From the Press

The one thousand large garbage cans which arrived in Hancock recently have been examined and most of them are reported in good condition. Some of the cans had been damaged in transit or had flaws and will not be accepted. Cans have now been installed in different parts of the city for the use of the "white wings." It is planned to have a garbage can for every house. When they have been installed the city team will make the rounds every day collecting the refuse. This will make a big work and an expensive one, but it will result in Hancock being cleaner and more healthful. It will also do away with the annual spring clean-up. Red Jacket and Laurium have also ordered their residents to throw no debris in the streets or alleys, but deposit all waste matter, including paper, in barrels. It is also suggested that ashes be put in separate heaps, and the village will remove them for use in building walks and repairing streets.

An editor in a neighboring county in Arkansas has discovered a reason for the high price of meat in his locality. In his town there are only fourteen hogs being fattened for market while 318 dogs are being kept in idleness by the inhabitants. — Sikeston, Mo., Hornet.

The Soo News says that shooting the Soo rapids will soon be a thing of the past. The new canal and lock construction, with its dykes, has encroached upon the river to the boundary line, and only the most dangerous part of the falls remains.

The Houghton Mining Gazette was once a respectable paper; but this week we picked up a copy of the before-specified publication, and with chill September's (almost October's) surly blast howling through every crack in the sanctum and seeking the weak points in the editorial spine, we read the caption "Be Jolly While Midsummer Breezes Blow" over a page of pretty girls in bathing suits. We call on the Gazette to make the amende honorable to its subscribers, the editorial association, and the almanac.

Unfortunately we can't help Old Uncle Joe Cannon much, but we are still a stand-patter and still for him. Some day we expect to see some people sorry for the way they went back on him—some day we expect to see it all made plain that he is so much abused and much misrepresented man. Some day we expect see him honored as the great American he undoubtedly is.—Hiawatha (Kan.) World.

A North Missouri farmer whose hog was killed by a train wrote to the company's claim agent for a settlement.

He had penned his communication thus: "Dear Sir—My razorback strolled down your track a week ago today. Your twenty nine came down the line and snuffed his life away. You can't blame me, the hog, you see, slipped through a cattle gate, so kindly pen a check for ten, the debt to liquidate." He received the following reply: "Old twenty-nine came down the line and killed your hog we know, but razorbacks on railroad tracks quite often meet with woe. Therefore, my friend, we cannot send the check for which you pine. Just plant the dead, place o'er its head, 'Here lies a foolish swine.'"—Waif.

A Laurium boy cut an automobile tire and took a foot of the inner tube to make slingshots, while the car was standing at the golf links. The trick cost his parents thirty dollars.

A young fellow in Menominee county persisted in making a noise like a wild cat, and a deputy fool-killer who was out headlighting got him.

ROOSEVELT THEN AND NOW.

Theodore Roosevelt, on his Western tour, has found it advisable to attack the present tariff as well as everything in sight not particularly pleasing to the Westerners. Does he recall his public utterances in 1904? Our readers may be interested in his remarks on the tariff at that time, when he said:—

It is a matter of much regret that the protective tariff policy, which during the last 40 odd years has become part of the very fabric of the country, is not now accepted as definitely established. Surely we have a right to say that it has passed beyond the domain of theory, and a right to expect that only its original advocates but those at one time distrusted it on theoretic grounds, should now acquiesce in the results that have been proved over and over again by actual experiences. These 40 odd years have been the most prosperous years this nation has ever seen; more prosperous than any other nation has ever seen. Beyond question, this prosperity could not have come if the American people had not possessed necessary thrift, energy, and business intelligence to turn their vast material resources to account. But it is no less true that it is our economic policy as regards the tariff and finance which has enabled us as a nation to make such good use of the individual capacities of our citizens and natural resources of the country.—Fibre and Fabric.

"THE LOTTERY MAN."

"A wild, laughable show" is the manner in which the Globe characterized the first performance of "The Lottery Man" at the Bijou Theatre, New York, when this play by Rida Johnson Young was first produced by the Messrs. Shubert. The piece, after having enjoyed a season of eight months' prosperity in Manhattan, has been booked for a tour of the Shubert theatres outside of New York and is announced as the Peterson on Tuesday Oct. 4.

"The Lottery Man" is a guileless youth who offers himself as the prize in a lottery conducted by a New York paper—the Examiner. Little does he realize that such an announcement will create so much attention. After a few days, 300,000 old maids came forward with a dollar each, asking for a chance. The reporter, however, falls in love with an attractive young girl, and from then on he uses every effort to corner the market in coupons. The prize is finally won by a sentimental old maid who prefers a "nest in the Bronx" with her lottery prize. The victim suggests relinquishing his claim to the share which the paper is to give the couple, but the old maid stands stoutly for her nest and husband. At the eleventh hour it is discovered that the old maid has stolen the coupon which turns out to be the winning one. When she is threatened with arrest, she disgorges.

The idea of the play is ingenious and the characters are humorously imagined. One of the most laughable parts is that Lizzie, the spinster, who is employed as companion to Mrs. Peyton, the mother of the proprietor of the Examiner. Mrs. Peyton goes in for Swedish massage, obesity pills, false hair, and cosmetics. Lizzie serves the purpose of the "dog" having to try all new massage systems, patent medicines and face creams for the purpose of allowing her mistress to watch the effects. A contrast between Mrs. Peyton, and the mother of the reporter is cleverly shown. The mother of the newspaper man is an old-fashioned, lovable creature who believes in sunshine more than medicine, more in wholesome thoughts than paints and powders. Before the story has run its end, Mrs. Peyton is brought to a full realization of her mistake and she appears before her little circle of friends in her own guise with gray hair and natural complexion. As a comedy "The Lottery Man" takes rank above all plays of lighter vein.

So far there are no fat aeronauts.

By the way, is it possible to play golf in Esperanto?

An American had the latest word regarding the best aviator.

It takes a pretty clever man to get ahead of a meter of any kind.

As yet the English language is not the least bit jealous of Esperanto.

Wireless has proven that it can create just as much excitement as an aeroplane.

When an automobile strikes a railroad train, the victims are those in the machine.

Another way to attain greatness is to be made president of a hay-fever sufferers' society.

Paris is losing her cab horses, but no noticeable decrease in the price of meats is reported.

It is easier to muzzle the canines than it is to keep firearms out of the hands of possible assassins.

Don't think it's by accident that a woman hits the object directly behind her. She merely finishes her aim.

Keeping cool would be easier if the fellows who have advice to give on the subject would keep quiet.

A seismograph is a very useful instrument. It seems to keep all earthquakes at least 2,000 miles away.

Boston now attains notice as a port of entry for smuggled Chinamen. You simply cannot keep a good town down.

Princess Mary of England has learned how to run a typewriter. Now if some of the dukes and lords would only take up honest toil!

And now the peace advocates will find that the new gun which shoots 10,000 times a minute is the thing that is really going to stop warfare.

The university professor who thinks mathematics and poetry are alike has probably never tried mathematics on a romantic girl in the moonlight.

A Maine man tells a story of a frightened deer jumping into his lap while he was out driving in a buggy. Is the gentleman sure that his spelling is correct?

According to a learned professor, the typewriter is the poetry of motion. Presumably he intended to add that the motion must be supplied by the right young woman operator.

An English woman is preparing to fly across the English channel and back. Her manager should see to it that on the French side she does not go as far as the shops in Paris.

That new gun will be but an additional argument for the agitators for a universal peace, also a weapon in the hands of some poor nation that does not believe in that order of things.

While the airship is still in its experimental stage and ambitious aeronauts are meeting with accidents repeatedly, it is still evident that aerial navigation has become a permanent feature of travel. In Europe preparations continue to be made for regular traveling schedules in airships, notwithstanding the disasters that have happened to some of these craft.

A New Jersey man has discovered that mosquitoes eat plants. This is an important natural discovery. It has hitherto been supposed, and with a good deal of circumstantial evidence to support the supposition, that the mosquito was strictly carnivorous in its diet and exclusively nocturnal in its meal hours. Any hope to the contrary will be thankfully received by a bitten, angry and sleepy world of humans.

Push-cart peddlers have formed a national organization. Perhaps they have discovered that the banana is one of the necessities of life and are going to do the regulation thing to celebrate the discovery.

A man found senseless on the street with his pockets turned inside out was locked up by the Philadelphia police as a witness. It is difficult to imagine the injury to the inflexible purse of justice if this person should escape from the duty of testifying that he did not know what hit him.

MICHIGAN BANKS ON SOLID BASIS

Report Is Issued by H. M. Zimmerman.

INTERESTING FIGURES SHOWN

Capital Stock Paid in Amounts to $23,654,500, While the Surplus Is $11,929,482.47 — Resources Reach $300,520,727.62.

Lansing.—The report of the condition of the 387 state banks and five trust companies in the state of Michigan for the period ending September 1, 1910, as issued by H. M. Zimmerman, commissioner of the banking department, shows some interesting figures.

The loans and discounts in both commercial and savings departments amount to $122,902,426, while the bonds, mortgages and securities reach $117,546,858.72. The investments in banking houses, furniture and fixtures total $5,739,055.02, and the real estate holdings $1,204,518.31. The reserve reaches $22,239,978.38 for the commercial and $28,570,359.35 for the savings departments, making a grand total of $50,810,337.73.

The resources reach the amount of $300,520,727.62. The capital stock paid in amounts to $23,654,500, while the surplus is $11,929,482.47. Undivided net profits are $5,010,609.79. The commercial deposits subject to check amount to $87,103,565.75, while the commercial certificates of deposit reach $15,714,725.50. The state money on deposit are given as $803,985.35. Savings deposits reach $129,836,443.22, and savings certificates of deposit $37,271,278.18.

A gain in the aggregate business of Michigan state banks since June 30, 1910, of $2,543,401.57 is shown.

The following figures show the increase compared with the report of January 30, 1910:

Loans and discounts (commercial)	increase	$1,583,321.40
Loans and discounts (savings)	increase	1,583,752.69
Bonds and mortgages (commercial)	increase	742,067.23
Bonds and mortgages (savings)	increase	1,482,714.19
Net increase in loans		$3,662,455.50
Commercial deposits, increase		$2,702.13
Savings deposits, increase		2,342,857.17
Total increase in deposits		$2,335,559.30
Capital stock, increase		$2,078.00
Commercial deposits, increase		$1,820,444.03
Savings deposits		18,511,735.07
Total increase in deposits		$30,372,179.10

The total reserve maintained by Michigan state banks is $50,810,337.73, or 19 6-10 per cent. The total cash reserve is $17,203,420.96, or 6 6-10 per cent.

State Sues G. T. R. for More Taxes.

Attorney General Kuhn is starting a new attack on the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee company, a branch of the Grand Trunk system, which, entrenched behind its perpetual special charter, has been able to avoid paying the proportion of state taxes which other property in this state is obliged to pay.

He is starting a suit in the Kent county circuit court to have the capital stock of the company determined to be $7,000,000 rather than $2,517,140, the amount upon which the company pays a tax, and if successful the company's state tax will be increased from $25,141.40 to $70,000. For many years the state has been endeavoring to get that special charter set aside in order that the railroad might be reached for its share of the expense of state government.

The supreme court, however, held that the charter was perpetual, setting aside taxes running from $99,777.95 to $109,259.76 per annum, which the state board of assessors had assessed against the road. It is the only railroad in the state now enjoying the privilege of paying a special tax, and state officers have been seeking everywhere for means to bring the corporation to time and place it on the same taxing basis as other property.

Creamery Men Organize.

About 100 creamery managers assembled at Saginaw from all over the state and organized the Michigan Association of Creamery Owners and Managers, electing officers and deciding to meet every three months. The next meeting will be at Grand Rapids the first Thursday in December. Officers were elected as follows: President, H. L. Burroughs, Owosso; vice-president, Leonard Freeman, Ponton; secretary-treasurer, Martin Seidel, Saginaw.

Case of Oil Company Against State.

One of the cases which will be watched with considerable interest during the September term of the Michigan court circuit will be that of the Germania Refining company vs. Auditor General Fuller.

The case was brought by the Germania company of Oil City, Pa., in an effort to avoid payment of taxes levied by the state board of assessors last year. There were five companies interested and they combined with the Germania to fight the state in the courts of Michigan.

Death Rate in State Increased.

There were 3,587 deaths reported to the secretary of state's department as having occurred in Michigan last month. This corresponds to the annual death rate of 15.9 per 1,000 population. There were 509 more deaths returned for August than for the previous month, the increase being attributed to the universally large number of deaths from typhoid fever.

As compared with the preceding month, an increase is noted in the number of deaths returned from pulmonary tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, croup and cancer. The important causes of death were as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis, 178; other forms of tuberculosis, 33; typhoid fever, 60; pneumonia, 74; enteritis, children under two years of age, 746; cancer, 196; violence, 216.

Accidental drowning was responsible for 33 deaths during the month and lightning caused one death.

There were 5,197 certificates of birth returned to the office for August, which is an increase of 203 over the preceding month.

Board to Make Express Rates.

One of the most important hearings which has been held since the state railroad commission was created commenced when representatives of the various express companies doing business in Michigan and delegates from shippers' associations and boards of trades appeared before that body to discuss the problem of express rates.

Chairman Glasgow of the commission conveyed a pretty broad hint to the representatives of the express companies that the commission proposes to establish a new tariff of rates, when he said to them at the opening of the hearing that it would be well for the companies to defer for 30 days any new tariff which they proposed to publish.

Midland Taxes Doubled.

The assessment valuation of property in the city of Midland was raised by the state tax commission from $895,735 to $1,528,785, an increase of about 85 per cent. Secretary Lord of the commission announces. He states that the commission has ascertained that $175,000 in mortgage credits in Hancock are not on the tax rolls, while no mortgage credits were assessed in Chassels township, Houghton county, and many thousands of dollars of this class of property are not on the tax rolls in Munising, Menominee and other places in that section. The commission is ordering supervising officers to list this property for taxation. Speaking of taxing conditions Secretary Lord says:

"Everywhere property is not more than half assessed. This is true of the lower peninsula as well as the mining regions of the upper country."

Michigan Corporations.

The following companies have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state: East Saugatuck Telephone company, East Saugatuck, $2,000; Biederer & Smith company, Detroit, $10,000, principal stockholders, Frederick Biederer, Charles Smith, B. Jacob; S. & S. Shoe company, Detroit, increase from $5,000 to $10,000, principal stockholders, H. P. Minsel, C. H. Schweider; Edmunds Jones Manufacturing company, Detroit, increase from $25,000 to $50,000, principal stockholders, D. M. Ireland, F. T. Ducharme, George E. Edmunds; Maurice S. Gordon company, Battle Creek, $15,000; Jackson Chemical company, $20,000; Commercial Credit company, Detroit, increase from $25,000 to $35,000, principal stockholders J. Dowling, E. P. Dowling, H. Covert.

Assessments Are Boosted.

Secretary George Lord of the state tax commission has returned from a trip through several counties in the northern part of the state, where the commission has been reviewing assessments. He reports that the assessed valuation of Midland county was boosted from $895,735 to $1,528,785. Lord says that this is but one example showing how property in the lower peninsula is under assessed. In Houghton county it was discovered that there was $173,000 in mortgage credits which had not been placed on the assessment rolls, and it is said that there are few tax rolls showing where any valuation has been placed on this class of property.

State Federation Opens Session.

Child labor, and increase of the white slave traffic in this country will be the main topics discussed at the annual convention of the Michigan Federation of Labor, which opens at Muskegon. Mr. Emery states that undoubtedly the federation will adopt some strong resolutions regarding child labor and that conditions of white slavery in Michigan will be shown to be the result of child labor.

Michigan Pensions.

The following Michigan pensions have been granted: Lovisa M. Atkins, $12; Oren E. Corning, $12; Emily M. Estelle, $12; Henry H. Hoyle, $15; Franklin Lewis, $12; Robert F. Lewis, $15; Ralph R. Baker, $6; Eugene F. Bates, $15; Thomas C. Clendenen, $20; Benjamin B. Davis, $15; George W. Edwards, $15; Anson T. Foote, $15; Samuel J. Lawrence, $12; Charles E. Perry, $15; Peter W. Reeves, $15; Shadrack Rouse, $14; Nelson G. Tupper, $15; Charles W. Vansatine, $15; Nathaniel H. Winans, $20.

STATE NEWS

Bay City.—The Beutel Canning company of this city has replenished several carloads of tomatoes, ready for shipment to a Detroit canning firm. The local concern claims it held contracts covering the shipment at 29 cents a bushel. The Detroit firm overbid this amount and was making away with almost all the crop when the legal proceedings started.

Kalamazoo.—At the close of the meeting of the Assistant Postmasters' association the following officers were elected: W. S. Munn, Eaton Rapids, president; George H. Saxton, Lansing, first vice-president; Frank E. Hardy, Big Rapids, second vice-president; John J. Williams, Saginaw, secretary; Christian Wallace, Muskegon, financial secretary; C. A. Carpenter, Mt. Pleasant, treasurer. Muskegon is the next meeting place.

Marquette.—Mrs. E. N. Breitung, wife of a banker of this city, was in her room in the St. Regis hotel, New York, when a messenger boy brought her a note asking her to donate $20 to an alleged banquet and reception for the "Telegraph Clerks and Lady Operators." Hotel employees advised her not to turn over the money and the messenger was followed and arrested on a charge of attempting to secure money under false pretenses.

Grand Rapids.—A. L. Holmes of this city was at the Indianapolis meeting elected president of the Central States Waterworks association. The next convention will be held in Cleveland.—Mrs. Windsor Herbert, who was shot by her husband, has made an ante-mortem statement in which she denies having shot at her husband. Doctors say Mrs. Herbert will die.—Gerrit Huxley, forty-one years old, a bartender, drowned himself in Grand river. The body was recovered.—Mrs. Lee A. Caro, wardress of the grand chapter of the Eastern Star of Michigan, and past grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, is dead, after a short illness. She leaves a husband and one son. The remains were taken to her old home, Waterloo, Ind., for burial.

Pontiac.—The Pontiac Buggy company has commenced suit by summons against the Oakland Motor Car company and the General Motors company for $100,000. The buggy company sold to the Oakland company, which was afterward taken over by the General Motors company, and claims that it has a considerable sum coming from the sale of the property.

Lansing.—According to reports filed here there were 509 more deaths in August than in July. The increase is due largely to infants' ailments. Thirty-three persons drowned.—The apportionment of primary school money next November will be about 75 cents per capita. This is not as large as in the spring, but is considered normal for the fall.—L. H. Lemon, a prominent retail dry goods merchant of this city, died after an attack of hemorrhage. He is survived by a widow and five children.

Saginaw.—H. L. Burrows of Owosso was elected president of the Michigan Creamery Managers and Owners' association which was formed here.—After the Michigan Association of Probate Judges had formed a national organization the following officers were elected: President, J. P. Talmage Catskill, N. Y.; vice-president, F. B. Ross, Indianapolis, Ind.; secretary and treasurer, F. H. Williams, Allegan; executive committee, H. D. Jewell, Grand Rapids; John H. Grant, Manistee; C. F. Kocker, Newark, N. J. The first meeting will be held in Detroit in September, 1911.

Sault Ste. Marie.—Rev. William Best, for five years pastor of the Pickford Presbyterian church, was found dead in a local hotel from heart failure. He was fifty-two years old.

Muskegon.—The State Federation of Labor has recommended resolutions asking the legislature to pass a statute making it a misdemeanor for a person between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one to ask a bartender to serve him intoxicants.

Battle Creek.—At the first annual meeting of the Trades and Workers' association, an organization that stands for the peaceful adjustment of labor troubles, C. W. Post gave a $400,000 home for widows and orphans of deceased members.

Saginaw.—The Michigan Bean Jobbers' association meeting came to a close by re-electing President J. A. Heath of Lenox and returning all the principal officers.—Lewis Wood, twenty, a fireman, while working around machinery, was caught in a belt and his right arm and shoulder terribly mangled.

Muskegon.—Clarence Boyce, twenty-six years old, a lineman, fell 30 feet from a telephone pole and received injuries which may prove fatal.

Battle Creek.—When his father, who was a Christian Scientist, refused medical treatment and died, Arthur Sawyer armed himself with a razor and said he would kill the first Christian Scientist he met. He was taken in charge by the police.

St. Johns.—Jerry F. Stevens, seventy-four, a carpenter, and well known resident, was slain near Plaque Mine, La., according to a telegram received here. He built a boat here and was on a pleasure trip down the Mississippi. He had considerable money. He was a Mason and Knight Templar.

DECLINE IN GAME BREEDING

Prohibition of Cock Fighting in California Causes Interest to Wane —Beauty of Pile.

Since the cocking pit has been relegated to limbo of forgotten things by legislative means, the breeding of game fowl has declined in California, though still occupying a prominent place in the sporting fancy in Old

Pile Games.

Mexico, Arizona, the southern states, and more especially in the Philippine Islands, where cock fighting is a national sport, says Los Angeles Times. With us a few Black Reds, both standard and bantam, are bred for the beauty of the bird; there are also a few Pile games to be found here and there. In type and station, the Piles are the same as the Black Reds, only that in color of plumage white feathering is substituted for black plumage. The practice of "Dubbing" all game breeds has been so long a pronounced custom that unless the comb is cut down close to the head, the bird does not look "gamy." Opinion, however, is modifying on that point, and gradually we see more of the breed with combs in their natural condition. Since beauty of feather and type, coupled with a graceful carriage and alertness are its chief points of attraction, it is fair to assume, with cock fighting prohibited, that eventually the practice of dubbing will become obsolete.

METHODS OF KEEPING EGGS

Of Many Different Ways Tried in Germany Three Most Effective Are Given Herewith.

In Germany twenty methods of preserving eggs have been tried. Of these tests the three most effective were coating the eggs with vaseline, preserving them with lime water and preserving them with water glass. As the object of the preservation is to keep out germs, vaseline or some other tasteless grease, such as fresh butter, may be used. The process consists of greasing the eggs all over as soon as they are laid, then setting them on end in a clean jar until wanted for use. Eggs can be kept in this way for three or four months.

The process of keeping eggs in lime water is as follows: Slack four pounds of lime, then add four pounds of salt and eight gallons of water. Stir and leave to settle. Next day stir again. After the mixture has settled the second time, draw off the pure liquid. Take two ounces each of baking soda, cream of tartar, saltpeter and a little alum. Pulverize and mix and dissolve in two quarts of boiling water. Add to this the lime water. Put the eggs in a stone jar, small end down, one layer on top of another, and pour on the solution. Set the jar away in a cool place. While the method is satisfactory, it is not as good as water glass, as the eggs are liable to taste of the lime. Undoubtedly the best preservative for keeping eggs is water glass, in using water glass the difficult point is the tendency of water glass to vary in quality.

Water glass is also called soluble glass, or dissolved glass, liquid glass and silicate of soda. Water glass is made by melting together pure quartz and a caustic alkali, soda or potash. It is imported here in tin cans, and is a thick or jelly-like liquid. At several experiment stations there have been some very exhaustive experiments with this dissolved glass in preserving eggs. The reports are without exception in favor of it. No other preservative is reported as being equal to this one.

The directions for use are: Use pure water which has been thoroughly boiled and cooled. To each nine quarts of this water add one quart of water glass. Pack the eggs in the jar and pour the solution over the eggs. The solution may be prepared, placed in the jar and fresh eggs added from time to time until the jar is filled, but care must be used to keep fully two inches of water glass solution over the eggs. Keep the eggs in a cool place, and the jar covered to prevent evaporation. A cool cellar is a good place in which to keep the eggs.

If the eggs be kept in a too warm place the silicate will be deposited and the eggs will not be properly protected. Do not wash the eggs before packing, for by so doing you will injure their keeping qualities probably by dissolving the mucilaginous coating of the outside of the shell. For packing use only perfectly fresh eggs, for eggs that have already become stale cannot be preserved by this or any other method, and one stale egg may spoil the whole batch.

To prevent bursting when boiled, prick the egg at the large end. This will allow the gas to escape. Stone jars are the best receptacles for eggs, though five gallon kerosene cans and lard pails may also be used. It costs about 1 1/2 cents per dozen to preserve eggs in this manner, and they will keep for eight months.

OBSTINATE SPREADING ECZEMA QUICKLY CURED

Mrs. Wm. C. Wood, Newark, N. J., writes:

"Resinol Ointment cured an obstinate case of spreading Eczema on my little ten year old boy's leg, after various other salves had signally failed. The trouble had existed for six months, and nothing seemed to do any good until we procured a jar of Resinol, which quickly cured him. It has now become a household remedy with us. We also have Resinol Soap in daily use by the children, and their skin, health and complexion are perfect."

Resinol Ointment can be positively relied on to give instant relief and quickly cure the torturing skin diseases of infancy and childhood. For eczema, nettle rash, chafing, disfiguring pimples and itching eruptions of all kinds, it is a prompt and sure remedy.

Every family should be safe-guarded with Resinol preparations—Resinol Ointment to cure the skin troubles that now and then occur; Resinol Soap to use regularly for the toilet and bath, to keep the skin pure and healthy and preserve the complexion. Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick is also the best and safest to use, because it keeps the face free from eruptions and prevents infection.

These preparations are sold at all drug stores.

We send free on application a valuable little booklet on Care of the Skin and Complexion. Send for it. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

NO HEALTHY SKIN LEFT

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day, twelve years or more since the cure was effected. Robert Wattam, 1148 Fort-eighth St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9, 1909."

The Explanation.
Old Podkins lay back in his chair in calm content, and though his wife was quite near him he was happy, for she had not broken the silence for nearly five minutes.

He had been married for five-and-twenty long years, and Mrs. Podkins, almost daily during 24 of them, had disturbed the domestic peace by a too full exercise of her tongue.
"My dear," broke in Mrs. P.—"thinking it time she said something to interrupt the quiet, 'I see by the papers that a petrified jaw two yards long has been found in Cornwall."
"What!" cried Podkins, starting up. "Now I know your secret. But you never told me your ancestors came from that part of the world!"

MODES of the MOMENT

TROUVILLE, France.—Here, where I am wandering a while in full sight of a glorious blue sea banked with yellow sands on which the sun amiably smiles with golden glory, simplicity has marked costume for its own. All the girls are wearing print dresses, and such pretty dresses they are, too. Daily I admire a blue and white striped cotton of the bed-ticking order of stripe, the lines going perpendicularly beyond the knees, the broad hem being cut with the stripes roundwards. There is no suggestion of the hobble about this hem, for it is as wide as the gathered skirt above it, and the little gathered bodice is cut in one with the sleeves, while the vest and collar and under-sleeves are of Madeira work, and the broad-trimmed white hat is bound with a gathered blue velvet, while around the crown is a small wreath of blue muslin cornflowers.

Another worthy cotton frock is of lavender spotted with white, worn with a white straw hat with a black velvet ribbon. A black patent leather belt is round the waist, and white crocheted buttons decorate the bodice on either side of a small vest of Irish lace, an Irish lace collar extending over the shoulders hiding the seam of the sleeves, while black silk stockings and patent leather shoes, albeit not entirely suited to trudge through the beach, put finishing touches of a most satisfactory order.

I am told that a more or less liberal education in the art of dress is to be gained by wandering over London in search of the smart serge costume which may do smart service now, and be confidently relied upon to prove worthy of further patronage in the late autumn.

Merits of Blue Serge.

Blue serge is an invaluable material, and if public benefactors had their due, its origin discoverer should have a memorial statue. However, he remains unhonored and unsung, like many others no less worthy who have given their services to their country's good. The blue serge dress is a safe refuge for the destitute in ideas, declares the captious critic, who may, perchance, have right upon her side. Anyway all the coats labeled "new" are shorter than those of yesteryear, and their trimming alternates between wide braid used as a binding and narrow satin roudales. In some few instances the satin roudales are used in combination with the wide braids, but the general order of affairs finds them displaying their charms separately. Most of the coats are cut straight at the back and in the front, with long collars turned down at the back with velvet, and in the front with braid. Variations of the Russian blouse order are very difficult to find, which seems to me somewhat of a pity, since this style is exceedingly becoming to many figures. Becoming too is the straight tunic dress of blue serge with turned down lawn collar and patent leather belts, and indeed these are hard to beat; but as yet you cannot find them ready-made, and must needs have them especially achieved for your satisfaction. I commend their charms to the many excellent and sympathetic purveyors who have lately improved their stock of ready-to-wear costumes, and so often now step outside the pale of the extremely ordinary into the realms of the elegantly attractive.

A very long coat of dark blue serge upon which I chanced in my travels has much merit, with a straight plastron vest in the front, a few gathers on the hips, which are held in straps at the side about six inches from the hem, and a straight paneled back.

All Sorts of Styles Seen.

The most favored sort of blue serge has a very fine rib and a very smooth surface, but costumes of thick blue frizze have been prepared in great numbers for the travelers to the north, and there are some excellent suitings, smooth of surface, showing many dark colors in striped combinations. These made in plain style have a small cravat of white pique at the top, which must not, however, be reckoned quite indispensable. But on the whole the best of the dresses which I found in my wanderings had a plain corselet skirt of blue serge with the front width buttoned over to the back, just below the knees, the whole fitting quite tightly, but being cut on different ways of the stuff. The buttons were of black braid, and seemed to be sufficiently decorative for all purposes of fashion. The coat had a very long and narrow revers of black velvet. It was slightly full in the bodice portion, and again slightly full in the skirt, with a belt of patent leather round the waist, no other trimming being evident excepting a little braiding down either side, and this represented the ideal of simplicity; and it is noticeable that globular buttons of shining black metal are in favor, and that the very long perfectly straight coats, fitting closely but not tightly, are best when innocent of collar, and these bear narrow strips of black braid set closely from neck to hem, each one centered with a dome-shaped button. The skirt designed to accompany this style is set in three large box-pleats, one in the center of the front, another at the back, and the third on the hips, the top being of limited corselet order.

Dark Blue and Chiffon.

The dark blue blouses appear to retain our affection, chiffon to be their mainstay at the moment, mounted over embroidery or lace, with red and green and gold of Oriental suggestiveness.

And so much for the autumn to come. Now, again, to the summer that is, after I have first mentioned that there is a popular fancy to allow these serge dresses to accompany dome-crowned hats with out-spreading wings at the side, but that the more imaginative find pleasure in the soft-ribbon-crowned hats of satin-pleated brims, and that the narrow helmet hats are popular encircled with aggressive quills. Velvet holds first place in the regard of the milliners just now, and France is exhibiting a decided fancy towards wearing velvet hats with light linen and Shantung costumes.

And talking of France reminds me of bathing-frocks. Although we have to a certain degree extended our dressful ambitions in this direction, we still remain conspicuously faithful to the dark blue or red serge. But this season a new sort of cashmere has offered itself persuasively for bathing-gowns, and the authorities have trimmed this in conventional designs of narrow braid to match. Much favor is shown to mignonette-green, and the tunics have scarfs to match, encircling the waist. Black taffeta and violet taffeta look particularly well in the water, and the long cloaks of bath toweling have now assumed some gracious virtues, the material being dyed pale grey or brown, and bordered with a hem of contrasting colors. The kimono-shaped bathing-wrap is much appreciated, and an excellent example is in grey hemmed with mauve. Another no less attractive example I saw in sand-color bordered with green.

Green in Light Reseda.

Green threatens to obtain much recognition, especially in light reseda, and a bathing-dress of this in combination with a crossway band of black and white stripes intersected with a design in dark blue braid, must be written down as conspicuously novel, and likely to look exceedingly elegant when worn by a woman of good figure with her fair hair held beneath one of the new silk rubber caps checked with pale green and dark blue, with a wide rosette over either ear.

Transparent wraps of divers details have been distinguishing features of the season. Not, perchance, since those elegant times when our forebears walked upon the pantiles has the scarf been so popular, and every diaphanous fabric has been exploited to its service. Long mantles, too, alike of close-clinging and of kimono form have been adopted in thin stuffs, mignon or chiffon for choice, while plain and flowered and beaded and velvet-patterned grenadines have received considerable recognition for such purpose; and satin hems have vied in favor with netted fringes as the decoration for the borders. And there has been some attempt to revive the black lace coat.

Simple Economy.

An economical girl makes trim little jabots out of the fine linen and lawn turnover collars which used to be worn with colored stocks. Each one is cut in half. The finished ends which met at the back of the neck are used as the bottom of the jabot, the finished lower edge makes the two outer sides, and between the two halves is inserted a piece of lace insertion or embroidery. If the old collar and the insertion together are wide this makes the jabot full enough, but when necessary lace matching the insertion is put around the edges, or two pieces of insertion or lace and insertion both are used in the centre. A hand embroidered collar with buttonholed edges is worth saving and makes a handsome jabot when combined with Irish lace.

Advertising Talks

KEEP OVERSOLD BEST POLICY

Advice of Hugh Chalmers, Well-Known Expert, to Business Men of Minneapolis.

Hugh Chalmers, the well-known advertising expert, recently discussed "Salesmanship as a Fine Art" before the advertising and business men of Minneapolis. He said among other things:

"All goods are sold in three ways: First, by the word of mouth; second, by pictures and illustrations, and third, by printed matter. That practically sums up the ways there are of selling goods. But advertising is more than selling. There are two objects in advertising. One is to sell your goods, and the second is to establish a good name and insure a continuance of trade. Now some people say that when you are entirely sold out you want to quit advertising. There was never a greater fallacy told to business men. One of our stockholders said to me not long ago, 'Are you reasonably sure of selling your year's output?' I said, 'Yes, sir.' Then why don't you quit advertising?' he asked. 'How much can you save between now and the first of July?' I said: 'Between $60,000 and $75,000. 'men why don't you save it?' he said. My answer was that if I were dead sure we had all sold this year of 1910 and up to 1912, I would not spend a dollar less.

"I am speaking not only from the standpoint of the theoretical advertiser, but also of the man who buys the space and pays the bill. My being in business is not confined only to 1912, and I am a firm believer in keeping oversold. You have got to deal with human nature, and human nature always has wanted and always will want those things which are hardest to get. Now, then, I said to this gentleman, 'Look at that fountain; see that water gushing forth. The fountain has its source of supply in the river a mile and a half distant. You can get the superintendent to shut it off, but you will not notice any difference right away; you will see it go down a little at a time until there is no more water supplied. You shut off the source of supply when you stop advertising. You must send the best possible appeal to a million minds in order to sell a few thousand easily, and you must keep on appealing. You must keep on if you wish to keep up your business.'

"There is no mystery about this advertising and selling of goods. Some would have you think so, and some do not take it up because they think it is too hard. It is nothing but plain, common sense, plus printer's ink, and some of the best copy I have ever seen was written by men who were never known as advertising men, but they sold the goods and made their copy accordingly. I once heard it said that a man with a little idea always used big words to express himself, because he wants to surround his idea with as big words as he can; whereas the man with the big idea uses little Anglo-Saxon words to express himself, because the idea is so big it needs no surrounding. When you come to write copy bear that in mind. Write it so plainly that the man without an education can understand what you are talking about, and then it will be a clinch that the college graduate can, or ought to, understand it.

"I believe advertising copy should be so written that its first two lines shall be the attractive feature of it, because if a man starts to read your copy and does not finish reading it, don't blame him—blame yourself, because he gave you the chance."

Advertising is the lifeblood of business, and you can always get the best results by dealing with a concern which has its veins full of the vital fluid than with one that depends upon life for the sluggish circulation given by oral advertising and other out-of-date methods.

Japanese Advertising.

The Japanese have an original way of advertising and they apply to the art all the poetry that their Oriental imagination is capable of. They have recourse to the most varied and improvised methods, and their combinations are sometimes as picturesque as they are original, judging from a Paris contemporary, which cites some examples. A Japanese merchant informs his customers that his goods are sent off with the rapidity of a shot. A stationer calls his knowledge of natural history to his aid thus: "Our wonderful paper is as durable as the hide of an elephant." A Tokio grocer borrows from psychology and in mordant language announces that "Our vinegar of extra quality is sharper than the bitterness of the most diabolical of mother-in-laws." No doubt this last example, although the joke is obsolete with us, impresses the people of the land of the chrysanthemums.

AD-ISMS.

What would you think of a salesman who reported for duty one day, lay off for two, worked a half day, went off for a week and so on without any regularity? Surely you would not expect good service from such a man. And yet some merchants hold advertising, which is simply a "salesman," up to great results when it is allowed to "work" very irregularly. The fact that advertising costs money is proof of its value. Things without cost are usually worth only their price.

RAISING MONEY FOR CHARITY

Man Who Makes Specialty of Getting Funds Declares Newspaper Is Best Medium.

The newspaper is the best advertising medium in existence, declares G. W. Johnson, an advertising expert of Buffalo, N. Y., who makes a specialty of raising large sums of money for charitable purposes in short spaces of time. Mr. Johnson relies entirely upon advertising to accomplish his ends. In ten days he raised $300,000 to build a Y. M. C. A. for Buffalo. In a published interview he says among other things:

"The newspaper is the best thing there is in advertising, because it reaches the home. It stands in exactly the same relationship to the community as does the physician to his patients or the clergyman to his congregation. In a local advertising campaign the home must be reached. All articles in a home are advertised, of course, and the women of this country do more than 90 per cent. of the general buying for the home. The newspaper reaches the women, thereby placing before them the good qualities or new ideals of the article advertised.

"Every newspaper naturally has some standing in the community through which its circulation carries it. Take for example, a newspaper of the very highest type, proportion to the standing of the paper. In other words, a newspaper gives to its advertising its own standing."

FAVORS CHURCH ADVERTISING

Rev. James W. Kramer of Spokane Says Liberal Use of Printer's Ink Pays.

"I have drawn people to hear my sermons by advertising. I have attracted them with moving pictures, hot suppers, pink teas and flowers and flags. If I have had any degree of success in Spokane it is because of the liberal use of printer's ink," said Rev. Dr. James W. Kramer, pastor of First Baptist church of Spokane, Wash. There is something worse than sensationalism. It is the inability of the church to produce life. The church that does not advertise is behind the times and is nursing empty pews, and he who rails against the minister for advertising is suffering for a congregation. I am not an advocate of ragtime methods or vulgar preaching, but I do plead for the church which is a humming plant of machinery, with live coals in the fire box, smoke curling from the stack and every belt, wheel and pulley going. I believe, too, that the people need instruction and that a minister of the Gospel, is first, last and all the time a teacher. There must be life.

"The Message the Thing."

"The telegram," says Advertising and Selling, "is a common, little crude, yellow and black affair, but with what avidity we reach for it! That is because we have learned to associate it with information of importance. All the costly deckle-edge stock and exquisite printing and embossing in many colors that money can buy could not add anything to the face value of the telegram. The message is the thing. If your advertising gets the reputation of having the real meat in it, people will reach for it and hang on to it."

It is up to the business man to give his daily message in the morning newspaper telegraphic importance. The successful advertisers are those whose contributions to the news of the day are just as much sought after by readers as the stories of current happenings that are flashed over the wires.

The man who says that advertising is no good has been trying to sell goods that are no good.

Advertising Waste.

A circus man recently ordered a large advertising poster of his show to be printed, and objected because there was so much clear sky in it. "I ain't a-goin' to advertise the sky," he said to the lithographer. "I paid you to advertise my show. Draw a few camels and stick them up in the heavenly blue. I ain't a-goin' to have all that good space run to waste."

ODDITY IN STYLES

THAT IS THE KEYNOTE OF THE PRESENT SEASON.

What May Well Be Described as a "Fascinating Ugliness" is Predominant—Ideas, However, Still Have a Charm.

What may be described as a "fascinating ugliness" is the dominant note displayed by present fashions, this stamping a world of things that would seem hideous were they not so distractingly smart. In truth, the most superior nature is scarcely proof against the wiles of the odd tight skirts, the quaint draperies and snug little bodices, though a change of heart may come when you try them on, for these modern follies of fashion are only for the nymphs of the human race. Skirts express the hobble influence in a hundred and one ways, the jupe short enough to show ankles in the smartest cases and frequently with a wide, plain bottom attached to a gathered top. But there is no set model which must take precedence over others. It is only necessary for the walking skirt to be brief in length and width, and if it puts one's neck in danger with the long step, that is only a side issue.

Alongside the short skirt there are some longer ones for house or carriage wear that display overskirt effects as quaint as any seen in the 'eighties.' These fall low on the bottom skirt, and they are put all round, or only about the front and sides; in which case the skirt itself may be finished with a wide double box plait at the back, the sides of the front drapery going under this. The polonaise is another revival from ancient days, and it must be admitted that such over-draperies may be made to express a good deal of attractiveness, especially when they are in gauzy textiles, as they most often are, and are put over a tightly pulled back silk slip.

As yet these styles appear in the materials of summer, velling, marquisette and silk, fair woman contenting herself with a change of headgear and a top-coat of some sort for the autumn note in her costuming. But soon fall materials will be employed, and such as are now shown reveal some change in standard materials and a subtle softening of the usual autumn colors. Some odd colors which have been influenced by summer styles are a shade of yellow bordering on the nicotine shade, this called tabac indro, and some violets which recall the darker shades of wisteria. These are superb in cashmere, for which there is to be a renewed vogue, and for the woman who loves to wear wash materials till the last moment there are also superb linens in the same colors.

The little drapery shown in the illustration is pictured in a patterned material, but the rear cut shows the plain velling that would give a smarter effect. The material is a blue and gray velling, black ribbon, velvet being used for all the banding. The skirt is a short, plaited model, and a guimpe bodice with lace yoke and under-sleeves is worn under the polonaise. A polonaise of black chiffon in this style, put over a princess slip in a lusterless black silk, would offer a beautiful evening effect for a young woman in mourning; for a bias of the silk, or else chiffon folds, could make the banding, and the simplicity of the drapery commends itself for black. In this event the guimpe could be collarless, and of chiffon gathered over cords at the throat line, the same treatment to be used at the bottom of the under-sleeves.

PRESERVING THE HAIR SHADE

Girl Whose Hair Is Decidedly Blond May Keep It So by Constant Care.

It is a difficult thing to do, but I believe a girl whose hair is decidedly blond may keep it so if she takes endless pains in its care. Her efforts should be directed first to keeping the scalp in a healthy condition, for I know of no tonic which will not be very apt to darken the color. This is because all contain oils; some more than others, it is true. But grease is extremely likely to affect the color, and it is the tendency of light hair to become dark as years go by.

Agents which are decidedly bleaching in effect are not good for a natural blond, because they dry the scalp oils, and taking away this nourishment from the tresses causes them to fall or to become dull in appearance. Yet it is true that soda, or even peroxide, if applied with something else in the very smallest quantities, may be beneficial as to the color effect and not harmful to the head.

The only shampoo for a golden-haired girl is the whites of raw eggs, I think. These are cleansing, and, containing no coloring matter, will not change the shade. To each white might be put a piece of bicarbonate of soda the size of a small green pea and five drops of ammonia or peroxide. A tablespoonful of soft water is put to each white. For an ordinary amount of hair four whites should be required. These, when well mixed, are rubbed over the scalp and in the hair, this part of the work taking at least five and preferably ten minutes. Not until all is wet with it is any water put on, and then the head is washed in clear warm water, putting a pinch of soda in the final rinse. If the scalp is inclined to dry neither soda, ammonia nor peroxide should be used at all.

There is a rhubarb shampoo highly commended for blondes. It is made by putting an ounce each of rhubarb and strained honey into three ounces of white wine, letting the mixture stand, tightly corked, for 24 hours, when it is strained. This is rubbed over the scalp and hair, drying in before being washed out in clear water.

A blond must see that her hairbrush is kept scrupulously clean, and protect her hair all she can from dust. Washing is not to be done more often than once a month. Accumulation of natural oil is not to be permitted, for it will at once begin to act as a darkening agent, but neither should the scalp be made dry.

MADE FROM A WICKER BASKET

Dainty Handkerchief Box That May Easily Be Fashioned by Skillful Fingers.

Fancy wicker baskets in a variety of designs and of a suitable size for holding handkerchiefs may be bought for very little, and treated in the manner shown in our sketch make handy little articles for use at home, or for a small present, or for sale in a bazaar.

In the first instance, the lid and interior of the basket is lined with pink batiste, sewn in its place with thread drawn through the spaces in the wicker.

or work. The thread should be chosen of a color to match the wicker as nearly as possible, as then it will be scarcely visible.

Next, it should be padded with cotton wool, plentifully sprinkled with satchet powder, and then covered with some prettily colored piece of satin. Four ribbons of a color to match the satin are sewn inside and tie across the handkerchiefs in the manner illustrated.

Ribbons decorate the handles on either side, and ribbon strings are attached in front by which the lid may be secured when the basket is closed.

Hook and Eye Hints.

When sewing the hooks and eyes on the placket of a skirt, sew one pair at the very bottom, fasten them and crush them flat. This will keep the placket from ever tearing or ripping at the end.

On a wash dress the eyes should be sewed on the upper flap and the hooks on the lower, instead of the usual fashion. The top flap can then be ironed flat without the little lumps left by ironing over hooks.

In working on heavy materials alternate the hooks and eyes; first an eye and then a hook on one flap, with first a hook and then an eye on the other. This method will hold the dress shut and save you from much discomfort and embarrassment.

Personals

Rev. E. J. Warren returned Thursday from attendance at the Detroit conference, by the way of Otisville, where he visited his mother. Mrs. Warren is visiting for a couple of weeks with her mother at Emery City, before returning. The congregation are well pleased that their request has been accepted, for the return of Mr. Warren to his present charge.

Hon. Charles D. Mason and Soren Johnson leave next week to attend the state convention at Detroit, October 6. The former will return via Saginaw, where the K. P. grand lodge meets the following day; and at which he is in line for election to the post of grand inner guard.

Magnus Olson returned Tuesday with his daughter, from their summer's visit in Sweden, by the way of Boston, where he visited his brother. Mr. Olson enjoyed his trip very much, and feels in the most vigorous health as a result of it.

James Jones, Delbert J. Calder, Capt. Jack, William Gelzer and Joy Cartwright left this morning for Cartwright's camp at Little Lake to observe the opening of the bird season. They return tomorrow night.

County Clerk Semer returned last Saturday from a two week's vacation at Uno, somewhat scratched up from long tramps through the brush, but in pink of health and delighted with the expedition.

W. L. Marble, Jr., leaves tonight for Milwaukee on advertising business. Mrs. Marble, who spent the past month in Rockford, Ill., will meet him there, and they return in about a week.

John M. Beattie, who has been ill for the past month or so, has recovered sufficiently to go to Mt. Clemens, where he will take treatment. He left Monday evening.

John Halvorson and Charles Soderman returned Monday from Ellison Bay, having enjoyed the trip greatly.

A daughter was born September 23, to Mr. and Mrs. John Berg.

Charles Kirch, and children, of Rapid River, were in the city Wednesday on their way home after a week's visit with his parents at Manitowoc.

Ald. J. H. Murphy was in Escanaba Tuesday on business.

Mrs. William Buchanan returned Monday to her home in Minneapolis.

Joseph Heldmann, of Trenary, shook hands with his Gladstone friends yesterday.

Richard Mason and C. W. Davis, who with their families have been spending the summer on the east shore of the bay, returned from camp this week.

John Darrow and August Goodman of Rapid, River were in the city Monday evening.

Born Wednesday, Sept. 28, to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gabrielson, a daughter.

J. H. McDonald spent Sunday in Gladstone.

A daughter was born Thursday, Sept. 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Kee.

Mrs. A. Haberman will leave Monday evening to visit for an indefinite period with her daughter in St. Paul.

James Young and Sam Rogers drove to Escanaba Tuesday.

Robert Cavill was in Escanaba on business Tuesday afternoon.

E. J. Newman returned last Friday from Wausau, Wis., after a two weeks' vacation enforced by ill health.

Herman Wanks, a barber of many years' experience, arrived in the city last week and is assisting P. J. Baker at the Tonsorialor.

Joseph Simon, of Rapid River, paid the Delta office a call Friday.

John Cummiskey was in the city on business Thursday.

A daughter was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blomberg.

Miss Mary Callahan, of Gladstone, attended the funeral of her uncle, the late Martin McEvoy, which was held last Saturday. She returned to her home Saturday evening.—Manistique Record.

Mrs. D. Narracong is visiting in Marquette with her son, Win C. Narracong, and family.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Locke Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Blackwell died on September twenty-eighth, after a month's illness, at her mother's home in Constantine, Mich., where the funeral is to be held Sunday. While there on a visit, she became sick, and Mr. Blackwell was summoned last week, when her condition became serious. She failed to rally from an operation, and passed away at ten o'clock Wednesday evening. As Miss Mary D. Bailey, she came to teach in the Gladstone public schools two years ago; and her gentle, pleasant ways acquired for her in this city and Escanaba a host of friends, whom this unwelcome news has astonished and sorely grieved. Early in the spring of this year her acquaintance with Mr. Blackwell ripened into marriage and they had only become settled in their pleasant home when Death interrupted the romance. Mr. Blackwell returns, crushed by overwhelming grief, to meet the freely-extended sympathies of all who know the story.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Marble, Floyd W. Marble and Mrs. J. A. Hetrick made a long-planned auto trip to Menominee last Saturday, in spite of the wet weather. They returned the following evening, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gleason left last night for the west. They will go first to Salt Lake city and then to Ely, Nevada, to visit their son, Dr. William Gleason. They return in about a month.

Frank Aronson and Louis Schuette, of Escanaba, August Lillquist, John Halvorson, James Lawcock and John Nelson left yesterday for Spring Creek to spend a few days shooting partridge.

Percy Patterson, the well known piano tuner, will be here for the next ten days. Leave orders at Segerstein's Piano Store. All work guaranteed. 27

Mrs. C. D. Mason leaves next week for lower Michigan with the Misses Ellen and Blanche Mason, who will enter St. Mary's Academy at Monroe, Mich., for the coming year.

A. H. Ryall, of Escanaba, and James M. Reasoner, of Lansing, were in the city Friday. The gentlemen of the law were planning a partridge hunt.

Jacob Fontanna, formerly of Gladstone, and now landlord of the big Hotel Fontanna at Powers, was in the city Tuesday, by automobile, and spent a few hours with friends here.

F. W. Aslett leaves next Thursday morning for Saginaw to attend the meeting of the grand lodge, in which he represents Gladstone Lodge, 163, K. of P.

Mrs. M. W. Lancaster returned last week from a three weeks' visit at Reedsburg, Wis.

Matthew E. Gleason came in Tuesday from Ely, Minn., to attend the mining company's banquet, returning Thursday.

Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, who underwent an operation at Green Bay last week, is slowly recovering.

Miss Laidlaw has returned from her visit in Wisconsin to resume her duties at the Western Express counter.

Mrs. J. Tennis and Mrs. D. McCarthy, who have been visiting Mrs. O'Connell, returned Tuesday to their homes.

Richard Nebel left Thursday night by way of Appleton for Ann Arbor, where he will finish his three years' law course next June.

Clayton Voorhis, who has been visiting in the east and at Cassopolis, returned to the city last Saturday.

Rev. C. J. Silfversten of Gladstone was in the city Monday evening and conducted services for the Swedish-Finnish church society at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Finstrom on Hartnette avenue.—Escanaba Journal.

TO THE PUBLIC.

We must dispose of this enormous department stock within 16 days. We have advertised the stock for public sale, at prices as below quote, over the entire state. Every statement and price here made being true, and not exaggerated in minimum. We shall expect a crowd numbering thousands of people every day of this sale to supply their wants. Proper preparations are being made to accommodate these masses and to wait upon one and all with proper dispatch.

Sale will open Wednesday, Oct. 5, and positively close Oct. 22.

WED., OCT. 5, TO SAT., OCT. 22
16-DAYS ONLY-16

The greatest revolution in the Retail Merchandise business. The greatest and most sensational sale the buying public has ever known. The mammoth Women's and Children's Merchandise stock of the well-known firm of Miss L. A. Burns, located at Menominee, Mich., is to be liquidated and disposed of at retail at her store. MARK THE DATE. Commencing Wednesday, Oct. 5, and closing Oct. 22. Only 16 days to dispose of this enormous stock and it is clearly not a question of what the stock will bring its a question of how quick it can be sold. Read on and reflect. Now in the height of the season comes this public sale with its untold bargains, offering you an opportunity to save dollars upon dollars on your purchases. Can you, dare you, in justice to yourself, overlook this golden chance? Every article of this mammoth $25,000 stock included, and will be sold on the premises at a price that will not let you restrain your enthusiasm.

STOP AND CONSIDER

No economical women can afford to miss this golden opportunity. The cleanest, choicest and most up-to-date ready-to-wear and furnishing stock in Menominee, Mich., to be sold at public sale at these quoted prices, at prices lower than half its value. Read this circular carefully and remember no matter how ridiculously low the prices quoted they are true and backed by the fairest guarantee: "Satisfaction or money refunded."

Sale will begin Wednesday, Oct. 5, and positively close Saturday, Oct. 22.

NEWS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE—WE HAVE RECRUITED A FORCE OF EFFICIENT AND TRAINED SALES-PEOPLE to wait on the people with rapid and proper dispatch. Don't forget the date, Wednesday, October 5, at 9 a. m. the doors will be thrown open to the public. We do not wish to leave a few skeptical ones behind, and therefore whatever purchases you make should you be dissatisfied in any way we will exchange, take back or refund your money immediately. We guarantee every garment, every price and every statement here made and advise you to save this and bring it with you, so you will get exactly the goods mentioned. Remember, NO POST-SEASON SALE. We will absolutely guarantee the best values that you ever saw. You will be disappointed and disappointed. Come here expecting to find absolutely the best values that you ever saw. You will be disappointed and disappointed. Your expectations will be far exceeded in every instance. We guarantee you that the prices are lower and the values such as you only could picture in your most exalted moments of imagination. Were we to use the most emphatic language we could not sufficiently impress upon you the importance of these bargains. Why, language is simply too faint to convey to you even an idea of the extraordinary bargains to be found, Wednesday, Oct. 5. But bear in mind that the appended items are merely representative and we can only give you a glimpse of what you can save by quoting prices on a small portion of the stock, for if we should quote prices on all these goods we would require the space of a twenty-four page newspaper. And now then, in offering these bargains we make no reservations and include and place at your disposal every article, every garment contained in this stock. To fully realize and to properly appreciate the marvelous values to be found in this store you must visit the store yourself.

CONDITIONS OF SALE—TAKE NOTICE. ALL GOODS SOLD FOR CASH—NO CREDIT EXTENDED. MONEY REFUNDED. PURCHASES EXCHANGED IF NOT SATISFACTORY. GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. ALL GOODS WILL POSITIVELY BE SOLD AS ADVERTISED. SALE LASTS SIXTEEN DAYS ONLY. LOOK FOR BLUE AND RED SIGNS. Of Some Interest

That the Fair Savings Bank has become Delta county's largest store through the enterprise of its proprietor, Herman Salinsky, is evident from a survey of its ad this week. It was announced a few days ago that no county fair would be held in Delta county this year, as the season was backward and the fair grounds not ready. The result was no small disappointment to the many farmers of Delta county who had raised choice crops in spite of the drought. Mr. Salinsky decided, however, that as he has a Fair of his own it should be at the grangers, disposal, and put up a premium list for all kinds of crops, as well as for ladies' preserves and pastry. The latter have no cause to complain, for one quarter of the premium list is devoted to the housewife's handiwork. The amount offered is no small one, although every true exhibitor prefers the glory to the prize. The Fair's big window space will be devoted to the display of farm products. The basement will be equipped for the serving of free coffee and sandwiches to the visiting farmers, an immense number of whom will visit Escanaba during the grange meeting. Exhibits may be entered at any time Wednesday, and the prizes will be paid in cash Thursday when the owners may take away their exhibits. The contest is free of cost to all residents of Delta county, grangers or not, to show what they can raise. It is a matter of common knowledge that the grains of Delta county are of the first quality, its vegetables of large size and full flavored, and its juicy apples put to shame the costly but insipid, western fruit. The people of Delta county should wake to the possibilities of their surroundings. There is no reason for the importation of vegetables, fruit, flour, etc., into this county when it has half a million acres of the best farming land in the United States. This exhibit should be instructive for those who see it as well as for the participants.

Thought Once Was Enough.

The Sunday school lesson was from that Scripture which teaches that if your brother strikes you on the cheek you should turn the other also and endure even for seventy times seven. Johnny had listened to his teacher very attentively while she emphasized this fact, and after the lesson the superintendent rose to make a few remarks. "Now, boys," she said, "how many times ought another boy to strike you before you hit him back?" "Just about once!" promptly answered Johnny.—Judge.

PROF. GEISMAR TALKS.

Prof. Leo M. Geismar of Chatham, head of the upper peninsula agricultural experiment station, arrived in Houghton Tuesday to judge the school corn exhibit. To a reporter for the Gazette Mr. Geismar said: "Looking at the splendid exhibits at the Houghton fair while recalling the late stories of crop failures cannot help but evoke a smile, and as far as the recent drought is concerned one may well wonder whether as fine farm crops would have been possible without it. This is as it should be. Crop failures in the upper peninsula because of weather conditions should be unknown, and as a matter of fact will be impossible, if some of our farmers will quit raising oats and timothy hay on sandy soils and will grow the more profitable crops which such soil are adapted for. Generally speaking, and with the noted exception for which farmers alone are to blame, this has been one of the most successful seasons throughout the upper peninsula. Dry weather in the neighborhood of the experiment station has been as bad or worse than in any other part of the state, yet the hay crop was the largest within ten years, alfalfa yielded nearly six tons per acre, winter wheat over forty bushels, winter rye nearly fifty-five bushels, corn will yield over sixty bushels and our best varieties of potatoes which are just being dug are exceeding 430 bushels per acre.

Speaking of potatoes reminds me that the fair manager should aim to reward efforts at plant improvement rather than encourage the exhibition of "big things." An overgrown potato or any other abnormally large plant is a freak and does not testify to the skill of the producer. While perfection in shape and uniformity denote that the producer understands, or at least recognizes the law of breeding and of selection. Take for instance, the variety of potatoes which has given us the largest crop for years. We have been selecting this for perfect shape for seven years, primarily for the purpose of ultimately demonstrating that given the proper soil, climate and care the potato or any other plant does not "run out" and that it is not necessary for a farmer to pay a fancy price for new varieties. Nine perfectly shaped potatoes is all I could find at the beginning in two and a half

Wheat will be a larger crop in Delta county this fall, a great quantity having been sowed this spring. The soil and climate is perfectly adapted to this grain. Eugene Willford estimates that the Delta flour mills will receive nine thousand bushels of wheat this fall, raised by farmers in the peninsula at their solicitation, as against fifteen hundred bushels last fall; and that next year the quantity will increase almost in like proportion. Wheat has not been the most advantageous crop for the farmer in the past, because of the difficulty of disposing of his harvest; but he has now a good market locally. All through the Flat Rock and Danforth settlements, in the northwest of the county, around Ogontz, and across Big Bay, there were as fine wheat fields this year as a man wishes to see. Farmers south of Bark River have shipped their grain past the small mill there, to Gladstone. The contributing territory to this city extends past the Chippewa county line. It is estimated that at Moran, twelve miles above St. Ignace, there will be two hundred acres planted to wheat next spring.

The Tigers will play the city team, or such line-up as it can gather, next Sunday afternoon at the ball park. A good attendance is desirable, as the proceeds of this post-season effort will apply on the association's debt.

Some of our Rapid River friends will regret that the county fair is not held in the strawberry season; when they could make an exhibit that would open the eyes of the beholders. Delta county fruit leads the world, or should if it had its just dues.

While at Trout Lake last Thursday, A. B. Cassidy witnessed the arrest of a half-breed and a Chinaman, dressed in civilized clothes whom the latter was endeavoring to smuggle, disguised more or less as a relative of his. He stated that it would have been worth $500 to him to get his celestial protege to Gladstone.

Escanaba's city council voted $400 for park purposes during the coming year. With the money a public bath house will be put up on the south shore.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT OF THE GREAT AMERICAN PLAY

"PAID IN FULL"

In recent years a few plays have made such big hits that two or three companies have been sent out in them, and in one instance four organizations were started, but the number lasted only a short time. That play was not big enough or popular enough to win public support for four companies, yet it was one of the biggest successes of the time. In this fact lies the proof that Eugene's Walter "Paid in Full" is the greatest and most popular play ever produced in America. All last season, beginning in August 1909, and continuing until last May, five companies appeared in "Paid in Full" all over the United States. This same number is going over the country again this year. This adds a chapter to theatrical history never before written. It shows conclusively that "Paid in Full" holds a place in public admiration no other play has held, and it is doubtful if another ever attains it. The broad interest possessed by "Paid in Full" is demonstrated by the fact that it scored as big a hit in one part of the country as in the other. They like it as well in San Francisco and in New Orleans and Minneapolis as they did in New York where it ran for two years. Never has a play been in such demand for return engagements. In this respect it has a record unequalled in theatrical history. It has been played as many as five and six times in cities innumerable, and it is a wonderful illustration of its tremendous appeal that in every instance the audiences have been larger each time it has returned. Therefore its return to this city will awaken deepest interest when at the opera house, Monday Oct. 3, the United Play Company presents it with a new cast and production.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

J. EDGAR WILSON, PASTOR.

On Sunday evening next we will commence a series of twelve lectures on political, educational, social and moral reform topics. We believe that each of these realms is a proper field for the church to enter through the gateways of her pulpits.

Our theme for Sunday, October 2, is: "Pitfalls and Stepping Stones of Democracy."

Subject in the morning: "The Soul of Religion."

Come and bring a friend with you.

ALICE MEMORIAL METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The first service of the new conference year will be held Sunday morning, October 2. There will also be services in the evening at the usual hour. The pastor is anxious that this shall be the best year in the history of the church. With this end in view, he is anxious to meet at both services the entire congregation. Strangers will also find a welcome.

LORIMER FOES WIN

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEEMEN DECIDE TO HEAR EVIDENCE ABOUT "JACK-POT."

WILL WIDEN INQUIRY SCOPE

Charles A. White on Stand as First Witness Retells His Story of Alleged Bribery in Election of United States Senator.

Chicago.—As a result of a decision made by the senate investigating committee overruling Attorney Haney's objection to Charles A. White's testimony at the hearing Monday, all "jack-pot" and other evidence dealing with alleged bribery of Illinois legislators to vote for Senator William Lorimer will be admitted.

Arguments on making permanent the ruling to admit "jack-pot" testimony were made, each side being allowed twenty minutes. Upon the conclusion of the arguments they ruled that the question which precipitated it should be answered. They also decided that hereafter each "jack-pot" question should be ruled upon separately.

Attorney Haney's objection came when Representative Charles A. White was on the stand. White had told his story of the alleged offer of $1,000 to vote for Lorimer for senator and had begun to tell the committee that in addition he was promised a share in the "jack-pot" when Attorney Haney interrupted.

Attorney Haney submitted that the "jack-pot" evidence was irrelevant to the bribery charge.

The committee retired to a private room for deliberation and after ten minutes decided that Mr. Haney's objection could not stand. The decision is taken to widen the scope of the inquiry to include every action which in any way has bearing on Senator Lorimer's election.

White's story was practically the same as he told in the Browne trials.

WAGE WAR ON SUGAR TRUST

New Action Against American Refining Company Is Ordered by Attorney General Wickersham.

Washington.—Orders from the attorney general to District Attorney Wise in New York to smash the sugar trust went out Monday and the action will be filed there within a week.

An amended petition, though much more comprehensive in its charges, has been prepared after a conference between the attorney general, District Attorney Wise, Special Attorney Simson and Mr. McKenolds.

It charges the sugar trust with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and the court is asked to dissolve the trust and issue an injunction restraining the American Sugar Refining company of New Jersey from voting the shares of the subsidiary companies pending the redistribution of these shares among their original owners. The action will be in all respects similar to that which resulted in the smashing of the Standard Oil company in the United States circuit court and in a general way it resembles the action against the tobacco trust. It is learned that an investigation into the sugar trust develops that all three of these concerns have been organized and were operated along parallel lines.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM CONTROL

Roosevelt and Sherman Are Confident of Victory at New York Republican State Convention.

Saratoga, N. Y.—"We are going to Saratoga to beat them to a frazzle; do not forget the word, frazzle," said Theodore Roosevelt in a speech to a crowd which he made at Troy station Monday on his way to Saratoga. "I came back from Africa with some trophies and when we get back from Saratoga we shall have some trophies." When Mr. Roosevelt arrived he was tendered a big reception at the railroad station. Mr. Roosevelt went into conference at once with Mr. Griscom and took up the task of swinging unpledged delegates into line.

With the coming of Vice-President Sherman on the scene of the political battle, the old guard forces redoubled their energies to secure control of the Republican state convention and prevent the progressives from naming the candidates and writing the party platform. Mr. Sherman had scarcely alighted from the train before he was in conference with William Barnes, Jr., who frankly stated that neither side had a majority of the delegates and that the fight was far from settled.

"Who is going to be temporary chairman of the convention?" Mr. Sherman was asked.

"I am," was the reply; "that's what I came here for."

Racing Cup Autos in Collision. Mineola, L. I.—In practice over the Vanderbilt cup course Monday, the Lancia car, driven by Billy Knipper, was wrecked in a collision with the Marquette racer, driven by Robert Burman, and Knipper and his mechanic, Gulshard, were seriously bruised.

GILMAN IS MADE THE CHIEF

BOSTON MAN ELECTED TO HEAD THE GRAND ARMY.

Retiring Commander Pays High Tribute to Confederates—5,323 Veterans Die in 1909.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic Thursday elected John E. Gilman of Boston commander-in-chief for the ensuing year, John McElroy, the only other aspirant for the office, withdrawing his name prior to the election.

In opening the business session of the national encampment the retiring commander-in-chief, Samuel R. Van Sant, of Minnesota, gave a comprehensive review of the work of the organization for the past year and outlined what might be accomplished for the good of the order in the future.

The commander spoke earnestly as he expressed his gratification at the increasing fraternization of the "blue" and the "gray."

When he said that no braver troops were ever marshaled for conflict than the southern soldiers and that the Union veterans now realize that no men ever made greater sacrifices for what they believed to be right than their former foes, the commander was applauded.

While the roll of the Grand Army is steadily shortening, the commander-in-chief urged that every effort be made to keep the organization up to its fullest possible strength. He quoted the figures showing that G. A. R. at the beginning of the present year had still 213,901 members in good standing, as against 220,500 at the beginning of 1909. The loss during the year was 6,781, of which 5,323 was by death.

Commander-in-Chief Van Sant had commendation for the work of all the auxiliaries, praising the excellent work being done by the Woman's Relief corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans.

FIND NEW BRIBE EVIDENCE

Charles Luke, Now Dead, Is Said to Have Confessed to Getting $1,000 for Vote.

Springfield, Ill.—State's Attorney Burke of Sangamon county has obtained information that another member of the Illinois legislature received $1,000 for voting for William Lorimer for senator.

The man who made this admission of receiving cash for his vote was Charles S. Luke of Nashville, who represented the Forty-fourth district in the house, and who has since died. Mr. Burke obtained the knowledge of Luke's admission some time ago, but it could not be used as evidence in any pending criminal case.

It is pertinent, however, to the broader matter of Lorimer's election now under investigation by the senatorial committee in Chicago, and may be used in that inquiry.

The admission was made by Luke, according to one of Mr. Burke's staff familiar with the matter, to Hugh V. Murray of Carlyle, now state's attorney of Clinton county.

The date of the conversation in which Luke made the confession was August 18, 1909, months prior to the publication of the White confession and the corroborative confessions of Beckemeyer, Link and Holstlaw. Luke is said to have told Murray:

"I got $1,000 for my vote for Lorimer, and Beckemeyer was a fool if he didn't get the same."

Luke was one of those present in the Southern hotel bathroom in St. Louis, and his widow gave testimony before the Cook county grand jury that seemed to indicate that he had not been overlooked in the "jack-pot" distribution.

Drowns Self in Water Tank. Mason City, Ia.—Securing two large stones and putting them in a gunny sack with a stone at either end and so as to weigh her body down, Mrs. A. M. Gaskill of Corwith Monday plunged in a water tank with the sack over her neck, and was soon dead. No cause is assigned.

SIX DEAD IN CRASH

TRACTION COACH COLLIDES WITH CAR NEAR Tipton, Ind.

TWELVE PERSONS ARE HURT

Second Smashup on Indiana Roads Within Week—Motorman Who Jumped and Saved Himself Says, "I Guess We Overran Instructions."

Tipton, Ind.—In a collision on the Indiana Union Traction road two miles north of this city Saturday six persons were killed and 12 others more or less seriously injured.

This was the second disaster on Indiana traction lines within a week, the first having occurred on the Wash Valley line at Kingsland on Wednesday.

In both cases there was a mistake in orders—one of the trains overran the station at which it was to stop and met the other on a sharp curve in a head-on collision.

Dr. W. C. Holtzouser, who was killed in the wreck, was on his way to Kokomo, Ind., where he was to have been married. His brother, who also was killed, was to have been the best man at the wedding. The bride to have been Miss Nellie Coxon, daughter of the secretary of the Great Western Pottery company of Kokomo.

The collision was between a north-bound limited passenger train and a south-bound freight. The south-bound motorman had orders to wait at the first stop north of the crossing, it is said, but overran that point, thinking he could make another switch.

A clump of trees hid the approaching cars and they came together at a curve. The freight train plowed through the front of the limited, demolishing the smoker. The motorman and all the passengers in the smoking compartment of the limited were killed. The motorman and conductor on the freight car jumped and were not injured.

"I guess we overran the orders," said Motorman Dan Lacy, when he had fully recovered from the shock caused by jumping from his car. Conductor Sebree was equally dazed at the occurrence and could not explain why it was they had passed the switch.

SIXTEEN DIE IN A WRECK

ROCK ISLAND TRAIN GOES THROUGH OPEN BRIDGE

Disaster Occurs Near Clayton, Kan., When Heavy Rainstorm Causes Small Creek to Become Torrent.

Clayton, Kan.—A terrible disaster took place on the Rock Island railroad two miles east of here Friday, when a fast train plunged through an open bridge and into 20 feet of water. Sixteen persons were killed and 11 injured. Most of the victims were occupants of the smoking car, which was telescoped by the car following it.

The stream which wrought the destruction is at ordinary times simply a dry arroyo, with no water, but with its banks 30 feet below the level of the railroad bridge. A tremendous rain had fallen during the night and the ordinarily dry bed was soon filled to the brim with a wild torrent. The bridge itself was quickly broken up and carried away.

Shortly after one o'clock in the morning, while the storm yet raged, the fast Rock Island passenger train from Kansas City to Denver, traveling at a forty mile per hour speed, rushed headlong into the gap and the forward end of the train took the plunge into the water filled ravine.

The locomotive, tender and baggage car disappeared entirely under the water, and the engineer, fireman, baggageman and conductor were all instantly killed.

The smoker, which stopped on the brink of the stream, was telescoped by a chair car and many of the passengers killed outright. Others were thrown into the stream and drowned. With the exception of the last Pullman the entire train left the track and the cars and coaches were piled in one big heap or rolled into the ditch alongside the rails.

The uninjured passengers made their way to the brink of the stream and rendered what assistance they could, working by the light of the few lanterns which could be found.

Other passengers as well as trainmen walked to Clayton in the search for help. From this place the news was telegraphed to headquarters and relief trains were started from Belleville and Phillipsburg. Citizens of Clayton in wagons drove hastily to the scene of the wreck and, aided by bonfires which they lighted, worked in the storm amid the debris in the search for the dead and injured.

The little stream lost its water as rapidly as it had found it, and soon the ravine was practically dry. Down stream for half a mile the dead and injured were found and removed to the improvised hospitals. Nine of these dead were identified by letters and otherwise. Seven are without identification marks.

CARROLL MUST DEFEND SELF

Court Refuses to Direct Verdict in Case Against Governor of Iowa; Executive Will Take Stand.

Des Moines, Ia.—Overruling the motion for a directed verdict by attorneys for Governor B. F. Carroll, Judge James A. Howe left it for the jury to decide as to whether the chief executive of Iowa was guilty or innocent of the crime of libeling John Cowley.

The trial of Governor Carroll therefore will proceed and the governor will be placed on the witness stand in an attempt to prove the charges for which he was indicted.

OLD GUARD BEATEN

ROOSEVELT DEFEATS SHERMAN AS TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN OF NEW YORK CONVENTION.

VOTE RESULTS 567 TO 445

Ex-President Praises Taft and Hughes in Speech—He is Viciously Scored by Abraham Gruber of New York.

Saratoga, N. Y.—Theodore Roosevelt was elected temporary chairman of the Republican state convention here Tuesday by 567 votes against 445 for Vice-President Sherman.

Amid cheers and hisses the names of Vice-President Sherman and Theodore Roosevelt were placed in nomination. Chairman Woodruff of the Republican state committee carried out the committee's dictates in presenting Mr. Sherman's name, while Colonel Roosevelt was nominated by Joseph Hicks, a delegate from Nassau, the ex-president's home county.

Col. Abraham Gruber of New York, speaking for the "old guard," attacked Roosevelt and in the course of a vicious scoring of the former president uttered the aphorism that "the lungs of the nation are not its brains." Comptroller William Prendergast addressed the convention in behalf of Roosevelt.

No one enjoyed Gruber's speech more than Colonel Roosevelt, who chuckled repeatedly. The delegates hissed Gruber's statement that it would be found that two-thirds of Roosevelt's strength in the convention came from federal office-holders. At one point the jeers and catcalls became so great that Colonel Roosevelt leaped to his feet and, waving his hands at the delegates, cried: "I ask a full hearing for Colonel Gruber."

The speaker continued, but hisses almost drowned his attacks on Roosevelt.

Comptroller Prendergast of New York was recognized to speak for Colonel Roosevelt. Mr. Prendergast congratulated Roosevelt on Gruber's speech. He said he knew of nothing better to show the line of cleavage between Roosevelt's friends and "other people in this convention."

The fight for control overshadowed the main business of the convention, that of making nominations for governor and other state officers. Interest centers in the fight over direct nominations.

Mr. Roosevelt in his speech as temporary chairman said:

"We come here feeling that we have the right to appeal to the people from the standpoint alike of national and state achievement. During the last eighteen months a long list of laws, embodying legislation most heartily to be commended as combining wisdom with progress, has been enacted by congress and approved by President Taft."

"They represent an earnest of the achievement which is yet to come; and the beneficence and far-reaching importance of this work, done for the whole people, measure the credit which is rightly due to the congress and to our able, upright and distinguished president, William Howard Taft."

Colonel Roosevelt was unstinting in praising Governor Hughes for the reforms he had undertaken and laid particular emphasis upon the race-track legislation pushed through by the governor.

Mr. Roosevelt made a strong point of the direct primary issue, saying that he stood for a law that would make it possible for the people to decide who the candidates shall be instead of being limited merely to choosing between candidates with whose nomination they have had nothing to do.

It was decided by the progressive leaders to name United States Senator Elihu Root as permanent chairman of the convention.

LORIMER SCORES A POINT

Chairman Burrows of Senate Committee Rules Out All Hearsay Evidence in Bribery Case.

Chicago.—United States Senator William Lorimer, whose right to his seat in the upper house of congress is to be determined by a senate committee, won a victory Tuesday. Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee, ruled that no hearsay evidence relating to bribery in the election of the senator could be given by the witnesses at the inquiry in progress.

The decision was given after Mr. Burrows had read a long decision made by a similar committee which investigated the election of Senator George E. Spencer on charges of having obtained his seat through bribery and corrupt practices, and found him not guilty. The precedent decision pointed out that it could not be established that Spencer ever paid money for a vote or had knowledge of bribery.

Raymond Quit Twain's Play

Grew Tired of Playing Colonel Sellers to Big Houses and Paying Most of the Receipts for Royalties.

Some years after John T. Raymond, who died in 1889, had made his great historic hit as Col. Mulberry Sellers in a dramatization of Mark Twain's book, "The Gilded Age," a character according to one authority, "that became completely identified with his own breezy optimism," I met him one afternoon as he was entering the old Willard hotel in Washington. He beckoned me to one side.

"I have made up my mind to buy a play written by David D. Lloyd, a Washington newspaper correspondent you probably know," he said. "It is called 'For Congress.' Mr. Lloyd read it to me this morning, and I am going to produce it just as soon as I can close my present contract."

"Why," I said, "what do you want with a new play, Mr. Raymond? 'The Gilded Age' ought to be good for ten years yet. It has given you a national reputation, and should be making you rich."

The comedian smiled a dry sort of smile.

"Oh, that play has given me a reputation, all right," he said, "but reputation is not milk and honey, and that's why I am soon going to be done with 'The Gilded Age' forever, yes, forever. I have got tired of playing Colonel Sellers to packed houses and finding out, when figuring up accounts, that I have made just about enough to pay the expenses of my company and to draw for myself a 'ham fatter's' salary."

"Everybody has supposed that you were making a fortune out of the play," I said.

Mr. Raymond struck the familiar attitude of Colonel Sellers in the play, when that worthy, in describing the eye-wash says, "There's millions in it!" "Oh," exclaimed Raymond, with uplifted hand, "there's millions in it—there's millions in it—but they are for Mark Twain and not for John T. Raymond."

"You see, it's this way. When the book, 'The Gilded Age,' appeared I got one of the first copies and the instant I ran across the character of Colonel Sellers I said, 'Raymond, that's your part. You're sort of Colonel Sellers off the stage, and you ought to be a good Colonel Sellers on the stage.' So I arranged for the dramatization of the book, got a company together and played it 'on the dog' in western New York. It was a go, and then, suddenly, I heard from Mark Twain. I met him by appointment.

"Look here," he said, "you've been trespassing on my domains. You've been taking my goods. The dramatic rights of 'The Gilded Age' are mine. But for all your trespassing there isn't an actor anywhere that can do Colonel Sellers as you can, because, John, you know, you are Colonel Sellers to the life."

"Glad to hear you say it, Mark," I replied, "but what's in the wind?"

"Well," said Mark, "I want to do the play over a little differently. I want you to play Colonel Sellers. I want you to get the company together and rehearse it, and then we'll make a few dollars between us."

"We came to the contract and I accepted the terms that Mark Twain proposed. I fondly counted on at least $50,000 a year for myself; his royalties were to be paid on a rising scale—and we have played at such good houses that the scale has risen out of sight. How much, do you think, I have paid Mark Twain this year in royalties?"

"I couldn't guess," I said. "Well," said Raymond, "I have paid him a little more than $50,000 and the season isn't over yet. In addition to that I have given a part to his young protegee, William Gillette. He plays the lawyer in the courtroom scenes. He's a family friend of Twain's and lives in Hartford."

"So, you see, here I am, the bigger the profits the less John T. Raymond makes—my fifty thousand a year has never materialized. And that is the reason why I have been looking for a new play and why next season I shall produce Lloyd's 'For Congress' and open right here with it in Washington. Then let's see if Mark Twain can find another Colonel Sellers on the Rialto, in New York, or anywhere else."

Were Driven to Big Triumph

Colonel Mapleson's Story of the Cast That First Sang the Opera "Carmen" in the United States.

The cast that first sang the now celebrated opera "Carmen" in this country consisted of the world famous tenor, Italo Campanini; Del Puente, the baritone, and the American stars, Minnie Hauck and Alwina Valeria. They sang the opera and scored a great triumph therein under the direction of the late Col. James H. Mapleson, the operatic impresario; and one of the most amusing stories of the troubles of an impresario that Colonel Mapleson ever told me related to this famous "Carmen" cast.

"I had seen the opera in Paris," said Colonel Mapleson, "and deciding that it would be a great success in London and the United States, made arrangements to produce it in both countries—at Drury Lane, in the early summer, and at New York's Academy of Music in the autumn. Then I sent for Minnie Hauck, Alwina Valeria, Campanini and Del Puente.

opera, "Carmen," I said to them when they had arrived at my London office, and I have selected the cast. Madame Hauck, you are to take the part of Carmen. You, Valeria, are to sing Michaela. You, Campanini, are to take the tenor part, Don Jose, and you, Del Puente, the part of the bull fighter. Here are your parts. Come to me with them two days from now."

"When the four appeared before me forty-eight hours later, I saw at once that there was trouble ahead, for Minnie Hauck was the only one who looked happy. It was easy to see that she was delighted with the part of Carmen, and that she agreed with me that it suited her both physically and temperamentally. But even as she smiled upon me the storms broke.

"Colonel Mapleson," cried Valeria, "it is an insult to give me this part. It is too trifling. Get one of your chorus girls to sing it. I won't take it."

"Yes, you will take it," I said, "and you will make a great hit in it. Take the part home and learn it! And, bursting into tears, poor Valeria took her departure.

"I glanced at Campanini and saw he was in a rage. 'What do you mean by giving me that insignificant part?' he fairly shouted. 'I won't sing it. It is beneath me. I had rather go back to the army!'

"'Camp,' I said, 'don't be a damn fool. You sing it and act it, as you can, and you will find that you have made one of your greatest triumphs after it is all over!'

"You are trying to give me a dose of soft soap," he retorted, using the equivalent of that expression in Italian, which he was speaking to me.

"You take that part, Camp," said I, "or you won't sing with me any more here or in America!'

"He glared at me, muttered something beneath his breath and walked out. Then up shot Del Puente.

"You make a monkey of me, Mapleson," he screamed. "Go out into the street and get an organ grinder to sing your bull fight. I will find many who will sing it for you, but I, Del Puente, I will not sing it!'

"Yes, you will sing it, Del," I retorted, and forthwith told him the day of rehearsal.

"It wasn't a happy affair, that rehearsal, nor were Valeria, Campanini and Del Puente other than gloomy all through the preparatory period. But I kept feeding them managerial plums judiciously, and at last they were ready for the first night's performance.

"It was a superb success. Campanini was magnificent in the last act. Valeria was recalled twice in the first act and three times after singing her aria in the third act. I saw Del Puente's white teeth gleaming and his face all wreathed in smiles when he was recalled again and again after the tereador's song.

"After the performance the three, together with Minnie Hauck, who, of course, was flushed with her triumph as Carmen, came to my office. Valeria fairly hugged me in her joy. Campanini was superb; he apologized and berated himself for a fool for not recognizing that Don Jose would be one of his greatest parts. Del Puente actually embraced me as he announced. 'I, Del Puente, will sing that part as many times a week as you want me to sing it! And during the remainder of the season those three artists were the most tractable singers I ever had to deal with.'

Slow. "Mrs. Smith was to have called on me this morning and here it is night and she hasn't come."

"She is coming; I met her headed this way when I was going to work this morning."

"Don't be silly!"

"Well, I did; she was wearing her new hobble skirt."

USED HYPODERMICS.

Only Relief From Terrible Suffering.

Thomas E. Vest, 1505 S. 12th St., Terre Haute, Ind., says: "I had no control over the urine and the pain when voiding it was so great I often screamed. I grew worse and lay in bed for weeks, the only relief being from hypodermics. I was treated by three physicians without help and the last one said an operation was necessary. At this time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and passed a gravel stone as large as a pea. The next day I passed two more and from then on improved rapidly until cured."

AN EXCUSE FOR EACH.

Mother (severely)—How many strawberries have you eaten out of this basket, Ethel?
Ethel—Only two. One to see how it tasted, and the other to take the taste out of my mouth.

African Logic. Dusky Driver (ushering ladies from steamer)—Yes, marm—dis way, marm; ca'lige to de hotel.
First Lady (hesitating at step)—And what will you charge?
D. D.—One dollar, marm.

Second Lady—Half a dollar apiece, when the hotel is barely a block away? Why, we'd just as lief—
D. D. (interrupting)—Would you jest as lief go in de hotel bus? Dey charges a quarter.

Ladies (in chorus)—Just as lief.
D. D. (with flourish)—Den step right into de ca'lige, marm, an' I'll take you fer de same as de bus—dey is some folks prefers de ca'lige and I has to charge accordin'!—Virginia Vintage.

Science and Cheese. A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference—unless he waits for results?

There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer.

For instance, there is the brand known as Limburger.
But why pursue this subject?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Generous Gift. "You may say what you like against young ministers, but I have nothing but praise for our young pastor," the pompous Mr. Brown remarked, as he passed out of the church. "Nothing but praise!"

"So I observed," dryly retorted the deacon who passed the plate.—Harper's.

Made Sure of Death. A student of a school in Shinshu, Japan, recently committed suicide by jumping into the crater of Asamama. The tragedy was not discovered until three days afterward, when some documents left by the suicide near the crater were picked up.

Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of W. D. Hoagland. In Use For Over 30 Years. The Kind You Have Always Bought.

Unhappy Thought. Just suppose the man who finally obeys the latest demand of fashion and goes on his knees to propose, finds he has had a moving picture machine making material of him for a new comic film!

Which Do You Like Worst?

This is the greatest known way for undecided people to make up their minds. None but a strong minded woman can ever decide which of two or three hats she likes "the best," particularly if they are all comely. Popular belles have been known to have similar troubles with their sweethearts. Which do I like best is often a momentous question. Why not try the other way? Decide which, of men, or hats, or attractive "dates" you like the worst, and then proceed to eliminate. From there you can factor out in the grade of desirability, until you actually find yourself at a decision, because it, whatever it is, is the only one left. The process is delightfully simple.

AFTER SUFFERING FOR YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Park Rapids, Minn.—"I was sick for years while passing through the Change of Life and was hardly able to be around. After taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I gained 20 pounds, am now able to do my own work and feel well."—Mrs. Ed. LA DOT, Park Rapids, Minn.

Brookville, Ohio.—"I was irregular and extremely nervous. A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I have become regular and my nerves are much better."—Mrs. H. KIMBISON, Brookville, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

In Gladstone

Lawton T. Hemans, democratic candidate for governor, who cut Warner's majority down 150,000 two years ago, will speak in Gladstone at seven o'clock this Saturday evening, at the corner of Delta and Central, or at Wasa Hall if the weather be stormy. Mr. Hemans is a pleasant and persuasive speaker and many citizens of Gladstone went to Escanaba two years ago to hear him deliver an address.

A banquet was given Tuesday evening by the Gleason Exploration and Mining Co. at the home of its manager, Michael Gleason of this city, at which a number of the stock holders and their guests were present. The surprise of the occasion was the presentation by President A. E. Neff, on behalf of the company, to its manager, of a splendid gold watch and chain. The evening passed with many brief speeches and mutual congratulations. Those who were seated were Michael Gleason, Matt E. Gleason, Peter McGinty, A. E. Neff, H. B. Laing, Clayton Voorhis, Dr. A. L. Laing, Dr. D. N. Kee, G. R. Empson, John H. Erickson, Charles France and Harry I. Neff.

Just received a fresh lot of Taylor-made Candy, in 10 to 60 cent boxes of chocolates, and 15 to 60 cent Maraschino Cherries. Get a box: the girl will like them: at STEWART'S PHARMACY.

At the meeting last week of Gladstone Lodge, 163, Knights of Pythias, H. G. Parr, of Whitewater, Wis., superintendent of the insurance department, was present, and addressed the lodge, describing fully the insurance plan under which the department operates. The insurance department, which supersedes the old endowment rank, is conducted on the soundest financial principles, and is commended by state commissioners of insurance. It combines the economy of fraternal management with the reliability of the old line company, maintaining the necessary reserve demanded by the actuary's calculations of its liabilities. The order thus offers to its members insurance at the lowest rates consistent with its permanent existence. Only the Gladstone and Crystal Falls lodges, in this peninsula, have no I. D. section: one was accordingly organized here that evening, though it has not yet received its number. The officers are: G. R. Empson, president; C. D. Mason, vice-president; M. M. Buck, secretary and treasurer; the original members, F. W. Aslett, Oscar Broman, A. P. Burrows, H. J. Theriault, R. B. Beattie, R. W. Scott. A considerable augmentation of the membership during the next three months may be expected.

Thomas Jones, of Escanaba township, called at the flour mill last week with wheat raised on the Jones farm; nearly twenty bushels of winter wheat, which had been well protected by the snow last winter, and had fully filled out. Of spring wheat, a trifle over two acres produced eighty bushels of fine grain this year. Other farmers in the Flatrock district have been most successful with wheat this year. Z. Martell has also raised winter wheat, and there will be a considerable quantity of Delta county's hard spring wheat milled into Delta flour in a few months.

A good many reports are current about an early start on the interurban extension to Rapid River, but a few moments' consideration will show any one that the traction company can do no work until they are assured of a right of way. Mayor Hammel is cooperating with the company in the work of getting the necessary roadway from Delta avenue to Kipling; but no actual work can be done till next year. The season is too far advanced.

The grocery store of Charles Olson was robbed Tuesday night between eleven and twelve o'clock, presumably by half-grown boys. They broke the are lamp on the corner with stones, then smashed in a basement window and entered. Pulling down the shades, they wrecked the cash register, getting about twelve dollars in change, and departed, taking three boxes of gum and a bunch of bananas also.

During the rain last Saturday afternoon, a 2200-volt light wire collided with the leaden sheath of the telephone cable opposite the Delta office. It burst through instantly and fell; blue sparks flying from the telephone connections in the central office. The live wire lay across the street, flaming until the power was cut off. It was repaired in an half hour or so.

Matt Jugo, aged twenty-one, fell into the hot vat at the veneer mill Wednesday morning. He was scalded from the hips down, and to some extent on the upper portions of the body. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance and is in a fair way to recover.

Rosenblum's front now only wants the plate glass, which will not be installed till the plastering is done. Ole Peterson is replacing the concrete walk before the building.

The pump house whistle was blown Wednesday morning, as the result of some confusion in the signal when the regular nine o'clock test was put upon the fire alarm circuit.

Werner Olson laid some concrete walk and other work for John Darrow at Rapid River this week.

Next Tuesday is the Jewish New Year, Rosh Hoshanah, and the places of business of all good Hebrews will be closed from sunset of the preceding day, Thursday, October 13, to Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, and kept also as a solemn fast.

The Gladstone high school football team will play St. Joseph's of Escanaba this afternoon; and will give the Escanaba high school eleven a practise game next week. Not only is Gladstone's team light this year, averaging with one exception, only 130 pounds, but none of its members have played more than one year. Manistique, which has suffered a long series of defeats, is brushing up to gain revenge; having a heavy line-up, some of whom have played at least four seasons. It is quite possible that Gladstone may lose on the seventeenth, but neither team will have a walkaway.

The work of putting the floors in the group of buildings at the flooring mill is now nearly completed; and during the next couple of months the work of installing the machinery will be vigorously pushed. The boilers are already on the ground.

K. J. Olson is decorating the Episcopal church, inside and out. Several of the trees which crowd the building too closely will be removed.

A party of hunters on their way out early Sunday morning nearly ran over a street car on Delta avenue, but did not seriously injure it.

John Thul displays in his window a mammoth pumpkin raised on Wickstrom's farm at Alton. It is nearly five feet in circumference.

Gormsen installed the Exchange Bank's new plate glass front Wednesday and the premises are becoming more attractive daily.

A beautiful little home wedding took place Wednesday evening at the home of H. J. Theriault on Minneapolis avenue, when Miss Clara May Hartlerode, daughter of Mrs. Lola E. Hartlerode of this city, was married to Dr. Ted R. Southard, of Manistique, by Rev. J. Edgar Wilson. Miss Ellen Nelson accompanied the bride, and F. W. Heykus, of Detroit, was the groomsman. The home had been very handsomely decorated for the event; and after the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served to the party. The guests from outside the city were Mrs. Maud Southard, of Traverse City, mother of the groom, the Misses Bernice Bowen and Elva Baker, of Manistique, and Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Lemire of Escanaba. Dr. and Mrs. Southard escaped their friends early in the evening and went on their brief bridal tour. Their home will be in Manistique, where the doctor has been for the last two years in the practise of dentistry.

Farmers bring your exhibits to the Fair Store for entry any time during Wednesday, Oct. 5, but please make entries as early as possible. The exhibits will be judged Thursday, Oct. 6, and all prize winners will be paid amount of premiums in cash.

Store Closed all Day Oct. 4 on Account of Holiday.

FREE LUNCH

IN THE BASEMENT

Store Closed all Day Oct. 4 on Account of Holiday.

Free Lunch-Coffee and Sandwiches will be served to all farmers and their families at our store during the two days. This two-days Delta County Fair at the Fair Savings Bank Store will be given in connection with the County Grange meeting, but we wish it understood that everybody, whether grangers or not, can enter displays and will be awarded premiums.

We want to make these two days epoch makers and we want the Grangers and all other farmers of the county to make our store their headquarters for the two days and to enjoy our hospitality.

All Grains, Fruits and Vegetables entered at the fair will be displayed in our big show windows and the public will be cordially welcomed to come and see the kind of bumper crops Delta County Farmers can raise, even in unfavorable seasons.

Souvenirs given away to all Boys and Girls, on main floor of the store. Free Show Tickets, Wednesday and Thursday, to all visiting Grangers and Farmers; tickets good at any of the three show places.
