OBITUARY

Michael Mackin, aged 67, and one of the pioneer residents of Delta county passed away at his home on Wisconsin avenue Tuesday afternoon of what was probably cancer of the stomach.

He was born in Mayo, Ireland, June 2, 1845 and came to this country, to settle in Illinois, when only nineteen years old. From Illinois he went to Masonville and thence to Gladstone, where he has been a resident for the last 24 years. He was one of the very first settlers to enter this town and was also one of the first men at work on the erection of what is now the thriving city of Gladstone. He had been engaged in active work until a week before his death, having for a long time, held a position as teamster at the coeprage plant and for the last eight months was janitor at All Saints' parochial school.

Mr. Mackin was a man of a remarkable cheerful disposition and was highly respected and esteemed by all who knew him. His unexpected passing away has been received with deep regret by all.

Mr. Mackin is survived by his wife and six children, Margaret, Edward, Ivy, Anna-Mae, Kathrine and Dwyer, the oldest of whom is thirty-two and the youngest, eleven. Two sisters and probably one brother also survive him. His sisters are Mrs. Mary Sheridan of Wellesly Hills, Mass., and Mrs. Kathrine McCormick of Cluridan, Iowa.

His funeral was held Thursday morning from All Saints' church and burial was made in Fernwood cemetery. Among the outside relatives present at the funeral were Miss Kathrine Sheridan of Iron River; Joseph LaPine of Oshkosh; Mrs. Mary Grandclump of Rapid River; Mrs. Anna Reilly and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonough of Escanaba. He was a member for the past twenty years of Gladstone Tent, K. O. T. M. M.

After a prolonged illness, Mrs. Margaret Greene, a pioneer resident of Escanaba, passed away this week. Mrs. Greene went to the city when Escanaba was a hamlet and had continuously made it her home. Mrs. Greene was eighty-seven years of age and is survived by five sons and two daughters: Mrs. Charles Marston, Miss Martha Greene, Thomas Greene, and James Greene, all of Escanaba; Frank Greene, of Duluth; John Greene, of Huron, S. D.; and William Greene, of Minot, S. D. Her funeral was held Thursday afternoon, her immediate relatives acting as pall bearers.

Maclaurin and Needham have leased the Garage of what was formerly the Gladstone Auto company from Receiver I. N. Bushong for an indefinite period, and are now ready to do business. The firm is quite familiar with the business of a modern garage and up-to-date work and entire satisfaction is guaranteed by them. They have several agencies for cars in view but have not yet taken a choice.

HEALTH LECTURES

It is announced that the state board of health has planned to give a series of lectures on public hygiene in the cities of the state. The board has no funds for this purpose, but a number of medical men have volunteered their services gratis, and any city or town which will pay the lecturer's expenses may have the advantage of these talks. As yet the itinerary has not been arranged, although about two hundred addresses will be given in the state. The upper peninsula's representative on the board is Dr. E. T. Abrams, of Dollar Bay.

The patent medicine men and other grafters come in fast after the holidays, when trade is slow, looking for opportunities to "put one over" on the publisher. They sing the same old song that was written in the sarsaparilla days of 1840. The Delta's rate card is the same all the year around and it bars the medicine advertisements.

ABOUT THE CITY

Maclaurin & Needham entertained the teachers of the public schools at The Passion Play at the Gem Theatre Thursday afternoon. The play is one of the most touching that has been given here yet. It narrates in pictures part of the life of Christ and many of the apostles.

George Preston, one of Escanaba's oldest residents, died Tuesday evening at the age of sixty-three. He was in the drug business many years ago in the county town, and was well known to all the old timers. Having amassed a competence, he retired from business long ago. His funeral was held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of Delta lodge, F. & A. M.

Joseph Powell was quite seriously injured Thursday afternoon, while driving a team for the Northwestern Coeprage & Lumber Co. The accident was a most peculiar one as well as fatal. Mr. Powell was using the whip, when the lash struck him in the right eye, making a deep cut, ruining his eyesight forever, it is thought.

The funeral of the late John Semer, one of the pioneers of Escanaba, who died last week in Florida, was held Tuesday from his home church, St. Joseph's. The attendance was an enormous one, the church being crowded with his old friends. The Luxemburger Bruder Band, of which Mr. Semer was a member, attended in a body.

Dona La Fond, champion roller skater of Gladstone, lost to Helmer Groth, Escanaba's champion, by the narrow margin of a quarter lap at the Peterson roller rink Thursday. LaFond got the jump on the Escanaba lad, but the latter was steady at all times which won for him the match. Dona is not without races for the next few weeks however, and he may yet show his worth as a real champion.

A. C. Marvin of Escanaba, and for some time with the Morning Press was in the city Monday pastimeing with friends.

The Upper Peninsula Development Association will hold its annual meeting in Marquette on Tuesday February 4. It is proposed to hold the meeting of the Lake Superior Press Association at the same time.

Edward Parish sustained a broken arm Wednesday morning by a 22 foot drop from the roof of the flooring mill at the Coeprage plant. Mr. Parish was at work on the roof shoveling snow and dropped over twenty feet. He landed squarely on his feet, but pitched over and struck the ground with his head and right arm, breaking the latter. Mr. Parish's escape from instant death was remarkable and both he and his friends are wondering at how it turned out so well. He is now doing fine, but his injuries will lay him up for a month or more.

The building occupied by Desire De Grave and owned by William Beaudrie at Kipling was burned to the ground about 1:30 Sunday morning. As Mr. De Grave, who occupied the building alone, left the fire in the stove almost entirely out when he went to his work at 5:30, and as the blaze was not discovered till after midnight the cause can hardly be attributed to an overheated stove or defective chimney. This would leave the cause an apparent mystery. Neither building nor contents carried insurance. Mr. De Grave loses about $50 through the calamity and Mr. Beaudrie about $200.

Two dollars has again been given away every night this week at the Gem. The last two dollars will be given away to-night. Do not fail to be there as you may hold the lucky number and only those who are present can get a chance at the prize.

TO HONOR POWER

Reports from Washington, via Detroit, indicate that President Wilson may recognize the democracy of the upper peninsula by the appointment to one of the first-class consular posts of Hon. John Power, of Escanaba. Mr. Power, who was formerly United States district attorney for Northern Michigan, and has often headed his party's ticket in the peninsula, has the endorsement of the Democracy of the state.

Notices are posted that the regular winter enrollment will be held next Saturday 25. This will not affect those now enrolled in their respective wards, unless it is their desire to change their parties. Last year the winter enrollment amounted to nothing, for lack of a March primary; but it appears that this year the office of county road commissioner is to be voted upon, the term of Eric Anderson, of Escanaba expiring. Another regular enrollment will be held in April, on election day. The enrollment business has been, north of Mackinaw, at least, a huge farce.

Governor Ferris has recommended to a willing legislature its abolition, and it is probable that April's enrollment will be the last, and that the slate will again be cleared.

RULES OF LONGEVITY.

Several veterans of note have recently given advice as to the mode of living that insures longevity. Nothing new has been added to the familiar set of rules. Simplicity, moderation, fresh air, exercise, healthful occupation for body and mind, avoidance of worry—these are the things usually and properly recommended. How much sleep one needs, whether tobacco should be wholly eschewed, are among the open questions, but it is surprising how few questions are really open in connection with the subject of longevity. According to recent German statistics, Europe has about 7,000 persons who have passed the one hundredth year. They are distributed as follows: Bulgaria, about 4,000 centenarians; Roumania, over 1,000; Serbia, 573; Spain, 410; France, 213; Italy, 197; England, 92; Germany, 76, etc. The meaning of these figures is clear. The simpler and more natural the life of a nation the more centenarians it is likely to have. It is worry, artificiality, excess, congestion and the disease of such a condition to which the shortening of life is to be attributed. We cannot all go back to nature; we cannot all live on land and by land; but we can all profit by the moral of the figures above given, to some extent at any rate. Simpler living, hygienic living, and the cultivation of a patient and a hopeful spirit are possible to most of us. The very poor and submerged present a problem everywhere, but it is true that worry is more fatal than even extreme poverty.

In an effort to cut down the cost of litigation, prevent swollen records, avoid duplications and bring about reform in the matter of delays, new rules of practice have been formulated by the United States Supreme court, some of them being taken almost bodily from England. It is fifty years since revision was attempted, and some of the rules "imported" are described as revolutionary. Hereafter, testimony may be printed in narrative form instead of by question and answer, and counsel will run the risk of being fined for cumbering the records in equity proceedings. Other innovations of equal moment are provided for, and that the work has been thoroughly done is altogether likely, seeing that Chief Justice White and two of his associates have been active as a revision committee for more than a year. They were confronted by a thick growth of cobwebs. The spider may object, but the fly will not.

"Has the old man a right to live?" A medical research society in St. Louis recently discussed the question. The principal speaker stated that old men were being poisoned with a long administered course of indifference, neglect and filial disrespect. He believed that the man who does not honor his father and mother cares little for his moral obligations to them, but he does fear that some day his friends will find out and that he will be put in the class in which he belongs. This man never wishes his friends to know that the old man who wears shabby clothes and sleeps in the garret is his father. When a man makes a debt the laws of the land enforce its payment. But no law makes the man with money in the bank pay the debt he owes his old and needy father. The son should do his duty willingly. If he will not, there should be a law to compel him.

According to Professor Cambourion of Athens the tune of "God Save the King" is one of the oldest we have. Six years ago the professor discovered, among the manuscripts in the National library of Greece, the words and music of an anthem composed in 1457 in honor of Emperor Constantine Paleologus, says the London Chronicle. The anthem opens with the line, "Long may our sovereign reign," repeated three times. The musical notation is of an obsolete type and had to be transcribed by an expert in ancient music. It was then found that the tune of the fifteenth century anthem is almost identical with that of "God Save the King."

Spinners in Massachusetts are reported to have organized a club to induce eligible bachelors to call on them—object not necessary to state. Yet such is the contrariety of poor human nature that if it were announced to be a club to drive them away, it would be more likely to bring them there in crowds.

The discovery or dictum that 1,000 volts of electricity is equal in food value to a porterhouse steak omits the crucial point of information, how much it costs per volt. And is not a thousand volts at once a slightly indigestible meal?

ALDRICH'S PLAN HIT

CHAIRMAN OF HOUSE BANKING COMMITTEE SAYS IT WILL NOT BE ADOPTED.

FESTUS J. WADE FAVORS IDEA

Witness, Member of American Banking Association, Eulogizes the Central Bank Feature of the Ex-Senator's Proposition.

Washington, Jan. 15.—That witnesses interested in currency may well cease their advocacy of the Aldrich currency plan was the notice served by Chairman Glass of the subcommittee on banking and currency of the house, which soon will report a currency bill.

Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, a member of the American Banking association, was a witness before the committee, and launched upon an eulogy of the central bank feature of the Aldrich plan. He was interrupted by Chairman Glass, who reminded him that the Baltimore platform had disposed of that matter.

"I think Democratic opposition to a central bank is more or less sentimental," said Wade.

Chairman Glass smiled and replied: "Aldrich Plan is Opposed."

"Whether it is sentiment or the ghost of Andrew Jackson or what not, there is insuperable opposition in the way of adoption of the Aldrich plan by this committee or the Democrats."

Mr. Wade was asked if he could not suggest some other scheme of currency reform. He replied that he had been so busy considering the Aldrich plan, which he regarded as the best ever conceived, that he had had little time to think of any substitute.

Chairman Glass then asked him what objection he would have to a system of reserve banks with some sort of supervisory body over them, but without a general central bank. Mr. Wade stuck to his opinion that no currency reform would work satisfactorily unless the Aldrich central bank idea was approved.

Urges Specific Duties. Aluminum, steel, watch movements and machine tools were on the program of the house committee on ways and means when it met to hear left-over witnesses who were unable to testify at the iron and steel hearing last week.

W. H. Donnor of Pittsburg, president of the Cambria Steel company, set forth that that company owned properties worth $75,000,000 and employed 19,000 men, manufacturing last year more than a million tons of rails, structural bars, rods and wire nails, and urged specific and not ad valorem duties on iron and steel products.

Waltham Watch Man Testifies. The Waltham Watch company, alleged to be in "the watch trust," was probed at the outset. E. C. Fitch of Waltham, Mass., testified that the company could manufacture watch dials cheaper than he could buy them abroad; said the Waltham Watch company was originally capitalized at $5,000,000 and that it had reorganized with a capitalization of $12,000,000, tangible assets of $9,022,000, and patents and good will worth $2,975,000.

The witness told of the former existence of a selling agency that handled the Waltham Watch company products. He said he was one of three partners in the selling agency, each of whom received $60,000 a year salary. "Don't you compel wholesalers to sell at a certain price to retailers?" asked Representative Rainey. "Try to, but don't always succeed."

WOTHERSPOON IS CONFIRMED

Senator Root Introduces a Measure to Repeal Toll Clause of Panama Canal Bill.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The senate spent more than two hours in executive session discussing army appointments by President Taft, and confirmed the nomination of W. F. Wotherspoon to be major general. Opposition to his confirmation was led by Senator Bristow, chiefly because Wotherspoon had been advanced over the heads of Gen. Fred Funston of Kansas and other officers higher on the list than Wotherspoon.

Senator Root introduced a bill to repeal the toll clause of the Panama canal bill, so as to prevent discrimination in favor of American ships.

Senator Pomerene offered a resolution to amend the Constitution with respect to impeachment cases.

Senator Gore introduced a bill increasing the membership of the Supreme court of the United States from nine to eleven members, and making seven a quorum.

Senator McLean of Connecticut delivered his maiden speech in the senate in support of his bill to protect migratory birds.

U. S. CRUISER DENVER IS SENT TO MEXICAN TOWN

Citizens of This Country and Other Foreigners Will Be Taken Aboard the Battleship.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The cruiser Denver has been ordered from San Diego, Cal., to Acapulco, Mexico, where a desperate situation is reported with Americans in danger. She sailed today and should arrive at the Mexican port in about four days. Commander Washington has 270 jackies aboard and a company of marines.

This government's decision to send a warship to protect American lives and property was reached after alarming reports of the activity of a rebel band under Julio Radillo had been received through Ambassador Wilson at Mexico City.

Consul Edwards, at Acapulco, had suggested that as the Mexican federals were unable to protect Americans and the Mexican commander of the town had admitted his inability to reinforce the garrison, a warship should be sent.

The last report from Acapulco said Radillo's men were operating in the country about there and that refugees from every direction were pouring into the town, which is one of the most important Mexican ports on the Pacific.

Depredations and atrocities by the approaching rebel band were reported. Americans and other foreigners will be taken aboard the Denver when she reaches there, if they so desire. The Denver is the nearest ship to the garrison.

TO EXAMINE ROCKEFELLER

Oil Magnate Will Be Heard by Chairman Pujio and Attorney Samuel Untermeyer.

Washington, Jan. 16.—By a resolution voted for by all the members of the Pujio committee save Chairman Pujio himself, the committee decided that William Rockefeller may be examined by the chairman and Samuel Untermeyer, the committee's counsel, although the examination will be private and will be held, in all probability, in the south. The resolution was based on a report by Dr. Richardson of Washington, the committee's expert. Dr. Richardson disagreed with the Rockefeller experts and told the committee that, in his belief, an examination not lasting more than an hour would do Mr. Rockefeller no harm. Thus the committee will be enabled to learn things about the famous amalgamated corner from Rockefeller himself that it has been seeking to learn from his secretaries, Miss Harrison, Miss Watson and Mr. McIntosh.

ARCHBALD IS GUILTY

COMMERCE COURT JUDGE BARRED BY SENATE FROM HOLDING FEDERAL OFFICE.

JURIST OUSTED FROM BENCH

Convicted Man, in Anteroom of the House, is Utterly Crushed When He Learned the Extent of the Verdict Against Him.

TEXT OF SENATE DECREE DISMISSING JUDGE ARCHBALD.

"The senate does, therefore, order and decree, and it is hereby adjudged that the respondent, Robert W. Archbald, circuit judge for the United States for the Third judicial circuit and designated to serve in the commerce court, be and he is hereby removed from office and that he be and is hereby forever disqualified to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States."

Washington, Jan. 14.—Robert W. Archbald, judge of the commerce court, one of the most important tribunals in the land, was found guilty on five of the thirteen counts brought against him in the impeachment proceedings before the United States senate. On the first count only five of the 73 senators voting supported Archbald. He was by resolution of the senate removed from his high office and forbidden ever again to hold an office or profit or honor under the United States government. Officials have been impeached before, but never has such humiliating punishment been meted out by the senate of the United States.

Archbald Crushed by Verdict. Judge Archbald's wife watched the voting on the thirteen counts from the senate gallery and remained till the end, although the first vote told her that her husband had been stripped of his judicial robes. His son, Robert W. Archbald, Jr., who has acted as his counsel, sat on the floor of the senate apparently unmoved through the long session. Archbald himself fumed and fretted in a committee room on the gallery floor. He was utterly crushed when he learned the extent of the verdict against him and, retiring to his home, refused to see or talk with anyone.

Senate Scene Impressive. The scene as the senatorial jury was delivering its verdict was as impressive as it was unusual. One by one the senators rose in their places as their names were called and answered "guilty" or "not guilty." Some of them spoke in very low tones. All were apparently affected by the solemnity of the occasion. Even the crowded galleries, from which a low hum proceeds during ordinary sessions of the senate, sat silent, listening with all their ears as the vote was cast.

The overwhelming vote against Archbald on the first count, which had to do with the coercion of the Erie railroad to enter into a contract with him for the purchase of a culm bank, was sufficient to establish the fate of the respondent. A conviction on any of the five counts meant removal from the bench.

Senators Forced to Vote Nay. On this count Senators Burnham, Penrose, Oliver, Paynter and Catron were the only members of the senate who voted to support Archbald. All the rest, including Root, Crane and Smoot, the senate representatives of the president who placed Archbald on the commerce court, were constrained by the force of the evidence to vote against him.

A difference of opinion as to the degree of culpability saved him from conviction on eight counts, but so profound was the belief of the senators in his unfitness that they visited on him the severest penalty in their power, when, after a brief secret session, they fixed punishment by resolution.

The house prosecuting committee, led by Representatives Clayton of Alabama and Sterling of Illinois, whose energetic prosecution of the case resulted in the present humiliating conviction, sat without a change of expression through the afternoon.

Ordered Removed From Bench. Senator O'Gorman of New York, when the last vote was taken, moved that it be ordered by the senate that Judge Archbald be removed from the bench and forbidden ever to hold office of profit or honor under the government. Oliver of Pennsylvania, who, with his colleague, Penrose, had voted to support Archbald, a Pennsylvania man, moved that this resolution be divided. This motion prevailed. By viva voce vote and without dissent the senate decided that Archbald must be removed. A vote of 39 to 25 disqualified him from holding any future office.

CHARLES BOOTH IS MARRIED

New York, Jan. 16.—Charles Brandon Booth of Mont Clair, N. J., son of Gen. Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, and Miss Naomi Sutherland Bailey of Lockport, N. Y., were married at St. George's church.

C. H. TAVENNER

Clyde H. Tavenner, congressman-elect from the Fourteenth district of Illinois, will be the youngest member of the next congress. He succeeds James McKinney. Mr. Tavenner is now cashier in the office of the house sergeant-at-arms.

PROSECUTOR OPPOSED TO BONDS OF DYNAMITERS

District Attorney Criticizes Securities Offered in United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The United States circuit court of appeals approved the bond of Charles N. Beum, labor leader convicted at Indianapolis in connection with the dynamite conspiracy, but refused to approve the bonds of four others upon objection of District Attorney Miller of Indianapolis.

The court also declined to issue a writ of superseas admitting to bail Herbert Hockin, who was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth. "Hockin has already confessed his guilt," said Mr. Miller to the court, "and there is no necessity in his case to release him pending the decision of the appeal."

Bonds were also submitted for Frank M. Ryan, Richard H. Houlihan and William S. Shupe of Chicago and William E. Redwin of Milwaukee. Bonds in Ryan's case had been fixed at $70,000; Houlihan, $20,000; Shupe, $10,000, and Redwin, $30,000. The same sureties were offered on the bonds of the first three. These were Alderman John Powers, Pat O'Malley, saloonkeeper; Joseph D'Andrea, labor leader; John E. Fitzpatrick, saloonkeeper, and Samuel Kersten.

Mr. Miller objected that the real estate scheduled for the Chicago men aggregated only 37,500, whereas it should have amounted to $200,000. In the case of Redwin, the Milwaukee man, Mr. Miller told the court that the property scheduled was worth only $40,000, as against the required $60,000.

District Attorney Miller made no objection to the sureties offered for Beum. His bond was signed by Minneapolis business men and labor sympathizers.

SENATOR SMITH RE-ELECTED

Borah a Winner in Idaho—Shafroth and Thomas Are the Choice of Colorado Solons.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15.—United States Senator William Alden Smith was elected to succeed himself by a party vote in the legislature here.

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 15.—W. E. Borah was re-elected United States senator by the legislature.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 15.—The Colorado legislature carried out the verdict of the popular vote last fall by electing John F. Shafroth and Charles S. Thomas United States senators.

Augusta, Me., Jan. 15.—The Maine legislature failed to elect a United States senator, Edwin C. Burlleigh, the Republican nominee in the primaries, and Obadiah Gardner, the Democratic primary candidate, each receiving 72 votes in the house. E. M. Thompson (Progressive) received seven votes. The senate chose Burlleigh by a strict party vote of 21 to 10.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 15.—The legislature elected Thomas Walsh, primary preferential candidate, United States senator by unanimous vote.

Boston, Jan. 15.—The legislature ratified the election of Congressman John W. Weeks to the senate by joint ballot.

A HIDDEN DANGER

It is a duty of the kidneys to rid the blood of uric acid, an irritating poison that is constantly forming inside.

When the kidneys fail, uric acid causes rheumatic attacks, headaches, dizziness, gravel, urinary troubles, weak eyes, dropsy or heart disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys fight off uric acid—bringing new strength to weak kidneys and relief from backache and urinary ills.

An Indiana Case. Mrs. George Harrington, Crawfordsville, Ind., says: "My limbs swelled twice normal size, and my body was so bloated I could hardly breathe. I had awful pains in my back, and terrible headaches. I spent weeks in a hospital, but came out worse than ever. I had given up hope when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me completely, and I have had no trouble since."

FROM EXPERIENCE.

Mr. New Wed—A wife is a gift from heaven. We get the sunlight and the gentle rain from heaven.

Mr. Old Wed—And also the thunder storms.

Quite So.

The little boy was greatly alarmed.

"It's only a hollow pumpkin," explained his uncle.

"And it won't get me!"

"No; it's just a pumpkin with a candle in it."

"The idea of being scared by a jack-o-lantern," jeered the boy's father.

"Never your mind, kid," said uncle.

"Many a prominent statesman has been scared by less."

DREADED TO EAT.

A Quaker Couple's Experience.

How many persons dread to eat their meals, although actually hungry nearly all the time!

Nature never intended this should be so, for we are given a thing called appetite that should guide us as to what the system needs at any time and can digest.

But we get in a hurry, swallow our food very much as we shovel coal into the furnace, and our sense of appetite becomes unnatural and perverted. Then we eat the wrong kind of food or eat too much, and there you are—indigestion and its accompanying miseries.

A Phila. lady said:

"My husband and I have been sick and nervous for 15 or 20 years from drinking coffee—feverish, indigestion, totally unfit, a good part of the time, for work or pleasure. We actually dreaded to eat our meals. (Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)"

"We tried doctors and patent medicines that counted up into hundreds of dollars, with little if any benefit."

"Accidentally, a small package of Postum came into my hands. I made some according to directions, with surprising results. We both liked it and have not used any coffee since."

"The dull feeling after meals has left us and we feel better every way. We are so well satisfied with Postum that we recommend it to our friends who have been made sick and nervous and miserable by coffee." Name given upon request. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum now comes in concentrated, powder form, called Instant Postum. It is prepared by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, adding sugar to taste, and enough cream to bring the color to golden brown.

Instant Postum is convenient; there's no waste; and the flavor is always uniform. Sold by grocers—50-cup tin 30 cts., 100-cup tin 50 cts.

A 5-cup trial tin mailed for grocer's name and 2-cent stamp for postage.

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

Keep the sows warm.

The busy hen lays best.

Keep the boar by himself.

Maintain regularity in all things.

Green bone is very rich in phosphate of lime.

Chickens will not stand crowding, they are too warm blooded.

Nothing is more desirable in horse-flesh than tractability and gentleness.

When the days are long, some people have just that much more time to kill.

If the market value of feed is unsatisfactory, sell it to the cows and shoats.

Sheep, if given half a chance, and if of good healthy stock are sure to pay their way.

Keep off the surplus fat by feeding muscle-producing foods and giving plenty of exercise.

Remember that the wood ashes are the best kind of fertilizer for the orchard, lawn or garden.

Skim milk from the right kind of separator has left in it only a half of 1 per cent. of butter fat.

Beg, borrow or buy all the wood ashes you can use in the garden; work it well into the soil.

Celery delights in a low, rich, heavy, moist soil and is usually grown upon the same land year after year.

Save every bit of the hen manure. Keep it dry and put it on some crop next spring. Worth its weight in gold.

Keep a close watch over the suckling colts. A blemish or an injury now may ruin the value of the future horse.

Cows will not give better milk than the feed you place before them. They can't. Give only the best and the purest food.

Experienced onion growers do not advise or follow the practice of planting onions on raw or new land as a first crop.

The man who dubbed the hog a "mortgage lifter" was posted; he knew something of the possibilities of the animal.

A small flock of vigorous sheep on the farm, if given good care, cannot help but yield good returns for the money invested.

The land that was plowed in the fall for next year's garden will work up better than that that must be plowed in the spring.

A mixture of corn and oats—two parts oats to one of corn—is a good working ration. Cracked corn is preferable to finely ground.

Breeding ewes and store sheep will winter well on good, bright wheat straw and stubble grasses and half pound of corn given to each daily.

Draft horses continue to be the leading market animals, best on the farm, best in the market and one of the prosperous live stock propositions for 1913.

A feeder may have his bin full of grain, but unless he has sufficient roughage to balance up the ration he will be shy on his profit at the end of the season.

Frequent cultivation of the garden reduces the damage done by cut worms. Cultivation exposes the worms to the sun, which is often fatal to them.

Keep over a few of the best ewes of your own breeding each year, even though they are not so good as you might buy. It will make your flock more uniform all the time.

A successful way that turkeys can be grown is to hatch them under hens (chicken hens preferred) and brood them with turkey hens that are two or more years of age.

The cellar needs a little thought these days. Ventilate well at night and shut the doors and windows during the daytime. You can keep the cool night air in and the warmer air out.

The value of skim milk as a food for young and growing pigs has long been recognized and several experiment stations have made comparative tests with other feeds obtaining quite similar results.

Hens need green food.

Ventilate the hen house.

Fruit is splendid medicine.

Dogs and chickens don't mix.

Half-bred cows give half-pails of milk.

A draft horse should have a large chest and square shoulders.

Keep the stable clean and well ventilated, and free from draught.

Put not your faith in the gentle bull more than in the vicious one.

Wash your hands with clean water before commencing to milk each cow.

The most important factor in soil improvement is growing leguminous crops.

The easiest way to eradicate weeds on the farm is to prevent their going to seed.

A shed of crotches and poles, covered with straw, is cheap, warm and businesslike.

Don't feed the brood sow heavy rations of corn when within a month of farrowing.

Keep dust and stuff out of your milk. You can't strain it out. Remember that.

The ability to produce profit is a standard by which all farm stock must be measured.

Silage made of corn and soy beans is more digestible than that made from corn silage alone.

You can weaken the constitution of your horse by making them carry a burden of useless flesh.

Whole oats placed on a dry, raised platform are a most profitable feeds for young and growing pigs.

To be of much good for feeding, corn ought to have pretty good ears on it. These are what count.

Oat straw is a pretty good substitute and makes very good roughage when fed with plenty of grain.

The Ayreshire and Guernsey type of dairy cattle are increasing in favor in the middle western states.

Individual excellence is the only safe guide to be depended upon in selecting cows to build up a good herd.

Some day we are going to find that as good a way as any to use the surplus sour milk is to give it to the hens.

One good dairy cow of the right conformation is more of an adjunct than several beefy animals with poor udders.

Has the kitchen garden a raspberry patch? They are hardy, excellent bearers, and certainly one of the most delicious fruits.

The cow that comes fresh in the fall is really fresh twice during the year, the second time when grass comes in spring.

If corn is to be the main grain ration for the cows, some bran or alfalfa hay will balance it nicely. But it is not necessary to feed both.

The mangel grows well, both north and south, and on good soil will pay as well as any other feeding crop in its proper place in the ration.

The wise dairy farmer has provided himself with a bunch of shoats and will make 9 or 10 cent pork out of cheap skim milk this winter.

At all times keep plenty of oyster shells, coarse gravel, fresh water, and milk before the chickens. In cold weather give them warm water and milk.

It is wrong to expect the cow to yield a large profit, simply because she is well bred. She must have feed and care or the breeding will amount to nothing.

Snap beans, lima beans and navy beans are tap-rooted plants and require deep, mellow soil. Break the soil deeply and pulverize it well before you plant beans.

Experimenters say it takes about ten bushels of corn to make 100 pounds of pork, but when the corn is fed with skim milk, seven bushels will make the same weight.

The successful dairy farmer must provide winter feed of a succulent nature. The silo is the best answer and next to this is roots. These are becoming more popular every year.

Don't imagine that the profits of the dairy business depend entirely upon the creamery, and not upon the farm or farmer. The dairy must be right before the creamery can bring the money.

If you haven't a respectable sized orchard on the place, don't stand in your own light any longer but set one out. The preserves, jams, marmalades, etc., that you enjoy so much through the fall and winter should remind you of the necessity of having a first-class and good-sized orchard.

The ONLOOKER S. E. KISER A FADED FLOWER

I took a volume up, today,
On which the dust was thick,
And, in it, found a little thing
That thrilled me to the quick.

It was a flattened, faded rose,
All crumbling to decay;
The scent that once had made it sweet
Long since had passed away.

But what a troop of memories
That faded flower brought!
Each petal, as it turned to dust,
Burst forth into a thought.

I looked, as through a mist of years,
Into a maiden's eyes,
As from a distance, too, I heard
Her sweet, half-smothered sighs.

Long, long I sat and gazed and thought—
Ah, spiteful memory!
I acted like an ass the night
She gave that rose to me!

Unbiased Opinion.

It is a wise child that knows its own father the first time it sees him with his whiskers shaved off.

When a man tells you that he doesn't care what the public thinks of him, so long as he knows that he is doing right, shun him. He is a dissembler.

No person can think great thoughts and at the same time wear shoes that pinch.

The egotistical ass who thinks he knows it all is far happier than the wise man who realizes how much there is that the shortness of life makes it impossible to learn.

Don't waste sympathy on the wife whose husband calls her "the old woman." He is the one that's to be pitied.

The good that men do is oft interred with their bones, but it is seldom necessary to enlarge the coffins on that account.

Small.

Mildren—Why have you taken such a dislike to Charley Spattleh?

Gertrude—Oh, he's so small about some things.

Mildred—I don't understand what you mean.

Gertrude—Why, you know, we got engaged at the seaside, and I had hardly given him to understand, upon returning to town, that it was all off before he began hinting that he wanted his ring back.

Heartless.

"That was a very inhuman reception Henderson gave the tramp who called there for a bite to eat yesterday, wasn't it?"

"I hadn't heard of it. What did he do?"

"Got out one of his wife's biscuits and—"

"Surely he didn't feed it to the poor fellow?"

"No; he hit him with it."

Not Always.

It isn't always well to look a bulldog in the eyes, if there is any way in which one can do otherwise; nor is it always best to tell a liar that he lies, unless you're big and strong, and he's Not more than half your size.

How He Knew.

"And really did you love me the first time you ever saw me? How did you know it was love?"

"Well, I overheard you telling another girl that you didn't believe in eating things you didn't like just to make some fellow pay for them."

Too Popular.

"Why did you discharge Darrow? Didn't he do his work satisfactorily?"

"Oh, yes, he attended to business all right, but my stenographer got to thinking he was the best-looking man in this town!"

Her Guess.

"No wicked thought has e'er," said he,
"Found lodgment in my mind,"
"I guessed as much," responded she,
"Nor any other kind."

JOHORE CAMPHOR LANGUAGE

The strangest of language is the "camphor language" of Johore on the Malay Peninsula. It has been studied and reported by an Englishman in the service of the government of Johore.

This language is used by the natives and others engaged in gathering the product of the Malayan camphor-tree and is employed only at such times. It is the belief of the natives that if they used either of the languages of the region, the Malay or the aboriginal Jakun, no camphor would be obtained. A most curious reason underlies this belief.

The camphor-tree grows abundantly in certain parts of the peninsula, but only occasionally contains camphor crystals. The camphor is not the same as that obtained from the camphor laurel of Formosa and Japan, which is the source of the ordinary camphor of commerce. It is of a sort highly prized by the Chinese in the embalming of their dead, in incense, and in medicine, and the gum brings a price much higher than that of the common camphor.

The Malays and other Johore natives believe that each species of tree has a spirit of divinity that presides over its affairs. The spirit of the camphor-tree is known by the name of Bisan—literally "a woman." Her resting place is near the trees; and when at night a peculiar noise is heard in the woods, resembling that of a cicada, the Bisan is believed to be singing and camphor will surely be found in the neighborhood.

But the spirit of the camphor-trees seems to be jealous of the precious gum and must be propitiated, and if she knows that hunters are in quest of it she will endeavor to turn their steps aside. The natives think that she is acquainted with both the Malay and Jakun languages, and that if the camphor-hunters spoke either of those she would know that they had come for camphor and would defeat their purpose. So it is necessary to speak in a tongue that she does not understand. For this purpose the "camphor language" has been invented. It consists of a mixture of Jakun and Malay words, but these are curiously altered or reversed; and the natives believe that the divinity of the camphor-tree is completely confuted when she hears this jargon.

The Jakuns who hunt the camphor are one of the wildest of peoples, but are inoffensive. They live together with monkeys, dogs, cats, innumerable fowls, and perhaps a tame horn-bill in perfect harmony under movable leaf shelters built on poles in the woods.

REFUSED TO WED AFTER SIGHT

"If you please, senor, may I please give my marriage license back? I will take my money back. I have changed my mind, senor. I do not like my senorita when I have seen her."

With this statement, Paul Mestas, a Mexican, timidly approached City Clerk Thum of Denver, and laid on the counter a marriage license he had obtained earlier in the day. "You see, senor," said Mestas, "I do not love Lola. I have just seen her and will not be married."

TORTOISE FIRES A CHURCH

A tortoise set fire to St. Mark's Episcopal church at Denver, considerable damage resulting and 25 tortoise lives were lost. A tortoise kicked over a lamp in a box where he and 24 others made their home. The box was kept in the gullied room of the church and the lamp was put in the box to keep the animals warm. They were the property of Rev. John H. Houghton, rector of St. Mark's, who had collected them from various parts of the world.

26-YEAR HEADACHE CURED

A bullet which entered the right temple of Infantryman Joseph Legoux in the French army revolution of 1886 has just come out of his head by way of the mouth. There is no sign of a hole in the mouth and how it got there is a mystery. All Legoux knows is that he coughed and the bullet fell on his tongue. A 26-year-old headache also has vanished from the old soldier's patient frame.

AUSTRALIA'S COAT-OF-ARMS

We reproduce here the new armorial bearings for the commonwealth of Australia, authorized by royal warrant and recently recorded in the British college of arms. The design, in the language of heraldry, shows the first quarter argent, a cross gules charged with a lion passant guardant, a Maltese cross surmounted by an imperial crown, an Australian piping shrike, a swan naient, the whole within a bordure ermine. Crest: On a wreath of and azure a seven-pointed star or. Supporters: Dexter a kangaroo, sinister an emu, both proper.

OPERATED ON IN AUTOMOBILE

With an automobile as a hospital, a street arc lamp for light and no nurse or female attendant whatever, the seven-year-old daughter of J. A. Bowen of Empire, Ala., was operated on shortly before midnight on a country road near Birmingham. The operation was performed by Dr. R. D. Sibley, who, with a physician from Empire, had attempted to get the child into a local hospital for the attention needed. Because of the contagious nature of the disease no hospital would admit the little patient.

Counting Uncle Sam's Dimes

When a new treasurer of the United States is appointed all the cash in the treasury must be counted, and to facilitate the immense task various machines have been devised. Our illustration shows the one which counts the dimes. The small coins are placed in a heap on the table and are swept into the machine, which counts them into a bag underneath when the operator turns the handle. An indicator registers the number that have passed into the bag, which holds $100.

STREET FULL OF HAREMS

Harem street, in Constantinople, leads from St. Sofia to the Bosphorus. Every building in the street is a harem home. In the bay windows in the fronts of all the houses the women of the harems are accustomed to stand and watch the passers through the thoroughfare. Inquisitive persons in the street may not return the glances of the women, for the windows are fitted with latticed screens which make it impossible to look into the rooms from the outside, although it is perfectly easy to see out from the rooms.

The entire street is devoid of water plugs, fire hydrants, lamp posts and mail boxes. A blaze once started in Harem street would likely wipe out the quarter. Pariah dogs, formerly infested this street, as they do many others in Constantinople, but during the regime of the Young Turks they have been driven away.

COLUMN OF CONSTANTINE

One of the sights of Constantinople is the famous Column of Constantine, which was raised by Constantine the Great on the spot where his tent had stood during the siege of Byzantium, which made him master of the Roman world. Originally it consisted of eight drums of porphyry with the joints concealed by bronze laurel wreaths on a base of white marble and topped by a statue of Constantine, really an Apollo with a new head, crowned with rays and bearing a spear and the globe of empire. It was popularly believed that the Palladium of Rome and part of the true cross were built up in the base. The column has suffered many vicissitudes, and now presents a terribly wrecked appearance. The Constantinopolitans call it "the hooped column," or "the burnt column," in allusion to its appearance and disasters. Legends, of course, clustered about it, and many superstitious beliefs, the most pathetic being that of the fifteenth century, that the Turkish tide would be stayed. It is almost the only surviving fragment of Constantine's own city.

QUEER CEREMONY IN AFRICA

This is a very rare photograph of a remarkable ceremony in South Africa. The Amaxosa tribes inhabit the Grahamstown district of Cape Colony, and their great religious ceremony, the Araimasion, by which youths are admitted to the rights of manhood, last three or four months. The youths live meanwhile in an isolated kraal. For the ceremony they hide their faces in a headgear of thatch, smear their bodies with clay, and wear skirts of plaited grass, in twenty feet lengths, wound round the body. The chief ceremony, the Abakweta dance, consists of shuffling and stamping, and whirling the grass skirts round by jerks.

WOMAN'S INTERESTS

PRETTY DANCE FROCKS

DISTINCTLY THE DAY OF THE DEBUTANTE IS HERE.

Modistes Have Done Their Best to Enhance Youthful Beauty, and the Results Are All That Could Be Desired.

These are the days when the debutante has her innings, and everywhere youthful figures and youthful frocks are seen. Not that the older women are not socially active, for they most decidedly are; but some way or other the debutantes seem to monopolize the center of the social stage.

A girl at the coming-out age is attractive even if she is not pretty. Sheer youth will compass this, even when her features and coloring and clothes are all below par; and if

A good deal of fine gossamer-like lace enters into these youthful evening frocks, appearing in scant or perfectly flat flounces, in slightly revealed petticoat, in little fichus, etc. Silver lace plays an important role, being far more popular for youthful toilettes than gold lace. Where the tunic is of some soft silk instead of chiffon or white it is quite likely to fall over a lace flounce petticoat of sheer material.

A delightful model of pale green chiffon was trimmed with sprays of the bodice was made of maline lace and the joining line of the lace and chiffon was hidden by a line of pink roses. The looped-up part of the panier skirt at the front was held in place by a trailing vine of pink roses.

Often small silken roses, foliage and trailing vines are made into buckles, wreaths, rosettes and clasps of all kinds. One frock of pale blue silk muslin showed the tunic caught up at the right side by a large round circle of pink roses. A cluster of pink roses also ornamented the girde at the left side.

Especially worthy of mention was a frock worn recently by a debutante of this city. It was of pink charmeuse and shadow lace. The bodice was fashioned of the lace and there were two deep flounces of the lace. The décolletage was bordered by a line of small roses.

Flowers are not confined to the girl's evening dress. They figure, vividly or demurely, upon her visiting costume, her furs and her hats, and the importers show a charming assortment of floral clusters or nosegays suitable for such purposes. The rich browns and yellows and orange tones of velvety wallflowers are stunning, with certain dark furs or velvets. Larkspur and old-fashioned groups, effectively combined in a nosegay, were tucked among the fluffiness of white fox furs worn by a smartly dressed girl at a recent tea.

A cluster of small but glowing coral or scarlet poppies, made of velvet and satin, is beautiful against a fur background. Lovely large velvet roses of the American Beauty shade are among the favorite flowers fancied by young girls.

MARY DEAN.

Shadow Lace Over Charmeuse.

Shadow lace over charmeuse. Youth is backed up by beauty or modishness the girl becomes distinctly attractive, while the lucky girl who is not only young but pretty and modish is pleasing to the sight of even the most indifferent observer.

Never were dance frocks for debutantes more attractive. Chiffon, satin, tulle, lace and tiny flowers describe nine out of ten of the prettiest dance frocks, but there is a vast difference in the way in which these materials are combined. The clinging little robe of softest satin with tunic of chiffon or tulle is the rule, but even here there is room for much variety in the length and lines of the tunic, the arrangement of the décolletage and sleeves, the color scheme and the trimming details.

TO RID ANIMALS OF PESTS

Water in Which Potatoes Have Been Boiled Is About the Best Thing That Can Be Used.

There is a simple remedy for destroying insects that are sometimes found on household pets, dogs, cats, birds, etc., that is not generally known, but which is said to be absolutely sure in its results. It is simply to wash the animals with the water in which potatoes have been boiled. When preparing the vegetable for dinner, put plenty of water in the vessel in which they are boiled; then, when the potatoes are thoroughly cooked, pour this water off into a bucket or pan. When it is almost cold, apply it to the skin of the animal with a sponge or cloth, taking care that it soaks well into the skin if the animal has long hair or thick fur; then with a soft scrubbing brush (a nail-brush will do), scrub the skin, separating the hair as you work.

Do not rinse this off with clear water. Let it dry thoroughly first, then wash the animal with clear water and a good strong soap. The first application is generally effectual, but if the case is a stubborn one, it had better be repeated a few times in order to destroy the eggs.

It should, of course, be embroidered upon the material prior to covering the board. A long loop of ribbon with a rosette mow at the top is attached to the back of the holder by which it may be suspended from a nail in the

HAVE PINS ALWAYS AT HAND

Useful Holder to Hang on the Wall Provides Receptacle for Small Conveniences.

In our sketch may be seen a dainty and ornamental holder for hat pins for hanging upon the wall by the side of the dressing table. It is, of course, necessary to keep hat pins where they are easily accessible, but at the same time, if they are placed in a holder or stuck in a cushion upon the dressing table, they are generally greatly in the way, so that, perhaps, there is nothing better than can be prepared for them than a holder of the nature shown, which may be hung on the wall.

It merely consists of a long pocket, into which the hat pins may be slipped, and at the base of it a little wood is placed to receive the points of the pins. In making it, a piece of fairly stiff cardboard is cut out in the shape shown in diagram A, and scored across with a sharp knife at the point indicated by the dotted line. This board is then covered on both sides with some pretty remnant of silk, and the two little side pieces (diagram B) can next be made.

For them two pieces of cardboard are cut out in the wedge-shape illustrated and covered with silk. The lower portion of the holder is best upwards and the side pieces sewn in their places, and it is afterwards finished off at the edges throughout with a fine silk cord.

The conventional floral design that appears upon the front should be embroidered in silk of some contrasting shade of color, and can quite well be worked from our sketch.

Antients Wrote in Colors.

The ancients had a great fondness for colored inks, and used them freely for ornamenting their books. This practice grew to such an extent that some later manuscripts may be seen in which the writing itself is thrown into insignificance by the mass of illumination around it.

ASKS LOWER DUTY

AMERICAN SUGAR COMPANY AT HOUSE TARIFF HEARING FAVORS CUT IN RATES.

WOULD KEEP UP LOW BAR

Solicitude for Revenue and Cuban Reciprocity Treaty Expressed by Officials of Firm—Other Witnesses See Free Plan.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The American Sugar Refining company went on record before the house ways and means committee in favor of a reduced tariff on sugar, retention of the small differential duty on refined sugar, "if protection is to be given to any industry," and the continuance of the present color standard as the most practicable distinction between raw and refined sugars for customs-house classifications.

It opposed the abolition of all duty on sugar on the ground that it would destroy at once one of the largest sources of revenue.

The American company's position was presented by Edwin F. Atkins, vice-president and acting head of the company, who was accompanied by several other officials.

Cuban Treaty Endangered.

Mr. Atkins contended that abolition of all duty on all sugar would cause the termination of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, under which Cuban sugar gets a preferential rate of 20 per cent, and Cuba gives preferential rates of 20 to 40 per cent, on goods coming from the United States.

He declared also that free sugar would open the United States markets to the importation of refined beet sugars from Europe on the same terms as raw sugars in competition with domestic refined.

"Free sugar, while present production is maintained," he said, "would drop prices here so low as to destroy the Louisiana industry, the beet sugar industry, particularly east of the Mississippi river; would depress Porto Rico and Philippine sugars far below their production cost, and make Hawaiian production unprofitable, thus largely curtailing our present sources of supply."

Waves of Widespread Disaster.

"Once this production is so reduced," declared Mr. Atkins, "foreign prices would advance until domestic producers could again enter the field, and meanwhile disaster would be widespread and consumers would get but a temporary benefit."

Frank C. Lowrey of New York, representing a committee of wholesale grocers, contended that whether or not sugar was placed on the free list a countervailing clause should be enacted similar to that in the present tariff law.

Former Governor B. M. Fernald of Maine, representing the National Canners' association and 75 per cent of the canned fruit interests of the country, urged free sugar or a reduced sugar rate.

The free sugar plan of the house Democrats, regarded by leaders as one of the assured features of the tariff revision of the coming extra session of congress, so far as the house is concerned, focused attention on the hearing.

The house Democrats claim that placing sugar on the free list may save American consumers $115,000,000 annually, while the Republicans, charging that free sugar would surrender an important industry to foreign importers, assert that it would deprive the government of more than $52,000,000 revenue.

SKUNK SKINS ARE MAILED

Rural Carrier Brings Bundle to Decatur and Entire Staff Remembers Engagements.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 16.—Somebody threw a brick into the smoothly running parcel post machinery at the Decatur postoffice. It was a package of fresh skunk hides, mailed by a trapper on a rural route. Because fresh breezes were blowing in the country the rural route carrier was able to bring the parcel to Decatur, but as soon as he carried it into the building the force of clerks went out by another door. The parcel will be returned to the sender.

The measure will be considered by the senate tomorrow.

Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from some form of feminine disorder is told that an operation is necessary, it of course frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital operating table and the surgeon's knife strikes terror to her heart, and no wonder. It is quite true that some of these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but thousands of women have avoided the necessity of an operation by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This fact is attested by the grateful letters they write to us after their health has been restored.

These Two Women Prove Our Claim.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Me.

Charlotte, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. If I even lifted a chair it would cause a hemorrhage. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health and am the mother of a nice baby girl. You can use this letter to help other suffering women."—Mrs. ROSA SIMS, 16 Wyona St., Charlotte, N. C.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman submit to a surgical operation without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

WILL ASK A MILLION FOR GOOD ROADS, BUT BY USING AUTO LICENSE FEES, MIGHT NOT.

BILL TO ENLARGE THE CAPITOL CALLS FOR $750,000.

Bills For Good Shoes, Recall of All Elective State Officers, Abolishing Certain Offices, Etc., Are Now In.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

State Highway Commissioner Townsend A. Ely will ask the legislature to appropriate $1,000,000 to be used in the construction of state reward roads during the next two years. Governor Ferris, in his inaugural message to the legislature strongly indorsed a plan to improve the condition of the roads in this state and it is expected that Ely's request for a liberal appropriation will receive some consideration at the hands of the present law making body. However, Highway Commissioner Ely says that if the legislature will act favorably on Secretary of State Frederick C. Martindale's proposal which was approved by Governor Ferris, to eliminate the local tax from automobiles, increase the state license fee and turn the proceeds into the highway fund, that it will be unnecessary to ask the state for an appropriation of $1,000,000.

Enlargement of the Capitol.

Rep. Charles Flowers, of Detroit, introduced a bill calling for an appropriation of $750,000 for the purpose of building an addition to the state capitol. This measure is indorsed by the state bar association and every county bar association in Michigan. Two paramount reasons are mentioned why the building should be enlarged. The first is that the state has outgrown the quarters provided when the state house was constructed in the middle seventies. The second paramount reason for the appropriation, it is claimed, is that the contents of the state library, conservatively estimated to be worth $300,000, would be destroyed if a fire got good headway, for the books and valuable documents are not properly protected.

The Game Laws.

State Game and Forestry Warden W. R. Oates, in the annual report of his department, recommends a number of radical changes in the present laws. Civil service for employees, limiting hunters to one deer and changing the opening of the season to November 10, the abolishment of spring shooting of water fowl and shore birds, requiring non-resident fishermen to secure license and increasing the number of deputies from 10 to 20, are among Oates' recommendations. The passage of a bill providing that each resident hunter shall pay a license fee of one dollar, which license shall be issued and used only during the open season, would supply an annual revenue of $100,000, it is estimated by the department.

"Pure Shoe Bill."

On a par with the now celebrated "pure wool proposal" with which Congressman Lindquist, of Greenville, won his way to a seat in congress from the eleventh district, is the bill of Senator Woodworth of Huron county, which might be termed the "pure shoe bill." The Woodworth bill is a copy of the measure now pending in congress and a somewhat similar law passed by the Louisiana legislature. The bill does not prohibit the use of inferior materials in the construction of shoes, but provides that when anything other than leather is used in the manufacture of supposed leather footwear, the fact shall be plainly labelled or printed on the shoes.

Filling the Hopper.

Among the progressive measures introduced in the house was one by Rep. Dunn providing for the recall of all elective state officers. Rep. Wheelan, progressive from Hillsdale, and Rep. Murphy from St. Joseph, sent in practically duplicate bills prohibiting the intermarriage of whites and colored races.

Following are some of the more important bills dumped into the house hopper: Bill permitting the sale of rabbits; bill authorizing reciprocal demurrage of railroads; bill providing for the Torrens system of land transfers; bill providing firemen's pension fund; bill permitting students and traveling men to vote away from home; bill providing better hotel sanitation; bill providing hospitals for inebriates; bill requiring saloons to remove all screens and bills providing amendments to the banking laws.

Inspection of Gasoline.

Rep. L. J. Wolcott, of Albion, presented a bill providing for a complete and thorough inspection of gasoline sold in Michigan. It also provides for labeling of the benzine series as "naptha" if they fall below 60 degrees Beaume, and as gasoline when they are above that figure. All gasoline, by the Wolcott bill, will have to be labelled with its specific gravity, according to the Beaume scale, and dealers who attempted to sidestep the new regulations will be subject to a substantial fine.

It is evident, judging by the way things have lined up during the opening days of the session, that the calcium light will be turned on the house this year, as the senators have evidenced a desire to pull together and work for some good legislation. Not so, however, with the members of the house. Of such a progressive nature during the last regular and special sessions that it was willing to push through any sort of a measure, the house attracted considerable attention for its willingness to act, but this year it is apparent that some of the old time leaders are bucking over the traces. Already some of the progressive republicans in the house are complaining that the leaders of the G. O. P. majority are not acting for the best interests of the party and the people of the state, and the whole trouble has apparently arisen over the adoption of the resolution introduced by Rep. Farmer, the democratic leader, that all recoups shall be discontinued and no action taken. Rep. D. G. F. Warner, who has been an avowed and open supporter of the liquor interests in the house for several years, aided the democratic leader in the passage of the resolution. Every democrat, a number of progressives whose seats were to have been contested, and several republicans, supported the resolution. The republicans who were anxious to have some of the districts recounted allege that it was a move on the part of the liquor interests.

This statement has apparently caused a fine little split in the ranks of the republicans in the lower house and there is no telling to what lengths the controversy may be carried. Calmer heads over in the senate are already urging the recalcitrant members of the house to bury the hatchet and assist in putting through some good legislation.

Shipments of Live Stock.

Rep. Dunn, of Sanilac, has prepared a bill compelling railroads to give live stock precedence over ordinary freight. A movement has been started in Michigan and surrounding states by live stock buyers and shippers, which is based on the fact that the railroads have made stock shipments feel the brunt of the delays. The bill establishes a minimum rate of speed for stock shipments of say 15 miles per hour while in Michigan territory. Shippers claim the railroads made it a business to hold up stock in order to add feeding charges and then only furnish feed enough for a tenth of the number shipped.

State Tax Commission.

If the senate affirms the appointments of Governor Ferris the democrats will control the state tax commission as the chief executive has named Thomas Kearney, of Ann Arbor and Orlando F. Barnes, of Roscommon to succeed Thomas D. White and W. B. Mershon. Barnes has twice been the democratic candidate for land commissioner and a number of years ago was democratic mayor of the city of Lansing. Kearney has long been a prominent democrat in Washtenaw county.

Free Text Books.

There is considerable opposition already being manifested against the bills providing for free text books and uniform text books. One prominent member of the legislature says that if the present law was applied there would be no demand for free text books, as the law specifically provides that school districts can purchase books at wholesale and either sell or give them away to school children.

Will Visit Departments.

Unlike his predecessor, Governor Ferris will visit all of the state departments in the capitol. During the two years that he occupied the executive chair Osborn never visited the apartments of any of the state's elective officers and when his presence was required at a meeting of the board of state auditors, the meeting was held in the executive office. "I shall visit all of the state departments, as I believe that it is the duty of the chief executive to be on good terms with the men who are transacting the state's business," said Ferris. "I shall visit the legislature sometimes. I do not think that it is beneath the dignity of a governor to call upon the lawmaking body of the state. Even though I might want to stay away, I am sure that my curiosity would get the better of me and I would visit both the house and senate."

For Hospitals, Etc.

If the bill introduced by Rep. Leonard becomes a law, municipalities will be established hospitals and industrial colonies for the care and treatment of inebriates and dope fiends. The bill provides that a board of inebriety shall be established and allows police judges to send habitual drunkards and persons addicted to the use of drugs, to these colonies instead of imposing jail sentences.

Legislative Club.

If plans that are under consideration at present materialize, there will be a republican organization in the house and senate to be known as the "Legislative Republican Club." Any republican who is interested in the work of the legislature will be admitted to membership and those who are not members of the house or senate will have an opportunity to discuss proposed bills. The republican leaders figure that many valuable ideas might be gathered in this way.

D. E. TURNER IS ELECTED HEAD

MOSHERVILLE MAN IS HONORED BY STATE CORN MEN.

OTHER OFFICIALS ARE NAMED

At Final Session of Convention of Michigan Association, J. C. Ketchum, Master of Grange, Delivers Address.

Lansing.—The following officers were elected at the closing session of the convention of the Michigan Corn Improvement association in Kalamazoo:

President, D. E. Turner of Mosherville; vice-president, L. J. Bradley of Augusta; secretary and treasurer, A. R. Potts of Michigan Agricultural college; state vice-president of national association, W. F. Raven of East Lansing; directors, G. D. Grossman of Constantine; C. H. Sudborough of Jackson; W. F. Raven of Lansing.

J. C. Ketchum of Hastings, recently elected master of the state grange, was one of the speakers. Master Ketchum urged closer affiliation between the corn growers and the state grange, pointing out strongly the benefits of co-operation.

"The time is coming when the domestic science diploma will be the equal of the college diploma," said Mr. Ketchum.

"Another problem is to get laws the people want. This year the legislature has started its work along lines that are approved by the public in the state.

"In the past it has loaded the records full of acts and laws that were distasteful to the people, and then the lawmakers would return home and try to convince their constituents that they wanted what they did not want."

"The idea of agricultural co-operation has been imported from Great Britain, and is being strongly urged by the Michigan grange. Fennville has become a famous apple shipping center, merely through buying and selling co-operation."

"At Howell, Holstein cattle are the specialty, while Greenville has become famous for potatoes through co-operation. Co-operation is the coming thing for the farmer, and the sooner it comes the better conditions will be for everyone."

Extend 54-Hour Law For Women.

The legislative committee appointed by the recent labor conference will soon meet with Labor Commissioner Powers to draft several of the most important laws.

A law increasing the number of industries affected by the women's 54-hour law will be drafted. The industries to be affected are the canning, telephone, restaurant and telegraph.

A law will be framed limiting the street trades of children and fixing a minimum age that children shall be allowed on the street to sell papers. Twelve will probably be the age set.

Laws increasing the rigidity of the mine inspection act and providing a minimum wage will be drafted.

The committee consists of Commissioner Powers, Mrs. Elnora Chamberlain, president Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs, Hartford; Mrs. F. Belle Brotherton, chairman legislative committee Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, Detroit; Dr. H. A. Miller, professor of philosophy and sociology, Olivet college; Homer F. Waterman, secretary Michigan Federation of Labor, Kalamazoo; Prof. Carl E. Parry, instructor in political economy and sociology, University of Michigan; Fred M. Butzel, chairman of the children's bureau, Detroit; A. L. Bernard, recording secretary Metal Polishers, Buffers and Platers' local union No. 1, Detroit; John C. Ketchum, master of Michigan State grange, Hastings, and Ira W. Jane, attorney and agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Detroit.

Auto Highway Through State.

At a meeting in Grand Rapids, in which fourteen counties, from Berrien, on the southern Michigan line, to Mackinaw on the north were represented, definite action was taken toward the building of the proposed boulevard highway through Michigan to form the connecting link of the Chicago-Grand Rapids-Straits of Mackinaw automobile road.

The route adopted enters Michigan on the highway from South Bend, Ind., to Niles, and passes through the towns of Dowagiac, Decatur, Paw Paw, Lawton, Kalamazoo, Plainwell, Grand Rapids, Howard City, Big Rapids, Reed City, Cadillac, Traverse City, Bellaire, Charlevoix, Petoskey and Mackinaw City.

Then, besides the thousands that are to be asked for special purposes, new buildings, etc., enlargements, etc., at other state institutions, there will be the pension bills—school teachers, firemen and police.

Opposed to Duplicate Law Books.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Helme favors legislation for the appointment by the governor of a commission of five men to make an exhaustive investigation into Michigan laws with the idea of reporting to the legislature such measures as are duplicated and thought unnecessary. The commissioner's views seem to be supported by a number of members of both houses. It is said there are many laws on the statute books that are duplications and many more that should be repealed.

Give Control of Sewage to State.

Port Huron's troubles over her water supply and the resultant rich harvest for doctors and nurses in the treatment of typhoid fever are reflected in a bill now being prepared by Representative David Montieth of that city, which, if passed, will place the water works and sewage systems of every city and village in the state under the supervisory control of the state board of health.

Local acts are taboo under the new constitution, and the Port Huronites, in order to get satisfactory relief from a local condition, are forced to offer a general bill that will, it is expected, develop plenty of opposition from cities where there are no water supplies or sewage problems.

The bill may also raise the question of the power of remedy that will be placed in the hands of the people when the initiative and referendum, practically sure of passage, becomes law. Already it is intimated that Port Huron's people will have adequate means to straighten out the matter when the initiative is within their grasp, while jokingly it is pointed out that the recall might solve the whole problem.

Representative Montieth, however, is looking for relief for Port Huron. His bill will not give the state board power to interfere with the administration of water and sewage systems except as details bearing on sanitation and health are neglected. All plans for future water works, systems or extensions must be submitted to the board for approval. This provision is to guard against the troubles experienced in many cities where so-called "dead ends" were numerous. In many instances the trouble was remedied only by expensive and slightly productive "hooking up" of the "dead ends." The same regulations apply to sewage systems, enlargements, or sewage disposal plants.

The fact that these details are so frequently decided by councils having no technical or scientific knowledge is in the Port Huron man's eyes sufficient argument to have the state board do that work, relieving communities of the expense.

Montieth has a second bill providing for the appointment of state inspectors who shall inspect all water and sewage systems in the state, acting under board of health officers.

Wants to Clean Up Appointments.

Governor Ferris expects to clean up all the appointments at his command this week, with one exception—that of labor commissioner, which, by the way, is about the only important appointment remaining to be made.

"I want to get these appointments off my hands; they are altogether too much cause for worry, with the letters and telegrams that come in regarding them," he said. "With reference to the labor commissioner, I shall take more time. It is an important office; I want to pick the man best qualified for the nature of the work, and I haven't been able to decide."

No physician member for the board of pardons has been selected by the governor since his discovery that he could not appoint John F. Cudihy of Calumet, who is not a physician.

"I have a man in mind, but I don't know whether he will take it, so I won't announce it yet," said the governor.

Lansing Democrats have started a boom for Dr. J. D. Rawlinson of this city, who is prominent in local circles.

Millions to Be Asked of Solons.

'Tis to be a great year in the legislature for money—that is, requests for money.

The total of appropriations to be asked for special purposes, outside of all the running expenses of the state, will mount into the millions, while the laws providing for additional scope of action by the state through boards and inspectors will add enormously to the cost of the going expenses should they become laws.

The totals will break all records. Yet the appropriations will be asked in many instances for necessities, and in other instances for advantages, educational and otherwise. Already there are introduced special appropriation bills asking for $470,000, and they're only a beginning. Bills asking for nearly $1,000,000 are in the making to supply the demands from only three institutions. The bills introduced ask for:

Feeble-minded home, Lapeer, new buildings... $17,000
State Normal school at Alpena... 100,000
Addition, State Normal at Marquette... 150,000
Convict farm, Ionia reformatory... 15,500
Machinery, convict road building... 14,500
Monument, Shiloh National park... 2,500

To replace the building burned at the Traverse City insane asylum colony, $102,000 will be asked by Senator Walker. The state normal at Ypsilanti will ask for $300,000. The buildings of the school for the deaf at Flint, destroyed by fire, will have to be replaced, and probably from $300,000 to $400,000 will be asked.

Then, besides the thousands that are to be asked for special purposes, new buildings, etc., enlargements, etc., at other state institutions, there will be the pension bills—school teachers, firemen and police.

Republicans to Meet in Lansing.

Republican members of the state legislature were presented with the official call sent out by the state Republican central committee calling the spring Republican state convention at Lansing on February 11. They will meet in the Gladmer theater. The appointment of delegates will be the same as for the fall convention of 1912, and 1,468 delegates will be given seats. Wayne county is entitled to 219, Kent 68 and Saginaw 44.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN

Holland.—Klaas DeWitt, a near centenarian, has the unique experience of being the plaintiff in his first lawsuit at the age of ninety-two years. DeWitt has begun a civil suit against his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Van den Tak, and is seeking to recover $600 and a year's income on property which he alleges he and his daughter owned jointly. Mrs. Van den Tak will attempt to prove her father made her a present of his interest in the property. The case is on call at the present term of court in Grand Haven.

Flint.—When Charles Henry Hoyt died in March, 1911, he left a will bequeathing two-thirds of the residue of his estate after the payment of other bequests, to the Protestant Orphan asylum of Detroit. The amount to which the home is entitled has just been fixed by Probate Judge Swayze at $2,633 and the executrix of the estate has been authorized to forward a check covering the bequest to the Detroit institution.

Lansing.—In order to protect the work of the state tax commission, now minus one member, the senate confirmed the appointment of Thomas D. Kearney and Orlando F. Barnes, recently named by Governor Ferris. That of James Scully of Ionia to be state railroad commissioner was also confirmed. The other appointments will be taken up later.

Battle Creek.—More information has come to Chief of Police Farrington that cocaine is being extensively used among the youths of this city, but he has been unable to find those who are responsible for the traffic. It is learned that the drug is secured at Vicksburg by three grown men, who sell it to the boys after teaching them how to use it.

West Branch.—While running the electric light plant for the moving picture show, William Davis fainted and in falling his legs became wedged under the exhaust steam pipe. His son found him some time afterward, still unconscious. Both legs and both arms were severely burned by the contact with the exhaust pipe. He will probably recover.

Jackson.—Following an argument and shooting affray at the home of John Duda, 475 Locust street, Duda received a wound in the hand and another in the side, while Joe Chicly, residing at the Duda home, was shot in the hand. Ignac Duda, 720 Page avenue, is sought by the officers.

Traverse City.—George Burt, Garrett Mandeville and Charles Knowles, who were arrested on a charge of burglarizing the store of Josephson Brothers at Grawn, were bound over to circuit court. An alleged confession by Knowles implicating the other two was obtained by Sheriff Smith, and Mandeville is said to have made a partial confession. The three lived in Burt's house, where the goods are said to have been found.

Jackson.—Mrs. Lois A. Patch, eighty-three years old, a lifelong resident of Jackson county, died at her farm home in Liberty township after an illness of several months. Deceased was the last of a family of 12 children and was the mother of Anthony J. Patch, secretary of the county superintendents of the poor.

Saginaw.—Mrs. Carrie D. Guernsey was made guardian of her granddaughter, Mabel Singer, eleven years old, by Judge Ganschow. Mabel has been living with her stepmother, who since the death of the child's father, has remarried. The grandmother, a blood relation, demanded custody of her.

Gaylord.—Hiram Harrington, a resident of Hetherton, east of here, was instantly killed, his skull being crushed by a tree he was felling. He came to this country from St. Clair two years ago, and was a highly respected citizen.

Saginaw.—Fire was discovered in the westerly wing of the Saginaw Basket and Veneer plant in Carrollton and owing to the inadequate fire protection the stock and building were destroyed, causing a loss estimated at $15,000. About seventy men are thrown out of employment. The factory was operated by L. D. Buck of Adrian.

Brighton.—The supervisors have rented land near the jail where stone will be placed for the "Knights of the Road" to break instead of idling their time in the county jail. J. P. Lockwood, an employe of the Wayne county good roads commission, gave the board an idea of the county road system.

Grand Rapids.—At least twenty persons were injured, one probably fatally, when limited train No. 12 on the Grand Rapids & Holland Interurban railroad collided rear-end with a Jenison suburban car just east of Wyoming. The suburban car had become stalled by a broken trolley. The limited crashed into the suburban, telescoping it, overturning stoves in both cars and igniting the debris. Passengers who were unhurt quenched the flames with snow and saved the plined and helpless victims from cremation.

PREPARING FOR THE WORK OF 1913

CITY BUILDING, RAILWAY BUILDING AND FARM OPERATIONS IN WESTERN CANADA, BIGGEST EVER.

The machinery, the money and the men for carrying on the big works in Western Canada in 1913 are already provided for. The splendid harvest which was successfully garnered, and by this time mostly marketed, responded to the big hopes that were had for it early in the season, and inspired capitalists and railroads to further investment and building. From lake ports to mountain base there will be carried on the biggest operations in city building and railway construction that has ever taken place in that country. The Canadian Pacific railway has everything in waiting to continue their great work of double tracking the system and by the time the Panama Canal is open to traffic there will be a double line of steel from Lake Superior to the Pacific coast. The cost will exceed thirty million dollars. The Grand Trunk Pacific plan of building a first-class trunk line and then feeders at various points will be carried forward with all the force that great company can put into the work. The Canadian Northern is prepared to put into motion all the energy that young giant of finance and railroad building can put into various enterprises of providing and creating transportation facilities.

Building operations in the several cities, that have already marked themselves a place in the list of successful and growing cities, will be carried on more largely than ever. Schools, public buildings, parliament buildings, colleges, business blocks, apartments, private residences, banks, street and other municipal improvements have their appropriation ready, and the record of 1913 will be something wonderful. Other places which are towns today will make the rapid strides that are expected and will become cities. There will be other Edmonton, Calgary, Regina and Saskatoon, other places that may in their activity help to convince the outer world of the solidity and permanency of the Canadian West. The country is large and wide and broad and the ends of its great width and length are but the limits of its agricultural area. Its people are progressive, they are strong, there is no emigration there. The country teems with this life, this ambition, this fondness to create and to use the forces that await the settler. If they come from the South, and hundreds of thousands of them have, they are now the dominant men of the North, and they have imbibed of the spirit of the North. Therefore it is fair to say that no portion of the continent will show such wonderful results as Western Canada, and the year 1913 will be but the beginning of a wonderful and great future. And in this future the 200,000 Americans who made it their home, and those who preceded them, will be a considerable portion of the machinery that will be used in bringing about the results predicted.

The development of 1913 will not be confined to the prairie provinces. Railway building and city building in British Columbia will be supplemented by the farm, the ranch and the orchard building of that province. Vancouver will make great strides in building, and Victoria, the staid old lady of so many years, has already shown signs of modern ways, and if the progress made in 1912 may be accepted as anything like what it will be in 1913, there will be wonderful developments there. During last year the permits went over the ten million dollar mark and much more is promised for the year now entered upon.—Advertisement.

Suffer From Plague of Rats.

A "pied piper of Hamelin" is needed at Santa Paula, Cal. Thousands of rats, and all big wood rats, have invaded the place, and the situation is such that women are afraid to go to church. The rats seem to have a preference for churches and on several occasions have forced the feminine attendance at services to take to the high benches. The city authorities are seeking means to abate the pest. The rats are believed to have been driven out of the woods by recent fires in the forests.

Great Effects.

"What is that terrible noise?" asked the pedestrian.
"That," replied the policeman, "is caused by an ordinary one cent safety pin sticking into a $3,000,000 baby."

Where Moses Read the Ten Commandments

THE FORTIFIED
BLACK CITADEL

MORE than 5,000 years ago there were gathered at the command of Moses, on the plains of Assemblage in the valley of Mount Sinai, all of the children of Israel to listen to the reading of laws that were revealed to Moses during the "forty days and forty nights" he spent in the midst of a cloud communing with the God of the "chosen people."

Since that momentous and epoch-making event nations have risen to mighty power, only to go down to decay and oblivion. Unpeopled plains have been converted into hives of industry, and hives of industry have reverted back to unpeopled plains. New lands have been discovered and peopled and new seas have been navigated and charted. Everywhere progress has changed the physical condition of the people. Everywhere progress has changed the historical and geographical importance of nations and countries. Here, alone, in the Mount Sinai Valley, where the nation that gave us the savior first sprang into prominence, progress has stood still. Surrounded by the peaks of the "Forty Martyrs," all is hushed and still on the plain where once the hum of thousands of voices was heard, and where the valley rang with the resounding march of the hosts of Israel.

On the peak of Ras-es-Safsafah, the cross, the symbol of Christianity, has been planted on the very spot upon which Moses, the great law giver and leader of the Jews, stood and gave to his people the ten commandments, the basis of all religious beliefs and the foundation of all law, moral and civil. Now unpeopled and deserted, the very loneliness of the place is awe-inspiring, and the "silence of the tomb" is not more impressive than the "veil of silence" that envelops Ras-es-Safsafah and its surroundings.

The mount on which God is said to have revealed himself to Moses is situated in the southern half of the so-called peninsula of Sinai, projecting into the northern extremity of the Red sea, between the Gulf of Suez on the west and the Gulf of Akabah on the east. This part of the peninsula consists of a mass of granite and porphyry mountains which may be divided into three groups, a northwestern, reaching in Jebel Serbal a height of 6,712 feet; a central, including Jebel Musa (Mount of Moses), 7,363 feet, and Jebel Katerin, 8,537 feet; and an eastern and southern, whose highest peak is Jebel Umm Shomer, 8,449 feet. Whether the Biblical Sinai was Jebel Umm Shomer or Jebel Musa was long disputed by leading authorities. The former was advocated by Eusebius, Jerome, Cosmas Indicopleustes, and in more modern times by Lepsius and Ebers. Jebel Musa, however, is preferred by most authorities, and is favored by tradition (which dates, however, only from Christian times), indicated by the name "Mountain of Moses," and the erection of a monastery upon it which goes back to the days of Justinian. The northern peak of Jebel Musa, known as Ras-es-Safsafah (6,540 feet), meets the conditions required, since there is an open space at its base sufficient to accommodate a large encampment.

Standing on the lofty summit of Mount Sinai, what thoughts and visions are conjured up as one contemplates that there on the vast plain of Assemblage that stretches before the eye hundreds of feet below, fifty centuries ago, the commandments were delivered to the assembled children of Israel.

Excepting for the Mount Sinai monastery, which from these heights looks like a little toy fort built of blocks, the region is still and hushed, and almost deserted. The massive walls of the monastery raised by the peace-loving and God-fearing monks under Justinian in 527 A. D.—as a protection against the marauding bands of Bedouins that infested that part of the country when the wealth of an empire was possessed by the builders and occupants of the monastery—are in the same condition as when built 1,500 years ago. Today, however, the Christian world keeps a watchful eye over this mountain monastery and its contents, and the Bedouins, knowing this to be the fact, keep on friendly as well as visiting terms with the monks.

In the monastery are stored the priceless books narrating the history of Christianity in the tongue of every Christian nation. Slowly the brotherhood of Mount Sinai monks are dying out, there being but twenty or twenty-five at the present time. The life and the pay—not enough to buy tobacco—are not sufficient inducement for young recruits to join the forces that year by year are growing smaller. In the course of a few years the treasurer of the monastery will remain but a memory to remind one of the greatness of its founder, Justinian.

SPOT ON WHICH MOSES READ TEN COMMANDMENTS

THOUSAND YEAR OLD CYPRESS TREES PLAINS OF ASSEMBLAGE IN DISTANCE

Loja the traveler who for days has been wearied by the sight of nothing else but the monotonous blue of the burning sky and the dreary desert all about him is exhilarated, pleased and rested by the sight of those beautiful cypress trees with their cool, dark foliage down in the wadi—the Arabic name for hollow or valley. One can scarcely imagine anything more dreary than the valley where these trees raise their heads above the rock-bound hollow in the desert. They stand in all their majesty in the gardens of the monastery of the Sinaitic monks on St. Catherine, one of the mountains of the range called the "Forty Martyrs," and great pride is taken by these men of God in these trees, which for a thousand years have broken the monotony of the desert waste and have cast their welcome shade where the weary traveler and the travel-stained caravan may rest and take shelter.

For more than a year the Israelites were encamped in the valley of Sinai when they again took up their wanderings in search of the promised land. Through Asia Minor they proceeded to the land of Canaan, their great leader, Moses, dying as they came in sight of the country which God had promised to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

One of the most important places in Asia Minor, on the road from Constantinople to Konia, is the ancient town of Afium Kara-Hissar, whose extraordinary citadel, rising 800 feet in its very center, was the Byzantine fortress of Aerenous, where in 750 A. D. the Arabs, under the leadership of Sidel Battel el Ghazl, were defeated by the Turks in its very shadow. To get a view of this most picturesque town a climb up the stairway cut in the rock of the citadel brings one to the very summit where there still remain the mediaeval Turkish fortifications.

Like all other towns in Asia Minor, Afium Kara-Hissar is built of mud bricks. Its streets run in every direction of the compass. Although the language spoken there is Turkish, there is a large Armenian population. It is as dirty a place as one can imagine. Overrun with half-starved, howling dogs in the day, the night is made hideous by their mad attempts to clean up the refuse thrown in the streets. It is a good place to be avoided by the fastidious. The town boasts of a fine bazaar, churches for the Armenians and mosques for the Turks, as well as schools for both classes. The Armenians have made a commendable effort to make their part of the town inhabitable and sanitary.

The story of the birth and infancy of the founder and first legislator of the Israelite nation is one of the treasured gems of Hebrew literature. He was of the tribe of Levi, and his mother Jochebed (his father's name was Amram), hid him three months in defiance of the edict of Pharaoh, who, to prevent the growth of his Hebrew slave population, had ordered all their male children to be put to death at birth. As the danger of discovery became great, the infant was placed in an ark on the Nile, was found and adopted by the daughter of Pharaoh, and was brought up as an Egyptian prince. But his heart was with his enslaved brethren, and his slaying of one of their oppressors necessitated his flight to Midian, where he received the divine call to be the deliverer of his people from Egypt. After considerable trouble he led them forth, crossed the Red sea, in which the pursuing Egyptians were drowned, and then, during a forty years' residence in the desert, organized the religious and social polity of the nation. Moses stands out as a sublime and unique figure, without whom neither Judaism, Mohammedanism, nor Christianity could have been what they are.

BEAR WAS HIS INDIAN WIFE.

Where the Hunter Shot Her Is Now Called Bear's House.

Along one of the branches of the Cheyenne river in South Dakota there stands a hill called Matott, or Bear's House. Tradition tells this Indian legend about it:

Once upon a time an Indian hunter was out on the chase. He wandered for many a day through forest and plain, over hill and dale, till he finally came to a spot where Bear's House now is. Here he hunted for a while until one day he met a beautiful Indian woman.

As soon as he saw her he wanted to marry her. Long and hard was the wooing, for the Indian woman was unwilling to marry the stranger. At last she consented, but she made the stranger promise that he would never in the future hunt or kill the bear. This animal was her totem, sacred to her and an object of her worship. The hunter faithfully promised to obey her wishes and to hunt all other animals and leave the bear unharmed. Then they were married and lived on in happiness and contentment for many a day.

Once it happened that the hunter started on the chase. Early he went and roamed all through the neighboring forest without killing a single thing. At last he became weary and tired from the chase and resolved to return to his wigwam. As he was approaching his home he saw in the dusky twilight the dark and shaggy form of a huge bear making straight for the wigwam.

"Now my wife will be lost," he thought, "for if the bear reaches there before me he will surely kill her."

Doubt at first stayed his hand, for he remembered his marriage vow. But fear and anxiety overcame his doubts. He raised his bow to his shoulder and aimed at the animal. One arrow sent straight to the heart laid the animal low. When the Indian came near he saw instead of the bear the lifeless form of his wife. The hill where they lived is still called the Bear's House, or Matott Hill.

The SUITORS OF Mrs. MERRIWID BY KENNETH HARRIS

MELISSA BELIEVES IN HOME-GROWN CHARITY.

Mrs. Merriwid was sitting at her desk with the mother-of-pearl end of a pen between her teeth and her fine eyes directed to infinite remoteness, when her maternal maiden Aunt Jane broke in on her reflections.

"Are you going to give Mr. Balm a check for the Hindoo Anti-Caste society, Melissa?" she inquired.

Mrs. Merriwid laid down her pen and picked up a letter, at which she smiled in her most inscrutable Mona Lisa manner. "I'm going to give him a check. Yes, dear," she replied. Then she added, "But not for his Hindoos. It's more of a checkmate to a proposition for a helpmate. I was engaged in declining an engagement, to be more explicit—nipping the idea of nuptials. In other words, ever since Mr. Balm turned up, I have been deciding to turn him down, and he's just called for a decision. Do you get me, dearie?"

"I suppose I understand," said Aunt Jane, "but I must say—"

"You can't help it. You are going to tell me that I ought to consider it a privilege to help Mr. Balm to relieve the suffering and succor the oppressed, and that he's a noble, high-minded and benevolent character. It's true, too, and likewise, it's too true; but you see, honey, I'm not a Hindoo nor am I a Chinese famine victim nor a Solomon Islander. I am not a resident of Kishinev, or whatever it is, and I was never nearer a rubber plantation than the plant in Uncle John's front yard on Calumet avenue; consequently, I couldn't expect to be ameliorated or relieved or rescued, which I might want to be; there's no telling."

"It's all very well to sneer at worthy objects," said Aunt Jane, warmly, "but I can't imagine anything finer than Mr. Balm's devotion to the cause of humanity. When I think how he gives up his entire time and energy to philanthropy, it seems to me that I can't admire him sufficiently."

"It's awfully dear and sweet of you," declared Mrs. Merriwid, "and I wouldn't want to shock you by intimating that Mr. Balm was a benevolent boob or a sympathetic simp, but there are such persons, dearie, nevertheless. I like to see a man's eyes bedimmed with a kindly dew of pity as well as the next lady, and I think it's perfectly lovely to burn with righteous indignation and melt with generous sympathy, but it gives me a pain amounting to anguish when all the bedimmed and burning and melting is at long range. The trouble with Mr. Balm is he's too farsighted, and he couldn't see a deplorable condition close by to save his swan-like neck, unless he looked at it through the wrong end of a telescope."

"I like people of wide sympathies," remarked Aunt Jane.

"I'd sooner see them all wool," Mrs. Merriwid retorted; "there's too much shoddy in these extra breadths. I never did have a good ear for long-distance calls and, dearie, when I'm writhing beneath the French heel of a tyrannical Swedish cook or groaning under the pitiless extortion of my dressmaker and being snubbed by the automobile and winter golf caste, I need sympathy myself and lots of it. If my husband were slopping the entire stock on indigent Igorrottes and homeless Hottentots, I know I'd feel hurt and want to throw things that hurt a little worse."

"That seems to me a very selfish point of view, Melissa," commented Aunt Jane.

"I wouldn't wonder," admitted Mrs. Merriwid. "Still, if he had any sympathy or help to spare, I wouldn't discourage him from applying it to a few worthy objects this side of India's coral strand. There are a few children being sacrificed to the Sacred Cotton Bale down south that might be saved by a little concentrated philanthropy, and the minotaur of the sweat shops and factories are claiming an occasional girl victim in our free and happy land—not to go any farther. If Mr. Balm would burn and melt and get weepy over a few thousand oppressions and body and soul starvations in the United States—and then take off his simper and his frock coat and black necktie and get busy, I might be stronger for him."

Mrs. Merriwid's color had heightened and she spoke with unusual earnestness. "Not that I'd grudge a two dollar subscription now and then to the Bubonic Baboos of Bombay if I thought that they needed it worse than the tenants of Trinity church," she continued; "but these societies of the Bumpy Browed Benefactors of Antipodean Aliens give me a sensation of lassitude, and when it comes to picking a husband, I want a man who will clean up our own back yard before he takes his muck rake and wheelbarrow over into the next block. That, in effect, is what I'm writing to Mr. Balm, auntie, dear."

"Very well, my love," said Aunt Jane, resignedly. "Pray excuse me for interrupting you. Only the charity that begins at home usually stays there."

"It's a pretty good place for it to stay at that," replied Mrs. Merriwid. "I don't know anywhere that it's more needed."

RACES VERY MUCH MIXED

Spot in New York That Might With Much Truth Be Described as Cosmopolitan.

The nationalities get a bit confused down Washington square way. Fifth avenue ends a little abruptly at the Washington Arch, and the haughty Americanism of the beautiful colonial doorways on the north side of the square stares into a hodge-podge of races whose Americanism has barely begun to be "made." There is a French church on the south side of the square, and a settlement kindergarten whose pupils are Italians and Slavs and Russian Jews. A Norwegian artist has a very wonderful studio on the same side, and next door to him live a sturdy American from San Francisco whose flat is sometimes shared by a friend who is half Indian. There are Irish policemen on the corners, but the order to "keep off the grass" read "Conserve Erbi" in the square. And of this mixture of nationalities the trades people thereabouts are well aware.

For on West Broadway, just south of the square, is a most enterprising apothecary, who flings his American sign "Drug Store" invitingly toward the north. Looking southward and east is the announcement that the shop within is a "Farmacia Italiana." Toward the west one reads that this is a "Farmacie Francaise." And in small letters on each sign one can read, if one looks hard, the name of the proprietor—"J. Strociewicz."—New York Times.

That Subtle English Humor.

George Broadhurst tells of an English shopkeeper the soul of amiability. "You are an American, sir, are you not?" he asked. "Yes," said Mr. Broadhurst to save lengthy explanations. "Now, I have a conundrum that I always save for the Americans, because they say they are so deuced clever. When you put a billiard ball on the table, what is the first thing it does?" "Why, I don't know," said Mr. Broadhurst, uncertainly, "perhaps it waits for its cue." "Ah, that's very clever, very clever," countered the little Englishman, "but not so good as the real answer. The first thing it does is to look round."

"That seems to me a very selfish point of view, Melissa," commented Aunt Jane.

"I wouldn't wonder," admitted Mrs. Merriwid. "Still, if he had any sympathy or help to spare, I wouldn't discourage him from applying it to a few worthy objects this side of India's coral strand. There are a few chil-

Nineteen Million Dollars Expended Last Year in Fight Against the Dread White Plague.

Nearly $19,000,000 was spent in the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the United States during the year 1912, according to the fourth annual statistical statement of expenditures in this movement issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The expenditures during the year for sanatorium and hospital construction and treatment make the largest single item in the total, amounting to nearly $16,800,000. This is an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over the same group of expenditures for the year 1911. The anti-tuberculosis associations and committees spent over $765,000, while dispensaries and tuberculosis clinics spent over $500,000. Over $415,000 was spent for the maintenance and establishment of open-air school and fresh air classes, which is more than double the amount spent for this purpose in 1911. Official, state and municipal expenditures outside of the maintenance of institutions, which are included in the other totals, amounting to $280,000. In addition to these figures, about $500,000 was spent by hospitals for insane and penal institutions in caring for their tuberculosis inmates.

Why He Changed His Mind.

John L. Sullivan met with some amusing incidents while giving boxing lessons.

One day a husky young man came to him as a pupil. He took his boxing lesson and went home somewhat the worse for wear.

When he came for his second lesson he said: "Mr. Sullivan, it was my idea to learn enough about boxing from you to give a certain young gentleman a good licking. I've had it in for him a good while. But I've changed my mind. If you have no objections I'll send this young man down here to you to take the rest of my lessons for me."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

TO BUILD CONCRETE HOTBED

Concise Directions Given for Four-Sash Bed Which Can Be Extended to Any Length.

We referred recently to the concrete hotbeds now built by florists and vegetable growers. The following directions are given for a four-sash bed, which of course could be extended to any length desired. A standard hotbed sash is three by six feet. Lay out the bed six feet eight inches wide by 21 feet 10 inches long. The concrete walls are six inches thick. Dig the foundation trenches two feet six inches deep within the lines given above. Make forms of one-inch lumber to carry the south (front) wall six inches and the north (back) wall 14 inches above ground, says the Rural New Yorker. Forms are not required below ground level. The tops of the end walls slope to the others. Before filling the forms with concrete test the dimensions of the bed by means of the sash. See that the sash lay the forms two inches on all sides.

Mix the concrete mushy wet in the proportion of one bag of cement to 2½ cubic feet of sand to five cubic feet of crushed rock, or one bag of cement to five cubic feet of bank-run gravel. Fill the forms without stopping for anything. Tie the walls together at the corners by laying in them old iron rods bent to right angles. While placing the concrete set ½ inch bolts about two feet apart to hold the wooden top-framing of the bed to the concrete; or make grooves in the top of the concrete for countersinking the sash to the level of the walls with an allowance of one-quarter inch for clearance. This can be done by temporarily imbedding in the concrete wooden strips of the necessary dimensions. During this operation, by means of blocks nailed to the strips, make provision for the center bars described below. Remove the strips as soon as the concrete stiffens. Take down the forms after five days. The extra 2½ inches in length of the bed is allowance for the three center bars between the sash. These sash supports are of dressed one-inch stuff, shaped like a capital "T" turned upside down. The length of the stem of the "T" is equal to the thickness of the sash and the top is three inches wide. Sufficient materials for the concrete will be supplied by 14 bags of cement, 1¼ cubic yards of sand and 2½ cubic yards of crushed rock; or 14 bags of cement and 2½ yards of pit gravel at a cost of $10.

PAYS TO FERTILIZE MEADOW

Increase in the Yield of Hay Estimated From Three-Quarters to One Ton Per Acre.

Several years ago when cutting hay next to a patch of wheat in the same field, i. e., there was no fence between, I noticed that the hay adjoining the wheat was much heavier in widths of a drill than elsewhere, writes F. P. Gerlach in the Michigan Farmer; in fact, there was so much difference that I began to study out the reason, which explained itself simply enough. In drilling the wheat the fall before with 250 pounds of 2-8-2 fertilizer per acre, and running the drill out on the meadow, there would be from two to four feet of meadow fertilized while in going back the drill would not be set in gear until at the edge of the wheat field, consequently every other width of the drill would show a marvelous difference in the grass.

This set me to thinking that it would be a good investment to fertilize meadows, and the following fall I fertilized five acres with the same result, raising the disks and drilling the fertilizer over the top, and since then we have been doing so, and I am satisfied we harvest from three-quarters to one ton of hay per acre more where we use the fertilizer. The fertilizer can be sown late in the fall before the snow covers the ground, or in the early spring.

Success With Cattle.

Said Prof. J. M. Truman, of the State Agricultural college: "If success has been obtained in one breed of cattle, stick to that breed." President W. H. Lee advises that the summer silos should largely take the place of the pastures after June. He predicted a great increase in the average grain yield and in the culture of alfalfa. He thought that many farmers in remote districts would do better in raising good cows to sell than shipping milk, cream or butter.

Egg Yield and the Feed.

The egg yield can be controlled by the feed and manner of feeding. When fresh-laid eggs have an offensive odor when broken or cooked, it is time to examine the quality of food the hens are getting. Onions, fish, manure piles and the like have a strong tendency to cause a bad smell and flavor in eggs.

Diseased Trees.

It is well to remember that the old and diseased trees not only take up valuable space in the orchard, but they are liable to spread disease among the healthy trees, and they always harbor pests that are injurious to the entire orchard.

CARE NEEDED FOR HARNESS

Before Applying Oil Thoroughly Wash and Free It From Sweat and Dirt—Use Ivory Black.

First thoroughly wash the harness to free it from sweat and dirt. Perhaps the easiest way to accomplish this is to take the harness to pieces and soak it over night in strong soap-suds, having the water as warm as is comfortable to hold the hand in when the harness is first put in. If too hot it will scald the leather.

When taken out in the morning, most of the dirt is gone, and a little rubbing with a coarse rag will remove the spots that did not soak off. Neatsfoot oil is, in the long run, the cheapest oil for oiling leather of any kind, and especially harness, as it is exposed to the action of dirt, sweat and very often is out in the rain.

If the harness is not very dry, a half gallon of oil will be enough for an ordinary set of double harness, though sometimes harness is so dry that a gallon would be none too much. A nickel's worth of ivory black will give a color and polish to the leather if it be mixed well with the oil before using. Be sure to get ivory-black and not lamp-black, as the latter rubs off badly.

Have the oil warm, and as you take the straps out of the water, run them a few times through the oil, wipe off with a rag and hang up to dry. If not then soft enough, repeat the operation. Treat your harness in this way, and it looks like new, and if it is oiled about three times a year it will outlast three or four sets that never receive any oil. It is an old saying that "five oilings equal a new harness."

DYNAMO OF COUNTRY HOUSE

Electric Power for Lighting, Heating and Cooking Derived From an Ordinary Automobile.

The electric power for lighting, heating and cooking in a country house situated a few miles out of London, England, is derived from an automobile without interfering in any way with the regular use of the car. The dynamo is mounted on the floor of the garage, and the automobile engine is belted to it in the manner shown, says the Popular Mechanics. During the time the engine is driving the dynamo, the bonnet is removed so as to keep the engine as cool as possible.

As the amount of energy used in the house is considerable, a comparatively large battery of 200 ampere-hours' capacity is used. The electric cooking apparatus comprises a range having a large oven, and several table cookers; several electric heaters have been installed, about thirty electric lights are operated, a lathe and two or three other machines, are driven in the tool house, and the power is also to be used for pumping water and for lawn mowing.

Automobile Driving Dynamo.

Marketing the Product. In marketing pork, like in marketing the rest of the farm products, there are often good reasons for selling on foot and allowing the various middlemen to do the distributing even if they do take good-sized toll. But many farmers are so situated that they can and do reach the consumer directly, and if they possess any "get up" can make good money by selling directly to the consumer. There are many dairymen who market their butter directly and as the fall approaches start marketing pork.

Gestation Period of Ewes.

The gestation period of the ewe, or the time she carries her lambs, is between 145 and 150 days on the average. Ewes bred in the middle of October are due to lamb in the middle of March—a good time for lambs to come if good shelter is available. If shelter is poor, however, it is better for the lambs to come the last of March. A tried ram is of great value in insuring the time for the lambs to arrive. It is a great disappointment to have lambs coming for a period of six weeks.

Sheep on Rough Lands.

Some rough $15 to $20 land in the eastern states is being stocked with western sheep. The east produces but a small share of its meat and prospects are good for mutton prices that will give to the grower a fair profit. If dogs do not become troublesome these lands should show good returns to investors who understand the business.

Seed Potatoes.

More care than is usually given by producers is becoming necessary for seed potatoes and now at storing time this attention can best be given. Select medium-sized tubers, the smoothest type, and store in a cool, dry place where the temperature does not vary too greatly.

Humus is Necessary.

A profitable crop cannot be grown on land deficient in humus, which is the same thing as rotted sod or rotted manure, with fertilizer alone.

OF COURSE NOT.

"Well, it's impossible to please everybody in this world, isn't it?"
"Can't say; I never tried it."

RASH ALMOST COVERED FACE

Warrenville, O.—"I have felt the effects of blood poisoning for eighteen years. I was never without some eruptions on my body. The terrible itching caused me much suffering and discomfort, while the rubbing and scratching made it worse. Last spring I had a terrible breaking out of blistering sores on my arms and limbs. My face and arms were almost covered with rash. I could not sleep and lost nineteen pounds in five weeks. My face was terribly red and sore, and felt as if my skin was on fire. At last I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I found them so cool, soothing and healing, that I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Resolvent. I bathed with hot water and Cuticura Soap, then I applied the Cuticura Ointment every night for two months, and I am cured of all skin eruptions." (Signed) Mrs. Kathryn Kraft, Nov. 23, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

He's Not There.

Jimmy was sure he had something the matter with him, so he went to see the doctor. His pulse was felt, his tongue was examined, his heart was listened to, and his lungs were thumped. He seemed to be sound.

"Do you sleep nights?" asked the physician.

"Yes—but I don't enjoy my sleep."

"Ah—what disturbs you?"

"Nothing except I don't get any good out of sleeping. I go to sleep the minute I hit the bed and the minute I'm awake I have to get up. How can a fellow enjoy his sleep when he doesn't know it?"

Question.

"Now a big Chicago firm complains that its girls will not stay single."

"Well, will they stay married?"

MR. GOSLINGTON GOT EVEN

Collision of Ill-Mannered Man and Fire Hydrant Afforded Him Much Satisfaction.

"You know the crowding, pushing, ill-mannered chaps," said Mr. Goslington, "that elbow their way through and crowd you off into the gutter, like as not, and pass right on with never a thought? I encountered one of them this morning in Sixth avenue.

"He overtook me, coming up from the rear, walking faster than I, and when he had come to me he didn't sheer out, but kept right along, shouldering me so that I almost fell into the street. But in one brief moment I was more than fully avenged.

"Just as this ill-mannered chap shouldered me I had arrived at a fire hydrant, for which I was about to sheer out. You know the fire hydrant? Built of cast iron, very hard, and standing up rigidly, very rigidly. You can't just shoulder a fire hydrant out of the way, and just as this man shouldered me out of his course he came upon the fire hydrant, which with me covering it from view he had not seen. His next rude, reckless step forward carrying him up against this fire hydrant fair and squarely per-bunk!

"And it didn't break his leg, but it did make him limp; he limped quite perceptibly. I was pleased to see, as he walked away."

Sanctimonious Penny.

Jerome S. McWade, the millionaire collector of Duluth, was appealing on the Mauretania for a seaman's fund.

"Let the collection be generous," he said. "We want none of the penny and quarter parable here."

A penny and a quarter, side by side in a pocket, fell into conversation.

"I'm worth 25 of you," said the quarter haughtily.

"That's true," replied the humble penny, "but in one respect, sir, I'm superior to yourself."

"Pshaw; how so?" said the quarter.

"I go to church, sir, far, far oftener than you," replied the penny.

Invalid Men and Women

I will give you FREE a sample of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets that have brought health and happiness to thousands—also a book on any chronic disease requested.

During many years of practice I have used numerous combinations of curative medicines for liver ills. I have kept a record of the result in case after case, so that my staff of physicians and surgeons, at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., are able to diagnose and treat cases at a distance with uniform good results.

But for the permanent relief of blood disorders and impurities, I can recommend my "Golden Medical Discovery" a blood medicine without alcohol or other injurious ingredients. R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Buffalo, N. Y.

Nature's Way Is The Best

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and ston root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has the endorsement of many thousands that it has cured them of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

"In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption, the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The 'Discovery' is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken."

NEW CHEMICAL PLANT

The new chemical plant of the Cliffs Chemical company at Goodman, Marquette county, began operations Tuesday. A number of prominent officials were present at the starting of the plant including Austin Farrell of Marquette, vice president and general manager for the company; Dr. E. J. Hudson of Marquette, the chemist of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company; Grant E. Stephenson of Wells, Mich., manager of the Maahak Chemical company; George J. Slining of Gladstone, chief engineer, and C. D. Mason, auditor, of Cleveland, Ohio. They were the guests of R. E. Goodman.

Company makes three chemicals. The new chemical plant has a capacity of charring forty-eight cords per day. The products of the plant are charcoal, wood alcohol and acetate of lime. The power required to operate the plant is furnished from the recently completed central power station of the Goodman Lumber company.

The Goodman Lumber company has the contract for supplying the new chemical plant with maple and birch cord wood and has for some time been locating choppers in its cuttings. Contracts have also been made with jobbers for getting out chemical wood in the recently completed wood mill at Goodman. The lumber company is also contracting with farmers for the cord wood obtained by them in clearing their lands.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE

A state teachers' institute for Schoolcraft and Delta counties will be held in Escanaba February 3 and 4 with Principal Kaye, of the Northern Normal as conductor. Principal Kaye will give at least three talks on Monday and some other will take part in the program. Dr. Fess of Antioch College and a member of the next congress, Dr. Bryan of Colgate University and Deputy Supt. Fred Keeler of Lansing will be at the meeting on Tuesday. It should be one of the best if not the best teachers' institute ever held in Delta county. Music will be plentiful and the commissioners W. T. S. Cornell of Schoolcraft county and P. E. Legg of Delta county will see to it that all teachers who attend will enjoy themselves.

NIGHT SCHOOL

The public night school was opened Monday evening with an enrollment of nearly thirty pupils. The teachers are Supt. E. J. Willman, J. W. Grills and Miss Hangstaffer, one of the high school teachers. The school is in session two hours each Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and courses in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, bookkeeping, typewriting, advance spelling and correspondence and probably English is offered to the public. No public school regulations are in force and the students are their own masters. Supt. Willman and his teachers are much pleased with the result so far and there is no doubt about the success of a public night school in Gladstone. Mr. Willman is particularly anxious to get a few students who can neither read, write nor cipher. More care is taken in instructing those people than anyone else. If about a dozen more students could be enrolled within the next week the tuition will be cut down to 25 cents a week. Many are not attending the school at present because they do not seem to fully understand its great value, but it is certain that before many weeks the school will number 50 students, who will be constantly making better citizens of themselves, through their education, at apparently no cost. Supt. Willman invites all, old and young, educated and uneducated to give the school a tryout or better still, talk matters over with him.

Samples of bay water were recently secured by Mayor Perry from the channel, at a depth of twenty-seven feet, and distant in a straight line about a quarter of a mile from the present mouth of the intake. They have been reported wholesome by the analysis to whom they were submitted; and the mayor recommends consideration of an addition to the intake, with a view to securing good water. He is of opinion that no other source can be depended upon to give the volume of water required to make fire protection certain and keep down insurance rates. It is his belief that this is the simplest, as well as most economical way, to remedy the present situation.

The jury in the case of the People vs. Jacob P. Miller, charged with keeping his saloon open after the closing hour, had an interesting session Tuesday night. The jury disagreed hopelessly, eight to four, and at midnight Judge Flannigan returned to the courthouse to discharge them. He was unable to secure an entrance, and retired. The jury remained in its argumentative condition until court reconvened in the morning. Among those who partook of this vigil were several Gladstone men. The next of the cases for a similar count, that of Nick Thimmes, resulted in an acquittal.

MARQUETTE'S TROUBLES

At the meeting of the board of fire and water commissioners of Marquette city Wednesday evening, a representative of the firm of C. E. Nebel & Sons was present and offered a bond for the completion of the contract for laying a water main in Presque Isle avenue. The firm contracted to do this work for $45 a foot, as it was first thought the pipe could be laid in the same ditch with the North Marquette sewer. The city engineer decided that this was not practical, and ordered that the main be laid three feet east of the sewer pipe instead of within one foot of it. This has required the digging of a separate ditch which has increased the contractors' expense at least $400. The firm is, however, making no protest on its contract, but realizes it has taken upon itself more than it could do under any other circumstances at the price it asks.

Considering these facts, the representative of the firm asked the board that evening to pay $35 for each of five extensions at the street corners, which will lead the main into the cross streets to the west, crossing the sewer pipe. These leads are not included in the original profile of the main, but the board deems them necessary, as they will lessen the work in making extensions at some future date. The price asked for the work is not too much, since it requires the entire Nebel working force one whole day to put in each of these leads. The board voted that the work be allowed.

Superintendent W. H. Johnston, who had attended an Ann Arbor convention of water works superintendents and engineers, said that in comparison with the water supplies in other Michigan cities Marquette water was beyond reproach, and the commissioners spent a few moments in congratulating themselves upon this fact, during which time Mayor Jacobs grew ecstatic in an eulogy upon the purity of the city's drinking water supply. Commissioner Nebel interrupted the eloquent flow of optimism by inquiring why, if the city water was as absolutely pure as the mayor pictured it, the board still found it necessary to use hypochlorite of lime as a disinfectant. The mayor wondered who recently ordered the use of hypochlorite and why, and was told it was used as a precautionary measure, because at no time is a public drinking supply utterly unquestionable in its purity.

Mr. Johnston said that at the Ann Arbor convention eminent scientists had said that hypochlorite of lime was one of the best and cheapest bactericides known, and by its use not only was typhoid infection prevented, but a decrease in the number of deaths from tuberculosis was noted, although it has not been ascertained that the latter is as a result of the use of the chemical.—Mining Journal.

Samples of bay water were recently secured by Mayor Perry from the channel, at a depth of twenty-seven feet, and distant in a straight line about a quarter of a mile from the present mouth of the intake. They have been reported wholesome by the analysis to whom they were submitted; and the mayor recommends consideration of an addition to the intake, with a view to securing good water. He is of opinion that no other source can be depended upon to give the volume of water required to make fire protection certain and keep down insurance rates. It is his belief that this is the simplest, as well as most economical way, to remedy the present situation.

The jury in the case of the People vs. Jacob P. Miller, charged with keeping his saloon open after the closing hour, had an interesting session Tuesday night. The jury disagreed hopelessly, eight to four, and at midnight Judge Flannigan returned to the courthouse to discharge them. He was unable to secure an entrance, and retired. The jury remained in its argumentative condition until court reconvened in the morning. Among those who partook of this vigil were several Gladstone men. The next of the cases for a similar count, that of Nick Thimmes, resulted in an acquittal.
