy of its own; in private forest culture, it is the pioneer in America, the federal government alone 20c to 40c leading it. Its great mining interests are operated in the county of Marquette; Gwinn, the model city of Michigan, was recently erected by it at its latest mine location, on the banks of the Escanaba river.

Its forests are spread over many counties; but the principal operations 25c are now being conducted in the county of Alger. Munising, a few years ago 25c but a triffing village, has been made a flourishing city by its enterprises. It land at a low price, and giving all assistance to the prosperity of the settle-

Wherever it is the possessor of an interest in the welfare of a community, the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. is found to be not only the foremost, but the most public spirited citizen, a strong influence for order, law enforcement, and business-like administration of the public affairs, for the establishment of those twin civilizers, good schoolhouses and good roads. Its employees are a well-paid, intelligent and law-abiding

The organization is directed from its home at Cleveland, William G. Mather being president, and R. C. Mann auditor for the entire system. The headquarters of the mining department are at Ishpeming; of the land department at Negaunee, of which C. V. R. Townsend is agent and W. Garner assistant auditor. The lumbering department, separated from the others two years ago to include all operations in the woods, is managed by Thos. H. Noble with headquarters at Marquette. Its assistant auditor is Geo. W. Ackerman, and its forester T. B. Wyman, of Munising. FURNACE DEPARTMENT

The wood is set afire, and when it becomes fairly inflamed, the air is gradually cut off, and its own heat converts the charge of the kiln into charcoal. It is then allowed to cool, and the door opened. The smoke is received in large wooden mains, and condensed at the chemical plant, number one. H. S. Martin is foreman in charge of the

The modern process, introduced a few years ago, produces a much larger quantity of chemicals, the profitable part of charcoal burning. In this, the wood is loaded into iron trucks and wheeled into huge retorts, which are then closed and heated by coal fires underneath. No part of the wood is lost by total combustion. There are ten retorts, but their production of charcoal is only about 25 has there a large sawmill, a large pulp percent of the capacity of the plant. The retorts are connected by piping with chemical plant, number two. George Bushman is retort foreman.

> The furnace requires about two hundred and twenty-five cords of wood daily. A reserve supply is piled in 'the yards to be used in cause of a blockade on the road.

> The ore cars are run upon a trestle to the crusher, which reduces the ore to the size of stove coal, or thereabouts. It is then dumped in the stock house at the foot of the furnace.

> The charcoal is wheeled into the stock house from the kilns and loaded into iron barrows. The ore is mixed with a flux of broken limestone, such as is used for a macadam road. The Gladstone furnace is supplied with lime and limestone by the White Marble Lime Co., of Manistique. The compound having been weighed out and loaded into wheelbarrows, is hoisted up on elevators to the top of the furnace, and ore, flux, and charcoal dumped in together constantly.

The furnace stack is fifty-five feet high, above the hearth, and twelve feet in its greatest internal diameter. The blowing engines deliver some 450,000 cubic feet of air hourly, at a pressure of eight to ten pounds per square inch, into hot "stoves," immense brick lined chambers, and thence through "tuyeres" (pronounced "tweers"), horizontal pipes about five feet above the ground, into the furnace. This blast must not cease entirely until the furnace fires are out.

The air blast passes through all the interstices of the charge in the furnace; the charcoal, under intense heat, takes takes up the oxygen of the ore, the limestone its silicon, and the molton iron dertook to construct at Gladstone the and slag descends to the "bosh" or flowing, to render its exterior approach-

The furnace opens to the east on a arge casting house, of iron frame and brick walls. This is filled with a bed of sand, which is dampened and divided like an irrigated farm. Little plots are set off, and moulds pressed into the sand, until it is gridironed with cavities, each the size of a commodious bar of iron. Down the center of the building runs a ditch, the "sow," into which the hot iron gushes from the base of the furnace, like a brook of fire, smooth and without a ripple, into the little side trenches, and thence into the 'pigs," trickling down in a red glare until the furnace is empty. When the iron has solidified, sand is strewn over it and the sprinklers turned on, a cloud of steam filling the casting house and escaping through the open space beneath the roof, marking the end

When the iron is sufficiently cool, men walk over it with huge wooden sabots on their feet, breaking apart the pigs into pieces of a hundredweight last few years the proportion of charcoal each. The froth, like petrified sea foam, will float miles upon the water. The ground around the furnace has been raised several feet by the use of cinder during the past few years.

The surplus is used for roadwork and ballast on the railway, as its drainage

The casts are made four times a day, at half-past one and half-past seven, twice in the morning, and twice in the afternoon. The amount of iron run varies from twenty-eight to thirty-five tons of iron at the cast, filling about one half of the casting house. By night the spectacle is a glorious one, and worth going miles to see.

KIPLING.

The furnace and its accessories employ altogether some two hundred and twenty-five men, besides those engaged in cutting wood and transportation to Gladstone of supplies. The furnace settlement, known as Kipling, is really part of Gladstone, and counting it as such, the furnace employs very nearly one-fifth of our adult population.

The furnace stack and buildings stand on McMullen's Island, just north of the city limits; the greater portion of its employees reside on the mainland opposite, and are residents of the township of Brampton, though a considerable number own homes in Gladstone. This number will probably be larger with improved transportation methods.

HEBREW INSTITUTE BURNS.

Chicago Jews Lost Building Once Sacred to Nuns.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 9.-The main building of the Chicago Hebrew insti-tute, West Taylor and Lytle streets, was destroyed by fire Tuesday. The structure for many years was the Convent of Sacred Heart, where hundreds of Chicago's most prominent women had been students. The alarm was turned in at 7:40 a.m., and within an hour the long building of additions and halls, four stories high, was a ruin. Twenty-five engine companies fought the blaze, but its spread was so rapid their efforts were fruitless, except in saving the two annex buildings.

The loss is estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000, with insurance of $40,000. The history of the former convent building reflects the changing character of various sections of Chicago as communities outgrow their boundaries. Dedicated in 1859 as the home of the Sacred Heart cloister of nuns, an educa-tional institution of wide range was conducted for the inhabitants of the imme diate neighborhood and was also considered desirably located for pupils from any part of the city, both Catholics and non-Catholics. The neighborhood in recent years had been transformed almost into a ghetto, and prominent Jewish residents organized the Hebrew institute in 1907 to provide educational opportunities for the dense population. Mean-time the nuns had removed their school to Lake Forest, and the property was obtained for the institute when Julius Rosenwald took up the mortgage of $75,000, and, putting $15,000 with it, presented it to the organization, which purchased the equity for $23,000. Improvements and alterations amounting to about $15,000 were made.

DIVORCE FOR ASQUITHS.

Wife of British Premier Will Seek Separation.

LONDON, March 9.-The report that Prime Minister Herbert Asquith and his beautiful wife are to seek divorce is no longer whispered but has become a favorite conversational topic in London so-

It is now almost certain that Asquith will resign the leadership of the Liberal party and retire as prime minister. He will be made a peer by King Edward, if the present programme is carried out, and find a scope for his ability in other channels.

The very fact that Asquith is to be made a peer would delay any legal steps that might be taken toward a separation, Mrs. Asquith being ambitious to become a peeress. She is said to be all ready to leave for the continent to seek a judicial separation, but will probably wait for the title.

The wife's fondness for Maud Allan, the dancer, has been the cause of more than one family squabble. Miss Allan has a great influence over the premier's wife and has had her social support despite a circle of frowns.

Mail Long Overdue.

Sixty-eight letters and sixty-nine postcards mailed four years ago were de livered recently in Paterson, N. J., to the persons to whom they were addressed. The mail matter was found in two packages in one of the lockers at the post-office, and when Postmaster Pillitt communicated with the authorities at Washington he was instructed to have it de livered at once. The discovery of the overdue letters and postcards came about through the request of a substitute carrier for a locker of his own. He was given a locker formerly used by John J Merrey, a carrier who was dismissed last December for neglect of duty. In clean ing out the locker the undelivered mail matter was found, and a reference to the records showed that it was Merrey's business to make the deliveries. No complaint was ever made by the businessmen or private citizens about the non-delivery of the mail.

ROW OVER NAME.

It Separates the "Pa" and "Ma" of the Innocent Cause of It.

What's in a name? Oh, a great deal. For instance, a disagreement in church that prevented a christening, the breaking up of a home after many years of married life, a suit by the wife for separate maintenance and an order to her husband to pay her $60 a week. These are a few of the things that grew out of the problem of choosing a name for the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Barr of Summit, N. J. The boy had never been christened and last summer all arrangements were made for the event. When the family party arrived at the church, Mr. Barr, who is president of the Barr-Thaw-Frazer company of Hoboken, suggested the last name of his sister by marriage. Mrs. Barr ob-jected, it is said, and, according to reports, the parents of the boy quarreled on the way home, the disagreement being the first step toward their final parting several months ago. Vice Chancellor Howell in Newark signed the order directing Mr. Barr to pay his wife $60 a week for her separate maintenance. She lives in a $25,000 house in Summit, which she owns, and the court intimated hat the order might be changed if she did not move into a less pretentious home. The court seemed to hint also that the expense of maintaining such a house had caused some of the trouble between husband and wife.-New York American.

A BOY'S ALLOWANCE.

It is rumored that other revelations of His Uncle Asks the Court to Fix It at $6500 a Year.

Does a boy of 15 need an allowance of $6500 a year? The question was raised in the supreme court yesterday when Mortimer M. Singer filed a petition asking that his ward, Robert A. Chambers, 15 years old, be granted a personal allowance of $6500 annually from the estate inherited from his mother and father. Furthermore, Master Chambers desires to purchase and maintain two horses, with harness, livery and a tiny brougham, to which he had grown attached during the lifetime of his parents. The boy's father died on February 7 of last year, and his mother's death occurred on November 10. Robert Chambers, the father, left Robert, Jr., by will personal property valued at $95,000, several valuable lots in Trenton, N. J., and a farm at Newton, N. J. The income from this property amounts to $5700 a year. The mother, who was Miss Josephine Blanche, Singar, a member of the phine Blanche Singer, a member of the Singer sewing machine family, willed her pany. Today 200 men employed at the company's plant in South Glens Falls quit work in sympathy with the 600 already on strike at Corinth. The company's mills at Fort Edward probably will be closed tomorrow, making the shutdown in this vicinity complete.

A Proceeding the strike about $30,000. The combined incomes, therefore, amount to $35,000 a year.

Mr. Singer, the guardian, who is a brother of Robert's mother, explained in court that "young Chambers should have at least $6500 a year to enable him to maintain his station in life." He explained further that the boy had be reared in luxury.—New Young Chambers should have at least $6500 a year to enable him to maintain his station in life." Calumet & Hecla Dividend of $8 a Share Means Total Payment of $106,350,000.

NEWS OF THE SUPERIOR DISTRICT.

CALUMET, Mich., March 5 .- [Special] -Dividends and annual reports have been prominent features in the late news of the copper mines of the Lake Superior district. These indicate, on the whole, a satisfactory state of affairs.

The Calumet & Hecla quarterly dividend of $8 per share, the same as that 5 drill hole is designed to cut the Inpaid last December, calls for a distribudiana lode at a depth of 500 to 800 paid last December, calls for a distribu-tion, on March 24, of $800,000, which brings the total payments of this great corporation up to $106,350,000. On the the total disbursement for the current year will be $32 per share, as compared with $27 for 1909 and $20 for

The Copper Range Consolidated's regular quarterly dividend of $1 per share is payable April 1. Although the com-pany is earning more than its dividend requirements, no increase in the rate can be looked for until copper sells closer to be looked for until copper sells closer to

Declares $5 Dividend. Wolverine has declared a semi-annual dividend of $5 per share, the rate being the same as that of six months ago. This property, known as the little Calumet & Hecla, is one of the richest in the district and one of the best managed. It maintains a steady production and its costs

The Calamet and Arizona Mining company, whose property is in Bisbee, Ariz., but whose general offices are in Calumet, could have declared more than a quarter ly dividend of $1 per share at its recent meeting, but the directors deemed it inadvisable to increase the rate at this time owing to uncertainty of the metal market The company is earning considerably more than dividend requirements and its property is in excellent condition.

The reason for the closing down of shafts 5 and 6 on the Osceola lode by the Osceola Consolidated Mining company this week is made plain in the an nual report of the company just issued. The report says that during the past the report says that during the past year this branch of the property has been operated at a loss. This was due in part to conditions at No. 5 shaft and to the low copper contents of the rock. It was decided it would be more economical to close this branch of the mine than to continue operations at the present low price of copper. This will also give the opportunity of making the necessary repairs at No. 5 shaft. pairs at No. 5 shaft.

All other branches of the property are showing up well. The company made a net profit for the year of $1,070,645.14. It paid in dividends, $561.500, leaving a surplus for the year of $109,145.14. Osceola's earnings this year should show no material difference because of the closing down of Nos. 5 and 6 shafts. The stock is probably the cheapest investment issue in the lake district. Oseola can continue to earn dividend requirements with cooper above 13 cents per

The Allouez Mining company has issued 'ts annual report for the year ended December 31. It shows a production of 4,031,532 pounds of copper against 3,-047,051 the previous year. The total income was $542,764, and operating expenses including construction $520,411 penses, including construction, $520,411, leaving a net mining profit of $16,352. The transactions just closed are generally believed to foreshadow a still further buying movement. Most of the copper sold has been for domestic consumption. Added improvement was given to the statistical position of copper this week by reason of the reduction during the past fortnight of 647 tons in the foreign visible supply. tons in the foreign visible supply.

Showing Is Good.

The showing at the oneco is good enough to warrant the sinking of a shaft, although this has not yet been determined upon by the management. Oneco has two well defined lodes, the Oneco lode being exposed by an old shallow shaft, one drill hole near surface and one hole about 1300 feet deep; and the Torch Lake lode exposed by a pit and three diamond drill holes. The copper values exposed are most encouraging.

A private pool, known as the Lake A private pool, known as the Lake Superior Development company, has been organized to explore a tract of 400 acres lying east of the Gratiot property of the Calumet & Hecla. BRIGHT'S DISEASE CAUSE OF DEATH

NEW YORK, March 7.-Former United States Senator Thomas Collier Platt, Republican leader of the state New York for years and intensely interested in the Republican party from its organization in 1856, died unexpectedly Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in his apartments, 133 West Eleventh street. STATE POLITICS

Detroit and the upper peninsula have relatively a smaller number of Republican voters enrolled than the rest of the state. The U. ### QUICK TO LEARN.

The Timid Young Bride Coached by Her Husband.

A young bride who belonged to a charity club and sometimes had to go out alone after dark was very much afraid of being stopped and robbed. Her busband disliked to provide her with a revolver, but he bought a punching bag and showed her how to use her fists and where to place the $1.95 per day paid for most telling blow in case of molestation.

"Below the belt, mind you," he adjured her-"below the belt. Such a blow if properly planted will make a man sorry quicker than anything. If any one steps out in front of you your course will be easy. If he comes up behind you swing round suddenly and strike out hard. The robber will repent of his evil ways in a hurry."

That night was the bride's late evening, and she happened to be coming up the street just in front of her husband when he saw her, and the spirit of mischief took possession of him.

"Wonder if she'd really do as I told her or if her little fists would hurt any one?" he pondered.

Two seconds later he found out. Walking up behind his wife, he laid a heavy hand upon her shoulder. He had no time in which to say anything. and she made no effort in that direction. She simply obeyed his instructions to the letter, swinging round with a suddenness which completely disconcerted him, and delivered a blow that made all the rest of his predictions come true.

Then she fled home with the speed and energy of a frightened deer, not even waiting to cast a single glance at the discomfited man who had, as she supposed, endeavored to rob her. She passed the remainder of the evening in alternately weeping out her nervousness upon her husband's shoulder and wondering why he looked so pale.

A Fellow Named Marty.

John Stetson, the famous old theatrical manager of Boston, was a man of great native ability, but his early education had been somewhat neglected, and the go-as-you-please fashion in which he handled the king's English was continually horrifying his punctilious fellow townsmen. Perspiring and exhausted after some hours of preparatory detail for her departure, he sank into a chair and said: "Everything is ready now. You have abundant time to catch your train."

"I have decided," she softly said, "not to go."

-0000 Fun for a Birthday Function.

A bright little girl celebrated her twelfth birthday with a party, the details of which she arranged herself. She called it a tree and animal party.

When the guests arrived she gave each a booklet. which she had made, on the cover of which was painted a tree and an animal. In the room were two screens, with pictures of trees pinned one, and animals on the other. The tures were numbered, and opposite mictures were numbered, the numbers in the booklets were written the names of the trees and animals. A growing plant, in a pot covered with red crepe paper. was the prize for the naming the most trees; a little rabbit filled with candy was awarded for the animals, while to the one naming the greatest number of trees and animals was given Ernest Thompson-Seton's book. "Wild Animals I Have Known. After the guessing contest, games were played at the tables scattered throughout the rooms. The scores were kept with acorns attached to red ribbon, which were looped on tiny wooden rings every time any one progressed. The were decorated with green bows, by which they were pinned to the clothing of the players. The acorns were sicked up by the little girl on a trip to Lockout mountain.

The idea of trees and animals was carried out in the decoration of the din-ing room and table. The centerpiece was a miniature holly tree on a mound of moss and ferns with little rabbits here and there.-The Pilgrim.

-0%0-Making Valentine Trophies.

An acceptable and useful gift for a girl is a glove or handkerchief holder, which may be made by using two white crepe paper handkerchiefs, bordered with red flowers. Lay a piece of scented cetton wadding between the two and baste the edges lightly. Bind the edges with red silk dress binding or pretty red satin ribbon. Fold the square to one-half its size and fasten two ribbon bows at the fold. Pin a small bunch of cherry blossoms, or a tiny bunch of cherries

Small hatchets, cut from plain white cardboard, are pretty for place cards. Cover the edges with red or gold ink. Write the name of guest on the handle and the date on the blade.

Artificial cherries to be placed among confections may be made of fondant containing red sugar, or white fondant rolled in red sugar. It is best, however, to melt one-half cup of red sugar to one cup of white granulated. Roll small pieces of fondant dough into red balls. Dissolve a 5-cent stick of pure licorice cap of white granulated. in a bowl over a pan of water. Pierce the white fondant balls with a hatpin, dip into the licorice, and dry on paper. They represent cannon balls.

Child Training.

The higher art of child-training does not believe in the rod, but if the rod is to be used at all it should be used, and not believe in the red, but if the red is to be used at all it should be used, and used thoroughly, upon those parents and used thoroughly, upon those parents and uncles and aunts and "others" who are always telling the children that they are bad. Many a parent is grieving today over wayward sons and daughters, simply because the idea of badness was in play, that he is bad, and he will soon believe it; and when anyone believes that he is bad, the idea of badness becomes second nature to his mind and will constantly produce detrimental desires, tendencies and thoughts. There can be no bad deeds until there are first bad thoughts, and bad thoughts come invariably from that mind which has been taught to believe that he is bad.

To build character in the young mind we must fill that mind constantly with thoughts of virtue, goodness, purity, beauty and aspiration; and must avoid absolutely everything that may tend to produce an adverse impression. Tell the child that he is bad, and you sow weeds in his mind, and it tically impossible to find a child that has not been burdened in this way nearly every day of his youthful existence. may, therefore, not express surprise tha there are so many things in the world that are undesirable. On the other hand, we may justly express surprise that we all are as good as we are. No child is really bad. If its actions are wrong, the cause is usually very superficial,, and can be readily changed.

The demand for great men and women is becoming larger and stronger every day. Therefore, everybody should be given the fullest opportunity to supply this demand, and no obstacle whatever should be placed in the way. Every child coming into the world has the right to become as much and achieve as much as the very best opportunities will permit. To be just to every child, this subject of property impressing and build-ing the mind of a child should be well considered.

The proper training of a child is very large study, but its basis may be found in a few fundamental principles, and the scientific application of these principles in daily conversation with chil-dren will bring about most remarkable results. One of the first essentials is to surround the child with intelligence, and the ideal expression of that intelligence in all conversation. No child should ever be placed in the care of an ignorant or uncultured nurse. The future of the child is entirely too important to be neglected in this manner. The mind of a child is very much like a clean slate; anything can be written thereon, but no one should have the opportunity to write that does not have the intellect to write what is true and beneficial. 'The average child is quite receptive to everything with which it may come in contact, and is influenced extensively by its environment and by those people with whom is associates the most.—Selected.

Queen Alexandra at Sandringham, even when guests are at the hall, spen is the life of an ordinary English chatlaine. Rising early she partakes of a simple breakfast and then, accompanied by Miss Charlotte Knollys, visits her dogs at the kennels and looks after her nowers and fruit in the gardens, whose beauty owe as much to her taste as does the interior of the house at Sandring-

Before luncheon the Queen goes over her correspondence—it is always very large—with Miss Knollys and whatever letters she can she does answer herself. To her guests she never appears before luncheon, as her time is too fully occu-pied. Letters again fill her afternoons sometimes; and then the gental Sandringham tea follows, when besides cake and tea, sandwiches, even soups, ham and eggs, and all sorts of good things are discussed, and the men have the choice of partaking of whiskies and

The Queen presides over one tea table and Princess Victoria over another, and the children of the Prince and Princess of Wales come over from York lodge to enliven the party. The parrots are usually made to go through their antics at this time, and there is one in particular which does not cease to draw corks and yell "God save the Queen!"

After dinner, which, by the way, Dr. Ott does not allow the King nowadays to partake of later than 8 o'clock instead of at a quarter to 9, as of yore, music is discussed by the ladies, and the King goes off to the bridgeroom at an early stage of the evening. He will sit up very late over bridge, and with his won-derful constitution he never gets either tired or cross over the game.

Lately the Queen has taken a liking to bridge and plays quite well. It is a principle with her and the King never to allow any unmarried girl under their roof to play cards for money.

The Queen has always been a great reader and her taste in books is individual and most delicate. She avoids the problem novel and prefers books that deal with serious topics, and especially works that have made history. Stories that deal with the simple annals of the poor attract her, and even an old book like "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is much appreciated by Queen Alexandra. preciated by Queen Alexandra.

Hans Andersen's fairy tales were also in high favor, especially "The Little Match Girl" and "The Swineherd."

Then Queen Alexandra has a great love for poetry, especially for the works of British poets. Some of Shelley's verses please her, but the late Lord Tennyson's poems are perhaps her chief favorites. Like many other ardent booklovers she considers that a good book de-serves fine raiment, and she, like King Edward, has done much to revive the old The that's what is the right proportion? It is considered bad form—I am treating this entirely from a worldly point of view-to dance in Lent, so that in this respect the season has come to an abrupt end. But for those who remain in town in addition to dinners in plenty-there are musicales, bridge, and this year roller skating and dear old badminton. For some inexplicable reason the opera and the theater do not seem to come under the ban of worldly amusements. They did in the last century, when Roman Catholics and High Church Episcopali ans would never go to either from Ash Wednesday to Easter Monday, but there are only a few who remain faithful to these ideas in this age.

In giving dinners it is well to remember to arrange as near as possible not to have a mixture of fish and meat when you have guests who keep Lent, nor, unless extremely informally, it is well to ask such to dine with you on Wednes. ask such to dine with you on Wednesdays and Fridays. It is also difficult to skip a fish course, but after As I have said before, there are so many people who eat very little on account of dietary reasons, that no one pays any attention as to whether a guest accepts or refuses a proffered dish, and then I be-lieve that just at present there are some faddists who are protesting against the high price of meat by refusing to partake

A Lone Man Stricken by Illness in a Fishing Club House.

Henry Grasteo, 68 years old, is critically ill in St. John's hospital, Brooklyn. That he is alive at all is because of the heroism of Mrs. Mary Watson, wife of a Canarsie restaurant keeper. Mrs. Wat-son braved the storm of Friday night and walked three miles across Sands bay, a shore of Jamaica bay, to the Montauk Fishing club, where Grasteo was lying uncenscious on the floor, suffering from around and ate his meals at Watson's restaurant. Last Monday he called and complained about being ill. After having supper he returned to the club and that was the last seen of him. Mrs. Watson worried about him, and when Friday's storm came up she decided to see what the trouble was. When she reached the clubhouse she found him lying on the floor. The Express Company Merger.

What is believed to be virtually merger of two of the largest and wealth est express companies in the United States was revealed vesterday when the secret got out that the Southern Pacific Railroad company had sold its holdings of stocks in the Wells Fargo Express company. The name of the purchaser could not be ascertained positively, but in authoritative circles it was said to be the American Express company. If that s correct, the purchase means virtually a merger, it was pointed out, because, al though the Southern Pacific holdings in the Wells Fargo do not represent stock control of that concern, the remainder of the shares, outside of those held by the Harriman estate, are so widely distributed that the Southern Pacific block could easily swing the company. The price paid was said to have been in the neighborhood of $200 a share. That would represent a tremendous profit for the railroad on its original investment, and it was this, it was said, that prompted the sale.—New York World.

FASHION WORLD.

Flowing draperies are the keynote of resent day fashion, at least so far as the nore elaborate costumes are concerned The shops display a large variety of the most beautiful materials which hemselves admirably to achieving effect and, at the same time wonderfully nhance the general effect by the richness of their texture and the artistic charm of their coloring.

While the one-piece or princess gown by no means a thing of the past, a very effective mode which is among the novelties certain of success is the rate waist, of more or les selaboration, with skirt to match, so far as material goes. The waist is draped or worn as a foundation to an overblouse of chiffon, net, silk muslin or similar fabrics, this being usually of a contrasting color, some of the loveliest of these garments having the outer blouse not only of a contrasting color, but showing a printed pattern as well, or an all-over design of embroidery or sequins. Another variation makes the under waist of the figured material, while the veiling is plain. Black chiffon or net is much used for these veiled effects more frequently over color than over white, although the magpie combination is capable of stunning results when worked out by a master's hand.

In spangled fabrics the manufacturers have surpassed themselves in striving to give what will be most beautiful for the veiling fad. White or palest blue mes saline de soie shows a pattern border worked out with moonlight paillettes Iridescent spangles, brilliant as the plumage of tropical birds gleam on bronze chiffon, which is to be draped over amber satin. Those who do not care for glitter, may find many handsome embroidered novelties of the semi-transparent order

Almost barbarous splendor characterzes the trimmings for evening costumes offered in the fashionable shops. Very open-patterned lace banding on the filet order has gold and silver threads run in it, then some of the pattern worked over in a kind of coarse satin stitch, with fiber Gold tubular cord will outline a Greek key design on white net to be an plied on white crepe or chiffon. An odd and very effective banding shows a narrow line of black running in and out of the delicate pastel tints of the Persian leaves worked on net. Fringe of glass, metal or pearl beads, ranging in from pinheads to peas, drops from some of the girdles, reaching well over the hips, or when forming only a trimming for the front, falls nearly to the knees. In fact, fringe of this glittering kind i worked in on the evening gown wherever there is an excuse for it, and especially lovely does it look falling away from the sleeveless armhole and forming a twinkling background for a beautifully mod

The side trimming, which has come ack with the Russian styles, appears on evening costumes worked out with spangled or embroidered banding, or by embroidery or applique on the costume it Another dainty fad is the embroidering or appliqueing of one or two huge blossoms on the left breast, another appearing near the foot of the skirt, as if it had fallen from the upper cluster.

There is no longer any doubt that fashon for the coming season will demand a defined waist line, outlined one way or another. For every day wear the of whatever material is preferred, will attend to this duty, but for dressy occasions jeweled cinctures will be used, the tobacco to the last flake, after which sparkling with gold and silver, and genuit went to sleep, never even becoming ine or imitation gems of various colors; ill. Nesbitt has tried the cat several or else a seemingly soft but in reality silken girdle or sash will form the connecting link be-tween bodice and skirt. Whichever be used, it will frequently have dangling ends, many or only two at the back, or a very long and broad one at the left Sometimes three-inch ribbon will form long loops, terminating in a soft large rosette attached to the skirt near the foot. Or the ends to a girdle will be made of lined and slightly stiffened satin, finished with beads or silken tassels, or it may be the entire end will be worked with spangles or beads and form a glittering line of light from waistline

Another marked change is that produced by the introduction of the double puff or "buffeon" sleeve. As yet this sleeve is small in width and short in length above a deep cuff, but there is no forecasting to what dimensions the design may attain in the course of the next few months.

The constant changes in fashion affect not only the styles for grown up women, but also those for young girls of school a severe attack of pneumonia. The man age. Fortunately, however, the changes lives at the fishing club all the year in the fashion for school girls are not as great and material as in former spring seasons. In separate waists, for instance, the regulation model fastening down the front, with a full plaited frill and long, comparatively tight sleeves, the whole relieved with plain bands of lace or embroidered lawn, will still be worn. The newest models, however, show a wide shoulder line, somewhat suggesting wide shoulder line, somewhat suggesting the Gibson model, so run to the ground a few years back. These newest waists show the shoulder plait tapering to the waist line, which, now returned to its were about to be lynched when the shernormel position is of voticeably wealth. normal position, is of noticeably smaller iff and posse rescued them. > For quite young girls suspender and strap dresses are still worn, but the little gowns throughout, with a small yoke and collar of white to keep the dark color of the gown from the face, are unquestionably smartest. Instead of being made on any lining, the waist of the gown, which is made with sleeves and all in one, may be worn over a lawn guimpe, showing yoke, collar and cuffs of tucked net that can be washed and changed each day it For quite young girls suspender and can be washed and changed each day it necessary.

Napoleon hats are more than ever pop-ular and during the coming weeks the leading milliners will bring out several new varieties of this shape, which is so becoming to youthful faces. Now, that the hair is worn so low, th Napoleon necessarily comes well over the brow, but the position of the points of the tricorne depends wholly upon the shape of the face beneath it.

Women who appreciate the softening effect to the face of a velvet-lined hat brim are hailing with delight the re-turn of that fashion of a former de-cade. It applies, of course, to the shapes which have an upward flare, and especially to the Napoleon, which is at its jauntiest when developed in blue, green or black chip with a velvet-faced brim. The popular leghorns also show to best advantage when faced with black velvet unless a very summery effect is desired. Rose garlands are a prominent feature among the spring hat trimmings.
Sailors bid fair to be large and, therefore, serviceable during the midsummer season, for which they seem especially adapted.

Burdens Lifted From Bad

Weary is the back that bears the burden of kidney ills. There's no rest nor peace for the man or woman who has a bad back. The distress begins in early morning. You feel lame and not refreshed. It's hard to get out of bed. It hurts to stoop to tie your shoes. All day the ache keeps up. Any sudden movement sends a sharp twinge through the back. It is torture to stoop or straighten. At night the sufferer retires to toss and twist and groan. Backache is kidney ache—a throbbing, dull aching in the kidneys. To cure backache you must first cure the kidneys. Plasters or liniments won't do. You must get at the cause, inside.

Doan's Kidney Pills Cure Sick Kidneys

Six Months of Misery Doan's Kidney Pills Brought About a Complete Restoration.

CHARLES EASTER. E. Locust St., Watseka, Ill., says: "In the summer of 1904 I was attacked by pains in the small of my back and as the time passed, the trouble increased until my whole right hip was affected. For six months I could not sit in a chair and I was unable to sleep nights. I lost forty pounds in weight and was so lame and sore that I could not raise my hands to my face. I was languid, had no energy and was bothered by a shortness of breath. During all that time I doctored and used a great amount of medicine but to no avail. Sometimes there was an almost complete retention of the kidney secretions and there was much sediment in them. My wife finally persuaded me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me such prompt relief that I continued taking them and gradually my condition improved. The trouble with my kidneys was corrected and my aches and pains were removed. I am so grateful for this cure that I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other persons suffering from kidney complaint."

HOW TO TELL WHEN THE KID-NEYS ARE DISORDERED

Painful Symptoms-Backache, sideache, pains when stooping or lifting, sudden sharp twinges, rheumatic pains, neuralgia, painful, scanty or too frequent urination, dizzy spells, dropsy.

Urinary Symptoms - Discolored or cloudy urine. Urine that contains sediment. Urine that stains the linen. Painful passages. Blood or shreds in the urine. Let a bottleful of the morning urine stand for 24 hours. If it shows a cloudy or fleecy settling, or a layer of fine grains, like brick-dust, the kidneys are disordered.

Twice-Told Testimony A Wonderful Cure Fully Verified By the Test of Time.

MRS. J. M. BARNHART, 952 N. Jackson St., Frankfort, Ind., says: "Several years ago I was running into Bright's disease. My body bloated a great feal and I had such terrible pains in the small of my back that I could scarcely stand. I rested poorly and the kidney secretions contained a sediment, also being distressing in passage. I tried various preparations but steadily grew worse and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply. The contents of the first box did me so much good that I continued taking the remedy until I was cured. I gave a public statement on July 19, 1906, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and now I can add that I have had no need of a kidney remedy in over a year."

ORRIS ROOT.

How It Is Grown and Gathered on the Hills Near Florence.

Most people know that orris root is one of the chief ingredients of violet powder; many others are well acquainted with the strangely shaped pieces of white root, that seems like dried ginger, which gives out the delicate and subtle scent of the violet, and perhaps the privileged few know that it is made from the roots of a kind of iris.

"Never have I seen the cultivation of the iris and the preparation of orris root to such perfection as this summer in the Tuscan Apennines, where Vallombrosa lifts its pine covered head," says a writer in the Queen. "On the sunny side of the mountains lies the whole district of the Val d'Arno and between Saltino and Pian di Sco the entire neighborhood is given up to the cultitire neighborhood is given up to the cultivation of vines, olives and iris.

"Indian corn, wheat and millet find a place; but wine, oil and orris root are the three commercial industries. Pergolas of vines stretch along as far as the ple or white grapes, olives laden with green berries, and under them and between them little plantations of iris dal-

"The iris, or giaggolo, as it is called in Italy, is planted thinly and allowed to grow for three years, when the roots are dug up and tied in big bundles. These are then prepared. Nearly the whole of the tuberous root is cut off, leaving only tiny bit with fibers in order that the plant may grow when replanted, as it is at once for another three years of "The tubers are then thrown into big basins of water, and the whole family of basins of water, and the whole family of the contadine, or peasant, sitting on the doorstep of their house or under the per-golas in the shade of the vines begins the business of peeling them previous to their being dried in the sun for the market. Everybody is busy with the small sickle shaped knives trimming the iris root. In its fresh condition it is sold for about 20 centimes the kilo, about 2 cents a pound. But after a few days 2 cents a pound. But after a few days exposure to the brilliant Italian sunshine on large wicker work trays its loses twoof its weight and is sold to the wholesale merchants at 9 cents a pound.'

Senator Gordon's Grim Jest.

The other way Col. James Gordon senator from Mississippi, ancient and gray bearded, bore down on the Senate restaurant. An officious menial, who thought the colonel was probably the postmaster from Podunk, halted him priefly at the door leading into that sanctuary where the senators sat, eyeing him with suspicious with suspicion.
"Pahdon me, sah. Ex-senator?"

Then Colonel Gordon wended his way to a senatorial table and proceeded to commune with the official pie.—Phila-

Erratic California Rivers.

The unfortunate situation of settlers in the valleys of San Gabriel and Santa Ana rivers in southern California calls attention to the danger threatening region in any season of unusual rainfall. The beds of these rivers are as dry as a bone during the greater part of the year, the water being diverted for pur-poses of irrigation, but in time of flood they often become raging torrents. As the river beds have mostly been choked with deposited sand and silt the course that a flood may take is quite uncertain. It is in fact more likely to cut a new channel through highly improved property than to stick to the path assigned on the map.

This is what the San Gabriel river has done in the Los Nietos valley, a fertile, alluvial plain studded with valuable orchards and homes. In fact the course of this river has changed more than once since the American settlement, as the name "old river" and "new river" serve to indicate. Something of the same sort is happening on the upper reaches of the Santa Ana river near Riverside, and even on the lower reaches in Orange county bad washouts are reported.

In a season of big rainfall in the early '60s the whole valley between Anaheim and the present site of Santa Ana was

Effect of Prosperity and High Prices on School Attendance.

The declaration of Principal Larkin of the Brooklyn Manual Training school, that the lower grades were being desert ed for the office and the factory, was corroborated by the report of the Mercantile Bureau of the Health department. The statistics show that 29.843 boys and girls past 14 applied for working papers in 1909. This is 8000 more than applied the preceding year, an increase of 38 per cent. The record for the first month of 1909 is being exceeded by the ratio applications so far this month. Dr. Ba-ker attributes the increase to improved facilities for obtaining the papers, but Superintendent Maxwell and Principal Larkin declared recently it was due to the improvement in business. Prosperity always opens up opportunitie: for the boys and those not committed to the entire course get restless and leave," said Dr. Maxwell. The spectacle may soon be seen of the Pope appearing as a witness for the defense in a remarkable will case. The action has been brought by the three female cousins of the late Mgr. Adami, who seek to invalidate the will by which he bequeathed his entire fortune of between $900,000 and $1,000,000 to early churches. Christ, in a picture for the Vatigan. The Lanciano court has expressed its approval of the suggestion that the Pope shall appear, but it is round imbed, strong and active. That's the kind of a picture we want." that the Pope shall appear, but it remains to be seen whether his holiness and his minister of finance will accede o the court's request.

According to the Messaggero and other apers, the testator was a man of miserly habits, who had accumulated a for-tune, all of which, in a will executed two months before his decease, he bequeathed to the Pope. It was pointed out to him that his holiness is unable per-sonally to inherit a bequest of the kind, whereupon he decided upon a ruse, and sold his estate to the Vatican for a nominal sum. Immediately on the death of Mgr. Adami his three female cousins commenced an action at law, alleging that the testator was not mentally fitted to execute a will, being afflicted in mind, and that the testament was invalid. Plaintiffs entrusted their case to Sig. Scialoia, the present minister of justice, who has presented to the Lanciano cour a memorandum in support of his clients' contentions.

The memorandum sets forth, among other things, that Monsignor Adami claimed to have received his fortune direct from heaven, through the medium of the Archangel Michael, and explained that the latter had intimated to him the duty of leaving everything to the Pope. The following amazing narrative (the Messaggero says) is also embodied in it: When he had made his will Mgr. Adami decided to leave Rome and ss his last days in his own country He took carriage and left for Sangro. On the way he fell into a deep sleep, and on waking up found himself in his bed at his Roman palazze. At this he mani-fested surprise, but the monks around

Believing himself at Bologna he wrote to the cardinal archbish op, and asked him to come to him. The cardinal came—a false cardinal—a priest, in fac' disguised as a cardinal. A few words having been exchanged, the sol-disant cardinal inquired if a will had

"Yes." replied Mgr. Adami, "and I have left everything to the Pope."

Mor. Adami soon afterwards died.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

of an Overland. This sensational success is due to the creation of a remarkable car.

The Simple Car

The success of the Overland is mainly due to its amazing simplicity. A 10-year-old child can master the car in five min-utes. Push a pedal forward to go ahead, and backward to reverse. Push another pedal for high speed. There is nothing else to do but steer.

Any man with the simplest instructions, can run an Overland a thousand miles and

"The Time, The Place and The Girl" The Dog Days

AT THE PETERSON TOMORROW NIGHT

"The Time, The Place and The Girl" to be seen at the Peterson Opera House, Escanaba, Sunday, March 13, is a musical comedy of heart interest with a plot of strong dramatic scenes, yet full of fun, laugh provoking dialogue and humorous complications. all set to music, and with its acting possibilities enchanced by half a dozen unique but thoroughly life-like characterizations. For instance, there is a philosophical young "sport" with a mind of wisdom expressed in clean down-to-date slang; the trained nurse, worldly wise but a gentlewoman; the proud and petulant daughter of the rich, who is tamed by the "sport;" the Italian laborer who provided the sentiment; the coal heaver who is "just going to be married," and the classy man about town, whose wild oats are harvested as gamely as they are sown. With these types cleverly exploited, "The Time, The Place and The Girl" keeps safely out of the conventional rut. It is distinguished by comedy rather than clowning, though there is a bit or two of burlesque interloped to magnify the contrasts.

There are twelve delightful songs, among them being 'Thursday is My Jonah Day," "Dixie, I Love You." "Don't You Tell," and "The Waning Honeymoon," and fifty wonderfully attractive chorus girls.

Prices 50 Cents to $1.50.

Maclaurin & Needham have this week remodeled the Gem theatre, without missing a performance. The matched maple flooring is entirely on a level with the sidewalk, making exit much easier. Next week new opera chairs will be installed, the rear rows progressively elevated; and new paper will be hung. The admission charges, like those of all theatres in the peninsula, have recently been increased to ten cents; a small enough sum for the excellent entertainment furnished by the Gem. Charles Slining, who attended the Milwaukee automobile show, returned Saturday, having obtained the agency for three well-known cars, the Overland, Marion Flyer, and Brush runabout. He will shortly open a display room in this city for these machines. The roads of the peninsula are fast being improved, and this will be a year of record-breaking automobile sales.

Lyman M. Beggs, of Escanaba, wants him a price by phone or letter.

Olmsted, of Escanaba, advised a three team league in Delta county and another in Marquette county. This would leave one team in each league without a game every Sunday, and the two teams so left out could play with each other, or, if so desired, each could take on some independent team. He advised that the inter-league schedule should be arranged at the beginning of the season, with the provision that any two teams scheduled to play on a certain date, could cancel their game by mutual agreement. Manager Buchman of Rapid River preferred the formation of a Marquette-Delta county six-team league. with a regular schedule of games. Gladstone was favorable to either arrange-

Mr. Buchman said that the gate receipts at Rapid River for twenty-one games last season, some of which were with minor or scrub teams, totalled $2,476, an average of more than $100 per game. He felt sure that the receipts of the proposed league games played in per game, of which he was willing to give the visiting Marquette county team 60 per cent and guarantee their expenses, provided the 60 per cent was not sufficient to cover them.

Another plan discussed was to organize a four-team league in Delta county, Manistique or Menominee being the fourth team, and a four-team league here, composed of Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee and Munising. One Sunday every month would be left open and on the open date two teams from Delta would play in Marquette county and two from Marquette county in Delta county. There was some objection to taking in Munising on this arrangement on the part of Delta county teams, and the uncompromising attitude of Ishpeming appears to forestall the formation of the Marquette-Alger county league, anyway. After thoroughly discussing this matter in its many phases, it was finally decided that the question was too big to dispose of at one meeting, and final action was postponed for one week, when It is Ordered, that the twenty-first day of it is likely that the managers will meet March A.
