'Little Jack' Romps About At Fun Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I got little Jack right on the button," boasted Kelly Green, weigher of people. "Thirty-three pounds exactly."

"Little Jack" is John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr., 2 1/2-year-old son of the President.

The scarlet-clad youngster playfully romped Tuesday through the amusement park in suburban Glen Echo, Md., with his sister, Caroline, 5, and his cousin, Steve Smith, 3.

Jackie Doesn't Romp — Young John's mother, Jacqueline, 34, also was there. Expecting a baby in August, she did not romp. But she did walk through the mirror-maze.

Little John fired a water pistol into a hole, aided by his mother. He fired a real rifle at a metal duck, aided by a Secret Service man. He hit it.

Green, who has been guessing weights at Glen Echo for a dozen years, overshot Caroline by two pounds when he guessed 56. And he guessed 54-pound Steve Smith weighed 55. Then he turned to the First Lady.

"You're next," Kelly Green said. "Oh, no," Jacqueline Kennedy said.

Park officials had had no warning of the Kennedys' visit. One official said Caroline had made the trip once before, but not with her mother. He said Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his children are frequent visitors to Glen Echo.

NASA Locks Door On Project Mercury, But Keeps Key Handy

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. space officials have locked the door against any more Project Mercury space flights—but have left the key handy just in case.

NASA Chief James E. Webb said officials plan to take "a good hard look" at the data from Gordon Cooper's 22-orbit flight before he final decision is made.

"Unless we find a gap in the information—this will be the last shot," he said.

The next space project is Gemini—two-man flights.

Wheat Control Plan Rejected In Referendum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat growers have sounded a loud "no" to President Kennedy's program of stricter controls on their crops, raising a cloud of confusion over the nation's farmland.

The administration's program, which needed two-thirds of the vote in Tuesday's referendum, failed even to muster a majority, getting only 47.8 per cent of the 1.14 million votes cast.

But farmers who rejected the program of high price supports and tight controls on production in hopes Congress would write new legislation this year got a jolt from the reaction of the administration.

Tuesday's referendum means an alternative program of low price supports for those who voluntarily cut production—but none for those who reject any acreage controls — will govern the 1964 wheat crop.

Administration spokesmen, from Kennedy on down, made it clear they plan to hold the farmers to their choice.

Kennedy said the administration accepts the judgment of the wheat farmers, who "voted for the right to produce whatever they desire in 1964, for whatever the market will pay, rather than for higher prices and limited production."

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who before the vote said defeat of the administration plan would be "chaotic," said flatly today the alternative provided by the referendum "will be in effect for the 1964 wheat crop."

"The point of view which prevailed in the referendum is entitled to a full and fair trial," he said.

And Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he would do all in his power to prevent any further wheat legislation this session.

"Democracy has spoken and the wheat farmers have voted themselves out of a program," Ellender said. "I wish them well."

The administration stand promised to put heavy pressures on Congress. Many Republicans have new programs drafted and plan to introduce them at once.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which played a leading role in piling up the heavy "no" vote, hailed the results of the election as "a bright day for agriculture."

"The way now is open for the Congress to solve the wheat surplus problem on a basis consistent with the maintenance of the market system," Shuman said.

The administration had thrown its prestige behind its program and suffered a stinging defeat. Complete returns gave 547,151 votes for the plan and 597,776 against it.

11 Persons Indicted By Grand Jury

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A federal grand jury has so far indicted 11 persons—four of them Tuesday—on charges of attempting to tamper with a jury in the 1962 James R. Hoffa conspiracy trial here.

The jury was placed on standby call after Justice Department attorneys told the court "the government may have additional matters to present."

Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, and six others were named here May 9 in similar indictments stemming from a four-month investigation ordered by U. S. District Judge William Miller at the conclusion of Hoffa's trial.

The Teamster president was accused of conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act, but the nine-week trial ended Dec. 23 when the jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Reds Evade Demands For Return Of Yanks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — Communist North Korea evaded again today demands for the return of two American helicopter pilots forced down Friday in Communist territory.

The North Korean delegate to a special Armistice Commission meeting refused to disclose the condition of the pilots, refused to discuss the case and instead demanded a U.N. pledge against what he called another "deliberate act of aggression."

Doctors Order Pope To Curtail Activities

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, reported suffering from a new and severe setback in the illness that felled him last fall, curtailed his activities today on doctor's orders.

The 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff canceled his regular weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica on short notice. However, he appeared at his apartment window to bless a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square below.

Wallace Defies Federal Order

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, trusting state sovereignty into the path of federal authority, has set out to block court-ordered desegregation of the University of Alabama.

The youthful Alabama governor laid his constitutional authority on the line Tuesday after the university board of trustees had agreed to admit two Negroes and U.S. Dist. Judge H. Hobart Grooms refused to delay the June 10 enrollment.

"I embody the sovereignty of this state," declared Wallace, a veteran of battles with the federal government, "and I will be present to bar the entrance of any Negro who seeks to enroll at the university."

Thus, Wallace embarked upon the same course followed last fall by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi who barred Negro James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi. Meredith later enrolled behind federal forces.

Attorney Gen. Richmond Flowers, a political foe of Wallace, warned defiance of federal court orders may lead to violence. He said those who defy such orders may be to blame if federal troops are used in Alabama as they were in Mississippi.

Warning — The Illinois State Journal today published this letter to the editor on its front page: "Today I received in the mail my personal property tax in the amount of $39.16. I am only 15 years old and do not even own a bicycle. I am waiting to pay it because I want to see what my sister's will be. She is four years old. She owns a tricycle." — Carol Antonaci, Springfield, Ill.

Governor 'Sells' Michigan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney, defending state's rights, said today that states are more than just political subdivisions of an all-powerful federal government.

In a speech to the National Press Club, Romney said there still is a "vital and progressive role for states to play in our constitutional structure."

But, he added: "Too many people, it seems, are for state's rights because they want to keep things from happening. They are afraid or opposed to change. They want to make states into roadblocks on the path to progress."

Only Purpose — Romney said: "I came here today to sell Michigan, and I hope that while I succeed in that, I also will succeed in convincing you that that is my only purpose."

Romney has repeatedly declared he is not and will not be a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, but he has not flatly ruled out a draft.

NATO Allies Defy Russian Warnings On N-Strike Force

OTTAWA (AP) — The 15 Atlantic allies defied Soviet warnings today and prepared to form an inter-allied nuclear strike force.

The nuclear force was the main business before the foreign and defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at their annual three-day spring meeting opening today in Canada's House of Commons.

The ministers were resolved to make the nuclear move without fuss or fanfare, as if it were a normal military regrouping operation. The object was to get around the opposition of French President Charles de Gaulle to a specifically designated NATO nuclear force, which he views as a way of consolidating U.S. power in Europe. De Gaulle has made plain he wants France to lead the West European allies.

A delicately negotiated arrangement provides that the force will come into being by endorsement of certain decisions by NATO member countries.

These decisions include: 1. Assignment of three U.S. nuclear submarines armed with Polaris missiles to Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe.

2. Allocation of Britain's 180-plane V-bomber force with hydrogen bombs to Lemnitzer.

3. Arrangements for the buildup of a nuclear planning and targeting staff under Lemnitzer.

New Yorkers Cheer 'Gordo'

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of New Yorkers cheered astronaut Gordon Cooper today along Broadway in a tumultuous ticker tape parade — the city's salute to national heroes.

A maestro of tape, confetti and torn paper swirled from skyscrapers in the city's tribute to the smiling Air Force major who last week orbited the earth 22 times.

The crowd along Lower Broadway alone was estimated unofficially at two million — with miles more of the city still to be traveled en route to a civic luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The cheering sometimes seemed to verge on the point of hysteria. "Canyon Of Heroes" — Crowds jammed the sidewalks of the "Canyon of Heroes" and workers leaned from office windows, shouting their acclaim.

A crowd swarmed around Cooper's open car at the very start of the parade from Bowling Green to City Hall.

Even before the 29-year-old major reached Bowling Green, the official starting point, the crowds along the streets were in a lull. Police had difficulty clearing the way.

The slim spaceman sat in the rear of the car, smiling and waving as the police struggled with the throngs.

Dozens of persons broke through the police lines, shouting, "Hello, Coop," "Wonderful job, Coop," and "Go, go, Gordon."

"This is wonderful, exciting!" he was heard to remark. "This is great stuff!"

About 2,000 guests have been invited by the city to a luncheon honoring the 35-year-old Air Force major, who blasted off to fame last week with his 22-orbit space flight.

Cooper concluded his eight-minute address to the joint meeting of the Senate and House Tuesday with a prayer he composed on his 17th orbit, spanning high over the Indian Ocean, and recited into a tape recorder.

It was a prayer of thanks for "all these startling and wonderful things that You have created," and a prayer for help "that we may shape our lives to be much better Christians" and "that we may show the world that a democracy really can compete and still is able to do things in a big way."

Cooper's first stop was at the White House, where Kennedy pinned on his lapel the Distinguished Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NATO Allies Defy Russian Warnings On N-Strike Force

Other units that probably will be assigned include two French bomber squadrons assigned to NATO in West Germany. The United States is equipping them with nuclear weapons.

The Soviets blasted the nuclear force plan in a note to the United States Tuesday. They charged that by stationing the three U.S. Polaris submarines in the Mediterranean, "the NATO headquarters are working to convert the Mediterranean into a lair of carriers of nuclear death, another region of dangerous rivalry and conflicts."

Mixed-Manned Force — An American project, would consist of a fleet of surface ships, carrying about 200 Polaris rockets, collectively owned by the nations subscribing to it and manned by mixed crews of the various nationalities.

Most NATO allies still are cool to the mixed-manned force.

Chamber Division Honors Top Prep Students In Marquette

Outstanding senior students in Marquette's two high schools were honored by the chamber of commerce's professional division at the first annual academic excellence dinner meeting.

At the event, held in the Northern Michigan University Student Center, each of the 25 students attending was presented with an academic excellence award "in recognition of achievement of scholastic standing in the top 10 percent of the 1963 graduating classes."

Presentations were made by Dr. Fred C. Sabin, division chairman. John L. Farley, Marquette, district commercial superintendent for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., addressed the students on the "World of the Day After Tomorrow," describing the rapid advances made in recent years and how fantastic the years ahead will be, by today's standards.

School Heads Guests

Among the guests were the Rev. Charles J. Carmody, superintendent of Bishop Baraga Central High School, and Paul M. Kotila, principal of Graveraet High school.

John E. McDonald served as toastmaster.

Members of the professional division assisting Dr. Sabin were Dr. Leo Beldo, Dr. R. Leonard Carefoot and Jack McCracken.

To Be Annual Event

Enthusiasm with the success of the program, Dr. Sabin announced that his committee had decided to make the program an annual event. This week was chosen as the period for the dinner because of the observance of Michigan Week.

Sponsoring the dinner were the various members of the professional division of the chamber.

Entertainment was provided by Carl Nelson, folk singer with the Marquette County United Service Organizations (USO).

10 Volunteers To Observe Recount Here

Fred C. Sabin, Marquette, volunteer county recount chairman for the Coordinating Committee for the New Constitution, today was completing the recruiting of watchers and legal advisors to assist with the vote recount, which is slated tomorrow in Marquette County.

Sabin was instructed in recount procedures during a special training session held recently in Marquette. Others working with Sabin, who also attended, are Kenneth W. Brenner, John E. McDonald and Robert M. Ling, Marquette; Lavonne Lindroos and Walter L. Hansen, Ishpeming; Richard G. Haight, Negaunee Township; Frank Moody, National Mine; Howard B. Lehto and Francis Dompierre, Negaunee.

The non-partisan Coordinating Committee for the New Constitution (CCNC), an alliance of 20 citizen groups which support the new document, is defending the April 1 "yes" vote, which won by a majority of 7,829.

Assisted by Romney Volunteers and the Republican Party, CCNC has called for a recount of 103 precincts in the 77 counties originally petitioned to be recounted by opponents of the new document.

Sabin said he volunteered to assist with the recount "because I firmly believe the interests of the majority of voters who approved the new constitution on April 1 must be protected."

'Doomed To Failure'

He and other area volunteers who attended the recent recount training session were told by William L. Takala, 28, Watton, was bound over to the July term of Marquette County Circuit Court yesterday, after he waived preliminary examination in city court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in a motor vehicle.

He was arrested by Marquette police May 17 in the Washington St. alley for having a loaded five-shot .38-caliber revolver in his car, which police had checked for another reason.

NMU Forensic Teams Logged 3,680 Miles On Five Meets; Awarded 33 Of 69 Decisions

Northern Michigan University's forensic teams traveled more than 8,000 miles and competed in nine tournaments with 90 colleges and universities during the 1962-63 academic year — more than double last year's activities — according to John Monsma, assistant professor of speech and director of forensics.

Last year, Northern logged 3,680 miles while competing in five tournaments with 44 colleges and universities.

Highlights of the forensic season included the initiation of the NMU chapter into Pi Kappa Delta, the nation's largest forensic honorary; an increase in the number of Northern students participating in forensics; an increase in the number of debates, discussions and oratories entered; and the additional development of forensic contacts with institutions of higher learning in other areas.

Northern's debaters won 33 of 69 decisions debating the topic: "Resolved: That the Non-Communist Nations of the World Should Establish an Economic Community." Five rounds were non-decision.

19-7 Record

NMU's novice debaters, with a 19-7 record, captured second places at Indiana State College and at Iowa State University. The varsity women's team received a rating of "good" at the Pi Kappa Delta Tournament held at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, and received an award of "excellent" at the Yearling Tournament sponsored by the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee.

Rosemarie LaRoche, Calumet sophomore and a 1961 graduate of Negaunee St. Paul's, received a speaking award, placing third among more than a hundred entrants at the Yearling Tournament.

In National Contest

Five members of NMU's discussion team entered a taped recording in the national contest on the topic: "What Should be the Role of the Federal Government in Regulating the Economy."

CCNC officials that the efforts by opponents of the new constitution "to upset the decision of the majority of Michigan voters is doomed to failure, and more importantly, it results in needless expense to the state and possible delay in implementing the document."

CCNC officials explained that "in addition to the $5 the petitioner must pay for each precinct recounted, it will cost state and local taxpayers at least nine times that figure — or over $100,000."

While the actual recounting of ballots is being handled by persons hired by the county boards of canvassers, Sabin said, volunteer watchers are observing in each county to make sure (1) the vote is called correctly; (2) paper ballots are properly marked; (3) ballot boxes are padlocked and sealed correctly; (4) ballots are packaged in the prescribed way; (5) machine totals are tabulated properly and (6) absentee ballots are handled according to election laws.

Chamber Praises St. Luke's On Development Program

Directors of the Marquette Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning adopted a resolution commending St. Luke's Hospital for its service to the community, and for its program of improvement and development recently announced.

The resolution also urged the citizens of Marquette to support the hospital when it announces a public subscription for a portion of the program.

It is understood that the proposed $1,000,000 program will be financed in three ways: from existing funds, from federal funds and by public subscription.

It is the dedicated ideal of service, such as expressed by both hospitals of the community, that makes Marquette a medical center," said Harlan Larson, Chamber president.

In Out-Patient Field
The proposed improvement at St. Luke's will provide for a general rehabilitation of existing facilities with emphasis on out-patient accommodations, such as expanded laboratory and clinic services, expanded intensive care service.

It is generally agreed that the hospitals of the area have adequate bed accommodations for immediate patient care, but out-patient services have been proportionately inadequate.

It is in this field that the St. Luke's program would make its greatest strides.

"We certainly feel that the developments at both hospitals, as proposed this year, will go a long way toward developing a full hospital service for all types of care," added Larson, "and the directors are happy to give their official approval to this latest St. Luke's project."

"The projects at St. Luke's and St. Mary's will stand the community in good stead in the years to come, will give Marquette residents a complete service which can be extended to cover the needs of people through out the central Upper Peninsula."

Marquette Girl Practice Teaching At Paw Paw

Several hundred senior teacher education students at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo are "trying their wings" in the classroom this spring, as they engage in their practice teaching work.

Among these practice teaching is Harriet Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Peterson, 1314 Presque Isle Ave., Marquette. Currently teaching first grade at Paw Paw, Miss Peterson graduated from John D. Pierce High School in 1959.

Dr. A. L. Sebaly, director of student teaching, says that prospective teachers are scattered throughout Southwestern Michigan, learning the practical side of classroom teaching from experienced teachers. At the same time, they are also going to school and in group situations are examining the problems which they have encountered.

Most of the students will complete their academic studies this spring and will be ready for state certification as teachers and will enter the ranks of classroom teachers in the fall.

'Instant Registration' For Boat Owners

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare reports that 11 civil service offices and some fee offices are offering "instant registration" help to owners of motorboats. He said the special service would eliminate the usual 8-10 day wait for applications to clear through Lansing.

NMU Student Workshop Set Tomorrow

Foundation Walls Going Up For New Senior High School Here

Crews are shown putting in foundation walls for the Marquette Senior High School, being constructed west of Lincoln Ave., between W. College Ave. (extended) and W. Fair Ave. Contract for general construction is held by Caspian Construction Co., Caspian. Total of the three main construction contracts is $2,266,156 for the 1,500 student building. Parents have been warned by school officials not to let their children play in the construction area. — (Joe Sullivan photo.)

Weather Marks Here Leave Populace Cold

The weather set a few new records in Marquette in the past day or so, but they were not the kind calculated to set the populace jumping with joy. As a matter of fact, both the snowfall (latest measurable fall in 16 years) and the frigid 28-degree reading posted early this morning (a new low for the day and unique for most days this late in the season) left Marquette area residents cold — literally and figuratively. Not much improvement lies ahead, with temperatures in the next five days expected to average 10 to 14 degrees below the normal high of 62 and the normal low, 43. However, the snow was predicted diminishing from flurries to nothing. Reporting from the local office of the U.S. Weather Bureau, Meteorologist Fred Mueller said the mercury hit 28 at 4:30 this morning exceeding by four degrees the day's previous low of 32, set in 1931. May 21 Low Equalled He also noted that the last 23-

30, while the outlook for Friday is for partly cloudy and mild, with a chance of showers. Mueller said precipitation in the next five days will total a quarter inch or less, mostly occurring in scattered showers about Friday.

Driver Hurt In Smashup On Road 550

A motorist was injured and his car was wrecked in a smashup at 1:15 this morning on County Road 550, about seven miles north of County Road KE, in Powell Township. State police said Charles Draver, 61, Big Bay, was driving north on Road 550 and apparently was traveling too fast to make a left curve. His vehicle went off the right side of the highway and smashed into a tree. Draver suffered lacerations on both knees, a fracture of his right kneecap and lacerations on his nose and face. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital here. Extensive damage occurred to the front end and both sides of Draver's automobile, a 1958 coach, which had to be hauled from the scene by a wrecker. State police kept the accident open for investigation as they were unable to question the driver.

Sidewalk Circus Day Here Slated July 31 This Year

Sidewalk Circus Day in Marquette this year will be Wednesday, July 31. L. W. Westphal, chairman for the event, announced today. Westphal, who is manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store here, said 59 merchants — all members of the Marquette Chamber of Commerce Retail Division — plan to participate in the annual summer event. They laid the ground work for the project at a committee meeting yesterday morning in the chamber building and will meet again on Tuesday, June 11, to consider progress and continue preparations. According to Westphal, the 1963 Sidewalk Circus will be "the biggest single day sales promotion the city has ever had." He noted also that K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base personnel will be feted during the event.

Seven Forest Fires In U.P. During Week

Seven forest fires burned 12.4 acres of land in the Upper Peninsula state protection area during the past week. This increases to 206 the number of acres blackened in the U. P. to date this year, according to John A. Anguim, Marquette, assistant regional supervisor of the Michigan Conservation Department's field administration division. Only 100 Last Year Last year at this time there had been only 100 blazes, burning 361.7 acres of land.

Four of the blazes during the week burned 9.2 acres of land in this (the 3rd) district, comprised of Marquette and Delta Counties and the west half of Alger County. For the year to date the district has had 69 blazes, burning 202.6 acres of land. One fire burned 1 of an acre in the Baraga District (comprised of Baraga, Gogebic, Houghton, Keweenaw and Ontonagon Counties). To date, the district has had 69 fires, burning 120.8 acres. One In Crystal District One fire burned a half acre in the Crystal Falls District (Iron, Dickinson and Menominee Counties). The district has had 49 fires, burning 576.8 acres this year. One fire was reported, burning 2.6 acres, in the Newberry District (Luce, Mackinac, Schoolcraft and Chippewa Counties and the east half of Alger County). The district has had 27 fires, burning 149.0 acres this year.

for the project at a committee meeting yesterday morning in the chamber building and will meet again on Tuesday, June 11, to consider progress and continue preparations.

According to Westphal, the 1963 Sidewalk Circus will be "the biggest single day sales promotion the city has ever had." He noted also that K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base personnel will be feted during the event.

Chairmen Listed "We are starting our planning early," Westphal said, "to stimulate promotion of the program, and we hope to solicit help from city recreation and parks department personnel, in order to facilitate some of the numerous activities slated in connection with the event."

Committee heads named for Sidewalk Circus Day and their divisions include Ken Goldsworthy, Getz's, publicity; Bob Wright, Montgomery Ward, stunts and parades; Len Aschom, Woolworth, traffic; Jim Luke, Mining Journal, advertising promotion; Pat Bennett, Northern Stationers, prizes.

Pioneer Rd. Work, Landfill To Be Done 'Soon As Possible'

Work on the improvement of Pioneer Rd., which leads to the city dump, and on the sanitary landfill program "will begin as soon as possible."

So the Marquette City Commission promised this week, when a communication concerning these subjects was taken up.

Eleven residents of Pioneer Rd. said they noticed no provision in the proposed budget for the start of the landfill program at the city dump or for the improvement of Pioneer Rd.

Called 'Fire Hazard'

"Are these projects to be tabled indefinitely?" they asked. "Each year we are given vague assurances that something will surely be done the following year and each year the situation worsens."

"While we, in this area, are perhaps more cognizant of the problem, especially the fire hazard, it still is a situation which affects the entire city."

"Nearly every home owner in Marquette has need to visit the city dump periodically. Each one has to travel over Pioneer Rd., which is an obstacle course."

"We know that you are trying to balance the budget, something we find very commendable. We merely want to keep these matters before an interested public, and we also wish to remind everyone that it is everyone's problem."

The petitioners also commended the commission on being "one of the best city administrations that we have ever had."

City Manager Thomas Moore said a lot of patching has to be done on Pioneer Rd. and Public Works Superintendent Howard L. Coppens said the road needs rebuilding, and that if the city this year can possibly do it — particularly in the swamp area, or the lowest stretch — it will be done.

Much depends on the entire construction program, it was added.

Mayor C. Fred Rydholm said it would be nice to think that the landfill program would be done this year, and that the city would, if it could find the finances to undertake it, but that at least the program "will be done as soon as possible."

Rogers House To Rise Again At Old Fort Michilimackinac

Like the Egyptian phoenix which arose from its own ashes, a building will spring from the Michigan earth this summer, created from the history which it helped to write.

From the dark-rimmed stains in the sand and clay that marked its original foundation, the commanding officer's quarters within the palisaded confines of Fort Michilimackinac at Mackinaw City will be meticulously reconstructed, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Evidence Of Three Structures

During archeological studies and sittings at the fort over the past few years, evidence has been uncovered which points to the existence of three structures in the immediate area between the period of 1715 and 1780.

Dr. Eugene T. Petersen, director of historic projects for the Mackinac Island State Park Commission, and his group chose reconstructing the middle house — that which existed between 1750 and 1770. To historians it has been known as "The Rogers House."

Rogers' Boldest Plan

It was in this dwelling that Michigan's most famous soldier of fortune, British Major Robert Rogers, commanded the garrison from 1761 to 1768. It was from here that he executed his boldest plan: Find a northwest passage across America to the Orient.

Rogers, financed mainly through use of his personal funds, organized an expedition and pointed it westward. The explorers cut their way through virgin wilderness, harassed by adversity and battling the elements as they went. After reaching the headwaters of the Mississippi River in the area that is now Minnesota, the expedition dejectedly turned around and reported their failure. Rogers' dream — and finances — were shattered.

Many Debts, Enemies

The famed leader of Rogers' Rangers acquired both a heavy volume of debts and enemies. Additionally, a conflict which had developed between him and Sir William Johnson, the superintendent of Indian affairs in North America, was gaining momentum. Rogers, because of his financial position, was forced to organize his illicit trading with the Indians into a more open and rewarding enterprise.

His enemies seized upon this

to develop the rumor that his close association and friendship with the Indians was part of a plan to turn Fort Michilimackinac back to the French — for a price.

Lowest Ebb In Career

It was at this point that matters came to a crisis and Rogers reached the lowest ebb in his career. On orders from Sir William, Rogers was placed under arrest and imprisoned in his own guard house. He was transported to Montreal under guard and court-martialed, but there was acquittal.

Fort Michilimackinac was originally established in 1715 by the French and erected under the direction of Commander Loubigny. Moved Entire Base

At the end of the French and Indian Wars in 1761 the British seized the fort as their prize.

Then, in 1780, fearing an attack from the forces of American revolutionary Gen. George Rogers Clark, the British at that time moved their entire base of operation to Mackinac Island where they established Fort Mackinac.

Fort Michilimackinac was left to crumble in the sand, defenseless against its only adversary — the elements that swept across the lonely Mackinac Straits. The decaying bastion later became a Mackinaw City park and in 1904 was turned over to the Mackinac Island State Park Commission.

100,000 Artifacts Uncovered

In 1959 the commission turned serious attention to the restoration of the fort.

To date over 100,000 artifacts have been uncovered in an area that comprised only one-sixth of the fort compound. And still the excavations and restoration continues. This summer the Rogers house will rise again and history will be revived.

Workmen, dressed in 18th century garb and using tools common to the era, will do the actual work, adding greater interest to a project that is already highly significant in its historic and educational importance.

Where Time Stood Still

Summer vacationers and visitors will watch the work progress. They will tour several reconstructed buildings; the archeological tunnel which features the original French well; the remains of the British log basement and a progressive series of displays which explain the workings of archeology on this site.

And perhaps the ghosts of Major Robert Rogers, Sir William Johnson and Commander Loubigny will be watching, too... watching in the silence, and with the patience it has been theirs to endure these past two centuries — knowing there actually is a place on this earth where time has stood still.

How Could N.H. Go For Sweepstakes?

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—If it's been asked once, it's been asked a thousand times in recent days: How could New Hampshire, of all places, go for a sweepstakes?

How could the staid old Granite State become the only one in modern times to sanction a legal lottery?

"It's like coming upon one's maiden aunt playing the slot machines in Reno," Methodist Bishop James K. Mathews said recently. "A cherished image has been shattered."

The image the bishop referred to has always seemed clear enough: New Hampshire—land of Daniel Webster, of the Great Stone Face, of sparkling lakes and mountain scenery, of a flinty, frugal people steeped in Protestant morality and the no-nonsense conservatism of their forefathers.

2 Races

All this, in the view of Bishop Mathews and many others, fell into a million pieces when Democratic Gov. John W. King signed into law a sweepstakes bill passed by the Republican legislature.

About a year from now, New Hampshire hopes to begin running two sweepstakes races annually at Rockingham Park, the big horse track near the Massachusetts line. The proceeds—hopefully estimated at $4 million a year from the sale of lottery tickets at $3 each—will go entirely to schools.

There is some debate over whether the people of New Hampshire want this sweeps action.

The governor contends that indeed they do, and that no politician will dare run on an anti-sweepstakes platform in the future.

They've Had It

He's certain to be challenged on that point, but the sweepstakes had extensive backing—even in the rural hamlets with their colonial homes, village greens and gleaming white churches.

"We can preach morals all we want," says State Sen. Margaret Delude, a Republican from Unity (pop. 708), "but my people have had it. They want help, and they want it from the sweepstakes."

Many members of the New Hampshire Legislature—with 424 lawmakers—said that even though they were personally opposed to the sweeps, a majority of their people seemed for it.

City's Electric Utility Load 7.3 Per Cent Higher In Week

Marquette's light and power department during the past week was 7.3 per cent higher than it was a year ago, City Manager Thomas Moore states in his weekly report on municipal department activities.

During the week, line crews replaced two poles in Carlshend, built a two-pole extension in Marquette Township, stubbed one pole on Front St. and moved a pole on Kaye Ave. for curio construction.

Water received at the hydro-electric plant was less than last week but more than during the same week a year ago. Elevation at the Hoist Pond dropped .05 of a foot and was six-tenths of a foot lower than during the same week last year and was 7.95 feet from the top of the dam.

Excerpts from the reports of other departments follow:

Public works — Repaired shoulders and guard rails on U. S. 41 and repaired paved streets. Continued grading and cleaning streets.

Engineering — Set curb stakes on Lake St. south of Ridge St. and on the 2,000 block of Neidhart Ave.

Parks and recreation — Cared for deer herd at Presque Isle Park and cleaned roads and parking areas. Continued spring pickup of leaves and brush. Dragged Hurley Field, repaired equipment and set up horseshoe courts at Whitman School area. At the cemetery, crews trimmed around stones, filled old graves and hauled top soil on a new plot. All summer recreation positions are tentatively filled and letters of notification have been sent out.

Water and sewage — Repaired half-inch service line and a three-quarter inch line on Wright St. Repaired a leaking hydrant on Hampton St. Contractor has started laying six-inch main from Grove St. to Fisher and also the bypass six-inch main at Altamont St. During the week, 14,707,000 gallons of water were pumped.

Fire — One house fire, one false alarm and two other calls. The ladders on the service truck are being readied for sanding and re-varnishing.

Police — Arrests, misdemeanors, 13, traffic 34, accidents 4. In-

Get OASI Number Now, Franzen Says

High school graduates and students seeking summer employment were urged today to obtain social security (Old Age & Survivors' Insurance) numbers as soon as possible.

The advice came from George C. Franzen, Marquette, district manager for the U.S. Social Security Administration.

"With summer approaching it is a good idea to apply for your social security number now, so you will have it when you start looking for that job," he said. "One of the first things your boss will ask is to see your social security card. He will need that number so that he can report your earnings to your social security account."

At Post Office, Too — The application for a social security account number can be obtained from the social security office in the Longyear Building or at the post office. "Be smart — and apply for your social security number now," he said.

Teachers May Seek Boycott In Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's largest teacher organization threatened Tuesday to seek a boycott of the city's school system if the Board of Education curtails school services or cuts the teaching staff or teacher salaries.

The Detroit Education Association, which claims to represent about 5,000 of the city's 11,000 teachers, made the threat as the school board — already plagued by financial problems — held its customary hearings prior to setting a budget for the coming year.

MEA — DEA President Bernice Frederick said the group is prepared to "call upon the 65,000-member Michigan Education Association to declare Detroit a school system wherein conditions are incompatible with standards necessary for professional service."

She added that the DEA would "counsel teachers in other states and communities not to accept school positions in Detroit."

Miss Frederick said the threat was applied against the community as a whole which turned down school finance proposals in the April 1 election rather than against the Board of Education or the Detroit school administration. Depends On Plan — She added that whether teachers employed by the school system would be advised not to sign new contracts would depend upon the economy plan adopted.

Appointment of Committees — An afternoon business gathering will include a report from Ken Slater, Hulbert, president; report by Dorman; adoption of a budget, and election of officers and directors. Appointment of solicitation and legislation committees will be included in a one-hour planning session for new directors and officers.

Following a hospitality hour, dinner will be served in the Ojibway Hotel.

Rodeck's travel study to be presented to UMTA is designed to provide information to organizations which serve residents of the Chicago area in connection with their vacation or other personal travel.

Court — Handled 28 traffic violations, 14 misdemeanors, one felony and 20 civil cases. The violations bureau handled 64 meter and 15 restricted parking violations.

Finance — Multiple-posted journal vouchers, completed monthly expenditures and revenue reports. Processed checks for approved bills payable.

Assessor — Issued two building permits. Continued spreading of the 1963 school tax levy on the tax and assessment rolls.

Health — Administered physical exams to 67 in schools. Ten minor treatments and 15 immunizations were administered. Twenty-nine referrals were made to private physicians.

U.P. Tourist Parley In Soo Tomorrow — SAULT STE. MARIE — Information on the experiences, expectations and attitudes of Chicagoans regarding their personal travel will be given officers and directors of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association here tomorrow.

It'll be relayed to the regional promotion group by Donald J. Rodeck, resort and travel advertising representative of the Chicago Tribune, who will speak at a noon luncheon in the Delmar Hotel.

Piping Firm Seeks Property For Building

City officials are making a study of a request by the Industrial Piping Co. of Ironwood for some property on Wright St. on which it desires to construct a building for a permanent office and warehouse.

A P. McCowen, representing the heating, plumbing, piping and mechanical equipment contracting company, told the Marquette City Commission his firm "would like very much to join the business family of the city."

He said the company plans to erect a low outline Butler type building, 40 feet wide by 100 feet long, with the front portion devoted to office space and the rear portion to storage and a fabrication area.

McCowen said company officials inspected city property at the corner of Wright St. and County Road 550 and believe this area would "ideally suit our needs."

The company said it would like to purchase from the city a tract of ground approximately 150 feet wide by 650 feet deep, adjacent to and paralleling the east property line of the U.S. Federal Forest Research Office and Laboratory site.

"It would be our thinking to set the building well back from Wright St., McCowen said, "preserving as many of the excellent trees as possible."

Storage, other than inside the building, would be restricted to the rear of the site.

Would Provide Employment

Establishment of the office in Marquette would offer employment to a small staff of office personnel, as well as a warehouseman, he said. In addition to these people, the company would offer employment to union craftsmen in the piping trades throughout this area "and of course preference would be given to local people," he added.

McCowen said his company would like to know as soon as possible, as Industrial Piping wants to get the building constructed in this construction season, and that several other sites are being considered.

In accordance with charter procedure in such cases, the commission has referred the matter to the planning commission; to Vilecan-Leman, Southfield planning firm, and to City Manager Thomas Moore, for a study and report back to the commission.

Recount Cuts 76 Votes Off Ratification

LANSING (AP)—Recount teams today began their second day of rechecking the vote by which a new State Constitution apparently was adopted—with the margin of approval narrowed slightly.

Reporting on a check of 141 precincts, canvassers in 16 counties trimmed the edge to 7,753 at the end of their first day's work; seventy-six votes were cut from

Regional DAV Officer In Marquette

William Isola, Iron Mountain, new field service officer for the Disabled American Veterans in the Upper Peninsula, is shown being greeted in the city hall by Commissioner Joseph Fine. Isola will maintain an office in the city hall one day each month, offering assistance to veterans and widows of veterans, whether or not the ex-servicemen are or were members of the DAV. He will be back in Marquette on Monday, June 17, from 1 to 3 p.m. He can be reached other times at his office in the Veterans Hospital, Iron Mountain. — (Mining Journal photo.)

the original margin of ratification. Unless it is called off before hand, the canvass will cover a total of 1,969 precincts in 77 counties.

All But 78

All but 78 of the precincts are being checked at the request of the Democratic Party, which opposed adoption of the revised Constitution at the April 1 election. The coordinating committee for the new Constitution asked for the recount of 78 precincts in a counter-filing to the Democratic petitions.

If the Democrats are to upset the new Constitution, they will need to gain nearly four votes per precinct. In the first day of counting, they picked up only about one-half vote per precinct.

Biggest Error

Biggest error discovered in Tuesday's count was a 100-vote difference in Greenwood Township of St. Clair County. Election night workers had reported 162 "yes" and 112 "no" votes, whereas the vote should have been the other way around.

But while opponents of the new document gained in St. Clair County, they lost 51 votes in Genesee County where the "yes" column gained 36 and the "no" tally lost 15.

In Muskegon County, one "yes" vote was thrown out, but the "no" vote was unchanged. Most other counties reported equally insignificant shifts.

The task of checking the nearly 2,000 precincts is not expected to be completed until June 7. Special teams, headed by Elections Division officials, have fanned out over the state and are scheduled to move from county to county until they finish their work.

Three Jailed: Two Pay Fines, Costs

One Marquette man was jailed in lieu of fine and costs, and another paid a total of $59.20 yesterday, when both entered pleas of "nolo contendere" (no contest) in municipal court to charges of being disorderly.

Leo Croisetiere, 35, Star Route 550, and Richard O'Neil, 30, Hogan St., were arrested by city police May 11 on Baraga Ave. Arraigned May 13, both pleaded not guilty and posted $100 bond apiece for their appearance at trials scheduled for yesterday morning.

Plead 'No Contest'

However, the trials were not necessary, since Judge Edward H. Dembowski accepted the "nolo contendere" pleas as guilty pleas. Present in court yesterday was Edward A. Quinnell, Marquette County prosecutor, for the people. Attorney M. J. Khoury represented Croisetiere, while O'Neil acted in his own behalf.

Judge Dembowski ordered each man to pay a $50 fine and $9.20 costs or spend 28 days in jail. Croisetiere complied but O'Neil, unable to pay, was committed to the Marquette County jail.

Panhandling Count

Two other men were given mandatory jail sentences and a third paid a fine and costs, when all three also appeared before Judge Dembowski yesterday.

Activities Of U.P. Education Group Listed

Activities of the Upper Peninsula Educational Planning Committee and of the Curriculum Planning Council, a state organization whose work the UPEPC duplicates north of the Straits, were discussed at a joint meeting held in Escanaba.

Dr. Edward Pfau, dean of education at Northern Michigan University, reviewed the activities of the UPEPC for the downstate educational planners. The coordination of the two programs is held very important to Peninsula schooling because there must not be a great difference between curriculum in U. P. schools and Lower Peninsula schools.

"This is one state," said Pfau, "and if we created an insular situation in the U. P. it would be tragic because kids are so mobile."

Educational Work Noted

Educational activities initiated by or jointly sponsored by the UPEPC include:

School board member workshops in 1961 and 1962, described by Charles Folio, Escanaba, University of Michigan extension director in the U. P. They were held to acquaint new board members with their work when state law enlarged school boards from five to seven members.

Conferences on guidance.

Encouragement of participation in the educational workshops sponsored by the Mott Foundation in Flint schools.

County teacher institutes described by Marquette County

County jail for a mandatory five-day term was Walter L. Hemberger, 41, Dayton, Ohio, arrested early yesterday by city police for vagrancy. The complaint charged him with panhandling at the corner of Front St. and Baraga Ave.

Recklessness

Joseph R. Bell, 30, of 375 W. Crescent St., pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge and was given a mandatory two-day jail term. The judge also ordered him to pay a $50 fine and $5.10 costs or spend an additional 10 days in jail.

Bell, who was arrested by city police May 8 on S. Front St., paid the fine and costs specified.

Operating a motor vehicle with improper license plates (borrowed) cost Robert M. Kangas, 1103 N. Fourth St., a total of $15. He paid a fine of $11.30 and costs of $3.70 on the charge, brought by city police who ticketed him May 11 on W. Crescent St.

School Superintendent G. Vance Hiney of Negaunee. Some counties joined in institutes and used resource teams which crossed the U. P. bringing virtually all U. P. teachers up to date on changes in subject materials, and offering economic education, foreign affairs instruction, etc., Hiney said.

Survey of what happens to Upper Peninsula high school graduates, reported by Ivan Ryan, Gwinn vocational counselor. "Forty per cent of U. P. graduates find employment in Wisconsin, only 10 per cent in Lower Michigan," he said.

Members of the confirmation class filed into the chapel accompanied by a military guard of honor, Bishop Noa, 16 priests of the diocese and acolytes. Versicles prior to the confirmation rite were sung by Col. Karpowicz and responses were by the congregation.

Before administering the sacrament, Bishop Noa quizzed the confirmands on Christian doctrine. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, at which the diocesan head was also celebrant, and the recessional concluded the ceremony.

Bishop Noa completed his spring confirmation schedule last night at St. Anthony's Church in Wells.

Chevy II Nova 400 6-Passenger Station Wagon

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it. A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas. And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be. Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we went to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate.

Mental Health Picture

Dr. Richard R. Cameron, superintendent of the Newberry State Hospital, talked frankly and forcefully about mental health when he addressed a joint meeting of the Upper Peninsula Child Guidance Clinic and the Upper Peninsula Adult Mental Health Clinic in Marquette last week.

Mental hygiene, he said, remains the nation's No. 1 health problem. "No state in the United States has ever adequately cared for its mentally ill," Dr. Cameron stated flatly.

But the mental health picture is not entirely bleak. Up to 1938 the general policy toward mental health patients was one of what Dr. Cameron termed "diagnosis and disposal" but this has been supplanted by a more humane policy in which the emphasis is on treatment. Dr. Cameron, who established a distinguished record in the U.S. Army as a physician, surgeon and psychiatrist before coming to Michigan as a civilian, credited new drugs with giving "the big boost" to positive action in the mental health field. The year 1955 marked the first decline in the number of mental health patients in hospitals. This followed the use of drugs in treating victims of mental ailments and "has given new hope that something can be done for mental health patients."

If acute and intensive care is given mental health patients, remarkable recovery rates can be achieved. The trouble is that acute and intensive care is extremely costly. But it is not as costly as long-term care of chronic patients. A recent survey showed that Illinois had 47 patients in mental institutions who had been hospitalized for 50 years or more. The cumulative cost of caring for these 47 people was a staggering $3,000,000. It is apparent, then, that the long-range savings accruing from acute and intensive care are tremendous as compared with costs for caring for chronic patients.

Throughout the nation the trend in mental health care in the past several years has been toward moving back to the communities. An effort has been made toward involving local communities to a greater extent in mental health problems and toward caring for more patients at the local level. Local facilities thus are able to care for some patients who otherwise might be sent to state hospitals. These same local facilities also can be utilized in caring for patients who have been discharged from state hospitals.

Michigan, however, has a procedural obstacle that stands in the way of returning the maximum number of patients to their community from state hospitals, as Dr. Cameron pointed out. The counties in this state share the cost of hospitalization of patients in state mental hospitals during the first year. Thereafter, the state picks up the tab for mental health patients. This, in effect, discourages counties and, in some instances, relatives from accepting some state hospital patients that could be, or should be, released.

Dr. Cameron has been the superintendent of the Newberry State Hospital for only 11 months, but he has made some important changes there in that short span and he indicated that he believes the hospital will become accredited in a year (only 29 per cent of the mental hospitals in the United States are now accredited). He volunteered his services in assisting the mental health movement in the Upper Peninsula beyond the confines of the state hospital and gave every sign that he intends to do whatever is in his power to make certain that the Upper Peninsula gets its fair share of services in mental health.

Jumping To Conclusions

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)— Jumping to conclusions? College graduates are getting smarter every year.

Members of the class of 1963 know more than did member of the class of a generation ago, 1933, because more was demanded of them while they were in the classroom. College work has become more difficult.

But it is doubtful if the present crop of graduates is as tough a breed as the crop of 39 years ago.

There were no "help wanted" signs out in 1933, and Joe College had to fight hard for a start in life. The 1963 graduate, however, is inclined to view the world rosily, and to feel his sheepskin is a passport to social security. Let's hope it will be.

$2 Bills
The surest way to annoy a snippy restaurant cashier is to pay your check every day with $2 bills. Cashiers dislike them because they fear they will abscondingly mistake them for $5 bills.

Everybody knows at least three sure-fire cures for hiccups that never work when he gets an attack himself.

The best thing to do with a letter you don't quite know how to answer is to throw it into a wastebasket.

I somehow distrust a man whose hair, fingernails and shoeshine are always impeccable. He gives an impression of putting up a front, and I suspect him of being a con man at heart—or a head waiter.

Superstitious
People who say that as a matter of caution they never walk under ladders are liars. The real reason they don't walk under ladders is that they are superstitious—just like the rest of us.

Rich folks aren't as neighborly as poor folks. You never hear of one of them knocking on the back door of another and asking, "Could you lend me a cup of money until tomorrow?" I just ran out.

Every man is sublimely sure no professional pickpocket could make him a victim—until it happens.

I never heard of a man who became a top executive because of the number of memos he dropped in the office suggestion box. You don't get ahead merely by putting ideas in a box—you have to sell them to somebody.

Coffee Breaks
Anybody who needs more than two coffee breaks a day also needs a new job that will interest him more.

When a husband starts learning how to sew on his own buttons late in marriage, his wife always wonders whether he is secretly planning to run away from home.

It makes a man feel more humanly virtuous to drop a quarter in a beggar's cup than to write a $10 check to the local Community Chest drive.

The silliest delusion in the business world today is the belief that if you gulp three vodka martinis at lunch nobody in the office can tell you've been drinking because they can't smell it on your breath.

True Morality
There'd be more true morality in this country if women were allowed to go naked in the streets—but arrested if they appeared in public wearing revealing sweaters.

Life is always worthwhile as long as there is hope of inheriting money.

Tech's Forestry Research Seeks To Aid Economy

(This is the second in a series of articles on research in the Upper Peninsula being published by The Mining Journal in connection with Michigan Week. The author, J. Roy Moses Jr., is managing editor of the news service of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. — Ed.)

BY J. ROY MOSES JR.

HOUGHTON—The Forest Products Research Division of Michigan Tech is an organization with a mission: To help boost the economy of Michigan's Upper Peninsula through new and improved methods of utilizing wood and wood products.

In quest of its goal, it has chalked up an impressive number of successes, but Dr. Herford Garland, director, is quick to point out that there is still a long way to go. 85 Per Cent Forested

The Forest Products Research Division was created at Michigan Tech by the Legislature in 1947. Its stated purpose was to generate economic development in the forested areas of the state, and Upper Michigan is about 85 per cent forested.

The authorizing act implied that the research of the division should be concentrated in fields most susceptible to early industrial application. Emphasis is on wood research that not only leads to the establishment of new industries, but maintains and expands existing industries.

Four Areas Of Work
Results have ranged from new techniques to new tools and from new industries to new ideas. Specifically, its work can be generally classified in four rather broad categories: (1) timber harvesting; (2) fiber and chemical utilization; (3) lumber production and utilization; and (4) research and development for Michigan wood industries.

Assistance To Businesses
In recent years more than 100 firms have been assisted by the division. Naturally, not all programs have led to startling economic successes and not all successes have been achieved easily.

One program, for example, required nine years from inception to fruition. It eventually led to an investment of more than $20 million in plant and timber lands at L'Anse by the Celotex Corp. and the subsequent creation of about 500 jobs.

Iron River Project
Another required six years for economic application. This led to the creation of Northboard, Inc., at Iron River, a new manufacturer of aspen particle board. Northboard is scheduled to go into production some time next month.

In the particle board field, Dr. Garland's staff first suggested the possibility of such a product, assisted in a market survey and helped test the product. The division is now engaged in training factory personnel for Northboard under a grant from the Area Redevelopment Administration.

In other situations, Michigan Tech's Forest Products Research Division:

- Helped a Copper Country manufacturer change over from the production of wooden heels for ladies' shoes, which were being replaced with plastic, to the production of laminated bowling pins. The firm is now the nation's third largest manufacturer of bowling pins.

- Perfected a mechanical bowling pin tester for continuing tests of laminated hardwood bowling pins. Earlier tests were conducted under actual playing conditions in the alleys in Tech's Memorial Union.

- Proved two new wood - using processes unsound for the Upper Peninsula, saving potential Michigan investors losses that could have amounted to a half-million dollars, or more.

- Conducted a technical and economic survey indicating that corrugating board for fiber containers could be profitably manufactured from U. P. hardwoods. The result brought the conversion and reopening of a pulp and paper mill—a multi-million dollar investment that reclaimed about 400 mill and woods jobs that had terminated two years before with the mill's closure.

- Shown that it is technically and economically feasible to produce bleached food container board in eastern Upper Michigan. There has been considerable interest in this project, and several firms are studying the proposal.

- Assisted a broom handle manufacturer who sought help in evaluating cheaper Michigan wood when faced with new competition from western woods. The staff set up and conducted critical tests showing the proposed new species technically adequate.

- Made an out-of-state technical contact that resulted in the inducement of a toy manufacturer to locate part of his operation in the Upper Peninsula.

- Assisted a manufacturer of prefabricated homes who needed engineering data to support his application for acceptance by FHA. The staff made standard tests and the resulting report brought acceptance.

- Conducted periodic lumber grading short courses in cooperation with the National Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association and annual sawmill short courses in cooperation with Tech's Institute of Extension Services.

- Constructed a mechanical pulpwod bark peeler of novel design in cooperation with a large machinery manufacturer. Three patents have been issued to the staff for developments in this equipment. It is currently undergoing full-scale field tests.

The list of projects is lengthy. They range from logging safety and new logging equipment to searching for economically feasible marketing methods for residues left in the woods after hardwood logging operations. Or, from finding new uses for Upper Peninsula woods to developing products or product techniques adaptable to lower grades of wood.

Some undertakings might seem relatively minor, while others are of major proportions. All are important to the Forest Products Research Division. Someday, one of the big "little" projects might open a big door to the wood industry in Upper Michigan.

Need For More, Better Education

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — Virginia State College at Norfolk, Va., has embarked on a combined research and manpower retraining project to find some of the answers for hard core unemployment.

When advertising and radio spot announcements failed to bring in prospects, college researchers went to the churches, the pool halls and the street corners to recruit men who had been out of work for long periods, had dependent children and were on relief. One hundred unemployed finally were enrolled.

Applicants Couldn't Read
There was a demand in the area for hotel maintenance workers, auto mechanics, masonry and sheet metal workers and helpers.

When classes were started, however, it was found that many of the selectees couldn't read a hotel menu, couldn't read a short order cook's recipe, couldn't read labels on cans of cleaning materials or insecticides, let alone simple textbooks on the mechanical arts and crafts.

There is no money under the Manpower Training Act to teach the unemployed to read and write or do simple arithmetic. So a special grant had to be obtained from Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Being Watched Closely
A year's course is under way, and at the end of that time there may be some factual information on whether the illiterate unemployed can be trained for useful jobs.

The Norfolk experiment is being watched closely to see if it proves what a lot of people have suspected—that today's educational system doesn't fit young people for today's jobs openings in either skilled, semiskilled or unskilled occupations.

This is one of the most potent arguments that advocates of aid to education can use, though it isn't a complete answer.

The problem of fundamental education also involves school dropouts. That leads into President Kennedy's youth employment program.

Want More Vocational Education
Republican congressmen have come up with proposals to amend the legislation to provide more vocational education, which makes sense.

One curious aspect of this is that if the Administration had proposed a bigger vocational education program, the political opposition probably would have been against it. But that's beside the point.

The federal government already is spending millions of dollars on manpower retraining, area redevelopment, vocational and national defense education.

New Jobs Created
Area Redevelopment Administration, with $120 million allocated for 800 projects, has created 40,000 direct jobs, 19,000 training jobs and an estimated 370,000 off-site, indirect jobs.

The Emergency Public Works program with $312 million allocated for 2,700 projects has created 420,000 man-months of employment. More money is being sought for both.

Other new programs are pending. The Youth Conservation Corps would put 15,000 boys in the woods at a cost of $50 million the first year to set up camps. The Home Town Youth Corps would enroll 60,000 at a cost of another $50 million.

Tax Reduction Bill
The President's trade development program which is supposed to build employment by increasing exports—or retrain workers displaced by imports—won't be fully effective until 1966.

Finally, the great tax reduction bill, if passed, is supposed to unleash business so it can create more jobs. It is admitted that if a tax cut bill isn't passed, unemployment may get worse. As of today private industry is creating only 175,000 new jobs a year. Private industry is retaining an unknown number far greater than this on the job. These are employed workers being trained for higher skills.

This completes the unemployment daisy chain, emphasizing the contention that what's needed first is more and better education. As Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz told a Senate committee:

"Unless and until the educational system in this country is strengthened, two danger spots in our manpower situation are going to get worse. One is the concentration of unemployment among unskilled workers. The other is the imminent shortage of personnel in a good many skilled, professional and technical occupations."

Dear Sir:
Why not start your plans right now to attend a one-day roundup or sort of get-acquainted meeting for aspiring writers and poets to be held at Upper Michigan's most fully picturesque old ghost town, Pequaing, on July 28.

Bring the whole family for this outing, plus a picnic lunch, as we have facilities for free coffee and rolls only.

Speakers will conduct a question and answer period and will advise, time permitting, all interested parties on writing of fiction, mystery, non-fiction, children's stories, novels, poetry, etc.

For further details contact any one of the following Writers' Conference Committee members: Helen Keskitalo, Route 1, Champlain; Irja Harju, Pequaing Road, L'Anse, or Arlene Shovald, Ice Lake Cut-off, Iron River.

'DAFT' IS PERFECT
Proposals have been made in Wisconsin to change the name of the present department of agriculture to the department of agriculture, food and trade. A newspaper up there has protested on the ground that the innovation would result in the department's being known as "DAFT." From what we know of such organizations, however, DAFT might be nearer perfect than otherwise.

As a matter of fact, we join heartily with the Montgomery Advertiser which said recently: "Perhaps this slanders the Wisconsin department, but the thought occurs that one in Washington" Such a thought will be received with even more than average enthusiasm in the Cotton Belt. — Memphis Commercial Appeal

Today's Special Story

Blue Cross Subscribers Not Affected

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan residents who subscribe only to Michigan Blue Cross will not be affected by any change in rates for Michigan Medical Service (Blue Shield), a spokesman for the medical care plans said.

More than 90 per cent of those whose bills for hospital services are paid by Blue Cross also carry Blue Shield insurance covering doctors' fees, the spokesman said.

Blue Cross was granted a 23.4 per cent rate hike by State Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn in mid-April after agreeing to certain conditions outlined by Colburn.

The insurance commissioner and Blue Shield ended a 16-day court battle Wednesday by agreeing to let Wayne County Circuit Judge Theodore R. Bohn set a premium increase in Blue Shield rates. The agreement must be approved by Blue Shield's board of directors.

The court battle began April 30 when Colburn filed a lawsuit in an attempt to prevent Blue Shield from raising its rates 19.3 per cent on June 1.

Blue Shield had failed twice to win Colburn's approval of rate increases before announcing it would go ahead with the June 1 rate hike without Colburn's sanction. It contended Colburn's approval was not needed under Michigan law.

Judge Bohn said he will determine the amount of any increase after hearing testimony next week about the financial condition of Blue Shield.

The agreement provides that the rate hike will not be less than 12 per cent nor more than the 22.9 per cent originally sought by Blue Shield.

BY ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — It has come to be considered bad taste and perhaps even un-American to criticize J. Edgar Hoover or his FBI, but at the risk of being deported to Indonesia, or 42nd St. and Broadway, I must say I am not impressed with Hoover's work in recent years.

Hoover, as usual, has been deploping crime, which is fine. I go along with our FBI chief in spades and will join the nearest crime-deploping club if someone will give me its address or phone number. But I have always suspected that Hoover was hired to stop crime as well as to deplore it, and the records say he has not been doing same.

Lack Of Support?
I would not bring up this sore subject except that J. Edgar seems to blame you and me for it. He had a chat with a United Press-International reporter the other day and noted in passing that in the last five years crime has risen nearly five times as fast as the nation's population. Then he added that the reason was that there was "a lack of public interest and support" for law enforcement organizations.

This I am not buying. In the first place, everybody I know has been outraged about the increase in the crime rate for as long as I can remember. By and large, people do not like crime and they want something done about it. Secondly, the country has shown by its financial support of the FBI's operations that it is on the side of law and order.

Hoover Asks, Hoover Gets
In the five years from 1957 through 1961 the population of the United States increased 7 per cent. During that period the crime rate—the number of offenses per 100,000 population—went up 25 per cent, and the total number of crimes jumped 34 per cent. And yet every year the people's representatives have given Hoover every penny he has asked for to seek out and arrest criminals.

Amid the carnage of Congress' annual budget-cutting orgies, J. Edgar Hoover's financial relations with our legislators have been spectacularly cordial—and unique. During the period from 1957 through 1961, not one of the FBI's annual budget requests was shed.

In 1957 Hoover asked $95,510,000 and he got it. In 1958 he asked and got $105,562,000; in 1959 he asked and got $112,111,000; in 1960 he asked and got $114,600,000; and in 1961 he asked and got $125,550,000. He also got his requested $127,216,000 in 1962 and the $130,700,000 he asked for fiscal 1963, and there is a pending $5,500,000 supplemental appropriation for salary increases.

Not Good Enough
Incidentally, while crime has gone rampaging in the past 10 years, the FBI's budget has risen from $77 million in 1954 to the current $130 million-plus.

It would be unfair, of course, to hold Hoover's FBI responsible for the increase in crime nationwide. After all, the FBI has jurisdiction only where a federal statute has been violated. But it is relevant to point out that in fiscal 1962 the number of bank robberies—which are an FBI responsibility—hit a record high of 1,074 or 179 more than in fiscal '61. And the FBI secured only 483 convictions in these cases.

I do not wish to find gratuitous fault with Hoover, a dedicated public servant who made an honest man of the FBI. He deserves the nation's gratitude and its help. But since members of Congress and other politicians are privileged to lambaste Presidents named Eisenhower and Kennedy when they think things are going wrong, it is curious that so few pertinent questions are raised about the stewardship of our No. 1 Cop. Undoubtedly, Hoover and his men are doing their best, but the record would seem to hint that their best needs to be a lot better.

Barna Appointed Supervisor Of U.P. Power Co.'s New Operations Control Center

HOUGHTON — Three employees in the Iron River district of the Upper Peninsula Power Co. have received promotions, according to announcement by John H. Warden, president.

LAVAL T. BARNA

Barna Takes Ishpeming Post

Laval T. Barna, formerly district superintendent at Iron River, has been named to the new position of supervisor, systems operations center. The new control center will be located at Ishpeming and Barna will have company-wide responsibilities in supervising its operation. This will involve the forecasting of system electrical loads and determining the generating equipment to be used in supplying these demands.

A native of Pembine, Wis., Barna joined the company at Iron River in 1945 as a lineman. In 1947 he was advanced to assistant line foreman and in 1957 was made line foreman. He was promoted to district superintendent in 1962, the position he has held until this time.

Since joining the company, Barna has taken every advantage to broaden his knowledge in this field of work. To keep abreast of present-day advancements, he took courses in electrical operations through the International Correspondence School. This, along with his years of practical experience, has been very valuable and makes him qualified for his new assignment.

Barna is married and the father of three children. His son, Kerry, a 1962 graduate electrical engineer from the Milwaukee School of Engineering, is employed by the company in the Escanaba district. Mr. and Mrs. Barna will have their residence in Ishpeming.

Other Promotions
Carl P. Tandlund, chief clerk, was promoted to the position of district manager at Iron River. A former resident of Ontonagon County, Tandlund started with the company in 1938 in the stores department at Ontonagon. In 1945 he was promoted to chief clerk there, and in 1955 was named chief clerk in the Iron River district. Mr. and Mrs. Tandlund reside in Iron River.

Mrs. Francis MacDonald, cashier, has been advanced to the position of chief clerk, succeeding Tandlund. A native of Gastra, Mrs. MacDonald has been employed in the Iron River office since 1950.

Another employee receiving recognition is Gunnard B. Nicholson, line foreman, who has been given additional operating responsibilities within the Iron River district. A resident of Bates Township, he has been with the company since 1947.

New Bookbinding Material Produced At Munising Plant

NEENAH, Wis. — Kimberly-Clark Corp. has announced development of a new bookbinding material which should please parents, school children and others who look for longer life in school textbooks and other casebound books.

The product, called Baclin, is a plastic treated fiber material with high delamination resistance. Produced by Kimberly-Clark's Munising, Mich., plant it is designed to improve a weak link in keeping books from falling out of their covers.

When books receive rough treatment or are dropped frequently, fallout occurs if the kraft paper normally used for backliners splits and delaminates. The backliner is a strip of material which holds the cover to the book and gives the backbone of the book rigidity.

Test show that fallout is virtually eliminated through use of the latex impregnated Baclin which performs 10 to 20 times better than kraft paper for backliners, Kimberly-Clark reported.

Albert D. Smith & Co., New York, one of the largest suppliers to the book publishing trade, is the sales agent for Baclin.

"The cooperative annual meeting is the sounding board for members and patrons," Sturm said. "It is here that they have opportunity to express their opinions on conduct of the business and to help formulate basic policy. A large attendance is expected. Visitors, guests and other interested persons are welcome. Those attending are urged to bring their families."

ISHPEMING — A 38-year-old native of Ishpeming, Paul D. Denn, has been promoted to one of the most important civilian positions, that of technical director of research, in the United States Army Mobility Command.

MOCOM, which is located in Sterling Township near Detroit, has seven subordinate commands with a budget for 1963 set at $2,000,000,000 to be used for research, development, procurement, production and supply management of everything in the Army that "flies, crawls, swims, creeps or rolls."

In his present position, he is responsible for research and exploratory and advanced developments on all mobility items for the Army, such as wheeled and tracked vehicles, aircraft and amphibious vehicles.

His executive duties leave him little time for his hobbies, but he has managed to find time to make a few cabinets and other pieces of furniture in his basement workshop.

VFW To Sell Buddy Poppy May 23, 24

ISHPEMING — Milton Collick, commander of the Ishpeming Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, urges Ishpeming residents "to honor the dead by helping the living" on Buddy Poppy Days in Ishpeming Thursday and Friday.

Members of the post will be at prearranged spots throughout this city with poppies for sale.

Members of the organization, each of whom has served in campaigns outside the continental limits of the United States, are honoring those comrades-in-arms by aiding their dependents. Through the nationwide VFW campaign they also are asking others to bestow similar honors through the purchase of the VFW memorial flower, the Buddy Poppy.

Beneficiaries of the traditional Buddy Poppy campaign include disabled war veterans, dependents of veterans and widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

Proceeds from the Buddy Poppy sale are used exclusively for the welfare and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and in providing aid for their dependents.

The Blue Note Drum and Bugle Corps of the American Legion will call attention to the poppy sale by parading from the American Legion building down Main St. to the statue of "Old Ish," where it will present a short concert. The parade will begin at 6:30 Thursday night.

Three Seek Board Posts In Township

ISHPEMING — The annual election of the Ishpeming Township School District will be held in the North Lake School Monday, June 10, from 1 to 8 p.m.

Electors will pick two trustees for terms of three years. Henry Bouley, along with incumbents Gerald Anderson and Frank Buytort, are candidates seeking to fill the vacancies.

Electors also will vote on a proposal to continue to close the eighth grade of the Ishpeming Township Schools and send the students to the Phelps Intermediate School in Ishpeming.

Eighth graders have attended the Phelps School for the past two years. However, the law states that it must be voted upon each year to close a grade or grades for the ensuing year.

School officials are emphasizing the necessity of sending eighth grade students to the Phelps School for the 1963-64 school year.

Poppy Days, which originated shortly after World War I, have been observed in Negaunee for more than 40 years.

Proceeds from the Legion Auxiliary sale are turned over to disabled veterans and their families.

Less Millage For Schools Voted By Allocation Board

MUNISING — Operating funds for Munising public schools were cut by two-tenths of a mill Monday night by the county allocation board at its annual public hearing in the courthouse. The meeting was attended by 166 teachers, school administrators and interested persons from throughout the county.

The amount of the cut was designated to the Alger Intermediate School District by the board for operation during the coming year. Prior to this year, expenses of the county school district were provided for by the supervisors through the county budget.

William T. MacNeil, school superintendent, told the allocation board that school revenue has decreased because of a drop in enrollment of 27 students the past year. Considerable money had to be paid out for interest on money the school district borrowed because of the delay in state aid, he said. MacNeil also cited the raise granted teachers, which amounted to $34,000, "as a very important factor; if we are to maintain our high standard of education, it is imperative that we pay salaries comparable to other school systems."

Repairs to buildings and the increased cost of maintenance also were given as reasons for the need for more revenue.

William Beerman, manager of the Munising Division of Kimberly-Clark Corp., endorsed the school superintendent's statement and told the board that if it jeopardized the Munising school system by failing to provide adequate financing, "it would jeopardize the entire community." One of the first things observed by industry, he stated, is the local school system.

Last year the public school system was granted seven mills and, along with an additional five mills
