Some reasons why I seek your support for the nomination for Representative on the Republican ticket, at this coming Primary election.

HOSPICE IN THE ENGADINE

SWITZERLAND the way to get bout the country, if one has the time and energy, is not by means of its allways, nor of its splendid system of diligences, nor yet by automobile, but simply and joyfully on foot, for, n order to see Switzerland aright, one must use his feet as well as his eyes. One summer which we devoted to doing Switzerland, or rather a part of it, in this primitive fashion, I still recall with a keen sense of exhibaration and delight.

Early one morning about the middle of June, with heavy hob-nailed boots on our feet, stout walking sticks in our hands and knapsacks on our backs, we set forth to walk from Thusis over the Julier pass into the Engadine. Toward noon we snatched an hour's nap at a wayside inn, after Junching on brook trout fresh from the water and vegetables fresh from the earth. We stopped for the night in a little mountain village where the charge at the botel for breakfast and a large corner room with polished hard-wood floor, handwoven and hand-embroidered linen sheets and three daintily curtained windows framing magnificent panoramas of snow mountains and cascades, amounted to 48 cents each! The picturesque little proprietress apologetically explained that the extras which we had so recklessly urred in the way of eyes and iam for break fast were responsible for the swollen proportions

It seemed like flying in the face of Providence to hurry away at once, so, yielding to the protest of our tired feet and the combined charms of the place, the proprietress and the prices, we stopped another day in this little patch of paradise and started off next morning refreshed in body and soul, for our three days' trip by easy stages down into the valley of the Engadine.

Making our headquarters in St. Moritz, we walked all over this enchanting region, seeing it in its most glorious season, the month of flowers. when the fields are shot with every color of the rainbow and Alpine roses run riot over all the hills, while starry gentians make their part of the earth as blue as the sky and pansies and buttercups in the valley spread a cloth of pure gold for one's feet. From St. Moritz we set out for a week's walking trip to Andermatt through one of the least tourist-spoiled regions of Switzerland, stopping en route at little chalet hotels, where we ate, drank and slept with all the joy and some of the power of the virile, voracious races of primitive man. At the top of the Oberalp pass the proprietor of the hotel welcomed us as Noah might have welcomed the dove that returned to the ark with the first sign of dry land. Thus far, the poor man told us, his season had been so superlatively bad that his family had been obliged to eat meat! As we were somewhat puzzled by this paradoxical utterance, he hastened to explain that in the absence of guests (and I might add, cold storage facilities) there was nothing to do with the meat on hand but to allow the family to eat it. Judging from his attitude we could imagine the sort of chastened pleasure with which his household must have partaken of this feast which, while undoubtedly ministering to their carnal satisfaction, betokened their financial undoing.

From the pass we made a side excursion to little lake Toma-the source of the Rhone-on our way down to Andermatt, where we inspected, as much as is allowable to foreigners, the splendid fortifications which the Swiss promptly erected on the St. Gothard pass when Italian imperialism threatened to rob them of their Italian-speaking cantons.

The Swiss army is one of the most remarkable of her institutions. It is the ideal toward which the common people of every European country, weighed down with taxes for huge standing armies, turn with longing and hope. The Swiss have a wonderful system of militia which saves millions of money to the taxpayers and years of freedom from military service to the soldiers. Practically all Swiss serve in the militia and reserves. The training thus received would be insufficient were it not preceded and supplemented by military training for boys in school, and rifle practice every year by virtually the entire male population.

In this highly original and economical way little Switzerland, with a population of less than three millions of people, actually has at her beck and call an army of 337,000 of the most martial soldiers in Europe, armed, equipped and ready to take the field at an hour's notice.

Leaving Andermatt we crossed the Furka pass into the Rhone valley and in the course of the summer we walked over a number of passes, the Albula, Brunig, Gemmi, Meiden, Augstburg and Tete Noir, each with its own special variety of Alpine scenery. None of these however, opened up a view that could compare in grandeur of form and mass and mysterious beauty of color and shade with that which stretched out before us as we reached the summit of the Furka and looked westward over miles of glaciers, intertwined with green valleys and surrounded on all sides by chain after chain of snow-covered, cloudcapped mountains in an ocean of sunset glory.

LIFELESS, ENDLESS WINTER

On our walking trips it was interesting to watch the faces of people who passed us in diligences, carriages or automobiles; some as they whirled by looked down upon us with plutocratic scorn, others with indifference or surprise, but those who realized what they were missing must have envied us as we strode along, inhaling great draughts of pure ozone, stopping to rest or read, or eat or sleep, whenever we wished, and always carrying with us the exultant sense of personal, physical triumph over this proud old Alpine

But we were by no means total abstainers from the pleasures of occasional drives, which lent added zest to our tramps. One drive which we took over the Grimsel pass is indelibly impressed on my memory. Having blistered our feet on the trip to the Grimsel Hospice we limped ignominously into the hostelry and requested the proprietor to send us some liniment.

Quick to take advantage of the situation, he inquired whether we would not like a carriage for the rest of the journey to Meiringen.

"It is not much more expensive than the diligence," he explained, "and of course there are many advantages in having one's own private equipage."

The picture he drew of us rolling along in luxury proved so attractive that we at once fell in with his suggestion. When our turnout was announced we descended in state, preceded by the porter, the concierge, the proprietor and the head waiter, all of whom had lent their distinguished services in the matter of the carriage transaction and had been rewarded accordingly.

So great was our consternation on being told that a rickety victoria drawn by a braying mule was our much vaunted "equipage" and so ludicrous was the whole situation that we were too nonplussed to protest. Moreover, the mule was braying so vigorously that any remarks we might have made would have been hopelessly swallowed up in the noisy confusion of our exit. Such a ride as that would be hard to duplicate at any price. The road twisted and writhed along the precipitous side of a deep gorge through which poured a mountain torrent. This gorge was sufficiently awe-inspiring even when contemplated from a safe distance, but our mule had no idea of safe distance. His one thought seemed to be to leap the precipice, while the driver's frantic efforts to frustrate these suicidal and homicidal attempts were badly seconded by a pair of feeble and worn looking reins and a brake, which, at critical moments, refused to work, thus precipitating the carriage upon the already overwrought and almost hysterical mule.

Every time we rounded a corner we held our breath in terror, for turning corners in this vehicle was a painfully precarious performance. When the prancing mule had safely negotiated the turn the crisis was by no means past, since cannon was mightier than all the coward who retreated before he was the carriage wheels were suffering from some swords in creation—if they could not defeated. internal disorder that made them slide and slip, get near enough to use them. > By this time, suffering more from wounded pride than from blistered feet, we mechanically repeated the words of the hotel proprietor:

> "A carriage is not than the diligence are many advantages private equipage."

The last days of summer were now gone, and, according to our original plan our pedestrian tour had come to an end. But when the time came to get into a stuffy train at Meiringen and return to the smoke and bustle of civilization we decided that it was impossible to leave Switzerland without at least one snow mountain to our credit. Accordingly, instead of securing railway tickets we engaged two guides and set off for the Ewigschneehorn, a mountain which is only 11,000 high, but which commands one of the finest panoramas in the high Alps and, in good weather, according to Baedeker, "presents little difficulty to adepts.

Unfortunately, however, by thus starting from a point only 2,000 feet above sea level, we gave the subject advertised and the ability at salary sufficient to enable him to ourselves a climb of 9,000 feet, which is over 2,000 feet more than from the Eggishorn hotel to the top of the Jungfrau.

We slept that night on straw between huge woolen blankets in an Alpine hut built by the Swiss Alpine club for the free use of all passersby. As we were drenched from walking all day in the rain and there was barely enough wood on hand to make tea and heat our canned soup, we were forced next morning at four o'clock to

But when the ice ax suddenly revealed that we were on the brink of a snowcovered crevasse which was a veritable death trap, we realized that our guide's precautions were neither perfunctory nor excessive. A few minutes later an avalanche, carrying tons of snow, ice and boulders, came tearing down about a bank and make you responsible for of the work of the nation will derive five yards to our right, but so stimulated were we his misdeed. Advertising isn't magic. There is no element of the black art about it. In talk, sane talk-selling talk. Its results are in proportion to the merit of with which the advertising is done.

You cannot expect to win the confidence of the community to the same degree that other men have obtained it, without taking pretty much the same length of time that they did. But you can cut short the period between your introduction to your reader and his introduction to your counters, by spending more effort in preparing your copy and displaying a greater amount of convincingness.

Find Remains of Aged Woman Surrounded by Pets.

Family of Felines Attack Police When Attempt Is Made to Remove Corpse-Father Was at One Time Cashier of a Bank.

Philadelphia.—The body of an aged woman, attired in a dirt-stained wrapper, lying within a circle of cats, was found by two special policemen when they entered an unkempt, dust-covered front room at 640 North Sixteenth street in answer to an anonymous telephone call. The cats were the only living beings in the house, and the policemen were forced to battle with them before they could move the body of the dead woman. Investigation showed that she was Miss Sarah Lippincott Starr, seventy years old, who, with her sister, Victoria, and a horde of cats, had occupied the house for the last 12 years. Shortly after midnight Miss Victoria Starr, who is sixty-eight years old, came upon her sister lying at full length near the cellar door on the first floor. She did not disturb her for several hours because she thought she was sleeping.

Later when she knew her sister to be dead, she notified her nephew, whose name, she says, is Walter Jordan. He called the policemen of the Twentieth and Buttonwood station. Miss Victoria was out when the policemen called. Police Surgeon John H. Egan found that the left arm was discolored and swollen from an infected scratch on the hand. Miss Victoria then returned and explained that her sister had pricked herself three days before with a needle but had refused to have medi-

REVELATION WAS TOO MUCH

Picture of "Hollering Jones" at Favorite Diversion Caused Him to Reform.

A well-known illustrator, who makes Interesting western pictures, once made the acquaintance of a noisy but good-humored cowboy who rejoiced in the appellation of "Hollering Jones."

In physical appearance this man was typical of his kind, and the artist made several studies of him, both in repose and in his favorite diversion of "hollering." Some of the studies were sold by the artist to an eastern magazine. They showed Jones in his most violent state.

A year later the artist again visited the region. He was soon approached by Mr. Jones himself, bearing one of the pictures, which he had torn from the magazine in which it was printed. Pointing to it, he asked: "Is that me?"

"Well," replied the artist, evasively, "I got the general idea from you, of course, but-"

"Oh, I ain't takin' no offense," Jones made haste to say. "It's all right; only if it's me, say so."

"If you put it to me that way," said the artist, "I can only reply that it is a fairly good portrait of you."

"The men here on the ranch agree with you. So I look like that when I holler, do I?"

"I think you do."

"In that case," said Hollering Jones, 'all I've got to say is that Hollering female ills. Jones has hollered his last holler. Hereafter, when I celebrates, I does so with a tin horn. In my own opinion, no man has a right to look like that-not round white folks, anyhow." -Youth's Companion.

Sunday's game was very exiting. The two Svenska Pojkes, Ecklund for the locals and Swanson for visitors, were on the mound.

Swanson lasted for four and 3/2 innings, but had to be relieved by Mahoney who fared little better. Ecklund lasted eight and 1/3 innings but had to be hoisted after he walked two in succession. Considerable argument was caused by Ishpeming trying to put Swanson back in the game after having been taken out and Mahoney warmed up.

In the ninth the visitors tied when Adamson struck out and Mahony drew a pass and reached second on a wild pitch. Emblom drew a base on balls. "Rescue Monte" then took the mound and Foley popped to Villani, but Mack got a hit, scoring Emblom. Geelan then forced Mack at second, amid the cheers of the fans, for Gladstone had taken four of the last five games played with Ishpeming.

BRUSSELS DISPATCH ADMITS DE-FEAT OF BELGIAN FORCES BY PRUSSIANS.

FORTS REMAIN INTACT

Semi-Official Statement From Berlin Says Quarter of Belgian Army Defended Liege-Losses Not Given.

Brussels, Aug. 10.-Gen. Von Emmich of the German army entered Liege city during the night of Friday. On Saturday the surrounding forts still held out. The entry of the town was effected in the interval of the forts of Evignee and Fleron by 10,000 troops of the various arms.

Gen. von Emmich immediately is sued a proclamation declaring that civilians had fired on the soldiers and that should the offense be repeated the city would be bombarded by the artillery stationed in the citadel. Dispatches received here on Sunday from various sources agree on the fact that the armies are being massed along the Swiss frontier for a decisive contest, and color is added to these reports by a dispatch that Emperor William has left Berlin in a motor car for the southwestern frontier, personally to command his troops in person.

BREAK OFF RELATIONS

TRIES ARE GIVEN PASSPORTS

Declaration of War Hastened by Mobilization of Austrian Troops on Swiss Border.

Paris, Aug. 10.-France and Austria finally are officially at war, the ambassadors having left the respective capitals. The French government broke off diplomatic relations with Austria on the grounds that Austrian troops were reinforcing the Germans.

The declaration of war had been expected for the last three days, but France was determined that she would not act until something definite had taken place on which a declaration could be based. This was in order to prevent Italy being forced into the conflict as an ally of Austria.

France Feared Attack. When the announcement was re ceived that Austrian troops, under the grand duke of Tuscany, had crossed Lake Constance and were at Basel, on the Swiss border, prepared to attack the French forces operating in Alsace. a peremptory demand that Austria declare her position was made. The Austrian ambassador was sent for and was given until Monday night to get a definition of the Austrian position. This was not done, so the foreign office handed the ambassador his passports and war was immediately de-

At the same instant the French ambassador at Vienna applied to his Austrian foreign office for his passports They were immediately handed him and he left for the frontier at once.

Initiative Taken By France. There was much speculation here Monday night over the effect this declaration will have on Italy's position. Under the terms of her treaty with Austria and Germany, she is bound to come to their aid when they are attacked. However, in the case of England and Germany, where there was a dual declaration, the Italian government took the position that England was not the aggressor.

In the present instance France act. ed, taking the initiative, but only after she had raised the point that her frontier was attacked by Austrian troops. Should Italy accept this position she can continue her plan of neutrality refuse to be drawn into the war Joins With Germany.

The Austrian ambassador, Count

Szecsen von Temerin, left Paris Mon day night. Austria appears to have abandoned the advance on Servia for a time and apparently is co-operating with Germany in the supposed strategy of attempting to crush France before Russia can mobilize.

During all his lifetime I never received any mark of tenderness from him whatever.

He was not fond of kissing children, and when he did so in saying good morning or good night, he did it merely as a duty.

It is therefore easy to understand that he did not provoke any display of tenderness toward himself, and that nearness and dearness with him were never accompanied by any outward manifestations.

It would never have come into my head, for instance, to walk up to my father and kiss him or to stroke his hand. I was partly prevented also from that by the fact that I always looked upon him with awe, and his spiritual power, his greatness, prevented me from seeing in him the mere man-the man who was so plaintive and weary at times, the feeble old man who so much needed warmth and rest.

Was a Southerner by Birth.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was born in Savannah, Ga., the daughter of Rev. Samuel Edward and Mrs. Margaret Jane Axson. Her maiden name was Ellen Louise Axson. She was educated by her parents and was graduated from Shorter college in Rome, Ga. Her father was the pastor of the Presbyterian church in Rome.

"Every farmer, however small his the United States department of agriculture. Perhaps two-thirds of the settled portion of the country is more or less adapted to the production of apples. The apple is pre-eminently useful in the household economy and as a culinary fruit, none excels it. It graces the table in a greater variety of forms than any other and as a dessert fruit, few are its equal and none its superiors. Its juice, when extracted, makes an excellent, wholesome beverage and for vinegar it has handle and usually finds a ready sale if well grown and handled with care.

Among the many ways in which the apple is used, the manufacture of jellies and preserves is one of growing importance. The numerous factories for the manufacture of these goods have not only created a demand for second and third grade apples, but also for by-products resulting from drying and evaporating the fruit.

Apple butter of the real, rich, oldtime farm variety fills an important place in the household economy and always finds a ready sale at good prices. # TIME TO CUT SWEET CLOVER Much Depends on Whether Crop Is in First or Second Year-Avoid Coarse and Woolly Stems.

The time to cut sweet clover for hay will depend largely upon whether the crop is in its first or second year of growth. Generally speaking, only one crop can be obtained the first. year, and this should not be cut until the crown sprouts begin to show. This cutting may be close, as the plant will have sufficient time to obtain a certain amount of growth ere the cold weather arrives and thus be able to withstand the winter.

During the second year of growth two or three crops of hay may be obtained if the proper precautions are exercised. The first cutting should be made just previous to the time that the plant begins to bloom and should be done so as to leave a few branches and leaves on each plant. If cut close at this time the majority of the cut plants will be killed. The second cutting should be done in exactly the same manner as the first, while the third and last cutting may be made close to the ground.

It is somewhat difficult to say just when the second and third cuttings should be made, owing to the variation in the plant growth, but as a rule the crop should be cut sufficiently early in order to avoid coarse and woody stems.

HEAVY, SHORT ROAD ROLLER

Useful Improvement May Be Constructed by Using Worn-Out Mowing Machine and Concrete.

Perhaps you have a grader of some sort and road drags, but you need a heavy short roller. They cost too much to buy, so make one this way. Procure an old worn-out mowing machine, any make, writes W. A. Dillon in Farmers' Mail and Breeze. Take off or break off all the parts that stick out past the wheels. Smooth off a bit of hard ground; now dig a small sole just large enough for the hub. Set the machine up on one end, put a jacket of galvanized sheet iron around the wheels, secure it at short intervals with small stove bolts and make it fit neat and straight. Now fill the jacket with the best fine concrete. Tamp it well and allow it to stand until the concrete is well set. Remove the jacket; keep the roller shaded and spray it for eight or ten days.

Have the blacksmith put an iron frame on this roller. Heavy tire iron will do, using the hubs for spindles. When a strong tongue is added you will have as good a roller as anybody; one that will last a life time and will cost but little. Save the jacket to make more rollers with.

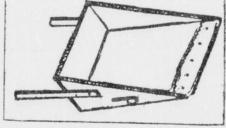

When your road is graded run the roller down the center, instead of on the sides, as now. Take two disk harrows the same number of disks and if possible the same kind. Turn the disk on the harrows so they will throw the dirt toward each other when placed side by side. Now set them close together side by side in the middle of the road to be worked. Take a light log chain and fasten the harrows together. Put a team on each harrow and drive down the road to be worked. Turn around; let out the chain a couple of feet; go back. Repeat the operation a number of times. You would be surprised how much dirt the disk harrow will cut up. and how much it will move toward the center. Finish with drag or grader. Then roll the center and you will have a good road at small cost.

We have organized a country club here and given each member a piece of road to drag, near his home. We elected a drag boss so when it is just right to drag the boss calls all the members and in about two hours we have all the roads in the district dragged. We have had very bad weather ever since organizing, but the plan appears to work well.

ROAD SCRAPER EASILY MAD

Two-Inch Planking, Securely Bolted Together, Will Furnish Most Useful Farm Implement.

There are many jobs upon the highways and farms that require a few hours' use of a scraper, yet are not important enough to require the purchase of one. The scraper shown in illustration may be constructed of twoinch thick planking, securely bolted together, and also re-enforced with angle frons, to make the joints more secure against the strain. The blade or cutting surface is made of an old saw blade, bolted to the box as shown in illustration. The horses are attached by a chain fastened to two iron hooks, one upon each side of the scraper. With two handles it is complete and ready to save many times its cost in small filling jobs.

EVERY FARMER SHOULD HELP

Every Day's Work Makes Roads Bet. ter if Done Intelligently-Merchants Aid In Work.

No man who farms should begrudge the time he spends in grading, dragging and ditching the highways. He must use them twelve months in the year. Every day's work makes them a little better if the work is done intelligently. In many localities the merchants have aided in the work of road betterment, and it seems ridiculous that their efforts should be distrusted by the farmers. Good roads associations in every county will eventually increase the value of all farming land.

Selection of Cows.

Extreme care is necessary in selecting cows, for no amount of skill in feeding and handling will stimulate a profit from a truly poor cow. A good dairy cow is one with a large capacity for using food above the maintenance requirement and one that uses this food for milk production. In determining the most desirable breed. one must consult his own likes and dislikes first. The man who likes a Holstein cow and dislikes a Jersey will be more successful with the for-

Cloves after taking a drink? It's a bad practice; the oil of cloves is a good remedy in certain cases, but the Right way is to step into my place, which is conspicuous on Delta, and ask for some of my best liquors-any kind you choose. Then you turn your wrist one hundred and eighty degrees. That's all-except to requite your Host.

FREDERICK C. MARTINDALE

CANDIDATE FOR THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR

MR. MARTINDALE AS A VOTE-GETTER.

Mr. Martindale's popularity and vote getting qualities are shown by the results of the last two general elections, 1910 and 1912.

In the election of 1910 running on the same ticket, Osborn received a majority of 43,033, Martindale 88,824, and Ross 82,606; Mr. Martindale's being 45,681 more than that of Mr. Osborn.

In Wayne, his own County, his majority was 5,000 greater than that from Caro, Mich, this week to be the of Osborn, and in Chippewa County, Osborn's home, he lacked but 273 votes of getting as many as did Mr. Osborn.

In 1912 Mr. Martindale's plurality over his democratic opponent was is known to all in Gladstone. 55,000 more than Musselman's, and 10,000 more than that of Ross.

In Wayne County, Mr. Martindale's home County, his plurality was 14,000 greater than Musselman's and in Kent County, Musselman's home, it was 2,208 more tlan Musselman's

This proves Mr. Martindale to be a remarkable vote getter.

His nomination for Governor at the Primaries would assure the election of the entire state, district, and county tickets.

NEXT WEEK MR. MARTINDALE WILL WRITE A SHORT. PLAIN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF MICHIGAN.

At its meeting last Saturday evening the vater board passed a resolution requesting the council to lower the minimum meter rate to 80 cents a month. A great many small consumers, with few lights, are now being placed on the meter service. The water board, instead of giving a discount for cash, desires to impose a penalty for non-payment of lighting promptly.

BOSTON BEAUTY SPECIALIST TO VISIT GLADSTONE

Mrs. V. Cameron Looks Forward to Large Crowds During Her Week's Stay at The Rexall Store

Will Give Number of Free Facial Massages and Personal Advice in Your Home by Appointment

An opportunity which is sure to prove as beneficial as it is rare will be afforded the women of Gladstone and vicinity when Mrs. Cameron, the much talked of Beauty Specialist, now touring Illinois as representative of the United Drug Company of Boston,—creators of the many Harmony Beauty Requisites and equally well known toilet preparation, starts her public demonstrations for the week commencing Monday. Aug. 17, as the guest of J. A. Stewart of the Rexall Store and Harmony Toilet Products in Gladstone.

Mrs. Cameron contends that it is the privilege of every woman to take advantage of anything that will tend to lend a touch of added beauty to the skin; but, says Mrs. Cameron 'extreme care should be exercised to choose only such préparations that really do help nature in the beautifying of your complexon.

"Of course no one will question the assertion that the woman with the clean well-preserved skin is a much admired person anywhere," and, she continues, "If the woman of today would only take the care to treat the skin to the benefits of a good massage that she takes in reading the household section of the paper, we would see fewer wrinkles, and more, yes, a great many more women young at fifty."

We have no doubt of Mrs. Cameron's ability to offer the women of Gladstone some very valuable advice. Mr. Stewart tells us that he has a real beauty treat in store for the women of Gladstone, so you'd better get ready for Mrs. Cameron's arrival, ladies.

Mrs. Cameron does not canvass the city or do any demonstrating, only those who make arrangements with Mr. Stewart or with herself after she is here, if you wish to learn the secret of beauty make arrangements with Mr. Stewart by phone or in person and Mrs. Cameron will be with you on date and hour you select.

All kinds in profuse abundance.
