A collision between the two bound passenger trains, Nos. 8 and 86, Saturday morning, which might have terminated disastrously, worked hardly any harm to persons or property. Five hours blockade of the line was caused.

No. 8 was late, and had left North Escanaba and crossed the river. The viaduct under the Northwestern track had been reached and passed when No. 86 became visible, crossing at slow speed ing room, upon which the robbers made No. 8, put on the emergency and he

> No. 8 had not received the stop signal from the C. & N. W. operator at Larch, and expected as usual a clear right of way. The sharp curve of the connecting track, between the Northwestern and Soo main lines, concealed the coming of No. 8 from the train crew; and the engine and baggage car were passing the switch when the limited struck the local

Because of the acute angle between the trains the engine of 8 struck the forward, or smoking car of 86 and shoved it from the track, as well as the fore trucks of the following coach. So slight was the injury to the engine that only one oil pipe was broken, and it was able to continue its journey. The passengers of both trains were shaken up, some of those in the smoker being bruised. Fireman Latimer received slight injuries in his side. The stopping of the fast passenger under headway, within a hundred yards or little more, and with the rails covered with snow is remarkable. All concerned escaped very luckily.

The engine and baggage car of 86 proceeded to Gladstone with a few passengers. The wrecker was ordered out and cleared the track at eleven for No. 8. Later the damaged train was brought in. The negligent operator was discharby the Northwestern.

On Sunday delay was caused in the schedule by broken carwheels on freights, and Monday morning a delay to No. 8 by an engine wheel breaking near Faithorn Junction, were reported.

A point now interesting Mayor Perry s that of returns from the county treasarer of delinquent taxes. Last year a delay of twenty days caused the city to borrow $2,000 and pay interest thereon, he says. To make the accounts correct his month, he will endeavor to secure the statement of the sums now due to the city from payments since that time. It may, however, be remarked that time is needed to make out all statements; and that the city officials are often unable to make out long rolls and reports on the day provided by law. A delay, therefore, has always been tacitly sanctioned in these matters.

OVERHEAD WATER PIPES

A main in the first ward was frozenlast week, during the cold snap, and when thawed out, proved to have broken. The difficulty arose from the fact that the water pipe was hardly buried-laid on top of the ground, says the mayor, in his picturesque manner. Consequently it froze readily.

The specifications provided, as usual, that it be laid 5 feet below street grade. As the street itself, through the low and swampy ground comprising the southeast portion of the city, is three or four feet below grade, it has often been necessary to haul dirt to cover the water pipe.

WAR CHANGES FASHIONS. Was there ever a war that did not exert an influence on fashions? Bohemian fez-makers, it is said, are deploring the prospective waning of their once profitable branch of manufacture. As a result of the decline of Islamic religion and the rise of Christian prestige in southeastern Europe the use of the fez in Thrace and Macedonia already has declined. A recent writer says that apart from the influence of decimation of the Mahometan population by the war, the Turks who remain in Europe as subjects of the Christian states will soon, as former examples have shown, exchange the fez for the lambskin cap worn by this, its ninth day. President Taft's the Christian peasantry. The fez, it is remarked, is merely an adaptation of the ancient turban, and the only thing that matters to the Mahometan is that his headgear should have no brim, or even shade, so that he may sit on the floor of the mosque as prescribed by the Koran with a covered head, and yet, when saying his prapers, touch the ground with his bare forehead. For this ceremonial the lambskin cap would do just as well.

Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila bay, when congratulated upon the attainment of three-quarters of a cenutry of good health, gave some good advice to public men. He said he attributed his long life and good condition to much riding and abstaining from midnight banquets, and he added: "So should any man who wants to feel as young as I do when he is seventyfive." Quite true! The temptations are great with the man in the limelight to indulge in excesses, largely to please his friends and admirers. The American banquet, an ornate feeding ceremony lasting several hours, robbing the man of increasing years of the sleep which is required to neutralize the ravages of time, and playing hob with his digestive apparatus, has undoubtedly cost many lives. It takes a strong and vigorous constitution to withstand the demands of the banquet table.

Every now and then is started a spasmodic crusade to protect the doll and its instinct of motherhood against the wooly dogs, cats, teddy bears and other animal usurpers in childish affections. The modern passion for crusading is so strong that the object is often absurdly out of proportion to the efforts put forth; indeed, is of small importance in itself as long as it gives the over-active crusaders something to work on. The doll has been so long in the business that it can be trusted to take care of itself, and the society for its protection recently organized in Germany, may with quiet minds leave the fondling of little wooly dogs to the little girls without imminent danger to the foundations of human society.

Taft Breaks Precedent of Hundred and Twelve Years to Appear in Hall of Representatives for Delivery of Address.

Washington, Feb. 17 .- In the presence of an audience that comprised the president and his cabinet, the members of the Supreme court of the United States, the foreign diplomatic corps, army and navy officers stationed in Washington, and scores of invited guests of national fame, the two houses of congress paid tribute to the memory of Vice-President James S. Sherman. The memorial exercises were held in the hall of representatives.

Every available inch of space in the galleries and on the floor was occupied. Admission to the capitol was restricted to the holders of tickets. Every member of congress was attired in black. The galleries were bright with the costumes of women, but the only touch of color on the floor was in the uniforms of several high officials of the army and navy.

Services Are Simple.

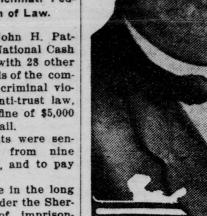

The services were of a simple but impressive character. The program was opened with a prayer by the chaplain of the house and closed with the benediction by the chaplain of the senate President Taft delivered one of the addresses of eulogy and Speaker Clark delivered another. President Taft's address was universally pronounced a splendid eulogy of his former colleague and friend. He delivered it with no effort at oratorical effect, yet through the three-quarters of an hour that he occupied he was listened to with breathless silence and and strained attention, and when he concluded there was a storm of applause.

President Taft's action in visiting the hall of representatives and delivering an address there was almost without precedent. Not since 1801, when President Jefferson introduced the custom of the president's sending "a message in writing" instead of marking a speech at the opening session, had a president spoken directly to a house of congress

An engineer on a Long Island engine smiled at a would-be passenger standing on a station platform when the train was passing it. The passenger took this as an intimation that the train was going to slow down for him, and tried to board, with the result of losing a leg and the railroad having to pay $5,000. The company will now instruct its employes that exhibitions of amiability and good will on the part of employes toward the public must not be made under circumstances that render the outcome so equivocal.

The United States commission of education thinks that women should devote less time to Latin and the classics and more to the profession of motherhood. While there is no irreconcilable difficulty between the acquiring of Latin and being a good wife and mother, it is undoubtedly true that the first requisites of any education, whether for man or woman, hould be the development of character and a thorough foundation in the rudiments. After that the more knowledge which can be acquired the better. After all, the free sovereign and independent American people might be worse off. In Berlin street car passengers are rebelling against having to tip conductors for change.

The disastrous fires of the year show that the work of fire prevention must be started in earnest. Since there is scarcely one fire in a hundred which is not preventable, the strictest and minutest study must be brought to bear on a subject too long neglected.

A Philadelphia pastor says the sensation for the first five minutes after death is one of glad surprise. But there may be cases in which the gladness does not last any longer than the time specified.

The army has gone as far as it can under present arrangements for a possible troop movement to Mexico. The plan to send an expeditionary force from Galveston has been confronted with some difficulties in securing merchant ships.

The quartermaster general has an opportunity to get some cattle-ships, but it would take a week to fit them out. It may be finally decided to send some of the transports at Newport News around to Galveston.

Meanwhile, with the army practically marking time, and the navy standing by, officials waited in suspense for news of the stirring events which are believed to be taking place behind the veil at Mexico City.

NEW ARMY PLAN IN EFFECT

Reorganization is Complete With the Central Bureau in Chicago and Others in Three Cities.

Washington, Feb. 17 .- The army reorganization plan, which has engaged the attention of the officials of the war department and the general staff for nearly a year, was put into effect.

Some of the changes brought about by the reorganization are of a most momentous character. The territorial organization heretofore existing is discontinued and for military purposes the territory of the United States is organized into four geographical departments, Hawaii and the Philippines constituting two more.

The departments are to be known as eastern, central, western and southern departments, with headquarters respectively at Governors Island, Chicago, San Francisco and San Antonio.

PROPER FOOTWEAR IS OF THE UTMOST IMPORTANCE.

"Beauty Ills" Innumerable Spring From Disregard of This Very Important Matter-For a Graceful Carriage.

Did it ever occur to you that the kind of shoes you wear have a great deal to do with your "beauty ills?" A successful specialist in the treatment of facial defects recently made the positive statement that ill-fitting and fil-shaped shoes were a frequent cause for the deep lines so often seen on women's faces. He also said that these lines were among the most difflcult to treat.

This does not seem so foolish upon second thought as it does at first. Did you ever try to walk when your feet hurt you? Perhaps the hurt was caused by a tiny corn upon your smallest toe, but it wrinkled your face up into all kinds of lines that were unbeautiful, to say the least. If the pain were to spread all through your feet, as is the case when the feet are cramped out of shape by tight or illshaped shoes, you can readily see why the lines would become more marked and would gradually deepen until they were very hard to smooth out.

Ill-fitting shoes are also responsible for some very troublesome wrinkles in the disposition, and these are always reflected in the face. One can go even farther and say with perfect truth that the health suffers even in greater proportion from having one's feet cramped out of their normal shape.

The nerves of the feet are more sensitive than the nerves in the hands, and when we encase the feet in shoes which prevent all the normal and natural action of the various bones and ligaments and muscles-intended by nature to give elasticity to the walk and support the weight of the body with ease-we are guilty of real cruelty to ourselves. The pressure causes acute suffering of the feet, and this reacts upon the entire nervous system.

A bright young lady tells how she came to be acutely sensitive as to the taste of coffee:

"My health had been very poor for several years." she says. "I loved coffee and drank it for breakfast, but only learned by accident, as it were, that it was the cause of the constant, dreadful headaches from which I suffered every day, and of the nervousness that drove sleep from my pillow and so deranged my stomach that everything I ate gave me acute pain. (Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"My condition finally got so serious that I was advised by my doctor to go to a hospital. There they gave me what I supposed was coffee, and I thought it was the best I ever drank. but I have since learned it was Postum. I gained rapidly and came home in four weeks.

DARING MAIL ROBBERY

A snow storm, belated trains and a rat in the warehouse at the Hancock Mineral Range station were the factors contributing to the loss of two loaves of nutbread to which certain Hancock people looked forward last week. It happened that the bread was sent when the trains were plowing their way through snow drifts. The train did not arrive on time and the mails were left at the warehouse until the following morning. With an appetite for something good and a scent that is never known to fail a rodent found its way to the bread. When the pouches reached the postoffice a hole in each of two bags large enough to permit a rat to enter was discovered and Mr. Rat had not gone astray on his hunch and justice had been done to the nutbread.

THE GREY POET

me or write me.

Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sier. ras, died at his home in California on Monday. Though he has enjoyed celebrity for almost half a century, he was but seventy-two years of age.

From childhood, his was a stirring eventful life. He was born in Indiana in 1841. At the age of eleven, young Miller accompanied his parents to the Pacific coast. The family took up a claim in Oregon. He ran away at fifteen to seek his fortune. Already he had participated in an Indian war, receiving an arrow wound in the neck.

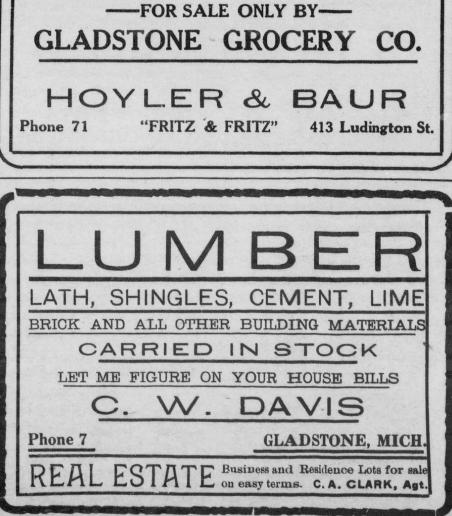

In California, Miller was adopted by tribe of Indians and married the daughter of the chief. Shortly afterwards the woman was killed by settlers. He returned to Oregon, where he studied law. At this time he had begun to write verse, and he met and married Miss Minnie Myrtle, a young Oregon poetess. Three children were born to the couple.

In 1866 Miller went to Mexico, where he joined Walker's filibusters and was arrested. He obtained a pardon and returned to Oregon. In 1869 he published his first volume of poems. Soon after-And for Sea Food, I have ward he was divorced from his wife and went to Europe. There he became popular. He always dressed in a flannel shirt and knee high boots, a costume that the English of that day are said /to have accepted as typical of Americans.

Returning to America, Miller took up newspaper work at Washington, D. C. While there he took a third wife, Miss Abby Leland, of Chicago. One child was born to the couple.

The poet returned to California in 1887. In the late nineties, he joined in the rush for gold to the Klondike, but soon returned, heroes, probably, have more monuments, statues and other enduring tributes been erected than to him who was so aptly designated "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Easily the most important and most imposing of all the memorials existing or projected is the Washington national monument, that simple and stately white shaft that rises on the banks of the Potomac river at Washington and affords from its top the most magnificent view of the beautiful capita! city which Washington founded and which bears his name. Yet few of the persons who gaze in this twentleth century upon what has been denominated a "poem in marble" pause to consider how long this monument was in building and by how narrow a margin of chance a national tribute missed being a national disgrace.

The towering shaft that so ably typifies Washington's simplicity and strength of character was in the making for nigh a quarter of a century. Not that work was continuous over that protracted interval, but that such a span of years intervened between the inception and completion of the

BUYING UP OLD IRON HANDY IMPLEMENT FOR FARM

It Can Be Used to Reinforce Concrete Structures.

Cement Posts, Water Tanks and Pig Troughs Will Be Stronger If Pieces of Old Machinery Are Mixed in When Molded.

Buy up the old iron, sold at the public sales next spring, and use it in reinforcing your concrete structures. Such articles as old buggles, discarded machinery and junk piles usually are sold at the first bid. This material makes good reinforcing for concrete corner posts. Cement posts are be coming popular, and there is a great demand for reinforcing material. Old iron, that would otherwise be an eyesore and a nuisance about the place, can be used to good advantage.

The successful farmer of the future will use much cement. He can make water tanks, pig troughs and similar stationary articles about the farm so they will be everlasting.

A roller can be made of cement for about what the freight would cost on one shipped from the manufacturer. Get a shaft about two inches in diameter and one foot longer than the length of the roller, and build a form of one-inch boards, using old wagon tires for hoops. Be sure that the structure is firmly supported in the middle to prevent bulging; old mowing machine wheels which will fit the shaft may be used for reinforcement. and will aid in centering the shaft accurately. Old iron from the junk pile may be used in the reinforcing if there are not enough old wheels at hand. After the form is arranged the adding of cement is a simple matter. A proportion of about one part of cement to three parts of sand is recommended. Crushed rock, or hard cinders, may be used to replace two parts of the sand. After the roller is finished the frame and hitch may be built according to the materials, and the ideas, of the user. The hitch should be placed low so the weight tion of the completed monument tak will be removed from the tongue. That distance at the top of the uprights. Bore three or four three-quarter inch holes at different heights, three inches apart, to take the lever pin.

Make the lever about 4 feet long of strong, durable 2-inch timber, and bore a hole for the pin the lower side, 9 inches from the larger end. The other end is drawn down and shaped to form a handle. Small bolts through the lever each side of the pin will prevent splitting. A chain attached to the bottom of one upright, and hooked into the lever, will hold the weight of the wagon in any position desired.

CORRECT SOIL FOR FLOWERS

Seed of Plants Which Produce Very Delicate Growths May Be Sown on Live Sphagnum Moss.

Moisture and temperature should be carefully considered when sowing seed. Do not use soil which will not allow of perfect drainage and at the same time hold moisture. Pure send and leaf mold, or a good potting soil mixed with white sand will give a good soil for sowing seed.

Seed of rhodedendrons, kalmias and orchids, which produce very delicate growths, may be sown on live sphagnum moss. Heavy, coarse soil will never produce good results, as seeds usually require a much lighter soil than the mature plant.

Never drench your seed beds or pots, as that will weaken even sound and strong seeds. Water thoroughly enough to moisten the soil throughout, as a moist surface with a dry subsoil is an evil. Seeds should never be allowed to become perfectly dry after they have once started to sprout Good drainage is an essential point. A layer of broken pots placed in the bottom of the pot or bed in which the seeds are started will be found a great aid to drainage. Do not sow in deep boxes or pots, as the shallow 'flats" require much less attention as to drainage.

what is accounted the nation's monument to Washington was a long-drawn-out undertaking, but this seeming tardiness of action has been atoned for by the beauty of the structure, which has few rivals in height, save some of the newer skyscrapers in New York, and which is so jealously guarded by a proud people that congress not so very long ago felt compelled to refuse the request of the navy department that permission be granted to establish a wireless telegraph station at the top of the monument, as has been done on the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

Washington at the seat of government dates from the year 1783, when the Continental congress voted to erect an equestrian statue and, oddly enough, selected for its site the very location that is now occupied by the national monument. However, the project progressed no further and there was no further action until Washington died at the end of the century, when congress passed another resolution for a monument-this bill providing for a testimonial in marble or granite beneath which should repose the remains of the nation's greatest hero. Here, however, the widow of General Washington interposed with her very natural preference that the body should rest at mount Vernon, and accordingly the whole project again lapsed until 1823, when a number of patriotic citizens of Washington formed an organization known as the Washington Monument association and undertook to revive interest in the undertaking.

The scheme was to provide funds by popular subscription for erecting a monument and this canvass was pursued more or less energetically. but it was not until 1848, when a total of $87,000 had been collected, that the officials of the organization considered that the funds in hand justified the commencement of actual work. The corner-stone was laid with due ceremony and the work went forward for some years, but additional subscriptions did not come in at a very lively rate and finally work had to be suspended for lack of funds. Thus the partially completed obelisk-a "stump" of a monument it was termed -stood during all the years intervening between 1858 and 1880 until congress finally took up the matter and appropriated funds to finish the gigantic shaft.

However, it was not merely a case of providing money to carry out the work already started. The United States army engineers who were put in charge when the national legislature took a hand in the matter speedily discovered that the original foundation provided for the monument was hopelessly inadequate, considering the height and weight of the mass which it was proposed to place on it. Thereupon they set about a mighty ticklish engineering project-nothing less than the provision of a new or rather an enlarged foundation for the monument. Of course, the perplexing part of it was that the new foundation had to be slipped under the great mass of stone as it stood, for, naturally, there were many objections to consuming time and money in tearing down the monument and re-erecting ft.

The engineers dug out at the corners and sides of the monument as much as they dared of the old foundation, meanwhile supporting the partially undermined structure by means of beams and braces of various kinds. All the stone thus removed was replaced with concrete and the concrete foundation was also extended in every direction beyond the base lines of the monument and beyond the limitations of the original inadequate foundation. To what an extent the resting place of the shaft was expanded may be surmised from the fact that the original foundation had an area of only 6,400 square feet. whereas the enlarged foundation covered 16,000 square feet, in addition to being of better material. Indeed, the new footing of monolithic concrete is in effect a single block of solid stone.

With the new foundation in place the erection of the shaft went on apace and the task was finally completed in December, 1884, the dedica-

HOW TO TELL FORTUNES

One Formula Can Be Made to Fit Almost Everybody.

The way to tell people's fortunes is to have one list of characteristics and to use it for every one without the slightest variation. It is bound to succeed. For instance, supposing Falstaff and Hamlet had their fortunes told by the same soothsayer. I imagine he would have told Hamlet's character as follows, Maurice Baring writes in the Metropolitan:

"You are not so fortunate as you seem. You have a great deal of sense, but more sense than knowledge. You can give admirable advice to other people. Your judgment is excellent as regards others, but bad as regards yourself. You never value your own good advice. You are fond of your friends. You prefer talk to action. You suffer from indecision. You are fond of the stage. You are susceptible to female beauty. You are witty, amiable and well educated, but you like coarse jokes. You are superstitious and believe in ghosts. You can make people laugh. You often pretend to be more foolish than you are. At other times you will surprise people by your power of apt repartee. Your bane will be your inclination to fat, which will hamper you in fighting. You are unsuccessful as a soldier, but unrivaled as a companion and philosopher. You will mix in high society, have friends at court. You will come off badly in personal encounter, and your final enemy will be a king."

Now imagine him saying exactly the same thing to Falstaff. Doesn't it fit him just as well? Can't you imagine Falstaff saying: "He has hit me off to a T," and Hamlet murmuring, "My prophetic soul!" In fact, I believe fortune telling, after that of medicine, to be the finest profession in the world and the easiest.

stones having been contributed by states of the Union, by foreign powers and by municipal, civic and other organizations. There are, all told, about one hundred and seventy-six carved memorials of stone and marble embedded in the walls, but such testimonials could not, from the very character of the structure, be effectually guarded after the monument was completed and more than onefourth of the total number have been more or less marred and damaged by vandals and relic hunters. An especial target for such souvenir hunting was found in the projecting pieces of prisingly low; in fact, according to the military proverb, it takes a ton of shot to kill a man.

At the siege of Gibraltar 258,387 heavy shot and shell were thrown into the garrison during the ten months' attack; but only 1,341 persons were killed and wounded, most of the injuries being very slight. At Salamanca only one shot of every 537 took effect, and at Waterloo the fire of one side of a British square emptied no more than three or four saddles in a squadron of French cavalry.

It has been estimated that in the Crimean war the British troops fired 15,000,000 shots and killed 21,000 Russlans, or one death to every 700 shots. The French fired 29,000,000 shots and killed 51,000 Russians, or one death to every 590 shots; while the Russians fired 45,000,000 shots and killed 48,000 of the allies, or one death to every 910 shots.

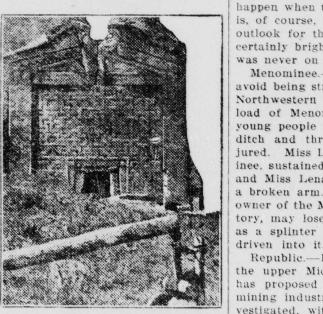

When the Germans besieged Mezieres in 1870, 193,000 projectiles were thrown into the town; but only 300 persons were killed, or one for every 643 shot and shell. At Trouville two people were killed by 30,000 shells, or one person for every 15,000; and at Lorgny 30,000 shells were fired and did not kill a single person.

In battle there is not much time to aim, and military authorities now regard rapidity of fire as being more essential than range and precision.

At the Alma, where Russians, French, and British, were engaged, the French lost 40, the Russians 47, as in January, 1912, 9,024 were takand the English 75 per 1,000 soldiers. The Russian loss at Inkerman was very heavy, being 110 per 1,000, while the English lost 37 and the French only 5 per 1,000 combatants. The British loss at Waterloo was 48 per 1,000. In fact, wherever Britons fight, they kill, or are themselves killed, in large | 17,312. numbers

At the famous battle of Sedan only nine per 1,000 Germans engaged were killed, while the French loss was 24 of mining concerns in this section. per 1,000 fighters. At Spicheren, in While last year 48,000,000 tons of the same war, the French lost 16 and the Germans 29 per 1,000; while at your's shipments doubtless will ex-Gravelotte both French and Germans had nine per 1,000 killed.

MIXED FARMING BRANCHES, PAY IN WESTERN CANADA.

Truck gardening and poultry growing are two branches of agriculture in which the farmers near the main lines of the three transcontinental lines traversing Western Canada are much concerned. The abundance of sunshine during the long days from

May to September, and adequate moisture in the spring and early summer permit of a wide variety of crops. The soil is rich and warm and is easily worked. Close attention to cultivation has resulted in record yields of Kinney stables for a week. Hay all sorts of vegetable and small fruits stored in the house attracted the ani- which bring good prices in the cities and at the numerous railway construction camps.

Mr. Harris Oium, an Alberta farmer, came from South Dakota eleven years ago and homesteaded the first 160 acres in his township in 1902, which was divided between grain and pasture. He earned sufficient money to buy a quarter section of railway land at $11 an acre. The half section netted proportionate profits and he gradually increased his holdings to 1,920 acres. which was devoted to mixed farming last year. He values his land at $50 an acre.

Mr. Oium markets from 100 to 125 hogs and a similar number of beef cattle each year. He has 200 hogs, mostly pure bred Poland China, 25 head draft horses and 35 head of pure bred Hereford cattle. By feeding barley to hogs he estimates that the grain nets him 80 cents a bushel, as compared with 40 cents, the average market price when delivered to the warehouse. His average crop of barley is 40 bushels to the acre, while oats average 80 bushels.

By writing any Canadian Government Agent, full particulars as to best districts on which to secure homesteads will be cheerfully given .- Advertisement.

Unpicked Grapes Go to the Poor.

A curious old law, which dates from 1779, has been used to sentence the owner of a vineyard at Capestang near Beziers, France, to a fine and costs for picking her own grapes. She was picking the grapes which had been is, of course, problematical, but the left on the vines in her vineyard after the fall gathering, when the policeman told her that she was committing an offense against the law, as all grapes left on the vines after the harvest were the property of the poor. The court at Beziers confirmed the policeman's opinion, and the woman was convicted.

"Hobey" Baker Called Princeton's Greatest Athlete.

Photo by American Press Association. "Hobey" Baker is now-hailed as the greatest athlete Frinceton university lever produced. "Hobey" has starred in every branch of sport in which he has participated Baker has been a member of the Tigers football, hockey, baseball and track teams. He is also a crack basketball and lawn tenhis player. Last fall he was the real star of the Tiger football eleven. His individual playing on the hockey team this season towered above his teammates and had much to do with the Tigers capturing the intercollegiate title. Baker will captain the Tiger eleven next fall, and his friends hope he will be lucky enough to pilot a champion team to wind up his brilliant career as an athlete at Princeton.

Water Colors.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Bodies of water take on different colors at different times. The intense blue that is sometimes noticed is often nothing more than the reflection of a clear sky from the surface of brown river water. But men that have studied the sea say that the water is bluest when it is most salty. They say that in such salty places as the gulf of Mexico and the Mediterranean sea the blue is caused by the salty quality and not by the summer skies. The sea in the northern oceans is green rather than blue.

If you have ever visited a natatorium, where the water for swimming is held in a great white tiled tank, you must have noticed the color. When the surface of the water is untroubled the color is a deep green except where direct sunlight strikes it and turns it to a brilliant olive. But let a swimmer once disturb the surface and send little waves rippling in every direction and the green disappears, to be replaced by a blue like that of the sky. Yet if you catch up some of this water in your hand you will find that it is colorless.

Personalities.

Have you played "personalities?" It is quite an amusing game for afternoon parties. The hostess, having two packs of cards, sits at the head of the table with the guests around.

She deals one pack of cards equally among the players; the other pack she places in the center of the table. Drawing one card from this pack, the dealer asks some personal question, such as, "Who is the cleverest person present?" One of the players must have a duplication of the card which has been drawn, and he or she must produce it and claim the personality. These two cards are then placed in a separate pack on the table, and it is then the player's turn to draw a card from the center pack and ask a question. The one who gets out of cards first wins a prize, and the one who manages to keep in longest gains the next prize. This game causes a great deal of fun, especially when the questioner finds the duplicate card in his own hand after perhaps asking, "Who's always got the grouch?" and having to answer, "I have."

J. F. Fielder, Who Succeeds Governor Woodrow Wilson.

James Fairman Fielder, who suceeds Woodrow Wilson as governor of New Jersey when the president elect resigns in preparation for his high of fice as chief executive of the United States, is a lawyer by profession and has been active in politics for the past ten years. In the recent reorganization of the New Jersey senate Mr. Fielder was chosen president of that body, and under the laws of the state the president of the senate automatically becomes chief executive either upon the resignation or the disability of the elected governor.

Since 1903, when the prospective governor was elected to the assembly, he has been a member of the New Jersey legislature. In 1907 he was elected to the senate and for the past two years has been minority leader of the upper house. Last November the political overturn made him leader of the majority and so he got in line for the governorship.

Mr. Fielder is a native of Jersey City and forty-six years old. He was educated in the public schools of his native city and was admitted to the New to its original form and was reopened Jersey bar in 1888. His term of office as governor will expire next January. As the law of New Jersey prevents any governor from succeeding himself, it the jurisdiction of the commission Rev. Timothy Cutler on Dec. 29, 1723, will be necessary for Mr. Fielder to receases, but in California, have the new which happened to fall on Sunday, as sign before next election if he wishes

Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight title holder, has declared himself strongly in favor of them. Plan Big Rowing Regatta. One of the greatest rowing regattas ever held in this country is being planned by rowing followers on the Pacific coast for San Francisco, to be held during the world's fair in that city in 1915. Word from the Pacific Coast Rowing club brings out the fact that early plans are being formulated for the regatta, which will assume international proportions.

This was confirmed by Fred Fortmeyer. secretary of the N. A. A. O., who announced that the clubs affiliated with the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen have been invited to send crews on to the coast to take part in the big regatta. Invitations are to be sent to the leading rowing clubs in England, France, Belgium and several other rowing clubs which

Mayor Fitzgerald an Athlete. It isn't strange that Mayor Fitzgerald is a baseball fan of the thirty-third degree. When "Honey Fitz" was a Boston Latin schoolboy he was a pitcher of considerable ability. He played on the first nine and was a star. He could "run a hundred in eleven" in his street clothes minus shoes, and for that reason he was asked to play football too. As a halfback on the B. L. S. eleven in 1885 he was a success in every sense of the word. James A. Gallivan, Boston's street commissioner, was Fitzgerald's chum in those days. Later Gallivan, covering second base for the Harvard nine in 1888, was one of the best players in the college arena.

Conundrums.

Who killed the most turkeys? Hamlet's uncle "did murder most foul." What is the difference between a candle in a cave and a dance in an inn? One is a taper in a cavern, the other a caper in a tavern. Why cannot a thief easily steal a

Why should a man named Ben marry a girl called Anne? Because he would be "Benny-fited" and she "Anne-mated."

Homemade Paste.

Put a dessertspoonful of ordinary starch into a cup and mix it into a thick paste with a little cold water. When the lumps of starch have quite dissolved fill the cup with boiling water and stir well for about a minute. When cool you will have a cupful of clean, serviceable paste, which will act quite as well as any specially prepared article.
